Presbyterians Repudiate Attack On Hays And Motion Picture Industry

COLUMBUS, O., May 25.—A report of the department of moral welfare of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. making Will H. Hays, head of the motion picture producers and distributors of America, the target for an attack on questionable motion pictures, publicity was repudiated Sunday by the church's board of Christian education. Dr. Charles Scanlon, associate secretary of the board, in charge of the moral welfare department, planned to circulate the report tomorrow in pamphlet form. It became available yesterday. Dr. Scanlon's name is not mentioned in the statement given out today, nor any particular report. It was issued, it says, "in view of the fact that statements have become public which might be construed as representing the policy of the board of Christian education with reference to motion pictures." In the Scanlon report, Mr. Hays, who is an elder of the church and chairman of the layman's committee, seeking to raise $15,000,000 to establish the denomination's new pension plan, is asked to name the objectionable pictures which he has had barred from the screen since taking over his present position. He is accused, also, of condoning and defending the conduct of producers making "bad" films. Mr. Hays delivered a report on the pension plan before the Presbyterian general assembly here yesterday leaving at noon. Today's statement was issued after the signature of Dr. Hutch Thompson Kerr, of Pittsburgh, president of the board of Christian education. "The board has been working in sympathetic co-operation with Mr. Will H. Hays and there is no conflict or misunderstanding between it and Mr. Hays," Dr. Kerr said. After detailing the general policy of the board in regard to motion pictures, he said: "The board has been working in sympathetic co-operation with Mr. Will H. Hays and there is no conflict or misunderstanding between it and Mr. Hays," Dr. Kerr said.

Dry Believers Are Dissatisfied With Ruling On Posters

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Prohibitionists are none too well pleased at the refusal of Gen. Louis C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury especially in charge of dry enforcement, to permit any reference to the eighteenth amendment or Volsteadism in the poster campaign to be launched July 1 throughout the country. That is to say, the poster signs and pictures must boast for law abidance in general, they must not concentrate on any one law in particular. The prohibition view is that this will take all the "punch" out of the posters. In other words, the drys doubt if a reproduction of the national emblem, with the words, "In disregard for law lies the greatest danger to the republic," will touch the average American's conscience as it would be touched by the scroll, "Demand creates supply," underneath a picture of a bootlegger delivering a bottle of booze to a customer. Another complaint is that Andrews' ruling proves him a supporter of prohibition because it's the law, not necessary because it's prohibition. He may not even believe it's a good law, the drys argue, though in favor, while it remains of enforcing it. Judging from Anti-Saloon League comment, his popularity has suffered considerably. Long ago a woman was rescued from Big Eddy, in the Potomac, near Washington, by her dog, Caesar. In the fulness of time Caesar died. Last Mother's Day Potomac river fishermen saw an elderly man row into the stream, drop a wreath on the Eddy's surface, pull ashore and drive off in his automobile. It was the woman's son, paying his annual tribute to Caesar's memory. Her name nobody seems to know.

Floors Never Get a Holiday

YOU know how many times you walk on them—how often the furniture is moved across them—how muddy shoes streak them. They're always on the job. And if they show all this wear they detract from the beauty of the rooms and halls. Folks who use Peegle Floor Enamel have no need to worry about their floors. It is so elastic, and yet so hard that heel marks, scrubbing and other floor-abuses will not show. It dries overnight with a high-gloss finish, and you have a floor that will not crack or peel, nor does water affect it.

NAMES

YOU meet Mr. Howard and Mr. Walters in a gathering. Their names are to you but two of many you hear. A few days later you meet Mr. Howard again. And again. He becomes a friend, perhaps an intimate, in your social as well as business life. Mr. Howard's name grows to mean a lot to you. Mr. Walters is rarely seen again and soon forgotten. In this newspaper are other names—names of advertised products. Day after day you see them. They are like old friends—to be trusted. Their names mean economy, full value and integrity. The unadvertised products—perhaps you see on in a store—or in a friend's home. Soon the name is forgotten—a stranger about whom you know little. Fill your medicine closet, your pantry, your wardrobe with products whose names are guarantees of their integrity—advertised products. Like intimate friends, you know what they are and will do. FATHER'S JUST A BOY

Father's just a bigger boy, Who's taller than me and stronger. Father's just a wiser boy, Who's lived a little longer. But father's still a boy at heart, Thoughta' swiftly the years have sped, Who's lived a bigger, braver part, Who just went on ahead.

Father has seen a thousand things, That've never come to me; He knows the snags a fellow meets, And points them out to me. And he calls me "chum" and tells me things, That I had never read, 'Bout right and wrong, and life he's learned, 'B' goin' on ahead.

And dad's got such a patient smile You'd almost think he knew Just how a thing might happen, And just the best to do. He says: "Twas only yesterday," "When his feet used to tread The path that I am treading now, "But he was just ahead.

Father is just a grown-up boy, With heart that's kind and true; He knows the way that I must go, And wants to help me through. I want to be a man like him, And keep the track he's led, Great, big-hearted, brave as he, Who's blazed the trail ahead. Young People's Paper.

Ocala is coming to the front. Anyone can tell a lie but a lot of folks can't tell a lie from the truth. We are looking for average above want and average value—reads a want ad. So is everybody else.

"Truly," says the Bradenton Herald, "Bradenton is arriving." No less truly, Sanford has arrived. A lot of folks are kicking about putting ethyl gasoline in automobiles who don't mind drinking it themselves at all.

The peculiar light from our blue electric light bulb made the red headlines in the Lakeland Star-Telegram appear almost yellow. Hindenburg's first act after assuming his office was to inspect his troops. Well, in Germany the office depends upon the troops.

Somebody has rocked the boat again in Japan. There seems to be something permanently wrong with the understanding of those Nippons. There was a woman from Macon, who was very fond of bacon; She went to the store To buy her some more, But all of it had been took.

It is the man who has always been accustomed to corn bread and bacon at home who does the most kicking at a first class hotel—Eus Lake Rogers, "corn bread and bacon"—Hotel! What could be sweeter, unless it's fried eggs and grits.

We would remind our fellow dope-spreaders that they helped to elect the legislature and its membership reflects the average citizen of Florida.—Tri-City Morning News. "Its membership reflects the average citizen of Florida"—Oh, Death, where is thy sting?

It is hard to believe that anyone could confuse the St. John's Navigation bill with the memorial to the United States congress requesting an appropriation for the improvement of navigation of the St. John's River, as F. A. Hathaway did, without having previously had an extra drink of hooch.

The Cal in the White House is not a radi-Cal.—New York Herald Tribune. And he's seldom vo Cal.—Providence Journal. His nature is not exactly tropi Cal. (Keep cool with Colidge.)—Kansas City Star.

But his ways are methodi Cal.—Sanford Herald. Still, the faithful know he is al ways recipi Cal.—Miami Tribune. But he has to be politi Cal.—Tampa Tribune. Well, just so he will not become a ras Cal.—Ocala Banner.

The Automobile Essentially "Dry"

The automobile will conquer the Demon Rum. The automobile will put an end to some of the worst features of the liquor evil. "Though the country should go 'wet' again, the automobile would force it to return to its dry status."

There are three startling sentences for you. Startling but sound. Indeed the last one of the three comes directly from Mr. Ford's magazine, and Mr. Ford knows. He says in all truth that since it has been proved by figures that booze is a controlling factor in nearly every traffic accident, other than those in which children or aged persons are involved, public sentiment will take a solid stand against the combination of booze and gasoline. And he rightly assumes that the people in this day and time will give up liquor rather than give up their motor cars.

In the editorial from which these sage opinions are expressed, Mr. Ford's magazine published two paragraphs that should be copied, and featured, in every newspaper and magazine in the United States. It is exactly the kind of talk that should be ringing in the ears of the American people. And The Herald closing this editorial with those paragraphs is going to hope to see them reproduced by other Florida newspapers. After asserting that the automobile is essentially a "dry" affair, the Independent says:

Scientific tests prove that moderate trial doses of so-called good liquor decrease both the speed and the accuracy of eye and hand movement and co-ordination and also increase BODY SWAY about seventy-five per cent. The patellar reflex, a standard gauge of nervous and muscular co-ordination, shows a negative variation of between twenty-five and fifty per cent. Moonshine and wood alcohol liquors and etherized beer, of course, make the above distortions of mind and body functions seem too mild for consideration. The bootleg consumer's ability to make his wits and eyes and arms and legs connect is almost negligible at times.

Prohibition is not a social experiment that society can either retain or toss aside; it is the only means whereby man can utilize the machinery that permits him to conquer the land and the sea and the air and survive. Progress itself is prohibitive of alcohol as a beverage.

Death May Be Calling You

You may be young and robust with every promise of living to a hale old age and yet be among the crowd that will pass very soon through Death's portals. Are you afraid to look such a possibility squarely in the face?

The Herald has no desire to offer a gloomy theme for your meditation nor to harass your imagination with an unpleasant picture. The idea has come to us particularly today at the news of a man who died intestate. He had plenty of property for his family's protection, but some of the family had already had more than a fair share of the estate. Some of the family, too, are sufficiently well-to-do to have no need of their legal share in the property. But the man died without having made a will, and already his relatives have started to quarrel over the spoils.

This man was strong and well a month ago. He would have been set down by a skilled examiner as good for fifty years more. But he was called away quite suddenly one day, and he left a veritable hodge-podge of records out of which the people who loved him, and the people who loved his money, are to fight for what they get!

Yet the making of a will is a simple process. It can be done and forgotten. Men are not brought nearer to Death because they make their wills and keep their records with a view to making things safer, and surer, for their dependents and their loved ones.

Often, too, a will can be written so that it brings wonderful comfort to grieving hearts. Sometimes when there are only a few dollars worth of valuables to be bequeathed, the trinkets can be left through a will that of itself is priceless. Such a document has recently been published in American newspapers.—A Mother bequeathed all her property, to her children; the estate amounted to only a few hundred dollars, but the will of itself has been well called "a legacy to all bereaved persons."

Don't keep any of my personal belongings just because they were mine," the woman wrote. "They are just things, and worn and shabby at that. Love doesn't need such things for remembrance.

"I won't be separated from any of you. I'll be able to love you with all my heart, and without anything that love that will make you feel as if I wanted to control or bother you.

"Bury my body as cheaply as you can, and forget it. Don't wear mourning. And think of me as alive, alive beyond your farthest thought, and near, and loving you, and well at last, free as the winds of heaven, and learning more and more the things I want to know, and growing as I want to grow.

"Love one another. Hold fast to that, whether you understand one another or not. And remember, nothing really matters except being kind to one another and to all the world as far as you can reach."

Perhaps your will would be as fine as that. But you could make one that would do much toward making things easier for grieving friends who would like to dispose of your possessions according to your wishes.

Life is strangely uncertain. We are none of us aware of what it awaits us just around the little curve ahead.

IF TO BE CONSTANT with old friends necessitates staying back with old ideas, I must submit to the accusation of fickleness. I claim the right to follow the leading of my Spirit and my intelligence, no matter what ties and associations are left in the rear. I would rather merit the friendship of my higher self than the approbation of my companions of the past.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

MY FAVORITE STORIES BY IRVIN S. COBB

I have a friend who practices law in the Florida courts and deals in citrus fruit on the side. One day he was on his way in a car from his groves to his home in Miami. On the road he overtook a lank native who seemingly was in a high state of indignation, muttering to himself as he trudged along and clenching and unclenching his fist. The lawyer stopped and offered to give him a lift. "I ain't goin' so very far," said the car, "but I can't sit to whar I'm going a minute. Too soon. There's a feller tvin' down the road here a piece by the name of Ed. Watts, and jest this mornin' he 'vord come to me that yistidin, in 'vord, he told a gang of fellers 'n wife-beatin', alg-suckin' cur dawg. "So I'm on my way to his place to settle it with him. When we get ther you stop while I go in, an' then you better jest watch to see what I'm goin' to do to him." Presently they came to a cabin set among straggly fruit trees. A very large, very strong looking man death.

BEER IN CANADA. THE MONKEY TRIAL. 16 NERVOUS AMERICANS. GREAT MOTOR YEAR.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

OUR FRIENDS across the Canadian border in Ontario decided that plain water isn't as good as was supposed, and go back to beer with 4.4 of alcohol.

Three questions interest Americans, especially those near the Canadian border. First, will the sale of mild beer increase drunkenness? Second, will it cut down whiskey sales and thus diminish drunkenness? Third, how can Americans get some of the beer?

SINCE WE cannot make experiments here, being wedded to "absolute prohibition," in other words, to bootleg whiskey, it will be at least interesting to watch the experiment of our Canadian friends. WHAT IS known as "the monkey law trial" is based on Tennessee law which says you mustn't teach the Darwinian theory of evolution. A teacher in Tennessee, holding the preposterous idea that young Americans have the right to form their own opinions, will be put on trial. William Jennings Bryan, who made several excursions into the 16 to 1 realm of theory, will be the prosecuting attorney.

IT WILL be a trial as amusing as anything you would see in a real monkey cage. And the funny part will NOT be the young teacher who thinks that young Americans should be trusted to think for themselves.

IT WOULD amuse old Darwin if he could come back, especially as he never said that men descended from monkeys, but merely pointed out FACTS and left men to do their own thinking. He didn't realize how much he was asking of 50 per cent of the population.

YESTERDAY was a nervous time for sixteen high spirited Americans in London, presented to genuine royalty, at the first Buckingham Court reception. You can imagine how those proud Americans shivered and shook, as they practiced not falling over their long trains or over their shoe buckles? Can you imagine how bored the genuine royalties were?

THE FATHER of King George, when Prince of Wales, met one American that wasn't nervous about royalty, that American was John L. Sullivan, who met the Prince with this reporter, looking on. "Pleased to meet yer; often heard of yer," said Sullivan, doing his best to make the Prince feel at ease.

THIS IS to be a great automobile year. April produced 429,273 cars. May is expected to go 20-000 higher. The automobile industry is now greater in the United States, totaling more than $1,163,000,000. The steel industry comes second, about $109,000,000 behind the automobile. Third comes the business of slaughtering and selling animals, more than $500,000,000 behind steel. We have reached the age of billions, our first ten industries being above the billion mark.

IF YOU believe that every man's death is fixed in advance, this interests you. William Fric, working under ground in Missouri, might have said that, with all its disadvantages, working in a mine at least kept you safe from lightning. But lightning struck the steam boiler at the top of the mine shaft, knocking over Roy Fenix, followed a steam pipe 150 feet into the ground and killed Fric.

"NO MAN can escape his fate," says a German proverb, and superstition, which has frequently stimulated courage, has carried on the theory. The ancient gentleman, warned by the oracle that he would be killed by a house falling on him, did not get himself by sleeping out of doors. A flying eagle dropped a huge turtle, crushing the man's head. The turtle's shell was his house.

MISS ROSE MARETTA, in private life, Mrs. Gerber, and a grandmother sixty-six years old, recovering from a long illness, returns to barback and trapeze, work in the circus.

A woman should be healthier at sixty-six than at any younger age, says this determined grandmother, and she is right.

WOMEN HAVE one advantage, with all the hardships that have followed them since the episode of the apple and the snake. Once they pass fifty their chance of long life is much better than that of a man past fifty. For this there are several reasons, the most important, that they behave themselves and thus give themselves a chance to live. Many old men don't do that.

Contemporary Comments: It's funny—but a wonderful thing for the state—how those legislators trot up a basketful of extra tax bills of their own pet ideas and then turn en masse on the other fellow's.—Avon Park Pilot.

When the state legislature passed the bill validating the commission-manager form of government for the city of St. Cloud as of January 5, 1925, it settled for ever all argument as to the legality of the election authorizing the change from the council form of government.—St. Cloud Tribune.

ENOUGH OF THIS ENTERTAINING!

EFFECTIVE BLOCKADE ST. PETERSBURG INDEPENDENT

Recent reports from "Rum Row" showing that the ships carrying contraband liquor have moved to other points, indicate that the blockade by the government fleet has been effective. Who the ships have gone is not known but it is easily surmised that they will try to land their cargoes in Florida or some other point along the southern coast of the Atlantic. Florida has a long coast line and it will be difficult, though not impossible, to stop the importation of liquor into this state. Much whiskey has come into Florida in the last few years. St. Petersburg gets its apparently plentiful supply from Nassau and Cuba by way of the smuggling boats that land along the gulf coast and east coast. But Uncle Sam has shown what he can do when he really tries and has broken up the rum fleet of New York. What could be more effective of the effectiveness of Uncle Sam's blockade than the distress message sent out Sunday: "We need water. How about 100 cases of whiskey for 100 cases of water?" Patrolling the coast line from New England to Florida was an order so large as to arouse doubt of its success. This message has been largely dispelled by the message quoted above. The dry may not be maintaining an impenetrable blockade indeed when the smugglers are so isolated that they cannot even keep themselves in fresh water. There is only one way out for the whiskey ships. They must throw their cargo overboard in order to land without danger of arrest. Outside the 12-mile limit they are, of course immune from anything but surveillance. Once across this line they can be seized by the coast guard. And damaging evidence in the hold means that they become Uncle Sam's prisoners. To turn about and steam back to the ports where they loaded up is simply to prolong the misery. No crew running short of drinking water can be readily persuaded to put to sea, delaying by the length of that voyage the hour of relief. This is not the first evidence of Uncle Sam's effective patrol of the seas. The letter of the British baronet to his shareholders, announcing that his shipment of liquor had fallen into the hands of the enemy, gave the initial clue to the thoroughness of this work. Maintaining the dry may be probably an expensive undertaking, but it will prove its worth if it can keep these overseas ventures unprofitable. There will be little left to enterprises that end merely in riding at anchor a safe distance from the Atlantic shore and then to go marched to boot.

ITALIAN WOMEN WIN PROVIDENCE NEWS

Thanks to Premier Mussolini, the women of Italy have won a limited measure of woman suffrage; they will vote in municipal elections. It is quite noteworthy that they have been given the vote, not because Mussolini believes it will be of any great benefit to them or Italy, but because he feels their achievements in the war and the difficult times after the war should be recognized. This is another step toward bringing the European countries to the enlightened condition which obtains in this country where men and women vote on terms of absolute equality. A few years ago Great Britain passed a law which allows women of thirty and over to vote. It is only a matter of a little time until this measure is liberalized in the direction of allowing all women of twenty-one and over to vote. Belgium is the only European country which now does this. In France a suffrage bill was passed by the Chamber of Deputies in 1923. But it was turned down by the Senate. The Italian victory will, no doubt, have the further effect of stimulating French women to further suffrage agitation. For the present, however, they have only a slim chance of success. That is due to the fact that the Radicals and Socialists control the French parliament. As a rule men of this type of political thinking favor suffrage. They did so in Britain and even in Italy. In France, however, they oppose woman suffrage on the ground that women voters would be apt to favor the conservative and nationalist policies which they oppose. There is probably no better evidence of the fundamental dishonesty of so-called liberal thinking in France than is shown in its opposition to a measure of obvious justice because it might prove politically expedient. On the other hand we have the Spanish reactionary forces as opposed to it in France. But even there the agitation for it is growing stronger. Altogether it may be said that the suffrage movement in Europe is making headway according to the women show themselves possessed of spirit and intelligence. Given these, they make headway with the demand that they have an equal voice in determining those policies for the outcome of which they have to bear a responsibility different from that of their men-folk but equally onerous.

High School Seniors Enjoy Delightful Boat Trip To Jacksonville

Chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. McKay and Mrs. R. C. Maxwell, a group of the graduating class of the Sanford High School made a trip to Jacksonville on the Ocala of the Clyde Line, leaving Sanford Friday afternoon and returning Sunday.

The feature of Friday evening was a double wedding, which caused much merriment and a great deal of pleasure. Also "Dan McGrew" was strikingly presented by an excellent cast.

Saturday was spent in sight seeing in Jacksonville and many amusing events occurred here which served as subjects for conversation when they were gathered together again for the return trip. A second start was made since two were unfortunately left and had to be returned for.

The trip proved such an enjoyable affair that the class of '25 has established a precedent for an annual trip of the senior class, which will be looked forward to with much anticipation.

The members of the class who composed the party were: Miss Olive Newman, Miss Mildred Holly, Miss Mary Elizabeth Puleston, Miss Georgia Hobley, Miss Sara Evelyn Williams, Miss Gene Maxwell, Miss Anna Kanner, Miss Tilly Benjamin, Miss Grace Gillen, Miss Louise Saries, and Miss Elma Tolar, Albert Connelly, Warner Scoggin, Harry Woodruff, John Brumley and Stuart Long.

WELL—JIGGS—OLD BOY— WHERE IS THAT CAT YOU WANT ME TO TAKE OUT WEST WITH ME? I LEAVE IN A LITTLE WHILE.

I SENT MY BOY UP TO MY HOUSE AFTER IT— HE'LL BE HERE ANY MINUTE.

HERE'S THE CAT ALL PACKED NICELY IN THIS BOX:

JUST PUT IT THERE WITH THE REST OF MY LUGGAGE; I WANT TO TALK TO JIGGS FOR AWHILE.

PUT IT DOWN—BOY!

BY GOLLY—I'VE BEEN TALKING SO MUCH—I FORGOT WHAT TIME IT IS—I MUST BE OFF TO CATCH MY TRAIN.

GOOD LUCK—OLD TOP!

WHAT'S THE MATTER?

THAT GUY TALKED SO MUCH HE FORGOT TO TAKE THE CAT.
