MELLON GIVEN CLEAN BILL BY SENATE GROUP

Exonerated On Charge That He Held Office In Defiance Of Law; Vote Is Eight To Five

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(INS)—Andrew W. Mellon was exonerated on charges of holding the secretaryship of the Treasury in defiance of the law by an 8 to 5 vote today of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The committee, first refused to order a further investigation into Mellon's activities as a huge stockholder in the Aluminum Company of America, rejected the Norris report declaring him illegally in office, and then adopted the Stelwer report, which held that ownership of stock did not constitute a violation of the 100-year-old law forbidding the secretary of the Treasury from "carrying on the business of trade or commerce."

The contest however was merely transferred to the floor of the Senate where both the Mellon and Norris reports will be filed Monday. There was every indication though that Mellon, backed by a favorable committee verdict, would win in the Senate.

Four members of the committee were absent when the vote was taken but it was stated they would be polled before Monday and that their votes would not change the result.

On the question of obtaining more information about Mellon's operation activities, the vote was 5 to 8 with Senators Borah (R) of Idaho, Blaine (R) of Wisconsin, Walsh (R) of Montana, Kibbe (D) of Utah, and Norris (R) of Nebraska, favoring the Mellon report. Senators Bennett (R) of Illinois, Gillett (R) of Massachusetts, Robinson (R) of Indiana, Stelwer (R) of Oregon, Waterman (R) of Colorado, Hastings (R) of Delaware, Burton (R) of Ohio, and Overman (D) of North Carolina, voted to close the investigation.

The Norris report was rejected by a 3 to 10 vote. Senators Bennett, Waterman, Hastings, Burton and Overman supporting it and Borah, Blaine, Walsh, King and Norris opposing it.

Reconstruction In Storm Area Begins Throughout South

ATLANTA, May 4.—(INS)—Rehabilitation in the scattered storm damaged sections of the South had begun today, following a complete checkup of the causalities.

Windstorms, which were "spotted" throughout seven southern states from Maryland to Arkansas, took a death toll of 400 persons, injured more than 400,000 and caused property damage estimated at $3,000,000.

Doctors, nurses and volunteer relief workers were still engaged in caring for the injured. The death toll will mount as it is believed, due to the serious nature of many of the victims' injuries. All of the children in classes at the Rye Cove centralized school by Cove, Va., when they were being led by a new teacher, were believed accounted for today, 18 are known dead, more than hundred badly injured and a number suffering from minor hurts.

Local Interests Protest Against Discriminations Of Farm Measure

Local shipping organizations, bankers and representatives of other business interests today filed protests with the Florida delegation and other members of the United States Senate against what is described as unfair discrimination against fruit and vegetable growers in the provisions of the farm relief measure which is now before the upper house of Congress.

It is claimed by local parties, who have been following the progress of the measure, that fruits and vegetables would be discriminated from the benefits which the bill provides. Other farm people, Senator McNary, one of the prominent supporters of the bill, said he is planning an amendment which would leave out fruits and vegetables.

As interpreted by the local shippers, the proposed change to the measure is a slap at Florida citrus and vegetable interests.

Quarantine On Paralysis In DeLand May Be Lifted Soon; Physicians Are Encouraged

DELAND, Fla., May 4.—That quarantine regulations now in effect to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis will have to remain only a short time should no other new cases develop, was the opinion expressed in a statement made today by Dr. G. A. Davis, city health physician, and Dr. H. C. Strode of the state board of health.

The joint statement, signed by Dr. G. A. Davis, and Strode follows: "To the Public: "Having visited every case in town that was suspected of having infantile paralysis, we have a knowledge of the situation sufficient to make the following statement: "There are eight homes quarantined and as far as we can ascertain this is the total number of cases in town at present. "Every case with the exception of one is improving and should continue to improve. "The prevalence of infantile paralysis is always a serious situation. We do not deem the present outbreak so serious as we had anticipated before thoroughly investigating each individual case. Furthermore after making a house to house survey in the part of town where most of the cases are found, we feel that the quarantine regulations now in effect will have to remain only a short time should no other new cases develop."

City authorities today inaugurated a final survey of Sanford in an effort to pick and destroy all citrus fruit tree infestations on the ground. Between 60 and 75 boys, most of them high school pupils, tendered their services this morning and the campaign got away to a good start.

He reported the anti-fly campaign is being conducted in the city. Infestations have been officially reported in the county, four of them within the greater Sanford section and two of these in the City limits. Several other infestations are believed to have been found but confirmation of these must come from Orlando before they are marked on the big map which Mr. Monk has in his office, and which guides him in handling the multitudinous duties of his job.

Mr. Monk today reiterated his appreciation and that of the Plant Board authorities for the splendid cooperation, which he said had been given by local citizens. Every assistance has been placed at the disposal of the government agent making his preliminary work here considerably less of a burden than is ordinarily experienced.

In the local cleanup campaign, which is being handled by City Manager George H. Colson, a group of members of the Garden Club this morning used their cars to transport the boys back and forth in their picking activities. While they were placed at the disposal of C. W. Wolfe, V. M. C. A. secretary, who had supervision over the boys. Full reports were being gathered by the boys on all places where fruit was discovered.

By tonight, Mr. Colson said, he hoped to have the extensive job finished. The work has been going on all week but today's effort was to make the job thorough and complete.

She was formerly married to Frank Platt. During this marriage, her small baby was strangled to death. John Morrow, with whom she was then said to have kept company, was sentenced to the penitentiary in connection with the child's death.

DUTY INCREASE HOOPER WANTS MADE IN NEW U. S. WAR VIEW TARIFF RATES TO BE OBVIOUS

House Committee Will Present Measure To Senate On Tuesday For Consideration

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(INS)—A new tariff bill involving the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922 and carrying generous increases in duties to protect many American industries and agriculture, was virtually completed by the House Ways and Means Committee today. It will be presented to Congress on Tuesday.

While it was asserted by Rep. Hawley (R) of Oregon, chairman, that all rates are still subject to change, he said the bill is completed and ready for a final vote of the full Republican membership. No further changes are anticipated.

Extraordinary provisions have been taken by the committee to prevent schedules of the bill from becoming public pending its introduction, but well authenticated reports indicated that there will be many increases in rates and virtually no reductions.

The committee, however, according to Chairman Hawley, has followed the procedure laid down by President Hoover for a readjustment to meet only changed conditions arising since 1922, and to cover industries that have sprung up in the last few years as the result of inventive and scientific development.

About 15 per cent of the rates of the Fordney-McCumber Act, many of which are agricultural, have been revised upward, it is understood.

Stock Market Has Active Day Despite Earlier Reverses

NEW YORK, May 4.—(INS)—The stock market survived the shock of an early break in the Advance Rally Shares and pushed forward vigorously today near the end of an active half-session.

The all-motors and specialties covered all their early losses and closed the day with new gains of 1 to 6 points. Brilliant upward movements in the airplane stocks featured the closing period, with United Aircraft jumping 7 points to 140 3/4 and Wright Aero 5 1/2 to 137 1/2.

Hudson led a spirited move in the motor stocks and sold up 3 1/2 points at 92, with the Day-Ampco B carried off the board in the rally, with its 3-point jump to 60 1/2 in active trading.

On the way out, two of the robbers met 12-year-old Roy Thomas who was coming in with his small savings bank to make a deposit. They took Roy in a chair and took his toy bank along with the rest of the loot. They escaped in an automobile headed for Washington.

Bussey, Man Who "Kissed And Told", Is Detained As Witness In "Torch" Murder

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 4.—(INS)—Eugene Bussey, the man who "kissed and told" was under arrest on a material witness charge today, the latest sequel to the killing and cremation of Dorothy Pincus. The latter is held for the grand jury on a murder charge.

Bussey was arrested in a hotel a few hours after district Attorney Frank A. Coyne had stated his belief that the John Hopkin University student's story was of no importance. Bussey had related stories of "joking parties" with Pincus's wife before she was slain and burned by the jealous husband.

The petition for Bussey's arrest was in the form of an affidavit by Pincus's lawyer, John M. Bolzworth.

JUNIOR LEAGUES TIME, PLACE OF FEEL SMOKING IS THEIR OWN CARE

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 4.—(INS)—"It's nobody's business anyway," having this unofficially expressed themselves on the anti question of women smoking, hundreds of Junior League members were descending on the annual convention of the Associated Junior Leagues of America.

The antiquated cigarette question flared at the closing session when somebody brought up the matter of testing minds to be used in a cigarette advertisement. But it was disposed of when a brown-eyed and blond member arose to declare that "it is perfectly obvious that the Junior League is a working advertisement for all brands of cigarettes everywhere. The members smoke all over the place. It's nobody's business anyway." None disagreed and the subject was dropped.

TOJI, IN BERLIN RIOTS MOUNTS ABOVE TWENTY

150 Persons Have Been Wounded In Bloody Clashes Between Police And Red Groups

By Otto Tolstus
International News Service Staff Correspondent
BERLIN, May 4.—Twenty-four persons, including Charles Mackay a newspaper correspondent and a British subject, have been killed in the wave of violent rioting which began on May Day and continued until early today, engulfing two districts of Berlin in blood.

A number of women are among the dead. More than 150 persons lay, were wounded. Some of them are in hospitals at death's door.

The state of siege which was proclaimed by the police in the Neukolln and Wedding districts was lifted at 4 o'clock this morning. Barbed wire entanglements and barricades which had been erected in the streets were removed.

The fighting which began with skirmishing between Communists and police on May Day even grew in violence in the districts inhabited by workers until it assumed the proportions of a pitched battle.

Desultory sniping continued throughout the night. While the police were hopeful that normal conditions would quickly be restored in Berlin, Wedding and Neukolln were still armed camps at noon.

Police armed with machine guns were stationed upon the balconies of houses at strategy street corners and windows of tall buildings with the snouts of quick-firing guns. The police were ready to resume the battle if the Communists made another bid to move.

Homeless Communists were searched and small arsenals were found in some of them.

There were three minor clashes during the night. Seventy Communists tried to storm the police station in Schlegel Street. Another armed group of Red Communists in Hermann Street, attempted to erect new barricades in side streets, but the police turned machine guns upon the thoroughfare sweeping it with fire. The Reds quickly scattered.

Lucas H. Berger of Jacksonville, assistant special counsel for the City, has arrived in and George H. DeWitt, chief counsel, and E. H. Pickering, representing counsel for the Chase National Bank, has been here several days in the interest in the case.

Witnesses in behalf of the City will be examined in the offices of Mr. DeWitt on Monday, while on Tuesday the attorney for the bank will introduce testimony for the defense.

Movement To Advertise Celery Is Attracting Attention, Says Farrar

That the movement to advertise Florida celery, its health and food values, is attracting nationwide attention is the statement of N. DeWitt Farrar of Atlanta, who arrived in Sanford last night. Mr. Farrar is secretary of the Gottschald-Humphrey Advertising Agency, which is working with the celery advertising plan.

"Not only has there been editorial and news comment in practically every newspaper in Florida," declared Mr. Farrar, "but metropolitan papers up East have taken keen interest in the plan and have commented on it. Then, too, the trade press has given the 'put the sell in celery' idea considerable publicity, and all of this without cost. When the actual advertising campaign is launched, it will naturally be given the high publicity value of celery. In this connection it is interesting to note the success of other food associations.

"Take the sauerkraut folks for example. Six years ago kraut was sort of a national joke. The kraut interests got together and had their product analyzed and the health value determined. Then they raised an advertising fund and have stuck to the guns ever since. Today sauerkraut, its juice and combinations are the most popular of all dishes served in the restaurants of the United States, according to a survey made by a leading trade journal, 'Hotel Management.'"

Increasing interest in being evidenced as the time drawn near for the big meeting of growers. (Continued On Page Four)

Mrs. J. C. Jones of Sorrento came in and bought a new Whippet touring car. It's really a big day to sell a touring car; however, we will sell you just what you want.

Wife—Why do you go out on the balcony when I sing? ... you like my singing? Husband—It isn't that. I want the neighbors to know I'm not beating you.

The Whippet Factory man was in the other day and stated that Whippet has gone to third place in the United States in sales and gave us some factory news, among it an item about a male stenographer in Detroit. During a hold up he was hit by a bullet and thinking he was mortally wounded he whispered to Mame and gave her my love. Tell her my last thoughts were of her. Carbon copies to Sadie, Peggy and Kathleen.

A friend of ours in Lake Mary, who by the way is a fine splendid fellow, was giving his son a nice talk and lesson in charity. He said, "son, if I saw a boy beating a donkey and stopped him what virtue would I be showing?" "Four love!" "Four speeds?" "Four wheels?" "Four wheels!" "Four wheels!" "Four wheels!"

The emigrant was buying his ticket at the shipping office. "And what about your trunk?" demanded the clerk. "For what would I be wantin' a trunk?" asked the bewildered emigrant. "To put your clothes in, of course," replied the clerk. "What?" cried the emigrant. "And me go asked?"

Florida Republicanism, buffeted about on tempestuous seas of factionalism, has struck another snag in a vain effort to reach more peaceful waters for the easy sailing, which has so long been sought but so regularly denied. The frail little craft, whose captain has been beset by mutiny stirred up by two or three fellow officers and participated in by numbers of the crew, has been in troublesome waters ever since a wave of Hoover sentiment swept a former dictatorial pilot overboard at the Kansas City convention last Spring. The mutineers again have supplanted the captain with a pilot group, whose steady influence is expected to guide the ship safely through the tempest, and whose favor with the admiral of the fleet has enabled its members to promise an equitable distribution of the spoils among the worthy followers.

The announcement yesterday from Orlando that a patronage dispensing committee, hand-picked by National Committeeman Glenn Skipper, has been superseded by a group which ostensibly has the recognition of President Hoover, is interpreted by some to be the end of Skipper's domination of the state organization. The ouster, which leaves the national committee with no more voice in securing appointments than any other member of the committee, is seen as a well-directed retaliatory move by those who waged an unsuccessful fight to prevent Skipper from riding into power on the crest of the Hoover victory at the convention. What effect the incident will have in smoothing out the Republican troubles in this state remains to be seen.

Ever since George W. Bean had the control of the state party wrested from his grasp, Florida Republicanism has undergone some turbulent experiences. Skipper succeeded Bean and almost immediately a wave of discontent swept the party, the opposition being inspired by a number of causes. After Hoover's nomination, representatives of the national organization sought to whip the Florida party into a smooth-working unit but the bickerings continued throughout the campaign. The Republicans swept the state nationally but through no particular effort of the state organization, still at loggerheads. With Hoover's election, Skipper's star appeared to be in the ascendancy and he appointed his patronage committee, which included among others two of the so-called Hoover Democrats. This stirred up more strife, which has borne fruit in the selection of a group, with Washington approval, which will supplant the Skipper appointees.

All of this, of course, is viewed by the Democrats with interest in any nothing of satisfaction. Common experience has taught us that a divided group can accomplish practically nothing. In other words, a party torn by internal strife, cannot efficiently follow up whatever advantages it may have gained by its victory last Fall. If the Republicans desire to continue in this fashion, it's their own funeral and Democrats will not be found among the mourners.

Agriculture Needs Advertising

Secretary Jardine, who as former head of the Agricultural Department, was in a position to understand, as few others might, what is needed to put the farming industry upon the same profitable basis as other businesses, declared recently in an address that the big problems of agriculture were advertising and distribution. He placed advertising before distribution, indicating, as it were, that consumer demand must be obtained before marketing of a crop can be effectual. The Times-Union continues:

"Mr. Jardine advises agriculture to follow the example set by so-called 'big business,' with huge advertising budgets, trained salesmen, and marketing research bureaus. He suggests that there should be centralized control in every unit of agriculture, in order to equalize shipments of non-seasonal farm products, and to market most readily and efficiently the highly perishable seasonal products, which, as has been proved in notable instances, is highly advantageous, alike to producers of agricultural products and to consumers.

"In speaking with reference to tariff on agricultural products, former Secretary Jardine made reference to the Florida tomato growing industry, saying that Florida tomato growers should be protected by a tariff to enable them to compete with Mexican tomato growers, as well as with other growers who ship their products to the United States. Speaking with reference to the results promised to the farmer if the pending farm relief legislation is enacted into law, without carrying unworkable features, the former secretary of agriculture predicted that a nation-wide farmer's co-operative marketing organization, doing $5,000,000,000 worth of business was a possibility.

"In all that Mr. Jardine said on the occasion here referred to, he made advertising of farm products especially prominent. He knows, as do millions of others, who are careful observers, what proper advertising is doing for business in general, where judicious advertising is done continuously and extensively. He also knows, as do many others, that those engaged in the agricultural industry are not doing the advertising they should do in order to promote the sale of their products. It is to be hoped that before any great length of time, farmers, more generally, will see the immense advantages that are to be gained by them through proper advertising."

WEARING CLAY BOOTS

DAYTONA BEACH NEWS-JOURNAL

The story is out that Lindbergh, flying from Mexico City to New York for the Herck funeral, landed at Bolling field, Washington, to find the usual crowd gathered for a glimpse of him. He taxied away, and the crowds pursued. As the people approached, he impatiently raved his motor, heedless that the whirling propeller splashed mud over his face. His admirers, eager enough to be in the van, among them were reporters and photographers, anxious to chronicle the hero's every step for the benefit of the public which loves him.

The Washington Daily News (Scraps) and a local newspaper that "I would like to tell you where he gets off but I don't doubt if it would serve any good purpose." People with warts on their face learn to bear their crosses bravely. People who become popular heroes must do the same.

It is not difficult to guess the psychology behind the change in Lindbergh, and understanding is half of sympathy. Anne Morrow, being a woman, is capable of two emotions at once. She loves the adulation heaped upon Lindbergh,

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II

"He who fights and runs away, May live to fight another day."

So, apparently, believes James P. Bickens, St. Petersburg attorney, who has relinquished his home town on order of the ruffians who flogged him last Sunday because of his reform incident activities. The St. Petersburg Independent calls this slogging incident "the shame of St. Petersburg" but the greater shame would be to the city if it were to allow the ruffians to get away with their crime.

Governors of Florida will be ineligible for any other political office for at least one year after their term as chief executive has expired, if the bill introduced by Representative Bob Swager of Quincy is passed. There are two sides to this, and since the able member from Quincy is more than competent to argue his own side it seems worth while to point out from the other side that such a law might under certain circumstances force from the public service a man sorely needed in that service.

Only a few of Florida's ablest men are willing to make politics a profession. A still smaller number might be willing if the Swager bill passed. If Doyle Carlton should give himself an exceptionally able and patriotic public servant at Tallahassee the state would suffer more than he himself would in a law which discouraged the continuance of service at Washington. On the other hand, if he should fall at Tallahassee it is not likely that he could persuade Floridians to send him to Washington no matter how much he might use the power and patronage of the governorship to that end.

The expansion which must go hand in hand with economy in Florida today is attempted to be served by the senate resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to exempt new industries from taxation in the state for a period of fifteen years. In Alabama, where industrial expansion today is probably more rapid than in any other state, counties and cities are allowed to exempt new industries for a period of four years from all taxation save a large mill district tax for schools.

Incidentally Alabama has solved the problem of equality in proportion of assessed to real value as between counties by having both city and county taxes levied on assessed property under constant scrutiny of a board of equalizers employed by the state tax commission. Theoretically all assessments are made by the state, and these experts are able to keep them fairly uniform in proportion throughout the various political subdivisions.

Under the old republican scheme Florida voters rendered Florida at Washington had to be paid for in cold cash, it was charged. If, under the Skipper regime, the only payment required, is a resolution of thanks from the state legislature there is considerable economy in the change. The fact that Mr. Skipper is a Republican is no reason against his receiving thanks from Tallahassee, the other hand, it is no reason in favor of his receiving such thanks either. An appreciation is a mere formality.

Mr. Skipper has been helpful but his reason against his receiving thanks from Tallahassee, the other hand, it is no reason in favor of his receiving such thanks either. An appreciation is a mere formality.

Sorrows are like tall angels With star-crowns in their hair— But oh, the little, shameful hurts Are bitter hard to bear! There's dignity in suffering— Nobility in pain— But failure is a salted wound That burns and burns again. Why should I seek, in human eyes, The love I long to see? It must be hard for God Himself To love a fool like me. And surely 'tis a splendid thing To die and be forgiven; But—will the good saints tolerate A blunderer, in Heaven? MEDITERRANEAN FRUIT FLY
FRUIT FLY NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles dealing with the Mediterranean fruit fly and approved by the United States Department of Agriculture and first issued in bulletin form in 1918. It deals largely with the pest that has been made against the fly in the Hawaiian Islands.

VALUE OF ELIMINATING HOST VEGETATION
In Honolulu many mango and orange trees were either cut down or severely trimmed, but these cut formed too small a percentage of the entire host vegetation to serve a practical purpose. The only places where the elimination of host vegetation yielded favorable results were about banana and pineapple plantations where the work was done in accordance with the regulations of the Federal Horticultural Board. In these instances the destruction of vegetation, for these came in from surrounding areas. It did, however, keep the danger of immature stages becoming attached to the pruning material of bananas and pineapples slumped to the mainland.

Should the Mediterranean fruit fly ever become established in California or the Southern States, however, where there is no such wealth of native host fruits as where climate conditions will prove an important factor in control the elimination of host vegetation will play a most valuable part in remedial measures. In Algeria the infestation of oranges greatly increased after such crops as peaches and persimmons were grown. These fruits furnished food for the fly during the summer and early fall months, which were for the fly, starvation months previous to the infestation of these crops. Aided by these summer crops, the fruit fly was able to increase greatly so that when the orange crop began to ripen during the fall and winter months the next cold attack with increased force. In Bermuda the elimination of a comparatively few host trees, namely speaking, would mean the elimination of breeding places for considerable areas. The destruction of unnecessary and useless host trees will not only restrict the breeding ground, but will often as a result of the sequence of ripening hosts that many adult flies will die, while attempting to bridge the starvation period when no fruit can be found for egg laying.

Destruction Of Infested Fruits And Spraying
The destruction of infested fruits and spraying are remedial measures that should go hand in hand. In Honolulu they have no given satisfactory results for reasons beyond the control of man. Nevertheless, they can be made successful in commercial orchards if applied with intelligence and persistence throughout a neighborhood. One indifferent neighbor can spoil the work carried on in surrounding orchards. A community for growers must be developed, what crop their interests are centered and imperially eliminate unnecessary fruits. Then, and as a rule, not until then, will labor spent on the destruction of infested fruits and on spraying prove worth while. Sprays are applied to kill fly eggs and contained larvae.

Destruction Of Infested Fruits
Larvae infesting fruits may be killed by submerging the fruits in water or by burying, boiling or burning the fruits. The choice of method will depend largely upon the quantity of fruit to be handled and upon local conditions. The surest way to kill all immature stages of the fruit fly is to boil or burn the fruits. Burning the fruits is often expensive and, when trees in compost holes is depended upon to furnish the fuel, the burning operation is likely to be un satisfactory; for in Honolulu, at least the amount of fruit to burn is so great in excess of the trash that the work is incompletely done. Burying infested fruits to the boiling point will kill all forms of fruit fly. Submerging fruits in ordinary cold water for five days will either kill all larvae and eggs or prevent their further development.

Burial in soil is a satisfactory method, provided the fruit is buried deep enough and after-worm cracks are prevented from developing in the earth above the fruits as the latter decay and settle. It should be remembered that just after transforming from the pupa the adults are so soft that they have the remarkable ability to force their way through incredibly small openings. Hence a crack in the soil extending down to the fruit, even though it be no wider than the thickness of ordinary blotting paper is wide enough to permit the adults to reach fly surface and so thwart the purpose of fruit burial. Adults can not make their way through a foot of well-tamped soil, but because burials or burials is left to subordinates who may neglect the work, boiling or submergence of fruit in water is more highly recommended.

Spraying
As adult flies can not lay eggs

mill 4 to 10 days after they emerge from the pupa, anything that will kill them during this period is useful. Such a remedy has been found in poisoned-bait sprays. These are composed of a sweet substance attractive to the fly, a poison and water. Mally, who first used a poisoned spray in controlling this pest, used a formula containing: Sugar, 8 pounds; arsenate of lead, 6 ounces; water, 5 gallons. This is applied at the rate of 1 to 1 1/2 pints to each 10-year-old peach or nectarine tree. Lounsbury used 6 pounds of brown sugar, 6 ounces of arsenate of lead paste, and 8 gallons of water. Seven used the Mally formula but increased the poison to 6 ounces. Weinland used 3 1/2 ounces of arsenate of lead, 10 pounds of brown sugar, 5 gallons of plantation molasses, and 50 gallons of water. All of these formulas have proved to be effective.

Attempts to control the Mediterranean fruit fly under Honolulu conditions were unsuccessful. The number of adults killed was great yet a sufficient number survived to infest all fruits that ripened. From what is known, however, of the benefits derived from these sprays in other countries, there is no question, but that poisoned-bait sprays, when intelligently applied under such commercial conditions as exists in California and Florida will prove successful. Thus Mally in South Africa states that a "severe outbreak of the pest in a commercial peach orchard was brought to a sudden and practically complete halt, and the fruit maturing later was marked under the guarantee of freedom from maggots," while the infestation among fruits on peach trees increased until all fruits became infested. Newman in Western Australia estimates the cost of spraying an acre when one application of one pint of spray per tree is made every 12 to 14 days to be from $150 to 200 per acre, and states that this sum is a mere bagatelle to the loss of fruit during a similar period over a like area. Both Mally and Newman, working under conditions of less rainfall than obtained at Honolulu, and more like those of California and of fall and winter in Florida, believe that good results will follow the consistent application of poisoned bait sprays particularly when supplemented by the proper destruction of infested fruits.

WOMEN

Two women who set out from Valdosta, Ga., to Asheville on a motor trip recently were fired upon and held up on the public highway near Griffin, Ga., by three men. Their car was damaged and their trip was delayed far into the night. One of the women faintly had to be given treatment and was for a time confined to her bed as a result of the experience. One of the women is a teacher in the state training school at Valdosta, the other is one of her students. The three men are prohibition enforcement officers.

Two other women, returning home in an automobile from a fish fry a few days ago, were pursued by two men in another machine. The young women raced toward the home of a friend in Montgomery and as they turned a street corner they were fired upon by the pursuers, who kept up the shooting as the race continued. After one of the women gained the porch of her friend she fired a pistol at the men and pursuit seems to have ended. The young woman who was subjected to this outrage are teachers in the Tinsala school, fourteen miles from Montgomery. The two men who pursued the automobile and fired upon them are prohibition officers, or were until Gov. Graves dropped them from the payroll for their outrageous conduct.

DAYTONA BEACH NEWS

At the end of its first 19 months the vocational education division of the state department of public instruction issues its report. The report tells, among many other interesting things, the story of J. Frank Weaver, misfit. Two years ago, Frank was eighteen, and a sorry case. He had had infantile paralysis in childhood, and his left leg was useless from the hip down. He had had a common school education, but could not afford more, was totally unskilled or unskilled labor. Nobody would give Frank a job. The rehabilitation department interested a Jacksonville printing concern in Frank, had him sent to the Mergenthaler Linotype factory school at New Orleans. Additional training was arranged for him at Jacksonville, and later a job was found for him in the "backroom" of a Florida weekly newspaper. He makes a living wage, is useful to himself and society, is happy instead of discontented, a menace to himself and others.

Frank is only one of fifteen men whom the division has rehabilitated at an average cost of just $106.48 apiece. Before rehabilitation only three of fifteen had employment, earning an average of about $13 a week. Since rehabilitation, the average weekly earning for the entire group is nearly $50 a week, an increase of $37.50 per case per week. Since completing their training these fifteen cases have earned in wages for themselves a total of $7,579, besides keeping out of mischief.

This rehabilitation service is about the cheapest thing in Florida has. It is supported half by the federal government under act of congress, and half by the state. Florida's annual appropriation is just $16,000. For this money, in 19 months, while only 15 have completed training, 304 rehabilitated cases have been placed in training. Florida is one of forty states which have adopted this service. Any person who is injured or otherwise disabled, but who is capable of learning some useful occupation, is eligible for rehabilitation under the act. The service is absolutely free. It consists of physical restoration, vocational training, and placement in employment.

Appropriation for such valuable work should be continued. In addition, private enterprise should co-operate in every possible way with the rehabilitation service in placing rehabilitated men, and in aiding where possible in their training.

We offer no opinion whether the forthcoming autobiography of former Governor Smith will be better or worse than the one Mr. Condit is writing. But it will at least clear up one point in controversy. Push Of Business During Spring Is Seen By Tire Shop Expect and are preparing for a rush of business during the spring months," declared E. B. ... of the Rocky Tire Shop, ... dealer located at 113 ... street, in announcing ... of a stock of the new Good- year Pathfinder tires in both high ... and balloon sizes.

"We have handled the Goodyear ... for three years and have al- ways done a handsome business ... the all-Weather tread in ... and prices which stands ... the equal, if not the superior ... of the market today.

"The volume of sales of Path- finders has been great all over the country and this fact led ... with the idea of improving this ... a series of experiments ... Their research work is be- lieved the improvements which ... have been included in the new ... tires.

"The improved tire is now of- fered to motorists at no extra ... In fact, new low prices ... which makes the same ... the greatest value outside ... of the Goodyear All-Weather ... tread tire, on the market today.

Victory Motor Firm Opens Business Here

Announcement of the opening of the Victory Motor Company's ... Service Station with N. J. Baker in charge of the used car department and J. M. Lemoine managing the service station, was announced today. The new concern is located at 820 W. First Street.

Building permits issued in Lake Worth totaled $250,000 during first three months of year.

Popularity Of New Chevrolet Is Seen In Increased Sales

DETROIT, May 4.—Evidence of the wide-spread popularity of the new six cylinder Chevrolet was revealed here today in an announcement by R. H. Grant, vice president of the Chevrolet Motor Company in charge of sales, that more than a half million of the new cars have been placed on the road since the first of the year.

A significant feature of this achievement it was noted, is the fact that Chevrolet in four months time built a greater number of six cylinder cars than any other automobile manufacturer has ever produced in an entire year.

"Nearly every month this year has seen a new monthly production record. In order to satisfy the demand for cars pouring in from nearly every section of the country, output has been steadily increased as fast as consistent with the precision manufacturing methods which Chevrolet employs," said Mr. Grant.

To illustrate the achievement of placing on the road more than 500,000 cars in less than four months time, Chevrolet has secured John Philip Sousa and his world famous band for an hour's broadcast over a nation wide hook-up Monday night. It will be the first time that the celebrated March King has been heard over the radio. The radio debut of the famous band master will come over the air during the regular General Motors "Family Hour" starting at 8:30 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

New Speed Marks Set In England By Graham-Paige Car

DETROIT, Mich., May 4.—New international speed records for 200 kilometers and for 200 miles have been established by a four-speed Graham-Paige on the famous Brooklands track, England. The car, an eight-cylinder five-passenger sedan, carrying complete equipment, and driven by D. M. K. Macdonald, covered the 200 kilometers (121 miles) in 56 minutes, 51.92 seconds, or an average of 76.97 m. p. h. (fold record 82.53 m. p. h.) and the 200 miles in 134 minutes, 47.72 seconds, or 77.73 m. p. h. (fold record 88.08 m. p. h.) The last ten laps were covered at an average of 79.25 m. p. h. The total elapsed time on which the average speeds are based included one stop for oil and gasoline. The records broken for

California Fruit Growers To Spend Nearly Two Millions On Advertising

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—The ever-changing market and the need for selling new users in order to maintain the demand for citrus fruits is emphasized by W. B. Geisinger, advertising manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange in his preliminary statement for the 1928-1929 season. Mr. Geisinger's report, one of the most interesting in years, shows this season's appropriation for Exchange publicity is $1,682,000.

The appropriation is derived from an assessment of five cents a box on oranges and grapefruit and ten cents a box on lemons. Of this fund 77.1-2 per cent goes for consumer advertising, 15.13 per cent for trade work and 4.77 per cent for administration. Oranges will thus pay about $1,224,265; grapefruit, $228,510, and lemons, $229,124. The estimated Shinkins movement for the season is 71,000 cars.

"There are in this country," Mr. Geisinger says, "120 million people grouped into 50 million families. They pay over a billion dollars a year for cake and bread; over 250 millions for canned vegetables and soups; over 350 millions for candy and confections, half a billion for fountain drinks and 3 millions for ice cream. They consume 12 billion bottles of soft drinks paying for same, 600 million dollars.

"The market is ever changing and new uses must be kept up hence the need for persistent advertising. For example, 6,840 new customers enter the market daily. 2.1-2 million new born Americans begin consuming food each year. 1.4 million students leave high schools; 250,000 leave colleges and universities; 1-4 million brides start house keeping; 1,400,000 people die, and another 1,400,000 lose productive capacity. Thus in a few years the market becomes new and the story has to be told over and over again and still for emphasis and reinforcement.

Referring to the national market for food products Mr. Geisinger estimates that it costs about 23 billion dollars a year to feed a nation.

Advertising Plans For Celery Attract National Attention

(Continued From Page One) shippers and others interested in celery production and marketing. The meeting is to be held at the Courthouse Tuesday night at 8 o'clock and will be addressed by several nationally known marketing experts. Wilbur D. Benedict, a member of the marketing staff of the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker of the evening.

The Curtis organization publishes the Country Gentleman, the Ladies Home Journal and the Saturday Evening Post, and the vast fund of data gathered by this organization, through personal experience with growers and marketing groups will be presented by Mr. Benedict Tuesday night. The Seminole Agricultural Club, which is sponsoring the gathering, wants it understood that everyone—not only club members—is invited to attend and participate in the formal discussion to follow the address.

A few weeks ago a prominent Sanford grower stepped off in Washington and discussed with former Secretary of Agriculture Jardine the contemplated national advertising campaign on celery. Mr. Jardine is enthusiastically in favor of such movements and his views have been broadcast by the press only recently, under a heading entitled "Farmers Urged to Advertise."

AC Millions

of users say—

there are just two kinds of spark plugs—AC's and the other kind.

AC's are known as the better spark plugs because of their patented one-piece gas-tight construction and welded side electrode—35 times better in electrical conductivity than the old "staking" method used in ordinary spark plugs. AC quality in design and construction insures easy starting, fast pickup, brilliant performance.

Here is the evidence: AC Spark Plugs are endorsed by the world's leading engineers

Buick	Kiaer
Cadillac	La Salle
Chandler	Nash
Chevrolet	Oakland
DeSoto	Oldsmobile
duPont	Plymouth
Essen	Pontiac
Hudson	Viking
	Yellow Cab

But even the best spark plugs wear out. For increased power—and even for better gasoline mileage—change spark plugs every ten thousand miles. In a few minutes, any AC dealer will equip you with the right type of plug for your car.
