Tree giveaway

SANFORD — The city of Sanford was presented an early Christmas gift this weekend with an announcement from the Sahara Club Inc. that Christmas trees are being given away at the tree lot north of Ken Rummel Chevrolet on Hwy. 17-92.

The organization began with 800 trees for sale about a three weeks ago. By Thursday the club only had about 75 trees left, according to Rich Brenner, a employee of Ken Rummel Chevrolet.

As of Saturday afternoon there were still approximately 40 trees remaining after the announcement was made at the Salvation Army of the available trees.

Anyone interested in a tree may help themselves, the lot is unmanned.

All for the love of the children

For the past 15 years, Dottie and Bill Bernosky, of 229 Bradshaw Drive, in Sanford, have lighted up the exterior of their house with decorations for Christmas. 'We do it for the children,' said Mrs. Bernosky. 'I love the kids.' The couple lives at the corner of W. 25th Street, which is not far from Seminole High School. The display is one of the more attractive in the area and draws spectators yearly.

Man sought in killing

SANFORD — A Sanford man was being sought late Saturday after he and his 5-year-old son disappeared, and the body of the boy's mother was found inside the man's abandoned house.

Dead is Doris Ramirez, 29, of Orlando. Missing are her son Andrus "Andy" Mata, and the boy's father, Juan Max Mata, 41, of 5924 County Road 427, rural Sanford, officials said.

Seminole County Sheriff's Lt. Al Sanchez said Saturday that Seminole County joined an Orange County search for the boy. The joint search was mounted after Laura Ladner, who had been searching for the pair since after 5:30 p.m. Friday, found Ramirez car at Mata's house. See Killing, Page 5A

Seven tree displays focus on plight of missing kids

By LACY DOMEN

LONGWOOD — Seven unusual Christmas trees stand in Seminole County banks and the USA Thrift Store in Sanford. Each tree represents 21 missing children.

Ornaments on the plywood trees are made from pictures of youth who are runaways, have been abducted or have mysteriously disappeared, according to Missing Children's Center Director Joan Thompson.

"There is a slot beneath each photo in which you can make a donation toward helping to recover that child," she said.

The unique concept in raising money to run a non-profit organization stems from Thompson's belief that all children deserve a safe place to be on Christmas.

She said during this holiday season she has seen cases of missing children increase.

"In the last two weeks, more kids are missing than have been missing in a long time," she said. "We're seeing two to three listings a day."

The center, which will begin moving from its Longwood office to its new location at the Seminole Crime Prevention Center in Winter Springs on Wednesday, works closely with distraught family members, law enforcement agencies and children in trouble.

Recently, Thompson was contacted by a New York mother looking for her pre-school aged daughter who had accompanied the woman's husband when he left New York to job hunt in the Central Florida area. The mother was worried because the man had been extradited to New York after having been found sleeping on the streets of Orlando with a little girl. No little girl returned with her father.

Thompson sprung into action and found the little girl. She had become a ward of the state. See Missing, Page 5A

Line up the tools, check them twice

By JACK LEBAN

CHICAGO — 'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house, not a creature was stirring — except the house Santa, who was ransacking the closets looking for an Allen wrench.

When it comes to making a list and checking it twice, there is one list that is often overlooked during last-minute preparations for Christmas — the tool list.

Well-prepared shoppers may have all the toys and gifts they plan to give for Christmas stowed away with time to spare, but they frequently forget about the tools they'll need to put those fancy gizmos together.

"You've got to have the tools and you've got to be able to find them," said Bib Vila, host of the nationally syndicated "Home Again with Bob Vila" television series.

Memory Lane proves popular among readers

Last week's stroll down memory lane generated another host of phone calls — even one from Baton Rouge, La. So, let's take another walk down memory lane and answer some more of the questions you folks have directed our way.

Question: I know the J.C. Penney store in Sanford Plaza was previously located downtown next to Roumillat & Anderson's drugstore. My husband, a native of Sanford, says the Penney store was in another location before that. Is he correct?

Answer: He sure is. Before moving to larger quarters in the 100 block on East First Street the Penney store was located in the 200 block of East First in the Meisch building next to Doc Laney's drugstore. When F.W. Woolworth's pulled out of Sanford, Penney's occupied the old Five & Dime's premises — directly across the street from the now closed McCrory store.

But here's the kicker! Did your husband tell you that the original Penney's in the 200 block of East First Street was the first J.C. Penney store in the entire state of Florida? If he did he would have been right.

Q: Even though we have lived in Sanford since 1933 and have heard so much from time to time about the "Sanford House," we have never known exactly where it was located.

Way back when

By Julian Stenstrom

A: The Sanford House was a 40-room wood frame hotel located on the north side of East First Street and west of Palmetto Avenue. The site is now occupied by the "old" Sanford Post Office (later the city library) and the Meisch Building. At one time Sanford boasted of having five hotels. In addition to the Sanford House there were the Florida Hotel at the corner of Sanford Avenue and East First Street, the Valdez Hotel at the corner of Park and Commercial, the Seminole (later called the Florida) at Park and Second, and the Montezuma (earlier called the By-Low) at Third and Magnolia.

There was also a hotel called the Robin's Nest in the 400 block of West First Street. We believe this was the large wooden structure that existed into the 1950's and called the Palms. Also, records indicate there was once a hotel known as the Windsor at Sanford and Second. It stood for 30 years before it burned May 25, 1913.

Research also tells us that the Sanford House was booked to capacity winter after winter by northern tourists. We also learned that when the Montezuma Hotel was known as the By-Low it had an "inside" swimming pool.

Q: Before and after World War II when professional baseball flourished in Sanford, I remember that a number of the players stayed at a rooming house near Third and Park. A nice elderly lady owned the two-story home. I believe her name was Jones.

A: You're right. Her name was Mrs. Minnie Jones. I can't remember much about her husband but I do know she had a son, Alan, and a beautiful daughter, Clare. Alan became a physician. But Clare was "Miss Minnie's" original. See Way Back, Page 5A

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Mom won't strike colors

LARGO — A mother with one son already in the Persian Gulf and another bracing to go has vowed to resist her condominium association's order to remove the U.S. flag she has been flying outside her home.

"When I heard this, I wanted to go over to Saudi Arabia, pack his bags and bring him home," said Lucille Consooli, whose son, Airman Kevin Moreau, is a member of one of the first units shipped to that country.

"This is anti-American to me," she said, sitting in her living room with a picture of her other son, Mike Moreau, an Air Force staff sergeant on standby in Shreveport, La., awaiting orders to go overseas.

Grady Morgan Sr., a member of the board of directors of the Rosetree Village Community Association, said he sympathizes with Consooli. But the flag that's been flying from the eaves of Consooli's condo violates a rule against having anything extending more than one foot from any unit.

Gainesville task force on guard

GAINESVILLE — The task force investigating the slayings of five college students has urged Gainesville residents to maintain their guard during the holiday period, lest the killer strike again.

Authorities feel the killer might have struck around the last weekend in August, when students were returning from summer vacation, for dramatic effect.

Now many students are on break from the University of Florida and Santa Fe Community College, and authorities fear it might be a dramatic time for the killer or killers to murder again.

Throughout the holiday period, the task force plans to have officers patrolling the southwest Gainesville student neighborhood where the slayings occurred.

State drops forced feeding rule

TALLAHASSEE — The state has dropped a regulation that required nursing homes to keep patients alive through forced feeding, even if they had explicitly asked to die.

The new regulations posted Friday by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services were in line with the Florida Supreme Court's September ruling protecting the individual's right to die.

The high court ruled that "everyone has a fundamental right to sole control of his or her person," including the right to refuse food and water when permanently incapacitated.

Florida nursing home owners complained that they were caught between conflicting HRS regulations and the high court ruling while the agency decided how to respond to the court's decision.

Stuart in line for administration post

ORLANDO — Former state Sen. George Stuart, who spent half of his 12-year legislative career overseeing the Department of Professional Regulation, was appointed Friday secretary of the agency.

Gov.-elect Lawton Chiles made the announcement during a news conference in which he said Stuart's qualifications included his legislative career and interests in the environment, ethics reform and higher education.

"We wanted someone with a strong record of public advocacy and someone who understands the mandate of this office," Chiles said. "We have that with George. We also have his commitment to work as a member of our team to make Florida the strongest consumer state in the nation."

Butterworth settling auto fees confusion

TALLAHASSEE — Attorney General Bob Butterworth has agreed to mediate a dispute between two state agencies over whether the Legislature intended to create a cheaper alternative to the new $295 auto impact fee.

The dispute is over whether a newcomer to Florida who bought a car years ago in another state should pay the impact fee, or might be allowed instead to pay a use tax equivalent to the state sales tax on the car or truck.

The use tax might be a cheaper alternative for some motorists, depending on how much they paid for their vehicle and the tax rate in the county where they now live.

Four winning tickets in Fantasy

TALLAHASSEE — Four tickets matched all five winning numbers in Friday's Fantasy 5 drawing and each is worth $293,990, lottery officials said Saturday.

Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said the first-prize payout totals more than $1 million. The winning tickets were sold in Boca Raton, Delray Beach, Largo and Panama City.

In addition, 732 players selected four correct numbers to win $44,150, while 26,114 players matched three numbers to win $6.

The winning numbers were 10, 18, 22, 32 and 36.

Christmas spirit came to Lake Mary, Sanford

After making rounds Saturday morning in Lake Mary handing out toys and candy, Santa and his sleigh arrived at city park amphitheater with help from the public safety department.

Leroy Hickman, 6, chats with Santa Claus during the Sanford Housing Authority's annual Christmas party.

Jesse Horn, 7, and Gina Guse, 2, both of Lake Mary, wait to tell Santa Claus their wishes for Christmas.

About 300 gathered with these folks for Lake Mary's first annual Holiday in the Park at about noon Saturday. Santa arrived with candy, a soft lap and an open ear for children at the city hall complex. Carolers were joined by performers from the School of Dance Arts, and Joe and Sarabecca Rosier, and others to entertain the crowd. The Rosiers read "The Night Before Christmas" and the story of "Rudolph the Rednose Reindeer." Parks director John Holland said. Hotdogs and hamburgers for sale were so popular with the crowd that about $100 was earned and that will benefit the Youth Center program.

Lake Mary staffers enjoy Christmas cheer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris vacated the west wing, Parks and Recreation Director John Holland concocted mounds of crab salad, City Clerk Carol Foster arranged the meat, cheese, condiments and cake. Lacking Santa's canvas sack, City Planner Matt West put the wrapped presents in city recycling bins. At last, all was ready.

City staffers in Lake Mary held their annual Christmas party Friday in order to "relax a little and celebrate all we've accomplished this year," according to City Manager John Litton. Held in a fairly soundproof room in city hall, the raucous bunch ate, drank sodas and exchanged gifts with the person whose name each employee drew.

"We tried to keep it around $5. We stressed creativity," Foster said.

Foster received a toy doctor's and toy nurse's kit, something she needed when she pulled a muscle in her back and her husband, Bill, began suffering from a herniated disc.

Pat Lee received a calendar with bizarre jokes printed on each page.

Sian Welling received a toy guitar to enable him to accompany himself when he sings.

"It's not a banjo, either. It's a guitar with six strings," he said while plucking some of them.

Some of the gifts were blatant replicas of both male and female anatomical parts.

Mark Reggentin said he will burn his gift. "It's a candle!" he said as he passed it around for inspection.

Director of Public Safety Charles Lauderdale joined the festivities near the end.

Foster, in charge of cleaning up after the buffet, packed up the leftover food for Lauderdale to deliver to other policemen and firemen, sharing the city's Christmas cheer.

LOTTERY

The winning numbers Saturday in the Florida LOTTO game were 13, 19, 31, 32, 34 and 41.

The winning daily number Saturday in the Florida Lottery CASH 3 game was 988.

The winning numbers Friday in the Florida Lottery Fantasy 5 game were 10, 18, 22, 32 and 36.

Woman 'moons' police

SANFORD — A woman accused of creating a disturbance at Wade's Grocery on Seventh Street, Sanford, allegedly dropped her pants and "mooned" police as she tried to walk away from them.

Police said the woman refused orders to stop and walked away with another woman when a man diverted police attention from her. The woman, Joyce Ann Nelson, 28, of 5 Seminole Gardens, Sanford, was caught in a few minutes on Eighth Street at Pine Avenue. She allegedly struggled with police who tried to handcuff her. At about 12:38 p.m. Thursday Nelson was charged with battery on a police officer, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest with violence.

Store clerk struck

SANFORD — A man, who allegedly hit a convenience store clerk after she suggested he use a restroom and not urinate at the store's trash dumpster, has been charged with battery.

Sanford police report arresting Leale Lamair McNair, 25, of DeLand, on First Street, about eight minutes after the 11:25 p.m. Thursday incident at the 7-Eleven, 100 N. French Ave.

Police said the 17-year-old victim, who was reportedly about two months pregnant, was punched in the head and body, allegedly by Warren. Warren was arrested at about 4 p.m. Thursday at 2105 Harrison St.

Man wants sex, accused of battery

SANFORD — A man who allegedly grabbed a 17-year-old boy after dragging him from a car in Sanford Friday night, allegedly wanted the boy to have sex with him.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies said the boy refused to have sex with the man, who allegedly fondled him during the encounter outside a Community Center on Williams Avenue.

They reported locating Joseph Jerome Holden, 23, of 2454 E. 21st St., Sanford, on Williams Avenue at 21st Street and arrested him on a charge of battery there at 4:08 a.m. Saturday.

Volunteers ease jail holiday stress

By SUSAN LOREN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Christmas behind the walls of the John E. Polk Correctional Facility may sound like a gloomy prospect, but is the fate of about 800 prisoners.

To ease the stress and to bring a bit of cheer, jail chaplain the Rev. Charles Pitroff said special attention is paid to the inmates, especially by outside church groups and the 70 or so volunteers who regularly minister to the prisoners.

These volunteers, Pitroff said, have helped the jail staff foresee possible holiday related depression or other problems that could be dealt with among prisoners before the holiday season, which can be stressful even if you are free.

"In jail some people get very low. Some accept it," Pitroff said. "I'm very careful in my choice of words. I don't say, 'Happy Christmas.' I say, 'Have a blessed Christmas.'"

Several sessions of Christmas caroling and other music are scheduled to entertain the prisoners. Christmas services for men are scheduled for Sunday and women will have Christmas services on Christmas Day, Pitroff said. The jail usually has 21 scheduled religious services each week. The volunteers teach Bible lessons and help some inmates learn to read.

Thanks to the efforts of church groups and the Salvation Army, Pitroff said, each prisoner will receive a bag of goodies, including snacks, and a writing folder. Inmates have all been given Christmas cards to send to family and friends, he said.

tasteful, but colorful traditional Christmas trimmings. Two special festive additions are gingerbread houses created by two of the nine participants in the jail culinary arts class, where prisoners are taught a career skill.

Another of these jailhouse confections was presented to Sheriff John Polk, who is hospitalized in Altamonte Springs because of a heart condition. Another is on display at Seminole Community College, which assists in training programs to aid prisoners in rebuilding their lives, so they won't return to jail for other crimes, Jail Administrators Duane Rutledge said.

"I guess we'll eat them," jail support services director Mike Levine said of the remaining gingerbread houses.

There's also a special Christmas feast planned for the prisoners. Extra large portions of both roast beef and turkey, baked potato, string beans, apple pie and dinner rolls will be served for dinner, food services director Mike Johnson said. At lunch, a special desert of an ice cream sundae will be offered, he said.

"Ordinarily it's not a real happy time," Pitroff said of Christmas in jail. "The inmates miss their families. We endeavor to make it as easy a time as we can for them."

Rutledge said there are no plans to allow prisoners special contact with their children or other associates. Sometimes at Christmas, he said, prisoners who are due for release are freed early for the holiday. There are no inmates who qualify for that this year, he said.

"Historically there aren't many arrests on Christmas or New Years," Rutledge said, so he expects few newcomers into the system on those holidays.

Another body discovered on state highway

United Press International

OCALA — Authorities fear a 49-year-old man whose body was found dumped by the roadside may be the 10th victim of a pair of female serial killers believed to be prowling the highways of Florida and Georgia.

The body of Daniel Mitchell Conger Jr. was found in Orange Springs Friday afternoon, some four hours after his car was found abandoned in Palatka. He had been shot at least once with a small-caliber weapon.

Blood was found in his car, but Marion County sheriff's deputies could not say how many times he had been shot.

Investigators in two states have been looking for the killer or killers of middle-aged male motorists whose bodies have been dumped along Florida and south Georgia highways over the past year.

Police have distributed a description of two women — one a tall blonde, the other a short brunette — spotted at the scene of an accident involving the car belonging to a missing Jupiter missionary, Pete Siems, 65.

Two women matching the descriptions were questioned in Jacksonville last week, but investigators concluded they had no connection to the slayings.

Two other men who disappeared during the past 12 months may also be linked to the killings, said Sgt. Robert Douglas of the Marion sheriff's department.

"It's similar to the other deaths," said Douglas. "I don't have any facts to tie it in yet but the m.o. (method of operation) is the same."

The other killings also involved a small-caliber weapon. Unlike the other victims, however, Conger's body had not been robbed.

Conger was last seen Thursday afternoon. His family became alarmed when he did not show up for his job at Florida Power and Light Co. in Palatka.

"Everybody liked him," said Garnet Cogger, his sister-in-law. "We just can't figure it out."

21st century NASA

A course correction is long overdue for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The report of a high-level advisory committee should put the federal agency into a stable orbit.

The fault, of course, lies with the public and the politicians in Washington as much as with the agency scientists and administrators in Houston.

There was a great tendency to overreach in the early days of the space program, launched to the moon by President Kennedy, based in Texas by President Johnson, praised to the skies in spread-eagle oratory, urged to aim high, wide and handsome at budget time.

Some of that is still going on. The manned mission to Mars boosted by President Bush could stand some skeptical scrutiny.

But much can be set right if Congress and the White House accept the recommendations of the task force headed by Norman R. Augustine, chairman of the Martin Marietta Corp. The recommendations:

- Phase out the manned space shuttle after one more craft is built. Switch to a new heavy booster rocket to be assembled from existing technology. Use the manned shuttle only when men are required to perform some mission in space. Emphasize the unmanned, robotic approach wherever possible.

- Scale back the overambitious, overcomplicated plan for a space station. Studies have shown that simply to maintain it in orbit would require an unacceptable number of hours of work by astronauts floating around in space suits outside the shuttle, a highly hazardous occupation. Redesign the space station for minimum essential functions.

- Free NASA from the dead hand of the federal Civil Service Commission. Bureaucratic rules and regulations, combined with a statutory rate of pay that is not competitive with private industry and non-profit institutions, make it impossible for NASA to hire and retain the best and the brightest.

The Challenger tragedy was a result of a cultural tendency to boosterism, overpromising performance while underestimating costs and risks. The press agency started with the Apollo mission to the moon, which for all its spectacular qualities as a "right stuff" space stunt, failed to produce scientific results equal to its astronomical costs.

Changing the agency's culture is the primary task. Good scientists are not boosters. They don't promise more than they can deliver. They tend to exaggerate difficulties before the fact. They don't ignore risks. They are not back-slappers and log-rollers. The new NASA should listen to the quiet voices of these scientists.

A better paradigm than the sprawling spread at NASA headquarters in Houston is the tight complex of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in a dry wash above Pasadena, Calif. Operated by the California Institute of Technology since World War II, it has gone about the tasks assigned to it by NASA in a workmanlike and successful way, concentrating on unmanned scientific missions to far places in our solar system. Houston should look to Pasadena for a model of the reshaping of NASA in the years to 2001 A.D. and beyond.

The Hubble lesson

The orbiting Hubble Space Telescope can't focus properly as a result of a management climate that discouraged testing, communications and quality control, says a new investigative report, which is actually more reassuring than it sounds. The Hubble fell victim to the same poor management procedures that led to the Challenger disaster in 1986.

However, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has since scrapped those procedures and instituted many new safeguards. The trouble that the Hubble, originally scheduled to lift off in 1983, had been put together in the era before the Challenger explosion.

The Hubble's surprise myopia, along with smaller mishaps at the space agency, had raised the questions whether the reforms were sufficient and whether present NASA management was competent enough to conduct the nation's space program. By pinning the problem on the former management, a six-member federal panel allows Americans to breathe a bit easier over the fate of the nation's space program.

Still, the findings must serve as a warning to today's top officials at NASA. When the technicians are discouraged from expressing doubts, tests are skipped, oversight relaxed and shortcuts taken, calamity can result. The space agency must constantly strive to improve its system for ferreting out errors.

Best gifts for kids can't be bought

In our society there is no day comparable to Christmas. It is a very special time of year for families and particularly for children. Many parents and adults are concerned about what material things they are going to be able or unable to shower upon their children. I would suggest, without hesitation that the most sustaining gifts that may be given our youth are not material gifts.

Christmas is an appropriate time for adults who serve as significant others in the lives to appraise their roles. The gifts they need to be energized about giving their children is expressed by excerpts from the Children's Defense Fund's Pledge. I pledge to: listen to my children; communicate with my children; teach my children right from wrong and be a good role model to them; spend time with and pay attention to my children; love and respect my children; educate my children in mind, body and soul; work to provide a stable family life for my children.

The Children's Defense Fund is the premier child advocacy group in the country. They are congratulating the 101st Congress for passing landmark child legislation. This legislation has addressed the needs of children and might be considered a gift for our children.

SEMIHOLE OPINION

LURLENE SWEETING

Child care, health care, tax credits and Head Start are the areas that have been earmarked for increased funding.

Child care has been authorized for approximately 400,000 more children. Two grant programs to subsidize state child care programs will be available. The child care and development block grant was funded for $2.5 billion over a three-year period. States will have the latitude to subsidize child care for working parents, regardless of income. However, it is strongly recommended that money be utilized for families with low income. Church-run day care centers will be eligible for federal funds through a voucher system.

Increased health care has been earmarked for needy children. The 101st Congress has committed itself to providing Medicaid coverage to all children living in poverty by the year 2003. Children will be eventually covered from infancy through age 18. Additional monies have also been appropriated for the national immunization programs.

Tax credits have been expanded for about ten million low-income working families. If a family's tax credits are greater than the tax they owe, they will be paid the difference. Research has supported the contention that Head Start has been educationally beneficial for poor youngsters. Consequently, Congress has designated 1994 as the target date by which all eligible children will be served. In 1991, approximately 65,000 more children will be served.

All children should have the right to grow up to be the best person they are capable of being. If adults will provide Christmas gifts that money can't buy all year and the programs outlined by the 101st Congress become a reality, poverty as a variable mitigating against children will be dealt a resounding blow.

ISSUES THAT HIT HOME

Layoffs won't solve crises

By GERALD W. McENTEE

WASHINGTON — From Juneau to Jacksonville public officials are struggling with fiscal crises, a baneful product of a decade of Reagan-Bush cuts in federal programs and budgets. Having cut budgets and finding themselves with tax systems that do not raise the necessary revenues, mayors and governors are now talking about laying off public workers, not by the handful but by the hundreds of thousands.

As I am president of the nation's biggest union of public employees you would expect me to protest this as being grossly unfair, to note that public workers didn't create the crisis any more than any other taxpayers so why should they have to pay such a disproportionate price to relieve it?

You would expect me to argue that layoffs don't save money, that the "savings" are wiped out by the costs of unemployment benefits and of providing social services to those thrown out of work.

You would expect me to point out that when public officials crow about saving money through layoffs, sometimes what they have done is turned a public function over to a contractor — at a greater cost.

I have made these points in the past and will continue to do so, but the layoffs raise another issue, one that affects not only public workers, but every American. Cutting jobs means cutting public services. This very simple and direct relationship is most often ignored, as if layoffs were one matter and service cuts quite another.

The effects of public service cutbacks will be particularly severe this time around, far more so than during the 1982-83 recession. The reason is that state and local governments, having undergone a sustained battering for 10 straight years, are already lean to the point of emaciation.

Remember that Ronald Reagan was no fan of government or government services. While he was in office the federal government cut its grants in aid to state and local jurisdictions by more than $200 billion — the bulk of it taken from programs that directly help people in difficulty.

Under increasing pressure, governors and mayors have struggled to maintain essential services. They have increased taxes and reformed administration to improve efficiency.

You can forge the water-fountain complaints about bloated bureaucracies and legions of drone. The fact is that relative to the nation's expanding population the size of the federal work force has been stable since the 1950s and those of state and local governments since the 1970s. And, as public workers have had to do more with less, productivity has increased tremendously.

And in the mean time the needs have piled up. In 1952 there were far fewer dependent elderly, AIDS was unheard of, the homeless were an oddity and a baby beaten to death was something for a tabloid headline instead of a tragically common event.

Less dramatic but just as pervasive is our crumbling infrastructure, the deplorable condition of streets, highways, bridges, dams, sewage and wastewater treatment plants, and other public works that have been sorely neglected in an era of fiscal scarcity.

Public workers do the dirty, dangerous and demanding chores necessary to keep society going. They inspect restaurant kitchens for cleanliness, ensure that tap water is safe to drink; repair playground swings, restack the racks at the library, keep the playing field in shape for Little League baseball, gather the stray dogs that get into the garbage, bring meals to the elderly who live alone, operate halfway houses for people released from prisons, clean up after the storm, staff the "back wards" at mental institutions, check cars for working brakes and some devices, counsel pregnant teenagers, work to control street gangs, maintain reservoirs, answer the fire alarm, drive the 4 a.m. bus.

Some 60 million Americans — one-third of the nation — have inadequate health insurance or none at all. When they are sick or injured they are cared for by public doctors, public nurses and public health-care workers.

When the national economy is sick, as it is today — when unemployment is rising, shops and banks closing, child and spouse abuse on the increase — the need for effective public services is greater than ever. The situation calls for enlightened public leadership that values compassion, that is dedicated to equality, and that knows that in time of trouble, public services are more vital than ever.

Saddam will leave only through war

WASHINGTON — President Bush has told his intimates that Saddam Hussein will remain a menace to world peace as long as he stays in power. That belief will hang over negotiations for a peaceful resolution to the Persian Gulf crisis because peaceful resolution inevitably means Saddam retains leadership of Iraq.

Central Intelligence Agency analysts have warned Bush that it will take a war to remove Saddam. He has such a tight hold on Iraq, they believe, that no internal force can oust him. Saddam has survived several reported assassination plots. He knows how to smoke out his adversaries and once he pinpoints them, he eliminates them brutally. That pattern has served to spook anyone who might fancy himself as Saddam's successor. Saddam has surrounded himself with loyalists and made sure that they know their own survival depends on his survival. The wily Saddam has sewed up every source of power in Iraq. He has the solid support of the Baath Party, which controls all aspects of Iraqi society. The army is also solidly behind him because it is run by people whom he elevated to power. And their positions also depend on his continued survival.

Finally, Saddam has tight control over Iraq's security apparatus. Plain and simple, if he has any opponents in Iraq, they have little chance to overthrow him and live to tell about it. Saddam must chuckle when U.S. strategy planners talk of American impatience and the feasibility of leaving U.S. troops high and dry in the desert for more than six months. His own patience is infinite. He endured the bleak years of the Iran-Iraq war with half a million casualties. And the CIA believes he can ride out this crisis too.

Unemployment lines

The recession has led Wall Street to lay off battalions of brokers, but little attention has been paid to the concurrent erosion of brokerage research staffs, and the dire consequences of losing those staffers. Big securities firms sell their services on the basis that they have large and highly-skilled research staffs. They are the brains behind the brokers' recommendations. But firings and resignations over pay freezes have cut dangerously deep into the research ranks. This loss of talent is already beginning to take its toll. Some firms now bluntly tell their customers that "we no longer follow that stock." One major broker has virtually no utilities experts left. A company with clients holding millions of dollars in consumer food stocks no longer has any research experts on those stocks. Many banks have stopped relying on brokerage firms for their research. But the banks are also having to lay off their researchers. This brain drain has led corporate and public clients to turn to discount brokerages. They give no advice at all, but they don't pretend to either. Other customers have withdrawn from stocks and bonds into easy-buy CDs or money funds that don't take a commission. It makes good, conservative savings sense, but those investments do little to stimulate an economy. For Wall Street, this means a vicious cycle of more reductions in income, insolvency for the weakest and paltry profits for the strong.

Central Intelligence Agency analysts have warned Bush that it will take a war to remove Saddam.

connection with baseball. She married a player in the late 1920s named Ben Cantwell. No ordinary ball player. Ben went to the major leagues and pitched 11 seasons with the old Boston Braves.

In fact, it was Cantwell who made it possible for young Buddy Lake (a Seminole High School pitching star) to be invited to Spring training with the Braves in 1935. This was a memorable experience for Lake who now resides in Lake Mary for two reasons. First, Lake made the Braves team that went north. He was later farmed out to Harriaburg of the old New York-Penn League. Secondly, it was the last Spring training for one of baseball's immortals. Babe Ruth had left the Yankees at the end of the 1934 season and signed on with the Braves for 1935. (There will be more about Lake in forthcoming columns.)

After using several other call letters I notice the Sanford radio station has resumed using WTRR. Was that the original designation for the station?

At That's right — WTRR. In 1946 Ed Higgins was the secretary of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. The trade body decided Sanford needed a radio station. It was J.L. "Jim" Ingly, president of the Sanford Atlantic Bank, who led the effort. Before coming to Sanford, Ingly was with the Atlantic Bank of Jacksonville. He worked with a fellow employee — Jim Rivers, who was the brother of Georgia Governor Ed Rivers at that time.

After Ed left politics he founded several radio stations in Georgia. When Ed became successful, brother Jim decided to get into the business, too.

Ingly contacted Jim Rivers. To make a long story short, Rivers decided to start a station in Sanford. He located it on the ground floor of the east wing of the Mayfair Inn. The station went on the air in April 1947, with City Manager Haight Sayer "welcoming" WTRR to Sanford.

The following year Rivers moved the station to a new building constructed directly across the street from the old Seminole Memorial Hospital. In 1948, or perhaps 1949, Myron Reck bought the station from Rivers. Reck owned and operated the station and later built the present building on Celery Avenue.

The station's key personnel were Marion Harman, news and program director; Dick Aiken, sales director who also had a musical program Monday through Friday singing the favorite songs of Sanford listeners, and a "bird" named Julian Stenstrom, sports director, who brought Florida State League baseball from out-of-town to Sanford fans.

Oh, yes. The call letters. The letters "WTRR" are the initials of Governor Ed Rivers' son — William Tolliver Randolph Rivers.

Killing

Saturday afternoon.

Laura Ladner, 40, of Sanford, made a call Saturday night from the Seminole County sheriff's department to officially inform Ramirez' family in Puerto Rico of her death and that her son is missing. She led lawmen to the discovery of Ramirez' body. Ladner said when she saw Ramirez' car at Mata's house she went to a nearby convenience store and called lawmen.

"The only way she could have come there yesterday was by force," Ladner said of Ramirez being at Mata's house. "She had an injunction (for protection) against him. She wasn't afraid of him. That was a problem. I warned her. I know he loved the kid."

Ladner said she doesn't know Mata, and met Ramirez' son a couple of times.

Sanchez said sheriff's deputies entered Mata's house at about 1 p.m. Saturday. It contained no furnishings, he said.

Ramirez was found dead in a bedroom. Sanchez said Saturday night a cause of death had not been determined, but the death is being investigated as a homicide. Sanchez said he could not say if there was any trauma to the body. An autopsy will be performed in Sanford.

Mata is being sought as investigators attempt to check on the wellbeing of the child. Sanchez said Saturday night Mata was not being sought as a suspect in connection with the death.

Ladner said she worked with Ramirez as a shipping clerk for a Longwood company. Ramirez was to have picked her son up at school at 2:30 p.m. Friday, and apparently did, Sanchez said. When she didn't show up to pick her current boyfriend, David Harrison, up at his workplace at 5:30 p.m., Harrison and friends began searching for Ramirez.

Harrison and Ramirez lived together, Sanchez said. She had custody of her son. Orange County lawmen had initiated a formal missing persons search on the boy and mother Friday after Harrison reported them missing in Orange County.

"I was looking last night (Friday) until three o'clock in the morning," Ladner said. "I had her in my mind. I checked for her car at his (Mata's) house and saw it there (at about noon Saturday). I went to the Circle K on 427 at 17-92 and called the sheriff's department to check the house. I was alone. I identified her from a picture. When you're a mother, it hurts."

Tools

Vila asked Sears, Roebuck & Co. — the nation's largest retailer and the show's sponsor — to make a list of the most-needed tools for Christmas gift assembly.

Sears examined the 30 most popular types of toys and gifts that require assembly to come up with the tool list.

The top 30 list included such things as kitchen play sets, doll houses — including the Barbie Dream Houses — swing sets, exercise equipment, gas grills, bicycles and tricycles. A Sears spokesman said bicycles and exercise equipment are particularly hot gift items.

Most gifts will require just a few common tools.

Vila said Santa's helpers should be able to assemble simple toys and gifts with four basic tools: flat-head and Phillips-head screwdriver sets, a pair of pliers, and an adjustable wrench.

But the Sears assembly review indicated givers — or recipients — of more complicated gifts like exercise equipment, pool tables and swing sets will need some additional tools to get them in working order.

Sears suggested the well-prepared gift assembler should have — in addition to the four basic tools — an Allen wrench set; adjustable hex nut driver, which is especially useful in putting gas grills together; a crescent wrench set, a socket set and mallet for exercise equipment; and an air pressure gauge for bicycles and snow throwers.

And, of course, don't forget the batteries for those gadgets that need them.

Finally, just as important as having the necessary tools is knowing where they are. Vila suggests a pre-Christmas Eve toolbox check to make sure everything is where its supposed to be.

Missing

"We came close to losing her. The arresting officer said the woman's husband told them the girl had no mother," Thompson said.

The mother will be reunited with her daughter Jan. 2.

Thompson said services at the center are free to all.

"That's why we need help, through our Christmas trees, so we can continue to exist and find the children who are still missing," she said.

Missing Children's Center, Inc., Christmas trees are displayed in the NCNB banks in Lake Mary, Fern Park, Sanford and Longwood. The seventh tree is located at the USA Thrift Store in Sanford. Volunteers who can answer questions about missing children, stand vigil by another tree at Seminole Centre in Sanford on Friday and Saturday.

Bush says troops are ready now

By BYAYLE YOUNG
United Press International

President Bush said Saturday the U.S.-led multinational force in the Persian Gulf is ready to strike Iraq at any time, and he and new British Prime Minister John Major said they were united in their efforts to oust Iraq from Kuwait.

Bush, responding to reports from some U.S. defense officials that not all American ground forces were prepared for war, said "if there was some clear provocation 10 minutes from now, the allied forces are ready to respond vigorously."

Wednesday, Lt. Gen. Calvin Waller, deputy commander of U.S. forces in the gulf, had said the United States would not be ready to fight Iraq by the U.N. deadline that authorizes the use of force to remove Iraq from Kuwait if Saddam does not withdraw his forces by Jan. 15.

Bush made his remark at a news conference at his weekend home in Maryland following a meeting with Major, who appeared ready to carry on the hard-line policy against Iraq adopted by his predecessor, Margaret Thatcher.

Major said if Iraqi President Saddam Hussein did not take seriously the U.N. order to evacuate Kuwait by Jan. 15, "he knows what the consequences will be."

Also Saturday, the leaders of six gulf Arab states met in Qatar, possibly to discuss forming a permanent Arab security force for the gulf, and rescuers recovered the bodies of 19 American servicemen who drowned when an Israeli ferry capsized in the Mediterranean Sea.

Israeli and U.S. officials launched investigations of the accident, but divers who inspected the wreck found no initial evidence of sabotage. The capsizing near the northern Israeli port city of Haifa was the worst single loss of life since American troops were deployed in the Middle East as part of Operation Desert Shield following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

At least 83 servicemen were pulled from the 3- to 5-foot seas and most were in good shape. But at sunrise Saturday, Israeli police in Haifa said they had found 19 bodies in the 69-degree water.

Winter puts on cold face as mercury takes a dive

Press International

A massive cold front that broke record low temperatures in Los Angeles and Denver drove eastward during the first full day of winter Saturday, sending the mercury crashing in the Midwest. Fog snarled air traffic in the eastern United States.

The bitter air stabbed into Texas. San Antonio had enjoyed a temperature that reached 82 Friday, but the low Saturday morning was 19.

Winter officially started Friday at 10:07 p.m. EST. Dense fog souped up parts of the Midwest and the East Saturday, delaying air traffic at various airports.

Doug Cowart, returning home to South Carolina from Miami was held up at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport. His original flight, as well as three subsequent flights, were canceled.

Trophy returns to Lyman

Greyhounds win fifth title with 2-1 win over Hornets

By ROBBIE STOCK
Herald correspondent

LAKE MARY — Lyman brought an old friend back to its trophy case on Saturday night, winning the Burger King Classic title, with a 2-1 victory over Bishop Moore at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

It was the first time in four years that the Greyhounds won the tournament, which they had taken in its first four years of play.

Sara Kane provided the winning margin, heading in a pass with 6:52 left in the contest.

Her score, Lyman's second of the half, came less than two minutes after Adrian Kane, Sara's sister, left the field on a stretcher after suffering an injury and was transported to a local hospital.

"I wanted to win it for my sister because she got hurt," said Sara, a freshman. "And she couldn't be here to enjoy the victory with us."

With the win Lyman improved to 13-1-1 while the Hornets fell to 13-2-2. Both of their losses have come at the hands of the Greyhounds.

Lyman tied the game 1:22 into the second half when Danielle Garrett rifled a rebound off an Amy Smith shot past Bishop Moore keeper Cort Valteau. Garrett was named to the all-tournament team, as was goal keeper Becky Carr.

The Hornets took a 1-0 lead late in the first half when Stephanie Feulner gathered in an Amy Geltz pass and streaked 40-yards before slipping a shot past a diving Carr. Geltz was named the tournament's Most Valuable offensive player.

In consolation match's featuring county teams, Marcel Stark scored two goals as Lake Brantley took third with a 2-0 whitewashing of Lake Mary and Lake Howell finished sixth after dropping a 2-1 decision to Ft. Lauderdale-St. Thomas Aquinas. Michele Harris provided the Silver Hawks only goal.

Other all-tournament team members from Seminole County included Dana Hoover, Adrienne Hammerly and Cort Tanzer from Lake Mary, Edith Snyder and Joyce Tullus of Lake Brantley and Lake Howell's Jessica Cardarelli.

"It's a great win for the program," said Lyman first-year coach Jim Thompson. "They came together and did it."

Thompson noted the play of fullback Anne Brewer, who held Amy Geltz, the nation's all-time leading scorer, to just one assist and three shots on goal.

Julle Baumhofer's efforts were not enough Saturday as she and her Rams teammates suffered a 2-0 set back at the hands of defending state champion Lake Brantley in the Burger King Classic at Don T. Reynolds Stadium in Lake Mary.

Hawks use balance to win classic

By DEAN SMITH
Herald sports writer

SANFORD — Two years ago the people of Seminole County were wondering why new coach Steve Kohn of Lake Howell was starting three sophomores and a freshman on the varsity team.

Friday night in the finals of the Central Florida Classic at Seminole Community College those same people saw those four players perform like a well-oiled machine as the Silver Hawks took home the championship with a 79-66 triumph over the Lake Brantley Patriots.

"The football players (Thomas Dempis, Joe Smith and Ryan Thomas) are starting to get into basketball shape," said Kohn. "Touche (Dempis) has been playing well but now Joe and Ryan are getting over leg injuries. Tonight the people saw what kind of athlete Thomas is and that Smith can score."

But while the football players were finally contributing like Kohn had hoped they would, it was his son Josh who stole the show. The 5-foot-11 junior tossed in four three-pointers en route to a tournament high 32-points to merit Most Valuable Player honors.

Dempis also had a good game scoring 14-points. He also blocked several shots and along with Roger Johnson and Thomas controlled the backboards.

Also scoring in double figures for the Silver Hawks was junior guard Malik Evans, who came off the bench.

Seminole, Warriors victorious

By DEAN SMITH

SANFORD — Two weeks ago Seminole coach Greg Robinson was calling his team the best O-4 in the state. And after their performance in the last two games of the Central Florida Classic everyone got to see what he meant.

The Tribe scored the last eight points of the game to come from behind and defeat the Lake Mary Rams 66-61.

"It's the best game a Seminole team has played since I've been the head coach," said an elated Robinson. "The young kids look like they are finally starting to get it."

A rebound basket by Jon Brown with 1:16 left gave the Rams a 61-58 lead. Seminole came down and scored on a Jeff Hall offensive rebound to make the score 61-60 with 0:45 remaining.

Lake Mary tried to run out the clock but turned the ball over and Jay Jay Wiggins drove in for a bucket to give the Tribe a 62-61 lead with 0:16 showing on the clock. Mike Merthie tried to bring his team back but his drive was blocked by Hall.

Demetrius Lomax was fouled with 0:05 left and hit both free throws to give Seminole a 64-61 advantage. After a time out Hall stole the in bounds pass and scored to make the final margin six points.

Lake Mary soccer boys defeat Bishop Moore

By PHIL SMITH
Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO — Jason Redditt and Kevin Tyll combined for six saves as the Lake Mary Rams slipped by the Bishop Moore Hornets 1-0 Saturday afternoon in boy's soccer at Bishop Moore High School.

Both teams struggled to mount any kind of sustained attack because of very wet and sloppy field conditions.

"The field conditions definitely dictated a defensive game," said Lake Mary Coach Larry McCorkle. "The sloppy field cut down alot of what you can do offensively."

The Rams, now 5-2-1, almost scored on their first shot on goal.

Eric Davis sent a corner kick into the goal box where Brian Coduto ran to the ball and struck a strong header just over the crossbar.

Midway into the first half, the Hornets, now 4-3-0, had their best scoring chance of the half when Steve Soistman ran along the left wing and threaded a pass to Jason Ross in the Lake Mary goal box but Redditt broke up the play before Ross could make a shot on goal.

Eric Shuemake stole a ball at mid-field and made a pass to John Hodak, catching him perfectly in stride.

Hodak took the ball to the top of the penalty box where he and Justin Walker executed a perfect give-and-go that isolated Hodak on the Hornets goalkeeper.

Hodak sent the ball into the left corner of the net to give Lake Mary a 1-0 lead with 6:27 remaining in the first half

Three minutes later, the Rams nearly scored again when Matt Buckmaster got a head on a Fernando Lagos corner kick but the ball went high over the crossbar.

Bishop Moore put alot of pressure on the Lake Mary goal throughout the second half.

"We played everybody today and everybody played very well," said McCorkle. "We had some kids that have been in the training room all week that got a chance to play and be ready for the Pizza Hut Tournament."

Lake Mary's next game will be in the first round of the Pizza Hut Boys Soccer Classic against the Dr. Phillips Panthers.

It takes a special menu to entice a "lazy" heavyweight lunger bass

As mentioned in last week's column, one way to increase your odds on catching a lunger bass is to fish areas that huge bass frequent.

Once you have found a good spot, you must offer a big fish what it likes to eat. Heavyweight bass are basically lazy and would rather eat one large meal than many smaller tidbits. It takes a lot less energy to run down one big bait than a dozen smaller ones. This trait of trophy bass has led me to the logical conclusion that a big shiner is hard to beat for tempting Mr. Big.

When shiner fishing is good, I actually get tired of catching eight pound bass and begin to wonder where the ten-ponders are hiding. In my opinion, there is no better bait in the world than a wild shiner for monster bass.

Many anglers think that using shiners is unfair, but in actuality it is very difficult and often frustrating fishing. First of all, shiners run around $12 a dozen, which is not exactly cheap. To add insult to injury, they are often eaten by mudfish and gars — and it really hurts to waste expensive shiners on "trash" fish.

Secondly, shiners are a fragile bait. They require cool water temperatures, plenty of oxygen, and gentle handling. You don't put them in a five gallon bucket and go fishing. An elaborate aeration system is needed to keep the baits lively.

Thirdly, shiners can be downright aggravating. They have a knack for swimming in the opposite direction that you want for them to go. You can take a lure and cast it right where you want it, but a shiner has a mind trick I use is to put a bag of ice in the shiner water (make sure I leave it sealed). This lowers the water temperature immediately and keeps the baits frisky.

FISHING FORECAST

George, from George's Bait and Tackle, wants to remind area anglers to call 322-0340 after store hours for a recorded fishing forecast. George updates this forecast daily, so it contains a lot of valuable fishing information. Count on specks in Lake Meares in front of the power plant. The I-4 bridge and nearby railroad trestle are always good for specks, along with sunshines and striped bass. As water temperatures cool, look for more bass to move into the warmer waters of the Wekiva. Live wild shiners will be the best bait for big bass in area lakes and in the river.

Look for some good action around Osteen Bridge with lots of specks in Lake Meares and around the mouth of the old river channel. Bass will be hitting in Lake Meares and in areas of running water in the river. Bream and catfish can be found in good numbers around Marina Lake.

The cold weather will put a damper on the snook fishing at Sebastian Inlet, but flounder will improve with each passing cold front. Each year, flatfish 14 pounds are caught on finger mullet in this popular inlet. Swarms of bluefish will also invade the inlet with the cold weather. Redfish will also be present, but it may be hard to catch one under the 27-inch slot limit.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral said that there will be some fantastic bottom fishing for grouper and snapper on lunger reefs and wrecks with the colder weather. These fish will remain in shallower water until late spring. When sea permit, sailfish, scattered king mackerel, wahoo and a few dolphin will be present in 100 feet of water on out. Inside the Port, look for flounder, bluefish, sheepshead and a few mangrove snapper. Trout and redfish in the Indian and Banana Rivers will be moving back and forth from deep to shallow water, depending upon the cold fronts.

Giant sheepshead will be present in good numbers at the tip of the north jetties at Peace Inlet. Live shrimp on the bottom fished with a small weight will produce. Bluefish, drum, redfish and flounder will also be hitting around these popular jetties for the next few months.

Lake Mary led by as many as eight points in the first half as Jason Hamelin hit six three-pointers and scored 21 points. But despite his heroics the Rams still only led 34-32 at the half.

"Everything these kids have gotten, they've earned with hard work," said Robinson. "They've worked their butts off and it's finally starting to pay off."

Kerry Wiggins led the Tribe in scoring with 27 points, including a 4-4 day at the charity stripe. Also in double figures for Seminole were Hall (13) and Lomax and Shawn Washington (10 points each).

"I had to get Joe down more than I liked," said Kohn. "But he was tired from covering Quentin Smith of West Orange last night, so I had to give him a rest. But Mike did a super job."

Lake Howell got off to a good start in this one as Kohn hit three, three-pointers in the first quarter as the Silver Hawks took a 22-14 lead after one quarter.

Demps took control of the second quarter and scored six points as Lake Howell stretched the lead to 12, 49-30, at half time.

Lake Brantley was able to stay in striking distance behind all-tournament choice Trevis Certo, but whenever the Patriots would get close Lake Howell came up with answer to keep the lead.

Certo, who was the leading scorer in the tournament, scored 10 of his team high 23 points in the third period as Lake Brantley cut the lead to eight, 59-51.

The Patriots were able to keep the momentum going early in the fourth quarter and got as close as 69-60 with 4:01 to play, but the Silver Hawk defense would hold Lake Brantley scoreless for over two-and-one-half minutes and force the Patriots to have to foul to catch up.

The strategy didn't work as Kohn hit 10 of 10 charity tries in the quarter to seal the win. For the game Lake Howell hit 22 of 28 free throws and hit a remarkable 53 of 67 chances (79.1 percent) for the tournament.

In addition to Certo, Craig Brock and Jason Vallery (11 points each) and Anthony Washington (10) also scored in double figures. Keith also did an excellent job off the bench with eight points before fouling out.

The win was Lake Howell's sixth straight and raised their record to 7-2 on the season. They will try to keep the momentum going this week when they travel to St. Petersburg to play in the Sun Coast Classic at Eckerd College. The Silver Hawks' first round opponent will be Clearwater High School on Wednesday.

Classic honors for Kohn

By DEAN SMITH
Herald sports writer

Josh Kohn of Lake Howell was named the Most Valuable Player of the 1980 Central Florida Classic after scoring 32 points in the championship game against Lake Brantley.

He hit 24 of 26 free throws, including 10 of 10 in the final period, in the game.

SANFORD — It's not very often that you get a consensus of opinion when it comes to voting for an all-tournament team. But the team that was chosen from the Central Florida Classic was a near unanimous choice.

Josh Kohn of Lake Howell and Trevis Certo of Lake Brantley were in a dog fight for Most Valuable Player honors going into Friday night's final game but Kohn left no doubt as to who would take home the hardware as he scored 32-points and ran his team's offense to perfection in a 79-68 triumph over the Patriots.

The 5-foot-11, 180-pound junior ended the tournament with 78 points scored (a 26.0 point per game average). He connected for 12 three-pointers and made an impressive 24 of 26 from the free throw line (92.3 percent). If Kohn had slipped even a little, Certo would have been an excellent choice for MVP as he ended up as the high scorer for the tournament with 79 points (26.3 points per game). The 6-foot-3 senior was everywhere for Lake Brantley as he led his team to its second straight tournament final this year.

Also earning all-tournament honors from Lake Howell was 6-foot-4 senior Thomas Demps. The jumping jack had the lowest scoring average of the six players named (13.7) but his worth showed up in other areas as he blocked a lot of shots and controlled the backboards in the final two games. He also was the main reason the Silver Hawks were able to upset defending champion West Orange to reach the final as he scored 21-points and hit 9 of 9 free throws.

Named from the third-place finishing West Orange Warriors was senior point guard Quentin Smith. The 5-foot-9, 145-pound water bug is the heart and soul of the Warriors. He was his team's leading scorer (70 points, 17.5), ran the offense and covered the other teams best offensive player.

Named from fourth-place finishing Winter Park was 6-foot-3, 210-pound junior William Brooks. The strong man of the Wildcats scored 82-points (15.5 per game) and always seemed to come alive in the fourth quarter. All four of the Wildcats' games were decided in the final minute and his tip of a missed shot at the buzzer gave his team a one-point upset victory over Lake Mary.

The last member of the team was the biggest surprise as 6-3 senior Kerry Wiggins used a big last game to earn the spot.

Wiggins appears to be rounding into basketball shape as he scored 10-points in the first game, 15 in the second game (including 13 in the second half) and 27 in the victory over Lake Mary.

Here's one that may surprise you...Do you know who holds the all-time high school football record for scoring the most touchdowns on kickoff returns in a game? According to the National High School Sports Record Book, the record is held by Roger Maris—the same Roger Maris who hit the most home runs in a season (61) in big league baseball history...Maris set the football record when he played for Stanley High in Fargo, N.D. in 1951...in one game that year, he returned 4 kickoffs all the way for touchdowns.

BOCA RATON — Office Depot Inc. says it has agreed to merge with The Office Club Inc. of San Francisco through a stock swap.

The Office Club will become a subsidiary of Office Depot, the company said.

Under the terms of the agreement, which is subject to shareholder approval, the common stock of Office Club will be exchanged for Office Depot common stock at a ratio of 1-to-1.194. Office Club has about 7.2 million shares outstanding.

David I. Fuente will continue as chairman and chief executive of Office Depot, while Mark D. Begelman, chairman and chief executive of Office Club, will become president and chief operating officer of Office Depot. Three representatives of Office Club will join the Office Depot board, the company said.

Office Depot sells office products through a chain of 121 stores. For the nine months ended Sept. 29, the company earned $7 million on sales of $444.7 million. Office Club sells office products at 51 retail warehouses. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, Office Club earned $1.6 million on sales of $197.7 million.

First Florida discloses loss

TAMPA — First Florida Banks Inc. says it expects to post a loss of about $8 million for 1990 after taking a $70 million provision for loan losses in the fourth quarter.

The bank said it decided to take the provision based on the continuing economic downturn and softness in the real estate market. First Florida estimated its year-end total reserve for loan losses at $120 million.

"We believe this step is prudent and decisive in response to the operational and financial challenges this environment poses," Chairman A. Bronson Thayer said.

Thayer also said management is recommending that the board suspend the dividend payment in the first quarter of 1991.

"Our capital ratios remain strong and will continue to exceed all required levels. However, the continued uncertainty of the economy raises questions about the payment of dividends within the banking industry," he said. "This decision will be reviewed in subsequent quarters."

First Florida operates 155 banking offices, with assets of about $5.9 billion.

U.S. retailers suffer through an abysmal 1990

By KEN BAKER
United Press International

Scrooge-like Christmas shoppers, wary of recession and war, failed to meet the meager holiday-season expectations of the nation's merchants, capping a miserable 1990 for the retail industry.

From discount retailers such as Ames Department Stores Inc. to general merchandisers such as Sears, Roebuck & Co. to upscale department-store chains such as R.H. Macy & Co., the year was tumultuous and disappointing.

Hoping to loosen the purse strings of penny-pinching consumers during the holiday season — when most retailers ring up 50 percent of their sales and 40 percent of their profits — merchants turned to widespread markdowns.

Sale prices of as much as 70 percent off abounded days before Christmas, making holiday shopping feel more like day-after-Christmas clearance sales.

"What we have is a very sluggish sales scenario suggesting a big squeeze on profits for retailers this Christmas," said Janet Mangano, an analyst at Jeausp, Josephthal & Co. in New York.

"If there is a pickup in sales, we're suspicious of how retailers are getting them: promotions means pressure on profits."

The year began on an ominous note with the January bankruptcy filings of retail giants Federated Department Stores Inc. and Allied Stores Corp. that together operate 10 prestigious department store chains.

Their Chapter 11 petitions, which allowed Cincinnati-based Federated and Allied to continue operating while restructuring massive debt loads, came after weeks of uncertainty for the two U.S. retail divisions of Toronto's Campeau Corp.

Crippled by an inability to meet interest obligations on a combined $7 billion debt — the result of Campeau's leveraged buyouts of Federated for $8.6 billion in 1988 and Allied for $3.6 billion in 1987 — stores such as Bloomingdale's, Abraham & Straus, Jordan Marsh and Burdine's were so cash poor that many suppliers were afraid to ship to them.

Analysts said Federated and Allied, still operating under protection from creditors, have been hurt by an economy that weakened as the year wore on. But while sales have been below projections, operating cash flows — generally considered the most critical line on the balance sheet

AT&T's LaVelle to lead savings bonds campaign

ORLANDO — Vance Williams LaVelle, general manager, business sales division for AT&T's Central Florida region, has been appointed as Chairman of the 1991 U.S. Savings Bonds campaign for the Greater Orlando Area. Terry Bittle of the U.S. Treasury Department announced in a press release.

The 1991 U.S. Savings Bonds campaign will get underway in February and conclude in October.

As Chairman, LaVelle will lead the U.S. Savings Bonds Volunteer Committee, an all-volunteer group of area business, financial, civic and community leaders who support and promote participation in U.S. Savings Bond sales programs in the workplace and through financial institutions.

LaVelle's appointment marks the second straight year that a Central Florida AT&T executive has led the Greater Orlando Area U.S. Savings Bonds Campaign, according to the press release. In American children saved a far larger portion of their allowances and monetary gifts last year than they did five years before — increasing their assets by more than 300 percent.

1990, U.S. Savings Bonds sales in the Greater Orlando Area in Central Florida (Orange, Osceola and Seminole counties) exceeded $23 million in 1990. "Central Floridians responded to U.S. Savings Bonds in greater numbers than ever in 1990. The response clearly reflects that people want to keep their savings in the safest of all financial environments."

Savings bonds held at least five years earn competitive market-based interest rates, which have averaged 8.07 percent since 1982. U.S. Savings Bonds are sold in denominations beginning at $50, with purchase prices starting as low as $25.

IRS says now's time to prepare

JACKSONVILLE — The Internal Revenue Service is urging Floridians to start planning now for filing their 1990 federal income tax returns.

James J. Ryan, Jacksonville IRS district director, in a press release urged taxpayers to become familiar with the tax laws which will affect them. "Even though there are only a few weeks left in 1990, it's not too late for some tax planning and there are a number of actions some taxpayers should be initiating now," he said.

Taxpayers who itemize their deductions, may want to consider making contributions to their favorite charity before 1991. Starting in 1990, interest income on Series EE savings bonds used to pay for college is excluded from the taxpayer's income, subject to certain restrictions and income limitations. Ryan noted that IRS contributions are still fully deductible when both taxpayer and spouse do not actively participate in an employee sponsored qualified retirement plan. Some taxpayers who participate in a retirement plan may still be eligible for an IRA deduction depending on their income and filing status. For 1990 there are only a small number of tax law changes, which will help simplify the tax filing process for Floridians. Some of the changes include:

- The amount of income taxpayers can earn before being required to file a tax return is increased.
- Personal exemption amounts are increased to $2,050, up from $2,000.
- The 1990 standard deduction amounts are adjusted for inflation.
- The maximum amount of the earned income credit is increased to $953, up from $910 last year.
- The amount of personal interest which is deductible is only 10 percent, down from 20 percent.

Ryan also urged Floridians who want a fast refund for 1990 to consider filing their tax return electronically. When a tax return is filed electronically, a taxpayer can receive a refund within three weeks, less if deposited directly into a savings or checking account.

"Now is an excellent time to gather tax records and get into position to file early in 1991," he said in the press release.

Taxpayers who need assistance call IRS at 1-800-829-1040, he said.

Seimens-GPT merger plan final Stromberg-Carlson plant affected in Lake Mary LAKE MARY — Seimens AG of Germany and GPT, a subsidiary of the General Electric Company, of the United Kingdom, says it has reached a final agreement to merge their North American telecommunications operations.

This formalization means that Siemens Stromberg-Carlson officially is launched as the third largest public network supplier in North America, the conglomerate said in a press release.

Volker Jung, president and C.E.O. of the combined company, said that steps to integrate operations are already well underway. The emphasis, he said, is on implementing a smooth transition to avoid disruption of service to customers.

"We have already begun the necessary steps," Jung said. "Manufacturing is driving to have full production of the EWSD and DCO systems, as well as packet switching, at Lake Mary by mid-1991. And in the area of research and development, our engineering teams are working on a number of common elements, continuing to build on the knowledge gained throughout the past year. Plans are also coming together in other functional areas. Our customers will see evidence of this in growing joint sales and marketing activities.

"We have a clear strategic direction which we are in the process of implementing," said Jung. "These are only the first few critical steps."

Siemens Stromberg-Carlson designs, develops and manufactures a complete line of digital voice and data switching products as well as transmission products. Based in Boca Raton, with manufacturing and other functional groups in Lake Mary, Albuquerque, N.M. and Phoenix, Ariz., the company has over 4,000 employees.

Credit cards expand to new markets

By KAREN THOMPSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON — If your credit cards haven't suffered meltdown during the holidays, there's more "plastic cash" in store. Just arrived or coming soon: phone calls, fast food, movies, groceries, even parking tickets on credit.

Improvements in technology, consumer demand for convenience and a search for new markets in a society approaching credit card saturation have combined to send the major credit card companies into previously uncharted waters.

"It's a move toward the 'smart card' that banks have been talking about for decades," says Gerra Detweiler, spokeswoman for the consumer group Bankcard Holders of America.

"One day you'll just have one card to cover everything — your phone bills and health insurance and credit card and everything else," Detweiler said.

That day is still beyond the horizon, but the major credit card companies are aggressively pursuing new markets to make it an increasingly more viable possibility.

The latest offering on a nationwide basis by the three largest credit card companies — American Express, Visa U.S.A. Inc. and MasterCard International Inc. — is long distance phone billing.

Earlier this year, Visa, in conjunction with MCI Communications Corp. launched VisaPhone.

First Union announces key changes

JACKSONVILLE — Billy J. Walker, chairman and chief executive officer of First Union National Bank of Florida and First Union Corporation of Florida, has announced key title changes for the organization that will become effective in March 1991.

Walker announced earlier this year that First Union National Bank of Florida President Byron E. Hodnett will become chief executive officer of the bank in March.

The new announcement, according to a press release, adds the position of chairman of First Union National Bank of Florida to Hodnett's title.

Walker will remain chairman of the bank's executive and credit policy committees, chairman of First Union Corporation of Florida, and vice chairman of Charlotte, N.C.-based First Union Corporation.

Jack Mitchell, chief credit officer of First Union National Bank of Florida, will succeed Hodnett as president of the bank.

IN BRIEF

Tis the season to give blood

The blood supply is low and demand is high during this time of year as regular donors are busy with holiday celebrations, more accidents tend to occur, and many people choose the early part of the year to schedule elective surgery. The special drive is vital to get the blood bank through the New Year's Eve weekend.

M*A*S*H blood drives have become annual events during which the blood banks are "transformed" into M*A*S*H units and the staff is dressed in scrubs to provide a fun way for the volunteers to donate their much needed gift of life.

Central Florida Blood Bank will distribute free T-shirts and refreshments to the donors. Below is the schedule for the local branch drives. For more information contact Korena Thomas, branch supervisor at (407) 322-0822.

Dec. 27: Florida Hospital, 601 E. Altamonte Ave., 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Seminole County — Sanford, 1302 E. Second Street, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.; South Seminole — Longwood, 521 W. 434, Physician's Plaza, Suite 103-A, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Widow, widowers support group to meet

ORLANDO — Widowed Persons Service, a program of AARP, holds weekly support meetings in the greater Orlando area for both widows and widowers. Many widowed persons have found the group and related activities an important source of guidance, emotional support, and fellowship.

Afternoon support groups will meet as follows: First and Third Wednesdays of each month from 1:30-3 p.m. at Beardall Senior Center, located at the corner of Gore and Delaney in Orlando.

Second and Fourth Wednesdays of each month from 1:30-3 p.m. at the Casaberry Senior Center, 200 W. Triplett Lake Drive, Casaberry, (U.S. Highway 17-92 south to Lake Triplett Drive, then left at the light for about 1 mile.

For further information, please call the Widowed Persons Service office at 649-9209.

Santa Claus is coming to town

ORLANDO — The Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity at the University of Central Florida will operate its 19th annual "Rent-a-Santa" project, with proceeds to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Santa and his elves will be available by appointment for surprise visits to homes, offices and parties. Fees start at $25, or $50 for a party of forty or more. Santa will make special Christmas Eve visits for $35.

Last year's program raised over $1,000 for MDA. Santa's 24-hour answering service is open now through Dec. 24. For more information, call (407) 657-7596.

CFRH to offer screenings

SANFORD — HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital auxiliary will sponsor cholesterol, blood pressure screenings on Jan. 4 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the hospital's classroom. The charge for the screening is $4 and the blood pressure check is free.

Heart transplant drug linked to rare, often deadly, lymph cancer

By JON VAN
Chicago Tribune

CHICAGO — A drug that helps patients survive heart transplants appears to significantly raise their chances of a rare, often deadly, cancer, medical researchers reported Wednesday.

The drug, OKT3, suppresses the natural immune function and can thereby prevent the body from attacking a transplanted heart as it would an infection by pathologic microbes.

Dr. Lode J. Swinnen and colleagues at Loyola University in Chicago have found that heart transplant patients given OKT3 contract lymph system cancers at a greater rate than patients who don't receive the drug.

In addition, the Loyola researchers found that patients receiving more of the drug are at greater risk of cancer than patients receiving smaller doses.

The drug, which had been given only to help patients reverse transplant rejection, has been used recently in patients without rejection symptoms to prevent rejection. In light of the cancer dangers discovered, such pre-emptive use has been discontinued at Loyola, Swinnen said.

The study, published in this week's New England Journal of Medicine, compared 75 heart patients who never received OKT3 to 79 heart patients given the drug. Among those never taking OKT3, only one contracted lymph cancer, but among those given the drug, nine did.

"We examined all identifiable factors that could potentially be significant in a patient's risk for lymphoma following a heart transplant," Swinnen said. "Only the use of OKT3 was a statistically significant predictive factor for the disorder."

An editorial in the Journal noted that doctors have seen a general increase in rare cancers among transplant patients, a trend they suspect is related to the immunity-suppressing drugs given to prevent organ rejection.

As doctors use more immunity-suppressing drugs and new combinations, tracking such unwanted side effects as cancer becomes more difficult, the editorial said.

Study questions validity of syndrome

By KAREN KLINGMAN
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON — A new study has raised new questions about the existence of a mysterious syndrome that some doctors have linked to repeated yeast infections, researchers said recently.

In the study, the widely used drug anti-fungal nystatin was no more effective than a dummy drug in relieving symptoms such as fatigue, premenstrual tension, gastrointestinal problems and depression in 42 women with a history of vaginal yeast infections.

I think the data casts further doubt on the existence of the syndrome.

—Dr. William Dismukes

"I think the data casts further doubt on the existence of the syndrome," which is variously known as chronic candidiasis, candida-related complex and candida hypersensitivity syndrome, said Dr. William Dismukes of the University of Alabama Medical Center in Birmingham.

Yeast infections are caused by the fungus

Candida albicans, which is commonly found in the intestinal tract and the vagina. Usually, it does not create problems. But if factors such as use of antibiotics or pregnancy allow the fungus to grow rapidly, it can cause vaginal infections in women.

Proponents of chronic candidiasis believe it not only causes vaginal symptoms such as irritation and discharge but a host of other symptoms as well. However, in the study published in The New England Journal of Medicine, Dismukes and co-researchers concluded that their results "provide additional objective evidence that the syndrome is not a verifiable condition."

AIDS groups plead for approval of two drugs

By PEE SYRON
United Press International

NEW YORK — Desperate for life-prolonging treatments for AIDS, activists around the country demanded that two promising drugs receive early government approval.

"The basic problem is you have tens of thousands of people falling AZT (the only government-approved drug to fight the AIDS virus) either because it is not working for them or it is too toxic or their bodies have become resistant to it. And these people are in desperate need of access to these drugs," said David Gold of the AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power.

ACT UP joined the Gay Men's Health Crisis in New York, San Francisco's Project Inform and other groups in a plea for faster action from the government and the manufacturers of the two drugs — didoxynsine or DDI and didoxythymidine or DDC.

Hoffman-LaRoche in Nutley, N.J., which makes DDC, had no immediate comment on its plans for getting the drug licensed.

But a spokeswoman for Bristol-Myers Squibb in New York said the firm plans to submit an application for approval of DDI "in the first quarter of 1991."

That means, if previous experience is repeated, it could take more than six months from now for DDI to win full government approval. The Food and Drug Administration, which took 3 1/2 months to approve licensing for AZT in 1987, could not say how long approval of either new drug would take once the manufacturers submit their applications.

FDA spokesman Brad Stone said, "AIDS drugs get top priority, so when it comes time for the agency to take action, they get reviewed immediately."

Both DDI and DDC have been available through clinical trials, as well as through a special expanded access program which has reached about 15,000 people, most of whom have received DDI.

But activists said those programs still leave thousands of patients unable to obtain the drugs, which may be their only hope for surviving longer with the acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

DDI and DDC are chemically related to zidovudine or AZT, but preliminary results indicate neither drug causes the severe anemia that frequently troubles patients taking AZT.

However, DDI is associated with inflammation of the pancreas and both DDI and DDC can trigger a painful nerve disorder in the feet and hands. It is hoped their toxicities can be tempered by using lower doses of the drugs in combination with each other.

"What the feeling is now is that enough is known about these two drugs for people to make informed choices," ACT UP's Gold said.

Warning against using kerosene for head lice

By United Press International

BOSTON — The once-common practice of using kerosene to get rid of head lice not only is outdated but it can be extremely dangerous, two health care workers warned recently.

Donald Damschen and Dr. John Carlisle of the University of Nevada School of Medicine in Reno cited the case of a five-year-old girl who was badly burned when fumes from the kerosene her family used to treat her head lice ignited, creating a flash fire.

In a letter to The New England Journal of Medicine, Damschen and Carlisle said the family resorted to kerosene as a "de-lousing agent" after several shampoos apparently failed to get rid of lice the child acquired at school.

Undiluted lantern fuel was applied to the child's head and she was then taken to the kitchen sink to rinse it off, they said. At that point, a "pilot light in the kitchen stove ignited the fumes, causing flash burns to the child and two other family members," they reported.

The child was the most seriously injured, with burns over 40 percent of her body. She was taken to University Medical Center in Reno and is now undergoing skin grafting procedures.

Although in current medical practice the chemicals lindane and malathion are used to treat head lice, the use of kerosene "has been advocated in the lay medical literature for several decades," Damschen and Carlisle said.

Consequently, the "outdated kerosene treatment continues to come to the attention of modern physicians, with tragic consequences in our patient," they said.

Enzyme tied to breast cancer

By REBECCA KOLBERG
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON — The discovery of an enzyme linked to breast cancer's deadly spread may open new treatment avenues against the disease that kills nearly 45,000 American women annually, scientists reported.

A French research team has identified an enzyme produced by the tissue around invasive breast tumors, but is not present near tumors confined to a single, small area.

The enzyme, called stromelysin-3, belongs to a family of proteins that destroy the connective tissue surrounding cells during growth of an embryo. The new enzyme appears to "eat through" a breast tumor's envelope of connective tissue, allowing cancer cells to spread beyond the original tumor site and enabling blood vessels to feed tumor growth, said Pierre Chambon, who directed the study.

In addition to detecting stromelysin-3, Chambon and his colleagues from INSERM's biochemistry institute in Strasbourg, France, also pinpointed the gene that carries instructions for the production of the enzyme. "It is the first gene that has been identified that seems to be clearly related to (breast tumor) invasion and invasion is very important. Usually, a patient doesn't die from a contained tumor — a patient dies from invasion," Chambon said in a telephone interview.

About 20 to 30 percent of breast tumors detected by mammography are not invasive, while almost all breast tumors found by manual exams are invasive, said Dr. William McGuire, head of medical oncology at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio. If caught in a non-invasive state, breast cancer is almost 100 percent curable, he added.

Sweethearts for 57 years

Julius and Elizabeth Blackwelder, Sanford, recently celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary. "He has been my sweetheart and my best friend through the years, and he's a good cook, too," Elizabeth said. The couple entertained guests Judith Craig and Marjorie and Neville Hardin with a meal cooked by Julius.

Teen wins talent awards

Kaylie Lytle, 13, daughter of Charlie and Brenda Lytle, Lake Mary, recently won some major talent awards. On Dec. 1, Lytle won the talent division in the Teen Miss Orlando Pageant. She performed a vocal solo. Lytle placed second overall in the pageant, which was held at the Edyth Bush Theatre, Orlando. On Dec. 9, Lytle took first place at the Regency Talent Competition, held at the Orlando Civic Center, again for her vocal solo. This qualifies her for the National Regency Talent to be held in Missouri later this year. Lytle was part of a dance duo and of a team from the School of Dance Arts, Sanford and Lake Mary, who received three first place trophies at the Regency Talent Competition.

Christmas wishes fulfilled

Seniors, kids check lists, shop together

By LACY DOMEN
 Herald People Editor

WINTER SPRINGS — When Sanford first-grader Jenny Holcomb entered the store to choose Christmas gifts for her family, her sparkling eyes widened. "Ohhh," she whispered, to grandmotherly Francis Ross, Longwood, who took Jenny's hand to lead her to each table piled high with merchandise. Other senior citizens helped other Pinecrest Elementary School first-graders that day in the not-so-ordinary store. The Christmas Store, sponsored by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, was opened for business one week at the Seminole Crime Prevention Center in Winter Springs. About 900 first-graders from Seminole County elementary schools and students at Head Start centers filed through with their lists of gift recipients. Aided by senior volunteers, the children shopped, ate ice cream and candy, sat on Santa's knee, toured fire trucks and police cars, and were serenaded by the Seminole County Kitchen Band. Seniors even helped wrap the gifts chosen by the children. About 4,000 gifts passed through little hands, according to one of the senior coordinators, Frank Gabrielle. "The word 'store' is deceiving," Gabrielle said. "The kids basically come from not-well-off families, and our job is to make sure they have gifts for sisters, brothers, moms and dads. One child needed 14 gifts. We take them by the hand and get them what they need," Gabrielle said. Bob Walko, president of the Board of Directors for RSVP, sported a satisfied grin as he observed the bustling store. "It's wonderful. This project is the greatest concentration of volunteers for us. It's heartwarming to see the seniors and children together," he said. "So many work so hard. This is truly the spirit of Christmas." Seniors spend the year prior to the store opening preparing for the event. Gabrielle solicits toys and donations of food. He worked with the Marine Corps who placed Toys For Tots barrels in all area El Pollo Loco restaurants and then donated toys collected to RSVP. Other seniors spend many hours knitting, crocheting and hand-making other craft items from which the children choose. The trick, said Gabrielle, is to have a large selection of gifts for all aged males and females, so everyone has a choice. Carl Rogers Jr., 6, handed his list to volunteer Ruth McLain. He needed gifts for his sisters and mom and a special baby gift. "I'm a uncle!" he exclaimed. Jenny, finished with shopping, toted her wrapped gifts to a seat on the floor by the Kitchen Band. Women strive to bring 'Better Times' to Central Florida homeless, jobless ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Charles, bone-tired, dirty and hungry, sat down on a street corner. He was homeless and had no money. Altamonte Springs sisters Barbara Toy and Isabel Thomas, along with their friend, Sharon Sullivan, sat down with Charles and talked about being homeless in Central Florida. They told him they would return the next day. They did return to sit on the curb and chat with Charles. "He cried. He was so shocked. He asked why because he didn't think we'd come back," Toy said. "People rarely go back to visit the homeless. The women who run Compassion Press, which publishes the magazine 'Better Times' for and about the homeless, do go back. "You know how you dial 900 numbers for a friend? We do it for free," Toy said. The two sisters, from the Cayman Islands, said no strangers live there. "No strangers means no homeless," Thomas said. "Everyone takes care of their neighbors." Toy said because Caymanians never meet a stranger, the sisters decided to bring the spirit of neighborliness and of extending a

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Heath Anderson

Jill Susann White weds in Maitland ceremony

MAITLAND — Jill Susann White and Philip Heath Anderson are announcing their marriage today. The wedding was an event of Dec. 22, 3 p.m., at the First Presbyterian Church of Maitland. The Rev. Don Langfit performed the double ring, candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of D. and Mrs. James M. White of Longwood. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Anderson of Winter Park.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white satin gown trimmed with delicately pearled applique. The v-neckline was trimmed similarly and the short, puffed sleeves featured a softly gathered top with pearling. The bodice was accented by a large pearl and lace applique and deeply pointed waistline. Delicate lace trimmed the gown's hemline and applique lace streamers flowed from the back bodice ending at the chapel train. Her fingertip illusion veil was held by a flower and pearl band and she carried a large bouquet of white roses and carnations.

The bride's cousin, Miss Mindy Ann Boder, Jacksonville, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a tea-length, royal blue taffeta gown with richly pleated v-neckline and puffed, shirred sleeves. The fitted bodice descended to a deeply scalloped waistline with modified "v" back. She wore a comb interspersed with baby's breath in her hair and carried a lace nosegay of royal blue-tipped carnations and pink carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jennifer L. Boder, Miss Rebecca E. Boder from Jacksonville and Miss Lauren A. Walters from Decatur, Ala. They are all cousins of the bride. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Miss Melanie Anderson served as flower girl. She wore a light blue dress with royal blue trim and dispersed flower petals from an umbrella which she carried.

Mr. Ernest K. Thompson of Oviedo served as best man. Groomsmen were brothers of the groom, Mr. R. Steven Anderson, Raleigh, N.C.; Mr. Carl B. Anderson, Winter Park and brothers of the bride, Mr. James M. White, Jr. and Mr. Jeremy White, both of Longwood.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Church Fellowship Hall. Music was provided by Mr. Ernest K. Thompson, soloist; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson, handbells, and Miss Terri Greenan, flute. Also assisting was Mrs. Amy Anderson who served the wedding cake.

Following the wedding, the couple are spending their honeymoon at the beach. Their new residence is Birmingham, Ala. where Mr. Anderson is a restaurant manager and Mrs. Anderson is a medical student in the School of Optometry, University of Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

Ill children take fantasy flight

Go ahead and say "Bah, humbug" to all the Christmas festivity surrounding you. But, please, not before you have shared a few moments with 80 seriously ill Central Florida children who recently participated in an imaginary flight to the North Pole.

This year, the ill children were joined by their siblings and parents, numbering 300 in all, on the flight sponsored by the local chapter (one of 46) of the International Silverliners, a not-for-profit organization made up of former and present Eastern Airlines flight attendants.

The 1980 flight marks the fourth year EAL has sponsored the local flight with a lot of volunteer help, according to Jean Clontz, a former EAL flight attendant. Other flight attendants and numerous business freely give of their time and money to support this heart-warming cause.

On the first two flights, the big EAL jet never left the ground, but the last two flights were a different story.

Last year, Dr. Frank Clontz was in the cockpit with the captain and personally raised the money for fuel so the plane could actually leave the ground. Again this year, the imaginary flight took wings and was airborne for 45 minutes, thanks to Dr. Clontz, for raising about $1,500.

The terminal at Orlando International Airport treats this flight like any scheduled trip. The flight to the North Pole was on the monitors, with the gate and departure and arrival times listed. The passengers departed at Gate 15.

And while they were having the time of their lives exploring the wild blue yonder, volunteer ground crews were busy at Gate 17 decorating a tree and carrying out other last minute details for the passengers on their return trip from the North Pole. Santa arrived in a sleigh, waving to the crowd. Also, there were elves, carolers, jugglers, magicians, clowns and Santa and his Misus who posed for photographs with the children.

The committee snooped around in advance and discovered that each child wanted a particular gift. The tree featured these select gifts in most cases. One brave child dared to ask for an autographed Magic basketball. And he got it.

Most of the seriously ill children ranged in age from 5 to 8. Jean said they were so happy on the flight. Some were bald from chemotherapy and others had various, visible afflictions. But, at this time, they were all the picture of health, although, Jean said, it was generally known that this would be the last Christmas for the majority.

Jean praised all the volunteers including Darlene Hobek, president of the area Silverliners. The committee has already started work on next year's flight.

Dr. Clontz mentioned how completely accommodating his friends were when he solicited their support in helping to buy fuel so the sick children could visit the North Pole. "That's what it's all about," he said.

"You're overwhelmed by it," Jean said. "It brings tears to your eyes."

Christmas spirit alive

Judi Knowlen of Sanford, manager of the Village Inn, Casseberry, has a Christmas song in her heart. Several weeks back, the Village Inn employees started a small Christmas fund for Toys for Tots by tossing a few coins here and there into a container.

When the money was counted, there was about $100 collected which Judi thought was really super. She was so excited that she phoned the corporate headquarters in Denver. The company matched the original amount. Oh, Boy, $200 for the kids!

But that's not all. Just this week, a customer heard the story about the hard-working employees' Christmas spirit, and she immediately reached into her pocket and came up with a $100 bill for Judi and the Toys For Tots project for a total of a little more than $300. Incredible.

On Dec. 17, the Village Inn employees, spouses and guests met at the Police Benevolent Association building for the annual Christmas Party and buffet dinner. Gifts were exchanged and Judi presented all the employees with a gift. She received a beautiful clown doll dressed in peach satin.

Chairmen, who did a good job coordinating the party, were Charlotte Freeman and Paul Welch.

Browns visit with family

Irene and Roy Brown spent a delightful time in the Washington, D.C. area visiting with her brother and his wife, Walter and Greta Koragaard at their home in Falls Church, Va.

Walter, a retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army, was honored by the Federal Aviation Agency upon his retirement after spending 20 years with the FAA.

The festivities were held in the ballroom of the Officers' Club at Fort McNair. Also attending were two brothers and one sister of Irene and Walter. According to Irene, the mini-family reunion was great.

While in the area, the group toured the White House and visited the Washington Cathedral, the sixth largest church in the world. Irene said the magnificent structure took 60 years to complete and "looks like Europe." She raved over the beauty of the handsome edifice.

In other news from the Brown family, Irene's and Roy's son, Dennis R. Brown, a U.S. Army reservist with the 410th Quartermaster Corps, has departed for Operation Desert Shield in Saudi Arabia. Dennis' wife, Cindy, is keeping the home fires burning at their home in Lake Mary.

Christmas poem about the coming of Christ based on the immortal, "Twas the Night Before Christmas." Hostesses were Virginia Chapman and Gladys Zahand.

Going, going, gone

The United Methodist Men of the First United Methodist Church hosted Ladies Night and Christmas Auction on Dec. 13. About 60 showed up for the turkey dinner and auction.

According to Aahby Jones, chairman, they even netted about $380 which is earmarked toward church charities.

The hottest item on the auction block was an ornate music box donated by Lamar Echols. Frieda Tyre and Joyce Sawyers were the two finalists who got down to some very serious bidding...in 25 cent increments. Lucky Joyce raised the bid to an even $21 and Frieda bowed out, letting her have it.

Entertainment was provided by Lamotte and Cochran.

According to Joann Turnbull, "Everybody had a good time."

40 attend party

The Sanford Woman's Club was the setting for the annual Christmas party for SunBank on US 17-92. Among the 40 attending were Bob Douglas, branch manager and senior vice president, and Claire B. Wandek, assistant branch manager, who put the party together.

The clubhouse was decorated in the Christmas motif and music was provided by a DJ.

"It was really nice," Barbara Porter said. "The dinner (catered) was excellent."

Successful home tour benefits area kids, seniors this holiday

Heathrow Women's Club members borrowed the Home Art Engineering model home, Breckenridge Heights, Heathrow, for a good reason.

Marion Good, chairman for the Holiday Home Tour, said Arvida Corporation lent the club the home for the tour, which was organized to help raise funds and collect toys for the Seminole Ornament Society.

Admission to the home was $5 or a toy for S.O.S.

"It was a very successful tour," Marion said. "We took a car full of toys to S.O.S."

Marion reported everyone enjoyed the hors d'oeuvres provided by the women's club. Punch, egg nog and pastries were also served.

"We served finger foods because we didn't want to take a chance on dripping anything in the house," Marion explained.

A highlight of the afternoon was Heathrow resident Ray Sasse's rendition of Santa Claus. "He was cute," Marion said.

benefit needy children and senior citizens in Seminole County.

Over 600 people dressed to the nines and gathered in the Crystal Ballroom of the Altamonte Springs Hilton earlier this month. Guests nibbled on hors d'oeuvres and sipped festive refreshments as they listened to the 16-piece Bob Cross Orchestra. The Pat Williams family also provided entertainment.

The ballroom was elegantly decorated and glittered with Christmas lights. Ice carvings graced the tables.

Each host received a Waterford ornament as a thank you for sponsoring the project. Hosts included: Joan Christensen, Winter Springs; Civil-Design Group, Inc., Or-swept into the dining hall of Howell Place in Sanford recently to sing madrigals for the Christmas Luncheon of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Lake Mary High School Madrigal Singers dressed in colorful medieval robes which they had designed themselves. Alice Ann Nilan directed them in an outstanding program of difficult contrapuntal arrangements of familiar Christmas music. The singers received a standing ovation for their superb performance of top quality music.

Howell Place served an attractive and tasty luncheon in a setting of seasonal decoration.

Ann Howland, regent, opened the meeting. Bette Steffens and Beatrice Buck, chaplain, led the D.A.R. ritual. Virginia Mikler gave the National Defense report. After the meeting, Dorothy Ertaman conducted a silent auction of white elephants.

Plant-lover digs for reasons

DEAR ABBY: I have always had a deep love for all living things. I have a house full of thriving plants.

About two years ago someone gave me a half-dead Boston fern. I took it home, repotted it, watered it and gave it plenty of love. (Boston ferns are very hard to grow.) It lived and grew into a huge, lush thriving plant.

Every year, after the last frost, I put it outside. After being indoors all winter, it would grow like crazy. I kept it outside on my picnic table all summer. By the end of October I would bring it back inside for the winter, and it would be just beautiful.

Well, last Monday somebody stole my plant in broad daylight! Abby, it was in a 50-pound flowerpot. I cannot begin to tell you my shock and hurt. How could anyone be so low?

I hope that whoever took it knows how to care for it, because Boston ferns are very fragile and need loving care. Abby, why in this world would anyone want to steal a plant? Perhaps if you put this in your column, the thief will bring it back.

around who saw Charles Lindbergh land in Paris in 1927, so I asked my readers. Did I get letters? A sample:

DEAR ABBY: I was 6 1/2 years old when my father took me to Le Bourget airfield to see Lindbergh land. He had to be protected by the gendarmes from the crowd who wanted to touch him. It was a very emotional experience for the French people because two weeks earlier, two Frenchmen, Nungesser and Coll, had attempted to fly from Paris to New York and were lost at sea.

Life's problems helped with 12-step approach

DEAR MARY: What are these twelve-step support group programs all about? Are they some kind of cult or new religion? In the past few months, it seems like I've heard of 12-step programs for every problem imaginable. What do the experts think of them? Are they successful in helping people deal with their problems?

SKEPTICAL

DEAR SKEPTIC: The 12-step approach to dealing with overwhelming life circumstances began in the 1930s when a physician and businessman discovered that they were powerless to overcome their addiction to alcohol alone, but that by giving each other support, and with the help of their Higher Power, they could live their lives alcohol-free, one day at a time. Thus, Alcoholics Anonymous was born. This 12-step program is now considered the single most successful recovery plan available for people addicted to alcohol, as well as their family members.

DRUG COUNSELOR

MARY BALK

As people attempt to rebuild their lives after experiencing life tragedies such as narcotics addiction, eating disorders, the death of a child or loved one, divorce, etc., this same approach has proven invaluable. These groups charge no fees and welcome anyone who wishes to grow through and overcome their problem.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Here is a deal featuring Australian Stephen Burgess. Playing in five spades doubled, he correctly analyzed that West held four clubs for his negative double of one spade. Watch how he structured the play to leave West helpless to defeat the contract. Declarer won dummy's ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. He played a spade to dummy's queen and a club back to his king. West won the ace and played a second trump. Burgess now took the ace, ruffed a diamond, and ruffed dummy's last heart. At this point dummy was left with a trump and the Q-6-3 of clubs. West held J-9-7 of clubs and two diamonds. But West had to discard on this trick. If West threw a club, declarer would simply play a club to dummy's queen and give up a club. So West threw a diamond, keeping all his remaining clubs. No matter, Declarer ruffed his last diamond and played a low club from dummy. West had to win the seven of clubs and lead away from the J-9 to give declarer the last two tricks and his doubled contract.

BOOK REVIEWS

Dorf pens a believable thriller

A Reasonable Madness By Fran Dorf (Bantam Books, 288 pp., $18.95)

The sheer believability of Fran Dorf's first novel ought to make it popular bedside reading during the long winter months.

And this mystery-cum-psychological thriller is wonderfully believable. Picture this: A beautiful young Connecticut matron shows up in a Manhattan police station to confess to a vicious murder on New York's west side. Even though Laura Wade knew the victim and might even have had a motive, Gotham police detective Henry Culligan thinks she might be a "confessor," one of the small army of psychotics who regularly try to take credit for terrible crimes.

Psychiatrist David Goldman agrees to examine Laura, who is convinced that her psychic abilities can cause both death and destruction. And Goldman doesn't know what to think, except that he's probably falling in love with the haunted young woman.

Laura Wade's husband, Zach, thinks his wife has major mental problems, but as president of Laura's family department store business he isn't going to rock any boats. After all, Laura hasn't been charged with anything.

Early on, readers realize that Laura herself is a victim, but deliciously few clues to the real villain take shape much before the final hair-raising chapters. The story is imaginative and scary and real.

Before love triumphs over evil, Fran Dorf spins a rich skein of childhood abuse, psychic aberration and revenge.

Dorf's advanced degree in psychology gives her the tickets to write a thoroughly believable thriller. The characters are credible, as is the dialogue.

Both Doubleday Book Club and the Literary Guild selected "A Reasonable Madness" for their alternate selection lists. That's uncommon for a first novel.

But this is an uncommonly good book.

Helping hand to Central Florida. Other friends became involved, including Thirlee Murray, Patricia Smith and recently Jackie Jerger. The premise of their magazine is to be a communications network for people on the street and to inform those who are not about the very real plight of America's down-and-out.

"Who are the homeless? They're earthquake victims, senior citizens in a nursing home that went broke, runaway teenagers, families who do work but get paid minimum wage.

Take away two paychecks due to illness, lay-off or some other unexpected circumstance and you are the homeless," Sullivan warned.

Toy said the magazine's concept includes selling retail advertising. The magazine is being distributed through libraries, doctor's offices, beauty salons, "and anywhere else we can place it," Toy said.

It will feature articles on homeless families, help centers, education up-dates, budget fashion and on nutritious, low cost meals. Also featured will be jobs, wanted and offered.

"We want to help people before they become homeless," Thomas said.

They have even taken people off the streets into their homes, offered them a place to clean up, and shared thoughts over a cup of coffee.

"We try to give people a little hope, a little dignity," Toy said. Thomas said one young man she helped "laid down and cried. They are so used to being kicked around, but they are people, too," she said.

Sullivan said it was exciting to think a "lower middle class single parent could actually make a difference" in another person's life.

"I've worked four jobs to make ends meet. I know how hard some of these people try, and I have to think, if I help where I can, someday when a child of mine may need help, someone else may reach out and help him," Sullivan said.

"Every parent should know that every person on the street is someone's daughter, someone's son," she added.

Like Charles, he now works in an Orlando restaurant. "He called to say thanks. He said we'd never see him on the streets again," Toy said.

Locals to travel abroad to learn to teach

By VICKI DeSOTO
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Lori Swain, a 1987 graduate of Seminole High School, wants to be an elementary school teacher.

She is the daughter of Lloyd and Denise Swain of Sanford.

She believes that some of the teaching methods in many American schools may be a bit too traditional and wants to see if she might be able to learn some things from the British that she can combine with the things she's learning at Florida State University to make her future classrooms more effective.

As part of a program of Florida State students of various majors traveling to Europe this spring, Swain said she will be working all but three weeks during the twelve week stay.

"Some of the students who are not doing their teaching internships will have more time to travel," Swain said. "We'll (the education majors who will be making the trip) spend most of working."

Swain said that the schools in Seminole County have begun using the integrated approach to learning that has been widely accepted in European schools for years. She noted, however that most school districts have not yet progressed to that stage.

"There's nothing like it in Tallahassee schools," she said. "I couldn't learn anything about it up there."

Swain said she wants to see the theory of integrated learning used in the classroom.

"I read about it in books, but I want to see it used," she said.

She added that in the three week spring break from school, she will join some of the others on a short trip to Paris.

"That will be fun," she said.

Swain said she chose to do her internship abroad because she felt the experience would be invaluable, but she plans to come back to Seminole County to seek a position in an elementary school here.

Her mother, a teacher at Seminole High School, was named as a distinguished teacher by the Sallie Mae corporation for her influence on outstanding first year teacher Robyn Terwilliger from Longwood Elementary School.

Lori Swain and Jenny McCarron are ready to go to London.

The younger Swain said her mother was an influence on her as well.

"She is a great teacher and I hope to do the same for some younger students in the future," she said.

Swain said she hopes that her experiences in Europe will translate into a classroom technique that combines the best of the traditional American teaching methods with the "whole language approach" to learning that has been used overseas for years and which is beginning to be used in some parts of the United States, including Seminole County.

"Teaching thematically, using the whole language approach, helps the students to apply learning to their lives," she said. That, she believes is the key to the high success rate of European schools.

Swain said the best hope for American schools is to alter the teaching methods, especially at the elementary school level.

Another student who will be traveling to England this summer is Swain's friend Jenny McCarron, who graduated from Lake Mary High School in 1987.

McCarron, daughter of Owen and Karen McCarron, is also an education major.

Her father is the school district's assistant superintendent for administrative services.

She, like Swain, plans to return to Seminole County to seek employment.

Both McCarron and Swain will be teaching seven and eight year olds.

Swain will teach at the Orchard Junior School and McCarron will teach at the Hounslow Heath Junior School.

Both schools are in London. "I don't know anything about the school," McCarron said. "I know their teaching methods are much different than ours and I hope to learn from that."

The students are the equivalent of second graders, according to Swain.

"But they don't have the same grade level separation that we do here. They are in third year, I think they call it."

The interns will have to pay for their room and board and other travel expenses during the semester abroad, but McCarron and Swain think it will be worth it.

"You can't beat the experience we'll be able to bring back," McCarron said.

They noted that the cost is really little more than a semester at school.

"But a lot more fun," McCarron said.

They will live in a hostel while in London.

"It's like a dorm, but not really," McCarron said.

Both said they will have difficulty knowing what to pack. Because of space restrictions, each student is allowed only two suitcases.

"I don't know where to start," McCarron said.

Admitting that the trip is going to be a great deal of hard work in addition to the excitement of the experience, the two young women said they are relaxing now before the trip begins.

Swain and McCarron will leave for Europe on Jan. 16 and return to Tallahassee in April in time for graduation.

"I'm getting excited," Swain said.
