JAPANESE AND RUSSIANS CLASH ON BORDER

A bloody border clash, in which Soviet guards and a number of Japanese-Manchoukouan soldiers met death, threatens to give rise to serious international complications. From Moscow came a bitter protest to the Tokyo government. These two Russian soldiers patrolling the border in a pneumatic boat are typical of the guards who exchanged shots with the Japanese. The map below shows the location of the fight which took place along the Siberian-Manchoukouan line near the frontier town of Gredakovo. (Associated Press Photos)

BATTLED FOR P.G.A. TITLE

HOW ENEMIES' CANNON COMPARE

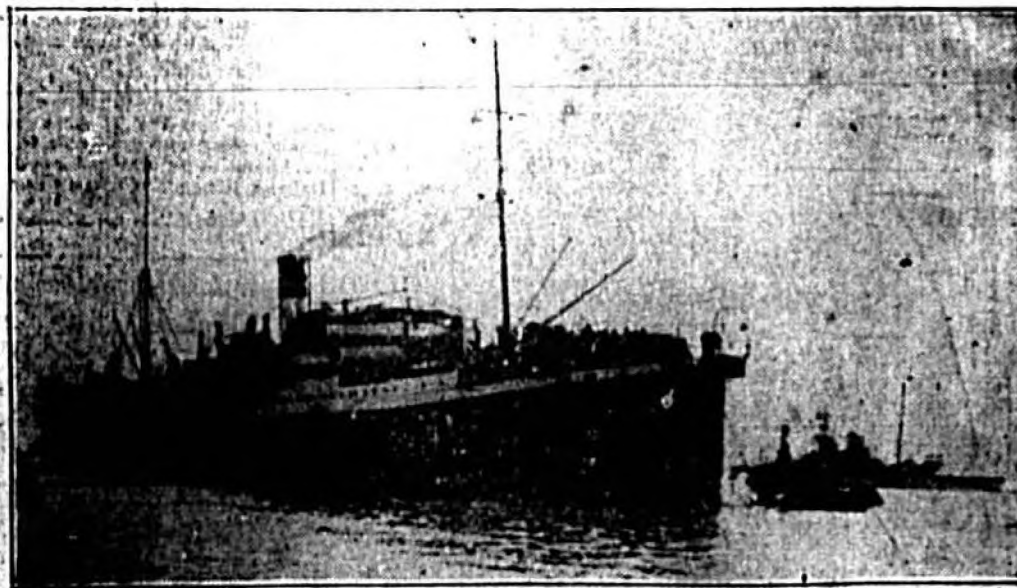

The relative deadliness of Italy's mighty field guns is contrasted to Ethiopia's puny weapons in illustrated story in these comparative pictures made in the battle lines and reached by America by chartered plane and fast steamship. At the top, Italian 210mm guns are shown placing a modern six-inch cannon for the attack on Aduwa. Below, an Ethiopian field piece is seen in position for the defense of Harar. Appropriation Of 69 Million Made To State

Additional Grant For Canal Would Boost Sum Close To The 100 Million Mark

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (AP)—Florida's appropriations from the $4,880,000,000 work relief appropriation were shown today in unofficially assembled figures to have reached the $69,777,999 mark.

The sum included $5,000,000 allocated for the Gulf-Atlantic ship canal, and should President Roosevelt decide to proceed with the first year canal construction program, as outlined by Army engineers and urged by Senate Fletcher of Florida, another $20,000,000 would be provided for the project.

With the government's big push to create jobs now in full swing, Florida Works Progress projects contemplating the aggregate expenditure of more than $29,000,000 now bear presidential sanction.

Chief U. S. Engineer "Ticked To Death" On Visit To Canal

OCALA, Oct. 28. (AP)—Here on his first inspection tour of the trans-Florida ship canal district since the project got under way, Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of U. S. engineers, said that he was "ticked to death" with the layout at Camp Roosevelt and on the canal right-of-way.

General Markham expressed his gratification with the progress that has been made under Lieut. Col. Breton B. Somersville, chief in charge of canal construction.

"You may say that I am ticked to death with what I have seen," General Markham said. "I am delighted with the common sense of the layout. The groundwork has been laid for going ahead expeditiously with the project."

Bryan Faces Recall As Mayor Of Lincoln

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 28. (AP)—W. Bryan, three times governor of Nebraska and brother of William Jennings Bryan, the Commoner, is facing the possibility of recall as mayor of Lincoln. Petitions seeking his recall, allegedly bearing 580 qualified signatures, four more than the number necessary for a recall election, have been filed with the city clerk.

Friends of Bryan said the efforts to recall the mayor were pressed by persons whom the city council had refused licenses to sell liquor.

Bryan characterized the petition as a protest against the policy of law enforcement and reasonable regulation of beer and liquor.

Here's The Oldest U. S. Coin To Date

Believed to be the oldest United States coin in Sanford is a copper one-cent piece, the property of Mrs. John Schirard. It was coined in 1797 and is unlike any other American coins so far discovered in that in place of stars there are 13 rings on the face of the penny, each ring containing the name of one of the 13 original states. Mrs. Schirard also has a penny coined in 1800.

Nearly as old as the Schirard penny is a one-cent piece bearing the date of 1796 and which is owned by Roy Mann. This coin shows the head of a figure denoting liberty and carries the word "liberty" on one side and "one cent" on the other side.

Ethiopian Interior Penetrated Farther By Italian Troops

AAA Court Ruling Before Christmas Thought Possible

Condemnation Rights Of Government To Also Be Decided

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether the government can condemn land for its alum plant and low cost housing construction programs. It consented to review a case from Louisville, Kentucky, which was decided against the government by the lower courts.

The high tribunal also announced that constitutional provisions of the Agriculture Adjustment Administration Act will be argued on Dec. 9, thus making possible a decision by Christmas.

The important Louisville housing case deals with the plan of public works which include condemnation of two city blocks. The Federal District Court entered an opinion saying "no power to condemn the property exists for the purposes for which it is intended."

Thomas J. Mooney again lost in his effort to get the Supreme Court to review his conviction of complicity in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

Civilian Population Ordered To Leave Makale Which Will Not Be Defended

Engineers Arrive To Hunt For Gold

Survey Will Be Made In Territory Now In Italy's Grasp

The Associated Press

Prepared for any counter attack by Ethiopian tribesmen, Italy's fascist armies drove deeper today into the interior of Haile Selassie's empire. In the northern Addis Ababa sector, Mussolini's Roman legions marching on Makale advanced their lines more than 12 miles.

An exchange telegraph (British) dispatch from Adolph Abaha said the civilian population of Makale, a strategic mountain pass and gateway to the interior was ordered to evacuate Makale, the dispatch said, will not be defended as part of the Ethiopian strategy to allow the Italians to penetrate deeper before making a counter offensive.

General Emilio De Bono, commander-in-chief of Italo's East African troops, hurried to the front from Entebbe and assumed personal command of the offensive. He took formal possession of new territory and ordered the consolidation of all the area to the rear of the new front line.

Officers in the field declared the area between Addis and Adigrat was virtually impregnable to any counter attack by Ethiopians (Continued On Page Three)

The amount is more than twice as large as Congress voted for the present year.

The exact figure to be submitted to the budget bureau has not as yet been determined, Woodring said in an interview. "But already we are adding many factories to submit bids on the basis of our plans to be purchased in 1937 fiscal year."

Bible Verse For Today

HOPE IN GOD:—Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance and my God.—Psalm 42: 11.

ANSWER TO A WIFE

I've heard enough of the things you blame On a husband's whims and humors— But I never began a Question Game, Nor started a silly rumor. I put my things where they ought to be, In pockets in various places, And I always know where I put that key.

And where my cigarette case is, And when I shave I end the toil With the speed of my years of study, Nor emerge with a smell of banana-oil, And with nails, place 'em bloody.

If socks I need, I buy those socks In the first store that I enter, I don't vibrate through a dozen blocks And the whole of the shopping center.

The hats I own, they share my play, My work, my joy, my sorrow; They don't make me look like myself today— And somebody else tomorrow.

When asked for money—though often averse— To reach it I'm always able, It's not in a purse inside of a purse And left on some upstairs table.

And when I go home from a party, it's Completely equipped you'll find me; I don't leave portions of make-up kits And some of my clothes behind me.

I really enjoy a seidel of beer, I'm careful with matches, and, But, by the way, Penelope dear, Did you find my extra collar's dollars? BY LAURENCE MCKINNEY

The voling on the corn-hog program went over like the cross-stitch quilt. Nobody's going to shoot Santa Claus.

An exchange refers to them as "slot machine addicts." Which reminds us that if this new law doesn't produce sufficient revenue the next legislation might legalize dope peddling with a two percent tax on each "shot."

An inventor who lives in Texas claims to have perfected a scheme which will enable automobiles to run on water alone. This will just about complete the wreckage of those states which exist almost solely on gasoline taxes.

H. P. Patey is the first candidate to announce formally for the office of governor. Patey is from West Palm Beach, was an ardent supporter of Dave Sholtz during the last campaign, and later was appointed chairman of the State Racing Commission. Later he had a falling out with the governor and resigned. Recent statements attributed to Patey indicate that that falling out still holds.

An assiduously law-abiding citizen writes on Florida's status books "on the Matthews Times" the slot-machine inventor, "which interests me over on the people's side." The Sanford Herald believes, "but the law can be changed when the Legislature meets." Even the strongest advocates of the measure probably would be overruled if not to a popular vote. Some laws that can't be changed by the state legislature, but only by the people.

Community Assets

Everyone knows what "tangible assets" are. They are the things of value which can be seen, touched, and sold. In a business they are represented by stocks of goods, merchandise, machinery, office equipment, buildings and so forth. But, however important these "tangible assets" are, they are not nearly so important as the "intangible" ones. Such assets as goodwill, stocks, bonds, mortgages, and bank balances, have a great deal more to do with the success or failure of a business than the "tangible assets."

So it is with a community. The Daytona Beach Sun-Record writes at length on the importance of "intangible assets" to Daytona Beach. There are assets a plenty in every city such as public buildings, paved streets, hospitals, hotels, parks and playgrounds, sidewalks and swimming pools, which can be seen or touched, whether they can be sold or not. But a city, like a business, rises or falls on its "intangible assets."

Many cities boast of their climate, their matchless blue skies, their gorgeous golden moons, the sweet fragrance of their apple blossoms, or their gardens. Other cities extensively advertise their business opportunities, their intellectual atmosphere, their tourist attractions, or their mountain air. All these are "intangible assets." They are the goodwill features of a community, and, in the final analysis, they are more important than all the public buildings which money can buy.

But it seems to us that the most important of all the "intangible assets" which a city can have are the stamina, the fortitude, the character of its citizens. If the citizens of a community have courage, determination, foresight, wisdom and decency of the highest type, they will build a city and make it grow and prosper whether it has any other assets or not.

But a city, whose people, by and large, are either weak or lazy, who do not have the strength of character to resist temptations to do intemperate or indecent things, who are too extravagant to be honest, who are too imprudent to be frugal, who are selfish, short-sighted, and stupid, will not prosper no matter how best it may be with climate, location and other natural advantages.

It is times like these that put the people of a community to the test. And it is times like these that determine whether a city is to survive or perish.

A New Law

When Minister of Propaganda Joseph Goebbels instructed branch offices throughout Germany to exclude the names of Jews killed in the World War from the list of honored dead, Nazi persecution of the Jews reached the height of the ridiculous. Or "a new law," as the Miami News says, in condemning this revolting spectacle abhorrent to all civilized peoples who recognize the rules of fairplay, "Jews who died for Germany are not heroes of war," the Miami paper concludes. "No longer are they to be computed on official records even as cannon fodder. Officially, they never existed—except on enlistment records! Officially, there are no Jewish war orphans and widows in Germany. Hitler has said so! What, then, became of these men? When they were handed a gun and a uniform 21 years ago and told to die for the fatherland were they asked if they were Jew or Gentile?"

"That, too, was a mistake. Perhaps Hitler can rectify it, also, by expunging the record. More than a decree of Hitler's minister of hate will be necessary, however, to erase from memory the heroism of a Frankl, the Jewish ace who brought down 27 enemy planes before he gave his life for the fatherland. Frankl won Germany's highest decoration for bravery, the order 'pour le merite.'"

"Another Jew upon whom this supreme military honor was conferred was Prof. Fritz Haber, who fought as a volunteer private, then discovered how to take nitrogen from the air just as Germany was threatened by an English blockade that cut off its Chilean supply of nitrates. Haber also gave the German war lords a weapon, in poison gas, that might have brought victory. Only the failure of the high command to press the advantage it gained through gas attacks until gas masks had been developed saved the Allies in the opinion of some observers.

"Another Jew not easily forgotten is Albert Ballin, called the 'builder of the German navy.' It was Ballin, founder of the Hamburg-American line, who designed his ships for conversion to war-time use and made available about 80 of these, then committed suicide when the kaiser was driven into exile, believing the fatherland doomed.

"The list might be lengthened indefinitely by examining the records of each of some 12,500 Jewish soldiers who gave their lives for Germany and more than 2,000 Jews who became officers in the German army. It would include at least one other ace, Baron Paul von Huenfeld, whose mother was Jewish, and even General Moosner, who commanded two divisions on the western front.

"The heroism of these men lives, not in the rolls censored by propagandists, but in the imperishable memory of their deeds."

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—President Wilson has, in a proclamation designating Thursday, Nov. 25, as Thanksgiving Day, called attention to the fact that the United States has been at peace while most of Europe has been at war. "We have been able to assert our rights and the rights of mankind without breach of friendship with the great nations with whom we have to deal," said the President.

Sanford will have the least work and the heaviest for motor boats that has ever been needed here. This much was assured yesterday in the purchase of the old Fibro factory on the lake shore just northwest of the A. C. L. docks and freight depot. The new boat works will be under the personal management of B. Sherman who has made such a success of the plant at Sanford and Mr. Sherman will be assisted by G. Kenyon of Orlando who is also an experienced builder and wood worker.

Miss Laura Fish is home again after an extended visit to sunny spots in the North and Northwest. Her many friends are giving her a glad welcome home.

THE COMPASS

THE PROCEDURE OF THE LEAGUE By ARTHUR DANA

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 28.—To those not familiar with the Covenant of the League of Nations the question naturally presents itself, why have its members delayed using military force against Italy if they seriously intend to save Ethiopia?

"In passing, I might say I have never met anyone opposed to our joining the League who had read its constitution, called the Covenant. This dispute between Italy and Ethiopia is the first major occasion for testing all the various provisions of the Covenant which specify in legal order the steps to be taken when the peace of the world is threatened or broken. The League is in reality an effort to force the use of legal procedure in all international relations. In applying its powers it must set an example of proceeding strictly according to law.

The League is made up of two bodies—Council and Assembly. Roughly, the former corresponds to a Senate and the latter to a House of Representatives. The Assembly is composed of all members of the League, 68 in number, while the Council has but 14 members—at present four are permanent and ten chosen by the Assembly.

When a dispute arises between League members, according to the Covenant they may agree to submit the matter to Arbitration—Or to the World Court—Or to Enquiry by the Council. The Italian-Ethiopian dispute was not submitted to the Court; Arbitration was tried and failed; so enquiry was instituted by the Council. Its committee of investigation found Italy in the wrong; the conclusion of the Council was unanimous (nations in dispute having no vote).

When the conclusion is unanimous, all members are bound by the Covenant not to fight any disputant complying with the recommendations in the report of the Council. Furthermore, all disputants agree "in no case to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators, or the judicial decision, or the report of the Council."

Italy refused to obey the unanimous recommendations of the Council, and in such event the Council may refer the matter to the Assembly, and must do so if requested in due time by either party to the dispute. The next step was, therefore, reference to the Assembly, and a vote of 50 out of 53 members present found Italy the aggressor. Austria, Hungary and Albania stood by Mussolini.

Under Article XVI of the Covenant, Italy, by attacking one member of the League (Ethiopia) is at war with all other members, and has become an object of military and commercial sanctions. It is in harmony with the Covenant to impose commercial sanctions first. If the severance of all trade with Italy after October 31st does not bring Mussolini to terms, the Covenant provides for the next step—to recommend to the several governments concerned what effective military, naval or air force the members of the League shall severally contribute to the armed forces to be used to protect the covenants of the League.

It is useless to recommend military sanctions unless they can be enforced, but furnishing the necessary troops and armaments to do that is a matter of voluntary action and time has been consumed in getting volunteers. England offered her forces several weeks ago but it was essential that France declare herself, for Italy's navy combined with that of France would be a match for England in the Mediterranean.

England has finally maneuvered France into a show-down. She agrees to help England if attacked by Italy, but at the same time extracts from Great Britain the promise to act, not alone, but in concert with the League members in applying military pressure against Mussolini.

This procedure under the Covenant forces it down to decide whether he will take an early peace or wait to fight the League on commercial and military fronts. He is likely to choose the former for two reasons—(1) He has already wiped out the progress of Adowa; (2) if he chooses his aggression to the point of combat with 50 nations, he cannot hope to win, nor hold any part of Ethiopia which he may have conquered.

Events in Geneva are of great significance. They represent the first real effort in applying force to prevent a major power from engaging in unlawful war. Hereafter, if that effort is successful, any nation will give pause before planning to steal territory and defy the world.

Mrs. Grace Doyle was highly commended upon the display of a table cloth made of sack and crocheted work. Also for her applique pieces of window curtains and chair seats. Each member also made a request for a special work she wished demonstrated at a future meeting. A delightful economic meal, prepared by Miss Margaret Hales, was served at the conclusion of the business meeting. The next session of the club will be held at the school Tuesday, Nov. 5 at 2:00 P. M. The subject of the next demonstration will be handicraft, and a special instructor, Mrs. Rhinehart, will be present. Safer, Quieter More Beautiful City Is Desired

Commission Acts To Curb Accidents At Intersections With Thirteenth Street

Attorney To Draw Anti-Noise Law

Frame Signboards In Municipality Will Not Be Permitted

Moving to make the City of Sanford a safer, quieter and more beautiful municipality, the City Commission last night ordered the placing of one stop "sign" and several "slow" signs near some intersections on Thirteenth Street, refused to amend an old ordinance which would have permitted the erection of wooden signboards within the corporate limits, and instructed the City Attorney to draft an anti-noise ordinance.

Commissioner S. O. Shalhoub called attention to the fact that there have been three automobile accidents in as many weeks on Thirteenth Street, and after considerable discussion the Commission ordered the erection of a "stop" sign on Maple Avenue south of Thirteenth Street, and "slow" signs on Thirteenth near the intersections of Magnolia, Oak and Elm Avenues.

The commission's original suggestion was that Thirteenth be made a through street between Park and French Avenues, but Mayor T. L. Dumas expressed the opinion that to "work but interfere with the city's business" he would designate Thirteenth as a through street.

Gifts For Memorial To Will Rogers Will Be Received By Bank

J. L. Ingley, executive vice president of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, said today that his institution "will gladly receive" and forward subscriptions to the late Will Rogers, noted humorist and philosopher. Subscriptions will begin on Nov. 4, the 56th anniversary of Rogers' death, and will continue to Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 27.

Friends here have organized The Will Rogers Memorial Commission. It is hoped every one who smiled with Rogers will come forward with a subscription. Every cent subscribed will be used for memorials to be selected by Henry Ford, Malcolm Hoover, Alfred E. Smith, Wm. H. Hays, Jesse H. Smith, John D. Young, Vice President John N. Garner, and other men and women of national prestige and respect. The memorials will depend on the number of friends who contribute—but they will be used for charitable, educational and humanitarian purposes. There will be no cold shaft of marble to honor the memory of this warm, friendly man. They will be living, continuing memorials.

National Guard Unit Is Called Out To Enforce Order Of State's Governor

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Declaring an anti-state highway commission in a "state of insurrection" as declared by South Carolina's governor, Olin D. Johnston yesterday seized control of the highway department and called out the National Guard to enforce his order. Sixty-one National Guardsmen with four machine guns planted themselves about the highway offices to enforce the order by which Johnston turned to the South Carolina parallel of martial law in the footsteps of Georgia, Oklahoma, and Louisiana state executives.

He announced his action in a proclamation and statement saying military force was necessary to remove the 14 commissioners and Chief Commissioner Ben M. Sawyer since they had "set up a supreme government" above the governor, legislature, and people.

George Bill Timmerman of Lexington, the only commissioner who commented immediately, asserted, "The governor is leading the rebellion against constitutionally, law, and order. It is up to the people of South Carolina to decide between a dictator or a regular governor."

Waging a fight he began six years ago as a youthful representative of Miami.

Nothing daunted, however, the Sanford civic leader endeavored to inject the canal into the discussions, but Mr. Papworth said today that "strangely to relate, it only encouraged the 'whispering campaign' for me to go 'soft peddle' on the canal for the reason that it would never be built."

Representatives of 10 South Florida counties attended the Orlando meeting and formed an organization to campaign for the division of Florida into two states, the organization to be known as the "Florida State Division Committee."
