Fires rage through tourist spot

OLD FAITHFUL, Wyo. — Wind-driven wildfires roared through the Old Faithful attraction at Yellowstone National Park, gutting buildings on a rampage to the famed geyser itself and belching smoke across much of the Great Plains.

In Washington, D.C., Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., called for the resignation of the head of the National Park Service, who he blamed for failing to control wildfires that have destroyed about a third of the nation's oldest national park this summer.

Powder-dry lodgepole pines and propane tanks exploded and flames turned the sky a reddish yellow as 50-mph winds drove the 142,000-acre North Fork wildfire the last quarter mile into the Old Faithful complex Wednesday.

AL East race grows tighter

The race for the American League Eastern Division pennant, suddenly a four-team affair, got even tighter Wednesday night.

The Boston Red Sox, who overtook Detroit for the top spot earlier this week, dropped a 4-3 decision to the lowly Baltimore Orioles.

While the Sox were struggling with the last-place team, the Tigers were enjoying a 4-3 victory over Toronto, thanks to a ninth-inning pinch-hit single by Alan Trammell, as Sparky Anderson's team pulled within one game of Boston.

The varsity ran its record to 2-0 for the year with a 15-10, 15-13 victory while the JV picked up its first victory for new coach Patty Voltoline with a 15-11, 15-12 decision.

Local lady takes jackpot

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A feisty woman of Irish descent who left her native New York for Florida 13 years ago became a multimillionaire Wednesday when she produced the winning ticket for a record $55.1 million lottery jackpot.

"I've had three firsts today," said Sheelah Ryan, a realtor from Winter Springs. "It has been my first plane ride, Number two, this is my first press conference. And number three, this is the first time I've ever won $55 million."

Ryan won the largest lottery jackpot in North American history after her six winning numbers were drawn last Saturday. She will collect $2,767,361 a year after taxes for the next 20 years.

Ryan declined to give much information about her background, but said she has no children and is not married.

She received congratulations and a mock-up of her first check — which she will get next Wednesday — from Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul, then charmed reporters and lottery department employees packed into a crowded news conference with her humor and quick wit.

Ryan, who said she is 5'4" tall, was dwarfed by a forest of microphones at the conference room podium, much to the chagrin of a number of television camera operators who said she was being hidden by the electronic equipment.

She quickly solved the problem by agreeing to stand on a television camera carrying case.

Ryan, who would not give her age, said she used her local newspaper to beat the 13.8 million-1 odds against picking a winning number.

Ryan said she wrote down the first six numbers she saw in last Friday's editions of a newspaper, then went to a grocery store in nearby Longwood and bought five $1 tickets, including one bearing the six lucky numbers.

Ryan learned she was rich when she saw the televised Saturday night drawing. When she realized she had won, Ryan said, "I sat holding my head in my hands for about an hour saying, 'Oh, my god.'"

Ryan contacted her lawyers, Evelyn Cloninger and James Files, the following morning. On their advice, Ryan did not discuss her ticket with anyone until lottery department officials could be contacted Tuesday morning, after the long Labor Day weekend.

Ryan said she has been too overwhelmed by winning to give any real thought to what she will do with the money. She said she has not decided whether to quit her job with Bowles Realty of Winter Park.

"My immediate plans are to go home and get my first good night's sleep in four days," she said.

Ryan said she will continue to buy five lottery tickets a week — at the same grocery store where she purchased the winning ticket.

Also Wednesday, Paul and Lottery Department general counsel Tom Bell said the department is considering pressing charges against Charles Hill, a Liberty County school janitor who gave a Xerox copy of what he claimed was the winning ticket to department officials Wednesday morning.

Bell said the copy showed a ticket that had the winner numbers, but that the numbers were not in the correct order — Lotto tickets are always printed in ascending order, with the lowest number first.

Bell would not say if he thought Hill had deliberately tried to forge a winning ticket. Forging a lottery ticket is a third-degree felony.

Hill used the Xerox copy to obtain credit and enter agreements to purchase vans from two Panhandle automobile dealers on Tuesday.

Paul said when Hill arrived in Tallahassee and was asked to produce the original ticket, he showed lottery officials the copy and said the original "blew out of his car window" earlier the day while he was en route to claim his winnings.

WINTER SPRINGS — Neighbors of real estate salesman Sheela Ryan of 390 Hacienda Village became instant celebrities Wednesday afternoon as members of the media descended on them eager for tidbits on the record lottery winner.

Ryan was in Tallahassee for the big announcement, which followed four days of speculation and rumors after it was divulged that the winning ticket was purchased at an undisclosed Longwood store.

James and Nancy Damron, who live across the street from Ryan's modest double-wide mobile home, were the only ones in the

Mock shuttle countdown goes well

United Press International

Commander Frederick Hauck

CAPE CANAVERAL — The crew of the shuttle Discovery, decked out in bright orange spacesuits, climbed into the ship's cockpit today and carefully worked through a final practice countdown in preparation for launch in about three weeks.

With commander Frederick Hauck and copilot Richard Covey at the controls in Discovery's cockpit, the "terminal countdown demonstration test," or TCDT, ticked down to a make-believe launch abort at 10:33 a.m. EDT, about 30 minutes late because of minor problems with the crew's communication gear.

"Everything appears to have gone quite well in the final seconds of the countdown," said NASA spokesman Hugh Harris.

Hauck, Covey and their crewmates — George "Pinky" Nelson, David Hilmers and John "Mike" Lounge — began climbing aboard Discovery shortly before 8 a.m. It was the first time since the Challenger disaster 31 months ago that a crew has strapped into an operational space shuttle.

The only apparent problem in the otherwise smooth countdown, which included several short "holds" for various safety tests, was an annoying echo in the crew's communication equipment that required trouble-shooting.

"I hope that's not the way we're going to fly," Hauck radioed launch control.

The rest of the rehearsal countdown went relatively smoothly, ending at the T-minus. See Shuttle, Page 5A

Glitch hits Southern Bell system

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — "Hello, What city please?"

These familiar words of directory assistance operators went unheard this morning when a malfunction caused a breakdown in Southern Bell's system. 411 callers instead heard an operator explain that there was a malfunction in the system. Between the hours of 5:30 and 8:50 a.m., directory assistance in the 407 and 305 area codes was non-functional.

Larry Strickler, area manager of Southern Bell, said he was alerted to the problem when Kathleen Maloney, news director of WABC radio in New York, asked for a statement as to why the system was malfunctioning. Maloney used directory assistance services to obtain the number of the Lotto jackpot winner, Sheelah Maureen Ryan of Winter Springs.

When contacted in New York, Maloney said they wanted Ryan as a guest on their morning radio talk show, "News Talk with Dave Dawson," which airs between 6 a.m. and 9 a.m.

"Initially they telephone workers were annoyed that I was asking them what was wrong. They told me to call back in one-half hour. They said, 'We're having problems now,'" Maloney said.

Maloney said about one and one-half hours later, Strickler contacted her. "He was very, very nice," she said.

Strickler said he called Maloney back at about 7 or 8 a.m. "I told her we did have some sort of equipment malfunction which didn't allow us to access the computer information and that we were working on the problem."

The Southern Bell company handles 240,000 directory assistance calls a day and services more than one million people in the eastern half of Florida and the Keys.

The malfunction "affected people in Central Florida dialing 411 and anyone in the world trying the 305 and 407 area codes," Strickler said.

Strickler said they still don't know exactly what caused the problem.

Massachusetts declares strike illegal

Leaders of 400 Massachusetts teachers vowed to remain on the picket line today despite a state back-to-work order as strikes by teachers in six states disrupted the start of the school year for more than 100,000 students.

The Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission ordered the 400 striking teachers back to work after finding Wednesday night that the walkout violated a state law against strikes by public employees, spokeswoman Anne DeSouza said. She said if teachers did not return, the commission would pass the order on to Superior Court for consideration.

Across the nation, 7,506 teachers were on strike, idling 115,450 students in Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Yonkers forced to fire city employees

YONKERS, N.Y. — The embattled city of Yonkers will begin laying off a quarter of its municipal workforce under a "doomsday budget" devised to satisfy fines that will total $1 million a day by week's end.

Mayor Nicholas Wasteloski called a special meeting of the Yonkers City Council for today in an apparent attempt to get just one councilman to change his mind on a court-ordered housing desegregation plan.

Four defiant councilmen have refused to budge in their opposition to the desegregation plan, causing a U.S. district judge to impose escalating fines that will reach $1 million a day by Friday and bankrupt the city by Thanksgiving.

Farthest drilling begins off Arctic shore

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Amoco Production Co. and eight oil company partners have started drilling for oil some 50 miles north of Alaska in what the government describes as the farthest offshore drilling in the American Arctic.

Amoco began drilling in waters so clogged with ice that the ship it uses to study the effects of drilling had to be rescued this week by a Coast Guard icebreaker.

"It is the farthest offshore in the Beaufort Sea," said Robin Casey of the federal Minerals Management Service that leased the tract to Amoco for exploration.

Junk bond sellers face criminal probe

United Press International

NEW YORK — Junk bond king Michael Milken and multimillionaire Victor Posner, charged with insider trading in the Securities and Exchange Commission's civil suit focusing on Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., face a parallel criminal probe that could land them in federal prison.

A previous investigation led to the indictment, conviction and a prison term for financier Ivan Boesky, who sources say cooperated with the SEC's probe and provided information that contributed to the massive suit filed Wednesday.

The 184-page complaint, filed in U.S. District Court in Manhattan, also named three other Drexel employees and Posner's son. It said Drexel and Milken had a secret arrangement with Boesky that involved at least 16 series of stock transactions that violated securities laws.

Sen. Donald Riegel, D-Mich., chairman of the Securities Subcommittee, said in Washington that SEC Chairman David Ruder told him "the value of the fraud exceeds $100 million."

SEC lawyer Tom Newkirk said the commission declined to put a dollar figure on the scheme's profits because the amount is subject to interpretation.

Drexel, whose $2 billion in capital ranks it second among privately held U.S. securities firms, heads the complaint citing insider trading, stock manipulation, fraud against Drexel's clients and concealing true stock ownership.

Drexel has been the target of SEC and federal grand jury investigations since Boesky im-

"The value of the fraud exceeds $100 million."

— Sen. Donald Riegel

pleated the firm nearly two years ago when he admitted his role in the largest insider trading scandal in history.

U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani, who oversaw the Boesky case, is pursuing a criminal investigation related to the SEC suit, sources said.

Milken, the 42-year-old senior executive vice president of Drexel's junk bond department, and Drexel Chief Executive Officer Fredrick Joseph said they expect to be fully vindicated.

In June Drexel said it might be charged and noted the SEC probe was based on "the accusations of Ivan Boesky, a convicted felon and admitted liar."

Boesky was Wall Street's richest speculator when in November 1986 he agreed to pay a record $100 million to settle insider trading charges. In April 1977 he pleaded guilty to conspiring to violate federal securities laws.

Boesky's penalty grew out of the SEC's investigation of former Drexel executive Dennis Levine, who pleaded guilty to insider trading in 1986. He was sentenced to two years in prison and paid $11.6 million in penalties.

Boesky was barred from the securities industry for life and sentenced to three years in prison. Before beginning his sentence in March, he cooperated for months with the government by recording meetings with associates.

The SEC suit seeks an injunction requiring defendants to conform to SEC laws and ordering them to give up illicit profits. The defendants also are subject to a triple penalty on these profits and loss of their licenses.

"The court may formulate other relief as well when the case is finally resolved to make sure that this doesn't happen again," said John Sterk, an SEC enforcement official, who declined to elaborate.

From early 1984 through late 1986, Drexel, Milken, his brother, Lowell, and another Drexel employee, Gary Mautbasch, used Boesky and his various organizations as "fronts" for Drexel in a wide variety of securities transactions, the complaint said.

Milken is employed at Drexel's Beverly Hills, Calif., office which last year accounted for about 25 percent of the firm's earnings. His personal wealth was valued at $600 million. Lowell Milken works for his brother, and Mautbasch is a senior trader in Drexel's New York office under Milken's direction.

Lowell Milken denied any wrongdoing. In Miami, a spokeswoman for Posner, who pleaded guilty to tax fraud in September stemming from a Miami land deal, declined comment. He was sentenced to 5,000 hours of community service and ordered to contribute $3 million to the homeless.

The complaint alleges that in at least two transactions not involving Boesky, Drexel and Milken traded on inside information unavailable to the public. Posner and his son, Steven, arranged to have Boesky trade for them and failed to disclose ownership of shares, it said.

Victor Posner has been president and chairman of several companies including Pennsylvania Engineering Corp., which also is a defendant. His sons are the company's director.

Under the pact with Boesky, the suit said, Milken, his brother, Mautbasch, and Pamela Monzert — a trader under Milken at Drexel's Beverly Hills office — directed Boesky-controlled companies to buy, sell, or hold securities in which "Drexel retained a secret beneficial ownership interest."

Reagan offers mini-summit for Israel, Egypt

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's offer to meet with foreign ministers of Egypt and Israel this month would provide a mini-summit for a possible break in Middle East disputes, administration and diplomatic sources say.

U.S. officials confirmed Wednesday that Reagan invited the foreign ministers to meet with him and Secretary of State George Shultz in New York Sept. 20.

The meeting would come against the backdrop of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's refusal to discuss territorial concessions or to deal with the Palestine Liberation Organization and Jordan's refusal to speak for the Palestinians. Officials in all three countries regard the prospects as dim.

Further complicating the matter are U.S. and Israeli November elections, which would appear to rule out any sharp change in Middle East policy by either country for the next two months.

One diplomatic official, speaking like the other sources on the condition of anonymity, confirmed the invitations to Egypt and Israel but said, "We expect the announcement to come from the White House."

Garrison stuns Navratilova

United Press International

NEW YORK — The year that Martina Navratilova wants to forget will be one that Zina Garrison always remembers.

The loser of all 21 previous matches against Navratilova, Garrison overcame the U.S. Open defending champion 6-4, 6-7 (3-7), 7-5 Wednesday and advanced to the semifinals despite squandering a 5-0 lead in the second set.

For the first year since 1980, Navratilova will not win a major singles title.

"If this year were a fish, I would throw it back to me," she said.

Garrison, seeded 11th, will play No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini on Friday. In the other semifinal, No. 3 Chris Evert faces No. 1 Steffi Graf, who is seeking to complete the first Grand Slam since 1970.

The 19-year-old West German was the only singles player on Wednesday never to be threatened, as she disposed of No. 14 Katriona Maleva 6-3, 6-0 for her 33rd consecutive match victory.

Evert and Sabatini both rallied from first-set losses and second-set deficits. In the men's draw, No. 2 Mats Wilander also dropped the first set to Emilio Sanchez, but won a second-set tiebreaker and took 12 of the last 16 games, winning 3-6, 7-6 (8-6), 6-0, 6-4.

The Swede will meet Australian Darren Cahill, who downed American Aaron Krickstein in five sets and became the first unseeded player to reach the semifinals since Johan Krick in 1980.

"I feel I belong here, I've earned it," said Cahill, whose 6-2, 5-7, 7-6 (7-2), 5-7, 6-3 victory marked the first time Krickstein had lost in seven five-set matches at the Open.

In the other half of the men's draw, No. 1 Ivan Lendl will play unseeded Derrick Rostagno and No. 4 Andre Agassi meets No. 6 Jimmy Connors in today's quarterfinal matches.

Garrison needed six match points to put away Navratilova, the winner of four U.S. Opens. Garrison failed on four match points in the second set and lost a fifth match point in the third before hitting an ace and a forehand volley winner to end the 2-hour, 33-minute match.

"I kept thinking, 'this is going to slip away, it's going to slip away,'" recalled Garrison.

"It could have been 22-0 but now I have a 'One' behind it and it feels really good," said the 24-year-old, who jumped in the air three times, arms aloft, after the final point.

Garrison had been the overwhelming favorite of the stadium-court crowd and said the cheers were essential to her triumph.

"I told myself I was just going to ride the crowd and go with it," said Garrison. "Usually I get down on myself, talking to myself, but she saw I was going to stay in it."

"I've been working really hard. I just kept telling myself that I deserved this one, this time," said the Houston, Texas native.

In the third set, Navratilova lost her serve in the fifth game, broke back in the 10th but was in turn broken in the following game when Garrison stroked a forehand winner.

"I had to come back over and over, and when I got ahead I blew it," said Navratilova, who failed to reach the Open semifinals for the first time since 1982, when she lost in the quarterfinals to Pam Shriver. "I kept coming back to the well and the well ran dry."

Evert, a six-time Open champion, trailed in each of the last two sets before overcoming the elder Maleva sister, Manuela, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

"All match I was trying to find my form," Evert said after downing the No. 6 seed. "It was a struggle."

LAKE MARY — Terri Peters and Tammy Scott led the Lake Mary Lady Rams to an impressive 15-5, 15-9 victory over DeLand Wednesday night in Seminole Athletic Center...

Scott finished the night with a total of five kills and came up with a number of big plays for the Lady Rams. Peters gave Lake Mary power on the serve and added some experience in the lineup.

"I was very pleased with the way we played tonight," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said.

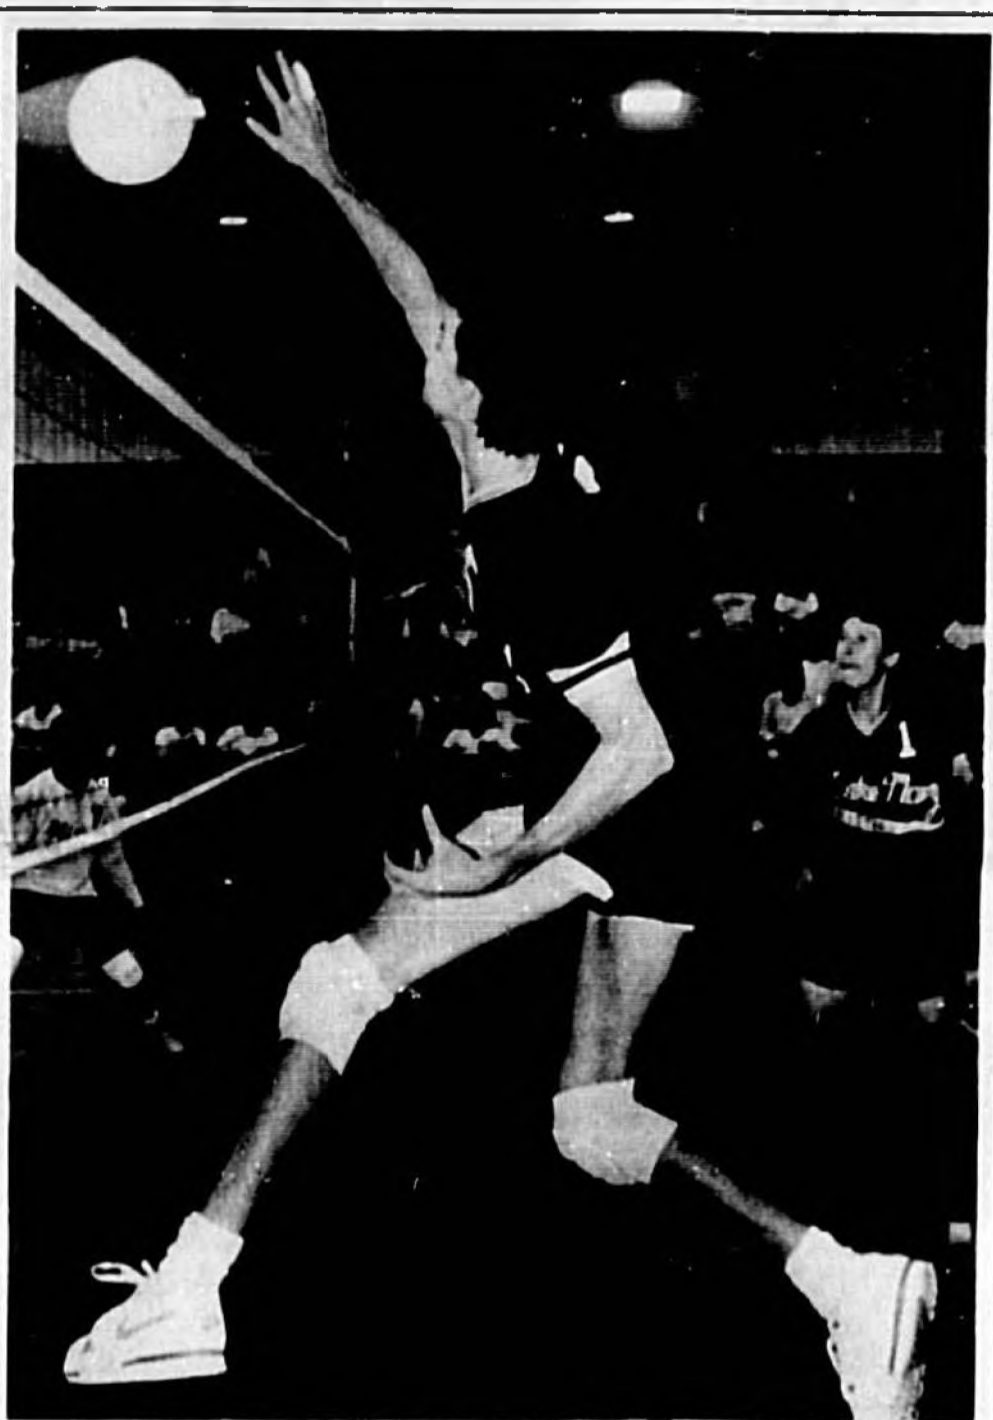

"We have a very steady emotion out on the floor, everyone goes with the flow and that really helps. I didn't have to raise my voice once tonight which is a big difference from last year."

DeLand opened the scoring in the first match with a pair of points off the serve of Mary Ford. Scott, though, managed to get a side out for the Lady Rams with her first kill of the night.

Peters cut the score to 2-1 before the Lady Bulldogs. Melissa Sing upped the lead to 3-1. After each team scored a single point, freshman Tara Calvin reeled off six straight service points to give Lake Mary an 8-4 lead and control of the match.

Renee Bellamy cut the lead to 8-5 before Peters upped the lead to 9-5. The Lady Rams came up with a service break and Farah Mirza served the final six points of the opening.

After four of his top five runners graduated, you might think Mike Gibson's Lake Mary Lady Rams were demotivated as far as 1988 was concerned.

However, with a couple key returnees, a good group of freshman runners and one outstanding transfer, the Lady Rams will be out to repeat or better their performance of a year ago — which was a fifth place finish at the Class 4A State Championships.

Lake Mary opens its season today at the Titusville Astronaut Invitational. The meet begins with girls junior varsity at 5 p.m.

"We're a lot stronger up front this year," Gibson said. "We have two outstanding runners who could be two of the top runners in this area. I think we'll hold our own in the beginning and we hope to place in the top 10 at Titusville."

Leading the way for the Lady Rams in '88 is junior Allison Snell.

DEAR READER: Mitral valve prolapse is a common condition in adult women and is marked by a loosening or floppiness of a portion of the mitral valve in the heart.

In some patients, MVP is associated with recurrent attacks of rapid heart rate. This is usually an annoying nuisance that stops as abruptly as it begins.

Many patients feel more comfortable taking medicine that will prevent the fast-heart episodes of MVP. One of the most effective classes of drugs for this purpose is the beta-blockers...

DEAR DR. GOTT: How do I go about getting a copy of my medical records? I don't feel that my doctor is telling me everything.

DEAR READER: First of all, find an ophthalmologist who is more sympathetic to your predicament.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
No doubt many of you fell asleep while trying to follow the bidding of today's deal. The auction, which appears in "Murder at the Bridge Table," represents author Matt Granovetter's tongue-in-cheek lampooning of super-scientific bidding methods...

made his grand slam, but not without travail. He won the opening trump lead and immediately rattled off six rounds of spades, discarding a diamond and a club from dummy.

HOROSCOPE

What the day will bring...
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you have a shrewd eye where bargains are concerned, but today you might be taken in by the packaging and overlook the substance.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Companions might be inclined to tell you what you'd like to hear today rather than give you a frank opinion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might not make the most of your opportunities today, especially if they happen to be of a financial nature.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Important matters pertaining to your family should be guided by your own hand today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be optimistic regarding financial matters today. However, don't let your expectations get out of control to the point to where you think you'll get more than conditions warrant.

This little piggy won't go to market

Amazing oinker is beating odds

By BRIAN HEDBERG
Herald People editor

OSTEEN — Smidget the Pig has the guarantee of a long life, at least from becoming a breakfast entree. And the runt's owners are praying that their miracle piglet will survive, despite a grim prognosis by their veterinarian.

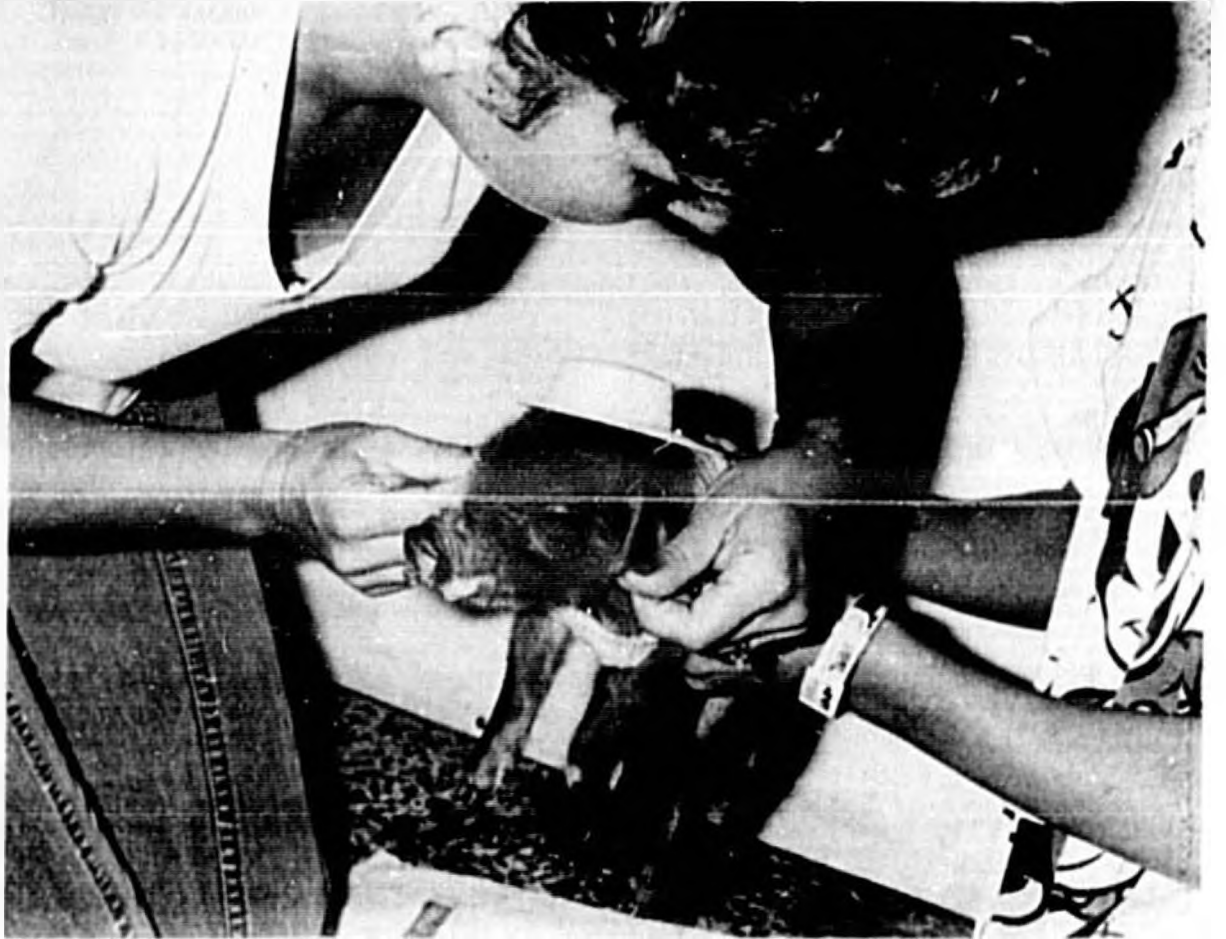

Already Smidget has "died" three times, proclaims owner Cindy Reiley of Osteen. That distinction has propelled the piglet, nearly two weeks old, into fame among those in Reiley's community.

The tale of Smidget begins at Oak Hammock Farms, a breeders farm in Lake Ashby, where a blue-ribbon sow named Copper Penny gave birth Aug. 28 to a litter of 11. One little piggy, the last-born of its siblings, was stunted, didn't learn to snout around for its food and so couldn't nurse.

By the sixth day of its life, the weakening runt was given up for dead by farm owners Bob and Jeanne Constable. With chickens, rabbits, ducks, pigs, cows, guinea, geese, goats and a bottled calf to tend to, there was no time for the time-consuming one-on-one attention the runt needed to survive, if survival even was possible. So Mrs. Constable gave the runt towel-wrapped to Reiley, who is always one for the underdog and had hope for the runt.

The instructions were stringent: "Smidget," as the runt became known for her size, would have to be fed every 3-5 minutes and kept very warm. After those regimented feedings, Smidget began to get a little ruddiness in her cheeks and stumble around.

Her health plummeted again with a plunge in temperature that night. Smidget developed scours, was losing crucial nutrients and was laying "helpless and lifeless." Reiley said. Before dawn, Reiley called the Constables for advice. Smidget was given antibiotics and iron. That evening Smidget again was on her tiny hooves and walking.

The next day, however, Smidget again laid down to die, Reiley said. "Thank God, Rena Brewster, an LPN, was on hand," she said. The Orlando General Hospital nurse administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation to Smidget. The runt stood, shook her head and oinked for her bottle.

Nowadays, Smidget is healthy enough to sleep in bed with Reiley and her husband Don. "My husband said when she reaches 400 pounds, she's moving out of the bed," Reiley smiled.

Reiley could tell you stories that would curl your tail. Like how her husband spent four hours one night hunting for premie diapers. Or how people on the street ask Reiley, "Let me see your baby" and gasp once the covering towel is removed.

In one week's time, Smidget has doubled in size. "The vet doesn't think she's going to make it," Reiley said. "He says no, I say yes. She's getting stronger every day." As of Wednesday, Smidget had developed a case of pneumonia, but Reiley continues to pray.

An outpouring of aid has come from those who've met the piglet—money (which Reiley won't accept), fresh towels, sodas, toys. And "everybody has to give her a hug," Reiley said.

The vet also says Smidget will remain undersized for a long while, to which Reiley grudgingly assents.

With two children in their teens, Reiley feels her motherly instincts coming out again, although Smidget carries no family resemblance. In fact, the furry, dark red-brown runt is often mistaken for a puppy. "But she's our baby. She'll always live in our home and be a pet. She'll never be eaten," Reiley said.

There are pigs and then there are pigs. On her family's 4-acre mini-farm, Reiley is raising three porkers to dine on this winter. Smidget, however, is special. "She's already smarter than my dog," Reiley said.

If Reiley's story sounds similar to E. B. White's book Charlotte's Web, it is. In that fictional tale, a piglet named Wilbur is saved from the frying pan by the belief that he inspires a spider to spin words in English on its web. Smidget may not live up to Wilbur's legend, but she's sure the apple of Osteen's eye.

The runt's favorite color is pink. Reiley knows because Smidget squeals and squirms when she is dressed in blue or white, but grows calm once in pink outfits.

The next episode in Smidget's saga? Potty training.

Living Will bequeaths repose

DEAR ABBY: Please send me any information you have on how to obtain a Living Will.

My elderly grandmother died recently, and it was a terrible ordeal for her and the family. She had been hooked up to a respirator after we were told there was no hope for her recovery. Her physician told us that he had to put her on the machine because she had not signed a Living Will.

We knew that she did not want to be kept alive that way, because our father had also been hooked up to a respirator after he had been pronounced brain dead.

Please help me. They people I have talked to here told me they have heard of the Living Will, but nobody knows how to obtain one. Thank you.

MRS. MALONE KIMBRELL, TRUSSVILLE, ALA.

DEAR MRS. KIMBRELL: The Living Will is a document stating to my family physician and hospital caretakers should the time come when it is medically confirmed that there is no hope for my recovery. I direct that I be allowed to die naturally, receiving only the administration of comfort care. I do not wish to have my life prolonged by artificial means. Should I become unable to participate in decisions regarding my medical treatment, it is my intention that my wishes be honored by my family and physician.

Copies of this document should be given to your physician, clergyman and lawyer, and to as many close family members and friends as you wish.

To obtain a Living Will, write to: The Society for the Right to Die, 250 W. 57th St., Suite 323, New York, N.Y. 10107.

The Society for the Right to Die is a non-profit organization. There is no charge for the Living Will, but a donation to cover the cost of the document and the mailing is appreciated.

I sent $10 for three documents to give to my physician, my lawyer and a family member. It was the best investment in peace of mind I've ever made.

DEAR CHRIS: There are no "dumb" questions in my book, so please, don't apologize. Leap year is a year in which there are 366 days, instead of 365. It occurs every four years. The extra day is added to the month of February, giving it 29 days instead of the usual 28 days.
