First Law Suit Filed In County Jail Fire

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

The action alleges that (Sheriff John) Polk is responsible for all operations of the Sheriff's Department, including the jail and that Polk violated his duty to protect Peter John Muench III, 24, from harm from a fire.

Clanton was hospitalized for treatment. The civil action was assigned to Circuit Judge Tom Waddell Jr., who was in Brevard County today. Court sources said another circuit judge signed the order sought by Brown's attorney.

Sources at the jail confirmed that three men photographed the jail interior this morning and just before noon two construction crews were reported to have begun restoration of the second-floor jail facility.

The Seminole County Grand Jury is expected to reconvene tomorrow to continue its investigation of the fatal jail fire.

19 to breaking and entering with intent to commit a misdemeanor.

The lawsuit also alleges that Polk was "grossly negligent in not extinguishing the fire and evacuating inmates" of the jail.

In other court action related to the fire that killed 10 inmates and a jailer, Orlando attorney Dennis J. Hightower today reportedly obtained a circuit court order allowing his investigators to inspect and photograph the damaged jail so as to "preserve evidence" allegedly needed "for proper

Lack of Communication Cited Overpayment Of Police Funds Said Not Intentional

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Five city police officers over a period of eight months received $335 in educational incentive pay from state revenue which they were not entitled to according to a report compiled by City Bookkeeper Elise Olliff and Police Sgt. Betty Woodward. "We feel this was a lack of communication between the police department and the bookkeeping office and was not done intentionally," the women said in a report to the City Council signed by both.

"We would like to assure the Council that from this point on the city bookkeeper and Mrs. Woodward will work closely in an effort to assure accuracy," they said.

The report said...

— Sgt. Michael Fisher, with the department since July 1971, was overpaid a total of $90. He has repaid $30 and is in the process of repaying the remainder. He began receiving an additional $30 in July, 1974, although he was not entitled to the money until Oct. 21, 1974.

The overpayment continued until March of this year. Some $30 was deducted from Fisher's salary in April. Nothing was deducted in May. The report notes he still owes $60.

— Jordan Paddock, who walked out as a patrolman in early February, was over paid a total of $120 last July through Oct. He was given the extra $30 monthly although he was not entitled to it at all.

Mrs. Olliff and Mrs. Woodward note in the report that Paddock is no longer employed by the city and his salary was deducted on the January 31 payroll. He still owes the city $25.

— Lawrence (Skip) Higley was paid an additional $30 monthly beginning in July, although he did not become eligible until August. The $30 was deducted from his wages in April.

Robert Partain was overpaid $85 on the January 15 payroll and $30 of the overpayment was deducted on the January 31 payroll.

Council Chairman J. R. Grant discovered the Partain overpayment in the January payroll authorization and it was corrected by then — Public Safety Director Tom Hennigan. — Frank Taylor was overpaid through March, 1975 by $80, but then was overpaid $40 in April when reimbursed by the city. "He is also in process of repaying the remainder to the city," the report said.

The City Council has not said whether it will be taking any action on the report.

The incentive monies paid were in accordance with payroll authorizations signed by Partain, Higley, and Paddock.

Appeal May Be Quashed Bond Suit Before Court

By MICK LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida Supreme Court today had its first chance to consider Seminole County's motion to strike the City of Casselberry's appeal to block a $24 million bond validation for purchase by the county of two utility firms.

Attorney John McDonough, handling the county's utility acquisitions, said this morning he hoped the court would consider a motion to quash Casselberry's appeal.

The expected court action comes despite attempts from both the city and county governments to keep the suit out of court, and from costing taxpayers more than $80,000 in expenses.

McDonough said that if the court does not consider the motion to dismiss Casselberry's appeal today, consideration probably would not be before the court until July 7. He said the court usually considers such action on first and third Mondays. He said one of the Supreme Court clerks had told him that the court is "anxious" to hear cases involving bond validations as soon as possible.

In efforts to save taxpayers' money...

Casselberry is seeking to block the county's bond validation for the purchase of Indian Hills and Consumer Utilities, both in south Seminole County close to Casselberry. The city also had considered buying the two firms.

The city offered the county a four point deal last month to kill the law suit, but county commissioners called the proposals "blackmail" and have taken no action on any of the matters.

The four points included: favorable re zoning of land in the Red Bug Road area for increasing the city's water and sewerage treatment facilities; no challenge by the county over the city's anticipated purchase of General Waterworks utility firm.

Also, no interference by the county over an agreement between Casselberry pumping sewage to the City of Maitland for treatment; and wholesale allocation of 700,000 gallons of sewage per day from Casselberry to the Consumer plant.

The county, in reply to the proposal, offered to meet with city officials to try and reach an out-of-court agreement. But, no meeting has been set.

McDonough said that while the court may have begun consideration of the motion to strike the appeal today, the court could hold any decisions until a later date. In his opinion, McDonough says, if the court did quash Casselberry's appeal the suit would be killed.

"There would be no basis for an appeal," he said.

County Itemizes Worker Benefits

The Seminole Board of County Commissioners (BCC), acting on recommendations by a veteran labor attorney, is itemizing benefits which the county offers its employees to deter employee interest in bringing unions into the county.

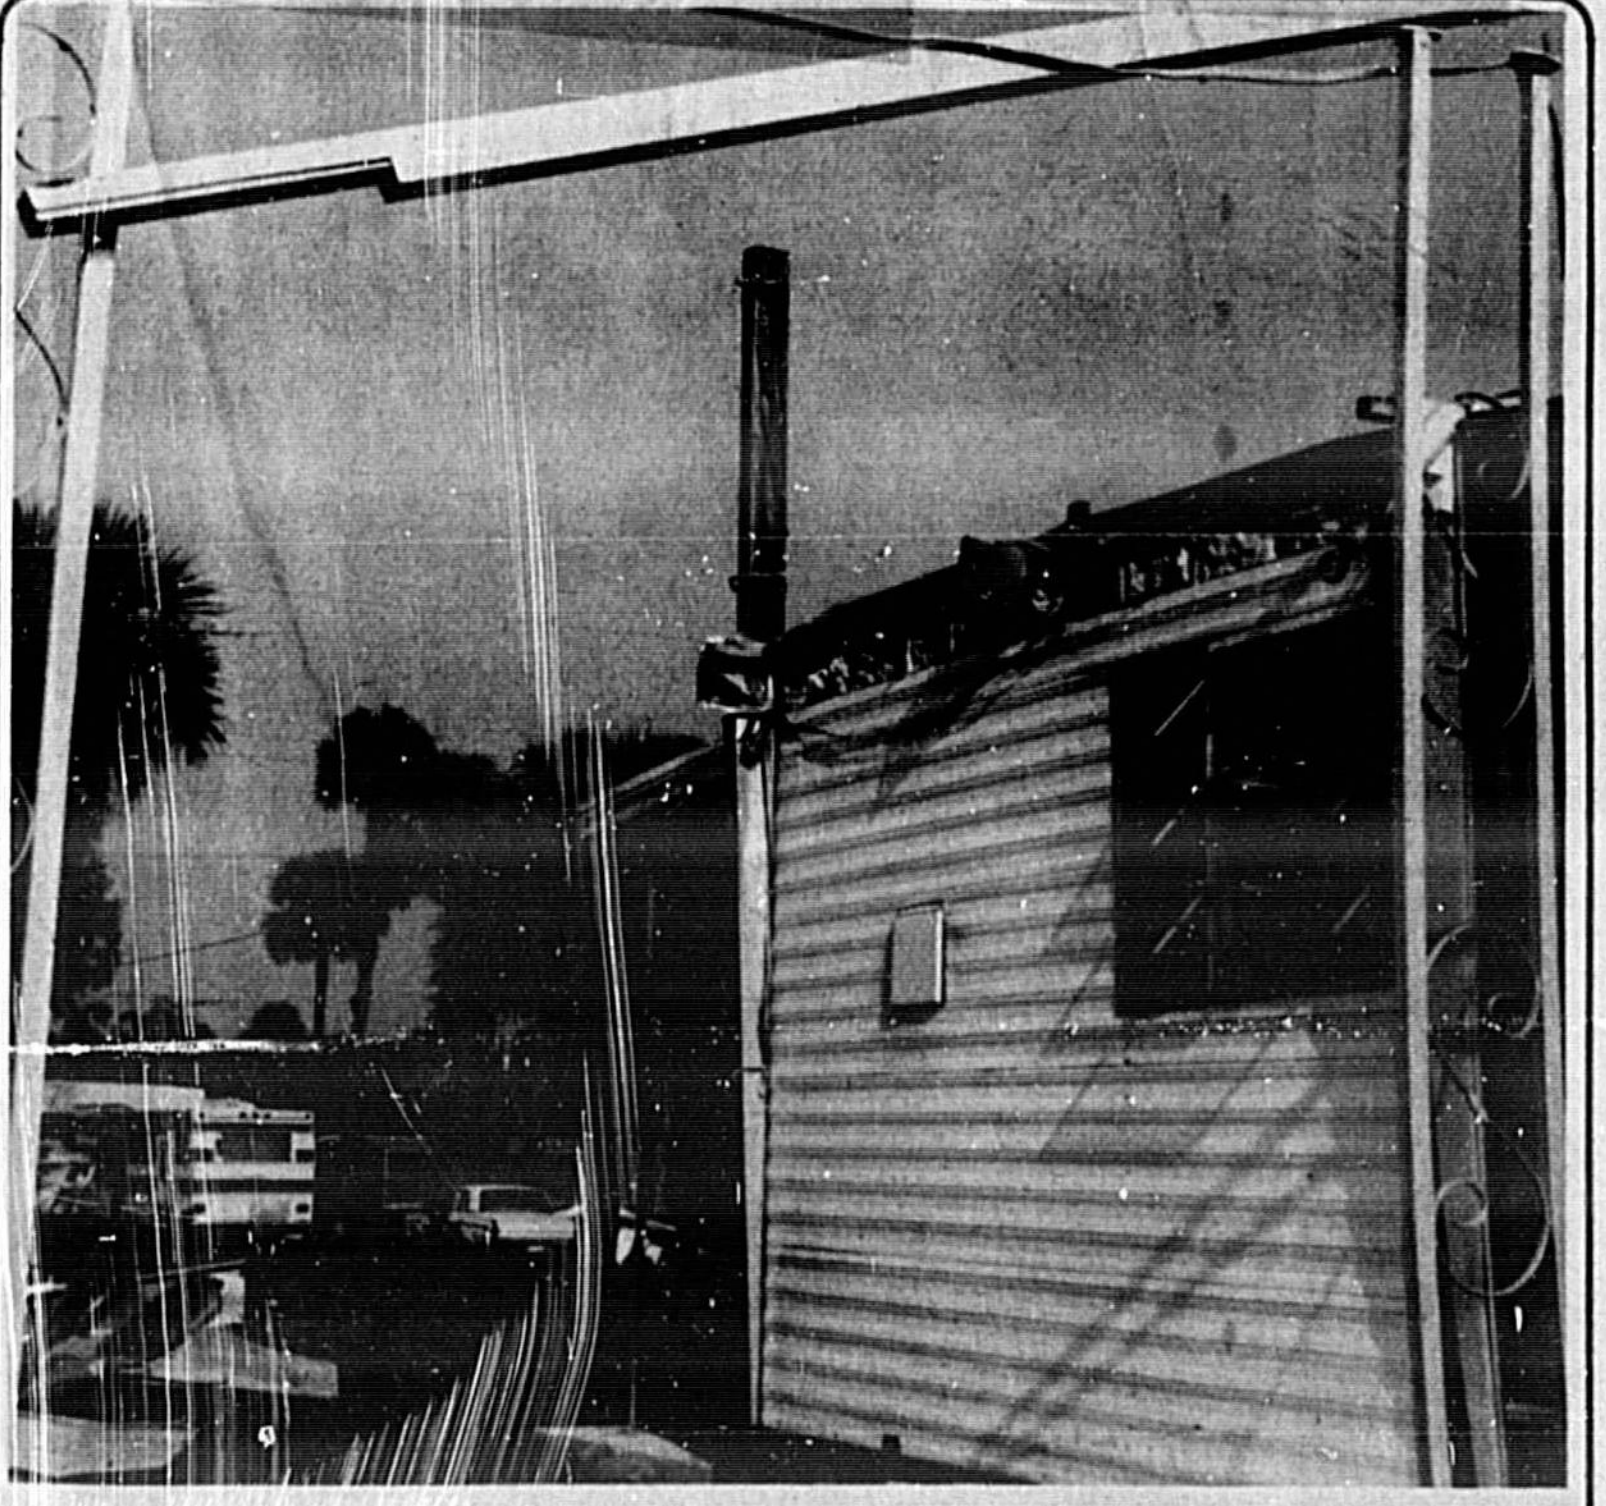

Two unions, a local teamsters and carpenters unions, have approached the BCC to represent county employees in the parks and road departments. In response to union contract, the BCC hired Granville Alley, a 20-year veteran of union negotiations, to represent the county in all labor dealings.

Alley, being paid $90-per-hour, has outlined steps the county should follow in preparing to deal with unions. One of the recommendations is to inform the county employees of the existing benefits and propose new benefits to keep employee interest away from the union.

Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski said today that the BCC is only beginning the steps outlined by Alley for dealing with unions.

"Both sides (the county and the union) are maneuvering right now," Kwiatkowski said. The unions in July will appear before the state Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) to petition to become bargaining agents for the county employees. The employees, however, will hold an election to determine if they desire representation.

The desire for representation is what the BCC hopes to kill. The BCC passed a resolution two months ago, stating opposition to any unions representing county employees.

HIGH WINDS DAMAGE TRAILERS
A sudden twister tore the roof off this mobile home (top) at Mullet Lake Park yesterday. High winds, rain and hail combined to damage mobile homes owned by W. T. Newton and Connie Sparks. The Newton 60-foot trailer was turned over on its side by the force of the wind. Debris was scattered throughout a wide area, such as wrapped around the utility pole at right, after the storm. CIA Must Fulfill Legitimate Role

Enough has been disclosed about the final report of the Rockefeller Commission that it is safe to say it will contain no sensational disclosures about illegal activities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

This will disappoint some critics who have been looking for evidence to sustain their complaint that the CIA has become a major threat to civil liberties or due process of law in the country...

As commission chairman Nelson Rockefeller points out, the CIA did abuse its power, and may have broken the law by illegal activities against American citizens. However, the report also confirms that these abuses did not arise from sinister designs on innocent people...

BERRY'S WORLD

UNEMPLOYMENT CON

"You used to 'jumb' over WHAT?"

Around The Clock
I received a strange phone call the other day. The press had just started and I was sitting back in my chair reading the day's paper.

RAY CROMLEY Business As Usual For Congress

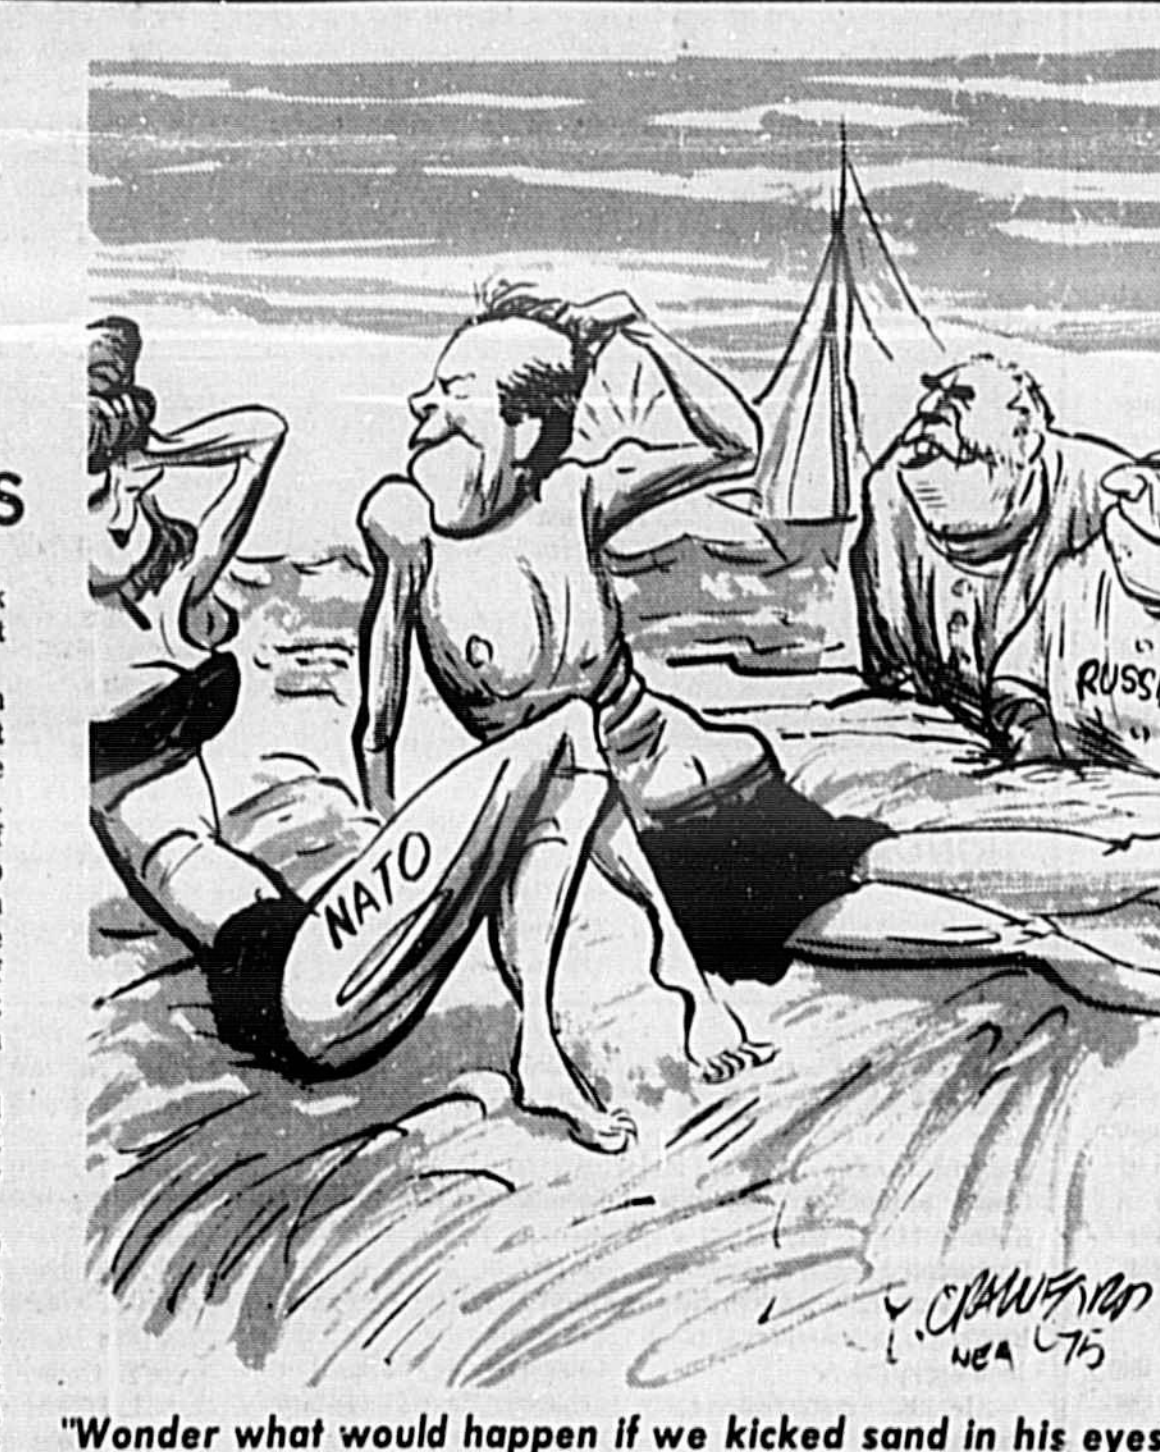

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The longer I work in Washington the more cynical I become about Congressional reformers.

Last November, Americans across the nation threw out a sizeable group of incumbent Congressmen. In their place we voted into office men who advertised themselves as idealists. They promised to change Congress, get rid of inept and shady committee chairmen, clean up elections, reform the budget, and end the recession and provide relief for those caught in the unemployment squeeze.

The newcomers, on average, have done so badly in fact that many undoubtedly would be ousted in November, 1976, except for the fact that new provisions of the law, added to other privileges they pushed through, will make it difficult indeed to vote an incumbent out. Even in the past, a challenger has had an exceedingly difficult row to hoe because of the special privileges Congressmen have — patronage, publicity, free trips home, franking of mail, greater access to money from individuals and from lobbyists — whether labor, industrial, farmer, or "public interest" groups.

When these men came to office, they vowed reform. The newcomers had lists of committee chairmen they considered dangerous. Whether their lists were correct, fragments of the imagination or the result of ideological differences is beside the point. The idealists threw out only three chairmen of those they'd marked for extinction. What happened, so far as I can ascertain, is that some legislator was able to use patronage and other pressures so effectively they took control of enough reformer votes to stay in power.

But I listened. I listened to what the caller had to say. Why, I'll never know — except maybe because I wanted to or I knew I should hear what he had to say. You know, he didn't have anything to say, really, and he never did give me his name. But I've been down that road before.

"Wonder what would happen if we kicked sand in his eyes?"

"You gotta listen to me, Abe," his old friend Lucy Scruples was saying. "I can tell you how to save New York."

"I don't know, Lucy," Mayor Beame said solemnly, shaking his head. "I'm set to sell the whole state back to the Indians. Do you think we could get $48 for it?"

It's a great idea, Lucy, but don't you think Kuwait is going to have something to say about this? It's true, as I've been telling Governor Carey and President Ford and everyone else who would listen, the world owes New York a living. If we are nice enough to be on the same planet with them, the least they can do is help us out once in a while.

The Israelis said the attack was made by four guerrillas who slipped across the Lebanese frontier. They were spotted by armed civilians in Kfar Yuval as they climbed over a fence to get into the village of immigrants from India. The villagers opened fire, and the terrorists fired rifles and rocket grenades in all directions as they seized the house of Yacov Mordechai.

At least seven other guerrillas were wounded along with three other Israelis, and all four terrorists were killed. The Israeli armed forces radio said one of the terrorists was a Palestinian, and the others were an Iraqi, a Moroccan and a Turk. It said they belonged to the Arab Liberation Front, which is affiliated with the PLO.
