Growers Are Told Citrus Law To Be Fully Enforced; Hear Address By Pledger

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 15.—(AP)—J. Hinton Pledger, supervising inspector of citrus fruits, department of agriculture, in his address here before the fruit growers attending the "Farmers' and Fruit Growers' Week" declared that the new citrus law would be literally enforced, and that the full cooperation of all producers would be necessary to obtain the best results for both officials and producers.

Mr. Pledger said in part: "I wish in the outset, if you please, to convey to you on behalf of Commissioner Mayo, his regrets in not being able to be here in person and address you on this important subject. Development of other important matters, over which he had no control, prevented his attendance and he asked me to come and briefly discuss, in my limited capacity, some of the problems confronting us in controlling the movement of citrus fruits this season.

"Prior to the time the wise men in the East journey to Bethlehem to pay homage to their Lord and Master, the great State of Florida projected far out into the gulf of Mexico as though to extend the glad hand of welcome to the citizens of the other lands, including Columbus, Ponce de Leon, the red men and others, to come and enjoy her magnificent climate and to feast upon her almost innumerable sub-tropical fruits.

"The last legislature, as you know, enacted a new citrus law, which has for its prime object to prevent the shipment and sale of immature oranges and grapefruit. The present standard for oranges is identical with the old standard fixed by the United States Food Inspection Decision No. 182, but the new standards for grapefruit as fixed by the recently enacted law are quite different from the standard under which we have operated in the past.

"I am sure that it is the desire of every grower and shipper of Florida citrus fruit that the new law be literally enforced, and I am pleased to tell you that the official charged with the enforcement of this law, Hon. Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, expects by, and with your co-operation, to literally enforce the new law without fear or favor. In this connection, however, I would remind you that it requires concerted effort to accomplish anything worth while and to that end your full cooperation is earnestly solicited.

"Under provision of the law, all packing houses are required to register with the Commissioner of Agriculture not less than 10 or more than 30 days before the present or next shipping season, and each owner or manager of a packing house is required to give not less than 7 days written notice to the Commissioner his intention to open and operate such previously registered packing house. With this advance information we will be in a position to furnish inspection service for all packing houses.

"All packing houses will be furnished a certificate of registration upon application, on blanks furnished for that purpose. This registration certificate, a pink paper, must be conspicuously posted in the packing house for information of the inspector, otherwise the inspector will not be authorized, under the law, to make any tests or issue certificates of maturity of any fruit stored or being prepared therein for shipment.

"Ordering Stamps. "All orders and remittances for stamps must be made to Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, and it is suggested that stamps be ordered and kept on hand because no certificate of maturity will be issued unless stamps are in the packing house at the time of inspection stamps will not be mailed out C. O. D. For instance they will be furnished for use on single crates and for lot shipments of ten boxes, as well as for 300 and 360 crate car shipments.

"Drawing Samples All samples for analysis will consist of 15 average sized oranges or grapefruit, fairly representative of the fruit under inspection, drawn by the inspector in the presence of the owner, agent or manager.

"Preparation of Samples. Grapefruit will be halved by cutting from the stem to blossom end, and the juice extracted from one half of each fruit. In the case of oranges the same method is to be used and the juice to be strained through cheese cloth.

"No lot of fruit will be condensed on the first test. If the first and second tests fail to show maturity, a third test shall be made, and in case either of the three tests show the lot to be mature average of the tests, provided it shows maturity.

"Federal Inspection. I would urge every packer and shipper to ask for Federal Inspection. This service will be gladly furnished upon application. Our department will work in co-operation with the Government inspectors and I am pleased to report that arrangements have been made whereby the Federal Inspector, who inspects your fruit for grade, will be authorized to issue a certificate of maturity.

"You begin to get the impression the old-line Republicans are a trifle afraid of Frazier—think he'd make a pretty formidable radical leader, which wouldn't suit their book a mite—they want radicalism to disintegrate, for lack of leadership—and are trying to pooh-pooh him out of consideration.

"Maybe he wouldn't make a good radical leader, but it seems premature to say "of course" he wouldn't.

"To a nonpartisan bystander it seems as if he might make a fair stab at the job. He isn't spectacular, like LaFollette, but he's able,

Know Him?

This is a picture of the chap whose face adorns the Buffalo nickels now in circulation—the late Chief Two Guns White Calif. He was the original chief of the Glacier National Park reservation. When he died, in Washington, President Roosevelt sent his body home under military escort.

well-informed, experienced in politics, has punch, knows how to make a first-class speech and take care of himself in debate and shows a wonderful capacity for landing and standing up under some mighty hard knocks.

He was elected governor of North Dakota three times. In the midst of his third term he was recalled by 4102 votes. If that wasn't a jolt what is? In spite of it, the very next year he was elected to the senate by a majority of 8848.

A comeback like that—and so quick—suggests a strong man.

Perhaps there's no particular reason for predicting he'll be the next radical standard bearer in the senate, but this constant Republican old-line repetition of "Oh no, of course not," sounds queer. It sounds as if the old-liners "hoped" not. It almost hints that that's just what he will be.

Germany Orders Free Visas For Sportsmen

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The German foreign office has instructed its representatives throughout Europe and North America to grant visas free of charge to all foreign sportsmen coming to Germany for sporting competitions of any description.

The measure is the result of a request by the German Sporting Union, which also had asked that the foreign office take up with other governments the question of reciprocal passports for German sportsmen taking part in foreign competitions.

These men were the state supervisor of negro education, the state high school inspector, and the professor of secondary education at the University of Florida at Gainesville.

MIAMI SHORES
AMERICA'S MEDITERRANEAN

Don't WISH, WORRY and WANT!

DON'T WISH you had been in Miami long ago. You would not have bought any of the sand dunes and palmettoes anyway.

DON'T WORRY about the fact that the opportunities of the past, that you have read about or heard about, have gone by. Probably you would not have recognized them, had you been here then.

DON'T WANT as a result of wishing and worrying—and because of missing TODAY'S opportunities by having your brain and your vision befuddled with regrets.

THINK OF THE MANY OPPORTUNITIES not only knocking at your door but literally staring you in the face today—and opportunities within your means—backed by a real metropolitan city, built upon a permanent and stable basis.

ACT—that's the word! Think out your plan, and then work your plan. Act along sane, sound investment principles, and watch Miami outstrip your fondest dreams in creating profits for you.

TO Win in the Greater Miami District, is to be on the side of the majority—for the majority in Miami are thinkers and doers. Miamians think and act—and it is an interesting fact that MIAMI SHORES is attracting many of those who have heretofore profited by investments in Miami, and who see in Miami Shores a replica of Miami, and a replica of the opportunities Miami presented a few years ago.

Follow the lead of investors of experience and success, and you will invest at Miami Shores!

OUT just far enough from the center of the great city of Miami for the creation of a new environment, lies Miami Shores—America's Mediterranean—with its broad acres being rapidly dotted with beautiful homes, hotels, apartment houses and business blocks.

Miami Shores' frontage of nearly six miles on upper Biscayne Bay from the very beginning insured success and distinction for this project. And the Shoreland Company is adding to the unquestioned value of this superb location by inaugurating a development program of a very high order.

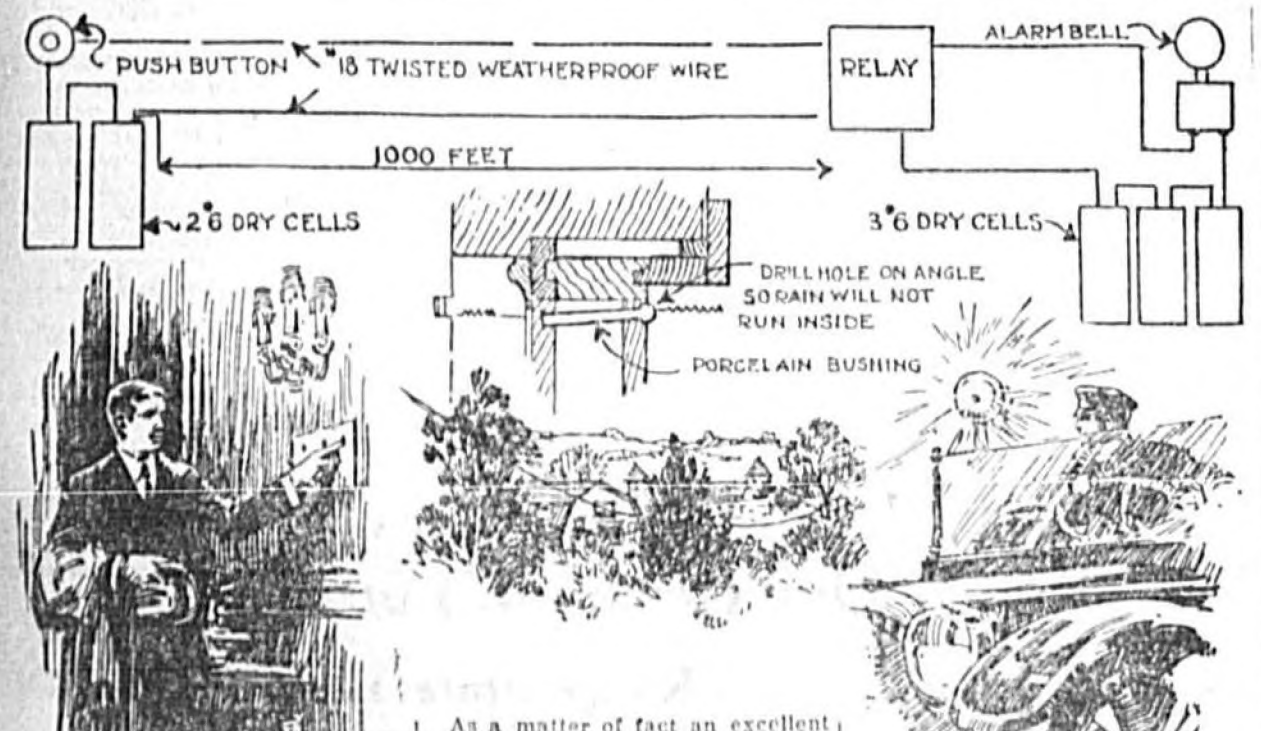

Miami Shores' great area of 2,800 acres makes possible the inclusion of many important features impossible in smaller projects. It will have two golf courses, one on the mainland and one on an island. There will also be a magnificent club house, lakes, inland waterways and a causeway to Miami Beach.

ECONOMICAL CALL BELL SYSTEM

As a matter of fact an excellent call bell system can be put into operation with five dry cells with but a little more expense than if the distance were 100 feet instead of 1000. A little device, known as a relay, solves the problem. It is sensitive enough to react to the slightest current and will close a second circuit in garage or barn which will in turn ring a bell with enough vehemence to awaken the steepest chauffeur or farm hand.

Appliances Required

The diagram above shows how it is done. All you need is the following: Five No. 6 dry cells; about 2000 feet of No. 23 twisted waterproof wire; a relay; a push button an alarm bell; two three inch porcelain bushings; a half dozen porcelain insulating knobs; and several dozen insulated staples. You will find all of these in any electrical supply house. Tell the electrical dealer your distance and number of cells used and he will tell you what size relay you need.

In making installation care should be taken that the wires leading into the house and into the garage or barn are not inserted in holes which slope inward and, hence, let in the rain. The diagram shows how the bushings should be tilted downwards toward the outside. In practically every window frame there is room at the top of the weight box where the bushings can be placed.

A glance at the diagram will show how the system works. Two dry cells in series supply just enough current, when the circuit is closed by pushing the button, to activate the sensitive relay 1000 yards away. The relay, in turn, closes the shorter circuit of three dry cells connected in series with the alarm bell. The bell will keep ringing as long as the button up at the house is being pushed.

WHEN you want the chauffeur and the garage is at the far end of the lot, there is an easy and economical call bell device you can install with a minimum of cost and labor, and which will save your voice. If you happen to be a farmer, and want to call the man from the barn, the same appliance can be used.

Most people hesitate to install a call bell controlled by a direct current, because the distance is great because of the erroneous impression that it takes two or more No. 6 cells as necessary and then decide against it because of the cost.

of the shooting and that he had used seven or ten "decks" of a narcotic between 7 and 9 o'clock on July 28.

Graphic descriptions of the shooting of Carter in his little restaurant were related by eye-witnesses who declared Disse went about the act with calm and deliberate swiftness. They agreed that Carter did not see the man who shot him. The restaurant man was leaning over with his back to the door they said, when the youth fired two bullets into his side. Coroner Broadnax testified either of the shots would have proved fatal.

THE WAR DEBT

When we got up so much enthusiasm in the big war we thought we had a right to have the world debt for democracy, but it looks like we have only made it worse for the big boys, and anyhow, the republicans are back in power, and John W. Davis can tell you how safe for democracy the world debt is.

But it certainly is time we were doing something to get our heads out of the 10 billion dollar, even if we have to hire a few Collier's weekly contributors.

Perhaps we could make some sort of settlements. France might agree to stop Paris from sending over so many fashions. That ought to square the French debt. Italy might promise to send us no more grand opera singers—a good settlement of the Italian debt. England could agree to keep her lectures at home. That would leave us owing England a slight balance. The other nations could just pay us the interest forever and let it go at that.

No action, no individual ought to go in debt, unless it's a man who wants to provide the health and happiness that an Essex automobile would give his family. That's different.

Yours,
BILL.

Will Ask Withdrawal of Tariff

At American Federation of Labor Will Make Request of Next Congress; Aid Being Sought

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Green, president of the Federation of Labor, announced Sunday night he would ask Congress to withdraw protection afforded textile manufacturers "who have indulged in a policy of reductions."

Green said he would carry out a policy of reductions.

Green said he would carry out a policy of reductions.

that the schedules in effect before the reduction, be restored.

Referring especially to condition in the New England textile centers, Green declared a recent wage reduction of 10 per cent was offered the employees in the Williamamantic district "in the face of the fact that stock dividends ranging from 50 to 2,000 per cent had been voted by certain textile companies."

He regarded the wage cut as "most unequal and indefensible" and declared evictions of men, women and children from company-owned houses and had been ordered to enforce the reductions.

Why not sell our goods there? Consider what a rich purchaser she is. It was Louisiana's destiny to become a great portal, not only for the South, but for the Nation. 2,000 miles of coast line; 4,700 miles of navigable rivers, the great Mississippi running the entire length of the State—these give her the outlets she needs for her multiplicity of products, and the inlets for ours. The waters of the great river have touched 26 States before they wash by the docks at New Orleans, the second port of the nation. They bear not only commerce, but the rich alluvial deposits that have made the famous delta lands. Corn, cotton, sugar cane and rice are produced in enormous quantities. 3,000,000,000 feet of lumber come from her forests each year.

The surface of her lands is so rich that Louisiana hardly dreamed that untold wealth lay beneath, yet her salt mines have produced $16,000,000 of wealth in twenty years. In a like time Louisiana has become the world's greatest producer of sulphur, $119,000,000 worth having been mined. Then came petroleum, 24,000,000 barrels a year and an annual production of 60 billion feet of natural gas.

All the farm crops are produced in abundance in a climate that gives year-round cultivation. No wonder that Louisiana's assessed property value has increased 100% in ten years. This vast market, this great store-house of wealth is close by. Our own products can be sold there without great cost for transportation. Louisiana furnishes rail facilities and a splendid road system for our salesmen. She has the money to purchase our products and provides the machinery whereby we can sell them.

Louisiana's newspapers offer a quick and convenient means of letting Louisiana know what we have to sell. Why not use them?

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY PEACE AND SAFETY:—Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee...

THE HEIGHT OF THE RIDICULOUS I wrote some lines once in a time In wondrous merry mood...

They were so queer, so very queer, I laughed as I would die; Albert, in the general way, As sober man am I.

I called my servant, and he came; How kind it was of him, To mind a slender man like me, He of the nighty lubin.

"These to the printer," I exclaimed, And, in my humorous way, I added (as a trifling jest), "There'll be the devil to pay."

He took the paper, and I watched, And saw him peep within; At first he read, his face Was all upon the grin.

He read the next; the grin grew broad, And shot from ear to ear; He read the third; a chuckling noise, I now began to hear.

The fourth; he broke into a roar; The fifth; his waistband split; The sixth; he burst five buttons off, And tumbled in a fit.

Ten days and nights, with sleepless eye, I watched that wretched man, And since, I never dare to write, As funny as I can.

It now develops that a Chicago gangster gave William D. Shephard seventy-five thousand dollars with which to fight the charge of murdering young McClinton. That Hour on the Back Porch

When you go out on your back porch in the morning and get your bottle of milk, how do you know that some cat or dog has not been licking the top of the bottle? Modern dairymen all over the country are spending thousands of dollars to protect their milk from disease germs.

What good does it do for the dairyman to exercise every precaution in safeguarding the purity of the milk if householders pour clean milk from a bottle whose mouth has become soiled? What of the dust and the dirt and the germs that settle on the brims of the milk bottle?

In 1924 the per capita consumption of fresh milk in homes amounted to two hundred and nineteen quarts, a little less than a quart each day. More than fifty-eight billion pounds of milk were used by manufacturers in making all sorts of good things such as milk chocolate ice cream, cheese, condensed and powdered milk.

A Chicago man named Tevander has perfected an ingenious hood and seal for milk bottles. Its use has already spread all over the country until more than nine hundred dairies are daily users of it. This hood not only keeps the milk in the bottle as does the little cap which has been so commonly used for years, but it covers the brim of the container and thoroughly protects it from the necessary handling of the milkman, the exposure to dust and dirt and contaminating contacts.

It is impossible to exercise too great care in matters of this kind where the health of our families and our communities are at stake. The Herald would like to see the dairies of Seminole county use the improved method of sealing their bottles and will be glad to furnish the name of the manufacturer to any who may be interested.

Necessary to Label Them

A person who does not intend coming to Florida must be so scarce in Atlanta that it is necessary to label him.

In its issue of August Eighth, the Atlanta Journal tells of the adoption of a sign by an Atlanta business club to be used not only by the members of the organization but by the general public of the city.

"I am not going to Florida, I believe in Atlanta," will appear on the automobiles of those Georgians living in the big city from where rumor has it thousands have started for this state. Seemingly alarmed at the rapidity with which their fellow townsmen are striking out for Florida points, the American Business Club at its luncheon a week ago urged the adoption of the booster slogan.

It was decided, according to the news story, to have a thousand of the signs printed which are to be given to members of the club and to the public. Distribution was scheduled to take place last Wednesday when representatives of the club were to be stationed at Five Points to place the cards on the Atlanta cars.

And all the time Florida continues to get free advertising from the Atlanta club. Every sign which appears on Atlanta cars telling that the occupants of the cars are not going to Florida, is giving this state of ours valuable publicity, but it seems as if those Atlantans don't realize it.

Some Florida club ought to send a contribution to that Atlanta club with the notation that it is to help pay for the publicity they have so freely given.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

This, in effect, is an explanation of why a rather well-known New York politician gave up free-hand drawing. Although without any artistic training, he rather fancied himself a pretty fair amateur sketch artist until a certain incident, which I am now about to relate, came to pass.

In company with a newspaper man he was touring Spain. One morning in Malaga the two Americans dropped into a little cafe for breakfast. They knew no Spanish and their waiter knew no English.

Largely by signs they made him understand that they wanted coffee and rolls practically constituted the breakfast menu of the establishment. But when the newspaper man decided that he wished also a glass of milk difficulties arose.

Singly and in chorus they pronounced the word "milk." Then they spelled it out. Then they shouted it loudly, as one always does, somehow, when using one's own language, one is dealing with a stranger who doesn't understand that language. The waiter merely shrugged his shoulders and spread his fingers in a gesture of helplessness.

The man who wanted milk imitated the action of one milking a cow, meanwhile moaning plaintively, and there, to round out the illustration, went through the pantomime of emptying an imaginary glass. Still the waiter stared at him uncomprehendingly.

"Hold on," said the politician, "I've got an idea. I can draw about as well as the next one. Lend me a pencil; it won't take a minute to make this fellow understand what you want."

DISTRUST

ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

All this talk about the brotherhood of man causes one to wonder if the foundations for such an idealistic relationship have yet been laid. It is a fact that the civilized world has long been laboring on those very foundations, but do they now stand completed?

From the evidence in the case the verdict must be that they are not. A brotherhood of man must be preceded by a universal faith in man. As long as individuals, nations and races can not—or at least do not—trust one another there can be no world brotherhood.

Mutual distrust seems as instinctive in man as in the jungle beast. The world war was a war of distrust and international fear. Nations maintain large armies and navies because they distrust their neighbors and men pass laws because they lack faith in

Miss Ederle's Chest Will Kill Something. Will Insects Conquer Us? BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

YOUR STRENGTH is in your lungs and heart. A French doctor, examining Miss Gertrude Ederle, marvelous young German-American swimming champion, is "astounded by her lung expansion."

THE YOUNG girl's powerful chest expands eight inches. The average strong man does not expand three inches. Because of this great lung expansion, many are betting that Miss Ederle will be the first woman to swim the Channel.

Every American wishes her success. And after this swim the young woman should marry some very intelligent man of about forty, with good character, clean blood, blue eyes, a dolicocephalic skull and a natural fondness for children.

IF MISS Ederle could give to the world such a son as Nancy Hanks created in Abraham Lincoln, or as "Bertha of the big feet" created when she bore the great Charlemagne, that would add more to her permanent fame than swimming the Channel or the Pacific Ocean.

THERE NOW exists a solid diamond trust, with branches in London and New York, controlling 95 per cent of the world's diamond production and absolutely controlling prices, but you need not fret about that. Diamonds are not necessities.

BUT THOSE that own the monopoly, the Baruta, Johannesburg, De Biers, Jagersfontein, and other great diamond mines, may worry some day. One of those German chemists, solemnly working in his laboratory, might upset the whole diamond business by making diamonds artificially. A perfume that once cost $500 a pound those German chemists produce from coal for $10 a pound.

MacMILLAN'S FLYING machines in the Arctic pass above lands never before seen by white men, if by any man. He describes towering peaks, rugged wastes. What wealth may be hidden below that frozen soil?

The Rockefeller's have proved that there is oil there. There may be gold, diamonds as well. For where the north pole is now, the tropics were once. This old earth gradually shifts its position as it rolls around the sun, like a fowl on the spit, turning all parts toward the heat.

THOUSANDS OF Englishmen, representing modern wealth, culture and refinement, are in Scotland, or on their way there, bent on killing something.

The something is grouse; the season is open. The first bird killed is sent to the King. Ten dollars a pair, ten times the usual price, is paid for the first birds brought in by flying machine.

A PLAGUE of butterflies, causing motor engines to become overheated, by clogging the radiators, suggests a gruesome possibility. If the insect tribes with their horrible fertility, should get out of control, they could fill the air, destroy all vegetation, starve, suffocate and devour the human race and all other animals.

Two specimens of a certain cabbage pest, if all their children lived for a dozen generations, would produce an insect mass bigger than the earth itself.

NATURE FORTUNATELY attends to these things. Even the insect plagues of Egypt sent to punish sin did not kill all Egyptians.

Insects kill each other off, just as the less intelligent tribes of human beings kill each other. Mankind can look down in security upon the insects as a handful of British kill down upon their 200,000,000 subjects in India. There, Mohammedans and Hindus kill each other, but don't unite to kill Englishmen.

A SCIENTIST says that the young people of today have become "motor car wise." By instinct they avoid automobiles and adapt themselves to traffic. Older people seem unable to learn.

Even chickens and dogs have learned something. They stay out of the road and are killed less frequently than they once were.

IT WOULD be good news if the young people of the generation would be "whisky wise" in addition to being motor wise.

During the next few years there will be more young people killed by whiskey than old people killed by automobiles.

IN BRITAIN, justice has long been within the reach of the poor man. The upper classes know it pays to keep the lower classes satisfied. They haven't discovered that yet, here.

In America it wouldn't pay a poor man to sue a railroad if he had a just claim for $5,000, for $5,000 wouldn't even pay for the legal fight. In England $5 would pay for it.

English judges now propose a "5 pound divorce case." Poor people entitled to a divorce will get it for a total cost under $25.

TUNING HER UP

Why Florida Values Will Be Justified

FT. LAUDERDALE NEWS

Commenting on the visit of a local banker to Florida on a business mission, the Charlotte Observer in a recent editorial said: "Being a banker, he got some facts about the increase in bank deposits and he was able to relate some amazing incidents along that line."

The building program is another development of consequence, for the contracts now under way run up into many millions. There is one development near Miami in which, alone, $75,000,000 is to be expended in erection of residences. Two carpenters were in a hurry two weeks ago. Pressed for explanation of their hurry they said they were wanting to get off that night "for Florida."

Of the 110,000,000 people in the United States, three-fourths of them live east of the Mississippi river. Of these three-fourths, millions have an ambition to own homes in Florida, if not all-year homes, then winter homes, and a good many millions of them can afford to. Nowhere else can they find such a wonderful climate of such productive soil, and with the added incentive of its easy accessibility, several millions of them are going to seek homes in Florida.

The only thing about the Observer's editorial to which anyone in Florida might take exception is to call the rush to Florida "madness," when we consider the amazing growth of the state and the eagerness of thousands of people all over the country to locate in Florida, and the fact that two to five million are expected to head this way during the approaching winter season, it is not surprising that the more conservative and said sections of the country should look on it as "madness."

Without the cordial backing of the locality it represents. In towns where merchants don't advertise much, and people borrow their newspaper copies of a neighbor, public notices do not give an attractive picture of the place when they circulate about the state.

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

FORT PIERCE NEWS-TRIBUNE

We never knew of a newspaper so yellow and sloppy and inaccurate that it did not have one good side, its interest in home betterment. It has become a fundamental tradition of the newspaper profession that it must give its cordial support to any proposition tending to advance the interest of the local community.

If the yellow newspaper feels this obligation, how much more does it rest on the heart of newspaper workers, who take a serious view of their obligation toward the community? Hence publishers and editors feel a keen desire for hearts to heart talks with their readers, to know what suggestions they can make as to lines of town betterment for which their journal might exert its influence.

We might, therefore, take this occasion to say that if any of our readers have suggestions to make tending to the upbuilding of our community, why not write us a letter for publication, or come in and talk it over?

As the relation between a community and the newspaper is a reciprocal one, so the newspaper can not accomplish the largest results without the cordial backing of the locality it represents.

Warnings, Friendly And Otherwise

PALATKA NEWS

In many of the smaller cities and towns, warnings are posted at the entrance to the corporate boundaries that the "Speed Limit is 12 Miles an Hour." How many motorists pay any attention to such signs? Not many, it's a safe bet. But consider the following and see if you don't believe they will convey the message: "Stop, look—and live."

"Look out; you may meet a foul around the corner." "Hold your course; you can hold your girl later."

"Look before you weep." "Slow up and see the city; speed up and see the jail."

"Roads are expensive; it costs friendship art, indeed, mighty few money to burn them up."

Together Again

Presenting Eddie Collins, manager of the Chicago White Sox and Dickie Kerr, left-handed hurler, of the same team. Kerr recently returned to the fold, after an absence of a few seasons following a disagreement over salary matters. Kerr was one of the heroes of the 1919 world series. Collins expects him to turn in some good games for the Pale Horse during the remainder of the campaign. Kerr is depicted on the left in the above photo.

Meusel Takes Two Bases on Bad Throw and Scores on Single by Lindstrom

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—New York turned back the Phillies Monday, 3 to 2, gaining 1-2 a game on the league leading Pirates. Meusel took two bases in the eighth on a wild peg to Huber, advanced to third while Perry was being thrown out at first and scored with the winning run on Lindstrom's single. Kent Greenfield held the visitors to six scattered hits. The victory placed New York within three games of Pittsburgh.

Greb Outclasses Burns In Benefit

DETROIT, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Solly Seaman, New York, knocked out Jimmy Brady of Detroit in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout here Monday night. They are junior lightweights. The match was the first of three 10-round contests, feature on the American Legion benefit card. Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, won from Tommy Burns, of Detroit, in their 10-round bout. Greb outclassed Burns throughout the entire match.

Marston Unlucky In His Quest For Amateur Laurels

OAKMONT, Pa., Aug. 18.—Maxwell R. Marston of Philadelphia became amateur golf champion of the United States in 1923 after eight years of competing in the event.

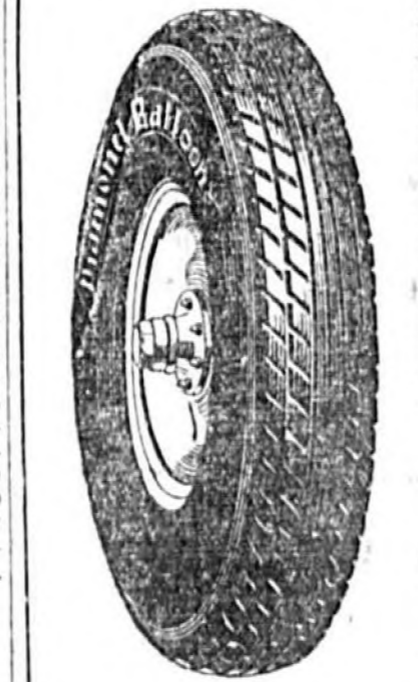

Today he is an uneasy factor in the coming championship at the Oakmont Country Club course. Marston is a most interesting linksman. There was a time when he used a long sweep of the club on the shortest pitches with remarkable accuracy but in recent years he has changed the style somewhat, until it more nearly approaches that of other golfers of note. Bob Gardner, veteran Chicagoan, has been Marston's nemesis in the search for the amateur crown, eliminating him in the early rounds and semi-finals three successive times. Last year at Merion he progressed to the semi-finals, putting out C. O. Hezlet, of Ireland, J. Wood Platt and Dexter Cummings on the way, but he played poorly against George Von Elm and was beaten, 7 and 6.

Helen Wills Begins Defense of Her Title

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Miss Helen Wills began the defense of her national tennis title successfully Monday, when she vanquished Mrs. Helen P. Falk, of New York, 6-2, 6-3, in the first round of the annual women's tournament.

Miss Kathleen McKane, former British champion and rival of Miss Wills, swept through her first match against Mrs. J. S. Taylor, of New York, 6-2 6-0.

BASEBALL BOOMS IN CUBA

HAVANA, Aug. 18.—(AP)—More than 1,000 amateur and professional ball teams easily put baseball in first place as the most popular sport in Cuba. The American national game, however, is not the only one that engages the attention of the youth of Cuba. All the larger social clubs have athletic teams including besides baseball, swimming, rowing, football, track, fencing and jai alai (Spanish handball).
