A Way For Seniors To Remain Active

By JOE DESANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

You've heard the scenario before. A longtime company employee retires, gets a pat on the back, perhaps a gold watch, and a quick shuffle out the back door to obscurity.

But for most senior citizens, the transition out of the work force and into retirement can often prove to be a difficult one to adjust to. After working a lifetime, it can be tough to call it quits all at once. Especially when many seniors have many years ahead of a still productive, fulfilling life.

Some do choose to trade time cards for fishing poles and officially retire. Others still feel the need to contribute through work in some manner. The Seminole County Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) offers those with a penchant for work a perfect avenue to remain active and at the same time use their skills and experience for the benefit of many public and private enterprises.

The RSVP program got its grassroots start in New York City in the mid-1960s when the Community Service Society of New York posed a question of far-reaching significance: Why shouldn't older Americans extend their productive years beyond the period of child-rearing and conventional employment, into community service and other activities?

Two years later a pilot program was launched on Staten Island in which older citizens would volunteer several hours a week, working at tasks that matched their abilities and inclinations. The range of the pilot program, SERVE—Serve and Enrich Retirement by Volunteer Experience—was broad, matching seniors to volunteer positions in work areas from hospitals to manning telephones on hotlines.

SERVE worked so well that it was used as a model for a new program developed under the auspices of the U.S. Administration on Aging and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (today known as the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services).

It took a few years for political support to grow for the organization, but in 1971 the program was transferred to ACTION, the federal voluntary agency that also serves as the umbrella for the Senior Companion Program, the Foster Grand-

Sharon Meeker Pleads Guilty In Arson Case

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 31-year-old Sanford woman, who pleaded guilty to second-degree arson in circuit court Friday, is expected to be sentenced to 15 years' probation instead of jail time.

Sharon Lee Meeker, 606 Park Ave., entered her plea in a hearing before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler saying she is guilty of torching former Sanford police officer Walter E. Jones' home in the Goldboro section of Sanford in December 1980.

Ms. Meeker was found guilty of second-degree arson Jan. 25 after she testified in court that she and two other people set fire to the home at 1839 Jerry St. She testified that she did it for love of Jones and not for money he allegedly was to pay her, which he would collect from an insurance policy.

However, Leffler dismissed the case against Ms. Meeker on April 5, saying the state did not specifically charge her with an "unlawful" avoid the appeal and enter a plea of guilty.

According to Leffler, Ms. Meeker's lawyer, Chief Assistant Public Defender Norman Levin, and the state prosecutor, Randy Kramer, recommended, and he has agreed, to accept the guilty plea on the condition Ms. Meeker will not be sentenced to additional jail time.

Leffler said he has also accepted the lawyers' recommendation that Ms. Meeker be sentenced to 15 years' probation and be ordered to repay the public defender fees and pay restitution to the insurance company that paid on the claim.

Leffler explained that in pleading guilty to the charge, Ms. Meeker eliminates the risk of getting a reversal on the appeal and facing more prison time.

On the other hand, he said, the state eliminates the possibility that the appeal will be upheld and that Ms. Meeker will receive no punishment.

Ms. Meeker is scheduled to be sentenced by Leffler on June 8.

Kramer and Levin were unavailable for comment.

James Michael Williams, 33, of Union Park, and his ex-wife, Patricia, 34, of Lake Mary, confessed prior to Ms. Meeker's conviction to their participation in the arson. The couple also testified against Ms. Meeker in the January trial before Leffler.

Jones was arrested Feb. 3 on charges of solicitation for arson and insurance fraud, following an indictment by the Seminole County grand jury in the case. However, the state has dropped the insurance-fraud charge against Jones and is expected to refile it in Orange County, since payment for the destroyed home was made to Jones through an Orange County insurance company. No trial date has been set.

But earlier this week, law-enforcement officials said Ms. Meeker, 'seeking to bring some order to her life,' indicated a desire to avoid the appeal and enter a plea of guilty.

The state appealed the decision to the Fifth District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach.

But earlier this week, law-enforcement officials said Ms. Meeker, "seeking to bring some order to her life," indicated a desire to

Security Guards: In Seminole, Not A Stereotype

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

The profile of the average private security guard drawn by a Florida State University criminology student in her honors thesis does not paint a true picture of the industry in Seminole County, according to operators of security-guard businesses here.

Karen Taylor of Tallahassee, who did research on the industry for her thesis, stereotyped the average security guard in Florida as a white male, younger than 20, with just a high school education and without any military experience. She also said about 10 percent of them have past records of being arrested.

Deborah Stiles, wife of Edward Stiles, the owner of Dixie Security in Sanford, and the bookkeeper and a licensed security guard herself, says their employees are over 30, have military experience and at least a high school education. "We have two retired Navy chiefs—one a weapons expert—who are working as security guards to supplement their retirement pay," she adds.

"Women can do as good a job as men, but it depends on their frame of mind," says Mrs. Stiles. "I received my training and was licensed a year ago. All our women are married, but we have weird hours working nights, holidays and weekends.

"We have some employees going into law enforcement who get credit toward their police academy requirements," she says. "We have one man who is going into the military police and works with us on weekends. We've got to be doing something right."

Howard Gardner, owner of Mohawk Security Service in Casselberry, says Ms. Taylor's stereotype was "more or less the concept created by movies and television of a derelict wino or someone who couldn't make it in law enforcement."

"I can't speak for all the security-guard organizations," he says, "but as for my own, they have to meet the high standards I set and pass a thorough background check. We are an equal opportunity employer and hire all ages and different nationalities, but the majority of our employees are ex-military people who have served their four years or who have retired and are looking for income to supplement their retirement pay. Some are middle-aged and just want something to do.

"I have had men on the payroll who have a doctor's degree or master's degree," adds Gardner. "One who had a master's

Well Driller Bob French's Solution

Water Conservation? Try Septic Tanks

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Florida ultimately will run out of potable water. That time is a long way off, probably beyond the time of this generation. But can anything be done to assure that Seminole County and the state will always have fresh, clean water?

Bob French, a well driller for the last 30 years, says he has the answer. It's conservation of a different kind, and it may sound old-fashioned to some.

He says the answer lies in using septic tanks—the old-fashioned way of disposing of effluent by recycling it back into the aquifer—and by recycling effluent now pumped to the sea from large sewer plants like the ones in Altamonte Springs and Iron Bridge near Oviedo.

Right now, in May 1982, there is plenty of water in Seminole County, French says. In fact, 40 to 50 new, private wells are being drilled monthly and all are bringing in clean, pure water, he insists.

And septic tanks are doing a good job of providing effluent disposal for the majority of families in the county, he says.

French, a former county commissioner, learned his craft in the only way possible in his day—through an apprenticeship under his late father, F.F. French.

It was in 1970 that the state of Florida decided that all well drillers should be state-licensed—something that isn't required in most of the other building trades.

Those who were in the business for at least three years prior to 1970, were "grandfathered"—allowed to continue their trade without taking the state test.

There are about 1,000 licensed well drillers in Florida, and there isn't one college in the state offering a degree program in well drilling, French says.

The National Well Drillers Association is concerned because the average age of well drillers has increased and fewer of the younger generation are learning the profession.

"There are other things the younger generation can learn to earn their living that does not require such hard work," French says.

"The water table is dropping, but we are not running out of water—no way. Our concern and everyone's concern should be the amount of water that is being pumped out of the ground and sent on to the sea," he says.

"There's no such thing as more water. No more is being created. But we can save what we've got," he adds. French says any piece of property that can pass a percolation test—proving water can seep without difficulty into the ground to be purified in the process—is a good site for a septic tank.

"And if a piece of property has good percolation, there is no reason a septic tank should not be built there and no reason to connect that property to a sewer system," he adds.

"A septic tank does the same thing as a sewer plant, only much less expensively. The only difference between the two is that the process of sewage digestion is speeded up at a sewer plant. And the remaining water at a sewer plant is pumped away," French notes. The effluent from septic tanks, meanwhile, after purification from the filtering process, is recovered by the aquifer.

He says the gray-water system of recovering water, now a pilot program in Longwood is not something new. And septic-tank effluent will test just as pure as gray water after the filtration process, he adds.

The gray-water pilot program in Longwood provides that bath and wash water from homes be held in a tank separate from sewage and allowed to seep back into the environment.

"Sewer plants are needed when low land is developed where septic tanks can't percolate," French says.

He says building sewer plants was a lot easier for developers in the past.

And it is easier for developers today to connect to city sewer plants. Then they do not have to install septic tanks.

French predicts the day is coming when water is going to be scarce, and when that happens sewer plants are going to be in trouble, too. "Without water a sewer plant can't operate," he says.

Bob French says there is plenty of fresh, pure water available from wells in Seminole County now, but future residents may not be so lucky. Here he starts up the rig to drill a well, one of 40 to 50 new ones drilled every month in the county.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, May 11, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY May 11, 1982
Alliances you form this coming year for other than commercial purposes should turn out to be very lucky for both you and your partner. If choosing a business associate, however, select wisely.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others will be willing to do things for you today that could prove to be beneficial, provided you don't demand that they do so.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't let anything that happened in the past affect your attitude toward those with whom you may have to deal today. A short memory can be a blessing.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial conditions are likely to be a mixed bag for you today. Fortunately, events should unravel in ways to put you in the profit column.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An incident might arise today where you may have to step on someone's toes in order to get what you want. Put friendship above selfishness.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Beware of tendencies today to think of what you have to do as being more difficult than it really is. You'll discover it's not so hard.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make it a point today not to pry into the personal affairs of friends. Those who need your advice or want your opinion will seek you out.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) That which you do the hard way today is likely to fall flat on its face, but if you flow with events and trust your luck it's another story.

Analyzing Alcohol Content In Blood

DEAR DR. LAMB - Recently I witnessed a machine used as a breath analyzer for the first time. It measured the amount of alcohol in a person's system. I don't know the technical name for it. How does it work? How long is alcohol retained in terms of hours, days, before all traces disappear? Can this machine be used to detect other substances?

wait an hour after your last drink before driving. There are other factors that also affect the blood level of alcohol. These and the effects on your ability to function, your brain response, are discussed in The Health Letter number 14-6, Alcohol Can Be Dangerous to Your Health, which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 14-year-old girl and am 5 feet 1 inch tall and weigh 90 pounds. I feel that is a perfect weight for me as I am small-boned. I have not dieted and have always been thin. I would like to know how many calories I can eat without gaining or losing weight. I am moderately active and take an hour of jazz class every week. I exercise 30 minutes a day the rest of the week. I have a long school day so I usually have a large breakfast early in the morning.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm pretty sure I have stopped growing because I have had my period for more than a year. So how many calories do you suggest? DEAR READER - There is no magic figure. The level of activity varies so much from one individual to another that the number that makes one person fat will not be enough for another person. For a girl your age, height and weight the National Academy of Sciences' recommendation is 2,200 calories a day with a variation between 1,500 and 3,000 calories.

How can you tell if you are eating too many calories? You will develop too much fat under the skin. If you are not getting enough calories your energy level is likely to decrease causing fatigue and weakness.

Massacre Indians Go On Warpath, Scalp A's, 14-2

United Press International
The Cleveland Indians treated Billy Martin as if he were General Custer and pretended the Oakland Coliseum was the Little Big Horn. Led by Andre Thornton and Mike Hargrove, the Indians scalped the Oakland A's, 14-2, Sunday to soundly whip Martin's club for the third straight game after losing the opener of a four-game series.

In winning the last three games the Indians scored 37 runs against a pitching staff that ranks among the best in the major leagues. It also enabled the Indians to average a three-game sweep by the A's at Cleveland, April 30-May 2, during which the Tribe scored only four runs.

"People get into kind of a groove, just like it's hard to score one run," said Indians' manager Dave Garcia, in trying to explain his club's sudden rampage on offense.

The Indians rapped out 15 hits Sunday and got a pair of homers from Andre Thornton and five RBI from Mike Hargrove. Hargrove, Ron Hamsey and Rick Manning each homered during an eight-run ninth inning outburst against reliever Jeff Jones.

American League

Matt Keough, 3-1, who suffered the loss after being roughed up by Thornton's homers in the first and third innings, admitted he was happy to see the Indians leave town.

Elsewhere in the AL, Chicago edged Detroit 4-3, Toronto blanked Kansas City 2-0, Milwaukee topped Minnesota 6-2, Boston nipped Texas 1-0, California downed Baltimore 8-4, and the New York Yankees blanked Seattle 3-0.

In National League games, San Diego blanked Philadelphia 6-0, Chicago beat Houston 6-3, Los Angeles edged Montreal 5-4, New York nipped San Francisco 6-5, Atlanta topped St. Louis 3-0 and Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 6-3.

White Sox 4, Tigers 3
At Detroit, the White Sox laid the law down to the Tigers. Rudy Law drove in two runs with a triple and a single to help the White Sox stretch their winning streak to six games.

Blue Jays 2, Royals 0
At Toronto, Jesse Barfield clubbed a solo homer and Dave Sileb scattered eight hits in helping the Blue Jays complete a sweep of their three-game series.

Brewers 6, Twins 2
At Milwaukee, Jim Gantner drove in three runs with a triple and a homer and Ben Oglivie belted a two-run homer to help the Brewers complete a sweep of their four-game series.

Red Sox 1, Rangers 0
At Arlington, Texas, Tony Perez' run-scoring double in the sixth and Bob Stanley's key relief performance helped the Red Sox hand the Rangers their 14th loss in their last 15 games. Stanley, making his eighth relief appearance of the year, took over from John Tudor in the fifth and boosted his record to 3-1 by allowing four hits in 3 2/3 innings.

Angels 4, Orioles 1
At Anaheim, Calif., Don Baylor and Bobby Grich cracked homers to account for five runs and Tim Lincecum slugged a double and triple to drive in three more in powering the Angels to victory.

Yankees 3, Mariners 0
At Seattle, Tommy John and Rich Gossage combined on a five-hitter and Oscar Gamble cracked a two-run homer in the ninth inning to lead New York. John, 2-4, allowed just one Seattle runner to reach third base over eight innings. Gossage pitched the ninth, striking out three, to pick up his fifth save.

Carlton Look-Alike Lollar Hurls Third Shutout

United Press International
Tim Lollar hit like Pete Rose and pitches like Steve Carlton. At least it seems that way sometimes.

"Hitting against Lollar was like going against Carlton on a good day," Rose observed after Lollar hurled a four-hitter and singled in a run to lead the San Diego Padres to a 6-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. "He was in complete control."

Lollar, a 26-year-old lefthander acquired last season from the New York Yankees, pitched his third shutout of the year to up his record to 4-0 and map the Phillies' six-game winning streak.

Lollar, who entered the game hitting .300, singled in Kurt Bevacqua to put the Padres ahead 1-0 in the second inning. Louer Carlton, 3-4, served up a double to Bevacqua to open the second and two outs later Lollar drove in his fifth run of the year.

"I feel that I could both pitch and DH in the American League," continued Lollar. "I did it in the minors in the Yankee chain."

Lollar experienced minor trouble in the second inning when he allowed two hits. He held Rose and Mike Schmidt to a combined 0-for-4.

"The Phillies have a tough lineup," said Lollar. "I particularly tried to keep the ball in on Schmidt. He has hurt me in the past."

In other games, Chicago beat Houston 6-3, Los Angeles edged Montreal 5-4, New York nipped San Francisco 6-5, Atlanta checked St. Louis 3-0 and Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 6-3.

In the American League, it was Cleveland

14, Oakland 2; California 8, Baltimore 4; Chicago 4, Detroit 3; Toronto 2, Kansas City 0; Milwaukee 6, Minnesota 2; Boston 1, Texas 0; and the New York Yankees 3, Seattle 0.

Cubs 6, Astros 3
At Chicago, Jody Davis hit a three-run homer with two out in the ninth, lifting the Cubs to a sweep of their three-game series. In the fourth, Chicago's Bill Buckner was hit by a pitch by starter Bob Knepfer. Buckner charged the mound and both benches emptied, but no fight occurred.

Dodgers 5, Expos 4
At Montreal, Pedro Guerrero cracked a three-run homer to highlight a four-run fifth to carry the Dodgers to a sweep of their four-game series. Dusty Baker drove in his 10th run in the last three games with a double.

Mets 8, Giants 5
At New York, Rusty Staub, 2-for-21 coming to the plate, hit a pinch-hit home run with two out in the ninth. Staub, hitless in his previous 16 at-bats, batted for Craig Swan, 2-1, and ripped a 1-0 pitch off reliever Greg Minton, 2-2.

Braves 3, Cardinals 0
At St. Louis, Bob Horner smashed his ninth homer and singled in and Joe Cowley, Preston Hanna, Steve Bedrosian and Gene Garber combined on a three-hitter. Cowley started for the Braves but was forced to leave the game in the fourth because of a pulled shoulder muscle.

Pirates 6, Reds 3
At Cincinnati, Jason Thompson hit his 10th homer to extend his hitting streak to 17 games and Johnny Ray went 4-for-3. Don Robinson, 3-0, struck out six and walked four before Kent Tekulve finished for his third save.

Sneed Trips Shearer With Sudden-Death Putt

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ed Sneed cast out a three-year curse with a brave bunker shot and an everyday three-foot putt that gave him the title of the $350,000 Houston Open.

The putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday came after Sneed caught runaway third-round leader Bob Shearer of Australia by shooting a 1-under-par 70 for a 72-hole total of 275.

The winning total was the highest since the Houston Open has been played the last eight years at the Woodlands Country Club west course.

Danny Edwards shot a 68 Sunday to move from the field and finish third, one shot in back of the leaders. George Burns was fourth and at 5-under par were Tom Kite and Tommy Valentine.

Shearer, who couldn't buy a birdie after bagging eight of them Saturday, parred the 178-yard No. 15 after a nervous round of 75. His final-day fade reminded Sneed, 37, of the 1979 Masters title won by Fuzzy Zoeller in which Sneed lost a three-shot lead with three holes to play.

Wells Outruns Pintos

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Forest City's Wayne Wells, a plumber by trade, who doubles as an excellent race driver, handily won the four-cylinder feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, proving once and for all that a Capri can outrun a track full of Pintos.

But after a few laps of the late model main were linked on the score sheets, the rain came then stopped. The track was being dried when the skies opened up again, with gallons of wet stuff pouring down, forcing track officials to postpone the remaining three features (late model, thunder car, street stock) and the demolition derby to this coming Saturday night at 8:00 p.m.

Bud Beatty led the early goings of the four-cylinder finale, while Wells, coming from the rear of the buzzing pack, was moving up. At half-way, Wells pushed his Ford Capri in the commanding spot for the remaining of the race, with Steve Hahn, Beatty, Bob Clark and division's high point man Eddie Toval rounding out the top five. Second heat winner was Mike Shuman.

In late model action, LeRoy Porter turned fast time and won the first heat. Heat No. Two went to Jack "Black Cat" Hackney.

Auto Racing

Bible-totin' Brian Wescott was the fastest thunder car and also took the fast heat. Class' point leader Tiger Tom Patterson won the other preliminary race.

Street stock heat winners were Rick Lokey and Charlie "Chug-a-Lug" Borden.

New Hospital Needs Volunteers

A welcome to volunteer to serve with the Auxiliary when the new Central Florida Regional Hospital opens the first week in June is being extended by Louise Allen, president of Seminole Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

The new 226 bed facility built on U.S. Highway 17-92 facing Lake Monroe in Sanford will replace Seminole Memorial Hospital. To keep pace with the expanded services offered in the new hospital, the Auxiliary is developing new projects in addition to the five major ones now performed.

Volunteers, both men and women, serve in many areas including the information desk, surgical waiting room, transporter corps, hospital cart and gift shop.

"We need you," said Mrs. Allen. "The Auxiliary offers rewarding experiences to retired couples, retired teachers and homemakers who want to share their time in a constructive way."

Those interested should contact the hospital information desk, 32-4511, or

Speak with the membership chairman, Mrs. Jeanne Edmonds or Mrs. Phillip

Sterling. A chorus of Auxiliaries, who have served at SMH for 10, 15 and some 25 years, echoed Mrs. Allen's words, "You will find it most rewarding."

Man, 96, Claims He's Vigorous On All Counts

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the man who bragged about his physiological attributes at the age of 77, I have decided to list my own attributes, which far outshine his.

For instance, I am still a vigorous and athletically inclined individual at the age of 96!

Furthermore, I have not been sick in the last 50 years, not even with a headache or backache. Furthermore, I still engage in daily calisthenics, exercising every muscle and organ in my body. Furthermore, I am still mentally vigorous. (I write occasional newspaper and magazine articles.)

I still have an excellent appetite for good, wholesome food, and equally, if not more important, I am still sexually potent.

If any man or woman can duplicate my record, I would be glad to hear from them.

WILLIAM McHENRY, WORCESTER, MASS. DEAR WILLIAM: I'll bet you will hear from a good number of readers. But if you're challenged by a woman demanding proof of all your claims — you're on your own.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my 18-year-old daughter told me that a boy had made a derogatory remark about her at school in the presence of several of her friends. She refused to repeat the remark but said she was very upset because she had always considered him to be a nice person and a good friend. He had been to our home many times and I also thought he was nice.

I decided to phone the boy and talk to him about it. His mother answered the phone and said he wasn't there. Abby, I have always appreciated being informed when my children have done something wrong, so I took a chance and assumed that this boy's mother felt the same. She did, so I told her what my daughter had told me. She was very nice, thanked me for telling her and said she would speak to her son about it. Did I do wrong? If my daughter finds out I called and reacts badly, how can I make amends?

GOOD INTENTIONS

DEAR GOOD: The scenario will probably go like this: Boy's mother tells son that girl's mother phoned to report that he had bad-mouthed daughter. Son either denies or confirms the charges, after which he will be angry at your daughter for getting him into trouble at home. Your daughter in turn will be angry with you for getting into the act. You should not have made that call. And you can make amends by apologizing and promising not to do it again.

DEAR ABBY: I really enjoy your column. I cut out some of the articles I think are especially good and display them on my refrigerator. One letter stayed there for a year.

I am enclosing one I would like to see as a rerun on Mother's Day:

"Woman was created from the rib of man."

"She was not made from his head to top him,

"Nor out of his feet to be trampled upon.

"But out of his side to be equal to him,

"Under his arm to be protected,

"And near his heart to be loved."

Sign me,

A LOVED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Here it is — one day late, like so many cards and gifts.

'GREAT DAY' WINNERS

Oviedo Woman's Club's 'Great Day in the Country' Arts and Crafts Festival attracted a large turnout during the day long event. William Churchill, left, won the Purchase Award for his photograph of a camellia. Betty Reagan's oil painting, "Blue Goose Celery," won the ribbon for the Best Country Scene. Jim Cornell's stoneware vase was selected the Best Country Craft.

Chapter Honors Rushees

Irene Brown, dressed in unusual manner, presented a program, "Never Underestimate the Power of a Woman" to members of Xi Beta Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the regularly scheduled meeting. Officers were also elected.

Prior to the meeting, rushees Virginia Powell and Donna Jinkins and their husbands were dinner guests at the home of Carol and Elma Smith. The dinner was prepared by the chapter members.

It was announced that Libby Gordon has moved back to Sanford from New Smyrna Beach.

Fran Morton is the chapter's representative in the BSP City Council.

Woman's Club Plans Spring Festival

Members of the Sanford Woman's Club met at the clubhouse for the May meeting and luncheon.

Three members attending the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs 1982 convention in Hollywood, were: Mrs. Pat Foster, incoming president, Mrs. Jean Marcel, treasurer, and Mrs. Peggy Deere, sponsor of the Hacienda Girls' Ranch.

The CIP Brunch at the Civic Center was highly successful. Over 400 persons were served. Ruth Gaines, overall co-chairman, was lavish in her praise of all those members who contributed so much to making it the success it was. She particularly commended her committee: Bill Glelow, Nellie Coleman, Irene Brown, Linda Reck, Martha Yancey and Emy Bill, and members of the Junior Club who helped with the serving.

Three club members were honored for volunteer service to the community. Mrs. Lena Black contributed over 900 hours to community service. Mrs. Stella Oritt contributed over 500 hours to Seminole Memorial Hospital and Mrs. Cathy Wesley was awarded a silver tray for over 1,000 hours of volunteer service to the Meals-On-Wheels program.

Bridge lessons will soon be available for club members desiring such instruction. Lessons will be free. Mrs. Emy Bill, chairman of the Social Department, said she will appreciate it if members would notify her of their interest in this project.

Mrs. Bill was reelected as the club's representative to the Board of Trustees of the Seminole County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Club members voted to give a donation in support of action against casinos in Florida.

Coming club events include a Spring Festival which will be held at the home of Adm. and Mrs. Richard Fowler beginning at 8 p.m. on May 22. Reservations for this barbeque will be $4. Members are invited to bring guests. An invitation is also extended to members of the Junior Sanford Woman's Club. Those planning to attend should make reservations as soon as possible.

Following luncheon, Dr. June Gordon gave an enlightening talk on the causes and possible relief of stress. Dr. Gordon teaches psychology and family living at Seminole Community College.

Mexico's Economic Flower Bloom Gone

To the casual observer, Mexico's economic prospects must have seemed nothing short of dazzling as recently as a year ago. Gross national product was growing at a boom rate of nearly 8 percent per year. A treasure trove of petroleum had made Mexico the fourth largest oil producer in the world, with a flood of petrodollars to match.

Foreign bankers and investors were tramping each other in the rush to open offices in Mexico City, and to offer credits on easy terms to a country that struck some as almost a Latin Saudi Arabia. Best of all, the barely challenged dominance of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) seemed to promise the long-term political stability that made foreign investment safe and sustained economic growth possible.

Those same observers must now be scratching their heads. What looked a year ago like an unassailable boom has given way in recent months to government austerity, a devalued peso that has lost 60 percent of its value against the U.S. dollar, and the prospect of inflation that could reach 50 percent by year's end.

The administration of President Lopez Portillo, which doubled Mexico's foreign debt to $48 billion since 1976, has moved to limit international borrowing to no more than $11 billion this year. Mexico's federal budget has been cut 5 percent and limitations on imports have been imposed in an effort to eliminate a trade deficit currently running at about $3.5 billion per year.

The most obvious cause of this dramatic drop in Mexico's economic fortunes is, of course, the depressed international oil market. Within the last 12 months, revenues for Mexico's state-owned oil monopoly, PEMEX, have fallen by $6 billion, an amount equal to almost half of Mexico's oil export earnings during 1981.

But an international oil surplus is far from the only culprit. Mexico has been suffering in recent years from what some economists have called "petrolization," a malady defined as excessive reliance on oil exports. In Mexico, and in such other oil-rich developing countries as Venezuela, Nigeria, and Iran, petrolization has fostered mushrooming levels of capital and luxury imports, foreign debt, inflation, political corruption, and maldistribution of wealth.

Economic shocks of this magnitude are bound to produce political consequences, most of them potentially destabilizing. For Mexico, these come at a particularly delicate time.

Mexico's ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party began opening the political process to competitors from both the left and the right in 1977. The Communist Party was legalized, and all opposition parties have been granted freer rein to challenge PRI candidates in Mexico's local, state, and federal elections.

Miguel de la Madrid, the PRK's candidate to replace Lopez Portillo as president, is still destined to win this year's presidential contest. But he is likely to win by a smaller majority as opposition parties, including the communists, gain adherents disillusioned by the partial collapse of the oil boom.

Whatever the level of future oil revenue — and there is reason to believe it will rebound somewhat — Mexico still faces the awesome challenge of producing 800,000 new jobs each year just to keep pace with a burgeoning labor pool. Even assuming that curtailed oil revenues and foreign capital can be invested wisely enough to produce new jobs on this scale, Mexico will still be plagued by unemployment and underemployment that currently afflicts about 50 percent of the labor force.

The sudden oil wealth of the late 1970s also helped to produce a larger middle class, and sharply rising expectations for even the poorest Mexicans. Any failure to satisfy these expectations, and to accommodate a politically restive middle class, could leave Mexico vulnerable to the kind of violence and instability that now plagues Central America.

For the United States, all this has some obviously ominous overtones. The Reagan administration, currently pondering new trade and immigration policies towards Mexico, can hardly afford to ignore their potential impact on Mexico's uncertain economic and political future.

The influx of drugs into Florida is a major reason for the overcrowding in the state's prison system, according to State Rep. Bobby Brantley. The Longwood Republican said 83 percent of the more than 20,000 inmates in the prison system got there because of alcohol or drug-related problems. And, he said, state prisoners are younger and have committed more violent crimes.

He cites the inmates in Sumter Correctional facility as an example of those statistics. Sumter is considered a facility for youthful offenders, explaining youthful offenders are considered those under 24 years old.

The average age, he said, of the 1,044 inmates at Sumter, is 21. And the average sentence is 23.4 years, exclusive of those who have been sentenced to life in prison.

To illustrate the numbers in prison for violent crimes, Brantley said of 1,000 inmates at Florida State Prison, 300 must be kept locked up 24 hours a day.

While some institutions in the prison system provide work ranging from farming to the manufacture of garments and brooms, cleaning solvents and soaps, the inmate population is increasing so quickly that not nearly enough jobs can be provided.

Brantley is chairman of the prison oversight committee of the Florida House and for the past several months has been touring correctional facilities in the state.

By the end of July, he said, inmates in the state system will number over 26,000.

He said there seems to be a lot of inmates in state prisons who are serving a year and a day, or terms of 11 to 18 months, adding he suspects some judges are sending offenders to state prisons because of overcrowded conditions in county jails.

Another 22,000 former inmates are on probation and under the direction of the state Department of Corrections and Probation.

All the state prisons are overcrowded. While they are not to the maximum number of prisoners they can hold, all have more inmates than the design capacity of the facilities.

He said innovative thinking is needed at the local level to help with the large numbers of people in jails and prisons.

He lauded Circuit Judge Kenneth Laffler's alternative community service program whereby some county prisoners charged with non-violent crimes are permitted to volunteer to work outside jails at jobs benefiting the community.

"Laffler's program is an excellent idea," he said.

Equality For All Nations?

When he was sworn in as Secretary General of the United Nations, Javier Perez de Cuellar of Peru made a basic error regarding the rights of mankind. He said the gap in wealth between rich nations and poor is a breach of "the most fundamental human rights."

Equality of wealth among nations isn't a human right. How could it be? Some nations are richly endowed in material and human resources. Others are virtually without resources of any kind. The Sahara region of Africa is a desert with no capability for sustaining life, though it forms part of sovereign nations. Australia, on the other hand, is rich in minerals and the capacity to produce food. In short, there are enormous disparities in resources — disparities rooted in nature.

As former President Jimmy Carter said, "life is unfair." Some countries have almost everything; some have almost nothing. It is impossible to redress the balance created by nature. Certainly, it isn't unjust that Saudi Arabia and Venezuela have vast wealth in oil and Bangladesh is mired in poverty. It isn't the fault of the Saudis or Venezuelans.

Aside from mineral resources, there are human resources. There are profound differences among peoples, though modern liberal thinking seeks to diminish the differences. The Germans and Scandinavians are highly energetic and industrious. Many peoples in the tropics are indolent and lacking in enterprise.

Consider what Norway has accomplished with its small arable area. Consider also what Israel has wrought since 1948. In the oft-repeated statement, it has "made the desert bloom." Across Israel's borders are the most blighted areas — areas that bloomed in antiquity. The difference is in the quality and enterprise of Israel's population.

The United Nations, dominated by the Third World, fiercely resists the fact of natural and cultural differences. The U.N. seeks to pin the poverty of many countries on "Western imperialism" and capitalism, and demands colossal income transfers from the progressive West to the deteriorating Third World. Recently, the so-called "developing countries" met in New Delhi, India, to call for more income transfers.

The most ambitious Third World scheme is embodied in the Law of the Sea treaty negotiated in recent years. It would transfer the wealth on the ocean floor — wealth obtained by Western countries using their own resources and technology — to the Third World nations. The Reagan administration must be very firm in rejecting this treaty. It flies in the face of American and Western interests.

The hard truth is that many, if not most, of the "developing" countries aren't developing at all. They are sinking through ineptitude.

The West has no moral obligation to maintain countries that don't meet the necessary conditions of national existence.

Mr. Perez de Cuellar's remarks don't suggest that he views the coming global changes in a realistic way. No nation has a "human right" to demand that more successful nations support it.

Scientist Told Change Formaldehyde Data

WASHINGTON — So eager is the Environmental Protection Agency to placate commercial interests that a top agency official actually ordered technical papers doctored to make it appear that a cancer-causing substance poses little threat to consumers.

The scientist who was ordered to rewrite the data refused to do it, and eventually quit the agency in disgust. He did not volunteer his story; in fact, he agreed to talk to my associate John Dillon only on the stipulation that we not use his name. We have verified his account with other sources. Here's what happened:

During the waning days of the Carter administration, EPA scientists urged that the agency decide within six months what to do about formaldehyde, a chemical widely used in home building, wood products and even in some toothpastes.

Laboratory studies showed that formaldehyde vapor causes cancer in rats, and

JEFFREY HART

Sanity In The Church

I have had a lot to say recently about the unilateralist position taken by prominent Catholic spokesmen, and it is therefore a pleasure to report some good news for a change.

True enough, Archbishop Raymond Hunthausen of Seattle, Wash., is refusing to pay taxes as a gesture of "nonviolent resistance to nuclear murder and suicide." Archbishop John Quinn of San Francisco refers to the nuclear arms race as "a moral form of theft." Bishop Leroy Mathiesen of Amarillo, Texas, tells workers in nuclear arms plants to quit, and Bishop Thomas Gumbelton of Detroit, Mich., favors unilateral disarmament.

Despite this episcopal dunced, given wide media publicity, there exists a deep fund of common sense in the Catholic Church. Let us give some credit where credit is due.

Toward the end of March, speaking in St. Louis, Abbot Edmund F. McCaffrey, a Benedictine, met the "peace" bishops headed on Bishop Hunthausen:

"He said recently that his stand on unilateral disarmament of our weapons systems is not summed up by the cynical phrase 'Better Red than dead.' Rather, he said, 'My argument would be: Better Red than violate the Gospels.'" The Benedictine scholar pointed out that this position entirely overlooks the ethical obligation of prudence, and then went on to drive home his point in terms of the Gospels themselves:

"The good archbishop fails to realize what Red really signifies: namely that to be Red is to violate the Gospels."

He attacked those who base their demand for unilateral disarmament on Vatican II statements: "The Council fathers understood very clearly that the ultimate reason for a God-loving and God-fearing nation to have arms is not to use arms but to secure peace. In those countries based on the values of the Judeo-Christian ethic, the reason to have an army is precisely never to use it... to prevent war, not to wage war."

Unilateralist Catholics like to quote Pope Paul VI: "No more war." But Abbot McCaffrey pointed out, they do not mention his caution in a speech to the United Nations: "As long as man is weak, unfortunately defensive arms will be necessary."

In advice that will not be heeded by media-conscious bishops, McCaffrey urged the clergy to be "extremely careful" in their statements on the complex issues of deterrence, arms control, and arms reduction.

Just why so many prominent Catholic spokesmen have precisely not been careful on this issue is an important question for our time. The questions, after all, are tough enough.

For example, if the United States unilaterally adopted a "freeze" on all nuclear weapons development, what assurance do we have that the Soviets would freeze their own development?

The answer is that short of on-site inspection we have no such assurance.

We also now know that the Soviets have deployed a new mobile missile, the SS-16, near the Arctic Circle. This missile is under heavy camouflage. It moves on a huge mobile platform, and has a range of 6,000 miles. It has taken U.S. intelligence agencies several years to verify its deployment.

The deployment of this mobile missile, moreover, is in violation of the terms of SALT II — which, though unratified, both sides were assumed to be honoring.

The idea of a freeze would seem to assume that technology stands still. Its advocates point to the supposed invulnerability of our submarine-launched missiles. What guarantee exists that technology will not catch up with the subs? None.

The tragedy is that today many Catholic spokesmen, including bishops, and the representatives of other religions as well, have simply ignored the difficult questions that responsible policy must face — and ignoring them, have held out merely rhetorical solutions.

It is worth noting that all badges and emblems advocating disarmament have been outlawed in East Germany. Bishops Hunthausen, Mathiesen, Quinn and Gumbelton enjoy freedoms which exist precisely because of the U.S. deterrent.

But all is not lost in the Catholic Church. Abbot McCaffrey speaks for the mind of the Church, and he and others like him have maintained its intellectual and ethical honor.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Gross Tax Idea Gains Support

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For many years a fellow named Jim Jones has run a one-man lobbying effort out of Blanco, Texas.

Convinced our tax system has become too complicated ever to be reformed on a piecemeal basis, Jones has long advocated the simplest of alternatives: "the gross tax."

He wants to junk the existing tax system and replace it with one that taxes everyone — individuals and corporations alike — at the same low rate with absolutely no deductions.

Jones has become well-known as a lone voice crying in the political wilderness to a generation of reporters and politicians whose mailboxes have been filled with his news releases and position papers.

Now some respected economists, tax researchers and politicians are starting to support variations of his proposal.

The "hottest" gross-tax plan is that of Robert Hall and Alvin Rabushka, researchers at the Hoover Institution. They propose replacing today's tax system with one that taxes both corporate profits and personal income at a flat rate of 19 percent.

The taxes of each corporation would be figured by subtracting from its gross income the cost of materials used to make its product, the wages paid its employees and other direct costs. The balance would be taxed at the 19 percent rate.

The only allowable corporate deduction would be for the recovery of capital investment.

Individuals would be taxed at 19 percent of their earnings, with the following exceptions: — Interest, dividends and capital gains would be tax-exempt so as to avoid double taxation of bank and corporate profits.

— No taxes would be assessed on the first $3,000 of income for a married couple, the first $4,500 for a single head of household and the first $3,000 for a single person. An additional $600 could be deducted for each dependent.

— Income from government sources, including welfare, would not be taxable. Thus, a family of four receiving welfare and food stamps could have a real income approaching $15,000 without paying any tax whatsoever.

"We believe this system would be inherently much fairer than the present system," Hall maintains. "You must remember that many corporations earning millions upon millions of dollars pay little or no taxes. Under our system they would have a substantial tax burden."

In 1980, says Hall, U.S. businesses netted $803 billion in revenues and paid $64 billion in federal taxes.

But under the 19 percent gross tax — and even after figuring a $17 billion allowance for capital recovery — net income to the Treasury would have amounted to $62 billion.

That would have been nearly 80 percent more than was produced under the current system.

Hall says that low- to middle-income taxpayers would probably have to pay "slightly more" under the proposed system than they are paying now.

There would be a huge tax decrease for taxpayers with very large incomes who are now taxed at the maximum rates. But Hall says that "the taxpayer with a high income who takes advantage of the myriad of loopholes and tax-avoidance schemes available to him under the present system would undoubtedly end up paying much more than he pays today."

Ram Gordon Places Third

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER PARK — When Lake Mary's Fran Gordon was down to her final jump at Showalter Field in the 2A State Meet Saturday, she knew whom to turn to.

After being as high as third in the long jump competition, Gordon had tumbled to sixth entering her final jump. So, she took a few pointers from Rams' trainer Roger Moursa.

Moursa put the freshman flyer through a couple of special stretching exercises, and Gordon capped off her spectacular performance with a leap of 16-feet-10½ — good for third place in the 2A class.

In addition to her third spot in the long jump, Gordon turned in a 26.9 220 dash which gave her fifth place in that event. The Rams finished 18th in their first state exposure with six points.

Gibson's mile relay team of Cathy Johnson, Kim Mahr, Shannon Weger and Andrea Beardalee shattered the Lake Mary mark by over eight seconds, but finished only eighth. The quartet ran a 4:32.8. The old mark was 4:32.3.

Freshman Kim Harrison continued to trim her two mile time. Two weeks ago, Harrison's best effort was 16:35. On Saturday she turned in a 13:15.5 to place 10th. Kim Averill had her best 800 (2:46.8), but didn't place.

For the boys, Jeff Hopkins vaulted a personal best of 11 feet in the pole vault. He needed an 11-foot-6, however, to place.

The Rams' best hope for a place — Keith "Sleepy" Mandy — missed the meet. The freshman 440 ace was seeded fourth, but flew to Texas on Friday and didn't return.

Detached Retina Dims Leonard's Boxing Career

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The boxing career of world welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard, one of the sport's brightest stars, could be over because of a detached retina in his left eye.

There was a possibility Leonard may not fight again following surgery on the eye Sunday. For some time, his family has been attempting to persuade him to retire.

A loss of sight as a result of the surgery is a possibility and Leonard may further jeopardize the vision in the eye should more damage occur.

Leonard underwent unexpected retinal surgery in Baltimore, forcing a postponement of his Friday night title bout with Roger Stafford.

Mandeville Front-Runner For SCC Post

It's no big secret that Tony Mandeville has the inside track for the Seminole Community College basketball position.

That fact, however, didn't dissuade 34 applicants from responding to the opening, and SCC's handler of the applicants — Frank Gore — expects 15 or 16 more to trickle in before the June 1 cutoff date.

"Most of the applicants are assistants at four-year colleges," said Gore, "although we do have a few local coaches too."

One of those local coaches is Seminole High chief Bill Payne. Payne knows it will be tough to unseat Mandeville, who worked as a volunteer assistant the past two years, but he wants to throw his head in the ring anyway.

"I think it's cut and dried that Tony is the front runner," said Payne. "But I have aspirations of coaching at the college level and I want to let them know I'm interested."

It's doubtful the Raiders will get another head coach like Joe Sterling who will stay 18 years at the job.

Despite the tremendous success SCC has had on the court, the support is not there. Based on low attendance, the fans in this area do not support the team.

When the Raiders battled Lake City in a key game only half of the gym was filled. The same was true when they played Florida Junior College. It may be pointed out that SCC's gymnasium does not rival Rupp Arena for seating capacity. The Raiders lost both of those critical games, too. The Raiders can hold 2,500 patrons.

One of those "highly confidential, close-to-the-situation sources" told me, "Don't be surprised if within three years there are no JC sports at all at SCC."

Joe Sterling did an excellent job of coaching the Raiders. He put good, exciting teams on the floor and hoped that winning would bring in the crowds.

That's the way it was done in the past. That way doesn't work any more, though. There is too much competition for the sports-entertainment dollar. Coaches need to spend a good portion of their time promoting their sport as well as coaching it.

The next Raider coach must be a promoter if the performers and sit back and enjoy Showdown '82. Some showdown. Those hoping for a Julius Erving dunk with one second left on the clock or a Larry Bird fadeaway that wins the game at the buzzer will have to wait.

Sunday at Boston Garden was more like Let-down '82.

Funds Staffing = UCF's Stairway To Success Facilities

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

It took the University of Central Florida search committee about nine months to narrow the list of candidates for athletic director from 140 to 1.

The search committee chose William E. "Bill" Peterson and he assumed the office on May 1. Peterson, former coach of Florida State and the Houston Oilers, takes over as athletic director after Dr. C.C. Miller was relieved as Interim Athletic Director. Miller took over after Dr. Jack O'Leary stepped down as A.D. in July.

"It's going to be a challenge to build this athletic program," Peterson said during his fourth day in office Thursday. "The UCF program has great potential and high academic standards."

Peterson, a member of the State of Florida Hall of Fame and the FSU Hall of Fame, didn't know the job was open until just before Christmas. He applied for the job after the university reopened applications.

He was born in Empire, Ohio on May 14 of 1920 and received his degree in Physical Education and History from Ohio Northern University. Peterson did graduate work at West Virginia University and Louisiana State University.

Peterson played varsity football and basketball at Ohio Northern and was honorary captain of the football team his senior year. Peterson is also a member of the Ohio Northern University Hall of Fame.

After college Peterson got into coaching, a field he stayed in for 25 years. He started as an assistant coach in basketball, football and track at Mansfield (Ohio) High school in 1949.

BILL
PETERSON

From 1952-55 Peterson was head football coach at Mansfield. Peterson got his first taste of collegiate coaching in 1955 when he became an assistant football coach at LSU. And the state of Florida got its first taste of Peterson in 1960 when he was named head football coach at Florida State.

In 11 years at the helm of the Seminoles Peterson compiled a 62-41-1 record including berths in the Gator Bowl twice, Sun Bowl and Peach Bowl. Peterson's scheduling ideas enabled FSU to play many of the top teams in the nation as the Seminoles became a national power under his direction.

In 1970 Peterson left FSU to become athletic director of Rice University. He was also head football coach of the Owls where he stayed for two years. Impressed by Peterson's success in Collegiate coaching were the National Football League's Houston Oilers. Peterson spent 1½ years as coach of the Oilers. "I had a bad experience with pro football," Peterson said. "Personally I like college football much better. They have much more spirit in college football."

In the past four years Peterson has helped raise more than $6 million for the Fund for Academic Excellence. He has 32 years of experience in academic and athletic fund raising.

Peterson's goal at UCF is to build the athletic program to Division I competition. "We will be in Division II this year and will try to build the program by stages. Division I is our goal, we want to make it in five to eight years. The growth of the program depends heavily on community support."

Peterson said the UCF athletic program needs three things to start building on. These three building blocks are: facilities, staff and money.

The facilities will draw more support from the community, the addition of new staff members will help the athletes in all 14 sports at UCF and Peterson said the money, "Will take care of the other two things."

"Before I arrived the department was in a period where everyone was going in different directions. I built an organizational chart to point the staff in the right direction. The organizational chart should take care of the lack of staff."

"Other than funds, we have no problems. It's just a matter of pulling everyone together, we have a lot of good people."

An ever increasing problem in collegiate athletics today is violations of recruiting and academic rules. "The NCAA needs to police athletics better. The purpose of athletics is to build character, the school should be punished if the rules are broken."

A current controversy is the paying off of student athletes by the alumni of certain universities. "The alumni usually don't know the rules," Peterson said. "The University of Central Florida is not going to have to cheat to have a winning program. The key to athletics is for the student athletes to get experience that will help them to become good citizens."

UCF not only has an ever improving men's athletic program, it also has an outstanding women's program. The only problem with women's athletics is that they rarely make money, according to Peterson.

"We have a pretty good women's program. Right now we want to get some good full time coaches. When I was young women weren't included in athletics, now they have a place in sports."

Among Peterson's responsibilities are, fund raising, to get the program across to the public and to give out assignments. "We plan to have a Sanford night this football season. We want to have special nights throughout the area because we want to sell our team to this area."

The University of Central Florida welcomes the addition of its new athletic director and with nearly 40 years of athletic experience William E. "Bill" Peterson is a good choice to build a nationally-prominent athletic department for the Knights.

deficit to defeat Philadelphia and advance to the finals. They'll be showing the tapes of those games for years to come.

Sunday was the start of the 12th playoff meeting between the two teams. This tape may be destroyed.

Boston got 15 second-quarter points from backup center Rick Robey — whose playoff career high was 14 points — and then Bird and Robert Parish finished off the 76ers with 21 points in the third quarter.

The defeat was the worst suffered by a Philadelphia team against Boston. It also came within eight points of the 76ers' worst loss in history and within six points of their lowest point total since the team moved to Philadelphia in 1963.

The previous worst loss by a Philadelphia team to Boston was 112-78 on Nov. 29, 1963, in Providence, R.I.

Bird and Parish each finished with 24 points, Robey added 19 while Kevin McHale contributed 18. Bird also had 15 rebounds and 19 assists.

Andrew Toney led Philadelphia with 15 points and Erving, who played sparingly in the second half, had 12 points, all in the first half. Darryl Dawkins, who did not play at all in the second half, had seven points and will have his leg, which was broken earlier this season, X-rayed today.

"It finally hits you on the bench that it's going to be a long game," said Toney. "But I'm not embarrassed."

In the Western Conference final, Los Angeles topped San Antonio 128-117.

At Inglewood, Calif., Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 32 points and Norm Nixon added 31 to power the Lakers in the opening game. The second game of the best-of-seven series will be played Tuesday night at the Forum, with the third and fourth games in San Antonio, Texas.

Abdul-Jabbar hit on 13 of 23 field-goal attempts and scored 28 points in the first three periods. He also had 18 rebounds. Nixon, who scored a career high for the playoffs, connected on 14 of 23 shots.

Bob McAdoo added 21 points for the Lakers, the Pacific Division champions, while Magic Johnson had 13 points, 14 rebounds and 13 assists.

San Antonio, the Midwest Division champion, was led by George Gervin's 34 points. Mike Mitchell added 25.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Calls For Major Nuclear Arms Reductions

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Reagan moved with a sense of Churchillian purpose in his call for a scaling down of U.S. and Soviet nuclear hardware. Choosing a quiet college campus as his forum, Reagan Sunday unveiled his dramatic proposal for Washington and Moscow to junk one-third of the nuclear warheads in their arsenals. He admitted later that the idea of making the important announcement in such an arena came to him when he recalled the day Winston Churchill used a similar appearance at a tiny Missouri college to coin the phrase "iron curtain" to describe the East-West border.

Hospitals Snub Burn Victim

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A man with nearly all his skin burned off was in "good spirits" and resting on a bed of air today in the only hospital out of more than 30 that would accept him — once the governor of Georgia intervened. John L. Lacey, 38, of Savannah, Ga., suffered the burns over 95 percent of his body Wednesday when he caught fire while trying to remove paint from his body with gasoline. He was listed in critical condition at Baltimore City Hospital on Sunday after being rejected by more than 30 hospitals, a spokesman said.

Rosie O'Grady Wins Race

FOUNTAIN VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Two pilots battled thunderstorms, freezing temperatures and heavy turbulence Sunday to land their balloon, the Rosie O'Grady, in rocky terrain and unofficially win the Gordon Bennett Helium Balloon Race. Joe Killinger of Orlando and Charles Knapp of Los Angeles traveled 84 miles — 8 miles farther than the runner-up — in the two-day race. One of the winning pilots apparently suffered a broken arm in the landing, race officials said.

Sirhan Makes Final Plea

BOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI) — The final round of a hearing to block the 1981 parole of Sirhan Sirhan matched the assassin against a prosecutor intent on keeping him in prison. Sirhan was to present a 15-minute statement today — the final day of the hearing — on why he is convinced his 18 years in prison paid the price for the 1968 slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Los Angeles District Attorney John Van de Kamp's position will be presented to the board by Larry Trapp, one of his deputies. Following the final arguments, a three-member panel of the California Board of Prison Terms will review the 10 days of testimony behind closed doors. A decision is expected in about two weeks.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Weary road crews battled as much as 18 inches of snow in Montana today and up to another foot was forecast. Thunderstorms spawned a tornado that injured one person in Texas and storms packing 70 mph winds bombarded Nebraska. Snow blanketed eastern and central Montana today with as much as 15 inches choking the higher mountain areas. Light snow fell at lower elevations, but melted quickly. The snow gave way to rain from Wyoming through Texas. Storms were scattered from the Dakotas, pealed with dime-sized hail, to the Western Great Lakes. A tornado Sunday night near Bushland, Texas, just west of Amarillo, injured one person and destroyed a barn. Golf-ball sized hail battered Bushland and 60 mph winds buffeted Amarillo. Winds gusted to 70 mph at Holdrege, in south central Nebraska, and a tornado watch was in effect for parts of central and northeast Nebraska late Sunday. Elsewhere, scattered rain lingered from New Jersey to New England but skies were clear over the rest of the nation.

If Peace Talks Drag On

British Warn Of More Attacks

United Press International
Argentina today dropped the issue of sovereignty over the islands as a pre-condition for withdrawing its occupation troops. "Sovereignty is outside of the discussion," a government spokesman in Buenos Aires told UPI. "That is a problem of Great Britain."
The spokesman said that "Argentina has sovereignty now" and if "Great Britain and the United States don't recognize it that is their problem."
Impatient British officials earlier said that they doubted U.N. negotiations to end the Falklands crisis had achieved much and they threatened more military action against Argentina if peace talks drag on more than a few days.
The new warning came as Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher met with her Cabinet, following British naval shelling and air attacks Sunday on the Falklands.
"We are still advising considerable caution in evaluating the U.N. talks," one government official said of the diplomatic moves in New York, which entered their third day today.
U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar held two separate rounds of meetings Sunday with British Ambassador Sir Anthony Parsons and Argentine Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs Enrique Rox.

Parsons said afterward that "considerable progress" had been made in the talks, but added "there are still some important issues to be resolved."
In London, a government official said: "So far there appears to have been some progress on procedural matters, but it is doubtful whether there has been any real progress on withdrawal of Argentine troops from the South Atlantic islands since April 2.
Britain's Defense Ministry reported no new military activity one day after British warships shelled Argentine shore positions on the Falklands, captured an Argentine spy-ship trawler and downed a troop helicopter.
Defense officials said the operations, which are likely to continue in the near future, were designed to keep the Argentine garrison guessing and in a state of nervous tension.
In Buenos Aires, the military command said it "repelled" a British helicopter and naval attack Sunday on the Falklands and charged British with a fishing trawler, then strafed and sank two lifeboats. Britain called the charge "laughable."
British cabinet ministers said privately an all-out British assault on the Falklands could be imminent, defense analysts said. British news reports said the British task force would be ready for an invasion as early as today.

Hinckley's Poetry A Cry For Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Hinckley Jr., lamenting his struggles with life long before he shot President Reagan, once cried out for help in a poem about a psychiatrist.
"My doctor, there is a small problem that I seem to have with communicating. Shut up and listen to my life story although I don't want to tell it," Hinckley wrote in the undated poem.
"Can you counsel me and tell me that everything will be fine and dandy because you will help me to help myself?"
Hinckley's writings and psychiatrists' testimony are expected to be the centerpiece of his insanity defense at his trial for shooting Reagan and three others on March 30, 1981. Scheduled today was testimony from a psychiatrist who treated Hinckley in the fall of 1980.
The psychiatrist, Dr. John Hopper, of Evergreen, Colo., persuaded Hinckley's parents not to send him to a mental institution and advised them to develop a plan to force him to be on his own, according to Hinckley's mother, JoAnn, the first defense witness.
Mrs. Hinckley testified last week she and her husband were following Hopper's advice when they set a deadline of March 1, 1981, for Hinckley to get a job, and to be out of their home by March 30 — the day he shot Reagan. Hinckley repeatedly returned home in the months before the shooting attack, Mrs.

Hinckley testified. But when he called his parents in early March and asked to come home once again, she said, Hopper suggested "we just give John $100 and tell him goodbye."
As Hinckley's trial enters its third week, defense lawyers will move into the heart of their insanity defense with leading psychiatrists who are expected to testify about Hinckley's fantasies and delusions.
Even before Hinckley's arrest moments after the shooting attack, his personal writings revealed signs of self-diagnosed mental problems.
"I can't explain it, except to say that I feel that there is something wrong with me mentally as well as physically," Hinckley wrote on Nov. 5, 1979, in a letter to his parents.
In another note to his parents, Hinckley lamented a series of misfortunes that befell him: "I can't remember when I've had more fun. Now if you'll excuse me, I think I'm going to go and kill myself. (Just kidding ... I think)."
Hinckley tried suicide twice in the months following his arrest, and his lawyer told the jury that Hinckley considered killing himself at least two other times — once following Beate John Lennon's death.
The jury at Hinckley's trial also will see a snapshot of Hinckley holding a gun to his own head — an undated picture found among his possessions at a Washington hotel where he stayed before the shooting.

County Considering Library Expansion

By JOE DE SANTIS
Herald Staff Writer
The Seminole County library system will take its first step toward placing an expansion referendum before the voters when members of the library's steering committee huddle with the County Commission at a workshop session today.
The commission has requested that the steering committee, a 10-member group, look at specifics of a library system report compiled a year ago and make recommendations for funding of expanded services and new branches.
"The committee doesn't have anything firm on the amount of funding," said County Librarian Jean Rhein.
"This is the first step in giving the public a chance to have a say in the library system," she said.
Steering committee chairman Carolyn Durak will present the commission with the committee's recommendations today.
Like most other county public services, the library has had to scramble to keep pace with the county's rapid growth over the last decade.
"We have virtually doubled the size of the library book collection in the last three and a half years," said Ms. Rhein.
In addition, she said library services have grown to include a bookmobile service and books-by-mail service for shut-ins and the elderly.
"But continued funding is required to keep up with the growth of the county," added Ms. Rhein.
She said the national ratio of books per capita is 1.8, while Seminole County's current ratio of books per capita is .70.
"We've grown in the first few years, but we still have quite a ways to go," Ms. Rhein said. "And continued funding is required to keep up with the growth."
"I don't have any idea of where we go after today's meeting with the commission," she added. "The commission can discuss the steering committee's recommendations at another workshop session, or they could place it on the agenda for a public hearing. Today is just the first step."
In the last year the steering committee has compiled the first comprehensive growth plan the county library system has had. Among its expected recommendations to the commission will be funding for more branch facilities.
Currently, the system has just two facilities to serve the entire county. One branch is at First Street and Palmetto Avenue in Sanford. The second location is at Seminole Plaza in Casselberry, where the library's processing and bookmobile headquarters are located.

Notice to Telephone Customers

WE ARE PROPOSING CHANGES IN THE RATES FOR CALLING CANADA.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed with the Federal Communications Commission a plan, to be effective July 29, 1982, to restructure rates for long distance calls between the United States and Canada. The restructure will result in rate increases and decreases but is designed to have no overall effect on interstate earnings.

Here are the proposed changes

- Establish uniform 1-minute initial period charges for all classes of calls. The initial 1-minute rate will vary by mileage and will range from 27¢ (0-8 miles) to 93¢ (2221-4000 miles). Additional minute rates will range from 12¢ to 78¢, depending upon distance.
- Reverse rates for most calls with charges ranging from a 2¢ reduction (calls over 2220 miles) to a 15¢ increase (calls 31-50 miles) for the initial minute charges.
- Changes in additional minute rates will vary from a 6¢ reduction to a 10¢ increase, depending upon distance.
- Separate operator charges from basic usage rates and introduce uniform service charges for Operator Station calls ($1.25) and Person-to-Person calls ($3.00). The appropriate operator service charge will be added to the usage rate and is the same regardless of the length of call or time of day.

NOTICE NOTICE AND APPLICATION FOR ALTERNATIVE PAYMENT OF 1982 REAL ESTATE TAXES BY INSTALLMENT

A taxpayer must make the first installment payment not later than June 30 in order to participate in this plan. Any taxpayer who fails to make a subsequent installment payment on time shall not be required to discontinue participation in the installment payment plan. Instead such taxpayer shall be required to remit with his next unpaid. The applicable discount rate for the current installment amount plus any installment amount due but not paid due to late payment shall be applied against the sum of the current and past due installment payment amounts.
Nothing shall preclude a taxpayer who has applied for the installment method of payment or who has made one or more installment payments from discontinuing his participation in such plan. In such event the remainder of the taxpayer's taxes shall be due and payable as provided by law.

IN BRIEF

Judge's Murderer Dying, Wants Presidential Pardon

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — More than 20 years after he went to prison for arranging the murders of Circuit Judge C.E. Chillingworth and his wife, a former West Palm Beach judge is asking President Reagan to free him because he is dying of cancer.

Former Jacksonville Mayor Hans Tandler and two other lawyers have been working since August to free Joseph Peel Jr., 57.

Red Tide Killed Manatees?

MIAMI (UPI) — Red tide may be responsible for the deaths of 44 manatees in southwest Florida waters since February, but scientists say they will never know for certain.

Playing The Marriage Game

HOLLY HILL (UPI) — Police say an accused bigamist who has been in the Volusia County Jail since early April on weapons and grand theft charges may have been operating a marriage con game.

Police Sgt. Robert Taylor said Albert Joseph Thomman became engaged to three women in the Holly Hill area between Feb. 15 and March 1. Officers are investigating the case.

Bandits Strike 2 Convenience Stores

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

While one man decided to help himself to cash from a Sanford Convenience store cash register recently, another would-be thief wasn't quite so successful.

According to police, a man walked into the Ideal Food Store, 300 Upsala Road, at about 9:22 p.m. Friday and asked clerk Cynthia M. Bellali if she could make change for a $30 bill. When Ms. Bellali opened the cash drawer, the man reached across the counter, grabbed a handful of money, mostly $10 bills, and fled, police said.

In another incident, a 20-year-old convenience store clerk refused to turn over the store's money to a broomstick wielding would-be thief, flogging a possible robbery Thursday night.

Richard Lee Briley Jr., who works as a night clerk at the Shop and Go convenience store, 5009 Howell Branch Road, Goldenrod, told deputies that a man came into his store at about 10 a.m. carrying a broomstick and demanded the store's money. When Briley refused, the man fled, deputies said.

CASH TAKEN FROM SANFORD MAN

A 73-year-old Sanford man was robbed of $208 cash while leaving the Burger Chef restaurant, 2506 French Ave., Sanford, at about 4:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Robert Beatty told police he was leaving the restaurant when a man grabbed the money from his shirt pocket and fled on a bicycle.

ATTEMPTED RAPE

A 21-year-old Sanford woman told sheriff's deputies that a man who had given her a ride attempted to sexually assault her after driving her to a park near Sanford around 9 p.m. Friday.

After a struggle the victim jumped out of the car and fled.

LOOK WHAT I FOUND

A Casselberry youth, playing in a wooded area near the southeast side of Howell Creek Road, told deputies he found a pillowcase containing sterling silver.

The 13-year-old boy told a neighbor about his discovery at about 4:30 p.m. Thursday and deputies were notified.

Deputies added they are now in the process of determining who owns the silver, which they believe may have been stolen.

JEWELRY, SILVERWARE STOLEN

About $6,100 worth of silverware and jewelry were stolen from an Apopka woman's home sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 6:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Alice L. Barrett, 58, of 3100 Orleans Way, told deputies the thieves entered her home possibly through an unlocked patio door and stole her silverware, a diamond watch, and an emerald and diamond ring.

STEREO COMPONENTS STOLEN

Warren Edward Wallace, 28, of 1107 Fernwood Blvd., Fern Park, reported someone broke into his apartment and stole $2,775 worth of stereo equipment sometime between 8:45 a.m. Friday and 3:10 a.m. Saturday. Taken was a $500 reel-to-reel tape deck, a $250 15-band equalizer, a $225 turntable, a $250 AM-FM tuner, a $250 amplifier, a $300 cassette deck, a $400 color television set and a $600 video cassette recorder.

GUNS STOLEN FROM LONGWOOD HOME

Thieves broke into a Longwood man's home sometime between 11:30 a.m. and 9:05 p.m. Sunday and stole five guns. James T. Gilliland, 46, of 450 Lake Ruth Drive, told deputies the thieves forced open a rear door with a screwdriver and stole a 16-gauge double-barreled shotgun, three bolt action rifles and a semi-automatic .22-caliber rifle with scope.

SANFORD MAN JAILED

A 23-year-old Sanford man is being held in the Seminole County jail today on $8,000 bond after he reportedly broke into a Sanford home Sunday.

James Hill, of 2723 Truman St., was arrested at about 6:49 p.m. after he allegedly tried to burglarize the home of Connie E. Floyd, 24, of 1981 Sipes Ave., police said.

Ms. Floyd told police that she was awakened when someone climbed into her bedroom after breaking the window with a rock.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS MEN FREE ON BOND

Two Altamonte Springs men, arrested Saturday following a disturbance at their home, are free today from the county jail on bond.

Stanley Larnar Williams, 19, and Booker Tanner Bryant, 27, both of 902 North St., were arrested at 1:13 a.m. Saturday after they were reportedly fighting at their home, deputies said.

Williams has been charged with fighting, while Bryant has been charged with fighting, aggravated assault, battery of a police officer and resisting arrest with violence, jail officials said.

According to deputies, the two men were fighting in the utility room of their home. Deputies made several attempts to break up the fight before Williams was placed under arrest.

While deputies were arresting Williams, Bryant reportedly ran out of the home with a pool cue and said, "I'm going to get Stanley (Williams) for assaulting my girlfriend," reports indicate.
