

Best Doctor Host On TV

Dr. Perez Named FMA Secretary

Sanford physician Dr. Luis Perez was elected secretary of the Florida Medical Association Sunday in Hollywood and presented an unusual award.

An internist and cardiologist, Perez has received many honors and awards since coming to the United States from Cuba, but his latest is in recognition for his skill as a TV host. Perez was presented a bronze plaque from the American Medical Association for "Best Doctor Host on a Television Show."

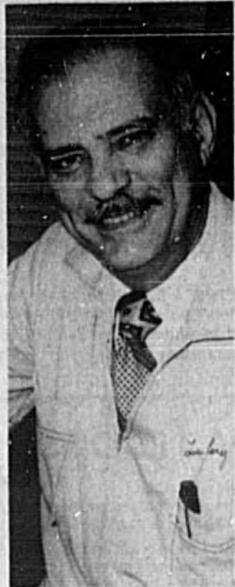

He was recognized for a television program which he made for Public Broadcasting System Channel 24.

Two hundred and sixty delegates attended the meeting held Wednesday through Sunday. FMA voted Perez delegate to the American Medical Association convention during last year's meeting.

Perez and Dr. Fred Weigand represented the Seminole Medical Society at the meeting and conference attended by approximately 1,200 physicians from throughout the state. FMA has more than 12,000 members.

Perez is a graduate of the University of Havana Medical School and served his internship and residency at Georgia Baptist Hospital, Atlanta, from 1956-60. He became a U. S. Citizen in 1961 and has lived in Sanford since May, 1963, actively engaged in the practice of medicine.

Among his other awards are the Benjamin Rush Bicentennial Award

Sands In Coma; Britain Braces For Violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — IRA hunger striker Bobby Sands lay in a coma today on the 65th day of a fast to death, and Britain readied emergency plans to prevent all-out civil war between Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland.

"He's dying. My son's dying," Mrs. Rosaleen Sands said in tears Sunday emerging from her vigil at Maze Prison, but at the same time she appealed "to the people to remain calm and have no excitement and to have no death or destruction."

Oliver Hughes, brother of another hunger striker, saw Sands Sunday and said afterwards: "I thought he was dead. His eyes are sunken, bones sticking out, teeth sticking out. I didn't see a man of 27, I saw a man of 90."

The H-Block Committee, supporting Sands' protest for concessions to IRA prisoners, said the hunger striker had slipped into a coma. But Britain's Northern Ireland Office said Sands "is asleep" and early today reported no change in his condition — again avoiding the use of the word coma.

At the Vatican, Pope John Paul II asked the world to pray for Northern Ireland's Catholics and Protestants, saying the two communities "live hours of growing tension, from which it is feared new grave acts of fratricidal violence can explode."

Sands, who is serving 14 years for firearms possession and was elected a member of British Parliament during his hunger strike, began his fast March 1 to press for political status for IRA prisoners — a demand that Britain's Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has turned down.

In New York, hundreds of Sands' backers marched up Fifth Avenue, saying "Margaret Thatcher must go!" and asking Britain to get out of Northern Ireland. Britain rules Northern Ireland, which is part of the United Kingdom.

In Toombridge, 30 miles west of Belfast, more than 4,000 people marched in support of Sands and three other hunger strikers, also on a fast to death.

Catholic militant Bernadette Devlin McAliskey appealed for calm at the march. "We don't want to see a single riot, not a single stone, not a single petrol bomb," she said.

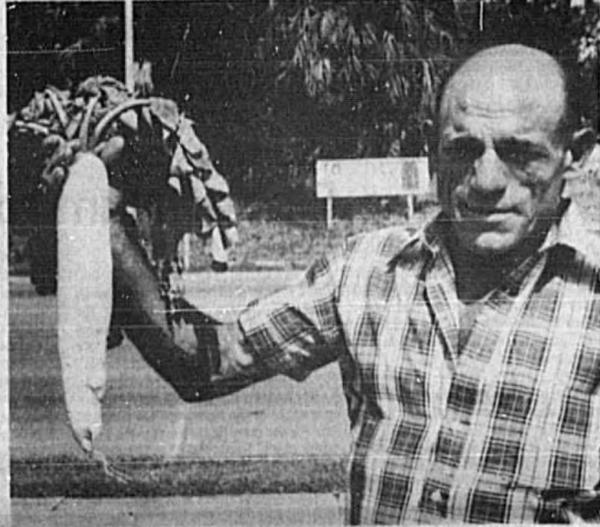

On the Protestant side, Ulster Defense Association leader Andy Tyrrie sought to ease Catholic fears, saying: "We are not spoiling for a fight. We realize that all-out war now would be the ruination of Northern Ireland."

Despite the appeals for calm, Britain went ahead with emergency plans to prevent all-out fighting between the majority Protestants and minority Catholics in Northern Ireland's six counties, where more than 2,000 people have been killed in bombings and violence since 1970.

SANFORD GROWS 'EM BIG

Sanford backyard gardeners are rapidly becoming known for their king-sized vegetables. In photo at right, J.C. Hendricks displays large white icicle radish, which he and George Buerger grew in their garden on West First Street. They said the radish, 14 inches long and 6 inches around, is one of their smaller ones. Barnice L. Gentry of 226 Flamingo Drive, Sunland, left photo, who grew this six-pound zucchini, reports it took one week to reach its 18-inch length, 14-inch girth.

Says The Supreme Court

Fining Teachers OK; Diaper Search Is Not

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today let stand a ruling that local school boards may fine striking teachers before allowing them to return to their classrooms.

The justices refused to hear an appeal by a Fort Myers, Fla., public school teacher who was not rehired for two years after taking part in a statewide teachers walkout in 1968.

The teacher declined to pay a $100 fine and was rehired in 1970 without tenure or seniority. The Florida Supreme Court eventually ruled the school board had power under state law to levy the fine.

The suit was sparked by nationally publicized teachers strikes throughout Florida in February 1968. More than 400 teachers in the Lee County public school system — where Fort Myers is located — took part in a work stoppage.

The school board obtained a court order against the strike. Teachers then submitted mass resignations, which eventually were accepted by school officials.

Negotiations ensued and the school board agreed to reinstate the teachers in their former positions as long as they paid a $100 fine. Several teachers, including Paul A. Acquistio, filed suit in federal court, charging the fines were unconstitutional.

A federal district judge agreed and threw out the $100 requirement. But the Florida Supreme Court, after getting jurisdiction in the dispute from a federal appeals court, ruled against the teachers.

The state court, although expressing wonder about the school board's "ironclad system of administration," declared, "We consider the agreed payment here as a proper one of liquidated damages.

"In an era of crisis living which churns up crisis litigation, there seems to us to be no place for needless roadblocks to reasonable solutions," the Florida high court added.

Asking the U.S. Supreme Court to order the school board to grant him back wages, damages and seniority, Acquistio argued the board did not require all teachers to pay the $100 fine. Acquistio, who is white, claimed five black teachers were allowed to escape payment.

In other action today, over two dissents, the Supreme Court let stand a ruling that a police search of a baby's diaper, which yielded a bag of cocaine, was illegal.

The justices refused to hear an appeal by Florida officials challenging a state court decision that the search of the infant was improper and barred prosecutors from introducing the cocaine as evidence at the trial of the child's mother.

Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justice Harry Blackmun said they would have heard the case.

The controversial search occurred Aug. 5, 1979, at Miami International Airport when Detective Jody Wolfe of the Dade County, Fla., police force observed Sherilyn Denise Harrison and a male companion at the airport. Ms. Harrison was carrying a "toddler," not more than 2 years old.

Ms. Harrison was arrested, but in response to her claim that police had no "probable cause" to make the search, a state court, without comment, barred use of the evidence.

Japanese Prime Minister Warns Against Import Ban

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki flew to the United States today to meet President Reagan, warning of trade retaliation if Washington passes protectionist legislation to limit car imports. He also ruled out a buildup of Japanese military might against a Soviet threat.

Just before he boarded a special Japan Air Lines jetliner with his wife Sach and Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ito, Suzuki donned a kimono and told reporters, "I also want President Reagan to assure us the presence of a strong America for peace."

Government officials said Suzuki hopes to "win the trust of President Reagan and establish a personal relationship" during his first meeting with the U.S. leader in Washington May 7-8.

The Japanese leader will make a two-day stopover in New York before flying from there to Washington May 6.

Government sources said although Suzuki, who meets with President Reagan Thursday, will formally announce an "alliance" between the two nations, he was prepared for some tough talks with Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger over Japan's defense commitment. Suzuki said Sunday in an interview on ABC's "Issues and Answers" Japan would refuse to take over increased military responsibility in the eastern Pacific as the Reagan administration has requested.

PRIME MINISTER ZENKO SUZUKI

The ABC interview was taped in Tokyo on Friday.

Weinberger has been pushing for an increase in Japan's self-defense forces to counter the Soviet Union's buildup of military strength in eastern Asia.

Suzuki also threatened trade retaliation if Congress passes "protectionist" legislation to limit the number of Japanese car imports to the United States. He said such a move by Congress would be "suicidal."

Japan agreed last week to a 7.7 percent cut in auto exports to 1.68 million cars a year, although in his television interview, Suzuki said the automobile problem "is very much an American problem."

Suzuki threatened that if Congress enacts protectionist legislation to limit Japanese car imports, "it would be suicidal for both. It would have repercussions on the European Common Market, and Japan might have to do something likewise," he said, without elaborating.

Library Patron Booked

CHICAGO (UPI) — People are sometimes forgetful when it comes to returning library books, but Robert Barfield carried things a bit too far.

Barfield, 32, was fined $500 and sentenced to a year's probation Friday after pleading guilty to failing to return 235 books to the Chicago Public Library.

Barfield was arrested March 23 at a North Side branch after a librarian recognized him as being wanted for failing to return library materials.

Police said Barfield was carrying two library cards when he was arrested — one in his own name and one made out to "James West."

County Legislators Uncommitted On Auto Inspection

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Swayed neither by promises of a multi-million dollar savings or warnings of the possibility of more traffic-related deaths, members of Seminole County's state legislative delegation are taking a wait-and-see attitude on a bill to abolish annual automobile inspections in Florida.

Three of the four delegation members — Senators Clark Maxwell, R-Melbourne, and John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, as well as Representative Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood — have not committed themselves on the issue. Representative Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, however, has voted in the House's Transportation Committee to retain the yearly vehicle checks.

"I know they (inspections) are a pain in the neck," Hattaway said. "I have to go through them every year just like everybody else. But I feel Florida really needs them. We have taken a lot of cars off the road with potentially dangerous problems."

But how many and for how long? Maxwell said he has heard "stories about people going out and putting their brother-in-law's new tires on their car so they can pass inspection and then going back home and putting the old bald ones right back on. If the system doesn't work any better than that, and if we can't make it work any better, maybe we should go ahead and junk it," he said.

Ditto for Brantley who has heard the same type stories. "In many parts of the state, and I don't know if this is true in Seminole County, you can buy an inspection sticker for $25 without ever having to get your car checked," he said.

"But there's as much good as there is bad in this program. Knowing we have to pass inspection makes many of us get a lot of things fixed we know are unsafe. But without inspections, we might let them go and then who knows what could happen?" Vogt said he plans on waiting until the bill comes before the full Senate before making up his mind.

"I've long been a supporter of the inspection program," he said, believing it keeps "a lot of junkers off the road." But if the opposition can make a statistical case that inspections don't make the roads safer, I could easily vote to get rid of them."

Making that case in the Senate will be the bill's primary sponsor, Ken Jenne, D-Hollywood, who claims that "in 15 years of enforcement, we can find no measurable relation between motor vehicle inspection and the number of automobile accidents."

Jenne said it costs taxpayers $17 million a year to maintain inspection stations, and estimated Floridians lose $196 million annually in "lost wages waiting in line for inspection." Overall safety has not improved significantly while the cost of running the program has increased, he said.

"It's just another example of government waste." Opposing the bill is Maj. Charles C. Reynolds, head of the state's safety inspection program, who claims that doing away with vehicle checks could make the roads more hazardous.

Reynolds, a former Florida Highway Patrol trooper, said 34 percent of the vehicles inspected last year were denied safety stickers — mostly for defects in brakes, tires or steering equipment. He said about 650 accidents in 1979 were attributed at least partly to defects in those three areas, and that 37 people died in those wrecks.

"It's hard to say that motor vehicle inspections prevented something that didn't happen," said Reynolds. "We can't prove that auto safety inspection has contributed to these figures."

He said driving would be more hazardous if the vehicles rejected on first inspection were allowed to remain on the highways without repairs. Reynolds said police can seldom pull over a motorist and check a car for defects at curbside, and need the annual stickers to alert them of failed inspections.

Jenne said, however, that in the five years preceding Florida's 1967 inspection law, the percentage of accidents caused by faulty equipment dropped from about 6 percent to about 1.9 percent. Since the law took effect, he said, equipment failure has remained the cause of about 2 percent of the fatal accidents in Florida.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israel Threatens Syria Over Missiles In Lebanon

United Press International

Israel warned it was ready to take "all necessary measures" if U.S.-directed diplomacy did not convince the Syrians to remove their Soviet-made SAM anti-aircraft missiles from Lebanon. Syria reportedly reinforced its positions in eastern Lebanon.

"If we confine ourselves to just speeches or even diplomatic efforts I do not see how the Syrians would be moved," Israeli opposition leader Shimon Peres said in Jerusalem Sunday after an hour-long meeting with Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The two leaders hoped diplomacy, particularly U.S. efforts, would make Syria withdraw the 15 Soviet SAM-4 missiles from the Bekaa Valley northeast of Beirut. The missiles were installed after Israeli jets downed two Syrian helicopters last week.

But both Israeli leaders indicated there had been no success in U.S. efforts to get the SAMs removed.

Hijack Suspect Ex-Monk

LILLE, France (UPI) — An Australian ex-monk who hijacked an Irish jet with 113 people aboard to force publication of a secret report on a religious "vision" faced a court inquiry today on his mental fitness to be charged.

Laurence Downey, 50, captured when a black-clad team of French sharpshooters stormed the Aer Lingus Boeing 737 Saturday night, was interrogated throughout Sunday by police about the bizarre hijacking.

Passengers aboard the plane, all uninjured, described him as an incoherent mystic.

"He will be presented to an investigating judge Monday who will file charges against him if he is recognized as responsible for his acts of hijacking and hostage-taking," police said.

Poland Celebrates Democracy

WARSAW, Poland — For the first time in 36 years, Poland's Communist leaders celebrated a national holiday marking the 18th century constitution that prompted a Russian invasion and a church speaker expressed hope that history would not repeat itself.

Rallies, meetings, patriotic programs, special church services and ceremonies held across the country marked the 190th anniversary of the promulgation of Poland's democratic constitution — a move that led to a Russian invasion that destroyed Polish independence.

About 300,000 people gathered in Czestochowa, home of Poland's holiest Catholic shrine, and heard an expression of hope that Russian troops would not once again intervene in Poland.

Assassinations In Madrid

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Communist guerrillas assassinated an army general, a police officer and two civil guards today in two shootouts. Four others were wounded.

The attacks were the most open insurgency against the government since the Feb. 23 coup attempt led by rightist army officers.

The wounded included one of the attackers in Madrid, shot during a dramatic subway chase in the capital city, and a woman who was shot in the head.

The Interior Ministry blamed the communist guerrillas of GRAPO, the Oct. 1 Anti-Fascist Resistance Groups, for an attack in Madrid that killed Gen. Andres Gonzalez Suizo and a police driver.

Hostages Taken In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — A group of armed rightists seized a remote Occidental Petroleum Corp. facility, taking about 45 hostages including an American, and demanded the resignation of Bolivian President Luis Garcia Meza.

But the government late Sunday said it had taken "timely measures" that "have resulted in a total control of such terrorist action." It did not, however, specifically say what it had done.

"There exists complete peace in the region and absolute tranquility in the rest of the nation," the government said in a brief communique, giving no details.

A high-ranking Bolivian government official said extremists took over Occidental's $40 million Tita facility, 140 miles south of Santa Cruz, and reported they threatened to take "physical measures" against the hostages if their demands weren't met.

U.S. To Supply Troops For Sinai Peace Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An international peace-keeping force for the Sinai Peninsula is expected to consist of about 2,500 men with the United States supplying about half the troops, a U.S. official says.

State Department spokeswoman Anita Stockman said Sunday the United States, Egypt and Israel have scheduled three days of talks, beginning today, on plans for the multinational force that will bring the first permanent American military presence into the troubled Middle East.

administration has concluded that the United States will take the lead in formation of the force, Ms. Stockman said.

The Carter administration intended for the force to be organized through the United Nations. But the Soviet Union, through the implied threat of a Security Council veto, doomed that idea, officials said.

The new talks, to be held at the State Department, will focus on a proposed U.S. plan calling for 2,000 to 2,500 men to be stationed in the Sinai.

The presence of the force is designed to prevent another war between Egypt and Israel. Israel has virtually completed the withdrawal of its forces from the desert separating the two nations.

The American presence is not intended to be the embryo of the Rapid Deployment Force, designed to quickly move U.S. troops to far off trouble spots. It has not been decided where the RDF may be stationed in the region.

But Three More Women Died

Yorkshire Ripper Named In 1979

LONDON (UPI) — A detective who wrote a report in 1979 naming Peter Sutcliffe as the Yorkshire Ripper said today there should be no criticism of police for shelving it, but a member of Parliament said the decision was disgraceful.

"Some inquiry should certainly be initiated into why this failure occurred," said Labor member of Parliament Martin Llanbery.

judgment."

A newspaper reported Sunday that three women died needlessly at the hands of the Yorkshire Ripper because the report identifying Sutcliffe as a prime suspect of 13 killings and seven more attempted murders was marked "to file" by a detective.

But Andrew Liptew, who was detective constable at the time, said the police at the Ripper investigation unit in the Yorkshire city of Leeds should not be blamed as Sutcliffe "had all the luck and we had none."

was the Ripper because of his height, build, hairstyle and a distinctive gap between his front teeth. Sutcliffe's occupation of truck driver was one of the Ripper's suspected trades.

But because police were investigating hundreds of other "promising" suspects, and were convinced that a taperecording supposedly sent by the Ripper indicated he had a regional accent different from Sutcliffe's, Liptew's suspicions were ignored.

He said it was "sheer blind chance" that police found Sutcliffe and said he would demand an inquiry by Home Secretary William Whitelaw.

Yellow Labor M.P. Robert Cray said there was a "prima facie case to justify an investigation" in view of the "questions raised about police

The Sunday Times said Sutcliffe was interviewed by Liptew after his car was seen 48 times in the red-light areas where the Ripper worked.

Liptew was convinced that Sutcliffe

In the 11 months following the interview Sutcliffe survived undetected four more interviews with police. In that period the Ripper struck another five times, and three young women died.

Last week Sutcliffe admitted in court his role in the deaths.

Sanford Girl, 17, Raped At Knifepoint

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

A 17-year-old Sanford girl was raped at knifepoint Sunday after being abducted by a man who later abandoned her in an orange grove.

According to a Seminole County Sheriff's report, the girl was walking down U.S. Highway 17-92 near the Sanford Plaza about 5 p.m. when a man drove up alongside her and forced her into his car.

The assailant pulled a knife and told the girl if she didn't cooperate he would kill her, the report said. He also claimed Deputies were looking for a suspect this morning.

INMATE CONVICTED OF MISCHIEF

A man originally charged with setting a fire in the Seminole County Jail has been found guilty of the lesser charge of criminal mischief.

Sentencing for Christopher Francis Graybosch, 18, of Orlando, was deferred pending a background investigation. He could receive up to 60 days in jail.

Graybosch was originally charged with arson in connection with a Feb. 9 fire at the jail. If he had been convicted of that charge, he could have been sent to jail for life. Graybosch was accused of stuffing newspaper under the sink of his cell and setting it afire.

The fire was quickly extinguished by jail personnel and did little damage.

County May Sell Cat Carcasses

Seminole County Commissioners will decide at their 9:30 a.m. meeting Tuesday whether to sell to a northern firm cat carcasses from the county's animal control facility.

While the county has been giving cat carcasses to a local rendering plant, the deal offered by West Jersey Biological Farm could mean as much as $1,000 in revenues to the county during the remainder of the current fiscal year.

Tanya Miller, analyst in the county's Office of Management and Budget, said today the county is being offered $2.50 per carcass. She said about 20 cats are "euthanized" at the county shelter each week.

With about five months remaining in the 1981 fiscal year, this could mean about $1,000 in revenues, she said.

Policy at the animal control shelter currently is to put an animal up for adoption if it is not claimed by its owner within five days. After seven days if the animal is not adopted it is killed.

The carcasses are frozen and given free of charge to L.D. Plante Inc, which processes the animal parts to get fat, bones and grease. These products are then sold to companies which make soap, animal feed and other products.

The West Jersey Biological Farm, based in New Jersey also has a branch in Orlando. It has offered to buy from the county the dead cats for $2.50 each. The carcasses would be sold by West Jersey to schools for educational purposes only. The carcasses would be picked up from Animal Control facilities at Five Points in South Sanford within three hours of being put to death.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Pounding rain that sent waist-deep floodwaters rushing down streets across Colorado and southern Texas showed no signs of letting up today, prompting flash flood warnings in many communities. At least one death was blamed on the storms. Authorities said an 18-month-old boy drowned in a rain-swollen ditch near his Houston home Sunday. Six people were injured in a tornado south of the city. In Colorado, nine golfers were stunned when lightning struck near their parties. None was seriously injured. The storms lashed eastern Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas and northern Texas with rain and hail. Another storm system swamped Houston with more than 6 inches of rain, while outlying areas received more than 8 inches. Two tornadoes whipped through Alvin, 20 miles south of Houston, injuring six people, one severely. Two mobile homes and a house were destroyed.

Another twister and 8 1/2 inches of rain hit Friendswood, Texas, damaging nine homes.

Childers Convinced He Can Win Presidency Again

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Senate President W.D. Childers scheduled a Democratic caucus for later today, hoping to win an unprecedented second term as president before his shaky coalition of votes falls apart.

Rules Chairman Dempsey Barron and other opponents of Childers' reelection bid conceded the Pensacola probably has the necessary support of 14 of the 27 Senate Democrats or better, but warned of bitter feuding in the Senate in the coming months.

Childers scrambled for votes in telephone talks and personal meetings with senators Sunday after Finance and Tax Chairman Harry Johnston of West Palm Beach dropped out of the race.

After a late night meeting with his Senate supporters Sunday, Childers said "There is no question about it. We have the sufficient votes."

The conservative group led by Barron and President Pro Tempore Curtis Peterson of Lakeland searched desperately for someone who could stop Childers. It had thrown its support to Johnston on Saturday.

Childers has "16 or 17 votes," Daytona Beach Sen. Ed Dunn said — the support of 14 of the 27 Senate Democrats would be decisive.

Peterson, who said Sunday night he was once more a candidate for president, said he and Childers had 11 votes each, with five legislators undecided.

"I don't know if Sen. Childers has the votes or not," Barron said. "He said there were the votes in the Senate to pass a sales tax and he was wrong on that."

The division in the Senate is so strong, Barron said, that a caucus now might be meaningless.

"I don't think there is any kind of unanimity in the Senate today that would guarantee a person who receives the most votes in a caucus he would be president of the Senate after (next fall's) elections."

Johnston, who claimed late Saturday to have the support of 18 Democratic senators, gave up early Sunday after learning he had been deserted by Dunn, Pat Frank of Tampa, Bob McKnight of Miami and George Stuart of Orlando.

Johnston said Childers probably will win another term now, but he warned of hard times in the Senate as Childers' supporters clash with Barron.

"They think they're going to beat Dempsey, but they've just wounded a bear," said a disheartened Johnston. "I really see in the next two weeks in the Florida Senate a blood bath."

Majority Leader Pete Skinner of Lake City told reporters Sunday the Barron-Peterson group was willing to take almost anyone as their candidate now that Johnston was no longer in the race.

"The new candidate is Maitox Hair," Skinner said of Judiciary-Civil Chairman Maitox Hair of Jacksonville. "If that doesn't work, they're going to go with John Vogt. If that doesn't work, they'll go with Dunn. I understand I would be next on the list if Dunn wouldn't take it."

Dunn claimed Hair was committed to supporting Childers. Vogt, of Cocoa Beach, was part of the coalition of votes Johnston put together Saturday and upon which he based a claim that he had 18 votes, enough to beat Childers.

Dunn has been supporting Childers since Friday, although Johnston believed he, in fact, still had Dunn's vote.

Barron, who was Senate president in 1975-76, once was Childers' closest friend and political ally. The two men split recently over the tax increases Childers believes are necessary, and other issues.

Barron has been trying to get someone still close to him elected as 1983-84 president, a move that would undermine Childers. He announced late last week he would run for president himself if neither Peterson nor Pat Thomas of Quincy could put together the necessary votes.

That triggered a move by Childers on Friday to seek and claim he had won a second term. Johnston claimed on Saturday that he had the votes, not Childers.

Johnston told UPI Sunday that Dunn, Mrs. Frank, McKnight and Stuart felt he was letting himself be used by Barron and they couldn't be a part of that. He would not have allowed himself to be manipulated by Barron, he vowed.

NATION IN BRIEF

Traffic Is Flowing Smoothly In Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Despite fervent promises by residents of neighborhoods hit hard by police and fire cutbacks to block major highways into the city Monday, rush hour traffic flowed smoothly for the first time since last Wednesday.

Small demonstrations were reported in Charlestown and East Boston and suburban Brookline, but the rush hour passed without any traffic backups other than the usual tieups caused by more than one million commuters who daily pour into the city from suburbs to the north, south and west.

Residents of blue-collar neighborhoods ringing the downtown area had threatened to disrupt traffic on major highways until Mayor Kevin H. White reinstated 400 police officers and firefighters laid off in a sticky political dispute that has aggravated extensive financial problems.

$6.5 Million Awarded

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Cook County Circuit Court Jury awarded $6.5 million in damages to a woman who entered Northwest Hospital for cosmetic nose surgery and came out quadriplegic virtually unable to speak.

The jury awarded another $2.5 million to the husband of the woman, Eileen Tannebaum, 46, Highland Park.

Mrs. Tannebaum, mother of three, was permanently crippled after her brain suffered a critical loss of oxygen during surgery at the Hospital on Chicago's Northwest Side.

Marchers Hit Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was reminiscent of the anti-war demonstrations of the 1970s, complete with rhyming slogans, colorful banners and tens of thousands of people marching on the Pentagon to protest administration policy.

Organizers said 100,000 demonstrators participated Sunday in the March, held ostensibly to protest U.S. involvement in El Salvador and to warn that such a policy could lead to another Vietnam.

But the signs and slogans reflected the concerns of a potpourri of groups, including foes of nuclear energy, supporters of Puerto Rican and Palestinian Independence, homosexual rights activists and those upset with President Reagan's proposed budget cuts.

U.S. Park Police put the number of demonstrators at 25,000.

Coupon Firm Issued Bad Checks, Say Workers

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

Employees of the now defunct Jamboree Gift Checks, Inc. may never collect thousands of dollars in bounced paychecks, according to Casselberry police.

Reports however, continue to be filed against this "discount coupon establishment" for issuing bad payroll checks to employees during its eight weeks at the Greater Mall, 400 Semoran Blvd., Suite 108. But as far as Casselberry police can tell, Jamboree coupons, which offer a variety of discount deals on food and services from local merchants in the area, are still being honored until the mid-June expiration date.

Mrs. Francis Lusby, a 61-year-old Casselberry woman who worked as a phone salesperson, said the company came to Casselberry in early March to take over the United Advertising business.

"I never had any trouble with my checks under United Advertising. The phone salespeople were paid for calling up local people and getting them to buy the discount coupon book," Mrs. Lusby said.

"But everything was always 'hush hush' around the office. The employees were never told anything. We didn't even know where the books came from... they were just there," she added.

Jamboree Gift Check books have been sold throughout the Seminole and Orange County areas, offering patron special discounts on food and services from local merchants.

The coupons were sold by phone. A messenger was then sent out to the person's home to deliver the booklet and collect the money.

According to former employees, as many as 20 phone solicitors worked on the main shift during the day, and a smaller number worked during the evenings. But the turnover was frequent and employee numbers varied.

"It seemed kind of strange that office managers were in for only a week or two, always from 'out of town.' There was one named Kenny, a girl named Paula, and another named Tommy," said a former employee.

According to local office employees, the out-of-town managers were always very careful about not giving out their last names.

People who came to work for Jamboree Gift checks were attracted by newspaper ads which ran almost continuously, promising high hourly pay for in-office phone soliciting.

Offices in Orlando were opened for about three weeks, but the president of Jamboree Gift Checks, Inc., Donald Lasker, closed them almost immediately. Police are not sure if Lasker is really president of this Tampa-St. Petersburg company or even if "Lasker" is his name.

Mrs. Lusby, who is stuck with some $700 in returned payroll checks, told police that she had been given the "run-around" when she called the Tampa office in previous weeks. She walked out on Wednesday, April 1 after a second payroll check was returned.

Other employees who started getting returned checks told Mrs. Lusby they would stay because chances were better for collecting their money if they continued working for the company.

Among others who have filed police reports with Casselberry police is 17-year-old Kenneth W. Felch who lost $429.

A telephone listed for the firm at 3141 Seminole in St. Petersburg, is not in service according to Southern Bell, Tampa. According to the phone company's files, someone from the firm called and requested that the number be taken out of service last Wednesday.

Former employees are not the only ones interested in finding Jamboree executives. A string of other bad checks were left for phone bills, rent, and cleaning, say police.

Signed by several different people, the checks filed for evidence never carried a title under the signature.

Officials at the Seminole County State Attorney's office presently have the case under investigation. No arrests have been made as yet.

Angry Father Poisons Son, Chokes 2 Others On Mountain

ROGERSVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — An armed guard was posted today outside the hospital room of a Hawkins County man who authorities said fought with his estranged wife, then allegedly took his infant son and two other children up on a mountain where he poisoned and choked them.

The infant was found dead, but the two older boys survived.

Authorities said the body of 16-month-old Christopher Michael Hayes was found about 3:30 a.m. Sunday lying uncovered on the side of rugged Town Nob Mountain. His two brothers, Danny Wayne Burke, 6, and Hayward Hayes III, 3, were found nearby, clinging to one another in an attempt to ward off the cold mountain air.

Their father, Hayward Hayes II of Rogersville, is in Hawkins County Memorial Hospital where he is listed in critical condition. He stumbled into a friend's house late Saturday and collapsed. Officials said he had drunk a herbicide.

Sheriff Lee Justice said the boys suffered from exposure, but were "in fine spirits" today at Hawkins Memorial Hospital.

Hawkins County Lt. Al Wilnot said Hayes had been charged with felonious assault and would be charged with one count of murder and two counts of attempted murder "as soon as the clerk gets in."

"This was as gross of a case as I have ever seen," Wilnot said. "That baby was about as cute as you'll see."

Wilnot said the two boys were found on the mountain about three-fourths of a mile from their home by tracking dogs brought in from Kingsport.

Refugee On Hunger Strike Wants To Die 'With Dignity'

ATLANTA (UPI) — In protest of a decision not to allow any more refugees to settle in Florida unless they have relatives there, a Cuban being held in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary reportedly has launched a hunger strike, saying he wanted to "die slowly with dignity."

The Cuban-Haitian Task Force had decided not to allow refugees to settle in Florida without relatives there. Because of that decision, Manuel de la Torre Rodriguez was told Friday he would not be released to the sponsor awaiting him in Miami.

De la Torre has spent 11 months in U.S. prisons since he arrived last year in the "Freedom Flotilla."

The 28-year-old told a priest working with the U.S. Catholic Conference he would rather "die slowly with discipline" than endure more of a "torturous experience."

Prison officials said Sunday they had no knowledge of a hunger strike and referred further inquiries to officials who were not available for comment.

But Frank Kennard, who is assisting the Catholic Conference in its resettlement of refugees, said de la Torre told him, "It is better that one Cuban should die so that others might be able to live because of my death."

Coordinators for the Catholic Conference said they were told by the task force's Washington office that the Florida ruling had taken effect. But a spokesman for the task force in Atlanta said he had heard of the decision not to send refugees to Florida, but had not received official word.

Whistle-Blowers Accomplish Little

Anyone who has enjoyed even a nodding acquaintance with government employees will readily recognize the cynicism expressed by federal civil servants responding to a recent survey on waste, fraud and mismanagement.

A solid 45 percent of the 8,500 federal employees who participated in the survey said they had direct knowledge of theft, waste or mismanagement within their agencies during the last year.

And did they report these abuses of the public trust? According to the questionnaires, more than half of those who witnessed these misdeeds kept silent because they were convinced that complaining would accomplish nothing, except perhaps to get themselves into trouble.

Worse yet, their fears were not without some foundation. Nearly half of the whistle-blowers said the abuses they reported were not correct, and tended they suffered some form of reprisal.

The only encouraging thing about this survey is that it was conducted by the U. S. Merit System Protection Board, whose members are in a position to act on their discouraging findings. The board was created in 1978 specifically to encourage whistle-blowing by shielding those who speak out from retribution at the hands of angry superiors.

The results of its survey suggest that the board has quite a ways to go in demonstrating that it can and will protect those conscientious enough to protest the misuse of public funds.

An economy minded Reagan administration can make the board's task less arduous by signaling, as it is doing, its own commitment to the war against waste and fraud. Moreover, Reagan appointees can look for an early opportunity to demonstrate that they will not only protect, but reward whistle-blowers.

Signals From Birds

The Federal Communications Commission acted in the public interest when it voted unanimously to endorse direct broadcasting of the television programs from satellites to homes.

There was opposition from the National Association of Broadcasters, representing local television stations, which fear the impact of the new technology on their investments.

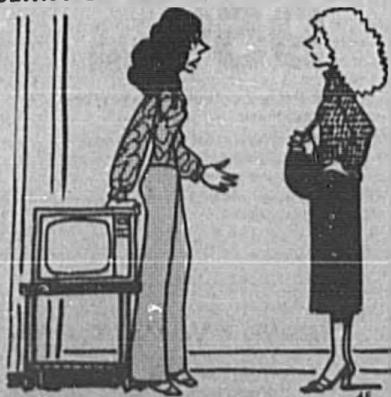

But technology will have its way. Experience has shown that if a better way of doing things is developed, it will be put to use. And sending signals from space on a line-of-sight to viewers' scattered homes is certainly a more efficient method of distributing programs nationwide than sending them from mountain tops or along cable systems.

Just as television supplanted radio as the main electronic medium of communication, so the satellite "bird" is likely to supplant local stations and cable systems for network programs. But, just as radio developed a new and different place in the broadcasting universe, so local television stations and cable systems are likely to continue and flourish by providing a greater variety of exclusive, local programs.

May marks the season of new beginnings as the Seminole County School Board gears up for a countywide Kindergarten Round-up of youngsters who will be entering kindergarten and first grade this fall!

At these scheduled interviews for parents and children, the child will be completely screened and registered for school with tests in vision, hearing, speech, language, and eye-hand coordination.

Parents will have an opportunity to meet with school personnel and discuss the examination findings of their individual children. According to board regulations, a child must be 5 years old on or before September 1, 1981 to start first grade this fall.

A birth certificate or some other proof of birth with immunization records must be brought by parents to verify the child's age.

Mrs. Dede Schaffner, Coordinator of THE DIVIDENDS School Volunteer Program, and her organization have scheduled several dates and locations throughout the county to decrease the waiting period. Parents, however, are free to attend any screening session at any time.

Spring Round-up began in late April but registration dates extend through the first week in May.

Today, Tuesday and Wednesday screening will take place at Goldsboro Elementary School, Lake Mary Elementary School, and Pine Crest

Elementary School between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. On Wednesday and Thursday screening will be conducted at the Lawton Elementary School, between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. And the last day, Friday, May 7, registration is slated for Midway Elementary School between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

This all-out Spring Kindergarten Round-up effort depends upon the parental cooperation of some 2,000 anticipated new entrants.

The Seminole County School Board staff and the THE DIVIDENDS are to be commended for the many hours of planning that have been dedicated to this project so that Seminole County kindergarten students will be ready to go when school opens on August 31.

RUSTY BROWN

How Is It Back In Plains?

I notice that while former President Carter is proudly telling people he doesn't miss Washington "one single minute," Rosalynn Carter is keeping quiet.

Of course he can say he isn't experiencing any withdrawal pains! He recently closed a $1 million to $2 million deal for writing his memoirs and automatically stepped into the role of "elder statesman" as soon as he stepped out of the White House.

Mrs. Carter, on the other hand, doesn't get to be "elder" anything — not that she or any woman would want to. But, unfortunately, none of the trappings of her former position — none of the power — followed her into retirement.

We are a society conditioned to worship power, and she, as first lady, was one of the very few women who had it. That must have been a heady experience. Now it's all behind her and it's gotta be a jolt.

I have interviewed both Mrs. Carter and Nancy Reagan. Both times I glimpsed the whirling sea of attention and flattery, the pomp and circumstance that surrounded them. A first lady's wishes become commands, her preferences are mandates. A hovering staff is always supportive — maybe even sycophantic. It's probably hard to tell the difference and perhaps after a while it's easier not to fret about the difference.

I particularly remember the interview with Mrs. Carter several years ago in Cleveland. As soon as I stepped off the hotel elevator, I knew I was in a world apart. The hall was alive with scurrying aides and the Secret Service. One of the protectors came forward to check my identity and credentials, then ushered me into the Presidential Suite.

After I got a fugal eying from her personal secretary, Mrs. Carter came into the room. She smiled easily, was pleasant, forthright and open. It was obvious that she was her husband's alter ego. The "ma and pa presidency" people dubbed it. She did not hesitate to give that impression. The magnolia-scented voice did not disguise her ambition for him, her own desire to succeed, her dedication to their shared responsibility.

Her power rankled some. To me, it seemed a natural development in a marriage where two people had built and run a business together for years.

When it was time for her to leave, she invited me to ride down in the elevator with her. A squadron of handsome Secret Service men encircled us the instant we stepped from the room. They moved in a phalanx onto the elevator with us and stood shoulder to shoulder. As we went through the hotel lobby, they spread out around us like drones protecting their queen bee. "I could get to like this," I thought to myself.

Rosalynn Carter did get to like it and wanted to keep that power. No sacrifice was too great for it, no amount of work too much.

Yet, like most women, she had not been programmed for power and grew up knowing nothing of it. She told me how, as a teen-ager, she helped her widowed mother sew wedding trousseaus and do alterations in order to survive. Maybe the remembrance of being powerless and vulnerable to life's misfortunes gave her the hunger for clout. Perhaps she decided early that power makes it for you in this world.

But the question now is: What's it like to have had power and lost it? What's it really like being back in Plains, Ga., population 683?

Is Watt Weaving Toward Conflict?

WASHINGTON — During his confirmation hearings, a reluctant Interior Secretary James Watt agreed to take no part in department decisions on cases brought by his old public-interest law firm, the Mountain States Legal Foundation.

That promise, however, has not stopped Watt from taking actions worth millions to his corporations that contributed money to the foundation. Since the non-profit foundation depends for its existence on such contributions, Watt appears to have violated the spirit if not the letter of his pledge.

What makes this important is that the Mountain States Legal Foundation has championed the view that more federal lands should be opened for development. Up to the day of his swearing in, Watt was an articulate spokesman for this view.

Within two weeks after taking over the Interior Department, Watt reversed past policy and opened certain West coast offshore areas for oil exploration. Not surprisingly, among those who have expressed interest in drilling rights are Chevron, Shell and Exxon.

The Shroud This Easter

Over the decades, people closely concerned with the so-called Shroud of Turin have been claiming that it presents to us a portrait of Jesus Christ. Astonishingly enough, at this Easter season, that claim moves closer and closer to confirmation.

For many months a team of some 30 scientists has been subjecting the Shroud to minute scientific examination, employing the most modern techniques.

They have established the antiquity of the woven linen. Pollen experts have established that pollen in the cloth indicates an origin in the Holy Land, and that the pollen is of ancient origin.

The scientists have determined that the image on the cloth is not a painting, and not a forgery. Using computerized photographic techniques developed for the purpose of photographing the surface of Mars, they have been able to extract from the image on the cloth a three-dimensional portrait of the man.

If the portrait is that of Jesus Christ, we can now construct an accurate sculptured bust — Christ, as if by Rodin or St. Gaudens.

Some controversy has arisen over details discernible on the eyes of the figure, markings which some experts have held represent Roman coins identifiable as having been minted early in the 1st century.

Even before the most recent investigations, the arguments for authenticity were powerful. All the details on the image correspond to accounts of the Crucifixion in the Synoptic Gospels: the Crown of Thorns (on the Shroud image it is in the shape of a skull-cap), the nail-wounds, the marks of flagellation, the spear-wound in the side.

Though we can trace the existence of the Shroud historically back to medieval times, no medieval forger would have had so close a knowledge of human anatomy. Moreover, the details of the image appear fully only when photographed — and photography was a 19th-century invention.

It is valuable to have the confirmatory results of the recent investigation, however. They reinforce the evidence available earlier that the probability is very high that we have here a major archaeological find, a portrait of Jesus Christ.

For this startling fact to sink into public consciousness has taken a long time, but the Shroud now seems to be moving beyond specialized circles and beyond Christian piety into general awareness.

The National Geographic magazine last year published a well-researched article on the Shroud, along with the kind of color photographs that magazine does so superbly.

During the week before Easter, the television program "20-20" devoted a half-hour to the Shroud, inviting the scientists and other experts, and generally giving an objective report tending to the conclusion that the Shroud is authentic.

In its news story about the report submitted by the scientists, the New York Times stressed the fact that the image cannot perhaps ever be proved absolutely to be a portrait of Christ. (Some other individual, totally unknown to history, may have undergone an identical sequence of tortures, and we may have here, somehow, his portrait.) But the Times did report the scientists' conclusion that the image is not a forgery.

I find that many people resist the idea that we may have here both a portrait of Christ and powerful evidence tending to confirm the historical accuracy of the biblical narrative.

Some people associate the Shroud with the whole business about relics, which got a bad name through medieval corruptions.

Others feel that faith is somehow less pure if it is reinforced by historical evidence. Others believe so strongly in Christian claims that they find the Shroud merely "interesting" in a so-what way.

Oddly enough, we probably would have found more spontaneous public interest in a similar portrait of Caesar or Plato.

I myself find it fascinating that modern science, as it seems to move inexorably to validate the Shroud, is also reinforcing those other things moving us beyond purely secular consciousness.

DON GRAFF

Maybe Next Time

The French are big on revolutions. There was the business that began back in 1789 and that many of the French would argue has yet to be finished. Since then they have been through 1830, 1848 and 1870, which saw the shuffling or dispensing of kings and the collapse of an empire.

Those were the real things. There also have been the near-misses. In 1880, history's original man on horseback almost did in a shaky republic. In 1958, Charles de Gaulle came to power in an upheaval that was a revolution in all but the official proclamation. And in 1968, he was very nearly removed in something similar staged by disaffected students and workers.

A history like that can make an ordinary election a standout event, even one as apparently predictable and in the long run quite probably indecisive as the current presidential voting.

The first round has ended in the expected near-draw between President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, seeking a second seven-year term, and Socialist leader Francois Mitterand, making his third try for the presidency. The run-off between them on May 10 shapes up as almost a rerun of the 1974 election in which Giscard edged Mitterand by less than half a million votes.

Almost but not quite. The French have had seven years in which to get to know Giscard and his ways and they are less than enchanted with the experience. The presidential image has changed from that of an appealing and reform-minded innovator to an aloof conservative. His regime has been touched by scandal and he has family problems. Not with outward members, as has been the case with certain American presidents, but with close relatives so well placed in the French establishment that the Giscardis give the impression of an unofficial royal family. And think of themselves as such, some critics say.

But if many French don't care for their incumbent president, neither are they all that enthusiastic about his opponent. No one has ever accused Mitterand of possessing charisma. He does, however, possess a shrewd political sense and has used it to capitalize on what was initially a political disaster — the rupture of the alliance with the Communists that caused his 1974 presidential bid virtually to self-destruct. In subsequently presenting himself as the sole valid alternative to continued conservative government, he has steadily increased the Socialist vote at the expense of the Communists.

Success, however, also may have its disadvantages. Large numbers of French firmly positioned in the center may be more alarmed by the prospect of a single dominant party of the left than a less-formidable coalition.

Also, Mitterand is proposing a program of social reform, industrial nationalization and government expansion that would amount to a revolution by ballot box, the most far-reaching restructuring of the French economy and society since deGaulle — and toward very different ends.

That program may be decisive.

Despite full quotas of turmoil at home and abroad, the post-war years have been good to the French. There is now the fourth largest economy among the industrial democracies — after the United States, Japan and West Germany in that order. They are troubled with unemployment among the young and inflation.

THEY'RE OFF!: Extravagance in the Pentagon's pet projects pales before the munificence of the King Khalid Military City, a base the United States is building for Saudi Arabia. When completed, the U.S. will house 70,000 personnel and include a large shopping area, swimming pools and a riding stable.

King Khalid Military City will also, apparently, have a racetrack. The following exchange took place at a meeting, not covered by the press, between Rep. Gerry E. Studds, D-Mass., and Brigadier Gen. James E. Ellis of the Corps of Engineers, which is building the base:

Ellis: "I doubt if we would build a race course."

Studds: "This looks an awful lot like a racetrack to me in your photograph of the plans here."

Ellis: "That is the hospital."

Studds: "That is a hospital."

Ellis: "A soccer field ..."

Studds: "I am sure that you have seen ... that oval is labeled 'racetrack.' So you can forgive me for thinking that it might be a racetrack."

Ellis: "I suspect it is."

Celtics Hold On 91-90

Bird Rolls Sixers

BOSTON (UPI) — Perhaps it was fitting that it came down to the final second of the final minute of the final game. Not until Bobby Jones' inbound pass deflected off the top of the backboard and into the eagerly awaiting arms of Cedric Maxwell could the Boston Celtics celebrate their miraculous comeback.

Larry Bird, who scored 23 points and hit the game-deciding basket with 63 seconds remaining, held his head in his hands in a state of near-exhaustion. It was, he said later, the first time in his brief but brilliant career he had made a game-winning basket for the Celtics.

M. L. Carr blew kisses to the crowd and general manager Red Auerbach was manhandled on his way to the locker room. Julius Erving and the rest of the defeated Philadelphia 76ers scrambled to avoid the onrushing masses caught up in the madness of the moment.

The Celtics earned a berth opposite the Houston Rockets in the NBA finals with their 91-90 victory Sunday, completing their comeback from a 3-1 deficit — the fourth team to achieve such a feat in league history. And that they accomplished it against a team that was their virtual equal was all the more astonishing — and rewarding. Each time in the final three games of the series, the Celtics overcame late deficits and won the game with their defense. On Sunday, they held the Sixers to just one point over the final 3:24 in erasing a seven-point bulge.

The 76ers had controlled the game almost from the start, with Boston playing to their tempo, until the final, surprising collapse. And that the talented Sixers had again failed in what has become their annual sacred mission made it an even more painful and ignominious defeat. They have never won a seventh game on an opposing court in six tries.

Time and again the helter-skelter

Celtics defense, doubling up on Erving wherever possible, forced the Sixers into uncharacteristic turnovers — four steals in the final 4:31.

The Celtics opened the fourth quarter trailing 75-71, but scored the first eight points, four by Robert Parish and two by Carr and Nate Archibald. But the 76ers then held Boston without a field goal for 6:01 and reeled off a 14-1 run, including 10 points by Erving, to take an 89-82 lead with 3:34 left.

The Celtics, who again were awful from the foul line (22-for-35) got their final run going on one free throw by Maxwell with 4:34 left and two more 17 seconds later by Archibald. After a Bird steal, Parish canned a turn around jumper with 3:44 left and then blocked a Darryl Dawkins bid. Bird was fouled by Erving at the other end and tied the game with 2:51 left on two foul shots.

Bird then stole the ball one more time and raced down the left side, dropping in a 12-foot banker. Philadelphia had a chance to tie, but Maurice Cheeks could convert just one of two foul shots with 29 seconds left.

And with the Hollywood-like ending, the Celtics began to think about the Rockets and Tuesday night's Game 1.

PRAYERS

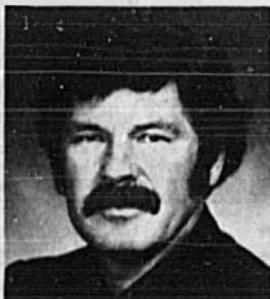

Herald Photos by Tom Vincent

Seminole baseball Coach Bobby Lundquist (above, second from the right) and his players didn't think they had a prayer of beating Lake Howell. The Silver Hawks (below) did have a prayer, but it didn't do them any good. Jay Drivas keeps an eye on the Tribe while the others meditate. Seminole surprised Lake Howell and then Lake Brantley for the District 4A-9 Baseball Championship. Tuesday they play Eau Gallie for the Regional Title.

The 'Brantley Bunch' is coming to Central Florida University. Lake Brantley's Tom Murphy, Jim Stanley and Bob Kessler will be named this week to assistant coaching positions at UCF.

Along with this Patriot trio comes Lake Howell's Al Parker, former Bishop Moore Coach Phil Reihart and Melbourne's Todd Goodyear.

Murphy, who is a dean of students at Brantley, and Goodyear are the only coaches returning from last year.

Murphy will coordinate the offensive line, while Goodyear works with the linebackers.

Stanley, who is an assistant principal at Lake Brantley, is returning to the gridiron after a mini retirement.

While coaching in Xenia, Ohio, Stanley was instrumental in building the Western Ohio school into a state powerhouse.

The former Eastern Michigan University halfback was a part of four state championships in Ohio.

Kessler, meanwhile, will coach the secondary for Sam Weir and Don Jonas — UCF's two head coaches. Kessler worked with Weir previously in West Virginia and Orlando Evans High School.

Reihart had great success at Father Lopez in Daytona Beach. He also coached the Hornets, but was released after the school suffered through a long losing streak.

One more coach — probably to handle the wide receivers — will be added at a later date to bring the Knights' staff to seven assistants. They will each receive $1800.

Cinderella Seminoles Try To Dance On Eau Gallie

By BENTON WOOD
Herald Sports Writer

Now that the 4A-9 District tournament is history, Sanford baseball coach Bobby Lundquist can look back and wonder how his rags to riches prayers were answered.

But now that the Seminoles are on center stage, Lundquist is hoping the clock doesn't strike midnight against Eau Gallie at Sanford stadium Tuesday night at 7:30.

"We beat the New York Yankees Thursday night," Lundquist said referring to the Tribe's comeback 10-9 win over Lake Howell in the semifinals, "and we're shooting for the Oakland A's Tuesday.

Scouting reports say that Eau Gallie is anything but the Oakland A's. They were about the third best team in their district during the regular season.

"I'm sure they've got a winning record, though," countered Lundquist. "Heck, they may be pulling their hair out when they get a scouting report on us."

Actually, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley may be pulling their hair out wondering how they blew comfortable leads to the Seminoles in the late innings last week.

"Beating a team like Lake Howell gives you a lot of confidence," Lundquist added. "If you beat someone of

'Why should we have any pressure on us? We don't have anything to lose.'

— Bobby Lundquist

just in the sixth inning," Lundquist answered.

Getting early leads, though, obviously didn't put any pressure on Sanford last week.

"Why should we have any pressure on us?" he continued. "We don't have anything to lose. We'll just go out and play loose again Tuesday night and see what happens."

Sanford had a different hero every night during the three games last week. Sam Griffith came off the bench to knock home the tying and winning runs against Apopka.

Two evenings later, Freddie Howard's two-out, two-run single in the seventh beat Lake Howell.

Then Friday night, first baseman Chip Saunders grounded a two-run single up the middle for the winning runs.

Centerfielder Alton Davis quietly went 4-8 in the tourney with a home run and three runs scored in. Transformed catcher Brett Von Herbulis picked up four hits also last week while Eugene DeAlbra and Greg Register had three hits apiece. Tracy Walker won all three games in relief.

"This is a funny group," Lundquist said. "We don't have any stars. No one really stands out."

Cinderella didn't stand out either. At least not until she got to the dance. And the dance isn't over yet.

Briefly

Little American, Little National Shift Game Dates

Sanford Little American League games shift to Mondays and Wednesdays beginning today with three contests. Little National League games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays for the remainder of the season.

In today's 5 p.m. games, Krayola Kollege plays Jack Prosser Ford at Fort Mellon Park, while Butch's Chevron battles Triple I.I.I. Trucking at Bay Avenue Field.

Flagship Bank plays Atlantic Bank at 7 p.m. tonight at Fort Mellon Park.

Two games are scheduled for today in the Sanford Junior League. Elks plays Rotary at 5 p.m., while Kiwanis battles Moose at 7 p.m. Both games are at Chase Park.

Seminole Plans 'Super' Start

Super Seminole Greyhound Park has its "Super Opening Night" tonight at 8 p.m.

An overflow crowd is expected for the completely renovated facility which is the brainchild of Paul Dervaes and Carroll Toler.

The 1:15 matinee precedes the gala grand opening today. The track is located at 2000 Seminola Blvd. in Casselberry.

The facility seats 2,804 and the season will run 104 nights May 4 through Sept. 1. There are 54 matinees on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturday.

Bengal Bouts Begin Tuesday

Kent Foyer is at it again.

Chuluota's promotional whis has lined up some real tigers for Tuesday and Wednesday night at the Orlando Sports Stadium.

The "Bengal Bout" featuring fighters from Central Florida, Rollins, Valencia East and West and Seminole Community College slug it out for three hours of nonstop action starting at 8 each night.

If you have ever witnessed Rollins and UCF compete in athletics, you'll know what to expect Tuesday night — blood.

General admission is $5. Reserved is $8, while ringside is $10. All students, military and faculty will be admitted for $4.

Clown Campo Pleasant Prediction Comes True

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — When John Campo speaks, people had better start listening, especially when the subject is Pleasant Colony.

For weeks leading up to Saturday's running of the Kentucky Derby, Campo told anyone who would listen that his horse would take it all when the 107th "Run for the Roses" was decided. But not many people did.

A near record Derby day crowd at Churchill Downs thought so little of Campo's horse they sent him off at 7-2, well behind the favorite, Proud Appeal at 5-to-2.

"Everybody thinks I'm a clown," Campo, the self-described "Fat Man" of horse trainers, said following his horse's three-quarter length victory over a fast-charging Woodchopper. "I've been telling you saps all along. This is easy. Anybody can train this horse. You just push a button and this horse wins."

Pleasant Colony nearly made a liar out of his 3-foot-7, 250-pound trainer as the 3-year-old son of the Majesty had to charge from eighth place with a mile to go to win the 1 1/4 mile classic.

The brash, outspoken Campo provided a fitting finale to what may rank as the most bizarre Kentucky Derby week in 107 years. After two lawsuits, an appeal and an eventual stampede, Campo fit right into the winner's circle, where he kissed his horse, his jockey Jorge Velasquez, his wife, his kids and told the world, "This is fun!"

Derby week, usually a festive time in this normally quiet town, became a mad dash for the courts Thursday when Dr. Ulf Jensen, the owner of Flying Nashua, challenged Churchill's 7-year-old rule imposing a 20-horse maximum on the field that knocked his colt out of the race.

Jefferson Circuit Court Judge Charles M. Leibner ruled in favor of Jensen and an attempt to overturn the decision by track attorneys in the Court of Appeals failed. Flying Nashua and Mythical Ruler were subsequently added to the lineup, bringing the field to 21 — the second largest in Derby history.

This Derby, consistent with the events leading up to it, offered some surprises. Woodchopper went off at 30-1 and still managed second place. Parter, one of nine field horses, finished a strong third and although jockey Sandy Hawley stood up on the colt with one-sixteenth of a mile to go, he probably couldn't have finished any better. Hawley thought he had crossed the finish line before the race ended.

Proud Appeal finished a dismal 11th after grabbing the lead six furlongs into the race. Tap Shoes, an 8-to-1 choice and a stong stretch runner, was 14th from start to finish. And Cure the Blues, the speedy son of Stop the Music, left his legs back home in New York, finishing 15th at 5-to-1.

Islanders Strand Rival Rangers 5-1

NEW YORK (UPI) — There may be an intense rivalry between the New York hockey teams, but the Islanders are convincing the Rangers that in this NHL semifinal series, they are ice ages apart.

"It was our best game of the playoffs," said Islanders' Coach Al Arbour following a 5-1 triumph in Game 3 that gave his team a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. "We showed patience, execution, pursuit and played the body very well. We never gave them a step. We gave them no room."

The Stanley Cup champions, winning for the first time on the Rangers' home ice since the 1979 semifinal series, moved within one triumph of reaching the Stanley Cup finals.

Game 4 is scheduled for Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden. The winner of the series meets the Minnesota-Calgary winner for the Stanley Cup.

The Islanders have made the Rangers look more like the team they were in the regular season — when they finished 13th in the overall point standings. In the playoffs, however, the Rangers began to forecheck and take the body in eliminating Los Angeles and St. Louis.

Raines Greets Valenzuela With Single, But 'March Of Fernando' Hits 6th Beat

By United Press International
El Conquistador continued his march through baseball Sunday.

"It's good for the Dodgers, for the city of Los Angeles, for the country of Mexico and for baseball all over," Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda said of Fernando Valenzuela after the 20-year-old Mexican remained unbeaten in his major-league career by pitching Los Angeles to a 6-1, 10-inning victory over the Montreal Expos.

El Conquistador pitched the first nine innings and allowed five hits, no walks and struck out seven in becoming the majors' first six-game winner.

With the score tied 1-1 in the 10th, Reggie Smith and Ken Landreux delivered run-scoring singles and Steve Garvey added a two-run single to key a five-run outburst against loser Bill Gullickson, 1-2.

The Expos scored on Valenzuela in the eighth to tie the game 1-1. The lefty, who had gone 35 2-3 innings without permitting a run, allowed a leadoff single to Warren Cromartie, the Expos' second hit of the game. Larry Parrish sacrificed Cromartie to second and Chris Speier hit a two-out single to score pinch runner Tom Hutton.

Entering the game, Valenzuela had three consecutive shutouts and four overall in winning his first five decisions. He has allowed just two runs in 54 innings this season for an ERA of 0.33.

Valenzuela allowed a single to the Expos' leadoff hitter, Tim Lincecum, then retired 21 consecutive batters before Cromartie's single.

In other games, New York split with San Diego, winning 7-4 after losing 4-1; Philadelphia dined San Francisco 7-3; St. Louis edged Cincinnati 5-4 in 11 innings;

Houston defeated Pittsburgh 3-1; and Atlanta overpowered Chicago 9-7.

In the American League, it was New York sweeping a pair from Oakland, 3-2 in 10 innings and 2-0; Minnesota 3, Boston 1; Detroit 8, Seattle 5; Chicago 6, Cleveland 0; Toronto 4, Baltimore 2; Milwaukee 4, California 3; and Texas 9, Kansas City 8 in 10 innings.

Padres 6-4, Mets 1-7

At New York, Joel Youngblood hit a three-run homer in the seventh to give the Mets their split. Mike Scott, 1-2, was the winner while Tim Lollar fell to 1-2. In the opener, Ozzie Smith's two-run single in the fifth broke a tie and lifted Rick Wise, 1-3, to the victory while Dave Roberts, 0-2, took the loss.

Phillies 7, Giants 5

At Philadelphia, Mike Schmidt hit two home runs to raise his league-leading total to eight. Dick Ruthven, 4-1, earned the victory with Tug McGraw notching his second save. Gary Lavelle, the third Giant pitcher, fell to 0-2.

Cardinals 5, Reds 4

At St. Louis, Darrell Porter drew a bases-loaded walk in the 11th to force in Tony Scott and give the Cardinals their 11th victory in the last 12 games. Tom Hume, 1-2, took the loss while rookie Joe Edelen earned his first major-league victory.

Astros 3, Pirates 1

At Pittsburgh, Terry Puhl singled in the go-ahead run in the fourth and winning pitcher Don Sutton, 3-1, drew a bases-loaded walk. Jim Bibby, 1-1, took the loss. Omar Moreno doubled in the Pirates' run.

Braves 9, Cubs 7

At Chicago, Chris Chambliss drove in four runs, three on his first homer of the year. Preston Hanna, 1-0, worked 2 2-3 innings to pick up the victory and Rick Camp pitched the final three innings to earn his third save. Reliever Ken Kravec, 0-3, was the loser.

Oakland's Billy Martin

MARTINISMS:
'Winfield's got the softest bat I've ever seen for a guy 6-foot-8.'
'I told our infielders to watch for the blooper and I'll be damned if he didn't hit one!
'I can't believe the guy who gets paid $33 million for hitting a blooper like that.'
'Steinbrunner must be losing his feathers.'

Yanks Sweep A's, Martin Not Fazed

United Press International
The New York Yankees had just swept a double-header from Oakland Sunday to salvage the final two games of a four-game series, but A's manager Billy Martin was hardly impressed.

In fact, the former Yankee manager was downright hostile.

"I didn't want no split," the fiery Martin said after the Yankees had handed the A's their fourth and fifth losses of the season, 3-2 in 10 innings and 2-0. "I wanted to beat them three out of four or four out of four. If they were an awesome ballclub, I might have been happy with a split. But I just don't think there's anybody better than us in this league."

In the opener, Jerry Mumphrey homered off an 0-1 pitch from Steve McCatty, 3-2, in the 10th inning to give the Yankees and Ron Davis, 1-0, the victory.

But according to Martin, Mumphrey should never have gotten to bat.

In the sixth, Graig Nettles hit what should have been a routine double play ball. But A's second baseman Sholly Babbitt got in shortstop Fred Stankey's way and the relay to first wasn't in time. The Yankees went on to score two runs in the inning.

In the nightcap, Tommy John scattered five hits and Jim Spencer homered to give the Yankees the sweep. Brian Kingman, 2-2, went seven innings and took the loss.

The Yankees added another run in the eighth on Dave Winfield's check-swing RBI single over a drawn-in infield.

On that subject, Mr. Martin had a few choice words as well.

"Winfield's got the softest bat I've ever seen for a guy 6-foot-8," Martin said. "I told our infielders to watch for the blooper and I'll be damned if he didn't hit one. I can't believe the guy who gets paid $33 million for hitting a blooper like that. (Yankee owner George) Steinbrenner must be losing his feathers."

In other American League games Sunday, Minnesota beat Boston 3-1, Chicago shut out Cleveland 6-0, Toronto topped Baltimore 4-2, Milwaukee defeated California 4-3, Detroit took Seattle 8-5 and Texas took 10 innings to nip Kansas City 9-8.

In the National League, it was San Diego 4, New York 1 in the first game of a doubleheader and New York 7, San Diego 4 in the nightcap; Houston 3, Pittsburgh 1; Philadelphia 7, San Francisco 5; St. Louis 5, Cincinnati 4 in 12 innings; Atlanta 9, Chicago 7 and Los Angeles 6, Montreal 1 in 10 innings.

Twins 3, Red Sox 1

At Boston, Pete Redfern, 3-1, scattered four hits and Glenn Adams drove in a pair of runs as the Twins handed the Red Sox their seventh consecutive loss. Doug Corbett got his fourth save of the year.

White Sox 6, Indians 0

At Cleveland, Rich Dotson, 3-1, pitched his second major-league shutout, allowing five hits, and Bill Almon slapped three singles to pace a 15-hit Chicago attack that enabled the White Sox to snap a four-game losing streak. Blue Jays 4, Orioles 2

At Baltimore, Mark Bombardier pitched perfect baseball for 5 1-3 innings and Willie Upshaw snapped a 2-7 tie with an eighth-inning homer.

Brewers 4, Angels 3

At Anaheim, Calif., Cecil Cooper and Larry Hise each doubled in a run to lift the Brewers and Mike Caldwell, 3-2, Rolfe Fingers recorded his second save and Steve Renko, 1-1, took the loss.

Tigers 8, Mariners 5

At Seattle, Kirk Gibson drew a bases-loaded walk and Stan Papi singled in two runs to cap a five-run seventh inning and lift Detroit. Seven of the Tigers' runs were unearned. Jack Morris, 3-3, scattered nine hits over 8 1-3 innings for the win and reliever Larry Andersen, 1-2, took the loss.

Rangers 9, Royals 0

At Arlington, Texas, Pat Putnam led off the 10th inning with a home run to give the Rangers the victory. Putnam hit a 3-2 pitch from Juan Berenguer, 1-1, off the right field foul pole to give John Henry Johnson, 1-1, the win.

OURSELVES

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fla. Monday, May 4, 1981—18

Jeanne Edmonds: Tennis Anyone?

Kathy Gray: It's in the colorful bag.

Marion Cox: Wrap up in a print skirt.

Fashions Spark SMH Auxiliary Spring Picnic

A fashion show of casual and cruise clothes highlighted Seminole Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's spring picnic at the Central Florida Zoo.

Pots of flowering begonias and violets added color to the rustic setting. "Swing into spring" fashions from Lois' Place added more color and were applauded by more than 40 members including several husband and wife teams.

Members modeling the fashions were: Mary Anderson, Louise Allen, Marion Cox, Jeanne Edmonds, Kathy Gray and Jan Renaud. Mrs. Suzie Quasnovsky was chairman of the event.

Prospective members and guests were invited and two new members, Carolyn Stanley and Elizabeth Gallant were welcomed.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the various auxiliary committees should contact, Mrs. Harry Smith, president.

'Job' Doesn't Determine Fidelity (Or Lack Of It)

DEAR ABBY: I am the wife of an airplane pilot, and I used to worry myself sick wondering what my captain might be doing with some cute young airline hostess, until one night a highly respected much-admired professional man knocked on my door while my pilot was gone. He certainly had some swinging plans for us. And to think for years I had envied this man's wife because she had an 8-to-5 husband!

That's all there is to my story, Abby. But the point is this: Occupation doesn't determine fidelity — or the lack of it — in a marriage. I know airline captains' wives who have more going for them while their husbands have.

Dear Abby

FEET ON THE GROUND CONFIDENTIAL TO R. IN K.C.: It's not always better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all. It all depends on what you have lost.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you wrote, "No healthy normal man (or woman) is supposed to be 'happy' in abstinence" (from an active sex life).

I hope you will rethink your position. You have been, over the years, a great friend of hetero, homo, and even bisexuals. How about a good word for those of us who are genuinely asexual? We are truly a forgotten minority.

I, for one, am quite happy without sex. Personally, I am repelled by sex, although I am heartily in favor of a happy, normal sex life for those who favor it. I do not want to be thought of as "unhealthy" or "abnormal." I am living in the way that is right for me. Unfortunately, because I am not married and do not have a lover, many people assume that I am a lesbian, which I definitely am not.

Some of history's most creative people have been celibate by choice. Please think about it, Abby, and give us a break.

AGE 42 AND STILL A VIRGIN

DEAR 42: To each his (or her) own. Meet another happy celibate:

DEAR ABBY: I must object to your comment to NO ACTION IN WASHINGTON STATE. You said: "No healthy normal man (or woman) is supposed to be 'happy' in abstinence."

I consider myself a happy, normal, healthy male, and abstinence is my choice. As a matter of fact, like thousands of others who have taken the vow of celibacy, I feel that for me, celibacy is an important part of my life. Sign me, HAPPILY CELIBATE IN N.Y.

DEAR CELIBATE: NO ACTION complained that his wife had been depriving him of marital relations for 15 years. (He was 56.)

I agree, one who takes the vow of celibacy can indeed be happy, normal and healthy. But a man (or woman) who takes the vows, then decides to become celibate, does his wife (or husband) a terrible disservice.

DEAR ABBY: We are a couple in our late 20s (call us George and Georgette) who have been married for six years. We both work, have no children and are very happy with our lives.

We need an outside opinion. We recently had a portrait painted of Georgette in which she is wearing only the bottoms of her French-cut bikini.

It is a tasteful, accurate and beautiful painting. We are planning to hang it in our home but are concerned that some of our friends may be ill at ease knowing the model was Georgette. But we do want to share it with others. What do you think?

GEORGE AND GEORGETTE

DEAR G. AND G.: When in doubt—don't!

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (35 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Club Meets Wednesday

The Woman's Club of Sanford will meet Wednesday for the May general business meeting. A covered dish luncheon is scheduled at noon. The program will feature CIP and Conservation.

According to Lois Housholder, trays and baskets are needed for the kitchen. Members are asked to bring these items if they have any that are not in use.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, May 5, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY May 5, 1981
 Conditions which affect your security and financial growth should be rather stable this coming year. This should give you the opportunity to start saving some money away for things you'll want later.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your financial prospects look very encouraging today. You're willing to work for what you hope to get. Your efforts won't go unrewarded. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are a good leader and organizer today. You'll have no difficulty rallying supporters once you set the example you want them to follow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Cancers are known for being tenacious. This particular trait will be emphasized in you today. If you decide to do something, it will get done.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) One reason you have so many friends is because you stand behind them when they need your help. Today you may be given another opportunity to demonstrate this.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be persistent in situation today which could benefit you financially or careerwise. If you put forth the proper effort, you'll achieve your goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're better at dealing with difficult situations today that you may initially give yourself credit for. Face up to challenges. You'll see what I mean.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you're in need of some special type of favor, don't be afraid to go to persons today whom you've helped in the past. They'll be eager to reciprocate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Although you prefer to do things independently, your greatest benefits today are likely to come through partnership arrangements. Keep this in mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Goals may be a trifle more difficult than usual to achieve today, but if they are worthy ones put forth the best that's in you. Will yourself to win.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take advantage of any developments today giving an opportunity to further strengthen the bonds with an old friend. This relationship is important.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to pin down and finalize today matters financially important to you and your family. Your chances for success are good at this time, so avoid delays.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be firm today where you think your judgments are best for all concerned. Others will believe in you if you believe in yourself.

Cough Can Be Sign Of More Than Cold

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother has had a cough for the past two weeks. At first I just thought she had a cold but it seems to be hanging on longer than I think it should. She doesn't seem to have a fever. She doesn't seem to be sick in any other way. She doesn't smoke so it is not a cigarette cough. I was wondering if I should take her to a doctor or not since she doesn't have a fever. The cough medicines that I have bought for her don't seem to have helped much.

DEAR READER — By all means take your mother to a doctor. People tend to forget that a cough is a symptom and there are a lot of other things besides a cold that can cause a cough. Let me give you one example, heart failure. If the left side of the heart begins to fail, it may cause fluid to accumulate in the lungs. This can cause shortness of breath and a cough. Sometimes the problem is thought to be pneumonia until a careful examination is done and the real cause of fluid in the lungs is discovered.

Still another cause is cancer. Fortunately, most people with a chronic cough have some other problem but it illustrates the serious problems that may underlie what seems to be a simple cough from a cold.

Many people are confused about when to see a doctor for a cough so I will repeat here the four basic rules included in The Health Letter number 8-10, Cough: How And When To Treat It. 1) If your temperature is over 102 degrees F or if fever persists over three days — see your doctor; 2) If you have pain other than a mild headache or sore throat — see your doctor; 3) If you have excessive weakness or prostration — see your doctor; 4) If your cough is over 10 days duration, even if you feel fine — see your doctor. I'm sending you a copy of that issue. Others who want a copy can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1515, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Incidentally, not all coughs should be suppressed. It is sometimes beneficial to loosen up a cough and clear your airways.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 5-year-old son has had swollen lymph glands behind the ears, in the neck and now in the groin. I need to know more about this condition.

DEAR READER — The lymph glands are part of the lymphatic circulation. Lymph is a clear liquid and contains many lymph cells which are a variety of white blood cells important in fighting infections. The lymph circulates in tiny vessels similar to blood capillaries. This network is all over your body and eventually drains into the large veins near your heart.

The lymph vessels enter lymph glands. Here the lymph is filtered. Lymph cells are produced here, too. Infections are localized by trapping bacteria inside the lymph glands. Hence if you have an infection in your finger, the bacteria are apt to be trapped in the lymph nodes under your arm. So infections that result in increased action of lymph nodes or trapping germs cause them to enlarge and sometimes to be sore.

high card, you should learn to do so, provided that you know exactly what your next play should be.

Oswald: "Fifty years ago we named a play after a certain player who liked to overtake a high card led by his partners so that he could lead to the next trick. Then he would lead the wrong card back."

Alan: "East signalled come-on with his seven of spades. Unfortunately, West had nothing to come on with. Declarer ducked and had time to set up the clubs and make his contract with an overtrick."

Oswald: "Our old-time expert would have covered his partner's queen of spades with his king. So would any expert worth the name. He would know exactly how to proceed. It wouldn't matter what declarer did. He would not have time to set up clubs and would have been set at least one trick."

Alan: "Note that East could use his king at trick one and still be sure to be able to set up his spades in time."
