'Big Picture Of Progress' Painted For Seminole

By Harry I. Johnson
 "A port by 1966."
 "Expansion of the Agricultural Experiment Station."
 "A medical center for Seminole County."
 "Free and easy phone communications between the north and south parts of the county."
 "We'll be turning dirt for an airport in two years."

These and other comments were made Wednesday night at a Mayfair Inn dinner meeting of various committee chairmen of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. Each presented his version of the "Big Picture of Progress" for the county. And the future looks bright; the brightest in history. A long list of speakers reviewed the past and gazed into the future when called on by Loring Burgess, Chamber president.

A capsule comment of each is given in alphabetical order: AGRICULTURE—Gen. J. C. Hutchison: Looks to improved products; control of harmful insects; support of the Central Florida Experimental Station; station expansion is planned; further cooperation of agriculture and industry; help the Sanford State Farmers Market.

AIRPORT—Gordon Frederick: Application for Federal Aviation Authority approval for an airport west and south of Sanford has been denied; must locate another site; in "dire need" of an airport; will find another spot for an airport so as not to conflict with the Naval Air Station's flight patterns; will be turning dirt in two years for an airport.

ARMED FORCES—Mack N. Cleveland Jr.: Will continue maximum effort to continue friendship with the Naval Air Station; cooperation pledged to Captains James O. Mayo and Chandler W. Swanson.

BEAUTIFICATION—John Alexander: Meeting slated Jan. 22 with landscape engineers to see what is permitted along state-owned highways and approaches to the county; complete concentration on all approaches to the county as the beautification work progresses.

GREATER SANFORD BOARD OF COMMERCE—DeWitt Mathews Jr.: Various groups—some of which have been at odds—are merging into one group; stimulate enthusiasm for the beautification of the Sanford area; stop flow of dollars out of Seminole County.

INDUSTRIAL—Scott Burns and Carl Schilke: Port Authority Committee has moved rapidly; Industrial Show proves highly successful; Seminole County is in a strategic location as a trading area; can lure numerous industries to this section.

LAKE MONROE DEVELOPMENT—Dr. Vincent Roberts: The Riverport Marina is one of the most important projects to come before the Chamber of Commerce; each committee, each individual has an integral part in pushing this project; future of Sanford and Seminole County lies in the natural resources it possesses; help pledged to the City Commission in seeing if the marina project is feasible; "I personally think this (marina project) is feasible; port authority and marina efforts must be coordinated; "God willing, we will have the port in another year."

PROMOTIONS—Clifford McKibbin: Highway signs being put in place along strategic points of highways leading to Seminole County; car tags pushing various communities have been or are being issued; need for recreation areas cited.

WATERWAYS—Sam Levy: "If we can bring people down here to play, some will come to stay; must lure owners of smaller boats as well as larger ones; it's better to fill a 10-cent lunchbox 10 times than a 25-cent lunchbox once; set up special cruises starting from the lakefront."

NEW FACILITY—James P. Avery Jr.: President Johnson has proposed building of 38 medical centers; "we are almost certain of getting one, if not two; must put our bid in" for this institution; will attract a high type of people to the community.

CAPTAIN SWANSON: "Thanks for including the Navy in the Chamber's program; "Navy doesn't take lightly the importance of such cooperation as exists here; 1964 was a year of decision for this community; there is no change in the status of SNAS—if anything, it is getting firmer; cooperation pledged to further community programs."

CAPTAIN MAYO: The Navy did a thorough study of Sanford before deciding to stay in Sanford; it is for the "best interest of the Navy" that it stay in Sanford; "I have in my hip pocket one thing no other Navy officer has—community spirit."

AROUND THE CLOCK
 Four varieties of Girl Scout cookies again will be offered to the public in the Citrus Council of Girl Scouts Jan. 15-30 to raise money for a new dining hall at Deer Lake Camp in the Ocala National Forest.

Tonight will be Welcome Wagon Night at Orlando-Seminole Jai Alai Fronton when members of the Welcome Wagon Club will be admitted free.

The Clockwinders hear that the beautiful poinsettias at the home of T. R. Butts at 1412 Park Avenue are traffic-stoppers. Mrs. Dorothy McReynolds, who called in this bit of information, says drivers stop their cars to look at them. If you go to see them, please don't block traffic.

This is the first year in many years we can remember seeing poinsettias blooming in January. They are usually all dead by Christmas, but this unseasonable weather is going to have the poinsettias and the azaleas blooming side by side. Sort of takes away a little of the glory of the azaleas which come on strong with their vivid color after everything has been bare for a month or so.

Speaking of flowers, the calendulas bordering the walkways at City Hall add a bright spot of eye-catching color there.

While we're on the subject, how about those 50 million phlox along the lakefront that Tom Gilchrist suggested? Best idea we've heard in years. What say, John Alexander? Tom says he's ready with the color cameras.

While Sanfordites are basking in 75 degree weather Andy Carraway is flying over the South Pole. Andy and wife, Helen flew to Christchurch, N.Z. last week to visit Adm. James R. Reedy and his family. Admiral Reedy, formerly stationed in Sanford, (he was a captain then), is commanding officer of the Naval Support of Antarctica with headquarters at Christchurch. The Antarctica station which will be visited by Andy and the Admiral is Camp McMurdo. Should be a thrilling adventure for the local insurance man, who is starting his retirement off in a big way.

Johnson Cuts Request For Foreign Aid

$3.4 Billion 'Consistent' With Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson today asked Congress for slightly less than $3.4 billion for foreign aid next year. It is the lowest request in the 18-year history of the aid program.

In a message to lawmakers Johnson called it the "lowest aid budget consistent with the national interest."

Johnson requested $1.17 billion for military aid—slightly more than last year's appropriation—and $2.2 billion for economic aid, almost the same as last year.

He said that if "situations should arise" requiring additional amounts, he would not hesitate to ask for more funds.

Follows Pattern
 The request followed last year's pattern of presenting Congress with a tightly cut down aid program in hopes few cuts would be made.

Last year, this tactic resulted in the smallest cut ever made by Congress in a President's foreign aid request—only 7.6 per cent.

The new funds would be for fiscal year 1966, which starts next July 1.

Bliss Optimistic For Future Of Republican Party

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ray C. Bliss as Republican national chairman plans to work quietly in the background in his determined effort to rebuild the Republican party.

Describing himself as a realist, the man slated to become national chairman on April 1 said he was optimistic about his party's future.

He is convinced it has a solid base upon which "qualified candidates, adequately financed with proper organization support" can expect to make a winning race.

Bliss is not discussing the party's ideological disputes and any plans he may have except to say he expects to be a "deek chairman" working full time at his $30,000 a year job.

He has not sought a single vote for the chairmanship he told newsmen when he made it plain he expects to pattern his national operation after that which has been successful in Ohio.

Bliss said he would continue his Akron insurance business so that he would be financially independent.

"I never want to be dependent upon politics for a living," he said. "I am glad that I have a business to fall back upon because having that security I made some decisions that I otherwise might have been hesitant to make."

He said he would be a "deek chairman," putting his seemingly limitless energy to organizational matters and leaving most of the speaking engagements to others.

RAY BLISS

"I don't like to be vague," Bliss said when asked about his more specific plans as chairman. "I don't hold many news conferences and I like to be candid in my answers."

"But all this happened rather quickly and I have had no time to do any thinking about what I would do in an office to which I haven't yet been elected. You don't make plans and announcements until you have had time to study them and know what you are doing."

He said, however, in answer to a question, that he expects to have a "relatively free hand" in rebuilding the party and hopes to "conduct myself so as to invite the confidence and support of all."

In that connection, he said he had not made commitments to anyone in exchange for support to replace Dean Burch, who will submit his resignation next week effective April 1.

Bliss said also that he would continue his Akron insurance business so that he would be financially independent.

"I never want to be dependent upon politics for a living," he said. "I am glad that I have a business to fall back upon because having that security I made some decisions that I otherwise might have been hesitant to make."

Ousted Students May Appeal Rule On 'Homework'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Two men students suspended from college for keeping a co-ed at their apartment until 3 a. m. may go to court with the contention that homework takes precedence over an 11 p. m. curfew.

Richard O'Brien, 20, of St. Petersburg, and Roger Krohne, 21, of Orlando, were denied reinstatement at the University of South Florida at Tampa by the State Board of Regents.

They said they probably would appeal to the courts.

The two were suspended last October after an 18-year-old co-ed who hadn't signed out of her dormitory was located by the dean of women in the off-campus apartment of the youths at 3 a. m. The dean ordered the girl back to the campus by telephone.

O'Brien and Krohne said they were familiar with the 11 p. m. curfew in the women's dormitories.

But they argued that this rule was secondary to another campus rule allowing students the right to make the best use of their time and talent toward the objectives of their education.

Both youths said Mrs. Fox was helping them prepare for a mid-term examination.

Seven Die In Landslide

OCEAN FALLS, B.C. (UPI) — Seven persons were believed killed in a landslide that struck this pulp mill town Wednesday night. Several houses were demolished.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police reported two bodies have been recovered and five persons are missing. Five other persons were hospitalized.

The slide rumbled down on the residential area about 10 p. m. Details were not immediately available because all communications were knocked out by the slide. Early reports were relayed via ham radio operators.

Rescue operations were suspended during the night because of the danger of further slides.

The town, with a population of about 7,000 is ringed by mountains and is the site of a pulp mill complex operated by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd.

The slide apparently was caused by high temperatures and torrential rains. A spokesman for Crown Zellerbach said the plant, which employs 1,100 persons, was at the opposite end of the town from where the slide occurred. It was not affected by the avalanche.

The mill was closed down shortly after the slide to allow employees to take part in the disaster operations and care for their families.

Several of the townspeople took shelter in the mill.

The town is situated on an inlet, 300 air miles up the coast from Vancouver, B.C.

Drug Stocks In Spotlight

Well Street Chatter NEW YORK (UPI) — Clark, Dodge & Co. notes that drug stocks have come back into the market spotlight recently, reflecting the public's "fascination" with the economic implications of medicine.

The broker says the industry has good long term growth prospects domestically, a promising future abroad and an immunity from the vagaries of the business cycle.

Baehs & Co., in pointing out the resurgence of the drug and airline stocks which had been relatively neglected in the last part of 1964, says the development "underscores the need to be on top of the changing market patterns that will unfold during 1965."

E. F. Hutton & Co. advises investors to keep some liquid funds in reserve and says selectivity should still be a key word in any new purchases.

However, the brokerage firm adds it was impressed by the market's recent performance in the face of the many uncertainties overhanging the market place.

Tom Gilchrist In Return Talk

The man who stirred Seminole County imagination like few persons have in the past — Tom Gilchrist of Daytona Beach — will return here Feb. 10 for another speaking engagement.

Gilchrist, head of Channel 2, WESH-TV, will speak at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Civic Center.

He spoke here earlier at a Seminole County Chamber of Commerce meeting and sparked the drive for a beautification project of Seminole and especially the lakefront area.

Since his talk, various committees have been formed both in and out of the Chamber to get the project underway.

Humane Society Enrolls 21 More

Twenty-one members joined the Seminole County Humane Society at its meeting Wednesday night at Moose Lodge on Palmtoe Avenue.

Financial Report Due Boosters

Lyndon Bans New Files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. government stopped buying new file cabinets today under President Johnson's new file directive.

The Chief Executive instructed federal departments and agencies to dispose of old papers or send them to record centers when they need more filing space.

He said the government could save at least $5 million a year by more "managerial prudence" in using office equipment.

The President issued his temporary ban on purchase of new file cases shortly after announcing a new photo competition that may encourage cameramen on the U.S. payroll to use more film and other supplies.

Johnson said in a separate announcement he would select a "President's choice" photograph each month from pictures submitted by federal agencies portraying government efforts to meet human problems.

"Photography can show with peculiar power that government is personal—that we are concerned with human beings, not statistics," he said.

Johnson's directive for savings on office equipment came in a letter to the heads of the General Services Administration (GSA).

GSA is the government's housekeeping agency and does much of the purchasing for other federal departments.

Auto Production Up 32 Per Cent For This Week

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. automobile manufacturers will turn out 210,876 new cars this week, maintaining near-record output schedules, Automotive Industries magazine said today.

That was 32 per cent above the 159,119 cars built in the same week last year.

It was the fifth highest week in auto history, just below the 213,346 cars turned out last week.

Through this week, 424,222 new cars have been assembled in the U.S. In the same period last year, 390,253 cars were built.

In another automotive development, it was reported that radial ply tires, long popular in Europe for their durability and economy, are being studied by tire and auto companies for use on American cars.

However, acceptance of radial ply tires as original equipment in the United States "will depend upon decisions as to whether to redesign automobile suspension systems to accommodate them."

Blackberry Seminar Scheduled Tuesday

A state-wide meeting to discuss all phases of the growing and marketing of blackberries for the commercial markets is slated Tuesday for Floral City, Dr. P. J. Westgate, horticulturist with the Central Florida Experiment Station, said today.

"The commercial growing of blackberries is arousing more and more interest, with the demand far exceeding the supply," Dr. Westgate said.

He noted that blackberries are a relatively easy crop, with no serious problems of soil or pests.

"The only major problem is that they require hand picking," he said.

Discussions at the Floral City meeting will include site selection and varieties, cultural practices, nursery stock, irrigation systems, spray programs, harvesting and handling, and marketing.

The three varieties of berries grown in Florida are Florida Grand, Oklawaha and Braxas. Experimental crops of these have been produced at the Central Florida Station since 1956. Average yield is 14,500 pints of berries per acre.

Attending the meeting from this area will be Dr. Westgate, Richard Packard and Henry Simpson.

DR. EUGENE ELLIS, newcomer to politics, recently was given the oath of office for his first term on the Casselberry Board of Aldermen. (Herald Photo)

Installation of the first telephone cable equipped to carry television signals in this area will be started this week by the Winter Park Telephone Company.

A. E. Ludescher, general plant manager, said the cable will connect the Midway central office in Winter Park with the Terrace office in Altamonte Springs.

More than 34,000 feet of cable will be installed at a cost of $295,000.

Ludescher said that the cable will provide 900 additional circuits between the two central offices plus four coaxial tubes capable of handling television, data or other special services.

"Since the basic cable is in keeping with our policy of planning ahead for future communications services," Ludescher pointed out that this cable project is part of 27 million in capital additions that will be made by the Winter Park company this year.

Journal Urges
LONDON (UPI) — The magistrate judges' journal, the Justice of the Peace, has urged striking off an offense made punishable during the Napoleonic wars.

The offense is "being a suspected person loitering with intent to commit a felony."

President Benjamin Harrison was preceded and succeeded in office by the same man: Grover Cleveland.

Randall Chase New President Of Boy Scouts

By Jane Casselberry
Randall Chase, Sanford businessman, was installed as president of the Central Florida Council of Boy Scouts at the annual banquet in Orlando.

W. T. Daniel Jr., Scoutmaster of Troop 841, Casselberry, was one of six area Scout leaders to receive the Silver Beaver award, highest honor which the Council can bestow.

Daniel is a 25-year veteran in Scouting and served as tour leader last summer with the Council's World's Fair Service Troop.

He also was cited for establishing the "Chow hound Trail," a 20-mile hiking trail from Casselberry to Oviedo and back, as well as planning activities to promote inter-racial goodwill among the troops in the district.

Chase succeeds Dr. P. P. Hatfield, Umatilla, as Council president. Installing officer was W. R. Ennis Jr., deputy regional executive from Atlanta.

Other new officers: Col. Robert P. Alton, Satellite Beach, first vice president; Gen. Clifford Rice and Joel Phillips, both of Winter Park, second and third vice presidents; Joe Shine, Orlando, fourth vice president; Wesley Darnold, Orlando, treasurer; and James Kasper, Kissimmee, commissioner.

C. D. Caldwell was renamed to the post of council executive. The principal speaker was assistant chief Scout executive Robert L. Billington, of New Brunswick, N. J., who spoke on the theme, "Our Boys Today, Their Heritage and the Space Age."

Wally Krohne, of Maitland, who was renamed training chairman, presented Wood Badge Awards to Bob Martin, of Eau Gallie, and Jim Cushing, Cocoa.

Golden Beach Driving Laws Challenged

BOSTON (UPI) — The Automobile Legal Association (ALA) has charged that a Massachusetts motorist's license was seized illegally in Florida.

"They can't do that," an ALA spokesman said. He said the ALA will challenge the procedure by sponsoring a test case in Florida. The Massachusetts Motor Vehicle Registry agreed with ALA that the license seizure was illegal.

According to ALA, here's what happened: A Winchester (Mass.) motorist was stopped for speeding in Golden Beach, Fla., north of Miami, Jan. 1. He was charged with driving 50 miles an hour in a 40-mile-an-hour zone on Route A1A.

The motorist said a policeman asked to see his driver's license and told him he would have to post $300 bail pending court appearance Jan. 25. The motorist said he told the policeman he did not have $300. He said the policeman told him, "in that case, I'll have to keep your license. If I don't, you'll have to go to jail."

The motorist said the policeman kept the license and wrote out a traffic violation ticket on which was printed notification that the driver had forfeited his license in lieu of bail "at his request."

The policeman, according to the motorist, told him the ticket would show why he did not have his license in case he had to produce it for any reason.

The motorist eventually returned to Massachusetts without his license.

Long Run

JOHN O'GROATS, Scotland (UPI) — Briant Frost, 39, has begun an 800-mile run from the extreme north of Scotland to Land's End, southernmost point of England. He said he expects to cover 70 miles a day on a diet of fruit and orange juice. He's running barefooted.

Zebulon Pike never reached the summit of the peak which bears his name. His try in 1806 was a failure.

Financial Gossip

Little Danger Of Inflation

By Jesse Bogue
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The current expression of "concern" over price rises in the monthly review by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York again brings up the disagreement among economic reviewers over the extent and effects of price increases in various basic fields.

The bank's review said that price developments "continue to be a cause for some concern."

It reported that both consumer and industrial wholesale prices went up in November and that preliminary indications were that the industrial section of the wholesale price index also went up in December.

It noted that there were steel price increases announced in late December, centering attention on a basic material area which has been attracting attention from others who have been watching price levels in general.

But while many market analysts and economists look for some price increases in basic fields during the coming year, not all agree on their extent and ultimate effect.

A. W. Zelomek, head of the International Statistical Bureau, Inc., writes that despite projection of a higher general business trend "and despite the current emphasis on higher wages and increased steel prices, there is no evidence of a sharp advance in wholesale prices or of marked inflation."

Zelomek has consistently expressed the view that there was little danger of any runaway inflation in the United States.

He has disagreed with those who argued that a rise in industrial raw material quotations were a harbinger of the wholesale price trend.

Allan B. Shaw, of the Harris, Upham & Co. research staff, in a 1965 preview also noted that the steel situation was a key factor in price levels for the coming year.

The steel workers will be "making ambitious demands" in their forthcoming contract negotiations, he noted, and said that the "price increases that have taken place so far strengthen both labor's attack and the possibilities of government intervention on any future price increase attempt."

"Therefore," he continued, "price inflation may not be too great a threat this year, but labor costs may advance, with resultant pressure on profit margins."

Homemakers

By Mrs. H. L. Johnson

Have a request from Mrs. Hazel (Joel) Field wanting some recipes for those on non-salt diets. From the Home Demonstration office we found this booklet. So I will give a few of them first. I am sure Mrs. Field will find some of them really good.

SWEET & SOUR SPARERIBS
2 1/2 lbs. lean spareribs
1/4 cup unsalted margarine
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 tsp. minced garlic
1 tsp. cornstarch
1 cup pineapple juice
1/2 cup cider vinegar
3 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. pepper

Place ribs in shallow baking pan. Roast uncovered in moderate oven 350 degrees for 1 hour. Pour off fat. Meanwhile heat unsalted margarine in saucepan. Saute green pepper, onion and garlic in margarine until tender. Remove from heat. Stir in cornstarch, juice and vinegar. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat, stir in sugar and pepper. Pour sauce over ribs. Continue basting occasionally, until tender, about 1/2 hour. Serves 4.

GREEN BEANS AMANDINE
1 lb. green beans
1/4 tsp. basil
1/4 tsp. pepper
2 tsp. unsalted margarine
1/2 cup sliced almonds

Cook green beans with basil and pepper until tender, about 25 minutes. Meanwhile melt unsalted margarine in skillet. Add sliced almonds and saute them until golden brown. Toss sliced almonds mixture with green beans. Serve hot. Serves 6.

PEAS WITH MUSHROOMS
1/4 cup unsalted margarine
1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced
2 cans (8 oz) dietetic peas

Melt margarine in skillet. Saute mushrooms until golden brown. Heat peas in saucepan until hot. Stir in mushrooms. Serve warm. Serves 6.

SPANISH RICE
6 tsp. unsalted margarine
1/2 cup raw white rice
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 cups dietetic canned tomatoes
1/2 cup water
1/4 tsp. sweet basil
1/4 tsp. oregano
1/4 tsp. pepper

Heat margarine in saucepan. Add rice, pepper (green) and onion, cook, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are tender. Add dietetic canned tomatoes, water, basil, oregano and pepper. Cover and simmer until rice is tender and all liquid is absorbed, about 15-25 minutes. Serve hot. Serves 6.

BANANAS FLAMBE
1/2 cup unsalted margarine
4 med.-sized bananas, peeled and split
1/4 cup sugar
2 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 cup brandy

Melt margarine in a large skillet over low heat. Add bananas, sprinkle with sugar and lemon juice. Saute very slowly over low heat, until brown on one side (about 10 minutes). Turn with a spatula and brown on other side. Remove bananas to serving plate. Add brandy to skillet, stir to pick up browned bits. Flame and pour over bananas.

HIGH ALMOND COOKIES
1 cup unsalted margarine
1/2 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 tsp. water
1 1/2 tsp. almond extract
2 1/2 cups sifted flour

Cream margarine. Gradually add sugar and cream together until light and fluffy. Thoroughly mix in egg yolks, water, almond extract and flour. Force dough through pastry tube or cookie press on to greased cookie sheets, use any shapes desired. Bake in hot oven 500 degrees about 7 minutes.

Would like to know if these help you any Mrs. Field.

CRABMEAT CAKES
3 tsp. butter
1 clove garlic, peeled
4 tsp. flour
1 cup milk
1/4 tsp. salt
dash pepper
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
6 1/2 oz. can crabmeat (1 1/2 cup)
1 egg beaten
2 tsp. butter
1 hard cooked egg
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Melt butter in saucepan with clove of garlic sliced into several pieces. Remove pieces of garlic when butter is melted. Blend in flour and add the milk stirring constantly until the sauce boils and thickens. Add salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce, then remove from heat. There should be 1 1/4 cups sauce. To 1/2 of the sauce add 1/4 cup bread crumbs and crabmeat from which cartilage has been removed. Mix well, cover tightly and put in refrigerator to chill. When thoroughly chilled shape mixture into 10 small patties, then dip patties into remaining bread crumbs, beat egg and again in crumbs. Pan-fry in melted butter in a hot skillet until browned on both sides about 5 minutes. Serve hot with remaining white sauce which has been reheated with the chopped hard cooked egg and thinned with about 1/4 cup milk. Serves 5.

Mix sugar and cornstarch and add to prunes. Cook over boiling water 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Beat eggs, add sour cream and heat just enough to blend well. Pour into prune mixture and cook 6 to 8 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice. Pour into baked pie shell and cool before cutting. Serves 5 to 6.

LIVER & BACON WITH FRIED NOODLES

Sprinkle noodles and liver with salt. Serve hot, surrounding noodles with liver and bacon. Serves 5.

Jaycee Wives To Aid Husbands At Annual Ball

Mrs. Charles (Ethel) Thomas was hostess recently at her Osceola Drive home to the first meeting of the year for the Jaycee Wives.

Linda McKee presided over the business session and plans were discussed regarding the wives assisting the Jaycees with their annual "Distinguished Service Award" Ball, which promises to be one of the most outstanding local events of the year.

Charles Fox, chairman of the Jaycee planning committee for the ball, was guest at the meeting and welcomed the Jaycee wives assistance in the outline he presented to the group. The ball will be held at the Sanford Police Benevolent Building.

Mrs. Mary Jean Berrien introduced her sister-in-law, Mrs. Paulette King, as a guest of the meeting.

Members attending were the Himes, James McKee, Dave Berrien, Charles Thomas, Jim Rowe, George Paulk, Jack Ludwig and Richard Morrison.

Fashionettes

Watch for stovepipe pants

Daily reports they will tilt their stride in '65. The direction in other pants shapes is mostly toward a western hip-slung look—no waistband and sometimes sitting just below the waist, tight through the hips, dead straight from the knee down.

"Soft set" resort cottons for '65 focus on blousing, bias, cinched waists, wrapped or pleated action skirts, and reams of ruffles. By day, there's a whole range of airy textured cotton suitings. By night the gossamer cotton laces and sheers take over. Palest pastels predominate when it comes to color.

Pan-broil bacon until crisp as desired, drain and place on hot platter. Add well drained cooked noodles to bacon fat turn carefully over and over to coat noodles with fat without breaking them, and cook rapidly without further stirring until delicately browned. Turn and brown other side. While noodles are browning, remove skin and veins from liver and pan-fry in a small amount of hot fat for 5 to 10 minutes or until just done through. Sprinkle noodles and liver with salt. Serve hot, surrounding noodles with liver and bacon. Serves 5.

Las Vegas Showgirl Finds Business Role Appealing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—One would think that a good-looking girl whose measurements read 36-22-36 would be trying to get into show business—not out of it.

But willowy, blonde Ruth Christensen, a lead showgirl in the Folies Bergere at the Hotel Tropicana for the past four years, is turning her lovely back on this glamorous profession.

She's decided to learn the hotel business, and now for the first time in many years is working on the customer's side of the footlights.

Miss Christensen, a native of Copenhagen, Denmark, has been on the stage 15 years. After appearing in nightclubs and revues all over the world, she eventually came to Las Vegas.

Several months ago Miss Christensen decided to bow out of the Folies and turn to another profession.

"I am thinking of my future. And there are always younger girls coming up. I decided to learn a business. The closest at hand is the hotel business. I'm learning it," she said.

It was a hard decision for her to make. The weekly salary of $225 was good for a showgirl. She could save money. The hours were awkward—but not too bad.

But the showgirl talked to J. K. Housels Jr., the hotel president, who offered her a job in guest relations and as a hostess in the exclusive La Fontaine Lounge and Gourmet Room.

With guests coming from all over the world to the hotel, Miss Christensen was a natural for such posts. She speaks French, Spanish, Swedish, Danish, German, Portuguese, Italian and English.

She insists she is happier with her present job than appearing on stage although her salary is a little smaller.

"My new job is much more interesting than my old one. As a showgirl, I never spoke a line in four years on the stage. Now I talk to our guests—in any one of eight languages. You can't imagine how frustrated a girl can get when she can't say a word," said Miss Christensen.

The showgirl turned businesswoman has a few words of advice for those starting in show business.

"Plan for the future. Don't put much stake in planning to meet that handsome and wealthy husband. Save your money."

The advantages: "There are opportunities to travel and see the world. It's never dull. Have fun but maintain a sense of humor."

Miss Christensen is the daughter of Naomi and Valdemar Christensen, of Copenhagen. Her father is a retired motion picture director and photographer.

After graduating from college in Copenhagen, she modeled and did some films. Later she joined a small French troupe and toured with the troupe throughout Denmark.

She then went to Paris and worked for five years as a showgirl-nude at the La Nouvelle Eve nightclub and with various other musical revues that played all over the world.

In Paris, she was spotted by a Folies Bergere scout and was offered a chance to come to Las Vegas for the opening show.

Miss Jennifer Lynn Dreier Bride Of John Zenewicz

Miss Jennifer Lynn Dreier, Dreier of Daltary, and John Zenewicz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Zenewicz.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN ZENEWICZ
Middleton Photo

Mrs. John Zenewicz of Pittsburgh, Pa. were united in holy matrimony on December 20, 1964, at the Deltary Methodist Church with Rev. Cecil Ogg officiating at the impressive double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Ed Wood of DeBary, was lovely in a white formal bridal taffeta gown with the fitted Alencon lace bodice featuring a Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. Alencon lace appliques enhanced the voluminous skirt and detachable chapel train. Her tiered veil of illusion fell from a lace forest headpiece and she carried a crescent bouquet of white orchids and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Pamela Massey of Sanford attended the bride as matron of honor and was gowned in gold taffeta. Bridesmaids were Holly Ann Johnson of Titusville, cousin of the bride, and Pearl Smith of DeBary, who were attired in kelly green taffeta frocks, identical to the matron of honor.

Donald Massey of Sanford served the groom as best man and ushers were Henry Thurman II, and Harry O. Johnson, cousins of the bride from Titusville.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held at the Deltary Fireman's Recreation Hall.

After a wedding trip to Pennsylvania, the newlyweds are residing on South Park Avenue in Sanford where the groom is attached to the Naval Air Station.

About Sports

Thinking Out Loud

BY JULIAN STENSTROM

By Julian Stenstrom We're confident that Pete Roselle, commissioner of the National Football League, knows more about his business than anyone else outside of the pro football ranks.

During previous years the NFL has called its annual winner the world's champions. Not so, this year. And the NFL winners won't be called "world champs" by this newspaper, the wire services, or any other news media, until the time comes when the champions of the two leagues collide in an annual "world championship" game.

We've talked to local fans who not only watch the pro clubs in action on the screen but also travel to games in person. We're not talking about just going to Miami but there are those around here who go to New York, Baltimore, etc.

Senior Citizens Circumvent Social Security

GIRL SCOUT COOKIES are going on sale Friday, with 800 boxes available locally for hungry cookie-lovers whose name is legion. First to receive some samples of the tasty goodies is Mayor J. H. Crapps, who is showered with a box of each kind by these Girl Scouts. From left are Melinda Nelson, Mayor Crapps, Deborah Danklefs and Nancy Rodgers. Sale runs through Jan. 30. (Herald Photo)

CONTRARY to evidence caught by the camera, these four Geneva youths, Perry Thomas, Leo Ford, Turby Kinniard and Jack Romans (left to right) are "all business" most of the time as they build additional shelves for the new library to hold books which are being donated regularly.

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Spokesmen for senior citizens said there are hundreds of couples living together in Miami Beach without benefit of wedlock.

But it's not a matter of sin in the autumn of their lives but instead a platonic arrangement to share the cost of living, the spokesmen hasten to add.

"When I see them holding hands in church, I don't feel there is any sin," Rev. Benjamin Schumacher, president of the Florida Council for the Aging, said.

"I see no moral or religious problem," Schumacher added. "These people are 75 or 80 years old. It's strictly platonic."

The oldsters live out of wedlock because to remarry would cost them too dearly in pension dollars.

This soon may be changed. Rep. Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) introduced a bill in Congress to permit widows over 62 to remarry without losing pension rights.

Marshall Wise, district manager for social security here, explained just what the problem is.

A woman whose husband is retired and receiving a Social Security pension begins, when she is 62, to receive one-half of his pension. If her husband receives $100, she gets $50 and their total pension is $150.

When the husband dies in this case, the woman's pension becomes $82.50. But she must give this up if she remarries, because the law takes the view that it is the responsibility of her new husband to support her.

But if her new mate is a pensioner, too, and receiving, say, $60 instead of $100, then the woman's pension would become only $30.

Henry Gillman, secretary of the Florida Senior Citizens League of Voters, said there are "definitely more than 1,000 unmarried old people living together here, in Miami Beach."

One lady, in her 70s, described the arrangement with her man, Bert.

"When my daughter comes down from up north, Bert moves out. She wouldn't think it was right."

Teacher Shows Artifacts

By Jane Casselberry

South Seminole Junior High School students in Mrs. Jean Wargo's seventh grade Life Science class heard a talk by Robert Likens, of the school's math department, on Indian relics and lore.

Likens displayed the interesting collection which he and his son have gathered in parts of Virginia, Tennessee and Florida since they first became interested in the hobby 10 years ago.

The collection includes many types of arrowheads and spearheads as well as many other stone implements and pieces of pottery.

One of the most interesting items is a bowl of peace pipe molded with a face on it.

They first became involved in collecting Indian artifacts when they were boating on one of the TVA lakes in Tennessee and landed on a knoll where the receding water had left literally hundreds of arrowheads and other items exposed.

Bowing Bows Out

Old folks in Japan, like old folks anywhere, are complaining that children today are an ill-mannered lot. They seldom bow to their elders any more.

According to a story in the English-language Mainichi Daily News of Tokyo, reprinted in Atlas magazine, this is true. School children now bow only about eight times to their teachers during the course of a day.

The custom is said to be falling into disuse, but other statistics printed by the newspaper show that bowing is still an important part of Japanese life.

A company department head, for instance, may bow over 100 times a day if his job involves meeting visitors. An ordinary clerk may bow only 25 times.

Priests bow an average of 150 times a day, but for a funeral service they bow 300 times.

Far and away the champion bowler is the elevator operator. If she bows to every fifth customer, carries 40 customers a minute and works for 80-minute shifts a day an elevator girl bows 2,560 times.

Next is the train conductor, who bows to each passenger before punching his ticket. Riding two trains a day, each with 13 full coaches, a conductor would bow about 2,132 times.

Other statistics show that 70 per cent of men bow at an angle of five degrees, 25 per cent at an angle of 15 degrees and 5 per cent at an angle of 30 degrees.

Women generally make deep bows. They take 1.4 seconds to do it, while men bow for a brief nine-tenths of a second.

'Hi Ho, Silver'

The next time anyone offers you "a penny for your thoughts," take him up—but fast.

Unless, of course, you can get him to up the price to a nickel or a dime or—if you are a real heavy thinker—to a quarter.

It isn't the principle of the thing. It's the money. Specifically, it's the coin.

The current coin shortage in this country is for real. And economists say it's going to get a lot worse before it gets better.

The government is working frantically to relieve the shortage. But meanwhile—

The New Jersey Turnpike Authority pulled a switch by taking up a collection from the churches, exchanging paper currency for coins dropped in the basket at church services.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike didn't go to church, but it did go to the restaurants along the turnpike and buy up coin tips the waitresses had received.

The Mackinac Straits Bridge people in Michigan are ruing the day they set the toll fee at $3.75. That quarter change they have to make so often is a bigger headache every day.

Vending machines—blamed in part for the coin shortage—are themselves feeling the pinch and more and more frequently are flashing the little green light that says "use exact change."

Any day now a businessman may walk up to a haberdasher and say, "Brother, can you spare a dime?"

Thought For Today

How forceful are honest words? But what does reproof from you reprove?—Job 6:25.

All noise is waste. So cultivate quietness in your speech, in your thought, in your emotions. Speak habitually low. Wait for attention and then your low words will be charged with dynamite. — Elbert Hubbard, American writer and editor.

The Lighter Side

United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John F. Baldwin Jr. is not ordinarily given to rash comment. As congressmen go, he is generally regarded as comparatively restrained. But just this week I overheard the California Republican make a statement that I regard as exceedingly unrealistic, if not downright extraneous. It happened like this: While passing by a door to the House gallery, I chanced to note that some sort of meeting was going on inside the chamber. Since the House was not then in session, I stopped to see what was up. It turned out to be a seminar for new members of Congress. This year's crop of freshmen was listening to a series of orientation lectures given by knowledgeable upperclassmen.

Speaker John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) admonished the newcomers to study hard so they could learn the rules and precedents, and to attend their committee meetings faithfully.

Another instructor stressed the importance of getting re-elected, and another spoke on the importance of lining up a good office staff.

It was all as commonplace as I half expected someone to remind the novitiates to brush their noses clean and brush their teeth after every meal.

Much of Baldwin's talk also dealt with the prosaic side of being a congressman. Among other things, he pointed out that it was considered bad form to wear hats, smoke and hoot, hoo or jeer on the floor of the House.

Then Baldwin discussed some of the rules and customs of congressional speechmaking, and it was here that the seminar suddenly took a rather unlikely turn.

Baldwin, usually a man of moderation, put forth one of the most radical suggestions I have heard in all the years I have been observing the activities of Congress.

He advised the matriculating lawgivers that if they should ever feel they had to speak out on a certain issue, they should make sure they knew what they were talking about.

Fancy that! In effect he was proposing that congressmen, at least during their first term, refrain from discussing on subjects about which they are uninformed.

Since Baldwin is no impractical visionary, there must be some merit in this approach. But, frankly, if I were a new congressman I would cling to the traditional system. Which is:

Never form an opinion on any matter until you have had time to evaluate your own comment about it.

MONTREAL (NEA) — Some psychiatrists are coming to strange, tentative conclusions about the human mind.

They're now saying (aptly) that things have changed since Sigmund Freud's day, or that Freud was wrong, and that down in side we're not all driven solely by hunger, thirst and sex, after all.

Instead, some of these men are saying that these days we're living in a much higher plane—at least a lot of us are—and that it's not worry over sex, hunger or thirst that drives us to the psychiatrist's couch, but higher worries.

We're divided in the mind, these psychiatrists believe, about self-esteem, our personal worth as human beings, whether or not we're useful or important to the world at large.

There is no agreement among psychiatrists, of course, but some of these men are now saying that our thinking can get us into even more serious "nervous breakdowns" than our emotions.

They seem to be saying, in fact, that perhaps thought frustration can be more dangerous than sex or hunger frustration.

Thinking, it seems, can lead us into mental sickness when we try to solve problems we don't have the capacity to solve. It may be that our brain can take some of the mental steps. But then it reaches some step it can't handle.

Perhaps it's because our particular brain hasn't been trained to handle these things. Perhaps some scientific discovery or emotion has blocked out our ability to take one or more steps in the thinking chain, and we bog down part way through and come up with a crazy nonsense answer. We become frustrated. These frustrations build up.

It seems that possessing a brilliant brain may not necessarily save a man from these mental frustrations. Physicians, mathematicians, bankers, psychologists, college professors may have highly trained minds. But their minds are highly specialized in one kind of logic or another. So they could run afoul of mental distress when they get out of their own fields.

What these psychiatrists are finding is that no one knows very much about thinking. They don't know how we think, what causes thinking to break down, how far thinking is determined by emotions and how much by a computer-like logic.

They think that a study of the mind will help determine the thinking processes of the mentally well (since the minds of the ill apparently break down somewhere along the thought process, the break may indicate or expose one or more steps in the thought process).

But other things are worrying the psychiatrists. Are some people having breakdowns because they've been trained or educated too narrowly? Why is it that children seem to lose much of their creativity by the third or fourth grade in school? (Are we destroying some of our thinking ability by our training and schooling?)

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Paul Stadelman is one of the world's cleverest ventriloquists. He recently started teaching a course on this fascinating subject and among his graduates are some very talented girls. Send for the booklet below if you are unduly shy or inclined to stutter for it offers helpful prescriptions.

George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D. CASE U-482; Paul Stadelman is a very talented ventriloquist.

Recently I dined at a fancy Chicago restaurant where Paul was the roving entertainer with his ventriloquist's "dummy."

Some mutual friends introduced us so we had an interesting discussion for half an hour.

It was doubly pleasant to me, too, for I had seen his picture in the Chicago newspaper a short time earlier.

He was surrounded by a graduating class of about a dozen students of his official course that he conducts on ventriloquism.

Among his students were a few very attractive looking girls.

"I was interested in the fact that girls take your course on ventriloquism," I began.

"Yes, and they are often very adept at it," Paul replied.

Then he informed me that such girls utilize their skill both for entertaining groups of people, but also in many commercial roles.

For female ventriloquists are ideal in toy shops and the children's section of our large department stores.

"Dr. Crane," Paul added, "I have followed your newspaper column with great interest ever since I saw an article in which you reported that my specialty is a great aid in treating chronic stuttering.

"What you said is certainly very true. I have had several hopeless stuttering cases that responded quickly when they took the first few lessons in ventriloquism."

"As you had mentioned, they do NOT stutter when they turn their attention upon their dummy."

"For a ventriloquist's dummy does not stutter although I can purposely imitate stuttering with mine."

Whereupon he intentionally made his dummy stutter! It was the first time I had ever heard such a demonstration.

"Dr. Crane," Paul continued, "I started my course because a prominent Chicago dentist had witnessed my performance at his men's luncheon club."

"He was of foreign birth so had grown somewhat shy and inclined to stutter, partly because of self-consciousness about ordinary conversation."

"For he would say 'dese' and 'duse' for the pronouns 'these' and 'those'."

"So he asked me if I would coach him. Well, after the first two lessons he was delighted and insisted that I outline a 10-lesson course."

"For he said his wife had commented that his dummy used correct English."

Then Paul quoted the dentist's enthusiastic report: "Mr. Stadelman," the dentist exulted, "my dummy never says 'dese' and 'duse' but he always uses 'these' and 'those.' So my wife tells me I better take some lessons in English from my dummy, Ha."

Paul Stadelman also informed me about a 15-year-old boy who was almost tongue-tied in a crowd due to shyness.

"But after a few lessons in ventriloquism," he added, "this boy lost his timidity, for he diverted attention from himself to his dummy."

"And he also became the life of the party by means of his clever manipulation of the dummy."

If you wish to develop a very helpful hobby that has splendid social as well as business by-products, study ventriloquism.

And send for my booklet "How to Stop Stuttering," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Sanford Herald, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

BUCHANAN History's most lavish.
WASHINGTON Man of few words.
GRANT Where the jewels were.
JOHNSON "Jest plain folks."

How America Had A Ball

By Jerry Klein
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The ghosts of George Washington wearing black velvet and diamonds, Woodrow Wilson forbidding an inaugural ball as "frivolous" and William Henry Harrison killing himself delivering an 8,000-word-long Inaugural Address, all will be among the inevitable audience at the Capitol Jan. 20.

As Lyndon Johnson is sworn in as their successor to the nation's highest office they may reflect how dramatically inaugurations have changed.

Washington may admire LBJ for deciding to break custom and wear a plain business suit for the ceremony. The father of his country never felt comfortable in the fancy dress and varnished shoes his advisers felt dignified required, but apparently Washington tried to make up for this flamboyance by giving the shortest inaugural address, just 134 words.

On Wednesday evening some 20,000 persons are expected to attend a series of inaugural balls, a tradition begun by James Madison in 1809 (when only 400 turned up). His predecessor, Jefferson, had disapproved of a ball because it "smacked of royalty."

Similar celebrations were ruled out by Franklin Roosevelt, Hoover, Coolidge, Harding and Wilson, perhaps sensing America's coming involvement in war, said such a ball would be "somewhat frivolous in the face of the solemn responsibility assumed in taking office as president."

President Johnson's inaugural speech will probably follow his "jest plain folks" style and be of moderate length. It took about an hour for Harrison to get over the 8,578 words prepared for him by Daniel Webster enough time for him to get chilled and die of pneumonia within the month.

Inaugural addresses have varied in quality as well as quantity, of course. The one Abraham Lincoln delivered at his second swearing-in ("with malice toward none") has become a classic of spoken literature, though it was one of the shortest: just 688 words. John F. Kennedy's, too, will probably bulk important in history.

But Harding's speech was so full of "incomprehensible polysyllables" that literary critic H. L. Mencken said it possessed the "style of a rhinoceros liberating himself by main strength from a lake of boiling molasses." Harding had "tortured" the American language, charged Mencken, and put it "to cruel and unusual uses."

Inaugural speeches have been used to set the tone and thrust of the new administration. But strangely, there were four chief executives who delivered no addresses at all.

Johnson and Arthur were vice presidents who succeeded to the higher office through death. But since none was elected in his own right, none ever got the chance to make an inaugural speech.

It will be some time before the total bill for the 1965 inauguration comes in, but no doubt it will run into the hundreds of thousands. Just to erect reviewing stands around the White House cost about $100,000 these days. Though when Zachary Taylor was sworn in they cost $200 and the carpenters were glad to be earning $1.50 a day.

This inaugural crowd will no doubt be well behaved. Yet the White House reception given for Lincoln was so disorderly it seemed that a regiment of troops had been quartered there with permission to forage.

The public was so unruly following Jackson's swearing-in that they left the White House virtually in tatters. Afterward, Jackson and his vice president, John Calhoun, had trouble finding enough unbroken china on which to have dinner.

At Plover, S. Grant's inaugural reception, jewels were stolen from ladies' gowns and the guests' clothing was mixed up that next morning so some 800 "frantic" people were still milling around trying to locate their hats and coats.

One of the most lavish banquets ever to follow a presidential inauguration was laid for James Buchanan. A special building was erected for the party, 235 feet long, decorated in red, white and blue. Inside was served a banquet including 400 gallons of oysters, 500 quarts of chicken salad, 1,200 quarts of ice cream, 500 quarts of jelly, 60 saddle of mutton, four saddles of venison, 75 hams and 125 tongues. The event, it is said, was long remembered.

REBEL QUARTET will appear under the sponsorship of the Anchor Club of Seminole High School at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 21, in the SHS auditorium. Tickets may be obtained from any club member, Touchton's, Roumillat and Anderson's and June Brown's beauty salon.

VA Will Close 14 Hospitals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Veterans Administration (VA) advised lawmakers it will close 14 hospitals and 17 regional offices across the country. It estimated the saving at $125 million a year. Hospitals to be closed were picked on the basis of low patient demand, difficult staffing, and outmoded structures, the VA said. Functions of regional offices on the list for closing are to be transferred to the nearest other available VA offices. Target date for all closings is June 30. Hospitals to be closed are at Bath, N. Y.; Castle Point, N. Y.; Clinton, Iowa; Dwight, Ill.; Fort Bayard, N. M.; Grand Junction, Colo.; Lincoln, Neb.; McKinney, Tex.; Miles City, Mont.; Rutland Heights, Mass.; Summit, N. Y.; Thomasville, Ga.; White City, Ore.; and the Tuberculosis Division at Breckville, Ohio.

Cut Your Own Taxes - 9

By Ray De Crane
Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Many taxes formerly deductible on the annual income tax return were eliminated by the 1964 Revenue Act. These are the tax on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages and fees paid for auto license tags and drivers' licenses.

The Treasury Department also has reviewed the sales tax allowance charts in the 38 states having state, county or city sales taxes. For each state Internal Revenue Service now has a chart showing the optional amount of sales tax which may be deducted without any proof being required. These automatic allowances are based upon total income and the number of persons in the family.
