Old Funeral Chapel In Cemetary Used By Bridal Couples

GLENRALE, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—A tiny church in a cemetery, built to serve as a funeral chapel, has become one of Southern California's leading matrimonial altars. It is known as the "Little Church of the Flowers."

Upwards of 175 couples already have been wedded there this year and several christenings also are on record. The chapel is patterned after the noted church of St. Giles, at Stoke Poges, England, from whose burial ground the poet Gray drew the inspiration for his "Elegy."

It is principally from its interior that the church derives its name. Flowers bloom the year round within it. The nave is bordered on each side by small conservatories which are kept constantly filled with flowers, ferns and other plants from a nursery maintained in connection with the cemetery. Brides and grooms have been attracted from many sections. Although all of the weddings have been unpretentious, many wealthy couples have chosen to be married there.

One reason why few recognize Opportunity is because it is disguised as a hard job.—Austin American.

There is Nothing Lacking But an Appropriate Name

With all the advantages of location, high elevation, beautiful scenery, pretty lakes, tropical growth, numerous trees, and complete improvements, all that is needed to make the tract, we hope to place on sale soon, complete, is a name that is in keeping with the property.

At the rate at which suggestions are coming in, by Tuesday night many good names will have been submitted. A day still remains in which those who have neglected the matter, may forward their ideas. Who knows what person may have the honor of naming the development which will be in the limelight for a long time to come.

Hundreds of acres are to be improved and placed on the market. A big improvement plan is to be carried out. Lakes are to be dredged and islands created. The coming months will see much done in the line of developing.

$250 in Cash Will be Paid for the Name Selected

On Wednesday announcement will be made of the name that is acceptable and on that day the name of the individual who made the suggestion and who wins the prize of $250 will be made public. The award will be paid in cash.

Those sending in names should bear in mind that the name must be short, and must be suitable to the tract under development. Accompanying the name must be an article of less than 100 words stating why the name was selected and why it is appropriate to this particular piece of property. Tuesday night is the last chance to make suggestions and when the office of the Sanford Herald closes it will be too late.

Wrigley, the chewing gum man, has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages a day. He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about 5 cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop shouting as soon as he attracted attention. He says you must keep it up or the buyers will forget you. Whether yours is a 5 cent or a $50,000 business, keep telling about it.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

BOAST NOT:—Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth. Proverbs 27:1.

PRAYER:—"Lord, for tomorrow and its needs I do not pray; Keep me, my God, from staining sin, Just for today."

CREEDS

My creed may have no lift of hope for you, And yours might drive me down the slopes of hell. You trust to that by which you carry through, However slight for me its prompt-spell, My faith along my road has served me well.

I look for truth to guide me, but I know My truth is but vision flying far, And yours is but a thing to help you go On to the promise of the morning star.

They are the creed by which I live and die, The perilous heights and breathe their purer air, For you I live in lies, and you for me Are slave to sad futilities. We know Only the faiths of what we feel should be.

Armistice Day

Seven years ago tomorrow, in a shell shattered chateau on the outskirts of the ruined village of Chantilly, in northern France, a group of men representing the victorious allied forces, and the routed, fleeing, defeated German forces, surrounded a table. They signed a document, which ended hostilities in the greatest conflict known in the history of the world, and put a stop to the useless slaughter of thousands of human beings and the wanton destruction of vast areas of valuable property.

The eleventh of November, or Armistice Day as it has become known through association with the treaty signed on that memorable gray day in 1918, has become a great international holiday. Observance of the date is almost universal among those nations allied on the side of victorious democracy.

Grateful citizens, with the picture of the horrors which were before them, welcome the opportunity to set aside one day in reverential memory of those who sacrificed their time, their health and their lives in a duty to civilization, and to joyously celebrate the ending of the great World War.

In the United States, the chief executive has proclaimed November 11, a national holiday, that the whole nation may fittingly observe the day which has such an important meaning to millions of Americans.

Sanford tomorrow will observe the seventh anniversary of the signing of the document that threw all the world in paroxysms of delirious joy. With a fitting memorial service in the morning, with a parade, with fireworks and other methods of entertainment, the American Legion has arranged an elaborate program for the day in keeping with the patriotic and joyous spirit of the occasion. The entire community will heartily enter into the celebration which, it is hoped, will be one long to be remembered.

To Protect School Children

A few months ago the local Kiwanis Club in the course of its activities saw fit to enact a measure that has been both successful and productive of beneficial results. It suggested and put into practice a regulation, which, while simple, has shown justification for its enactment. It endeavored to reduce to a minimum the chances and opportunities for automobile accidents to school children by arranging for school busses to stop on the side of the street nearest the school. It is a significant tribute to the foresight of the Kiwanis Club as well as to the conscientious adherence to duty of the bus drivers, that not a single accident has occurred since the suggestion was put into practice.

The Herald would like to see others follow the lead of the bus drivers and believes if they don't, sooner or later Sanford will have a serious accident in the vicinity of its schools. Only yesterday morning a child was almost killed. And no person was really at fault.

A local resident was driving his small daughter to school. He stopped his car on the right hand side of the street, but across the street from the school building. The little tot climbed out, ran around the car and was struck by another automobile, which she had not seen coming down the street. The driver of the unseen car, fortunately was driving at a moderate rate of speed or the accident might have proven fatal. He had been unable to see the child until it was too late and the accident was entirely unavoidable on his part. He had violated no traffic regulation. Neither had the father of the little girl, but he had failed to show the carefulness and foresight that had prompted the Kiwanis Club in its action.

There is perhaps no way of compelling individual drivers to adhere to the same rule as do the drivers of the school busses. It is to be hoped, however, that they will profit by the near-accident of yesterday and even go out of their way a bit in order to stop their cars in a place where it will not be necessary for the small children to run across busy thoroughfares.

THE OBSESSION FOR THE JOB

Fort Myers Tropical News: We are a nation of job holders. We measure men and women by the importance of the positions that they hold, and above all, we fear, the size of their salaries. In no other country of the world, in no period of history, has the job been so important to millions of people as it is in America today. This is not strange when we consider the size of the United States, its vast opportunities for profitable development, the remarkable industrialization of a formerly agricultural country, and the place that ambition holds in the lives of the inhabitants of the greatest republic that the world has ever known.

That there are inevitable losses resulting from this obsession for the job, an increasing number of our more serious students of contemporary tendencies are realizing. In the eternal quest for bigger and better-paying positions, thousands of men and women—and saddest of all, children, too—are denying themselves the instinctive pleasures; sacrificing their ardent longings to do the things that have always been dearest in their hearts for the sake of the empty pleasure that follows high position or commercial success.

Vast multitudes of people in America keep their noses so close to the grindstone that they never have time to hear the birds sing, to play with little children, to read good books; to take long walks in the country and view the lovely panorama of nature. Many people become so absorbed in the details of their jobs that they soon become mere cogs in the wheels of industry or profession, oblivious of the great, interesting world about them, and really lose the ability to enjoy anything that lies outside of the sphere of their jobs.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB: Years ago, when I earned my daily bread and occasional beer on Park Row, one Andy Horn ran a cozy bar in the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge. All sorts and conditions of men frequented the saloon—sailors, newspaper men, rich men, poor men, policemen off duty, artists and computerers from over the river. A grubby person known as Smitty was a fixture at Andy's. He cut up food for the free lunch counter, did odd jobs and in rush hours helped to serve the trade. Smitty was to Manhattan what a cockney is to London. He had been born on Cherry Hill, right around the corner; he had never ranged further than Honey Island or Far Rockaway.

THE NEWSPAPER

OCALA STAR

One of the greatest inventions was the invention of the printing press. One can scarcely imagine living without printing which would mean being without books, magazines, newspapers and all forms of printed matter. Under such conditions the standard of living would be at the lowest ebb. People would be ignorant, and there would be very little business between different towns, different states and different countries. Sociability would also be limited in its extent and education would be denied to the majority of people.

How many readers have ever stopped to consider the many different kinds of articles found in the daily and weekly papers in order that an appeal may be made to all classes of readers? Have you ever stopped to consider the social and educational influences of these publications? The news given brings us in contact with not only our neighbors, but with all parts of the world. To many it is one of the most welcomed visitors of the day or week. Without these publications a person is out of touch with what is going on in his own locality, and in other parts of the nation and world.

The local paper is the town's biggest publicity agent both at home and in other places. It is not only seen but it is actually read by practically all the home people and at the same time many outsiders see it. Furthermore, it is regular in its appearance and as is well known it is regularity and repetition which counts in publicity.

The newspaper has always been a major factor in publicity. The first weekly newspaper appeared in 1622 and it was published in England under the name of the News Letter. In 1759, Samuel Johnson wrote in the filler: "The man who first took advantage of the general curiosity that was excited by the siege of, battle to be betrayed to the shop where the best puffs and powders were to be sold was undoubtedly a man of great sagacity and profound skill in the nature of men."

In 1771 thirty-one newspapers were in existence in America, and each one contained some advertising. It is interesting to note that among these was Benjamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette, now known as the Saturday Evening Post. The weekly paper has been in existence for a much longer time than the daily, but they have both been an important medium for advertising.

The same is true of our home town papers. They exist because of the public's good will. They aim to render the greatest service possible. Frankly, they can render such service only when they have the hearty cooperation of the public. This cooperation can be given by our people largely by placing advertisements in the local newspaper. It is a well known fact that the chief source of a newspaper's revenue is not in its subscription lists but rather in its advertisements. Without the advertisements it would not be possible to produce a newspaper, and to sell it at a reasonable figure.

Now numerous studies and statistics prove that advertising brings the business and someone has said "statistics never lie." This is like the sick patient who was being attended by a prominent doctor who asked the chances of the patient's recovery. "Oh, they are one hundred per cent," said the doctor. "Medical records show that nine out of ten die of the disease you have, and you are the tenth case that I have treated. All the others have died, and you are bound to get well. Statistics never lie."

The difference between this sick patient and the sick business which does not advertise is that it was only possible to save one out of every ten of those afflicted with this physical ailment while it is possible to save all ten, and many times ten of our local business establishments, if they will avoid the mistakes of the columns of the town newspapers for the purpose of advertising. If we do this merchants will find that they will get new business. This is true because advertising, that is effective advertising, creates new desires after having secured the attention of the reader. These desires express themselves in effective demand. Effective demand is the determination to possess an article plus the ability to pay for it.

In order to create an effective demand the advertising must not be spasmodic, but it must be constant, regular and repeated. The many services of the newspaper may be grouped under two major headings, namely, news and editorial items; and secondly, advertisements. In rendering these several services the newspaper has become a necessity of every day life.

DAN DOBBS SAYS

Our last criticism of those one-piece bathing suits is they don't make good winter underwear. The things you think you get for nothing cost more than those you think you pay for. This is the month in which to begin some bad habits to swear off on New Years. The dangerous thing about shoveling snow is you are so liable to fall down on the job. It is estimated a great many people will get strong exercising to keep warm this winter. Only time some men think they have no kick coming is when it comes time to kick in with some cash.

TRIMMING HIS WAR BONNET

WHY NOT ABOLISH ALIMONY?

MIAMI TRIBUNE: Should childless wives, separated from their husbands, have alimony? This question, recently asked by a judge in Brooklyn, N. Y., bids fair to start something. The judge answers his own query. "It (alimony) keeps couples from being reconciled," he says, "keeps certain women lazy, gratifies their revenge, makes men miserable and serves no great ends." He believes that alimony is an evil; that except in rare instances it does society more harm than good. A typical masculine view, some women will scornfully remark. True, yet there seems to be plenty of feminine support for the judge's opinion. Numbers of educated women hold that it is due a woman's self-respect for her to make her own living, when she is able to do so, after a separation as before marriage. At any rate, here is seen another striking phase of the new sex equality slowly but surely emerging in our modern society. Only a few short years ago no judge would have ventured to suggest such a radical departure from the traditional view of woman's natural economic dependence on man. Such an utterance would have made him a laughing stock of both sexes. Not so today; millions will lend an attentive ear and many will agree with what he says in toto. And after all, why not? Men and women are coming to be less and less the slaves of tradition, and more and more the intelligent and independent directors of their own lives. Unquestionably, alimony (as an institution) has contributed a large share of the marital unrest of the twentieth century, and furnished the divorce mill with much grist that it would not have had otherwise. Many a woman has been fatally influenced in her decision to separate from her husband by eloquent assurance of an often unscrupulous divorce lawyer that he would be able to get her a generous alimony. Numbers of people will agree with the Brooklyn judge when he says that if the country can be rid of the alimony evil we will have gone a long way towards solving the growing divorce problem. Of course, due allowances must be made in the cases of women with children. Deserted, such a woman is due alimony except in the rarest instances. It is all very complicated.

SEVEN YEARS OLD

LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL: One of the last nations of Europe to fund its debt to the United States celebrated this week its seventh birthday. Fifteen days before the signing of the Armistice, Czechoslovakia was proclaimed a republic. The mixed peoples of this section of Central Europe, who had so long been oppressed by Austria and Hungary, were free at last to go their own way, to develop their own natural resources, their own industries, their own Government and in the seven years the little nation has become one of the most prosperous in all Europe. Czechs, Slovaks, the peoples of what was formerly Bohemia and Moravia, had long ago looked to the day when they would be independent. Four months after Germany and Austria had declared war, these liberty-loving people announced in a proclamation they would not take up arms in defense of their traditional oppressors. Throughout the war they played the game of passive resistance, their envoys in other countries winning sentiment for the nation that was to rise out of the chaos of the Dual Empire. The chief of these was a former school teacher, Dr. Thomas Masaryk, who gained the ear of the leading statesmen of the world, and when the republic was launched, he was named its first President. But there have been dangers ahead for the nation. Within its territorial lines is a large population of Germans. Germany had shown its objections to these boundaries, just as it protested against the boundaries of Poland. The insecurity due to these facts is now all but settled. The Locarno agreement, laid the foundation for the settlement, and nervousness over future difficulties has been removed. At its seventh birthday, Czechoslovakia therefore looks into a brighter future, its credit with the world strengthened, its security all but guaranteed.

FLORIDA FODDER PLANTS

TAMPA TRIBUNE: If it had not been for the late Cecil Rhodes, Florida might not have the popular Rhodes grass, a tropical plant immigrant that is proving to be one of the best forage grasses. While the great South African developer was not responsible for its introduction here, yet his interest in the grass brought its possibilities into notice. It was in 1893 that Cecil Rhodes brought to Cape Town the seeds of a native grass that grew wild in Central and South Africa and was recognized as one of the best pasture grasses in those regions. He advised that it should be sown on cultivated soil. The grass, which has since taken Mr. Rhodes' name flourished under the improved methods of cultivation. In 1903 it was introduced in to the United States by the Department of Agriculture. It produces wonderful results when planted in moist and fertile soil, according to a booklet recently issued by the Florida East Coast Railroad. Rhodes grass is an upright grower, reaching waist high, and produces ratoon that root at the joints and form new plants, sometimes making a growth of three to six feet in a single growing season. It can be produced from either used or roots. Another popular plant immigrant in Florida is the Japanese cane, introduced in the state about 25 years ago. It probably came not from Japan but from Brazil. It is the best forage crop in Florida, so far as yields per acre are concerned. Its sweetness is liked by livestock, and the cane can be grown for the amount of hay required by one-half to two-thirds and again grown in all parts of the State. The velvet bean, which has been known to the state for the last 40 years. About 1907 the Lyon velvet bean was introduced from the Hawaiian Islands, and the Yokoyama velvet bean from Japan. A velvet bean was introduced from China, in 1908 R. Y. Winter, Agricultural Botanist of the Florida by the Department of Agriculture, Wakulla, Ocala, and Alachua velvet-enriching legume it is a most valuable plant.

Navy Blue Velvet Makes Appropriate Dancing Class Frock for Girls of Seven or Eight.

Sad but true—a little girl's ideas of an appropriate and desirable party frock seldom agree with those of her mother. Almost any normal unaffected, honest little girl of seven or eight would choose a rose-colored flowered silk, trimmed with lace and spangles and ribbons, or a sky-blue chiffon with frills and flounces, lace and tinsel. And you may be sure if you let your little girl go to parties in that sort of frock she would be envied by all the girls of her own age—but not by their mothers.

So it is not always best to seek your little girl's advice when buying her party frock—that is unless you want to disregard your own better judgment in the matter entirely.

The sketch shows a frock worn recently by a very well-dressed little girl at dancing school. It is of dark blue velvet with an Irish lace collar and flowered ribbon forming a bow with long ends at the front. The velvet is smocked to form a yoke and the tops of the sleeves.

This matter of dancing-class frocks is not always an easy one to settle. With some of the dancing teachers there are rather strict rules as to what the children may and may not wear. Quite often their shoes are definitely prescribed—flexible-soled ballet slippers sometimes being required. It may be that the little girls are required to come in washable white frocks. This ruling is made sometimes simply to do away with the absurd finery that would otherwise be worn and that would lead to all sorts of jealousy and rivalry among the children. Usually these are written—or unwritten—rules against the wearing of jewelry at dancing-class.

When a washable white frock is not worn then there is nothing really smarter than some dark tone trimmed with lace collars and cuffs.

Simple yet smart is this afternoon frock of dark blue velvet trimmed with Irish lace collar and a fancy ribbon tie at the front.

—preferably real lace if you can afford it. Little black taffeta frocks are sometimes chosen and these are very pretty when trimmed with a bit of lace and possibly toned up with colored ribbon bows.

November 11th--- Armistice Day

ONCE MORE we pause to pay tribute to those who gave their lives in the great struggle between Nations that this country should be a leader in every movement for peace and happiness upon the earth.

ON THE OCCASION of an unforgettable anniversary, consecrated by the bravery of those who fought and to set a world free, we pause to reverence them. Out of the smoke and sweat and conflict, torn countries arise and greater industries. That lives were offered at the Shrine of Supreme Sacrifice is an unforgettable memory. Some celestial spiritual contact will cause the Immortal Dead to know that we REMEMBER.

IN APPRECIATION and devotion of the brave who fought and died on the battle fields: we urge all to join hands in observance of the greatest day history, so that the bonds of friendship, devotion and patriotism may grow stronger each day.

Miles Of Sidewalks To Be Constructed In Daytona Shores

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Contract was awarded Saturday for several miles of concrete sidewalks along the Dixie Highway boulevard in the Causeway Section of Daytona Shores, officials of the big subdivision announced. J. A. Quinlan, Daytona builder, received the contract.

Clearing of the land on both sides of the Dixie has been virtually completed and work on the sidewalks will start at once, according to W. B. Hodges, chief engineer. "Most of our building material necessary for this initial paving contract have been delivered," Mr. Hodges said. "We waited until the railroad had brought us our consignments before the size of the first contract was determined. We are now busy transferring large quantities of cement and stone to the townsite."

"More big contracts for paving, curbing and sidewalks will follow as the effect of the rail embargo decreases. We will continue to withhold these contracts until we are certain that work can begin immediately."

Specifications call for the highest grade of concrete sidewalks obtainable, Mr. Hodges continued. "These pavements will be of as high a standard as can be found anywhere in the world," the engineer said. "They will be the best that money can buy. They will be five feet wide in the residential and 13 feet wide in the business section."

Florida Solons Gather Soon For Special November Meet With New Faces In Assembly

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 9.—(AP)—When Florida's special session of the state legislature is opened here November 17, several new faces will be seen, six special elections for the lower house having been held since the regular session last April. In addition to that, there will be 89 members of the House in their seats, instead of 86. The creation of three new counties, Gulf, Indian River and Martin, added three to the lower branch. One representative, who at the regular session signed his name opposite St. Lucie county, will attend the special gathering from Indian River. Mr. Young, who was father of the bill which created Indian River county from a portion of St. Lucie, and whose action isolated him out of the St. Lucie representation, was sent right back to the House in the Indian River special election. In the elections of the two other newly-created counties, Gulf and Martin, W. N. McQuig of Majette, was successful in the former race, and John E. Taylor, of Stuart, in the latter. Representative J. F. Busto, who attended the regular session for Monroe county, tendered his resignation since that time to become judge of the court of criminal records. As a result, an election was held to choose a successor and Charles K. Ketchum was the victor. Mr. Ketchum will join Dr. C. F. Kemp, of Key West in representing Monroe at the special session.

Louisiana Governor Uses Old Desk That Served Maximilian

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 9.—(AP)—The desk at which the governor of Louisiana sits daily is a handsome piece of furniture made of Circassian walnut, curved and carved with matchless skill, and once served Maximilian while he occupied the throne as Emperor of Mexico. Legends say that, after the execution of Maximilian, the desk and two other pieces of furniture from the ill-fated emperor's office were brought to Louisiana and placed in the executive offices. In the reception room is a mirror, approximately 15 feet high and three feet wide, framed in the finest of walnut, that once was a part of the furnishing of the St. Louis Hotel at New Orleans, which was famous in the early history of the city and state.

Capital Seeks Housing Accommodations For 300 Legislators Next Week

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Tallahassee this week began casting about for housing accommodations for the some 300 or more additions to the populace when the special session of the Florida legislature opens Tuesday, Nov. 17. The local Chamber of Commerce has issued a request through The Associated Press for all members of the upper and lower branches of the law-making body to either wire or write their request for accommodations and rooms will be found for them.

Destruction of the Leon Hotel several weeks ago has presented a serious situation here in the way of accommodations for the legislators and their families, and others who attend sessions of the lawmakers. Only one hostelry is maintained here now. The Chamber of Commerce, however, asked local residents some time ago to list their names if any rooms were available and, according to T. P. Turner, secretary of the organization believed that sufficient accommodations had been found.

Daytona Shores To Build $8,000,000 Hotel On Property

DAYTONA, Fla., Nov. 9.—Negotiations with a Chicago Hotel syndicate for the financing of an $8,000,000 hostelry to be erected at Daytona Shores have been virtually completed, John B. DeVosy, president of the big development organization, announced last night. The hotel will be modeled after the new Shoreland Hotel erected recently on Lake Michigan at 55th Street, Mr. DeVosy stated. "While papers have not yet been signed, I have every reason for being confident that the deal will be consummated," the Daytona Shores chief said. "Those active in the negotiations are G. H. Gottschalk, Charles H. Lott and H. J. Fawcett, all of Chicago. Mr. Fawcett is president of the Shoreland Hotel Company, and the other men are interested in that concern. Mr. Lott is one of the largest builders in Chicago. Mr. Lott operates the Parkway, Webster and Belden hotels in the Windy City. "I spent more than any week in Chicago negotiating for the financing of the huge Daytona Shores with these gentlemen. Little else to be done before the project will be absolutely assured. "It is our intention to duplicate the famous Shoreland at Daytona Shores. The hotel will be situated either on the beach front or at the head of the Halifax River, the point where scenic Tomoka River helps to form the historic Halifax. The natural setting there is without equal in Florida. We believe it the ideal spot for this gigantic undertaking."

Capitol Briefs

Former Governor Gilchrist was a visitor to Tallahassee recently. He came here, according to a report, to bid for some state land at a meeting of the internal improvement trustees. While here, however, the former executive found time to visit a number of the state departments and reminisce over old times.

Robert B. Brown, St. Louis auto salesman, lost $1500 betting on the penies at East St. Louis, Ill. Now he's sued to get the money back, under a forgotten Illinois law that enables a loser to sue the man that won from him. He also asks damages for being ejected from the race track.

Gas Fumes Are Fatal To 5 Women Employees Of Minnesota Hostelry

HIBBING, Minn., Nov. 9.—(AP)—Accident asphyxiation probably caused the death of five women whose bodies were found in a cottage here, in the opinion of officials today. The bodies of the women, all employed in a local hotel, were found Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ella Kuusisto, one of the victims. A 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Kuusisto discovered the tragedy when she returned home from a visit. She summoned neighbors who forced their way in. A gas jet was open and the house filled with fumes. The women apparently had been eating when overcome by the gas. Another theory advanced, however, that some poison in the food or wine they had been consuming might have been responsible for their deaths, but officials were inclined to discount this.

The question of how to keep glass top desks intact in the governor's suite of offices is facing officials. At a recent weekly land sale of the internal improvement trustees a prospective bidder sat upon one of the glass tops and cracked it. It proved to be about the fourth that has been broken in that manner.

The embargo of Florida railroads on various commodities threatens to become somewhat of a menace to that ancient proverb, "Cleanliness is Godliness." Jerry Carter, hotel commissioner, asked the Florida Railroad Commission recently if the ban could not be lifted on soap for the hotels. He was told to ask for permit for the delivery of it. "I certainly think the railroads should deliver soap, if nothing else," a railroad commission official averred.

Political Significance Attached To Walker's Visit To Dixie States

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 9.—(AP)—A visit to Atlanta this week by James A. Walker, mayor-elect of New York, is interpreted in political circles here as an effort to "sell" Tammany to the South with potentialities as to Gov. Smith's campaign in 1928 for the Democratic convention. He will arrive in Atlanta tonight and will spend several days there. Newspaper headlines and editorials here have given the visit considerable attention even going so far as to say that the trip of Gov. Smith's protegee to the "Klan Capital" is perhaps an indication that the South, which fought Smith solidly at Madison Square Garden is now ready to make peace and recognize the party. The visit to Atlanta will be en route to Miami, where Mr. Walker will spend a vacation until shortly before Thanksgiving.

The Contest Closed Tonight at 8 o'Clock

—The contest for a name for Sanford's most extensive development comes to an end. At eight o'clock all suggestions for a suitable name for the big tract must be in. The office of the Sanford Herald will close at that time. Those who have delayed submitting their ideas may yet do so provided they act quickly.

The selection of the name will be made at once. Every letter will be opened and the name we consider the most appropriate will be decided upon.

The Name Selected Will be Announced Tomorrow

Tomorrow tells the story. After today Sanford's new development which is to be one of great magnitude, will be called by its own name. That name will be heard on the lips of nearly everyone and will always be associated with one of Florida's beautiful and highly developed residential communities.

The Herald of Wednesday will announce the name of the winner of the $250 cash prize, and the name that is selected.

Dr. Bauer Forms New Air Mail Service For Key West-Panama

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(P)—Dr. P. P. Bauer, operator of a successful airmail and passenger service between the Caribbean coast and Bogota, Colombia, has been instrumental in the formation of an American corporation for which he hopes to obtain a contract for air mail service between Key West and the Panama-American Coast. The route would be by way of Havana and the five Central American republics. Dr. Bauer discussed the matter at a conference yesterday with Postmaster General New and informed him that the new organization would with the inter-commercial lines use American pilots and American motors and because controlled by American capital.

He hoped, however, to use Italian-built planes and the postmaster general was inclined to agree that this might be permissible at present if American motors were used.

When tobaccos are good enough to speak for themselves

—let them say it!

THAT'S the one way to give men what they want in a cigarette—natural tobacco taste. Each type of tobacco should contribute—one its spicy tang, one its rich aroma, one its mellow "body," one its mild sweetness; and if the quality is right and the blend is right, that's all there is to it.

Sounds easy! But to create a blend that combines fullness with mildness; that removes heaviness while retaining "character"; that makes a cigarette that is smooth and mild yet "satisfying"—to do all this is not easy, far from it.

It is so difficult, in fact, that millions of smokers sincerely believe it has been achieved in only one blend in the world.

This blend—and they swear by it—belongs to Chesterfield. It embodies the finest of Turkish and American tobaccos—and it can't be copied.

Nerves All Unstrung?

Sanford Folks Should Find the Cause and Correct It. Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant headache, sharp twinges of pain, too, with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Sanford folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles. Mrs. G. A. Herron, 610 Oak Ave., Sanford says: "I suffered from kidney trouble. Severe pains shot through the small of my back and I could hardly stoop. My feet bloated so badly, I couldn't wear my shoes and my kidneys didn't act right. My nerves were all shot to pieces. I heard about Doan's Pills and bought a box. They helped me from the first and continued use cured me." 60c at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. "Amid Majestic Pines"

FEW subdivisions in Florida are rich with magnificent trees. Many developers have attempted to give a natural setting to property, otherwise barren, but few of them have been able to do it with success.

WHAT is finer than natural beauty spots? What is more inviting than a residential section in which are to be found countless stately pine trees, through which the delightfully cool breezes sing? It is without doubt the trees that add so tremendously to the desirability of any location as a homesite.

SANFORD Grove nestles amid majestic pines. With beautiful trees that have been on the property for many years, with unusually high elevation, this development which is destined to become known far and wide for its advantages as an ideal place in which to live, offers a variety of inducements to the homeseeker.

AT the present time Sanford Grove is in its natural state and as far as possible it will be left that way. Of course, streets and sidewalks are being built and various other improvements put in, but in our efforts to make the development as beautiful as it can be made, we do not expect to detract from the touches nature has so freely given.

A Miller Project

AS nearly everyone in Sanford knows, Sanford Grove is owned by E. C. Miller, for twenty-five years president of the Magnolia Metal Company. For several years a winter resident of Sanford, Mr. Miller has become one of the city's greatest boosters and is giving much of his time and energy to helping in the growth and development of the city. A member of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Miller is always cooperating in worth while civic development projects.

ASSOCIATED with Mr. Miller and in charge of development and sales of Sanford Grove is Bart Nason, a member of the Sanford Realty Board of the Providence Real Estate Exchange and for five years a realtor.

A place of beauty, desirably located, Sanford Grove is destined to become known far and wide as a development of great merit.
