Convicted Of Bombing, Freed

Police Wouldn't Believe Him

Wilkinson said when he was arrested on charges of throwing a firebomb that killed five people. He spent 439 days in jail before authorities believed him.

The district attorney's office said Wilkinson, 27, who was convicted last April, probably would be cleared of all charges if witnesses scheduled to appear at a hearing today support his claim of innocence.

One of the witnesses is David McGinnis, 19, who told a federal judge last Wednesday that it was he who threw the bomb that killed a Puerto Rican woman and four children. Another is Nelson Garcia, who has submitted an affidavit that says he lied when he testifed that he saw Wilkinson throw the firebomb.'

On Oct. 5, 1975, when police picked him up, Wilkinson told them he was on his way home from celebrating his first wedding anniversary when he saw the fire at the home of Radames Santiago. He said he turned in the fire

The Coast Guard drastically revised Sunday its estimate of how much oil had leaked from the 640-foot Argo Merchant. Capt. Lynn Hein, coordinator of the cleanup operation, raised the estimate from 100,000 gallons. But he added that the leaking had dwindled because cold temperatures had thickened the oil to pudding-like consistency.

Girl-Watching Target Brothers Killed

Two teen-aged Hollywood brothers who died in the flaming crash of their sports car minutes after paying a visit to their godfather are among Florida's fatal traffic victims this past weekend, state troopers say. Daniel Casagrande, 17, and his brother Albert, 14, were returning to their home from a Saturday visit with Arthur Donofrio in northwest Miami when the 1969 Corvette, being driven by Daniel, went out of control, slammed into an expressway pillar and burst into flames. Police said the brothers were trying to attract the attention of two young women in another car when the sports car rammed the pillar. The brothers were trapped in the wreckage.

The deaths brought the weekend traffic toll to at least

Stable Senate Is Important

As the Founding Fathers intended, the U.S. Senate is more stable politically than the House of Representatives. With senators serving staggered six-year terms, the upper house tends to bend only slightly with changes in the political wind. The lower house, where the entire membership is elected every two years, can be buffeted by passing changes in the national mood.

This often makes some segments of the public impatient with the Senate. Senators advanced in years, wielding the power of seniority, often can make the upper liouse seem too conservative for the times. As the 95th Congress prepares to meet, however, the tendency of the Senate to be dominated by mature "elder statesmen" of politics looks like a definite asset for Americans who look to Washington for policies approaching the middle of the road.

The House of Representatives saw an infusion of 79 freshman Democrats two years ago, most of them liberals. They helped overturn the power of senior members in the committee system and gave a more activist tone to the lower house. All but three of them were reelected this year. With another 47 new Democrats elected in November. there is an influential strain of new blood in the 2 to 1 majority which the Democrats command in the

Although more than half of the 33 Senate seats up for election this year were won by newcomers, the ideological balance in the Senate will hardly change. The Democrats hold the same 62-38 majority they did before — less than two-thirds and moderates and conservatives are prominent within those majority ranks.

The presence of a restraining Senate buffer between the House and the executive branch can be significant next year. President-elect Carter is a neophyte in the federal process. Many of his closest advisers are coming from outside the Washington scene. He will be working with a Congress of his own party which promises a higher degree of cooperation between the White House and Capitol Hill than we have seen for the last eight years, but that cooperation must take place within the concept of checks and balances between the legislative and executive branches. As a Democrat and a newcomer, Mr. Carter may be reluctant to use his veto power when he has doubts about legislation emerging from a Congress dominated by members of his own party. In his campaign he frequently attacked President Ford for his use of the veto to frustrate the Democratic House Democrats have just elected the Massachusetts liberal Rep. Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill as the next speaker. The even more liberal Rep. Phillip Burton of California lost the election for majority leader to Rep. James Wright of Texas by only one vote. Obviously the liberals are coming on strong in the House — stronger than might suit the former governor of Georgia. Mr. Carter, who is taking a cautious approach to planks in the Democratic platform which bear the liberal stamp, may need allies in the Senate to produce legislative programs of a moderate cast.

Mr. Carter obviously will be well briefed on the issues when he checks into the White House. There will be some old Washington hands in his retinue as well as newcomers. Yet he will need time and experience to find his footing in dealings with behavior as bitterness deepens. Congress. There is some comfort in the prospect that the Senate can provide checks and balances of its own if liberals in the House are carried away by the sense of power that comes with having a fellow Democrat in the White House.

Rabin Breaks With Ally, Reported Ready To Quit

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's newspapers and its state radio predicted that Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin would resign late today or Tuesday to pave the way for spring elections following his purge of the National Religious party from his coalition government. Rabin's break with the longtime ally of his ruling Labor party ended his majority in the Knesset, the Israeli parliament, and raised the prospect that he would lose a vote of confidence this week. Political writers agreed he would quit before the vote to keep the initiative.

Sadat-Assad Talk Peace

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Talks between Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Hafez Assad of Syria about peace negotiations with Israel are going well, their information ministers report. Sadat and Assad are trying to figure out how to pressure the Palestinians into joining an Arab delegation to a Geneva peace conference with Israel, and how to persuade the United States to pressure Israel into negotiating with the Palestinians.

Bukovsky Raps Helsinki Pact ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - Life got much rougher for Soviet prisoners after Western and Soviet leaders signed the Helsinki Agreement in the summer of 1975, freed human rights fighter Vladimir Bukovsky says. Bukovsky, released from a Soviet prison in exchange for Chilean Communist party leader Luis Corvalan, told a news conference the 35-nation EastWest pact was a Soviet manuever to disarm the West and curb the struggle for human rights in

Birthday Boy Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP) - Awards and accolades poured in to honor Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev on his 70th birthday. Leaders from every Soviet Bloc country attended a ceremony and luncheon in the Kremlin on Sunday at which Brezhnev received his sixth Order of Lenin, his second Hero of the Soviet Union and a sword in recognition of "outstanding services in strengthening the defense capacity of the

A Ticket For The Princess

LONDON (AP) — A speeding charge has been filed against England's Princess Anne, who has in the past been warned about her driving habits.

Her latest brush with the law involves a charge of driving her Rover sedan at a speed of 90 miles an hour through a 70 m.p.h. zone, police said Sunday.

The 26-year-old princess is alleged to have topped 90 m.p.h. on the a drive through Derbyshire in the English midlands while accompanied by her husband, Army Capt. Mark Phillips, and her police bodyguard.

Grain Outstrips People

LONDON (AP) — World grain production has expanded faster than population growth, official figures showed Sunday. The International Wheat Council's latest report estimated world wheat output this year at just over 400 million metric tons, equivalent to 220 pounds for every person in the world's population of four billion.

But the world was at peace, and that, Kissinger has said, is "the most moral" goal of all. Cyrus R. Vance, who comes after him, will suffer the fate of a great man's successor: large shoes to fill and the uneasy sense that someone's looking over his shoulder.

So strong was Kissinger's imprint on foreign policy that even the Carter administration, however much it intends to eschew one-man diplomacy and advance "morality," will be under its influence - in dealing with the Russians and the Chinese, in trying to head off a new war in the Middle East, in promoting black rule in southern Africa and a more equitable relationship between the innations of the world.

Kissinger was fond of saying the United States could no longer operate with the supreme self-confidence that it is "the world's policeman" and predominant power, but he enhanced its authority among the Arabs and the black Africans while acrobatically balancing the Chinese against the Rus-

For a while, the traditional allies, western Europe and Japan, felt slighted, but in the end most analysts agreed that U.S. ties with them were strong.

The Middle East was most typical, perhaps, of Kissinger's range, stamina and persuasive skills, but also of the uncertainty of Kissinger's accomplishments over the long run. Africa and the Third World typify, meanwhile, his flexibility and, again, his uncertain

On Sunday, the Rans noses out Dallas 14-12 with Lawrence McCutheon scoring the winning touchdown in the opening minute of the final quarter. The Rams gave up two points by downing the ball in the end zone as the game ended.

There has been some bad blood between the Raiders and Steelers - and it's almost surprising there hasn't been more of it spilled. In the first game of the season, George Atkinson leveled Lynn Swann with a forearm. The result was a concussion suffered by the Pittsburgh wide receiver - and a lawsuit filed by Atkinson against Chuck Noll after the Pittsburgh Coach said a few unkind things.

CHRISTMAS TIME FOR THE MAN AROUND THE HOUSE: ROLEX

More than ever in this Christmas season, you fly high, live free and dive deep. Holidays make year round activists even more visible. And so, you need a watch that is not just a piece of jewelry, but the toughest timepiece in the world: Rolex. To give or to keep, this Submariner-Date, with its 30-jewel chronometer movement housed in an Oyster case of surgical stainless steel and guaranteed pressure-proof down to 660 feet, is precisely right. Happy New Year!

Twirler Trophies Top 100

Tension and expectation usually run high at a baton twirling contest, but for young Jennifer Jacobs and her family, a recent Nation Baton Twirling Association competition in St. Petersburg was especially tense. It was Jennifer's last contest in the Tiny Tots Division (children up to the age of six). Ninetynine trophies won by the young twirler were displayed in the livingroom and bedroom of her Winter Springs home. The big question was would she top the 100 mark in this, her last chance, before entering a new division for sevenand eight-year-olds? Jennifer did better than that - she won enough prizes at the recent contest to put her Tiny Tots total at 102 trophies. She is one happy little girl, and her family is bursting with pride. She started twirling at age four. Her mother, Jean Jacobs, and aunt, Cathy Capko are both twirling instructors at PJC's School of Baton, Winter Springs, so twirling fever naturally runs in young Jennifer's blood. According to her mother, she just loves to twirl."

Today

Herald Staff Writer Seminole County Commissioners refused four times this morning to introduce the controversial white amur into county lakes to curb the spread of hydrilla weeds, a fast-growing vegetation which has clogged lakebottoms from Fern Park to Forest City. Commission Chairman Richard Williams passed the gavel to Vice-chairman Robert French three times to make motions favoring use of the white amur, or "grass carp," but all three efforts failed, as did a similar motion by French.

Three of the motions died for lack of a second. On the final bid, Williams entered a motion after handing the gavel to French, who in turn passed the parliamentary hammer to Commissioner John

The panel then voted 2-to-2 with Commissioner William Kirchhoff and Kimbrough dissenting and Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski absent on vacation. Following the vote, Kirchhoff requested and received permission to bring the matter up again before the meeting adjourned.
