Lake Mary Candidates Face Voters

An estimated 37 percent of Lake Mary's 2,012 registered voters are expected at the polls Tuesday to decide the races for three city commission seats and two referendum questions on the ballot for this year's city election.

In the city's last election in 1985, City Clerk Carol Edwards said 434 of the 1,981 registered voters showed up at the polls. Edwards said that amounted to a turnout of 21.9 percent for that election.

While the site and cost of the city's proposed city hall complex has received a great deal of media and citizen attention this year, many of the candidates feel it's not the most pressing problem Lake Mary faces in the near future. A majority of the 10 candidates said providing leadership for the city's staff was one of the most important issues facing the commission at the moment. Many of them said they felt the leadership was especially important in the areas of growth and development.

Seats one, three and five on the commission are being sought by a total of 10 candidates this year. Seats two and four are held by commissioners John Percy and Paul Tremel respectively, and will not come open for election until next year.

Commission seats pay an annual salary of $3,480. Commissioners are elected for two year terms in at large elections.

The battle for commission seat one is the only race that features an incumbent with first term commission member Charlie Webster defending his position against challengers Raymond Fox and Randy Morris. Webster defeated A.J. Jore for the seat in the only race during the 1985 Lake Mary election. Fox has previously served two terms on the commission and Morris is making his first bid for the position.

In seat number three, suspended commissioner Arthur "Buzz" Petois is seeking another term despite having been found guilty on charges of attempted burglary and petty theft by a Seminole County jury on Aug. 18. Petois faces sentencing on Sept. 24, for the charges stemming from an incident involving a March 16, break-in of a

Lake Mary Referenda

A change to a stronger city manager form of government and moving the city's annual election day are referendum questions Lake Mary residents will face when they vote in Tuesday's city election.

One referendum question on the ballot will ask voters to amend the city charter to allow the city manager more responsibility in the day-to-day running of the city.

The government system Lake Mary has been using splits the power and authority of city operation between the mayor and the city manager. This unique form of city management is one of the last of its types in the state.

If the referendum is passed the staff in every department of the city would come under the direct supervision of the city manager. The city manager would then be immediately responsible to the city commission and the mayor in government matters.

If the charter is amended, City Manager Bob Norris will assume the duties of hiring

'Copter, Plane Collide

OPA-LOCKA (UPI) — At least one person was killed today when a small airplane and a helicopter making practice landings at Opa-Locka Airport collided in mid air.

The Bell helicopter landed south of the airport near the intersection of a main thoroughfare west of Miami. The Cessna 182 landed at the end of a runway, witnesses said.

"It was like a car crash," said Granger Summerset, a witness who said the plane came within about 15 feet of traffic. "It looked as though the plane was going to hit us."

A pilot and student aboard the Cessna walked away from the 8:25 a.m. accident with minor injuries. The person who was driving the helicopter was killed on impact, said Roger Myers, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman in Atlanta.

The plane's right wing collided with the left side of the helicopter and the chopper spun in the air several times while the plane's wing tipped to the ground, said Robert Munne. He said it was apparent to him that they were going to crash.

Several people said they thought both aircraft were going to land on the highway.

"It was fortunate that no one was injured on the highway," said Hialeah police spokesman Lowell Coffin.

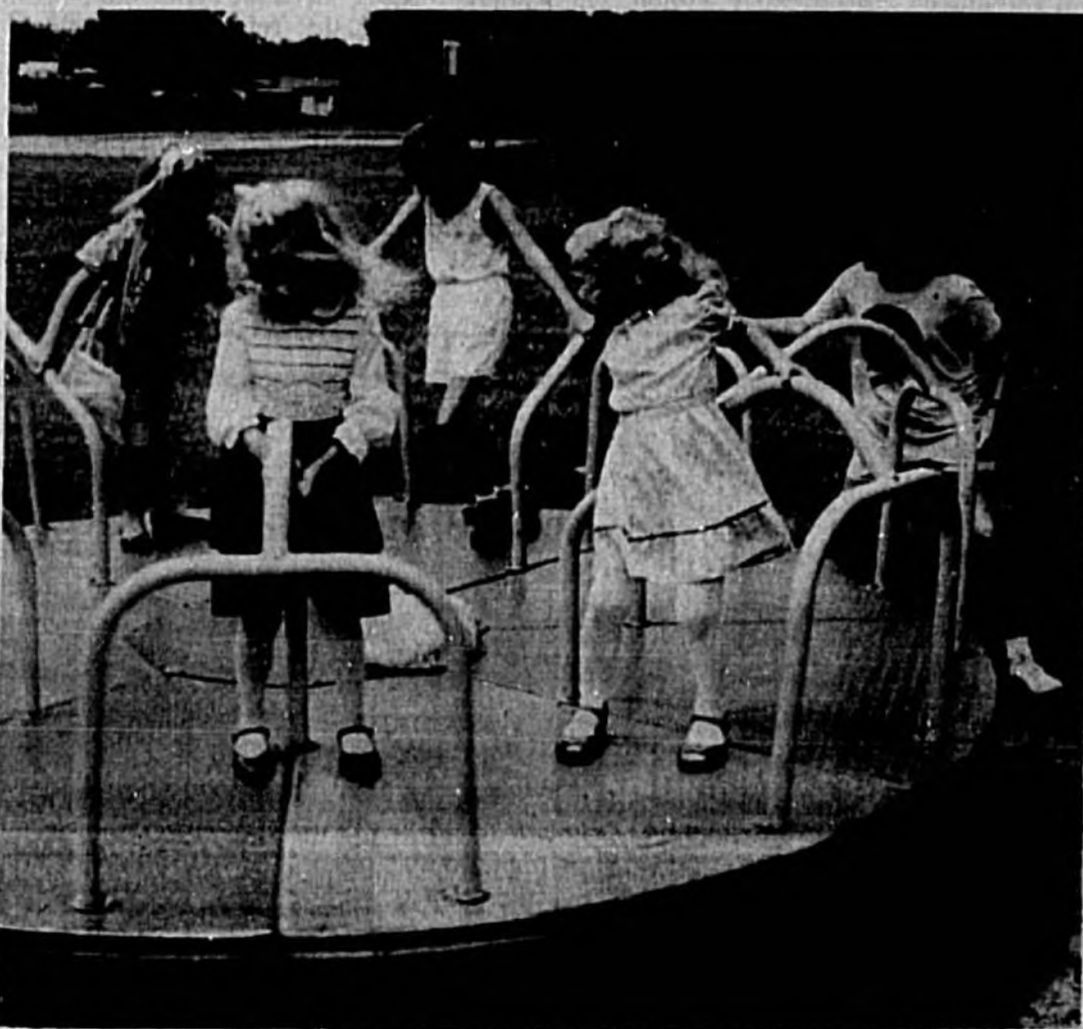

He said the helicopter unsuccessfully attempted to make an emergency landing in the field where it crashed and the plane appeared to do a nose dive and crash on an airport runway.

Helicopter parts were scattered for about a 75-yard radius and traffic was backed up for several blocks.

"It was rush hour and there were cars backed up near an intersection, several hundred feet from the crash," said Summerset.

The airport serves as a Coast Guard Air Station and student pilots make a lot of practice landings there, said Petty Officer Dan Vogeley. He said the two aircraft were privately owned.

Thai Airliner Crash Kills 83

Dead Include 2 Americans

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — A Thai Airways jet with 83 passengers and crew, including two Americans, today avoided a collision with another plane but plunged into a bay off the southern resort island of Phuket, government and airline officials said.

"We have been searching all day and there is no sign of survivors. We believe that everyone aboard was killed," said Suriya Pinbradit, duty officer of the Phuket marine police involved in rescue operations.

He said 12 bodies had been recovered. The passenger list included two infants, 35 Thais and 37 foreigners, today avoided a collision with another plane but plunged into a bay off the southern resort island of Phuket, government and airline officials said.

Two Americans, three French, three Japanese and one Italian also were listed as passengers. Nine crew members were reported aboard.

Airline official Wilai Oulansattien said the Americans, listed as Mr. and Mrs. Ward, no address available, boarded Flight 365 as standby passengers when two Thai passengers cancelled reservations.

Lt. Gen. Narong Tidhitheng, manager of the internal Thai airline, told reporters the crash off the southern resort island of Phuket was caused by an attempt to dodge another airliner.

"Phuket control tower said the Thai aircraft was trying to avoid a collision with a Dragon Air flight as it was reducing altitude at 1,000 feet above sea level," Narong said. "The Dragon Air plane landed safely, but the Thai aircraft crashed into the sea."

Dragon Air is a new airline based in Hong Kong. Phuket Gov. Chalerm Promlert said in a telephone interview the Thai Airways Boeing 737 jet crashed at 3:40 p.m. into a shallow bay about 8 miles from the island's airport, off Thailand's west coast.

Narong said Flight 365 was traveling from the southern city of Haad Yai to Phuket, 430 miles south of Bangkok. The route between Haad Yai and Phuket is popular among foreign tourists, particularly those from nearby Malaysia.

Chalerm said an explosion was heard before the plane sank, but Narong said he could not confirm those reports.

Chalerm said his reports indicated the force of the explosion scattered debris more than a half mile from the crash site. A number of life preservers also were spotted floating in the area.

A marine police official said four of the bodies recovered were badly mutilated by the blast.

Lake Brantley H.S. Develops Anti-Drug Program

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Brantley High School has asked the Seminole County School Board for approval of a pilot program that allows students facing suspensions or expulsions for drug or alcohol violations to remain in school by signing contracts disavowing further substance abuse.

Darvin Boothe, LBHS principal, said he wants to make sure the school board is legally comfortable with the school's use of contracts in their "Positive Plan for Action" program.

"That's why we asked the board to place the program on its agenda," he said.

The program has been used by LBHS on an experimental basis since August 1986. It uses contracts between the school and apprehended drug and alcohol law violators which provides for the students to receive professional screening, counseling and necessary treatment instead of being removed from school, Boothe said.

Boothe said violations include students being caught possessing or under the influence of drugs or alcohol. It also includes possession of any drug or alcohol paraphernalia.

"We're trying to create a drug-free school," Boothe said. "If you keep your ears open and your nose to the ground, you will apprehend students from time to time." He said it is important for the school to work with these students instead of just throwing them out of school.

"If we sign a contract with a student, we (LBHS administrators) recommend the board not expel that person," said Tom Murphy, LBHS vice principal. "We work with the problem, rather than throwing away the program."

Boothe said 25 students facing disciplinary action on drug and alcohol offenses at LBHS last year agreed to sign the experimental contracts, rather than be expelled. "Of those 25 students, 15 actually received treatment for their (substance abuse) problems," Boothe said. He said the other 10 students were screened and found not to need any professional treatment.

Boothe said the program combines the use of the contracts with education about drugs and alcohol. He said the education will be done in many phases of instruction including English, social studies and life management classes. "An emphasis will be put on promoting a mentally, physically and morally positive life style to our students," Boothe said.

Joyce Tullis, an LBHS guidance counselor who helped develop the new program, said teachers are very excited about it. "This program falls more into the category of prevention," Tullis said. "Even teachers with low level classes will be involved in it."

Lake Brantley High student Josie Aiello, a student government representative and president of the school's National Honor Society chapter, said she agrees with Tullis on the effectiveness of the school's proposed approach toward dealing with substance abuse problems. She said this type of program is needed in many schools to deal with drug and alcohol abuse by

Iran Speedboat Hits Kuwait Ship

Iraq Claims Naval Attacks

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iraq reported today it hit two "large naval targets" in the Persian Gulf, while Iranian Revolutionary Guards aboard a speedboat attacked a Kuwaiti-registered container ship in another area of the gulf considered relatively safe.

Despite heightening tensions in the gulf, U.S. naval vessels continued escorting a convoy of re-flagged Kuwaiti tankers toward Kuwait, an ally of Iraq.

Iraq, which has threatened to level Baghdad, also urged U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar to visit Tehran. The U.N. Security Council passed a resolution in July calling for a cease-fire in the 7-year-old Iran-Iraq war.

Iraq's attack on the "large naval targets," a term Baghdad uses to describe oil tankers, prompted new fears among Western diplomats that Baghdad may be trying to draw the United States into the Iran-Iraq conflict.

The Iraqi News Agency quoted an Iraqi military spokesman as saying Iraqi planes hit two "large naval targets" off the Iranian coast and returned safely to base. The spokesman said the first attack occurred Sunday night while the second "destructive and accurate hit" was at 7:45 a.m. today.

If the attacks are confirmed they would be the third and fourth by the Iraqis in 48 hours. Some shipping sources questioned the authenticity of the Iraqi claims, noting only one of the four has been confirmed by Lloyds of London so far. But Iraq has kept quiet about some attacks on its shipping.

Western diplomats said the attacks could put more pressure on Iran to retaliate following a 45-day lull in the so-called tanker war.

Sources in Dubai said Iranian Revolutionary Guards early this morning fired two rocket-propelled grenades from a Swedish-made fast patrol boat, hitting the 2,000-ton Jebel Ali.

The attack occurred near the United Arab Emirates port of Umm al Qaiwan just inside the gulf. Shipping executives previously considered the waters safe.

"It just shows how a band of desperados with RPGs (rocket-propelled grenades) can disrupt a major international seaway," one shipper said.

The Kuwaiti-registered Jebel Ali was hit above the waterline and sustained only light damage and no casualties, sources said. After the attack, the Jebel Ali limped toward Dubai's Port Rashid.

An official at Port Rashid said the ship was flying the Kuwaiti flag but belongs to the Kuwait-based United Arab Shipping Co., which is a consortium owned by the six nations of the Gulf Cooperation Council. The nations in the council

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Two Fern Park Businesses Robbed At Gunpoint

Two separate robberies Friday in Fern Park involved gunmen who used a word in common.

In one robbery the Econo Lodge on U.S. Highway 17-92 was robbed of $150, and in the other heist an undetermined amount of money was taken from a 7-Eleven, also on 17-92 in Fern Park.

Common to each of the robberies is the word "dude." In the first robbery, at the 7-Eleven, a man entered the store around 1:30 a.m. and pulled a steel blue handgun out from under his T-shirt and told the clerk "...the money dude." The clerk gave him a $10 bill and several $1 bills but the robber also wanted $10 in a plastic tube near the safe. After he got that, he said "thank you," and walked out, fleeing west.

He was described as about 18 years old, standing about 6 feet tall and weighing 150 pounds.

In the second robbery, at 4:53 p.m., a 5-foot-6 blond man with a handgun went into the lodge and said "Okay dude, hand over the money." His voice was described as a disguised "valley-girl" voice, that is, imitative of the way some southern California teenage beach goers are said to talk.

The man then fled west with about $150. A police dog followed his trail to a nearby church, where apparently a vehicle had been waiting for the man.

Man Arrested After Firing Gun

A Sanford man was arrested after a report of someone firing a gun in the area of 604 E. 7th St. around 7:57 in the morning.

According to an arrest report, a man wearing a shower cap and jeans fired the gun. An officer arriving at the scene saw a man fitting that description and then pursued the man when he fled.

When captured the man had a .22-caliber revolver in his left back pocket.

Charged with carrying a concealed weapon and discharge of a firearm in public was Derone Harkness, 43, of 604 E. 7th St. His bond was set at $1,000.

Driver Runs After Chase

Sanford police officer Frank Hilton reports he was in a high-speed chase early Friday after observing a car going 50 miles per hour east on 13th Street. Hilton said as he attempted to stop the car, and Oldsmobile with tag 696 DKL, it made a wide turn onto U.S. Highway 17-92 southbound.

At this point, Hilton said, he turned on his flashing blue lights and the car took off north on Lake Avenue, and west on 16th Street at approximately 70 miles per hour. When the car went down Roosevelt Avenue to the dead end the male driver got out and ran, Hilton said. He escaped but the car was impounded by police.

Woman Battered In Face

Yvonne D. Clinton, 34, of 108 Anderson Avenue, had drops of blood on her clothing and small cuts about the face when rescue workers arrived at about 8:30 p.m. Thursday after she was apparently hit on and about the face. Police have a suspect in the battery.

Robbery At Master's Cove

The office at The Master's Cove apartment complex, 2714 Ridgewood Avenue, was robbed of $80 cash sometime between 8:30 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 a.m. Monday, police report. Leasing agent Laura Schaeffer said someone also opened mail belonging to a tenant. Police said it is not known by what means the office was entered.

Burglar Hits Exxon Station

A burglar took about $173 from the cash register at Exxon, 101 State Road 436, Fern Park, Tuesday or Wednesday, deputies said.

Gate Closes On Patrol Car

The gate at the north sally port at the Seminole County jail closed on Sanford police officer Terry Mullins' car at 2:20 a.m. Thursday, causing damage to the left front drivers' side door.

Undercover Police Arrest 5 At Interstate 4 Rest Stops

Undercover police work brought about five arrests involving sex crimes at rest stops on Interstate 4 just north of Longwood.

Four men were arrested for propositioning a female undercover informant, and one for offering to perform a lewd act with a male undercover agent.

Four of the men reportedly offered between $20 and $40 for various sexual favors. The fifth incident involved an alleged offer to perform a sexual act.

Arrested and charged with assignment to commit prostitution were:

—Randy Joe Wine, 29, of Orlando. He was arrested at 2:38 a.m. Saturday at the westbound I-4 rest stop. His bond was set at $100.

—Theodore Edward Daum Jr., 2551 Georgia Ave., Sanford. He was arrested at 1:35 a.m. Saturday at the westbound stop. Bond was set at $100.

—Roy Dean Gray, 37, of Orlando. He was arrested at 11:15 p.m. Friday at the westbound stop. His bond was set at $100.

—Russell Scott Jacobs, 21, of 318 Oakhurst St. Altamonte Springs. He was arrested at 2:04 a.m. Friday at the eastbound rest stop. His bond was set at $100.

Arrested and charged with assignment to commit a lewd and lascivious act was Charles William Gould, 67, of 33 Strawberry Fields, Winter Park. His bond was set at $500.

Polk Out Of Town

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk is scheduled to drive to Tallahassee after 5 p.m. today to attend a Florida Sheriff's Self Insurance Fund meeting. He will return to Sanford Tuesday afternoon.

Second Attempted Murder Trial Begins

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

The trial of a Longwood man charged with attempted first-degree murder, robbery and kidnapping got under way today after his partner was found guilty Saturday of attempted second-degree murder, kidnapping and robbery.

The men were to be tried together starting Friday but at the last minute Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton agreed to try the men separately, trying the allegedly lesser-involved man first.

Randal Lavaughn Cole, 27, of Orlando, was found guilty Saturday. Eaton set Oct. 15 for sentencing. The recommended sentence is 17 to 22 years but Assistant State Attorney Tom Hastings said he is going to ask Cole be given a life sentence.

Trial on charges stemming from the same incident started today for Phillip James Savino, 22, of 107 Pine St., Longwood.

The men were charged with committing the crimes against a former Altamonte Springs woman who said she was so frightened by them that she tried to pay them to leave her alone. They are also accused of raping her. But because that alleged crime occurred in Orange County those charges will be resolved there.

Cole's defense attorney said it was Savino who did the beating but the state maintains Cole is also responsible for the woman's injuries.

When the woman was found May 4 in a Winter Springs orange grove she was near death and beaten to the point where she was not recognizable.

She testified she met the men in a bar where she went because she was angry at her husband.

She said they then went to a second bar, then to an isolated area in Orange County. She said after she got out of the car to go to the bathroom she and Cole began to fight and she tried to escape in the car. Savino then allegedly told her to strip or he would kill her. The men then reportedly raped her.

The woman, who now lives in Mississippi, said they punched and kicked her and she talked them into going to her home to get $1,000 to let her go. They got the money but did not set her free, according to reports. She said she was attacked from behind at the orange grove and only remembers a tire iron being swung at her.

The car the men were in was stopped by Winter Springs police for having an improper license plate. The officer noticed the men were blood-spattered, and didn't believe them when they said they had been fighting with each other. The officers also saw a woman's purse in the car and confiscated it. A subsequent search revealed $850 in cash on the floor of the car.

A sheriff's deputy and his police dog were called to the scene and the barely alive woman was found.

Besides the beating, her larynx, or esophagus, was fractured or ruptured and she nearly bled to death, and had cuts down to the bone on her head. Barely conscious, she told a sheriff's investigator that two men beat her with a tire iron and intended to kill her.

The men maintain the woman agreed to go with them, agreed to have sex, and got the $1,000 to buy cocaine. A fight did ensue when Savino reportedly became upset that they could not find any cocaine to buy.

Gunman Goes On Rampage, Leaves Six Dead

BOSTON (UPI) — A Vietnamese refugee who killed four family members and a visitor and then took his own life had accused his relatives of damaging his reputation in a dispute over a missing bank book, officials said.

Minh Le, 23, who came to the United States four years ago, killed two people in the family's apartment and stalked and killed three others outside before returning inside and shooting himself Sunday afternoon, police said.

The victims included the man's uncle, aunt and two cousins, police said.

A female visitor was also slain. Two people, including a man believed to be the suspect's cousin and a 3-year-old girl who is the daughter of another cousin, were wounded. The child was in critical condition.

The shootings began at 3:24 p.m. on Newport Street in Boston's Dorchester section and the incident ended when police entered the apartment at 4:55 p.m. and found the gunman dead inside. Authorities also found a 9 mm handgun and a .22-caliber handgun.

A Vietnamese interpreter called to the scene by police said the dispute may have stemmed from a 2-year-old family squabble over a missing bank book. The gunman had spent the last two years in New York City before returning to the neighborhood Friday.

"He pulled out a gun and (said), 'Today I want to let you know that I have to do something because you have damaged my reputation,'" said interpreter Tuan Tran.

Tow truck driver Joseph Munroe, 27, was driving down Newport Street with his wife and 2-year-old daughter when they happened upon the shooting spree. He said he jumped from the truck to help the 3-year-old girl, who had been shot in the head.

"I stopped the truck and I got out and grabbed the 3-year-old," Munroe said. "She was still living. When she saw me she started crying. I took a look — the back of her head was opened up.

At least one body was found on a doorstep across the street from the gunman's home. Police covered the stoop with cat litter to absorb the blood.

Seminole Sets New Heat Record

Staff And Wire Reports
Congratulations, Seminole Countians. You are parties to a new record. Sunday's high was a sizzling 96 degrees, more than enough to eclipse the former record of 95 degrees set way back in 1948. Some areas of the county experienced higher temperatures, but it isn't official.

A trace of rain helped but the ground continues to dry out. That may change in the weeks ahead, however.

The hurricane season's sixth tropical depression twirled west in the Atlantic today and forecasters said it could become tropical storm Cindy.

The storm's maximum winds of 35 mph were only 4 mph shy of tropical storm strength.

The broad center of the westward depression was located about 775 miles west of Sao Tiago in the Cape Verde Islands at 10:30 p.m. EDT Sunday. The National Hurricane Center said it was the sixth tropical depression of the season.

"Conditions favor some strengthening and the depression could become a tropical storm in the next 24 hours," hurricane forecaster Randy Lascody said Sunday. "Once you have a circulation it could intensify in a moment's notice. You have to really monitor it."

Another area of disturbed weather, associated with a westward tropical wave interacting with an upper level area of low pressure, spread showers and thunderstorms across portions of the Windward Islands in the eastern Caribbean Sea.

But forecasters said it did not appear to be developing into a tropical depression.

The first two tropical storms of the hurricane season, which extends from June 1 to Nov. 30, were no threat to land earlier this month. Arlene blew into the season's first hurricane but brushed past Bermuda and into the north Atlantic, and Bret developed off the coast of Africa but dissipated during its voyage across the Atlantic.

The West braced for more broiling heat today while a rapid surge of cool Canadian air sliced from the Dakotas to Texas and New England and was expected to creep south into steamy Florida.

High temperatures in the 60s and 70s were forecast for today from the Great Lakes and northern Plains to New England.

"All the way from North Dakota through the Texas Panhandle extending east through New England it will be fairly nice," said National Weather Service forecaster Harry Gordon.

Readings in the 90s were expected from Florida to South Carolina and over much of the western half of the nation. In the southwestern deserts and the interior valleys of California and Oregon the mercury was expected to climb to at least 100 today. Medford, Ore., was expected to hit 105, while Fresno, Calif., braced for 106, Gordon said.

"A general pattern of cool air over the central part of the country instead of the West" caused the disparity, he said. The cold front was expected to move rapidly over the next 48 hours, pushing into the Atlantic Coast and south into Florida, "moderating temperatures over the rest of the country," Gordon said.

Record highs were shattered Sunday in seven western cities. In California, the mercury hit 110 at Redding and Sacramento.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected today from the Atlantic Coast to eastern Texas.

Local Report

The high temperature Sunday in Sanford was 95 degrees and the overnight low was 70 degrees as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. There was no rainfall recorded. Mostly sunny today with expected high in the low to middle 90s and a 30 percent chance of afternoon showers.

Area Forecast

Today...partly cloudy with a chance of mainly afternoon thunderstorms. High in the low to mid 90s. Variable light wind. Rain chance 40 percent.

Tonight and Tuesday...partly cloudy with a chance of showers or thunderstorms. Low in the mid 70s. High in the lower 90s. Light wind tonight then mostly south 5 to 10 mph Tuesday. Rain chance 30 percent tonight and 50 percent Tuesday.

Extended Forecast

The extended forecast, Wednesday through Friday, for Florida except northwest — Partly cloudy with a chance of showers and thunderstorms. Lows in the 70s. Highs in the low 90s.

Family Won't Stay In Hostile Town

ARCADIA (UPI) — Police say there is no evidence the destruction of the frame house where three young AIDS carriers lived was caused by a firebomb, but the fearful family doesn't intend to return to the hostile town.

"They were trying to make a point," said Clifford Ray, father of the three hemophiliac brothers whose return to school under federal court order sparked a student boycott, several bomb scares and threats.

"Next time we may not be so lucky," added the mother, Louise Ray.

DeSoto County Sheriff's Maj. Vernon Keen said Sunday the cause of the Friday night fire had not been determined.

"It does appear it started inside the house. It does not appear that anything was thrown through the window," Keen said.

Clifford Ray's brother, Andrew, was the only one in the house when the fire broke out, and he was treated for smoke inhalation.

The Rays and their four children were staying with relatives at an undisclosed location at the time, but said they suspected a firebomb caused the blaze they said started in a bedroom.

Keen said deputies found no flammable liquids or evidence of a firebomb. Firefighters believe the blaze started in a utility room near the kitchen, not in a bedroom.

The state Fire Marshal's office is investigating the blaze but investigators said they cannot comment until their report is issued Wednesday.

The family received death threats after a federal judge ordered their three sons be allowed to return to school last week. The boys, Richard, 10, Robert, 9, and Randy, 8, are hemophiliacs who apparently were exposed to the AIDS virus through medication used to help clot their blood.

The family returned to the charred house Saturday to salvage belongings.

"He got what they wanted out of the house and we stood by while he did that, then we left,"

Keen said. "They didn't request any further security."

Keen said deputies still were questioning neighbors, several of whom called 911 to report the fire.

"We've interviewed all the neighbors preliminarily. So far, we've found nothing," he said.

"As far as threats, only one was reported to our office and that was 10 days, two weeks ago. Mrs. Ray said she got a phone call, something to the effect that 'Your children are going to die,' and that was it.

They didn't say whether they meant they were going to hurt them or if they meant they would die of the disease."

The tearful parents said Saturday they would leave Arcadia and never return.

"Arcadia is no longer our home," Clifford Ray said. "To be safe, we have to go someplace else."

The Ray brothers have not developed any symptoms of the disease and their parents and 6-year-old sister test negative for the virus.

Bakker: I Think Devil Hated PTL

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (UPI) — The so-called "holy war" flared briefly at a weekend "love rally" of Jim Bakker supporters outside a 12-foot-high fence around the mountain retreat of the disgraced evangelist.

Bakker and wife Tammy Faye, holding a yapping dog, met the crowd of some 50 supporters at a "love rally" Saturday. The supporters were led on a 200-mile trip from Fort Mill, S.C., by Bakker's brother, Norm.

"We will not be party to a big mudslinging campaign," Jim Bakker said, and then launched into an hourlong attack on Jerry Falwell, who took over the PTL television ministry when Bakker quit in March following a sex scandal. "I don't want to do to them what they've done to me."

Bakker made no mention of his 1980 sexual encounter with former church secretary Jessica Hahn or PTL's subsequent payments to her to cover the affair. Instead, he blamed his fall on a Satan-inspired plot by Falwell to take over the ministry.

"I did not give PTL to Jerry Falwell. Falwell stole it," said Bakker, embroiled in a "holy war" of words over the PTL since the spring. "He came to help us and helped himself to PTL. I would never have turned the ministry over to Jerry Falwell because he believes charismatics are of the devil and that's not compatible with PTL."

"For the first time spirit-filled Christians had a retreat and a park and I think the devil hated it," Bakker said, referring to PTL's Christian theme park at Fort Mill. "The only way the devil could destroy it was from within the church."

Falwell, contacted at Lynchburg, Va., said he had only sympathy for Bakker.

"It is understandable how he could be so irrational when one considers the terrible trauma his sins have led him into," he said.

"I live for the day when he will stop launching out at others and do as David did in Psalm 51, when the psalmist acknowledged he had sinned against God and humanity," Falwell said.

"When Rev. Bakker does this, he will find the forgiveness of God and men. Until then he will simply continue to attack and vilify others. He has my deep concern and prayers."

Bakker indicated he was ready to return should the current PTL, which filed for protection from its creditors June 12 under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code, be forced out of business.

Haunting Echoes Of Bygone Grief

Even 42 years after the end of World War II, historians are not agreed on the significance of Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's deputy party leader, cabinet member, head of the Nazi Party organization, and Hitler's designated heir.

No matter. The man's very long life endowed him with a haunting, contemporary importance. He was the last of the infamous Nazi leaders and, indeed, the last major international World War II figure. During the last 21 years he has been the only Nazi war criminal in the Spandau prison in West Berlin. This 19th-century dungeon was maintained by the four major World War II Allies — the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union — at an annual cost of $840,000. Spandau now will be torn down to prevent its becoming a shrine for Nazi sympathizers.

The Western Allies sought repeatedly to release the aging, ailing Hess on humanitarian grounds. But the Soviet Union refused any mercy to the last architect of the Nazi regime that killed more than 20 million Russians. Thus it came to be that Hess, during more than 40 years in prison, was perceived by a good many Germans as the bearer of punishment for their collective guilt. Hess spent 46 years in Allied prisons, almost exactly half of the 93 years given to him. His death the other day — reportedly suicide by hanging — brought relief to the Germans because it ends the painful, leadership link with Nazi horror, disastrous war, and utter ruin. Hess also was a fading, final echo of the Empire era, when Germany was at its peak as a great world power during the final days of his youth.

The climax of Hess's astonishing life came on May 10, 1941, at a time when Nazi armies had conquered almost the whole of Western Europe. His solo flight to Scotland was perhaps the most bizarre episode of World War II. Hess's purpose still is not clear, but historians are generally agreed that he went with, or perhaps without, Hitler's knowledge to arrange a separate peace with Britain so that Germany could turn upon the Soviet Union and thereby avoid another two-front war.

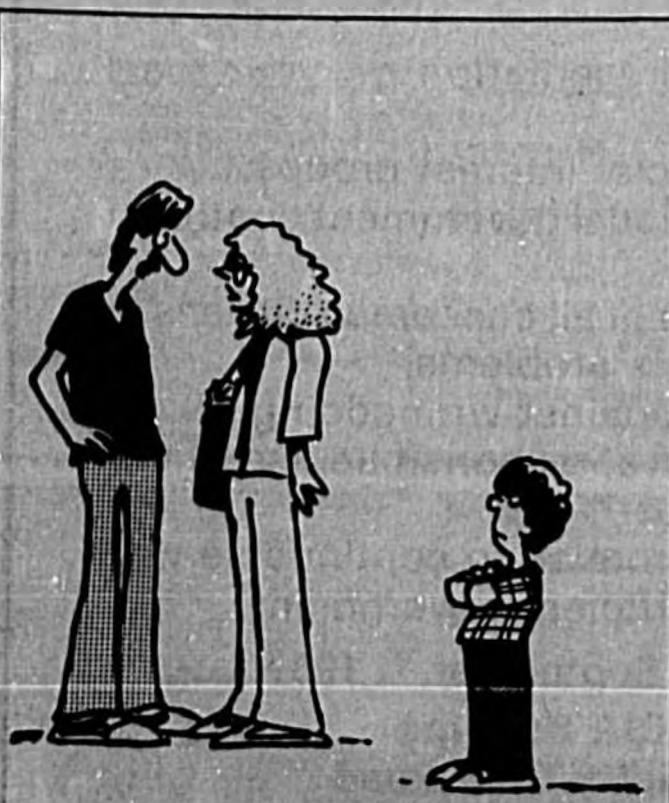

This, of course, was a grotesque misreading of the British mind. Hess was imprisoned and Hitler invaded the Soviet Union, his theretofore helpful ally, the following month.

In any event, the mysterious flight saved Hess's life. It prevented his personal participation in the Holocaust and other Nazi crimes against humanity, for which he was acquitted. At the Nuremberg trial, he was sentenced to life in prison for planning and starting a war of aggression — the kind of charge the late Sen. Robert Taft denounced at the time as being the victors' revenge.

History will surely judge Hess to have been a wicked man, a rabid anti-Semite who fueled Hitler's philosophy of hatred and lent academic respectability to Hitler's writings. The death of such a man must provide a sense of purging for the Germans — severing the final official link with their national nightmare. They can search more hopefully now for the glimmerings of a new age.

For the rest of the world, the passing of Rudolf Hess should serve as a renewed warning of how appeasement of the Nazis during the 1930s by the democracies invited the very war they sought to avoid.

A Mission Impossible For Gary Hart

By Arnold Sawislak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gary Hart had yet to be heard from on the subject of returning to the 1988 presidential race as this was written, but if his anger over the events of last spring has abated, he ought to see such a step is close to a mission impossible.

Whether or not the former Colorado Democratic senator got a fair shake in the Donna Rice affair, it seems clear that he is likely to be saddled with it for the foreseeable future.

Three or four months in seclusion will not have slaked media interest in his personal life and he can be sure that if he re-enters the campaign, he will be asked repeatedly about it.

He may want to talk about public policy issues, but there is almost no chance that he can avoid questions about his private behavior. Even if the establishment press agreed to lay off the adultery questions, the supermarket tabloids and the skin magazines would continue the drumfire.

Nobody drowned aboard the "Monkey Business," but the obvious comparison here is with Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. Kennedy feels he has long since answered every possible question about the 1969 Chappaquiddick tragedy, but has found himself peppered with the same inquiries every time he even hints about a presidential race.

Kennedy tried to ride them out in 1980, but the issue never really faded and it certainly played a part in his failed effort to seize the Democratic nomination from President Carter.

Is that fair? Arguments about whether the private life of a public man is germane to the process of selecting leaders can be made on either side, but for Hart they are academic. If he returns to public life, he can expect to be confronted by the morality issue.

There is a second reason any Hart re-entry is likely to be futile. Much of the campaign organization he put together for the 1988 run has gone on to other pursuits, in some cases to other candidates' campaigns.

It is no secret that many of these people are exceedingly bitter about what happened last May and even some of those who accuse the press of engaging in a feeding frenzy at Hart's expense concede the candidate brought it on himself.

In truth and perhaps sad to say, it probably is too late now to assemble a first class campaign operation for 1988. Most of the good professionals already are at work elsewhere and many of the absolutely indispensable volunteers in the states have attached themselves to other candidates.

Hart's former campaign manager, Bill Dixon, started the speculation with a prediction that the Coloradan would return to the arena with a kind of guerrilla operation: a skeleton staff and no elaborate organization or schedule.

That certainly could be done, but it is not going to win a presidential nomination. Like it or not, these campaigns have become big business and it would take a series of miracles to succeed in such an enterprise without a major league organization.

However, if Hart just wants to raise hell for the next 10 or 12 months, he probably can do it with the Dixon formulation. It might not help the Democrats regain the White House.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Define Insider Trading

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The late Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said of pornography, "I can't define it, but I know it when I see it." The same can be said of insider trading: No one is sure how to define it, but they know it when they see it.

In an attempt to clarify exactly what constitutes insider trading, Congress and the Securities and Exchange Commission are trying to come up with a new, comprehensive definition. They are finding the work difficult.

Existing laws poorly define insider trading. As currently written, it is a crime for someone who works for a company, or who has a fiduciary relationship with a company, to make a profit from buying or selling stock in that company using information that is unavailable to the general public.

That definition might have been adequate years ago, but given how Wall Street works today, it is so filled with loopholes as to be almost useless.

For example, what happens when an employee of a brokerage house or investment banking firm learns of potentially profitable stock information and passes this on to a third person who neither works for nor has a fiduciary relationship with the company involved? The situation becomes even more complicated if the chain is longer, and it becomes the fifth, tenth or even twentieth person who is told information that turns him a profit.

Because of the narrow scope of the current insider trading law, prosecutors have been forced to find laws to fit particular offenses, and most of the cases have ended up either under the general fraud provision of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or the general (non-securities) anti-fraud statutes.

So the scramble is on to come up with a clear and all-encompassing definition of insider trading.

The process was started by Sens. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., and Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y. They brought together a panel of legal scholars and securities lawyers — many of them former top federal prosecutors — to draft a new statute.

Not to be outdone, the SEC itself has come up with its own proposed new law. The SEC says that it has incorporated the best of the Senate statute in its proposed law.

Killer Avoided Prosecution At VA Hospital

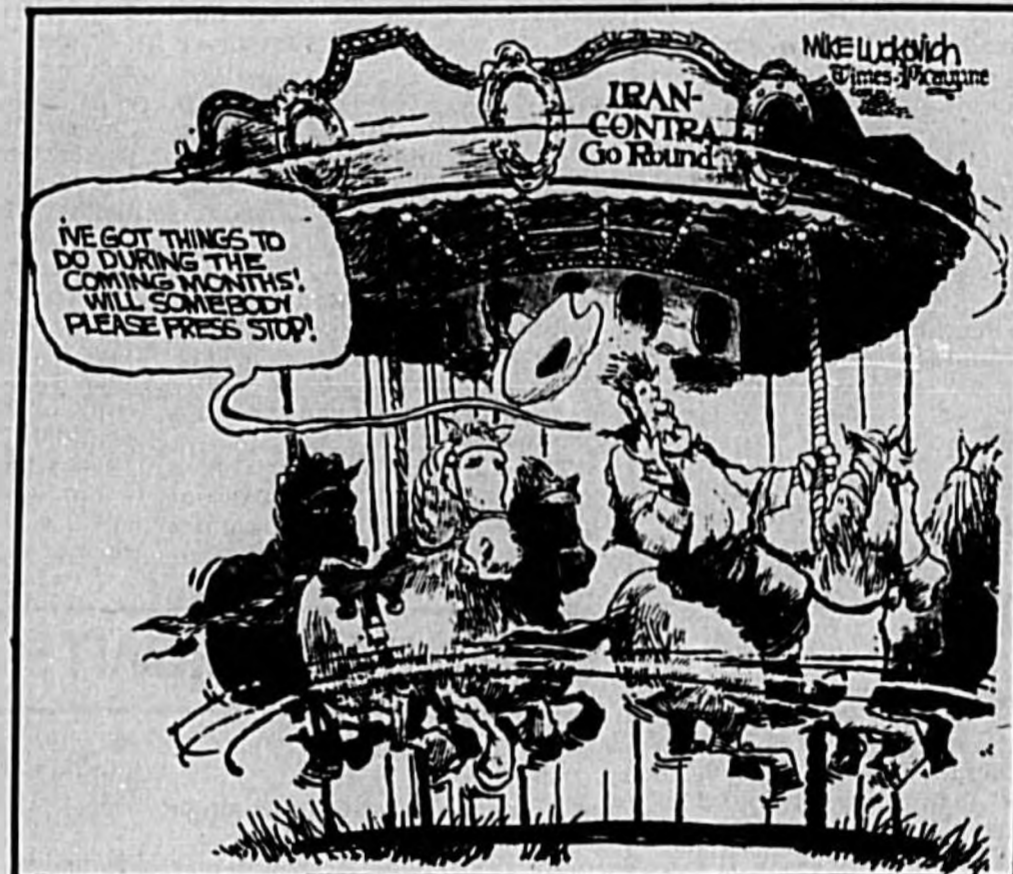

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Hospital worker Donald Harvey's confession of mass murder in Cincinnati raises new questions about the administration of the local Veterans Administration Medical Center, where Harvey worked for 10 years.

We have reported earlier about allegations in congressional testimony that the VA facility's chief of police, Daniel Wilson, beat up black patients and visitors. Yet Harvey, who is white, was let off with a slap on the wrist when Chief Wilson caught him in the hospital with a loaded revolver, hypodermic needles, syringes and three books on the occult.

The VA hospital orderly was fined $50 for carrying a firearm on federal property but was allowed to resign rather than face criminal charges or administrative disciplinary proceedings, which would have been entered on his employment record.

That was in July 1985. In February 1986, his work record unmarred by any mention of the charge, Harvey was hired at the Daniel Drake Memorial Hospital, where,

VINCENT CARROLL

Don't Delay Science

Where are the defenders of civil disobedience when we need them? Why isn't Professor Gary Strobel a new folk hero of anti-establishment intellectuals?

Strobel is clearly no mean scholar himself. One of the nation's premier plant pathologists, the Montana State University researcher has spent recent years stalking a cure for Dutch elm disease.

His anti-establishment credentials are equally sound. Rather than permit government regulations to delay valuable research for a year, he spurned the rules and injected 14 elms with a strain of genetically engineered bacterium that can help kill the disease.

Galileo would have been proud. His own nemesis, the Vatican, rarely elevated bureaucratic hauteur to the high art practiced by the Environmental Protection Agency. As Strobel noted, he had little choice in the deadening face of delay: "We can sit and talk about Dutch elm disease or we can do something about it."

So now, where are the hosannas for his devotion to knowledge? Why is Strobel in trouble not only with the government, but with his university and, alas, even with some of his colleagues?

Don't believe for a moment that the reason stems from experimental risk. The risk is minimal, and most seasoned scientists will say so. Despite profound public ignorance of bioengineering (and consequent unease), most experiments currently involve little or no danger. Sometimes they merely short-circuit decades of plant and animal breeding, the process through which humans have manipulated species for centuries.

Unfortunately, our society has become one in which even the most fanciful risks are now taken seriously, to the point of harnessing science to a post. Would penicillin ever have been introduced, for example, had it been forced to vault the fearsome line of obstacles since erected by the Food and Drug Administration? Even if the answer is yes, how many lives would have been lost before the drug received final approval?

Regulation itself is not the problem. European countries, which routinely introduce life-saving drugs years before they arrive on American shelves, control the manufacture and sale of such substances, too. All nations regulate nuclear power, for that matter, yet few manage to ensure such maddening delays as the United States. Does anyone seriously think nuclear plants in France or Japan are less safe than ours?

Our caution is double-edged, too, infecting both administrative agencies and the courts. As a result, only in America could a modern-day Luddite like Jeremy Rifkin so effectively stifle innovation and progress.

Scientists: Male Pills Possible

By Rob Stein
UPI Science Writer

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (UPI) — Scientists are trying to determine why a naturally occurring compound found in the cotton seed plant appears useful as a male contraceptive pill.

The value of the substance, known as gossypol, as a possible male contraceptive was first reported in 1979 by researchers in China, where it is currently used by men.

At low doses, gossypol is believed to be effective at slowing the speed of sperm, reducing the likelihood the sperm will be able to fertilize eggs. In high doses, the compound can apparently stop sperm production altogether.

But in high doses the substance also has been linked to muscle paralysis and weakness in a small percentage of cases, and to irreversible infertility in up to 20 percent of users.

Sheldon J. Segal, director of population sciences at the Rockefeller Foundation in New York, has been experimenting with slight variations of the organic compound in the hopes the experiments will reveal more about how the substance works and possible ways of reducing the adverse side effects.

"We have been trying to determine the mechanism of action of gossypol," he said during a recent scientific meeting at the Marine Biological Laboratory.

Working at the laboratory this summer, Segal and his colleagues tested the gossypol analogs on surf clam sperm because the animal's sperm has been well studied and is well understood.

Although it is only a hypothesis, Segal and his colleagues believe their experiments show that gossypol may interfere with enzymes necessary for sperm motion.

"This is going to help us to get together the necessary information for regulatory agency approvals, both in testing and ultimate approval. You have to know something about mechanism of action," said Segal.

"It's also telling us something about different analogs. We might be able to come up with an analog that has advantages over gossypol itself."

according to his own confession, he murdered 21 patients.

The VA hospital's director, Donald Zeigenhorn, has explained that Harvey had not been formally charged with carrying a concealed weapon because the loaded .38-caliber revolver was not "concealed ready at hand" as Ohio law requires for such a charge. The gun was in a zippered case inside a gym bag that Harvey was carrying.

Law enforcement sources in Ohio have questioned that interpretation of the statute. They point out that state courts have upheld charges of concealing a loaded weapon — a third-degree felony — against persons who have hidden a gun in the glove compartment of the car they were driving.

Our associate Stewart Harris asked Wilson if Harvey's race saved him from criminal prosecution. The chief replied: "I'm not going to answer that. That's not even a fair question."

Meanwhile, here in Washington, more allegations of brutality by Chief Wilson were aired at a recent Senate hearing on legislation designed to protect whistle blowers. Harold R. Hipple, a former security officer at the VA hospital, testified that Wilson attacked a black man, John R. Shives, who had parked illegally at the medical center.

"Wilson called him a 'dirtball,' 'scumbag' and 'black bastard,' among other names," Hipple testified. He then described what followed:

"Finally, Shives raised his arms as if to move past Wilson, but then dropped his arms after Wilson warned Shives not to touch him or else he would charge Shives with assault. When Shives complied, Wilson grabbed him in a bear hug. The chief tried to kick Shives' legs out from under him, but in the process kicked me also, causing a blood vessel to burst in my leg."

After other officers jumped on Shives, Wilson "began choking him and gouging him in the eyes," Hipple testified, adding: "Shives was not hostile by any means until provoked by Wilson."

Last April, we reported on congressional testimony by another officer at the hospital, John Berter, who told about two black men who were beaten by Wilson after being brought to the chief's office for panhandling on the premises.

Wilson has refused to comment on the allegations while they are still under investigation. He did note that the FBI had closed its investigation of the charges and that the Justice Department has declined to prosecute him.

Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., noted at the recent hearing that the FBI had "found nothing to exonerate" Wilson.

In fact, one of the FBI agents who worked on the case, Mike McDaniels, told Hipple that he had solid evidence of brutality by Wilson, from victims and witnesses. Hipple secretly taped the conversation. McDaniels was not under oath, but Pryor read a transcript of his remarks into the record. The FBI agent said: "I've got 10 people I have interviewed, 10 that I call victims, 10 victims, which is pretty substantial in my opinion." He also said, according to the transcript: "You have got other witnesses saying they saw it. It is still not enough."

IN BRIEF

Secord: Arms-For Hostages Talks With Iran On Tape

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Iranians involved in last year's arms-for-hostages deals proposed a U.S. military rescue to double-cross the pro-Iranian hostage-takers — and there are videotapes to prove it, says retired Maj. Gen. Richard Secord.

In an interview with Playboy magazine scheduled for publication Tuesday, the Air Force veteran who had a central role in the Iran-Contra scandal revealed that all but one of the secret meetings between Iranian contacts and American officials such as Lt. Col. Oliver North were videotaped for the CIA.

"I facilitated the taping for the CIA," Secord told the magazine, explaining that the meetings in the United States and Europe were recorded for audio and video specifically in case of subsequent investigations.

Congressional sources said the House and Senate Iran-Contra committees are aware of audio tapes and have reviewed transcripts, but the sources could not confirm that videotapes existed. It was not known who might possess the tapes.

Air Force Limits Secrecy Pledge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secrecy pledges signed by an estimated 150,000 Air Force personnel without any access to secrets will be destroyed now that the service has bowed to administration pressure to change its policy, officials say.

David Whitman, a security aide to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, and Steven Garfinkel, head of the office that oversees administration use of the controversial pledge, expect the forms in question to become "null and void."

That's because Air Force headquarters sent a memo Friday directing all field units to stop asking employees without security clearances to sign the pledge, according to a copy of the message obtained by United Press International.

The Air Force has bucked administration policy since July 1986 by requiring all military personnel, civilian employees and reservists to agree not to release sensitive information, officials have said. Administration regulations forbid federal agencies from soliciting pledges from those who lack security clearances — and that means about 600,000 Air Force employees.

Educator: Population Trends Pose Challenges

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Meeting the challenge of educating America's growing minority population, especially Spanish-speakers, will determine the nation's economic future, an educator told the Southern Governors' Association.

"Our rapidly aging white middle class will find its retirement income generated by an increasingly non-white work force. A small cheer for increasing education and occupational attainments by minorities would seem to be in order," Harold Hodgkinson of the American Council on Education said Sunday. "By 1992, only three workers will provide funds for each retiree and one of the three workers will be minority."

Already, California's public schools have a majority of minorities and Texas is about evenly split, he said in a report.

Developing means to adequately educate minorities and those born into low-income households will determine the nation's future, he said. The problem is especially acute in the South.

"The Southeast is more at risk than other sectors of the country," he said. "For the South, poverty is the main factor. It's not racial as much as class. Middle class blacks perform as well as whites in the classroom."

Preliminary studies show births in middle-class families have dropped while births in low-income families remain steady, producing a steadily increasing percentage of children from poverty level homes entering schools, he said.

Hodgkinson challenged the joint meeting of the SGA and the Southern Growth Policies Board to think of education from kindergarten through graduate school as one system.

"It's a simple concept, but it manages to be radical," he said in an interview. "It's rare a university president testifies before the state legislature for more money for public schools, even though it's in their own best interest."

"When higher education gets $20,000 more, it usually means public schools get $20,000 less."

Hodgkinson also cautioned against dropping the current campaign to improve education in the South even though there have not yet been discernible results.

"Higher SAT and ACT scores take years to show up," he said. "There's no question this part of the United States has improved more than any other."

Coping with the changing makeup of the nation's schools can't be solved by the federal government, he said.

"The recommendations are different for each state."

He said other results of America's changing demographic makeup will be a continued drop in the number of minorities entering college, an increase in the number of minorities choosing the armed forces to get an education and an increase in the number of college students who need both educational and financial assistance.

Rocket Firing Apparent Success

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (UPI) — Although it may be two weeks or longer before they know for sure, officials say the first test firing of a redesigned shuttle booster rocket appeared to be successful with no sign of the type of failure that destroyed Challenger.

NASA and Morton Thiokol Inc. managers called Sunday's two-minute ground firing a major boost to the $460 million effort to recover from the accident of 19 months ago and clear the grounded space shuttles for flight starting next June.

"It's going to take a few days and maybe even a few weeks to really have all the data from this firing, but with the data we have now it sure looks good to me," said Rear Adm. Richard Truly, NASA's shuttle chief. "I can assure you this is a major step on the way to returning the shuttle to flight."

"I hope when the data is in and the motor is taken apart that the data shows it's 100 percent success because we need it," said Truly, who commanded Challenger on a launch exactly four years earlier.

Ed Garrison, president of the Morton Thiokol aerospace program, called the firing "a tremendous success ... a tremendous morale boost." Morley Cox, the company's systems manager, exclaimed: "It's a great day for America!"

But a bit of caution was mixed with the elation following the test because engineers will have to dismantle the rocket to examine the three O-rings and insulation in the fuel segment joints to make sure they withstood the 5,000 degree Fahrenheit heat and pressure from 1.1 million pounds of burning solid propellant.

"The real proof of the design is when we disassemble it and take a quick look at the joints," said John Thomas, head of NASA's booster redesign effort. "I think it's going to look just as good from the inside as it does from the out. All indications (are) that it's a good test."

Carver Kennedy, the Morton Thiokol vice president overseeing the booster program, said it would be a few days before dismantling could begin. First he said there would be a visual and photographic examination of the inside of the 12-foot diameter rocket.

"The inside of the motor after firing is very much like a black cave," he said. "The whole inside is charred and it's full of residual insulation materials that are blackened and there's soot everywhere. It's very difficult to see anything of any consequence unless there's really a gross abnormality."

Alan McDonald, head of the redesign effort for Morton Thiokol, said the only problem was a minor one — a ground water cooling system failed in one area, allowing part of the rocket's steel casing to overheat after the firing.

The white rocket, locked in a massive horizontal test stand, ignited on schedule at 1 p.m. MDT after sirens screamed a warning. Yellow-white flare scoured the desert floor for hundreds of feet and dirty tan smoke billowed up a barren hill and 8,000 feet into the sky.

When the bulk of the propellant burned out, the flame was replaced by black and then gray smoke as carbon dioxide extinguishing and water cooling systems were activated.

There were an estimated 5,000 observers at the Morton Thiokol Inc. plant and lining the two-lane highway in the desert 85 miles north of Salt Lake City. Many applauded and cheered when the flame went out. Many were also on hand Thursday when three attempts to fire the rocket were aborted.

The next big test is scheduled for late November. Officials said at least three more test boosters must successfully endure full-scale firings before shuttle flights can resume.

Challenger was destroyed and its seven crew members killed when a joint between two segments of its right side booster ruptured Jan. 28, 1986, triggering the explosion of its external fuel tank and the breakup of the shuttle.

The most significant changes to the boosters involve the fuel segment joints. They use a third O-ring seal and a different design for the interior insulation that serves as a first line of defense against the fiery gases inside the rocket's steel casing.

In addition, the joints have heaters to keep the synthetic rubber O-rings warm so they will not become stiff, and feature a new steel lip to minimize the amount the joint can flex open during ignition.

IN BRIEF

Explosion Rocks Mine Shaft; 70 South Africans Feared Dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — An explosion rocked a gold mine shaft today as black miners returned to work at the end of a 21-day strike, mine officials said. About 70 workers were missing.

A spokesman for the General Mining Corp. said the explosion rocked the No. 10 shaft at the St. Helena mine about 160 miles south of Johannesburg at 7:15 a.m. (1:15 a.m. EDT).

"At the time of the explosion about 70 employees were believed to have been in the shaft's elevator, which was descending at the time," the company spokesman said.

He said it was not clear where the explosion took place or what caused it.

He said rescuers were on the scene, but had not been able to make contact with the high-speed elevator, which could be anywhere up to two miles below ground.

Shiites, Sunnis Fight In Lebanon

BAALBECK, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Amal militiamen, following a military parade in eastern Lebanon, staged a pitched battle with a leftist pro-Syrian group that left two people dead and 10 wounded.

Security sources said dozens of gunmen from Nabih Berri's Amal militia and members of the leftist Syrian Social National Party (SSNP) fought the militiamen on the streets.

Jewish Leaders Open Vatican Talks

ROME (UPI) — Nine Jewish leaders opened a day of talks with high Vatican officials today on Catholic-Jewish relations, which were exacerbated by Austrian President Kurt Waldheim's June audience with Pope John Paul II.

A spokesman for the Jewish leaders said they did not come to the Vatican to seek an apology.

"We want to express our deep concern, hurt and confusion as to why there should be a meeting with a man like Waldheim," Gunther Lawrence told reporters outside the offices of the Vatican just before the talks started.

Lawrence said, however, it appears a scheduled meeting in Miami between John Paul and Jewish leaders during the pope's Sept. 10-19 visit to the United States will be held despite earlier threats of a Jewish boycott.

"Officially, the position was that Miami depends on the outcome of this meeting," Lawrence said. "But based on private talks held earlier I think it looks very promising at this moment."

Members of the International Jewish Committee on Inter-religious Consultations, including six U.S. rabbis, met with Cardinal Johannes Willebrands, the Dutch president of the Vatican Commission for Religious Relations with the Jews, and eight other Vatican officials.

"We want to remove the tension and get dialogue back on the fast track," said B'nai B'rith president Seymour Reich of Great Neck, N.Y.

Reich said Sunday that in addition to discussing the Waldheim audience, the group plans to talk about attitudes toward the holocaust, establishment of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and Israel and contemporary anti-Semitism.

The Jewish leaders will meet with the pope Tuesday in his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo in the Alban Hills, 15 miles south of Rome.

Super Collider Bid Deadline Nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nevada Gov. Richard Bryan knows why nearly every state wants the world's largest atom smasher: It's "the most significant economic development plum of the last quarter of the 20th century."

Florida's bid is with a location near Jacksonville, an inducement package valued at more than $40 million, and access to the super-computer at FSU. At the minimum, the government expects up to 16,000 acres in free land. Some states offer much more — even hundreds of millions of dollars in assistance.

Few projects rival the super collider, which would have an annual operating budget of $270 million and would employ 2,500 scientists and technicians. It is expected to be a magnet for high-tech industries, scientific facilities and schools. Only a few states, most notably Hawaii, Indiana, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, are passing up the competition.

Proposed Sites For Super Collider

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bidders are giving the government more than 34 possible sites for the superconducting super collider and a welter of reasons why they think they have the best site.

search center. Backers say their sites geologically are better than state choices. "West Texas and southern New Mexico have been overlooked ... like we're political children," says council executive director Justin Ormsby.

for a "science center" that includes a planned community and schools but Utah is willing discuss alternate uses of site money. Sites are remote but close to Salt Lake City airport, railroads and interstates. Sites also are close to three universities, Morton Thokol's Wasatch Division and the Hercules Aerospace Division.

Florida A site 20 miles northwest of Jacksonville is the choice of Florida, which is offering highway, railroad, sewer line and water line improvements worth up to $40 million, as well as additional enhancements like beefing up physics departments at state universities and creation of research facilities. Also mentioned is use of Florida State University's new super-computer. "We don't plan to present any cash inducements," says spokesman Chris Harris.

Northeast Coalition New Jersey and the New England states support a regional proposal that offers three sites in New York: one near the St. Lawrence River, another between Syracuse and Rochester, and the third west of Newburgh in the Hudson River valley. Major advantages are proximity to premiere research schools, such as MIT, promise of low-cost hydro-electric power and convenient transportation links. New York has appropriated $50 million, mostly for land acquisition.

North Carolina Gov. Jim Martin says North Carolina was late in entering the race but officials say the state has a unique proposal because its site, near Research Triangle Park, lies in rural area but is close to three major research institutions, interstate highways and a regional airport. The state offers $300 million to beef up universities, $80 million in research funding, $137 million in highway construction and $115 million to counties for support facilities.

California Two sites in the San Joaquin valley are proposed, one in the Buckton-Modesto area and the other west of Sacramento. State officials have drafted a package of $600 million in incentives to buy the land and pay for improvements but the Legislature is battling over what share of contracts should go to firms owned by women and minorities. Supporters warned last week California had little chance if the Legislature did not act before the federal deadline. The package includes a university-level science institute. State bonds would pay for the package.

Colorado The state proposes to build the collider in Estancia Valley at a site 80 miles southeast of Albuquerque. Officials tout quality of life, arts in Santa Fe and Albuquerque as well as the large number of scientists already at work at the Los Alamos and Sandia national laboratories in the same area. "We spent not one penny in Washington. No lobbyist, no attempt to build up a propaganda organization," said Laurence Lattman, the state site evaluation chairman.

Wyoming The state is offering a water system, sewage treatment plant and space for a landfill at its proposed site of 19.96 acres near Burns, about 16 miles east of Cheyenne in southeast Wyoming. Gov. Mike Sullivan was to announce a sealed letter listing other offers. The site is close to interstates 80 and 144, a two-hour drive from Denver's airport and four major universities are within 125 miles.

Nevada A 16,000-acre site near Winnemucca and 150 miles east of Reno is the state's choice. If Nevada is the winner, the state would spend between $100 million and $300 million to build water and sewer systems and the new community that would be planned. The site is 150 miles from nearest international airport and nearest university.

Texas The Texas National Research Laboratory Commission, a state agency, proposes a site 30 miles south of Dallas and one near Amarillo in the Panhandle. Voters in November will decide whether to issue $500 million in general obligation bonds and an unlimited amount in local revenue bonds to finance land acquisition, construction of laboratories for the collider, help cover construction costs and pay for special utility rate packages. Advantages are access to helium, needed for chilling equipment so it becomes superconductive, and emerging high-tech sector.

Ohio The proposal calls for putting the collider on 12,000 acres 50 miles northwest of Columbus, Ohio. The site would be given to the federal government after severals, water lines, power lines and roads are built. Ohio officials refuse to say how much would be spent on the work. Advantages are proximity to Ohio State University and West Virginia University.

Utah Two sites, side by side in the Great Salt Lake Desert area and about 60 to 75 miles west of Salt Lake, are proposed by Utah. The state is offering to finance the collider with $40 million in state bonds and a $10 million appropriation. Proposal includes $20 million

Alaska The state is offering an incentive package, including improved road and access, water and sewer lines, and upgraded power supply, for its 15,830-acre site in central Alaska, 55 miles southwest of Fairbanks. The site is equidistant from scientific centers in Japan, China, Russia, Europe and the lower 48 states, says project manager Tim Tilsworth. "We don't know any other state that can say that."

Johnson's 9.83 100 Meters Burns Lewis

ROME (UPI) — In about the time it takes to read this sentence, Canadian Ben Johnson settled one of the most eagerly awaited showdowns in track and field.

Johnson, a 25-year-old born in Jamaica, knocked one-tenth of a second off American Calvin Smith's 4-year-old world mark of 9.93 seconds in beating American Carl Lewis Sunday at the World Track and Field Championships.

Lewis, who won the 100 meters at the inaugural Championships four years ago, ran a 9.93, his fastest time ever.

Johnson grabbed a two-step lead at the start and was never in danger of losing his lead.

"Next year I will work on increasing my speed and maybe I will even lower the mark at the Seoul Olympics," Johnson said.

Said Lewis: "I'm not disappointed. I ran the fastest 100 meters I've ever run and I've still got the long jump and relay to come. He got a great start and I didn't do what I had to do."

Just 14 minutes after Johnson's world record, Stefka Kostadinova of Bulgaria improved her own world best in the women's high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 10 1-4 inches on her second attempt to win the gold medal. She beat her previous world standard by less than half an inch.

There was an East German 1-2 finish in the women's 100 meters final as Silke Gladisch beat Heike Drechsler to win in 10.90 seconds. Gladisch ran the year's fastest time, a wind-assisted 10.82, in the semifinals.

In the men's javelin, Seppo Raity of Finland recovered after slipping on the runway on his first attempt to win with a throw of 274 feet, 1 inch on his final effort.

The home fans at Olympic Stadium erupted to greet the meet's first Italian gold medalist, Maurizio Damilano, who won the 20-kilometer walk in 1 hour, 20 minutes, 45 seconds.

Four finals are scheduled Monday — the women's 400 meters, 800 meters and discus, and the men's triple jump. The women's heptathlon also gets under way.

Missing from the triple jump will be American world record-holder Willie Banks, who did more to popularize the event in the early 1980s than anyone else. He finished sixth in qualifying and was eliminated.

The Johnson-Lewis clash, billed as one of the highlights of the Championships, lived up to all its pre-race publicity.

It was the first time in history two men have run under 10 seconds in the same race, and produced the first non-American world record-holder since Armin Hary of West Germany and Harry Jerome of Canada shared the mark in 1960.

It was also the single greatest improvement on the 100-meter record in history.

The race confirmed what has been obvious to many the past two years, that Johnson is the fastest man who has ever raced.

Smith's 9.93 mark was set at the high altitude of Colorado Springs, Colo., but Johnson has twice run 9.95 seconds at low altitude, the last time two weeks ago in Cologne, West Germany.

Jamaican Ray Stewart, who ran a wind-assisted 9.89 seconds at the Pan American Games Aug. 9, took the silver in 10.08 seconds, with European champion Linford Christie of Britain fourth in 10.14.

Sanford's Reggie Branch, left, talks some special teams strategy with teammate Claude Verdin. Branch, a 1981 Seminole High standout, picked up a tackle and threw two key blocks for first downs in the Redskins' loss to Tampa.

Branch Likes Special Piece Of Skins' Pie

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

TAMPA — Sanford's Reggie Branch is a believer in determination and hard work. It's a credo he has followed all his life. And for Branch, that determination and hard work has earned him a spot on the Washington Redskins.

Branch, a 1981 Seminole High School graduate, returned home on Saturday night as the Redskins and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers hooked up in a pre-season game at Tampa Stadium. The Bucs edged the Redskins, 17-10, on Tampa running back James Wilder's 4-yard touchdown catch from Steve DeBerg with 1:43 left to play.

"That was a tough one to drop," Branch said after the game in the Washington locker room. "I had a lot of family and friends here tonight, and I really wanted to win."

Branch, 24, who is starting his third year with the Redskins, is currently playing on all of the special teams. He is also being used as a fullback on short yardage situations. It is said that special teams are one-third of the game, and Branch said that he is very happy with his role.

"My job is to go out there and play on the special teams," Branch, who played his college ball at East Carolina, said. "I'm perfectly happy with what I'm doing on this team. I'd like to carry the ball a little bit more, but we have a lot of good backs on this team, so not getting the ball that often doesn't really bother me."

"Everybody on the team is a piece of the pie," Branch continued. "And I like my piece." Branch got to see a lot of action against Tampa as he made a tackle on punt coverage, and threw a pair of key blocks that enabled the Redskins to get a pair of first downs.

In his first two seasons, Branch was cut in training camp only to be recalled later in the season. Branch said that he feels that has firmly established himself this year.

"It was tough when they let me go," Branch said. "I had to keep a positive attitude about it, though. Even when things go bad for me, I try to keep a positive attitude.

"I feel that I am part of the family this year, though," Branch said. "The organization is great, and I'm going to give one hundred percent when I'm playing."

Branch said that he first realized that he could play big time football while he was playing at Seminole. "When I was at Seminole, my uncle (New England running back Tony Collins) started playing college football," Branch said. "I said to myself 'if he can play college ball, so can I.' And when he went pro, I realized that I could if I put me mind to it."

Branch's mere appearance is overwhelming. His upper body bulges constantly, and his arms resemble small tree limbs. Branch said that weightlifting is a hobby that he enjoys, although it wasn't always that way. "When I was at Seminole, (weightlifting) coach Bill McDaniel always told me to start lifting weights," Branch said. "But I always declined because I was running track and was too busy."

"I finally listened to him and I have been lifting ever since," Branch, who now bench presses over 500 pounds, said. "Weightlifting has become a hobby to me. When I don't have someone there to motivate me, I motivate myself."

Although Branch came up with one tackle, he was still wondering about what might have been on another near miss which came on Bobby Futrell's 72-yard punt return for a crucial touchdown three seconds before halftime.

"I was the first one down there," Branch said. "I was about to hit him, but my own guy knocked me down. That was frustrating to say the least."

Branch said once again the

Unproven Vols Turn Back Iowa, 23-22

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — One of the reasons coaches Johnny Majors of Tennessee and Hayden Fry of Iowa accepted invitations to the Kickoff Classic was to learn about their teams. The early report cards were positive.

No. 17 Tennessee emerged with more than a 23-22 victory Sunday in the game that opened the 119th college football season and No. 18 Iowa left Giants Stadium with more than a loss.

The Volunteers won thanks to the efforts of two previously unproven players, red-shirt freshman tailback Reggie Cobb and junior kicker Phil Reich.

Cobb was named most valuable player in his first college game, rushing for 138 yards on 25 carries. He ran for 119 yards on 19 carries in the second half and helped set up Reich's three fourth-quarter field goals, including a 20-yarder with three seconds left.

"I can't remember relying on a first-game freshman as much as we did Reggie Cobb," Majors said after his team won its sixth straight game dating back to last season.

Football

"We were excited about his possibilities and he seemed to come along as the game progressed. He was doing such an outstanding job we decided to keep on giving it to him."

Cobb gained 102 yards on 14 carries in the fourth quarter as Reich closed each of Tennessee's drives in the period with a field goal.

Reich has the difficult job of following the standout kicking brother duo of Fuad and Carlos Reveiz. Reich, a walk-on, kicked sparingly last year.

"What more can you say about Phil Reich, in only his second collegiate game, coming through under the pressure the way he did," said Majors, who last week decided to give Reich a scholarship.

Majors also was pleased with a defense, missing two starting linemen, that held Iowa to 111 rushing yards on 32 carries.

Raiders Embarrass Error-Prone Dallas

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — In an overly long and less-than-artistic evening at Texas Stadium, the Los Angeles Raiders showed Sunday night they are further along than the Dallas Cowboys.

Unfortunately for the Raiders, that is not saying much.

Los Angeles beat Dallas in their exhibition encounter, 34-10, with the Raiders producing a little offense and a lot of everything else.

The Raiders intercepted five passes, recorded seven quarterback sacks, returned both a fumble and a punt for scores and took advantage of 163 yards worth of Dallas penalties.

And it took three hours and 39 minutes for them to do it.

Los Angeles and Dallas both came away with 1-2 preseason records.

Richardson Shines In 'Soap Scrimmage'

Nothing unexpected came out of Saturday morning's "Soap Scrimmage" between Seminole High's offense and defense. Both outfits ran clean productions while the spectators contributed bars of soap and laundry detergent toward keeping the spotless string intact.

Nothing unexpected to the coaches, that is. They know all about Kevin Richardson. Opponent coaches, however, now have one more weapon to worry about coming from the Seminole's speedy backfield.

The biggest offensive burst Saturday came from Richardson, one of the speedy "backups" of coach Emory Blake's luxury backfield.

Getting key blocks from halfback Eric Williams and linemen Kevin Straub and Brian Revels, the 5-foot-10, 172-pound junior broke a dive play 65 yards for a touchdown.

"He really has a quick first step," linebacker Earnie "Sackman" Lewis said. "He gets into the hole so quick, then he's gone."

The offense scored three times and the defense made some great plays.

"We scored it about 50-50," offensive coordinator Blake said. "We moved the ball, took it 80 yards one time. That's good control, especially against a super defense like we have."

Coach Roger Beathard agreed. "Our big-play offense scored well," he said. "And our defense had some bright spots, too."

"We're ready to tangle with somebody besides ourselves. We're really looking forward to Thursday," he added.

Thursday presents the first test outside Sanford. The Fighting Seminoles will take on Kissimmee Osceola in the first half of Lyman's Jamboree at 7 p.m. Lyman and Oviedo tangle in the second quarter.

Jeff Blake, back for his senior year after a broken leg cost his last season, figured in the other two scores. Blake, who completed 7 of 13 for 125 yards and no interceptions, found fullback Curtis Rudolph on a swing pass for 25 yards for one TD and came back with a 15-yarder to Brandon Cash for the other score.

Cash, just a sophomore who is splitting time with Eugene Byam at tight end, broke a tackle on his way to the end zone.

Richardson led the rushers with 74 yards in four carries. Rudolph (42/12), Jerod Jones (28/8), Williams (18/4) and Blake (18/3) were next in line. Blake fumbled once. Dwight Brinson, a junior who didn't play last year, caught two passes for 40 yards as did Cash. Rudolph had two for 35 and Jerry Governall had one for 10.

"Dwight does a good job of catching the ball over the middle," Jeff Blake said. "He's not afraid to take a lick."

Beathard said he was impressed with guard Wilton Hooks and Governall "who made a nice run on a counter trap."

Defensively, Lewis, defensive back Leonard Lucas and end Arline Daniels were mentioned. "Lewis and Lucas are easy names to pull out any time," Beathard said. "Daniels gave us some good pressure inside. Richardson, too, is improving and pushing for a starting defensive tackle position."

Beathard said J.J. Partlow will handle the place kicking while Pat Dougherty and Les Thomas are locked in a duel for the punting chores.

Although Beathard said he was pleased with the progress of Seminole '87, the intense heat has made conditioning difficult. "That's one fear is that it is too hot to get in good shape," he said. "We certainly don't want anybody passing out or getting heat stroke. We are very conscious of the heat. If the kids start feeling bad, we want them off the field."

Beathard said he has compensated in the weightroom. "We do circuits in the weightroom, station to station, move, move, move, quick heavy

Puckett's 1-Man Gang Puts Twins Back On The Top

A.L. Baseball

United Press International The Minnesota Twins needed a victory Sunday to take sole possession of first place in the American League West, and Kirby Puckett delivered it as close to single-handedly as possible.

Puckett went 6 for 6 with two home runs and four RBI, and robbed Robin Yount of a grand slam to lead the Twins to a 10-6 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers. The decision, combined with Oakland's loss to Toronto, put the Twins one game ahead of the Athletics.

Combined with his 4 for 5 game Saturday night, Puckett tied Rennie Stennett's major-league record for 10 hits over consecutive games. Stennett set his record Sept. 16-17, 1975.

"I don't pay attention to records," Puckett said. "What I pay attention to is where the team stands. Right now we're in first, and that's where we want to finish up."

The Twins have a 26-43 road record, but are 43-20 at home and play 18 of their last 30 games at Minneapolis. Sunday's victory gave the Twins their first consecutive road victories since June 15-16.

"I saw it was going to be a home run but I thought I could catch it," Puckett said. "I took some steps back and thought, 'I've got a chance, I've got a chance,' and kept going back."

The Brewers took a 6-5 lead in the inning, but the Twins went ahead 8-6 in the eighth. Puckett contributing a double. He added his 21st homer of the season in the ninth.

Keith Atherton, 5-4, pitched 1 1/3 innings of scoreless relief for the victory. Jeff Reardon pitched two innings for his 25th save. Chuck Crim, 5-6, took the loss.

In other games, Toronto topped Oakland 13-3. New York beat Seattle 4-1. Boston bounced Cleveland 7-3. California downed Baltimore 6-2. Detroit dumped Texas 7-0 and Kansas City kicked Chicago 11-7.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 7, Houston 0; St. Louis 4, Atlanta 3; Chicago 3, Cincinnati 1; Montreal 5, Los Angeles 1; and New York 5, San Francisco 3.

Speedy Cards Squeeze Past Braves In 9th, 4-3

N.L. Baseball

United Press International A combination of speed and surprise Sunday startled the Atlanta Braves and produced the 44th come-from-behind victory of the season for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jose Oquendo's bases-loaded suicide squeeze capped a three-run ninth inning to boost the host Cardinals to a 4-3 triumph over Atlanta.

"I wasn't surprised about the bunt," Oquendo said. "You can expect anything from this team. We will bunt with two outs."

With Jack Clark breaking from third on Gene Garber's second pitch to Oquendo, the Cardinals second baseman dropped a bunt down the third-base line that extended the Redbirds' winning streak to five games.

St. Louis remained five games in front of second-place Montreal and led third-place New York by 5 1/2 games in the National League East.

With Atlanta leading 3-1, Vince Coleman led off the ninth with a double. One out later, Terry Pendleton doubled home Coleman. After Jim Acker, 1-7, walked Clark, Paul Assenmacher relieved and Willie McGee doubled to right, tying the score.

Garber, whom the Braves traded to Kansas City after the game, entered and intentionally walked pinch-hitter Tom Herr to load the bases. Oquendo then delivered his fourth game-winning hit, making a winner of Bill Dawley, 5-7.

"I just wanted to get it on the ground and get out of Jack's way," Oquendo said. "I wanted to get it in fair territory. That was on my mind."

"I didn't have a chance for it," Garber said. "I just slapped at it trying to get it to Ozzie (Virgil). There wasn't much I could do."

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh blasted Houston 7-0. Chicago tripped Cincinnati 3-1. Montreal edged Los Angeles 5-4. San Diego defeated Philadelphia 6-1, and New York downed San Francisco 5-3.

Ryan's Hope Is Too Late To Halt Taiwan Onslaught

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — The Irvine, Calif., Little League team found a pitcher who could get people out. Unfortunately for the team, Ryan O'Toole entered three innings too late.

O'Toole delivered a scoreless performance Saturday after Hua Lian, Taiwan, shelved Irvine starter Aron Garcia for 21 runs in the first three innings. The Taiwanese emerged with a 21-1 victory in the 41st Little League World Series.

The 5-foot-11-inch, 90-pound O'Toole moved to the mound from his usual position of second base to begin the bottom of the fourth inning. He pitched hitless ball, striking out two and walking one.

"Ryan's a real competitor," Irvine Manager Bob Garcia, Aron's father, said. "He didn't say die."

If the 11-year-old was nervous before the 35,000 fans, he didn't show it.

"After I struck out the first batter, I had confidence in myself," he said. "I used a lot of curves and they couldn't hit them."

But Hua Lian's performance in the first three innings was more than enough to negate O'Toole's later heroics.

The 21 runs scored by Taiwan represented the most ever scored by one team in the championship game. The previous high was by Williamsport in the first World Series in 1947, when it defeated Lock Haven, Pa., 18-7.

The Taiwanese batted around in the first inning, scoring five runs on two hits, an error, three walks and three wild pitches. In the second inning, the Taiwanese sent 12 batters to the plate, scoring nine runs on seven hits, including a grand-slam by Pang Yu-Long.

Pang hit a two-run homer in the third inning when Taiwan scored seven more runs.

Expos..... 5 Dodgers..... 4

At Los Angeles, pinch hitter Wallace Johnson doubled home two runs with two out in the ninth inning to spark the Expos to their fifth straight victory. Jeff Parrett, 5-5, pitched one inning. Tim Burke worked the ninth for his 12th save. Dodgers starter Fernando Valenzuela, 11-12, struck out 10 and walked seven in 8 1/3 innings.

Tim Raines was 3 for 3 with an RBI.

Sanford Golfers Find Magic At Kingdom Classic

(Editor's note: Chris Fister's golf column appears Monday in the Herald. Area golf courses may call Fister (322-2611) Tuesday and Wednesday after 7 p.m. to report news.)

Ron Russi and Steve Groover, a pair of Sanford residents, were the big winners this past weekend in the Walt Disney World Magic Kingdom Club Classic Tournament at the Lake Buena Vista course.

Russi was the tournament winner with a 2-over score of 74 for 18 holes. Groover may have been 19 strokes off the pace at 93, but he came away about $7,000 richer.

While Russi took medalist honors, Groover won the grand prize in the random drawing after the tourney. The grand prize includes an all-expenses paid trip to the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Pro-Am Golf Classic on Oct. 15-18. Along with having all hotel accommodations and meals paid for, Groover will get to play in the Pro-Am with the PGA Tour professionals. Also as part of the grand prize, Groover won a one-year pass to Walt Disney World and Epcot Center and a one-year membership to the three Disney courses.

"This is the first time I've played in this tournament," Groover said. "And I actually took somebody's place who was originally going to play but couldn't make it."

"It's hard to believe, I've never won anything before," Groover added. "When they called my number, I was kind of in a state of shock. I'll probably play the Disney courses a few times and my wife and kids will use the Disney and Epcot pass quite often."

For Russi, who has an impressive 5-handicap, it was the second time he has won the Disney tournament in the last seven years. There were 144 golfers on hand for this past weekend's event and second place to Russi's 74 was a 8-over 78.

Chris Fister

"I play about 18 tournaments a year and this is one I always look forward to," Russi said. "This is an invitation tournament for people that have corporate sponsorships in the Magic Kingdom Club. I'm fortunate to have been invited to it the last seven years."

Russi said he received a few prizes for the victory, but nothing comparable to Groover's intake.

"I think he (Groover) is still in shock," Russi said. "They have to make the grand prize a random drawing, because if they gave it to the winner, he would lose his amateur status."

Groover, who has an 11 handicap, and Russi are both part of a group of golfers who play together at various courses around the area about once a week. The group's spiritual leader is said to be Mac Blythe, the new girls basketball coach at Lake Mary High School.

Weird golf happening of the week: This was probably the most errant drive in the history of golf. It didn't however, take place on the course.

The destiny of the Fister Foursome this past weekend was picturesque Glen Abbey Country Club in DeBary. While two of the four, Mark McGee and Bill "Pork" Gallaher, took the safe U.S. Highway 17-92 route, passenger Fister and pilot Calvin Opheim attempted the Interstate 4 turbo route.

While McGee and Gallaher arrived with ample time to warmup, the Fister-Opheim duo somehow got lost after getting off at the Deltona-DeBary exit. Instead of making a quick left, the Opheim Scirocco continued to bolt straight ahead. After passing Enterprise and unknown unincorporated parts of Volusia County, the tardy twosome looked for a turn that would head them toward DeBary.

When Osteen Elementary School popped up on the left, they knew they were in trouble. While the other two putted and chipped until it became disturbing, the lost boys, running dangerously close to empty on the gas gauge, hit State Road 415, then took a quick left at the next sign of civilization.

After about 20 miles of twisting, turning back roads, Fister-Opheim finally got back to I-4, well North of DeBary. Getting the most out of the scant fumes left in the tank, Opheim finally coasted into a Mobil station in DeBary. About 20 minutes later, all-told over one hour late, they finally teed off on hole one. And, of course, turn-about is fair play as neither of the twosome hit tee shots in the fairway. Opheim would regroup and shoot a decent round. However, obviously shaken by the ordeal, Fister took some 12 holes to get on track.

NEXT WEEK — What do you do when you hit your golf ball onto a tennis court?

IN BRIEF

Amateur Champ Mayfair Proves Best Match Is That Of Survival

JUPITER (UPI) — In a match play tournament, where the only measure of success is whether you survive to play another day, 1987 U.S. Amateur finalist Bill Mayfair is the perfect champion.

During his march to victory in the 87th renewal of the most prestigious amateur event in the United States, Mayfair distinguished himself only by surviving. He first made the cut in stroke-play qualifying, then won each time in a steady fashion in match play. Twice, he had to play extra holes to advance.

But surviving is what match play is all about, and Sunday, Mayfair, the 1987 NCAA Player of the Year at Arizona State, culminated his steady week by defeating Eric Rebmann 4 and 3.

In Sunday's scheduled 36-hole final, Mayfair finished the first 18 holes 1 up, then made 13 pars and two birdies in the afternoon to win the match.

"You can't get too high or too low," Mayfair, 21, said of his strategy in the tournament. "You've got to take it one hole at a time."

Strange Sets Earnings' Record

AKRON, Ohio — Curtis Strange earned the winner's check of $144,000 Sunday at the World Series of Golf and set a single-season earnings record for the second time in four years.

But money can't buy what the 32-year-old from Kingmill, Va., wants most as a PGA Tour professional.

"Winning the PGA Player of the Year award would be very important to me," he said. "In 1985, I won top money ($542,321) and the writers made me their Player of the Year but I didn't get the PGA one. Lanny (Wadkins) outpointed us all. This year, I've got a chance. It would mean a hell of a lot to me."

Strange shot a 1-over-par 71 in the final round Sunday to take $800,000 NEC World Series by three shots over Fulton Allem of South Africa.

Svensson Nips Pate At Hamlet

JERICHO, N.Y. (UPI) — Unseeded Jonas B. Svensson of Sweden edged No. 8 seed David Pate of Las Vegas, Nev., 7-6 (7-4) 3-6, 6-3 Sunday in the final of the $150,000 Norstar Hamlet Challenge Cup tennis tournament.

Svensson, a 20-year-old who holds a No. 25 world ranking, made Pate, ranked 19th, his fourth upset victim and collected $37,000. Svensson, a tall, hard-serving player, allowed only six points in five service games to win the third set. He had beaten fifth-seeded Anders Jarryd, No. 3 seed Pat Cash and No. 7 Henri Leconte to reach the final.

Okamoto Earns Super Payday

LAKE LANIER ISLANDS, Ga. (UPI) — Ayako Okamoto of Japan forgot about a nagging cold and her recent inability to hold leads to capture the $250,000 World Championship of Women's Golf.

Okamoto shot a 1-under-par 71 Sunday to edge Betsy King by a stroke and win $81,500, the biggest first-place prize in the history of women's golf.

"I couldn't believe I won," Okamoto said. "In both the U.S. Open and du Maurier, I had the lead and lost and I didn't feel as well this week."

Maleeva Turns Back Hanika

MAHWAH, N.J. (UPI) — Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria overcame a fast start by Sylvia Hanika of West Germany Sunday to earn a 1-8, 6-4, 6-1 victory in the final of the $150,000 United Jersey Bank Classic.

Maleeva, ranked 10th in the world, earned $30,500 to become the 21st woman to amass $1 million in career prize money. The 20-year-old from Sofia has won $1,002,963, pushing her ahead of Hanika, who collected $13,500 to increase her total to $984,147.

Barber Shears Seniors' Field

JEREMY RANCH, Utah (UPI) — Miller Barber survived a three-hole slump Sunday to defeat Australian Bruce Crampton by one stroke and win the $300,000 PGA Senior Showdown Classic.

Barber, who once held a five-stroke lead over Crampton, shot an even-par 72 in the final round to finish the 54-hole event at 210 and earn $45,000. The money put Barber less than $8,000 short of $3 million in combined PGA and PGA Senior career earnings.

Andretti Ends Disappointment

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (UPI) — Mario Andretti ended almost five months of disappointment with an easy 41-second triumph in the Living Well-Providi 200, a CART race for Indy cars at Road America.

Andretti, the pole-sitter, Sunday led from the start and took the checkered flag 41.08 seconds ahead of Geoff Brabham in a smooth run, uneventful race. Brabham started the race in sixth position.

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 70.15 last week, was down 4.16 to 2635.19 shortly after the market opened.

But gainers led losers 486-453 among the 1,349 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 8,456,000 shares.

Traders said a firming dollar encouraged buying. Rising crude oil prices also gave a boost to oil stocks. Exxon, Chevron and Texaco, all components of the Dow Jones Industrial average, were ahead, giving the gauge some support.

The stock market retreated last week, rising to record highs on Tuesday before giving in to profit-takers as the week wore on. Analysts said persistent dollar weakness and rising interest rates in the bond market encouraged investors to lock in profits after the market's recent run-up.

The dollar's recent weakness and inflation fears prompted by rising oil prices and by the belief that the U.S. economy will remain strong have sent bond prices down and yields to their highest levels of the year.

Dollar Opens Mixed; Gold Mostly Higher

By United Press International

The dollar opened mixed Monday in light trading on major world currency markets. The price of gold was mostly higher.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed slightly higher against the Japanese yen, closing at 142.35 yen, up 0.85 from Friday.

Traders in Japan said news reports of renewed attacks by Iraq on oil shipping in the Persian Gulf helped push the dollar higher.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly higher against key foreign currencies in light trading.

Traders in New York said they anticipated little rate movement for the day and expected volume to remain light because the bank holiday in London had severely constricted European trading.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 1.8145 German marks, down from 1.8204 on Friday.

In Zurich, the dollar began the day fractionally higher at 1.4955 Swiss francs up from 1.4945.

The dollar opened in Paris at 6.0655 French francs, down from 6.0815. In Brussels at 37.95 Belgian francs, up from 37.84 and in Amsterdam at 2.044 Dutch guilders, up slightly from 2.04.

In Milan, the dollar began the day at 1,315.50 lire, down from Friday's close of 1,318.30.

Gold opened 50 cents lower in Zurich at $453 an ounce and silver was unchanged at $7.40 an ounce.

The Hong Kong Bullion Exchange was closed for a national holiday.

In early trading on New York's Comex, a 100-troy-ounce gold futures contract for current delivery in September opened at $455, up $1.90 from Friday's close. A 5,000-troy-ounce silver futures contract for delivery in September opened at $7.385, up 3.5 cents an ounce.

New Home Sales Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sales pace for new single-family homes rose 0.5 percent in July from the month before while the average cost of those houses fell 4.65 percent to $129,200, the government said Monday.

New homes sold at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 653,000, up from June's rate of 650,000, the departments of Commerce and of Housing and Urban Development said in a joint release.

Those rates reflect the number of houses that would be sold in a year if every month had sales like the one studied and if adjustments for seasonal factors were made.

The median sales price — the point at which half of all the homes sold cost more, the other half less — dropped 0.9 percent to $107,000. The average sales price plummeted 4.65 percent to $129,200.

The report follows analysts' predictions that the housing market would recover slightly from the mortgage-rate shock experienced this spring, when interest rates rose 1 1/2 percentage points.

and firing the city finance director, clerk, attorney and police chief. Any action the city manager takes on these matters must come under commission approval.

The charter change will also make Norris the city's chief budgetary officer. He would then be responsible for the drafting and presentation of the city's annual budget to the commission.

The other referendum question asks voters to decide if they want to change the city's election date from Sept. 1, every year to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. This change would put the Lake Mary's election date on the same day the state traditionally holds its elections.

The major reason for the effort to switch the election day is the hope it will bring about more voter participation in city elections.

are Bahrain, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates.

Revolutionary Guards have mounted similar attacks on shipping in other parts of the gulf this year.

In Tehran, the official Islamic Republic News Agency said Iran also downed an Iraqi plane Sunday afternoon.

At dawn today, the American convoy of two re-flagged Kuwaiti tankers and six U.S. warships was sighted off Bahrain moving north at about 15 knots toward Kuwait. Witnesses said the vessels had been joined by a third unidentified tanker that apparently was "hitching a ride."

When sighted Sunday afternoon off Dubai, Sea Stallion mine-sweeping helicopters were leading the escort operation for the 80,000-ton oil product carrier Chesapeake City and the 81,000-ton Surf City, while the amphibious assault ship USS Guadalcanal brought up the rear.

Iraq mounted heavy attacks Sunday on Iranian targets, bombing the main Kharg Island oil terminal and damaging an Iranian tanker moored at the facility. It also struck other offshore and mainland oil installations.

Western diplomats in the region expressed alarm at the resumption of the tanker war and said Iraq may be trying to provoke Iran into attacking the U.S. Middle East Naval Task Force in the gulf, drawing the United States deeper into the conflict.

"The Iraqis are tired of waiting for the Iraqis to make peace," one Western diplomat said. "They see the only way of winning to be getting the United States to intervene on their side."

Iraq has agreed to accept the U.N. Security Council cease-fire plan, but Iran has not.

In Washington, Undersecretary of State Michael Armacost called the timing of the new Iraqi attacks on maritime targets "deplorable" but "understandable."

Armacost, speaking Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," said, "Iraq had been warning that a failure by Iran to comply (with the U.N. plan) would leave them (Iraq) in a position where they couldn't allow the ground war to continue and escalate despite the Security Council resolution without some response in the gulf."

Iraq says it considers tankers carrying Iranian oil a legitimate target because Tehran uses foreign exchange from oil sales to buy weapons. Iran has vowed to retaliate for the attacks on shipping.

Iran said Sunday it fired long-range artillery at Baghdad and claimed to have intercepted 13 vessels in the strategic Strait of Hormuz.

Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Velayati sent a letter to Perez de Cuellar saying Iran had no choice but to retaliate because Iraq had dashed hopes of peace sparked by the Security Council cease-fire resolution.

Iran also warned against a resumption of the so-called war of the cities.

"Baghdad will be leveled to the ground by missiles if the Iraqi regime resumes bombing of Iranian cities," Revolutionary Guard Corps Minister Mohsen Rafiqdoust was quoted by IRNA as saying.

The Iraqi News Agency said Iran shelled the war-torn city of Basra in southern Iraq, which Iranian ground forces based some 9 miles away have been battering since early this year.

Tullis said the program is an effort to keep students from getting involved with drugs and alcohol by bombarding them with positive attitudes and treatment. "If we can make students feel better about themselves we can deter them from getting into drugs," she said.

Tullis said students often reach for drugs as the quickest way to deal with problems they face, like academic and peer pressure. "It's easier to pop a pill in your mouth than deal with a problem," she said.

"What keeps you going is a hope for a better day tomorrow," Tullis said of many high school students. Tullis thinks it is not very difficult for a student to deal with problems if the six teachers they encounter in their classes daily try to make the students feel better about themselves.

Lake Mary High School received national media attention for a program it began last year that required students involved in extracurricular activities to sign contracts promising they wouldn't use drugs or alcohol. The requirement to sign the contracts in order to participate in those activities was later dropped, and the signing was moved to a voluntary basis.

School officials reported 72 percent of the 900 students involved in school activities actually signed contracts. LMHS had a total enrollment of 2,310 students last school year.

In requesting the school board approve the second year of the program at LMHS for this year, Bill Moore, the school's assistant principal, called the program an excellent beginning.

"I think the approach the other school (LMHS) uses is a good one," Boothe said, "but we decided not to use it here at Lake Brantley." Boothe said he was more comfortable with emphasizing the use of education to prevent drug and alcohol involvement in the school, and then using contracts only with students who have been caught using or possessing drugs or alcohol.

"I think our school's positive approach is a lot better than the contracts the other school (LMHS) uses," Aiello said. "From what I hear about our program it should work out very well." Aiello said she has heard nothing but good comments around school about the program.

Karen Coleman, coordinator of community relations and public information for Seminole schools, said the program was another effort by a district school to address the problem of substance abuse. Coleman said drug and alcohol abuse is a problem of society as a whole. "Maybe by these efforts we'll do better for the next generation," Coleman said.

Tattoo Wearer's Future Is Not A Pretty Picture

DEAR ABBY: Please print this immediately for the 17-year-old girl who wanted a tattoo, but her father refused to sign the consent form:

Dear girl: Like you, I do not drink, smoke or do drugs, but I wasn't 17, I was a 29-year-old mother of two when I decided to be tattooed. I had a good excuse: When I was 14, I tried to "punish" my boyfriend for hurting me, so I cut his initials into my forearm and poured ink into the cut. His initials didn't really take, but I was left with a stupid-looking scar. In order to cover up this mess, I went to a tattoo artist. He suggested a "tiny" dragon. He said, "Let me draw you something, and if you don't like it, we won't do it." And so, on the spur of the moment, his beautiful artwork — all six inches of it — was imbedded into my forearm. It was my birthday present to myself, at the cost of only $45. And don't let anybody tell you it's painless. It was like getting a "shot" non-stop for 90 minutes.

Five months later, I met the man who was to be my second husband. He was rather old-fashioned and never liked my dragon, but he accepted it as part of me.

In time, my dragon became an embarrassment. Your father's opinion of tattooed people is widely held by the majority of the population, and even though most people don't realize their prejudice toward us, you fill find yourself answering a multitude of rude, obnoxious questions: (1) How old were you when you did it? (Assumes that you were very young, immature and stupid.) (2) Were you drunk? Stoned? (Meaning only someone who was not in his or her right mind would perform such an idiotic mutilation to their own body.) (3) Did it hurt? (Duh!) (4) How long did it take? Cost? (Too long; more than you'll ever know.) (5) Are you sorry you got it? (Yes, mainly because of the moronic questions like these and others I've had to answer for years.)

And lastly, in business (and at 17, you'll never know what you'll be doing later in life), my tattoo caused such a distraction, I've made a conscious effort to keep it covered. Tattooed people are judged before they have a chance to open their mouths.

As for getting the problem solved: One plastic surgeon told me to cut it out and graft some skin from another part of my body over it. This will result in two large scars and the cost is $2,000 and up! Second opinion: Laser surgery — one scar that will look like a burn; the cost is around $700. I opted for this.

I have my arm bandaged now, and must go for the third — and last — section in a few weeks. It's a rather gruesome thing to do to one's self. But then so was the tattoo.

I'm 35 now, and I will always have something on my arm for people to stare at. But the questions have improved already. "What happened to your arm?" Answer: "I burned it."

So, kiss your dad and thank him for loving you enough not to sign that consent paper, or you might be like me in time: An adult who did a foolish thing when she was young, and is now

SORRY, SORRY, SORRY

P.S. Abby, I know this is too long for your column, but please, get my message across, no matter how much you have to cut.

DEAR SORRY: I'm printing your letter as is — no editing. It's long, but well worth the space.

DEAR ABBY: Your "Monkey's Disgrace" lifted my laughter high on a low-mood day. It's truly a delightful ode to the disappointment of our furry forefathers.

During World War II I heard this one: "A jungle gentleman is a monkey who will not monkey with another monkey's monkey."

Choir Needs Singers For King Celebration

Irene Brown, president of the Celebration Choir, formed early in 1987 for the Martin Luther King Jr. celebration in Sanford, invites interested singers to join the choir.

Irene says the deadline for singers signing in is no later than Sept. 8 at one of the regular rehearsals which are held every Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m. at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, 2917 Orlando Drive, Sanford. The choir will sing in concert on Oct. 11, at 3 p.m., in the fine arts auditorium at Seminola Community College.

For information, contact Irene or Mary Whitehurst, director.

"Hyperactivity in Children: What Is It and What Can Be Done?" is the topic of a free community seminar at West Lake Hospital on Sept. 16 from 7-9 p.m.

"Hyperactivity, now known as Attention Deficit Disorder or ADD, is one of the most common disorders seen by child psychiatrists," according to Bruce G. Henry, M.D., West Lake Hospital psychiatrist and seminar panelist. "ADD is estimated to affect 3-5% of the primary school age population, and is a major contributor to learning failure and family frustration."

Dr. Henry will be joined by Barbara Bernbaum, M.A. of Psychiatrist Associates of Mid-Florida. They will discuss symptoms, causes and complications of ADD, as well as the most effective treatment approaches.

Two contact hours will be offered for this seminar. For reservations and more information, please call West Lake Hospital's Marketing Department at 260-1900.

The Developmental Division of Seminola Community College will begin a new daytime GED prep class at the Hunt Club Instructional Center. The class starts Sept. 8 and will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. in the Hunt Club Center Conference Room. A qualified instructor will be available to help adult students (anyone 18 years of age or older) prepare for the high school equivalency exam. The GED test is given each month on the SCC campus. The cost of the exam is $14.50.

Anyone needing information about other GED classes may call Seminola Community College 323-1450, and ask for the GED office.

A free veterans seminar with special attention to the handicapped is slated for Sept. 9 and 10 under the auspices of the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) at the University of Central Florida and four other sponsors.

The 2-day evening program at the Holiday Inn, University, will feature speakers from the SBDC, U.S. Small Business Administration, DeWolf, Ward & Morris, P.A., and Garceau & Associates Insurance Agency.

Included in the agenda is a portion devoted to special considerations for home based or homebased businesses.

Sessions will begin at 6 p.m. on the first evening and 6:30 p.m. the following day. To reserve space at the seminar, call the UCF Small Business development Center at 305/275-2796.

On Sept. 21 South Seminola Community Hospital will host a speaker from Citizens Against Crime, who will share "Ideas for Self Protection," with members of the community.

The seminar will be held from 7-8:30 p.m. in the classroom (Room 103) of the Physicians' Plaza, 521 W. State Road 434, adjacent to South Seminola Community Hospital.

Please contact Lisa Smith, director of Education, at 767-5892 for more information and to register for this free community education seminar.

The Sanford Better Breathers Club will hold its next meeting on Sept. 11. Members will meet at 2 p.m. at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce and proceed from there to tour the new Cardio-Pulmonary Rehabilitation Department in the Medical Arts Building behind the Central Florida Regional Hospital. Tara Nelman, a registered respiratory therapist, will speak to the club.

The Better Breathers Club is designed for people who have breathing disorders and their families. The club is sponsored by the American Lung Association of Central Florida and is co-sponsored by the Central Florida Regional Hospital and the Federation of Senior Citizens.

If you or a family member has a respiratory problem and would like more information, call the American Lung Association of Central Florida at 305/898-3401.

"You Too Can Be Sued: Legal Implications of Mental Health Issues" is the topic of a free seminar on Sept. 2 from 7-9 p.m. at the Omni International Hotel Orlando. The program, sponsored by West Lake Hospital, is designed to provide professionals with the latest information on how to deal with the increasing issues and demands of the legal system as it impacts the mental health field.

Seminar panelists include Martin Lazowitz, M.D., Medical Director of West Lake Hospital; Mark Rabinowitz, Attorney at Law; Heffernan & Rabinowitz, P.A.; and Harry Jacobs, Attorney at Law, Jacobs and Goodman, P.A. They will address topics such as patient commitment, premature discharges from the hospital, confidentiality, continuing responsibility to the patient or client and more.

Two contact hours will be offered for this seminar. For reservations and more information, please call West Lake Hospital's Marketing Department at 260-1900, ext. 102.

RAM Ceramic Promotions announces their 1987 RAM Ceramic Show to be held Sept. 19-20 at the Orlando Expo Centers. Saturday hours at 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday hours are noon to 5 p.m. Admission is $2.50. An Olympic Kiln will be given as a door prize.

A full competitive exhibit will be on display. Entries for competition will be taken in on Sept. 18 at the Expo in Room 600. National Awards, RAM Awards and three new awards will be given.

This year there is also a new category for the beginner hobbyist to enter.

The Executive Director of the Winter Park Family YMCA, Ron Edele, announces that registrations are currently being accepted for all fall session classes at the "Y." The Winter Park Family "Y," a United Way agency, is located at the corner of Lake Howell and Lakemont Avenue at 1201 N. Lakemont Avenue and has been serving the families of Orange and South Seminola Counties since 1964. Edele indicated that this fall will mark the largest offering of program services to the community in the last 10 years.

From a complete curriculum of swimming lessons for all ages from 6 months to seniors, to more than 16 different adult fitness classes to choose from, the Winter Park Family YMCA offers a program for every member of the family.

For information call 644-1509.

Publicity Procedures
The Sanford Herald welcomes organization and personal news. The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:
1. Releases should be typed (upper and lower case), double spaced and written narrative style (third person).
2. Do not abbreviate.
3. A contact person's name and phone number is necessary.
4. Keep releases simple.
5. Organization releases (the program should lead the meeting account) must be submitted no later than two days after the event.

Expanding Of Muscles Requires Hormones

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm about to start weight lifting. It is my understanding that weight lifting causes an increase in testosterone that, in turn, causes muscle growth. If this is true, won't the size of the sex organs increase?

DEAR READER — No, weight lifting does not stimulate testosterone production or sex-organ size. If weight lifting did this, millions of adolescent males would gladly forsake their TV sets, video games and junk food to pump themselves up at the Idol of Iron.

Male muscle development does depend on testosterone, however. This is why adolescent boys fill out as they mature. Increased muscle growth and mass are triggered by the male hormones that are secreted internally after puberty. Once the muscles are under hormonal influence, weight lifting will accentuate their development. Therefore, weight training is inappropriate for pre-adolescents, because it will unnecessarily burden underdeveloped muscles and bones. I advise any youth to avoid weight lifting until he has sexually matured.

Weight training does not stimulate testosterone production; rather, the hormone must be present already for weight lifting to make much of a difference. All women have small amounts of male hormones (just as all men have small amounts of female hormones). However, this extremely low level of male hormones keeps female weight lifters from becoming as musclebound as their male counterparts.

Incidentally: Genital size isn't related to hormone levels. Hormones are produced by glands, not by sex organs. An increased level won't enlarge male sex organs, and sex-organ size doesn't indicate an adult male's level of hormones or "masculinity."

DEAR DR. GOTT — A friend of mine eats lots of eggs and cheese, but says he keeps his cholesterol level down by drinking one shot of whiskey every morning. Is there anything to this?

DEAR READER — Possibly — but this treatment is riskier than the ailment it tries to prevent. Although the evidence is scanty, and thus inconclusive, several medical studies suggest that small doses (one or two ounces) of alcohol a day MAY reduce serum cholesterol. Confirmation is in the works.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
You bridge players spend a fair amount of your time at the table as declarer, so you might be interested in some advice on how to play your hands better. All this week, we'll look at how an opponent's opening lead can help you, provided you make the right inferences.

South won the ace of hearts, played a spade to dummy's 10 and played a second spade to West's ace. West switched to the club jack, covered by the king and ace. East continued with the queen and another club, ruffed by declarer. Now the only problem for South was to avoid losing a diamond trick. He played to the king of diamonds in dummy. West playing the eight and East the three-spot.

After not quite enough thought, South decided that the eight was more likely to be a singleton than the three, so he played the queen of diamonds from dummy. That gave West the setting trick with the jack.

Why should South have done better? Suppose you were on opening lead and held the ace and a spade, and a singleton diamond, and your heart and club suits were headed by the J-10. Wouldn't you certainly lead your singleton diamond against a four-spade contract? I would. Because that is the way most players would think on opening lead, declarer should not read that diamond eight played by West as being alone. He should play back to his ace and make his contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
SEPTEMBER 1, 1987

In the year ahead, it's important that you don't bite off more than you can chew. The returns will be more than ample if you merely accomplish your stated goals.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll need a feather-light touch in dealing with testy domestic situations today. If you come down too hard, it will only create additional problems. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH, 44101-3428

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try not to take life too seriously today. Instead of focusing on the seamy side, look for the bright spots. They're there if you'll poke around a bit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's to your benefit to be a bit hard-nosed where finances are concerned today. Don't ask for more than you deserve, but don't expect less.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't buckle under if confronted by challenges today. Instead, stiffen your back and dig in. Tenacity is all that is required for your success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful today that you don't talk about a sensitive matter to the wrong person. If you do, something you want kept secret will be passed on to others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your old projects should not suffer neglect today because of your enthusiasm for new ones. For best results, give equal attention to each.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is more going for you today than you realize. Be persevering if you are striving to achieve a major objective.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although the road might be a trifle rocky for you today, you'll have the tenacity to aim for your objectives. You'll win the admiration of associates along the way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Speak up today if you hope to recoup what another owes you. The individual with whom you are dealing isn't apt to make the first move.

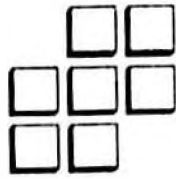

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A companion's pace might be as speedy as yours today. However, let this person move as he or she sees fit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Substantial rewards are possible today, but they won't be handed to you on a silver platter. If you hope to make gains, be prepared to expend the required effort.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An important contact won't be receptive if you try to conduct business under social conditions today. Make an appointment to see this person in the office.
