

Soekarno Elected If You Are Giving First President Of Books, Here Are U. S. Of Indonesia Some To Consider

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Radio Jogjakarta announced today that President Soekarno of the Indonesian Republic has been elected first president of the United States of Indonesia. He is to be sworn in tomorrow morning. The new nation in the rich East Indies is to come into formal being shortly after Christmas, when the Dutch turn over to the Indonesians the reins of government they have held for three centuries. Soekarno, a fiery orator, has been Indonesia's top Nationalist figure for nearly two decades. He was unanimously chosen President of the U. S. I. by the electors from 16 Indonesian states. When the revolutionary leader moves into the Dutch governor general's palace, the action will symbolize the birth of a new nation to Indonesia's 75,000,000 people. In fact, that move will mean more to them as proof of independence than all the written agreements and announcements. Less than 10 per cent of the people can read and write. A year ago, Soekarno and his cabinet were seized by Dutch paratroopers in the second "police action." His rebel republic no longer existed. Now he finds himself the leader of all Indonesia, one of the richest corners of the world, and with the promise of Dutch cooperation in building the new sovereign state. Soekarno became leader of Indonesian revolutionists in 1927. He is 49 years old but looks much younger. He has no first name. He was graduated from a Dutch college as an architectural engineer. But instead of blueprinting streets, he devoted his whole time to planning an independent nation. The Dutch called him an opportunist. They accused him of collaborating with the Japanese. Soekarno himself said he would accept help from anyone so long as it furthered the cause of independence. Soekarno became president of the Republic when it declared its independence from the Netherlands on August 17, 1945, just after the Japanese surrender. He has been president ever since. Soekarno is a spell-binder. No one even weakly challenges his hold over the Indonesian people. His eyes are dark and sharp. He is quick with a wide open smile. He talks in a unassuming, informal manner. He is dressed in a black velvet. A Moslem, he will sip wine socially, but never fill his glass. His wife is one of the recognized beauties of the East. For his political agitation, he was called by the Dutch to Sumatra before World War II. The Japanese released him. In the four years of revolutionary war since 1945, Soekarno has been always in the thick of the fighting.

Truman Plans

(Continued from page one) ing about it along those lines. The discussion took place at a news conference at which Roosevelt announced that the President and his cabinet will meet at the White House at 10 A. M. next Thursday in a special cabinet meeting to discuss the forthcoming "state of the union" message and other government business. Roosevelt said he feared the Key West stories had "embarrassed" General Eisenhower and that was far from any intention by the President. Roosevelt said, "certainly nothing official" has come from the White House. The President, up early as usual, took a long walk. He and secretary William D. Hassett went over to the yacht USS Williamsburg.

O'Dwyer Wedding

(Continued from page one) not meet Miss Simpson until he meets her at the Church Tuesday. Miss Simpson was divorced in 1942 from Carroll Dewey Hipp of Tenack, N. J. That marriage did not take place in a Catholic church. The tall, Miss Simpson was born in Dallas, Tex., a daughter of the late Col. William Sloan Simpson, cotton and rice planter. She attended private schools and then the convent of the Sacred Heart in Torrensdale, Pa. The Irish-born O'Dwyer, who rose from a penniless boy immigrant to become chief executive of the nation's largest city, was elected for a second term late November. On his way up, the boy from Boholua was a coal passer on a freighter, a stoker on a Hudson River steamer, a plasterer's helper, bartender, a beat-pounding cop, a judge and a brigadier general in the army during the last war. In Miami, Vice President Allen W. Barkley and his bride held a nuptial press conference cruising down Biscayne Bay today—and both seemed to enjoy every moment of it. The "Veep" wasn't talking politics. The nearest he came to it was a remark that he intended to be as energetic as possible in government work. "I believe people in high office should make a point of explaining government to the people. It's a duty to do that. I've always been energetic," he added with a grin. The honeymooners posed for scores of pictures during the 10-minute trip aboard the 800-ton Monon II as guests of Senate secretary Leslie Bliffle. The yacht is owned by Arthur Gardner of Washington and Detroit. "We don't mind this at all, but as the American people laugh with us and not at us," the "Veep" posed in Capt. August Sarmon's line. "I look like an admiral of the king's navy," he joked. When photographers asked the bride to adjust the hat for a picture, she refused. "It looks just fine now," she said. The couple turned up an half hour late after spending the night in seclusion at Miami Beach. "In marriage," he said, "I've found that every man's experience is purely individualistic."

Water Shortage

(Continued from page one) lions of gallons less water each day, and not feel any privation. City residents were asked to forget tub baths and showers for the day, do all family laundering at one time, wash dishes in one batch, and even to drink one glass less during the day. Talk around town indicated New Yorkers were taking "Dry Friday"—the climax of many curbs on water use—in the same good humor that most of them exhibited under wartime restrictions. Check of the reservoir meters after the experiment ends at midnight will show how many actually obeyed the "don't" during the 24-hour period. If the saving is big enough, "Dry Friday" will be a weekly holiday until the emergency ends. But the saving can't be too large compared to the normal daily use of well over a billion gallons. Business and industry use a big part of this total. Drought, increased use of water and outgrown reservoir facilities have combined to cut the storage to a third of the 253,000,000,000 gallon capacity. Today's supreme effort is "not a hippodrome nor an effort to scare people," says Water Commissioner Stephen J. Carney. It is "a sincere and planned move" aimed at learning just how much water New Yorkers can save voluntarily. If it isn't a success, the city will have to take more drastic conservation measures, he warned. The owner of an apt in Manhattan Westchester County offered the city the 54,000,000 gallon of water in his private tank. The president of a safety razor firm advertised in the newspapers: "Stop Friday shaving. It's water that just fine now," she said. The couple turned up an half hour late after spending the night in seclusion at Miami Beach. "In marriage," he said, "I've found that every man's experience is purely individualistic."

Miss' Brother Denies Communist Party Affiliation

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Alger Hiss' younger brother, Donald, denied in court today that he ever was associated with the Communist party. Whitaker Chambers, self-described courier for a pre-war Soviet spy ring, had named both Hiss brothers as members of a pre-war Communist underground that fed government secrets to a Soviet spy ring. Donald Hiss appeared as a defense witness today in his brother's second trial on perjury charges. He did not testify in the first trial, which ended in jury disagreement. "Have you ever been a Communist sympathizer or follower?" the younger Hiss was asked by defense counsel Claude B. Cross. "I have not," he replied firmly. The witness, tall and slender like his 45-year-old brother, who formerly was a high State Department official, added that he was not in sympathy with Communist Party principles. Cross then asked if Alger Hiss ever persuaded him to turn over any secret papers to Col. Boris Bykov, named by Chambers as the Soviet spy chief. "Never," the witness replied.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE: We can neither deceive ourselves nor God. Deliver my soul, O Lord, from lying lips, and from a deceitful tongue.

General Eisenhower says he won't be talked in to running for President. Too bad. That's one thing we agree with Senator Pepper on.

Throughout the state law enforcement officers, newspapers and radio stations are warning the people against fly-by-nights, slick change artists, gold-buck salesmen, pickpockets, highway bandits and second story men who flock to Florida at this time of year from all over the country to prey upon the unsuspecting public.

DDT, the wonder insecticide of World War II, is turning out to be not all it was cracked up to be. It has to be used with care on vegetable crops or fodder for cattle, or it is liable to poison them, and then after it has been used on insects for a while they seem to become accustomed to it and thrive.

For seven years a man and his wife had not spoken to each other. The parents of five children, happily married for many years, he was alleged to have gone out with another woman. She would not divorce him, nor allow him to get a divorce. So they continued to live their lives under the same table, twice a day, 365 days in the year, for seven years, without speaking to each other, forgetting no doubt that we have but one life to live, have no way of living it over.

Although some Sanford business houses were advertising for help in newspapers all over the South, the government still paid 39 persons in Seminole county not to work during the week ending Dec. 12, but perhaps we should be thankful this was 194 less than the 233 did not work during the week ending Sept. 3. Altogether throughout all of Florida there were 29,000 who were paid not to work in September, and they were paid $15,031 by the "contemptible taxpayers". During the first 11 months of this year, this one feature of the Welfare State cost the people of Florida $10,438,170.

In our struggle for security we often overlook the important things in life we have come to take for granted. New Yorkers are only now beginning to realize that even so common and ordinary a commodity as water may be taken away from them and become a luxury which they cannot buy. Even if Social Security payments are raised to $1,000 a month, there would be no security in a world which had no dependable water supply. And that has happened to New York as has happened to many other cities just as readily happen a great many other things which we take for granted.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is not the only man in this country who has been thrice indefinitely in the atmosphere. He says, "I believe that the greatest survival, we must have with other qualities of body and mind, is that of a man who cannot derive when he is in the air, and being in the air, is not the only thing that can happen to a man who is in the air."

The Fight Against TB

The tuberculosis death rate in the United States for 1949 is setting an all-time low record showing a reduction of about 10 percent from the figure of the year before. The present rate in the population is only about one-half that of 12 years ago, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

"The gains against tuberculosis have been accelerated during the postwar years" the Metropolitan notes, "and should the recent trend continue the disease before long will be relegated to a minor position among the causes of illness and death in our country."

At present only one state (Arizona) has a tuberculosis death rate of over 60 per 100,000 population. In 1933, when nationwide figures first became available, 19 states and the District of Columbia had rates of 60 or higher.

Intensified public interest and support, of which the Christmas seal campaign is part, is seen as an outstanding factor in accelerating the decline of the tuberculosis death rate. Since the end of the war case finding has been pushed in an ever widening area and at present about 10,000,000 persons a year are receiving X-ray examinations.

Further expansion of the present mass X-ray campaign especially among older persons and in the rural areas, and the provision of needed facilities for the treatment of patients are set forth as the more important requirements for continued advance in the battle against the disease.

"The great progress being made is no cause for complacency" the Metropolitan says. "Only unremitting efforts toward prevention case finding, treatment and rehabilitation will bring the desired result -- the virtual eradication from this country of this former health scourge."

Women And College

Most girls now in secondary schools take a college future for granted if the family circumstances permit. The period has long since passed when only the boys in a family were considered college material.

The American Association of University Women has lately, however, been trying to assess the value of four or more years of academic work for women after high school. A questionnaire sent out to 30,000 members of this group brought out two suggestions for improvement: College education should provide training and experience which are closely related to life after college, and it should be broad and flexible enough to stimulate the maximum development of each individual.

Understanding of the world in which one lives and of one's fellow human beings, together with communicative ability, were mentioned as desirable ends. Less than one per cent of those questioned considered that their education had been of no value, and most of those considered this a personal matter. They had no prejudice against college work as such.

Such surveys are of value when they bring about serious self-examination on the part of colleges and of their students. Young women of today have a wide choice of colleges, which fall into categories covering different interests and tendencies. It is up to the girl herself to find the educational set-up which will fit her for the life she expects to live.

Nothing in his life had given promise of any lasting reputation. He had been a carpenter by trade, later becoming a teacher, and finally an itinerant preacher with very little means of support, no social standing or political influence. And at the end he had been crucified as a common criminal and nailed to the cross between two thieves. By all standards of modern life when he died at the age of 33 he had been a dismal failure.

Yet here we are two thousand years later, singing hymns in his honor. In spite of his humble beginning, he was without doubt the greatest single influence in the history of the entire world.

Health Beyond Forty. By W. V. Bittling, Touchton's Drug Co. It is only because medical knowledge and methods have been so successful in controlling disease that many people can look forward to a long life after forty. You can not expect to be free from illness entirely, for organic weaknesses often occur, and of course disease ways threaten. However, by consulting the doctor promptly when illness comes, and by having regular physical examinations when you are well, a doctor can protect you from many diseases.

Mrs. Donald Norton of Geneva and Mrs. W. L. Sieg directed an exchange of gifts from the lighted Christmas tree and after refreshments were served, carols were sung. Those initiated into the order were Mrs. R. H. Reedy, Mrs. D. C. Hargrove, Mrs. E. J. Shepherd, Mrs. C. G. Clinkscales, J. M. Gardner and P. J. Allen. 250 Persons Attend Elks' Club Charity Ball At Mayfair Inn On Saturday

About 250 persons enjoyed the annual Elks Club charity ball held on Saturday evening in the ballroom at the Mayfair Inn. As one of the most successful dances of the year, the event was under the general chairmanship of Harold Kastner. Dancing was enjoyed from 10:00 P. M. until 2:00 A. M. to the popular music of Paul Coble and his orchestra.
Attractive decorations in the grand ballroom included quantities of seasonal flowers, colored streamers across the orchestra platform and graceful potted palms. Across the balcony overlooking the dance floor "Sanford Elks' Charity Ball" was spelled out in white letters against a purple background and at each end of the dance floor BODE was spelled in purple and white.
A Santa Claus scene was also placed on the balcony. On the tables which were grouped around the dance floor were hats, favors and popcorn. The grand march during the evening was led by Mayor and Mrs. Andrew Carraway.
Mr. Kastner this morning especially thanked the following for their work for the dance: A. L. Skinner, Dr. Henry McLaughlin, J. D. McNeill, Cliff Ingram, Robert Billhimer and Lee Samuels. He also thanked the Mayfair for the donation of the ballroom for the evening and expressed his appreciation to the various firms and individuals who donated to the Harry Anna Clippard Children's Home in Canfield. He added that a portion of the funds derived from the dance will be contributed toward equipment for a local swimming pool on the lakefront.
Included on the committee for the dance were H. P. Sharrack, Alvin Odham, Lee Samuels, Bill Toll, J. L. Hurt, Andrew Carraway, Dr. E. T. Doss, Jack Batigan, Dr. W. W. Bishop, Toby Swagerty, Dr. Henry McLaughlin, Leo Butner, Al Cow of Fern Park, Rud Harris, Pete Thurston, Harry Kudell, L. Ga. Tech Cagers Face Toughest 3 Squads In Nation

Bradley, Michigan, St. Louis Rated To Win Over Jacket Squad

By STEPHEN HADDEY
A final flurry of 14 games finishes the pre-Christmas basketball season for Southeastern Conference teams and nine of those games can make a lot of changes. The hottest teams will be Georgia Tech and Kentucky, both considered in the top bracket of Dixie basketball. Tech plays three games only one of which will be necessary to prove the Yellow Jackets aren't scared of anybody. Tonight Tech meets Bradley in Peoria, Ill., and if Tech wins it will be the upset of the year. Tomorrow night Tech meets St. Louis in St. Louis. If Tech wins that would be the second biggest upset of the year. Thursday night Tech plays Michigan State, and a win in Lansing probably would be about the third largest upsetting of the young season.

Tech goes into each an underdog, but it has been a long time since Tech lost three straight basketball games. The next opposition for once powerful, once once-beaten Kentucky, will be DePaul in Louisville Wednesday. Friday Kentucky meets a big ten team - Purdue at Purdue. Mississippi will be busy, but the Rebels' opposition hardly can be as tricky as Tech's and Kentucky's. The Rebels meet L.S.U. in Baton Rouge tonight, Miami (Fla.) in Miami both Wednesday and Thursday, nights and Tampa in Tampa Friday night.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
NEW YORK, Dec. 19—(AP)—The baseball rule-makers, who tried so hard last week to find a way to curb "take out" plays at second base, found one disaster in the oldest active hit in baseball history, was known as "Dashing Jack" when he played ball because of his base running ability. "You can't pass a rule about that," Doyle proclaimed. "It's a part of the game to try to break up those double plays. Even if a fellow is out, he can't hold up once he has committed himself to a slide. He'll bust himself that way. It's just good, aggressive baseball, and that's what the players and fans like."

Alex Groza, who is running himself ragged with the Indianapolis Olympians for what would be a big share of the profits could have had a $5,000 bonus and a $10,000 a year salary to sign as an individual last spring. Groza preferred to string along with his Kentucky teammates, who didn't get such big offers. . . speaking of Kentucky, the Wildcat footballers thought Louisiana State was about the toughest team they faced all season—and SMU's Kyle Rote about the best individual. . . Texas grid fans are looking forward to a duel between Rocky Williams of Rice and Art Wagner of North Carolina, in a pair of standout ends, in the Cotton Bowl.

The National Basketball Association has just issued a "directive" to officials telling them how to get to Waterloo, Iowa. . . It says, roughly, to take a trail to Tully, go to a nearby feed store and ask for Mr. Soandso, a farmer who'll gladly drive them 40 miles to Waterloo for six bucks ($10 for two) and a free visit to the game. . . who held the battle of Waterloo was on the playing fields of Iowa.

Dr. Tracy convinced president Bill DeWitt that he can do things toward building the players' confidence and boosting their morale. LOS ANGELES—The Philadelphia Eagles won their second

Eagles Cop NFL Crown In 14-0 Mud Pie Battle

Rain Drenched Field No Handicap To Van Buren, Thompson

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19—(AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles are still champions of the National Football League.
And Steve Van Buren is a terrific back, even in the mud. But NFL head Bert Bell will never win a sports popularity contest in these parts.
Those items stand out today in the wake of a crushing 14-0 victory by the Eagles over Los Angeles Rams in the Coliseum yesterday. What was billed as a high-scoring duel between two speed-burning, pass-happy teams turned into a mud-bath war between two lines, with the Eagles far the better.

Only one did passing become important. Then three quick losses proved one of Philadelphia's toughest. The other came on a blocked punt.
The teams sparred through the first quarter, but the Eagles broke loose early in the second. Quarterback Tommy Thompson tossed two passes to left end which he caught on the ground after it was deflected. Thompson mixed in tries at the line, then rifled one to all-pro right end Pete Pihos for 31 yards and a touchdown. In the thrust, the Eagles went 63 yards in six plays.
The second score came four minutes after the third quarter started. The Rams were on the 10, set back by a holding penalty, when end Leo Blakadany broke through to block Bob Waterfield's punt, pick up the ball on the three and tred across. A high pass from center was a controlling factor. Cliff Patton converted both scores.
The Rams threatened only once, and that was nullified by an interception. The Eagles had a third chance when Jim Farmer fumbled on the seven.
So bad was the weather that the managements of both Eastern and Western Division winners were willing to postpone the playoff until Christmas. But Commissioner Bell, in his home in Philadelphia, said no.
The downpour was so steady that every two layers of tarpaulin didn't keep the turf dry. Showers pelted the spectators through most of the game.
Although he didn't figure in either of the scores, Van Buren, the Eagles' all-pro back, gave as good as he got in a running exhibition as the Coliseum has seen.
The one-time Louisiana State star carried the ball 31 times for a net 106 yards, breaking the single-game record of 126 yards in 10 tries set by Elmer Angsman when his Chicago Cardinals beat Philadelphia for the title in the 1947 payoff.
The Rams didn't make a single first down from the opening play. They gained only 48 yards all day on the ground, and lost 27 to that Eagle line.

New York—What boxing needs is a shot in the arm, preferably a fighting champion like the old Joe Louis.
Although 12 championship fights were held the champions appeared more willing to engage in non-title bouts, being very cautious about laying their crowns on the line.
Louis retired officially as heavyweight champion in March but after Ezzard Charles outpointed Jersey Joe Walcott in Chicago for the National Boxing Association title, Louis returned for a series of some 20 exhibition bouts.
"I ain't rich and I ain't poor," was Louis' best reason for returning to the ring. It led boxing experts to believe that the Bronx Bomber, who had been champion since 1937, needed ready cash. He denied any intentions of a gain fighting for the title.
Charles was accepted as the new champion except in Mexico, where the boxing commission felt that a series of heavyweight bouts would be the best way to get a new heavyweight ruler. Oddly enough, Charles defended his title here by stopping Gus Lassevich, ex-litig heavy champ, in seven rounds in Yankee Stadium. Later Charles stopped Pat Valentine in eight rounds in a title bout in San Francisco.
Mike Jacobs, the promoter who paved the way for Louis' fame, retired because of illness two months after Louis "thung up his gloves" in hardly any time at all the International Boxing Club, headed by Jim Norris, took over and promoted in partnership with Madison Square Garden. The IBC had five outdoor fights, including Chicago, a middle-weight title bout in Detroit and three bouts in New York ballparks. The outdoor fights showed only a small profit. The Jacobs touch and the magnetic name of Louis were missing.
The light heavyweight division is best described as stagnant. Champion Freddie Mills of England failed to defend his title.
Jake LaMotta of the Bronx, who beat France's Robert Villomain in Madison Square Garden on a disputed decision which led to the suspension of a judge and the referee, Harry Ebbels, later won the middleweight crown. He took the title when Marcel Cerdan of France sustained a shoulder injury in their Detroit bout. The end came after 9 rounds.
Just when the middleweight division had aroused boxing interest, Cerdan, the most popular foreign fighter since Georges Carpentier, died with 47 others in an Azores plane crash. Cerdan was on his way here to face LaMotta in a return bout.
New York reinstated Rocky Graziano, former champion, and the two-rated middleweight contender, knocked out a lightweight, Charley Frazier, in the last 50 seconds of a 10-rounder.
Welterweight champion Ray Robinson made only one title defense, losing to the champion of Cuba in Philadelphia. Sugar Ray, however, fought 12 non-title bouts, scoring eight knockouts, winning three on decisions and fighting a draw with Henry Brin in Buffalo. falling to fulfill engagements in those states.
Lightweight ruler Joe Williams successfully defended the 135-pound crown twice, stopping Enrique Bolanos in four rounds in Los Angeles and beating Freddie Dawson in 15 at Philadelphia. The latter bout, in which Williams yelled "Fix," cost him a $500 fine. The champ said "a friend" telephoned him, saying Williams would lose if the Dawson fight went the limit. Williams failed to identify the "friend."
In non-title bouts, Williams won six decisions, scored one knockout and lost two bouts to welterweight Gavilan in the Garden. Williams also drew a suspension from the NBA for failing to go through with a California fight.
Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., regained the featherweight title by outpointing Sandy Saddler in a blistering 15-round Garden fight. Pep later stopped Eddie Campo in seven rounds in a title bout.
Manuel Ortiz of California made one bantamweight title defense, defeating Dado Marino in Honolulu. In non-title bouts he lost to Jimmy Cooper in Washington, Henry Davis in Honolulu and Ronnie Clayton in England.
Rinty Monaghan of Ireland lost a non-title bout to Terry Allen of England in London but later, in defense of his title, he and Allen fought a draw in Belfast. In between these clashes, Monaghan defeated Maurice Sanleyron of France in a title fight.

1949 Baseball Had Its Villains, Heroes

Deranged Girl Fires Bullet Into Player; Yanks Stage Comeback To Top League

By FRANK BICK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
NEW YORK—Baseball fans, to use the term rather loosely, had a busy season during 1949, both on and off the field.

One New York center came out of the stands for an altercation with a manager; it was the first postgame scuffle ever televised in Chicago. A deranged 10-year-old girl asked a player to visit her hotel room. She had something important to tell him, she said. Before he could ask the score the girl shot him.

There were only extra-curricular events but both made page one headlines before the pennant races came down to the wire in a six-day finish. The first 161 games played really didn't count because both pennants were decided on the final day.

What many believe was the greatest sports comeback of the year was achieved by a band of bruised and battered New York Yankees. After losing their grip on first place for the first time with only two games left, they beat what appeared to be a stronger Boston Red Sox team, 8-4 and led, on successive days to wrap up their 10th American League flag.

It marked the second year in succession that Joe McCarthy's Bronx led the pennant by one game. In 1948 they tied Cleveland but the Indians won the one-game playoff. For Casey Stengel, who had known nothing but baseball poverty in nine years of managing in the National League, it marked a brilliant debut as a pilot in the junior circuit.

The Brooklyn Dodgers literally sneaked into the National League pennant by the back door. Four straight National League defeats helped them during the last week. As it was the Dodgers had to go 10 innings in the last game to beat a spirited Phillies team, 9-7, for the clincher.

After two such hectic pennant races the World Series was anticlimactic. The Yankees, known as the team of destiny, won the first 10-run victory in the first game in one. The relief pitching of southpaw Joe Page and the hurling of Allie Reynolds and Vic Raschi was the difference. The Series was nothing like the 1947 classic which was seven games. Even the subway fare was a nickel then.

Most of the individual headlines went to the Phillies because of (1) the $100,000 contract (2) the big bat (3) recurring bed trouble and virus pneumonia. After missing the first 55 games he started in action with a bang in Boston on June 28. In three games he lashed out four homers and drove home nine runs against the previous flag favorites.

From then on Mackey's overpresence in the lineup gave him a lift and put bumps in the throats of the enemy. For the final two games with the Sox he left a six-foot leg cramp forced him to leave the field during the final game. In the Series his after effects of pneumonia showed on his reflexes for he struck out five times, putting only four balls out of the infield, but one of them was a homer in the Series clincher.

Ted Williams, too, was playing for $100,000. Because he has big bat and new found fielding handle he won the league's most valuable player award. He and teammate Vern Stephens both drove in 150 runs, the best one-two punch since the Yankee heydays of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. However, on the final day, Williams lost the AL batting crown by a fraction of a point to Detroit's second third baseman, George Kell. It was 3420 to 3428.

Jack Robinson, Brooklyn's versatile second baseman, won the NL most valuable player award and also the batting crown with .342. He also led the league in steals with 86.

By their percentages, Ellis Kinder and Mel Parson of the Sox were the best pitchers in baseball. Kinder won 23 and lost 11 while southpaw Parson hung up a 25-7 record. Brooklyn came up with a Negro rookie ace in Don Newcombe, 23-year-old giant. Newcombe predicted a great future for him. Though he reported weeks after the season opened, he won 17 and lost 8, enough to become the Sox's rookie of the year. In the American League The Associated Press poll of baseball writers gave the nod to Harry Coleman, powerful Yankee second baseman, whom a select group of baseball writers awarded another set of honors. The winner was Roy Slaughter, 24-year-old St. Louis Brown outfielder. Pittsburgh's slugger, Hank Aaron, came to the fore with a record of 30 homers in one season. He led the league in runs scored with 137.

Duquesne Out To Beat Last Year's 17-5 Winning Record

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA—Seven teams loom large on the Pennsylvania basketball scene with the Iron Dukes of Duquesne pre-season favorites to wind up competing for national honors.

Behind the veteran studded Dukes should come Villanova, LaSalle, Penn, Temple, Muhlenberg and Lafayette. In small college competition look for Pennsylvania Military College, Gettysburg and Drexel to romp in the Middle Atlantic Conference with Geneva and Westminster scoring the independents.

Led by 6 foot, 5 inch Charles Cooper, Duquesne should improve on its 17-5 record of last year. Coach Duane Moore has a well balanced squad with all important height, excellent shooting ability and able ball handlers. Cooper might well qualify as the player of the year. This sharpshooting senior should pace Duquesne into somebody's tournament come next March.

Coach Al Reverance will start his 1949 season at Villanova with the same squad that won 22 and

Seminole Squad Resumes Work For Cigar Bowl

FSU Meets Wofford In Tampa Shrine Game, January 2nd

TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 20.—(Special)—The Florida State University Seminoles football squad, which has been enjoying its first real holiday since the opening of pre-season practice on Labor Day, is scheduled to resume work here Wednesday, Dec. 21, when Head Coach Don Vetter reassembles his squad to start preparations for the Shrine Cigar Bowl game with Wofford in Tampa, Jan. 2.

The Indian gridgers, who scattered to their homes immediately after the completion of their final exams last week, didn't leave their thoughts for the post-season game completely behind them when they took off for home. Most of the players drew footballs from the equipment manager and took their shoes with them, planning to keep in condition with light workouts at home.

Worked During Vacation
Coach Vetter said here today "You'd think those kids would have had plenty of football by now and plenty ready to take a five or six-day rest from it, but practically everyone of them has laid out a practice schedule for himself during this brief vacation."

The Indians' attitude is an indication of the manner in which they regard their tilt with Wofford. Under-rated in many quarters because of the fact they play in the amateur Dixie Conference and are non-subsidized, most of the Seminoles are anxious to prove in the Wofford game that they play a pretty rough brand of football.

Wofford, victorious in 11 straight games this season and unbeaten in their last 23 games, rules a heavy favorite over FSU, but the pre-game forecasts which favor the Terriers by as high as 21 points in some quarters, apparently mean little to the Seminole squad and probably won't prevail at game time.

Veteran Center Joe Marcus, All-Dixie Conference pivotman and the "most valuable player" on the Seminole squad this season, summed up the general feeling recently when he said: "We went into every game favored this season, and it's a strain. I'm glad that we're the underdog this time. It'll give us a good opportunity to surprise somebody."

MacLean is Ready
Ken MacLean, big senior tackle who'll be winding up his collegiate career in the Cigar Bowl, feels much the same way as Marcus. The big Quincey back says: "This has been a rough spring for favorites all over the country, maybe it's our turn to spring an upset over a heavily favored opponent."

MacLean, incidentally, is certain to be the center of considerable attention when the squad reassembles here Wednesday. He's been out of action since the second game of the season against Mississippi College with a chipped vertebra, and will be attempting

Kissimmee To Hold Benefit Grid Tilt

State Farmers Market

KISSIMMEE, Dec. 20.—(Special)—One of the best holiday season sports events will be the semi-pro football game on Friday, December 30 between the famous Kissimmee Golden Brahmins and the undefeated Thomasville Ga. eleven. The game is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Kissimmee as a benefit game for one of the Golden Brahmins who sustained a broken arm earlier in the season.

The game will start at 8 P. M. December 30 in the Ocala High School athletic field in Kissimmee. The seating capacity of the field is 2,500. The Golden Brahmins captured second place in the Northern half of the Florida Semi-Pro football league and the entire squad is practicing daily in preparation for the semi-pro grid classic of Florida. The Thomasville eleven is undefeated 1949 and has a record of playing fast, hard, clean football.

High school hands will perform during the half-time period and "Red" Simpson and his famous high school hero "Trigger Gold" will give an exhibition of horse-manship which is equalled and never bettered anywhere in the United States.

ordered the Federal District Court to determine whether baseball is a monopoly. In the middle of the World Series, Cardinals dropped his suit and was signed to play with the Cardinals. Max Lanier and Fred Martin, Cardinals pitchers who also had suits pending against baseball, dropped the action and almost helped the Cardinals win the pennant.

Only one and a half season managerial change took place with Charley Grimm moving into a front office job with the Chicago Cubs in favor of Frankie Frisch. At the close of the season, Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators made Bucky Harris his manager for the third time. He replaced Joe Kuhel. And the Cincinnati Reds dropped Manager Bucky Walters in favor of Luke Sewell, the ex-Bronx pilot who had sold, in effect, that he could put a finger on Dimebag's hot trouble for $100,000.

Three clubs changed hands. Fred M. Satch gained full control of the St. Louis Cardinals, Ellis Ryan replaced Bill Veck as head of the Cleveland Indians and Bill and Charles DeWitt took over the St. Louis Browns.

TRADING was comparatively light. The major deal sent Pitches Dickson to the Pirates and about $100,000 to the Cardinals. The Giants added two Negro players to their roster and dropped straight year, two of which found him tied with John Mize.

But for the shooting of Eddie Watkins, the first baseman they obtained from the Chicago Cubs, the Phillies might have caused more trouble in Brooklyn's pennant battle. The Phillies finished third with Dick Richards, an able replacement, but no Walter, holding down his first base in most of the 100 games Watkins missed.

The fan who jumped out of the stands in the Polo Grounds accused of kicking and punching him. It happened after a game in which the players were on their way to the dressing rooms. Within two weeks he was the chronological order of events:

Commissioner A. B. Chandler suspended Durocher, ordered all teams to protect their players by keeping fans in the stands until players had reached dressing rooms, the fan dropped all charges and apologized to Durocher. Leo was reinstated and wound up with a new three-year contract covering 1950 and 1951.

Even before the season started Chandler fined the Giants, $2,000 and Durocher and one of his new coaches, Fred Fitzsimmons, $500 each. The reason: Fitz's good old reserve clause. Fitz technically was under contract to the Boston Braves when he signed with the Giants.

The reserve clause brings to mind Danny Gardella and the major leaguers who jumped to the Mexican League in 1948. All were suspended for five years, none after jumping but the suspension turned out to be a three-year ban as Commissioner Chandler lifted it last June.

Gardella won a point in his $300,000 suit against baseball when the U. S. Court of Appeals

Released German War Prisoners Want To Lead Peaceful Life

LANDSBERG, Germany, Dec. 20. — (AP) — Twenty-seven landing German war criminals were freed today by the U. S. Army's Landsberg prison for good behavior during confinement.

They had served the greater part of three and five-year sentences given them by U. S. military courts for war crimes. All their sentences would have expired before next June 30.

None was a big-name Nazi criminal. These were the men who commanded a Nazi concentration camp, who served as guard or mistreated captured American airmen.

The oldest was Friedrich Katz, 60, a former Wisconsin policeman, convicted of taking part in the murder of American flyers. Col. Walter R. Graham, the prison commander, said that 27 others probably will be released tomorrow.

Spy Trials

U. S. Judge Sylvester R. Ryan, presiding at a pre-trial hearing for Gubitchev and Judith Coplan, described the statement as without precedent in his memory in criminal procedure.

The statement was read to the court by Lev S. Tolokonnikov, first secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, after Gubitchev's lawyer had completed his argument on the immunity claim.

It was signed by Alexander S. Panyushkin, the Russian Ambassador. When Gubitchev was arrested last March, Panyushkin went to the State Department and asked that he be released on grounds of immunity.

The document said Gubitchev "is an officer of the diplomatic service in the ministry of Foreign Affairs of the U. S. S. R. since April 26, 1946, with the diplomatic rank of third secretary."

Ryan accepted the statement as "a communication to the court." Another federal judge ruled previously that Gubitchev does not have immunity. This also is a view taken by the U. S. State Department and the United Nations.

The immunity claim is one of several attacks on the espionage indictment made by the defense in the pre-trial sessions. Ryan denied yesterday a motion to dismiss the conspiracy count of the indictment.

Miss Coplan, 28-year-old former employee of the Department of Justice and Gubitchev, 32-year-old Russian engineer and suspended United Nations employee, are scheduled to go on trial Dec. 27.

They are accused of espionage in allegedly attempting to get U. S. government secrets into Soviet hands.

Florida Citrus Consumption Not Up To Standard

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 20. — (Special) — Citrus consumption in Florida should be four times what it is, according to marketing and dietary experts, one thinking in terms of the State's agricultural economy and the other thinking particularly in terms of the health of children.

Business group leadership, working for the second year through the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, and in conjunction with the State Citrus Commission, and state and local school and health authorities, have begun a determined drive to meet the citrus consumption recommendations of the experts.

The push will get under way within the next 10 days. Executive vice president Harold Cole of the State Chamber said here today.

Planning for the drive was perfected at Orlando last Thursday when groups representing the daily and weekly press, radio, bookers, wholesalers and retailers, transportation lines, theaters, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, parent-teachers and other educational associations, the Education Board, the Federation of Women's Clubs, and others, met with the State Chamber's Citrus Promotion Committee in an all day conference.

In his acceptance of the honorary chairmanship of the drive, Governor Fuller Warren telegraphed the State Chamber's president, Walter L. Hays of Orlando, that the importance of citrus in the promotion of greater citrus consumption could not be over-emphasized.

The work of the over all group organization put together by the State Chamber, will be directed by its executive committee, the chairman of which is Frank L. Isted of Rustia. Isted's co-workers are W. C. Pederson, E. F. Arnold, Marvin H. Walker, Dawson Newton, R. O. Riddle, Edith Galt, Ed Hood, Mrs. Edith McBride Cameron, James Gorman, Robert C. Evans and Dodge Taylor.

The campaign will be focused upon housewives, school lunch rooms, soda fountains, and hotels, restaurants and transport dining facilities. The details, worked up by Advertising Director Dawson Newton of the citrus committee, and approved by the committee, will be augmented by the promotion and publicity efforts of each of the participating businesses.

Hays said today that last year "and in more citrus" campaign "sold millions of boxes of fruit and this year will double last year's sales." He credited press and radio for much of the success of the movement. "This year, he added, "we are striving for health safety. Our children are not receiving adequate nutritional support when denied citrus."

Recently, committee chairman Isted announced that publicity to make the campaign more effective had already been set to motion.

Educator Fear

Western Union cut off the intrastate service a week ago when the railroad commission blocked around the contested anti-trust law and invoked a contract clause which permitted the telegraph company to cancel service upon notification by the state that it was being used for illegal purposes.

Intra-State News Service had about 150 clients along the Florida coast. The railroad commission and Attorney General Richard Erwin said many of them were race bet bookmakers.

In arguments before the supreme court yesterday, attorneys for the owner of Intra-State and other race wire operators insisted they were in the harmless and legitimate business of distributing sporting news. They said they could not be held accountable for the use made of it by their clients.
