School budget undisputed

SANFORD — The Seminole County school board apparently has a vote of confidence from the public regarding the proposed 1991 fiscal year budget.

Given the opportunity for input, not one person stood at last evening's board meeting to voice their opinion on the $312 million budget.

"It would appear (the public) understands our position," said Supt. Robert Hughes.

According to Hughes, the district has cut the budget as far as it can be in light of tight economic times and in the face of uncertainties regarding financial assistance from the state.

Hughes reiterated that while the state has allocated money to the district in support of mandated programs, there is a great deal of uncertainty regarding whether or not the money will be available in its entirety this year.

"We just don't know," he said. The proposed budget will now be advertised for public inspection before the board makes a final vote to approve it next week.

The budget, if approved, will cut all district programs to the bare minimum. Hiring will be limited to fill existing needs. Purchases will be strictly regulated.

Taxes, however, will go down. According to Mary Chambers, the reduction in the millage levy is due primarily to the reduction in the debt service in the 1986 bond issue.

In recent years, public reaction to the budget has been limited, but this was the first time that not one citizen offered some input, according to Hughes.

Nudity in the park

NEW YORK — The upcoming Shakespeare in the Park production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be in Portuguese, but officials are expecting big crowds nevertheless. Some actors will be nude.

The play is performed by Teatro do Ornitorrinco, a theater company from Brazil, where people are less body-conscious, said New York Shakespeare Festival spokesman Richard Kornberg.

"Since their culture is based so much on the beach, it's not an issue there," he said. Most of the nude and semi-nude performers play fairies and nymphs in the woods.

Mugged actor goes on offstage

PITTSBURGH — An actor still sore from a recent mugging delivered his lines offstage while his understudy mimed the part.

"It's almost like watching theater with subtitles," said the actor, Thom Delventhal.

He was attacked by six or seven teenagers last week while riding home on his bicycle from a rehearsal. The 30-year-old actor was knocked off his bike and beaten on the back of the neck with a 4-foot tree limb.

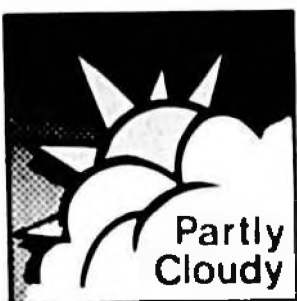

Delventhal's neck was too sore for him to handle the movements required to play the roles of twin servants, each named Dromio, in Shakespeare's "A Comedy of Errors."

Parents protest grades

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — While not one person stood to offer their opinions on the proposed $312 million school district budget, more than 25 people stood to tell the board what they thought of grading third graders with an S (satisfactory) or an N (not satisfactory) rather than on the A through F scale. Greg Eldridge, a third grader at Winter Springs Elementary School asked the board not to take away the traditional grading system.

"I don't want S and N," the youngster told the board. "I want to know how I'm doing, specifically."

A divided board accepted the recommendation of the committee composed of parents, teachers and administrators which has been studying report cards and grading methods for the past two years, to extend the new grading system to include third graders. The program was implemented in kindergarten through second grade classrooms last year.

Proponents of the measure claim that research has shown that self esteem is stronger when students have a chance to learn unencumbered by the pressures of grades.

Brenda Griffin, an early childhood expert who works for the school district said that it has been proven that it is important that self esteem be established at an early age.

"Children should be encouraged to learn because they want to know more than they did last week," she said. "They should not be working for the grades where their self esteem could be easily crushed."

Teachers who spoke to the board said that they favored the use of the less specific grades for the creativity that it encouraged.

"The S and N method of grading encourages creativity, especially in the area of language arts," said Helen Reed, a third grade teacher at Idyllwild Elementary School in Sanford. She noted that A through F grades discourage children from creativity if they are told that they are failures (don't receive high marks) rather than if they receive a satisfactory grade and are told how to improve their work.

The S and N grading approach, proponents argued, encourages parents to attend conferences. See Grades, Page 5A

SANFORD — Sanford Middle School, a massive two-story edifice that has graced French Avenue for more than 60 years, is tumbling into a pile of rubble.

The old building, which served as home to Seminole High School until a new high school was built in 1960, is being replaced by a new campus directly behind it.

Principal Dan Pelham, on vacation this week, did not know the precise date the demolition would begin, according to Elaine Hall, Pelham's administrative assistant. "I hope it's not too much of a shock if he comes back and finds it flat," she said.

School officials knew that the demolition would occur some time this week. See Demolition, Page 5A

Gardner backs airport authority

SANFORD — Sen. W.W. "Bud" Gardner said Tuesday no change is needed to the makeup of the Sanford Airport Authority unless Sanford or the authority itself asks for it.

"I haven't seen that much that's broke with the airport," Gardner said. "I think we ought to leave well enough alone. I don't see the need for any changes."

Gardner, the Titusville Democrat who represents Sanford and Seminole County east of U.S. Highway 17-92, made the comments at a reception for him at the Sanford Landing clubhouse.

'Rape' victim backs off; Sheriff's apology sought

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Midway religious leaders and others are angry over the handling by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department of the arrests of four men said to have been involved in a gang rape this past weekend.

And the woman whose accusation prompted the Sheriff's raid and arrests of three adults and one minor has recanted part of her story, officials said.

Nevertheless, the sheriff's spokesman said the investigation continues and he expects more arrests.

Five Midway leaders have arranged a meeting with the Sheriff to voice their objections, one of them said today.

Reverend Johnell Jackson, president of the Midway Community Against Drugs, has arranged to meet with Seminole County Sheriff Eshinger at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

"We want to get the Sheriff to retract certain statements" including the use of the word "animals," Jackson said this morning.

He apparently referred to broadcast and printed statements by Sheriff's officials who described anyone who might have committed acts described by the 33-year-old woman as "animals."

A number of other people will join Jackson in his meeting with the Sheriff, he said. He identified them as The Rev. Roosevelt Green, pastor of St. Luke M.B. Church; The Rev. Thelma S. Young, pastor of New Bethel A.M.E. Church; J. B. Byrd, president of the Midway Improvement Association; and The Rev. John Byrd, vice president of the Midway Water Association.

Commenting on the feelings of the people in Midway, Jackson said, "This has really got a lot of people in turmoil. We're trying to keep a lid on it."

The victim, meanwhile, has reportedly altered her original statements about the case.

'Mayday' report prompts search; no plane seen in Lake Monroe

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A late night search failed to find a plane believed to have crashed into Lake Monroe. The plane was thought to have gone down shortly before 10 p.m. last night.

Scott Thomas Borton, of 500 Airport Boulevard, Sanford, was flying in the area approximately a mile west of the Central Florida Regional Airport Tuesday night, when he reported hearing a radio emergency call.

According to statements given to the Seminole County Sheriff's office, he heard a message saying "Mayday, mayday, engine fire. Going down 5 north west, Sanford."

After Borton landed, he notified the Sheriff's office. A check of the term "5 northwest" indicated an area on the northern shore of Lake Monroe.

A search was organized, with members of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, Sanford Police Department, Volusia County Sheriff's Department and a number of boaters.

The Volusia County helicopter, Volusia Air 1 was also called into the search. The craft covered the area with searchlights, but no downed aircraft was located after several hours of searching.

Following the search, Sheriff's Deputies reviewed a tape of radio messages from aircraft, and reported finding no transmission of that nature on the tape. The Seminole County Sheriff's department is investigating the incident.

Central Florida Regional Airport Director Steve Cooke said this morning, "We didn't find anything last night, but we're still looking into the situation to be certain there is no problem."

NASA scrubs shuttle launch

Computer failure brings week delay

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA delayed today's launch of space shuttle Atlantis by more than a week because of a failed computer on one of the ship's main engines.

The failure occurred before dawn today, about six hours before the scheduled liftoff, while the shuttle was being filled with more than a half-million gallons of fuel for a nine day mission.

NASA launch director Bob

Sieck told his team in announcing the delay. A new launch date was not set, but Sieck said it would be no earlier than late next week.

The five astronauts assigned to the satellite-delivery mission were asleep in crew quarters when the launch was canceled.

Officials said the same problem has cropped up on shuttles before.

4-year-old boy helps save buddy

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — A lost sandal might have cost a 4-year-old his life last night had it not been for the quick reaction of a friend and two neighbors.

At 8 p.m., Sanford Police responded to a call that Keith Beatty, 1819 C Landing Dr. at the Sanford Landing Apartments, had fallen into the large pond at the front of the complex.

He had fallen into the pond while trying to retrieve a flip-flop that he had lost.

When officers and emergency rescue workers arrived at the scene, they found that Kyle Anderson, Beatty's 4-year-old friend had held his friend's leg to keep him from going under until Joyce Funderburk was able to pull the youngster from the water and Freddie Sanchez administered cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

Cabinet modifies fishing rules

By BILL SANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Amid squabbles over whether they were trying to save mullet or just decide whether commercial or recreational anglers should catch them, Florida officials have modified state mullet-fishing rules.

Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet lifted a requirement Tuesday for extra-cost restricted-species tags in peak mullet-spawning months in northwestern Florida, and approved a change to a 50-per-boat rather than 50-per-person recreational limit.

Commercial anglers like Mark Taylor of Corry, on the board of Organized Fishermen of Florida, opposed lifting requirements that had favored commercial fishing over part-timers.

"If you want fishermen to be a bunch of people who work for the power company and the phone company out there on the water, that's what you're going to have," Taylor said.

Jerry Sansom, lobbyist for Organized Fishermen, urged delaying the changes asked by the Marine Fisheries Commission.

He said the trade group favored debating them further at a commission hearing where other mullet rules will be discussed Sept. 5-6 in Tampa, and then presenting an overall proposal at the Cabinet's Sept. 12 meeting.

Ted Forester of the Florida Conservation Commission and Manly Fuller, lobbyist for the Florida Wildlife Federation, opposed lifting the extra-cost tag requirement and said restrictions should be toughened, not eased.

Lawyers fight release of documents

MIAMI — Lawyers from the State Department and CIA have joined prosecutors to fight the release of classified documents in the Manuel Noriega drug-trafficking case.

The hearings began last Friday and were scheduled to resume today in U.S. District Judge William Hoever's courtroom. The judge is expected to release a written opinion on which documents to release in a week or so, but this ruling may also be kept secret.

Noriega's attorneys say the classified documents are the heart of the deposed Panamanian dictator's defense.

Diane Conain, spokeswoman for the U.S. attorney's office, said she could not discuss details of the hearings, but noted the government's previous written response contends the defense demands were unwarranted.

Noriega is scheduled to go on trial on Sept. 3. He is charged with turning Panama into a way station for Colombia's Medellin cartel to ship cocaine to the United States, and faces a maximum 145 years in prison.

Delegation wants black bear protected

Florida's congressional delegation wants the Florida black bear protected by federal law before it goes the way of the Florida panther, according to a letter released.

All nineteen congressmen and both U.S. senators signed the request to U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington Tuesday.

The agency's Atlanta regional office has conceded the threat to the bear, only 1,000 of which are believed to survive in Florida, along with pockets in Georgia and Alabama.

But the Atlanta office said it has higher priorities, and has refused to place the animal on the threatened list.

"We respectfully disagree," said the congressional letter, which was released by U.S. Rep. Porter Goss, R-Fla.

"Many parallels have been drawn between the plight of the Florida panther and the Florida black bear, and it is our intention to protect the Florida black bear before it is too late," said the letter.

Only 30 to 50 Florida panthers are believed to currently survive in the wild.

Boy shoots himself in the face

BRANDON — A 12-year-old was in serious condition after shooting himself in the face with a handgun police said he found at his home.

Kenneth Anderson Jr. evidently was home alone at the time of the apparently accidental shooting Tuesday, said Hillsborough Sheriff's Lt. Craig Letimer.

The youngster rushed across the street to neighbor Robert Stubbs' house, knocked and slumped against the door.

"He said, 'I'm shot.' I asked him 'Who shot you?' He said, 'Me,'" Stubbs said.

Stubbs said his wife summoned emergency help while he tried to calm the boy and control the bleeding until paramedics arrived.

Letimer said the shooting is being investigated as an accident, and prosecutors will be asked to determine whether it violated gun safety laws.

Jail employees view sex videotape

TAMPA — A videotape seized as evidence against a couple it showed having sex was improperly shown to Hillsborough County jail employees by a deputy sheriff, authorities said.

Hillsborough Sheriff's Maj. Ron Poindexter said he learned about the incident Monday from a shift commander and immediately began an internal investigation.

"This could be a serious breach of evidence procedure," said Poindexter, who was on vacation when the couple were arrested July 16.

Neighbors summoned police and complained that children swimming in a pool could see Alfred Stephens, 36, and Janet Paddock, 32, having sex in the bathroom of Stephens' Carrollwood condominium. A neighbor recorded at least two minutes of videotape through the open blinds of the ground-floor unit.

Two deputies went to the complex, viewed the videotape and arrested the pair on a second-degree felony charge of committing a lewd, lascivious act in the presence of a child under 12.

Chiles' associate given lottery job

TALLAHASSEE — A business associate of Gov. Lawton Chiles was given a high-paying job at the Florida Lottery, where he recently helped negotiate a closed-bid extension of a lucrative contract, a newspaper reported.

William H. Lindner, who has been on the payroll of the Lottery Department since April 1, is scheduled to receive a state salary of about $82,000 this year, the Sarasota Herald-Tribune reported for today's editions.

Before joining the lottery, Lindner, 41, had spent three months in the governor's office.

Bottled water distributed along river

Associated Press

FERRY — People along Florida's only industrial river flooded switchboards at the Taylor County health department and picked up free bottled water after the state linked a cellulose plant to groundwater contamination.

Procter & Gamble Co. handed out bottled water Monday, two days after state officials linked the company's Perry cellulose plant to groundwater contamination along the Fenholloway River.

The Fenholloway flows 35 miles from its starting point in Taylor County, about 60 miles southeast of Tallahassee, into the Gulf of Mexico.

A sprawling mill in Perry extracts cellulose from pine trees for use in things like disposable diapers, coffee filters and rayon clothing. It legally dumps 50 million gallons of waste water into the Fenholloway each day.

The river is the only one in the state classified as an industrial river.

Merice Thomley, who lives a half-mile from the river, was quick to collect P&G's free water, available between 2 and 8 p.m. weekdays.

But Thomley had some sharp words for P&G.

"We've been drinking this water for 28 years," Thomley told the Tallahassee Democrat. "We knew there was something wrong with it. Somebody needs to give us some help. We didn't pollute the water; P&G polluted it."

William Slaughter, who lives along the river and came to collect free water Monday, said there aren't any easy, or quick, answers in Taylor County these days.

"The situation's bad here as far as water's concerned," Slaughter said. "But what are we going to do about it? Shutting down P&G out here is not going to solve any problem."

"I think it is their duty to clean up their mess. But how are they going to do it? This has been an ongoing situation for many years, but no one paid attention to it."

Slaughter shook his head. "Even now, you can't convince some of these people that this pollution is an actual fact."

This isn't the first time P&G has provided free water to Taylor County residents. For years, as a "good neighbor policy," the company drilled new wells or provided bottled water, free of charge, for people who complained about fouled wells.

State officials say they are most concerned about people who drink from wells within a two-mile corridor of the Fenholloway.

Dan Simmons, a company spokesman, said P&G does not believe the state's link is conclusive but would still follow the government's recommendations.

"The state has recommended that people near the river use bottled water for cooking and drinking, and we are following their recommendation in providing this water immediately," he told the newspaper.

P&G shipped the bottled water from Jacksonville. Simmons said

Columbian priest who led cocaine king to jail, released from hospital

Associated Press

MIAMI — A popuk Colombian priest who peacefully led cocaine king Pablo Escobar to jail was released from a Miami-area hospital Tuesday, pledging to continue to fight for the extradition of Colombian prisoners in his country.

Rafael Garcia-Herreros was released from Kendall Regional Medical Center, where he had been since Sunday. The 34-year-old priest was performing a mass Sunday before about 500 Colombians as part of a Colombian Independence Day festival in Tamiami Park when he collapsed, according to witnesses.

Doctors said he suffered from heat exhaustion and renal failure and that he would have to return to the hospital in several days for further tests.

Garcia-Herreros, known as the "Father of Peace" because of his role as mediator between his country's most powerful drug cartels and the Colombian government, told reporters after his release Tuesday his next stop would be the federal prison in Marion, Ill., to hear the confession of convicted Medellin cartel kingpin Carlos Lehder Rivas.

It was not clear when he would leave Miami for Illinois.

"Lehder communicated his desire to confess before me, and I of course will," said Garcia-Herreros. "Further, I'll talk to U.S. authorities to try to have him extradited back to Colombia for a new trial there. Our penal system and current president are worthy of judging their

Since arranging Escobar's surrender on June 10, he has advocated the repatriation of Colombian prisoners from the United States to serve their time in their homeland.

Senate hopefuls' mailings identical

By GUY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The wording of a campaign mailer being circulated by a Republican state Senate candidate sounds extraordinarily familiar to Democratic Sen. Rick Dantzler.

"I wrote it. Those are my feelings," said Dantzler, D-Winter Haven. "Apparently I was right on target — the other party agrees with me."

The GOP candidate for the District 10 seat in Volusia County, Locke Burt, sent the leaflet via direct mail to voters who will elect a new state senator next Tuesday. He also used much of the same statement in a response to the editorial board of The Daytona Beach News-Journal last week.

Burt faces Democrat Ed Dunn and independent Tom Visconti in the election to replace Tom Brown, who resigned in June to take a Department of Natural Resources job. The race is seen as a key to which party controls the Senate, where Democrats now have a 23-17 edge.

In the leaflet, above the words "A New Generation of Leadership," Burt outlines his stances on several issues. Under education, Burt begins with the words: "Equal opportunity begins with quality education for everyone."

That first sentence is identical to the one used by Dantzler in his successful 1990 race, copies of mailings used by both men show.

A comparison of the mailings shows that Burt used the highlights of a longer statement Dantzler sent to voters and printed in newspaper ads during his 1990 campaign.

For instance, Dantzler included three other sentences before using these words: "Class sizes are a function of financial resources and professional teachers are secured with adequate pay and a good teaching environment."

That same sentence is the second paragraph of Burt's mailing. In all, seven sentences used by Burt appear in the year-old statement made by Dantzler.

Burt, who found out about the situation during a debate with Dunn on Tuesday, said the sentences were the work of "one of the young people in my campaign" who had worked for Dantzler's Republican opponent in the 1990 race.

"I do not write my direct mail; I do not write my TV ads," Burt said. "The words were what I wanted to say. I approved it."

Burt said he was embarrassed but that the incident should not reflect poorly on his campaign.

Former Coast Guardsmen charged

Associated Press

MIAMI — Four former members of the U.S. Coast Guard, who allegedly secreted 4 kilos of cocaine during a drug seizure in Biscayne Bay, have been charged with drug trafficking, officials said.

An officer with the Coral Gables Police Department and a security officer were arrested Tuesday as a result of a three-year joint investigation by the FBI and the U.S. Coast Guard.

Airport wants city fees slashed

By MARK PERRYMAN
Herald Staff Writer

Officials at the regional airport in Sanford wish to reduce the amount paid to the city and protect the airport planes and buildings with their own firefighters and police officers. The city disagrees.

SANFORD — In its 1991-92 fiscal year budget, the Sanford Airport Authority wants to lower the amount paid to the City of Sanford. The City Commission and staff however, do not agree with the reasoning.

The Airport Authority had budgeted an expenditure of $10,000 for fiscal year 1991-92, compared to $60,000 during this past year. The money was to pay for Sanford's involvement in police and fire protection on the airport property.

According to Airport Director Steve Cook, the reduction is now possible because the airport is in the process of creating its own fire fighting and police protection rather than utilize city personnel.

The airport already has two firefighters, and plans to hire a third. A three-member police department was also proposed. The only payment budgeted to be paid to the city was for structural fire protection, when city crews and equipment would be needed in addition to those available at the airport.

During Monday night's workshop meeting however, Sanford City Commissioners objected to the cut back of funding from the Airport Authority. City Manager Bill Simmons said, "The money doesn't come close to paying for the full spectrum of services offered by the city."

Regarding the $60,000 amount budgeted by the Airport Authority to be paid to the city during the present fiscal year, Simmons said, "So far, we haven't seen a dime of it."

During the work session Monday night, the commissioners requested both Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett and Fire Chief Tom Hickson to discuss the city's past connections with the airport.

Harriett said, "The service we give to the airport extends well beyond just answering calls." As examples, he cited, "an estimated $24,000 worth of hardware such as police communication radios, the costs of investigative reports, general supervision, record keeping and documents and officer training programs."

The police chief explained that even if the airport hired its own officers, "all men would still be on the same FDLE (Florida Department of Law Enforcement) lists."

Fire Chief Hickson said, "From June of last year to June of this year, we estimate between $11,000 and $12,000 was spent on the department's connection with the airport."

Mayor Bettye Smith suggested more paperwork on the matter is needed before the budget comes up for public hearing. The Airport Authority has not yet officially approved its 1991-92 fiscal year budget.

Seven charged for lewd behavior

Undercover agents with the City County Investigative Bureau arrested seven men at Big Tree Park Monday afternoon on charges they offered to perform lewd acts.

They were taken to the Seminole County Jail on $100 bond. Charged were Chad Leon Hamman, 33, 606 Magnolia Ave., Sanford; Charles David Kaley, 33, 129 Shomate Drive, Longwood; Steven Scott Schwank, 36, Naples; James Lee Huggins, 30, 2105 Howell Branch Road, Apt. 3881, Maitland; Donald Ray Hamilton, 31, 162 Springwood Circle, Apt. C, Longwood; Cecil Wayne Dorn, 47, 311 Crystal Circle, Oviedo; Daryl Keith Beck, 40, 401 W. Seminole Blvd., Apt. 230, Sanford, was charged with battery and lewd and lascivious behavior. Arrest reports state Beck lifted a CCIB agent's shirt, touched his chest and attempted to kiss him.

Man charged with assault and battery

A Longwood man was charged with aggravated assault and battery Monday after a man reported he smashed his glass door with a board and struck him on the neck with it.

Clyde Austin Percy Mitchell, 52, 670 E. Orange Ave., was arrested in his home at about 2:30 p.m. and taken to the Seminole County Jail. A Longwood man said Mitchell smashed a sliding glass door to his home, according to arrest reports. The man said Mitchell chased him and struck him with the board.

Album lands man in jail

A photograph album containing the picture of a burglary victim landed an Orlando man in jail Monday.

An off-duty Seminole County deputy spotted Barry Klieh Bridges, 29, walking on Osceola Road in Sanford at about 7 p.m. with the album. The deputy reported he also found a .22-caliber handgun in a red zipper pouch in Bridges' pants. He summoned Sanford police, who found the gun and photograph album had been taken from an Osceola Road home earlier Monday.

Bridges was charged with armed burglary, grand theft, petit theft, carrying a concealed firearm and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Burglary of a car solved

A Sanford man was charged with a July 18 burglary of a car parked at The Barn on U.S. Highway 17-92.

While the auto owner was in the tavern for 15 minutes, Sanford police say Moses Bonner Powers, 37, no permanent local address, removed $400 in traveler's checks and a portable color television. Powers was arrested Monday after another man tried to cash one of the stolen checks and identified Powers as the man who gave it to him.

Powers was charged burglary to a conveyance and grand theft.

Drug possession charges filed

Gregory Leon Mitchell, 37, 2220 Jitway, Midway, was arrested Monday for drug possession charges during a Seminole County sheriff's raid on a house suspected to be the site of a gang rape this weekend.

A deputy working a security detail during the raid reported seeing Mitchell slap a child in the face. A search revealed a pipe containing cocaine residue, the deputy reported. Mitchell was charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia.

Warrant arrests

The following warrant arrests were made Monday:

• Charles Alford Williams, 18, 2945 Dixon Ave., Midway, was arrested on Sipes Avenue in Midway Monday after four warrants had been issued for probation violation charges. Williams had been sentenced to probation for burglary, throwing a deadly missile and battery, sale of a controlled substance and battery convictions.

• DeLeon Franklin Hampton, 25, 2251 Greenway St., Midway, was arrested at the Seminole County Courthouse Monday morning for failing to appear at a traffic court hearing.

Four from county will harvest gators this fall

Staff and Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE — Four Seminole County residents are among 188 people chosen to participate in September's alligator harvest.

The participants were chosen randomly from over 15,000 applications submitted to the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, which announced the names Tuesday.

Local gator trappers are Jane Braden, Sanford; Joseph H. Brown and Roy M. Largent, both of Longwood, and Michael J. Leholm, Casselberry, said game and fish spokesman Mary Davis.

However, those selected must complete a six-hour training course and purchase an alligator trapping license before being issued a permit. Trapping licenses cost $250 for residents and $1,000 for non-residents. Former trappers must take refresher courses, Davis said.

Trappers retain 100 percent of profits from the sale of alligator hides and meat, although hides must be validated by the commission at a cost of $30 apiece.

Last year, properly prepared alligator hides sold for approximately $42 per foot and alligator meat sells for roughly $5 per pound, game officials reported.

The commission still requires that permit holders be present during trapping activities. Until last year, a trapper could stay home while the agent did the hunting. A trapping agent license can be purchased for $50. Davis said the rule was changed to prevent trappers from having family members apply to increase the chances of being selected in the permit lottery.

Bush nominates Orlando attorney for federal judge

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush has nominated a Pensacola circuit judge and an Orlando attorney for two Florida federal judgeships.

The nominations Tuesday, which must be confirmed by the U.S. Senate, would fill a newly-created judgeship in the northern district and a vacancy in the middle district.

Bush nominated Circuit Judge Lacey A. Collier for the northern district bench, which encompasses the Panhandle and the area from Tallahassee to Gainesville.

For the middle district judgeship, which stretches from Naples to Jacksonville, the president nominated Anne C. Conway. She is an attorney with the firm of Carlton, Fields, Ward, Emmanuel, Smith & Cutler in Orlando.

Both were recommended to Bush by Republican U.S. Sen. Connie Mack, who urged the Senate Judiciary Committee to hold immediate confirmation hearings.

"The tremendous backlog of pending cases in Florida's federal courts demand swift action by the Senate Judiciary Committee on the nominations," Mack said.

Your children need to know about drugs.

Teaching your children the ABC's is fine, but you also need to teach them about drug abuse and the special importance of the letter "D". Teach them the drug alphabet early in life, and help them from becoming another statistic in America's fastest growing disease — drug and alcohol addiction.

Whigham AIDS Superchallenge goal reached

By VICKI BOGOMER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The people of Seminole County have reached their goal of helping to establish an endowed chair at the University of Miami to study the neurological effects of the AIDS virus on victims of the disease.

With assistance from the University of Miami, the AIDS Superchallenge, established by the family of Thomas Whigham, a Sanford attorney who died of AIDS in Oct., 1988, raised the necessary $500,000 to receive matching funds from the state to establish the chair.

The group, headed several grassroots fundraising charities in Seminole County and in Miami and solicited donations from the community in an effort to help establish the chair.

"We raised close to $180,000 here and in Miami," said John Whigham, Thomas Whigham's brother.

Two Seminole County fundraisers, evening cruises aboard the Rivership Grand Romance of Sanford, brought in a total of about $70,000.

Frank Palladino, director of development for the university's comprehensive AIDS program, said the university donated the needed $320,000 because the state deadline for providing the Superchallenge with matching funds was approaching in August.

"It looked like they might not make the $500,000 goal any other way," Palladino said, "so the school made the decision to invest discretionary funds in this way."

According to University of Miami officials, the $1 million research chair will be the first of its kind. There are no other chairs established to study the neurological effects of the disease.

The chair will be named in honor of Whigham and Joseph E. Berger, the neurologist who treated Whigham. Berger will be the researcher who first occupies the chair.

An endowed chair guarantees that money will be perpetually available for research in the area of neurological study.

Whigham said that active fundraising on the part of the Superchallenge group is over, though any money that comes in to the group in the future will be donated to the university's AIDS research programs.

"We've been at this (fundraising) for two and a half years," Whigham said. "It's time to get on with our lives."

Death pleas

Inmates on Death Row have a constitutional right to challenge their convictions and sentences. But they shouldn't be able to do so endlessly by rehashing old or frivolous issues that courts already have considered or by raising new issues that could have been raised earlier. Incessant appeals undermine the credibility of the criminal justice system and encourage disrespect for the law.

The U.S. Supreme Court and the U.S. Senate both recognized the dangers of justice delayed in separate actions recently to limit habeas corpus appeals, which have been widely abused to delay executions. The high court and Senate decisions should help foster a new appeals standard that better balances the rights of condemned criminals, victims and law-abiding citizens.

In a habeas corpus petition, a prisoner challenges the constitutionality of his conviction or sentence. The law that permits federal courts to hear these petitions from state inmates sets no limit on the number or on the filing period. Activist lawyers admit to papering courthouse walls with habeas corpus petitions in hopes of bogging down the system.

In the average death penalty case, more than eight years pass between sentencing and execution. This is a form of torture for victims' families. A key reason for the delays is the abuse of habeas corpus. Appeals head first to the state courts, then through the federal system, then down and back in a seemingly interminable process.

In a pair of recent rulings, the Supreme Court held that federal courts aren't bound to consider habeas corpus petitions from state inmates who haven't properly presented their appeals first to the state courts. The court's logic is compelling. Federal judges shouldn't casually meddle in state court matters. Nor should convicted criminals routinely get unlimited chances to contest their cases in federal courts.

Shortly after the court's rulings, the Senate approved President Bush's plan to block habeas corpus petitions in federal court if the judge determines a convicted criminal received a "full and fair hearing" in state courts.

The plan also would give Death Row prisoners six months to file habeas corpus petitions after exhausting their appeals in state courts, except when new evidence has come to light. This is a reasonable and sensible standard.

Former Supreme Court Justice Lewis Powell has observed: "I know of no other system of justice structured in a way that assures no end to the litigation of a criminal conviction."

Under the tighter standard that is emerging, inmates still will be able to challenge the constitutionality of actions by police, lawyers or judges. But it will be harder for them to drag cases out over several years. That is a decided improvement.

Now here comes the devolution

LONDON — There were those who yawned and said that the summit meeting of the Group of Seven produced, ho hum, just what was expected: a big photo op, posturing summitseers coming out in favor of economic growth, and Gorbachev going home without big money.

Others said it was monumentally important. Gorbachev's appearance meant that, after seven decades of gangsterism, the Soviet Union was finally joining the big-time Western gentlemen's club — and that was news indeed.

I buy the second view. The evidence is coming at us in big news headlines, but also in tucked-away items. It is assimilated slowly. There is more to come. But what's going on isn't just an end of the Cold War.

Brick by brick a mysterious global edifice is appearing. What's most new and different about it is the Soviet Union. The building blocks are economic, military, political and cultural. It might be a "New World Order."

Item: on July 23, newstands in Moscow, Leningrad, Kharkov and Kiev began selling the first issue of the Russian-language edition of Reader's Digest.

Interesting. The Digest was once regarded, by the international left, as the epitome of mindless, middle-brow anti-communism. Just imagine.

those monoeyllabic yahoos ran stories about the slave-labor camps of the Gulag.

As it dawned on the far left that the Evil Empire was an empire that was evil, leftist intellectual Susan Sontag (in 1982) compared what Digest readers had learned about communism with what had been learned by readers of left-wing publications such as "The Nation." She asked: "Which reader would have been better informed about the realities of communism? ... Can it be that our enemies were right?"

The Digest, with 40 editions in 16 languages, is the world's most read magazine. It has a broad range of coverage.

The Digest still has a political agenda.

I enjoyed the recent "How to Get Rid of Your Potbelly," and found it relevant.

But the Digest still has a political agenda. A policy statement by editor-in-chief Kenneth Tomlinson says the magazine "reflect(s) the universal skepticism that government can solve our problems; we herald the unending promise of self-determination and individual enterprise."

In a Soviet context that can yield capitalism in a split-up Soviet Union.

Item: Next year on Soviet state television, the program "Dallas" will be "stripped" (i.e., run daily). So, night after night, in 12 time zones, the Soviets will get their lessons in how a free market works from J.R., that paragon of free-trading, free-raiding capitalism.

The deal was on a "barter" basis. That means that commercials, from foreign advertisers, will appear on Soviet television. Soviets will see ads for Datums in the Digest and on "Dallas." They may start working hard enough to buy one.

This sort of mass-marketed, hyper-Western glasnost comes along with the weightier things we hear about: Soviet economic integration with the West, arms control and the Gorbachev-Yeltsin "all-union" treaty, which gives much more independence to the component Soviet republics.

Use of fetal tissue life-death debate

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration banned the use of fetal tissue from abortions in federally funded medical research in 1988. Now, on the eve of a congressional vote on the issue, the No. 2 lawyer at the Health and Human Services Administration when the ban was imposed has told Congress it was illegal.

The moratorium has been continued by the Bush administration in spite of findings by two Reagan commissions and protests from health and medical organizations. It has prevented promising research in transplanting fetal tissue into victims of Parkinson's and Alzheimer's diseases, childhood diabetes and a host of lesser-known ailments.

Robert Charrow, the former deputy general counsel of HHS, has written Congress that the question is whether HHS broke the law by not going through the ropes of rule making, including issuing a notice and soliciting comment. His answer was a blunt "yes." In a letter to Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., chairman of the House Health and Environment Subcommittee.

Even if the moratorium had been done properly, "there is serious doubt whether the moratorium ... could have withstood judicial scrutiny," Charrow wrote.

That scrutiny may come soon in a threatened lawsuit from several heavyweight groups. Our associate Les Whitten has learned that the groups considering suing the government are the United Parkinson Foundation, the Parkinson's Disease Foundation, the Association of American Medical Colleges, the Association of American Universities and the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation International. Their suit would join the painful national debate over whether the product of an abortion should be used to cure fatal and degenerative diseases.

One question the suit would answer is why the ban was put into place. One top-level Reagan administration source said the idea originated in the White House as a means to appease pro-life conservatives.

Currently, private research and privately funded transplants are allowed, but they are prohibitively expensive.

Waxman has authored a bill to lift the federal moratorium and impose rules to prevent the real horrors that the opponents fear — sale of the tissue, induced abortions to provide fetal tissue for friends and family, even deliberate pregnancies to produce tissue. The bill will be debated in the House this week. The legislation is backed by a host of groups representing victims of lung disease, diabetes, cancer, cystic fibrosis, arthritis, multiple sclerosis, epilepsy and other diseases.

On the other side are the National Right to Life Committee, the U.S. Catholic Conference, a powerful Southern Baptist group and several other pro-life and church organizations. A National Right to Life spokesman told us that the opponents generally endorse the use of tissue from spontaneous abortions, cell cultures and tubal pregnancies, but not induced abortions. They fear that lifting the ban would encourage more abortions, which they regard as the taking of human life.

Finding a use for fetal tissue is an issue that has torn even people who adamantly oppose abortion, like Baptist minister Guy Walden and his wife, Terri, of Houston. They are praying that fetal tissue will save the life of their baby, who has a rare disease, Hurler-Scheie Compound.

Another advocate is Don Nelson of Denver, who has Parkinson's disease and is the first American to have fetal tissue transplants done privately. His doctor, Curt Freed, told us the transplants had brought "substantial improvement ... dramatic change."

A use for fetal tissue is an issue that has torn people who oppose abortion.

A tempest in a Demi-tasse?

BOSTON — From the sound of it, you would think that Demi Moore had posed for a Rorschach test rather than a cover photo. The image of the very pregnant star, naked but for her two strategically placed hands, has Vanity Fair being compared to everything from National Geographic to National Enquirer.

The magazine has been banned from supermarkets in North Carolina and has flown off the newstands in Harvard Square. Her photo is now an instant visual poll on the subjects of sexiness and pregnancy, prudery and discretion, the uterus and the ego.

Indeed one amateur sociologist of my intimate acquaintance has been flashing Demi in the buff around her home and office. She has collected comments that range from "indecent exposure" to "it's about time."

One woman said that it was wonderful to see a woman who was big — with child — and beautiful. Another in her "17th month of pregnancy" groaned about this new role model. Having not looked like a movie star before pregnancy, she now knew for sure that she didn't look like a movie star during pregnancy. She would have preferred a closeup of varicose veins.

It is true that people feel free to offer their opinions about the behavior of pregnant women. Pregnancy seems to turn women into public property. Co-workers, who wouldn't touch your shoulder, are suddenly rubbing your stomach. Strangers are telling you what to eat and what happened to them in labor.

But this tempest in a Demi-tasse has a familiar edge to it. Remember last year when Deborah Norville was pictured in People magazine breast-feeding? Some said she was wonderfully natural, quintessentially maternal. Others said she should keep her blouse buttoned in public. Everybody said something.

Demi herself has posed nude before. It was, as they now say about Supreme Court nominees, a youthful indiscretion. But some of the same people who would criticize her for posing with a flat stomach exposed, praise her for publicly protruding. Others seem to suggest that nudity is even worse for a mommy-to-be.

It seems that photographer Annie Liebovitz focused her lens on an especially fertile territory in contemporary life. The place where attitudes about sexuality and motherhood conflict.

When the questions started pouring in, Tina Brown, the editor of Vanity Fair, said that the pictures illustrated the beauty of maternity. "There is nothing more glorious than the sight of a woman carrying a child," she demurred, wrapping herself in the flag of motherhood.

But the pictures, as Brown knows, are far more ambiguous than that. This isn't a photo spread for the Lamaze class.

Inside the magazine are three more images. The most deliberately provocative is the one of Moore in a skimpy black bra, bikini undies and spike heels. Mommy meets Hustler? Did she mean to reveal Victoria's Secret? Guess what, Victoria's gonna have a baby!

Frankly, I would not rush over to see Demi's baby in utero. Spare me the videotapes of her first childbirth during which she directed three cameramen to get all the right angles. She is far more fully and comfortably exposed on camera than in the dry, dull text that accompanies the pictures.

But the lens has captured and uh, exposed, a visual taboo. It walks the line that still ordinarily divides a woman's body as a source of pleasure and a source of reproduction. After all, a mother isn't supposed to be a sex object and a sex object isn't supposed to be a mother and where is Freud when you need him?

Remember the analysts who said that Western culture saw Woman as either a madonna (the original) or a whore? There are a lot more sexual options now but also a lot more opinions.

There's an ongoing argument about whether good girls wear garter belts, whether a centerfold is liberated or merely exploited, whether female nudity is sleazy or nature's way of staying cool. There's a talk-show, kitchen-table debate about good and bad sexiness that gets focused around Deborah Norville's breast-feeding and Demi Moore's pregnant poses.

Most of us harbor mixed feelings. Which is why this issue of Vanity Fair is selling...and why it's discreetly wrapped. Why the photos are getting a long look, but not on the subway.

Giving credit where it's due, I give it to Liebovitz more than Moore. She's taken a strong, unexpected image and thrown it on the national screen — a conflict wrapped in amniotic fluid. Some pictures are worth a thousand words. This one's a bargain.

The lens has captured and uh, exposed, a visual taboo.

Rape case

Seminole County Sheriff's Department spokesman George Prochel said, "The woman who originally said she had been kidnapped at knifepoint, has now changed that, and said she went to the house at 2341 Sipes Avenue without being forced."

Prochel said the victim has now stated, "I never thought anyone would take me seriously if they thought I went there on my own." He stressed however, "Regardless of how or why she went to the house, the main charges in this case still center on a reported gang rape."

Yesterday afternoon, a large number of Midway residents turned out at the Seminole County Sheriff's office, where statements regarding the case were being taken. Prochel said, "Of the 80 people who flocked into the lobby area, we ended up only getting statements from 5 people."

He said the investigation will continue. "We still have many statements to take down, and I expect more arrests will be made in the case." The original accusation from the victim included possibly as many as 15 men reportedly involved in the gang rape.

Three of the four persons accused in the gang rape incident made their first court appearance yesterday afternoon, to hear the charges placed against them.

The three include Robert Lee Williams, 47, 2391 Greenway Blvd., Midway, William Henry O'Neal, 20, 2530 Byrd Ave., Midway, and Joseph Watkins Jr., 27, 271 Broadway, Midway. A special hearing is scheduled for this afternoon for the fourth suspect, who is a juvenile.

Airport

The reception was attended by several local businessmen and officials, including Sanford Commissioner Lon Howell, Seminole County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley and Seminole County Port Authority Director Dennis Dolgner.

Gardner said the main concern of the people he talked with was the preservation of local control of Central Florida Regional Airport. Seminole County lawmakers will meet with city and airport officials Aug. 13 to discuss airport issues.

There has been an interest by the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and businessmen from other sectors to increase representation on the authority to non-Sanford area business people.

But Sanford Mayor Bettye

Smith and authority chairman A.K. Shoemaker say the change isn't necessary. Nothing in the authority's creation legislation prohibits city commissioners from appointing a non-city resident, they said.

"As far as I know, we can appoint anyone we want to to the airport authority," Smith said. "We have two or three people on there now who don't live in the city. We can appoint anyone who would be a good authority member regardless of where he lives."

"But," Smith added, "what I would not like to see is anyone try to force us to change the authority."

"We're doing all we can do," said Shoemaker. "No one's paying attention to what we're trying to do."

Shoemaker said the authority sent a proposal to United Airlines for a national maintenance facility here that would employ 4,000 people.

Airport director Steve Cooke said the authority is also negotiating with a Texas carrier to begin a Sanford to Miami commuter service and is talking to air package express companies for beginning service here.

"We're out there swinging," Cooke said.

Grades

with teachers so they can find out more specifically what the grade means.

Some parents argued that A through F grades offered incentive for youngsters to rise above mediocrity.

"An S is too vague," one parent argued. "Is that very satisfactory or barely satisfactory?"

Tom Kuhn, an Altamonte Springs accountant, said he was concerned that youngsters sheltered from grades to help build their self esteem would "have trouble in real life."

He said he was concerned about a trend that he saw developing.

"Next year you'll put in the fourth grade and then the fifth grade," he said. "Where will it stop?"

Only board members Barbara Kuhn and Sandy Robinson disagreed with the board's decision to advertise the 1991-92 pupil progression plan with the ed-tion of third grade to the S and N grading system.

"Speaking as a parent," Robinson said, "I don't think I would have been satisfied with this method of grading. I don't think my kids would have been properly motivated."

In the end the board voted 3-2 to advertise the plan as-is and invited parents to return with their comments at 7 p.m. on Aug. 27 when they will vote on the final acceptance of the plan.

time this month, but did not know that the first blows would come yesterday until the heavy equipment began rolling onto the campus yesterday morning.

The first part of the structure to be torn down was the northern end, the area that was originally a combination auditorium and gymnasium.

Bulldozers will be driven in today to demolish the interior. The shell of the building will follow.

Hall said she has been informed the total demolition project will take approximately 30 days, not including the removal of the pieces of the old structure or the ground clearing.

School employees on campus during the demolition are keeping to the rear of the new administrative building.

"I'm not one to be nervous about things," Hall said, "but I have a healthy respect for heavy machinery and buildings coming down."

There is less than ten feet between the building which is being demolished and the front of the new administration offices.

Hall said she believes that, unless unforeseen problems arise in the project, all the work will be done before students return to campus next month.

Funderburk and Sanchez also live in the Sanford Landing apartment complex.

"These people are to be commended for their quick reactions," Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said. "That they were willing to get involved says something very good about the community."

According to Harriett the pond, like most of the other bodies of water in the area, is swollen far above normal levels and poses a threat of drowning. He urges that people take exceptional care around water.

Beaty was revived at the scene but was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital for observation.

Details of his condition were not available this morning.

California man tries to excite children about trees, animals

By JENNIFER KERN
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — "Slurp! Slurp!" cry the children lying on the ground in a circle, their hair spread out behind them. "Whee!" about the ones holding their hands in a circle. "Whoool!" say the children fluttering their hands.

The children are portraying, respectively, the lateral roots, sapwood and cambium of a tree in a game called "Build a Tree." Joseph Cornell leads children and adults through eight such games in his new video, "Sharing the Joy of Nature," a visual version of his 1989 book of the same name.

His first book, "Sharing Nature with Children," has sold more than 250,000 copies and been translated into seven languages since it was published in 1979. Cornell, who lives in the mountains outside of Nevada City, 55 miles northeast of Sacramento, also wrote "Listening to Nature" in 1987.

The 40-minute video was filmed last summer in Northern California, including Yosemite National Park and the Mammoth area.

Cornell, 40, has made a career of teaching people how to teach about nature. He majored at California State University at Chico in nature awareness and worked as an outdoor education teacher and school naturalist for several years. Now he spends his time writing books and conducting training sessions all over the world.

The games in the video are four types: otter games are energetic and playful, crow games are active and observational, bear games are absorbing and reflective and dolphin games are uplifting and inspiring.

"Build a Tree" is an otter game and the "Camera Game" is a bear game. A crow game is "Animals, Animals," where children act out animals on a card for others to guess. A dolphin game can be singing or reciting poetry about nature.

"Once people are alert and interested and more on the wavelength of nature and then have an experience of nature, they want to share that," Cornell said.

Abolish the high school system?

By BRAD GAIN
Associated Press Writer

SALEM, Ore. — Oregon has embarked on a long-range program to abolish high school as it now exists in hopes of producing students better able to compete with their peers in other countries.

The program, called the Oregon Educational Act for the 21st Century, recently received final approval in the Legislature and is awaiting the governor's signature.

It would restructure high school so that students would receive a "certificate of mastery" in the 10th grade. Students then would be steered toward a college-preparation program or vocational training. The reforms also would eliminate early grade levels and lengthen the school year from 175 days to 220 days by the year 2010.

Gov. Barbara Roberts and state School Superintendent Norma Paulus are among the plan's staunchest supporters. The governor has promised to sign the bill soon.

Some skeptics have said the goals are laudable, but they won't be reached unless future legislatures are willing to spend a lot of money to implement the changes. Lawmakers committed about $2 million to get the reforms off the ground in the next two years.

Other critics have complained that Oregon is adopting an elitist, European-style system in which students not bound for college are pushed into early training for factory work.

But the program's chief sponsor, state Rep. Vera Katz, says it will put Oregon at the head of the class when it comes to producing students who will be able to keep up with changing technologies in the global economy.

"It is the intent of this legislation that Oregon will develop the best educated citizens in the nation by the year 2000 and equal to the best in the world by 2010," she said in an interview.

In a sense, Oregon is being used as a testing ground for

China trade relations tightened

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted to slap a series of strict conditions on normal trade relations with China, but it fell surprisingly far short of the two-thirds majority needed to overcome a certain veto by President Bush.

While it was evident that the bill would not become law, its chief sponsor, Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said after Tuesday's 88-64 vote that he hoped "above all else that the message conveyed by these votes will be heard in Beijing."

And Rep. Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., sponsor of a bill overwhelmingly approved by the House on July 10, said China's most-favored-nation status could still be in jeopardy a year from now if pro-democracy activists remain in prison.

The two versions of the bill now go to a House-Senate conference committee to work out a compromise. The House is expected to vote to override any veto that Bush issues, but the president had 10 votes more than he needed in the Senate to sustain his position.

Sex survey scrapped

WASHINGTON — The government is scrapping plans for an $18 million survey on the sexual behavior of teen-agers after conservatives complained the study would intrude on private matters and pose offensive questions.

Supporters of the planned study lamented that politics had trumped over science. They said the research was needed to help fight unwanted pregnancies and sexually transmitted diseases such as AIDS among young people.

Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan on Tuesday canceled the five-year American Teen-age Study because he said it might inadvertently detract from efforts to discourage casual sex.

The study, which had been approved by the Public Health Service, would have involved 24,000 youth in grades seven through 11. Parents would have had to consent before teen-agers could participate and the parents themselves would have been interviewed as well.

Bush to visit the Ukrainian capital

WASHINGTON — President Bush expects to visit the Ukrainian capital of Kiev after his summit talks in Moscow next week, making a symbolic gesture to a republic that could determine the fate of the Soviet Union.

The first visit of an American president to the Soviet heartland is tentatively scheduled for Aug. 1.

The Ukraine is critical to Mikhail Gorbachev's strategy of shaping a new federation of Soviet republics built on the foundation of nine republics that joined him April 23 in pledging support for the union.

The proposed new treaty binding them in a looser but still intact federation was shelved by the Ukrainian parliament, probably until next year, and pro-independence forces in the republic are rapidly gaining strength.

Life 10 million years ago uncovered

OMAHA, Neb. — Scientists are uncovering a snapshot of life 10 million years ago — and entertaining thousands — as they dig up skeletons of prehistoric creatures killed in their tracks by a cloud of volcanic ash.

At Ashfall Fossil Beds Historical Park, visitors gather around the ash pit as the paleontologists reveal fossils from a grassland where such creatures as rhinoceroses, three-toed horses, saber-toothed tigers and camels once roamed.

"The people are almost looking over your shoulder," said Mike Voorhies, one of several University of Nebraska-Lincoln paleontologists working at the park.

Man reportedly admits to mutilation slayings

By HOWELL WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE — A paroled child molester whose reeking, fly-infested apartment was littered with skulls, headless torsos and other body parts confessed to killing 11 men and eating some of them, it was reported today.

Neighbors said an overpowering stench emanated from Jeffrey L. Dahmer's apartment for months and that they recently heard scuffling, a buzz saw and screams.

Aaron Whitehead, who lives one floor down, said he was often awakened by loud pounding and scuffling.

"One night, I heard what sounded like a kid up there," Whitehead said. "He was crying like his mother had just walloped him. Then I heard a big falling sound ... like he was being hurt."

Dahmer (pronounced DAH-mer), 31, a former chocolate factory worker, was arrested Monday and booked on a suspicion of homicide after a man in handcuffs flagged down police, saying he had been attacked by a man with a knife.

The man led police to Dahmer's apartment, where they found skulls in a file cabinet and a closet and three headless torsos in a vat in Dahmer's bedroom.

Police said they found three heads in a refrigerator, boxes filled with body parts and a dresser stuffed with photos and drawings of mutilated bodies.

The Milwaukee Sentinel, citing a source it did not identify, said Dahmer confessed to 11 killings and to cannibalism. The paper, citing the same source, said Dahmer may have killed up to 18 people, mostly men, over the past two years.

Larry Marion, who managed the apartment when Dahmer moved in two years ago, said the smell was especially bad last spring. He said Dahmer claimed that his refrigerator had broken, causing meat to spoil.

"We've been smelling odors for weeks, but we thought it was a dead animal or something like that," said neighbor Ella Vickers.

Police said they received no reports of strange noises or smells.

ABC wins ratings race, bumps CBS

By DEBORAH NASTRICH
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — A repeat of CBS' venerable news hour "60 Minutes" was the No. 1 show on television. ABC's "20-20" placed second, and in the No. 3 slot was a rerun of NBC's favorite bar-room comedy "Cheers."

ABC won the latest ratings race, ending CBS' four-week winning streak with a boost from the weekly news magazine "20-20."

ABC finished first with an 8.9 average rating, followed by NBC with 8.8, according to ratings released Tuesday by the A.C. Nielsen Co. CBS, after finishing or tying for first the four previous weeks, placed third with an 8.6 average rating.

Each rating point represents 931,000 homes.

A repeat of NBC's docudrama "A Cry for Help: The Tracey Thurman Story," which portrayed the real-life trauma of a Connecticut woman left paralyzed by her abusive husband, ranked fourth.

recommendations of the National Center on Education and the Economy, of which Katz is a trustee.

The center is made up of political, business and education leaders who have been pushing for changes in job-training programs.

Katz's bill embraces many of the key proposals contained in the center's 1990 report, "America's Choice: High Skills or Low Wages."

Oregon's plan would affect students from the beginning of their formal education.

It would do away with the traditional grade structure from kindergarten through third grade, grouping children according to abilities rather than age. Students' academic and technical skills would be tested every few years.

The most controversial part of the program deals with the restructuring of high school.

Starting in 1995, students would attempt to obtain a certificate of mastery by the end of 10th grade. Special remedial learning centers would be available to permit those who fail the test to keep trying for a certificate.

Students who pass would choose either to enter college preparatory courses or to begin a program of at least two years that would combine academic work and on-the-job training.

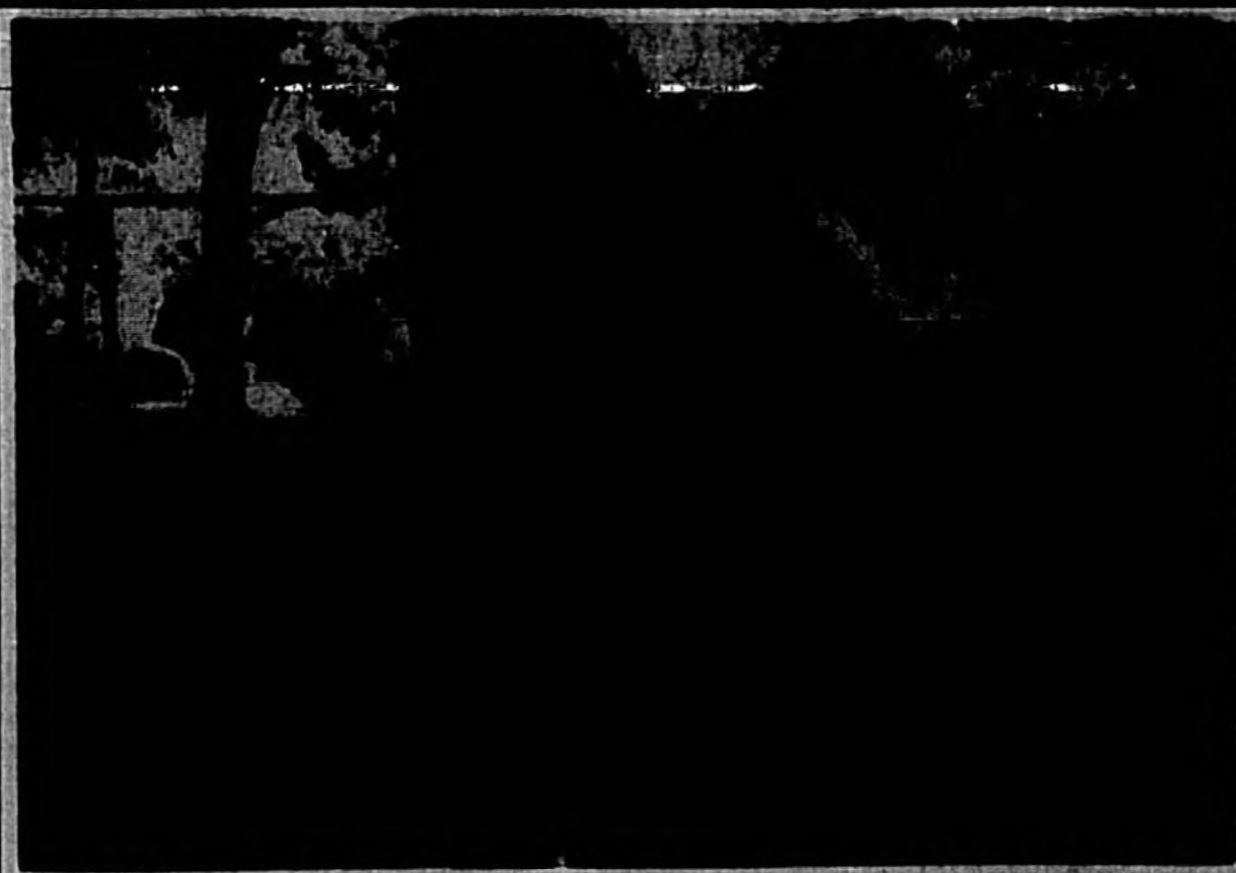

Dozens of states have efforts under way to improve vocational schools, which enroll more than a quarter of the nation's high school students. A federal law that took effect July 1 gives states two years to devise performance measures for vocational students, such as graduation rates and mastery of basic academic and occupational skills.

A leading critic of the Oregon plan, state Rep. Tom Mason, says the program would result in "tracking" students whose low economic and social status causes them to lack confidence in their ability to succeed in college.

"The sad thing is that it will be the poor and the members of the minority classes that will end up going to vocational school," he said.

Donation to aid museum

By BOB SPANFORD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford Historical Society presented a $90,000 check to the City of Sanford Monday night. The money is to be used for the expansion project of the Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum.

The money, raised by the Society during the past 9 years, represents donations, membership fees and proceeds from various fundraising activities. It is the first and largest of a total $250,000 pledged for the project.

The check was presented to the Sanford City Commission during its Monday night meeting, by Historical Society President Jack Pennington, Vice President Myra Bates and Cinette McSweeney.

The society was formed in 1983 as a friends organization for the city museum. Its members have actively promoted the museum, and its volunteers are largely responsible for the many programs currently underway.

The total expansion project at the museum has been set at $275,000. Of this, $100,000 will come from the City of Sanford.

$150,000 from the Seminole County Tourist Development Commission, and the remaining $25,000 from the Historical Society.

Museum coordinator Alicia Clarke said most of the new construction will take place across the front of the existing building, on the First Street side. "It will give us a new entrance, lobby, public restroom, gallery exhibit space, small office space and a multi-purpose room," she said. The gallery will be dedicated to items pertaining specifically to the history of the City of Sanford.

Driving safely

South Seminole Hospital sponsoring AARP class

By BOB SPANFORD
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Seniors can save money and improve their driving skills at the same time. The South Seminole Community Hospital in Longwood will be offering a 55 Alive/Mature Driving Course beginning next month.

Through the cooperation of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) the eight hour courses will be conducted at the hospital on August 26 and 27, and again on September 23 and 24. Classes run from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

All automobile insurance companies conducting business in Florida are required to provide a premium discount to graduates of the 55 Alive/Mature Driving class, which is a state-approved driver improvement course.

AARP developed the course to help drivers 50 years of age or older to improve their skills and prevent traffic accidents. A recent study of the program in California revealed that graduates of the 8-hour course had 16 percent fewer accidents involving death or injury, and 15.7 percent fewer traffic convictions.

The fee for the course is $6 per person. Drivers must be 50 or older. Refreshments will be served and each participant will receive a course handbook. Registrations are now being accepted by calling Diane Ostman at the hospital, 767-5858.

The courses will be held in Classroom 103 at the South Seminole Community Hospital, 555 W. State Road 434 in Longwood.

Police captain accused of crime computer misuse

Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — A Seminole Indian tribal police captain is accused of illegally combing national and state crime computers for information, sought by a private investigator on 66 people.

"The information that we have at this time suggests that he was doing it more out of friendship and possibly trading information with an unlicensed private investigator, and the private investigator was in turn selling the information," Assistant State Attorney Keith Shafer said Tuesday.

Capt. John Masters, 53, a six-year veteran of the department, was arrested Monday on 100 felony counts of computer-related theft and released on $10,000 bail.

IN BRIEF

Post 53 in action

DeLAND — Sanford American Legion Post 53, which received a by in the opening round Tuesday, will take on the DeLand-Pierson winner today at 3:30 p.m. at Conrad Park.

If Sanford wins today they would play the winner of Tuesday's Fort Orange-Deltona game at 4 p.m. Thursday. A loss today would put Sanford in a 4 p.m. game Friday at the DeLand Airport Complex.

The double-elimination tournament will conclude Saturday with either a 10 a.m. or 4 p.m. game, deciding the champion.

Sanford went through the regular season with a 12-3 mark in the district.

NABF start today

LONGWOOD — The NABF (National Amateur Baseball Federation) District Tournament opens today with a doubleheader at Lyman High School.

The seeds for the double-elimination tournament is as follows: Lake Mary Mudcats (1), Lake Brantley Dodgers (2), Lynn's Bullets (3), Lake Howell Blackhawk (4), Oviedo (5), and Bishop Moore (6).

Today's schedule has the Blackhawk playing Oviedo at 5 p.m. and the Bullets facing Bishop Moore at 8 p.m.

Thursday's the Lake Howell-Oviedo winner will challenge the Mudcats at 5 p.m. and the Bullets-Bishop Moore winner will take on the Dodgers at 8 p.m.

The tournament will continue through the week with the Championship game set for Sunday at 1 p.m. If both final teams have a loss the necessary game would follow immediately.

"We've had a good summer. We're just going to go out and have some fun," said McCullough. "I'm sort of pleased with what I've been able to find out about our new kids this summer."

"Somebody that plays consistent ball will win (the tournament). If you get your 2nd or 3rd-line pitchers to do well, you'll do okay."

Injuries slow Bucs

TAMPA — A rash of injuries is making it difficult for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to pursue a major objective: improving one of the NFL's weakest pass rushes.

Two Plan B free agents they signed to shore up the defensive line are hurt and injuries also have slowed two projected starters during the opening week of training camp.

Plan B signee Marion Jones underwent back surgery last week and Derrell Robertson, another Plan B defensive end, was waived on Monday because of a knee problem. Jones will be out at least four-to-six weeks, maybe longer.

Injuries to starting linemen Jim Skow (groin) and Rueben Davis (elbow) also have reduced the time the first unit has been able to work together.

The Bucs, who have moved Keith McCants from linebacker to defensive end this year, are looking for help from without and within.

The club hopes to sign one or two defensive linemen in the next few days and is also taking a good look at free agent Shelton Thompson, who has been lining up with the first team this week.

Thompson, a former Florida State star, is trying to earn a job with Tampa Bay for the second time. The 6-foot-3, 284-pound end was released during training camp a year ago, but is 20 pounds lighter and impressing the coaching staff this summer.

Dolphins Food

MIAMI — The menu includes vichyssoise, tossed salad and crabmeat stir fry, with cantaloupe for dessert.

Dinner at Le Chateau Ritz? No, lunch at the Miami Dolphins' summer training table.

Like many Americans, the Dolphins have a more balanced diet than 10 years ago.

The Dolphins aren't exactly on a low-fat, low-cholesterol, low-calorie, low-sugar diet. They eat burritos, hamburgers, french fries, corn dogs and — from the home of their archrivals — Buffalo chicken wings. On the dessert tables are chocolate eclairs, pineapple cheesecake and ice cream sandwiches.

But there's also corned beef and cabbage, tuna salad, broiled cod and more fresh fruit than at a roadside stand.

Rec department announces plans to make up rainouts

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Just when it looks like things are going your way, a cloud comes along and rains on your parade.

That must be the feeling Sanford Recreation Department men's softball league supervisor Jim Schaefer must be feeling. After a beautiful day Monday and most of Tuesday it looked like the softball leagues were finally going to get back on track.

But a heavy early evening thunderstorm again forced cancellation of Tuesday night's scheduled men and women softball league games at Chase and Pinehurst parks, respectively.

Earlier Tuesday, Schaefer announced the revamped schedules that were being implemented to make up the numerous rainouts that have occurred this summer.

With the finish of the Spring/Summer seasons at hand and the Fall leagues just around the corner, different leagues will be forced to play on night's other than their regularly scheduled ones to get all the games in.

The Monday Night Pinehurst League will have a pair of make-up nights. This Thursday, July 25, there will be a doubleheader at Chase. At 7:30 p.m. league-leading Calico Jacks will take on the Boomtown Boys and at 8:30 p.m., the Boomtown Boys will play Lambert Erectors.

Also added to next Monday's regular schedule will be the completion of a game between the Tin Raines Connection and Lambert Erectors.

The final night for the Monday League will be Aug. 5 at Pinehurst. At 6:30 p.m., TRC will play the Orlando Softball Club before the Boomtown Boys take on Calico Jacks at 7:30 p.m. and the Boomtown Boys challenge Lambert Erectors at 8:30 p.m..

Tuesday night's men's league at Chase Park is scheduled for four makeup nights. With last night's rainouts, it looks like a fifth will have to be added.

On Tuesday, July 30, Beer:30 will play State Market Restaurant at 6:30 p.m., the Regulators will take on Monroe Harbour Marina at 7:30 p.m. and Kinco will face the Kokomo Recyclers at 8:30 p.m.

Next Thursday, Aug. 1, the Recyclers will play the Regulators at 6:30 p.m., Monroe Harbour will take on State Market at 7:30 p.m. and Kinco will square off with Beer:30 at 8:30 p.m.

Then, on Tuesday, Aug. 6, Beer:30 takes on Kinco at 6:30 p.m., State Market faces Monroe Harbour at 7:30 p.m. and the Regulators play the Recyclers at 8:30 p.m.

Finally, on Thursday, Aug. 8, Monroe Harbour challenges the Recyclers at 6:30 p.m., State Market tackles Kinco at 7:30 p.m. and the Regulators vie with Beer:30 at 8:30 p.m.

No plans concerning the rescheduling of games in the Tuesday women's league have been announced.

The Wednesday Night Chase League will play tonight and next week to finish up. This evening at 6:30 p.m. Hopkins Meet will play DCC; at 7:30 p.m., Smitty's Plumbing faces Hopkins; and at 8:30 p.m., Florida Manor will take on Hall's Stucco.

Next Wednesday, July 31, Florida Manor and Smitty's Plumbing will play a doubleheader at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. before DCC takes on Hall's Stucco at 8:30 p.m.

The only make-up night for the Wednesday Pinehurst League will be July 31. At 6:30 p.m., Ed Bussard's plays Bikini Beach. Bikini Beach will face Regency Maids at 7:30 p.m. before the □ See Softball, Page 2B

New faces, old legs lead Lake Mary Track Series

By BAMA L. GASH
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — Newcomers at the Lake Mary Summer Track Series set the pace in the sprints while Bob Stackhow gave an awe-inspiring performance in the distance events Monday night at Lake Mary High School's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

With his long, gazelle-like strides, Stackhow amazed everyone with his strength and endurance, running uncontested in the 800-meter, 1,000-meter (metric mile) and 3,200-meter runs, breaking the five-minute mark in the 1,000-meter race and style in 4:43.2.

But he didn't stop there as he proceeded to encourage his daughter, Anna, and his son Robert to complete their events by running alongside them.

Lectonya Thomas, a senior at Oviedo High School, used the meet as a training utensil for the AAU Junior Olympics track meet to be run July 31 thru August 3 in Tallahassee. Thomas left her competitors behind in the 100 and the 200-meter sprints.

"This is the first time I have ran in a while, but I need this to get back in shape," said Thomas.

The Reaves family of Dorian, Damian, Demetrius and Regina Reaves left their mark by the end of the meet. Dorian and Damian placed first and second, in that order, in the 5-and-Under Boys 50, 100 and 200-meter dashes. In the 6-10 age group, older brother Demetrius finished third in the 200-meter dash.

Meanwhile, the mother of the three boys, Regina, won both the 50 and the 440 for her age group.

"I haven't ran in almost 11 years," said Regina. "But, it felt good to know I still have it."

The final meet will be held next Monday, July 29. As a special incentive for participation, a "predictor mile" will be ran. Two watermelons will be given away, one to a boy and one to a girl, to the competitor who comes closest to predicting their time in the mile.

"We are expecting a large turnout for the final meet," said Lake Mary coach and meet organizer Mike Gibson.

Other finishers, by age groups and events were:

5-and-Under Boys: Sam Keranbrock leaped 6 feet, 2 inches to win the long jump while Michael Gibson Jr. set a personal record of 6 feet. Dorian Reaves placed first in the 50-meter (9.5), the 100-meter (21.5) and the 200-meter (48.9) dashes. His brother, Damian, was second in those events.

6-to-10 Girls: Tiffany Gibson also set a personal record in the long jump, going out to 10 feet, 6 inches. Jenny Byrd continued to do well, winning the high jump (clearing 3 feet, 3 inches), the 600-meter run (3:15.9), the 1,000-meter run (6:34.9) and the 400-meter dash (1:24.0).

Monica Collins won both the 50-meter (7.7) and the 100-meter (16.5) dashes for the 9 and 10-year-old girls. Rebekah Colton beat the rest of the field by two seconds in the 100-meter (16.9) while Kris Dedelow won the 200-meter (36.5). Anna Stackhow finished the two mile in 28 minutes, but was defeated by Tiffany Gibson, who ran a 21:37.

6-to-10 Boys: Ben Keranbrock won the long jump (13 feet, 3 inches) and the high jump (4 feet, 2 inches). Duamel Velson swept the sprints, winning the 50-meter (7.3), 100-meter (15.9), 200-meter (37.4) and 400-meter (1:22.6) dashes.

Bryan Wade took the 100-meter dash for the boys age 6-9 (18.3). Robert Stackhow handled the 600-meter (3:33.9) and 3,200-meter (15:35) runs while Daniel Martin won the 1,600-meter (6:41.2).

11-to-14 Boys: Matt Houston placed first in the long jump (10 feet, 14 inches) as well as the 50-meter (8.3), 100-meter (13.4), 200-meter (29.1) and 400-meter (1:03.0) dashes. Joey Byrd won the 800-meter (2:46.5) and 1,600-meter

Jenny Byrd, 10, was the top finisher in her age group in the high jump, 800-meter run, 1,600-meter run and 400-meter dash Monday at the Lake Mary Track Series run at Lake Mary High School's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

(6:10.6) runs ahead of Joe Houston, who won the 3,200-meter run (16:26.7).

11 to 14 Girls: Angie Olson won the long jump (13 feet, 4 inch) while Tiffany Alombro was winner of the 100-meter (14.7) and 200-meter dashes (31.2).

15-18 Boys and Girls: Thomas won the 100-meter (13.0) and 200-meter (27.1) dashes. Christina Olson covered 13 feet, 4 1/4 inches in the long jump. Tanner McFall soared over 4 feet, 4 inches in the high jump. David King won the 200-meter (27.5) and 400-meter (56.5) dashes.

19-20 Men and Women: Regina Reaves ran uncontested in the 50-meter (6.9) and 400-meter (1:15.8) dashes. Robert Pendle ran in the 50-meter (6.1) dash.

30-39 Men: Stackhow gave a distance running clinic, running alone in the 800-meter (2:48.5), 1,600-meter (4:43.2) and 3,200-meter (10:48.2). Willie □ See Track, Page 2B

Seminole Colts rally late; Oviedo Juniors, Seniors split

From Staff Reports

Two out of three isn't bad.

The Seminole Pony Colt All-Stars and the Oviedo Junior All-Stars moved to within one victory of clinching their respective tournaments, but the Oviedo Senior All-Stars suffered a stunning setback, forcing them to come back through the losers bracket.

The Colts defeated East Cobb, Ga., 7-4 Monday night to advance to the finals of the Southeast Colt Regional at Marietta, Ga. while the Oviedo Juniors survived a field change and wildness on behalf of Anthony King to defeat Suwanee 6-4 in the Junior League Section I Tournament Tuesday night.

The Seniors were within an out of also advancing to the finals but ended up losing 5-4 to the Arlington All-Stars of Jacksonville in the Senior League Section I Tournament in Niceville Tuesday. They will now have to win three straight games to win the section.

Slimmer, trimmer Gill adds Super Slam to Super 8 Series triumphs

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Continuing his domination of the rich Super 8 Late Model Series, Bobby Gill made it four wins in a row to bring his earnings to over $20,000 as he won Saturday night's Summer Slam 200 in front of another standing-room-only crowd at New Smyrna Speedway.

But as red-hot as Gill was, his engine was hotter, so hot that it almost cost him the race.

"The headers melted," said Gill after the race. "The intense heat almost closed the headers up. Our V-6 engine was definitely losing power down the stretch."

After weighing in at 250 pounds earlier in the season, regular workouts have trimmed more than 30 pounds off Gill's large frame, leaving him in much better shape to handle these long races.

"I work out three times a week," said Gill, who had to sustain a strong challenge from second-place finisher Pete Orr in the Horan's Around Farms Chevrolet over the last 50 laps. "I want to be there at the finish. That's what it's all about."

After apparent third-place finisher Dick Anderson's carburetor was turned down during post-race technical inspection, the spot was awarded to Jody Ridley in his V-8-powered Fel-Pro/Right Way Transport Ford Thunderbird.

In contrast to Gill's training regimen, Ridley takes a directly opposite approach to physical training.

"I don't do nothin'," said Ridley, a diminutive Georgian who has posted an amazing 99.9 percent lap completion in NASCAR/All Pro competition so far this year.

"Yeah, but you've never been up to 250 pounds either," retorted Gill.

Finishing fourth, fifth and sixth after running consistently strong were Jack Sprague, Rick Crawford and Lee Faulk. Bruce Lawrence and Duane Burrows, two Floridians who can compete against the top traveling pros, finished seventh and eighth.

Rounding out the top 10 were Darlington's Hal Goodson and loyal young talent Marc Kinley, who continues to further his career while racing against many of the country's top drivers.

The top eight finishers all completed the 200-lap distance and remained in contention until the end of the race.

Six lead changes among five drivers, continuous heavy dicing for positions and frequent contact among the most competitive field thus far in the Series made the Summer Slam a definite crowd pleaser.

Front-row starter Anderson, running strong with a new Daimler-built Chevy V-8 engine under the hood, charged into the top spot at the green followed by Crawford, Orr, Randy Porter and fastest qualifier Clay Brown.

Orr overtook Crawford on lap 23 and mounted a solid early-race challenge for the lead. By lap 70, the six-car front pack had serious problems with lapped cars not moving over, starter Johnny Bass waving the black flag over the obvious offenders.

The caution flag flew for the fifth time on lap 82 and the leaders dove into the pits. The stop was a costly one for Anderson, who was still in the lead. His impact wrench broke, he ran over his jack and the right front wheel fell off as he tried to get out of the pits in front of the pace car.

Gill, who had remained on the track, became the new leader followed by Sprague, Rob Underwood, Goodson, Lawrence, Faulk, Burrows and Porter. The top three pulled away at the restart while extra-heavy jockeying was taking place 10 car lengths behind.

On lap 107, Gill pitted, allowing Series' points runner-up Underwood to assume the lead. Six laps later, Underwood tangled Anderson, who was trying to get back on the lead lap. As a result, consistent Faulk took over the top spot until he pitted for the first time on lap 134.

Russell found himself on the point at that time as the war for the lead was on between he, Brown, Gill, Orr and Ridley battled their way around the third-mile high banked oval.

Brown's quest ended with a spin on lap 146. Gill, although loose in the corners, managed to grab the top spot for good at that point and held off the hard-charging Orr for the win.

Supporting division winners Saturday were Mike Fitch (Florida Modifieds), Bobby Sears (Florida Mini Stocks), Chuck Stanley (Limited Late Models), Ray Krueger (Sportsman) and Barbara Pierce (Bombers).

at Orlando SpeedWorld
ORLANDO — With his mentor, LeRoy Porter, watching from the pits, young Burke Hammond piloted the Randy Allen Roofing/Parts General machine to victory in Friday night's 25-lap FASCAR-sanctioned Late Model feature at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Hammond, steering the same car that Porter drove before his serious accident a year ago, led every lap but needed a timely caution flag to do it.

With Hammond leading, third place-running Bill Posey blew his engine, bringing the caution flag out on lap 11. On the restart, Ricky Marshall made a bold move and took the lead, only to have the caution flag fly again before a lap could be completed as Mike Ankey's engine erupted, his car backing hard into the wall on turn three.

Hammond then re-assumed the lead and held off a late-race challenge from Ed Meridith to score the win. Marshall finished third ahead of Ronnie Roach and Wayne Marshall.

Scott McDade scored an impressive victory in the special extra-distance feature for the Florida Modified division. Coming from the rear of a star-studded field, McDade scored his fifth win this year and his overall 10th in two years.

Wray Shaffer took the lead from Glen Carter on lap three when Carter's mount lost power. Gately hanging on to the point with a car obviously not handling well, Shaffer led until the 14th lap, when McDade was able to get underneath him for the lead and go on to the win.

Shaffer held on to finish second over Gary Salvatore, David Indiveri and Ricky Wood. Chuck Stanley withstood a late-race charge from Jimmy Sills to score the Limited Late Model win ahead of Rudy Rudnicki, John Wingo and Dave Savicki. It was "Lucky Win No. 13" for Bobby Sears in the Mini Stock division as Sears used the numerous caution periods to work his way up to the front. Early leader/heat winner Ernie Muller was second ahead of Guy Lingo. Gene Van Alstine and Skip Henaker.

After a good run in the Late Models, Ricky Marshall came back to win the Sportsman feature, leading Billy Pratt, Jimmy Johns, Sanford's John Ripley and Guy McRoberts to the stripe.

Having posted his first FASCAR win the week before at New Smyrna Speedway, Darren Gould came back to post his first career Bomber feature win at SpeedWorld last Friday. Ted Head, Dwayne Waddell, George McCluskey and veteran Tom Waring rounded out the top five.

Mike Cullapper was a first-time winner in the Run-A-Bouts, dodging numerous crashes to take the victory over Jim Robinson, Ray Aldridge, Ron Blackard and Brian Geogom.

Fan race winners were John DiDiego and Mike Schlosser.

Cupid has sight set, may be jumping gun

ADVICE

men should walk you down the aisle, why not give both of them the honor? It has been done — and with great success. Also consider walking down the aisle alone. It's the choice of many brides, and makes an impressive sight.

DEAR ABBY: When is it proper to play Cupid? My best friend, "Marsha," lost her husband a few months ago. He had a massive heart attack with no warning whatsoever. He was healthy and athletic.

A few years ago, Marsha and my cousin, "Marc," met at my daughter's christening. It was obvious that there was a strong mutual attraction between them, but they were both seeing other people at the time, so nothing came of it, and they both eventually married other people.

I just learned that Marc and his wife have split. Being a matchmaker is not something I do regularly, but I just know that Marsha and Marc would make a great team.

How can I get them together? And when would be the proper time?

I don't want Marsha to think I'm insensitive, but they are both very attractive people, and I don't want to chance either one of them getting involved with someone else before they have a chance to get together.

FRUSTRATED CUPID

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Idle your motor — you may be too late already. Do not mention Marc's availability to Marsha until you feel that Marsha is ready for another romance. And don't assume that Marc is waiting around for another involvement.

When Marsha is ready, contact Marc and ask him, "What's new?" and, "Are you 'involved'?" If nothing is new and Marc is not involved, tell him about Marsha's availability — and let him take it from there.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old future bride with a small problem. My mother and father were divorced when I was 10, and my mother married "Len" a year later. Len has been a wonderful stepfather whom I love dearly. My biological father and I had problems during my adolescent years. (We didn't speak to each other for four years.) My stepfather (Len) was a far more loving father to me — in fact, he was the one who got me together again with my biological father.

Now I am going to be married. I read in a bridal magazine that where there is a biological father and stepfather involved, the bride's biological father is supposed to walk her down the aisle and give her away in marriage, and the stepfather has the privilege of dancing the first dance with the bride.

Is this the proper arrangement? I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings, but I have always had a much better relationship with my stepfather.

HAPPY BUT CONFUSED

DEAR HAPPY: There are not hard and fast "rules" when it comes to weddings. If you're having problems deciding which

Cook got start in farm kitchen

By JOAN KING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Norma Henry, our Cook of the Week, is originally from Ohio and has lived in Sanford since 1970.

Henry said she has seen much change in the area since 1970 especially the buildup of Lake Mary and the many restaurants that have popped up in Seminole County.

Henry is a chef at Christo's Restaurant in Lake Mary where she does "basically everything." She cooks all of the Greek recipes except pastries and makes all of their soups and chowder.

"Most of the time I make too much soup yet it sells every day. On Fridays I make five gallons of New England chowder and every drop is sold. Everything is made from scratch with fresh ingredients," she said.

Henry has two part-time cooks to help her in the kitchen at the restaurant. One is a young boy who is learning to cook and the other is a woman who is a tremendous help to our cook. There is also one breakfast cook.

"I was taught to cook by my mother and then later by chefs in restaurants where I worked. Growing up on a large farm that we owned was an experience that every cook should have. We were always cooking as we had to feed the field hands, the family and relatives who were always stopping by, especially at meal time, so we fed them too," she said as she giggled over the thought of her relatives dropping by at meal time.

Our cook has three grown children about whom she said she "experimented with recipes and used the kids as guinea pigs. However, they all grew up healthy." She also has one grandson named Dustin. Her eldest son, Jeff, lives in Tallahassee where he graduated from Florida State. Kathy, her only daughter, lives at home and will return to school full-time shortly. She presently works for Winn Dixie in Lake Mary. James, the youngest son and the father of Dustin, also lives at home and is a budding cook as he often takes over the kitchen and prepares the family meal.

Few cooks hear the raves that Norma Henry hears over her Barbecue Knuckles. Her recipe follows.

KNUCKLES NORMA'S STYLE (Knuckles are the curled up end from a rack of ribs) Parboil knuckles, cool in refrigerator overnight. Skim off fat and grease. Lay on tray, brush with barbecue sauce (lots). Slowly bake at 325° for 45 minutes to one hour.
