

WILBUR MAY CABINET IT IS NOW

Resignation of Member Unless Wants to Quit

Likely to Stay in Also Weeks, May Leave

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—President Coolidge will not resign of the members of cabinet after March 4 unless something unexpected happens to change his mind. It is now understood that he will remain in office, except Secretary of War, who will become Secretary of the Interior, if he remains where he is desired.

Members of the cabinet expressed a desire to quit, leaving here for a trip to the Secretary of Labor and friends he would give cabinet post for private but the President recently expressed the hope that he would continue as head of the department.

Secretary of War Wilbur May is known for several years as he seriously considers for a rest. He has been in the almost since he was to the board of aldermen in Mass., in 1900. He resigned Friday, however, that he would hold on during a portion of the next administration.

Wilbur May Go. It is some talk of a promotion to the supreme court for Secretary of War in the event of a resignation. McKenna resigned. He is liked him and his work hard and believes that he will be the best man for the job. He has not intimated one that he would name Secretary of Justice, but there is favorable speculation on the matter here.

Of five men have been mentioned for the vacancy to be created by resignation of Secretary of War. It is asserted by some of his friends that he is to pick a good man without "real dirt" agriculture, whom Slomp, secretary to the President, can remain at his post if he sees fit to do so. He is to work Sept. 4, 1923, and believed he will go over into the administration as far as possible. He is to go between the President and the Congress; he has bronzed out places for the White House. Mr. Slomp's intimates will return to his private life before Mr. Coolidge's term. He has coal mines and other things that have made him a rich man.

ADVANCE IN MAIL RATE IS OPPOSED BY TRADE PAPERS

Publishers Declare Congress Should Decrease Instead of Increasing 2nd Class Rates; Complaints Heard

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Publishers of trade papers, appearing Friday before the congressional committee which is conducting hearings on the administration postal rate increase bill, opposed any advance in second class mail rates. They asserted that congress, instead of advancing them, should take steps to adjust downward the second class rates, which were increased in 1918 as a war measure.

George C. Lucas, director of transportation for the Publishers Association argued that the second class mail matter was unjustly charged in the postoffice department's cost statement report with certain allocations for overhead expenses and for the city and rural free delivery.

Assuming that the government should get its revenue largely through the parcel post by congress at the last session, Mr. Lucas suggested a 5 per cent service charge on each parcel post package. Although established for the benefit of the farmer, he said, the cost ascertainment report showed that less than 10 per cent of the parcel post service was so employed, and he argued that a service charge, therefore would not be a burden on that class of mail users.

Mr. Lucas and other witnesses argued against what they characterized as the speed with which the bill is being considered. Jesse H. Neal, appearing for the Associated Business Papers, told the committee that the procedure was unprecedented, except in the case of war emergency legislation. Disarrangement of the postal service and unfair distribution of any necessary revenue increases must be an inevitable result of such speed, Mr. Neal said, and with other witnesses entered a vigorous protest against what was termed an inadequate infor study of the cost increasing reform.

Charles F. Jenkins, urged that congress abolish the zone system of charges on second class mail matter. He also argued that without any increase in rates the post office department would be able to absorb the $68,000,000 increase in salaries for postal employees approved by congress at the last session and vetoed by President Coolidge.

NAVAL REPORT WILL BE READY IN SHORT TIME

Secretary of Navy Begins Preparation Statement Asked For By Committee Probing Affairs of The Navy

Gun Elevation Was Main Question Asked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Secretary Wilbur began work Friday on a statement he will make to the senate naval committee Monday when it takes up the appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year. Chairman Hale of the committee has submitted to Mr. Wilbur a list of questions of which committee members desire information. The secretary did not indicate today what specific points he would cover.

The question of providing the funds to carry out this work is still before the budget director and the appropriation bill now before the senate naval committee has to do with the ordinary expenditures for the navy in the fiscal year 1925-26.

There have been intimations that the senate committee proposed to inquire particularly on the question of gun elevations. Secretary Wilbur would not say, however, whether the question he had received touched on this subject.

Mr. Wilbur took occasion Friday to look up records of the naval battle off Santiago and the logs of certain ships engaged in the fighting along the Cuban coast in 1898 in order to verify a recollection he had that American ships at that time had been listed in order to increase the range of their guns, a procedure which has been experimented with recently by both the British and American navies. He found that the battleship Indiana, on July 11, after the naval engagement and while endeavoring to bombard the city of Santiago over a high bluff, and swung her two main battery turrets to ship several degrees and added to the offshore side which listed the elevation of her eight inch secondary battery on the starboard side.

Mr. Wilbur also found in old American and British scientific magazines, comparisons of the American and Spanish navies made before war was declared between those two countries. The "experts" of that day, he discovered, held the two navies to be relatively equal in strength as far as their ships were concerned although the Spanish navy at that time consisted largely of heavy armored fast cruisers, while the American navy included a far larger proportion of battleships. The secretary made no comment in connection with his explorations into the old records, saying he had looked up these matters only to verify his own recollections.

Ireland Takes First Step To Prohibition

DUBLIN, Dec. 26.—The Free State government's bill to regulate the sale of drink has passed the senate. Among other things it restricts the hours of sale to 13 a day and puts clubs of all classes on the same footing as ordinary drink saloons as far as the serving of liquor is concerned.

An interesting provision of the new law is the standardizing of the size of porter bottles. These bottles formerly averaged 12 to 16 gallons, but many publicans, while charging the same price per bottle, have recently been putting a gallon into 16 bottles. This is the government's first attempt at promoting temperance. Its next move, it is announced, will be to diminish the number of drink shops.

APPOINTMENT OF FEDERAL JUDGES TO BE MADE SOON

Problem of Picking Jurists in Several States Is Now Virtually Solved; List To Go to Congress During January

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Problems presented in appointment of federal judges in the Sixth and Seventh circuits of the court of appeals and in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio have been virtually solved by President Coolidge, and nominations covering the appointments will be sent to the senate soon after the Christmas recess of congress.

Final recommendations in several of the cases have not been made by the department of justice, but decision has practically been reached in all of them, some of which have been pending for more than a year. They will represent the largest single group of judgeships filled by Mr. Coolidge since he became president.

The judgeships to be filled and the appointments as now contemplated are: Court of appeals, Sixth circuit, embracing Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan—Federal District Judge Charles H. Moorman of Kentucky to fill the place of Judge L. E. Knappen of Michigan, who has retired.

Election of Federal District Judge Moorman, who was appointed to the federal bench only little more than a year ago, will settle a sharp fight over the vacancy in the Sixth circuit. Candidates for the place were presented by all the states covered by the circuit, but after several months of consideration President Coolidge decided that Kentucky having had no representatives on that bench since the circuit was created was entitled to the place. Several candidates were offered by Kentucky, including Chief Justice Flen E. Sampson, of the state's highest court, but the endorsement of Senator Ernst, the Republican senator from that state, finally was given to Judge Moorman.

Mr. Dawson who is slated to succeed Judge Moorman on the district bench is a former attorney general of Kentucky and was the Republican nominee for governor two years ago.

BEST BUSINESS OF YEARS HAD BY MERCHANTS

Christmas Rush Brings Best Of Trade Past Several Seasons; Stores Report Increases High as 50 Per Cent

Prosperity Is Shared By All Shopkeepers

Entire Satisfaction With Regard to Christmas Season Is Reported By All Stores

Business during the Christmas shopping period in Sanford was the best, in the history of the city; statements issued by a number of leading merchants show. The most optimistic reports made were on the effect that 50 per cent increase over last Christmas' business while the more conservative ranged as low as "just about the same as last year."

Those who declared business to have been excellent during the shopping period were numbered by far those who gave more pessimistic reports. The general tone of the view Sanford merchants have of Christmas shopping this season may be summed up in the words, "It was the best we have ever had."

A sidelight on the shopping season shows that people are beginning to heed more and more than ever the admonition "Shop Early." Though the buying was better distributed over the entire period this year than heretofore the last three days were crowded. Christmas Eve, particularly, brought forth floods of shoppers.

The store of Woodruff & Watson enjoyed more evenly distributed shopping than heretofore. The fact that there was less rush this year than last, W. E. Watson believes, may make the total business appear to be not quite as heavy as that of last year. Mr. Watson is confident, however, that a check of the books will show that the season immediately past made a substantial gain over last year.

R. A. Newman, of the Hill Hardware Company, summed up business year as better. Shoppers this year seemed to have no particular preference for any one quality or price of article, making their purchases from all varieties.

A much better business period is reported this year by the Gonzalez Grocery Company. There was no rush for any one kind of specialty save perhaps chickens, turkeys and pork hams. The first named article sold rapidly, in fact, the turkey supply moved slightly under the average.

A complete cleanup of Christmas specialties was reported by Alvin Dieter, manager of the McCrory five and ten cent store.

A 25 per cent improvement over the business of last year was reported by Weinberg, proprietor of the Diamond Palace. Not only were a quantity of articles of moderate prices sold for Christmas presents but many shoppers bought from the more extensive classes, much more, Mr. Weinberg intimated, than last year.

NEGRO BURGLAR ARRESTED AFTER BEDROOM FIGHT

Intruder Is Held By Residents Until Police Arrive; Other Charges, Explaining Robberies Recently To Be Made

With the arrest of Henry Williams, 40-year-old negro, Sanford police officials believe they have fixed responsibility for three burglaries here during the past few days. The negro, with stolen goods on his person, was arrested at about 1 o'clock Saturday morning at the home of J. J. Gut on Mellenville Avenue.

That the negro is under arrest is due to quick work, it is said of Mr. Gut and Officer F. B. Dyson, patrolman on the beat in that neighborhood.

According to the story told to the police, Mr. Gut was awakened by the presence of someone in his room. Flashing on a light at the head of his bed, Mr. Gut saw the intruder. The negro, becoming alarmed sought to escape and in his haste mistook the door of a closet for the exit from the floor.

Quick to perceive his advantage, Mr. Gut slammed the door on the intruder. A struggle ensued the negro, after forcing his escape from the closet, knocked Mr. Gut to the floor. Then, as he stepped over Mr. Gut on his way out, he grasped one of the negro's feet, throwing him to the floor.

At this point Mrs. Gut was called and entered the fray seeking to help her husband hold the intruder. Despite the combined efforts of the two, the negro managed to work his way to one of the windows where, with his head, he smashed the glass with.

Armed by noise of the struggle other occupants of the house came to the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Gut. Just as the negro was made secure through the combined efforts of the residents, Officer Dyson, apprised of the situation appeared.

When the negro was reached, a watch belonging to Mr. Gut, was found. A pair of trousers and other articles, said to have been on the negro as the property of J. L. Jackson also of Mellenville Avenue, were found on the negro's person.

Officers are certain that the negro is the man who entered the home of B. G. Russell, on Mellenville Avenue, taking articles of clothing.

The burglaries of the places of Mr. H. Jackson and Mr. Russell were committed last Saturday night, according to the police, both groceries and money were taken from Mr. Jackson.

After being brought to the police station the negro broke down under the questioning and admitted entering the Jackson home. He had been under suspicion for several days, police say, having been seen loitering about the street at questionable hours.

Law Observance To Be Preached by Posters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—A bill board appeal to the public conscience through which it is hoped to bring home to every citizen the virtues of law observance will be inaugurated by the prohibition unit if congress supplies the necessary funds. Enforcement officials believe a $50,000 appropriation spent on posters would have a more beneficial effect than a like sum applied to the detection and pursuit of law breakers.

NEW KILLED AND SEVERAL MISSING IN DAM DISASTER

Twenty-One Others Injured When Death Stalks in The Vicinity of Saltville, Va., Many Treated At Hospitals

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 26.—Four more bodies were found Friday in the muck from the dam that broke Wednesday night and flooded the lower sections of Saltville, according to a telephone call to the Associated Press. This brings the known death list to 15. Seven are still missing.

Bodies found are those of children ranging from three to 20 years. Only three of the 20 injured, are in a Saltville hospital suffering from pneumonia and all sick and injured will recover. Six houses were washed away.

SALTVILLE, Va., Dec. 26.—Nine known deaths, and six or seven missing, together with 21 persons injured stood as the toll of the muck dam disaster at the Mathleson Alkali Works as night fall enveloped the stricken area Wednesday night.

The injured lay in an improvised hospital here. Four or five of them are not expected to live. Many have contracted pneumonia from their immersion in the icy waters and virtually all of them were severely burned by the alkali in the muck.

Many others who escaped injury when the crash of waters and mud came down, together with members of rescue parties, who toiled all night and day in the lime muck, sustained burns and were treated at emergency hospitals. A call has been issued for eye and nose specialists to treat those suffering severe burns.

All of the dead have been identified. A revised list issued last night gave the following names: Mrs. Luther Clear.

Her son, Charles Clear.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prater.
Lealie Prater, their son.
Mr. and Mrs. James Prater.
Major James Scott.

Several of the bodies were recovered in Tumbling Creek, six miles below the dam. It was feared that some of those missing were buried deep under tons of the white muck that spread thru-out the valley.

Haggard with exhaustion, burned by the strong alkali solution in the muck, their clothes white with the muck lime, the rescue did not end their vigil at night fall. For 24 hours a constant search has been maintained, the men exploring water and mud, that at times reached waist high.

French Will Delay Settlement Of The Debt Until New Minister Arrives

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—It is generally believed here that little further progress will be made with the French debt until the arrival of the new French ambassador.

The definite date for the departure of Jules J. Jusserand, the retiring ambassador, has not been set, but before he leaves he will be the guest at several functions in his honor.

Arrangements are being made by numerous friends in Washington to give him a testimonial dinner, and on Jan. 1, he will be the chief guest at a reception in Continental Memorial hall, given by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She will be assisted by members of the board of management, Mrs. Robert Lansing, and other prominent members.

Ambassador Jusserand's friends feel that instructions from France for him to make no further speeches on the French debt to the United States were sent on the basis of first reports of statements from the White House regarding the ambassador's address before the Current Events club. The explanation from the White House Thursday has altered the situation, in their opinion, since it made clear that the president did not desire to criticize the ambassador's speech.

The general impression, however, is that because of the nearness of M. Jusserand's departure, nothing like an understanding on debt settlement terms is likely before he leaves. His report upon his arrival at Paris may decide the future actions of the French government.

Meanwhile it is regretted by the ambassador's friends that a misunderstanding arose during his last weeks in Washington, but they attach no blame to him, and feel that the statement from the White House Wednesday disclosed that he was not guilty of the unusual procedure of discussing with the country what he had not already presented to the World War debt commission.

UNKNOWN DEAD FROM FIRE TO REST IN GRAVE

to each chubby pair of eager hands and friends who packed the small one-room structure to capacity, looked on.

Santa reached for one of the few remaining candy sacks. His arm struck a candle on the Christmas tree. The tiny blaze fell from its meagre perch and in an instant a ball of cotton on the tree burst into flames. A rush to put out the fire, and the tree fell over, scattering blazing twigs. In an instant the room was in a panic. Men and women sprang for the single exit at the rear and to the windows, beating out the panes, only to find the openings covered by a heavy wire netting. The windows shattered, a brisk wind blew through the room fanning the flames and the flimsy structure caught like firewood.

Many were crushed in the jam before the door and it is believed that most of those who perished had been injured before the flames reached them.

The injured were taken to Hobart in motorcars where emergency hospitals with volunteer nursing staffs ministered to their injuries work of recovering the dead was retarded by the lack of water on the school grounds, with which to cool the embers.

Russians Observe Christmas Day Despite Fact It Was Not Holiday

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—Although the soviet government does not recognize Christmas as a holiday all the official and commercial life of Russia ceased Thursday. Christmas dawned bright on a setting of deep snow, biting frost and tinkling sleigh bells. Vodka flowed freely for the first time since the revolution, the government having found prohibition unworkable and unprofitable.

Christmas trees, roast turkeys, sweet meats, toys and other tokens of Christmas-tide were found in the homes of the more fortunate Russians, but in millions of other households there were empty cupboards, fireless stoves and a cheerless atmosphere. There were legions of others without homes or relatives who sought charity of their impecunious neighbors.

But if the material side of Christmas was wanting, the spiritual was much in evidence, for, in spite of the communist campaign against religion the population in the larger cities went eagerly to church to celebrate the birth of the founder of the Christian faith. In countless homes candles burned brightly in front of ikons.

In the villages the peasants will wait until Jan. 7 to observe the holidays; this is the old Gregorian calendar date for Christmas. The diminutive chapel of the Iberian virgin, in the heart of Moscow, with their slender golden spires pointing heaven-ward and touching majestically by nature with a glistening sheen of virgin snow, were the churches of the Kremlin, their bells and chimers now still in tongueless silence, as if symbolizing the citadel of the soviet government, which recognizes neither Christmas, nor religion nor imperialistic traditions.

The NEW EDISON

Here's the One REAL Test

Before making your final selection, hear all the other phonographs and have the one you think best sent to your home on approval. Then let us place beside it a New Edison phonograph so that you may compare the two.

This is the final test of merit—the only test that is fair to you—and it will assure your lasting satisfaction. A small initial payment will place the instrument of your choice in your home for Christmas.

EARLY TO BED

PRESCRIBED BY WOMAN OF 105

Mrs. Lou Carline Arledge Imparts Her Philosophy; Is Old Southern Aristocrat

Go to bed with the chickens and get up when the roosters start crowing. Eat plain food and eat sparingly. Keep busy, keep happy and keep trusting in the Lord.

"Honey, I'm from way back yonder," she tells you, confidentially. "I'm considering the fact that she was born 'on a bright, sunny mornin', April 18, 1817, back in Columbia, S. C., you must admit she's right about that."

Her dark brown tresses, now snow white, but still surprisingly thick, were worn in the demurely feminine style of the 30s when she was a girl, and her attitude of mind toward the bobbed-haired lassies of the day though tolerant, speaks the hoop skirt and the muslin ruffles of a bygone mode. She laughs and shakes her head as she eyes a "society babe" and tells you with a chuckle, "Why, child, you'd think we were discussing ourselves, if we cut our hair off when I was a girl. Why, we'd be afraid the men'd run away when they saw us!"

A Girlhood Friend Living at 102. Though Mrs. Daniel drops her gait invariably in the leisurely manner of the south, she is a woman who has had unusual advantages of education and travel. She is a born aristocrat of antebellum days, the granddaughter of one of Alabama's earliest governors, Governor Joe Wyatt.

Her father was a physician and lecturer in various medical colleges. With his wife and family he traveled America and even Australia. The young girl enjoyed the advantages of travel after she had completed her studies at Key West, Fla. Among her dearest friendships formed during boarding school days were those with the niece of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, now Mrs. Ida Wiggins, who is still living, and Mrs. Ida Holland of New York, who is now 102 years old.

"Both of them married Yankees," she says, "and though we are far apart we still write to each other regularly."

Mrs. Daniels recalls and recounts with keen relish many of the unusual sights and adventures of her early travels.

"We always had a couple of negroes, man and wife, to take care of us, and although we had none of the modern luxuries, we were always comfortable and life was very pleasant." Their sea voyages were made in sailing vessels and once they were lost six weeks between Australia and America. They landed off the coast of Africa and after four adventurous months arrived at Wilmington, N. C. In addition to her trips to South America she traveled in Europe and in Egypt and the Holy Land.

Never Inside a Theater. Mrs. Daniel has never been inside of a theater, moving picture house or circus. "Father thought my chaperon and I were children, so they were strictly forbidden," she says. "Dances? Oh, he was against them too, of course, but we managed to slip away. The boys used to steal us out the window and carry us over the river."

Her first marriage had all the romantic qualities that one associates with crinolines and "before-he-was" lovenaking. She ran away with Dr. Jesse Brown, a young surgeon from Virginia and was promptly disowned by "the old folks."

She was the fourth child of her parents and through other members of her family kept in touch with their doings from a distance, and she went to hear of the murder of her father by a fanatic at Junco, La., who shot him down while he was making a speech in which though a loyal son of the south and large slaveholder, he urged conciliation with the federal government and the freeing of their slaves. It was this year the Civil War might be started.

Dr. Brown settled in Tennessee. What is now the city of Memphis. Six children were born to Dr. Brown and when the war began in '61 Dr. Brown promptly enlisted. He survived only a short time, serving as an army surgeon and winning a captaincy in the Confederate army before being sent home, broken in body and spirit. After a few weeks' illness he died.

Lost a Son at Shiloh. Their oldest boy, a lad not quite 17, ran away with a crowd of boys to a round Memphis and was killed at the battle of Shiloh, where he was a drummer boy. The well-known poem, later set to music, "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh," is dedicated to him. Only one of his entire company returned.

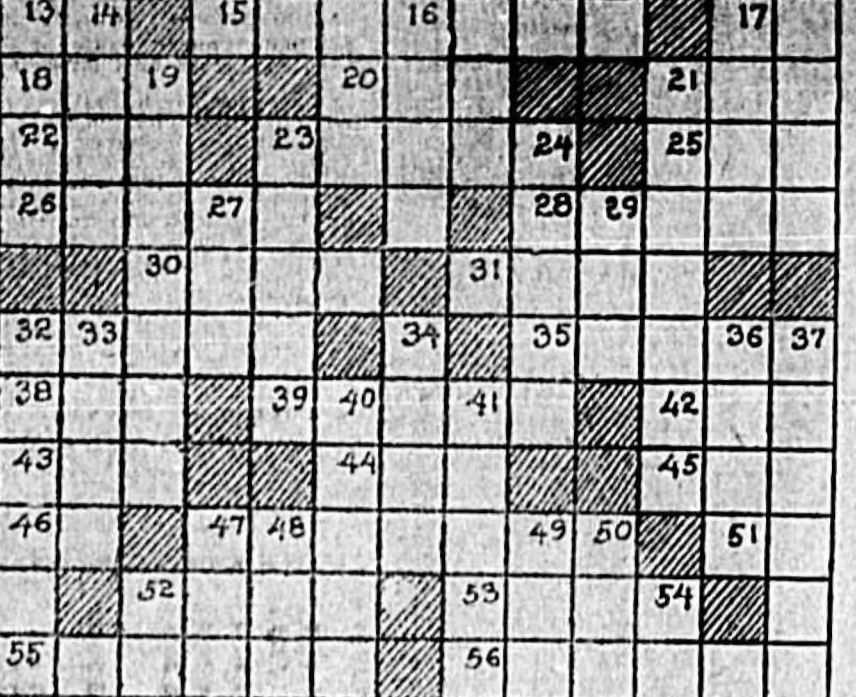

Not Long After the close of the war, Mrs. Daniel married again, her second husband being George Dent, a planter of Tipton county, Tenn., who had won marked distinction for bravery as a member of P. W. B. Triplett's Company B, 1st J. Knox, Walton's regiment, 2nd Tennessee Infantry. Greatly impoverished by the war, they fled to her husband's large property holdings. Six more children were born, making twelve, six boys and six girls, in all. In less than three years after the second marriage Mrs. Daniel again was left a widow, as her husband died as the result of wounds sustained during the war.

Herewith is the solution to puzzle No. 59.

Tip For Beginners.
Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word seems to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

ter experiences of many others were spared me. I really had much to be thankful for, and was better provided for than the average southern woman after the war."

Contented and Happy at Home. Mrs. Daniel has outlived all but two of her children, daughters, now old women, one of whom lives in Helena, Ark., the other in South America. Mrs. Daniel visits the former and has many friends in Helena as well as in various sections of Arkansas. She is still quite capable of traveling alone and often spent some time with friends and "kinfolks," but is always glad to get back home to the rambling, hospitable building, where she is one of two hundred survivors of Civil War times.

Her health and activity might well be envied by a woman of half her age. Every day, rain or shine, she takes her constitutional" in the form of a brisk walk around the grounds of the home. She likes to gather hickory nuts for the squirrels that make their homes in the trees.

BILLIONS IN ISSUES NOW VOTING FLORIDA

and South Florida Is Big Lead Voting Bonds Public Improvements; Millions In Years Total

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 24.—More than $20,000,000 in bond issues have been voted upon to be decided at the polls in the state, mostly in the south Florida, within a few months, it is estimated. A casual glance at the record of elections held or held for this purpose. An analysis of all issues passed by the voters during the year probably would figure somewhere in the neighborhood of $40,000,000, for dollar bond issues are almost a weekly occurrence in the state.

Pinellas and Polk county have among the cities and counties show least hesitancy about bond issues. Large amounts for Pinellas are limited in that respect. Together the city and county recently have voted favorably on issues aggregating several million dollars. Tampa and Hillsborough are equally as aggressive, having voted for an issue of $1,000,000 on Dec. 16 for road improvements, and consideration is now being given to a total of $3,500,000 for road improvements in northeastern section of the county.

In the same general section of the state Pinellas county has recently acted favorably on several bond issues that will aggregate approximately $2,000,000, while Polk county will decide on Dec. 14 whether or not to provide $75 million of roads by issuing $10,000,000 in bonds. Pinellas county voted Dec. 19 on $1,000,000 worth for civic improvements, and her sister municipality voted, across the river, voted $142,000 worth for similar purposes. It has been but a few weeks since DeLand also passed a large bond issue for additional civic improvements.

The East Coast Palm Beach city will vote on Jan. 15 on a bond issue for $2,500,000 to care of an extensive road and to improve program that contemplates extensive betterments in the Everglades section of the county. Dade and Miami, both have voted bonds rather freely during the year to add to movements of various sorts.

On Feb. 10 St. Augustine also will join the million-dollar class. At that date the ancient city will vote on an issue of $1,074,000 for the purpose of building a new bridge to Anastasia Island and to improve the city's water works.

A issue of $2,500,000 is planned in Jacksonville to carry out recommendations for additional school facilities recommended by H. Foss A. Hathaway, as the ruling word before he takes up his duties as secretary to Governor John W. Martin on Jan. 6. In the northern section, Leon county is talking of a million and half issue for road building purposes.

Raining School Is Lost Vital Part Of Teachers College

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 26.—The training school is beyond all doubt the most vital and necessary part of the equipment of a college for teachers, according to views expressed by an official interested in the training of teachers in Florida. The training school is designated by various names, some call it the laboratory school, others experimental school, practice school, or demonstration school. Its same meaning is given to each designation, however, it is said—a regularly organized public school, supervised and controlled by the institution for the purpose of giving students an opportunity to master the technique of teaching under normal conditions.

At the Florida State College for women the demonstration school sections clear up through the high school grades, and the young women going out from that institution as teachers, all have an opportunity to practice in the training school. The greatest weakness of this school is declared to be the lack of a modern building so all of its activities can be unified under one roof. At present the kindergarten and high school are in one building, the grammar grades in another, and the primary grades in still another.

More than 200 prospective teachers are now practicing at the F. C. W. in its present training school, but it is stated that they do not get the practical advantages they could have in a modernly equipped training school.

It is not unlikely that the next session of the legislature will be asked to provide adequate facilities for giving the state's prospective teachers the best advantages of a modern demonstration school, it is said.

It Shocked the Deacons!

Deacons did not know this was the sort of costume Dorothy De Vere was going to wear when they engaged her for an Oriental dance at a Yuletide festival in Hainscom Park Methodist Church in Omaha. But when they saw pictures of it they decided it was "not quite proper." Miss De Vere offered to change for something meeting with their approval, but Walter B. Graham, choir director, announced the "dance was dead."

Various colleges in Georgia and other parts of the South will send large delegations of the frat boys while the eastern colleges and Alabama associations will all be represented.

By Keeping Secret Woman Keeps Big Job

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Many men whose ambition it is to be leading lights in the nation would probably envy Miss Edith Baldwin who, now that Stanley Baldwin is premier of Great Britain, has returned to her old post of secretary to Britain's prime minister. In the case of a man the post is looked upon as a stepping stone to high political honors, but Miss Baldwin has no ambitions in that respect.

When Mr. Baldwin was asked recently why he chose Miss Baldwin as his secretary he replied "Because she can keep secrets." Nearly all her business career has been connected with government offices. Ten years ago she started work in the late premier Bonar Law's "right hand man" when he was secretary to the colonies, she continued with him as chancellor of the exchequer and premier until ill-health forced him to retire.

New Judicial Circuit Planned In Fort Pierce

FORT PIERCE, Dec. 24.—Formation of a new judicial circuit composed of St. Lucie and Okeechobee counties is proposed in a movement started by attorneys of the two counties. It is suggested that either Highlands or a new county is proposed to form, with Melbourne as the county seat, also might be made a part of the circuit. Fred Fee of this city was named as chairman of a meeting at which the proposal was discussed. Afterward a committee was named to investigate the feasibility and advisability of the proposition.

EXPERTS TRY TO CAST A PERFECT TELESCOPE LENS

Two Efforts to Make Disc of Five Feet Diameter are Met With Failure; Five Thousand Lbs of Material Used

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Twice in the last five months have scientists and workmen at the Bureau of Standards endeavored to produce a 60 inch disc of perfect optical glass, and twice they failed to accomplish this very difficult task. Undismayed, they are preparing for the third effort. It can be done, for in Germany a 72 inch disc was once brought into existence and Dr. G. K. Burgess, director of the bureau will continue until success crowns his labor. Then he will have a prize indeed, and an American university will be provided with a five-foot reflector about which to build a wonderful efficient telescope for astronomical observation.

To cast such a disc calls for 5,000 pounds of raw material, compound with almost unearthly exactitude. Each ingredient must be absolutely pure; glass, silicon, sand and other optical glass is to transmit light rays absolutely without distortion. When finally evolved it must be clear of every clouding, discoloration, or visual obstruction. Furthermore, it must be unified, of a single density throughout.

The ingredients are mixed by machinery, given their primary coalescing in the preliminary furnace for five weeks are passed from furnace to furnace, under graduated heats, and never even momentarily unwatched. When the ingredients have reached a maximum of heat and fusion the final cooling begins. The unborn lens, tublike in shape is examined and tested and then there is a further reheating, softening it sufficiently to be oozed into a mould.

In the two previous attempts the workers have gotten it just to this stage. Then the clay caul which has had to go through the water with its glazy content has failed. The first structure was too weak, and the glass flowed out. The next conifer was too strong. It refused to crack away in the cooling period at the proper point and the glass inside it cracked instead. The next one is being scientifically built up to have a strength midway between that developed by its predecessors.

The previous attempts, although failures from the standpoint of the ultimate goal, have produced large quantities of very usable optical glass. Out of the spoiled but crystalline heap there can be taken and prepared hundreds of tiny lenses to be used for gun sights, range finders, binoculars, small telescopes, cameras and microscopes.

Treasure Seekers After $10,000,000 In Turkish Ships

LONDON, Dec. 26.—An effort is about to be made to salvage the vessels of the Turkish fleet, sunk by the combined British, French and Russian squadrons under the command of Sir Edward Cardigan in the harbor of Navarino, on the Greek Mediterranean coast, in 1827. It was announced here recently. The ships, 61 in number, were reported to have carried treasure value at $10,000,000.

The sunken vessels are said to lie comparatively near the shore in about 30 fathoms of water, and divers who have entered the way they are in good state of preservation. A number of ship fittings already have been brought to the surface.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALT

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eaten by such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and laggard. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water seals and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Here To The College Boys And Girls

Throughout the United States this holiday season thousands of young people are "home from college" for the Christmas vacation. Rightly they are being made much of. They are the center for social honors, and loving relatives are "showing them off" with excusable pride.

It is fine to be a college boy or college girl "home for the holidays". Even without any special entertainment in their homes, boys and girls home from school hold an enviable place among their home friends and neighbors. For most of these boys and girls are doing something worth while, and are creditably representing the people who are "seeing them through college."

Now and then, unfortunately, there are returning college students that bring heartaches to their home folks. The boy who went away clean and up-standing sometimes comes back at the first Christmas holidays, carrying signs that tell his people he is associating with evil companions, that he is contracting evil habits, that he is no longer the fine lad they saw start off for college, his heart throbbing with desire to "make good."

Now and then a girl, too, comes home from college for her first vacation, showing that she has been running with a wild crowd. Her sweetness is gone. She seems to have forgotten the loving consideration for her home folks that made her so nice to have around in the days before she went off to school.

But these boys and girls are the exception. The Herald believes that most of the young people coming home for the Christmas holidays bring improvement in their characters and their manners that cheer the hearts of anxious relatives. The Herald also believes that these young people carry in their own hearts deep and abiding gratitude. They want to "make good" not only for their own sakes but for the sakes of the people who love them. They are doing their level best at college to make creditable records in their classes, and admirable reputations. They are trying to live wholesome, healthful lives, and planning with all their mentality to pay back with big interest all the money, and all the care, what have been lavished upon them for the getting of this education.

So, here's to the boys and girls home for the Christmas holidays. May they have the happiest of vacations and go back to work, full of renewed energy for the tasks ahead. It is fine to be a clear-eyed, upstanding college boy or college girl. The world is their's for the taking.

That "Best Work In The World"

When you bought the good health Christmas seals you were contributing to the financing of the best work in the world. Odd as it may sound, this "best work in the world", moreover, is not the mere relief and cure of people suffering from tuberculosis. The money collected by the sale of the little seals does much fine service that way. But the big work, the inestimably big work of the health crusaders is education.

One of the leading scientists of England is quoted as saying: "While it must be admitted that there is not the slightest excuse for the existence of a single case of consumption in the world, it is the fact, that although in spite of this there are millions of such cases, but with the proportion of them to the total very rapidly decreasing. Every tuberculosis death in history has been a murder committed by that ogre called IGNORANCE."

So the dollars collected by the sale of Christmas seals and by other contributions to the health crusade pays for "guns and ammunition" in the fight against IGNORANCE. Already the results from the educational work are noticeable. The mortality rate for tuberculosis is much reduced. And more and more are people learning that tuberculosis is curable, and that its devastating inroads can be replaced by robust health if people will listen to the advice of their physician, or the visiting nurse, and do what they are told to do.

Carrying the gospel of right living among the people, teaching them how to prevent the spread of contagious disease, showing them ways of building up the health of themselves and their families, the workers and the literature paid for by the money contributed to the good health associations of the land is money wonderfully well spent.

The "Ogre called Ignorance" is after all the worst foe in the world today. Drive him to cover and everything good will grow and flourish.

EYE SIGHT AND ACCIDENTS

A few months ago it was found in Louisville that the State laws place no restrictions on the maining of the half and the blind driving automobiles. Because of this omission ordinances are powerless to prevent licenses being granted to such incompetent persons and the law can only step in after an accident has occurred.

Now, according to the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, faulty vision of motorists is set down as one of the leading causes of automobile accidents. It further shows that only four States—Delaware, Minnesota, Oregon, and Pennsylvania—make statutory reference to operator's vision as a requisite to obtaining license.

Though it cannot be definitely determined just how many accidents are due to faulty eyesight, figures published by the Council are interesting and point to the possibility of the elimination of many accidents by restrictions on those with subnormal vision. In Detroit, according to the figures, of 1,654 motorists examined during the month of May, 23.4 per cent showed imperfect vision; seventeen were blind in one eye; 133 had less than half vision in one eye and 192 had less than two-thirds vision in one eye.

Motor accidents in the country are increasing at the rate of 2,000 a year and last year's mortality list showed 15,700 with twenty-five times as many injured.

In the solution of the problem, the sight of the operator is an essential consideration. The fact that little has been done about it, however, is not the important thing, for little, after all, has been done in the direction of decreasing accidents. The question so long studied scientifically and that it is only a step to putting into the form of statutes the conclusions of this study.

Kentucky is not alone in failing to prohibit the deaf and blind from driving automobiles, though Kentucky's traffic legislation is woefully archaic. It behooves the people and their legislators to watch the trend of remedial legislation and be prepared at the next session of the General Assembly to put upon the statute books such laws as will help to reduce the mounting number of avoidable accidents.

NO COMPETITION

Who has not heard someone say, "Oh, I can't join the Chamber of Commerce; I belong to too many organizations now?"

The last part of that popular saying is in 99 cases out of 100 correct. There are few men who do not belong to too many organizations. But why take revenge on the Chamber of Commerce? We will admit that there are too many organizations in this city and every other city. Many of them, or perhaps most of them, have their place, but their objects are specialized. The object of the Chamber of Commerce is the broadest of any voluntary organization in America. The Chamber is the great American business men's all-inclusive institution.

The Chamber of Commerce is the only club or organization where every creed and religion meet, where the owner of small business in the city can work side by side with the biggest manufacturer, where men are known for what they do and not for what they have, where membership is not limited to any number or group, where there is no main object— to make a better city.

You can think of no other organization where you have a greater opportunity to do public work and see bigger results as in the Chamber of Commerce.

Consider these things and then settle in your own mind whether you should put your greater efforts in the Chamber of Commerce. You either belong to it or don't; you can't belong to something just as good—Sioux City Spirit of Progress.

As Brisbane Sees It

Also an Empire. Good Fliers—Bad Machines. Burying a Family. Segregate Your Home. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

WITHIN A short time, says C. D. Burney, aviation expert and member of the British Parliament, the farthest point of the British Empire will be within twenty-four hours of London by flying machine.

It is the intention of Britain to draw close together all parts of the Empire with an adequate flying fleet, and to do it as quickly as possible.

UNCLE SAM, please take notice. This also is an empire. It is as far from the south end of Florida to the north end of Alaska, and from Bar Harbor, Maine, to San Diego?

Americans will please notice these words by Commander Burney, M. P.:

"The whole prestige of Great Britain hitherto has been maintained by implicit public belief in the world's supreme navy. I have every hope that this belief will be now transferred to the building of a supreme air fleet."

THE COUNTRY is gradually waking up to our flying machine situation and it NEEDED to wake up.

Secretary Wilbur gives this information. Five hundred air-planes of the navy are useless. And even the remaining 224 that can fly, more or less, are all out of date.

You can easily imagine the difference between the flying fleet of this nation and that of Japan, which has seventeen factories working day and night turning out UP-TO-DATE flying machines, made on the best European models.

OF COURSE, Japan feels friendly toward us, and we feel friendly toward Japan. But sometimes situations change. It is not pleasant, next to Secretary Wilbur's statement, to read of one of the post office flying machines falling to the ground. The brave pilot, Charles Gilbert, was found dead. We have good courageous fliers. We ought to supply them with machines that won't risk their lives unnecessarily.

KATHERINE MAYO, writing about the Philippines, supplies information worthwhile. Self-appointed "apostles" collect tribute in the name of religion. In one village, refusing to furnish supplies a family of nine were seized. A deep hole was dug. "The nine prisoners were flung in—grandfather, babies and all. The leader ordered the villagers to shovel back the earth on them, and pack it down soundly."

AFTER THIS the "apostles" said to the villagers, "Now we shall have supplies from you. If you do not promptly comply we shall bury more families."

There seems to be some work left for the American public school to do in the Philippines before turning those regions over completely to the natives.

However, native deficiencies do not justify this country in turning the poor creatures over to highly trained American grafters.

DO YOU keep chickens? Keep them away from other chickens if you can. Europe has sent here a poultry plague for which there is no known cure. Congress voted $100,000 to fight it. Rigid quarantine will help the situation.

SEGREGATE your chickens, and beware how you eat raw vegetables, unless cleaned with greatest thoroughness, which isn't easy.

Be cautious, especially about raw lettuce. The French alone know how to prepare that plant, grown in open fields, often with barnyard manure carrying typhoid germs.

Every leaf should be separated from every other leaf and carefully washed. The salad should be mixed in a big bowl, turned over and over, "well fatigued," as the French put it, until every part of every leaf has some of the vinegar on it. Vinegar kills germs.

With vegetables thoroughly boiled, there is, of course, no cause to fear typhoid.

IT IS STRANGE that war upon the Catholic Church appears to be most savage in countries that until lately were most completely Catholic. In Mexico, land of many churches, there is openly shown much anti-Catholic feeling.

And in the Argentine Republic, a great power of South America, the Attorney-General threatens to imprison the Roman Catholic Bishop, Monsignor Juan Boneo, because he refuses to submit for Government approval his credentials from Pope Pius.

RIVALRY

JUST IN PASSING

By R. J. HOLLY

Sanford never looked more prosperous than during the few days before Christmas. The streets were filled with people and they were spending their money with Sanford Merchants as never before.

Now that the holidays are almost over real estate should take another boom and there will be more land sold in the next few months than ever before. This is the chance to get some land before the price goes higher. Sanford real estate is still the cheapest in the state.

The Sitting Sons of Best have registered a kick against the weather man. There was a big meeting called for Christmas eve and Christmas day the weather man fell down on the job completely. The only thing is to get another weather man for Sanford.

Seventy people were killed in Christmas accident throughout the United States. None of them were from Sanford. But some of our folks while not exactly broken were badly bent.

Another school house holocaust cost the lives of 33 people. There is just one idea that should be paramount in the minds of school boards and that is to build fire proof buildings.

Central and south Florida were the only parts of the country that were comfortable Christmas Day. All the rest of the world was frozen up or experiencing bad weather. This is something to write your northern friends about on your holiday cards.

There are many big things in store for Sanford in the year of 1925 and as a fortune teller I would like to say that Sanford people are facing the best year in their history. I do not get this from the stars but from headquarters of big people who intend to put it over and make Sanford the best city in the central part of the state.

Having received 700 Christmas cards, 10 boxes of phony cigars and 17 dozen neckties that are too racy for me to wear I still have room in my "boodwar" for a few books on Psychology, Biology and Darwin's Theory on Zoology and a few kindred subjects. I can always take some of these presents and give them away next Christmas so why worry?

In looking out over the tin roofs from my office windows it would seem that the weather report will be more rain and then some followed by a heavy fog for the same to be followed by more rain and fog, etc.

It is some consolation to know that the calendar has only one 25th day of December and after that is over it will not occur again for 12 months so the creditors can keep away from the door for some time to come.

Sanford clubs and lodges looked after the poor as usual which reminds me that Sanford folks are the biggest-hearted people in the world when it comes to doing something for the needy. While in the newspaper business I never applied for food and shelter without receiving it and the banks only charged me eight per cent for loans.

Almost time to swear off again and then swear off from swearing off and the whole business of swearing off will be off in 30 days after all of us will be better off for having stopped long enough to think about swearing off at all.

When the new tourist hotel comes up for discussion it will take the united efforts of every business man in Sanford to help put it over. A tourist hotel here now will bring hotels in the near future and will bring in new people by the score to invest here. Without the big tourist hotel we will remain in the small city class for some time to come.

WOMEN IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

LAKELAND STAR TELEGRAM

A statement to the effect that more than one million women are engaged in farming in the United States will probably come as a surprise to most folk who have not had occasion to think much about the situation and who have probably been confirmed in their belief that it is the men-folk who are doing all the farming. We are told by the Bureau of Vocational Information at Washington that of this million women farmers, approximately twenty per cent are owners and managers of their own farms, specializing in truck, the growing of fruits and vegetables and often in bee culture. In the apriary and in the poultry department of farm work, women have an exceptional opportunity to make good and this is especially true of conditions and opportunities in Florida.

Outside the realm of farming the figures show a still more amazing activity on the part of women. It is said that more than two million women are now engaged in this country in certain business and professional work including architecture, engineering and training, in executive capacity, while in addition to this total, not less than eighty per cent of the librarians of the United States are women. This has to be said of women that as a rule they are much more thorough in their training for their life work. They are quick to realize the necessity for technical and practical preparation for life's tasks, those who are not in charge of American homes and as for this latter class, the industry of our social system, they too are leaving that to be able to provide over the home with intelligence, tact and dignity, requires training, knowledge and diplomacy in marked degree. Indeed it is altogether likely that most women will admit it requires more knowledge and more ability in knowing human nature, to make a successful wife and mother than it does to conduct any successful professional career.

However, American men are chivalrous enough to take off their hats to woman and her work in the world, paying tribute to her ability, her wisdom and her resourcefulness, to say nothing of those womanly virtues which appeal to all men who love the good, the pure and the beautiful.

SATURDAY EVENING SERMON

By DR. E. D. BROWNLEE

"I want us to consider for a few minutes this day the firmness of Jesus' purpose, as an incentive to the development of that same trait in ourselves. Jesus said to Peter when the latter sought to divert Him from His purpose of going on with His program which would lead to His Crucifixion, 'Get thee behind me, Satan,' thus showing He was not to be turned from His purpose.

We have already observed that Jesus possessed tenderness and gentleness and graciousness among the attributes of His character, and we properly rejoice in them; but gentleness alone may easily become a defect, and sweetness of disposition in itself is not enough to make a life great and noble and useful, but on the contrary may serve to make that life and character more pliable, and therefore subject to evil influences.

We know of many instances of the weaknesses of men making them become tragic victims of outside influences. Environment, acts as a mighty force in shaping the character of men and women. This is notably true in the case of children. A child's mind is as plastic clay, and his associations almost certainly determine his habits and methods of thought. The child imitates his father and mother and only those other people with whom he comes in contact. His vocabulary will consist of those words he hears used by these persons. The same thing is largely true of college men and women. Usually one or two or three people will, by their leadership, direct the thought of a thousand or more followers within the walls of the institution. Business men also are very much subject to influences. We see them go in droves. What the sweet singer has said about us being sheep is true; for we do follow one another as sheep do. Men are largely the echo of their neighbors.

Lowell said: "Every man is the prisoner of his day." Sometimes we attempt to apologize for some outstanding weakness, in the character of Calvin, or Luther, or Augustine, certain prejudice or superstition, by saying "Give them credit for the great forces of environment, and honor them for lifting up their heads and attempting to serve men.

Now comes Jesus of Nazareth, comes One of force and firmness of character and purpose. One who is not the prisoner of His race. He has freed himself of the spirit of the age in which he lives. While He was a Jew of the first century of our era, men of every age have recognized that Jesus is of every age and life, and we know Him as a spirit akin to our own.

He possessed a tenacity of purpose not less firm than a Wall of granite and which would not let Him be turned aside from his plans. Let us note briefly how this trait manifested itself. First, as He came into contact with the national hopes and aspirations of His race. We know something of the long standing desire and belief of the Jews, that through the grace of Jehovah, in some way a great prophet, a Messiah, would be sent them; one who would establish a triumphant empire, of which Jerusalem would become the capital and center; that men of every other race would be more or less subject to this empire, and would bring their offerings and bow in obedience and submission to the Jewish king. A mighty but material triumph, universally hoped for and confidently expected by these people.

When Jesus came, their aspirations began to crystallize and take definite form, and many of them, saw in Him the person of the expected King and leader, and time and again they attempted to divert Him from His purpose to fulfill the Heavenly plan. Especially after the feeding of the 5,000, their enthusiasm ran high and they attempted by force to make Him King. But Jesus Christ, stood firm although we cannot now be difficult for Him to carry out purposes of God, — Gethsemane, Golgotha—suffering and death in ourselves. Jesus said to Peter when the latter sought to divert Him from His purpose of going on with His program which would lead to His Crucifixion, 'Get thee behind me, Satan,' thus showing He was not to be turned from His purpose.

Again we find it manifested His relationship to the church. The church had had a glorious history, God had been gracious and merciful, affording abundant evidence of His mighty power and tender care. Many of the rules and regulations of the church were man-made products of the selfish ambition and Scribes, and not of laborers. Jesus came into this period of the church of man-made rules, which had crowded out the commandment of God. Of course, no doubt, the Rabbis believed themselves to be both earnest, and honest in what they did. In all the controversy between themselves, as the church and Jesus, they believed the church to be right. But they were for the letter of the law rather than the spirit.

Witness how, in their observance of the Sabbath day, they took to heart and spirit entirely out of the day. There ensued a vigorous and strenuous controversy between Jesus and these teachers of the law. He was not an easy thing to get a man single handed to go against this organization. It was a task requiring absolute firmness of will. But Jesus would not swerve of a iota by the rules of the man-made Sanhedrin.

In the third place we see this firmness displayed as he came in contact with the leaders of His day. Every age has a few real leaders, people of strong character, or executive ability. The Pharisees, Scribes, people belonging to different parties, and jealous of their other's success, each vied with the other in the effort to gain influence. His prestige was great, and one after another sought gain His ear and enlist His influence. But He listened to none of these. It was not easy to go against the wishes of the great leaders, but He was able to do so through the firmness of character He possessed.

And in the fourth place, we really see this trait indicated in His relations with those He loved best—those who were nearest to Him. Many who could not be won by argument of the political concerned—many others who might stand firmly against the persuasions of the church group or their own without fear or hesitation in the face of argument, the great leaders—many of the might yet be no more than plastic clay in the hands of those they love. It is a fearful test, and few are who can stand unshakable before the blandishments of those near and dear to them. I remember the first sermon of Galilee—when Jesus preached of His mercy and loving kindness toward Gentiles as well as Jews. I ran foul of cross-currents among these Jews. They expected a savior, a Messiah, who would deliver them. Yet Jesus stood firm. The Scriptures illustrate how He answered them. To Peter and others who would not have Him to Gethsemane or Calvary, but desired He use His mighty power to overcome the others, Jesus said: "Get thee behind me, Satan." And the mistaken love of Mary. You remember how she and her first loved of Jesus attempted times to dissuade Him from His purpose. His mother—yet even she could not turn Him.

Cafe Waiter Killed By Prize Fighter In New Orleans Friday

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27.—Y. Shoa Williamson, 24, was shot and killed Friday as he was waiting on customers in a restaurant in the French quarters. Paul Barre, 28, known as the prize fighter "Batting Barre," was charged with the shooting.

Witnesses declared Barre, with a revolver in his hand and his bulldog at his heels, entered the restaurant shouting: "I'm a friend of Chaney's. They killed him, I'll get revenge." Then he was said to have fired three times. One bullet shattered a mirror but the other two dropped the waiter.

"Young Chaney" the ring name for Christian Burkhart, 25, was killed a year ago by Alexander Kostakis, 29, a crippled waiter, in front of a cafe a block from the scene of Friday's shooting. Kostakis had never been brought to trial. Officers said they believed it was the desire to take the law in his own hands and avenge the death of his friend that led Barre to the restaurant in search of Kostakis.

Barre fought with success in the featherweight division a few years ago. At one time he was in with Johnny Kibano and toward this end he was matched with Matt Brock, a title contender. Brock floored Barre and his hopes and the southpaw was never given further consideration in national pugilistic circles, although he has been on the card considerably in the South.

Frenchman Spurns Christmas Offer Of Billiard Champ

PARIS, Dec. 27.—Roger Conti, French billiard star, after reading dispatches from New York, replying that Willie Hoppe had said he would give him the world title as a "Christmas gift" because of the former record breaking performance last Wednesday when he ran 477 in the 182 championship tournament declared:

"I am deeply touched at the generosity of my rival and friend, Hoppe. In course of three world championships in the United States, I have learned to appreciate the wonderful playing which has made him universally recognized as the world's champion billiardist. However, if some day I am to become champion of the world, I must win the championship with a cue and not through a Christmas gift."

Aid For Physical Education Issued To State Teachers

GAINESVILLE, Dec. 26.—As an aid to the untrained and inexperienced teacher of physical education in both the large and the small public school of Florida, the State Extension Division of the University of Florida has published a bulletin entitled "A Plan for Recreational and Physical Education in the Public Schools of Florida." Dr. R. G. Maccherone, director of Physical Education at the University, is the author of the bulletin.

The purpose of the bulletin is to serve all classes of schools. The teacher need not be experienced or trained in physical education to carry out the program advocated. It includes informal play for recreation and formal work for uniform bodily development.

Plays and games in wide variety are included for use in small schools, where children of all ages play to rather. A teacher untrained in physical education is thus given easy means of carrying out this important phase of the school's work.

Larger schools are equipped to carry on more formal work. The bulletin also makes a number of suggestions for formal physical exercise and organized play for definite development.

In an effort to serve all the people of the State, the general extension division carries on such extension activities as making surveys and broadcasting information that is useful to the public. It does this work in all fields but agriculture and home economics, which is carried on by the Agricultural Extension Division. These two divisions of the extension service represent all the institutions of higher learning in the state.

Victims Make Crime Easy, Expert Says

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 26.—Crime is made easy by the excessive number of dupes in the country, according to George C. Henderson, a authority on criminology.

"It is the victim," he explained, "the dup, the gull and easy mark, however you want to call him, who spoils the thousands of crooks in America and gives the country a net for a two billion-dollar loss a year."

"They leave their automobiles unprotected, for thieves to steal, they carry large sums for pickpockets to get. They are weak when they cash checks for strangers. They purchase real estate without looking up the title, invest schemes without consulting their bankers, pay mediums to talk to a dead, play cards with sharks and bet on prearranged events."

Lucky, Once An Alley Dog, Now Sits At The Right Paw Of A $5,000 Pup

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—A month ago Lucky was gleaming a precarious living snooding in garbage pails and glad to find a night's troubled sleep in some darkened doorway of unfrequented alley. Monday she sat on the right paw of Kiki, Kiki's mistress in her own right, daughter of Dantam King, a $5,000 bundle of canine perfection, and nuzzled liver and lapped ice cream, the guest of honor at the Christmas feast of the socially elite of New York's dogdom.

In the parlance of Broadway's Cheese Club, Lucky would be a "naifty," but in the dignified language of the circles in which she had come to move, Lucky had "arrived" socially. She had crushed right through the portals of the highest canine society and had done it entirely by weight of her own personality.

How Lucky came to be there is a story in itself. But for the purpose of this narrative, about three weeks ago Mrs. E. A. Rundquist of 165 East Sixtieth Street, was walking in Madison Avenue. With her was Kiki, dignified aloof, aristocratic.

Two Hearts That Beat As One

On the curb stood Lucky, miserable and despondent, shivering. On the other end of the cotton string that encircled her neck was Joey Grojo, a six-year-old human fragment, also shivering, who with the compassion of one wretched thing for another had salvaged Lucky from her nomadic and ignominious existence.

Mrs. Rundquist, who is the wife of a surgeon, has a soft spot for boys and dogs. The sight of Lucky and Joey excited her compassion. On that day Joey acquired a new sweater, and Lucky a warm blanket, a harness and a leash. Since then both Lucky and her young master have been much in Mrs. Rundquist's mind. When it came time for Kiki's annual Christmas party to her aristocratic friends Lucky was included, and Joey, too.

Mrs. Rundquist's spacious apartment was thrown open for the occasion and the guests permitted to the freedom of the luxurious Persian rugs and brocaded furniture. There was a Christmas tree and presents for all and a menu of liver, ice cream and cake.

The guests came from far and near. There was Peggy, Jack and Lige, all of aristocratic lineage, Peggy, Jack and Lige arriving by taxi from 1221 Street to attend the feast. Peggy, Jack and Lige had first party, and being a wire-haired fox terrier and unused to social nuances her behavior toward other guests was slightly peevish. Goldfish commits suicide.

Chalipin and Jeritza and Mose and Izzy Bloomingdale, Mrs. Rundquist's goldfish, also were guests. A ball hung over their enjoyment of the festivities, however, as a result of the recent death of Galatea and Pygmalion. Galatea, it is told, in a fit of despondency committed suicide by jumping from her bowl. Kiki found her throbbing on the floor and licked her scales off. She lived four days, then passed on. Pygmalion survived but a few days, dying, it is reliably reported, of a broken heart.

But for the canine members of the group joy reigned unconfined—especially for Lucky and Joey. And as living evidence that ladies are at all times ladies and can fit themselves to any environment, Lucky, despite her checkered career, was entirely equal to the occasion.

Joey, her youthful master, amused himself by jumping on the heavily upholstered furniture, eating ice cream and investigating the mechanism of the phonograph both departed voling the occasion in a huge success and with invitations to "come again soon."

Football Mentors Making Plans For Annual Gathering

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Scoring will be among the problems facing the American football coaches when they gather for their annual meeting here next week.

Already it has been suggested that the point after touchdown be eliminated and that the touchdown score from reception of a forward pass count only three points, the same as a goal from the field, a scheme designed to eliminate the deluge of passes at the end of the game when a losing team makes a last effort to recover. The present scoring system, with slight changes, has stood for many years.

Another proposal which has been made annually for several years has had to do with eliminating the games by providing an extra period of play or deciding the winner by giving an extra point for the team which made the greatest number of first downs or gained the most yards in the regular playing period.

Yost Opposes Change In Forward Pass Rule

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 27.—Fielding H. Yost, chairman of the rules committee of the American football coaches' association, will oppose any changes restricting the forward pass when the committee meets in New York next Monday.

In making this announcement, Friday, Yost said:

"Generally speaking there is too little forward passing instead of too much. This also is true of the kicking game. I am not in favor of any eliminations."

Yost said he would favor the elimination of a run after recovery of a fumble.

Pennsylvania Grid Team Leaves Friday

The team is due in Berkeley Tuesday afternoon.

Speed And Safety In Elevators Is Sought By Experts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Since modern cities must continue to sprout skyscrapers, and modern invention must provide methods of getting sizable masses of the population up and down within those structures, the United States bureau of standards is seeking, in association with insurance companies, manufacturers, and engineers, to evolve new methods by which the process may be safeguarded.

A prime requisite to the operation of the high-speed elevators which alone make skyscrapers practicable is a dependable interlocking mechanism, that will hold doors shut unless the elevator car is in proper position for their opening, and function to prevent the dropping of elevator cars within shafts. To the perfection of such a mechanism bureau experts have addressed themselves.

One device which the bureau has constructed for testing interlocking devices puts each machine through 100,000 repetitions of its functions. The mechanism is observed and examined before, during and after the testing. Its failures, potential or actual, are detected.

Dr. C. G. Burgess, director of the bureau has revealed that manufacturers following the work already have in mind several improvements by the mechanism's followers. Insurance companies follow the low work, since it bears directly on the rate of accident risk which they apply.

Japan is becoming so interested in Australian wool that it is organizing a shipping service to handle the business.

Ireland Plans to Have Air Mail To England

BELFAST, Dec. 26.—Arrangements have been completed for an all-year air service between Great Britain and Ulster. A company with $2,500,000 capital has been purchased. The scheme is expected to greatly to accelerate the mail service, not only with England, but with America and Europe.

Ford, Model Ship Owner, and One of His Boats

Captain [Name] of the Oneida.

Old-time sifters in New Orleans just looked and gaped when they saw Henry Ford's ship Oneida lying at dock. They never seen anything so sleek and shiny in all their lives. Her hull gleamed in shining metallic enamel. Her decks were clean enough to eat from. In her ngn red brass and nickel-plated trimmings shimmered in the light. And the crew proved another stunner. The men were all clean shaven, with fresh hair cuts and their clothes were of the latest cut. They went up town in taxis and came back the same way—and sober! The lowest paid deckhand was getting $5 a day. For Henry Ford (in inset) had put Ford ideas of efficiency in his ship-operating venture, too. And he's found it pays.
