

Streamlined Ball May Stop Curves That Irk Golfers

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.
Feb. 23.—The commercial possibilities of a noseless, no-hook golf ball are being pondered by Frederic H. Atwood.

Like many great discoveries, this one sprang full-fledged, not from Atwood's brain, but from under the wheel of a mowing machine.

At least, that's how Atwood supposes the golf ball he picked up last week on the Towne Tavern golf course near Waltham, Mass., got streamlined. It was in fact very much the shape of a tear drop.

Just for fun Atwood tred off with it and, strange to relate, it flew straight as an arrow. After that experiment he vowed that, as far as he would, the streamlined golf ball followed a bee-line.

After trying it out to his own satisfaction, Atwood passed the ball along to John A. Hunt, a former golf professional at the club, and with the aid of army air service. From discreet inquiries, Private Hunt uncovered the non-military secret that the tear shape was responsible for the direct flight.

Mr. Atwood points out that a player using such a ball for driving doubles could get per cent more from fellow players to substitute a perfect spheroid on the putting greens. Of course,

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Jake LaMotta is a whiz as a whipper of welterweights but he hasn't made much noise as a middle-weight menace.

Take a 22-year old youngster from the Bronx, is champion of the world's two best welters, Harlem Ray Robinson and California Jackie Wilson. He's still young as a main bout attraction and may yet create a future among the 160 pounders.

Even though he picks up twenty pounds lighter, it was quite a flower in his bonnet when Jake snapped the 40 straight triumphs Sugar Robinson had strung together. It won't hurt LaMotta's game appeal to be known as the conqueror of the sensational LaMotta himself.

At present, insofar as Mr. Atwood can see, there's not a single rule in the book to prevent the use of the streamlined on the amateur circuit.

He agrees, though, that if any one started manufacturing the streamliners the rule makers probably would make a quick shift. But in the interim some fast operator might clean up.

Just now Mr. Atwood is too busy himself. A former Massa-

Tall Gobs Find It Easy To Drop Ball Down Into Basket

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Feb. 23 (AP)—The Comets of Corpus Christi Naval Air Station—the University of the Air—can't suppress their grins these days as the University of Texas leads the way down the Southwest Conference basketball stool.

If you're an other conference team for that matter—win the championship it will be something of an empty honor as far as the Comets are concerned.

Corpus Christi Naval Air Station has one of the hottest cagers in the country, and they're having a jolly time. They are poetry on the maple. There's no use wasting time passing the ball. The tall fellows—they average 6 feet—just flip it around to each other with their finger tips. Nobody has been able thus far to do anything about it.

The Comets have won 12 straight games, averaging 57.4 points, and included in the string are seven victories over Southwest Conference outfits. The Navy boys have beaten Texas A. & M. once and Texas Christian once. They haven't played Arkansas and don't meet Baylor until Feb. 19, but Rice defeated Arkansas, Texas beat Southern Methodist, and Baylor has been beaten by everybody.

Before this year, the Comets already were uncrowned champions of the Southwest.

They've played only three close games, beating Texas by five points and Rice by five and three respectively. All other games have been won, as the Comets scored from 45 to 90 points.

But there really is no reason why the Comets shouldn't be good. Just take the starting five. Before this year, they had played in approximately 700 games, mostly in colleges and universities over the country.

Leading the scoring parade this season is tall Bob Kinney, all-conference star at Rice last year.

Kinney has hit the bucket for 210 points, which is more than 17 per game. Bob is the tallest man in the team, 6 feet 6 inches, who played at the University of Oregon has scored 138 points.

When Lieut. Jack Gray, former University of Texas coach, looked over his prospects before the season started he said:

"Things just can't be that good. It's impossible to find a group of basketball players in a few weeks with so much experience and the ability to operate as a team."

Well, the bluejackets have made quite a believer out of Jack, to his pleasure and to the discomfort of NAB foot.

Reds Capture Three More Ukraine Towns

• 600 Germans Killed In Taking Of Number Of Villages North Of Kursk

(By Associated Press) The Russians today smashed deeper into the northern Ukraine northwest of Khar'kov where the capture of Sumy, Lebedin and Akhtyrka fashioned a bludgeon aimed at Kiev and the rail junction of Konotop. Despite Spring thaws, the drive proceeded with the capture of more strongly fortified settlements.

A water barrier was forced and about 600 Germans were killed in the capture of a number of towns north of Kursk, while the Russians had driven to within 40 miles of Orel. In other sectors the Red army also was actively pressing the campaign although the German high command claimed four drives were frustrated and 10,000 Russians were killed north of Orel.

The Red army, spurred by Premier Stalin's praise and exhortations to drive the Germans from Russia, marked its 25th anniversary yesterday by accelerating its smash westward through the Ukraine, recapturing three important Nazi strongpoints along the Donets leading from Khar'kov to Kiev.

Answering Stalin's order to give the invaders no respite, the "army of avengers," as he termed them, marched into Sumy, 100 miles northwest of Khar'kov; Akhtyrka, 42 miles to the south, and Lebedin, whose half was captured there and 20 miles farther west.

Lebedin lies only 175 miles east of Kiev, and the capture of the three towns amounted in a special "communications breakthrough." Since the Germans had advanced of from 20 to 40 miles in the Red assault, it is estimated that thousands of square miles more of the rich, productive Ukraine.

The Red army also took the town of Malo-Arkhangelsk on the main Kursk-Orel railway 40 miles south of Orel, in an operation some distance to the rear of the advance.

The Germans have continued to hold. Despite the fall of Khar'kov and other points in their old strong defense lines, and despite the fact that the Russians have closed in from three sides and stand only little more than a score of miles away.

Sumy, a provincial capital, lies 75 miles east and slightly south of Konsotop on a road leading to that city which appears to be the Soviet army's next big objective in that region.

Violent fighting continued on the southern front, with Red army troops advancing west of Rostov and southwest of Voronezhgrad, and beating off fierce enemy counterattacks in the Krasnodar area, the mid-night communiques declared.

Without naming this, the war bulletin said one Soviet unit captured a fortified populated point in hand-to-hand fighting in the drive west from Novorossiysk, killing 500 Germans, and that other Russian units drove back German patrols from the northwest of Voronezhgrad. Elsewhere enemy resistance was overcome in that sector, and 100 Germans killed, the war bulletin said.
