Sack a crack shack Convicted drug dealers, users to destroy house

MIDWAY - Tuesday, a busload of convicted drug dealers and users will be brought here to tear down a crack house.

As part of a new program for Seminole County. convicted drug dealers and abusers from the Kissimmee Community Correctional Center will be used at 9 a.m. Tuesday to "Sack a Crack Shack" in Midway.

The prison labor will be used to demolish a condemned building at the southwest corner of 21st Street and Sipes Avenue that sheriff's deputies have identified as a "crack house" where people buy and use drugs. The building used to house the Last Stop Bar, which burned more than a year ago.

Sanford used the same state program last year when several houses in the 700 block of Cypress Avenue were torn down. The city will also utilize the free program offered by the Florida Department of Corrections to demolish a crack house on West Ninth Street in a week or two, said Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett.

"It's been a real good program for us." Harriett said. "They use convicted drug offenders to tear down the crack houses."

Sheriff Don Eslinger agrees the program will be good for his effort to clean up crime-ridden neighborhoods.

We're trying to rid that community and others of the drug problem." Eslinger said. "So we decided to utilize some of these residents who used to facilitate drug use and trafficking in cocaine.

Gay rights law faces challenge

TAMPA - A Tampa gay rights law faces a serious challenge after a judge ruled that city officials improperly blocked an

Tourism businesses may pay fee

TALLAHASSEE - Tourism-related businesses would pay an annual fee ranging from $50 to $30,000, depending on their size, to finance the state's tourism promotions under a plan tentatively approved by the Florida Tourism Commission.

The proposal will go to Gov. Lawton Chiles, who supports the concept of an industry-based tax to raise money for the state's tourism marketing campaign.

If Chiles approves it, the commission's plan will go to the Legislature next year. If not, the commission will try to come up with another proposal.

The Legislature created the commission last spring to recommend a long-term financing source for tourism.

Under the proposal, tourism-related businesses would pay a flat fee based on the number of people they employ. Commission members said they would change the proposal if it does not raise enough money, about $12 million annually, or if the governor rejects it.

Down, but out?

Thanks to a record turnout, particularly among black voters. Louisiana soundly rejected David Duke's bid for governor. But make no mistake about the political ambitions of the former Nazi sympathizer and grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan. Having achieved a national audience, he is even more determined to promote his brand of bigotry and hatred on a wider scale.

Fresh from his defeat, Duke recently announced he will explore a possible 1992 Republican presidential bld. Ostensibly, his goal will be to halt the "leftward tilt" of the GOP. In fact. Duke is looking to build a power base by exploiting a growing national discontent.

As more and more voters are hurt by tough economic times, they increasingly are looking for someone to blame for their misfortunes. And demagogues such as Duke are only too happy to round up the usual scapegoats minorities, welfare recipients, foreigners.

Regrettably, as long as large numbers of Americans lear their economic security is threatened by misguided government policies, the political arena will remain a fertile ground for demagogues. Duke is not likely to be the last one to emerge from the shadows.

The politics of resentment are enormously appealing among those who feel they are being short-changed. That Duke won 55 percent of the white vote in Louisiana suggests that many angry voters are indeed sympathetic to his claim that they are victims of reverse discrimination.

Duke spread that same divisive message through the parishes of Louisiana two years ago when he captured a seat in the state Legislature. In 1990, he came within 7 percentage points of winning a U.S. Senate His talent for tapping into working-class frustrations over aftirmative action, crime and forced busing helped to catapult him into the gubernatorial race. Now, he is hoping to use his fame to mount a national platform and espouse the same divisive views. But in trying to portray himself as the defender of the average voter. Duke has a lot of convincing to do. After all, this is the same man who not long ago was selling Nazi literature from his legislative office and parroting theories about racial and ethnic purity. These are hardly the "youthful indiscretions" which he claims the liberal news media are taking such unfair advantage of. Rather, they suggest he hasn't traveled far from his neo-fascist past, when he donned the robe and hood of a klansman and proudly wore a swastika armband. Louisiana has produced some bizarre figures during its colorful history. But Duke is heir to a perverse political tradition that harkens back to the brownshirt thugs of the 1930s. He is a consummate opportunist who appeals to the worst instincts of voters by stoking their fears and prejudices. In the space of three years he has run as a Democrat, a Populist and a Republican. In fact, Duke assumes whatever disguise will get him where he wants to go. At the moment he is masquerading as a Republican. But his message of hate has nothing in common with the mainstream views of either Republicans or Democrats.

Talking about AIDS can't wait

"What have you told the girls about AIDS?" I ask my friend with the two teen age daughters. "Well, I've talked to them a little bit," he answers.

"What exactly have you told them?" I ask. I sound like a nag. I don't care.

"Oh. I don't know exactly. My ex-wife usually handles things like that, and the few times I've said anything to the girls about sex she seems to have resented it. like I'm infringing on her territory."

I look at him incredulously. This is not 1967. when he was considering the Earth-moving question that faces all teen-agers, like whether or not to become sexually active. The worst thing he faced in those years was unwanted pregnancy or venereal disease - unpleasant enough, and I don't mean to underplay them - but he did not face death from sex with the wrong person. This is what I tell him. "This isn't a matter of trying to protect your kids from pregnancy or herpes. This is a matter of keeping them alive." He nods his head and I have the feeling he is starting to face this fact emotionally for the first time, though only slightly. It's hard enough to go from viewing your child as the little girl you used to swing on your arms to a teen-ager who might become pregnant with a child herself, much less to acknowledge that you can add death from a simple act of sex to the many things you can no longer protect her from. Things have changed so quickly since AIDS hit the scene that we may acknowledge that the discase is spreading throughout the heterosexual population, but our percep-tions of ourselves as social beings has not caught up. Emotionally, as we think of ourselves in relation to the social act of courting and mating. we think that the risks of sex are much what they were a decade ago. To equate sex with death is too big a leap: it's a culture

This is a matter of keeping them alive. shock we can't come to grips with.

Perhaps this is why a superstar like basketball player Magic Johnson can become infected with the AIDS virus during a time when there was plenty of information on the risks of getting AIDS. Johnson has readily admitted he had unprotected sex with many women he didn't know since he became a star, and anys other athletes and entertainers he knows have done the same thing. They, like my friend with the two daughters, didn't really believe what they read.

And parents considering what to tell their children face an additional dilemma: How do you impart the value and joy of sex while painting a picture of the grim reaper hovering overhead?

So many of us grew up in environments where any kind of healthy sexual expression was suppressed, and in some cases worked for years to overcome conditioning that impaired healthy sexual functioning. We had hoped to spare our children what we went through, and send them out into the world coulpped for nex with caring. respect and responsibility. Now we have to add this little disclaimer: And by the way, you might dic.

JACK ANDERSON Taxpayers end up bailing out banks

WASHINGTON - Look on the bright side. The collapse of 1,000 commercial banks across the country in the last five years leaves the taxpayers with yet another ballout to worry about, but it also has left them with some incomparable goodies.

When the federal government forecloses on tottering banks, the fruits of years of bad business decisions fall into the taxpayers' laps. Items used for collateral on loans that should never have been made are now in the federal inventory.

A memo circulating in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. lists some of the more bizarre items that the FDIC musi now unioac D A #2 million home with a belfry. Sorry, no bats. But, since bats are a protected species under California law (go figure), the pesky little creatures had to be treated with care. The FDIC solved the problem by putting up floodlights and simulating daylight all through the night. "COUPONS, EH? Let me go ahead of you, or ...."

MARTIN SCHRAM Bush's view looks familiar

In the autumn of his first term, our president watched powerlessly as once-rosy leaves fell and his once-rosy re-election prospects plummeted, a victim of our economic big chill.

Enraged by Democrats' charges that he won't act to jump-start the economy and doesn't care about the misery of jobless Americans, the president went to Fort Wayne. lad., and lashed back in his own patrician way:

"When you are told that the president of the United States. ... a man of your own blood and upbringing, has sat in the White House for the last three years of your misfortune without troubling to know your burdens, without heartaches over your miseries ... without using every ounce of his strength and straining his every nerve to protect and help ... then I say to you that such statements are deliberate. Intolerable falsehoods."

Then in Detroit, he countered "the destructive proposals of the Democratic House" by announcing his own good news: "I wish to present to you the evidence that the measures and policies of the Republican administration are winning this major battle for recovery. ... The tide has turned. ... Building contracts have steadily increased. The Department of Commerce shows that over 180,000 workers returned to the manufacturing industry in August, 360,000 more in September. ... Car loadings have increased. ... Exports and imports have increased. ... Agricultural prices, always the last to move, have improved, ... Every week, some improvement is recorded somewhere."

That's what Herbert Hoover told America in the autumn of his first – and only – term as president. If it sounds as familiar as last night's TV news, don't adjust your set. It is.

"BUSH HAS NO PLANS FOR MAJOR EFFORTS TO REVIVE ECONOMY," declared a recent New York Times headline. The story quoted Bush explaining in an interview why we aren't in a recession: "You see, there's some fairly good fundamentals getting out there. Inflation is down. Personal debt is down. Inventories are down. Quality - competitiveness - quality is going in the right direction, up, and exports are up. So it's not like we're dealing with a totally bad economy."

No, there aren't great parallels to be drawn between our economic recession in 1991 and our depression in 1931, the perils aren't as profound. But, sadly, there are great parallels in the style and substance of our presidential leadership in 1931 and today. Indeed, historians can make a strong case that we saw more leadership from Hoover than we are seeing #### from Bush.

Hear this: "We are on automatic pilot." complains none other than Bush's own Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Jack Kemp, a conservative economic thinker. First, he tried volcing his advice and criticism in the privacy of Bush's Cabinet meeting - but that only provoked an attack and lecture on the value of loyalty from John Sununu, Bush's chief-of-staff-deportment. Kemp then aired his complaint in front of TV cameras.

The president likes to say that he has already sent his "growth package" to Congress - but it was no package at all, just a few proposals, sent separately, with no fanfare: his capital-gains tax cut for the well-to-do, a highway bill, a banking bill. No bully pulpit for this president -Bush won't even go on prime-time TV to discuss the plight of our economy and his plan for its recovery. Bush may be in peril when he goes to his Republican National Convention In Houston - not in danger of losing the nomination to a right-wing challenge from Pat Buchanan. but in danger of losing face because of a Freudian slip.

It can happen in the worst of moments. despite the best of intentions - as at the 1980 Democratic convention, when President Jimmy Carter tried to pay tribute to a party hero but, in a bizarre word-association galfe. honored: "Hubert Horatio - Hornblower! -Humphrey."

So brace yourself. Mr. President, for a possible faux pas of an introduction: "Ladies and gentlemen, our glorious president. George Herbert - Hoover! - Bush."

construction undertaken in 1916. It was the first school specifically built for blacks in the Georgetown community. Although it was used as a high school, it later became a grammar school. It ceased to be used for a school in the early 1980 s.

The building has had its share of close calls. It was offered for sale a number of years ago, appraised at $67,000, but went through three years without any interest.

in late 1989, Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for facilities with the Seminole County School Board, offered to allow the Sanford Fire Department to burn down the building as part of the fire training program. The project was scrapped following a strong protest among black community leaders.

Earlier this year, the Community Improvement Association of Senford undertook a project to restore the structure, for use in various especities, including a recreational facility and cultural arta center.

During the past few months. financial help and building materials have been donated to the C.I.A., with a great deal of progress already made in the total restoration program.

The ordinance, to be consid-ered by the City Commission Monday evening, also calls for a suitable sign or marker to be installed on the property, identifying it as an historical landmark.

Charles Rowe, president of the Community Improvement Asso-ciation said, "Many residents in the area believe this is an important part of our history, and we have been looking for official recognition of Hopper Academy for a long time."

As for the future, Rowe added. "Our next step will probably be to ask that the building be declared in the Federal Historical Register." He added, "Whenever we apply for that, it would certainly help if we were already recognized by the City of Sanford.

Rowe suggested that while the restoration of the academy is already in progress. "We would certainly welcome any additional donations of any kind to the project."

The ordinance to declare Hopper Academy as an official Historic Landmark within the City of Sanford will be considered during tonight's City Commission meeting beginning at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers of the Sanford City Hall.

Local 'mover and shaker' recognized for her many contributions

By Denie Blethick Herald Columnist

Extend your arms in the direction of Pauline "Paulee Stevens and you're likely to be embraced in a big hug. You see, Paulce feels there's a certain magic to hugs and that several a day will chase the blues away.

At the Sanford Kiwanis Club meeting on Nov. 13, Paulee charmed the Kiwanians and guests when she told them, "Hugs are the answer to every-thing. The reward for volunteer work is the hugs."

On this day, Paulce was named the Sanford Kiwanis Club's Roberts Gatchel Woman of the Year. She was totally unaware that she was in the running until Monday, Nov. 11 when she received the phone call informing her that she was the 1991 recipient of the coveted award.

"It was a complete surprise. It was a shock." she said.

Larilyn Swanson, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. listed Paulee's qualifications from information on file at the RSVP office and submitted the entry to the Kiwanis Club to adjudication in the annual competition.

And Paulee was the winner.

Bill Fraasa, chairman of the Kiwanis Club's Roberta Gatchel Award Committee, told the members and guests some of the background of Mrs. Gatchel who moved to Sanford when she was three with her family, homesteaders at a farm on the outskirts of Sanford at Elder Springs. She attended Clyde School which is today the Agriculture Center on U.S. Highway 17-22.

Roberta's mother died in 1940, leaving her, at age 15, to raise her five younger siblings as well as do the farm work and run the home.

was forced to close in 1946 due to his ill health and the Depression Era.

An excellent cook and baker. Roberta was encouraged by friends to cater various functions which she did with success and in 1946 she began catering the Sanford Kiwanis Club luncheons and continued, except for a short time, until her death in 1967.

She was so wrapped up in "her boys," as she affectionately called the club members whom she coddled and pampered with special foods. that she bequeathed the bulk of her $27.000 estate to the club to be used for underprivileged children.

In 1969 the club decided, to perpetuate Mrs. Gatchel's name and memory by selecting a deserving, community-minded annual contest.

Former recipients of the Roberta Gatchel Woman of the Year award are always invited to the annual luncheon and ceremony. This year they were presented corsages and Paulee received the centerpiece and a lovely plaque.

Past winners' attending this year's festivities were: Mayor Bettye Smith. Val Colbert. Charlotte Smith. Martha Yancey. Lourine Messenger. Virginia Longwell, Phyllis Conklin, Lucia Weaver, Edith Avenel and this writer.

Larilyn Swanson could not attend the ceremony but was represented by Elizabeth Derr. director of the Sanford Senior Center. RSVP will proudly display the large floating banner for the duration of Paulee's reign. Paulee's award came just in vited to festivities, including lunch. Tuesday at Altamonte Springs Elementary School where her granddaughter. Christy Pace, 10. is in the fourth grade.

Now, don't you know that Christy just bursts with pride as she "show and tells" her famous grandmother?

Paulce is involved in so many local volunteer activities not to mention the Silver Haired Legislature in Tallahassee and she travels as far as Broward County to attend Area Agency on Aging meetings.

She is a born mover and shaker, but that's not all. Paulee shares her arts and craft expertise at nursing homes, other facilities and with underprivileged children when she instructs them in the magic if arts and crafts. For free, of

LAKE MARY - Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris had to pay the piper Thursday night. He was fulfilling a wager made during a football game. On Oct. 11. the Oviedo Lions defeated the Lake Mary Rams by a score of 14 to 7 at Oviedo's John Courier Field. Morris was on hand for the game, sitting with Oviedo Mayor Dave Knickerbocker, who had only been elected to that office during the preceding month.

For a considerable length of time, the score was tied at 7.7. According to Morris. "During the game, we made a bet that whichever team wins, the mayor of the losing team will wear some article of clothing representative of the winning team." Oviedo went on to win by an additional touchdown made with only 10 minutes left in the game. Thursday night was pay-off night. Knickerbocker showed up at the Lake Mary City Commission. "We said the mayor of the losing team would have to wear an article of clothing representative of the winning team." Knickerbocker said, "but we never said exactly what item of clothing."

The Oviedo Mayor produced a large, extensively decorated orange hat, which he pres-ented to Morris, but commented, "We need this back."

Morris wore the hat for just a. few moments, as the cameras of the televised City Commission meeting focused closely on him and sent the picture to homes throughout the city.

Morris had learned earlier that Knickerbocker planned to attend the Lake Mary City Commission meeting and make some type of presentation. "I plan to have some comments of my own in return." Morris said. But when the time came for him to put on the hat, he hardly said a word.

At age 23, Roberta married woman volunteer for an annual time for American Education Melvin Gatchel, a widower. They award. legs on the 200 IM and 200 freestyle teams. Duncan, still recovering from foot

If other state schools didn't think highly of Lake Brantley before this year, this year, they do know.

"It's now a program to be proud of," and Patriot coach Clay Parnell. "This gives us credibility, four titles and six years of being first or second."

In the boys meet. Lake Mary came through with an eighth-place per-formance while Lyman finished 15th, Lake Brantley 38th. The Greyhound girls took 12th while Lake Mary ended up 38th and Oviedo came in 40th.

Lake Brantley took control of the girls' meet after the first event. when they won the 200 medicy looked back. In the 100 freestyle, Lake Brantley placed three in the top seven, with Bateman coming in fifth (54.12) and Sandra Spillner seventh (54.86).

Spillner also took sixth in the 200 freestyle (1:57.52) while Rosenbluth Anished Ath in the 100 backstroke (:59.76) and sixth in the 100 butterfly (1:00.00).

SANFORD - On any given day. anyone can win.

And that came Saturday night at Seminole Community College's Health and Physical Education Center as Patrick Air Force Base stunned the host Raiders 85-82 in a men's junior college basketball game.

It was hard to believe from SCC's performance that this was the same Raider team that, had crushed St. Petersburg Junior College 110-76 just last Tuesday night.

"We got what we deserved," said SCC head coach Bill Payne. "We didn't come to play tonight. We didn't play together as a team like we did against St. Pete. The best team definitely won tonight."

Payne's charges will look to get back on the winning track tonight when they play host to Pasco-Hernando Community College starting at 7:30 p.m. at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center. The game was originally slated for New Port Richey but was flip-flopped with a game at the start of the season, which SCC won 87-80. On Saturday night, the Raiders got off to a slow start, leading just 15-14 with 12:10 left in the half. But behind Troy Bruening and Brian Nason (six points each) SCC outscored the Rockets 15-5 over the next 4:16 to lead 30-19. SCC maintained an 8-10 point lead over the next six minutes and led 40-32 with 1:50 remaining before intermission. But Patrick scored the next five points to cut the lead to 40-37 before the Raiders' Jason Hamelin banked in a 25-foot 3-pointer at the buzzer to make the Bee SCC. Page 2B

Tonight, Blake leads Seminole High School in the 4A-District 7 football Kansas tiebreaker against Leesburg and Edgewater. At stake is the district title and the right to host Friday night's 4A-Region IV, championship game against the Tarpon Springs Spongers.

This is not new territory for Blake and the Seminoles. This is the third time in four years this district has come down to the tiebreaker. In 1988, Oviedo beat Seminole for the championship after Seminole eliminole disposed of Edgewater before beating Leesburg for the title.

Basically, what Blake wants to see is what happened in the second series against Edgewater last year. After the two teams tied 7-7, Edgewater started the second series on offense. But Gerod Davis fumbled a pitch on the first play and Seminole recovered. Blake immediately sent in Geordie Davison, who kicked the winning field goal.

Parnell realizes he must savor this year's title, because next won't be easy with Pauley, Rosenbluth, Peacock and Shannon Stevens all graduating this spring.

"We're losing some of our good swimmers." Parnell said. "We won this meet fairly easily. That will not be the case in the future. I don't know what will happen next year."

For the Lake Mary boys, sophomore twins Chad and Todd Christopher grabbed three top-10 finishes and their 200 medley team finished seventh (1:42.86).

Chad Christopher took seventh in the 100 freestyle (48.35) and ninth in the 50 freestyle (21.97) while Todd came in seventh in the 100 backstroke (55.31) and 11th in the 100 butterfly (54.31).

The 400 freestyle relay team for the Rams ended up 10th (3:22.80) while the 200 freestyle relay squad took 16th (1:34.94). Lee Calvert, who was dragged down by illness, finished 14th in the 200 freestyle (1:49.25).

one of their own. The Raiders took one final shot at pulling out the victory when Hamelin tossed in a 3-pointer with 0:54 remaining to cut the lead to two, 84-82. Patrick ran the clock down to 0:06 when the Raiders fouled Steve Harris, who Nason had his worst shooting night of the season but still tossed in a game-high 29 points. Also in double figures were Darnell Robinson (13) and Bruening (12, all in the first half). Robinson also grabbed a game (and season) high 16 rebounds.

DEAR ABBY: Re Dick Thornburgh's letter to you describing the Hegins Pigeon Shoot as "a time-honored tradition": May I remind him of a few other "time-honored traditions"? - Public hangings

- Segregation

Read on:

- Cockfights - Bullfights
- The caste system
- Apartheid

- Binding the feet of female infants (in pre-revolutionary China) to impede their growth - Leaving elderly people out on the ice to die

Some of these "traditions" needed a war to stop them. Others ended because they became illegal. I thank God we have people who see injustices for what they are, and have the courage to fight for change.

ROSALIE BEREZICK. TRUCKSVILLE, PA.

DEAR ROSALIE: Thanks for writing: I am reminded of the immortal words attributed to Edmund Burke (1729-1797), the Irish-born British statesman: "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)
