

Everybody In Minority; Public Too Thin-Skinned

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Audiences have become too thin-skinned for comedian Danny Thomas who says dialect jokes are a forgotten art, thanks to over-sensitive groups and individuals.

"From now on I'm going to use as much dialect material as possible in my guest appearances," Danny vowed. "I can't use dialect stuff on my own show because it doesn't fit in."

"I'll do Yiddish, Greek, Arabic, Negro, Italian and Irish vernaculars, and to heck with the squawks."

"Dialect jokes are the best weapons available to fight prejudice. People who complain about dialect bits cause more bigotry than they prevent. After all, everybody in this country belongs to some kind of minority group."

Thomas deplores deletion and changes of lyrics in "Old Man River" and Stephen Foster's classics.

"Those songs glorify a great and colorful era in American history. It's abominable that they have been altered," he said.

"When I was 11 years old I took a job as candy butcher in a Toledo, Ohio, theater. During the seven years I worked there I saw the greatest dialecticians in show business. Whenever the audience was in an absolute uproar, laughing itself to death, you could bet 99 per cent of the time the comedian was doing dialects."

"There was no hatred nor hurt feelings. The people loved it. And I'll tell you why: In those days you lived in neighborhoods where the butcher was usually German, the tailor Yiddish, the cop Irish and the fruit peddler Italian. Their native accents were a part of everyday life."

"Sure, they heeled and fought with one another, but they loved each other, too."

"Those people were proud of their backgrounds and old-country culture. Their laughter was genuine when they heard a visiting comic mimic their mannerisms and accents."

Danny's own beginnings in show business included dialects. But he gave them up in 1941 when he was advised that the road to stardom wasn't paved with imitations of other stars nor the accents of racial groups.

Occasionally he works in a character with a strong dialect on his CBS-TV "Danny Thomas Show." Usually it is a warm-hearted characterization which keeps his audience from becoming malicious.

"One of these days I'm going to give a black party in my neighborhood in Beverly Hills," Danny went on. "Everyone will wear costumes representing their family origins."

"It would help us all get to know one-another better."

"Nobody has anything to be ashamed of regarding his national origins — and by golly I'm trying to prove it."

Fleet In, Letters Read For Santa; No Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington Post Office's dead letter office had a Christmas problem.

WHAT, FOR ME? Cdr. Joe Tully receives a framed copy of a resolution read this morning at the Chamber of Commerce. Under Tully's arm is a framed copy of the resolution read this morning at the Coffee Club. (Photo by Bergstrom)

Chamber Says Goodbye To Joe Tully

Cdr. Joe Tully, former commanding officer of Heavy Attack Squadron Five, received lasting recognition this morning when Chamber of Commerce officials presented him with a golf bag and a resolution which will be forwarded to the Bureau of Naval Personnel for inclusion in his permanent service record.

The presentation was made at the Chamber Coffee Club at Mrs. Appleby's Restaurant. Clifford McKibbin, former president of the Chamber, read the resolution, which stated that Cdr. Tully had brought to Sanford "the laurels and fame of the Savage Sons of Sanford, by virtue of consistent carrying off team and individual honors."

The resolution praised Tully for his maintenance of good relations between men of the Sanford Naval Air Station and the citizens of Sanford.

Tully was the first NAS officer to serve on the Chamber Board of Directors in 1957-'58. The resolution extolling his virtues was unanimously adopted by the Board in a recent special session.

Mack Cleveland Jr. remarked as he handed the golf bag to Tully, "I hope that you will do as good a job for Sanford after you leave here as your public relations officer has done in your squadron."

Cdr. Tully leaves Sanford Dec. 29 for duty in Washington, D. C. Club members enjoyed orange juice with their coffee this morning, courtesy of Jack Fox, president of Minute Mail. Guests introduced by Charlie Morrison, master of ceremonies, were Captains Lionel Arthur, commanding officer of NAS and James Ramage, commanding officer of Heavy Attack Wing One.

Morrison also introduced Cdr. John Miller, staff officer; Bill Fulton, newest member of the Chamber; and Harry Plan, Orlando; Donald Perry and Mrs. Tully Jack, Sanford Recreation department; Don Misnar, Southern Bell Telephone advertising man; Harold Appleby, assistant postmaster; and Harry Rutledge, district manager of Prudential Life Insurance Co.

Nurse's Body Is Hunted; Mother-in-Law On Bond

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—The Coast Guard has joined in the search for the body of missing Olga Duncan, 30, whose mother-in-law confessed carrying out a bold plot to end her marriage.

Police and FBI agents already have undertaken an extensive search for the young expectant mother who complained in letters that her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, 54, strongly opposed her marriage.

Olga has been missing since November and it was feared she may have been murdered.

Frank Duncan, 29, who married Olga last June, made a dramatic courtroom appearance Wednesday on behalf of his often-wed mother and succeeded in having her bail reduced from $50,000 to $5,000.

The elder Mrs. Duncan was arrested last Saturday on charges of forgery, perjury and filing false statements to end her son's marriage to the attractive Canadian nurse.

She admitted to authorities that she paid a man $40 to pose as Duncan while she posed as Olga. They traveled to nearby Ventura and obtained an annulment of the marriage on grounds that it had not been consummated.

Duncan, confident and square-shouldered, appeared in Ventura municipal court at his mother's side and demanded a reduction in her bail.

Dist. Atty. Roy Gustafson opposed the reduction because of the disappearance of this man's wife and the fact that a "home-side charge may be involved."

Judge Richard D. Healan agreed with Duncan that the present charges against Mrs. Duncan warranted a reduction in bail. She was freed on $5,000 bail until a preliminary hearing set for Dec. 30.

Duncan said later that he and his wife had separated several weeks after their marriage but continued to see each other until her disappearance. He said his mother positively has denied any involvement in Olga's disappearance.

More Dollars, But 'Stretch' Shorter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans had more cash in their pockets this year than ever before in history. But it didn't buy as much as what they had last year.

The Commerce Department reported Wednesday night that personal income this year rose an estimated 1 1/2 per cent higher than last year—mostly due to higher federal benefit payments.

However, the department said the increase failed to offset a 2 1/2 per cent increase in the cost of living.

The report underlined that the dollar has continued to shrink in value—a situation that has caused Senate Democratic leaders to call for a full investigation of means to curb inflation.

The report also bolstered the view of government economists who believe the nation's economy has gained pre-recession proportions and is poised on the threshold of expansion to new highs.

One top-level source estimated that the gross national product—the total value of all goods and services produced in the nation—would hit an annual rate of 43 billion dollars in the final three months of the year.

Talks Abandoned

GENEVA (UPI)—The East and West abandoned today their fruitless attempt to set up a global surprise attack warning system.

The flurry and sparkle of the holiday season filled the city. Shoppers hustled down the rich streets in the shadows cast by the marble government buildings.

No one heeded the mounting pile of racks crammed with letters that began with the scrawled words "Dear Santa."

Unless something were done quickly, the letters never would be read. The Post Office would burn them after Christmas.

Then Wednesday it happened.

A group of Pentagon naval officers volunteered to do the job. They would read the letters. They would investigate a parent's peevish notes. They would distribute clothing and toys in time for Christmas.

Santa Claus had come through after all.

Man Shoots Self, In Fair Condition

Robert Marrs, 27, was reported in "fair" condition this morning by local hospital officials, following a gunshot wound Monday night.

Marrs is an employee of the ACL railroad. Authorities from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department said that the wound was self-inflicted.

Authorities Given Case Of Hot Santa

MIAMI (UPI)—Operators of a Christmas tree lot turned over to police today the case of the "hot Santa Claus."

They reported someone snatched a live-fire, mechanical winking and smiling Santa Claus, worth about $500, while a night watchman had his back turned Wednesday night.

Reds Say Allies To Get Choice of No Food, War

Lighting Contest Judges Announced

Judges for the Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest have been announced by chairman Carlton Bliss.

Joe Mathieu, Seminole High School art teacher, Miss Florence Wright of Florida Power and Light, and Mrs. Volie Williams Jr., president of the Sanford Garden Club, will judge the entries before Christmas.

Deadline for the contest entries is Dec. 22. Displays must be seen from the road or highway according to Bliss. Contestants may enter either residential or commercial divisions, or both.

Residential divisions include separate prizes for the best religious setting, nativity scene, shepherds etc., traditional, (Santa Claus, fireless stoves, snowmen), artistic (scenes, lights, etc.) and best overall decorations of any variety.

Entries must be received in the Jaycee Information Booth by Dec. 22. Judges would like to complete their decisions before Christmas. Contestants are asked to keep their displays lit from 7:30 to 9:30 nightly until winners are announced.

"Enthusiasm for the competition is sweeping the city," Bliss said this morning.

Eligible for the contest are those living in the Sanford area including Lake Mary, Sunland Estates and Loch Arbor and east to the city limits.

The eager Jaycees also are selling Christmas trees in their lot on French Ave. The lot is open from 10 a. m. until 9 p. m.

Soviet Spokesman Says West Could Make Deal, Too

BERLIN (UPI)—Germany's Communists declared today that the Western Allies must either deal with them or choose between starvation and war.

Politburo member Albert Norden told the U. S. British and French defenders of West Berlin there is no alternative to local Communist control of the city's land, water and air lifelines.

A few hours earlier, the Red radio in Berlin had broadcast a similar Soviet threat.

Norden told a meeting in Halle that the decision to hand over control of Berlin to the local Red had been reached by the Communists in Russia and Germany, and that no Western argument could affect it.

He said the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Berlin and the transfer of control over the city to the Soviet zone regime would go ahead on schedule.

If the local Reds should succeed in cutting the air lifeline that saved West Berlin in 1948, the Allies would either have to yield to the Berlin regime's demand for recognition or break through by force.

The Russians and their European satellites have declared repeatedly that any forcible attempt to break the Red stranglehold on West Berlin would mean war—perhaps World War III.

It is not clear to observers here how the Reds could cut West Berlin's lifelines without themselves resorting to an act of war—either armed attack on Allied airliners or the forcible seizure of West Berlin's airfields.

3 Gunmen Capture New York Building

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three gunmen captured a two-story office building in downtown Manhattan early today and held 24 persons prisoner for half an hour before fleeing with more than $10,000.

Two employees of the Metropolitan News Co., a major magazine distributor, were severely beaten with pistols. Two others, one a woman, were struck by the hand-darts when they were slow in obeying orders.

Joseph Rosenberg, 60, office manager for the firm, received a head cut which required four stitches. He told police the building had been opened at 7:10 a. m. and that six to 10 persons had come to work before the three Negro gunmen burst in at 8 a. m.

The bandits took the wallets and purses of the employees—20 men and four women—and ordered them to lie face down on the floor. As others arrived, they were forced to hand over their money and join their fellow-workers on the floor.

Rosenberg said he was shipped with the bandits pistols when he refused to open the safe. He said the men threatened to shoot everybody before his eyes if he didn't open it.

The bandits took $5,000 in cash and $10,000 in checks from the safe. They also took the money of the employees of an additional $1,275 in cash.

Pots Not Boiling; Families Need Food

It's hard to keep the pot boiling on a cold day but those bell-ringers are warned by thoughts of good deeds.

This, said Maj. H. F. Sprake, best sums up the annual Salvation Army appeal for money to buy food baskets for needy families.

Maj. Sprake is in Sanford to help the local unit of the Salvation Army "keep the pot boiling," as he put it. He served 20 years with the organization and now is retired, living in Daytona Beach.

Local Salvation Army officials said 150 families had requested food baskets. Money isn't available for anywhere near that number, if funds do not become available, many requests will be denied, officials said.

There is no organization here, such as Goodfellows, which takes care of such requests at Christmas. The Salvation Army is the only place where needy families can go.

Maj. Sprake said he would remain in Sanford until Christmas in an effort to help raise the needed funds. He is a former Department of Florida chaplain for the American Legion and is well known throughout the South.

Write-In Election Becomes Big Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Little Rock's write-in election of a segregationist congressman was being up today into a national issue, almost certain to split the House in a bruising fight at the opening of Congress on Jan. 7.

The issue was drawn by an elections committee's 52 recommendation Wednesday that the House refuse to seat Dr. Dale Alford, a segregationist, until a "thorough investigation" of his New Election Victory over veteran Rep. Brooks Hays, an avowed moderate on the school integration question.

Opinions were divided on the probable outcome of the House vote. There was general agreement, however, it would be difficult now to avoid it, and that sectional and racial considerations, rather than alleged irregularities in the election, might decide the issue.

Sen. Robert Member of the House practically always accepts whatever members the voters may send, but it does not have to amend the Constitution, each House of Congress is the judge of its membership.

A clause in the probable cleavage on Alford's seating came in Wednesday's split decision. Two Northern Democrats and one Southern Democrat voted in effect against Alford while two Southern Democrats voted for him.

Coaches Too Few, League In Danger

Biddy Basketball teams planned by the Sanford Recreation Department may not materialize due to lack of coaches.

Only three adult coaches have answered a plea to help teach the fundamentals to Sanford youngsters. Six are needed before teams can be formed.

The National Guard Army has been secured for league games Saturday mornings. Practice sessions would be arranged between coach and players. Ronald Perry, Sanford recreation director, said this morning, "I hope three more adults will volunteer to help establish this worthwhile youth activity."

Adults may call the Recreation Department for more information. Biddy Basketball is for boys who have not reached 13 years of age or 5'6" in height. There are nearly 600 boys in this bracket attending Sanford schools.

Officers Question Smoking Students

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police conducted painstaking questioning today of 21 students who admitted smoking in a stairwell at Our Lady of the Angels school where 49 children and three nuns were killed in a Dec. 1 blast.

Authorities meanwhile saw little hope of identifying two boys who were seen smoking in the stairwell shortly before the fire swept through the school. Two other boys who claimed they saw the smokers later said they only saw them from the rear and would be unable to pick them from a group.

Police Sgt. James Kehoe, who revealed that 21 students named up to smoking forbidden cigarettes, said the youngsters denied they had smoked cigarettes on the day of the fire. Ten detectives and five firemen were assigned to re-examine the students.

Another 22 boys whose daily job was to take classroom wastebaskets to the basement also were to be questioned. Testimony at a coroner's inquest has indicated that the fire started in an alleged rubbish heap in the stairwell.

Church authorities, however, have denied that rubbish was allowed to accumulate in the area. Their position ran counter to that of 85 students.

Child Hurls Rock; Can Motorist Sue?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—If a 6-year-old child throws a rock through a car window, can his parents be made to pay damages?

A lawyer says Florida Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin, but a court would first have to look into all the facts, including the mental and emotional maturity of the child.

Ervin's ruling came Wednesday in answer to a query by Justice of the Peace Frank C. Stanley Jr. of Auburndale.

A Florida law provides that damages not exceeding $200 can be recovered from the parents of a child under the age of 18 who maliciously or willfully destroys property.

Ervin said he doubts if a 6-year-old has enough reason or maturity to act with either a malicious or willful intent.

Singer's Husband Jailed For Fraud

WEST LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Singer Helen O'Connell's estranged author husband, Thomas T. Chambliss, 45, was arrested last night on a fugitive warrant issued in Sarasota, Fla.

Chambliss was released on $500 bond after being ordered to appear in Superior Court for arraignment Dec. 23. He was charged with passing a worthless $100 check in Sarasota.

Driver Of Month To Be Announced

The first Driver of the Month award will be made tomorrow afternoon at 3 in the Seminole High School auditorium.

The winner will receive a silver disk and a certificate for five gallons of gas.

Charles Fox will make the presentation on behalf of the PTA. Fox is student council advisor to the PTA safety chairman.

The Safety Committee has studied all high school drivers, and has selected five finalists for observing regulations, courtesy and good attitudes.

The award is considered an outstanding honor. According to Mrs. Jackie Carlo, safety chairman, "Students receiving the Driver of the Month award have gained the respect of the school, the PTA and the Police Department."

Bidding Scheduled On Seminole Bonds

Bids on one million dollars worth of Seminole County road revenue bonds will be received at a 2 p. m. Jan. 23 by the Florida Development Commission.

A notice of sale and bond prospectus were sent to John Krider, chairman of Seminole County Commission, by R. M. Hartfield, director of revenue projects for the Florida Development Commission.

Sanford Merchants To Open At Night

Sanford residents will be able to do their Christmas shopping at night starting tomorrow, when local merchants will remain open through Tuesday night. The stores will close at the regular time Christmas Eve.

The announcement of the night hours came from Francis Roumlat Jr., chairman of the Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

County Planning Long Yule Holiday

Seminole County employees are planning plans for a long Christmas holiday next week.

According to O. P. Herndon, Clerk of Circuit Court, the courthouse will close its doors at noon Christmas Eve and will not open until the following Monday at 8 a. m.

Negro Is Charged In Mayfair Theft

Diligent work and excellent cooperation between Orlando and Sanford law agencies resulted in the arrest early this morning of LARRY SILVA, Sanford Negro who broke into the pro shop at Mayfair Country Club Sunday night.

The former caddy, who carried clubs for Jim Ferree during the recent PGA tournament, had in his possession a suitcase full of golf balls stolen from the pro shop. The 46-year-old Negro, had disposed of some golf balls in Ormond Beach, officials said.

The rest of the stolen items were recovered, and identified this morning by Mario Carfagno, Mayfair pro. The total value stolen will run somewhat over $200, Sheriff's men said.

Weather

Fair through Friday. High this afternoon 66 to 70, low tonight 36 to 40. Northerly winds 10 to 15 miles per hour.

Television Gives Murder Case Clue

NAGOYA, Japan (UPI)—Police believe a suspected wife-killer received unexpected help from television today.

When the Nagoya television station showed a roundup of vagrants in Tokyo, the brother of stranger Miyoko Muto spotted the victim's missing husband among them. Police jumped on the clue and narrowed their search to Tokyo's vagrant homes where they expected to find Shuichi Muto suspected of killing Miyoko five weeks ago.

Liberals Jolted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The "liberal" revolt among Republican senators received a severe jolt today. Sen. Thurston B. Morton (R-Ky.) refused to join their drive to capture the Senate GOP leadership.

Deadringer For Twin, Even In Thefts

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI)—Robert O'Brien, says the FBI, is a deadringer for his twin brother Donald in looks, actions and even when it comes to jewelry pothery.

That's why he is facing trial on general-neglect charges.

Robert's identical twin brother, Donald, is awaiting trial, meanwhile, on charges of taking part in a $100,000 robbery of a store in Beverly Hills, Calif., jewelry store last August.

Dapper-looking Robert was stopped Wednesday by a flying tackle seconds after he grabbed a satchel containing $700 in gems from the car of a jewelry salesman, A. R. Dreyfus.

Robert didn't have a chance. Alert FBI agents noticed several weeks ago that he and a companion, Edward Joseph Farley, 31, of Fort Lauderdale, were regularly following Dreyfus.

So federal agents trailed O'Brien and Farley while they trailed Dreyfus. They also warned Dreyfus of the situation and advised him not to carry large sums of jewelry. Dreyfus usually carries about $20,000 in gems in his sample case.

Wednesday, O'Brien and Farley got their chance at Dreyfus' gems. The jewelry salesman momentarily left his case in his car at a parking lot.

O'Brien strolled over to the car, picked up the case and nonchalantly walked away. When he saw agents and West Palm Beach police officers closing in, he started to run, but an agent threw him to the ground with a flying tackle.

Farley was arrested before he could speed away in the waiting car.

In the car, police found more than 100 keys, a key-making machine, and a specially designed machine, used for opening jewelry locks, and a specially designed crowbar for opening trunks.

O'Brien and Farley were turned over to local authorities for prosecution.

Criminal Court Judge Edward G. Newell released them on $10,000 bond each.

Donald O'Brien and two others are charged with taking part in the robbery of the exclusive Jewels by Tobias store in Beverly Hills last Aug. 5. Police say the trio tossed a smoke bomb into the store, then smashed a plate glass display window and scooped out the goods.

Donald was arrested at his home in nearby Pompano Beach Aug. 22.

When Donald was arraigned in Miami, his twin brother went to court with him in an attempt to show the FBI could not be sure they had the right man.

But Leo O. Teague, special agent in charge of the Miami FBI office, says he can tell the two men apart.

"Robert has a few small facial scars," he explained, "and we are positive we can tell the brothers apart."

Temperatures Fall As Storms Sweep Over Great Lakes

United Press International

A series of small storms systems raced across the Great Lakes Thursday, tumbling temperatures and spreading snow flurries into the northeast.

A warming trend which earlier snapped a record early December cold wave in the nation's interior, pushed into the Southeast and mid-Atlantic states Wednesday, lifting readings well above freezing.

The new wintry blasts sweeping out of Canada were not expected to be as severe or prolonged as the cold wave which hit the eastern two-thirds of the country Dec. 6.

Overnight readings skidded in the southeastern Great Lakes region and the central and southern plains as a disturbance moved across the lakes. Behind the storm track, warmer weather was recorded from the northern Rockies to the northwest Great Lakes.

In the South, clear skies and continued warming were predicted, chasing the remnants of Dixie's hard freeze.

The cold Wednesday was blamed for at least 10 more fire deaths in the South, including four at Birmingham, Ala., two at Columbus, Miss., two at Shady Dale, Ga., and two at Blackburg, Va.

The latest deaths raised to at least 67 the number of persons killed in fires in nine southeastern states since the start of the cold snap over the South last week.

Stock Market Regained 'Barometer' Prestige

NEW YORK — (UPI)—The stock market regained its traditional role as a barometer of business in 1958 by rising to a record high to predict a swift recovery from a business recession.

In that respect the market proved it was smarter than the economists, than the business men and the Russians.

Economists and business men had foreseen a slow, painful, upturn for the economy after the sharp setback that began in mid-1957. The Russians had anticipated the recession would develop into a depression so that they could proclaim to the world the failure of capitalism and the virtues of Communism.

Stock averages rose to unprecedented territory in the stratosphere of finance with trading the heaviest since 1939, making it the fourth largest market in U. S. history, beaten only by 1929, 1920 and 1930.

At the highs, the value of listed issues rose an estimated $9 billion dollars. The economists said the rise was too fast and too great, that the market was anticipating corporate earnings many years ahead and hence was subject to a sharp decline.

These were the same economists who had misread the boat in their estimates of the recovery movement, which was so swift it made the 1957-58 recession one of the shortest on record and the rebound one of the fastest.

One thing the Wall Street experts held in that stock market seldom breaks when business is in a period of prosperity. And business was heading into just that kind of period as the year ended.

These experts, admitting there were excesses, including lots of speculation that could produce a sharp decline if given the right incentive. But most of the buying is admittedly for investment with the giant funds — pension, institutional, banking, insurance and mutual — the mainstay of the market.

It was held also that much of the buying for investment was done as insurance against inflation. This theory holds that common stocks make a good inflation hedge since income from them rises in proportion to the erosion of the dollar.

But there was no actual inflation in 1958 except in the stock market. Commodities held steady. There was no rush to buy material or to get into such investments as real estate.

The inflation potential was expressed in the form of a budget government budget deficit that was difficult to finance except through commercial banks. However, the Federal Reserve System was holding a firm check on money to avert inflation. Money rates and money supply were tightened before the upturn got very far and margins in stocks were raised to 90 per cent, which made it practically a cash stock market.

Bonds were discredited in 1958. Stock yields — the return on the investment on the basis of dividend payments — fell below the return on bonds, a situation seldom seen. Bonds, if inflation is checked, may come into their own and it is held, and that would give the stock market considerable competition.

When stocks develop a definite upturn, market men point out, a re-advance comes only when some great change occurs, such as a business slump or a world crisis that engenders fear in the minds of stockholders.

Hence, they are convinced there will be no wild selling in the market. It may level off for a time and even lose some of its gain, but they feel the main line of the market will be upward over the next few years, probably into the '60s. The market, it is noted, already may be anticipating the big boom that is expected in the next decade.

During 1958, the little fellows who make 100 big markets made a killing. They bought their heads off early in the year when the experts said they were crazy. They bought low-priced stocks and they made their deals in old-timers — lots of less than 100 shares.

The professionals who hold their right way to play the market is to do the opposite of what the little fellows are doing: buy millions by selling short — selling stock they borrowed in the hope it would decline so they could buy it back at a lower price.

Education: John Shipp of Jackson, chairman, Jack Inman of Gadsden, Sam Saunders of Clay, L. B. Vellece of Indian River and Lancaster.

Herrill said the appointments were only tentative until he could meet with Sen. Wilson Carraway of the Senate Appropriations Committee and coordinate the subcommittee appointments with the Senate's.

And Herrill asked members of the committee not to introduce or introduce appropriation bills outside the general appropriations act. He said such action might leave them open for vote trading and pressure to bring the bill out of committee before the general act.

"By a gentleman's agreement" members said they would not vote out special appropriation bills until the general bill was completed and on the House floor.

Herrill said he would like to see the general act out of the committee and on the floor by the first of May. Usually the general bill never makes it out of committee until late in the session.

The committees as named by Herrill were:

Governor Defends Prison Director

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. LeRoy Collins, jumping into the state prison controversy, says Penitentiary Director A. O. Culver has nothing to be ashamed of in his record as a federal prison warden.

The governor said Culver was thoroughly investigated before he was hired to head the state prison system in December, 1956. And his record was "one any man would be proud of," Collins said.

The governor said he may have more to say at his weekly news conference today.

Culver was the key figure this week in a stormy investigation by the legislative committee on prisons, headed by Sen. Henry Stratton of Callahan. Several prison wardens and other officials accused him of being dictatorial and hard to work with.

Culver replied he was not a "dictator" or a "political pin-up boy" but was a good prison director.

The hearing was continued until later when the committee called for testimony from former Warden Alfred Ogram of the federal prison here, who Culver once served under. Culver protested that Ogram's testimony would be based on "false records" and demanded he be allowed time to get a lawyer.

Culver later charged the legislators were conducting a smear campaign in an effort to get him to resign.

"They won't succeed," he said. "I have only begun to fight."

Groups To Study Proposed Budgets

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—House Appropriations Committee Chairman W. C. Herrill of Dade today appointed four subcommittees to study budgets during the coming session.

Herrill said he picked as members for the four groups, legislators who would not be forced to investigate institutions from the areas they represented. He said this was to forestall any pressure that might be brought on them by the institutions for more money.

And Herrill asked members of the committee not to introduce or introduce appropriation bills outside the general appropriations act. He said such action might leave them open for vote trading and pressure to bring the bill out of committee before the general act.

"By a gentleman's agreement" members said they would not vote out special appropriation bills until the general bill was completed and on the House floor.

Herrill said he would like to see the general act out of the committee and on the floor by the first of May. Usually the general bill never makes it out of committee until late in the session.

Noted Theologian Is Taken By Death

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dr. George Livingstone Robinson, 94, theologian and archaeologist who unearthed biblical relics in the Sinai Peninsula, died here Wednesday.

Dr. Robinson was graduated from Princeton University in 1915 and from the university's seminary in 1921. He was awarded a doctorate in theology from the University of Leipzig.

Farnell said Wednesday that would be the policy of Hillsborough County and that it "was the consensus of opinion" Tuesday when school officials from Dade, Broward, Pinellas, and Palm Beach counties met with Gov. LeRoy Collins in Tallahassee.

He said it was "generally agreed" that it would not be wise to allow token integration under the state's pupil assignment law. Collins and Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph Odum, who also attended the meeting, have said that unless token integration is allowed, the Supreme Court would declare the pupil assignment law unconstitutional on grounds it was a subterfuge to prevent integration.

In Tallahassee, Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin, who sat in on part of the Tuesday meeting, said the major aim was to "save the public schools" of Florida.

He said the officials, at the closed meeting, agreed there would be no voluntary integration and that there was no discussion.

Circuit To Perform

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—The famed Florida State University Flying Circus, made up of 55 students, will perform at halftime during the Gator Bowl game between Florida and Mississippi on Dec. 27. Three acts will be going on simultaneously in three rings at midfield, director Jack Haskin announced.

Coya Going Home, But Not To Stay

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congresswoman Coya Knutson kept a smile on her face despite a hurt look in her eyes and said "I'm going to look for a job."

"I've been working girl all my life," the blonde, 45-year-old Minnesota Democrat said in a tone of resignation. "I've always had to earn my bread and butter."

Until Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Knutson had clung to a feeble hope that somehow she might be able to hold on to her seat in the House despite the Nov. 4 election returns which gave her Republican opponent a 1,300-vote margin.

She had protested to the special House Elections Committee that the loss because her opponent duped her husband into issuing a "come home, Coya" appeal. Her husband, Andy, assured the committee that he now wanted Coya to stay in Congress.

He said he had become "steamed up" by stories that Mrs. Knutson was "running around" with her young administrative assistant—stories he now believes to be untrue.

But the five-man committee unanimously decided Wednesday not to interfere with the voters' decision that Coya should go home.

It agreed that "exploitations" of the Knutsons' family life had contributed to her defeat, but said there was no evidence the Republican who won the election, Odin Langen, was directly involved.

No 'Token' Mixing, Hillsborough Says

TAMPA (UPI)—Hillsborough School Superintendent J. Crockett Farnell says he and school officials from four other large counties are agreed not to submit to token integration unless forced by the Supreme Court.

Farnell said Wednesday that would be the policy of Hillsborough County and that it "was the consensus of opinion" Tuesday when school officials from Dade, Broward, Pinellas, and Palm Beach counties met with Gov. LeRoy Collins in Tallahassee.

He said it was "generally agreed" that it would not be wise to allow token integration under the state's pupil assignment law. Collins and Asst. Atty. Gen. Explosion Wrecks Storage Tanker

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI)—An explosion wrecked the NATO storage tanker Marador Wednesday as it refueled the U.S. Navy tanker Oklawaha off southeast Turkey. The Marador still was ablaze today.

Reports reaching here from Iskenderum said two of the Marador's Greek crew were killed and many were injured in the explosion. Thirty-two men were rescued after they jumped into the sea.

Police said the fire was started by a spark from hot pumps during the oil transfer operation.

There were no reports of casualties aboard the Oklawaha, an auxiliary tanker with the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. The fire spread to the U.S. ship, but it quickly was extinguished with only minor damage.

Christian Church Plans Year's Work

Work for the coming year was organized Tuesday night when the officers of the First Christian Church held a called meeting. Functional committee chairmen chosen were William L. Rowland, worship; Marvin H. Robits, education; Mrs. Waineta Ramey, evangelism and membership development; Mrs. James S. Horton, Jr., missions; Lester Tharp, finance and stewardship; and Bell E. Purvis, property.

Named as a pulpit committee to seek a successor to the Rev. Perry L. Stone were B. H. Williams, Lester Tharp and George Morgan. Rev. Stone will close his ministry here the last Sunday in January.

Officers of the board are Vincent W. Larson, chairman; F. C. Johnson, vice-chairman; G. D. Land, secretary; W. J. Young, treasurer; Harlow S. Horton, Jr., financial secretary; Miss Nancy Hicks, clerk; Mrs. Howard Hood, historian; and George W. Morgan, church school superintendent.

Yule Party Slated At North Orlando

The North Orlando Co and Masterbuilders Corporation have announced a gala Christmas Party at North Orlando, Sunday. Arnold Rosen, president of Masterbuilders Corp. said, "We want to show the people of Central Florida our appreciation for the confidence they have placed in us. We're going to have refreshments, pony rides, a big Christmas tree and of course, Santa Claus to give out presents in all the children. We think everyone will have fun. The refreshments will be served from 12 noon 'til 4 p. m. and Santa will be on hand at 3:30 p. m."

North Orlando is located five miles north of Winter Park on the Longwood Oviedo Road, just off Rt. 17-92. Model homes are open for inspection every day until 9 p. m. Rosen further commented that "We are running far ahead of schedule both in sales of homes and construction. More than 100 families will be moving into their new homes in the near future."

Crocodile On Bus? Yep, He Lost It

OAKLAND, Cal. (UPI)—Passengers on Key System buses love almost everything imaginable, but transit company officials said Sailor Gerry Sasser topped the list. He lost a crocodile.

Sasser, stationed at Oak Knoll Navy hospital, said the foot-long hazy reptile slipped out of his traveling case. The "pet" eluded capture on bus No. 38 for two days, but was finally snared when it emerged from beneath the driver's seat.

Business Is Better; It Pays To Promote

Most Sanford merchants interviewed Tuesday said that business is well ahead of the pace of last December. Business for some is running behind the pre-Christmas volume of a year ago. This is to be expected in some stores. From a city-wide standpoint, however, Sanford has turned in the brightest report we have seen. Orlando and Jacksonville had good reports, but the increase didn't approach the 10 to 20 per cent reported here.

Some stores find it difficult to report increases around Christmas. They deal in products for which the market at this time of year is about the same as in July, January or September. Others, which to have products with Christmas-time appeal, are not aggressive enough to take advantage of the biggest shopping season of the year.

Based on sales through Tuesday, Sanford merchants should set a new record this month. With the final, big week to go, cash registers should sing a merry tune.

We believe this optimistic report can be attributed to several factors. First, people have more money to spend this year than they had in 1957; secondly, promotion of Sanford, and the businesses in particular, have kept more of the trade at home.

There is no substitute for advertising and promotion. With very few exceptions, products which are not advertised have a very sudden death. Firms with good advertising and promotion programs continue to grow.

Probably the world's best example of this is R. H. Macy & Co., Inc. of New York City, better known as Macy's. This firm, known around the globe, recently celebrated its 100th anniversary. Everyone has heard of Macy's; shoppers know where it is, what it has to offer. Yet Macy's is one of the world's biggest advertisers, running some 200 ads in newspapers each week.

Macy's is proof that a firm cannot afford to quit advertising. Should it do so, it would go the way of the Willis-Knight automobile. Rowland Hussey Macy started the store in 1858 and did a $90,000,000 business. During the 12 months ending Aug. 2, sales were $466.6 million.

Logans long have been a specialty of the advertising industry. None is more true than "It pays to advertise."

Accident Season, Too

The most dangerous season of the year, from a traffic standpoint, is approaching rapidly. Heavy travel during the holiday period is expected. Traffic always is at a maximum during the Christmas season. Unless airline strikes are settled, motorists will find highways and roads even more clogged than usual.

Schools in Seminole County will be dismissed for the holidays tomorrow. This should serve as an additional warning to local motorists. Local law enforcement officers urge drivers to be especially careful. The traffic toll in Florida in the first 11 months of this year was 983. Hundreds of others were injured, many of them permanently. Property damage was in the millions.

With so many "careless" drivers on the road, it takes a good one to avoid an accident.

It would be very newsworthy if The Herald had not a single wreck to report during the holidays.

Fred Othman Says

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON — My problem now, Mr. Anthony, isn't so much staying sober as it is avoiding a continuing stomach-ache from the hors d'oeuvres.

The shrimps on the toothpick I can take. The cheese on the damp crackers doesn't bother me. Neither does the sardine on the elderly nipplet of toast, because I am blessed with a zinc-lined interior.

What's beginning to slow me down and give me butterflies in the middle is the hot stuff, such as oysters stizzling on the half shell with dollops of spinach on top, the chicken livers wrapped in bacon that's barely warm, the slabs of turkey fried in butter, and the mysterious ground-up material that comes in an overcoat of hot dough. This is the proven-der that's booming baking soda sales hereabouts.

All over this town cocktail party is proliferating on cocktail party.

There are big cocktail parties, little ones, and those in between. They're being tossed by politicians, trade associations (it takes four pages of the phone book just to list these), lobbyists, and all the other folks who settle upon the holiday season to part.

The trouble seems to be the scarcity of guests. There aren't enough to go around. Tomorrow night even an odd, unsocial type like me has bids to three of these whoopies. The following evening there are two. The invitations continue to arrive.

This makes it easy — too easy for a local to get squiffed and stay that way for weeks on end, and there are only three ways I know to avoid this unhappy result. One is to take tomato juice and be sneered upon. One is to accept a highball and hold it all evening, but this takes will power. The final one, as practiced by the late Honest Harold Ikes, was to have the bartender pour his Martinis from a special bottle. The Ikes cocktails consisted of white table wine, which he could sip without effect.

Some of these cocktail frays, in which a gent and his wife invite in a few friends, even as anywhere else in the land, are fun. I'm not talking about them so much as I am about the executive secretary of the big association, who invites everybody he considers important (whether or not he is the officer of his lodge). The guests come as a matter of duty, because politicians dare not insult anybody, while newspapermen figure they can't afford to miss talking to folks who might be the source of some news. The reporters, I hasten to add, usually are disappointed, though I must admit that once at a large bout by the National Association of Manufacturers I got two stories at two different bars in the same hotel ballroom.

One of these tales involved an interview with Arthur Sinker, president of the Hamilton Watch Co., and the travails of inventing the electric wrist watch. The other had to do with the theory of Fred Maytag, the Iowa manufacturer of washing machines, that clothes washed about as well in cold water as hot.

This latter item even resulted in a dividend, when the Association of Water Heater Manufacturers claimed he didn't know what he was talking about.

Never before or after, though, have I found a story to write at a cocktail party. I'm still hopeful, but all I'm getting so far during the Martinis season of 1958 is a lumpy stomach.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Sanford Herald:

I want to publicly express Sanford Navy's appreciation and thanks to the Seminole Junior Chamber of Commerce for conducting Navy Appreciation Day on Saturday, Dec. 13. It was through their inspirational leadership and thoughtfulness that the citizens of Sanford and Seminole County were able to express their ever increasing spirit of friendliness and togetherness on this day.

Thanks to all concerned and especially the Co-Chairmen, Bill Brumley and Art Harris, who so ably planned and executed the affair. May this atmosphere of friendliness and cooperation continue for many years to come to our mutual benefit. I wish to extend to all our friends Sanford Navy's warmest Holiday Greetings.

Sincerely,
L. A. Arthur
Captain, U. S. Navy

Holiday Decorations With Personal Touch

Mystic Wilson
Home Demonstration Agent
Start your own Santa's workshop by making joy Christmas centerpieces. One of the easiest materials for beginners is easy-to-cut and trim plastic foam. Homemakers and children find inexpensive household items can be used to decorate the snow-white plastic in the holiday fashion.

Need tips for cutting plastic foam? Using a sharp paring knife, cut the foam with a light sawing motion. A coping saw or hot wire cutter may be used. Try cookie cutters to make designs from thin sheets of the foam. And rough edges can be quickly smoothed by sanding lightly with a piece of scrap foam.

Use children's books and stencils for simple holiday designs. Trace around them on plastic foam and cut out.

Look in your drawer of "what knots" to find a wealth of trim materials for holiday decorations you can make yourself. Beads, glitter, sequins, buttons, braid, corsage pins and metallic mesh may be applied to white plastic foam for fresh and imaginative tree and centerpiece decorations.

Dramatize your simplest holiday centerpiece with glitter. It's easily applied to plastic foam. Just brush with white glue, sprinkle with glitter and shake off surplus.

For winter arrangements insert stems of dried weeds and greenery in plastic foam. It serves as a base to hold stems firmly in place.

For easy to make candleholders, cut balls of plastic foam in half. Place cut side down and make a hole for candle in curved portion of each half-ball. Decorate with greenery and glitter.

Did you know the snow white plastic foam is perfect for making your own Christmas decorations is produced by expanding polystyrene approximately 40 times to form millions of individual air cells.

The program will include a playlet "Christmas for Judy," under the direction of Mrs. W. L. Rowland. Bobby Howard, Judy Batts, Susan Rowland and Susan Norris are in the cast of characters. The choir will sing the anthem "Star of the East." Kahla Rohlfis will play a solo "The Little Baby Jesus" will be sung by the children.

White-wrapped cans of fruit for the Florida Christian Home (for the aged), Jacksonville, will be brought by attendants for presentation at the Manger. The minister is to conduct the "white gifts" service. The evening program will conclude with parties and treats for children and youth.

In the church school at 9:45 a. m. an offering will be taken for the Southern Christian Home (for children), Atlanta, and the home for the aged. The adopted goal is $10. Adults will study "The Significance of the Savior's Birth."

At the 11 o'clock worship service the choir, directed by Mrs. John C. Dietz, will sing "The Wonderful Story" and the Rev. Mr. Stone plans to preach on "The Story of His Birth."

LUTHERAN CHURCH

The Sunday School children of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will present a Christmas worship service "O Radiant Night" this Sunday at 7 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

All of the children will be participating in speech choir and singing of carols. Various parts will be portrayed by the following: Mary, Donita Wynn; Joseph, Robert Green; Gabriel, Donald Goerss; Shepherds, Richard Andrews, Glenn Richards, Don Myers; angels, Sue Bongardner, Janet Wolf, Deborah Goerss; wise men, Gary Southward, Robert Richardson, John Goerss; servants, Harold Sunday, Wayne Rumbler, John Mills, Wayne Rumbler, John Mills, Truempeter, Jun Senkarik and Claudia Bongardner.

Recitations will be given by Sue Wolf, Joyce Washburn, Cynthia Holcomb, Perry Martin. Additional speaking parts by Mark Rumbler, Terry Nicholson, Patricia Clovis, Sherry Richards, Juanita Fryer, Darlene Fedler, Pamela Rosenow.

Mrs. J. C. Andrew is directing with Mrs. E. Edward Mossman serving as organist.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

The Youth of the First Methodist Church will present an all musical program at the 11 a. m. service Sunday. These choirs, consisting of eighty voices, will sing familiar Christmas selections.

Local DAR Chapter Has Music Program

The Tolar School of Piano presented a program at the Friday evening meeting of the Sallie Harrison Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Mary Tolar Nance, Magnolia Ave. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. M. S. Wiggins, Mrs. C. E. Butler, and Mrs. W. A. Canady.

Selections for the musical program were given by the pupils of the school. Those participating were: Louise Steakley, Melanie Williams, Susan Yates, Margaret DeMont, Mrs. Mary Tolar Nance presented Prelude No. 3, by Gershwin, at the conclusion of the program.

Mrs. F. E. Rounillat, regent, presided during the business meeting. Mrs. Edmund Meisch reported that a box of clothing donated by chapter members had been sent to the DAR School at Tallahassee, S. C.

Christmas carols were sung by the group with Mrs. Rounillat accompanying at the piano.

Refreshments carrying out the Christmas motif were served by the hostess to the 30 members and five guests present.

Fidelis Class Has Meet Tuesday Night

Members of the Fidelis Class of the First Baptist Church voted at a meeting Tuesday night to contribute $85 toward the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering. This offering, taken each Christmas at Baptist churches, is for foreign mission work in memory of an early missionary, Miss Lottie Moon of Virginia, who devoted her life to work in the foreign fields.

Wedding Plans Told

Final plans have been announced for the marriage of Miss Doris Marilyn Calhoun to Dean Gordon Hanson, Belleview.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 20 at 4 p. m. at the First Methodist Church. The Rev. T. C. O'Steen will officiate at the double ring ceremony. The bride will be given in marriage by her father, J. A. Calhoun.

Officers Elected

Officers for the new year were elected at a recent meeting of Seminola Rebekah Lodge No. 43 held at the Odd Fellows Hall.

Serving in 1959 will be: Noble Grand, Mrs. Emily Jameson; Vice Grand, Mrs. Bertha Snider; Recording secretary, Mrs. Mildred Squires; financial secretary, Mrs. Virginia Anderson; representative, Mrs. Henrietta Baines; alternate, Mrs. Nell Futrell.

The meeting which would fall on Christmas night has been postponed. The next meeting will be held Jan. 8.

Chapter Gives Tea Recently

A tea honoring the real daughters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was held Dec. 4 at the home of Mrs. W. C. Hill, Magnolia Ave.

Hostesses were Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Frank Adams, Mrs. Emmett McCall, and Mrs. George Harden.

The table was covered with a Christmas red cloth. The centerpiece was a crystal and silver sprig decorated with white gladioli and tetrapanans. Gladioli and gerbera daisies were used in other arrangements. Mrs. David Caldwell, president of the Sallie Harrison Chapter, poured.

About 25 attended.

Golden Circle Class Has Monthly Meeting

The Golden Circle Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church held its monthly meeting and Christmas party Tuesday night.

Scene of the gathering was the home of Mrs. John Bewick, 1920 Palmetto Ave. The house was attractively decorated throughout for Christmas.

Mrs. Joe Davis presided. A sunshine offering was taken by the hostess for a boy in need. Gifts were exchanged among the 11 members present.

The hostess served coffee and cake.

Truth Seekers Meet

The annual Christmas Social of the Truth Seekers Class of the First Methodist Church was held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Bessie Herman.

The large attendance included several guests, Rev. and Mrs. Thomas O'Steen, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Timms, Rev. M. H. Brock, and Mrs. J. H. Stephens. An orchard was presented to Mrs. O'Steen.

Carols were sung and talks of appreciation given. Special vocal and piano selections were enjoyed.

Refreshments were served against a background of Yuletide decorations.

To dress up beef patties, prepare this spicy sauce as a topping. 1/4 cup catchup, 2 table spoons prepared mustard and 1/4 teaspoon cloves.

CRANBERRIES TO THE RESCUE

For a holiday meal quickie, turn your attention to pork sausage and cranberries. Cook 1 pound bulk pork sausage until crumbly and lightly browned. Pour drippings. Add 1/2 cup cranberry sauce and 1/4 cup salad dressing to sausage and mix thoroughly. Split 3 English muffins and lightly toast on cut side. Spread 1/3 cup sausage mixture on each toasted muffin. Broil 3 to 5 minutes until top of meat is lightly browned. Garnish with parsley.

Garden Gate

CENTRAL CIRCLE

Mrs. Blanton Owen gave a demonstration on Christmas decorations at the Thursday meeting of the Central Circle of the Sanford Garden Club. She instructed members in the creation of door decorations, holiday arrangements and gift wrapping.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Evans, Lake Mary. Among the attractive decorations in the Evans home was a lovely centerpiece on the dining room table. Tall pink candles rose from pink chafin and silver balls. The table was covered with a white lace Chinese cloth of rice linen. Mrs. J. W. Schwartz, circle chairman, poured coffee from a silver coffee service. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Zeh Rathoff.

Mrs. Schwartz presented each member with a crocheted pot holder. About 17 were present.

Luncheon Held

Mrs. F. A. Dixon was hostess for a delightful luncheon at the Mayfair Inn today. Attractive decorations carried out a Christmas motif.

Those invited to attend were Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Mrs. D. F. Whitner Sr., Mrs. A. R. Key, Mrs. Martin Bram, Mrs. Sineclair White, Mrs. Neil Houston, Mrs. Floyd Palmer, Mrs. Elton Moughton, Mrs. W. T. Jackson, Mrs. W. E. Kirchhoff, and Mrs. Joe Saunders.

Audubon Club Holds Party

A Christmas party was held Monday evening in the Seminole High School Farm Building by the Seminole Audubon Society.

After the regular business was transacted, the meeting was turned over to Miss Ruth Porter, acting chairman of the program committee. She introduced two members, Miss Matilda Boyer and Mrs. William Gray. Each read a Christmas story. Carols were sung.

A tree was presented to the birds at the Audubon House in Maitland from the Seminole Audubon Society. Gifts were placed under the tree. These included suet in tiny baskets, berries, seeds, pine cones filled with peanut butter and many other delicacies which birds enjoy. The tree will be planted on the grounds of the new headquarters building in Maitland.

A social hour was enjoyed. Gifts were exchanged. Refreshments were served by the officers and chairman of various committees.

Christmas Party Is Held By Rebekahs

The annual Christmas party for members of Seminola Rebekah Lodge No. 43 was held Tuesday night at the Odd Fellows Hall on Magnolia Ave.

Mrs. Bertha Snider accompanied the members on the piano as they sang Christmas carols. Games were played. The prize for "Name That Tune" was won by Mrs. Williams, a visitor from Geneva.

Members Exchanged Gifts

Members exchanged gifts. The table on which the packages were placed held a miniature church—complete with stain glass windows and a lighted interior. This was the work of Mrs. Eileen Rector, the noble grand. The refreshment table was overlaid with a Christmas cloth. Red burning tapers in silver candelabra added a festive note. Sandwiches, candy, and Christmas cookies were served. Mrs. Robert Williams poured coffee from a silver service.

There were 29 present.

Clemson: Good Bench, Backs

EDITORS NOTE: This is the second of 10 dispatches on the football teams playing in the post-season bowl games.

CLEMONSON
By TOM PICE
CLEMONSON, S. C. (UPI)—The Clemson Tigers, who meet the nationally top-ranked Louisiana State Tigers in the Sugar Bowl football game New Year's Day, don't have the big-name stars of the Bayou Bengals but compiled an 8-3 season record, primarily on depth.

However, the South Carolina Tigers have three teams deep as do LSU's much publicized "white team, go team and Chi-pose bandits."

But Clemson did have eight backs who gained more than 100 yards each during the 1958 season which produced an Atlantic Coast Conference championship and senior Charlie Horne, a half-back standout the two previous years, found himself at season's end on the third team.

So did senior fullback and co-captain Rudy Hayes, who gained 310 yards rushing despite finishing the season playing behind junior Doug Cline and senior Mike Dukes. Cline led the team in rushing with 438 yards.

Hampered by injuries Harvey White, who had more than 1,012 yards in total offense as a sophomore in 1957, was hampered by shoulder and ankle injuries during the second half of the 1958 schedule but still posted 739 yards passing and running. Sophomore Lowndes Shingler proved a capable understudy for White at quarterback, piling up 334 yards total offense although he, too, was hampered by a bad ankle. Coach Frank Howard hopes ailments to White, Shingler and other members of the squad will be healed by Jan. 1.

The balance of Clemson's 1958 schedule is reflected in the even distribution of the scoring this year. White scored 20 points; George Lary, a junior halfback who averaged 5.2 yards per carry, scored 28; halfback Hill Mathis collected 26 and Shingler

Pistons Defeated, Celtics Take Lead

United Press International
Veteran Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman have finally boosted the Boston Celtics into a first-place lead that cannot be lost until at least the week end.

Cousy and Sharman scored 46 points between them Wednesday night to give Boston a 102-93 decision over Detroit and help the Celtics to a full game over New York in the National Basketball Association's seasawing Eastern Division races — their largest of the season.

St. Louis upended the Knickerbockers, 136-122, in the opener of a doubleheader at Detroit.

The Celtics, who play tonight while New York is idle until it meets Boston Saturday, capitalized on Piston cold spells to win their fifth straight. Boston took a 56-51 halftime lead as Detroit went almost 10 minutes without scoring a basket.

Walt Dukes' tip-in gave Detroit an 81-80 lead at the start of the fourth quarter, but Boston chilled the Pistons in the next six minutes as the Celtics went on a 12-4 scoring spree.

Sharman's 25 points and Cousy with 21 were tops for Boston. George Yardley scored 33 for Detroit.

Pat Riley and Cliff Hagan, St. Louis' on-air scoring punch, knocked the Knicks out of their first place tie with Boston as each dropped in 35 points.

The Hawks, hitting on 14 of 28 field goal attempts in the first period, took a 28-19 edge on Celtics in the 14 minutes and Pettit nine.

New York threatened briefly in the third period, but St. Louis came back strong to increase its Western Division lead over Detroit to four games. Richie Guerin's 25 points was high for New York.

Giants And Browns Prove Old Adage: 'Rich Get Richer'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The old saying that the "rich get richer" also holds true for the National Football League.

The Cleveland Browns and New York Giants, the "moneybags" clubs of the Eastern Division, will divide another bundle of greenbacks Sunday when they play for the division title at Yankee Stadium.

The crowd of about 70,000, plus television and radio fees will assure a bonanza of about a quarter of a million dollars for the owners and players.

In a division playoff game, the two clubs split the net receipts and each player gets an additional one-fourth of his salary (the league play 11 regular season games).

This will average about $1,000 per player. The quarterbacks and other stars such as fullback Jim Brown of Cleveland will get more, of course, following the same "rich get richer" pattern. Most of the guards and tackles, who decide the game with their play in the line, probably will get less than $1,000 apiece.

But none of the players will need penicillin before Sunday's game.

The winners will move into the league championship game opposing the Baltimore Colts Dec. 28. That's the game in which the players slice up the net receipts.

With the title game to be played in the Municipal Stadium, Cleveland's gross receipts easily could top the record $263,967.50 set by the Browns and Lions at Detroit last year.

That means the individual winners in the championship game may collect about $5,000 and the losers about $3,000. These fat tie-in game cuts will inspire the players Sunday.

Rebel Midnite Set For Test Tonight

Warmer weather greeted a record opening matinee crowd yesterday at Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club and speedy greyhounds cooperated by providing 10 races of thrills including a $104 daily double and a 10th-race $90 quintuplet.

A young, black dog tagged Rebel Midnite may be favored by starting odds tonight when he leads from the third starting position in the featured ninth race.

Rebel Midnite boasts two firsts and a second in schooling races, and placed in the ninth race on opening night.

Offering plenty of competition will be Go Harry, a brindle dog whose racing last year in Grade 1 established him as a game fighter for top honors.

Another favorite probably will be Radar Check, who showed well in schooling tests.

Also in the feature field are Mertle Clair, Big Bill, Souquel, Casual Sue and Rocky Marginty.

Frank Lane Wants Lopez And Berra

FLORIDA (UPI)—Frank Lane, the Cleveland Indians' fast-talking general manager, today revealed he would like to pry third baseman Hector Lopez from the Chicago White Sox to round out the Indians' infield.

Lane also said he is interested in Yogi Berra "if the Yankees don't want him any more."

Taking time out from a combination vacation-business trip to Cuba, frantic Frank disclosed he is ready to offer the White Sox infielder Woody Held, first baseman Mickey Vernon and a young pitcher for Lopez.

Asked to comment on Casey Stengel's reported plan to use Berra at first base next season, Lane said:

"Berra is still a good catcher but he must get more rest now. In case they don't want him, I could use him. That could be my first trade with the Yankees."

Paul Platz Named San Diego Coach

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—San Diego University named Paul Platz as its new head football coach today after James (Bob) McCutcheon resigned despite an excellent 7-2 record for the 1958 season.

McCutcheon, who compiled an overall 48-1 mark, stepped down Wednesday, presumably under pressure. It was no secret that the controversial coach had been at odds with the school booster Club since early season.

The only name mentioned publicly to take over a newly created general manager post was that of Earl (Curly) Lambau, who founded the Packers in 1910. Lambau gave Green Bay six championships before quitting in 1949 when he won only two games. Some say he's not the man to bring the Packers back into contention, others say he is.

St. Louis' "surprise" resignation, followed a few hours later by his acceptance of a job as Detroit Lions' backfield coach, climaxed the most dismal year in Green Bay football history. The Packers had a 1-10-1 record.

Hard Work Ahead For Gator Squad

GAINESVILLE (UPI)—The Florida Gators were scheduled for a lot of hard work today and Friday in preparation for their Gator Bowl clash with Miami pipped Dec. 27.

Some muscles and colds hampered practice Wednesday. Coach Bob Woodruff said the sore muscles were results of contact work this week.

But he added that all members of the squad should be fit for the bowl game.

Right tackle Val Heckman was still limping from a sprained ankle he suffered in the Miami game, and center Joe Hargrett has been sidelined for several days with the flu.

Six Players Sign Indian Contracts

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Six players, including popper Billy Martin — the Tribe's solution to its second-base problem, returned signed contracts today to the Cleveland Indians.

The other infielders, Billy Morgan and Randy Jackson, also came to terms.

The others were rookie pitcher Jake Arthur, a southpaw from Bucyrus, Ohio, who won 17, while losing 11 for Mobile last season, veteran reliever Morris Martin, who posted a 2-6 record while appearing in 14 relief stints as a Redskin, and youthful outfielder Carroll Hardy.

Hardy, a top Tribe prospect, finished the past season with San Diego because of weak hitting.

George HALAS RETURNS TO COACHING "THE CHICAGO BEARS" AFTER "TWO YEARS' RETIREMENT"

Vols, Tulane Play SEC's Only Tilts

United Press International
Tennessee and Tulane, each boasting a player rated among the best in the Southeastern Conference, take to the courts tonight against Davidson and Baylor, respectively.

The Vols, unbeaten in four games so far this season, have come into basketball prominence largely through the efforts of George Tomohlen, the 6-8 center.

Clemson Was Underdog
In each of those contests, Clemson's halftime underdog so it doesn't bother Howard. Clemson's picturesque tobacco-chewing head coach one bit that folks are holding that his Tigers from the South Carolina hills are mismatched against the Tigers from the Louisiana bayous.

"Shucks," says Frank, the favorite son of Barlow Bend, Ala. "anybody knows a skinny mountain tiger kin whup a fat swamp tiger any time."

Clemson resumed practice Dec. 12 here and will break camp Saturday for the Christmas holidays. The Tigers report back Dec. 26 and will fly to Bloom, Miss., next day where they will wind up training, moving into New Orleans the day before the New Year's Day classic.

Packers Seeking 'Iron Man' Boss For Front Office

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers began their search today for an "iron man" general manager who would have to find a replacement for resigned head Coach Ray (Scottie) McLean and save the floundering national football team.

The only name mentioned publicly to take over a newly created general manager post was that of Earl (Curly) Lambau, who founded the Packers in 1910. Lambau gave Green Bay six championships before quitting in 1949 when he won only two games. Some say he's not the man to bring the Packers back into contention, others say he is.

St. Louis' "surprise" resignation, followed a few hours later by his acceptance of a job as Detroit Lions' backfield coach, climaxed the most dismal year in Green Bay football history. The Packers had a 1-10-1 record.

Paul Platz Named San Diego Coach

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—San Diego University named Paul Platz as its new head football coach today after James (Bob) McCutcheon resigned despite an excellent 7-2 record for the 1958 season.

McCutcheon, who compiled an overall 48-1 mark, stepped down Wednesday, presumably under pressure. It was no secret that the controversial coach had been at odds with the school booster Club since early season.

Seminoles Host DeLand In Cage Game Tomorrow

By Jerry Covington
The once-beaten Seminoles and the undefeated JV's will go against the DeLand Bulldogs here tomorrow night in a basketball doubleheader, beginning at 7 p. m.

The Seminoles had their three-game winning streak broken here last Saturday night by New Smyrna and are striving to return to the win column. They now have wins over Oviedo, Pierson and Longwood in the young basketball season.

Coach Dick Silvers' junior varsity will be seeking to better its record in the preliminary. Last week the team poured in 34 points to defeat New Smyrna by a margin of two points. Sophomore Mike Roberts trumped in 20 points and will be trying to better that from his forward spot. Guard George Ferrides is another notch performer for the young squad that will see action tomorrow.

The Seminoles will suffer greatly this season without the services of Gerald Jones and Alan Swaim. The bulk of the rebounding will be handled by center Charles Orava. This was the biggest difference in the overtime loss to New Smyrna.

The forwards will be Jimmy Gracey, leading scorer this season, and Cliff McKibbin. McKibbin and Gracey are small, but will get their share of the rebounds for the local squad. The height disadvantage is coach Bud Laver's biggest problem but his squad is

Hurricanes Defeat Gators, 92 To 82

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Florida basketball jinx is over for the Miami Hurricanes.

Miami ended a nine-game losing streak to the Gators Wednesday night, 92-82, before 1,815 fans in the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Hurricanes sophomore, led by 5-foot-4 guard Dick Hickox, connected on nearly 50 per cent of their field goal attempts and ruled the backboards to win their fourth game of the season against two losses.

Hickox led his team in scoring with 20 points, 17 of them in the second half. In all, the sophomores bucketed 71 of Miami's 92 points.

Miami's Ron Godfrey and Florida's Dick Hoban scored 19 points each.

Miami led most of the way, but the Gators fought back throughout the game. The Hurricanes held a 69-43 halftime lead that was later cut to four points. But, led by Hickox, Miami pulled away again late in the game.

The loss was Florida's third in six games this season.

Missile Destruction His Assignment

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The big missile vaulted from its launching stand and seemed to be off to a smooth start. But suddenly it began skidding crazily a few hundred feet above the Cape. "Programming red," crackled the report over the Cape's "hot loop."

Lt. Col. Raymond D. Stephens stationed in a windowless concrete building several hundred yards from the missile's launching stand, took a fleeting glance at the maze of instruments surrounding him. Then he moved a half-step and tripped a pair of switches that ended the flight in a brilliant explosion over the edge of the Cape.

It was just a routine "destruct" job for Steve Stephens, 43, range safety officer at the Air Force missile test center for the past year and a half. But he was well aware that the lives of thousands of Florida east coast residents depended on his reflexes.

There's no guesswork involved when Stephens has to destroy a missile—"bust it," as he describes the act. Although the final decision is up to him, Stephens has half a dozen assistants and as many instruments to work with in a launching.

Long before any firing, however, the safety planning begins with a conference in Stephens' office at the Patrick Air Force Base, headquarters of the test center.

This meeting is attended by representatives of the contractor whose missile is to be fired, and by the assistant Stephens has chosen to learn the weapon from nose cone to exhaust nozzle. "He's supposed to be the wisest on that bird," says Stephens.

The contractor representatives brief Stephens on how the missile is supposed to behave, and show him a chart depicting the planned flight path.

"Destruct lines" are drawn on the same chart, which is later transferred to an instrument known as the "electronic sky-sweeper" at Stephens' post on the Cape. When this device shows the missile is straying from its predetermined trajectory and is approaching a destruct line, Stephens knows he has to blow it up.

Stephens also must huddle with other missile specialists on the design and placement of the missile's "destruct package," which blows up the bird on his ground signal. It was a faulty destruct package that led to a near-tragedy recently when half of a Polaris test rocket ran wild and plummeted into a lagoon near a residential area.

It's not always necessary to blow up a runaway missile, Stephens says. Sometimes he can merely hit the "arm" switch to cut off the bird's fuel flow, allowing it to fall harmlessly into the Atlantic. On other missiles, the "arm" switch prepares the destruct package for ignition, and if the bird veers perilously close to a destruct line—and thus poses a threat to a land area or ships Stephens "busts" it by flipping the destruct switch.

In addition to the electronic sky-sweeper—known to the safety crew as "Elsie"—Stephens also relies on radar, a device called the optical sky-sweeper, two TV monitors and another gadget called the impact predictor, which shows exactly where a missile would fall if its power were cut off at a given instant.

But Stephens' first report often comes from an assistant manning a relatively simple device called the "wire sky-sweeper," which is nothing more than a wire stretched taut at a 90-degree angle to the ground.

If the missile climbs straight up as it should in the initial phase of flight, the wire sky-sweeper reports that it is "climbing the wire." But if the bird falters or deviates from the proper course, it's "programming red."

The destruct mission described above involved an Army intermediate range Jupiter. But a few days later Stephens blew up an Air Force Thor just as quickly. Interservice rivalry has no place in this delicate operation.

A native of Collinsville, Ill., Stephens has had a variety of jobs during his 18 years of commissioned service in the Army and later in the Air Force. A veteran of more than 250 launches, he admits that the strain is "about as rough as when I was flying B-26's over Europe during World War II."

"They all accuse me of not having a nerve in my body," he said. "But I still get butterflies."

NEW YORK (UPI)—A group of 27 Polish women, maimed for life by Nazi concentration camp medical experiments, arrive today for treatment.

The women are the last of a group called the "Ravensbrueck rabbits," which the Nazis used as human guinea pigs at the notorious concentration camp.

They are being brought to the United States for plastic surgery and other treatment by the Hiroshima Peace Assn. the same organization that brought the Hiroshima maidens here for treatment.

The trip was worked out in September with the Polish Association for Concentration Camp Survivors. A Pan American World Airways plane picked them up in Warsaw.

The women were subjected to injections of various substances, so that their reactions could be observed. The Nazis subjected some to bone grafts and other experiments that left them scarred and handicapped.

Alabama Slates Rights Arguments In Court Jan. 5

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—Six defiant Alabama officials will present arguments Jan. 5 in federal court here on why they should not be required to surrender their offices to the Civil Rights Commission.

U. S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. Wednesday set the hearing for his court and delayed until Jan. 9 a Rights Commission hearing scheduled to be held here Friday to secure two records.

Johnson issued subpoenas to Circuit Judge George Wallace and registrars E. P. Livingston and Grady Rogers of Mason County, J. W. Spencer and W. A. Stokes of Barbour, and M. T. Evans of Baldwin.

The six had refused to testify at a Civil Rights Commission hearing here Dec. 8-9 into complaints Negroes were denied voting rights in Alabama. The defiance of the six forced the commission to abruptly halt the hearing.

Wallace contends the subpoena for him is not legal since he is a duly elected state judge.

The Rights Commission called the delay strictly part of a "legal procedure." A spokesman said "the situation exists for itself."

Johnson also ordered the six state officials to file written briefs no later than Dec. 21. Johnson said he approved motions for a court hearing on the subpoenas because of "legal grounds" and "the opportunity should be granted all parties concerned to be heard in open court."

Charlie Homesick He's Going Home

BUNNOWN, England (UPI)—Charlie the homesick horse is going to be home for Christmas.

At the moment he's on a beach track for his home in Wales, some 200 miles from where he started, plodding steadily on across rivers, railroads and highways.

Police, automobile association patrolmen and farmers have been trying to catch him, without avail. Charlie keeps plodding on.

The horse was taken from a mountain farm in Wales and brought to the farm of his new owner, Mrs. Anne Tomkin, 48, who lives near here. That was three months ago.

This week Charlie was off. Officials plotting his course said he was taking a dead-straight line toward Wales.

His homing instinct had everyone puzzled, except Charlie. He plodded across five highways, several towns and two main railway lines, and swam eight rivers.

He's been sighted several times, cantering westward at a steady 20 miles a day. But so far, no one has gotten near enough to catch him.

Planes Will Get Long-Lived Light

MORRISTOWN, N. J. (UPI)—A new exit marker has been developed for aircraft which can provide uninterrupted light for up to 25 years — without an external power source.

The new markers, according to the U. S. Radium Corp., are made of glass tubes which are coated internally with a special phosphor and filled with tritium.

The tritium excites the phosphor, which then emits light. The best of the markers, according to the firm, are visible at 100 feet or more in the dark.

Dennis Gets Son, Hoping For Girl

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dennis Crosby, 21, one of crooner Bing Crosby's sons, is the new father of a 2-year-old boy today — and hopes to become the father of a baby girl early next year.

Crosby Wednesday formally adopted Franz Nicholas Gregory, son of Douglas Little, son of his showgirl wife by a previous marriage.

"This will make our marriage complete and we hope Santa Claus will bring us a little girl," Pat Sheenan, Crosby's wife, said.

Crosby and the former Las Vegas showgirl were married May 4 and she is now expecting a child.

George said the clothing consisted mostly of suits and sports coats and were taken at some unknown time from a cedar closet in the garage of his home here.

Damone Jealous Pier Gets Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Actress Pier Angeli, 26, tearfully charged in Divorce Court Wednesday that her singer husband Vic Damone was insanely jealous during their four-year marriage.

The lovely Italian-born actress was granted a divorce and custody of their 3-year-old child after the told Superior Judge Orlando H. Rhodes that Damone constantly called her on the telephone while she was away on movie-making assignments.

Brush Burns Fatal To Plant City Man

TAMPA (UPI)—Henry E. Davis, 61, died Wednesday of burns he suffered Tuesday while burning brush in a citrus grove at nearby Lake Thomasassa.

Davis, of Plant City, sustained burns on 95 per cent of his body when a five gallon can of tractor fuel ignited in his hands. Authorities said George Gramling, 31, was burned when he tried to tear off Davis' burning clothing.

Gramling was released from a Tampa hospital Wednesday.

83 Bodies Found In Store Rubble

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—The discovery of a woman's body in the charred rubble of the Vida Department Store late Wednesday increased the toll of Tuesday's tragic fire to 83 dead.

Eighty-eight women, most of them Christmas shoppers, eight children and seven men perished in the flames that raced through the department store at the height of the evening rush.

Stockholders Get 'Blue Chip' Yule

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Corp. today shared in a one and a half billion dollar Christmas pie—the product of a 21 point rise in the company's stock.

The increase, which boosted AT&T stock to $23 a share, occurred Wednesday after the company announced plans to split its stock three-for-one and raise its dividends. The stock finally closed Wednesday at 23 a share.

AT&T, which services approximately 85 per cent of the nation's 66 million telephones, is the world's largest investor-owned company, with total assets of more than 17 billion dollars. In all, more than 1,600,000 Americans from every walk of life own AT&T stock, a stockholder family bigger than the next three companies combined.

The stock split and dividend raise, although long rumored, caught Wall Street off base. The ensuing rush for AT&T stock forced suspension of trading for an hour and a half, while specialists sought stock to supply the demand.

AT&T, whose stock has been a "blue chip" investment for many years, has maintained a 50 annual dividend rate since 1921. Company directors said that if the stockholders approve the split at their annual meeting April 15, they will recommend an annual dividend rate on the new stock of $3.50 a share. This would be equivalent to $9.50 on the present stock.

Collins Opposes Tax Hike Suggestion

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. LeRoy Collins says he is opposed to raising state taxes to make up for revenue losses caused by the Eastern Air Lines strike.

Wednesday, Rep. Cliff Herrick of Miami, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, told the governor that Florida's treasury will lose four million dollars if the strike continues through December. He said new taxes might be necessary to make up the difference.

Collins agreed the strike was hurting the state economy, but he said losses would have to be met by further slashes in state spending.

"We will have to tailor our expenses to fit our revenue without the imposition of a new tax," said Collins, a strong foe of any new taxation.

Meanwhile, the governor received word from the Civil Aeronautics Board that it is studying his request to step into the Eastern strike. Last week, Collins wired Secretary of Commerce Lewis M. Strauss urging that the CAB make an official ruling on whether the third man in the cockpit of jet airliners should be a pilot or a flight engineer.

Eastern decided the third man must be a pilot, and the flight engineers, fearing the ruling might mean the end of their union in the jet age, went out on strike.

Collins said a CAB ruling on the matter would put an end to the issue as a strike cause.

Meanwhile, the strike entered its 73th day this morning with still no sign of a settlement in view.

The big airline reached an agreement with union leaders for the striking mechanics Sunday, but rank and file members must ratify it by vote. The company and its flight engineers apparently are as far apart as ever despite the appearance of a federal mediator.

Both the company and engineers were to hold separate meetings again today with Mediator Warren Lane.

George Brown, head of the mechanics union, said it probably would be Monday before votes are tabulated to show whether or not the mechanics will accept terms outlined in a new contract. But even if they do, there remains the question of whether they will break the engineers' picket lines to return to work.

"On The Corner By The Clock"

Bombings, Canaveral Big Stories In South In '58

ATLANTA (UPI)—What other story was there except Little Rock?

So replied one southern editor when asked for his list of the 10 biggest news stories in the South in 1958. And so it proved, when all the votes were in. For the second consecutive year, and by virtually unanimous choice, editors all over the South voted the Little Rock story No. 1 in Dixie.

Unlike a year before, there were no unheated federal bayonets at the September opening of Little Rock's Central High School. Federal marshals armed with sub-machine guns were there instead. Also unlike 1957, Central High was not integrated in 1958. Instead, it was closed and closed it remains.

Two other manifestations of the turmoil attending the integration segregation controversy were voted the next two places in the United Press International list of the biggest news stories in the South in 1958. The wanion bombings of the Atlanta Temple and the integrated Clinton, Tenn., high school were ranked together in second place. In third place was the closing of nine schools in Virginia as part of that state's plan for massive resistance to integration.

Next, and in the perspective of man's history potentially the greatest of all, came the missile and moon-ship firings at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Here is the list of the 10 biggest, as selected for United Press International by votes of editors in all parts of the South:

1. Little Rock: Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas called a special session of the Legislature in advance of the scheduled September opening of Central High School, which in May had completed a school year of federally-enforced integration. The law was changed to permit the school to be closed rather than integrated. A straw vote of Little Rock citizens favored this policy. The school opening date was postponed while legal action was completed. Then, the Little Rock School Board closed the school. Federal marshals, on hand in large numbers with subpoenas to force integration, got no chance to carry out their orders because the school did not open its doors for the fall term. Under Faubus' leadership, private classrooms were opened for some of Central High's students. Others went elsewhere to school.

2. Atlanta and Clinton Bombings: In the pre-dawn hours of Sunday, Oct. 12, a bomb blew a large hole in the Temple, Jewish house of worship on Atlanta's Peachtree Street. No one was there, so no one was injured. Police arrested five men. The first, George Bright, was brought to trial in December on a charge that, under Georgia law, would permit the death penalty on conviction. The jury split 9-5 for conviction with recommendation of mercy, and a mistrial was declared. A week before the Temple bombing, also on a Sunday, a bomb wrecked the Clinton, Tenn., high school, integrated more than a year earlier amid violence but since then peaceful.

3. Virginia School Closings: The Old Dominion's long-planned program of massive resistance to school integration went into operation in September, against court-ordered integration in three communities. Nine schools in Front Royal, Charlottesville and Norfolk were shut down promptly in the face of final court decrees to integrate. Private school substitutes varied in quality, some being confined to a rump-room classes and many students of the closed schools had nowhere else to go.

4. Cape Canaveral: After spectacular failure late in 1957 the United States put four satellites into orbit from the sprawling missile testing center on the Florida east coast. The Army did it first, in January, using a Jupiter-C missile. The Navy finally got its Vanguard rocket working and put up a small satellite that may stay in orbit 200 years. The Army then put up two more Explorers. In the latter months of 1958, the Air Force tried three times and the Army once to shoot the moon. One Air Force try went about 30,000 miles into space, about a third of the way to the moon, and the Army try got nearly as far. History may record these firings as man's first fluttering steps into space.

5. The 1957-58 winter freeze: This unusually severe cold spell hit hard at a large part of the South. It extended deep into Florida, but there provided a bonanza for the citrus industry by wiping out what otherwise would have been an abundant surplus of fruit. Much was saved, and prices for it skyrocketed.

6. Hurricane Helene: The most threatening of a season of little-threatening tropical storms, Helene brushed the North and South Carolina coasts and did several million dollars of damage before moving on north in the Atlantic.

7. Voodoo Poison Murder: Anjelie Lyles, a Macon, Ga., restaurant owner and devotee of voodoo arts, was tried and convicted for the arsenic poisoning death of her 9-year-old daughter, and sentenced to be executed. Her appeal is pending. She also was indicted for the poison murders of two husbands and a mother-in-law.

8. Atomic weapons accidents: Air Force planes over South Carolina and Georgia on two separate occasions accidentally dropped atomic weapons. Neither produced an atomic explosion.

9. Atomic weapons accidents: The South seemed to be less affected by the recession than other areas of the nation, and industry continued to open new plants, creating new jobs.

10. Defeat of Ku Klux Klan by Indians: It happened at Maxton, N. C., where Indians gathered for an anti-Indian rally. Indians—some of them armed—also gathered and started shooting into the air. The white-robes left the field to the Redskins, in haste.

Newspaper Strike Remains Unbroken

NEW YORK (UPI)—Negotiations were at a standstill today in the nine-day-old delivery strike against nine major New York City newspapers.

The outlook for a quick settlement was dim.

Negotiators for the striking

Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union and the Newspaper Publishers Association, which represents the affected newspapers, were standing by, prepared to resume bargaining talks. But no new meetings were scheduled.

Meanwhile, Mayor Robert F. Wagner was to meet today at city hall with federal mediator Walter A. Maggino and Frank H. Brown to discuss possible means to end the strike, which has resulted in the furloughing of an estimated 20,000 newspaper employees and dealt a severe blow to advertisers. Wagner, who has offered his services in the dispute, intervened for the first time Wednesday, meeting for an hour and a half with Joseph F. Finnegan, chief of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Finnegan returned to Washington Wednesday after a four-day effort to end the walkout of the union's 4,500 drivers and other distribution workers.

Red Bosses Ignore Decision By Mao

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet leaders saw nothing unusual today in Mao Tse-tung's decision to give up the presidency of Communist China to devote his full time to Communist Party affairs.

Moscow Radio steered clear of all comment on Mao's decision, carrying only the text of a Peiping news agency report on Red China's epoch-making party meeting.

Western observers said nothing in the nature of communist demands that a Communist Party leader also be a head of the government. They recalled that unlike Lenin, who headed both the party and the government in the Soviet Union, Josef Stalin was party chief exclusively from the time of Lenin's death in 1929. He assumed leadership of the government then to guide the country in the war against Germany.

Nikita Khrushchev, the present party leader and premier, also held the party job alone until he took over from Premier Nikolai Bulganin early this year.

There was no thought here that Mao's relinquishing of the Chinese presidency would affect his status in the party hierarchy.

Youngest Realtor Qualified At 14

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—Robert M. Neldenger, 14, has qualified to become perhaps the youngest real estate salesman in the country.

The teen-ager took the state test for the job and passed it with flying colors.

Robert's father, Edwin J. Neldenger, is a real estate broker and an appraiser for the State Board of Equalization and Assessment. Her mother is a licensed real estate saleswoman.

Mrs. Neldenger said her husband insisted Robert could take the test under the state rules since the law didn't specify any minimum age. So she did—and passed.

"The missiles went right down the pickle barrel."

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Dr. Dale Alford, write in candidate who defeated U.S. Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) in the November election, on efforts to deny him a seat in Congress.

"D-Day has arrived in this cold war to test our American traditional way of life. I pledged to the voters, to fight for our states rights. I was honestly elected."

BERKELEY, Calif.—Mrs. Madeleine Hampton, after her husband shot to death Wolfgang Ludwig Marx, whom she loved:

"I never had a real lover until Wolfgang came along."

WASHINGTON—Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-S.C.), after commending Jerome B. Caplin, brother of cartoonist Al Capp, for his frankness in admitting past Communist Party affiliations before the Senate internal security subcommittee:

"Go, and sin no more."

NORFOLK, Va.—Judge Savory E. Amato, dismissing disorderly conduct charges lodged against a woman for kissing a sailor in public:

"If kissing is disorderly, there are a lot of people in trouble."

Let Sleeping Dogs Lie, Not In Path

PITTSFIELD, Vt. (UPI)—A sleeping dog proved more dangerous than a barking one to Gardner Baker, 48.

Aroused early one morning by a disturbance behind his farmhouse, Baker took a .22 caliber pistol to investigate. He tripped over his sleeping dog and the weapon discharged, sending a shell through the farmer's right thigh. He never did discover the cause of the noise.

Childhood Fantasy Rules This Town At Christmas

CHRISTMAS VILLAGE, Torrington, Conn.—(UPI)—When Christmas time rolls around, Torrington ceases to be an industrial center and becomes a little world of childhood fantasy instead.

The Yuletide spirit took hold this year on Sunday, Dec. 7, with the opening of Christmas Village where Santa Claus and his elves are greeting thousands of kids and grownups from near and far.

Every day, until Santa leaves Christmas Eve on his Very Important Journey, the jolly old gentleman is "at home" to all.

He sits on a glittering throne near a crackling fireplace surrounded by all kinds of toys and stuffed animals. He chats gaily with the youngsters who call on him, and listens sympathetically to their secrets.

In a nearby room are his elves hammering, painting and decorating thousands and thousands of toys that must be ready for delivery by Christmas Eve.

As they work, they talk with the children, answer their endless questions, show them where they sleep and eat. The walls and ceiling of the workshop fairly drip with toys, gay decorations and tinsel.

The elves, with their stocking caps, pointed green shoes and fuzzy hoods, look the same as they do in the story books.

From the workshop, it's only a stone's throw to the Christmas Village corral. That's where Santa's reindeer—all eight of them—are kept in readiness for Dec. 24.

In a little pink house, the Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer and in a smaller pink house a baby reindeer—Snowflake.

A muted carillon arrangement of "Joy to the World" leads the children to the creche, where the nativity scene is depicted with nearly life-size figures of the Holy Family. The animals, the Three Kings, the angels and the Guiding Star—all are there.

This year more than 50,000 youngsters and adults are expected to visit Christmas Village. Only local residents are permitted during the first week. But after that, everyone is welcome.

A special day—Telephone Day—is set aside for children who cannot visit Santa in person. And there's also a "Hospital Day," when Santa and his elves visit the shut-ins at Charlotte-Hungerford Hospital here.

Christmas Village is in its 11th year. It is a project of the Torrington Park and Recreation Department and was conceived by program director John Borzanski.

He thought of the idea to show the people his gratitude for their many kindnesses while he was seriously ill in a hospital.

Four Fingers Lost By Man, Daughter

TAMPA (UPI)—A young father and his 2-year-old daughter each lost two fingers Wednesday in the whirling blade of a power mower.

Dominic Bianchi, 29, of nearby Riverdale, was mowing grass at a motel when his daughter, Linda, 2, stuck her hand in the mower.

Bianchi tried to free his daughter's hand from the machine, but before he could pull it out, the blade lopped off two fingers on both his and his daughter's left hand.

The brain of the average human male weighs 1,400 grams, or 49.3 ounces, according to the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology. The average female brain weighs 125 grams less.

Telephone Book Is Bank To Some People

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—"My money... the $150... it's in the book. The book your man just picked up today."

The Pittsburgh housewife gasped out the words over the telephone in an official of the Reuben H. Donnelly Corp., which holds a contract to distribute directories for the Bell Telephone Co. throughout the country.

The official assured the woman that every effort would be made to find the money. It was when it was returned to her, she waved the wad of bills triumphantly and cried:

"It's a good thing I'm systematic. I had the bills stashed in the yellow page under 'Banks.'"

Donnelly officials say subscribers lose small fortunes and valued keepsakes each year when their telephone book "vaults" are turned in.

One Donnelly collector had barely left a home when its paralytic resident caught up with him.

"Gimme the book—my book," the man screamed.

Seizing the directory, the man shook it. Out floated 80 crisp $20 bills, which the subscriber stuffed into his pockets. He was whistling as he walked away.

Telephone books have been the repository for marriage licenses, stock certificates, love letters, army discharge papers and even baby formulas.

Samuel E. Phillips, general commercial manager of Bell, who supervises overall distribution, spared no effort recently to help a "sweet old lady."

"She called urgently," Phillips said, "saying she had left some pictures that were keepsakes. The pictures could not be replaced and she pleaded with us to find them."

"After hours of laborious digging through stacks of books, we found the pictures. We called the woman with the good news and asked her to pick them up at the office."

"That was two months ago. The 'keepsakes' are still waiting for her." He shrugged.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The year 1959 is expected to be a very good one for the nation's resurgent economy.

Leading economists see no boom development in 1959, but they are confident the post-recession recovery which began in 1958 will continue through the new year.

The consensus is that higher personal income, increased government spending, a record level of construction and a shift back to inventory accumulation will exercise powerful forces for expansion.

Many economists also believe that inflation will be arrested in 1959, making most of the anticipated gains in economic activity real rather than illusory.

Although the economy will rise steadily through 1959, the new year will not be without its problems.

Competition for the consumer's dollar will be keen and industry will be faced with a continuing profit squeeze. The level of unemployment is expected to decline slowly and the Federal Reserve Board's tight money policy—which makes it more expensive to borrow money—may have some effect on housing starts later in the year.

Despite these problems, economists surveyed by United Press International are convinced 1959 will witness "a sound business recovery along a broad front."

The gross national product, the dollar value of all goods and services purchased in the nation, is slated to rise around eight per cent in 1959 to a new all-time high of $472 billion. Some economists look for an even greater increase.

In 1958, reflecting the recession which stalled industry in the first six months, the GNP declined to $324 billion, about four billion dollars below 1957.

The biggest gains in 1959 are looked for in industries hardest hit by the recession, including automotive, rubber, steel, copper, aluminum, appliances and railroad.

The construction industry, which countered the industry trend in 1958 by operating at record levels, will do even better in 1959. The volume of new construction in 1959 may rise another three billion dollars to a new peak of almost $3 billion.

The auto industry, which accounts directly and indirectly for one out of every seven jobs in the country, is highly optimistic that its 1959 model cars will sell well.

The anticipated improvement in auto sales—from 4,500,000 units in 1958 to 5,500,000 or more—will benefit a long list of supplier industries, including tires, paint, textile, glass and steel.

Sparkling the growth of the economy in the coming year will be the nation's 125 million consumers who account for almost two-thirds of all the goods and services sold each year.

Economists anticipate that consumers will spend close to $200 billion in 1959 for everything from automobiles to haircuts. That would be a gain of about $17 billion over 1958.

The groundwork for this increase in consumer spending will be laid by an estimated 5.7 per cent increase in personal income, reflecting higher wages and salaries, longer hours at the job and rising employment.

Disposable income what consumers have left after paying their taxes, also will rise 5.7 per cent to a new peak of $328 billion, which will mean consumers will have almost $18 billion more to spend in 1959 than in 1958.

Consumers are expected to add about one billion dollars to their savings in the new year.

Also brightening the picture is the belief that industry's expenditures for new plant and equipment will begin rising later in the year. This, coupled with the reversal of inventory policies from liquidation to accumulation, will be definite upward factors in the economy.

The economy came through the recession in good shape. Some excesses were eliminated and a sound foundation was laid for the business recovery that now is picking up speed.

The high level of consumer spending and government expenditures in 1958 prevented the business decline from becoming a more serious economic dislocation.

A key factor behind the optimism surrounding 1959 is the great improvement that has been noted in consumer confidence since the recession hit its peak in the spring of 1958. When consumers are optimistic about their economic future, they are willing to spend a greater portion of their incomes on those goods and services which raise their living standards.

PRO LEAGUE BREAKS ATTENDANCE RECORD 7th STRAIGHT YEAR

United Press International

The National Football League recorded its first attendance total of more than three million in 1958 while breaking its record for the seventh straight year.

According to crowd figures released at the 77 regular season games, the professional circuit attracted 3,185,170 customers this year. This figure includes a few thousand fans who sat in on complimentary tickets but Commissioner Bert Bell's final official count of paying spectators should top three million. The 12 clubs drew 2,862,518 last year.

The individual crowds for the final week end of the regular campaign: Browns—Giants at New York 63,192; Rams—Packers at Los Angeles 54,634; Colts—Forty-Niners at San Francisco 58,224; Eagles—Redskins at Washington 22,821; Cardinals—Steelers at Pittsburgh 16,660.

Production of plastics totalled four billion, 347 million pounds in 1957, up seven per cent over 1956.

WASHINGTON WINDOW
 By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The political beat where I work is more noise than substance just now so I've been browsing again in the little volume of the collected writings of my father, the late Harmon D. Wilson.

My father used to write a column in Arthur Capper's Topeka Daily Capital. He often wrote about a character he called "The Worried Man." My father was a good man and he really wasn't worried much. He used to write and mean it, he would be perfectly reconciled—would be wholly satisfied—he had just could succeed in being a good average man.

He was, in fact, way above average. He never tasted alcohol in any form, but he was not a prohibitionist. He did a heck much, but he had a pipe and old Carrie A. Nation, a bottle-ax if ever was, stormed into the office one day and beat up his pipe with her hatchet. My father thought that was funny and wrote a piece about it for his column.

Reasons for Worry

But the piece I am borrowing today is one he wrote about "The Worried Man." My father knew what men worried about. This is the piece:

"I frequently wonder how it is that I hold my job. If I had the time, when I receive my check at the end of the week, I expect also to get a note informing me that my services are no longer needed; that it is time for me to hunt a new job. There may be no real reason for this, but I cannot get over the feeling. I do my best with the tasks that are assigned to me, and try in every manner to please my employers. But in spite of all I can do, I am continually meeting people who tell me how my work should be done.

"They tell me that I did this thing wrong, and that I fell down miserably when I attempted to do something else. They are continually pointing out errors of judgment and telling me how much better things could have been done. I am painfully aware of the deficiencies in my work, but I find that my wise friends are onto my failings in better shape than I am. It is on this account that I wonder so frequently how it is that I manage to hold my job. I meet so many people who are doing nothing, and who tell other people how much better they could do my work, that it is a constant source of surprise to me that my employer does not give

Ole Archie Named 'Fighter Of Year'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, the ring's marvellous Mongoose, was named "Fighter of the Year" today by the Boxing Writers' Association.

The BWA unanimously voted him the annual Edward J. Neil Award for outstanding contributions to the sport during 1958. His greatest contribution was last week's heroically dramatic defense against Canadian Yvon Durelle at Montreal.

When informed of his selection, Archie declared, "Oh, great! All my life I've been fighting toward this. It's the richest reward of my career."

The writers also voted the James J. Walker Memorial Award for long and meritorious service to Brooklyn's Sam Taub, once secretary to the famous Bat Masterson and long-time boxing writer and radio announcer. He has been the association's recording secretary nearly 30 years.

Moore, 42 or 43, and Taub, 72, will receive their plaques at the writers' dinner next month.

Cuspidors Donated

MONTPELLIER, Vt. (UPI)—The Statehouse here has 261 cuspidors but nobody knows where they came from. Official records don't mention the nickel-plated brass bowls, which are polished every two years when the State Legislature meets.

Boy Baking Champ

ORONO, Maine (UPI)—The new cherry pie baking champion at Orono High School is 17-year-old Leonard L. Comeau, a varsity football player who won the title against the girls in his home economics course only two weeks after baking a pie for the first time.

Orange Begins Drill

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—The Syracuse University football team which will meet Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., Jan. 1, begins drills today at the North Carolina State University field.

Syracuse Coach Ben Schwartzwalder plans two-day-a-day practice sessions while here before taking his 18-man squad on to Miami Dec. 27.

Reds Ridicule Plan To Defend Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communist organ Junge Welt ridiculed the Atlantic Pact as a "paper tiger" today, and challenged the right of the Allies to defend West Berlin.

The Red publication scoffed at the NATO Council's unanimous decision in Paris this week to reject Russian demands for Western abandonment of the Communist-encircled city.

"One is forced to think of the words of Mao Tse-tung, who described imperialism as a paper tiger," Junge Welt said. "Imperialism is outwardly fearful and frightening, but inside weak and hollow."

"No military threat will prevent the carrying out of the measures announced by the Soviet Union (the transfer of control over the sector of Berlin to the local Reds). Those gentlemen who spoke such hard words in Paris certainly must know that an attack on the German Democratic Republic would be suicide."

The Communist-published Berlin Zeitung charged that unemployment is increasing in West Berlin because German businessmen are afraid to risk their capital in the threatened city.

The Zeitung said the situation can be improved only by surrender to Soviet demands for the conversion of West Berlin into an undefended "free city."

Children To Tour Stores In Sanford

Fourteen children from the Lutheran Home in Slavia will roam through Sanford stores Monday afternoon, as they purchase Christmas gifts for each other with money from the Jaycee Christmas parade balloon sale.

With five dollars each to spend, the youngsters are expected to try out every merchant in town. They will be escorted by 14 level-headed advisors from the Jaycees. The advisors have been advised to keep mum on the advice, unless the purchase exceeds the amount in the child's hands.

The Jaycees netted $145 from the sale of 780 balloons during the parade. The remainder of the proceeds will be turned over to the Lutheran Home, where plans have been made for its use in Christmas fun.

The group will meet at the Sanford Civic Center at 2:30 p. m. and try out every merchant in town. They will be escorted by 14 level-headed advisors from the Jaycees. The advisors have been advised to keep mum on the advice, unless the purchase exceeds the amount in the child's hands.

The Jaycees netted $145 from the sale of 780 balloons during the parade. The remainder of the proceeds will be turned over to the Lutheran Home, where plans have been made for its use in Christmas fun.

The group will meet at the Sanford Civic Center at 2:30 p. m. and try out every merchant in town. They will be escorted by 14 level-headed advisors from the Jaycees. The advisors have been advised to keep mum on the advice, unless the purchase exceeds the amount in the child's hands.

Atlas Can Be Seen Only 35 Men Knew; 'Launcher' Didn't

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department announced that the giant U. S. Atlas satellite can be seen by the man in the street in 10 American cities before nightfall today.

The Pentagon said the satellite will make three passes over the United States during this afternoon and gave this schedule for the afternoon (all times eastern standard):

In the first of these passes, its 12th orbit, it will be over New Orleans at 1:30 p. m. and Jacksonville, Fla., about 2 p. m., moving from west to east.

On its next pass, about two hours later, the satellite will be seen over El Paso, Tex., at 3:40 p. m.; Atlanta, Ga., 3:51 p. m.; Dallas 3:53 p. m.; Shreveport, La., 5:51 p. m.; Jackson, Miss., 3:56 p. m.; Pensacola, Fla., 3:58 p. m.; Tallahassee, Fla., 3:59 p. m. and Jacksonville again 4 p. m.

The satellite's next trip over the United States will be over lower California and it is expected to be visible low on the horizon in the San Diego area about 5:25 p. m.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Only 35 persons in the United States knew that the Atlas and Transit Atlas, chief test conductors, were the only two Convair men stationed here who knew the secret.

"I spent all week making up stories about why we did some things like we did," McNabb said. "I became an accomplished liar."

McNabb said that when the missile was launched there were 50 to 60 men in the blockhouse. Only a handful knew the true story. Mass confusion and dismay erupted when the missile seemed to go in a completely unexpected direction. Fortunately, the safety officer who destroys stray missiles was one of those in the know.

Curt Johnston, 51, who pushed the button to fire the Atlas, had no idea he was launching a moon. On one previous shoot day, he had been doing engine testing and still had on his western outfit during a firing. Everything went well and since then the crew has insisted that he wear the same clothes every shot.

Thursday night he was wearing a black ten-gallon hat, leather boots and a red string bow tie.

Mass-Killer Loses; Will Die March 27

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The Nebraska Supreme Court today upheld the first-degree murder conviction of mass killer Charles Starkweather and set March 27 as the date of execution.

Starkweather admitted to slaying the girl who shocked the nation last January with a savage murder spree, had originally been scheduled to die Dec. 17. He was executed May 23 and the jury specified the death penalty.

Starkweather admitted to slaying his wife, Mary, on a week-long murder spree last January with his girl friend, Carl Fugate. He later admitted an 11th slaying, committed a month before the murder rampage.

Carl was convicted Nov. 21 of the same charges of first-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. Her attorney is seeking a new trial.

Plains Get Snow, Sub-Zero Readings

United Press International
A fresh blast of snow and sub-zero temperatures pushed into the northern plains late Thursday, whipped along by 30 to 40 mile-per-hour winds.

The Chicago weather bureau issued cold wave warnings for most of the Midwest north of the Ohio River as cold north winds overran mild, southerly flow of air.

The cold Canadian air churned up snow at many points along the northern tier of states, as well as rain at some points where a brief truce from recent cold had created slushy conditions.

New snow — measured at three inches early today — continued to fall in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Wisconsin and Michigan. As much as six inches was forecast for Minnesota.

In the mid-Mississippi Valley, as yet untouched by the approach of cold blasts, residents enjoyed the most pleasant night conditions in weeks. A warning southerly flow of air moved across the area with temperatures in the 40s.

Motorist Spared Hike In Insurance

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida motorists have been spared another auto liability insurance rate increase—at least for the time being.

State Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson Thursday turned down a request for rate boosts totaling 38.9 per cent. The request was filed by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters.

Larson denied the increase because evidence only the loss experience of companies in his organization, which make up less than 50 per cent of the companies in Florida.

"Necessarily the experience of other companies in this state writing the same type of insurance is evidence only the loss experience of companies in his organization, which make up less than 50 per cent of the companies in Florida."

The Bureau had asked an increase of 32.6 per cent in bodily damage insurance and 22.4 per cent in property damage.

The Insurance Commissioner maintained this was not the first time he has denied a hike in auto liability insurance rates, but it was the first time one has publicly been announced as rejected.

State Court Says NAACP Records Can't Be Obtained

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court ruled today that the NAACP does not have to turn over its "rank and file" membership rolls to a Florida committee of legislators in investigating communism.

However, the court said the committee had a right to know if certain persons suspected of communism were on the membership lists of the organization.

The court also ruled the committee was lawfully organized and had the right to inquire into possible activities of members of some Florida residents.

The ruling apparently paved the way for several Miami residents to be held in contempt if they continue to refuse to answer questions.

Los Angeles Says It's Second Now

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Population of the metropolitan Los Angeles area has surpassed Chicago by 33,000, making it the second largest city in the nation, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce announced.

According to figures compiled by the chamber, there are now an estimated 4,450,000 persons living in the Los Angeles area, compared with 4,385,000 in Chicago. The New York metropolitan area has 14,500,000 residents.

Four-Ton Satellite 'On Course' Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — An American satellite weighing nearly 4 1/2 tons circled the earth today, apparently ready to broadcast on cue the voice of President Eisenhower.

The Defense Department announced at 12:30 p. m. today that the Atlas satellite is "moving satisfactorily on course." It said it should be visible in three passages over the southern states this afternoon.

The mighty Atlas satellite was a double propaganda victory for the United States. It showed the ability of American science and technology to down-grade previous estimates of Russian rocket power.

The 4,500-pound satellite roared into the skies at 6:02 p. m. e.s.t. Thursday. It was a bull's-eye on the very first try by the Air Force. An automatic guidance system, in use for the first time on a satellite launch, performed perfectly, and the Atlas was guided, rather than thrown, into exactly the orbit path that had been planned.

The Atlas carried in its nose cone a communications system designed to record messages from stations on the ground and play them back at a specified time. The Defense Department hinted strongly that President Eisenhower's voice might be one of the first relayed back from space.

Long An Bus
The new satellite measures 85 feet long, twice as long as the average highway bus. It outweighs Russia's Sputnik II, which weighed 1,120 pounds, and Sputnik III, which weighed 2,925 pounds.

Scientists said the big assembly should be plainly visible in the southern part of the United States, shining most brightly at dusk.

The firing marked speculation that this country is nearing the point where it could put a man into space. Some scientists pointed out that the United States now has that capability, but the problem still is how to get the space traveler back alive.

Airman Given Life For Arsenic Death

DENHAM, England (UPI) — A U. S. Air Force court martial today sentenced M. Sgt. Marcus M. Marymont, 37, of Hobbsville, N. C., to life imprisonment for the premeditated arsenic murder of his 43-year-old wife.

The 14-man court took almost two hours before returning the sentence of life imprisonment at hard labor for the dapper sergeant. The sentence also carried a dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

The court late Thursday found Marymont guilty of poisoning his wife, Mary, with arsenic and committing adultery with Mrs. Cynthia Taylor, a 24-year-old English woman.

The American serviceman, a Korean War veteran, could have been sentenced to death on the murder charge.

Marymont started straight ahead as Col. Albert Snider of Indianapolis, Ind., the court president, read the sentence.

Bulgarian 'Squeals' Gets Off Hot Seat

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nikolai Bulganin appeared today to have taken much of the heat out of the "anti-party" charges against him by making a full confession and contributing to the case against his fellow miscreants.

No such pleas were reported to have been entered by other former leaders accused of trying to subvert Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's plans to reorganize heavy industry, increase farm production and take other steps to improve the welfare of the Soviet people.

Bulganin, who had been under heavy fire from Khrushchev and other Communist Party leaders as a member and possible leader of the anti-party group, confessed all in a speech Thursday to the party's central committee.

Saw He Error
The former Premier said he opposed party policies while serving as "nominal leader" of the group but that he had since seen the error of his ways.

Bulganin's speech abounded with damaging epithets against the other members of the group — Y. M. Molotov, former premier and foreign minister; former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Presidium member Lazar Kaganovich and former Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov.

Bulganin's words damned Malenkov as an "intriguer capable of all kinds of foulness; criticized Shepilov as a man separated from life and the people; called Kaganovich a phrasemonger who impeded work with his confused speeches.

Turncoat' Soldier Coming Back Home

HONG KONG (UPI) — American turncoat soldier Richard G. Corden of East Providence, R. I., returned to the free world today after five years in Communist China and admitted he was homesick.

Corden, a former sergeant first class, refused repatriation after the Korean War. He crossed into the crown colony wearing a light blue overcoat, a white scarf and a loud blue tie.

He told newsmen who met him at the frontier he wanted to be home for Christmas. He denied, however, that he was disillusioned with communism.

"I'm very impressed by communism," he said.

He admitted that he was a "blatant man in the POW camp at Panmunjom" in Korea but denied being a leader of the turncoats.

Corden, the 30th of the 21 American who chose communism to change his mind about coming home, denied he was a member of the Communist Party.

Crows Gotta' Go; Rock 'n Roll Used

MEMPHIS (UPI) — Farmer Charles H. Aldridge III uses rock and roll music to scare crows out of his orchard in Mississippi.

Aldridge said a crow "is the same in a peach as a bull weevil is to cotton."

Aldridge, who operates a 400-acre farm in Wilma, Miss., came here for the "Plant to Prosper" farm rally, and said he had to do something about the crows.

He setup a public address system with amplifier, three trumpet speakers spaced about the grove, and a couple of miles of wire. Then he plugged in a radio station.

Asked what was the best "crow scarer" Aldridge said, "Rock and roll records are terrific."

"Even some commercials," he added.

Group Trying To Start County Humane Society

Interested persons will meet Jan. 15 to discuss the formation of a Seminole County Humane Society.

Attending the meeting will be starvin Hellman, director of the Orlando Humane Society.

Hellman will explain methods of incorporating such an organization, which will serve the entire county. Backing the society are Dr. Raymond Bass and Dr. Jim Foley, veterinarians; Val Robbins, county health unit; Mrs. Arnold Hood, Sanford Zoo supervisor; Warren E. Knowles, city manager; Mrs. Ernest Cowley and Mrs. Constantine DeWolfski.

According to Mrs. Cowley, the first project planned by the society would be the inoculation of all stray dogs for rabies. The organization would provide shelter and new homes for strays, and check on mistreatment of animals in the county.

At the present time, the city has only a part-time dogcatcher, who picks up animals on police reports. The proposed humane society has been supported by the sheriff's department and city police.

Temporary shelter (rent free) is needed for the animals. Mrs. Cowley has requested an empty barn from a volunteer anywhere in the county. After the initial meeting, plans will be formulated for a fund drive to defray expenses of the humane society.

The time and place of the meeting will be announced.

Soviet Is Warned Of Nuclear Arsenal

PARIS (UPI) — Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO supreme commander, warned the Soviet Union today that West will not hesitate to hit back with nuclear weapons if Russia attacks.

"There must be absolutely no misunderstanding about the determination of this alliance to use nuclear weapons in case of aggression," Norstad said. He addressed the assembly of the seven-nation West European Union which is holding a four-day session here.

Norstad said the "shield" forces under his command are designed to force the enemy to pause and consider after launching his initial attack.

"This pause coming shortly after an action is started, is designed to force an enemy to stop and consider his decision and when he takes it he must do so in the full knowledge that he risks total annihilation, because we are determined to use all the forces at our disposal," he said.

The general's words added emphasis to the NATO communique expressing the West's determination to stand firm against the Soviet threat to push the West out of Berlin.

Negroes Set Drive For Total Mixing

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The state NAACP will push for "complete racial desegregation" in voting, schools, housing, government and industry in Florida by 1963.

The group's executive board, meeting here all day Thursday to chart its course for the next three years, said it will place first emphasis on voting.

State NAACP President A. Leon Lowry of Tampa said the goal is 50,000 registered Negro voters by 1960, a year picked because it is the 100th anniversary of the freeing of the slaves.

He said the organization will encourage parents to bring lawsuits as soon as possible to force integration of schools in large population centers, where the least public resistance is offered.

But Gov. LeRoy Collins said Thursday he knows of no community where voluntary integration can be accomplished without public resentment and violence.

"We regret very much that the elected officials feel this can not be done peacefully," Lowry said in commenting on the governor's statement. "However, if forced to obtain our rights through other legitimate measures, they must be taken."

Monday Deadline To Enter Contest

The Jaycee Christmas Lighting contest has been designed to allow more Sanford residents an opportunity to enter this year.

With the breaking down into specific classifications of the residential entries, almost any home is eligible provided the contestant has followed two simple rules. The display must be seen from the road and be completed before the entry blank is submitted.

Monday is the deadline for entries. Judges hope to announce the winners before Christmas. The awards will be made at the first Jaycee meeting of 1959. Prizes will be $25 savings bonds given by the Florida State Bank, Sanford, Fla., and Florida Power and Light Co. and The Sanford Herald. Second prizes of 10 river dollars each will be given by the Florida Jaycees.

The commercial winner will power and Light Traveling Property for one year.

Chairman Carlton Bliss said to Jay, "While many entries are coming in, we would still like to see everyone who has made any effort to decorate enter the contest. Many who think their displays are not worthy of mention are the very ones with the most originality," found to appeal to the judges.

Judges will be Miss Florence Wright, Mrs. Volie Williams Jr. and Joe Mathews.

Children To Tour Stores In Sanford

Fourteen children from the Lutheran Home in Slavia will roam through Sanford stores Monday afternoon, as they purchase Christmas gifts for each other with money from the Jaycee Christmas parade balloon sale.

With five dollars each to spend, the youngsters are expected to try out every merchant in town. They will be escorted by 14 level-headed advisors from the Jaycees. The advisors have been advised to keep mum on the advice, unless the purchase exceeds the amount in the child's hands.

The Jaycees netted $145 from the sale of 780 balloons during the parade. The remainder of the proceeds will be turned over to the Lutheran Home, where plans have been made for its use in Christmas fun.

The Jaycees netted $145 from the sale of 780 balloons during the parade. The remainder of the proceeds will be turned over to the Lutheran Home, where plans have been made for its use in Christmas fun.

The group will meet at the Sanford Civic Center at 2:30 p. m. and try out every merchant in town. They will be escorted by 14 level-headed advisors from the Jaycees. The advisors have been advised to keep mum on the advice, unless the purchase exceeds the amount in the child's hands.
