U. S. Jews Oppose Division Of Their Native Homeland

Semitic Race Feel They Have Been Betrayed By British Empire

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN AP-Future Service Writer NEW YORK, July 24.—To American Jews, who have put up a fifth of the $400,000,000 stake for the Palestine homeland project, just what does the proposed partition of Palestine mean?

It makes no difference to the Jews that the proposed Jewish sovereign state is expected by experts to accommodate between two and three million persons...

Contribution of American Jews to the recreation, as they put it, of the national home has been more of a financial than a physical one.

Most of the Americans have gone because of their desire to lend a hand in the nationalistic and cultural revival. Some have gone for spiritual peace.

World will be entered at the World Zionist congress at Zurich, Switzerland, in August. American Jewish leaders plan to do one of three things:

1. Unanimously reject the British proposal. 2. Accept it out of hand. 3. Enter upon a course of negotiations with Great Britain and the League of Nations.

Many Jews declare Britain has never enforced the mandate which the League of Nations gave it in 1922. If it had been enforced, they say, the Jews and Arabs would not have fought and they would have found a way to divide up the country.

But why can't the Arabs and Jews get along together? Some say because Britain failed to clamp down on the Arabs for attacking the Jews. This tendency they attribute to Britain's desire to avoid offending the 50 million Mohammedans in India.

Race Is On For Air Supremacy Over Atlantic

Superior Ocean Flying And Treaties Place U. S. In First Rank

By DEVON FRANCIS, Aviation Editor

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., July 24.—The Atlantic ocean is being flown by commercial air lines—three years late.

When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh streaked down the eastern flank of the cruise Memphis on his return from his flight to Paris in 1927, he forecast regular passenger and mail service between the old and new worlds in perhaps five years.

It was technically feasible to establish trans-Atlantic service in 1924.

But three years sped by before great flying boats began crossing back and forth across the ocean in anticipation of timetable arrivals and departures by the spring of 1932. In the meantime, the Pacific had been bridged.

The nub of the situation on the Atlantic air lanes lay in customary conversations, regular trans-Atlantic air service is on today, it is a political race, a jockeying for position. The stake is international prestige.

The United States is the bellwether. This country has two distinct advantages: a finer technical touch in ocean flying, and more international agreements providing bases of operation.

Pan American airways, our sole trans-ocean commercial flying company, and Great Britain's imperial airways are cruising back and forth across the north Atlantic, jotting down notes on the weather, analyzing the performance of their flying boats.

The trips consist of survey flights or, more properly, training flights for the crews.

Next month Germany and France will dispatch airplanes to the United States, forerunners of eventual service under the Awastika and the tri-color.

Great Britain is close behind this country both in technical advancements and in operations agreements with other interested capitals. Her technicians, pressing into small hours of the morning to provide her with an air navy second to none in the European continent.

France and Germany are less fortunate. Theirs is the problem of catching up with developments in the aeronautical laboratory devoted to refining the commercial transport and not to the creation of the high-speed bomber and the fast, highly maneuverable pursuit ship. They fly the South Atlantic but their cargo is mail.

Russia's routes have been sublimated on fighting airplanes. The Dutch, like Britain, depend on lackeys of foreign make to provide their air lanes on the European and Atlantic continents. Their holder of the world's air speed record has not yet shown his hand in the international political picture involved in spanning the Atlantic.

In another vital field, meteorological science, the United States definitely is in the van of other world powers. Years of flying over the Caribbean, along the coasts of South America, in Alaska and across the Pacific have built up for Pan American airways a formidable knowledge of weather conditions.

The race is to the swift because the air lanes are vital in and among the Atlantic. More international agreements there will be, but nations must barter one thing for another. More agreements there will be because nations barter demands an air route across the Atlantic.

What does Atlantic flying mean for the world? In all the 10 years since Lindbergh landed to the Atlantic at half of Paris, nothing will be done this summer but to fly.

And as to what it means in political terms, the term is more significant. Airplanes by which the weather is best. The race is inconsequential, the political picture paramount.

Party Lines Melt As Gotham Girds For Vote Battle

Work for the renomination and re-election of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, peppy little liberal who boasts of his political independence.

Or, endorse a "regular" Republican for the primary election, Sept. 16.

Senator Copeland, whose stand against the new deal helped win him the backing of former Governor Smith, set out to form a grand coalition by announcing he would enter the Republican primary.

"This is going to be a real fight," he said, "I want that designation and others from as many groups as I can get."

The leaders of the five Republican county organizations in the city met at the call of Charles D. Hillis, national conventional committeeman, but it may be several days before they reach a decision on whom to support.

Senator Copeland's endorsement by Tammany Hall followed a spectacular struggle within the historic wingmen, which culminated last night in a victory for James J. Dooling, whose leadership of the hall was upheld by a two to one vote of the executive committee.

An insurgent group led by James J. Hillis, Harlem district leader, strove vainly to pin the Tammany label on Grover A. Whalen, the urbane former police commissioner who had been chosen by the leaders of the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island, (Tammany's domain is confined to Manhattan).

Whalen, whose backers have been friendly to National Chairman James A. Farley, announced he would enter the primary against Dr. Copeland.

Meanwhile the group of Insulars who helped bring about the election of Mayor LaGuardia four years ago began organizing for a campaign to return him to city hall. If successful, he would be the first "reform" mayor ever to be re-elected.

The Townsend Club of Sanford decided to erect their large sign this week, at their regular weekly meeting in the Welaka Building last night, according to W. H. Hughes, president.

City Judge Frank L. Miller will preside at a session of the Municipal Court in the Police Station Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, Chief of Police Roy G. Williams reported today.

Mrs. Sophie T. Roehly was among the local nurses to return from the Short Course at Camp Roosevelt last night. Her name was unintentionally omitted yesterday.

T. W. Lawton, superintendent of public instruction for Seminole County, will return to Daytona Beach tonight after spending a day in his office attending to official business. Mr. Lawton plans to spend another week at Daytona.

Approximately 120 local boys, members of the local National Guard units, marched this morning to their headquarters which left Sanford at 8:45 A. M. They expect to arrive at Fort McClellan, Ala. about 5:00 o'clock tonight.

Dr. Peter S. Roy and C. W. Baker, local veterinarians, have consented to continue the vaccination of dogs through the fifth part of next week, City Clerk

Social Security Board Approves Florida Old Age Assistance Plan

TALLAHASSEE, July 24.—(AP)—Social security board officials in Washington informed Governor Cone yesterday that Florida's new plan for paying old age assistance has been approved.

Welfare Commissioner Codrington has been in Washington to submit the plan under which the state will distribute about $3,500,000 of its own money and an equal amount of federal money to needy persons over 65 years of age.

The state comptroller's office has prepared 10,850 checks, aggregating $125,240.70, covering July payments due Aug. 1.

The checks will not be mailed, Comptroller Lee said, until the federal government's share of the money is in the state treasury.

Frank Hane, executive director of the social security board in Washington, telegraphed Governor Cone of approval given the state plan. The law under which it was formulated won approval several weeks ago.

Codrington's staff has not yet completed plans for distributing state and federal money for the needy blind and dependent children.

Texas Teachers Get Courses In Driving

AUSTIN, Tex., July 24.—(AP)—Texas public school teachers will learn to drive their automobiles better.

Safety and driving courses are being offered at two summer schools attended by teachers. The state department of education is preparing a traffic safety manual to be distributed among 47,000 teachers in the fall.

Frank Lismen reported today, warning Sanfordites who have neglected the securing of licenses and the vaccination of dogs during the past week, that they must do so quickly as possible or their names would be picked up by the police.

Common Sense Rule Hits Chinese Blind

NANKING, China, July 24.—(AP)—China's hundreds of thousands of blind men are waging a losing battle against the new "rule of common sense," which is depriving them of their livelihood.

Institutions for the blind were unnecessary in old China, at least for blind men. Tradition gave them a virtual monopoly over fortune-telling.

A decade ago Nationalism proclaimed the end of superstition, but did little to enforce it. Now aggressive Communists instructed police to prohibit fortune-telling. Hundreds of fortune-tellers have united in a petition to stay execution of a law that would reduce them to the state of beggars, so far without success.

Tarpon Is Caught In Slip Of Broken Net

ST. PETERSBURG, July 24.—(AP)—Disregarding the handicap of being compelled to wear a brace while his broken neck was mending, Earl Mosely Jr., set out on a tarpon fishing expedition several days ago and returned with a 130-pound prize beauty—a catch which approached within five pounds of the local Anglers' Club leading entry for the season.

Mosely, who suffered a fractured neck in an automobile crash recently, thought the club's tournament had closed, however, and failed to register his fish.

Even Aged May Dance Says Dancing Master

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—Fifty and sixty-year-old men and women are "not too old to dance," Mrs. Monte Beach, president of the Dancing Masters of America, said yesterday.

"It's the one exercise you can do until you're 99 years old without speeding up the beat," she added.

"Look at me, I'm a gray hair, and I go on and on." Mrs. Beach, of Houston, Texas, is the first woman president of the Dancing Teachers Association, which bars for its convention Aug. 1-7.

Sanford Theater News for the Coming Week

Claudette Colbert Shows Unusual Brand Of Humor In Picture Coming To Ritz

Star's Wit Sparkles All The Way Through "I Met Him In Paris," Paramount's New Film Which Plays Here Sunday

The special brand of humor that Claudette Colbert has made her own sparkles throughout "I Met Him In Paris," brilliant comedy-romance which plays Sunday and Monday at the Ritz Theater.

With two leading men, Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young, fighting to win Miss Colbert's affections, "I Met Him in Paris" offers a double guarantee of sparkling situations—and bright dialogue to the legion of Colbert fans who thrilled to her earlier comedy hits, "It Happened One Night" and "The Old Maid."

In "I Met Him In Paris," Miss Colbert, a young American girl in Paris on her vacation, is the object of the affections of both Douglas and Young, who portray, respectively, a playwright and a novelist. Both men are masters of the "gag"—but discover that the innocent little "gal from back home" is just a shade too fast on the combedeck for them.

The action of the film is a whirlwind pace; the trio of stars is whirled from Paris to Switzerland and then back again to Paris. But no matter where they are, both men find the time—and the inclination—to keep right on the trail of the girl.

In a flurry of some of the most breath-taking winter sports scenes ever brought to the screen, both try to sweep Miss Colbert off her feet, but they manage only to confuse her so much that she can't decide which one of them she loves. She flees back to Paris, resolved to forget them both, but the persistent young swains pursue her back to Paris, and force a showdown.

"I Met Him in Paris" is grand comedy, grand fun and a fast-moving, thrill-packed yarn. Claudette Colbert, Melvyn Douglas, Robert Young and the balance of the cast rate as superb, and Wesley Ruggles' direction is tops.

Playboy Picture To Show At Ritz On Tuesday Night

Dealing with the adventures of a millionaire playboy who never refuses a dare, and who as a result of this habit is plunged into a hot political fight against the father of the girl he loves, RKO Radio's "You Can't Beat Love" brings Preston Foster and Joan Fontaine to the Ritz screen Tuesday.

The film marks the first co-starring role for Miss Fontaine, hailed as the most promising young actress to be discovered in recent years. Teamed with the highly popular Preston Foster, the two stars are supported by a notable cast, and the picture offers a wealth of uproarious action in addition to its romantic aspects.

Small-town politics, with an unscrupulous gambling ring allied to the police—and the town bosses, forms the background against which the high-speed story is played. Frame-ups, electioneering, graft traps, exposes and similar attributes of campaign life are woven into the picture with exciting consequences.

Foster enacts a wealthy attorney who goes out to dig ditches while attired in evening dress as a result of a wager, and this brings him in contact with Miss Fontaine, campaigning for her father's re-election as mayor. When she dares him to enter the race himself he accepts with alacrity, and things begin to happen in surprising fashion.

A sparkling cast adds the two principals. Frank M. Thomas as Miss Fontaine's mayor father, Herbert Mundin as Foster's father, Bertin Churchill as a crooked police chief, Bradley Page as an equally crooked politician, Paul Hurst as Foster's two-fisted as-

Return Engagement

In "Wake Up and Live," which plays a return engagement at the Ritz Theater with Walter Winchell, Ben Bernie and Alice Faye in the featured roles, Twentieth Century-Fox believes that it has the sweetest, hottest, most glamorous musical ever turned out by that studio.

Railway Drama To Be On Screen Here Wednesday

Brilliant Group Led By Henry Brandon, Lyle Talbot, Star

The exciting incidents of a railroad drama, "West Bound Limited," will be seen on Friday at the Ritz Theater. From the first foot of the locomotive whistle to the last click of the rails this movie promises to provide thrilling entertainment.

Lyle Talbot, portraying a station agent, is disgraced when, fighting off holdup hand, he allows a passenger train to pass a switch and go to destruction. He has no witness to prove that he was helpless to prevent the accident which happened. Convicted of criminal negligence, he escapes from prison and becomes a fugitive.

Months later he is befriended by Polly Howles and earns the hatred of Henry Brandon who, for his part, arranges for his arrest. When a passenger train is in danger of destruction, Talbot risks imprisonment to save it. The unusual climax of the film vindicates Talbot and establishes the actual criminal.

Important Cast Appears In Show Coming To Ritz

White nurses' moved quietly through the corridors, stretchers with human cargo were rolled in and out, and a new picture, "Between Two Women," which is the first film to be launched by Metro-Goldwyn Mayer with Franchot Tone, Margaret O'Sullivan and Virginia Bruce heading an important cast. The film shows Wednesday and Thursday in a double feature program with "The Hit Parade" at the Ritz Theater.

"Between Two Women" is a gripping drama within the walls of a great medical institution amid the sufferings of the daily victims of crimes, traffic and accidents.

Franchot Tone deviates from his customary roles to play an industrious young physician devoted to his work and who marries a woman who does not love him.

Virginia Bruce appears as the ill-fated business woman who falls into marriage and Margaret O'Sullivan plays a young nurse, also married but in love with Tone.

George Seitz directed the picture which is based on an original story by Erich von Stroheim, adapted for the screen by Frederick Stephani and Marion Parsonnet.

"The Hit Parade" To Show At Ritz On Wednesday

Selection Of Theme Divulged To Radio And Film Audiences

Radio and film fans who wonder how a theme song is born would be enlightened by the dramatic scene that took place when Carl Hoff and his Hit Parade orchestra selected the number that would usher in their Hit Parade program on the air.

A group of intent young men lounging about in Hoff's swank Central Park South penthouse, discussing this tune and that, weighing and considering, discarding one after another because it was "too fast" or "too slow" or "lacked punch."

As the discussion continued, one of them idly dialed in a program which featured song numbers not ultra-new but with a undying appeal. Then, over the ether waves like a golden-toned inspiration came the cajoling, sweetly sentimental melody of "Linger Awhile."

"That's it!" they yelled simultaneously. "The tune has a kick and the title has a meaning!"

So they "nursed it, rehearsed it, and gave out the news."

The tune's always present, no matter how inconspicuously, in every public performance. Patrons of the Ritz Theater will detect it Wednesday and Thursday when they see Hoff and his orchestra in action in Republic's tuneless musical "The Hit Parade," along with such screen and radio luminaries as Phil Regan, Frances Langford, Duke Ellington, Eddy Duchin, George Elvot, Molasses and January, Pig and Pat, the Tic Toc Girls, Ed Thorgersen and "The Voice of Experience."

Gus Meins directed, giving the production a fast, lively pace throughout. He's a likely candidate for next season's Academy Award.

AT THE PRINCESS

Saturday, July 31, Sunday, August 1—"THE MAN IN BLUE" and "GUNNERS AND GUNS"

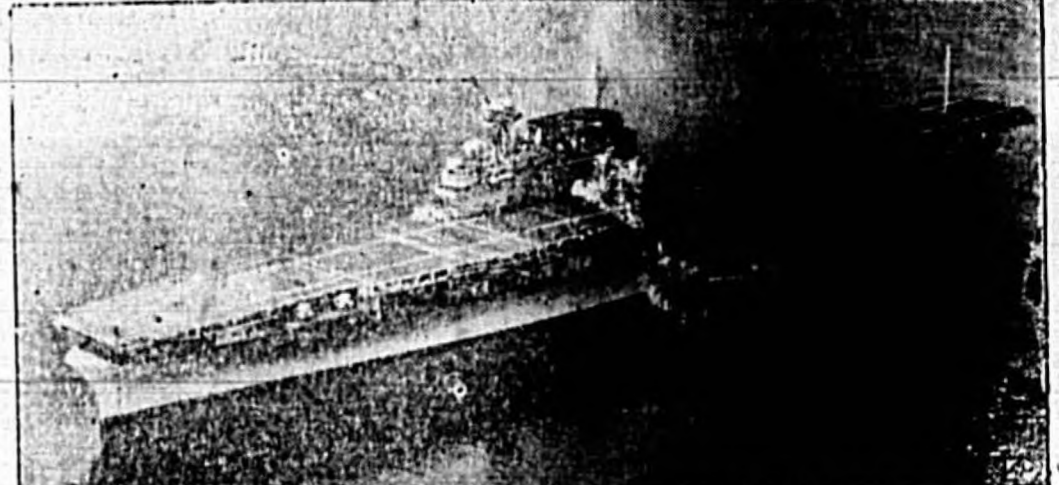

GETS A CROWN. Egypt's King Farouk, who will be crowned in Oriental splendor and invested with the sacred sword of Mohamed Ali the Great at Cairo on July 31.

TOUGH KITTY. It's "Chimax," lion cub of "Jock" and "June," big specimens in the London zoo. The lion seems a bit large for such a little cat, but food of any size looks good to a jungle kitty.

LOTS A PILLS. Rheumatic Charley Grimm, boss of the National League-leading Cubs who is taking treatments in a St. Louis hospital, may be out of bed soon. He's having a great time as a sick man with the principal peeve against a wide assortment of varicolored pills.

FLOATING WAR BASE. Here's the newest sea-going nest for Uncle Sam's navy war-birds—the aircraft carrier Yorktown which was undergoing tests at Hooland, Md. The big boat has a displacement of 18,000 tons; carries a dozen 8-inch anti-aircraft guns; is manned by 2,972 men including fliers, and can do 31 knots. It's the fast word, at the moment, in aircraft carriers.

FACING THE BUGS. This is the start of a call on Mussolini by George Lansbury, British Laborite. He said he does "make no bones" about Italian intervention in Spain to help the insurgents, and that he had a "great agreement" with Mussolini who defended this course with the assertion that the only way to avoid a world war is to let Hitler have his way.

MAE, JUNIOR. Tiny Eleanor Moffitt gets into a glove-sitting gown for her act in the midday circus at Dallas, Tex., assisted by the equally tiny Eleanor Stahly. This is a miniature of Mae West's "O'm mamma no suntime" pose. She's 21.

LITTLE GIANT. Bryan M. "Shirley" Grant, Mary Allan and the eternal surprise of American tennis, is a member of the American Davis cup challenge team. In the German matches he lost to Berndt and von Cramm. The Americans are favored to win back the international trophy lost to the French at Germantown, Pennsylvania, in 1936.
