Lake Mary Property Owners Will Receive Higher Bill, Valuation

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary's tax bills to property owners in the city will be higher this fall.

While the City Council has set a tentative tax rate of $4.25 per $1,000 assessed valuation, the same as last year, property values in the city have been raised an average of 20 percent. Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber has said property values for tax purposes have been raised from 15 percent to 35 percent.

And Councilman Ray Fox said many people in the city are expecting a smaller tax bill this year. "They are going to get a tax rate cut but not a tax cut," he said.

The council pored over City Manager Phil Kulbes' proposed budget Thursday night, cutting only a proposed 10 percent across the board pay raise for city employees to 8 percent and shaving a request for new city hall office furniture from $3,260 to $1,000.

But in other areas, sums were added to various accounts. And City Treasurer and Bookkeeper Madeleine Minns said the city will have on hand about $100,000 left from this year's budget when the new fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

She said $50,000 of the amount resulted from Florida Power Corporation's change in paying franchise fees to the city. FPC is now paying the fees monthly instead of annually.

In addition, the city received $13,240 more than anticipated from property taxes during the past year; received returns in the miscellaneous category by $5,000 more than anticipated; and received $2,500 more from cigarette taxes, $4,500 more from occupational license fees, $3,400 more from a cable television franchise and about $5,000 more from interest income.

Income in the proposed budget was increased in various lines including: property taxes from $294,118, the amount which would have been received at a rate of $3.90, to $328,053, the amount that will be received from $4.35.

The $328,053 is slightly less than the $336,529 received this year from property taxes because the city no longer receives inventory tax from industries in the city. That tax was repealed by the Legislature.

Interest to be earned is $15,000, which is $5,000 more than last year to reflect receipts actually received.

Anticipated income in the general fund in the new year is now estimated at $694,025, up from the current year's $613,365, an increase of $132,660.

The $132,660 does not include $50,000 of the amount the city will have left from this year's budget when the new fiscal year begins.

The councilman expressed concern about the $68,627 which Mrs. Minns said the state has instructed the city to include in its budget as anticipated sales tax returns. Mrs. Minns said the estimate could be off by as much as 20 percent. The council budgeted $15,000 in the contingency fund to take up the slack if returns are less than expected.

Some $5,000 already in the contingency fund also was increased by $4,000 for use in case workers compensation rates are raised. The total contingency fund at this point is $25,000.

Of the pay raise to the city employees, the council agreed by a 4-1 vote to place an 8 percent increase in the budget, noting that this doesn't imply that all employees will automatically get an 8 percent pay raise.

Councilman Ray Fox balked at the 8 percent, saying he preferred 5 percent. The 8 percent would save $5,400 plus other amounts for wage taxes and state retirement.

Fox also balked at a proposal to spend $3,260 for new office furniture at city hall. His colleagues decided over his objections to budget $1,000.

Fox said, "If it's functional, wear it out or do without. I can't go with it (the new furniture)," he said.

Mrs. Minns said the desks now used at city hall are "World War I rejects," noting that City Secretary Carol Spotts' desk has no handles on the drawers.

Councilman Richard Pess suggested it will be less expensive to put new handles on the drawers rather than buying a new desk. Councilman Kenneth King said City Clerk Connie Major's desk chair must be replaced since its back is broken.

Tentatively approved for the Budget by the council were: public works $87,589, up from $62,965; fire department $48,656, down from $49,142; communications $55,632, up from $44,026; building and zoning $5,585, down from $5,850; parks and summer recreation $23,592, up from $22,729; administration $122,235, up from $110,850; Central Services $80,300 up from $46,431; Police $218,033, up from $202,632; and transfers to public projects $60,976, up from $35,918.

Ciuzio Guilty

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Eugene Ciuzio of Longwood has been convicted for the second time of arranging a bribe for former U.S. Rep. Richard Kelly.

Ciuzio and co-defendant Stanley Weisz of Smithtown, N.Y., were convicted by a U.S. District Court jury in Washington, D.C., Thursday following three-day deliberation. The jury spent much of those three days examining tapes of a meeting between Kelly and FBI undercover agents in which Kelly stuffed $25,000 into his pockets.

Ciuzio and Weisz were convicted of bribery, conspiracy to commit bribery and traveling across state lines to help in the bribery.

Ciuzio and Weisz claimed they were trying to get $25,000 each from "Arabs" who wanted to set up a meeting with Kelly. They denied being involved in a conspiracy to bribe him.

Michael Dennis, a lawyer for the pair, said he would seek to have the guilty verdict overturned and if that fails he will file an appeal.

He called the verdict "a gross miscarriage of justice."

Dennis said the appeal will be that the pair was out to get money from Melvin Weinberg, the go-between in the Abscam case, rather than to bribe Kelly.

"The judge said that if the defendants were engaged in a game with Weinberg to get the money for themselves so that Kelly would not be bribed — and there was evidence throughout the trial that they tried to prevent a bribery of Kelly — then the jury had to acquit the defendants," Dennis said.

Ciuzio and Weisz were convicted in 1981, along with Kelly. But Federal Court Judge William Bryant, who also presided over this trial, overturned those verdicts and ordered a new trial for the pair.

Kelly was not called to testify in the retrial but in previous testimony he claimed he brought into the scheme by Ciuzio after meeting the Longwood business consultant at an airport in Tampa.

Kelly said Ciuzio asked if he had money difficulties and said he could offer some assistance. Kelly said he had several other meetings with Ciuzio prior to the meeting at a Georgetown apartment when he was finding $100 bills into his pockets.

Bryant set sentencing for Sept. 15. In the meantime, the defendants were free on their own recognizance.

Conspiracy and traveling across state lines to commit bribery each carry penalties of five years and $10,000. Bribery itself carries a penalty of 15 years and $20,000, or three times the amount of the bribe.

Businesses To Be Honored

Prosecutors, Chambers Begin Drive Looking For Good Guys

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Is there a store you frequent which you would not hesitate to recommend to a friend because of the prompt, efficient and friendly service you receive? Is there a business you deal with that has, nearly, if ever, let you down?

Well, if so, the Consumer Fraud Unit of the Seminole State Attorney's office, as well as local Chambers of Commerce, want to know about it.

"We are going to start a new tradition of recognizing area businesses for outstanding service to the public by giving out annual Consumer Choice Awards," said investigator Douglas Huth, of the consumer fraud unit.

"We are asking Seminole County residents to write either me or their local chamber and tell us what business should win the award and why," he said. "Sometimes the businessman who works hard to serve the public is overlooked and we think he deserves recognition."

Huth said he, along with Jack Horner of the Greater Sanford

Chamber of Commerce, Sharon Will, of the Greater Seminole-Altamonte Springs Chamber of Commerce, and Metta Burgess of the Longwood-Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce will "sit down and go over the nominations and determine three winners from north, middle and south Seminole County and have State Attorney Douglas Cheshire hand out the trophies during a ceremony in November."

Huth said the trophies have been donated by the Sanford Trophy Shop and will have the logo of the winning business engraved on each.

"We are urging everyone to write and tell us which business is best and why," Huth said. "Also, we need to know the writer's name, address and telephone number as well as the business' nominee's name and address."

For additional information concerning the Consumers Choice Awards, contact your area Chamber of Commerce or Doug at 323-7534 or by writing Huth at the Office of the State Attorney, Seminole County Courthouse, Sanford, Fla.

Seminole Tax Bill Notices Mailed Today

Seminole County property owners will get the bad news this weekend. Their taxes are going up.

Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber's office mailed out more than 80,000 notices to property owners today. The notices say how much taxes the individual property owner paid to city and county governments, the School Board and the St. Johns River Water Management District and how much it is planned for him to pay this year.

The dates of public hearings in each of Seminole's seven cities, the county, the School Board and the water management district are included to give property owners an opportunity to officially object, if they wish.

Through a countywide reappraisal this year the value for tax purposes of all homes went up an average of 20 percent, Suber reported earlier. This means unless tax rates were reduced substantially by each taxing unit, individual property owners will be paying more.

The taxable value of real property in Seminole County has gone up almost $700 million from last year. The value last year for tax purposes was $2.75 billion. The value this year is $3.42 billion.

Last year's tax rate compared with this year's rate and the dates of the public hearings by each taxing unit is as follows:

— Seminole County Commission public hearing, Sept. 7 at 7 p.m. at the courthouse on Park Avenue, Sanford. The tax rate last year countywide was $5.24 per $1,000 assessed valuation and this year it is $4.45. In the special road and fire taxing district in the unincorporated areas, the tax rate last year was $2.91 and this year it is $2.21.

— School Board public hearing is set for 7:30 p.m., Sept. 8, at the School Administration Office, Mellonville Avenue, Sanford. The tax rate last year was $8.28 and this year is $7.

— Altamonte Springs, public hearing at City Hall, Newburyport Avenue, Altamonte, 7 p.m., Aug. 31. The tax rate last year was $3.78 and this year is $2.85.

— Casselberry public hearing 7:30 p.m., Sept. 13, City Hall, Triplet Drive, Casselberry. The tax rate last year was $1.95 and this year will be $1.08.

— Longwood, 7:30 p.m., Sept. 13, City Hall, Warren Street at Wilma Avenue. Tax rate last year $3.12 and this year $2.21.

— Lake Mary, 7:30 p.m., Sept. 2 at City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road, Lake Mary. Tax rate last year $4.35 and this year $4.35.

— Sanford, 7 p.m., Sept. 13 at City Hall, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford. Tax rate last year $5.92 and this year $4.37.

— Oviedo, 7:30 p.m., Sept. 13 at City Hall, 20 E. Broadway St., Oviedo. Tax rate last year was $3.20 and this year will be $2.24.

— Winter Springs, 7:30 p.m., Aug. 31, at City Hall, 400 N. Edgerton, Winter Springs. Tax rate last year was $2.05 and this year is $1.20.

— St. Johns River Water Management District, Palatka. Tax rate last year was .12 and this year will be .29.

Tax bills from the various taxing units will be mailed in October.

Farmers Can Get FHA Aid

The president of the Seminole County Farm Bureau said today federal disaster loan eligibility for area farmers is a welcome relief to those who suffered freeze and storm damage earlier this year.

Bob Parker said the eligibility, which was granted to Seminole County farmers Wednesday by the Department of Agriculture, "is a good thing for a lot of farmers who have been hurt bad."

"First, there was the freeze and then the hailstorm," he said. "They need the help bad."

About 150 farmers in the county who suffered a combined $6.5 million in damages from the hail and rain storms which hit the area in April will be eligible for loans for up to 80 percent of their losses.

The loans, which will be administered through the Farmers Home Administration, will carry an 8 percent interest rate with a ceiling of $500,000 according to U.S. Rep. Bill McCullom, R-Altamonte Springs.

A freeze hit Seminole County Jan. 11 and 12 and a hailstorm hit the area April 8, damaging cabbage and cucumber crops.

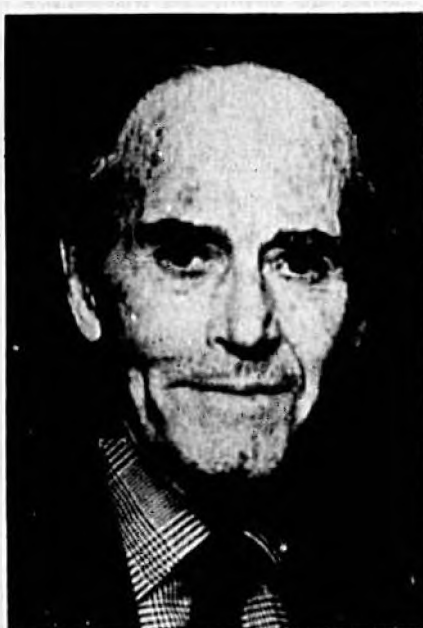

County officials said about a third of the crop was lost in the storm which did about $10 million in damage in the county.

Impaired Physician

Herald Series
To Begin Sunday

The medical profession has not escaped the problems of alcohol and drug abuse. An increasing number of doctors are becoming so-called impaired physicians, addicted to drugs or alcohol. Florida is a frontrunner in treating the impaired physician. What do two Seminole County physicians who underwent that intensive treatment think about the program? Herald Staff Writer Joe DeSantis will answer that and other questions in a series of articles that will begin in Sunday's edition of the Herald.

IN BRIEF

The Rich, Oil Companies Should Pay More Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate tax negotiators agreed today healthy individuals should pay higher taxes and oil and gas companies should shelter less income.

The committee quickly approved a compromise plan to cut Medicare and other social programs by $15.2 billion over the next three years late Thursday night, then turned its attention to the tax bill that would raise nearly $100 billion in additional revenue through 1985.

Meeting in the early hours of the morning, the committee agreed to stiffen the "minimum tax" paid by certain healthy individuals, limit the amount of foreign tax credits oil and gas companies use to offset U.S. taxes, and increase the percentage of quarterly taxes corporations must pay — as well as boost the penalty for underpayment. It also agreed to require federal workers to pay Medicare taxes for the first time.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Bob Dole, R-Kan., who also heads the joint conference, said he hoped to complete action today on the package, which also includes a doubling of the federal cigarette tax, reduced deductions for medical expenses, halving of the "three martini lunch" deduction and automatic withholding of a portion of interest and dividends.

Amnesty For Illegal Aliens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millions of aliens who sneaked across U.S. borders only to live in fear of exposure and exploitation would be given amnesty and eventual citizenship under a bill moving toward Senate passage today.

By large margins Thursday, the Senate approved the amnesty, a key element in a package of immigration reforms aimed at controlling a wave of Latin American economic refugees who at present rates could boost U.S. population at a third in the next hundred years.

Other controversial provisions of the bill were expected to be considered today, including a system of verifying work eligibility — probably in the form of a national identity card for everyone — and sanctions against employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens. The bill also would impose an overall cap of 425,000 a year on legal immigration and expand the farm-worker program.

Trident Docks Amid Protest

BANGOR, Wash. (UPI) — The nuclear submarine USS Ohio left dissenters bobbing in its wake in the first clash between anti-nuclear demonstrators and the Navy's new ultimate weapon, the Trident missile system.

By the end of Thursday's confrontation between Coast Guard escorts and the people's flotilla, 14 protesters had been arrested, 17 others were detained and several boats were confiscated and moored at the Bangor Navy base — not far from the Ohio.

The Coast Guard used water cannon to scatter the floating demonstrators and allowed the Ohio to proceed unencumbered through Hood Canal at a leisurely 8-knot clip, arriving to a welcoming celebration at the Bangor base shortly before noon.

The protest dramatized the peace coalition's concern the $1.2 billion Trident increases the risk of a nuclear war.

Women's Status Group Set To Meet Saturday

The Central Florida Commission on the Status of Women will meet at 10 a.m., Saturday, at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, First Street at Sanford Avenue.

Destia Horner, chairman of the Seminole County chapter, said a regional business meeting will be held from 10 a.m. to noon with lunch from 12 a.m. to 12:30.

After lunch, a panel discussion on how women deal with positions of power and decision-making will be held.

Participating on the panel will be Seminole County Commissioner Sandra Glenn, Linda Chapin, chairman of the Orlando Post Authority, and Lawrie Pitcher Platt, director of the Orlando Crime Prevention Commission.

Victim Changes His Story

Sanford Man, 18, Charged In Stabbing

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

An 18-year-old Sanford man is being held in the Seminole County jail today in connection with Tuesday's stabbing of another Sanford man.

Leroy Whetstope, of 8 Higgins Terrace, was arrested at 11:50 a.m. Thursday on charges of aggravated battery and is being held under $8,000 bond, jail officials said.

Sanford police said they arrested Whetstope after Harry Harvey, of 1005 Pear Ave., told police that Whetstope stabbed him in the back and buttocks at about 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Harvey told police Thursday that he was stabbed after the two men argued over a stolen bicycle at his Pear Avenue home. However, shortly after the stabbing, Harvey reportedly told police he was walking home near 13th Street and Olive Avenue when three men jumped him and one man knifed him.

MAN CITED FOR TRASH DUMPING

A Sanford man was cited by deputies for dumping roofing material along General Hutchison Parkway near the Big Tree Park, Longwood, after deputies received an anonymous tip concerning the illegal littering.

Benito Morales, 25, of 2206 Park Ave., was accused of violating the state's litter law after deputies said they observed him dumping a truck-load of roofing material along and on the roadway. Morales reportedly told deputies that he and his employer, Covey Bros. Roofing, of Apopka, had permission from the landowner to dump the materials on the property. However, deputies said he could not give them the name of the landowner or show proof of his claim.

LAWNMOWER LIFTED

A lawnmower, valued at about $350, was stolen from the home of Marjorie Devant, 68, of 609 Lake Shore Drive, Maitland, between 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and 3 a.m. Thursday, deputies said.

MAN HELD FOR ROBBERY

A 52-year-old Lake Mary man is being held without bond in the Seminole County jail following his arrest at his home at 9:38 p.m. Wednesday on charges of robbery in Hillsborough County.

Daniel David Deyelde, of 197 Dublin Drive, was arrested by deputies after learning there is an active warrant for his arrest in connection with a robbery in St. Petersburg, deputies said.

SCUBA GEAR STOLEN

Thieves broke into a Geneva man's home between 9 a.m. July 24 and 8 p.m. Tuesday and stole scuba gear and a diamond ring.

The theft was reported by Robert Butler, 41, of Mockingbird Lane, Geneva, deputies said.

FIREARMS STOLEN

Two firearms were stolen from a Sanford woman's home between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. Thursday.

Evelyn Bedenbaugh, of 803 W. Fourth St., told police the thieves broke into her home through a window and stole the guns, valued at about $300, from her closet.

STERCHIL'S BURGLARIZED

Thieves broke into a Sanford furniture store at about 5:15 a.m. Friday after boring a hole in the bathroom wall.

John Lockhart Ferguson Jr., manager of Sterchil's furniture store at 1100 S. French Ave., said he has not determined how much property was stolen in the burglary but is expected to provide police with a list of the missing items later.

SANFORD ACCIDENTS

The Sanford Police Department responded to the following accidents and gave this report of the incidents:

— Byron Link, 62, Sanford, was charged with improper backing in an accident at 3:54 p.m. Wednesday in the Winn Dixie shopping center parking lot along 25th Street involving a car owned by Andrew Nola, 53, of Ft. McCoy. No injuries were reported in the accident.

— Police are searching for a teenager driving a late model silver-blue Chevrolet which they say struck Keith Sudwall, 18, of Sanford, while he was operating his 1977 moped along Florida Avenue at 8:28 p.m. Tuesday.

— Verdine Pearsey, 21, of 17 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was charged with careless driving after her 1981 Chevrolet was involved in an accident with a 1978 Oldsmobile driven by Effie Kaufman, 37, of Lake Mary at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said the accident occurred at 25th Street and U.S. Highway 17-92 and no injuries or property damage were reported.

— Mark S. Domroe, 30, of 2586 Ridgewood Ave., Sanford, was charged with violating the right-of-way following an accident involving his 1978 Pontiac and a 1971 Ford driven by Mark Wight, 27, of 226 Red Coch Court, Sanford, at 3:40 p.m. Aug. 3.

Police said the accident occurred at Sanford and Wylly avenues and no injuries were reported.

Many downtown Sanford merchants and those in the Sanford Plaza will be celebrating "Nickel Days" Aug. 19, 20 and 21 with special bargains available to customers.

In addition, a contest with free prizes will be held downtown and at the plaza.

In the downtown area, a jar of nickels will be on display at the Flagship Bank. Participating merchants will display gifts they will give away to those customers who register at their stores and come closest to guessing the number of nickels in the jar.

At Sanford Plaza meanwhile, individual merchants will display a jar of nickels in their stores. Persons registering in those stores and coming closest to guessing the number of nickels will get a prize valued the same as the number of nickels displayed.

Nickel Days is being sponsored by the Commercial Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the various merchants associations, according to Jack Horner, Chamber president.

About 25 merchants throughout the city are participating in the special three-day promotion.

Public Defender Off Hook, 'Weekend Rapist' Charge Dropped

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

While Seminole County public defenders were busy trying to excuse themselves from defending the so-called "weekend rapist," accused of multiple burglaries and sexual assaults in two counties, prosecutors dropped the charges against the man but said he still may wind up in court to answer for other crimes.

Public defenders filed a motion before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor asking that a special lawyer be assigned to defend Allen Leon Frazier, 33, of Orlando, after they learned an assistant public defender's relative believes she was raped by the man. The motion, slated to be heard by McGregor at 8:45 a.m. Monday, will be withdrawn, prosecutors said.

Ironically, a circuit judge in Orange County recently excused public defenders there from defending Frazier on similar charges after an attorney's relative said the man raped her.

"We didn't file charges against him here because we just had a weak case," said prosecutor Steven Horneffer. "First of all, the victim didn't want to prosecute and went to Mexico to live which made it difficult to stay in touch with her. Second, the victim said she didn't think she could identify him since it had been nine months since the crime occurred. "While this case is being dropped and I have

Gonorrhea, Meningitis Vaccines Show Promise

BOSTON (UPI) — Researchers say they have developed the first vaccine effective against gonorrhea — including the new penicillin-resistant "super gonorrhea" — and will test it on thousands of volunteers once it is approved by the government.

A vaccine that works in similar ways already has been shown to be effective against the leading cause of bacterial meningitis in children.

Bacterial meningitis, a serious inflammation of the three membranes covering the brain and spinal cord, strikes an estimated 20,000 people annually in the United States and kills 2,000 to 3,000.

The gonorrhea vaccine is the "first vaccine that's demonstrated any promise against gonorrhea whatsoever," said Dr. Charles Brinton, whose team at the University of Pittsburgh developed the vaccine.

Thousands of volunteers, probably military personnel, will receive the experimental gonorrhea vaccine next year under a proposal awaiting approval from the State Department, leaders of the study said.

Brinton's team, which conducted the early gonorrhea vaccine tests on only a few people at a time, will coordinate large-scale testing with scientists at Walter Reed Army hospital in Washington.

Dr. Edmund Tramont, head of the infectious disease division at Walter Reed, said in a telephone interview it will take six months after approval is received to select volunteers.

Brinton said if the vaccine is approved for marketing it probably will be used first in Africa, where gonorrhea is epidemic and difficult to treat. Forty to 50 percent of African women are sterile because of gonorrhea, he said.

The vaccine, which prevents the bacteria from adhering to potential victims, also would be effective against penicillin-resistant gonorrhea, he said.

The strain is still relatively rare, accounting for only .5 percent of the 1 million cases of gonorrhea each year, said Dr. William M. McCormack of Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn.

Fewer than 400 cases of the resistant strain were recorded each year from 1976 through 1979.

Florida May Trim Spending

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Like many Floridians, the state is beginning to feel the pinch of the national recession and has to cut back its spending.

Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet will meet in two weeks to consider a proposal by the governor to reduce agency spending by 2 percent across-the-board.

Graham revealed his plan at a news conference Thursday, saying a shortfall in revenues during July continues a trend of lower than expected tax collections "at a time when the nation's economists are offering little that is optimistic."

During July, the state collected $13.9 million less in general taxes than was expected. Except for April and May, there have been revenue shortfalls every month this year.

Graham's proposal, which would generate about $109 million in savings over the fiscal year, will be considered at a special Cabinet meeting Aug. 25.

Doctors Have A Cure For Malpractice Malady

MIAMI (UPI) — The doctors who led 3,000 protesting south Florida colleagues in a massive surgery "slowdown" in June have come up with a few suggestions to remedy the massive malpractice awards causing insurance premiums to skyrocket.

Before the state legislature intervened to cut back the rate hikes, some doctors faced premiums as high as $80,000 for a single year.

The Florida Physicians United for Health Care Cost Reform asked lawmakers Thursday to take some advice, and presented them with a seven-point program designed to deal with the malpractice issue on a long-term basis.

"The general idea is that we want to continue to watch the cost of health care for the public and we know that if we can stem the tide of false malpractice claims it will help hold down health costs," said Dr. Arnold L. Tanis, leader of the group.

They asked the legislature first to limit "pain and suffering" awards to $250,000. This would not limit the total award.

"There's no way of telling what pain and suffering is to each individual. If I have a headache, how much pain and suffering does it cause me, and if you have a headache, how much pain and suffering does it cause you?" said Dr. George Crane, a member of the group's board of directors.

Next the group suggested limiting the portion of an award earmarked for lawyers' fees, which sometimes amounts to 30 to 40 percent of the settlement.

In New Jersey, Crane said, attorneys can collect 25 percent of the first $100,000. After that the percentage drops as the awards go higher. Only 10 percent is allowed for lawyers' fees above $1 million. The physicians group is recommending a similar setup in Florida.

The group also recommended that in each malpractice case, a panel of three doctors should be set up to review the physician's conduct. They would have to be doctors who practice the same specialty of the doctor on trial.

— Malpractice awards should be allowed only when a doctor's conduct worsened a patient's condition, and not when the physician is simply unable to prevent a malady from getting worse.

— and legislators should repeal a state law forcing losers of malpractice suits to pay court costs.

Body Cremated Without Funeral

Henry Fonda, A Truly American Actor, Succumbs To Heart Disease At Age 77

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Henry Fonda, who played men of quiet strength for half a century, died in character, leaving behind a treasury of classic movies, a family of film stars and a last request to be cremated without fuss or funeral.

HENRY FONDA ... a legend'

"Over the last couple of weeks I sort of realized this would have to be the end," said Stewart. "All the great ones of our industry are leaving us," mourned actress Bette Davis, who met Fonda on a blind date in college and later co-starred with him in "Jezebel."

"Henry Fonda was one of us, but he left us a heritage — Jane and Peter will carry on the Fonda name."

Fonda died at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center with Shirley, his fifth wife, at his bedside. His children Jane and Peter, movie stars in their own right, arrived minutes later.

"He had been comfortable and there was no pain," said a fatigued-looking Mrs. Fonda, flanked by Jane and Peter, during a brief statement to reporters. "He had a good night. He talked to all of us last night."

Fonda, who had a pacemaker implanted in 1974 and had been confined to a wheelchair for more than a year, was hospitalized for the fifth time in 18 months Sunday "suffering from the progression of a serious and chronic heart condition."

Fellow performers from lifelong pal James Stewart to President Reagan mourned the passing of the Academy Award-winning actor, who died Thursday of heart failure. He was 77.

Fonda's body was cremated "within hours of the death," a family spokeswoman said, but the family had not yet decided on disposition of his ashes.

"He woke up this morning, sat up in bed and quietly just stopped breathing," Fonda's wife Shirley told reporters outside their Spanish-style estate.

Fonda portrayed a cavalcade of heartland Americans, quiet men unable to stomach injustice, in such films as "The Grapes of Wrath," "Mr. Roberts," "The Ox-Bow Incident," "Young Mr. Lincoln," and "Twelve Angry Men."

Fonda, who once told an interviewer he disliked funerals, requested his body be cremated without services. The family asked that in lieu of flowers contributions be made to the Henry Fonda Memorial Wing of the Omaha Playhouse in Nebraska, where he began his career.

President Reagan described Fonda as a "true professional, dedicated to excellence in his craft."

"Henry Fonda graced the screen with a sincerity and accuracy which made him a legend," said the president, a former actor.

"The world has lost a great talent and I have lost a very dear friend," said Stewart, Fonda's roommate when they were struggling young unknowns in New York in the early 1930s.

The Economy

Wholesale Price Inflation Moderated In July

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Plummeting food prices held wholesale price inflation to a moderate 7.1 percent annual rate in July, despite sharply higher gasoline and oil prices, the Labor Department said today.

The department's Producer Price Index for the month of July moved up only 0.6 percent, reflecting enormous one-month drops in the price of some of the most heavily purchased foods like beef and wheat.

Food prices dropped 1.5 percent overall in July, with wheat prices down 11 percent and cattle prices off 4 percent. But energy prices shot up 5.7 percent, the most since March of last year, the department said.

So far this year the overall inflation rate at the dealer's level for finished goods has been only 3.1 percent annually. All figures were adjusted for routine seasonal trends.

July's decline in food prices was the first since February 1976, holding the month's Producer Price Index before seasonal adjustment to 281.7, a wholesale price of $281.70 for goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

The shift in gasoline and oil prices upward, after several months of decline, dominated the price index. Department analysts said if energy prices had been ignored for July, the index would have shown a slight decline — 0.02 percent.

The June index climbed a full 1 percent for the month — an annual 13.3 percent rate of increase — with energy price hikes accounting for about half of the change.

This year has been distinguished by four months in which overall inflation for dealers disappeared. From February through April the index actually declined and in May it showed no change.

The Federal Reserve Board was scheduled to release its index of factory production today, another key indicator to the direction of the economy.

The producer index is being closely watched for what it says about the economy as a whole, as well as for its measure of price changes. July's results seemed to remove some earlier months' hints recovery was brewing.

The portion of the index measuring raw materials prices actually declined by 1 percent, erasing some signs in this sensitive indicator that basic economic demand was beginning to recover.

Prices for materials midway through the supply pipeline, called "intermediate goods," showed a modest 0.4 percent rate of increase in July.

In addition to declines in beef and wheat, prices also turned down for vegetables, fish, flour, cooking oils, chicken, pork and fresh fruits.

Egg prices rose slightly. Sugar prices climbed for the third consecutive month. Coffee prices stay virtually the same, the report said.

Amid Tax Fight — Goods Mount, Stocks Fall

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL — As Congress wrestles with the administration-backed $99.8 billion tax package, unsold goods in warehouses are mounting and stocks on Wall Street are plunging.

President Reagan is making a big public push for the tax measure, but he is having a difficult time convincing Capitol Hill it would help remedy the economy's ills.

Against the background of this legislative campaign, the government Thursday said the amount of goods in warehouses rose by 0.3 percent in June. And it said instead of being a sign of increased production it was a blunt indication of decreased purchases.

On Wall Street, stocks hit a 27½-month low while falling for the eighth consecutive session when a factor was, retail sales went down sharply in June as a result of which, retail and wholesale inventories built up again."

The Commerce Department reported business inventories were up $1.7 billion to $512.1 billion, after adjustment for seasonal trends. The value of inventories in May was revised downward 0.9 percent.

Until inventories require rebuilding, businesses tend to postpone the increases in production that signal an economic turnaround.

"Usually the end of inventory liquidations and resumption of increases in inventories are an indication you are back into growth of the economy," the department's chief economist, Robert Ortner, said.

"But, I don't believe we can interpret this increase to be economic growth," he said. "The main factor was, retail sales went down sharply in June as a result of which, retail and wholesale inventories built up again."

History Books Shouldn't Lie

World War II is some 40 years behind us and most of its political wounds have healed. Why at this late date should the Japanese Education Ministry want to tinker with history? It has asked publishers of textbooks used in Japanese schools to fuff over the record of Japanese imperialism that helped start the war.

Where postwar textbooks once conceded that the Japanese had "invaded" China, Southeast Asia and Pacific Islands, they would henceforth describe these aggressive acts as "advances" by Japanese forces. School texts would no longer acknowledge Japanese responsibility for the infamous "rape of Nanking" in 1937, in which 90,000 Chinese civilians lost their lives.

A ministry spokesman says the new guidelines are an effort to present history in terms that would respect the "sensitivities" of the Japanese people. That's a poor excuse for distorting the truth. It is not surprising that many teachers, scholars and newspapers in Japan are protesting.

The governments of China and South Korea also are complaining, and for good reason. Those countries were early victims of Japanese imperialism. They will be uneasy if Japanese youngsters are led to believe that it was something other than military aggression. A nation cannot learn from its mistakes if they are not acknowledged in its history.

The Japanese could take a leaf from the way the American people have dealt with a wartime issue of their own — the dropping of atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945 to bring the war in the Pacific to an end. Americans have been able to debate the morality of the decision to use the A-bomb only on the basis of an accurate account of the circumstances and considerations that led to the decision.

The Japanese make much of the suffering their people endured when World War II reached their homeland. If the Education Ministry has its way, they will not fully understand what provoked those dreadful bombings — and they should never forget it.

Air Quality Deal

Sometimes everyone is better off when the rules are bent a little. But some environmental groups, legislators and others can't seem to realize that.

They seem so stubbornly sure that the Environmental Protection Agency is in business' pocket (if not on its payroll) that when they found out that the EPA had agreed to back off its efforts to force General Motors to recall 695,000 high-polluting cars, they cried, "sell-out."

A closer look, we think, shows that the deal is a success that will benefit the environment and consumers alike.

The problem with a recall, which EPA rules required, would have been that GM was unable to pinpoint the exact reason why the 1979 Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick cars were failing to meet the federal emission standards. The only way to reduce the pollution would have been to alter the cars' ignition timing, which would have reduced the gasoline mileage. Quite accurately, GM pointed out that very few customers would have brought their cars in to be fixed if they thought it was going to cost them more money at the gas pumps.

And even had all of them brought their cars in, only 5,700 tons of the pollutant nitrogen oxide would have been eliminated from the environment. Under the deal, in which GM has agreed to manufacture 2.3 million cars in the next two years under emission standards far stricter than required by the government, at least 12,000 tons of the pollutant will be removed.

Moreover, GM estimated the cost of the recall at $12 million, a sum that would have been passed on to consumers in higher auto price tags. The cost of complying with the more stringent standards under the deal will be far less.

Perhaps by bending the rules and striking a deal with GM, the EPA did a favor to the automaker. But, as an EPA spokesman said, "It may very well be that we are being easy on them — but at the same time, we will make air quality better." Not only that, but they are doing it at less cost and less trouble to the consumer.

Inflexible rules must not be allowed to stand in the way of the ultimate goal: Clean air.

BERRY'S WORLD

"What is the message today, Mr. President?"

By JANE CASSELL BERRY

Drugs, drinking and delinquency . . . not all of our kids are involved in these things. How often do we hear "We hear so much about the bad things kids do, why can't we read about some of the good things they do for a change?" Often the good youngsters do go unnoticed. If you are interested in turning the spotlight on them, here's your chance.

Do you know of a school age person in Seminole County who you think deserves special recognition? Seminole County Rotary Clubs want to hear from you. They are celebrating Youth Week Sept. 12-18 and in conjunction with this week they are sponsoring their second annual "Salute a Youth" essay contest with a first prize of $100 savings bond.

Any parent, relative friend or neighbor may submit an essay (100 words or less) on why any school age Seminole Youth (grades 1-12) should receive recognition by the Rotary Clubs of Seminole County.

Essays must be postmarked by midnight August 31 to be considered. When sending in your entry give your name, address and phone number and state your relationship to the youth being nominated. Characteristics such as citizenship initiative, responsibility, friendliness and consideration are stressed.

Mail your essays to Casselberry Rotary Club, P.O. Box 444, Casselberry, Fl. 32707. Each of the eight Rotary clubs in the county will acknowledge winners and present awards during the Youth Week.

Organizations come and go and times and

Questions On Bank's Demise

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The ripples from the failure in early July of Oklahoma City's Penn Square National Bank are still spreading through the nation's banking system and financial markets.

Some disturbing questions are being raised that go to the very heart of how banks are regulated in this country.

The past decade has seen a number of major bank failures, including those of United States National, Franklin National, Security National and Hamilton National.

The national banks are regulated by the comptroller of the currency. The comptroller's office came under fire in these cases and others either for not recognizing the banks' problems before they became insoluble (as with Franklin National's foreign currency trading) or for ignoring problems that it did know about until it was too late (as with U.S. National's insider trading).

But this time the regulators apparently discovered what was happening at Penn Square several years ago and took vigorous action, at least initially, to try to turn things around. But the bank continued on a downward spiral.

The question is therefore being asked: Can banks really be regulated?

Comptroller C.T. Conover disclosed at a recent House Banking Committee briefing that bank examiners became aware of Penn Square's problems during an examination that was completed in April 1980. That examination revealed "rapid and uncontrolled growth," and the bank was declared to be in need of special supervision.

The comptroller's office recognized in July 1980 that the bank was having liquidity problems. The regulators then took the extraordinary step of convening a meeting of the bank's board at the regional comptroller's office in Dallas and forcing the directors to sign a formal agreement to correct the situation.

Additional examinations in 1980 and 1981 revealed "further deterioration" of the bank, so the regulators applied even greater pressure to the board during another meeting at the regional comptroller's office.

Why did the bank go from bad to worse despite this unusually close supervision? As Conover told the House Banking Committee: "I think the reason that the supervision was ineffective in this bank was that it was not heeded by the supervised."

In other words, as Conover told an incredulous committee, if a bank chooses to ignore the comptroller's orders, he is powerless to force compliance.

In response, Committee Chairman Fernand St. Germain, D-R.I., Congress' leading authority on bank regulation, noted that he had authored a 1978 law giving the comptroller broad powers to remove bank officers.

It quickly became evident that Conover and Senior Deputy Comptroller Paul Honan interpret the powers of the comptroller far more narrowly than does St. Germain.

"There is no statute which gives us the power to remove a manager for a civil violation of law," said Honan. "We had no power to remove... because we had no evidence of any dishonest act, which is a requirement in this law."

The PLO Brought The Lebanon Tragedy

BEIRUT — The overcast of war — a blinding, choking, churning thunderhead of smoke and sulfur — apparently has somewhat affected the vision of my press colleagues.

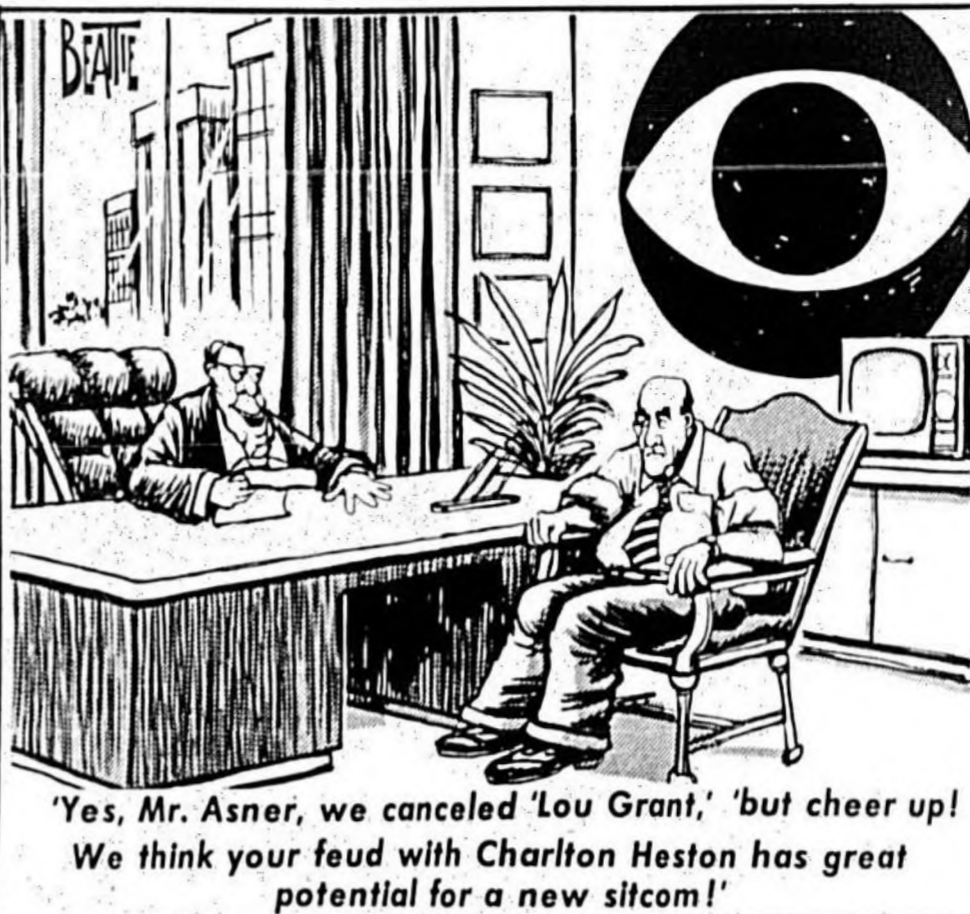

They have tended to see the forces of Yasser Arafat as heroic, war-to-the-death defenders fighting against Israeli aggression. The truth is less exalted.

The massive Israeli onslaught, which roared into Beirut and swept before it Arafat's stunned, misaligned troops, may have been excessive. But the Palestine Liberation Organization came to Lebanon 11 years ago as armed encroachers, uninvited and unwanted — terrorists who came to dinner and refused to leave.

They turned Beirut into a devastated city long before the Israelis arrived to finish the job. PLO militiamen helped themselves at gunpoint to what they wanted. They used the electricity and water, the roads and schools without paying taxes.

They moved into homes and buildings, sometimes confining the owners to a small corner of their own homes or kicking them out altogether. It wasn't uncommon for PLO troops to confiscate automobiles in the streets, making sudden pedestrians of the stranded owners.

On my way to Arafat's headquarters, a PLO guard nudged my taxi driver with a rifle

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

New China Perspective

NEW YORK (NEA) — Ever since Richard Nixon inaugurated U.S. relations with Red China in 1971, Peking has enjoyed almost uniformly favorable treatment by the American media and our intellectual community generally. And why not? American liberals worked long and hard for U.S. recognition of the Communist regime, and it would have been asking too much of human nature to expect them to find it obnoxious, however strenuously they had insisted that recognition would not necessarily imply approval.

So, all during the 1970s successive U.S. administrations, leading American journalists and enterprising businessmen fawned first over Mao (in his final and probably craziest stage) and then over his disgusting widow and finally over the clique that overthrew her and has all but repudiated him. Mainland China became the trendy place for the globe-trotting set to visit, and you are lucky indeed if you made it through the '70s without being forced to watch some acquaintance's color slides or home movies of T'ien-an-men Square and the Great Wall.

To hear such glibly visitors talk, Communist China was practically Paradise. Not only was everybody happier than in the dark ages before Liberation (1949), but China's entire population (minus, after 1976) simply adored their Communist bosses. And there weren't even any flies!

To be sure, as the decade wore on an occasional discordant note burped out of the lute. I saw about 1978 in the Asian Wall Street Journal (published in Hong Kong) a mention of a great rat one businessman had discovered sitting in the middle of his Peking hotel room. And just last year a friend told me that in Peking, in October 1980, "even before they turned on in November the little coal stoves they use for heating," the pollution was so bad he couldn't see across a city street.

But only within the past few months, thanks to two big new books by American reporters freshly back from the People's Republic, have alert stay-at-homes been able to learn what life there is really like. As you probably suspected if you have ever studied communism on the hoof, it is stultifying, intimidating, degrading and dull.

"From the Center of the Earth: The Search for the Truth about China" is by Richard Bernstein, Time magazine's first resident correspondent in Peking. In the words of John Fraser, himself a former Peking correspondent for the Toronto Globe and Mail: "It is unlikely that any study of China and the Chinese Communist Party will present a bleaker picture... If his conclusions are unremittably harsh — and I can't think of a single positive thing he has written about institutional communism in China — they are also a necessary antidote to the fluff that has been served up."

Equally harsh is the verdict of Fox Butterfield, first head of the New York Times' bureau in Peking. He calls his book "China: Alive in the Bitter Sea," and when you have read his sensitive account of the often desperate lives of the Chinese he met and befriended (he speaks the language), you will know just what he means.

Savor these lines: "Almost every Chinese I got to know during my 20 months in Peking had a tale of political persecution... From their stories it seemed as if a whole generation of Chinese (and 650 million of China's 1 billion people have been born since 1949) had known nothing but arbitrary accusations, violent swings in the political line, unjustified arrests, torture and imprisonment. Few Chinese I knew felt free from the fear of physical or psychological abuse and a pervasive sense of injustice."

Read that to your liberal Uncle Herman the next time he starts getting teary-eyed about the situation in Chile.

Make no mistake: The Bernstein and Butterfield books are aimed squarely at the solar plexus of American opinion on the subject of Red China, and they are bound to have a powerful impact. No longer, for one thing, will quite so many American tourists make it all the way to Peking and back with their ideological blinkers still firmly in place: It's wonderful what people can see when others have already noticed it.

And the next time Deng Hsiao-ping visits this country, we can hope for some better description of him than "cute." With a little luck, we may even realize we are holding hands with a gang of marauders.

McRibs May Open Pork Market

By ROD BOSHART

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A new pork rib sandwich being tested by McDonald's fast-food restaurants may help open a market officials of the nation's pork industry say they have tried to tap for years.

The new McRib sandwich, which features a grilled, boned, ground pork patty marinated with barbecue sauce and served on a home-style roll, has received "an excellent response" at test stores, company officials said.

"So far, it's been enthusiastically received, and we're enthusiastic about that," said Stephanie Skurdy, manager of media relations at McDonald's headquarters in Oakbrook, Ill.

The sandwich is being offered in about 2,000 of McDonald's 5,600 outlets and will expand throughout the chain if the product response satisfies the company.

While the McRib sandwich likely will continue "in test mode" for at least another two years, Neil Perry, advertising manager for McDonald's regional office in Minneapolis, said, "We're confident it's going to make it."

The prospect of a new market of 5,600 outlets, each consuming 300-400 pounds of pork per week, has pork industry people excited.

Tom McDermott, director of communications for the National Livestock and Meat Board in Chicago, said the pork sandwich would well become a staple part of fast-food restaurant menus, which would have "a significant effect on the industry."

"I don't think there's any question this will be a shot in the arm to the pork industry," said Russell Sanders, director of promotion for the Iowa-based National Pork Producers Council.

"We're excited that it will cause a lot of others in the food service industry to look at pork," McDermott said. "Pork has been overlooked by the food service industry, in our opinion. Pork hasn't benefited, as beef has, from the food service boom that began in the 1960s."

McDermott said about 30-35 percent of U.S. beef "is consumed away from home," compared to about 12 percent of the 15.7 billion pounds of pork produced annually.

To break into the fast-food market would lead to wider acceptance of pork in other commercial outlets, such as "white tablecloth" restaurants, hotels and schools, which would translate into more consumer acceptance of pork products, he said.

If that occurs, McDermott said, "It's entirely possible the industry could double" the 1.7 billion pounds of pork consumed annually in the commercial market.

"We think as more chains put more pork on their menus, you'll see them show up on consumers' tables as well," said Mike Telford, executive director of the Iowa Pork Producers Council.

Telford said the recent breakthrough of pork products into the fast-food restaurant market has resulted from years of promotion and product development funded by producer dollars.

"I think the attitude toward pork is changing," Telford said, in part through the development of leaner breeds of market hogs during the past 30 years.

He completed a six-month course, he said, with a thousand revolutionaries from several Western countries.

Rank-and-file PLO fighters told me they had trained in Lebanon with "foreigners" who later had returned to take the revolution to their homelands.

The Israelis showed me a document which they said was the minutes of a meeting between the PLO's Arafat and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. According to the Israeli translation, the two men addressed one another as "comrade," and Arafat reported on his efforts to promote Soviet interests in the Arab world.

At one point, Arafat pleaded with his Soviet supplier: "Isn't this an injustice, comrade, that I should stand facing the most advanced American weaponry with primitive weapons, whereas the Polisario has the most advanced weapons and missiles against simple Moroccan weapons?"

The truth is that the PLO had enough military hardware to equip a formidable modern army. In Israel, I saw vast stockpiles of weapons which the Israelis had captured from the retreating Palestinians. It was more than they could possible assimilate.

But that is another story, which I will take up in a later column.

Gardening

Cactus Family Includes 2,000 Species

Cacti are a group of plants that are not only easy to grow but offer a variety of shapes, color and form. They can be grown in any sunny, well-drained area and require little maintenance. They make excellent house plants and many hardy varieties may be grown outside.

The Cactus family (Cactaceae) is one of the most striking, distinctive, diversified and specialized. It includes about 2,000 species; all are perennial and succulent. Their usually conspicuous flowers are so different from those of all other plant families that the cacti are unique and alone, without obvious relationship to other plants.

The distinctiveness of the cactus family shows itself not only in the flower structure but also in one characteristic, that, although possessed by every cactus plant, is absent in all species of all other families. This is the spine cushion or areole. Whether or not spines are present, all cacti have areoles. This is one way of distinguishing them, for these areoles differ in structure on different kinds of cacti.

The question is often asked, "Is this plant a cactus or a succulent?" This question is nonsensical because cacti are succulents. The true cacti are members of the botanical family Cactaceae and are distinguished from the succulent members of other plant families such as Euphorbiaceae by the structure of the flowers and the presence of the areoles on cacti. It therefore makes equally poor sense to call all succulents "cacti." The question should be: "Is this plant a cactus or some other succulent?"

Cacti require a sunny location with good drainage. They should be potted only in pots that have drainage holes. Replacing the top inch of soil with gravel is not only decorative but may also keep the plant from rotting at the base. A potting media of equal volumes of coarse sand, peat, and perlite is suitable for most cacti.

clay or plastic pots, small pots require more frequent watering than large pots.

Many cacti, but not all, require a rest period during the year for maximum growth and flowering. During the winter they prefer cooler temperatures, about 50 degrees F, and watering should be reduced and fertilization stopped. The natural rest period for cacti varies, so after a month look for signs of growth. If by three months you see no signs of growth, resume normal care.

Vertical plants should be planted in a container which has a diameter one-half the height of the plant and round cacti in containers with a diameter 2 inches greater than that of the plant. Care should be taken to prevent rot from developing on recently potted or repotted plants. Be sure the pot is dry before transplanting and transplant into dry soil. Wait a week before watering to allow for the damaged roots to repair.

Cacti do need to be watered and fertilized but not so frequently as other plants. Water the pots when they dry out. Unglazed clay pots require more frequent watering than glazed Cacti can be grown from seed and many seed companies offer packets of mixed varieties. These can be fun to grow if you can stand the suspense. Some cacti seed take a year to germinate and it may take a few years to see what your young cacti will look like. Cacti may also be propagated from branches or offshoots. The offshoot should be removed from the plant and allowed to dry for two weeks. After the broken or cut edge has healed or suberized, plant it shallowly in dry media. Do not water for a week then water sparingly.

MRS. WARING BRENT McCALL

Miss Smith Bride Of W.B. McCall

Belinda Renee Smith and Waring Brent McCall were married July 17, at 7 p.m., at Bible Presbyterian Church, Lakeland. The Rev. Douglas Sukhia performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry E. Smith, Lakeland. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn M. McCall, Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal candlelight gown, fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. A Chantilly lace headpiece held her veil of imported illusion and she carried a keepsake bouquet of silk spring flowers.

Shannon McCall, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a yellow print gown, empire styled, and a matching yellow picture hat. She carried silk flowers showered with yellow streamers.

Shella Lindsey, cousin of the bride, was the bridesmaid. She wore a peach colored print gown and a matching picture hat. Her peach silk flowers were enhanced with peach colored streamers.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Stephen Smith and Wade Smith, brothers of the bride. Steve Baggs was the groomsmen.

Flower girl was Stephanie Goar, cousin of the bride. Brian Hudson was ring bearer.

Following a reception in the church fellowship hall, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to New Smyrna Beach.

They are making their home at 1021 E. 10th Ave., Mt. Dora. The bride is employed at Playland Toy Store, Lake County Mall, and the groom works at Lake Mary High School.

SANFORD LIONS HOST EXPEDITION

Henry Witte, left, president of the Sanford Lion's Club, and Wayne Westmark, left (back row), welcomed the Robin Hood '82 Expedition as guests of the club when the boys and their leader were in Sanford on a 2,000 mile cycle trip from Miami to Ottawa. From Sherwood Forest, Nottingham, England, the boys, aged 12 and 13, set out on the marathon to raise funds for Save the Children Stop Polio Campaign. American and Canadian Hospitality was organized by Rotary.

Loudmouth Lover Obsessed With Past

DEAR ABBY: My lover and I decided to live together before marriage, both having been married before. Although we love each other and get along well, there is one area that I find destructive to our relationship.

My lover insists on talking about his many sexual experiences over the last 20 years. He always includes names, places and all the graphic details. I have pleaded with him to spare me these stories because they upset me, but he tells me anyway. He has even related some of these experiences to dinner guests, who are shocked at his lack of discretion.

Some of his past "ladies" still live in our community, and I have to face them. He still keeps their pictures, and I see him looking at them from time to time.

Since these affairs occurred while he was married, some involved abortions. There were also instances in which he was accused of fathering children. I want to believe him when he says he has changed, but I feel threatened.

Can Don Juans mature and become faithful? Or will I be sorry if I go through with plans to marry him?

ANGRY AND UPSET

DEAR ANGRY: Whether your lover will be faithful to you in the future is not the point. The fact is that he seems obsessed — indeed proud — of his numerous sleazy affairs of the past. Furthermore, knowing that it upsets you, he persists in talking about them. Will you be sorry if you marry him? Yes — unless he agrees never to mention his past again and keeps his promise, which seems highly unlikely.

DEAR ABBY: If I don't accomplish anything else today, I will have scored a major victory if I get this letter off to you.

I have a lot going for me. My health is excellent, I live in a beautiful home, I'm satisfied with my job, and I have a good social life.

My problem? I'm a hopeless procrastinator. I can't count the number of things I've been meaning to do, but I never seem to get around to doing them. I make lists of things to do, but days, weeks and months go by, and I never do any of them. I am beginning to feel overwhelmed by all my unfinished projects.

For month now I've been searching the bookstores, trying to find a book that deals with how to handle procrastination, but I haven't seen any that inspire me.

Just writing this has helped. Any suggestions?

PROCRASTINATOR

DEAR PROCRASTINATOR: Searching in bookstores is just another device to put off dealing with the problem you say you want to solve.

There is only one way to overcome procrastination. Take one project at a time, begin it, and don't stop until it's completed.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will print this, and if you can't come up with a solution, maybe one of your readers can.

This spring our neighborhood has been inundated with mockingbirds that start screeching before dawn and continue non-stop until the sun sets.

Being awakened before 5 a.m. every morning is about to put me in a padded cell. (Come to think of it, a padded cell would be heaven compared to this place while these birds are carrying on!)

Earplugs are out, as they hurt my ears. This probably sounds like a minor annoyance to those who have never had to put up with it. "To Kill a Mockingbird" was just the name of a book — until now. Help!

READY TO KILL IN ANAHEIM

DEAR READY: Call your local Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. If it is also for the birds, it may have some practical suggestions. Readers? (No shotguns or poison, please.)

4-H 'Legislators' Sample Lawmaking

Tallahassee bound are Seminole 4-H'ers Tammy Moore, of Altamonte Springs, and Ruth Ashby, of Longwood.

They left Tuesday to participate in the eighth annual Florida 4-H Legislature, a "learn by doing" experience in state government.

Seminole, along with 40 other Florida counties, is participating in the program to help young people understand the structure and function of a system of government and individual's role in this system.

Tammy and Ruth, along with some 175 other 4-H'ers, have been participating in a model legislature session complete with legislators, lobbyists, committee meetings, floor debates, informal lobbying, and roll-call votes. The chambers of the Florida House of Representatives and House Committee rooms is providing the real life setting.

If Florida 4-H'ers who met in a mock legislative session have their way, some drastic measures dealing with education, drug & alcohol abuse, and hazardous waste would become law.

The "4-H legislators" got a firsthand opportunity to understand what the legislature process is all about. They tackled a number of issues they submitted earlier this year. Not unlike their adult counterparts who meet in Tallahassee yearly, they are in no means in complete agreement on the course each law should take.

The 4-H members sat in real legislative seats and functioned as chairmen or members of committees and as real life lobbyists. They defended their pet causes and have sampled the feeling of victory or defeat.

Twenty-eight bills were introduced.

Displaced Homemaker Program

A special program for displaced homemakers who must return to work will be offered in Sanford on Aug. 23 and 24 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The program will provide help in directing displaced homemakers into the appropriate job area and offer instruction in how to apply and interview for the job.

A displaced homemaker is 35 or older, has lost principle financial support through divorce or separation, death or disability of spouse and must seek employment.

The program is free and money is offered for transportation.

To register call the Orlando Displaced Homemaker Program, collect, at 422-7534 or 843-2388.

St. Louis Browns In Sheep's Clothing; Courtney's Cadillac Ranch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Somewhere in the Bible there is a pointed warning cautioning you to beware of all those who come in sheep's clothing because inwardly they are ravening wolves.

But, that's not the case with Roy Sievers and Ned Garver.

They were among those who showed up for last Saturday's Old Timers get-together at Yankee Stadium and one thing set them apart from all the rest.

They were the only ones wearing the old St. Louis Browns' uniforms. Sheep's clothing, so to speak, inasmuch as the Browns weren't a great deal more than perennial mutton during the time Sievers and Garver played for them in the late '40s and early '50s. They lost 583 ball games and won only 340, finishing as high as sixth place only once.

"We didn't win many games," said Sievers, "but we had fun in our own way. The contenders always thought of us as lambs. Once in a while, we showed 'em we were not. But I was always proud to wear the Browns' uniform. It was the first one I ever put on in the big leagues."

The one he wore Saturday was only a replica supplied Sievers and Garver by the Yankees for the occasion. They had to be returned.

"I'd like to have this one," said Sievers, the Browns' 55-year-old one-time first baseman. "But ... the Yankees told us they want 'em back. To me, the Browns' uniform still is the best. I wish I had one of my own."

Garver is the only pitcher to win 20 games for a team that lost 100 games in the same season. He did it for the Browns in 1951 and also longs for a uniform from his old club. Most of those in existence belong to collectors who ask enormous prices for them.

Milton Richman

"In those days, they never let you take your uniforms home with you," Garver said. "I remember signing a paper saying I'd have to pay for the uniform if I didn't return it to the club when Satchel Paige and I went barnstorming a couple of times. I'd love to have a Brownie uniform because they were the only club with whom I did anything of consequence."

Garver's nephew, Bruce Berenyi, pitches for the Cincinnati Reds. That causes the 56-year-old Garver to follow the Reds a little more closely than he might ordinarily.

"The Reds are having their worst season in a long time," he offered. "To me, it looks as if they're kind of using that as an excuse to give less than 100 percent and I think that's a lot of malarkey. With the Browns, because we lost so many games, a number of players developed losing attitudes. But I can honestly tell you I never felt sorry for myself."

Garver kept battling even after he left the Browns in 1952 and pitched for the Tigers, A's and Angels.

Neither he nor Sievers, who managed in the minors for the Mets and A's after he finished playing, were fortunate enough to be associated with the Browns' only pennant winner in history in 1944.

Sievers, now a supervisor for the Yellow Freight System in St. Louis, would like to get back in baseball. He misses it.

He also misses the fellows he played with, particularly someone like the late Clint Courtney, who caught for the Browns.

"You couldn't help liking Clint," said Sievers. "He was just a plain down-to-earth guy. I remember him buying a brand new Cadillac, then hauling pigs and calves in the back seat to his farm in Louisiana. He was one of a kind."

"I recall the time we were playing the Yankees and Gil MacDougald knocked his glasses off with his elbow coming into home plate.

"He never liked the Yankees because they traded him. Anyway, the next inning he hit a line drive off the right-field screen in Sportsman's Park. Hank Bauer, playing right field, grabbed the ball on one bounce. You remember how good Bauer could throw, but that didn't bother Clint. He never stopped running when he got to first and Bauer made a perfect throw to second.

"Phil Rizzuto was covering the bag and about 6 feet from it, Courtney jumped for the base and knocked him down. Next thing you know, all the Yankees, (Allie) Reynolds, (Bob) Cerv, (Billy) Martin and Bauer were all over Clint. Bill Summers, the umpire, got knocked down and Clint's glasses were broken. Right after that, we came in here to New York for another series with the Yankees and Clint and Martin went at it again. We didn't win many games but we had a lotta fun."

"We were just a plain down-to-earth guy. I remember him buying a brand new Cadillac, then hauling pigs and calves in the back seat to his farm in Louisiana. He was one of a kind."

Cross Country Runners Tune Up In SCC Jamboree

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Some 200-300 high school and college distance runners will congregate at Seminole Community College Saturday, Aug. 28 for the Summertime Seminole Cross Country Jamboree.

"We think this will be the biggest year for the meet," said Lyman girls' track coach Joseph Laughlin. "Last year seven of the top 10 (4A state rankings) boys teams and five or six of the girls teams participated."

The upcoming event hosted by Seminole Track Officials, is not a high school meet. Teams will compete as clubs and not schools but Laughlin said, "Terry Long, who coached at SCC, developed the jamboree as an opportunity for high school and college runners to warm up for the season."

Since the Seminole High cross country team doesn't officially begin practice until August 19, coach Ted Tombras sees the jamboree as a tune up for his runners.

Four returning lettermen from the boys team and two of the top girls' distance runners will be competing in the jamboree. Tombras' number one man from last year, Mike Wooten, will be returning for his senior year and should lead the Tribe again in 1982.

"Mike was our top man last year and should be fairly strong again this season," Tombras said.

William Boyd, one of the top seven runners last year, will also be returning for his senior season. Steven Gray and Scott Meek will also be back with the 'Noles.

"Those four will pretty much anchor us for this season," Tombras said.

Lori Eckler is one of two returning to the girls cross country squad and should be a strong competitor this season. Sabrina Cashe joins Eckler as the only other returnee from the girls squad. "They will be anchoring the girls team, at least at the beginning," Tombras said.

"Since we haven't started practice yet, I see this as a tune up and I hope our runners can represent Seminole High well."

The jamboree will include four events and participants of all ages are welcome. "It's been mostly high school and college runners in the past," Laughlin said. "But this year we put up much more publicity trying to get more open runners and kids."

Participants must pay a $2.00 fee for the event which is sanctioned by the Florida T.A.C. with support from the Central Florida YMCA. Registration will be held from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. on the day of the race.

The course begins at the SCC gym, runs by the baseball field, the track and the main buildings at the college before ending at the gym.

The first event begins at 5:30 p.m. for the 10 and under age division and will cover a distance of one mile.

Event number two is a three mile run for the 19 and over age division. It will get under way at 6:30.

The third race is a team event for girls ages 11-18. These teams consisting of five or more runners, must be declared during registration on race day. The race will cover two miles and also begins at 6:30 p.m.

The final event is the team race for the boys ages 11-18. It will begin at 7 and cover three miles.

An awards ceremony will be held at 7:45 p.m. Special awards will be

This will be the scene Saturday, Aug. 28 when Seminole County's cross country runners get together for Summertime Seminole Cross Country Jamboree at Seminole Community College. Over 200 runners will compete in this prestigious event started by former SCC presented to the top finishers in events one and two. All runners will receive ribbons. Trophies will be presented to the top teams in events three and four.

For Mike Gibson's Lake Mary Rams, Kim Averill is coming back from a seventh place finish as a freshman last year. Gibson is expecting big things from his multi-talented sophomore.

Mark Blythe and Jim Shepherd should be the mainstays on Gibson's boys team.

"It should be a very interesting season," according to Lake Howell's girls cross country coach Tom Hammon. "Of the top 11 teams in the pre-season rankings, all but four are from the Central Florida area."

The top 11 teams in the 4A State Pre-Season Honor Roll are: 1. Orange Park, 2. Clearwater Countryside, 3. John I. Leonard, 4. Lake Brantley, 5. Winter Park, 6. Coconut Creek, 7. Tampa Leto, 8.

track coach Terry Long, Seminole High's Richard Grey (front, middle) has graduated but his brother, Steven (right), will join Mike Wooten, William Boyd and Scott Meek to anchor the Seminoles.

Edgewater, 9. Brandon, 10. Largo, 11. Lake Howell.

Top runners for fourth ranked Lake Brantley are: Ellen Sturm, Catherine Hayward, Tracey Rowland, Dana Miller, Laura Barnhill, Jo Ann Hayward and Sherry Killian.

Lake Howell will be led by: Kerry Ryder, Kathy Compton, Shelley Carlson, Lynn Lucas, Candy Franklin, Debbie Van Orden and Denise Ebel.

"We are in a very strong region," Hammon said. "Five of the top 11 teams (John I. Leonard, Lake Brantley, Lake Howell, Winter Park and Edgewater) are in our region."

Other standout performers in Seminole County include Angela Delleo from Lyman and Arlene Poletowicz from Trinity Prep.

Shaky Infield Costs Legion

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

FORT PIERCE — Altamonte Springs' infield defense fell apart here Thursday — committing five errors — as Legion Post 183 dropped a 9-4 decision to Fort Pierce in the opening round of the State American Legion Tournament.

"We didn't perform well defensively or hit well enough to win the game," said manager Bob McCullough. "Our infield errors just killed us. They kept us out of the game."

Altamonte attempts to regroup today at 5 when right hander Randy Ramroth takes the mound against Fort Myers, an 11-1 victim of Jensen Beach. In other games, Winter Haven fanned South Miami, 7-3, and DeLand nipped Tallahassee, 3-2.

"We should win today," remarked McCullough. "Fort Myers looked pitiful. They're the third best team from their district. The other two were disqualified for having ineligible players."

Pitiful was a good adjective to describe the infield play of third baseman Kenny Brown, first sacker John Reich and shortstop Tom Gibbons.

The usually sure-handed Brown made three costly miscues which paved the way for six of Fort Pierce's nine runs to be unearned. Reich and Gibbons each added an error.

"We had chances to get out of innings and stay in the game, but the errors kept us from doing it," said McCullough. "And, our hitting wasn't much either."

Post 183 could muster only three hits against a trio of hurlers. Altamonte finally got on the board in the fourth inning after Fort Pierce built a 4-0 advantage against starter and loser Billy Stripp.

David Martinez opened the frame with a single, stole second and moved to third on a passed ball. After Mike "Duck" Sawyer was hit by a pitch, Doug Chlodini's ground ball was misplayed by the second baseman allowing Martinez to score.

In the bottom of the fifth, Altamonte moved within two runs as Brown drew a walk, stole second and eventually scored when Sawyer grounded out to second.

Fort Pierce added three runs in the sixth to knock out Stripp and added one more in the seventh for a sizeable 8-2 bulge.

Brown started an Altamonte rally in the bottom of the inning with a single, moved around on an error and hit batsman and scored on a passed ball.

Fort Pierce picked up its last run in the eighth but Altamonte responded with one in the ninth for the final 9-4 score.

Reich opened the inning with a triple but injured his foot coming into third base and Jody Foster pinch-ran for him. Martinez struck out for the second time. Tom Perkins followed with a fly ball to left field to score Foster from third.

WBC Champ Sanchez To Be Buried Today

Boxing

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — World Boxing Council lightweight champion Salvador Sanchez, killed in a car accident Thursday, was to be buried this morning as the boxing world mourned his passing.

"I don't have words to express my feelings," said super bantamweight champion Wilfredo Gomez, who suffered his only professional defeat at the hands of Sanchez. "In truth, I'm very sorry."

"I think it's a great tragedy and this is one of the finest young men I ever met in boxing," said Murray Goodman, publicly director for Don King Promotions, which handled Sanchez' fights. "He was really just starting out. He had so much to look forward to. It's a shame, even before his peak he's gone."

"I would rate him among the great featherweight champions of modern times. He could fight anybody. He was always superbly conditioned and he was always surrounded by nice people. What a loss."

The body of the 23-year-old Mexican was taken Thursday to his home in Santiago Tianguistengo.

A federal highway police spokesman said Sanchez was killed when his Porsche sports car crashed into a cargo truck and a pickup 145 miles north of Mexico City on the highway linking Queretaro and San Luis Potosi.

A police spokesman said the 3:30 a.m. crash apparently was caused when Sanchez tried to negotiate a high-speed pass of the cargo truck on the dark road, driving his car underneath the truck and crashing into the pickup.

All three vehicles flipped off the highway and two people aboard the cargo truck were slightly injured, the spokesman said.

Sanchez, one of 11 children, was driving to the northern town of San Jose Iturbide, where he trained for all his fights.

Sanchez, who held the championship since Feb. 2, 1980 when he defeated Danny "Little Red" Lopez, last fought July 21 at New York's Madison Square Garden. In that bout, he scored a 15th-round TKO over Azumah Nelson of Ghana.

The handsome, curly-haired boxer fought 45 times, winning 43 bouts, losing one and drawing one, while scoring 31 knockouts.

His best days as a fighter and moneymaker were clearly ahead of him as he was on his way to becoming one of boxing's top champions and was already a national hero in Mexico. After defeating Nelson, there was talk of a multimillion dollar showdown with WBC lightweight champion Alexis Arguello and the ring possibilities were endless.

His greatest ring triumphs were his two victories over Lopez and his eighth-round TKO over WBC super bantamweight champion Gomez last August.

Sanchez, the Mexican bantamweight champ, became American lightweight champ in September 1978 in Houston when he KO'd Francisco Ponce in the third round.

In February 1980, Sanchez took the WBC featherweight title away from heavily favored Lopez in Phoenix, Ariz., with a 13th-round knockout.

Sanchez' next title defense had been scheduled for Sept. 15 against Juan Laporte at Madison Square Garden.

The winds of change are blowing through the National Football League.

Court decisions, a new football league, highly-publicized, widespread drug use and contract negotiations are grabbing the headlines.

Anxiety Can Cause Various Symptoms

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I went to see my doctor because I was feeling nervous all over. I could feel my heartbeat in my neck. My arms felt lifeless. My stomach was nervous and I had diarrhea. I had trouble breathing. She treated me with Valium and Donnatal. Then she asked me what I was worried about. I told her nothing. She stopped giving me Valium and Donnatal. I still feel the same. She checked my heart and thyroid and everything was OK. I don't understand what causes this. The only time I don't feel like this is when I am asleep. I feel like someone scared me very badly.

DEAR READER—You are describing anxiety. Probably everyone has some anxiety part of the time. It is a first cousin of fear. People become anxious about many things, including personal affairs, family affairs, financial security, or fear of loss of health. You may be surprised to know the real cause for many of the symptoms that send people to the doctor is anxiety.

Anxiety can cause a variety of symptoms just as you have described. It often causes an increased release of adrenalin, which causes trembling and shakiness and that anxious feeling you describe. It can be a near panic reaction.

Some people do not know what causes their anxiety. It can be from unconscious problems that require psychiatric help to solve. The real help for anyone who has anxiety comes from knowing what the real problem is and then trying to solve it. Not all problems can be solved, such as the anxiety that comes from knowing you have a serious untreatable disease, or knowing your mate is going to divorce you. But even these situations can be helped.

I think it is important to eliminate factors that increase adrenalin production. That means eliminating cigarettes and also caffeine as found in coffee, tea and colas. I think the general public would be far calmer if caffeine and nicotine were completely eliminated.

To give you a better understanding of what anxiety is and what to do about it, I am sending you The Health Letter number 19-8, That Anxious Feeling. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—A plastic surgeon has advised me he will use a lot of collagen on my face in the near future and also again in four or five years. Is it safe to eradicate lines in the brow and forehead and also to lift drooping jowls four or five years hence? Will it do the job and for how long?

DEAR READER—Collagen injections are being used now and in selected cases they work. Collagen is protein from tendons and connective tissue. It is injected under a wrinkle or scar to raise the tissue level. Literally by filling the valley (wrinkles and scars) the surface becomes smooth. The collagen is incorporated into your own tissues because it is a tissue protein in the first place. It is safe and does not pose the hazards of silicone injections.

While collagen can be used for small wrinkles and scars it will not replace the use of cosmetic surgery to solve sagging jowls from a real excess of skin. Whether to use collagen or surgery will depend entirely on what needs to be done in each case.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
August 14, 1982

Enterprises or ventures which are artistic or have glamorous elements will prove to be happy involvements for you this coming year. They could also be lucrative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's important today not to neglect old pals in order to cater to your newer acquaintances. A choice may be called for, but you'll make the right decision. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your possibilities for success are very good today if you are properly motivated. Pay heed to those urges which push you in a positive direction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Rather than experiment with untested methods or ideas today, stick to formulas which you know from experience produce desired results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A matter important to you, but over whose destiny you feel you have little control, should work out smoothly today. Be hopeful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a special knack today for bringing people or situations together in ways which will benefit all involved. Put it to use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) Greater gains can be derived from something that you've already started—and today you're likely to figure out how this can be done.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Seek stimulating companions today who are in harmony with your social and sports interests. You need to be active with those whom you enjoy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your ideas or plans today regarding ways to beautify your surroundings should be followed through. Changes will add a lot of charm.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone with whom you'll be associating today is anxious to know where he or she stands with you. Let this person know you really care.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Profitable developments are possible today, so be on your toes to capitalize on them. Gains could come in areas you've already primed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take an active role today in matters affecting your self-interests. When others make decisions, it might be more to their advantage than yours.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have greater influence today than you may realize. Fortunately, you'll use this gift in ways which will prove helpful to all.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag
The expert automatically looks for a squeeze on every hand when he has almost enough top cards. He knows, as everyone should, that the essence of a squeeze position is the need to produce just one extra winner.

In today's hand West leads his king of spades and the defense takes four spade tricks. West discards a diamond on the fourth spade and East leads a diamond since he realizes that lead can't hurt him.

Now let's look at the hand from South's viewpoint. He has exactly eight winners and at first glance only the drop of a doubleton queen of hearts can bring in his ninth trick.

Is there a squeeze? Yes, there may be. Suppose one opponent holds four clubs plus the queen of hearts. Not very likely, but definitely possible. Then a Vienna coup will bring the game home.

South, who has chucked a club from each hand on the fourth spade, wins the diamond and promptly cashes the ace and king of hearts and then runs the diamonds. On the last diamond West is squeezed.

Could the defense have beaten South by opening a club? They probably would have, but they did start with the spades and set up the squeeze for declarer. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Stamp Collecting: It Takes A Licking...

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Stamp collecting is the hobby of kings, presidents and the kid next door — one that can be pursued throughout one's lifetime. It can cost little or nothing or it can mean investing a small fortune to acquire a single rare stamp.

Stamp collecting probably dates back to 1840, the year when Great Britain issued its first One-penny and two-pence stamps for prepaid postage on letters. The United States did not issue its first stamp until seven years later.

The U.S. Postal Service does all it can to promote stamp collecting.

"When the stamps are sold to collectors it means we don't have to cancel them, and sort and deliver that mail," says Casselberry Postmaster Robert D. Kelly. "It's clear profit."

The post offices have $2 beginners kits to interest youngsters in starting a stamp collection and sponsor Benjamin Franklin Stamp Clubs in the schools for fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

"We give demonstrations, give out pamphlets on how to collect stamps, and do all we can to interest them in getting into collecting," Kelly says.

Each year, the postal service issues a mint set which includes one of each commemorative stamp issued during the previous year and an album with information on each issue. Commemoratives are stamps issued to honor various special persons and events.

Post offices also sell definitive mint sets (that is, uncanceled post cards and envelopes) and several stamp collecting kits.

Stamps can be a good investment as well as a pleasant hobby.

"The mint sets go up in value very fast," says Kelly. "I bought one a few years ago for $3 and it now sells for $16-$18. Many collectors buy sheets (40 or 50 stamps per sheet) or block plates of every new issue because they go up in value the quickest," he says.

"We get 10,000 stamps of every new issue that comes out and we sell out in less than a month."

The most popular recent issue, Kelly says, is the 50-state flowers and birds issue. The first shipment sold out quickly. Another supply has been received and the $10 sheets are again available with an attractive storage folder containing the story behind the beautiful stamps and the artists who created them.

Some collectors specialize in theme oriented stamps (such as birds, animals, ships or sports), pre-canceled stamps, commemorative envelopes or post cards, or first day covers — envelopes containing a new stamp and postmarked on the day of issue at the post office issuing.

"Any flaw in normal printing increases the value of stamps," says Kelly, "especially if they get issued in a limited number and the flaw is later corrected."

A good investment often overlooked by stamp collectors is the duck hunting stamp which the post office sells to duck hunters to put on their license. The stamp can also be purchased by collectors for $7.50. Kelly said one purchased two or three years ago for $6.50 and unused is now worth $65.

Many types of special stamps are issued by various countries, among these are air mail, parcel post, official, postage due, special delivery, provisional stamps for emergencies, and personal delivery. Other types include registration, occupation during war, postal savings, newspaper, special handling and combinations of special services.

Stamp collecting kits and equipment and U.S. and foreign stamps may also be purchased from area stamp dealers who will buy and appraise your collections.

Not all people collect stamps because they are rare or special, or have certain markings. Many people like to collect them just for pictures of odd and out-of-the-way places and things. Some collect stamps from just one country or color. The reason for collecting doesn't matter as long as the collector has fun doing it.

Future vision

Such innovations as cable television and satellite broadcasting have been touted as just the things to save the viewing masses from mindless commercial programming. But one expert predicts they will also free us from social democracy. Page 5.

Sexy soaps

The men and women of such successful prime-time soap operas as "Dallas," "Dynasty," and "Falcon Crest" are rich, sexy, and larger than life. Maybe that's why "Knot's Landing" with its regular folks suffered in the ratings last season. Page 7.

You're out

TV critic David Handler is an ardent fan of both football and baseball. But after comparing the Monday night versions of both games, he has concluded that TV's nighttime baseball is a crashing bore. Page 8.

No Relation Between Two Superman Actors

DEAR DICK: My friend and I have a bet. I say that George Reeves, who played Superman on TV, and Christopher Reeves, who played him in the movies, are father and son. My friend says it's just a coincidence that they have the same last name. Who is right? UNSURE, South Bend, Ind.

You are both wrong, but you are more wrong than he is. They are not related at all and, in fact, their names are not the same. Christopher's last name is Reeve, not Reeves. And, furthermore, George's real name was Besselo, not Reeves.

DEAR DICK: Many years ago, like in the late '30s or early '40s, I saw a wonderful movie, "With a Song in My Heart." I believe Susan Hayward played the singer, Jane Froman, and Thelma Ritter was the nurse who cared for her during the operations on her legs. I cannot remember any of the male stars. Are any of the above stars still living? DOROTHY ANDERSON, New Hamburg, Ontario, Canada.

"With a Song in My Heart" dates from '52, which shows you how time doesn't fly. It did star Susan Hayward and Thelma Ritter, and the men in Jane Froman's life were played by David Wayne and Rory Calhoun, and Robert Wagner had a small part in it. The two leading ladies are gone, the men are still around.

DEAR DICK: You recently answered a reader asking about what B.J. stood for in B.J. Hunnicutt of "M A S H." You said it stood for nothing, but you are wrong. B.J. was named after his parents — his mother was Bea, his father Jay. JIM DUFFY, Trenton, N.J.

Several other readers wrote to say the same thing, but they obviously misunderstood the question. It was what do the initials stand for, not where they came from. Hunnicutt has no name, only his two initials. His name isn't Bea Jay Hunnicutt, but B.J. Hunnicutt. My answer is correct — the initials stand for zip.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Please settle a family dispute. Who played Marlo Thomas' father in "That Girl." My husband says it was Norman Fell, and I say no way! ELAINE BARNES, Edwards A.F.B., Calif.

No way wins! It was Lew Parker.

DEAR DICK: We were watching "Rodeo Girl," with Katharine Ross and Bo Hopkins. The question was brought up about how long Hopkins has been in movies. I said 20 years or longer, others said only five years, others said he was a newcomer. I bet one distinguished male in the group $5. Please help. RANDALL G. SMITH, Otsego, Mich.

I guess you are a winner. Bo Hopkins made his movie debut in "The Thousand Plane Raid" in 1969, and then went into "The Wild Bunch" later that year. So he's been in movies for 13-plus years, a tad closer to 20 than to five. He had done TV before that, so that should clinch the bet for you.

DEAR DICK: What brought on the almost universal use of those ugly, baggy leg-warmers by women today? I know they have been used professionally for years by dancers and at one time, I understand, they contained small weights to help dancers achieve grace and style. But why do all the women with Richard Simmons do exercises with those things on? JOHN C. NEELY, Tequesta, Fla.

It's fashionable. Just like that other recent ugly style — blue jeans tucked into high boots — swept the country, now leg-warmers are sweeping the country. Dancers used them for utilitarian purposes, to keep their leg muscles warm and loose between rehearsals. But they had the good taste to wear them only in the rehearsal hall, not outside.

DEAR DICK: In the early segments of "Happy Days" the family had an older son, Chuck. They haven't shown him in several years. What happened to him? MARIANNE STURDY, Beverly Shores, Ind.

Chuck (originally played by Gavan O'Herlihy and then by Randolph Roberts) simply disappeared. Apparently, the brains behind the show felt he was a distraction, and so let him vanish.

DEAR DICK: My mom and aunt are fighting over how old Henry Winkler is. Could you tell us his real age? TARA TIETSCH, Springfield, Mo.

With pleasure. He is 36. Tell them to stop fighting.

DEAR DICK: I would like to write to one of my favorite actors, but I don't know how to get the address. So I thought about you, Dick, and maybe you can help me. How else can a person express his feelings to let them know how much one has enjoyed all the wonderful movies they have put out? I grew up when all the old actors were starting their careers. There wasn't anything else to do but go and enjoy the movies. But since I married I live on the farm and am a housewife. The farm keeps us busy the year around. So I would appreciate it if you could get me Claudette Colbert's address and also Mac Davis' address. And Katharine Hepburn and Henry Fonda. MRS. HENRY HUBER, Bridgeport, Neb.

I am going to use the occasion of Mrs. Huber's nice letter to explain why I don't give addresses. Obviously, Mrs. Huber has only the best of intentions of wanting her favorite actors' addresses; but the problem is that other people might not have the best of intentions.

NEW YORK (UPI) — In an era in which everybody is a critic of television, it takes courage to defend mediocrity, but Norman Horowitz says that's all that holds us together as a nation.

Furthermore, as the industry fragments its audience with a growing variety of services, from cable to direct-broadcast satellite, the glue of that mediocrity rapidly is being dissolved and the president of PolyGram Television makes no joke of the effect.

His view is the flip-side of the one that sings the praise of a space-age technology that is supposed to free us from "The Dukes of Hazard." Horowitz, who likes video garbage no better than the average viewer, worries that it also will free us from social democracy.

"We have been a country connected by our television," said the man who creates programming for a lot of it. "Whatever '60 Minutes' says to me, it says to you. Whatever Archie Bunker says, he says to everyone.

"But we are about to separate our country into economic haves and economic have-nots.

"What this new technology will do is deliver a variety of signals for money to people who have the money and deliver a lesser service to those people who now must rely on a weakened commercial broadcast system.

"I think that's terrible."

So, no doubt, do the networks which have experienced a steady erosion of audience share as the new technologies bring satellite-borne cable signals to practically every neighborhood in the nation.

But Horowitz said only those who can afford to pay $20 to $40 a month will be served. The rest will be stuck with what little is left of the mediocre.

"If you are a poor Hispanic in a migrant-farm camp in San Jose, Calif., and it has a television set, you can see the same television programming anyone who has hundreds of millions of dollars in assets can see," he said.

"The FCC talks about the public good. I think the public good is best served now by everyone being equal as far as broadcasting is concerned, even if it is mediocre."

Len Hill, of Hill-Mandelker Films in Hollywood, which has created five television movies and a network sitcom, agreed with Horowitz.

"What happens when something as important and galvanic as the U.S. hockey team victory in the Winter Olympics — that 'Miracle on Ice' as it were — takes place and is seen only by rich people?" he said. "That's what will happen when a cable organization has bought, on a pay-per-view basis, the Olympics.

"Then, instead of having 100 million Americans experience the tribal fire in its purest and best possible form, we're suddenly fragmented into an elitist society where people who have got a lot of money can subscribe on an exclusive basis to something as important on a national basis as the Olympics."

Celebrities Who Work For The Public Good

By RUTH THOMPSON
In a world where only bad news has come to count as news, the successes of show folks are too often cynically (enviously) put down. Too bad. Success for some furnishes them with the launching platforms to pursue good causes.

Betty Furness is one such celebrity. She was one of television's earliest spokespersons with her commercials for Westinghouse refrigerators. Apparently she didn't need commercial-television's take-home pay for she redirected herself toward consumerism.

Starting with President Lyndon Johnson, who appointed her a watchdog in the citizens' interest. Ms. Furness turned into a real ferret wherever she scented anything phony, shoddy or dangerous. After federal service, she became New York City's Commissioner of Consumer Affairs. In recent years, without losing her purism for her cause, she has been doing regular reports on consumer fraud for WNBC-TV in New York with occasional appearances on NBC's "Today." She was recently honored from the channel for her "50 years in communications."

George Schlatter: The two words most usually lacked onto the name of this television producer as "creative" and "innovative." He was an off-camera force during "Laugh-In's" early great days and, more recently, he is the force behind NBC's immensely popular "Real People."

There are a lot of laughs on "Real People," Schlatter once said solemnly, but never at the expense of people who appear — and some of the segments are pretty serious, too. One was a profile of the Navajo Indians, who adapted their tribal language into a military code for the United States during WWII that remained unbreakable.

"Real People" complained on their behalf that no American president had honored their patriotism.

When he became aware of the importance of the Navajo's contribution, President Reagan honored the Navajo Code Talkers with a Presidential Citation and the event was taped for the May 26 Memorial Day rebroadcast.

That's not the end. On Aug. 6, at their Los Angeles convention, the Veterans of Foreign Wars are honoring Schlatter and his "Real People" troupe with their "Gold Medal." Now Schlatter is contemplating a two-hour television special honoring veterans in general.

Spice Added To 'Knots'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Females would rather look at the high fashion, man's "Dallas," lagged in the ratings last season but may be remedied in 1982-83 with a dash of spice and some new characters.

Unlike the big, successful primetime soap operas — "Dallas," "Dynasty" and "Falcon Crest" — "Knots Landing" is peopled by ordinary folk in a Southern California cul-de-sac coping with inflation and the blahs.

The other series involve the obscene rich who live in Victorian mansions, manipulate far-flung financial holdings and jump into one another's beds with disquieting regularity.

Viewers are no different from readers of Harold Robbins and Sidney Sheldon novels. They'd rather watch the rich and powerful than the working stiff next door with whom they can identify.

The characters in the hit series are larger than life. The four basic family groups in "Knots," while not pygmies, certainly are not giants.

Males prefer to compare themselves to J.R. Ewing (Larry Hagman), the multimillionaire oil and cattle baron of "Dallas," than to Gary Ewing (Ted Shackelford), the only poor Ewing, in "Knots."

"Lisa Hartman is joining the show as a nightclub singer and Michael Sabatino is being added, playing an opportunistic public relations man. They are different sorts of characters for our show."

"We're trying for more flamboyant stories with a harder edge and, of course, sex will be a by-product of these changes."

Jacobs ruefully admits there are fewer sexy subplots in "Knots" than other nighttime soaps. But he is convinced that titillation and erotica aren't the reason for his low ratings.

After all, the sexiest primetime soap was "Flamingo Road," which included a cozy neighborhood bordello. It bombed and was cancelled before the season was completed.

"You can catch viewer interest with sex," Jacobs said, "but you can't hold them. Sex helps when you don't have power and wealth going for you. But the basis for any successful show is good story telling."

"It's much easier to come up with stories for 'Dallas' than 'Knots Landing.' There is a high level of outrageousness in 'Dallas.' In 'Knots' we can't run the risk of offending the viewers or challenging their suspension of disbelief."

Prime-Time Baseball? It Sure Ain't The NFL!

By DAVID HANDLER
I've always been a big fan of ABC's "NFL Monday Night Football." Never miss a game. I'm also a big baseball fan. Spend many a summer evening watching my local teams on the tube.

So it stands to reason that I'd like ABC's "Monday Night Baseball." I don't.

Oh, it's as slickly presented as the football games are. Plenty of camera angles, replays and even graphics to save even the most hard-core of "stat-nicks." (We're the ones who actually do care that the on-deck hitter is batting .361 against south-paws with men in scoring position with less than two outs on alternate Sundays in parks with natural turf.)

The problem with "MNB" is it's boring. Incredibly so. It lacks the excitement of "Monday Night Football," lacks the intimacy and familiarity of local team telecasts. It's a bust, and there's nothing the network can do about it.

The fault lies not with who's in the booth or out in the truck. Nope. There's a very simple truth to blame: Baseball is not football.

The football season is 16 weeks long, not counting play-offs. Each team plays 16 games. Thus, each game is an event. There is excitement. There is do-or-die commitment by the players. Something is at stake. It makes for good TV.

On the other hand, there are 162 games in the baseball season. Even the best team expects to lose at least 40 percent of them. A team's progress is charted by its performance over a road trip or home stand, not by one game. A player is valued for his steadiness and consistency, not for his big play intensity. It does not make for good TV.

Football is a national game. Fans care about a game between two teams that play for cities they've never even visited. Watch football on a Sunday afternoon and you'll see constant updates of scores from around the league.

Let's not be naive: Betting is the root of this. The $2 wager is the big reason for football's national audience. And for the enduring ratings success of "Monday Night Football."

Baseball is a local game.

Your team is an extension of your family. You belong to it. You get emotionally involved in its personality squabbles, its streaks and slumps. You do not care about a game between two teams from other cities.

Football is better on TV than it is in person. In person, you can barely tell what's going on. You're too far away from the action, too worried you may be getting frost-bitten feet. On TV, the strategic cameras and instant replays make it all clear for you. Your den is heated.

Baseball is better live than it is on TV. You can take in the whole field at once, which TV can't do. You can feel the game's pace and proportion — see the positioning — which you can't on TV. You can yell encouragement at your heroes, eat peanuts, drink beer. There's a nice breeze. You talk to strangers.

It boils down to this: No matter how big a baseball fan you are, sitting down on a Monday night to see the Toronto Blue Jays play the Boston Red Sox on ABC is not a grabber. And if you happen to be from Toronto or Boston, you'd rather watch your local telecast with your comfortable local announcers than with those network strangers.

Especially ABC's strangers. Al Michaels is a reasonably effective play-by-play man, but he is impersonal. Don Drysdale is all cliches. "Here's a guy who battles you all the way in this game of baseball," he frequently points out in his best broadcasting school inflection. "And the ball has a way of jumping off his bat."

As for Howard Cosell, clearly he hasn't followed the game for 30 years. His frame of reference only goes as far as Branch Rickey and Casey Stengel.

When Cosell does address himself to the current game, you realize he isn't very baseball savvy. Baseball blossoms in the fall as a TV game. Come the play-offs and World Series, each game counts, no matter who's playing it. There's no tomorrow.

But during the regular season, as "Monday Night Baseball," makes plain, America's national pastime doesn't sell as prime-time national television.

Lorna Luft Singing About Her Rainbows

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Generally, when a newspaperman interviews a Hollywood actor, he is supplied with a "bio" of that person — a canned biography from the actor's publicity people, listing all the vital statistics, high points, facts and fancies.

I have before me the bio of Lorna Luft, issued by her management — Hooker Enterprises Inc., which is run by Jake Hooker, who also happens to be Lorna's husband. It is a three-page affair, full of all the usual data, but there is one notable oversight. Nowhere does it mention that Lorna is Judy Garland's daughter.

Obviously, the young, blonde singer-actress wants to play down that relationship. And yet, when you talk to her, she is not reluctant to discuss her mother. The bio is obviously another matter to her; she apparently is saying in it that she is Miss Luft, who wants to rise or fall on the strength of who she is, not who her mother was.

Miss Luft is a young lady of talent. You realize that if you see her as one of the stars of the new Paramount

LORNA LUFT

Picture, "Grease 2." It has not been well-received by either the critics or the public, but Lorna is still pleased with it.

"I think it is better than the original 'Grease,'" she says. Then she adds: "I didn't care for the first one particularly."

For Lorna, the urge to perform and carry on the family tradition struck her suddenly, when she was 13. Before then, she says, she had no particular passion — "Oh, I wanted to be a nurse for about 20 minutes, until I saw some blood."

But when she was 13, the lightning bolt blasted her and she never recovered.

"I told my mother that day that I wanted to get into show business," Lorna says. "Her reaction was, 'Oh, no!' She knew how tough it was. She knew what she'd been through."

And Lorna knew what she was getting into. She had seen it from the inside. But she says that growing up with show biz all around you makes it seem like the norm. It was never strange to her, always familiar, always comfortable.

"To me," she says, "having photographers and press around and all that hoopla was never upsetting, because it was normal. It was the only kind of life I knew. So, even now, I never think twice about it."

She says one of the few bits of advice her mother gave her was that she should always be nice to reporters. (She is.) She says she cannot understand performers who get mad at the press and the photographers and scream and punch and kick.

"If anybody wants to take my picture," she says, "I am very grateful. Of course, I am talking about the legitimate press."
