BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

IF WE REMEMBER THAT NONE OF US IS FREE FROM FAULTS IT SHOULD MAKE US MORE CHARITABLE TO WARD OTHERS: Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself lest thou also be tempted. Gal. 6:1.

THANKSGIVING

A bird sings in my almond tree,
A rousing song of jubilee.
A star steals through my window pane.
To tell me dreams are not in vain,
And by my door the sun looks up
From one sweet alamanda cup
That holds the overwhelming gold
Of autumn in its flower-mold.
Who owns a sun, a star, a moon,
Should render thanks where thanks
Are due.
And so, before the year is done,
I count my blessings, one by one.
A friend has found my open door
And made me gladder than before;
A child has reached to take my hand
And led me through her wonderland;
And one who still believes in me
Has filled my days with melody
And made me push the clouds aside.
To find where silver linings hide
The sweet, so good, so gay
Living.
The breath is in itself thank-
giving;
And so, before the year is done,
I count my blessings, one by one.

Secretary Ikes, Oil Adminis-

not surprised at that.

Living costs have gone up four percent in the past year. But those who are making three or four times as much as they were before the war should not mind.

Jerry Carter has announced he will not run for governor, senator has been running so long for something or other it won't seem like an election without him name on the ballot.

Mr. George Wurd of the Army Air Corps, who spent six months on Guadalcanal, is high in his opinion of the Navy. "They brought the food in," he says, "and when we didn't get through we did our best. But generally we ate what we wanted."

Fifth Of Realty In U. S. Is Held By Government

Purchases In War Rise; Byrd Group Proposes Surplus Be Sold

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(Special)—A bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, has recommended that the government begin immediate liquidation of surplus buildings.

In a detailed report, marking the first attempt by Congress to ascertain the full extent of the national emergency, the independent Federal agencies involved in the purchase, condemnation or transfer of Federal lands, the committee also urged that handling and disposition of holdings be lodged in central unit. "This should be done without delay in order to reduce inequality of treatment due to waste of funds in connection with government acquisitions and disposition of real property," the committee report said.

Although acknowledging that the Federal government always had been the largest landholder in the Western states of Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Oregon, Arizona and California, the committee, which is headed by Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, said it had watched with apprehension "the alarming increase in land acquisition in the last few years."

Excessive Purchases Found
"While the committee recognizes the report continued, 'that much of this acquisition has been for the purposes connected with the national emergency, it nevertheless finds that excessive amounts of land have been purchased by the government since 1939.'

The committee further finds that there has been growing concern in many states which have experienced the loss of large amounts of taxable property to the Federal government. Naturally as the government acquires more property, the tax losses on the local tax base "directly increases."

Some of the statistical findings of the committee follow:

The government now owns one-fifth of all the land area of the United States. This area totals 38,000,000 acres—equal in size to the combined areas of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and Illinois. Most of this land is owned by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior in use for grazing, forest reservations, and public domain.

Over 70 per cent of Nevada, the Federal government owns more than 70 per cent of the United States. This area totals 30,000,000 acres—equal in size to the combined areas of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Vermont, and half of Maine—about 48,180,000 acres. Part of this was previously in the public domain.

The cost of land required by the government increased from $10,184,000,000 in 1943 to $89,000,000 in 1945. In 1945 the government purchased 28,447 acres of land in New York for $10,000. In the first six months of this year the government purchased in New York 3,877 acres for $2,000,000.

Official Report On Patton Case Reveals Apology

nouncing the man as a coward.
The soldier was not a coward, but a 24-year-old Southerner with a fine record, who had gone through the grimmest fighting. He had left the front only when ordered by his unit doctor.

General Patton, in his report of the incident, wrote Patton denouncing his conduct and ordering him to make amends or be removed from command.

An army spokesman said Patton's action in addressing his troops was in excess of Eisenhower's demands.

The spokesman described Patton's conduct as "despicable," but expressed the greatest confidence in him as a general.

The incident occurred early in August. Patton, visiting a hospital, came upon the soldier sitting on a cot with his head in his hands, weeping.

In reply to Patton's question as to what was the matter with him, the soldier said: "It's my nerves. I guess I can't stand shelling."

The general burst into a rage, and, employing profanity, called the soldier "coward" and "yellow belly" and ordered him back to the front.

Patton struck the soldier on the rear of the head with the back of his hand. The soldier fell over slightly and a nurse, intent on protecting the patient, made a dive toward Patton but was pulled back by a doctor. The commander of the hospital then intervened.

Patton, still in high temper, turned to berate the shell-shocked soldier again. Patton left the hospital without making further investigation of the case.

After Patton left, the soldier decided to return to the front.

Subsequently, he was forced to rest for another week.

Parsons, who talked to the soldier after Patton left said he was miserable and felt his life was ruined.

At the close of the Sicilian campaign Patton told correspondents:

"When these things are happening to a commanding general, it is under great nervous tension. He may do things he may afterward regret. I know a great many people regard me as a—"

"But I have patted five soldiers on the back for every one I have spoken a harsh word to. I don't feel guilty with a couple of soldiers and was really, I am, going to apologize to them."

Patton's punishment was a severe one if it is remembered he is a man who has attached more importance to his code as an officer than anything else in his life, and that he had to admit to his superiors that he had violated that code and was guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Patton, 41, was first disbursed by Dr. V. Pearson, in a

Midnight broadcast. The incident had been common knowledge among newsmen in the theater, but had not been made public because headquarters felt that as a propaganda weapon publication would be valuable to the enemy.

The monthly conferences will be held in groups of from 8 to 10 men. In all, over a hundred supervisors will take part in the conferences throughout the state. Each group will have a leader, an associated leader and a counselor.

Suit Is Filed To Strengthen Budget

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 24. (FNN)—A second suit designed to knock out the Governor's veto of a section of the Appropriations Bill known as the "House Plateau," was filed in the Circuit Court of Leon County last week by two members of the present legislature joined by a former member.

They ask the court to compel Secretary of State, R.A. Gray, to restore to the 1945 general appropriations bill the section which would have required budget and budget commission approval of every obligation against any fund appropriated by the act.

Governor Holland struck this out along with a number of other sections on the grounds that it is too hasty.

The Kuhl's said they had been angered upon receiving the letter but had decided not to mention them lest they get Kuhl in further trouble.

Kuhl's wife and father said they were afraid Kuhl's "temper" might have prompted him to do something to provoke the general.

"He would call me a good mixer," the older Kuhl said. "He was quick to temper, but he got over it."

Mr. Kuhl said her husband was released subsequently from the hospital but she had no word from him in nearly six weeks. She does not know, she said, whether he is participating in the Italian campaign.
