ORDELL HULL OPS SMITH IN CAROLINA POLL

Tennessee's Favorite
Glides Easily
Towards Success In Far Heel Election

His Supporters
Fight Doggedly
To Contest
Every Step Of Way
To Check Unit Rule

ALEIGH, N. C., June 12. (INS)—With supporters of OrdeLL Hull, Tennessee's favorite son for the presidential nomination in control, the State Democratic convention glided smoothly through perfunctory preliminaries this afternoon. However, despite the large majority piled up by Hull in the election of delegates representing 20 votes by the district caucuses this morning, supporters of Governor Al Smith were determined to contest every inch of the way before permitting the rule to be applied to the election at Houston.

The delegates chosen by districts this morning were merely nominated, but nomination by the district caucuses is practically a foregone conclusion. Whether the delegates, along with the voters at large—which are named by the convention in the day—will be instructed whether they will go to Houston unopposed, will be decided by the convention before it meets.

The body clearly divided in favor of the presidential nomination of Governor Al Smith and Republican OrdeLL Hull, Tennessee's favorite, a strenuous fight is being waged, which is sought by Hull camp.

Heralded March Of 10,000 Farmers To Kansas City Fails

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—(INS)—The widely heralded march of 10,000 embattled farmers on the parts of the Republican convention citadel had failed to materialize today.

With a big tourist park still populated and the highest estimates of the farmer cohort numbered at 20,000, leaders of the movement turned to make up in what they lacked in numbers. Hoover propagandists and farm work were charged by farm leaders for the situation. The word was broadcast by the over forces that the farm movement was nothing but politics and bluff, and a lot of farmers were evidently afraid that they had led into such a situation. "Hated Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota."

There is no mistaking the sincerity of the farmer nor the depth of his feeling. Nor should there be any mistake about the difficulty of selecting a Republican ticket in November if it is headed by an opponent of farm relief. The situation might easily lead to a third party.

Backers of the farm trek were hoping that the day would see thousands of farmers from nearby lands churning up the roads to the convention city. Faced by the prospect of failure the farmers, on the advice of Governor Adam Miller of Nebraska, decided not to meet in the general convention last night. Instead, plans are being made for a big parade and mass meeting tonight.

An appropriate convention song will be sung. "Will you remember the pledge in November you do in June?"

Tornado Destroys Nebraska Houses

LINCOLN, Neb., June 12.—(INS)—A tornado, striking shortly before midnight, demolished nearly 100 homes in McCook, Neb., according to reports received here this morning. No deaths were reported. Seven persons were said to be injured. Wires leading into the stricken town are down. Doctors and nurses are enroute there from Nebraska points. The wind swept a clean path, half a mile wide, through the residential

SINGLE BOND BID TURNED DOWN BY CITY COMMISSION

Spencer, Rorick & Co. Offer
$5.5 For $183,000 Block;
Commission Will Open New
Bids Wednesday Afternoon

The City Commission yesterday afternoon received a bid of $5.5 for a block of refunding bonds in the sum of $183,000, but immediately turned down the offer and announced that on Wednesday at 2:00 o'clock it will receive sealed bids on both the $183,000 issue, which was validated in January, and a block of $425,000 of a new issue.

The lone bid was offered by Roy M. Mann, representing Spitzer, Rorick and Company of Toledo, O. The offer carried with it a stipulation that the bid would be withdrawn unless delivery of the securities could be made on or before July 1, and also contained a clause which would bind the Commission not to sell the $425,000 issue for less than $5.5.

The fact that no bid was received for the block of $425,000 is attributed to pending litigation in validation proceedings. There were a dozen bond buyers present but none made a bid except Mr. Mann.

Following receipt of the Spitzer, Rorick offer, the Commissioners were asked by some of the bond buyers to consider the bid in an executive session. Mr. Mann protested and suggested that the matter could be thrashed out in open meeting.

The bond buyer said he wanted to avoid the possibility of a repudiation of an incident, which he said occurred here several years ago when, during the course of a sale, a rival bidder was said to have been given a 10-point advantage over other buyers. Mr. Mann said he based the charge upon an agreement, which he had seen and which he said had been signed by the then mayor of Sanford and given to a competitor. The result of the transaction, he declared, was that his rival received the bonds 10 points less than was publicly announced.

In offering the securities for sale on Wednesday, the Commission advised the bond representatives that the $183,000 would be for immediate delivery and that the $425,000 would be subject to validation.

KELLOGG ASKS CHURCH AID TO PREVENT WARS

Secretary Of State Delivers
Address At Three Hundredth Anniversary Of Founding Of The Dutch Reformed Church

Says Public Opinion
Is Against Fighting

Summarizes Steps Taken To Outlaw War Since It Was
First Suggested Year Ago

NEW YORK, June 12.—Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, in a speech here last night, urged the churches of America to support the powers in their attempt to achieve a declaration against war. His address commemorated the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Dutch Reformed Church in New York.

"Since this discussion commenced," said Secretary Kellogg, "between France and the United States, the idea has appeared with increasing force to the public opinion of the world."

The secretary summarized the steps taken to outlaw war since it was first suggested a year ago by Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France. He admitted that "cynical individuals" who believe war is here to stay as an institution, can see no value in the however, that the world's desire to banish war would triumph in the end.

He referred to the present efforts as an attempt towards a "simple and straightforward" declaration against war. He said it "has no hidden meaning" and is "easily understood."

"I am persuaded," he said, "that the time has come when a frank renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy should be made, to the end that the peaceful and friendly relations existing between the people of the world may be perpetuated. I am convinced, and any nation which had these relations should be sought by peaceful means and orderly progress; and any nation which had these interests by resort to war should be denied the benefits and guarantees furnished by the proposed treaty."

"This is the object of the negotiations in which 15 world powers are now engaged, and in the name of the government of the United States I bespeak the continued support of this and every other church in the present movement for the promotion of world peace."

Nobile Makes Urgent Plea For Supplies For His Band Which Is Facing Hardships

ROME, June 12.—(INS)—In a wireless message received here today, General Umberto Nobile, marooned commander of the dirigible Italia stated that his radio storage batteries were practically exhausted and that transmission of messages would have to be stopped for a few days until means were devised for recharging them.

In his message Nobile also made an urgent appeal for supplies. He asked for boots for his men, rifles and ammunition, medicines, sledges, cigarettes, an oil stove and three pneumatic tires.

Nobile advised that he had no rationed his meagre food supply that it would last for 50 days. He said that a single red-tinted tent had been erected on a large ice-floe to enable aviators of the relief expeditions to sight his crew from the air.

Reports from the Citta Di Milano, the base ship at King's Bay for the ill-fated expedition, today confirmed the report that three of the party are missing and two hurt.

According to the story released from here, the gondola carrying General Nobile and five other men became detached from the dirigible when it first struck the ice. The remainder of the crew drifted with the huge gas bag 20 miles to the east before finally coming to rest.

The conditions in the region in which the dirigible came down will prevent the landing of airplanes, the report given out here. A strong ice breaker is seen as the only practical hope of rescue.

A dispatch from Oslo says that Capt. Otto Sverdrup, Arctic expert, is pessimistic about rescuing Nobile and his men. Ice breakers, in his opinion, are the best means of rescue, but he said he feared they would arrive too late.

The swing of big delegations to Hoover for president at Kansas City apparently cleared up one of the overhanging uncertainties and liquidation of weakly held stocks was less of a factor than at any time since the reaction started.

Hoover's Nomination Seems Assured After Mellon's Statement

PARTY PLATFORM REPUBLICANS TO
WILL BE ADOPTED BASE THEIR PLEA
AS NOW WRITTEN UPON PROSPERITY

Except For Farm Relief It Is Practically Out And Dried Today
But Squabbles May Arise
Over Agriculture Question

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—(INS)—Except for farm relief the 1928 Republican platform was practically out and dried today. There may be a squabble over one or two planks other than the agriculture issue, but to all intents and purposes the platform will be adopted substantially as already written by Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, who is to be chairman of the Resolutions Committee. This is the opinion of leaders of various shades in the party.

The tentative platform, of about 30 planks, leans closely to the 1924 pattern. It is wordy, lauds Coolidge economy and prosperity, extols the protective tariff, favors strict law enforcement, endorses the administration's efforts to outlaw war and denounces corruption in government elections.

As originally drafted by Smoot, the farm relief plank over which most a tariff readjustment to bring agriculture and industry more nearly on a parity. By reference, at least, it upheld President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen Bill by warning the farmers against panic for industrial fixing and other artificial stimulants. It turned down the militant plank advocated by the militant farmers' group.

A proposal by Smoot draft was conveyed to Hoover here today. Word was sent back that it was too "moderate" in its offer of aid to agriculture. Hoover representatives then started revamping a farm plank. It is now the policy of the Hoover people to offer an affirmative farm program based on the principles of the so-called Justice cooperative marketing act plan. This is an effort to convince the farmers that they can count on assistance from an administrative headed by Hoover.

The Hoover idea is expected to prevail finally in the platform, especially as Hoover leaders are claiming they will have a majority on the Resolutions Committee. Members of the committee are being carefully selected.

It was learned today that recently in Washington secretaries Hoover, Jardine and Mellon conferred on farm relief. They agreed on the general terms of an agricultural program. Mellon however, was understood to have opposed specific endorsement of any particular form of relief. The general idea was laid before President Coolidge but he did not publicly approve the idea as a substitute for the McNary-Haugen Bill. Jardine, who is assisting in drafting the plank, has circulated copies of the program among leaders here.

No doubt the farm plank cannot be adopted without a struggle. The allies against Hoover have made their bid on the basis of agrarian unrest. They have fought for the equalization fee and they are determined, if possible, to have that principle included in the platform even if not mentioning it by name. The more militant elements would specifically endorse the McNary Bill.

HEAD OF UTILITY GROUP TESTIFIES AT 'TRUST' PROBE

Declares He Used Friendship
Among The Newspapers Of
Texas To Spread Propaganda
Of Public Service Body

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(INS)—William C. Grant, director of the Texas Public Service Information Bureau, revealed today before the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the "power trust" that he used his friendship among newspapermen of Texas to disseminate propaganda.

Under cross examination Grant said that he had written to the Texas Utilities Corporations "getting information into the newspapers." This bureau is supported by a $10,000 annual contribution from the utilities of Texas.

Grant said his bureau often entertained newspaper men at banquets. He asserted that he considered his methods legitimate when the information given out was accurate. Grant wrote several editorials in a weekly news bulletin he issued and prepared several editorials, which were published, at the request of a Dallas editor.

STOCK MARKET'S DECLINE MONDAY OVERCOME TODAY

Swing Of Big Delegation To Hoover Seems To Have Gained Effect Upon Trading Which
Yesterday Resulted Poorly

NEW YORK, June 12.—(INS)—Sweeping declines in the prices of industrial stocks at the close of yesterday's session left few weak spots in the general list, and, after preliminary reaction in a number of the motor and specialty stocks today, the market made another effort to rally.

The backlogs piled further with draws from the call loan market, but this was not a great handicap to the market, since funds were well supplied from outside sources. Firmness of the copper metal market was helpful to the copper stocks, in which moderate recoveries took place early in the day. Industrial reports were generally favorable, though it was admitted that the automobile companies are entering the period of reduced sales, and that industrial production in the summer months would doubtless shrink as compared with the first quarter.

With better support from the pools and professionals, the market leaders exhibited a rallying tendency in the afternoon. Weakness in Chrysler motor, Packard and Nash was an unhelpful factor, but after declining 3 points to 27, Chrysler recovered all of its early losses, and demand for the stock around 70 was in good volume.

Japanese Receive Another Report Of War Lord's Death

LONDON, June 12.—(INS)—The Japanese War Office today received another unconfirmed report that Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, is dead, an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokyo stated. Chang was injured when the train taking him to Mukden, Manchuria, was wrecked by a bomb, after he had left Peking at the mercy of the besieging Nationalist troops.

Southern (Nationalist) troops continue their approach towards Tien-Tsin. Gen. Chang Tsung Chang, military governor of Shanghai and commander of the Shanghai army has demanded $1,000,000 from the Chinese Chamber of Commerce at Tien-Tsin as the price of non-occupation.

There are indications that disensions are threatened among the Southern Generals. Gen. Chiang Kai Shek is understood to have resigned his leadership as the result of disputed authority between himself and Gen. Feng Yo Hsiang. The Japanese commander at Tien-Tsin may establish a neutral zone around the city forbidding the Nationalists to enter. The American consul and military authorities have taken no action, but are awaiting developments.

Most Delegates Think Cabinet Candidate Is Due For Nomination On First Balloting

Waverings Groups
Join Hoover Side

Idaho, Which Backed
Borah, Decides To Go To Herb From Start

Kansas City, June 12.—(INS)—A political band wagon with Herbert Hoover sitting in the driver's seat lumbered into Kansas City's big convention hall today for the first session of the Republican National Convention. There was a scarcely a delegate on the platform that did not concede the nomination of the candidate on the first ballot, probably Thursday.

The Butler-Mellon announcement an hour before the convention's assembly that "Coolidge is out of it" and "Hoover is the man" was on everybody's lips. On the floor some of the wavering delegations were caucusing as the convention opened and voting to support Hoover.

Idaho, which had indicated its first vote to its favorite son, Senator Borah, was one of these. The delegates decided to show their support of the nominee by going to him at the start. Over in the New Jersey section, where there were some Lowden delegates, the delegation informally agreed to support Hoover solidly from the first ballot onward.

The Hoover forces believe they are "in". The "pressed allies" against the cabinet candidate are still struggling, savagely and furiously, but it appeared to be a struggle of desperation this morning as the leaders went to bed to snatch a few hours sleep after a night of smoky conferences.

Part of Pennsylvania's 79 votes, at least, are certain to go for Hoover. That much became assured when Senator-designate William B. Vare, who shares with Andrew W. Mellon the leadership of the Keystone delegates, declared unequivocally for Hoover.

"The Republicans in Pennsylvania, in my judgment, are for Herbert Hoover for President," said Vare. "I said in Philadelphia last month at the meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation that he would be the strongest candidate the Republican Party could nominate. I now emphatically repeat that conviction."

"I am convinced of the sincerity of several statements by President Coolidge taking himself out of the race, and I shall therefore use my influence at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation to have Secretary Hoover's candidacy endorsed." Vare controls 19, possibly 30 of the Pennsylvania delegates, Mellon controls the others.

For reasons of his own, Mellon was not willing last night to commit himself beyond the point he has already gone, that of all the candidates who have presented themselves.

Mellon Talk With President Causes Stir In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—(INS)—The most interesting story going the rounds of the Republican Convention today revealed why Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon came to Kansas City without so much word from President Coolidge as to his choice for the Republican nomination.

The Treasury Secretary, anxious to learn the President's wishes, called at the White House just before leaving Washington for the convention, he said. He entered the presidential office, the story went, hopeful of getting some expression from Mr. Coolidge. Their farewell conversation follows according to Mellon's own account.

"Good morning Mr. President," said Mellon, proffering his hand. "Good morning," Mr. Secretary said the President and they shook hands. "I'm about to leave for the convention," Mellon continued. "So I came in to say good-bye." "Good-bye," said the President, proffering his hand. They shook hands and Mellon left.

Marx Cabinet Quits Today After Defeat

BERLIN, June 12.—(INS)—The Marx Cabinet resigned today and immediately afterwards President Von Hindenburg offered the chancellorship to Hermann Mueller, socialist and former chancellor of Germany. Herr Mueller accepted the commission to form a new cabinet and began holding conferences with political leaders concerning the personnel of the next government. It is understood it will be a tri-party coalition, containing socialists, democrats and at least one member of the German People's Party.

The Marx Cabinet resigned as a result of the defeat in the recent general election.

TILDEN BELIEVES HE WILL DEFEAT LACOSTE, COCHET

Acc Of American Tennis Team Is Wrapped Up In His Determination To Check French And Return Davis Cup To U.S.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 11.—(INS)—The psychics would call it a "fixation" and prattle long about cause and effect until they considered you had received your fifty ($50) dollars ($5) worth.

But lawn tennis knows that Fred never was strong along the base line; that, in fact, he is only at his best overhead—over almost everyone's, to be exact.

Lawn tennis, therefore, would prefer to consider the matter as coming under the head of an honest conviction.

Anyhow, it developed today, with the young man several days out on the bounding blue bosom of the Atlantic, that William T. Tilden is obsessed with the belief that he can and will beat both Lacoste and Cochet in the impending meetings abroad, thus obtaining personal satisfaction and possession of the Davis Cup at one and the same time.

They say this conviction has become almost a mania with Tilden. He is so wrapped up in the idea that before leaving he determined to be interviewed about his chances, and of necessity America's, because he feared his notions might be confounded with egotism. But to personal friends, he made no secret of his confidence in being able to carry through the program outlined. It appears that his whole being is concentrated fiercely on this objective.

No dramatic pauses to confuse Tilden's interests this time; no successive appearances in small time tournaments until his stamina is turned down to the edge of the wick. Tilden, they say is more "ready" for what is before him than he has been in recent years. Instead of exhaustive exhibitions, he has been conserving his energies by playing only when necessary in Davis Cup contests. Instead of quick-change transitions from greasy paint, he has been practicing strokes.

His only concern, outside of the campaign abroad, is his incipient disagreement with a faction in the tennis association and even that may have been settled. They had a little dinner here the night the team sailed and it was whispered that the controversy if ever it really reached the state, might have been settled then.

If it wasn't the dissenting faction can make up its mind to the fact that Tilden will have his way, sooner or later and probably both.

The trouble concerns the dissenters fear that Tilden will try to do too much, whereas he is inspired with the perfectly logical idea that the invasion will fall down only if he fails to do enough. It is reasonable to suspect that the challenge round, if we get into it, boils down to a duello between Tilden and France. Therefore, the young man is mostly right in contending that he should let severely alone to make his fight as he sees it.

Orlando Romps off With 2nd Game of Palm Beach Series

WEST PALM BEACH, June 11.—Orlando romped off with the second game of a four-game series here today behind the pitching of Red Sweeney, who blanked the home club, 12 to 0. The Colts bunched 11 singles with eight errors to make their runs. In the field they turned in 20 assists without an error. Second baseman Chauncey started with 12 difficult chances. Score:

BAMBINO CLOUTS 2 MORE HOMERS TO MAKE RECORD

Five Of Babe's Last Blows Have Been For The Circuit; Senators Nose Out Tribe While Giants Lose To Reds

NEW YORK, June 11.—(INS)—Working on the idea of hitting 'em a mile or not at all, Babe Ruth, baseball's master record-maker, has established a new kind of a mark for the boys to shoot at. Since May 28, he has made only six safe hits, but five of these were homers and the sixth a triple which was wasted when the Bambino tried to stretch it to four bases.

The sirdar of swat clouted homers no. 21 and 22 yesterday and is now seven games ahead of his last year's record, but the Yankees, who had won six straight, dropped an 8 to 6 decision to the tail-end Chicago White Sox, the first team which has stopped the Yanks on their western trip.

The Senators nosed out Cleveland yesterday, 6 to 5. Detroit swamped the Athletics, 9 to 3, and Sam Gray of the St. Louis Browns registered his tenth victory of the season in winning a brilliant 2 to 1 duel from Charley Ruffing of the Red Sox. Boston dropped to seventh.

Continued held on to first place in the National League when Jackie May held the Giants to five hits and whitewashed them, 3 to 0, Horace Ford, Cincy shortstop, accepted his 12th chance without an error. Henry and Cantwell were the losing pitchers.

Led by the rejuvenated Rabbit Marvile, who made four hits in as many times at bat, the St. Louis Cardinals battered Brooklyn, 15 to 7, and took second place away from New York. Del Blasonette of Brooklyn walloped his eleventh homer, tying Hack Wilson and Rogers Hornsby for the home run hitting honors in the National League.

Ramon Novarro Is Star In Excellent Picture At Milane

Ramon Novarro—as a philanthropic, young English lord with an infatuation complex that gets him into many a peck of trouble—is the central figure of the latest whimsical romance of the screen, in which the star makes his bow in an entirely new guise, in "A Certain Young Man," his new Metro-Goldwyn vehicle coming today to the Milane Theatre.

Ramon is introduced with moustache and monocle, in the very height of fashion in London, but after he meets THE girl he discards both and tries to live down

CHICAGO BOXING FANS SHOW KEEN INTEREST IN BOUT

Mickey-Walker, Ace Hudkins Battle In Attracting Attention Of Enthusiasts Such As Few Other Matches

CHICAGO, June 11.—In this war-like town where the citizens are accustomed to take their machine guns or use iron pincuppers as the situation may prompt, it takes a pretty good fight to arouse any interest.

But the Mickey Walker-Ace Hudkins, middleweight championship, fight at White Sox Park Chicago, scheduled for June 21 has taken Chicago by storm. Not since Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey started the "Argument of the Age" with their "battle of the 12 second count" in the country's largest stadium last September, has the local general been so steamed up about a pugilistic event.

An impartial review of the facts would seem to indicate that Chicago has a right to look forward with interest to the impending engagement of fistuffs.

Risking Title
Mickey Walker will be risking his middleweight title. The scrap will bring together two men who are known to pack dynamite in their gloves. The little Bulldog-faced Walker has more color than any other scrapper in the game since Jack Dempsey.

"Perfumery" Jack Kearns, who is as meticulous in his selection of his fighters as he is in the choice of his haberdashery and various scents, is Walker's manager.

Offhand these are a few of the reasons why a good portion of the Chicago's male citizenry and some of the female too intend to be among those present on the night of June 21.

Walker rules an overwhelming favorite in the betting to tame the Nebraska Wildcat. Chicago fight fans have not forgotten the frightful battering the lighter Walker gave Oom Paul Herlenback, the study wrestler-boxer and former light heavyweight champion in a Windy City ring.

Then Hudkins is going out of his class in attempting to wrest Walker's title from him. The sale of Ocala Chapdelaine—also known as Jack Delaney—who is known to heavyweight heights and was lowered to the K. O. division by the fists of Jack Sharkey yet so long ago is fresh in the minds of boxing followers.

Hudkins has always fought as a welterweight and although he was a popular drawing card because of his aggressive tactics, has not always come out victorious. His most recent imbroglio was his meeting with Sargeant Sammy Baker at Madison Square Garden during the early part of the fight stumped his soldier opponent to such an extent that he was practically out on his feet for the remainder of the fight. Hudkins was given a close decision.

Big Plans Made
It is true that Hudkins has for the past year had a great deal of difficulty in making the welterweight limit. There was some speculation among the Nebraska fighter's followers on the eve of his fight with Sergeant Sammy that the A.C. would lose the decision to the Boxing Commission's scales.

Walker has not risked his title since his tiff with Tommy McGillan last summer in London. Walker easily triumphed in the International event pummeling the game but none too sturdy McGillan into a bloody pulp and winning on a technical knockout.

Jack Kearns, who was Dempsey's manager, formed the ring game's great triumvirate with Donipsey and Rickard, is preparing with the same thoroughness that he went about the various other title events in which his business acumen has played a big part. He was on the scene here early to choose a suitable training site for Walker.

his past—with results that land him in many trials and tribulations. In his escape from these a real love story comes in, as charmingly romantic as any he has ever appeared in, and all done in an ultra-modern vein. The story would do credit to Navarro.

It starts with the adventures of a young boulevardier whose flirtations are the talk of staid old London, and when he goes to Biarritz and other Southern France playgrounds to escape too many pretty women the real romance develops. Marceline Day is the heroine, and Carmel Myers and Genevieve Adoree play the rival charmers. Huntley Gordon, Bert Rouch and others of note are in the cast, and Hobart Henley, past master of sophistication, and famous for "The Auction Block" and other plays, directed it.

Navarro in a modern dress suit proves even more romantic than in a uniform, and probably will make modern flapper's hearts throb at an even livelier rate than in his costume pictures.

Arbitration Offer Of Bank's Receiver Is Rejected By City

Voicing his disapproval of the proposition, Mayor Housholder said to recognize the Seminole claim would be to pay twice and would mean a tremendous increase in the tax burden.

"Litigation is now under way to determine this very question," the Mayor said. "I don't see why we should try to decide this matter now when there is a court of competent jurisdiction already reviewing the issue."

The mayor voiced the opinion that the "people don't believe we owe the bank and I personally know we don't. Of course if the courts were to decide that we do, we would have to how to their will. We are willing to pay what we owe, but this seems to be so apparent that we don't owe that I prefer to see the courts decide the question."

Commissioner Chase said he also favored a decision by the courts. City Attorney DeCotte declared that arbitration is often resorted to when individual interests are affected but denied its successful application to a matter such as the one under consideration.

"The Commissioners could not justify their legal and public position by submitting to arbitration," he asserted. "They are the mouthpiece of thousands and this a matter of vital public importance, so much so they could not consent to any such proposal and be true to their public trust."

The proposal was described by the City Attorney as a "threat" and used for the purpose of "intimidating this Commission."

Mr. Dighton emphasized that the arbitration would be made a rule of the court and that its decision would be just as "safe and solemn and competent as that on any court."

"Suppose you withdraw your petition today and come back later with this proposition?" Mayor Housholder queried Mr. Ashcraft.

The receiver replied in the negative. "The longer we wait, the more our position is endangered," he said. "You are increasing your bonded debt all the time and you are paying more than eight per cent on your obligations. You have no right to postpone your debts and exclude the Seminole County Bank. I as a taxpayer, have a right to intervene and this I am doing."

The Mayor offered another proposal. "Suppose you get a petition signed by a majority of the depositors, asking you to withdraw your action, would you agree to that?"

The receiver again replied in the negative, saying that he represented all depositors, large and small, and that such a proposition would not be fair.

Mr. DeCotte addressed a question to Mr. Dighton. "If you go ahead with this proceeding and run the credit of the city, how will that help you to get payment of your proposed claims?"

"The responsibility is entirely yours," returned the attorney for the receiver.

With a tone of finality, Mayor Housholder observed that "we can't settle this with a weak over our heads," and then told the Commission's unanimous decision to reject the receiver's offer.

The proposition as submitted by Mr. Ashcraft's attorney is as follows:

"With reference to the petition in intervention filed by me in the Circuit Court of Seminole County on behalf of the Seminole County Bank as a taxpayer, I submit the following proposition for your consideration:

"I will withdraw the petition and my objections to your proposed re-funding bond issue, if you will diminutive treasury head will be launched this afternoon upon his arrival here.

In their desperation to "stop Hoover" the allies are keeping the draft-Coolidge movement well up in the foreground. And that is another thing for which they are anxiously awaiting the arrival of Mr. Mellon. They expect him to bring the word, definitely and finally, as to whether Mr. Coolidge would choose to run if the convention goes ahead and nominates him, anyway. They believe that he knows. They also believe he knows whether Charles E. Hughes meant it when he said that he was not a candidate and would not accept a nomination if it were made. They know that Hughes was the original first choice of both Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Mellon. And to the allies it is "anybody but Hoover" anything to beat Hoover."

The essence of the matter is whether the City is indeed liable upon these obligations. If it is not, I have no desire to interfere with your refinancing plans. If it is, justice to the depositors of the Seminole County Bank demands that provision should be made for the prompt payment of these debts.

"I am convinced that your approval of this proposition will result:

1. In clearing the financial atmosphere of this community.
2. In settling many intricate and perplexing questions which in a large measure are responsible for our present financial ills.
3. In some way completing the liquidation of the Seminole County Bank which is a development greatly to be desired, not only for the best interests of the depositors but of the community as a whole.
4. In greatly increasing the dividends to the depositors of the Seminole County Bank.
5. In assisting you in refinancing the City upon a basis that will insure its credit standing and materially reduce the tax burden upon the people.
6. In saving to the City and the depositors of the Bank many thousands of dollars in attorney fees and their expenses which would otherwise be spent in protracted litigation.

"Your refusal to accept the above suggestion can only be construed as disregarding the rights of the depositors of the bank which I represent as receiver, in which event I will feel amply justified in proceeding with my petition in intervention to protect such depositors, and I shall resist with all the power at my command your present policy of paying your other creditors through large increases in your bonded debt to the exclusion of our claims."

Search Is Begun For 2 Missing Students

BOSTON, June 11.—(INS)—Search for two vanished college students was instituted in eastern Massachusetts today. Boston and Massachusetts state police were looking for William Wayne Neff, son of a Chicago millionaire and a student manager of the Harvard varsity crew, who was last seen aboard a trolley car between Stoughton and New London, Conn.

At the same time a new search began for Miss Frances St. John South, who mysteriously disappeared from Smith College. A law firm engaged in the search emphasized the fact that Miss Smith had remarkable musical ability, that she may be teaching music or playing in an orchestra.

NEW YORK, June 11.—(INS)—"My compliments—but I never talk politics." With this General John J. Pershing waived aside all discussion of his possible candidacy for President when he returned from Europe today aboard the Leviathan.

Major Harry Mackey of Philadelphia passenger on the same vessel, had told reporters General Pershing had the qualities of a wonderful executive, and would fill either the Presidency or Vice-presidency with honor. The General denied reports that he was hurrying back from France to attend the Republican Convention in Kansas City.

Siddons Overrules Motion For Verdict

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(INS)—A motion to direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the contempt trial of Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was overruled by Justice Frederick L. Siddons, in the district supreme court today.

Stewart is charged with refusal to answer questions relating to the Continental Trading Company, asked by the Senate Teapot Dome committee last February. The jury was excused until tomorrow. It was expected the case would go to the jury late tomorrow or Wednesday.

It Used to Be the "Coal Oil" Age

"COAL OIL" BOB SCOTT of Madison, Indiana, at about 24 years old, had this wagon and team built and has been on the job in Madison ever since. Coal was not out of use 52 years ago. "Coal Oil" Bob was just out of school when the Drake well discovered oil in western Pennsylvania. In his lifetime the oil business has grown from a single well representing an investment of less than $2000 to an industry which, in the United States, is second only to agriculture and the railroads. Paul Meyers, shown in the picture, is the twenty-first owner of this wagon. He supposes that eventually he will have to conform to modernity and put the old tank on a truck, but he is still content to drive his horse, ringing the bell to let the housewives know that the oil wagon is coming.

TUESDAY, JUNE 12, 1923. BIBLE VERSES FOR TODAY: A GOOD NEIGHBOR—Devise not evil against thy neighbor, seeing he dwelleth securely by thee.

RAY—May we, Lord, prove that we are good neighbors by ministering Thy Spirit to nations as well as individuals.

RUMOUR—In the London Spectator—Somebody is whispering on the stairs.

What are those words half spoken, half drawn back, some muffled words, some red, some black? Who is whispering? Who is there? Somebody is sneaking up the stair, with feet approaching every doorway. Yet never a moment standing anywhere.

Now they are whispering close outside some door. O suddenly push it open wide—You see: whoever said he heard them, he has lied.

And yet words are left dark like heavy dust in many rooms, or red like rust, and who contrives to leave them? Some one must.

In every street, this noisy town of ours, has stealthily whispering watchers walking round. Recording all our movements, every sound, hissing and shuffling, and they may have found today my name: tomorrow they'll find yours.—By Harold Monro.

George W. Bean, when he reached the Kansas City convention, turned out to be a "has bean."

There is no danger that that paint which renders a thing nearly invisible will be used by good-looking girls.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Hey, Bob, jack up your mail box. We haven't seen your paper for two weeks, and we can't get along without the Lake Region.

A North Carolina paper wisely remarks that it is in the twinkling of an eye that many men are changed from bachelors to married men.

Friends of Chief Baker of Orlando are congratulating him that he was found not guilty of murder in the second degree.

The hardest task of the average candidate for office is to keep the darn fools from supporting him.—Orlando Reporter-Star. That ruined a lot of them, all right.

Doyle E. Carlton handed Florida political forecasters one of the surprises of their lives. Which goes to show that political prognostications aren't worth a great deal after all.—Key West Citizen.

Miss Amelia Earhart is determined to be the first woman to fly to Europe. Other women have been similarly determined, but none has accomplished the feat yet. We wish this lady better luck.

The latest point of one of the Hathaway papers: "Most of us will be satisfied if Catts lost."—Sarasota Times. We'll be surprised if some of them don't wail: "We were really for Carrion all the time."

The point of view can change everything. From the point of view of the men on the "Italia," they were never lost. They knew where they were all the time; it was the rest of the world that was lost.

For a while it looked as if it would be hard going for the local reporter after the election, but now that Ashcraft has gone to bat with the City, it looks as if we would be amply supplied with news for some time to come.

The English, no doubt, couldn't get the American point of view when we refused to allow the Countess Cathcart to remain in this country on account of "moral standards," but they developed a new "under" of their own when they tried to land in their own country. The idea seems to be "Keep your hands off home."

Ask Senator Borah—He Talks

It is indeed a poor man in whom his enemies cannot find something to criticize. Herb Hoover is no exception in this rule. Not being able to find anything objectionable in what he has done—except possibly a few indications that he is a "nigger lover" and, hence, could not win votes in the South—the dark horse supporters pick flaws in what he has not done. He has not, for instance, elaborated at sufficient length on what he meant when he said he "favored the Coolidge policies."

Taking this as ample reason to believe that he hasn't a possible chance of nomination at Kansas City, the Raleigh News and Observer, which hasn't a bit more to do with a Republican convention than we have, laments as follows:

Having said he "favored the Coolidge policies" Mr. Hoover is finding it so difficult to tell what they are, his campaign seems to have struck a snag.

Does Hoover stand for the Coolidge policy of entering the League of Nations or its abandonment?

Does he stand for Coolidge's packing the tariff commission in the interest of subsidies for steel and other trust?

Does he stand for Coolidge's policy of Dollar Diplomacy, marines in Nicaragua, drift in Europe, imperialism in the Philippines?

Does he stand with Coolidge against legislation looking to reducing the inequalities that bear hard on the farmer?

Does he approve his slow and unjust policy as to the Mississippi river legislation?

Mr. Hoover is a resourceful man, but he has not yet been able to satisfy the public where he stands on any real issue—not even on prohibition enforcement, though he says it is "a noble experiment." Mr. Coolidge said about as much, but when he appointed Mellon (distiller) to enforce it and saw it flouted without action, he did more to hurt prohibition than all its enemies.

Personally, we believe it may stand Mr. Hoover in good stead that he has not talked much. Just before the tongue-tied secretary of the treasury, with the great secret imbedded in his own skull, left for the convention, he called on the taciturn Coolidge. The conversation was probably as valuable as was the Coolidge's, when, sitting by the hearth fire, she said, "What did you say, Cal?" and he, with astounding loquaciousness replied, "I never said nothing."

No, Mr. Hoover has not committed himself on our foreign policy, the Marines in Nicaragua, or our poor, down-trodden farmers. That may possibly be the reason why he will be nominated.

Rivers and Harbors

To those Sanford people who have been fighting for years for deeper water in the St. Johns River and for better river transportation facilities, it has been gratifying to learn that Congress is at last taking into consideration the remarkable growth of this state during the past few years and is making appropriations more nearly proportionate to our development. The Times-Union in a recent editorial says:

"A bill in which Florida is given much interest is designated as H. R. 14066, was reported to the house on May 28, but because of final adjournment of the session then being in sight it was not taken up for consideration. Senator Fletcher is reported, however, as feeling confident that this bill, in which are included a number of Florida river and harbor improvement projects, will be passed by the house in the next session, then be considered by the senate, and additional items included, and agreed to by both houses. In this bill provision is made, and the several amounts of money authorized to be expended, for the following improvement items:

St. Johns River (Palatka to Lake Harney), $63,000; Charlotte Harbor, $22,500; Tampa harbor, $748,000; Caloosahatchee river, $620,000; East Pass channel, Choctawhatchee bay, $600.

"These figures, although not official, but regarded as reliable, show a total of $1,454,100 to be expended as set forth. Practically all of this money will be expended in Florida, most of it for material and labor. Thus, while important improvements will be secured, employment will be given to an extent that will be appreciated. With other projects added to the program, as Florida's senior senator feels assured will be done, a very considerable aggregate amount of government money will be disbursed in Florida within the next two or three years for the purposes specified, all of which is very gratifying from an improvement as well as from an employment standpoint.

"It is very evident that, with proper presentation, congress is disposed to recognize Florida needs in matters of river and harbor improvements, made necessary by conditions of state development and growth, as well as with reference to providing necessary buildings and facilities for the proper handling of the government business, as in courts and postoffices. It is now quite generally known that Florida is making rapid advancement, that it is no longer a frontier state, and that in order to provide for the proper handling of government and private business in Florida, including commerce, adequate facilities must be provided. Furthermore, Florida contributes annually its full share of taxes to the national treasury, and it is only fair that Florida should receive back a fair proportion of the money thus paid."

THE EAST COAST CANAL

Eleven counties along the East Coast from Jacksonville to Miami are deeply concerned in the development of the East Coast canal. Its value has been known for many years, and its importance to the people of Florida is unquestioned. An opportunity is now offered for the enterprise to become an assured success with the United States government back of it. The counties that the canal will pass through and which will be directly benefited are Duval, St. Johns, Flagler, Volusia, Brevard, St. Lucie, Martin Indian River, Palm Beach Broward and Dade. The waterway will pass through each of them and will connect them by an inside route safe for launches, barges and houseboats, with towns along the Atlantic coast as far north as Boston. Ultimately the route will be continued to Galveston, the entire route to be under the control of the United States government. Such a waterway will reach the principal cities of the Atlantic coast as well as the Gulf of Mexico, and will touch hundreds of smaller towns. It will put Miami and all other Florida Coast cities and towns in direct communication by water with the localities with which they do business, will link them with each other and with the most populated regions of the country by a water route that means cheap transportation, through as well as local. Away back in 1881 the Florida East Coast canal was begun as a private enterprise. Since that time it has had many ups and downs. The expense of construction and operation was so heavy that it has never given satisfactory service, and in recent years it has been in such condition that much of it was of no value as it is too shallow for any craft larger than canoes. Experience has shown that as a private concern depending on tolls for its success it is impractical. Either the government must take hold

THE BAD SPOT IN THE ROAD

ST. PETERSBURGH INDEPENDENT

Georgia has long been the bad spot in the road between Florida and a large part of the North. Georgia lies directly in the way and Georgia is a big state. Motorists can detour around it to be sure—and many motorists have so detoured, especially motorists from the middle-west and near-eastern states—but the detour is a long one, and the worst feature of it is that the detour seldom makes the going any better for the motorists. Alabama is not far behind Georgia as a state of execrable highways.

For several years Georgia highbatted the tourist motorists because they passed through the state, swearing at the roads and the accommodations as they went, and spent the winter season in Florida. The entire season in the Sunshine State was necessary for many of the tourists to get their system and some of them never did get over it. But now Georgia is waking up. The Georgia newspapers have discovered that Georgia is making a colossal mistake to let its nationally-known red clay roads get worse and worse while North Carolina and South Carolina and Virginia and Tennessee and even Alabama are building better highways. The newspapers are demanding that Georgia join the procession and have good roads.

FLORIDA

THE meeting of crises, the answers to adversity, the acceptance of victories, the appraisal of the present, the judgment of the past and preparation for the future, all weigh the strength of character and measure the calibre of men.

MEN are building Florida. MEN WHO ARE AT WORK, with their feet on the ground and their eyes on the future. Reaching out for broader possibilities and greater achievements, unsatisfied to envision the future in terms simply of greater prosperity, these men of Florida are building a magnificent Empire.

You know them. In every community they are meeting their tasks as they come, refusing to be licked, steadily moving forward. These men today see cities of broad streets, spacious landing fields, magnificent harbors, and new thousands of palatial homes dotting the countryside in Florida. They see a Florida matchless in its advantages as a state to live in and work in—an Empire of unsurpassed opportunities for more men of the type that are contributing so loyally to its progress today.

Busy men and women in Florida who are at work at their jobs today—who have neither time nor patience for the idle talk of the pessimist—are building a greater future for themselves in a GREATER FLORIDA.

Hunt Is Conducted For Mail Robbers Who Broke Prison

CHICAGO, June 11.—(INS)—Search for Charles "Limpy" Cleaver, alleged leader of the $125,000 Grand Trunk mail robbery, and his four pals who made a sensational escape from the Du Page County Jail at Wheaton, Ill., centered in Chicago today. It is believed the five desperadoes are being hidden by gangster allies in some underworld rendezvous.

The jail break was dramatic, yesterday morning William Edgerton, 62, a deputy sheriff, was standing guard near the desperadoes' cell. As his back was turned, one of the prisoners reached through the bars with a makeshift back-kick and struck him over the head.

Edgerton staggered the men grabbed him and beat him unmercifully. They took his keys and unlocked the cell door. Stepping into the corridor they lifted the limp body of the deputy and carried him into the cell, locking him in.

The desperadoes then fled into the sheriff's office, seized three shotguns and fled to the jail yard. There they climbed into Edgerton's automobile and drove away.

History Of Famous Jewels Makes Film At Milan Theatre

The romantic histories of famous diamonds, from the time of the fabulous Golconda to the modern Hope diamond, with its trail of intrigue, tragedy and mystery, sprang the strange research for one of the most remarkable screen plays of the year, "Diamond Handcuffs," Cosmopolitan's gripping new drama of love, diamonds and the underworld, coming to the Theatre.

The story centers about a great diamond, tracing its adventures from its discovery in the East, into the mazes of the underworld, its sinister spell constantly wrecking human souls. Much of its detail is based on actual history.

The first famous diamond, the Golconda, found in India, was a world mystery. So nearly as can be ascertained it was finally cut into three gemstones which, the story tells, being stolen from an Indian, and presented by a Russian

GERMANS THINK THEY HAVE PLANE FOR OCEAN WORK

Aeronautical Engineers Have Constructed Airship Which Will Take Up Many Persons And Will Ride Heavy Seas

BY DR. ROSWELL T-PETIT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 9. German aeronautical engineers have constructed a plane which they hope will solve trans-oceanic flight problems. It is more a "flying ship" than an airplane and called the Dornier-Wal flying ship.

It is a cabin boat with 10 foot beam and has two cabins which can carry 20 persons. The ship can ride a fairly rough sea and will not be blown off its feet.

German engineers are confident of the ship riding the waves. They are confident this is the plane of future ocean travel. The plane can travel from 90 to 110 miles per hour. Even today the engineers of Germany are planning upon constructing a Dornier-Wal capable of carrying 100 persons with perhaps five to eight motors.

How It Works
Herr Hermann Schroeder, general manager of the Deutsche Luft Hansa, the German Aviation Company, explained the working of this new ship shortly before I left Berlin and Tompfehofer flying field. The plane that was to take us to Copenhagen and to Malmo, in southern Sweden, was an Albatross, a two-motored bi-plane and from its construction and the peculiar hum of its motors, I suspected it was a converted German bombing plane.

We taxied across the field to get into position to take off against the wind and soon the 600 horsepower engines opened up and the Albatross soared from the field.

We ran into rain storms, snow squalls and heavy winds that the ship behaved in good fashion. The country gradually changed and resembled the fields of Belgium with its narrow work fields and the whole landscape dotted with the red roofed cottages.

Over the Baltic
The sky ceiling was low and we glided downward to the 1,000 foot level as I could observe by the altimeter.

We sailed over the crystal clear water of an arm of the Baltic Sea. On ahead the tall spires of the Cathedral at Lubeck rose up to meet us. In another moment the pilot throttled down the engine and I knew we had arrived at Travemunde, the last stop in Germany before hopping off to Copenhagen in Denmark.

We dropped over the trees and clouds of this fishing village and landed. It was here the Dornier-Wal was first pointed out to me.

We changed planes and were off again, skimming the blue-green water, heading again towards the north and colder weather. In some places the water was so shallow we could see the wrinkled bottom.

Over Denmark, with its many ponds and villages, it looked like a Swiss cheese. We dropped to the flying field at Copenhagen to allow a storm to pass and then zoomed into the air again to Sweden and the aerial tour of Europe was over.

prince to Catherine II. It is the center of many grim stories. Another piece formed the Koh-i-Noor, later presented to Queen Victoria.

The famous Cullinan diamond, the Jubilee another huge stone and the Hope diamond, recently in the lime-light, are others which have given rise to many tales of the sinister spells behind these stones.

The new picture sows a great diamond working destruction and havoc. A native steals it, sacrificing his life, for love of a woman. It precipitates a grim battle with machine guns between police and gangsters in an American city, and a domestic tragedy in society.

Head Of Stone Mountain Memorial Was Drafted For Job By Board Of Directors

ATLANTA, Ga., June 12.—G. F. Willis, the new President of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association, was literally drafted for the office.

The Board of Directors elected him in spite of his emphatic protest in the meeting and told him he was drafted. This action was followed by a united appeal from members of the Georgia School of Technology, some years ago, needed $2,000,000 for an expansion program. Mr. Willis took the chairmanship of a campaign and raised the money by public subscription, a thing never done before in Georgia for a state-owned institution.

When the United Confederate Veterans held their reunion here in 1919, the Sons Of Confederate Veterans, of which Mr. Willis is a member, needed $50,000 to entertain them. They called on Mr. Willis and he raised it.

Born, reared and educated in North Carolina, Mr. Willis came to Atlanta some twenty years ago and has achieved remarkable success in numerous and sundry business ventures. He was the founder and president several years of International Proprietaries, Inc. He founded and was president of Zonite Products Company until he disposed of his holdings in that corporation. Four years ago he bought a group of farms on the edge of Decatur, a small city adjoining Atlanta, and converted them into Avondale Estates, a beautiful residential community with model homes, schools, parks and playgrounds. He recently founded and is president of G. F. Willis, Inc., a new venture of nationwide scope.

His reasons for holding back was not lack of interest in the project, but complete absorption in his business affairs, which are very extensive. He wanted the Association to find a man for whose time to the work, but no such man was to be found.

So far from lack of interest in the project, Mr. Willis has been its devoted friend and patron from its inception. He was one of the first to contribute to it, years ago, before a stroke of work had been done on the mountain. He has contributed several thousand dollars to it, has loaned the Association at various times in cash and by check several hundred dollars.

He has served five years on the Board of Directors and executive committee. With the sole exception of his predecessors, Hollins N. Randolph, no man has given it more time, money and constant attention.

From the personal standpoint, it would have been impossible for the Association to find a more popular President. It is saying in Atlanta that "Everybody likes George Willis." He is a bighearted, public-spirited citizen, always ready to continue to worthy causes. When the Georgia School of Technology, some years ago, needed $2,000,000 for an expansion program, Mr. Willis took the chairmanship of a campaign and raised the money by public subscription, a thing never done before in Georgia for a state-owned institution.

HAGEN RETURNS AMID CHEERS OF GOLFING ADDICTS

Sir Walter Comes Back Here After Winning British Open, Left United States In Low Spirits Because Of Finance

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 9.—Maybe I ought to brush up on my Horatio Alger before I start this one, for it deals with a man who had spent much of his recent career deftly parrying fate's left lead with his chin, yet lived the matter down to such purpose that today he stands to cash possibly as much as $150,000 in the ensuing 12 months. I am referring to Walter Hagen, who left America two months ago with hardly the flutter of a regretful kerchief to mark his parting and who returned yesterday to be feted, flattered and caajoled.

As Walter Hagen, golfer, he could have left the country on a raft and few would have been the wiser. As British open champion, only the inevitable band wagon could do justice to his return. Yet, Horatio is badly needed in a case like this, and reference value of that ponderous tone, from boot-black to bootlegger or something being well nigh imperative.

Hagen was pretty much of a poor man again as he set out for England this Spring. Never a conservative sort, he had blown his savings or rather what he happened to have on hand through the fault of his own attempting to purchase the Rochester Ball Club in the International League.

The loss of that money couldn't have come at a more inopportune
