

Model Plane Tested In Transoceanic Weather

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Long before the new Boeing transatlantic plane received its first tests over water, a complete scale model of the 41-ton ship encountered the hazards of transatlantic weather.

In the Goodrich wind tunnel at Akron, and officials of the company here, the scale model tests delayed two years of exhaustive experimentation.

Water blown into the tunnel at 60 degrees formed ice and sleet particles in a fifth of a second. This was said to be the first time a complete model of any plane had undergone such refrigeration tests.

Californians Pay Most Gasoline Tax

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—Figures printed in the Service Station News show that Californians have paid more gasoline tax than any other state in the union, totaling since a tax was imposed in 1923 being $527,180,000.

Pennsylvania, which instituted its tax in 1921, has paid the second highest: $487,379,000, while New York—with a tax dating from 1929—is third with $473,12,000.

Gertrude Lawrence made her debut on the stage as a child dancer in 1908.

BABE RUTH, No. 1 slugger of baseball with the New York Yankees, has returned to the game as a coach for the Brooklyn Dodgers. He is shown in action at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field during a double-header with the Chicago Cubs.

SPIRITUAL CONTRADICTIONS: He that was called in the Lord being a servant, is the Lord's freeman; likewise he that is called, being free, is Christ's servant.—1 Cor. 7:22.

SIDE DOOR

At the front of our house is an arched white gate With a privet hedge,
And a walk of slate.

But another path slips Around and goes
In at the side
Where the garden grows.

You'll soon discover
What we know well:
That nobody rings
The front-door bell.

If you happen to call,
Don't leave card, Just come right in Through the gay back yard!

—Sara King Carleton.

Nothing is as tickle as the weather, unless it could be a politician trying to jump from one side to the other with every change of fashionable opinion.

Pity the poor telephone operator who has to interpret words of people with mush in their mouths and who gets bawled out when she can't.

We have often thought what a great stimulant to better business it would be if everyone would make a special effort to pay up debts at the same time. Money would circulate so fast business would hum.

Herman Goering, number two Nazi Chieftain, has promulgated a decree conscripting the services of workers in behalf of the state.
You work for the government if, when, and where it wants you.
This is the price of economic security in Germany.

Isn't it funny that the most horrible weapon of modern warfare is probably the reason that war doesn't break out. England would never permit her ships to be sunk indiscriminately by Italian airplanes if it were not for the fear of bombs over London, and Hitler would not allow Czechoslovakia to huddle up to her if it were not for the likelihood that Czech planes would bomb Berlin.

Despite all reports to the contrary the people are more and more enjoying the luxuries of life. Thirty years ago, girls living in small towns similar to Sanford could be distinguished by their provincial manner of dress, cotton stockings, flat-heeled work shoes, plain gingham dresses.
Today they wear silk and silks patterned after the latest Paris and New York creations.
Their stockings are silk or rayon and their shoes are exact copies of the ones that appeared in vogue last week. They look and dress like the smartest debutantes in the big city.

Pete Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, says that both the Democratic and Republican Parties are controlled by the Nazis, and that he thinks J. P.
Morgan has Jewish blood. We got the idea that Franklin D. Roosevelt had a slight influence in the affairs of the Democratic Party, and we were also under the impression that Hoover, or Hamilton Fish, had some connection with the Republican Party.
So far as we know, not that there is no special credit given to any of these men.

Sunken Treasure

On a stormy day in 1799 the frigate Lutine, carrying bullion to England from Hamburg, was wrecked and went to the bottom at the entrance to the Zuider Zee off the coast of Holland. In its hull were 900,000 pounds sterling, worth about $4,500,000, and 10 to 12 million dollars worth of gold and coin, which was being transported for payment of troops engaged in the Napoleonic wars.

This huge sum makes a very rich prize for which to work, and with this thought in view, a Netherlands company has decided to make use of its recently constructed dredger, the largest in the world, in recovering this sunken fortune. The dredger is named the Karimata. It is 250 feet in length, 80 feet in width and can dredge to a depth of 100 feet. The depth of the water where the Lutine lies is supposed to be 60 feet, but it is probably 40 feet deep in the mud. The fact that it lies so near the surface will make the task of recovery less difficult.

The lure of finding lost treasure has always been fascinating and many expeditions have set forth before to locate some fabulous fortune below the waves, but in most instances the quests have met with failure due to insurmountable handicaps. With the improvement and development of mechanical equipment, the day may be near at hand when, what had once been a romantic pastime of adventurers, will turn out to be a big business.

Unrational People

In the Nazi mind there is nothing incongruous with official denial that the recent drive against Jews has oficial sanction and with the avowal of Propaganda Chieftain Goebels that all Jews must be driven out of the country.

In pointing out this haywire reasoning of the Nazis, the New York Times says: "The curb now said to be put on the excesses of anti-Semitic violence that marked the outrages against defenseless citizens were the work of irresponsible elements in the Nazi party. If the explanation is true, it is an admission that the police are incapable of maintaining public order and protecting property. Also it is an admission that the party chiefs are incapable of controlling the party. But it is plainly not true. Otherwise the officers of the law would not have looked the other way while the paint-bucket brigade quietly and methodically smeared and defiled Jewish-owned shops and cafes. How could the police without authority have arrested more than 2,000 Jews, and then released them when they promised to leave the country?

Perhaps there is not use looking for rational explanations for the behavior of a regime that is itself smeared by the orgy of sadism following its unopposed occupation of Vienna. The tortures and humiliations meted out in that reign of terror spring from forces far below the level of reason. Were it not for one thread of logic running through the dark mazes of Nazi psychology, the whole campaign of persecution might set down to the mania of a fanatic, magnified into the policy of a great nation. But one motive keeps reappearing. Every time the ruling party gets into a tight place the persecution intensifies.
Therefore each new drive of this kind starts speculation as to why the perpetual scapegoat, trussed up once and punished over and over again."

COLT'S DILEMMA . . .

Samuel Colt, inventor of the famous six-shooter which bears his name, found himself in a very embarrassing position one day when the U. S. Government petitioned him to make 1,000 of the revolvers for the Texas Rangers.

Colt didn't own a Colt six-shooter! He had made them for the past five years—in fact, he was bankrupt.

For a long time Colt had at tempted to interest the government in his famous six-shooter, but always he had been refused.

The Texas Rangers and the frontiersmen of the Texas plains had adopted the weapon for fighting with Indians and Mexicans, but because they lacked funds with which to buy them in large numbers, Colt had to give up revolver-making.

Then came the outbreak of the Mexican War. The Texas Rangers offered their services to Zachary Taylor and furnished their own mounts and equipment which included the Colt six-shooter. With the so-called "Texan" model Colt, they soon became a terror to the Mexicans.

In response to demands for more of these weapons, General

Taylor requisitioned the government for 1,000 Colt six-shooters.
They were not to be had, so the government turned to Colt.

Strange as it seems, he had none either!

Colt frantically placed advertisements in the newspapers in hopes of securing one of his own guns, but to no avail. Finally he began to produce revolvers, but not to specifications of his old favorite, the "Texas" model.

LETTER REPETITION . . .

Every written alphabet language manifests a high degree of constancy in the relative frequency with which its individual letters are employed. From a study of 100,000 letters appearing in telegrams of a commercial and military nature, the letters of the English alphabet were found to occur most frequently in this order: E T R I N O A S D L C H F U P M Y G W V B X K Q J Z. The letter "Z" alone falls in its proper place.

To Broadcast "Fire-

Says Funds Needed
To Drive Out Spies

from Senator Connally, D-Tex.

Connally, a member of the Senate Finance Committee, said the increases would be necessary because of the mounting government debt. These middle bracketed points are pointed out, provide a great bulk of the income tax revenue.

The President also said he thought the Army and Navy should have more funds for running down spies in this country.

His comment, made in response to press conference questions, came after he said that the question of publishing series of newspaper articles on the New York spy investigation involved both patriotism and ethics.

Articles, prepared by Leon G.

Turrow, former Justice Department agent, have not been published pending the outcome of a suit brought by the government to prevent their publication. The suit is against the New York Post.

To students of political events,

Roosevelt's radio speech appears to be the beginning of a fast and furious personal drive with a twofold purpose.

The aim, according to informed opinion here, is to stimulate an economic upturn before the November elections, and also to offset anti-New Deal political trends resulting from strife in the Democratic party.

Republican opposition and even some Democratic critical opposition have called the 1938 election "a Roosevelt election" by the multiplying dollar relief and purse-string measures.

Mr. Roosevelt appears to be embarking on a trans-national campaign to capture the country and another period of recovery is along the way. The map of his journey conforms too closely to party trouble spots to avoid the conclusion that it was shaped with that in mind.

At the same time, however, enunciation of what may amount to a 1938 new deal campaign platform, containing foreign as well as domestic planks, is apt to be the outstanding effect of Roosevelt speeches, if observers interpret the situation correctly.

ChooseHomeThatFits, Miss Venable Advises

TALLAHASSEE, June 24.—(P)—When you buy a house use the same reasoning you would in buying a dress—consider for what purpose you want it, how it fits, and whether it can be altered or adapted.

This is the advice given by Miss Ella Venable, associate professor of home economics at Florida State College, to teachers of that subject here for a recent two-week course in "Housing as Related to Family Life."

The selection of housing is as important as that of any other major commodity," she said, "and should be given more attention since it constitutes from 10 to 32 percent of the family expense."

"Plan your house in terms of need or function and in terms of adaptability in the event your family grows or decreases, or in case you wish to rent part of it later."

Miss Venable told the group.

She listed "convenience" as one of the nine requirements every house should have, stating that convenience of the area of a house, and the relationship the different areas have to each other is an important factor in building.

Other requirements a house should have, she said, are a healthful environment, comfortable surroundings; a feeling of beauty and simplicity; opportunity for the development of each member of the family; room and relaxation; privacy; space for productive and non-productive activities.

Steel Shares Send Stock Mart Up For Sixth Day In Row

Announcement Of Reduction In Price Of Steel Precedes New Upward Trend

Increases Of More Than $3 Recorded

U. S. Steel Hints Cut In Wages May Follow Lower Prices

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—The buying of steel shares sent the stock market up for the sixth day in a row today, after an announcement by the U. S. Steel Corporation that none of its officials had given assurances that its reduction in steel prices would not be followed by wage reductions.

The market slid back quietly in the first hour, many shares showing losses of 50 cents to one dollar, but buying quickly appeared after the steel statement, and before noon many stocks were from 50 cents to more than $3 above yesterday's final level.

This further upward in stocks carried several as much as $10 to $20 above prices of a week ago, making it the steepest climb the market has experienced since the Spring of 1923 when prices rebounded swiftly after the bank holiday.

Wall Street interpreted U. S. Steel's price cut, reducing quotations on its products about 1 to 2 percent, to the lowest in a little more than 10 years, as likely to stimulate business, but wondered what could happen to profit margins, if costs were not also reduced.

PITTSBURGH, June 25.—(AP)—The wage problem was projected into the steel situation today simultaneously with an announcement of one big independent producer that it would match the surprise cut in steel prices announced by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

In New York the U. S. Steel Corporation, parent of the Carnegie-Illinois, announced that none of its officials "has given any assurances that wage reductions will not follow the steel price reductions yesterday."

In Chicago, Inland Steel declared it would meet the price cut and although other independent producers were silent, they were expected to match the cut almost automatically.

In Washington the Administration's monopoly investigators division said that "big steel" probably would be the first called to public hearings which are expected to start in September.

Olympian Is Overtaken By New Disaster

Expert Climbers To Scale Peak In Search For Heir

Companion Found At Base Of High Cliff; Governor Aids Hunt

ALBUQUERQUE, New Mexico, June 25.—(AP)—A call was issued for experienced mountain climbers today in the possibility that John Medill McCormick, missing since Wednesday, might be clinging to a ledge on an almost sheer cliff of rugged Sandia Mountain Peak.

The body of Richard Whitmer, 20-year-old companion of the publishing heir on the ill-fated mountain climbing expedition, was found last night crumpled at the base of the cliff.

A plane was enroute from Colorado Springs with a group of veteran mountain climbers who are to scale towering Sandia Peak.

Personally commanding the search, Governor Tingley expressed his determination that climbers would find the boy dead or alive.

The boy, son of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms and the late Senator Medill McCormick of Chicago, left early Wednesday with Richard Whitmer, of Albuquerque, to scale the peak of the mountains.

Late yesterday, forest rangers discovered young McCormick's light car parked deep in Pussey-willow canyon under the sheer face of the peak, northernmost in the Sandia range.

Just before dusk, a Transcontinental and Western Air transport took off from Albuquerque with John Simms, Jr., and William Blucher, to inspect two objectives seen high on a ledge toward the summit of the peak.

Need Of Additional School Revenue May Lead To Fight For Poll Taxes

TALLAHASSEE, June 25.—(AP)—Demands for additional school revenue from county sources to augment the State allocation may bring on a spirited fight during the 1939 Florida legislative session to restore the $1 a poll tax for voters.

Americans that the negro vote may become the dominating factor in general elections unless there is a poll-tax restriction already are coming from some sources.

There are counter-statements that many white persons were kept from voting because they could not pay the tax.

Democratic nomination has been tantamount to election in Florida for the past 50 years. Prior to that, in the two decades after the Civil War of 1861-1865, negroes occupied many local offices and there were several in the Legislature.

Florida Democrats many years ago established the "white Democratic party" and laid down qualifications that excluded negroes from party primaries. Negroes are eligible to vote in the general elections.

In 1919 the State Legislature passed a law requiring negroes to register in the primaries, but negroes did not do so.

Now those seeking restoration of the poll tax requirement assert organized interests might upset a Democratic primary nomination by organizing big blocks of Negro votes for the general election.

In the 1936 general election there were 182,000 Democratic and 170,000 Republican voters in the state.

It is estimated that the Negro

Crack Flyer Collides Head-On With CCC Train Killing One And Injuring Four

SEATTLE, June 25.—(AP)—Tragically again overtook the crack Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific "Olympian" train this morning when the westbound flyer collided head-on with an eastbound CCC train near Ingomar, Montana, killing one youth and injuring four trainmen and seven passengers.

J. S. Bahl, assistant general passenger agent here, said Robert Eckert, CCC mess car worker, was killed in the second Olympian accident within a week.

Last Sunday morning the Olympian plunged through a weak ended bridge over Custer Creek 26 miles east of Miles City, killing an estimated total of 17 persons.

Bahl said that telegraphic word from the crash scene to day asserted the Olympian ran through orders to meet the eastbound CCC train at Ingomar and plowed into the train a mile west of the scheduled "positive meet" junction.
