Emergency Powers For Governor Are Provided In Bill

Proposal Would Provide For Confiscation Of Property In Event Of Attack

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 16 (AP)—A proposal to give Florida's Governor with unusually broad and stringent powers in the event of a war emergency was put up to the Legislature today.

A House bill, introduced by nine representatives, is designed to set up a civil defense agency for the State and put legal teeth in the present defense agency.

Should an enemy attack or other emergency come the Governor would assume directional control of the defense agency.

The bill provides the Governor's seizure powers could be invoked after an emergency declared by the Congress or the President or an enemy invasion.

The Governor could seize private property, communications facilities, buildings. These could be sold, distributed or handed in any way the Governor or council wished.

Methods for reimbursing persons whose goods are seized are laid down in the bill.

Local defense agencies also are authorized under the measure. Taxes to foot the bill in case of an emergency could be levied under provisions of the bill.

Rep. Murray of Polk, one of the sponsors of the bill, said it was introduced at the request of the State Defense Council. He explained it was a model bill suggested by the Council of State Governments.

He said he would stress that provisions in the bill under which the Governor could use the stringent emergency powers would be cleared.

An appropriation of $111,200 is proposed in the bill, but this would be continued on page 31a.

First 400 Soldiers Are Sent To Pusan For Rotation Home

PURAN, Korea, Apr. 16 (AP)—The first 400 soldiers to be returned from the Korean front by the Army's new rotation policy arrived today to board a transport for the United States.

About 40 officers and 360 enlisted men comprised the first shipment from various combat units in Korea. They are scheduled to leave Tuesday, said Lt. Col. Robert T. Shaver of San Antonio, Tex. He is commanding officer of the new Eighth Army Rotation Center at Pusan.

Shaver said the group was enthusiastic about being the first to be rotated home. A sign in the rotation compound said, "Welcome, you've earned your trip home."

Lt. General Edward H. Brookes, Army Department personnel chief, predicted the rotation program will hit full speed by mid-summer, "unless obstacles go way up."

Brookes, who flew to Korea to inspect troops and talk over personnel problems with field commanders, added, "of course, it would like to end the war and get them all home."

"General Ridgway is very much interested in rotating these men as fast as possible. He and I want to get out as many men who have had long or dangerous stints in Korea as we can. However, we must maintain combat efficiency."

The first man to arrive for rotation was Sgt. Paul D. Dezelme of Grand Ronde, Ore.

Allied Troops Smash 9 Miles Across Border

Red MIGs Flee Into Manchuria Before Allied Sabre Jets; Offensive Looms

YONCHON, Apr. 16 (AP)—Allied troops smashed into Yachon nine miles deep in Red Korea today and hammered out limited gains along the rest of the 150-mile North Korea front line.

Communist forces fled from light to bitter. Yachon is three miles northeast of Yanggu. The Red supply base captured Sunday on the east-central front.

About 50 North Koreans fled from Yachon before the attack. Then they stopped and threw mortar fire back into the town.

Farther east, South Korean troops occupied a high ridge north of Inje.

In the air war, F-86 Sabre jets twice tangled with Russian-type MIG-15s Monday afternoon. In the first air battle 16 F-86s mixed with 30 MIGs. American pilots reported two MIGs damaged and one probably destroyed. Later in the afternoon 18 Sabre jets clashed with more than 15 MIGs and chased them back across the Yalu River. The Communist planes escaped damage.

Monday's score brought to 150 the number of Communist jets destroyed or damaged in air battles since Nov. 1 when MIGs first appeared in Korean skies.

Since the Korean war started June 25 Allied planes have destroyed or damaged 317 Communist planes of all types. American losses for the same period are listed as 184.

The Sabre jets were also out on a strategic mission Monday. They dive-bombed an important supply bridge across the Yalu River at Inje, upstream from Sinuiju. The direct hits with 500 pound bombs were reported.

In all Fifth Air tactical planes were shot down by U. S. F-86 Sabres.

American and Turkish soldiers made the day's best gains on the ground as the United Nations maintained the initiative across the Korean front.

Allied infantry and tanks were firmly entrenched in Yanggu, once a Red troop-massing point on the central front.

Another U. N. force held the high ground northeast of Yanggu, seven miles inside Red Korea on the eastern tip of the huge Hwachon reservoir.

Tanks lumbered into Yanggu Sunday afternoon after breaching strong Chinese and North Korean Communist defenses.

The Reds massed troops and supplies there early last week, apparently in preparation for an expected counterthrust against the Allies.

On the west-central front U. N. troops advanced against only light resistance. They now have full control of the south bank of the Hwachon reservoir.

At correspondent Robert Emmott on U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Reds were using brush fires to smoke up the countryside and hide their ground movements from the prying eyes of Allied airmen.

Allied troops captured a large supply dump near east of Yonchon Sunday. The Reds put up a bitter one-hour fight before drawing back.

Auction Sales Are Resumed At Market

Auction sales were resumed this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Sanford State Farmers Market with Vern Slater, noted auctioneer from Plant City in charge of operations. The auctions will be continued at 2:00 P.M. and 4:00 P.M. daily.

Manager Sandy Anderson announced this morning that the auctions are for the sale of vegetables and fruit only.

Produce sales were heavy throughout last week, he stated, with 116,821 units selling for $169,679.

Total sales for this season amount to $4,824,226, and sales of only $194,554 are needed to exceed the entire season of 1949-50.

Unless climatic conditions interfere, the Market will show sales valued at more than $5,700,000 said Mr. Anderson, who pointed out that the present marketing season has two and a half months yet to continue.

MacArthur Is Invited To Address Joint Congress Session Thursday; General's Plane Lands In Hawaii

Photographers As MacArthur's Plane Lands At Airport

HONOLULU, Apr. 16 (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur, stripped of his top military command, arrived early today from Tokyo on his way to the mainland for a hero's welcome and a political battle over American policy in Asia.

His big transport plane glided onto Hickam Field's runway at 12:28 A. M. Seven minutes later he stepped on American soil for the first time since his 1950 Wake Island conference with President Truman.

He has not been on the U. S. mainland for 14 years.

The deposed supreme commander of United Nations forces in the Korean war will leave Tuesday to carry his views on U. S. policy in Asia to Congress and the American public.

He arrived when most of Honolulu was asleep. But today the public will get a good look at him—and he will get his first taste of an American city's welcome for a returning hero.

The general will ride at the head of a parade through Honolulu's streets, receive an honorary degree from the University of Hawaii and visit famed Waikiki Beach.

The general's plane was met by Honolulu's military and civilian big brass. Applauding civilians (Continued on page 31a)

Post Office Thief Takes More Than $500 Refund Checks

FORT PIERCE, Apr. 16 (AP)—Thief of an undetermined amount of loot from the local post office, including an estimated $500 to $750 government checks, presumably income tax refunds, was revealed this morning.

Postmaster C. W. Peters said the office was broken into sometime between 10 P. M. Saturday and 5 A. M. Sunday when a custodial employee reported for work. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in an unbarred window. In the postmaster's office, unslatching and raising the window.

The theft was not revealed, however, pending a check by postal and local authorities.

Peters estimated that 2,000 to 3,000 pieces of mail that had been sorted for rural and general delivery were scooped up and taken. Most of it was first class but some packages were stolen.

Only one package was left that had been opened—it contained a woman's dress.

Peters said apparently the burglar used a key to get into the post office but other clues had been found. The thief left the post office by the same opening through which he entered, and even hesitated long enough to reach the window.

Peters warned banks and business men to exercise caution in the cashing of checks until the matter is cleared up. He also asked that any discovery of quantities of mail or mail sacks be reported immediately either to him or the authorities.

MacArthur Testimony May Clear Up Mysterious Wake Island Meeting

By KETON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Affairs Reporter
WASHINGTON, Apr. 16 (AP)—Out of General Douglas MacArthur's appearance before Congress may come a new account of what the General and President Truman did at Wake Island last October.

Until now, the only official version of the short talk between the United Nations commander in the Far East and the man who later fired him from the job has come from the President—a formal, generally phrased statement issued by Mr. Truman.

A mystery grew up about the meeting. An element of the original mystery probably developed out of the fact that the Wake Island session really was composed of two meetings—a private two-man talk between the General and the President, then a general huddle attended by the two and the men who accompanied them.

Last Wednesday, in relieving MacArthur, the President issued a series of documents involved in the controversy which led to the firing. Many of them in considerable detail. That night the

Dispatch Of Grain To India Is Urged To Relieve Famine

Secretary Of State Declares Starvation Is Imminent

WASHINGTON, Apr. 16 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today urged Congress to act quickly to send 2,000,000 tons of grain to India where, he said, a famine is developing more rapidly than this country anticipated.

Acheson went before a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to discuss the Indian aid proposal. He seemed certain, too, to run into questioning about Far Eastern policy, generally.

That policy has run into in (Continued on page 31a)

U. S. Planes Win In Skies Over Korea; Reds Lose 147 Jets

By TOM STONE
TOKYO, Apr. 16 (AP)—U. S. jets are kicking the daylight out of Russian-made jets every time they tangle over South Korea.

Since the Reds first started using jets in the Korean war, Nov. 1, they have lost 147 destroyed or damaged by U. S. Fifth Air Force pilots.

U. S. losses are secret but an Air Force official said known losses are kicking the daylight out of Russian-made jets every time they tangle over South Korea.

Overall the Communists have lost 24 planes of all types since the Korean war started June 25. That includes aircraft knocked out on the ground as well as in the air.

American losses for the same period were listed as 104. Eleven of these were lost in air combat. The others were shot down or damaged by ground fire. Many returned to base or landed behind their own lines.

Of the 147 enemy jets claimed by U. S. pilots, 42 were known destroyed, 12 were listed as probable. (Continued on page 31a)

Man Shot With Wife Of Doctor Improves

JACKSONVILLE, Apr. 16 (AP)—James R. Howie, 27, shot in the head Saturday when found in bed with the wife of Dr. Hans Strasser of Tusculum, was improving today in a hospital here.

Police said Dr. Strasser, 40, Brevard county health director, admitted firing the shots that wounded Howie and killed Mrs. Strasser. He was held without formal charge in Brevard county jail.

Howie, a civilian technician at the guided missile proving grounds near Titusville, and his wife were weekend guests of the Strassers.

Mrs. Howie told police she and Dr. Strasser drove off for some cigarettes and when they returned found the two in bed. Mrs. Strasser nude and Howie clothed except for shoes. She said that Dr. Strasser "got a gun from somewhere and shot them."

White House Declares General Is Welcome To Call On Truman While In Capital

WASHINGTON, Apr. 16 (AP)—The White House agreed unanimously today to a joint meeting with the Senate Thursday to hear General Douglas MacArthur.

Democratic leader McCormack (Mass.) asked that the House empower speaker Rayburn to declare a recess during the regular session Thursday so that MacArthur could be heard.

There was no objection, so the matter was settled.

No further action by Congress is necessary, since the unanimous consent request implied an invitation to the deposed General to speak. However, the Senate tomorrow must go through the formality of deciding to come to the House chamber Thursday to hear MacArthur. The Senate was not meeting today.

Meanwhile, President Truman notified Congress he has authorized use of $29,000,000 of government funds to enable Yugoslavia to obtain critically needed raw materials for its armed forces.

Elsewhere in the nation's capital Rep. Adair (R-Ind.) today introduced a resolution calling for the dismissal of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State, and Rep. Hakeswell (R-Mo.) offered one to give General Douglas MacArthur a special medal.

Both proposals were made shortly after the House agreed to a joint session with the Senate Thursday to hear MacArthur. The resolutions were sent to committee, with no early action in sight, in other action today.

The Senate Crime Investigating Committee and a special commission of the American Bar Association met to hammer out legislation striking at the underworld.

The final report of the committee's long look into crime is due in two weeks. The special commission is helping "pick up recommendations for new anti-crime laws."

Senate investigators classified the nation's basic military training camps—all but one—from "excellent" down to "minimum satisfactory."

The exception among the 16 training centers is the army processing center at Fort Benning. Conditions there were called "excellent."

The White House meantime, said MacArthur is welcome to call on President Truman while here if he asks for an appointment.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short made this clear at a news conference today. (Continued on page 31a)

A-Bomb Defenses Are Called Inadequate

WASHINGTON, Apr. 16 (AP)—Mildred Caldwell, Civil Defense Administrator, was quoted today as saying adequate steps have not yet been taken to protect the nation from atomic attack.

Caldwell, his aides and air force officers appeared before a closed session of the Senate armed services committee to give their views on the damage an atomic attack might cause.

Chairman Russell (R-Tex.) of the committee told a reporter later the Civil Defense Administration officials said that not nearly enough has been done to meet the danger.

Russell said the witnesses also outlined what they hope to do to prepare for such attacks. He declined to go into details.

He said, however, he presumes Caldwell will ask Congress for more money to help prepare the civilian population to meet atomic bombing.

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHTS

We cannot live in a garden of Eden. Life means temptation at every step unless we decide once and for all to resist it. Blessed is the man that endures temptation for when he is tried he shall receive the crown of life.

We see where Elliott Roosevelt has become a resident of Florida. And he'll be running for governor first thing you know.

President Truman is quoted by Drew Pearson as saying, "It time to show the MacArthur, the Time-Life people and the Scripps-Howard newspapers who is running American foreign policy."

Mrs. Meil Young has taken her $9,000 mink coat which she got for "expediting" RFC loans and left her White House job for good because, she says, her own house hold duties require her undivided attention.

John Temple Graves puts his finger on the crux of the argument. "Is this a MacArthur and General Marshall or MacArthur and Acheson?" Wouldn't we like to know? As between MacArthur and Acheson, we take our stand with MacArthur. As between MacArthur and Marshall, we would keep our big mouth shut.

One of the best sheriffs in Florida was murdered in Ocala the other day when a prisoner he had apprehended shot him five times in the neck and stabbed him six times in the stomach. Sheriff Posters was recognized as one of the best law enforcement officers in Florida, and had succeeded in 1946 a former sheriff who had been suspended on charges of conspiracy to violate lottery laws.

Five American superforts are shot down by Russian jets based just across the Yalu River affording them complete protection from American bombers, according to an order from the Commander-in-Chief, President Truman. Just how he expects General Ridgway, General Van Fleet, or anybody else to protect American G. I. from these invulnerable jets when we can't protect their bases is a military secret which he alone understands.

Many popular safety notions are all tommyrot, says the magazine "Friends." Rubber gloves will not protect you from high tension wires. Washing a bad cut helps only if the water is pure. Often it is not and infection results. If your boat turns over, don't try to swim to shore. Stay with the boat until help come. If you are bitten by a poisonous snake, don't put your faith in alcohol. It only stimulates the circulation of the blood, helps spread the poison throughout the body.

David Lawrence, in whose honesty and integrity we have much more confidence than we have in President Truman's, says that high Navy officers generally agree that MacArthur is right about checking the expansion of Communism in the Far East or else Europe will be lost too. "General MacArthur was right in 1942," says Lawrence and he is right again in warning for our attention to the Pacific and most of all against any abrupt surrender or compromise in Asia that means the same thing militarily. He is arguing for the mothers and fathers of the boys killed today in the United States Navy who again will bear the brunt of such attacks. He is saying that the 250,000 men of the United States Air Force will be

Sanford in 1884

Sanford as it appeared in 1884 is shown in an old lithograph recently lent The Herald by Edward F. Lane, Sanford realtor and pioneer citizen. It consists of a large scene from an imaginary aerial viewpoint looking toward the shoreline and city from Lake Monroe, and bears a remarkable likeness to the city of today.

Three long piers are seen extending into the lake, the longest of which is a railroad bridge, an extension of what is now a spur line ending back of the zoo. At the end of this pier are shown three sheds located on a wide wharf where steamboats docked. Other piers are seen at the foot of both Sanford and Palmetto Avenues and having similar, but smaller wharf facilities.

The Sanford House, the leading hotel in Sanford, is seen facing a well landscaped park which was located on the site where the Greyhound bus station now stands and the area immediately east of it. The lake at that time extended to Commercial Avenue near Sanford Avenue and covered what is now the soft ball park, Court House lawn, and the City Hall and Zoo area.

Where the Hunt Used Car Lot and the Post Office are now located.

Smaller picture inserts show the Presbyterian Church, the Episcopal Church, the Bishop Block and Drug Store, the Florida Land and Colonization Co. office, Trafford and Co. hardware, the Lyman Bank, the South Florida Railroad Depot, and the store of H. B. Lord, jeweler and dealer in Florida curiosities.

Close examination of the large picture reveals the office of the Sanford Journal, of which J. J. Harris was editor, located at the site of the present Russell Seed Store, First Street and Park Avenue. The railroad depot was a two story building located at the site of the present Girl Scout headquarters on Commercial Avenue.

Persons having pictures or other historical documents or relics of this type should carefully preserve them as they will grow in value with the passing of time.

Optimism For Europe

There seems to be a trend of optimism in regard to the peril of the extension of Communist domination in Europe by the process of political infiltration. A short time ago Italian Catholic Action made public in Italy the results of a survey of Communist strength in a number of nations of western Europe, showing losses for the party over the past two to four years. Now the State Department has assembled a list of membership estimates of 1946 and 1950 in eleven nations of western Europe, and the comparison shows substantial party losses in all of these.

The reductions in Communist strength, by this tabulation, range from 24 per cent in West Germany to 84 per cent in Luxembourg, where it is estimated the party now has only five hundred members. The Department spokesman who announced these figures pointed out that this is a very good omen for the political future of Europe, and said that the task now is to carry through the great military effort to confront the threat of Communist aggression.

Doubtless this is so, if the possibility of Communist infiltration is truly fading, then the danger of attempts to win Communist aims by violence may be greater for a time. Strength is the best answer to that danger. But we must be careful not to allow the danger of Communist ideas to arise again while we concentrate on the building of physical strength.

There is no question that losses in Communist membership are due in large measure to the improvement of living conditions in western Europe. Communism feeds on poverty, hunger and discontent. It is important that the improvement in conditions continue while the building of armed strength is carried out. It is important that the Communists be counteracted the ideas and glowing promises of the Reds with the better ideas and fulfillment of the democratic way of life.

American Aristotle

Willard Gibbs may be called the least-known great American. Elected this winter to the Hall of Fame, he still is not even a name to the average man. A life of Gibbs has now been published by his nephew, Lloyd P. Wheeler, who, as was Gibbs, is a Yale professor.

"The master of them that know," the term that Dante applied to Aristotle, the wisest of the ancients, would in a more limited field have fitted Gibbs. He laid the foundations for modern thermodynamics, and in mathematical physics wrote works, incomprehensible to the layman, on which most of the achievements in that field of the last half century are based.

Aristotle outlines many Greek soldiers and statesmen whom his contemporaries may have thought more important. Will this be history's final verdict on Willard Gibbs?

The National Geographic Society, Bordeaux, France, and the surrounding area were under English rule between the 13th and 15th centuries.

Nine Hours Sleep Termed Answer To Energy Problem Of Americans

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Some people feel that what this country needs is a good live-out psychiatrist.

My conviction is, however, that what it needs most is a way to enable its citizens to get eight to nine hours of sleep every night.

Then it wouldn't need half so many psychiatrists. Right now a lot of people who seek the psychiatric couch aren't really so mentally upset as they are sleepy. They aren't looking for someone to tell their troubles to so much as they are looking for a place to lie down and rest.

The only two places left in America where a citizen can catch a nap in the daytime to make up for the sleep he should have gotten the night before are bar chairs and psychiatric couches. And the latter a man gets when he has a nervous breakdown.

Medical science agrees that the average red-blooded American youngster require eight to nine hours of sleep a night if he really wants to get up and get going. But now can this be done in modern civilization?

The trouble is that adults are busy and more so every day. They want to stay up beyond their bedtime. Why? It only makes them cross and cranky and frustrated—like children who have missed a nap. What would does it do to stay up late? Whoever said anything interesting or clever after midnight? If he did it won't be lost to the world for lack of ears. He'll say it again the next morning. Nobody ever said a clever thing just once. He says it again and again. That's how clichés are born.

It might be good to have four signals. The first siren, sounded at 10 P. M., would call children and small dogs indoors. The second, at 10 P. M., would warn long-winded grownup guests to start their last long-winded story of the evening. The third, at 11 P. M., would sound the final "one-half-mile-more-for-the-road" siren. And promptly at midnight, the final siren would send police vans screeching out to catch all late wayfarers and cart them off to the hoosegow.

The Long Tension

New York Herald Tribune

General Marshall stands in American life as the embodiment of the rare and elusive quality of character, in each generation there are only a few public figures who are needed because of a kind of basic consistency, an integrity that goes beyond mere honesty to become something close to wisdom.

They do not change with the currents of opinion; they take their position upon such solid ground that all else can shift and leave them unmoved. When everything that General Marshall has contributed is accounted for, this ingredient of character will remain supreme.

In an interview in the current issue of "U. S. News and World Report" the Secretary of Defense spells out his concept of the "long tension." "If they will have any say, he says, or preference, we shall have an extended period during which many compromises must be sacrificed and many normal habits surrendered. The essence of our task, as he describes it, is the maintenance of a constant readiness to produce strength, both in terms of material and of man power. If in panic or hysteria we build up armaments and unnecessary forces in being, we risk seeing them deteriorate of being the people grow restive under the burden. If in complacency we return to the normal routine of life, we open the door wide for aggression. Speaking of the manpower policies he has advocated, General Marshall sums up his thought, "I wanted something enduring," he says, "something that would hold through the years, and that would be within our financial capabilities and also within the radius of our tolerance."

In an earlier stage of the mobilization program General Marshall was criticized for not asking enough. Today his plans are called for making too great demands. Throughout, however, he has maintained his belief in organizing for the long haul. The consistency, the steadfastness of his own character he has sought to translate into policies and programs. Meanwhile, as he points out, there has been considerable effort and a general disposition to take things easy. The need is not for a new burst of feverish activity springing from undue alarm, but for carrying out our avowed plans and remaining true to our solemn commitments. General Marshall not only teaches the manner of consistency, but shows how consistency can be a keynote of our national life.

The recent dismissal of General MacArthur by President Truman is undoubtedly one of the most shocking incidents in a series of mistakes by this leader without judgment. The General has spent his entire career in the service of his country and knows the Far East and the problems this country faces there perhaps better than any other living man today.

There is a man who dared to have the courage to oppose President Truman, with dismissal as the result—a dismissal of the Kremlin.

Then the President gives a speech using his usual double talk, but fortunately didn't fool many. It is rumored in many circles that the Pentagon is controlling the war and England and this country. All this reminds one of the old adage, "Ours is not in question why; ours is but to do."

Very truly yours, Mrs. Marion Keeling

MacArthur Strategy

thor to tell me his ideas on the ways in which the United States can most effectively promote its policies of assisting the United Nations to promote and maintain international peace and security throughout the Pacific area."

Mr. Truman didn't say what ideas MacArthur offered. Were the ideas which subsequently expanded into the irreconcilable conflict which led Mr. Truman to say last Wednesday that he considered MacArthur "unable to give his wholehearted support to the policies of the United States government and of the United Nations?"

Basically, the fundamental issues between the President and the General seems to include the question of the way to fight the war in Korea and whether the quarrel between the Communists and the free world is to be settled in Europe.

The President worries also lest the Korean war be extended into a world war.

Available information does not show that MacArthur has proposed the use of American troops in an Atlantic mainland campaign nor that he has made any strong representation for full-scale war on the mainland.

MacArthur is supposed to favor the idea of using American troops and blockade of Communist China's coastal areas. The White House, State Department and perhaps the Pentagon's Joint Chiefs of Staff fear this would trigger off general war that Russia would seize upon the act as a pretext for striking.

Has the general picture in Asia—and Asiatic Russia—changed recently to warrant the risk of general war by striking against the air and army bases from

Habit Snasm's

By W. V. Bittner

Habit snasm's or a tic" as it is called, is embarrassing and seriously handicaps one in securing work or partaking of social activities.

Snasm's often begin in childhood and that is the easiest time to correct them. For they become more noticeable as the individual grows older.

Correction should begin with an examination by the doctor. His helpful advice together with patience and perseverance used by the parent will aid the child in overcoming the habit.

Doctors are anxious to help children develop to the full extent of their capabilities. By expert prescription service a conscientious pharmacist helps also.

Thursday and Friday
"Walk Softly Stranger" with Joseph Cotton and Valli comes to the local screen this Thursday and Friday. Outside of a rather vague story, this one is good, being quite different. Critics' praise of outstanding freshness and depth to their roles. "Walk Softly Stranger", even though an inferior vehicle for such accomplished stars, will be worthwhile.

Westward, Ho!
Looking probably with some trepidation at the phenomenal success of other artists who have taken the Hollywood route, Robert Merrill, one of the Metropolitan's main attractions for several years, has chosen this gold-laden route, too. The popular baritone, who made previous commitments to appear with the Metropolitan on its annual spring tour, has gotten the go-ahead from Rudolph Ring, the new manager of the company.

For one movie, however, Merrill sings a few songs and nets himself a tremendous amount of money—far more than a few appearances at the Met would pay him. Ezio Pinza, Lauritz Melchior and more recently, Maria Callas, have scored great successes in movies, and Merrill wants to join the lucrative band wagon.

But commitments are complicated. There are certain precautions to take in making muffins: Mix the mixture only until dry ingredients are moistened—but push the batter instead of stirring it. Muffins must never be beaten because stirring or beating develops gluten and makes the muffins tough and tunnelled inside.

Mrs. Charles Wilke, chairman, presided at the business meeting. Routine committee reports were made and a report on the recent flower show.

Members answered roll call with a description of "Citizens In My Garden." Mrs. Yerkes recommended Powell Allen as a particularly beautiful one.

Mrs. A. W. Epps gave the highlights of her trip to the regional convention held recently at the Bellevue-Biltmore Hotel at Belton. Representatives of the Garden Clubs of 11 southeastern states were guests of the Florida State Board of which Mrs. Epps is finance chairman. A special guest was Mrs. Leonard B. Stinson of Los Angeles, Calif., president of the National Council of Garden Clubs.

Those present at the meeting were Mrs. Endre Curlett, Mrs. Yerkes, Mrs. G. W. Bailey, Mrs. L. M. Tyre, Mrs. Claude P. Herndon, Mrs. E. F. Lane, Mrs. W. A. Harrison, Mrs. Epps, Mrs. J. D. Mrs. Fred G. Yerkes Rose Circle Spenker
Mrs. Fred G. Yerkes of Jacksonville and Geneva, a life member of the Sanford Garden Club, was speaker at the meeting of Rose Circle Friday morning at the Garden Center.

Mrs. Yerkes spoke on Phlox grandiflora, or Mum's orchid. She showed a lovely plant of her own and a picture of those she has grown at her home in Jacksonville. She recommended the bloom for making corsages.

The Lamplighter By TOM BOYLE

Sanford will have the opportunity to see the much discussed Italian film, "The Lamplighter" which is scheduled to show here Apr. 21 and 22. This will be a new experience for many who are not familiar with Italian film technique. The dialogue is Italian with English subtitles.

The picture deals with the lives of the agricultural workers in the Pa Valley, their passions and purposes. Silvana Mangano, archrival of the sexiest stars to come to the screen in many a day, is the star of the picture. Although "The Lamplighter" is definitely not recommended for children, it is a must for the adult population especially for some among us who believe that Americans are the only people on earth who can make a good movie.

"The Lamplighter" is a masterpiece of another splendid film, Academy award winner, "All About Eve", which will be screened the previous three days.

Pitching Is Biggest Question Mark As Major Leagues Prepare For Flag Race

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK, Apr. 16.—(AP)—“We'll win if the pitching holds.”

That was the sentiment of many a manager as the major league baseball season begins today with a game in each circuit. A complete eight-game slate is on tap for tomorrow.

“My only worry is pitching,” says Manager Casey Stengel of the defending champion New York Yankees who help the Senators inaugurate the Washington today.

It all depends on Allie Reynolds. If his arm comes around next 10 days, we'll be in fine shape and should win again. Until I know about him, I won't be able to line up my starters.”

Hookie Tom Morgan, making the jump from Class A ball, got the opening day assignment. A capacity crowd of 35,000 was expected to watch President Harry S. Truman throw out the first ball in a southpaw style. Then Bob Kuzava, another southpaw, takes over for the Nats.

“Pitching is my strong point,” says Sewell, who comes around starting five on Blackwell, Howard Fox, Ken Raffensberger, Vern Wagner and Will Ramo. “I don't know how we'll fare but we're an improved club.”

FLORIDA NEARING THE HALF-MILLION TELEPHONE MARK

It took 52 years for Florida to reach her first 100,000 telephones, 8 years to get her second, 4 years for the third and 2 for the fourth. That gives you an idea of Florida's growth and its demand for telephones.

To provide for the 215,735 telephones added during the past 5 years, it was necessary to construct 53 new buildings and additions, and to install vast quantities of central office equipment, cable and other plant facilities.

In spite of those 52 years of expansion there's still a big telephone job to do in Florida. It took $105,000,000 worth of expansion during the past five years, and it will take a financially sound Telephone Company to continue contributing its full share to the growth and progress of the State.

That telephone will mean a lot to the Floridians who want to keep in touch with their friends and family.

That's always true when a new telephone goes in. There are other people whose telephones become more useful and valuable because another friend, relative or business associate has gotten them. It's the other fellow's telephone that makes yours valuable, and there are now twice as many Floridians with telephones as there were just five years ago.
