But it turned out to be a worldwide opportunity for the "students" -and the term is used loosely-to display unconcealed anti-Americanism, youthful impertinence, brassy disrespect for the stature of the panelists, and, above all, bad taste. The tone of the questioning was argumentative, prejudiced, bitter and smarty-pants. The youths with the Iong hair and sideburns didn't ask questions as much as they made little soapbox speeches on behalf of the Viet Cong and our enemies in South America.

Good taste has been taking a beating for some time now.

Is 'Good Taste' Out

The "freedom for filth" demonstrations on campus; the avalanche of girly magazines, each more girly than the last; sex-saturated movies; more and more violence on television; news stories which spare no gory or intimate details; the public showing and exposure of highly personal affairs which were once regarded as purely private - the list grows longer and longer day by day. What to do about it?

Well, you can't stamp out bad taste with laws or regulations. And after the television demonstration the other day, you apparently can't stifle it by education. So perhaps the best way to restore good taste as an "in" thing is for everyone who believes in it to be very careful to set a good example. And to voice open opposition and resentment to displays of bad taste whenever they occur. One thing seems certain. We aren't going to really achieve that Great Society as long as bad manners, bad taste and bratty impertinence are given featured billing on a world-wide screen.

WHERE DO THE STARS GO, MOMMY?

The big brown eyes are thoughtful, the small face earnest as Mary Anne considers the universe.

Bometimes our pint-sized inquisitor's questions are devastatingly funny, sometimes deadly serious; but always important. Harry and I may chuckle over them, but we never forget that these queries reflect Mary Anne's increasing awareness of the world about her. We know that our answers and attitudes are an important part of her development. Another influential portion of Mary Anne's growth, we feel, has been her regular attendance at Church School. There, Mary Anne's experiences with other children have been related to God's plan. The tiny kitchen or play garage in the skilled teacher's capable hands becomes the training ground for Christian behavior. How glad we are that our church is well equipped to guide our child in her religious growth. Attend your church. Take advantage of the inspiration and knowledge it is eager to share with you and your children.
