Wekiva Development Decisions Must Wait

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Two meetings in Sanford Tuesday concerning the Wekiva River basin and its development resulted in protest and delay.

Almost 200 Wekiva-area residents showing up to protest the proposed 1,240-home development rejected by Seminole County but being appealed before a state hearing officer. In the other meeting, the St. Johns River Water Management District governing board decided to delay buffering and setback rules for the basin until more study can be made.

The protesting residents showed up for the evening public hearing on the proposed development of Amcor Investments Corp., dubbed Plantation, at Sanford City Hall. The firm, of Phoenix, wants to build 1,240 homes along the river on 573 acres.

The people complained that higher density than one home per acre, as the county allows, would damage a pristine waterway, hurt drinking water supplies and change the rural character of the neighborhood. The public hearing portion of the meetings, which last until Thursday, went on for almost two hours.

One speaker, Carolina Nurik, submitted a petition which she said contained 287 signatures of residents opposed to the development.

She said wells for more than 1,000 homes could lead to saltwater intrusion into the Floridian aquifer. Amcor consultants said, however, no such destruction of the aquifer would occur because a drainage plan would send stormwater runoff into wetlands in sheets over earthen banks, rather than by pipe into the swamp or river.

About 750 members of the Markham Woods Association were represented by Frank Shelton, its president, who argued that appeals by developers should not overthrow decisions by local governments. The county has already rejected the Plantation based on its land-use

Party Celebrates Interchange

Developer and frozen food-pizza entrepreneur Jeno Paulucci thanked those who worked for the Interstate 4-State Road 46-A interchange Tuesday at a cocktail party thrown by fellow-developer E. Everette Huskey.

The interchange, approved in the override of President's veto of a federal highway bill Thursday, would serve Paulucci's luxury development Heathrow and developments of Huskey and others.

At the festivities at the Heathrow Country Club, Paulucci made a much applauded speech thanking supporters and the "Centerra" group of developers that worked for the interchange.

He said his next goals are to obtain a pro-basketball team for Central Florida, secure a rapid mass transit system between Daytona Beach and Tampa, get the Sanford Regional Airport expanded and serviced by commercial airlines and to get a beltway "loop" expressway built around greater Orlando and through Seminole County.

Paulucci also expressed the wish that the Lake Mary-Heathrow area would soon be the "downtown" and crossroads of Seminole County.

Longwood OKs Salaries For Land Planners

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

In a move Commissioner Bill Gunter said would use up money that could otherwise "keep a (police) officer on the road," the Longwood City Commission passed two ordinances legalizing the $100 monthly salaries received by members of the city's Land Planning Agency since 1985.

Each of the board's five members have been collecting $100 a month and some benefits, but there was no provision for the payments by city ordinance.

Gunter argued at Monday's commission meeting the $500 could better be used to pay Longwood police officers who were being taken off duty "for up to a month at a time" because the city couldn't afford overtime pay. Gunter said this was endangering public safety. Commissioner Lynette Dennis joined him in opposing the Land Planning Agency salaries ordinances, which passed on a 3-2 vote.

"You are just blowing smoke as usual," Commissioner Harvey Smerilson told Gunter. "The problem is, the police department is three or four officers short now and there is no money in the budget for overtime. This (the Land Planner's salaries) is not something new, it's just a house cleaning ordinance. The LPA has been getting the salary all along."

"You are paying volunteers for what they volunteered to do," Gunter said. "I don't understand why they should be singled-out from other volunteer boards that put in many hours, such as the Christmas parade committee or the Code Enforcement Board. As it goes down the road I think the Code Enforcement Board and others should be paid accordingly."

Deputy Mayor June Lormann replied, "You can't say the LPA and parade committee are the same type of organization. We don't have a staff of planners (the city has a full-time city planner, Chris Nagle and has hired planning consultants to work on updating the city's comprehensive plan) so the LPA does these things. I, for one, believe they deserve the salary."

It was pointed out that the Land Planning Agency meets at least twice a month and sometimes weekly. Mayor Ed Myers said he has calculated that LPA members are being paid 13 cents an hour. The board includes an architect, a landscape designer, a contractor, professional engineer, and retired builder.

Phyllis Turner of Harbor Isle Way said, "We should all be proud of our Land Planning board. They also are looking out for public safety, that is

Driver Acquitted In DUI Manslaughter Case

A 38-year-old Winter Springs man was found not guilty of DUI manslaughter Tuesday following a week-long trial in Sanford.

Acquitted was Russell Virgil Dean of 712 Highgate Drive. He had been charged with the alcohol-related death Aug. 9 of Albert McGuire Jr., 19, 247 E. Orange Ave., Longwood.

The six-member jury of three men and three women deliberated about three hours before returning their verdicts of not guilty on the DUI manslaughter charge, a vehicular homicide charge and driving under the influence charge.

A central question in the case was whether Dean was intoxicated at the time of the accident. Since the state had charged him with DUI manslaughter it had to prove he was intoxicated, a condition that requires not only a certain blood-alcohol level but additionally the appearance of being drunk. While Dean's blood-alcohol level was over the .10 level of being legally under the influence, he appeared sober to witnesses and able to drive. The law was changed after the accident and in DUI manslaughter cases since October the state only has to prove influence, not intoxication. Dean's case was the second DUI manslaughter case within a year in Seminole County in which the accused, though having been drinking, did not appear under the influence and thus changed the outcome of the case.

According to Longwood police, McGuire was southbound on U.S. Highway 17-92 at about 85 mph when Dean tried to cross the highway in his 1981 Ford pickup truck. The car and truck hit then McGuire's car skidded 83 feet

Martinez' Proposals Draw Fire

Martinez pushes tax reform, 3A
Gun bills pass first hearing, 5A

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Two key leaders on education issues say they are not pleased with the education proposals in Gov. Bob Martinez' first State of the State address.

Martinez drew fire from Commissioner of Education Betty Castor for his proposal to raise teacher salaries 7 percent this year and 7 percent more next year. Castor has said that proposal is not enough, and would not improve Florida's standing as a low-pay state.

"I'm going to continue working as hard as I can to convince the legislators that teacher salaries are not adequate to meet our needs, and I think in that regard the people of Florida agree as well," Castor said just after Martinez' speech to the Legislature Tuesday morning.

Martinez' suggestion that one more year be devoted to a comprehensive study of health care for the poor also drew fire. Key lawmakers pledged to tackle the health problems of Florida's poor this year despite Martinez' warning hasty action could open a budgetary "black hole."

Martinez said the state must make do by extending Medicaid spending.

House Speaker Jon Mills said he was unhappy with Martinez' proposal to allocate money directly to teacher salaries and textbook purchases, rather than to local school boards. He said that would take authority away from local officials.

Mills praised Martinez' call for a $900 million sales tax reform, but overall was one of Martinez' toughest critics. He all but ruled out Martinez' proposals for a one-half cent reduction in the sales tax rate and a $500 million reserve fund.

"In order to address some very defined needs, including education, transportation, criminal justice issues and some of the things that are not addressed significantly in the current budget, I don't think you can have a $500 million working capital fund," Mills said.

Mills said Martinez had "accurately stated the situation" when the governor said his proposed half-cent sales tax rate cut did not have much legislative support.

Concerning health care for the medically indigent, Martinez proposed a $75 million infusion for the Medicaid fund, to broaden eligibility to every Floridian living below the federal poverty level. Fifty-six percent of the money would come as federal matching funds.

In a post-speech news conference, Martinez said pending proposals on indigent health care offer a piecemeal approach that could obligate the state to pay out untold millions down the road.

"Any time you start dealing with human resources, if you don't know what you're doing it can go down a deep, black hole because you haven't figured out yet how to contain the cost of it and who will become eligible," he said.

"I am not prepared to put the people of Florida in a deep, black hole," Martinez said.

Rep. Mike Abrams, D-Miami, chairman of the House Health Committee, said the Legislature must act this year, when money will be available from the repeal of $900 million in sales tax exemptions for non-essential services.

"We're not coming up with a total answer, but we're coming up with a prudent beginning," Abrams said. "If you wait for a total answer to the health care needs of the poor and sick in Florida, you'll never get it."

The "medically indigent" are patients, often the working poor, who make too much

Needed To Expedite Impeachment Inquiry

House Votes $300,000 For Hastings Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Tuesday to provide up to $300,000 for the House Judiciary Committee to carry out its investigation of the possible impeachment of Florida federal Judge Alcee Hastings, formerly of Altamonte Springs.

The committee said its normal budget would not be adequate to pay for the Hastings investigation, which was made necessary by a recommendation of the Judicial Conference of the United States.

The conference, composed of federal judges from around the country, voted last month to ask the House to investigate allegations that Hastings obstructed justice and lied under oath in 1983.

Hastings' supporters plan march, 2A

Hastings was tried on bribery charges in 1983, but was acquitted. He had been accused of conspiring with a Washington, D.C., lawyer to solicit a $150,000 bribe to reduce sentences of racketeers convicted in his court.

Following that acquittal, the Judicial Conference began a three-year investigation that led to the recommendation that the House consider impeachment of Hastings.

Appointed to the bench in the southern district of Florida by President Carter in 1979, Hastings continues to hear cases and draw his salary.

In explaining to the House the need for additional funds for the Judiciary Committee, Rep. Robert Badham, R-Calif., said the panel was faced with "an unusual situation."

The Judiciary Committee "has an enormous task before them because this situation differs from other kinds of impeachment inquiry."

"It is necessary that we expedite this matter because it will enable the Committee on Judiciary to proceed quickly with a possible, if not probable, impeachment inquiry," said Badham, a member of the House Administration Committee.

The resolution approved by voice vote covers the period April 1 to Jan. 3, 1988.

POLICE IN BRIEF

Man Charged With Grand Theft, 4 Counts Of Forgery

A 38-year-old man accused of forging and cashing four checks reported stolen from a John Hepp has been charged by Longwood police with forgery.

The checks for $65, $200, $230 and $70 were cashed at a Liberty National Bank in Longwood and the cashier used the name "Randy Everts," police reported.

A suspect was questioned by police and arrested at the Seminole County Jail at 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Timothy Alan Lewinski, no address listed, has been charged with grand theft and four counts each of forgery and uttering a forgery. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Police reported finding two Indiana driver's licenses and two sets of military discharged papers in Lewinski's car. One set of identification was under his name and the other in the name of "Randy Everts."

Driving Under Influence Arrest

The following person has been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—John Robert Masak, 35, of 289 E. Reider Ave., Longwood, was arrested at 2:21 a.m. Tuesday after he was found passed out in his car with keys in the ignition parked partly in the roadway of S. Grant Street, Longwood.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

A security agent for Majik Market gave Seminole County sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect he believes may have stolen a total of $5,712 cash from a safe at the Majik Market/Chevron station, 2005 State Road 434, Longwood.

According to the agent, money intended for bank deposits, was stolen from a safe at that store on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Only one person had access to the safe, a sheriff's report said. The case was under investigation Tuesday.

William G. Roden, 36, of 3537 Coram Lane, Casselberry, reported to sheriff's deputies that between Saturday and Tuesday fishing gear and two rifles with a combined value of $1,100 were stolen from his home.

Several air-powered tools including three spray guns, a sander and grinder with a combined value of about $686 were stolen from ANS, 1957 High Street, Longwood, between Friday and Monday, according to a report owner Loren I. Roth, 32, of 1510 Sugarwood Circle, Longwood, filed with sheriff's deputies.

An employee of the Concord Motel, 3890 U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, reported to sheriff's deputies that a burglar who broke a window to enter stole $771 from a desk in that business Sunday or Monday.

John Paul Graham, 47, of Longwood, the owner of Auto Emporium, 950 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that his 1984 Honda Prelude valued at $10,500 was stolen from that business between Saturday and Tuesday.

A freestanding fireplace valued at $400 was stolen from a home being built for Juan Morey at 2147 Blue Iris Place, Longwood, Saturday, a sheriff's report said.

Tools including a $200 metal cutter, a $175 saw, a $120 screwgun and other items were stolen from an Orange Construction Corp., of Orlando, tool van at 3651 State Road 426, Oviedo, Friday or Saturday, deputies reported.

Alma P. Jakob, 33, of 110 Cove Lake Drive, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that two cars at her home were burglarized March 30 and a purse, a camera and a briefcase with a combined value of about $650 were stolen.

A burglar who entered the Sanford Moose Lodge, 2860 S. Palmetto Ave., Sanford, from the roof Friday morning vandalized six vending machines and three pool tables, taking an undetermined amount of change from the machines, a sheriff's report said.

Settlement Reached In Wrongful Death Suit

An out-of-court settlement was reached in a wrongful death suit scheduled for trial this week.

The $620,000 settlement will go to the families of Joseph J. Zeman, New Port Richey, and Charles D. Rosenheimer of Longwood.

Zeman, 17, was passenger in a car that struck a vehicle driven by Rosenheimer, 51, on July 30, 1983, in Altamonte Springs, records show.

Survivors of the deceased filed suit against Richard Jones III, driver of the car Zeman was riding in, CSX Transportation railroad company and the state Department of Transportation. Rosenheimer's family will receive $420,000 and Zeman's $160,000.

The case was before Circuit

Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. who earlier ruled the dead men could not be held partially at fault for their deaths in this type of suit simply because they were not wearing seatbelts, records show.

Jones' car struck Rosenheimer's vehicle at 1:52 p.m. on State Road 436 just east of State Road 434. Officers said Jones' car was eastbound in a light rain when he lost control of his 1973 Mustang after crossing rough railroad tracks. The car crossed the median and entered the westbound lane where it was stuck by Rosenheimer's 1976 Honda.

Mother, Children Escape

A Sanford woman and her three children escaped safely early Tuesday morning after smoke from a bathroom fire in the house where they were sleeping awakened them.

Gloria Gilchrist, 41, 1307 Olive Ave., reported to police that she smelled smoke coming from the back of the house, grabbed her three children and they ran from the house over to her mother's house just around the corner at West 13th Place where she phoned the fire department.

A state fire marshal is investigating the blaze.

Supporters Plan March For Hastings

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Supporters of U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings said Tuesday they are organizing a march and fund-raising drive to help him fight impeachment proceedings suggested by a panel of his peers.

Afro-American League member Irma Cohen said Hastings, formerly of Altamonte Springs and Florida's first black federal judge, has become a role model for young black men and the charges against him represent character assassination.

Hastings was acquitted in 1983 of charges he conspired with a Washington lawyer, William A. Borders Jr., to solicit a $150,000 bribe to reduce the sentences of two convicted racketeers.

Despite the decision, two judges filed a complaint, saying Hastings lied under oath. The Judicial Conference of the United States, comprised of federal judges from around the country, agreed, voting to tell the House "consideration of impeachment may be warranted" against Hastings.

A House committee is considering the report.

"I feel that the conference of judges are guessing at this point," Cohen said.

"We hope to try to stop the whole process. We're trying to stop it in committee," she said.

Cohen, 36, said that Hastings has become a role model for young blacks, and helped "cool the fires" during a racial disturbance several years ago in her Hollywood high school.

"From that point I just fell in love with him. He is a person that's concerned with people. He can take a bad situation and make it good," Cohen said.

"We are appealing to the thinking America," Cohen said. "We feel that it's a character assassination against him."

"He's an individual who has supported this community and has represented people who been locked out of the judicial system," said Carlton Moore, 33, president of the local chapter of the NAACP.

"We owe him and we aim to pay him by showing that support," Moore said. Supporters have so far raised $2,500 of $30,000 they hope to raise for his defense.

Hastings may become the first federal judge to face impeachment for charges on which he has been acquitted by a jury.

U.S. District Judge Harry Claiborne of Nevada was impeached last year by the House following his conviction for income tax irregularities.

Demos Seek Candidates For State Convention

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Democratic candidates can begin qualifying now for election as a Seminole County delegate to the biennial State Democratic Convention to be held late September, according to Dave McIntosh, chairman of the executive committee.

Seminole County is allotted 16 delegates, and an election will be held on Thursday, July 19, to determine the delegates. McIntosh said. Three-quarters of the delegates must come from the membership of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, and the remainder will come from registered Democrats in Seminole County.

The election will be held by the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, and committee members only will be allowed to vote.

All persons wishing to qualify must complete qualifying papers at either the April or May meeting of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee.

"Democrats are urged to take this opportunity to find out more about how their political party operates. Become involved!" said McIntosh. "Any person who is a Seminole County resident and holds current membership in the Democratic Party is eligible to be a delegate from Seminole County."

The meetings will be on the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. The Democratic Headquarters for Seminole County are located at 201 N. U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, across from the Winn-Dixie shopping center. The April meeting will be April 9, and the following meeting May 14.

To find out about meetings or qualifying, call McIntosh at 331-1841, or the Democratic executive committee at 699-1656, or 365-6100.

Martinez Okays 65 MPH Speed Limit

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida's top speed limit will be increased to 65 mph on 931 miles of rural interstate highway effective April 27, making Florida the second state in the nation to adopt the higher limit.

Gov. Bob Martinez approved the increase Tuesday after state Transportation Secretary Kaye Henderson said 65 mph is a safe speed on the designated roadways.

Henderson said Florida is the second state to return to the speed limit common in the United States before the 1973 Arab oil embargo when Congress imposed a national 55 mph limit to conserve fuel. New Mexico was ready to post the higher limit hours after Congress approved the increase last week.

Henderson said records of accidents and traffic congestion were used to determine which highways are safe for the 65 mph limit.

The limit on all other roads, including the Florida Turnpike and 102 miles of urban interstate highway, will remain 55 mph.

Henderson said local officials will be notified Monday of the increase. State law gives the local governments two weeks to prepare, so the higher limit will take effect at dusk April 27 or at dawn April 28, Henderson said.

New England Floods Ebb

United Press International
Floods in New England closed schools and washed out roads today, but most rivers receded after a deluge that forced more than 5,000 people from their homes and pushed raw sewage from damaged treatment plants into Maine rivers.

Most major New England rivers, including the Merrimack, had crested by Tuesday night and were beginning to recede, said Mike Sullivan of the National Weather Service in Bloomfield, Conn. The Merrimack reached its highest level since the storms of 1936 and 1938.

However, flood warnings for small rivers and streams remained in effect today for parts of Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Schools were closed today in many communities across New England because of washed-out and flooded roads that prevented travel.

The receding floodwaters allowed hundreds of residents to return home. Since Saturday, floods have forced more than 5,000 people to flee their homes, including up to 1,500 in New Hampshire, 3,000 in Massachusetts, 415 in New Jersey, 212 in Connecticut and 50 in Vermont.

In Maine, officials were concerned about raw sewage that has been pouring into virtually all the state's rivers that flooded. Many sewage treatment plants were damaged by the flooding.

A nearly stationary storm centered southeast of Maine continued to spread light rain across New England and eastern New York state, but forecasters said conditions would improve today, and sunshine was predicted for Thursday.

Floods and storms in New England have been blamed for three deaths — a Vermont man whose body was recovered Tuesday from a flooded pond and two sailors swept to sea Monday off New Hampshire. A Massachusetts man has been missing since he was swept away in the Assabet River on Monday.

Three people were confirmed dead and seven people were missing in Sunday's collapse of a New York Thruway bridge over Schoharie Creek. Federal officials said the record volume of water in the creek may have led to the disaster.

The Merrimack River, which caused the worst flooding in Massachusetts, crested Tuesday night at 57.2 feet in Lowell, 5.2 feet above flood stage, and was slowly receding, Sullivan said.

The Merrimack wreaked havoc in Lowell, Lawrence, Andover, North Andover and Methuen, Mass., and in Nashua, N.H. Floodwaters were waist-high in some downtown sections of Lawrence.

A National Guard spokesman in Methuen said officials were concerned about the rising of the Spicket River, which would not crest until the Merrimack fell another foot.

"The bridges have all washed out. There's detours all over the place," he said. "There is some damage downtown. Other than that, everything is stable."

The Connecticut River was falling in northern Massachusetts today but was rising slowly in southern Massachusetts and Connecticut, officials said.

"We're really at a point where we're watching this thing minute by minute," Middletown, Conn., Mayor Sebastian J. Garafalo said Tuesday. The Connecticut River was expected to crest in Middletown at about 17 feet.

Governor Issues Call To End $800 Million In Exemptions

Legislature Opens With Tax Agenda

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez opened the 73rd Legislature Tuesday with a call to "stay the course" against special interests and approve the broadest reform of Florida's tax structure in nearly 40 years.

In his first "State of the State" message, the Republican governor said his plans to repeal $900 million in sales tax exemptions for non-essential services were vital if the state is to cope with overwhelming growth.

Martinez said special interests seeking to retain tax breaks "are filling the air with cries of doom and gloom and filling the halls of the Capitol with high paid lobbyists and bad information."

The House chamber was filled with state lawmakers, Cabinet members, local elected officials, their families and statehouse workers, who broke into polite applause as Martinez arrived in the chamber and as he completed his 20-minute speech.

Floral arrangements decorated each desk in the chamber.

Martinez insisted the reforms would make Florida's tax structure fairer and more stable and meet state need through the year 2000. Exemptions for services have stood since the sales tax was created in 1949.

"Structural defects in our tax base is the disease, and we must treat the disease, not the symptom," Martinez said. "I am prepared to take an unpleasant dose of tax medicine this year, but I do not intend to do it year after year because we did not have the courage to do it right the first time."

Lawmakers returned to the Capitol Tuesday to start their annual session, beginning with the traditional "State of the State" message by Martinez, the first Republican to deliver the message since Gov. Claude Kirk in 1970.

The 180 House and Senate members will begin their formal business later this week.

Borrowing a note from President Reagan's 1984 re-election campaign, Martinez said tax reform has received broad bipartisan support.

"I am confident we will stay the course and put this critical issue behind us early in the session," Martinez said.

Martinez' 13-page speech traced a series of budget reforms outlined in his proposed $17.9 billion spending plan for the 1987-88 fiscal year beginning July 1.

He reiterated his call for a rollback in the sales tax rate from the current 5 cents on the dollar to 4.5 cents, and for a $500-million state emergency reserve.

Martinez did not specifically mention his call in his inaugural address for a major shift of authority to local governments. But he sought special attention for his proposed 1-cent local option sales tax, to raise $1.2 billion for local roads, prisons, bridges and schools.

He urged lawmakers "to burst the bonds of conventional labels."

"I ask you to be bold about taxation and cautious about spending, a heretofore unheard of combination," Martinez said. "I believe those who follow this path will be called statesmen."

Martinez attacked a "bloated and inefficient education bureaucracy" and said lawmakers should specifically earmark $750 million over two years for teacher pay and $25 million textbooks, lest the bureaucracy sidetrack the money.

He said the Legislature should delay a comprehensive indigent health package for one more year to allow more study, and focus on his $75 million plan to expand Medicaid eligibility for pregnant women, children, the elderly and the disabled.

Martinez said his agenda would prepare Florida for a bright future if lawmakers join him "in a bipartisan spirit of cooperation."

"But it will take unusual political courage and simple-minded devotion to the general good," Martinez said. "You can count on me to do my part without fear or favor. I will count on you to do the same."

House Speaker Jon Mills and Senate President John Vogt both have endorsed the Martinez tax proposal.

The Plight Of Vice Presidents

If you want to be president of the United States, being vice president can be awkward. That is the situation George Bush finds himself in these days, and he may be thinking of some predecessors.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey lost to Richard Nixon in 1968 because he could not criticize President Lyndon Johnson on the Vietnam War issue. He was damned if he did and damned if he didn't.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale undoubtedly lost votes to Ronald Reagan in 1984 because he was tarred with President Jimmy Carter's administration.

And now Bush is in political trouble because he cannot disassociate himself from Reagan's Iran-Contra arms deal.

Bush tried timidly to distance himself by saying that he had reservations about the arms sales. But he was not convincing.

Then the president said that Bush had supported the arms sale plan. And Bush had no choice but to say that Reagan was telling "the truth."

If he wants the president's political support, Bush must go down the line with his leader. If he does this, however, he ties himself to a failed and unpopular policy.

Unfortunately for Bush, the debate will not go away before the primaries. And if he is to have credibility as a candidate, he will have to speak out candidly and tell the American people just what his role was.

Silence Is Grand

It has been nearly a year since the crash of a helicopter and a small plane over the Grand Canyon focused attention on dangerous flights over the canyon and other national parks. That crash took 25 lives. Since then, Congress has been trying to come up with regulations to guard against a similar tragedy — and to protect our national parks from the noise pollution that threatens to turn them into Coney Islands or Disneyland.

Legislation sponsored by Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., would end below-the-rim tour flights at Grand Canyon. The bill also would require a three-year Interior Department study of the overflight problem throughout the national park system. Detailed research would be required at 10 parks, including Yosemite. Environmental groups have suggested several amendments to the bill, including a requirement that there be large flight-free zones over Grand Canyon.

Coelho's bill is identical to a measure that passed the House last fall by a vote of 378 to 12. The Senate took no action on that legislation, but is considered likely to move a companion bill in this Congress sponsored by Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., and others.

The legislation, with the proposed amendments, deserves support — if only to protect the Grand Canyon. Overflights have proliferated to more than 50,000 a year and are expected to double again in the next decade or so. They are not only dangerous to people, they also endanger the sounds of nature and the sounds of silence within the canyon. Unless Congress acts, they soon will be extinct.

BERRY'S WORLD

"That's the fellow from accounting who's testing our tolerance level."

VINCENT CARROLL

To Boost Transit, Cut Pork, Use Logic

If debate over the federal highway bill did nothing else, it confirmed the fact that many lawmakers believe pork-barrel politics is back in fashion.

These unabashed spenders treated President Reagan like a bad sport when he vetoed their handiwork. After all, they'd slipped a little something for everyone into their bill: a 65 mph speed limit for Southerners and Westerners, big subsidies of mass transit for urban lawmakers and liberals, and scores of "demonstration projects" (pork barrel of low priority even among highway officials) for powerful legislators from every region.

So give Reagan credit. His veto helped expose again the myth that federal spending has been cut to the bone. In transportation programs, the fat remains whale-blubber thick.

Consider national policy toward mass transit. In the past 24 years, Washington has poured nearly $50 billion into commuter trains and buses, yet the percentage of workday rides taken on them has never stopped declining.

Meanwhile, the cost per passenger mile on mass transit has steadily risen — even as similar costs for autos and planes shrink.

Reagan is right: Recent mass-transit budgets have been far too generous. Among other things, they've permitted many cities to plan or begin to construct costly commuter rail systems they would never pursue if they had to pay for the projects themselves.

In dense cities like New York, trains are admittedly vital. But in low-density cities — which is to say in all but two or three places — commuter rail is pure folly.

From Miami to Buffalo ridership on new train systems has been cruelly disappointing. Meanwhile, operating deficits have mounted ominously — to the point that Washington's Metro subway could face annual red ink of a billion dollars by 1990.

And for what? Rail does not significantly ease auto congestion in low-density cities. It does not noticeably diminish pollution. It does not even save much energy.

Take congestion. "Rail transit has never led to less congestion because it promotes denser development, which generates added traffic," says Kenneth Orski, a former senior official in the Urban Mass Transit Administration.

Andrew Hamer, a transportation scholar with the World Bank, argues that rail does little but help "preserve and enhance property values in downtown areas. And it clearly allows downtown to attract workers." In other words, it concentrates commercial activity.

None of this means cities should neglect mass transit. If nothing else, they have a responsibility to their poor and elderly. For cost-effective service, though, most cities should stick with buses.

For one thing, buses aren't tied to permanent routes, so they can directly serve changing residential patterns rather than the dated priorities of transit designers.

Unfortunately, the flood of federal mass-transit aid has distorted sound decision-making among urban planners. The Reagan administration, under Ralph Stanley's leadership at the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, has tried to sober them up, but lawmakers keep shoveling more greenbacks into the system. Let's face it: They like pork barrel.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Disclose Foreign Investors

WASHINGTON — One of the most important pieces of legislation before the Congress is the "Foreign Ownership Disclosure Act" introduced by U.S. Rep. John Bryant of Texas.

In his bill, Congressman Bryant lays out a comprehensive system for determining who is investing in the United States and who is gaining influence in and over the American economy.

As the congressman has pointed out, capital inflows into the United States have reached a trillion dollars since 1980. This money has been deposited in banks, invested in corporate stocks and bonds, and used to purchase interests in American banks, farmlands, refineries, and many other companies. However, the U.S. government and people lack accurate information about these foreign-owned assets. While the foreign capital has fueled the economy in many ways, it also has made the U.S. a net debtor nation for the first time since World War I.

Rep. Bryant has pointed out that there is "disturbing evidence of the presence in our economy of billions of dollars in capital flight... As ownership of our economic assets is transferred overseas, so is the power to make decisions affecting the independence and prosperity of Americans."

In addition, he notes that foreign access to sensitive high technology narrows our strategic security and competitive edge. Foreign influence in key defense industries may endanger our safety. The U.S. oil industry is reported to be especially vulnerable.

Congressman Bryant has cited attempts by the Soviet Union in the 1970s to buy banks in California's Silicon Valley, which would have given the Soviets access to the most advanced technology of the banks' high-tech borrowers.

During the Libyan crisis, President Reagan ordered a freeze on Libyan assets, but no U.S. official has full and complete information on Libya's assets in the United States.

The congressman also observes that evidence continues to surface that drug traffickers have been using offshore dummy corporations to launder illegal funds, depositing them in American institutions.

Rep. Bryant rightly states that, despite the existence of various laws, "we often can't tell whether a foreign investor is a legitimate business, a hostile nation like Libya or Iran, a foreign official or crony investing stolen funds, or a drug trafficker." The Bryant bill would apply stringent disclosure standards for all foreign investments and tough penalties for violators.

This legislation should have been passed when it was first introduced in 1985. It now has 56 co-sponsors.

Doctor Keeps All Of Malaysia Healthy

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — It's not often that a general practitioner becomes the political leader of his country, but Dr. Mahathir Mohamad, the 61-year-old prime minister of Malaysia, is convinced his medical background was good preparation for his current job.

"Training as a doctor is extremely relevant," he told Dale Van Atta in Kuala Lumpur recently. "I like the approach of a doctor. First you get the history from the patient, then you do a physical examination and then you make a diagnosis and prescribe."

"I try to apply the same principles to running the country — you know, ask a lot of questions, find out what it's all about, make my diagnosis

WILLIAM RUSHER

Is Liberalism Dead?

The 25th anniversary dinner of National Review magazine was held on Dec. 5, 1980 — just a month after Ronald Reagan's first election as president. Being called on to say a few words, I "let the eagle scream" a bit, exulting in conservatism's triumph and warning that we would have to be on guard to stamp out any embers of liberalism that might reignite that menace. My caustic remarks were apparently memorable, because the episode has gone down in history as "the time Bill Rusher said liberalism was dead."

Recently, on Bill Buckley's "Firing Line" show, Mark Green brought my comment up, apparently on the theory that it was, by his time, good for a chuckle. Precisely why Green — a flaming liberal if there ever was one — should think so is not entirely clear, since he was the Democrats' choice to run against New York's conservative Republican Sen. Alfonse D'Amato last November and lost by nearly 700,000 votes. But I am grateful to him nonetheless, because he has given me an opportunity to observe how right I seem to have been.

Of course, determining whether liberalism is dead requires us to define both "liberalism" and "dead." To tackle the latter first, I suggest that a political movement deserves that description if there is little or no plausible evidence that it is going to get anywhere in the foreseeable future. What may happen 50 or 100 years from now, when everybody who can personally remember liberalism's ghastly record is gone, is of course another matter.

As for "liberalism," defining it is no simple thing. Regarded merely as a witless Robin Hood-like impulse to take from the rich and give to the poor, it is probably as ineradicable as herpes. House Speaker Uria Heep, or whatever his name is, has already started floating that idea, albeit without great success.

But I take the quasi-socialist movement that has appropriated the grand old name of liberalism as standing for something marginally more programmatic than that. As on display in this country since the first inauguration of Franklin Roosevelt, "liberalism" has meant the twin propositions that the federal government ought to involve itself ever more deeply in regulating the private economy, and that it should pre-empt an ever-greater portion of the gross national product in order to spend it on all sorts of allegedly desirable projects.

Is there the slightest evidence that either of these propositions has revived, or even twitched a toe, since I indirectly pronounced them dead at New York's Plaza Hotel on the evening of Dec. 5, 1980? On the contrary, the Democrats tried to revive them in Walter Mondale's 1984 presidential campaign and promptly lost every state but Minnesota, which they managed to carry by about 3,000 votes.

In 1986 the Democratic party contrived to recapture the Senate, but certainly not by running its candidates as liberals; on the contrary, they avoided the designation — and the proposals associated with it — like the plague.

As for 1988, the front-runner for the Democratic nomination, Gary Hart, has been conducting a widely publicized (if spectacularly unsuccessful) hunt for "new ideas" ever since he began seeking the presidency back in 1983. The rest of the field includes just one viable candidate — Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts — who would willingly accept the liberal label, and in the last trial heat I read about, he scored 3 percent. The only two really big-time liberals still active in Democratic politics, Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York and Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, have declined even to run.

And what are the big issues being pushed by the Democrats in Congress? Two of the biggest are deficit reduction and welfare reform — which is rather like W.C. Fields joining the temperance movement. If that's liberalism, where do I sign up?

SCIENCE WORLD

Building Crews In Space

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — While the Reagan administration was debating the fate of the planned space station, NASA engineers were quietly working out the details of how astronaut hardhats will be able to build a huge base in orbit.

"I think everybody pretty much believes that building the structure for space station is not that difficult," said Walter Heard, a structural engineer at NASA's Langley Research Center in Virginia.

"But there are the subsystems, all those subsystems. We've got things like the solar collectors, the radiators, the power control units, utility trays and that really is what complicates things."

NASA announced last Friday that President Reagan had decided to proceed with a scaled-down version of the space station, with construction set to begin in 1994. Even though smaller than originally planned, the station still will be larger than anything else NASA has assembled in orbit.

The modified design calls for a wide truss assembly with laboratory and living modules anchored in the middle and large solar panels at each end.

The truss will be built with struts linked together to form cubical "bays" and braced with cross members. Each bay in the lattice-like beams will measure 16.4 feet square and made up of 13 struts, each one 2 inches in diameter, according to preliminary plans.

Eight shuttle flights will be required to carry the equipment into space and to assemble it into an orbital outpost. The station will be permanently manned starting in 1996.

A key element in the evolution of the current design was the success of construction experiments carried out by the crew of the shuttle Atlantis in December 1985.

Astronauts Sherwood Spring and Jerry Ross conducted two spacewalks in which they practiced manipulating and connecting large beams and building a small-scale version of a space station truss.

"It taught us a lot about how much we can expect the astronauts to do out there," Heard said. "We're trying to sort of get a balance between automation and manned assembly."

One problem with anchoring the assembly fixture in the payload bay is the prospect of an emergency that would require the astronauts to jettison the growing truss for a quick return to Earth.

Another problem is the sheer volume of equipment that must be packed into the shuttle's 60-foot payload bay for the first few flights to assemble an autonomous structure.

Malaysia's independence.

But Mahathir has survived many challenges since he was born the youngest of a schoolteacher's 10 children. "I had to fight for everything I got," he said. "Whether it was in the family, or in the school (or elsewhere), it has been one long, continuous fight."

Young Mahathir's education in a colonial, English-language school was interrupted by the stunning Japanese victory and occupation in early 1942. "There were brutalities," Mahathir recalled. "We know that they (the Japanese military police) killed people. These things happen. Of course, if you came across a Japanese sentry and did the wrong thing, they might slap you. But I wasn't slapped."

Lawmakers' Opening Day Pomp, Flowers And A Solitary Chicken

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — In the wide open brick plaza between the modern state Capitol and its vintage predecessor, a solitary figure garbed in a yellow chicken suit paced back and forth with a protest sign.

People passed by Linda Heim Corbett, gave her and her protest sign a glance, and then went about their business as festivities got under way on the opening day of the 1987 legislative session.

Corbett, of Orlando, is conducting her protest to call for accountability regarding the gas tax. She planned a three-hour march, ending at noon.

"I would not recommend walking in chicken feet," she said. "I'm losing weight if nothing else."

Corbett was somewhat lost in the brouhaha that marks the once-a-year happening. It is the day lobbyists and the press converge on the Capitol to hear the governor's "State of the State" speech and to watch legislators start the year's agenda.

"Today's the day," said Nancy Holland, supervisor of the Florida Welcome Center in the 22-story Capitol building. She could barely contain her smile. "I love it, the excitement of this building."

The relative quiet of the ground floor where Holland works was in stark contrast to the activity and cacophony outside the House and Senate chambers on the 4th floor, where legislators and lobbyists milled about. Members of the North Dade Chamber of Commerce, festooned in red blazers, stuck out from the crowd around the three palm trees in the center of the lobby.

On the fifth floor, the press galleries on both the House and Senate side were packed with reporters and banks of cameras from news organizations from across the state. It was standing-room-only on both sides.

As in years past, the floors of both chambers were adorned in flowers sent by constituents to legislators. Jackie Sharkey, administrative assistant to the sergeant-at-arms, said the opening day is a good day for florists.

"All the seasons are just about the same," said Rep. Ron Johnson, D-Panama City, referring to the flowers and gifts on the desk. "You can't see anything."

There were several new twists this year. Those entering the galleries for the Senate had to pass through airport-like metal detectors, installed because unlike the House side, there is no bullet-proof glass separating the legislators from the public.

T.L. Kilbourn, a law enforcement officer who was making security checks before the Senate galleries, said that in the past each person entering the gallery was visually checked.

Kilbourn said the added security measure did not seem to delay the traffic flow. Besides, he said, it made him feel a lot better "especially in these trying times."

Would Preempt Local Control

Gun Bills Pass First Hearing

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Two bills designed to change Florida's gun control regulations breezed through their first legislative hearing Tuesday, and their sponsor predicted they will pass into law with ease.

The first of the bills (HB 251) would preempt all city or county gun control ordinances, leaving gun control regulation solely in the hands of the Legislature. The second (HB 253) would take the authority to issue concealed weapons permits away from county commissions and give that power to the secretary of state.

Sponsor Ron Johnson, D-Panama City, said the bills are needed to eliminate confusing gun laws that differ from place to place within the state.

'A waiting period is unnecessary; I simply do not believe they work.'

-Ron Johnson, D-Panama City, Gun Bills sponsor

"There is a hodgepodge problem, with more than 300 different types of ordinances that refer to this matter," Johnson said. "Normally law-abiding citizens, simply by not knowing what the rules are find themselves in peril of being arrested."

"We should have a standard that is set at the state level, that is known to all, and applied equally across the state."

The preemption bill actually passed the Legislature in 1985, only to be vetoed by Gov. Bob Graham. He predicted the bill, which has been co-signed by about three-quarters of the House members, would easily pass again this year.

But Johnson conceded there is some legislative sentiment to amend the bill to require a "cooling off" period for handgun purchases. That same sentiment has been expressed by Gov. Bob Martinez, whose support for a waiting period has raised speculation he might veto the bill.

"A waiting period is unnecessary; I simply do not believe they work," Johnson said.

Johnson also dismissed a request from the Board of Regents to amend the concealed weapons bill to prohibit carrying guns on campus. He said that would mean taking the constitutional right to bear arms away from university students, faculty and administrators.

But university system Vice Chancellor William Shade said he simply wanted the committee to place campuses in the same category as bars, churches and the Legislature, all places where guns could not be carried under the law.

Both bills passed the Criminal Justice Subcommittee on Crimes, Penalties and Prosecutions by 4-1 votes. The bills will go before the full Criminal Justice Committee today.

Hello Mayor, Goodbye City

CRYSTAL BEACH, Texas (UPI) — Voters in the resort city of Crystal Beach used the same ballot to elect a mayor and abolish the municipality.

City Councilman Bill Kelsey was elected mayor Saturday, beating incumbent Bill Stirling, 217 votes to 148. Kelsey said the vote made him "mayor for a minute."

But at the same time, residents voted 314-245 to abolish their 15-year-old city.

Henry Marsh, who led the petition drive that put the issue to a vote, said he was "a little sad" about the decision. But he claimed people who ran the city previously did as they wanted, ignoring the will of the majority.

NATION IN BRIEF

House Set To Debate $1 Trillion Budget Proposal; Senate Stalls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House, beginning two days of debate today on a record $1 trillion budget proposal, has critics grumbling about its suggested $18 billion tax and revenue package and its cuts in defense spending.

Representatives nonetheless are ahead of their counterparts in the Senate, where the Budget Committee's last public effort to draft a separate fiscal 1988 spending plan ended in a stalemate. The Senate panel, apparently near agreement on a new compromise, planned to meet today to review the matter.

Both the House and Senate proposals are alternatives to President Reagan's $1.02 trillion budget plan, designed to cut the federal deficit below the $108 billion required by law for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

Reagan has proposed achieving that reduction with cuts in domestic spending, sales of government assets and fees for people who use federal land. At the same time, he wants to boost defense spending by 3 percent plus inflation.

Washington Wins Second Term

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Harold Washington ravaged the crumbling Democratic machine a second straight time to become the city's first politician in a decade to win re-election to a second term.

Washington, who shocked party machine Democrats when he became the city's first black mayor four years ago, turned back the challenges Tuesday of two opponents, including the chairman of the Cook County Democratic Party.

With 97.59 percent of the vote counted, Washington, challenged by machine Democrat Edward Vrdolyak and Republican Don Halder, received 581,697 votes, or 53 percent, of 1.1 million votes cast. Vrdolyak, who split from the party for the election and ran as a third-party candidate, received 41.92 percent and Halder received 4.26 percent.

Congress To Examine Poultry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Up to 100 percent of chicken from some processing plants is infected with salmonella bacteria at times, a group of federal inspectors is charging, rejecting lower estimates by the Agriculture Department.

Their complaint, in a letter to Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng, was expected to be discussed at a House subcommittee hearing today in the latest development of a growing controversy over food inspection.

An internal audit also found that when the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service does detect contaminated food, it is ineffective in alerting the public about recalls. Consumers have become ill after eating these products, including chicken, the audit said.

Federal Drug Tests Under Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's still unfulfilled order to expand drug testing of federal employees is under fire in Congress, where critics charge it is rife with problems and resembles a "quick fix" to gain a publicity edge.

Rep. Gerry Sikorski, D-Minn., chairman of a House subcommittee that deals with federal employees, argued Tuesday that the administration viewed federal workers as "easy prey" to show concern about drug abuse, while allowing contractors doing more sensitive government jobs to avoid drug testing.

Reagan Studies Embassy Security

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan does not want to derail arms talks with the Soviets even though Russian spying has forced him to block either nation from moving into new embassies and ultimately could force him to destroy the U.S. compound in Moscow.

Reagan, announcing his decision to keep the embassies vacant for now and to appoint two commissions to review embassy security worldwide, said spying "is employed by everyone" and is no reason not to do business with the Kremlin.

The reasoning comes as Secretary of State George Shultz prepares for three days of talks in Moscow next week with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze. Reagan said Tuesday there is no reason to alter those plans, but the administration confirmed extraordinary security precautions for the visit.

Leonard Hints He'll Scale Another Mountain

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — No sooner has Ray Leonard scaled what he had called his last mountain than history presented him with another.

The new middleweight champion now faces the decision whether to attempt becoming the first man to win titles in four different divisions. Thomas Hearns' World Boxing Council light-heavyweight crown beckons.

The scenario is improbable — but only as much so as Leonard coming out of retirement to whip Marvin Hagler, Monday night he pulled off that upset. Now he will keep the public waiting to hear of his next move.

"In a week or two Ray will announce to everybody at once what he's going to do," said Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney. "Talking to Ray, I did not get the impression he was ready to get up this morning and do roadwork.

"I have no indication he's going to do anything different than he said he would — come back and fight Marvin Hagler, one fight."

In a ringside interview following his stunning 12-round split decision victory, Leonard hinted otherwise.

"I'll see you in six months and 15 pounds later," he said, referring to moving up to Hearns' weight class. In order to make the fight, however, Hearns would likely also want a shot at a fourth title.

The other possibility, of course, is a rematch against Hagler, although the only motivation for Leonard would be to reciprocate for Hagler's decision to give Leonard his shot at an important goal.

Tuesday, Leonard flew home to Washington, D.C. and was scheduled to undergo X-rays of his right hand at Johns Hopkins University Student Medical Center. Hagler was left to swallow his most bitter defeat, one he felt he did not deserve.

Pat and Goody Petronelli spoke for the dethroned WBC middleweight champion Tuesday, offering explanations for the upset.

"Right from the beginning, my fighter wanted 15 rounds," Pat Petronelli said. "And I swear to God, 15 rounds is championship distance. Never mind this 12 round bullshit."

"My fighter needed 15 rounds, especially against Sugar Ray Leonard. He says 'Pat, with this fighter I need 15 rounds. I gotta wear him out. He's good. He's fast. He can fight.'"

"Marvin, more than myself evidently, felt he needed the extra three rounds. But Sugar Ray proved he had a heart, he had a chin. We don't like to sound like sour grapes. It was a good close fight. It was a clean fight."

The Petronellis also complained of the scoring of Mexican judge JoJo Guerra, who gave 10 of the 12 rounds to Leonard. Although they maintained Hagler won the fight, they conceded Hagler did not do what was necessary to avoid all controversy: knock out Leonard.

"He did go a little too easy in the early rounds," Goody Petronelli said. "If there was a rematch, I would tell him to run after him if he had to. You don't have to look pretty. Go like Rocky Marciano — animal. Get it over in three or four rounds."

By the fifth round, when Hagler attempted to take out Leonard, and nearly did with an uppercut, Leonard had established the pattern the fight would follow. By circling and stopping only long enough to unload a flurry, Leonard had established his confidence and pushed Hagler to frustration.

Thereafter, everytime Hagler appeared to have his man in trouble, Leonard summoned a burst of adrenalin and countered with furious combinations, sometimes putting together as many as eight punches in succession. By fight's end, both men had exhausted their energies, but Leonard had connected with the greater percentage of his punches.

As promoter Bob Arum protested for months preceding the bout, potential injury proved a non-issue. Hagler's most effective punch was the straight lead, and he connected numerous times to Leonard's suspect left eye.

Leonard had retired following surgery to repair a detached retina in his left eye in 1982, and quit again after defeating Kevin Howard in May 1984.

Now, he has proven the comeback was no folly. The boxing world wants to see more from the man who beat the odds and bucked history. The next "SuperFight" may not be far off.

Mary's Defense Strangles 'Noles

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Combined, they are hitting all of .229, but Lake Mary's Lady Rams don't mind a little less offensive firepower when shortstop Laurie Leiffer and second baseman Suzanne Dubrouillet play defense the way they did Tuesday afternoon.

Leiffer and Dubrouillet handled a combined 14 chances without an error to lead a sparkling defensive effort by the Lady Rams in a 4-1 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Seminole High before 51 fans at Fort Mellon Field.

Lake Mary remains in the hunt for the SAC crown as it improved to 4-3 in the league and trails Oviedo, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley by one game. The Lady Rams, 8-7 overall, host Kissimmee Osceola today in a nonconference game.

"We made changes at six defensive positions and it worked out pretty well," Lake Mary coach Karen Nolen said. "Suzanne (Dubrouillet) made some super plays at second and Laurie (Leiffer) had a strong game at short."

Seminole, 6-7 overall, fell below the .500 mark for the first time this season and now stands at 2-5 in the SAC. Seminole looks to break a three-game losing streak today at home against Spruce Creek.

"We played a solid defensive game today and it was hopefully a confidence booster for us," Abney said. "We didn't hit the ball as well as we would have liked, but we hit some good shots. Lake Mary played outstanding defense and that's what won the game for them."

A three-run third inning, keyed by Marnie Frey's two-run triple, gave Lake Mary a 4-1 lead after three innings and it was a defensive battle the rest of the way.

Seminole had one final chance to go for the tie as Sheri Peterson and Leticia Strickland led off the bottom of the seventh with consecutive singles. Dubrouillet and Leiffer then combined for the biggest defensive play of the game when Vikki Oliver smashed a grounder to Dubrouillet who quickly tossed to Leiffer for the force at second and Leiffer gunned down Oliver by one step at first for a rally-killing double play. Lisa McGrotha then popped up to pitcher Sharon Bonaventure for the final out.

"That double play killed us," Abney said. "If we could have at least got a force out of it, we might have put together something."

Seminole, which was held to five hits in the game by the Lady Rams' stingy defense, took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first. Natasha Beasley reached on a fielder's choice, took third on a double off the bat of Peterson and scored on Strickland's sacrifice fly.

Lake Mary tied it with an unearned run in the top of the second. Designated hitter Paula Songer reached on a fielder's choice and went all the way to third on a throwing error. With two outs, Songer scored when Monica Frakes tapped a single in front of the plate.

The Lady Rams came back with three runs in the third for a 4-1 lead. Amy Adams drew a walk to start off the frame. Teri Peters drilled a single up the middle and Frey then lined a triple under right fielder McGrotha's glove to score Adams and Peters. Bonaventure then rifled a double off the second base bag to drive in Frey with the third run of the inning.

Seminole went down in order in the third, fourth and fifth frames with Leiffer and Dubrouillet flawlessly handling most of the chances for the Lady Rams. Seminole did not get another baserunner on until Tammy Bailey's leadoff single in the bottom of the sixth.

Herald Photos by Tommy Vincent

Marnie Frey, above, and Suzanne Dubrouillet, below right, are two of the reasons Lake Mary posted a 4-1 victory over Seminole Tuesday. Frey took this pitch to right field for a two-run triple. Second baseman Dubrouillet avoided Seminole's sliding Amy Hawkins to turn in a defensive gem.

Lady Hawks Roll Over Oviedo, 6-3

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

CASSELBERRY — To say that the Lake Howell girls' softball team is on a roll would be an extreme understatement. The Lady Silver Hawks came into Tuesday afternoon's contest against Oviedo with a pair of impressive victories over Seminole and Lake Mary.

The Lady Hawks continued their winning ways on Tuesday as they controlled Oviedo, 6-3, in Seminole Athletic Conference girls' softball action before 111 spectators at Red Bug Lake Park.

The triumph was an important one for Lake Howell as it created a three-way tie for the lead in the SAC. Howell, Oviedo, and Lake Brantley are all knotted up with 5-2 SAC records. The wins boosts Lake Howell's overall record to 11-6. The setback drops Oviedo to 15-6.

Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said newly instilled confidence has benefited her squad. "The girls look more confident at the plate," Luciano said. "Instead of waiting for someone to get things going, the player who leads off is doing it. The kids have been a lot more confident in themselves after Spring Break."

Oviedo will return to action this afternoon at Jones in nonconference action. Lake Howell will host Lake Brantley in a critical SAC game on Thursday afternoon.

The Lady Hawks looked sloppy at best, as Oviedo committed six errors leading to four Lake Howell runs.

Lake Howell pitcher Stormi Littrell had control problems as she walked eight, but Littrell still managed to toss a three-hitter. The win ups Littrell's record to 11-6. Jody Switzer took the setback for Oviedo.

The Lady Hawks pounded the ball as they cracked out nine hits. Catcher Leslie Barton, who is hitting .554, led the way for Howell as the hustling senior rapped out three base hits. Third-baseman Tammy Lewis, who is batting .508, also had a pair of hits for Howell.

Softball

The game got off to a quick start as all of the runs were scored in the first three innings. Howell got on the board first as the Lady Hawks took advantage of a pair of Oviedo errors, and jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead.

Lewis started the rally with a single to center. She took second on a ground out, and advanced to third when Leslie Barton singled. Julie Barton reached when Oviedo third baseman Teri Coc muffed a grounder. Lewis scored on the play, and Barton scored when Lion right fielder Jill Knutson overthrew third.

Oviedo tied the game in the bottom of the frame. Corrie Lawson led off with a walk. Switzer then helped herself with a single, moving Lawson to second. Caroline Chavis then walked to load the bases. Jessica Bradley followed with a sacrifice fly to center, scoring Lawson and moving Switzer to third. Switzer then scored on a ground out.

LADY PATRIOTS ROMP

Lake Brantley exploded for seven runs in the first inning Tuesday and never looked back en route to a 17-0 rout of Lyman's Lady Greyhounds in Seminole Athletic Conference play at Lake Brantley High.

In winning its first night game at home, Lake Brantley improved to 10-5 overall and 5-2 in the SAC. Lyman now stands at 0-7 in the league and 0-17 overall.

Heather Meyer led the Brantley barrage with three hits, including a home run and two RBIs while Wendy Vickery was also 3 for 4. Tina Wilson was 2 for 4 with three RBIs and Michelle Weston was 2 for 4. Sophomore Chris Calabrese contributed a three-run homer, the first homer of her career.

Heist, Paddia Nab Big Bass

By Jim Shupe
Herald Fishing Writer

Last Sunday featured the typically poor fishing conditions that have hampered the monthly Osteen Bridge Bass Tournament for the past several months. Not only was it cold and windy, the water level was up a couple of feet in the river.

To say that fishing was tough would almost be an understatement. Only 29 bass were caught by 80 anglers in 40 boats. Many good fishermen got blanked and didn't catch a single keeper bass.

Heist and Paddia came in first place with one big bass — an 8 pound 1 1/4 ounce lunker. Heist landed the fish, and it also took big bass honors.

David and Lowell Martindill came in second place with 5 pounds, 7 ounces. Glenn Doughty and Bruce Robinson held down third place with 4 pounds 8 ounces. Ralph Curry and Paul Hanna were a close fourth place with 4 pounds 7 1/4 ounces.

"It was tough fishing but we expect things to get better," Dell Abernethy, tournament organizer and owner of the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp, said. "The warm weather should greatly improve the fishing."

Osteen's anglers hold their tournament the first Sunday of every month. The next tournament is set for May 3.

Howell Nears State Bids

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Howell has all but made its reservations for the Class 4A State Tennis Championships after building up big leads going into the 4A-5 District finals today at Sanlando Park.

The defending district champion Lady Silver Hawks need only one victory out of four matches to advance to the state while the Lake Howell boys team can also sew up a trip to the University of Florida in Gainesville by winning one match in the finals.

After Tuesday's matches at Sanlando Park in Altamonte Springs, Lake Howell's girls have 17 points compared to 14 for Orlando Boone. Lake Mary is next with 13 while Lake Brantley has 12. The best Boone can hope for is a tie and the only way that can happen is if Boone wins all its matches and Lake Howell loses all its matches.

"If we win any of our four matches or if Boone even loses one, we win," Lake Howell coach Mike Hargis said. "I'd say it's pretty safe to say we'll be back."

The Lady Hawks advanced three singles players, Emmylou Dulce at division two, Bonnie

Tennis

Oliver at division three and Mindy Gardberg at division four, to the finals. The Renee Martin-Dulce doubles team also made it to the finals at division one.

Kristin Longmire, Lake Brantley's division one singles player, has a chance to advance to state as an individual as she defeated Lake Howell's Martin to advance to the final against Boone's Ivy Conoley.

Lake Mary advanced two players to the finals in singles as Ingrid DeGraaf defeated Lake Howell's Mina Hillin and Kerry Marshall also advanced.

In the boys division, Lake Howell had 13 points compared to 11 for Lyman. Both teams have three matches in the finals. Boone has 10 while Brantley, Daytona Beach Mainland and Lake Mary each have nine.

If it does end up in a tie, the Lake Howell and Lyman would have to play a regular-season, dual-match format to decide who goes to state. Hargis said there is not much chance of a tie.

Lyman has three singles players in the final led by division one player Eric Hochman who goes against top-seeded Adam Kework of Daytona Beach Mainland. Steve Westmoreland faces Lake Howell's Vince Regan at division two with Regan having a chance to clinch the title for the Silver Hawks. At division three, Lyman's Todd Huber goes against Lake Mary's Tom Boysen. At division four, Lake Howell's Larry Floyd advanced to the final against Winter Park's Robert Roland. Roland ended the Cinderella run of Seminole's Matt Albert in Tuesday's semifinals 7-5, 6-2.

Lake Howell also advanced its division two doubles team, Regan-Floyd, to the finals while Lyman's number one doubles team, Hochman-Westmoreland, was upset in the second round.

"That really hurt us when Hochman and Westmoreland got beat," Bloomingdale said.

Strawberry's Blast Derails Pittsburgh

United Press International

Their winter of discontent over the New York Mets started the season the way they ended the last one — with a victory. Darryl Strawberry, who walked out of spring training for a day in a tiff with manager Davey Johnson, lifted a three-run homer to right-center to give the Mets a 3-2 Opening Day victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. New York last played at Shea Stadium in Game 7 of the World Series and posted an 8-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox to become World Champions.

N.L. Baseball

Darryl Strawberry, left, slugged a three-run homer to beat the Pirates while Rick Mahler shut out the Phillies Tuesday.

Between the World Series triumph and Opening Day, the Mets of field were trumpeted in the press. Tuesday the emphasis was on the positive as New York raised its championship banner and gave out World Series rings in pre-game ceremonies. Strawberry said he was playing this season for Dwight Gooden, the Mets 22-year-old right-hander who is in a drug rehabilitation center after testing positively for cocaine. "I dedicate the home run and the season to Doc (Gooden)," Strawberry said. "No one understands but I am very close to Doc. I'm in his corner now when he needs me. What happened made me understand more about life. It made me understand I had to go out and do my job and work harder. I missed him today."

Elsewhere, St. Louis routed Chicago 9-3. Atlanta blanked Philadelphia 6-0. Houston topped Los Angeles 6-5 and San Francisco edged San Diego 4-3. Cardinals 9, Cubs 3. At Chicago, rookie Jim Lindeman and winning pitcher John Tudor each had two-run singles in a five-run third inning to lead St. Louis. The Cardinals took advantage of 11 walks by Cubs' pitchers, seven by loser Rick Sutcliffe. Braves 6, Phillies 0. At Atlanta, Rick Mahler pitched a three-hitter and Ken Oberkfell doubled in two runs in the season opener for both teams. Mahler earned his third Opening Day shoutout to tie a modern-day, major-league record held by Rip Sewell and Chris Short. Shane Rawley was the loser. Astros 6, Dodgers 5. At Houston, Kevin Bass slapped a two-run single to highlight a four-run eighth inning that powered Houston. Larry Andersen was the winner and Matt Young took the loss. Dave Smith recorded his second save. Giants 4, Padres 3. At San Francisco, Bob Melvin belted a pair of solo homers to lead the Giants. Mike LaCoss, who lost 10 of his final 11 decisions last year, held the Padres to five hits in 7 1/3 innings to earn the victory. Jeff Robinson, who had picked up the Opening Day victory, went 1 2/3 innings for the save.

St. Louis rookie outfielder Jim Lindeman had a homecoming on Opening Day. Lindeman, who was born in the Chicago suburb of Evanston, and grew up in nearby Des Plaines, said he was anxious to play in Wrigley Field. "I've been looking forward to this game since last season," Lindeman said. "I've got to try not to do too much, let the game come to me and not try to go crazy, not try to hit a home run every at-bat."

Witt's 5-Hitter Sinks Mariners

United Press International
The last time California's Mike Witt pitched into the ninth inning, he and the Angels were an out away from a World Series and Witt was pulled with disastrous results. Tuesday, Witt limited the Seattle Mariners to five hits in successfully going the distance.

In Game five of the ALCS against the Boston Red Sox — Witt's last start of 1986 — he was one out away from giving the Angels the pennant, but was lifted in favor of relievers Gary Lucas and Donnie Moore. The Angels entered the ninth with a 5-2 lead and lost it on a two-out, two-strike home run by Dave Henderson off Moore.

Against the Mariners, Witt pitched a complete game and Mark McLemore snapped a tie in the sixth with his first major-league hit to lead the Angels to a 7-1 victory which snapped the Mariners streak of five consecutive Opening Day triumphs.

Angels Manager Gene Mauch was pleased with his team's Opening Day efforts. "I'm just tickled to death," Mauch said. "My pitcher was superb. I could watch Brian Downing (who had a two-run double) bat 40 times a day and enjoy every one of them. And it was an especially fun day for McLemore. He's got to feel as good as a young man can feel."

Twins 5, Athletics 4 (10)
At Minneapolis, Kent Hrbek's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 10th inning sparked the Twins in their season opener. In the tenth, a Steve Lombardozzi single, Kirby Puckett double and an intentional walk to Gary Gaetti loaded the bases before Hrbek's single off loser Bill Krueger. Hrbek had three RBI in the game. George Frazier got the win.

'Noles Continue Dominance

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
LONGWOOD — Seminole High showed Tuesday night that it has high hopes of continuing its dominance of the Seminole County track scene as it won both the boys and girls portions of the Seminole Athletic Conference Freshman-Sophomore Meet at Lyman High. Coach Ken Brauman's boys team used its outstanding overall depth to defeat a talented young Lyman team while coach Emory Blake's Lady Seminoles relied on a group of proven athletes to outscore Lake Mary's up-and-coming Lady Rams. The Seminole boys, who scored at least two points in every event and as many as 14 in one event, totaled 118 points compared to 105 for Lyman. 56½ for Lake Brantley, 40½ for defending champion Lake Mary, 28 for Lake Howell and 19 for Oviedo. Among the first place finishers for the Seminoles was Kenny Batton who won the long jump and moved into sixth place in the county with a leap of 20-10. Lewis Butler took first in the triple jump by three feet with a 44-9 and both Butler and Batton ran on the winning 440 relay team which came in at 44.3. Also taking firsts for the Tribe was Maurice Roberts in the 440 (51.1).

Track & Field

Robert Moore had an outstanding meet for the Tribe as he placed second in the long jump (20-7), second in the 220 (23.6), tied for third in the 100 meters (11.5) and took third in the triple jump (41-2). Other second places for Seminole included Jerod Jones in the discus (128-0), Bernard Eaddy in the 120 hurdles (17.0), Butler in the 100 meters (11.1) and the mile relay team which finished in 3:38.7. Lyman had 10 first places in the meet led by sophomore Darren Marshall's three firsts and two each by Teddy Mitchell and John Scherpf. Marshall won the pole vault (10-6), 120 hurdles (15.6), 330 hurdles (41.5) and ran a leg on the winning mile relay team which finished with a season's best 3:36. Mitchell, only a freshman, sailed to victories in the mile (4:38.6) and two mile (10:26.2) while Scherpf won the discus (131-0) and shot put (45-10½). Other first places for the Greyhounds included Haldy in the 880 (2:08) and Flint in the high jump (5-10). Lake Brantley's top performer was sprinter Clint Johnson who won both the 100 meters (11.0) and 220 (23.2). In the girls team standings, Seminole finished with 90½ points compared to 81 for Lake Mary, 63 for Lake Howell, 59½ for Lake Brantley, 21 for Oviedo and 11 for Lyman. Seminole took eight first places led by multitaleanted Adrian Hillsman who scored a total of 24 points. Hillsman was first in the long jump (16-6¼) and 330 hurdles (47.3), second in the discus (100-2) and ran legs on the winning relay teams. Joining Hillsman on the 440 relay team, which finished with a season's best time of 48.5, were Tasha Wynn, Yolanda Baker and Michelle Pearson. The mile relay team, which finished in 4:11.4, included Hillsman, Baker, Sherry Burgess and Mechelle Toombs. Also taking firsts for the Lady Seminoles were Chineta Gilchrist in the shot put (36-8), Baker in the 100 meters (12.2), Pearson in the 110 hurdles (15.3) and Wynn in the 220 (26.4). The Lady Rams' only first place finisher was Trudi Roundtree who won the discus with a throw of 104-10. Roundtree was also third in the shot at 33-½. Second places for the Lady Rams included Kwaja Floyd in the long jump (16-2½) and 220 (27.2), Jennifer Caputo in the high jump (4-11), the 440 relay team (51.3) and Allison Snell in the 440 (63.7).

CFRH, Elk's Roofing, TRC Snare Openers

Central Florida Regional Hospital, Elk's Roofing and Tim Raines Connection all picked up opening night victories Monday in Sanford Men's Softball League play at Pinehurst Field. In the first game, CFRH jumped to a 9-0 lead after five innings and coasted to a 9-3 victory over Kltner. Mark Snell had a two-run triple to key a three-run first frame. John Robinson singled in two runs in the second and Gary Snell doubled home a run in the fourth. In the second game, Elk's Roofing broke loose for 13 runs in the first two innings en route to a 15-9 victory over Deltona Sod. Nick Mergo had a triple and two-run homer during the outburst. Nick Brady had a two-run single. Chris and Tolle Frank, Tom Moore and Bob Kelley each contributed an RBI. In the third game, defending champion TRC pounded out 21 hits in an 18-2 victory over Bill Knapp's Lloyd Wall. Rodney Turner and Burnett "Slim" Washington all homered for the Connection. Washington drove in four runs while Turner and Wall had three ribbies each. Eddie Jackson slapped four singles while Sam Raines, Fred Washington, Bob Jacobs, Billy Griffith and Thaad Brooks each chipped in two hits.

Flyers Attempt To Terminate Losing Tradition To Rangers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Flyers and New York Rangers have made first-round playoff meetings a tradition and losing the series is a habit the Flyers want to end.

"It's time to go, that's for sure," said Tim Kerr, who led Philadelphia in goals with 58 this season. "We've had a good year despite some injuries and we've got good goaltending. Hopefully we can get everybody going on all cylinders and go all the way in the playoffs."

But the Rangers have found the Flyers' engine by winning three previous first-round meetings over the last four years and will seek to do it again tonight as the best-of-seven series begins at the Spectrum.

"If we can get going defensively, we can beat them," New York's Don Maloney said. "We chance a good chance of beating them if our goaltending and special teams get it together. We don't fear the Flyers."

Philadelphia won its third straight Patrick Division championship this season, posting a record of 46-26-8. The Rangers, on the other hand, went 34-38-8 and finished fourth in the fifth straight year, surrendering 323 goals, third-most in team history.

The Rangers won the season series between the two teams 4-3 but Philadelphia won the last two games and defenseman Brad Marsh said the Flyers are conscious of avoiding a repeat of last year's upset.

"We all realize what happened to us last year," he said. "We're anxious for the playoffs to start. This year, we're mentally sharper for the playoffs."

Santa Fe Slips Past SCC In 12th

Santa Fe Community College rallied for two runs in the top of the 12th inning to edge Seminole Community College, 8-6, in Mid-Florida Conference baseball Tuesday at SCC.

The Raiders fell to 13-22 overall and 7-11 in the MFC. SCC will travel to Lake City on Thursday and Palatka to battle St. Johns River Saturday.

Down, 6-3, in the bottom of the ninth inning, coach Jack Pantelias' team rallied for three runs to tie but SFCC's 12th-inning rally pulled out the victory.

Tony Ferebee started on the mound for SCC. Ferebee gave up five runs on six hits in five innings of work. Matt Lawton relieved Ferebee and took the loss as he gave up three runs on three hits.

Longwood's Kevin Hill and Chris Gage led the Raiders at the plate as each went 3 for 6. Gage had a double and an RBI. Jeff Fortune went 2 for 6 with a triple and two RBI. Willie Zahn had two hits and an RBI.

Morro, Scott Propel Dodgers

The Dodgers built a 6-0 lead behind Kevin Morro then used strong relief pitching from Kevin Scott to post an 18-11 victory over the Indians in Altamonte Springs Junior League baseball action.

Morro faced just 10 batters while blanking the Indians over three innings. Scott struck out two and allowed one hit to hold off the Indians' uprising in the fifth frame.

The Dodgers have reeled off three victories after losing their first two games. Kevin O'Neill's two-run single triggered a four-run second inning.

Charles Home accounted for three RBI with two singles and Shane Odum had two ribbies with a single. Scott added a double while Joe Pagan and Mike Black each added a triple.

Losing pitcher Scott Davidson led the Indians with two hits. Mike Monahan triples and scored three times.

LA's Campanis Apologizes

HOUSTON (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodgers Vice President Al Campanis, calling it "the saddest moment of my entire career," released a statement Tuesday night apologizing for his nationally televised statement that blacks lacked the "necessities" to become baseball managers.

Campanis had made the remarks Monday night on the ABC program "Nightline" via a live television hookup from Houston.

"Last night, I appeared on Mr. Koppel's television show to commemorate the memory and contributions of a man I deeply respect, admire, and love, Mr. Jackie Robinson," Campanis said in the statement. "My statements have been construed as indicating a belief that blacks lack the ability to hold such positions. I hold no such beliefs. However, I, and only I, am responsible for my statements and for my inability under the circumstances to express accurately my beliefs."

Sanders Leads FSU Past Jax

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Centerfielder Deion Sanders went 3-for-4 with two runs scored, one RBI and a stolen base Tuesday night to break out of a weekend hitting slump and lead Florida State to a 9-3 win over Jacksonville.

Sanders, an FSU football standout, and winning pitcher Jerry Nelson, who allowed six hits in eight innings, helped the Seminoles break a two-game losing streak.

Nelson (5-2) struck out seven for the Seminoles, 30-9. Joel Shapiro was the loser for the Dolphins, 23-12.

Justus To Host Zone B Diving

The Justus Aquatic Center will be the site of the Senior National Zone B Qualifying Diving Meet on April 10-12.

More than 100 divers from throughout the country will be competing in 1 meter, 3 meter and platform events. The top four finishers in each event will qualify for the Phillips 66/U.S. Diving Indoor Championships in Baton Rouge, La. on April 14-18.

Competing from the Justus Diving Team are Greg Treas, Meg Bonella, Dawn Carrow and Karis Smith.

Edberg Continues Dallas Wins

DALLAS (UPI) — Sweden's Stefan Edberg may become more fond of playing in Dallas than he is already.

"I usually play well in Dallas and I've beaten all the guys in this tournament so I'm taking a positive approach and I think I can win," said Edberg, who withstood a furious rally by Tim Mayotte Tuesday night and recorded a 6-2, 7-5, 6-7 (4-7), 3-6, 6-1 victory in the opening match of the $675,000 Buick World Championship Tennis tournament.

Pro Wrestling Card Canceled

The professional wrestling match scheduled for Sunday at Seminole High School has been canceled, Ray Bertrand said Tuesday.

Bertrand, a Seminole High graduate who wrestles under the name of The Grim Reaper, was scheduled to appear on the card.

Bear Tracks

Don't Discount Defending Champ Nicklaus At Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Australian Greg Norman, among a handful of foreign golfers who share the favorite's role at this week's Masters, says it would be a mistake to totally discount defending champion Jack Nicklaus.

"I remember reading in the paper last year that the 'Bear' was in hibernation," said Norman, who tied for second behind Nicklaus in 1986 after bogeying the final hole. "Now he's 100-to-1 and he's still capable of winning again."

"At 100-to-1, it wouldn't be a bad bet to put a few shillings on."

Nicklaus agrees although golf's "Golden Bear" is now 47 and appears infrequently on the pro golf tour.

"I don't have much desire to play the four tournaments, but that doesn't mean I want to retire," said Nicklaus, who has won six Masters titles. "By pacing myself, I can still get ready for the major championships."

Nicklaus says he has a different attitude than he had going into last year's Masters. "Last year, it had been six years since I had won a major championship and I came in frustrated," said Nicklaus. "Winning the Masters changed that. This year, I'm relaxed, not concerned about how I play. If I do well this week, great. If I don't, I'll be disappointed, but it won't be the end of the world."

Norman, who won last year's British Open and finished second in the PGA Championship, feels differently. He felt he gave away last year's Masters and is anxious to make amends for the closing bogey that left him a stroke behind Nicklaus.

"A lot of players have screwed up on the final hole, even Jack Nicklaus," said Norman. "Maybe I was a bit too aggressive. But I was trying to make birdie. I had just made four in a row. You would have tried too if you were as pumped up as I was."

"The 'Saturday Slam' was definitely an incentive," said Norman, who held the lead after the third rounds of all four of last year's major golf championships. "Being on the doorstep of the 'Grand Slam' makes me more determined."

The 51st Masters, first stop on the "Grand Slam" circuit, begins Thursday with a field of 88. Practice rounds end at 1 p.m. EST today when the Augusta National course will be closed for last-minute grooming.

This afternoon the Masters golfers will participate in the annual par-3 tournament. The weather forecast for Thursday's opening round calls for sunny skies and temperatures in the 70s.

Foreigners took three of the top five spots last year when Norman and Texan Tom Kite tied for second, two-time champion Seve Ballesteros of Spain was fourth and Nick Price of South Africa was fifth. The year before, Bernhard Langer of Germany was the winner with Ballesteros tied for second.

"When you talk about favorites, you have to look at the guys who consistently perform well at this golf tournament," said Norman. "With the firmer greens this year, you can probably thin out the field a little more."

"That's why I like the chances of Ballesteros and Langer. Among the Americans, you've got to like (two-time champion) Tom Watson and Hal Sutton and (former champion) Ray Floyd have been hitting the ball extremely well.

"The way this course is playing this year, you've got to play more conservative this week," said Norman. "You're going to have to cut your losses and go. The greens are getting very firm and you're going to have to be careful with the bump and run."

"The course is as good as I've ever seen it," said Nicklaus, who first played in the Masters in 1959 and is making his 29th appearance. "The greens are firmer than they have been for years. What they do with them regarding speed and pin placements remains to be seen."

Sanford Little American League Tonight's games at Fort Mellon
5:15 p.m. — Cardinal Industries vs. Sun Bank
7:15 p.m. — Carriage Cove vs. Seminole Ford

The Sanford Police Benevolent Association, the new team on the block in the Sanford Little National League, did not waste any time in flexing its muscles Tuesday night.

SPBA pounded out 17 hits and used a one-hit pitching performance from Deentry Beamon to overpower First Federal, 17-0, in Opening Night Little National League baseball before 85 fans at Fort Mellon Park.

In Tuesday's other opener, Sunniland rallied to upend Disabled American Veterans, 12-8, before 75 fans.

The Sanford Little American League opens tonight as Cardinal Industries duels Sun Bank at 5:15 and Carriage Cove takes on Seminole Ford at 7:15. Both games are at Fort Mellon Park.

SPBA winner Beamon gave up a leadoff single to Charles Reynolds and then retired nine of the last 10 hitters he faced. Beamon struck out seven and walked one. Dexter Graham took the loss for First Federal.

Andre Rawlings and Tony Taylor each walked and scored to give Benevolent a 2-0 first-inning lead. Four more walks along with key singles by Rawlings Keith Roberts aided seven-run second inning for a 9-0 lead.

Eight runs in the fourth invoked the slaughter rule. Beamon started the outburst with a homer. George Martin, Keith and Eric Roberts, Taylor and Beamon all contributed singles.

Sunniland, meanwhile, fell behind DAV, 3-1 and 8-6, but came on strong with three runs in the third and three more in the fifth. Right-hander Don Hunt, who struggled with his control in the first two innings, found his location the shut out the Vets over the last four innings.

Hunt allowed two hits. Bernard Sparrow's three-run homer in the second inning was the big blow for DAV. Hunt struck out 15 and walked 11.

Greene Lifts Oviedo Past Williamsburg

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Oviedo's Alan Greene threw out the welcome mat to Williamsburg, Ky. Tuesday night. And then pulled it from under the Kentuckians' feet.

After surrendering two first-inning runs, Greene settled down to hurl a three-hitter as the Lions drilled Williamsburg, 12-2, in a nonconference baseball game stopped after five innings due to the slaughter rule at the Oviedo Little League Field.

Oviedo improved to 13-5 with its third consecutive victory. The Lions host Syracuse (N.Y.) Bishop Grimes Friday night.

"Greene started a little bit tight, but it was just a matter of locating his pitches," Oviedo coach Howard Mable said. "Sometimes he has a tendency to hold back on his fastball. Once he let loose of it, he was fine."

Greene, a junior right-hander, struck 10 and walked just one to boost his record to 3-0. Pitching, though, was only half of the Greene story. He also clobbered a homer and a double. The round-tripper was his fourth which ties Mark Merchant for the county lead.

Oviedo scratched out a run in the first when Merchant singled, stole second and third and scored on Glenn Reichle's sacrifice fly.

The Lions took control with seven runs in the second. Greene got things going with his homer over the center-field fence. Randy Ferguson socked the first of his two doubles to left center and Steve Hofmann singled past third to score Ferguson for a 3-2 lead.

Hofmann stole second and went to third when Jeret Kinnaird reached on an error. Sophomore Micah Kinnaird, starting his first game at shortstop, delivered in his first at-bat with a single to score Hofmann. Merchant followed with a sacrifice fly.

Belflower then reached when Micah Kinnaird was caught in a rundown and scrambles back to third. After Belflower stole second, Reichle walked to load the bases. Jon Cox then drew a free pass for a 6-2 lead. Ferguson followed with his second two-bagger for two ribbles and an 8-2 bulge.

Sunniland's Don Hunt strides and fires. The 12-year-old right-hander overcame some early control problems to fire a two-hitter at Disabled American Veterans. Hunt struck out 15.

Ray June led the Sunniland hit parade with a homer and two triples good for three RBI. Tyrone Chibberton had a single and double and two ribbles. Derrick Brinson and Hunt each slapped a single and double. Richard Peterson added a double and Edgar Bass a single.

Coaches Are Needed

Robbie Robinson, a director for the Sanford Parks and Recreation Department, said Tuesday that coaches are still needed for the youth baseball program.

"We need several coaches," Robinson said. "We need a couple for the Little Majors and for the Pee Wees, too."

The Little National League opened play Tuesday and the Little American League is scheduled to begin tonight.

Robinson said anyone interested in volunteering his or her services should call the recreation department at 322-3161.

Half-Volley: Ad-Lib Of Tennis

Of all the shots in tennis, the least practiced and probably the most talked about or written about is the half-volley. This is a very hard shot to practice and often has to be just "ad-libbed."

The shot is actually a cross between a groundstroke and a volley. It is "sort of" a groundstroke and "sort of" a volley. It is really neither, thus the term "half-volley."

It is called a "trap" in baseball or football. It does contain many similarities to the volley such as a short backswing, firm wrist and a shorter follow-through than found in a normal groundstroke.

The shot requires a lot of concentration and the timing must be exact. It requires a soft, gentle touch and above all it requires the player to bend those knees and really get down with the ball.

If you try to half-volley standing straight up, or if you bend from the waist, you will be in big trouble. Make sure when you are forced to hit a half-volley that you move those feet and really bend the knees to assure that you will be down low enough to hit this very difficult shot.

Actually, the best advice to give anyone when talking about the half-volley is to avoid hitting it whenever possible. If you move quickly enough, you will most often be able to get to the ball while it is still in the air. This will allow you to volley it instead of half-volley it. It is just so much better to volley a ball because on the volley you can hit down or at least through most calls. On half-volleys you must hit up and usually gives your opponent an easy next shot.

Larry Castle
SANFORD HERALD TENNIS WRITER

If you do get caught out of position though, or your opponent has hit you a really great shot, here are some tips that might help you on the half-volley.

- Make sure your wrist is very firm on contact. Try to make contact in front of you and try to contact the ball on the rise, not after it has bounced.

- Try to maintain good balance. It is better to have a nice wide base on the half-volley than with the feet too close together. When the feet are too close together we have a tendency to lose balance and good balance is vital on this shot.

- Do not stand up too straight. The lower you get your body on this shot the better chance you have of making it. If you do not bend the knees, chances are you will not even get a good look at the ball.

- Do not pop up at the end of the stroke. Often a player gets down nicely to the ball but just as the make contact they raise up. Coming up too soon will cause you to lose eye contact with the ball and probably mis-hit the ball.

- Come with a low to high motion. Have your motion carry the racket up and out — this will assure you that the ball will clear the net and possibly even get the ball deeper.

Pistolesi Triumphs

BARI, Italy — Claudio Pistolesi of Italy, ranked 150th in the world, eliminated second seed Aaron Krickstein of Grosse Pointe, Mich., 7-5, 5-7, 6-0 Tuesday to advance to the second round of a $105,000 Grand Prix tennis tournament.

In other matches, top seed Thierry Tulasne of France downed Italian Claudio Mezzadri, 6-3, 6-3.

Market Ends Slide

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues today, following an abrupt slide Tuesday.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 44.60 Tuesday, was up 7.38 to 2368.32 shortly after the market opened.

Gainers led losers 383-297 among the 1,017 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 6,704,300 shares.

The stock market slid sharply in active trading Tuesday, ending a five-day rally that had given the Dow Jones Industrial average its first close above 2400. Traders said a weak bond market and weakening prices on some stock index futures contracts contributed to selling pressure, particularly at the end of the day.

Robert Kahan, manager of equity trading at Montgomery Securities in San Francisco, said the market had to deal with "profit taking, a few sell programs and bond market weakness."

But Kahan said after five straight days of gains, it was "time for a little backing and filling." Kahan predicted the market would move higher again by the end of the week.

Dollar And Gold Mostly Higher

By United Press International

The U.S. dollar opened mostly higher in light trading on major world money markets today. The price of gold moved higher.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed slightly higher against the Japanese yen at 145.63 yen, up 0.38 from 145.25 on Tuesday.

Dealers in Japan said trading was held in check as market participants refrained from significant moves as they awaited the outcome of meetings in Washington later Wednesday of finance ministers and central bankers from the major industrial nations.

In European trading, the dollar opened higher in Frankfurt at 1.8275 German marks, up from Tuesday's close of 1.8218.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.518, up slightly from 1.5142 and in Brussels at 38.025 Belgian francs, up from 37.87 on Tuesday.

The dollar gained in Amsterdam, opening at 2.0645 Dutch guilders, up from Tuesday's close of 2.059, and in Milan at 1,301.90 lire, up from 1,298.26.

In London, the British pound sterling weakened slightly to open at $1.618, down from Tuesday's close of $1.6185.

In Paris, the dollar opened unchanged at 6.0785 French francs.

In early New York trading, the dollar was mixed against key foreign currencies in light trading.

Japanese Trade

TOKYO (UPI) — A senior Reagan administration official said Wednesday that Japan has little chance of avoiding U.S. trade sanctions in a dispute over computer chips, despite talks in Washington this week on the issue.

The warning by visiting U.S. Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs Michael Armacost came as Japan dispatched its chief trade negotiator to Washington for the talks in a bid to head off the measures.

In a separate news conference, a visiting British trade official said Wednesday that Japan also failed to meet British demands for greater access by British companies to the Tokyo Stock Exchange and will face retaliation unless it budge.

Armacost spoke at a news conference after a meeting with Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone at which Nakasone pledged to take the initiative in trying to ease trade friction.

But Armacost said there appeared little chance Japan could persuade the United States to rescind its plan, announced last month, to slap 100 percent tariffs on up to $300 million worth of Japanese electronics imports on April 17.

The Japanese deny U.S. charges that they have violated an accord reached last year on semiconductors by continuing to "dump" chips at unfairly low prices in world markets and by failing to increase sales of U.S.-made chips in Japan.

Grove View Residents Protest Route

Bill Filed To Consolidate Expressway Authorities

State Rep. Rich Crotty, R-Orlando and Rep. Frank Stone, R-Casselberry, filed a bill today designed to consolidate the expressway authorities of Orange, Seminole, Lake and Osceola counties.

If passed by the Legislature and signed by the governor, the bill would create a 9-member board which would supercede all individual county expressway authority decisions.

Under the proposed bill, five members would be appointed by the governor from residents of the counties and the other four would be the chairmen of the four county commissions.

State Rep. Ari Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, is opposed to the bill because he says Seminole County would only be assured one vote on the super-agency.

If passed, the measure would be effective in June.

Meanwhile, Tuesday night about 100 residents from the Grove View subdivision off Lake Mary Boulevard in south Sanford protested the suggestion that an expressway will go through their relatively new neighborhood of about 400 homes.

The route through Grove View is one of several being considered by the Seminole County Expressway Authority, whose representatives attended the meeting at the Lake Mary Community Improvement Association building.

Also present was Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, Lake Mary City Commissioner Paul Tremel, and Seminole County Commissioner Bob Sturm, a Lake Mary resident, all members of the Expressway Authority.

Expressway Authority Executive Director Gerald Brinton and consultant Tim Jackson presented the layouts of the routes and explained the schedule for approving the route and construction.

They also made it clear that the authority may decide not to build at all or to build only the southern and central portion up to U.S. Highway 17-92 or Lake Mary Boulevard.

"It was mostly the standard stuff," said Tremel after the meeting. "Nobody wants the expressway in their neighborhood."

Similar neighborhood meetings are scheduled throughout the county before the authority makes its final decision in July.

politics, which Shelton said are being threatened.

After all the evidence is gathered this week, a decision is expected by the state cabinet and governor early this summer. So far this week, Amcor attorneys have presented their engineers and consultants who stressed that Plantation will not negatively impact the environment and will provide necessary housing and services.

County officials contend the main issue is the ability of local governments to defend their land-planning policies, and that state law does not allow the cabinet or a hearing officer to overturn their decisions except in the case of an overriding state or regional concern. The loophole is, however, that no land use map was drafted for the rural northwest Seminole County when the land use plan was adopted in 1977. Still, the county says about 200 homes should be built on the lowland acreage. The developer has offered to build as few as 1,088 homes.

The St. Johns River Water Management District governing board met in workshop to consider more stringent controls and construction setback requirements for buildings and houses along the river basin. The board will undertake a study which environmentalists say will set back their efforts for six months to a year.

Besides the delay, five of the nine members of the governing board have terms that expire before the Wekiva plan comes up again in July. The governor appoints new members, and some environmentalists are worried the new members may not be willing to impose the setbacks and buffers.

money for Medicaid but not enough for private health insurance. The state currently provides for them through county health units or hospital emergency rooms. The costs are covered in part through a "sick tax" on hospitals.

Large public hospitals like Jackson Memorial in Dade County have complained the system lets private hospitals shift their responsibility for the poor to taxpayers. A pending House proposal would restructure the sick tax so private hospitals pay more.

Other proposals would encourage emergency room doctors to treat indigents by limiting their malpractice liability. Many hospitals in Dade County threatened to close emergency rooms early this year, saying they and their doctors could not afford liability coverage.

James Perry, president of the Florida Medical Association, said Florida's doctors cannot wait for relief from their insurance woes.

"If they don't get a signal the people of this state are willing to begin to address the problem, they're about ready to quit," Perry said. "They're being asked to commit financial, emotional and physical suicide."

Senate President John Vogt said he had some differences with Martinez, but "overall we're on the same wavelength."

Martinez drew better reviews from other Republicans, who praised his call for legislators to abandon politics-as-usual and "be bold about taxation and cautious about spending."

"It is rare when you have a governor or any other politician openly challenge a body about how we do things," said House Minority Leader Dale Patchett, R-Vero Beach. "There were a lot of stunned faces about actually hearing somebody say that. The business has always been conducted behind the scenes. To actually say, 'We are going to try to do the right thing and we will remember if you are into helping us' is rare."

Sen. Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, who put together the conservative Democrat-Republican coalition that controls the Senate, said the speech foreshadowed a legislative session that could become "a conservative love-in."

"It wasn't especially fancy. It was just a good working speech identifying the problems and suggesting some solutions," Barron said. "He was not too flowery, he was forthright and told it like it was."

Lyman Graduate To Receive Master Of Music In Opera

Carla DeVillagio, a graduate student in the music department at State University of New York at Binghamton, presented a soprano recital at the campus March 28 in partial fulfillment of requirements for the Master of Music degree. She expects to receive her M.M. in opera at Binghamton's May 1987 Commencement.

The winner of the 1987 SUNY-Binghamton Concerto Competition, Miss DeVillagio performed as soloist with the University Orchestra in the Concerto Winners' concert Feb. 25. She is a member of the Tri-Cities Opera Company of Binghamton, with whom she has performed the roles of Frasquita in Carmen and Antonia in The Tales of Hoffman.

Miss DeVillagio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale DeVillagio, 150 N. Devon Ave., Winter Springs, is an alumna of the University of Central Florida, Orlando, and is a graduate of Lyman High School in Longwood.

EKU Alumni To Meet

Eastern Kentucky University alumni and other friends in the Central Florida area will gather on Friday, April 17, for the annual South Florida Area Chapter spring dinner and meeting, chapter officials announced recently.

Donald Michelson, chapter president, said the meeting will be held at the Wilson World Hotel, 7491 Space Coast Parkway, Orlando. The event begins at 6:30 p.m.

Reservations and additional information are available by calling the EKU Alumni Office at (606) 622-1260.

Hickson Family Plans Reunion

The second annual Hickson family reunion will be held April 11 at Lake Sylvan Park, located west of Sanford off Highway 46 and then left on Markham Woods Road. Those planning to attend are asked to bring a covered dish and lawn chairs and all our relatives. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Poet To Appear At SCC

Gwendolyn Brooks will make two appearances at Seminole Community College on Monday, April 13. Ms. Brooks is a Pulitzer Prize-winning poet, a past consultant in Poetry to the Library of Congress, and the Poet Laureate of Illinois.

Ms. Brooks will make her first appearance at 11 a.m. on April 13, in the Fine Arts Concert Hall. At that time she will present the Dr. Stephen Caldwell Wright Poetry Awards, which she established at Seminole Community College in 1984.

At 8 p.m. Ms. Brooks will read her poetry. This event will also be held in the Fine Arts Concert Hall.

The public is invited to both events, and admission is free.

Cook Of The Week

When Dr.'s Wife Announces, 'Soup's On,' The Family Makes A Beeline For Home

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

When the soup's on, the family comes home, and that's a fact. "Any time I'm making a big pot of vegetable soup, spaghetti, stuffed peppers or macaroni and cheese," exclaims Georgia Barks, our Cook of the Week. "I'll always call and tell them what's cooking on the stove and they'll drop in. They come by often, but when I fix those things especially, they show up."

The very finest experience in southern hospitality can be found at the Sanford home of our gracious cook, who is more likely to applaud her family's accomplishments than speak of her own. "Of course, my family is the most important thing to me," she says, "and I try to go along with their wants and wishes and hope I'll be an inspiration to them and a good influence on their lives."

Married to retired Sanford physician Dr. Orville Barks, Mrs. Barks has come a long way since her childhood days in Columbus, Ga. Although her two sisters and a brother and their families are scattered between South Carolina, Florida and California, hers was a warm, close-knit family whose memories of their mother's good cooking often comes to mind. "Oh, my mother was a wonderful cook," says Mrs. Barks, "and I guess one of her specialties that we always enjoyed was her 'smothered chicken,' which was not fried, but steamed and then browned with flour and basted with the juices, and with a milk gravy. She made nine loaves of bread at one time, plus two or three pans of rolls from the same dough." Many family picnics and annual barbecues brought Mrs. Barks' relatives from Georgia and Alabama together for good food and fun. "Every year my grandfather had a barbecue for family reunions and our home seemed to be the gathering place for these get-togethers," she adds.

Graduated from State Teacher's College in Fredericksburg, Va., Mrs. Barks taught fifth graders for seven years. In those days, teachers were well-equipped to take on many tasks and our former teacher recalls that she even coached basketball! "We just had to do everything," she laughs.

She met her husband, who was born and educated in Missouri, when he was serving as a medical officer on active duty in the U.S. Army Reserve at Fort Benning, Ga., the largest infantry school in the world. "He interned in Tampa," says Mrs. Barks, "so that's where he got sand in his shoes and decided to move to Florida." Introduced by mutual friends, Mrs. Barks remembers that they went bowling on their first date, "and I beat him," she chuckles. "Thought I never would see him again."

The Barks' came to Sanford in 1941 and a year later Dr. Barks was called back into the service after World War II was declared. A great personal nightmare began when Dr. Barks was taken prisoner of war in Germany and held for 27 months until he was liberated in May 1945. "He was sent overseas in January and was captured in North Africa and flown to Germany," relates Mrs. Barks. "He was in several camps there," she says. Their first son, Dr. Orville Barks Jr., was just 7 months old when his father went to serve his country, and a toddler of 3 when his father returned. "When he came back," says Mrs. Barks, "he wired me a dozen roses when he got to New York. When a neighbor asked my little boy, 'Vil, who sent your mother those gorgeous roses?' he answered, 'Georgia's husband sent them,' because he had been talking to his daddy's picture all that time." Many good friendships were developed during those trying times and at a reunion of one of the Air Force Officers prison camps, Dr. Barks met his former POW roommate among others. Dr. and Mrs. Barks are members of the Central Florida ex-POWs organization.

Resuming their lives in Sanford, Dr. and Mrs. Barks settled down to continue his medical practice and raise their family. After 16 years as a general practitioner, Dr. Barks turned to anesthesiology until his retirement eight years ago. Their oldest son, Orville Jr., is a cardiathoracic surgeon in Philadelphia. Barry, their second son, is a mortgage broker who, with his partner, Gib Edmonds, recently formed The Seminole Money Tree, Inc. in Lake Mary. He has two lovely daughters, Tonya, 14, and Ashley, 5. A third son, James A., is an attorney married to Lella and they have a girl, Campbell, 7, and a boy, Stuart, 4. The Barks' youngest son, Tom, is a nurse-anesthetist at Central Florida Regional Hospital. A son, Bryan, is 14, and two daughters, Jennifer and Kristen, are 9 and 3, respectively. Mrs. Barks is quick to mention that her daughters-in-law are excellent cooks and bring the flavors of their native states, Alabama and Virginia, into their homes. And for a loving reminder of the full and satisfying life she has experienced as a wife, mother, grandmother, homemaker and helpmate, Georgia Barks need only glance at her gallery of beautiful family portraits and feel complete contentment.

Hanging on a doorknob in Mrs. Barks' kitchen are several aprons, one for each granddaughter, which are donned immediately when they visit and are eager to help "Gee," their fond nickname for Grandma. "We have a wonderful time," she says. "As soon as the girls get in the house, each one gets an apron that they like, and go around with their pad and pencil taking orders, and help to set the table and help in the kitchen."

The whole family gathers at the Barks' beach house at one time or another to enjoy boating, water skiing and shrimping. "We've had the beach house for 40 years," she says, "so I guess that would be our main family hobby. The boys have always been interested in boating and they enjoy fishing over there. The children have their own rods and reels and so Grandma fixes fish and hush puppies a lot."

Gardening has always been a relaxing pastime for our cook, who loves to "dig in" to add to the beautiful landscaping of her spacious lakefront home. "It's always been my hobby since we had our first home," she says. Mrs. Barks loves flowers of all kinds and her membership in the Rose Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford for 26 years is proof of her green thumb efforts. Nowadays, her home is "home."

to dozens of African Violets which are among the healthiest specimens you will ever see. Outdoors, the Azaleas are in full bloom and give a colorful touch to the gardens. Our cook enjoys the game of bridge and has been meeting with some close friends once a month for about 35 years to share this pleasant pastime.

Among her many activities over the years, Mrs. Barks counts her charter membership in the medical auxiliary as an important contribution to the community. Originally a group of nine doctors' wives, these women volunteer their time under the auspices of the Seminole County Medical Society, and the auxiliary has grown in number since. All along the way, Mrs. Barks has had a close involvement with her husband's profession.

She was also on the board of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association for many years, but aside from her own interests, Mrs. Barks likes to include the fact that her husband is a life member of the Florida Medical Association and a life member of the American Medical Association, is an honorary member of the Seminole County Medical Society, and was the Seminole County Health Director for two and a half years. For 46 years, Dr. and Mrs. Barks have been active members of the First United Methodist Church of Sanford and have each served on the administrative board. In addition, this proud wife and mother mentions that her sons were all very active in sports during their school years with Barry and Tom earning trophies as best all around athletes and Dr. and Mrs. Barks were sure to arrange their schedules around their sons' activities, attending every football, baseball, basketball and track event that took place.

Now that their retirement years are in full swing, the Barks' time together is well spent traveling to every corner of the world. They are members of the "Friendship Force," a people's travel exchange program. "It's mainly to make friends with people in other countries," she explains. "You visit in homes of foreign countries, and in turn, people from foreign countries come over here. We hosted a couple from Belgium last spring for about nine days and just had a lovely time with them. The Friendship Force arranges the exchange program. Next week we're having a German father and son join us for a few days at the beach house and we are looking forward to that." The Barks' first trip with the Friendship Force took them to Russia where they visited Moscow and Leningrad. However, their accommodations were in first class hotels because "they don't have enough room in their small apartments," says Mrs. Barks.

On their own, the Barks have visited a countless number of countries abroad including England, France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland and Austria on the European circuit. In addition to South America, Greece, Alaska, all the countries comprising the Holy Land, and Spain, Portugal and Morocco. Naturally, memorable moments stand out in Mrs. Barks' mind, especially a boat trip down the Nile to Cairo, a Luau in Hawaii laden with fresh fruits and delicious roast pig, and on a cruise to the Bahamas on the Swedish ship, the Stockholm, she remembers the beautiful ice sculptures of birds and fish in the dining room. In Alaska, the Red Sockeye Salmon was a frequent entree, and in Madrid, Spain, Mrs. Barks recalls the tasty Paella. On the trip to the Holy Land, she recalls, "we had chicken sometimes twice a day. We had some lamb, but chicken was the main thing almost every night, cooked a different way, of course. I guess that's just the most inexpensive food in that part of the world and they just raised a lot of chickens." In Greece, the Baklava was Dr. Barks' favorite pastry. Add Holland, Mexico, Canada and many places in the United States to the travelogue and the list is still not complete. "There's a lot of the world we haven't seen yet," says Mrs. Barks.

Having sampled some of the world's most renowned foods, Mrs. Barks comments that they were all marvelous experiences, but there's nothing like good old U.S.A. cooking. Below is a collection of recipes that Mrs. Barks family loves to come back home for:

COUNTRY CAPTAIN

2 large fryers, cut up
8 tablespoons cooking oil
3 medium chopped onions
3 chopped green peppers
2 cans tomatoes, 17 ounce size
1 teaspoon garlic juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons thyme
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
2-3 teaspoons celery powder curry powder
black pepper
1 cup currants
1 1/4 cups blanched, roasted almonds
3 cups rice, cooked
Remove fryer skins and roll chicken in flour, salt and pepper and fry in oil. Now remove chicken from pan but keep it hot. (This is a secret to the dish's success) Into the oil in which the chicken has been cooked, add onions, green pepper and garlic. Cook slowly, stirring constantly. Season with salt, pepper and curry powder. Simmer 15 minutes. Add tomatoes, chopped parsley and thyme. Mix well until hot. Now put chicken in roaster and pour mixture over it. Bake in covered roaster about 45 minutes to 1 hour, until chicken is tender. To serve, place chicken on a platter and pile cooked rice around it. Drop currants into sauce mixture and pour over rice. Garnish with parsley and scatter roasted almonds over top of rice. A good Southern dish! Serves 8.

CHICKEN PARMESAN

2 large fryers
1 tablespoon garlic juice
2 sticks margarine
Parmesan cheese
Cut fryers into quarters and remove skin. In baking pan, melt margarine and add garlic juice. Pat chicken dry, then dip in garlic butter. Place chicken, "skin" side down, and bake for 30 minutes at 350°. Turn pieces over and sprinkle Parmesan cheese on top side and bake another 30 minutes. The garlic butter and cheese topping bake to a golden brown. Serves 8.

VEGETABLE SOUP

4 pounds lean beef stew meat
4 or 5 soup bones
3 large cans tomatoes
3 large onions, chopped
1 package fresh carrots, sliced
6 celery stalks, chopped
1 can (16 ounces) cut green beans
1 can white corn
1 can yellow whole kernel corn
1 can small green peas
1 small package (8-10 ounces) wide noodles

Brown stew meat which has been cut up into bite size pieces. Add tomatoes and onions to cook with the meat while the other ingredients are being prepared. Add carrots and celery, then add the rest of the vegetables, salt and pepper. Cook about 3 hours, stirring often. Add noodles after two hours of cooking time to thicken soup.

MARINATED STEAK

4 to 4 1/2 pounds sirloin steak
1 bottle (10 ounces) soy sauce
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon garlic juice
1/2 cup vinegar
2 tablespoons prepared mustard

1 large onion, chopped
Place steak in flat pan and pour mixture of the other ingredients over it and marinate for 2 hours, turning once. Broil steak under 500° broiler, or cook quickly on the grill. Some of the marinade may be heated for extra sauce on the steak. Any left over can be stored in a jar in your refrigerator for several weeks. Do not add salt to steak.

STUFFED PEPPERS

5 large green peppers
2 pounds ground low fat chuck or sirloin tip
2 medium onions, cut up
1 egg
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes

1 teaspoon salt
pepper to taste
1 can tomato sauce (15 ounces)
V-8 juice

Slice peppers in half lengthwise and clean. Steam in large pot until tender but not overcooked. Mix ground beef, onions, egg, salt and pepper and the whole canned tomatoes, reserving the juice. Stuff peppers and place in large baking pan, then pour the juice of the canned tomatoes over stuffed peppers. BAKE in 350° oven for 45 minutes. Then pour off the watery juice and pour V-8 juice into the pan for sauce. Put 2 tablespoons of tomato sauce on each pepper. Finish baking about 20 minutes longer. My family says these peppers are better the second time around!

HEAVENLY HASH

1 1/2 pints whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package marshmallows (10 ounces)
1 can (16 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup maraschino cherries
1 cup pecan pieces
Whip the cream to which has been added 2 tablespoon sugar. Add cut up marshmallows, drained crushed pineapple, cut up cherries, and pecan pieces. Mix well and serve cold. I add a little cherry juice to color the dessert and always make this at Easter and at Christmas. It is rich, but it keeps for days.

BAKED ZUCCHINI

6 or 8 zucchini squash
1 stick oleo
salt and pepper to taste
1 1/2 cups bread crumbs
1 cup milk
Parmesan cheese
Clean and slice zucchini into halves, lengthwise, and place in baking pan, dot with oleo; salt and pepper to taste, then pour sweet milk in pan and bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle bread crumbs then Parmesan cheese over each half and bake another 20 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Serves 8.

Randy Rhoades' Tapes Hitting The Market

Heavy metal's Big Daddy, Ozzy Osbourne, got into the fiercest of many fights with his record label back in 1982. The company wanted to release a live LP of his concert tour under the title "Speak of the Devil."

Osbourne's guitarist, 25-year-old Randy Rhoads, had just been killed in a plane crash. Ozzy would not have "Randy's memory exploited" by a quickie album release — especially under that title. "Speak of the Devil" came out as a hastily assembled greatest hits package featuring a different guitarist.

Now, five years later, those Randy Rhoads concert tapes are hitting the market under the more appropriate logo of "Tribute," a double-disc set.

"Randy's mom, Delores, and I feel that this is the right time," says Osbourne. "I know his playing will continue to inspire you all. This album is my tribute to Randy Rhoads."

Since Rhoads' untimely death, Osbourne has been haunted by fears of his own sudden demise. He penned a strong letter to People magazine when they put John Lennon's murderer on the cover, saying that such publicity will encourage other crazed star-killers.

The singer was shaken up most recently in a New York City taxi, when a knife-wielding youth attempted to rob the cab driver through an open window. While Osbourne locked himself in the passenger compartment, the driver subdued the would-be criminal and held him until police arrived. Only then did Osbourne exit the cab — to sign autographs for the gathering crowd.

(BU) The breakthrough of Washington, D.C.'s danceable Go-Go music has been heralded for more than a year now, and it still hasn't broken through. But don't give up hope yet. Deep groove mavens Trouble Funk are in the studio with producers Kurtis Blow and Boosy Collins; their debut major-label disc will be coming out on Island Records in the not-too-distant future.

(BU) On April 28, the late Marvin Gaye will be profiled in a pay-cable special when "Motown on Showtime" presents "Marvin Gaye," a one-hour compilation of rare old footage and new interviews. Smokey Robinson hosts the musical documentary, which includes guest appearances by Ashford and Simpson, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Motown executives Berry Gordy and Suzanne De Passe.

And staying tuned to Showtime that evening — or set your tape machine to do so — because just after midnight, the pay-cable channel airs "Urgh! A Music War," the definitive concert film of new wave's earliest splashes.

(BU) Celebrating the 20th anniversary of their No. 1 hit single "Happy Together," the Turtles are set to follow in Monkeemania's wake and become the next revival success story of the '80s. "Happy Together" will be the theme song for the new movie from the makers of "Desperately Seeking Susan" (called "Making Mr. Right"); the group is launching a 100-city tour in June; and Rhino Records are re-releasing "The Best of the Turtles."

The first evidence you'll see of all this will be a promo video clip of "Happy Together" for the "Making Mr. Right" flick. It's being directed by Nigel Dick ("Do They Know It's Christmas?").

Models Strut Their Stuff At All Souls Vanity Fair

All Souls Council of Catholic Women and Sanford merchants presented a fashion show, "Vanity Fair," Saturday at All Souls Social Hall, Sanford. According to Marsha Wait, fashion commentator, about 300 persons attended the gala spring fling. "It was fantastic," Ms. Wait said. In right photo, Amanda Davis models the latest in sparkling dance wear for the petite miss. In left photo, Bethany Wait, left, is the belle of the ball in a formal pink and white gown fashioned along the bouffant silhouette. A frilly parasol completes pretty Bethany's charming attire. Natalie Costa, right, models a dazzling outfit belonging to James Brown, King of Soul, while Father Lyle Danen, administrator of All Souls, is quite dapper in formal white tails. The luncheon was catered by All Souls Council of Catholic Women.

Tough-Looking Rocker Claims She's Tender

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "A Nice Leather-Loving Girl," who says she dresses like a biker and looks tough, but she's really a nice girl underneath. She says she can't meet any decent guys because of the way she dresses. Abby, you told her maybe she should change her style of dress.

Dear Abby

I disagree with you totally. You see, I am a punk rocker and my style of dress is outrageous, but I have no trouble meeting nice guys.

Guns who are turned off by a girl who dresses wild or different aren't worth knowing. They are rude and ignorant for not wanting to know us "weirdos" better. Underneath, we are just like everyone else.

TRYING TO BE ME IN BALTIMORE

DEAR TRYING: The way a person presents herself or himself is a conscious statement. So if you choose to go around with a purple and orange Mohawk, a safety pin through your ear and a ring in your nose, it's your privilege. But please don't label people "rude and ignorant" if they're so turned off by your outrageous appearance that they have no interest in knowing the "real" you.

DEAR ABBY: I am surprised that you didn't know that many people put up their tombstones in advance. City folks and country folks have different ways of handling this, but here in the Midwest you can walk through small cemeteries and see your friends' and acquaintances' names on markers with the date of their birth and even marriage. This alleviates the grieving spouse of choosing a headstone. After death, all the family has to do is see that the date of death is engraved on the headstone. (It's usually prepaid.)

My husband and I have already chosen ours. I wanted the following engraved on mine: "I'm going straight to heaven because I've already been through hell," but for some reason my husband refuses to approve it.

PLANNING AHEAD IN ILLINOIS

DEAR PLANNING: Did I get letters! And pictures galore of headstones — purchased, engraved and erected in advance. Read on for an interesting story:

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter about the lady who had a headstone put up before her death with all the information on it except her death date.

That's not unusual in the small town in Arkansas where I grew up. There were two unmarried sisters who put up a double tombstone in the Czech cemetery many years ago. One of them died a few years ago and, the last I heard, the other one is still living.

None of us thought it was strange. The idea behind it was that since they had no children, they wanted to be sure they had a nice tombstone when they died. Their parents came from Czechoslovakia as mine did, so that may be the reason we do not think it is strange. The Czechs took great pride in having nice tombstones.

Food for Thought

by Bill Painter

Sensational flavor for a mashed potato — combine it with the pulp of slow-roasted garlic bulb (flavor's mild and tender that way) and a little milk. It's low in calories, but rich tasting.

Saffron is expensive because it's scarce and harvested by hand, but a little goes a long way. Steep in recipe liquid for 15 minutes or more while preparing the rest of your recipe.

Here's a delicious glaze for pork: blend together 2 lbs. each Dijon mustard and salad oil, plus 1 lbs. soy sauce, a clove of garlic, pressed, and lots of pepper. Brush on and let stand a few minutes; broil, turn and re-glaze.

No need to peel fresh ginger root before using. Store it in the freezer, grate frozen, or thaw just enough to cut off the slices you need.

Simple dessert: sliced pear and sliced bananas, tossed gently with the juice of half a lemon and 1 lbs. brown sugar. Red grapes make an attractive — and delicious — garnish.

Microwave Magic

Lemon Marinade Adds Flavor To Tender Spring Lamb

Lamb in its choicest form is a springtime meat. Milk-fed baby lamb is not available except in areas where large ethnic groups provide the demand for such meat. Some lamb is available year round because of freezing techniques.

True spring leg of lamb can be determined by the light pink of the meat and the average leg weight being 3-4 pounds. The younger the lamb the milder the flavor. The frozen leg of lamb seen frequently in our markets oft times is from New Zealand. Average weight 5-7 pounds. All lamb is tender, it is the flavor that becomes more pronounced as the animal matures.

A small leg of spring lamb will microwave tender and juicy. Use a meat thermometer inserted into the meaty area not touching bone. Shield shank end of leg with foil, place on roasting rack with fat side down. Rub lamb with rosemary and insert garlic pieces into meat for flavor enhancers.

For medium doneness: 9-12 minutes per pound; First 5 min. on 100% power, finish on 50% power; Remove at Interval; Temperature 135°

For well done: 10-14 minutes per pound; First 5 min. 100%; Finish on 50%; Remove at Interval; Temperature 150°

Turn roast over after half the cooking time. Let stand 10 minutes, tented with foil.

Lamb will be tender, but you want to try a marinade for flavor.

LEMON MARINADE

- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 bay leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Mix all ingredients and pour over lamb. Allow to marinate several hours before micro-roasting.

Another spring favorite is rhubarb. This tart, refreshing vegetable is available March through May. Just the pink, red or green stems are edible, the leaves contain oxalic acid and can be poisonous.

Choose firm, crisp, brightly colored stalks.

To microwave: Cut rhubarb into 1-inch pieces. In a 2-quart casserole, combine 2 cups rhubarb with 1/4 cup water. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 5-8 minutes or until rhubarb is tender, stirring after half the time. Stir in 1/4 cup sugar and 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice. Let stand 2-3 minutes. Stir before serving. Add a few drops of red food coloring if it appears pale.

Combine rhubarb with another Florida spring berry for a real treat.

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB SAUCE

- 2 cups one inch rhubarb pieces
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 package, frozen sweetened strawberries, defrosted, drained, juice reserved
- 1/2 cup sugar

In a 2-quart casserole, combine rhubarb and water. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes, or until rhubarb is tender. In small bowl combine cornstarch and strawberry juice. Microwave 3-5 minutes or until clear and thickened, stirring after half the time. Stir in sugar. Cover. Let stand 2-3 minutes before serving.

We are fortunate in that many vegetables are available to us early in the spring. Green beans, and beets to name two of my favorites.

SWEET AND SOUR BEANS

- 1 pound fresh green beans, cut

- In one inch pieces
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon butter

Topping:

- 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup sliced almonds
- 1 tablespoon butter
- Nutmeg — fresh ground

In a 2-quart casserole, combine beans and water. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 9-11 minutes or until tender-crisp, stirring after half the time. Let stand 5 minutes. Drain, reserving 1/4 cup liquid. Set beans aside.

In a small bowl combine brown sugar and cornstarch, add lemon juice and reserved bean liquid. Microwave on 100% power 1-2 minutes or until thickened, stirring. Stir in butter, add thickened sauce to beans. Combine topping ingredients. Sprinkle over beans. Microwave, uncovered on 100% power 1-2 minutes.

Pickled beets are my favorite way to eat beets. At Easter time I make a large quantity and put hard cooked eggs in with them. The tang makes them a delicious accompaniment to pork, beef and salad plates.

PICKLED BEETS

- Wash 1 pound of beets gently to avoid skin breaks. Leave root ends and 2 inches of tops to prevent bleeding. Place beets in 2-quart casserole. Mix 1/2 water and 1/2 teaspoon salt pour over beets. Cover. Microwave on 100% power for 20 minutes. Turn beets over during micro-cooking. Plunge into cold water when they are done. Skins will slip when rubbed with your fingernails. Slice the beets thinly.

* 12 small beets
1 medium onion wine vinegar
6 peppercorns
6 whole allspice
3 cloves
Combine the beet slices in bowl with onion slices. Cover with vinegar, add the spices and blend. Store in the refrigerator and serve cold. Add peeled hard cooked eggs to serve as a special snack.

* 12 beets need to be microwaved in 2 batches

ORANGE BEETS

Prepare beets as directed for fresh beets. Cut into thin slices. 2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup orange juice
1 can Mandarin orange segments, drained
In a 2-quart casserole combine brown sugar and cornstarch. Stir in orange juice. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes or until thickened, stirring twice. Add beets. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes or until hot. Stir once. Gently mix in orange segments.

Engagement Oliver-Reno

Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Oliver of Linwood, N.J., announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Patrice Ann Oliver, Mt. Pleasant, S.C., to Lt. Patrick Andrew Reno of Mt. Pleasant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Francis Reno, 119 Lake Minnie Drive, Sanford.

Born in South Orange, N.J., the bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Mainland Regional High School, Linwood, N.J. She graduated from Hood College, Frederick, Md., in 1982.

Her fiancée, born in Philadelphia, is the maternal grandson of the late Mr. Leon Henri Huat and Mrs. Gabrielle Mazaud, Paris, France. He is the paternal grandson of Mrs. Clara Reno, Philadelphia, and the late Mr. Michael W. Reno.

Lt. Observe Passover With Recipes From Weight Watchers

The following recipes have been kitchen-tested by Weight Watchers International Inc.

FRUIT FRUIT COMPOTE WITH MACAROONS (Makes 4 servings) (Serve warm or chilled.)

- 2 small apples, cored, pared, and diced
- 1 small pear, cored, pared, and diced
- 4 dried apricot halves, chopped
- 2 large prunes, pitted and chopped
- 2 tablespoons golden raisins
- 1 tablespoon each water and lemon juice
- 2 teaspoon granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
- Dash or 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 4 medium macaroons (1/2 ounce each), made into crumbs

In 1-quart saucepan combine all ingredients, except cream and macaroon crumbs, and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until apples are soft and mixture thickens, 10 to 15 minutes. Divide into 4 dessert dishes; top each portion with 1/4 of the whipped cream and sprinkle each with 1/4 of the macaroon crumbs.

Each serving provides: 1/2 Fruit Exchanges; 105 calories Optional Exchange Variation: Omit macaroons. Reduce Optional Exchange to 35 calories.

ELEGANT PASSOVER COOKIES (Makes 12 servings, 5 cookies each)

Basic Cookies:

- 1/2 cup each peanut oil and granulated sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons matzo cake meal
- 1 tablespoon potato starch
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Decorations:

- 2 ounces semisweet chocolate chips
- 1 ounce shelled walnuts, ground

To Prepare Basic Cookies: Preheat oven to 350°F. In mixing bowl combine oil and sugar and, using electric mixer at high speed, beat until sugar is almost dissolved, about 5 minutes. Add eggs, 1 at a time, beating well after each addition; add remaining ingredients and continue beating until mixture is smooth and well blended.

Divide batter into 3 equal portions. Using a pastry bag fitted with a large star tip, or a spoon, pipe (or spoon) 1 portion of batter onto nonstick cookie sheet, making 20 cookies and leaving a space of about 1 inch between each; bake for 8 to 10 minutes. Let cookies cool on baking sheet; using a spatula, remove cookies to wire rack and let cool completely. Using remaining 2 portions of batter repeat procedure 2 more times, making 40 more cookies.

To Decorate Cookies: In double boiler melt chocolate over hot (not boiling) water. Dip half of each baked cookie into melted chocolate, coating each with an equal amount of chocolate. Set coated cookies on sheet of wax paper, then sprinkle each with an equal amount of ground walnuts. Let cookies stand until chocolate hardens.

Each serving provides: 1/2 Bread Exchange; 2 Fat Exchanges; 95 calories Optional Exchange.

Variations: 1. Omit nuts. Reduce Optional Exchange to 80 calories.

2. Omit nuts. Instead of coating baked cookies with melted chocolate, sprinkle each unbaked cookie with an equal amount of unmelted chocolate chips, pressing chips lightly into cookies to adhere. Then bake as directed. Reduce Optional Exchange to 80 calories.

3. Omit chocolate and nuts. Reduce Optional Exchange to 55 calories.

FARFEL TERRINE (Makes 8 servings)

- 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon peanut oil, divided
- 8 large green cabbage leaves, blanched
- 2 ounces (about 1 cup) matzo farfel
- 2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon, dissolved in 1 cup hot water
- 1 cup each diced onions, carrots, celery, and red or green bell peppers
- 2 small garlic cloves, minced (optional)
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves, crumbled
- Dash white pepper

Garnish: Italian (flat leaf) parsley leaves, carrot strips,* and 1/2-inch piece red bell pepper. Spread 9 1/4 x 5 1/4 x 3-inch loaf pan with 1/2 teaspoon oil. Arrange enough of cabbage leaves in loaf pan to cover bottom and sides of pan, overlapping edges of leaves slightly; reserve remaining cabbage leaves. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl combine matzo farfel and dissolved bouillon; set aside.

In 12-inch skillet heat remaining 1/2 teaspoon plus 1/2 teaspoon oil; add onions, carrots, celery, bell peppers, and, if desired, garlic and cook until vegetables are tender-crisp, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and let cool.

Preheat oven to 350°F. Add vegetable mixture, eggs, thyme, and white pepper to farfel mixture and mix well to combine. Spoon into prepared loaf pan; rap pan on counter top and run a knife through mixture to remove any air bubbles. Coer mixture with remaining cabbage leaves, tucking edges of loaf into pan. Fill a separate 9 1/4 x 5 1/4 x 3-inch loaf pan with 2 to 3 cups water and set over filled pan to weight down; bake until set, 30 to 35 minutes.

Remove loaf pan containing water from oven; transfer cabbage-filled pan to wire rack and let stand for 5 minutes. Invert terrine onto serving platter. Garnish top of loaf with parsley leaves. Fold carrot strips in half and arrange over parsley with folds radiating out like petals on a flower; top center of carrot flower with red bell pepper.

Each serving provides: 1/2 Bread Exchange; 1/2 Vegetable Exchanges; 1/2 Fat Exchange; 20 calories Optional Exchange.

*To Prepare carrot in thin strips, use a vegetable peeler

PASSOVER SNACK (Makes 4 servings, about 1/2 cup each)

- 2 ounces (about 1 cup) matzo farfel
- 1/4 cup each dark and golden raisins
- 1/2 ounce each shelled walnuts, coarsely chopped, and shelled whole almonds

1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon peanut oil

Preheat oven to 350°F. In medium bowl combine matzo farfel, raisins, and nuts; set aside. In metal 1/4-cup measure or other small flameproof container combine oil and honey; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until honey is melted. Pour over matzo mixture and, using a wooden spoon, toss to coat. Transfer to nonstick baking sheet and spread mixture in an even layer. Bake until browned, about 15 minutes. Transfer baking sheet to wire rack; let stand until mixture is cool and dry, about 10 minutes.

Each serving provides: 1 Bread Exchange; 1 Fat Exchange; 60 calories Optional Exchange.

Variation: Omit walnuts and almonds. Reduce the Optional Exchange to 15 calories.

"BREADED" SWEET 'N SOUR CHICKEN (Makes 4 servings)

- Chicken: 4 skinned and boned chicken breasts (5 ounces each), pounded to 1/4-inch thickness
- 3 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon matzo meal
- 2 tablespoons potato starch
- 1 teaspoon each salt and paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon each garlic powder and onion powder
- 2 teaspoons peanut oil, divided

Sauce:

- 2 teaspoons peanut oil
- 1/2 cup each diced onion and red or green bell pepper
- 1 small garlic clove, minced
- 1 cup canned crushed pineapple (no sugar added), drained (reserve juice)
- 1 tablespoon each granulated sugar and cider vinegar
- 1 teaspoon potato starch
- Dash each salt and pepper

To Prepare Chicken: In large bowl combine chicken and vinegar, turning chicken to coat; set aside.

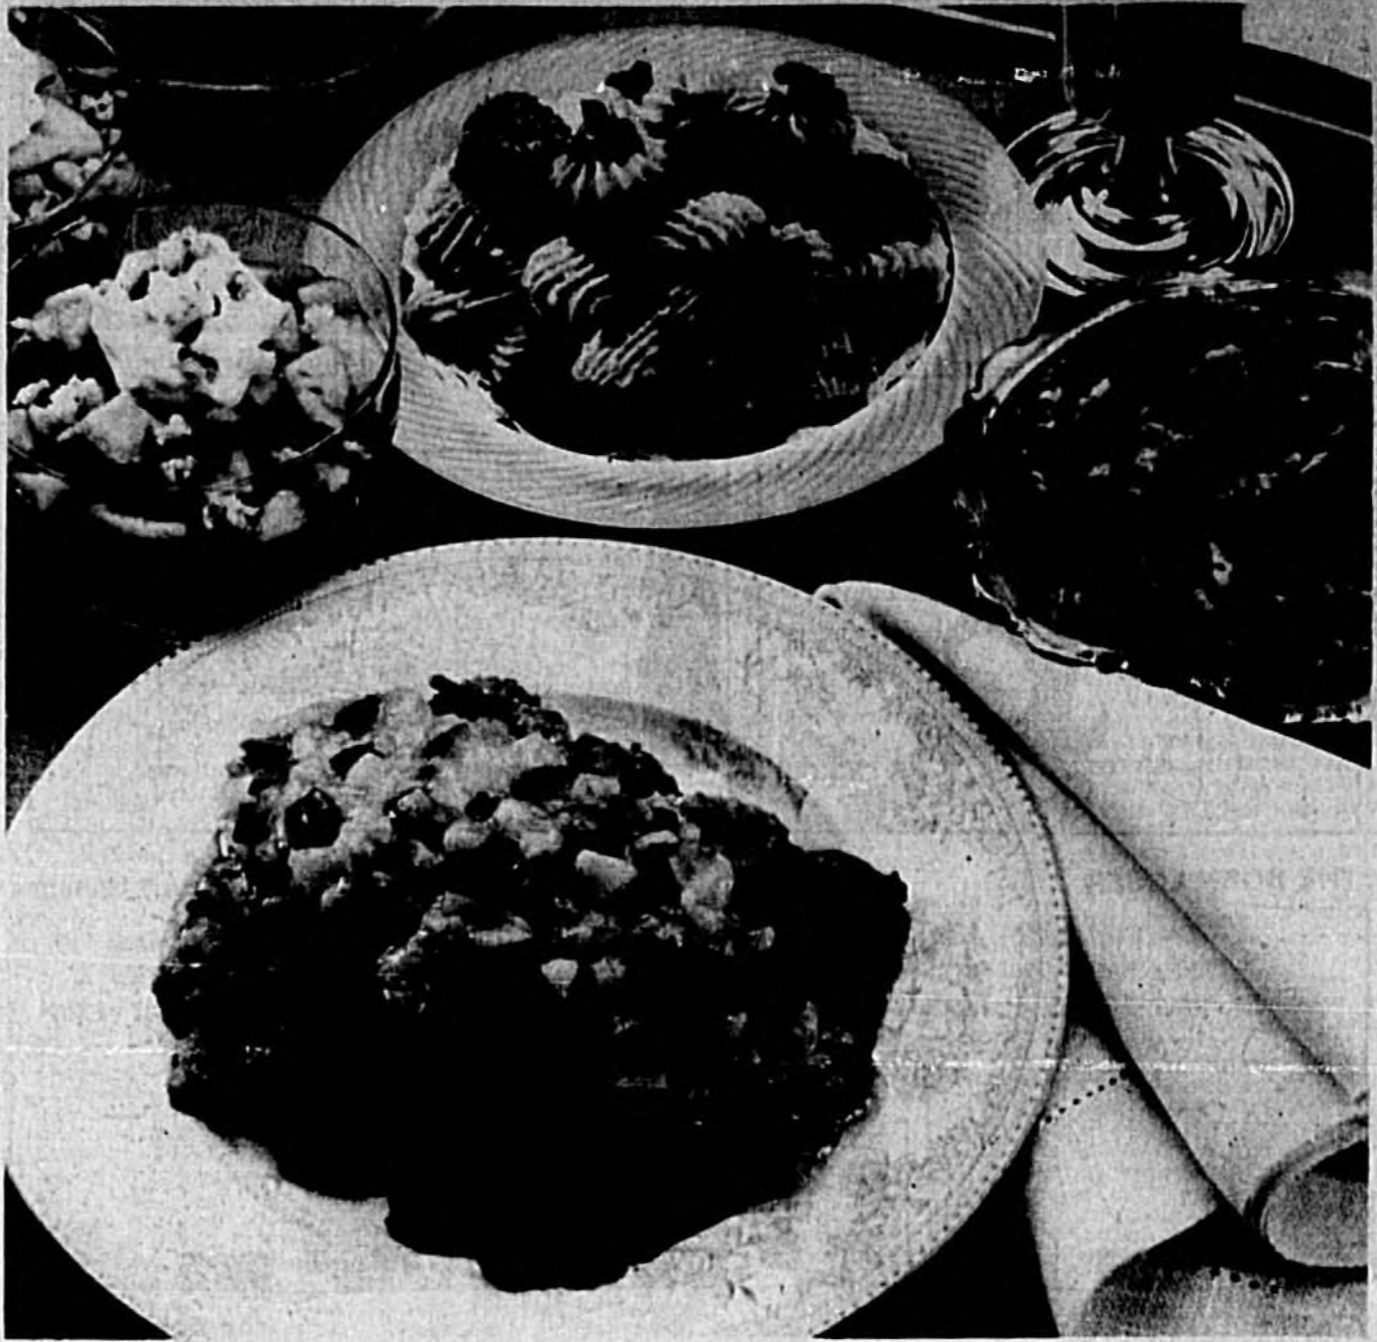

Preheat oven to 400°F. In shallow bowl combine matzo meal, potato starch, salt, paprika, garlic powder, and onion powder, mixing well. Drain chicken, then dredge in matzo meal mixture, pressing to make sure mixture adheres to chicken. Arrange chicken on nonstick baking sheet; drizzle 1/4 teaspoon oil over each. Bake until chicken is lightly browned, 10 to 15 minutes; turn chicken over; drizzle each breast with 1/4 teaspoon oil, and bake until tender, about 10 minutes longer. While chicken is baking prepare sauce.

To Prepare Sauce: In small saucepan heat oil, add onion, bell pepper, and garlic and cook over high heat until onion is lightly browned. Reduce heat to low; add pineapple and sugar and stir to combine. In small bowl combine reserved pineapple juice, the vinegar, and potato starch, stirring to dissolve starch; add to pineapple mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Stir in salt and pepper.

To Serve: Transfer chicken to serving platter and top with pineapple mixture.

Each serving provides: Fruit Exchanges: 1/2 Bread Exchange; 1/2 Vegetable Exchange; 1 Fat Exchange; 1/2 Fruit Exchange; 55 calories Optional Exchange.

Passover fare: fruit compote, cookies, snacks and sauced chicken.

Hypertension Medicine Produces Side Effects

DEAR DR. GOTT — I take hydrochlorothiazide for hypertension. I've read that one of the side effects could be irregular heart rhythm, which I have. What options do I have?

DEAR READER — Hydrochlorothiazide, a kidney stimulant that lowers blood pressure, also can cause an excessive loss of potassium in the urine. If this mineral is not replaced in the diet (or by pills), patients taking the medicine may become potassium-deficient. This can lead to heart irregularity. Low blood potassium can also lead to digitalis-toxicity in patients who take digitalis along with hydrochlorothiazide.

I do not know whether your irregular heartbeat is normal or is due to the medication's effects. Check with your doctor. You need a blood-potassium determination.

If your blood-potassium level is low, you have several options. One is to add potassium-rich foods (such as orange juice, bananas, apricots and prunes) to your diet. You also might consider taking potassium supplements in pill or liquid form. Your doctor might choose to treat you with a combination diuretic that contains a potassium-sparing drug.

Finally, ask your doctor to consider changing your medicine for hypertension. Several that are now available do not affect potassium and may help prevent irregular heartbeat.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Both my boys had ear infections, on separate occasions. One was given amoxicillin and one got Septra. Within seven days, both boys developed Henoch-Schonlein purpura. The pediatrician does not think that the HSP was drug-related. The boys' allergist thinks it was. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Henoch-Schonlein purpura is an allergic condition of blood vessels. It consists of skin sores, joint pain, stomach bleeding and kidney hemorrhage. Antibiotics like amoxicillin (a semi-synthetic penicillin) and Septra (which contains sulfa) can trigger the allergic Henoch-Schonlein reaction.

I believe that the burden of proof is on your pediatrician to show that your sons did not react to the antibiotics. I agree with the allergist that they did. In any case, I'd make darned sure that the boys are not given those antibiotics again unless they undergo special testing to determine if they are allergic to penicillin and sulfa.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
I've always liked opening the bidding light. There's a little 'arceny even in honest souls, and we take diabolical satisfaction in stealing a hand now and then. But there can be a price to pay in opening light.
South overcalled East's light opening with two clubs. That got North excited, so he cue-bid two diamonds. After bids of two hearts by South and three clubs by North, South decided that his all 14 high-card points justified going further. Since he controlled diamonds with his ace, he elected the nine-trick no-trump game. When diamonds were led, declarer regretted not being in two clubs. Although making 11 tricks in clubs might require guessing the location of the heart jack, the worst result would be one away. In fact, five clubs could always be made by an elimination play. (Strip out spades and clubs; then throw the opponents on lead with the second diamond.) In the actual no-trump game, a losing spade finesse might result in down two or three.

Declarer won his diamond ace and ran off five rounds of clubs. East, the opener, discarded the six, two and jack of hearts, while West discarded a diamond and two small hearts. When South next played the ace of spades, East played the 10, possibly a false-card. However, East apparently had started with K-Q of diamonds and A-J of hearts for his opening bid. Wouldn't he be likely to have the spade queen as well? That was the view taken by South, who rose with the spade king, dropping East's queen and making his game.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
APRIL 9, 1987
You will be extremely resourceful in the year ahead, and our talents are apt to be most evident where your career is concerned. Ingenious maneuvers will move you up the ladder of success.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You're not known for being a platter, but today if things do not come easily for you, you might lose your temper and toss the towel too early. Trying to catch up a broken romance?
The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, to this newspaper, P.O. Box
1428, Cleveland, OH 44101-
428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If this is your poker night, keep the stakes at a penny-ante level, or you might play for the pot with hands you should be tossing away.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Preserving harmony on the home front may take a bit of doing today. If you don't do your part, don't expect others to play the peacemaker roles.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Something annoying might develop today that could cause you to smolder inwardly. Keep your cool and don't do anything about it for the next few days.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Guard against tendencies today to spend liberally to impress others. This type of behavior will net you neither respect nor dividends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You'll have little to show for your efforts if you skip around too much today. Try to complete one project first before jumping off to others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's best that you accept the fact that not everyone will dance to your tune today. If you try to impose your will on them, it'll only increase their resistance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) To avert misunderstandings, spell out the rules in advance today for involvements with friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.
21) Limit your involvements with assertive associates today.
They may try your patience to the point where you'll lash out at them and later regret it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.
19) Anyone who tries to tell you how or when to do something today could be in for a tough time. You won't take kindly to being ordered about.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Don't try to be the ringmaster of social activities today. Friends who are engaged in light diversions won't want any restrictions placed on them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Household assignments won't get done today unless you and your mate are clear about who is expected to do what. Work from a list

Legal Notice

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING CITY OF LAKE MARY, FLORIDA PLANNING AND ZONING BOARD LOCAL PLANNING AGENCY NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Planning and Zoning Board of the City of Lake Mary, Florida, acting as the Local Planning Agency, will hold a Public Hearing to consider the feasibility of granting a specific amendment to the adopted City of Lake Mary Comprehensive Plan, Land Use Map, Ernest M & Patricia C. Southward, applicants, requesting a change from the present Medium Low Residential to Commercial for this certain parcel of land described below.

At the same Public Hearing the City of Lake Mary Planning and Zoning Board/Local Planning Agency will consider the request of the same Applicant that the City of Lake Mary grant the rezoning of the same parcel of land from its present zoning classification of A1 Agriculture to C-1 General Commercial.

The property for which this Comprehensive Plan Land Use Map change and rezoning are requested is located at 451 Paola Road. The property for which these changes are requested is legally described as: Beginning 2 1/2 chains West of the Northeast corner of Section 20 Township 20 South, Range 30 East, Run West 488.00 feet, thence Run South 660.00 feet, thence Run East 488.00 feet, thence Run North 660.00 feet to the Point of Beginning, Seminole County, Florida, Less Road Right-of-Way.

The Public Hearing will be held on April 14, 1987, at 7:00 P.M., in the Lake Mary City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road, Lake Mary, Florida, or as soon thereafter as possible. At the hearing, interested parties may be heard with respect to the proposed Comprehensive Plan, Land Use Map change and rezoning. Copies of these requests are available at City Hall and the same may be inspected by the public during normal business hours.

ADVICE TO THE PUBLIC: If a person decides to appeal a decision made with respect to any matter considered at the above hearing, he will need a verbatim record of all proceedings, including the testimony and evidence, which record is provided by the City of Lake Mary. (Chapter 286.0105 FLORIDA STATUTES).

Dated this 17th day of March, 1987. CAROL EDWARDS, City Clerk. Publish: March 30, April 8, 1987. DEM 248

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE EIGHTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT IN AND FOR SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA. CASE NO. 87-0991-CA-18-G JUDGE: C. VERNON MIZE, JR. FORFEITURE OF IN RE: FORFEITURE OF $5,047.00 UNITED STATES CURRENCY

THE SEMINOLE COUNTY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT seized the described property on the 3rd day of July, 1986, at or near the McAllister Motel, 2101 Southwest Road, Sanford, Seminole County, Florida 32771, on the 1st day of January, 1987, the Seminole County Sheriff's Department filed a Petition for Rule to Show Cause and for Final Order of Forfeiture with the Clerk of Circuit Court, Sanford, Florida, on the 1st day of May, 1987, at 8:30 A.M., for Pre-Trial to show cause why the above described property should not be forfeited by this Court as Contraband, pursuant to Sections 932.701-704, Florida Statutes (1985), to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, as the agency which seized said property, on the 2nd day of July, 1987, in Seminole County, Florida, based upon alleged felony violations which occurred in Seminole County, Florida.

WHEREAS a prima facie showing has been made by the Petitioner that there is a probable cause for the issuance of a Rule to Show Cause, YOU, the above indicated potential claimants, Pierre Jean and Eilamond Desina, ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the HONORABLE C. VERNON MIZE, JR. in Chambers, Seminole County Courthouse, Seminole County, Sanford, Florida, on the 1st day of May, 1987, at 8:30 A.M., for Pre-Trial to show cause why the above described property should not be forfeited by this Court as Contraband, pursuant to Sections 932.701-704, Florida Statutes (1985), to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, as the agency which seized said property, on the 2nd day of July, 1987, in Seminole County, Florida, based upon alleged felony violations which occurred in Seminole County, Florida.

WHEREAS a prima facie case has been shown, it is therefore the Order of this Court that all potential Respondents who claim an interest in the above described property, shall within twenty (20) days from service but no later than seven (7) days before the date set above, show cause by filing in this Court, responsive pleadings as to why this Court should not enter its Order for forfeiture of the said property to the use of, or sale by, the Sheriff of Seminole County, Florida.

Stuffed artichoke makes a different meal.

Mother Knows Best

Eat Your Vegetables, Drink Your Milk, Go Play

When your mother told you to eat your vegetables, drink your milk and go outside and play, she was giving you good advice. Good nutrition and adequate exercise are two key elements for a healthy body.

Exercise involves more than good intentions and an expensive pair of running shoes, of course. Good nutrition involves more than a daily vitamin pill, plenty of protein and frequent trips to the salad bar (which can be disastrous to the waistline.)

"I know, I know," you're probably thinking, "but exercise takes time. So does cooking meals with those Four Food Groups Mom used to talk about. And time is what I don't have a lot of."

Exercise can be worked in more easily than you think. Get up 20 minutes earlier than usual and go for a brisk walk. You can manage a mile in that time if you don't dally and that's enough to put a smile on your doctor's face and burn a lot of calories in a month's time.

Eating right need not be terribly time-consuming either. A small container of yogurt in the morning is just as filling, fast and portable as a doughnut.

For those evenings when you don't feel like "really" cooking, turn to the freezer. A reduced-calorie entree, such as macaroni and cheese, will provide good nutrition with few calories in no time — and taste good too.

Of course, Mom would say you would need some vegetables and fruit, and Mom would be right. So stir-fry some snow peas (10 minutes maximum) and pour some hot fruit sauce over sliced pears (another 10 minutes).

For your efforts, minimal as they will be, you'll get everything Mom could hope for and all for only 500 calories and 20 minutes — plus eating time, of course.

Eat light with macaroni and cheese, pea pods and poached pears

SLICED PEARS WITH SPICY APPLE CIDER SAUCE
1 cup apple cider
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoon fresh or frozen cranberries

1 tablespoon raisins
1 large pear, sliced (about 1 cup)
In small saucepan, combine apple cider, cornstarch and allspice. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat until mixture is bubbly and slightly thickened. Stir in cranberries and raisins. Simmer 3 minutes or until hot. Serve over pears. Makes 2 servings.

Potpourri

Stuff Artichoke With Chicken Salad

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Surprise a special friend with a different lunch or light dinner for two. Serve an easy-to-make hot chicken salad stuffed in an appetizing artichoke. There will be time for conversation as you nibble away at the meat at the end of the petals and work your way to the delicious artichoke heart.

HOT CHICKEN-ARTICHOKE SALAD

2 cups cooked, diced chicken
1/2 cup each chopped celery and mayonnaise
1/4 cup toasted almond slices
2 tablespoons lime or lemon juice

1 tablespoon chopped green onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon thyme, crushed
Dash pepper

2 hot, cooked artichokes
Combine all ingredients except artichokes. Remove center petals and fuzzy choke from cooked artichokes. Fill centers with chicken mixture.

In 8-inch square baking pan with 1/2-inch boiling water in bottom, bake, loosely covered with foil, at 350 degrees about 15 minutes or until filling is thoroughly heated. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 servings.

FRUIT-STUFFED ROAST LOIN OF PORK

1 cup hot water
8 dried apricots
4 pitted prunes
3 pounds loin of pork
1/2 teaspoon meat and gravy browning sauce
1 tablespoon water
Salt

Pepper
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
MICROWAVE METHOD: In a small bowl, pour hot water over apricots and prunes; let stand 1 hour. Drain off and reserve liquid.

Stuff apricots and prunes into cavity of meat, from both ends to center. Mix browning sauce and water in small bowl; brush evenly over surface of pork, on all sides. Mix teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper and ginger; sprinkle evenly over surface of pork.

Place pork in non-metal roasting pan. Insert microwave-safe meat thermometer into roast not touching bone or fat. Cover pork loosely with plastic wrap.
Microwave at Medium power about 17 minutes per pound, or until meat thermometer registers 170 to 175 degrees. About halfway through roasting period, spoon some of drippings over roast; re-cover. Transfer pork to heated serving platter; keep warm while making gravy.

Pour drippings into 2-cup measure; skim off excess fat from top and discard. Add enough of reserved liquid drained from fruit to make 1 cup. Place flour in non-metal bowl; gradually stir in drippings mixture, stirring constantly to prevent lumps. Cover. Microwave at High power for 1 minute. Stir thoroughly. Microwave 2 minutes more; stir. Season with additional salt and pepper, if desired. Serve gravy with pork. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Note: Have butcher pierce a hole through center of pork, using a long-bladed knife, from end to end.

FRESH STRAWBERRY MUFFINS

1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped strawberries
1/4 cup sugar, divided

1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour (unsifted)
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted

1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
In a small bowl combine strawberries and 1/2 cup sugar. Set aside for 1 hour. Drain and reserve liquid and strawberries separately. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Grease 12 cups in a muffin pan; set aside.

Combine flour, baking soda, nutmeg and salt; set aside. In a medium bowl, mix eggs, butter, vanilla extract, remaining 1/4 cup sugar and liquid from strawberries. Add flour mixture; stir just until combined. Fold in reserved strawberries. Spoon into prepared muffin cups. Bake until a cake tester inserted into the center comes out clean, about 20 minutes. Serve warm. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 12 muffins.

STRAWBERRY-APPLE BUTTER

1 pint strawberries
5 cups peeled and sliced tart cooking apples (about 1 1/4 pounds)
1 cup sugar
Water
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Hull strawberries. Place in the container of an electric blender or food processor fitted with a metal wing blade. Whirl at high speed until pureed, scraping down sides of container if needed (makes about 1 1/2 cups). Remove and set aside.

In a medium-size enamel or stainless-steel saucepan combine apples, sugar and just enough water (about 1/4 cup) to keep apples from sticking to pan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, stirring occasionally, until softened, about 15 minutes.

In food processor whirl half of the apples at a time until pureed. Return apples to saucepan along with orange peel, nutmeg and reserved strawberry puree. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, stirring frequently until thickened, about 1 hour. (Mixture is thick when a spoonful placed on a cold saucer has no moisture seeping from the edges.)

Immediately pour into hot 1/2-pint canning jars leaving 1/4-inch head space. Adjust caps. Process in boiling water bath according to manufacturer's directions for 10 minutes. Cool. Check seal. Remove rings before storing. Or refrigerate without processing in a tightly covered container for about 3 weeks. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 (1/2-pint) jars.

SANTA FE VINEGAR TARTS

4 large eggs
1 cup sugar
1/3 cup corn syrup, light
1/2 cup sweet butter, melted and set aside to cool
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon sweet corn muffin mix
1 package ready-crust graham-cracker tart shells

Mix all ingredients in order given and pour into tart shells, bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes and then lower to 350 degrees and bake for 10 more minutes. Tarts should be puffed and brown; even if the center jiggles a bit, they will be done if they have puffed.

Cool to room temperature and top with sweetened whipped cream.

PEA POD STIR-FRY

1-6 ounce package frozen Chinese pea pods
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
1 teaspoon margarine
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon lemon pepper
1 teaspoon chopped pimento

In medium skillet, saute snow peas and mushrooms in margarine, over high heat, stirring constantly, for 3 minutes. Add soy sauce, garlic, and lemon pepper. Heat an additional 3 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Remove from heat. Stir in pimento. Makes 2 servings.

Pie Gives Passover A New Touch

Passover is a holiday of tradition. At the ceremonial dinner, the Seder, the host recounts the story of the emancipation of the Jews from slavery in Egypt. It is a joyful event, as the family and guests rejoice over that ancient miracle.

To mark the occasion, the Seder table is laid with the finest cloth, gleaming silver, sparkling china and stemmed glasses filled with ruby red wine.

There are no required dishes for Passover, but fruit is enjoyed in both fresh and cooked forms. You will find a bowl of juicy, plump oranges fresh from the sunny groves in Florida. Accompanied by nuts, these make a delicious snack.

Cakes are often served for dessert. But for a break with tradition, serve the Not Impossible Passover Pie to end the holiday meal with a flourish of succulent flavor. Fresh Florida orange juice scents the crust made with matzoh meal, since regular flour is not allowed at Passover time. The filling is a luscious, light-as-air concoction of orange juice and sour cream with a hint of cinnamon. Pistachio nuts and orange segments decorate this delightful offering, making the meal's finish as impressive as its beginning.

With the Not Impossible Passover Pie give Passover a new touch!

NOT IMPOSSIBLE PASSOVER PIE

Pie Crust:
1 1/2 cups matzoh meal
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup margarine or butter
1/4 cup Florida orange juice

Filling:
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup potato starch
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 large eggs
1 1/2 cups Florida orange juice
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
3 Florida oranges, peeled, sectioned
2 tablespoons coarsely chopped pistachio nuts

Crust: Combine matzoh meal, sugar, cinnamon and salt in a large bowl. Cut in margarine with a pastry blender until mixture resembles fine crumbs. Stir in orange juice. Work the mixture with your fingers until pastry clings together; press firmly into a 9-inch pie plate.

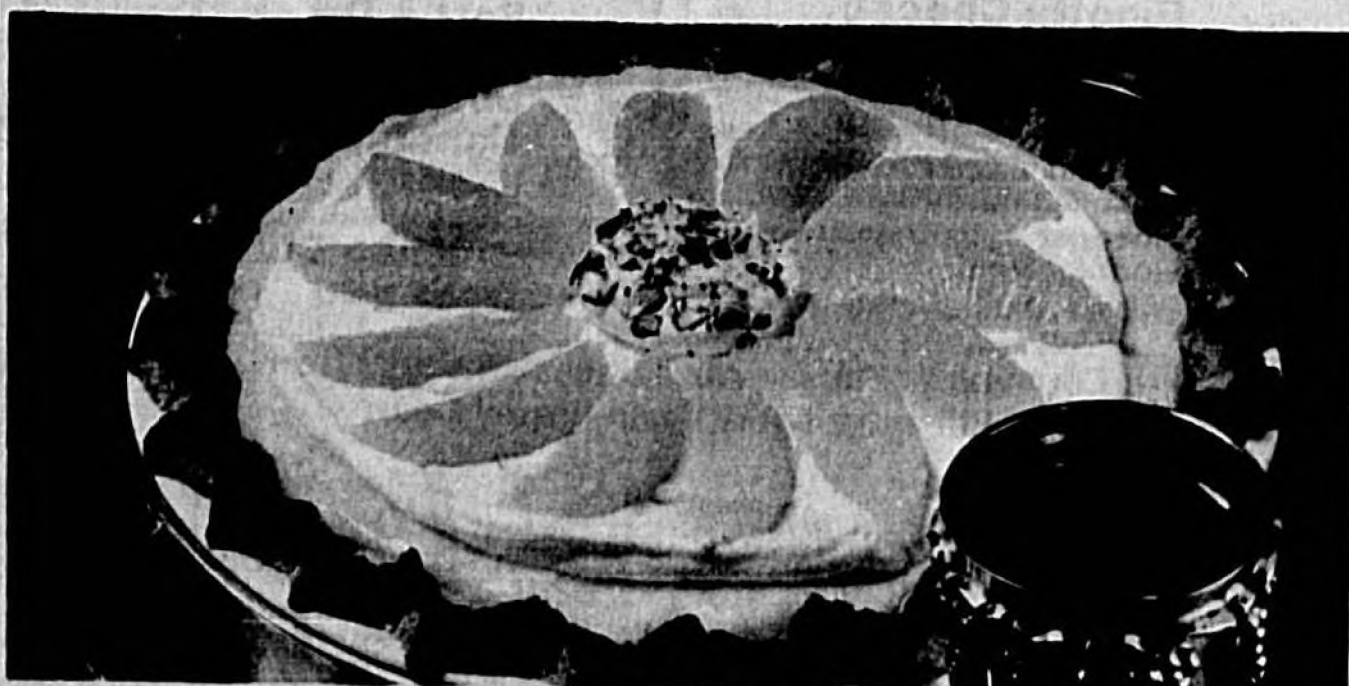

Bake in a 400°F. oven 20 minutes or until crust is lightly browned. Cool completely.

Filling: In top of a double boiler combine sugar, potato starch and salt. Beat eggs until frothy. Add orange juice and sour cream; mix well. Stir egg mixture into dry ingredients; add orange peel. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture is very thick, 8-10 minutes. Cover with waxed paper. Chill. Spread filling in pie shell. Garnish with orange sections and pistachio nuts. Chill until ready to serve. Yield: 8-10 servings.

ORANGE-CHEESE TORTE

4 matzohs
Cold water
2 cups cottage cheese
3/4 cup raisins
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups Florida orange juice
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 Florida oranges peeled, sectioned

Soften matzohs, about 1 minute. In enough cold water to cover, do not break. Pat dry with paper towels. Place one matzoh in a buttered 8-inch square baking dish; spread with 3/4 cup cottage cheese; sprinkle with 1/4 cup raisins. Repeat with remaining matzoh, cheese and raisins, ending with matzoh. In medium bowl beat eggs 2 minutes, until very light. Beat in orange juice, milk, sugar and cinnamon. Pour over matzoh. Bake in a preheated 350°F. oven 1 hour, until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm or cold, with orange sections. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired. Yield: 9 servings.
