

ATTORNEY GENERAL WEST WILL PUSH CASE AGAINST THE EAST COAST CANAL

THEY MUST DEEPEN AND MAINTAIN CANAL OR FORFEIT CHARTER

Tallahassee, July 13.—(Special.)—In the suit brought in the Supreme Court by Attorney-General West against the Florida Coast Line Canal and Transportation Company upon an amended petition filed in the case a writ was issued July 5 requiring this company to restore its canal to the size required by law and properly maintain it.

The amended petition points out specifically the various places in the canal where it has been permitted to fill up and become less than 5 feet deep at mean low water and less than 60 feet wide and the defendant company is required by this writ to proceed forthwith to restore the canal to the required dimensions or show cause on August 15 next why it has not done so.

In speaking of the case today the Attorney General said: "We expect to make this company perform its duty to the people of the state by maintaining this canal as the law requires."

"If for any reason this cannot be done I intend to bring a suit against it to forfeit its charter because of its neglect and failure to perform its duty and let the canal be maintained in some other way. I have information to the effect that the toll charges now being made for the use of the canal, if applied to maintenance, would assist materially to this end, and that certain transportation companies which desire to use the canal would undertake to keep it in a usable condition if they were permitted to do so with the moneys they would be required to pay for using it."

"The income of the company from this source is, I understand, taken up largely in paying salaries and office expenses when it should be used on the canal."

"It is apparent that radical changes are necessary if this waterway is to serve the purpose for which it was constructed and I propose to exert such powers as this office has to require this company to do something in return for the 1,000,000 acres of land that the state gave it to aid in the construction of this waterway and, while it is a big job and much time and labor will be required, we shall ultimately, in my opinion, succeed."

"The result, of course, will be to furnish to the people of the state a protected waterway for the transportation of supplies and products in competition with other transportation lines which would result in great benefits to them."

"There is now being cut from Lake Okechobee to St. Lucie on the east coast of the state a canal of greater dimensions than this East Coast canal. Work on the canal from Miami to Lake Okechobee will soon be under way and the canal from West Palm Beach to Lake Okechobee down the Caloosahatchee River to Fort Myers on the west coast. These canals are cut and maintained primarily for drainage but they of course will be used for transportation."

"With the East Coast Canal properly maintained water transportation will not only be afforded between points on the East Coast, but with the completion of the canals across the state through navigable waterways between points on the East Coast and Fort Myers on the West Coast will be afforded and a more intimate relationship will be established between the people of the West Coast which will be of great value to the state. That boats carrying freight and passengers traveling for pleasure and for profit will be running through these canals from Miami, Jacksonville and other East Coast towns to Ft. Myers, Tampa and other West Coast towns within the next few years is, in my opinion, practically assured."

When the matter was argued before the Supreme Court several weeks ago it was urged by counsel for the canal company that the state has no authorities over that portion of the canal in the Indian River because the federal government had

from time to time made appropriations for the improvement of this stream and had, therefore, assumed jurisdiction over it.

In order that the other work necessary might not be delayed by a controversy over this question, this part of the canal being naturally in fair condition is eliminated for the present and the attorney general has asked the senators from this state and the representative from this district in congress to see to it, if they are able to do so, that this portion of the waterway is taken care of in the rivers and harbors bill now pending in congress.

The places pointed out in the petition filed in the case where the canal is defective are as follows:

At and near mile posts 314 and 313 in Biscayne Bay; at and near mile posts 311, 310 and 309, the entrance of said canal from the north into Biscayne Bay; at and near a point half way between mile posts 309 and 308 where said canal enters Dumfries Bay from the south; at and near mile post 308 in Dumfries Bay; a stretch of said canal extending from mile post 307 north to mile post 302; at and near mile post 300; a stretch of said canal extending to mile post 299 north through Lake Mabel to mile post 287; a stretch of said canal extending from mile post 285 north to mile post 280; at and near mile posts 265 to 264; a stretch of said canal from mile post 246 north through what is commonly called Jung canal to mile post 240; at and near mile post 96 and mile post 95 commonly called Haulover canal; at and near mile posts 86 to 85 commonly called Oak Hill Cut; a stretch of said canal from mile post 80 north through what is commonly called Ship Yard Reach to mile post 75; at and near mile posts 59 to 58; a stretch of said canal from mile post 52 north to mile post 50; a stretch of said canal from mile post 48 north through what is commonly called Dressers Cut to mile post 41; a stretch of said canal to mile post 37 to mile post 34; stretch of said canal from mile post 32 north through what is commonly called Fox Cut by Allen's farm and McCollum's Landing to mile post 20; a stretch of said canal from mile post 17 north by Matanzas Inlet to mile post 15.

This suit is regarded as an undertaking of great magnitude and it is understood that it is to be followed up until definite and substantial results are accomplished.

PRINCIPAL NOT APPOINTED

Prof. Bowers' Application Rejected By County Board

The board of public instruction for Seminole county decided at a meeting held Tuesday to turn down the application of Prof. R. B. Bowers for the position of principal of the Sanford schools, on account of an article that appeared in the Ocala Star under the heading of "The Law of God and the Individual or a War Time Reflection."

The board objected to the thought expressed in the article as it advocated the idea that God loves not the individual, but the race and the reference in the article calling Christ the sage of Nazareth and the ancient philosopher. The board had nothing against Prof. Bowers other than they did not want the pupils of the schools to have a teacher of new thought in the position of head of the institutions of learning and no charges or criticisms were made against him. He was commended for his ability and energy in other fields where he had been employed and the incident will be closed with the employment of another principal, as there are several applications on file. Prof. Bowers had only been recommended by the local board and had never received the appointment necessary by the county board, hence the change will not be noticeable in the school work. He was principal of Euclid school last year and is residing in Ocala at present.

ICE MATTER IS UNSETTLED BOARD OF TRADE COMMITTEE ONLY PARTLY SUCCESSFUL

The price of ice has not melted much in the past few days and what seemed at first as a compromise price has proven unsatisfactory. The Board of Trade committee appointed at the meeting Tuesday night met with Manager F. P. Rines and following is their report rendered to the board of governors at a meeting yesterday:

Report of Committee on Ice

To the honorable board of governors Sanford Board of Trade.

Your committee recently appointed to confer with Manager Rines of the Sanford Public Service Co., regarding the recent raise in the price of ice begs leave to submit the following report:

The committee waited upon Manager F. P. Rines on Thursday afternoon with the following demand from the Board of Trade to-wit: That the recent raise in the price of ice was exorbitant, that there was dissatisfaction over the price, on the weight and on the quality of ice as furnished to the patrons and the committee representing the Board of Trade wanted relief for the people and a return to the old rate. Mr. Rines explained the cause for the raise, giving the reason in the high cost of everything entering into the production of ice and the city delivery. He assured the committee that the ice was being improved and that full weight would be guaranteed to each and every customer. The price would have to be taken up with the general manager at Jacksonville. The committee left after an inspection of the ice at the down town plant. Mr. Rines called upon the chairman Friday morning and authorized the secretary of the Board of Trade to make out the following statement regarding the cut allowed by the management which is appended hereto:

- Wagon Delivery—Cash
- 9 pounds for 5 cents
- 18 pounds for 10 cents
- Wagon Delivery—Coupons
- 10 pounds for 5 cents
- 20 pounds for 10 cents

Other prices in proportion. This not only returns to the old price but is a better price for home delivery than was had under the old price.

This report was distributed over the city and was conflicting as it stated that the price on five and ten cents worth of ice was reduced and all other weights in proportion. Those patrons going to the downtown distributing point Saturday and Sunday were forced to pay 25 cents per 50 pounds when they understood from the report that the price was 20 cents. This made endless confusion and the chairman of the committee called up Mr. Rines Monday and asked him if the old price could not be resumed on the ice in all quantities. Mr. Rines called up the general manager in Jacksonville and explained the situation to him and he was unable to make this reduction. Your committee reports that it was able to get a reduction on the five and ten cent quantities that will benefit the people who purchase ice either from the wagon or from the plant in these small quantities and this is a source of some satisfaction but the committee also feels that it has gone as far as possible in the matter and that the only solution of the affair as it now stands is to have the citizens of Sanford ship ice into the city from some other point and sell same at the cost or take steps toward the erection of another ice plant to relieve the situation. The committee also wishes to express their thanks to Manager Rines for his uniform courtesy toward them and their efforts in this arbitration but his employers do not see fit to reduce the price of ice on all quantities and he has no authority to do so. The committee also believes that this matter has been brought before the people in the proper manner and out of the controversy will come cheaper ice, better ice, full weight and general satisfaction and the Sanford Board of Trade has used its influence for better conditions and assistance for the people of this community and is willing to do all in its power to help the community but in the present instance the committee has served its purpose, can proceed no further and asks to be dismissed.

E. A. Douglass.

At a meeting of the board of governors held yesterday the report of the committee was read and ordered filed. It was also ordered that the committee remain in force and that the Sanford Public Service Co. be notified that their action was not satisfactory and did not meet with the approval of the board of governors of the Board of Trade since the old rate did not prevail.

But the matter will not rest there either with the Board of Trade or the citizens generally and a meeting of the citizens and Board of Trade will be called in the next few days and definite plans laid for cheaper ice.

Meeting in Park

A mass meeting in the central park was called last Friday night and many speakers discussed the question of the raise in the price of ice. After much discussion it was decided that a committee headed by Dr. Neal as chairman should meet with the Board of Trade at an early date regarding concerted action on the price of ice and this meeting will be announced in this paper as soon as the date is decided upon by the committee and the Board of Trade.

Will Draft on Saturday

Washington, D. C., July 16. On the basis of advice today from various states where the organization work of the exemption boards, has not been completed, war department officials said the drawing for the army elective conscription hardly could be held before Saturday, at the earliest.

Fifteen states have not reported the completion of their exemption board organization. Numerous districts in all of these states have finished, however, so it is impossible to tell just when the final report may be expected.

The process followed by the boards is to file two copies of their completed and numbered lists of registrants as soon as the serial numbers have been arranged. One copy is mailed to the provost marshal general in Washington and the other to the governor of the state.

Less than a thousand of the 4,159 districts are still to be heard from in Washington and probably a few hundred at most have not reported as yet to the governors.

In California, for instance, the governor would receive his copy from any exemption board four or five days before his mail would bring a copy to the provost marshal general. The governor would report to the provost marshal general only when every district in his state has been heard from.

The burden of responsibility for hastening the first drawing of men for the new national army today rests entirely on state and local authorities. The federal government has completed its work, but the failure in some sections to complete organization of exemption boards and finish the serial numbering of the registration cards is causing delay.

Board of Trade Notes

Two new members of the Board of Trade are Dr. Mason and Mr. A. R. Chappell. These gentlemen say that the Board of Trade is doing too much good for them to stay out any longer.

Following letter just received: Oweeso, Mich., July 9, 1917. Sanford Board of Trade:

Gentlemen—I notice my Board of Trade membership card is on the wrong side of the fence and am enclosing draft for $5.00 to line up for six more months. I hope that every taxpayer on Seminole county is in the Board of Trade band wagon and will stay there. I have always contended that Sanford had, by reason of her rail and water facilities and wonderful agricultural possibilities, anything else in Florida, beat a mile and all she wanted was a little scientific publicity and you couldn't keep the northerners out of there with a club. This can only be done through an organization such as you have now and every single person who is interested in Sanford and Seminole county, ought to become members and help push.

Signed: F. J. McDaniel.
Three times in the past sixty days, on the same day, Seminole county

AMERICA PLACES EMBARGO ON SUPPLIES TO NEUTRALS THUS CALLING THEIR HAND

has had news items in nine different state papers and three out of the state papers. Such news brings in many new inquiries.

Look at your membership card. If it has expired, pay up your dues and secure a card that puts you in good standing with the Board of Trade. It costs $5.00 and is worth many times over that amount.

The Board of Trade committee handling the ice question performed excellent service. No matter whether you belonged to the Board of Trade or not, you have been benefited. Your membership makes the organization stronger and permits you to take part in the progressive work that is going on. Phone 128 if you wish to join or call on any member and let him explain. You will find members in Sanford, Geneva, Chuluota, Oviedo, Longwood, Lake Monroe, Altamonte Springs, Jacksonville, Orlando and Oweeso, Mich.

Yes, Mayor Giles of Orlando is a member of the Sanford Board of Trade in good standing. There's a sample of progressiveness. If you live in Seminole county and particularly in Sanford, don't you believe that you can do as much for your own home town as the mayor of another town?

Eloquent orators, O. L. Taylor, E. A. Douglass, C. R. Walker, A. L. Hatch, R. J. Holly, A. W. Hunnycut, Fred M. Allen, Gordon Haynes, D. W. Clark and W. P. Newell of Apopka. It's now a question about many matters: Haynes of Deland won in the contest that potatoes were more precious than ice in Sanford, but he only scored one point on Gen. Douglass, who specializes in ice. Oscar Taylor tore up the whole gubernatorial line and among other needed things changed captains on the steamers Seaford and Roamer. Neither the Orlando or Sanford bands will play any more since they were attacked by Messrs. Holly and Allen. Mayor Newell of Apopka annexed Orlando to Apopka and the whole thing was done at the banquet last Wednesday evening. All Sanford members incidentally paid their dollar for the dinner and say they had five dollars' worth of fun. Mr. Walker and Mr. Connelly wanted to have another dinner the following night and their motion was seconded by Messrs. Whitner and Smith.

Why Worry Over Chances? If You Are Caught You Can't Help It and If Not, Well, Why Worry?

Atlanta, Ga., July 14.—Here is a consolation for every man who has registered and expects to be drafted in the great war lottery this month. It comes from an Atlanta boy who has been on the firing-line in France and knows what he's talking about.

You have two alternatives; either you are drafted or you are not. If not, you have nothing to worry about. You are drafted you have two alternatives; you are in camp or you are at the front. If you are in camp you have nothing to worry about. If you are at the front you have two alternatives; either you are held in reserve or you are sent to the firing line. If you are in reserve you have nothing to worry about. If you are sent to the firing line you have two alternatives; either you fight or you don't. If you don't you have nothing to worry about. If you do you have two alternatives; either you get hurt or you don't. If you don't you have nothing to worry about. If you do get hurt, you have two alternatives; either you are slightly hurt or you are badly hurt. If you are slightly hurt, you have nothing to worry about. If badly hurt, you have two alternatives; either you recover or you don't. If you recover you have nothing to worry about. If you don't recover, then you are a dead man and can't worry.

So what's the use of worrying about the draft?

WHY WORRY OVER CHANCES?

Germany has stood and is standing over them with the threat of the mailed fist if they do not help feed her. And at the same time she threatens, she tempts with unguessed if prices for what she wants.

As soon as Uncle Sam's embargo gets into good working order, there not only will be not any surplus food in the neutral countries; there will actually be such a food scarcity that they will have to go on a ration basis.

For America and her allies are not going to permit the people of the neutral nations to eat three square meals a day at the allies' expense unless these nations earn this by right by joining them in the war against Germany's autocracy.

It is not considered at all unlikely in diplomatic circles here that America's embargo policy will force the neutrals one by one into the war against Germany.

It is argued that neutral statesmen will very soon see that this is literally a world war in which every nation must choose one side or the other and bear its full share of the den or be crushed between the two great contending forces. There is not one of the neutrals that is anywhere near self sustaining from the standpoint of food. They are all absolutely dependent on the allies for their surplus and to a great extent for the shipping to bring it to them.

The situation of such neutrals as Holland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway, is to say the least untenable. What the future may have in store for them no man can even guess.

But then, to far as that goes, the same may be said of the belligerent nations. —(Tampa Times)

FIGHT WITH US OR EAT WITH GERMANY WILL BE SLOGAN

Uncle Sam's grip is tightening around the Kaiser's throat. Your uncle is about to demonstrate that there is more than one kind of ruthlessness.

The particular kind of ruthlessness with which he is going to answer the Kaiser's bloody kind is expressed by the rather harmless sounding word "embargo."

President Wilson has proclaimed to the world that after July 15 no commodity essential to the making of war may be shipped from this country to any other country without license.

This means that no licenses will be granted for the export of a ton of food or material that can by any possibility find its way to Germany. First the necessities of the people of the United States will be considered, next the requirements for our allies. If there is anything left, the neutral powers will be allowed to purchase it, but only in such quantities as are absolutely necessary for their own use.

It will be up to the neutral powers to prove what their necessities are and to give such guarantee as will satisfy the President that there will be no transshipment to Germany.

The President's embargo proclamation is by far the most important action this government has taken since it declared war against Germany. Our military preparations are of course vital but they cannot possibly be effective for many months.

The embargo hits Germany now and hits her in her most vulnerable spot—her stomach.

There is not the slightest doubt that millions upon millions of tons of food and other materials have been leaking to Germany from the United States through neutral countries contiguous to Germany.

So long as this continued the effort to bring Germany to her knees by economic pressure was bound to fail.

Yet the embargo policy involved such a violent change in our attitude as to the rights of neutrals that we have adopted it only as a last resort.

That we have been forced to adopt it and virtually say to the neutral nations, "Fight with us or eat with Germany," is due, in great measure to the cowardice and cupidity of the neutrals themselves.

Germany has stood and is standing over them with the threat of the mailed fist if they do not help feed her. And at the same time she threatens, she tempts with unguessed if prices for what she wants.

As soon as Uncle Sam's embargo gets into good working order, there not only will be not any surplus food in the neutral countries; there will actually be such a food scarcity that they will have to go on a ration basis.

For America and her allies are not going to permit the people of the neutral nations to eat three square meals a day at the allies' expense unless these nations earn this by right by joining them in the war against Germany's autocracy.

It is not considered at all unlikely in diplomatic circles here that America's embargo policy will force the neutrals one by one into the war against Germany.

It is argued that neutral statesmen will very soon see that this is literally a world war in which every nation must choose one side or the other and bear its full share of the den or be crushed between the two great contending forces. There is not one of the neutrals that is anywhere near self sustaining from the standpoint of food. They are all absolutely dependent on the allies for their surplus and to a great extent for the shipping to bring it to them.

Among The Theatres

At Lyric Wednesday
In "Sunshine and Gold" the Pathe Gold Rooster Play in which Baby Marie Osborne is to appear at the Lyric Theatre Wednesday she really plays a double role, since at the opening of the play she is seen as Cinderella in a children's performance given in honor of her birthday and later she appears as her sweet little self. A five year old actress is quite a record but she showed herself to such characterization in "Twin Kiddies," one of the best of her pictures.

Star Tonight
An unusually wide range of scenes furnishes variety in "Sowers and Reapers," the Metro-Rolfe feature photodrama starring Emmy Wehlen, written and directed by George D. Baker to be seen at the Star Theatre tonight. The story traces the life history of Annie Leigh (Miss Wehlen) from a poor factory girl to a great motion picture star.
All the activities of a great factory are shown, including the accident which results in its being demolished and later is seen every detail in connection with the filming of feature screen productions.

Many of the scenes were taken in Jacksonville, Fla., where George Stewart Christie, the leading man had a narrow escape from drowning. As Earle Courtney in the story he was spirited aboard the yacht of his millionaire father. Then he jumped overboard. The steering gear of the boat sent to rescue him was broken, and Mr. Christie floundered about fully dressed in the muddy waters of the St. Johns river for some time before help arrived. Although as Earle Courtney he was much disgusted at being taken once more aboard the yacht as George Stuart Christie he was immensely relieved.

Cast:
Little Mary...Baby Marie Osborne
The Chauffeur...Henry King
James Andrews...Daniel Giffether
Dr. Andrews...Neil Hardin

The attraction at the Lyric Theatre Wednesday is the Gold Rooster Play, "Sunshine and Gold." It is hailed as another wonder picture, featuring the Baby Bernhardt, the world's youngest gloom dispeller, the creator of a million smiles.

The five year old star really plays a dual role, since she is seen as herself and also as Cinderella, in a child's performance given at the opening of the picture in honor of her birthday.

There is a splendid cast supporting her, including Henry King, who also directed the picture.
"Little Mary Sunshine," "Sunshine and Shadows," "Twin Kiddies" and "Told at Twilight," have made this five year old star one of the most popular on the screen and their success has proved the wisdom of Pathe's clean picture policy.

"Square Deal Man"
At the Star Theatre Thursday.
Gamblers of the old west and their generosity was the subject of discussion recently on the part of William S. Hart, the noted western character, during a brief talk in activities at Inceville, where the Hart plays are filmed. The popular star declared that the accepted interpretation of the old western gambler is that of a grand individual who was wont to mark the cards and prey upon the unsuspecting and that such an interpretation is wrong.
"The crooked gambler was an exception rather than the rule," said Hart, "and because the present generation does not realize this, a man risks deterioration of character in the eyes of his friends when he admits that he had anything to do with faro layouts and cards in the days of the old west. When I was a youngster in North Dakota I constantly was being brought into contact with the men who lived by games of chance, and while their ranks did have to claim a dishonest member or two, there were not many of that ilk."

"The character of Jack O' Diamonds in the 'Square Deal Man' is, I think, a faithful delineation of a type of gambler that was common when I was a boy in the west. I remember having met just such a man one day when I went to town with my father. He took a liking to me and used to press a gold piece into my hand every time I saw him. And later I learned that he had already given liberally to charitable causes."

"The Square Deal Man" is the latest western thriller in which Hart is presented by Thomas H. Ince on the Triangle program. It was written by J. G. Hawks.

Lucille Lee Stewart Delightful in Simple Frocks
Lucille Lee Stewart is the Vitagraph star who offers her audience the sweet little dresses and wraps in the "Blue Ribbon" feature, "The Ninety and Nine," which is the attraction at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday.
In this five part production which was directed by Ralph W. Ince, Miss Stewart wears a sweet summer frock of mull, with a dark grey stripe entwined with delicate clusters of pink rosebuds. There is a wide white shawl collar on this frock which is edged with narrow black velvet ribbon, as are the wing sleeves and the yoke effect of the skirt.

Another attractive frock is made from a white taffeta with a narrow black stripe. The skirt is rather plain, opening down the front and being fastened with small satin buttons while the waist with its short ruffle sleeves has a sheer white yoke and a black leather belt is worn at the waist.

A dress which Miss Stewart wears to the country barn dance until she hears that a friend, Tom, has not been invited when she, too refuses to go is fashioned from a soft material and has an all over pattern in a blue scroll. There is a shirred ruffle of the same material which gives a yoke effect, while the plain bodice effect waist has a triple collar of white silk edged with the blue scroll as are the sleeves. Bands of the satin fall from the waist over the skirt.

Both William Courtenay and Lucille Lee Stewart play roles well suited to their capabilities in the screen adaptation of "The Ninety and Nine," the stage hit of Ramsey Morris which was directed by Ralph W. Ince and which is the attraction at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday.

Mae Murray
At a wedding recently in one of the fashionable churches, immediately after the ceremony, the groom seemed suddenly panic stricken as if he had forgotten what custom demanded of him next, until the gentle voice of the bride was heard prompting at his elbow: "Isn't it customary to kiss the bride after the service?" Whereupon the young man, suddenly galvanized into life, instead of "obeying the impulse" as Life would say, immediately began a hurried search through all of his pockets. Answering the anxious inquiry of friends he begged for a pencil and paper and at once set about copying his wife's remark, admitting that it was "just what he needed for a climax for his new novel."

Now it was the bride's turn to be "galvanized into action" and she but the rest we will leave you to find out for yourself at the Star Friday when "At First Sight," a Famous Players Paramount picture will be presented, starring Mae Murray. Because you see, the whole thing occurred at a rehearsal for this very production and is incorporated in its very humorous and piquant plot, which was written by the well-known George Middleton.

How Peter Alexief Was Saved From Siberia

By PAUL VRONSKY

In a northern province of Russia there lived a peasant whose daughter, Anna, was a very pretty girl. Peter Alexief, a young farmer, wooed and won her, and it seemed that a happy future was before the young couple. That was before the revolution which deposed the Czar Nicholas, and the government was keeping a sharp eye on all persons who were suspected of plotting against it. A large force of secret police—better named spies—was scattered all over Russia.

Not only those who were really so minded reported to the minister of the interior at the capital, but if one person had a private grudge against another there was liability that he would take revenge by reporting him to the police as a revolutionist, or what was then called a nihilist. This was also true of the spies themselves. If a spy close to condemn a person he wished to get rid of, that person was taken away and nothing was heard of him afterward. He was buried in the convict mines of Kabi.

While Peter and Anna were making their preparations to be married there came to the province where they lived a man whose name was Ivan Ivanovitch. He did not look like a Russian, for he was dark complexioned, while the people among whom he had come had light skins and hair. Ivan had come from the Crimea, which is a southern province, where what is called the Mediterranean race is prevalent. This race is of southern blood and used to a hot climate.

Ivan had no visible occupation and was known to be a government spy. He met Anna at a dance in a barn and conceived a passion for her. Anna, knowing him to be a spy, dreaded him, but dared not refuse to dance with him, fearing that he would take revenge upon her.

Ivan, becoming more and more enamored of Anna, began to look about for some act of Peter's which could be used as evidence against him. This was shortly before the revolution whereby the people of Russia wrested a constitution from the czar, and Peter's neighbors were beginning to plan for resistance against the government's despotism. Peter got wind of the inquiries of Ivan and told his friends that he feared the spy was planning to get him out of the way that he might possess himself of Anna.
Meanwhile Anna, not daring to decline the attentions of Ivan, accepted invitations from him. One evening the two were walking together toward Anna's house when Ivan left her. As he turned away a citizen tapped him on the shoulder and asked him to come with him. The citizen took him to a house where a dozen men were waiting for them. One of the men said to Ivan:

"You are suspected of trying to make a case against Peter Alexief to send him to Siberia that you may marry his betrothed. You are hereby notified that if anything happens to Peter your life will be forfeited."

"I deny the charge," replied Ivan. "I have no need to get rid of Peter. The girl prefers me to him."

It was plain to all that quite likely if Anna were called upon to choose between the two she would not dare to choose Peter for fear of Ivan.

"I am ready to fight with my rival for the girl I love and who, I believe, loves me. This proves that I am not planning to take any underhanded advantage of him."

Now, it was suspected that Ivan, who had come from a country where weapons are in common use, would make short work of Peter, who had been born and grown up a simple farmer. The spokesman of the tribunal before whom Ivan was arraigned consulted with the others and then turned to the prisoner.

"Your proposition to fight your rival for the possession of the girl is accepted. Since you are the challenger he will have the choice of weapons."

Peter was sent for and closeted with the leader of the citizens who were endeavoring to save him from his rival. They proposed to Peter that he should fight Ivan, choosing weapons which would give him an advantage over his enemy. Peter could think of no weapon that he could wield even indifferently, whereupon one was suggested to him. He gave his consent at once, and it was arranged that the duel should come off at dawn.

The thermometer at sunrise stood at 30 degrees below zero. Peter, who was used to cold weather, walked out to the yard in the rear of the house where the fray was to take place in shirt and trousers. Ivan, who had been used to a hot climate, had on his warmest clothing. One of those present handed each of the disputants the nozzle of a hose. Ivan stood against. He saw at once that he must fight with cold water.

But it was too late to recede. A faint hope came to him that his warm clothing would protect him. He took the nozzle offered him, the signal was given, and the two men poured a stream at each other which was as cold as it could be without freezing. Peter did not seem in the least troubled by his cold bath, but his enemy collapsed in five minutes. He dropped his weapon and ran for the house.

As soon as he had put on dry clothing and poured a hot drink into his stomach he was told to leave the place at once if he wished to save himself from the displeasure of the citizens.

A month later the revolution broke forth.

THE NATION'S GOING DRY.

WHITE—Dry. Number of prohibition states, 20. The District of Columbia is dry by act of congress. Alaska is dry by a vote of the people ratified by congress. The Porto Rican citizenship bill, passed by the Sixty-fourth congress, provides for prohibition in the island subject to a referendum. Including the dry territory in wet states, more than 87 per cent of the area of the United States and more than 60 per cent of the population are under prohibition.

BLACK—Wet. Eight states are in submission campaigns. Two of these—Iowa and Utah—already have statutory prohibition and in November will vote to make it constitutional. New Mexico, also, will vote on the question next November; others in November, 1918. Ohio is in a wet-and-dry fight through the initiative.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

GIVE US NATION-WIDE PROHIBITION.

Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, who, as everybody is aware, knows something of government service, both as a navy officer and as a civilian, says that a first-class government should standardize its service as do all first-class American railroads. It should require abstinence from liquor in army, navy and civil departments, and among all its employees at home and abroad. This in the interests of efficiency and the public welfare. Scientific experiment has proved that the drinking of an ordinary glass of wine or stein of beer will lower a man's efficiency to a measurable degree for 24 hours—in ordinary muscular occupations about 8 per cent on the average. Three times this amount a day regularly is cumulative in its effect, increasing the loss of efficiency from day to day. At the end of 12 days ordinary muscular efficiency will go down 25 per cent on the average, and higher mental activity twice that amount.

Let us raise the standard of citizenship throughout all these United States and all territory under the jurisdiction thereof by putting prohibition into the national constitution.

LICENSE MONEY NOT NEEDED FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The liquor interests continually remind us of the need of license money for the public schools. The experience of prohibition states shows the weakness of that argument. Take North Carolina for example. Ex-Gov. Locke Craig is authority for the statement that since prohibition went into effect there has been an increase in school enrollment of 20.47 per cent, and an actual increase daily attendance of 32 per cent. In other words, since its adoption nearly 21 more children out of every 100 of school age have enrolled in the schools and 32 more children out of every 100 of school age have actually been at school each day.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC IS THE CURSE.

"The great curse of the laboring man is intemperance. It has brought more desolation to the wage-earners than strikes, or war, or sickness, or death. It is a more unrelenting tyrant than the grasping monopolist. It has caused little children to be hungry and cold, to grow up among evil associates, to be reared without the knowledge of God. It has broken up more homes and wrecked more lives than any other curse on the face of the earth."—Cardinal Gibbons.

And there will be intemperance as long as the beverage traffic in alcoholic liquors continues to exist.

BREWERS TO BENEFIT BY PROHIBITION.

The sixty or more breweries in the state of Michigan, which under the dry law close April 30, 1918, will very likely be used for the manufacture of denatured alcohol. The brewers seem to be taking kindly to the suggestion of Henry Ford that they thus utilize their plants. It is believed that they can make much greater profit on denatured alcohol for automobile consumption than on beer for human consumption, and that many more men will be employed.

Every license to sell intoxicating liquor that hangs in the window or behind the bar of an American saloon today will be a scrap of paper in ten years.—Clinton N. Howard in the 808th lecture in his home city, Rochester, N. Y.

"Regulating the private lives of other people" is one newspaper's estimate of what prohibition aims at. Yet the same issue contains an account of the shooting up of a neighborhood and the beating of a defenseless woman by her drunken husband.—Exchange.

"If buttermilk affected people like liquor does you'd kill every cow."

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

PROHIBITION AN ASSET.

"There is no sense in the argument that the liquor traffic pays a community. Every man who has sense enough to read a newspaper, if he has not sense enough to reason, ought to know that prohibition is an asset and not a liability. When Kansas went dry, how Wall street laughed. 'She has nothing to look to now, that her license is gone; how can she exist?' they said. By and by a panic laid hold of the nation. Then who was it that came to the front and saved the situation on that fatal day and let Wall street have $50,000,000—who but poor old Kansas. Two years ago Seattle went dry, and people said, 'How will they run that big city without the license money?' and they looked for financial disaster. Then Mayor Gill came out and said, 'I voted against prohibition because I did not know how we could run the city without the saloons, but if I had it to do over again today I would vote for it because prohibition helps the city financially.' A man who favors the liquor traffic advertises his lack of common sense and his absolute ignorance of conditions in the world."—Mary Harris ARMOR.

THE BIG CITY PROBLEM.

If it were not for beer-soaked St. Louis, Missouri would today be in the dry column. If it were not for rum-soaked San Francisco, California would be there also. As it is, the largely increased prohibition vote in both these states is causing the liquor interests of the country no little concern. In November, 1918, Missouri votes again and will go dry.

Dry sentiment in territory outside the large cities is advancing so swiftly that, to quote Billy Sunday, "you can't see it for the dust, it makes." Newspapers in the smaller cities and towns are reflecting the popular mind and refusing to be under the domination of the liquor oligarchy. The rural vote will in time—short time at that—save state and nation and solve the big city problem.

LOWER PER CAPITA DEBT IN DRY STATES THAN IN WET.

The report of the United States census bureau shows that, as a rule, wet states have a higher per capita indebtedness than dry states. A commission appointed by Governor McCall of Massachusetts to investigate the high cost of living, mentions incidentally in its published report that the cost of government is 25 per cent higher in that state than in any other. Former Governor Foss says this can be traced directly to the liquor traffic. Kansas, after 35 years of prohibition, last year wiped out its entire indebtedness, and is the one debt-free state in the Union.

"The friends of the saloonkeepers denounce their opponents for not treating the saloon business like any other. The best answer to this is that the business is not like any other business, and that the actions of the saloonkeepers themselves conclusively prove this to be the case. It tends to produce criminality in the population at large and lawbreaking among the saloonkeepers themselves. When the liquor men are allowed to do as they wish, they are sure to debauch, not only the body social, but the body politic also."—Theodore Roosevelt.

It is wrong to think that drinking much beer, ale and other liquors gives strength. These only deaden the tired feeling and do not really take it away. You are more tired after drinking than before and less able to keep sickness away.—From Bulletin Issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Increase in the consumption of beer and spirits is always marked by an increase in the infant death rate.—Dr. Mary Sturge, a leading British medical authority.

"No man has a right to make a fool of himself, because while he is doing it he might make a corpse out of me."

Out of the Prison Ship

By ELJNOR MARSH.

One night in the winter of 1790 a man left his club in London and, after walking a few blocks, turned into one of the parks. While on the pavement he heard a footfall sound distinctly behind him, but on reaching the soft ground it was no longer audible. Presently, however, he heard himself called:

"Captain Arbuckle?"

Turning, by one of the oil lamps in use in those days he saw a pale faced man with white hair.

"What would you with me, sir, at this time of night?" said the captain, laying his hand on his sword.

"You do not recognize me, captain. It is not surprising. I am not the man I was when you were in America. Seven or eight years only have been added to my age, but several times that have been added to my likeness to an old man, I will refresh your memory. General Howe's army occupied New York. Down on the bank of the Hudson river was a cottage where dwelt a girl named Mary Ashurst. You made love to this girl, but one Henry Waterman stood in your way. You accused him of being a spy, and through your instrumentality he was put on board a prison ship.

"Everybody knows what your prison ships were. They took in men and sent them out either corpses or wrecks. I came out what you see me."

"Well, my man, what have we to do now with that which has passed into history? Your people succeeded in your infamous rebellion. That is all settled, and if a British officer admired a Yankee maid, why, 'all's fair in war and love,' and in my dealings with you and her there was both war and love."

"You are right, captain, in saying that we achieved our independence. That is indeed settled. But our affair remains to be settled. When I got out of the prison ship I was more like a dead than a live man. Before I recovered my strength your army surrendered to our general at Yorktown, and before I could reach you you had gone back to England. I counted the days till I should be able to follow you. I am here."

With that the American drew his sword.

"This is not a usual proceeding. But an Englishman, especially an English officer, does not pretend to choose the place or time of fighting. He is always ready, and if mayhap he has offended and the injured party can give him punishment he is always ready to take his medicine like a man."

While the speaker was saying this he was drawing his sword and placing himself in a position for defense.

A few minutes later the watch, bearing the clash of steel, ran in the direction of the sound, arriving in time only to see Captain Arbuckle lying on the ground and a man bending over him. Arbuckle, who was dying, said with his last breath:

"You've finished me. The girl is innocent."

When the watch came up Arbuckle added to him:

"It was a private affair between two gentlemen."

A couple of months after this Henry Waterman, who had recently embarked from a ship that had sailed into New York bay and docked in the East river, entered Broadway from Wall street, and passing through Trinity churchyard, continued down the slope to the river bank. The spring was coming on, and the trees in the yards of the houses were putting forth their young leaves. Waterman opened a gate, entered a yard and, walking up to the house, took the brass knocker in his fingers and rapped gently. A young woman came to the door and on seeing the visitor started back with a cry.

"Harry! Why have you come?"

"Because I know that you are innocent."

"You would not believe me."

"Forgive me."

She fell into his arms and burst into a passion of tears. Presently she looked up and asked:

"How have you become convinced of my innocence?"

"I was told by the man who put me out of his way to win you."

"Where have you been?"

"To London."

"And you have seen him?"

"I have."

"Why?"

"He put me in a prison ship on a false charge."

"And you have—have punished him?"

"I have. With his last breath he exonerated you."

She unwound her arms from about him.

"You blame me? You loved him."

"Yes, no. There is blood on your hands."

"Whose blood? The man who wrecked me to win you."

He took her again in his arms, and she did not resist.

"These British aristocrats are conscienceless where a woman is concerned and do not admit that a commoner has any right to their respect. But they are men for all that. He met me like a man, fought like a man, took care before he died to tell the watch that I was no murderer and exonerated you. He paid the penalty of his crime with his life, and for this at least we owe him respect."

A century ago a street was cut through where this cottage stood, and the bodies of Henry Waterman and Mary Ashurst, his wife, rest a short distance above here, in St. Paul's churchyard.

Women as Fortune Builders.

I observe and you will notice that notwithstanding the great inebriation of women of late years into one or another department of business they are not of much account as fortune builders. Some of them earn or make a good deal of money, but they seldom get rich by their own exertions, and nearly all the rich women have inherited fortunes from men.

Street Illumination.

"Illuminating engineers are now turning all their energies toward a system for the proper distribution of street lighting," writes Walter R. Howell in Good Health. "They have unanimously agreed that the best light is that from a globe that is dense enough not to reveal the form of the actual light within, but to give the effect of light streaming forth from the globe."

FLORIDA EDITORS
Addressing the State Press Association Friday morning, Governor Catts declared that the editors of Florida yielded a greater influence than the lawyer or the preacher...

Florida editors are the brainiest, most conscientious and hardest working set of men in the state, and it is no wonder that they yield an influence beyond that of either the bar or the pulpit.

Jacksonville might well be proud of the men and women she entertained last week, for she had Florida's brains and the source of Florida's greatness within her borders.

DeLand gets this splendid lot of men and women next year and we will venture to say that she will entertain a finer set at any convention than she will be privileged then to entertain.—Ralford Tribune.

THE HOME GUARDS
As soon as the military forces of the state will have left its border to enter the federal service, there is need of some organization in every community to look after the protection of the peace of the community in times of need.

To meet such a need as is above set forth the legislature of the state of Florida enacted a law authorizing the formation in different counties of companies of home guards. Last night at the army more than one hundred citizens met and organized a company of home guards for Arcadia.

Let every one boost for the home guard, and if you have not already handed in your name do so at once. The officers elected at last night's meeting are all capable men, and the success of the company is assured.—Arcadia News.

JOE EARMAN
Many of the state papers especially those inimical to Governor Catts are throwing a double row of fits over the appointment of Joe Earman of the Palm Beach Post as a member of the Board of Control and their great hue and cry is over the fact that at one time in his career he sold whiskey and was a member of a firm in Jacksonville that sold whiskey.

No one ever accused the editor of The Herald of being a supporter of Governor Catts and we occupy the same position toward him but we said when he was elected that wherever he did his duty as he saw it we would defend him and we maintain that position.

Therefore, regardless of what the varied interests of the state and the people therein may think of our opinion we say that Joe Earman will make a good member of the new board of control and our opinion will be proven right before his term is over.

Earman will never place his own individual interests above that of the people as a whole and he will never go wrong as an office holder or as a citizen of this commonwealth and we say this because Joe Earman being a real man, honest in all his dealing with his fellow man, a good business man and with a full knowledge of the affairs of his state will do his whole duty as he sees it and will cater to no politicians or pie hunters or corporate interests.

A FIGHTING FAMILY

By OSCAR COX

Warringham was a wealthy young man with nothing to do to kill time. There was nothing but war talk in the city, and it tired him. It was spring-time and every one was going into gardening. Though it did not make any difference to him whether he paid 5 or 50 cents for a cabbage, he concluded to go in for gardening too.

When he alighted at the station and went out on to the street he saw a girl sitting in an auto. She wore an alpine hat with a feather in it and a tiny American flag on her corsage.

"Can you tell me," he said to her, handing her the ad., "where I can find that?"

She took the slip, glanced at it and said: "That's the Erskine property. I'm going there in a few minutes and will take you with me in my machine if you like."

Warringham accepted the offer, and after every one who had come in on the train had passed on the girl remarked that she reckoned "she hadn't come on that train" and turned her car away from the station.

"Who did you say owned this property?" asked Warringham. "It belongs to Major Erskine."

"What's he major of?" "The Pittsford battalion."

"Everybody here is preparing for war, then?" "Yes, everybody that has any spunk. There are a few slackers among the men."

"When is a man to be considered a slacker?" "When he's young, able-bodied and don't go to the war."

"I don't know, I'm going to do something. You see, I'm the granddaughter of a Union soldier in the big war fifty years ago and the granddaughter of a Confederate soldier. So, you see, it won't do for me to shirk."
"Did you have any more grandfathers in the 'Civil War'?"
"None. You don't suppose I could have more than two grandfathers, do you? But my father and four uncles were in that divisive fight."

"Women are not now what they were in your grandmothers' time. Then they were feminine."
"My Confederate grandmother wasn't a coward. She drove some Federal soldiers out of her potato patch with a gun."

"How about your Union grandmother?"
"She stood off a mob in the draft riots."

"You do come of a fighting family, don't you? Do you think you could stand up to be shot at without showing the white feather?"

"I don't know. I reckon it would depend on how mad I got. Both my grandfathers agreed that when they first went in to fight they 'heaved Jonah,' but when they got mad they weren't scared a bit."

"On that ground they should make soldiers of women. My experience with your sex is that when a woman is mad she's mad from the crown of her head to the tip of her big toe."

"By this time the girl was turning in to grounds with a house and a big pole from which floated the Stars and Stripes. Women in feminine uniform were walking about, and before the house paced a sentinel."

"What's this?" asked Warringham. "The barracks of the Pittsford battalion."

She drove up to the house and alighted, while the sentinel faced and brought his musket to a "present." A young woman came out of the house with a lieutenant's straps on her shoulders and asked:

"Where's the recruit you were to bring, major?"
"Who didn't come. I reckon she's going to turn out a slacker."

"Are you Major Erskine?" asked Warringham. "Yes, at your service. Do you want to buy my little farm? I've no use for it this year. I'm preparing a battalion for active service."

"No," replied Warringham. "I don't think I do. Your two grandfathers who fought in the war between the states, your two main grandmothers, your father and four uncles who fought in Cuba, have produced that in you which merits emulation. I don't see why I, a man, should be raising cabbages while you, a woman, are preparing for war. I'm going back home and pack my grip for Pittsburg or some other training camp and leave the cabbages to the supernannated men and boys."

"Now you talk like a Jim dandy." "But there's one thing I want you to promise me."

"What's that?" "Promise me, major, that if I come back from the war alive you'll marry me."

"Well, seeing there's only one chance in three of your coming back alive, I'll do it. Put it there!"

AMERICAN BOXERS ARE SLIPPING IN AUSTRALIA
Hit the Toboggan and Losing the Admiration Which They Once Held.
American pugilists in the Antipodes are hitting the toboggan and losing the admiration which once they held. Jimmy Childs, the Hammond (Ind.) boxer, lost his chance to succeed Les Darcy as middleweight champion when he was defeated recently by Tommy Green in twenty rounds of fierce battling. Papers received here assert that Childs has lived the easy life too long, that his work is decadent and that he appears to be through.

Concerning Eddie McGoorty, the former Oshkosh (Wis.) brawler, the paper says reports in the United States that McGoorty has made a mint of money backing the ponies are utterly unfounded and that he probably would have trouble discharging the fare back home.

Australian sport writers who have been panning Freddie Enek, the Aurora (Ill.) boy, got the surprise of their lives when he trained Hector, Melbourne, regarded as a wonder, in fifteen rounds. Enek was beautifully trimmed by Stan Strydom in his first fight, but now the crowd are taking back all they said and are trying to make up for it by columns of praise for the Aurora.

Vean Gregg Puts In Boost For Former Spokane Pitcher.

Stan Coveleskie is a second Ed Walsh and easily the best softball pitcher in the American league, I don't care what anybody says," remarked Vean Gregg, former Nap southpaw, but now with the Providence club.

leaguers. He admits that he possesses only about half the stuff he uncorked when he was in the big show, but adds, "I can get by all right in my league."

Coveleskie has thus far fulfilled all predictions made early this season. Fohl is careful not to work him out of turn, and there is every reason to believe that when the final bell rings Covey will be found right up among the top notchers.

THINK WILLARD SAFE.
Fulton, Coffey, Morris and Moran Are Not Formidable Contenders.

Competent judges of pugilism who have witnessed the various bouts in which Fred Fulton, Jim Coffey, Carl Morris and Frank Moran have participated appear to be in the opinion that Champion Willard's title is not in danger. None of the quartet has shown boxing skill equal to that possessed by the champion.

With the possible exception of Morris, Willard is easily superior in physical strength and has demonstrated ability to stand punishment with less discomfort and confusion of purpose than any of the four leading contenders for a chance at the heavyweight honors.

Repetition
Is essential to making an impression. The boy learns the multiplication table by saying it over and over until he can't say it wrong. It is no truer after it is learned than it was before. Repeating it a thousand times does not alter the facts. But repetition does make the knowledge certain.

Repeat
Your advertising to make it effective. Say it over and over in different ways if you like, but keep telling the essential fact. In this way you force those who see your name to remember you and to think of you when they think of your line of goods.

E. C. Hoskins, formerly traffic manager of the Florida Growers and Shippers League, resigned his position on July 1 to accept an appointment as Florida representative for the firm of Crutchfield & Woolfolk, commission merchants of Pittsburg. Most grower readers are already familiar with Mr. Hoskins through his three years association with the League. His intimate knowledge of the citrus and trucking industries and wide acquaintance among growers will enable him to serve the interests of Crutchfield & Woolfolk to good advantage. Mr. Hoskins will continue to work on the Florida Growers & Shippers Freight Rate Guide, and expects to have it ready for distribution before the next shipping season opens. As yet no one has been named to succeed Mr. Hoskins, and this matter will undoubtedly come up at the next League directors' meeting, which will be held the 15th of this month.—Florida Grower.

F. W. TEMPERTON

Married

Miss Willie Hanner, the 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hanner of this city and Mr. Frank A. Wallace, age 22, of Winter Haven, Fla., were married in Oviedo, Fla., last Thursday, July 5. The license was purchased the day before in Sanford and the runaway couple motored to Oviedo where they were quietly married at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, July 5.

No one knew what route they had taken until about 2:30 p. m., when Mrs. Hanner received a telegram from Mr. and Mrs. Wallace saying they were married.

After a short honeymoon probably to Jacksonville they will make their future home in Winter Haven, Fla., where Mr. Wallace is employed at the Palace parlor.

This will be a great surprise to the juniors of the O. H. S. next term as the young bride would have been a junior. She will be greatly missed in the O. H. S., for she was loved by all teachers and pupils, but perhaps she will enjoy housekeeping for it will be noted she took domestic science this past term.—Orlando Sentinel.

HUDDLESTON IS HELD.

Seminole County Boy is Interned in Turkey

Gainesville, July 9.—Mrs. E. G. Baxter has just received a letter from her brother, Assistant Paymaster J. F. Huddleston, who was interned at the outbreak of the war in Constantinople. The letter was sent through Ambassador Elkus, who has recently arrived in the United States from Turkey. Mr. Huddleston was on duty on the cruiser Scorpion when war began between the United States and Germany; and when, at the outbreak of the war all were interned. A few members of the crew made their escape and are now in Paris; others returned to the United States with Ambassador Elkus' party. There are now sixty American prisoners and crew prisoners of war in the city of Constantinople. Mr. Huddleston writes that there are two conditions they regret very much: First, they cannot engage in the war; second, they have nothing to do. They sleep and eat aboard the cruiser Scorpion and are allowed shore leave three or four times a week. He writes further that sugar is $1.50 a pound and gasoline $5 a gallon. Assistant Paymaster Huddleston and the other members of the Scorpion will remain prisoners of war in Constantinople as long as the war lasts.

Notice to Customers

Customers of the French Millinery Shop desiring special attention given them for their Fall Suits, Coats and Dresses will confer a favor upon the proprietors by calling before July 25th and stating their wants, subject to their approval on arrival, as it will help us a great deal in purchasing our fall stock regarding sizes, colors, etc.

Red Cross Notice

The regular business meeting of the Red Cross will be held Friday afternoon of next week instead of Thursday. The meeting will be as usual held at the Woman's Club rooms at four p. m.

All Red Cross members are urgently requested to attend, and it is particularly desired that each committee be represented by its chairman, where possible. Many are absent from Sanford because of summer vacations and since this is the case it is the more necessary that those who are in town should be present that the work may be carried on vigorously, for the need is not less but more imperative each day for Red Cross work and workers.

Fate of the Mother Scorpion.

The most astonishing manifestation of the maternal instinct in animals is that of the mother scorpion, who is literally devoured by her children and permits them to do so. We stand perplexed at the complexity of an instinct which causes the mother to submit calmly to dismemberment without offer of resistance, yet this same instinct causes her at the same time to ward off any foreign intruder who might interfere with the dismemberment and perhaps save her life.

"Least marvel carry us to extremes," says Dr. Muttikowski, "let us note that the action is a fixed instinct and is not controlled by the light of intelligence. Like most instinctive actions, that of the scorpion allows no logic, for the scorpion permits strange progeny to be foisted on her and to dismember her. She does not distinguish her children from strangers. It is not a self sacrifice due to love, but a fixed instinct which compels the scorpion to submit to dismemberment at that particular period."—America.

Storms That Beat About the Horn.

The waters of Cape Horn have never been unvisited by storms for more than a week or two at a stretch within the memory of man. Standing on the outpost of the world, Cape Horn is the meeting place of ocean currents of very different temperatures, from the icy cold waters of the antarctic drift to the warm of the Brazilian and Peruvian return currents. The prevailing wind has from the northwest and west, and faces coming from the warm regions of the Pacific, encourage into fogs which the sailors call "Cape Horn blankets" and which are the sure forerunners of storms. The extremely low levels to which the glaciers of Tierra del Fuego descend, the perpetual congelation of the subsoil, the meeting of conflicting winds of very different temperatures, are all direct or indirect causes combining to make this the most constantly stormy region in the world.

It is to Pythagoras, it is said, that we owe the word "philosopher," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. Being asked on one occasion of what branch of knowledge he was a master he replied that he was simply a philosopher, a lover of wisdom.

His doctrine of the transmigration of souls is supposed to have been the outgrowth of his early years spent in studying the mysteries of Egypt. It is to this age also that we are indebted for the idea of "the music of the spheres," for as a corollary to his theory of the solar system, which, by the way, antedated Copernicus by 2,000 years, he imagined that the heavenly spheres by their swift motion through space produced musical notes which were too beautiful to be heard by callous human ears.

Gold Filled.

A gold filled tooth and your gold filled watch case may be said to be inversely analogous—that is to say, your gold filled tooth has more or less of the tooth structure of enamel on the outside with gold on a core filling the center. Your gold filled watch case consists of two sheets of gold, having between each sheet some baser metal to which the gold is soldered. As to the gold in the case, it may be of any fineness and any thickness commensurate with the term "gold filled." A jeweler will tell you that to carat gold is not gold, having too great an admixture of baser metals. Many persons have the idea that the gold filled case is an amalgam of the kind instead of a "sandwich" of gold treated in the inside with the baser metals.

Illiteracy in Russia.

The percentage of illiteracy in Russia is very large, ranging about 85 per cent in some provinces. In Petrograd, the capital itself, 44 per cent of the population cannot read or write. The urban population is generally better educated. Including the whole empire considerably more than half the people are illiterate, though educational movements have made remarkable headway in Russia during the past few years.

His Occasional Wish.

"Why don't you ever want to go to a wedding?" snapped Mrs. Eupack. "I don't believe you've been to a wedding since you attended your own."

"No," boldly responded Mr. Eupack, "I haven't. And," he added softly to himself, "I sometimes wish I hadn't attended that one."—Exchange.

Cordova's Stone Pavements.

The oldest pavement of which there is any record in modern cities is that of Cordova, in Spain, which was paved with stones by the Moors in the middle of the ninth century. The Moors also caused water to be conveyed to the city in leaden pipes.

A Question of Strength.

It is stated that kitchen dishes and utensils made of glass re-enforced by wire are stronger than dishes and utensils made of metal. Very probable, but so are kitchen maids stronger than metal dishes and utensils.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Regular Course.

"Don't you think that young folks ought to be taught how to spend money?"

"Humph! I see you never sent a boy of yours to college."—Exchange.

He Went.

He (11 p. m. at the piano)—What shall I sing next? She—"Home, Sweet Home," without any variations.—Puck.

Falseness is like a gnat, because it usually stings those who venture to meddle with it.

Nothing New.

The Lawyer—"Don't you think $40 a week alimony is a little too much to demand when he's only making $50?" The Lady—"No, I don't. That's what I used to make him give me while I was livin' with him."—Boston Transcript.

Matches of Hemp.

In the use of early firearms a match consisted of a cord of hemp or similar material treated with niter so that it continued to smolder after it had been ignited. The match was attached to the cock of the musket and brought down by the action of the trigger on the powder priming.

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH, "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

The Name of Old Glory
 "Old Glory! say, who,
 By the ships and the crew,
 And the long blended ranks of the
 gray and the blue—
 Who gave you, Old Glory, the name
 that you bear
 With such pride everywhere
 As you cast yourself free to the rapturous air
 And leap out full length, as we're wanting you to?
 Who gave you that name, with the
 ring of the same,
 And the honor and fame so becoming to you?
 Your stripes stroked in ripples of
 white and of red,
 With your stars at their glittering
 best overhead—
 By day or by night
 Their delightfullest light
 Laughing down from their little square heaven of blue!
 Who gave you the name of Old Glory?—say, who—
 Who gave you the name of Old
 Glory?"

The old banner lifted, and faltering
 then,
 In vague lips and whispers fell silent again.

"Old Glory—speak out!—we are asking about How you happened to "favor" a
 name, so to say,
 That sounds so familiar and careless
 and gay.
 As we cheer it and shout in our wild
 breezy way

We—the crowd, every man of us,
 calling you that—
 We—Tom, Dick and Harry—each
 swinging his hat,
 And hurrahing "Old Glory!" like you
 were our kin,
 When—Lord!—we all know we're as common as sin!

And yet it just seems like you humor us all
 And wait us your thanks, as we hail
 you and fall
 Into line, with you over us, waving
 us on

Where our glorified, sanctified letters
 have gone—
 And this is the reason we're wanting
 to know—

(And we're wanting it so)— Where our fathers went we are willing to go,
 Who gave you the name of Old
 Glory—Oho!
 Who gave you the name of Old
 Glory?"

The old flag unfurled with a billowy
 thrill
 For an instant, then wistfully sigh-
 and was still.

"Old Glory, the story we're wanting to hear
 Is what the plain facts of your christening were—

For your name—just to hear it,
 Repeat it, and cheer it, 's a tang to
 the spirit
 As salt as a tear—
 And seeing you fly, and the boys
 marching by,
 There's a shout in the throat and a
 blur in the eye
 And an aching to live for you always
 or die,
 If, dying, we still keep you waving
 on high,
 And so, by our love
 For you, floating above,
 And the scare of all wars and the
 sorrows thereof,
 Who gave you the name of Old
 Glory, and why
 Are we thrilled at the name of Old
 Glory?"

Then the old banner leapt, like a sail
 in the blast,
 And, fluttered an audible answer at
 last,
 And it spake, with a shake of the voice, and it said—
 "By the driven snow-white and the living blood-red
 Of my bars and their heaven of stars
 overhead—
 By the symbol conjoined of them all,
 skyward east,
 As I float from the steeple, or flap
 at the mast,
 Or droop o'er the sod where the
 long grasses nod,
 My name is as old as the Glory of God,
 —So I came by the name of Old Glory."

People kicked on the bad brick
 on the Sanford Orlando road and now that the contractors are fixing
 this road the same people kick because it is torn up so much. It is funny these kicks and the way people look at things. They want a good road but expect it to be built
 over night so it will not inconvenience any of them.

The street committee of the city council is on the job and many of the alleys are being filled in and graded and many lots and other
 alley ways are being cleaned up.
 The city will be kept in good shape
 as long as these active workers are on the street committee.

I wish to commend our honorable board of county commissioners
 for cutting the tax levy this year.
 Regardless of the publicity tax of
 one half mill which is a good thing
 for any county I believe they were actuated by the motive of saving the taxpayers of the county in their strenuous war times and any saving now is greatly appreciated. In fact I have always believed that county
 commissioners and city councilmen
 are always governed by the best motives in all that they do and while
 they may make mistakes and do

make them they are in the main right in their actions. Now let the county commissioners maintain the same policy all during the year and they will make a record for themselves. Give out so much that can be kept at home and give sparingly
 to all but see that the improvements
 are kept up and use good judgment
 in this saving.

Here is something you might stick in your hatband: "If I owned a newspaper, what I would say in it
 just now would be a plenty," remarked a man the other day, says
 the Marion (O.) Tribune, in a recent editorial.

He was invited to write what he wanted to say, with assurance that it would be printed if his signature
 accompanied it.

He very promptly declined the tender, remarking that "it would hurt his business." There are a lot of people willing, anxious in fact for things to be said in the newspapers,
 providing they hurt the business of
 somebody else and not their own.

What newspaper has not had this very same experience with this very same yellow tadpole of a citizen,
 who splutters and splutters about
 what ought to be printed in a newspaper and what ought to be omitted?
 And yet, when you invited the coward to be responsible for the manuscript he wants you to publish, he whines like a sick dog, skulks behind this pretext and that, and wobbles out of the office with a grouch.

That is not all. He writes in that he will stop his paper if you don't print what he himself won't sign.
 Yet, if you were to suggest to him
 that his threat to stop his paper is pure and simple coercion through a threat of blackmail, he would yowl
 like a tom cat with its tail stepped on.

The fellow who threatens to stop his paper is trying to do to the newspaper in a small way, the very thing that he would condemn as criminal in a corporation that tried
 in any way to throttle the freedom of the press. Threatening to stop
 the paper is an attempt at intimidation.

But it is worse than that. Threatening to stop the paper is a confession of bigoted intolerance on the part of the delinquent subscriber
 that pulls such a bone, for it means that he does not want the paper to have the courage of its own convictions after all, but insists that it shall have only the courage of the convictions of the stop-my-paper
 threatener.

Big magazines, with circulation
 piling toward the million, and great metropolitan newspapers are pest-
 ered with this pest who wants them
 to publish something and assume a responsibility for authorship, which the pest is too big a coward to assume, and who threatens to stop his subscription if they do not do his bidding.

Why do newspapers have these an-noyances? Well, why do hotels
 sometimes have bedbugs, and hen-
 houses have lice?—Publishers' Auxiliary.

BATTLEFIELD SPORTS.

Soldiers Relieve War Strain With Football, Boxing and Wrestling.
 Even if sports are to be abandoned
 in the United States, they receive as much official encouragement as possible
 in France behind the trenches.

The following letter from one who witnessed a football game behind the
 lines is testimony to its popularity:

"You cannot imagine a more magnificent sight than the vast field presented
 there was an immense plain, in the center of which the football field was indicated by a rectangle formed of 5,000 French soldiers. At one end an improvised little grand stand had been made, composed of fallen trees, all kinds of planks and an odd collection
 of chairs, all decorated gayly with
 army flags. The goal posts were regimental flags and the umpire the army
 chaplain, who had girded up his cas-
 sock to his knees and entered thoroughly into the sport. The contest was between the young soldiers of Paris and the old soldiers on the front, or, as we say here, between the 'bleuets' and the 'poules.' The game was arranged by the president of the French Sporting society of Paris. It was a great contest, splendidly played. The young soldiers won. After this there were cross country runs and bomb throwing exercises. The regiment's records were excellent, some men throwing fifty-six yards, all this, mind you, while the German cannons were roaring a few miles off."

The Owl Valuable to the Farm.
 Do you know a monkeyface owl
 when you see one? Perhaps you know it as the barn owl. Anyhow, if you see one hanging around don't kill it. It's worth six or eight cents to you on the farm or suburban place, according to the state biologist of Washington.

Good Advice.
 "The doctor says he will let me know in a week whether I am going to live or not." "And what does he expect you to do in the meantime?" "He told me to take a complete rest and above all not to worry about anything."

Farmers and Fruit Growers

Items of Interest for the Man Behind the Plow

Grow Feed for Chickens

The poultryman who tries to raise a flock of chickens on feed bought at
 the stores will fail to make a profit
 unless he can market his products at fancy prices. The most economical poultry feeds are those produced on the farm. Grain feeds can be grown cheaply, and by a liberal use of
 green feeds the amount of grain necessary for a good ration can be reduced.

The following feeds are recommended by the University of Florida
 extension division. For summer
 planting, Minnesota amber sorghum
 is good. German millet is also seasonable just now. The large sunflowers which can be planted up to the middle of July will produce much seed, which makes excellent
 poultry feed. Kaffir corn, cowpeas,
 and soy beans are good feeds and
 may yet be planted.

Green stuffs for fall feeding may be had by the timely planting of oats, rye, Essex rape, rutabagas, lettuce, etc. Such feeds will take the place of much grain, cheapening the rations.

Some poultrymen are finding it necessary to dispose of many birds
 because of high feed prices. Some of them are being marketed at a loss,
 while others are being sold as fryers
 and broilers at a small profit. But this year, with a general meat scarcity, young chickens should not be marketed. They should be kept and fed until they reach full size and weight, and even then the pullets
 should be retained for next year's layers. A lack of foresight which kept the poultryman from growing his own feedstuffs is responsible for the present rush to market.

Keep the birds in a healthy growing condition; keep the yards and houses clean, and the birds free from vermin. Then when the egg-laying season begins you will be re-
 cash in on your work that cessary for egg production. The prospects are that eggs will be selling
 at big prices before the winter is over.

Keep the Refrigerator Clean

Cleaning the refrigerator is a chore some housekeepers leave until they can "get around to it." And then they wonder why food does not keep well on ice, or why some member of the family is ill most of the time.

"Since the refrigerator is a place
 to store food, it should be kept perfectly clean," says Miss Ellen Harris
 of the University of Florida extension division. "Which means that it should be kept as clean as the dishes that go on the table. Wash
 it thoroughly at least once a week
 with hot soapuds and scald with hot soda water. Several times during the week rinse it out with cold water."

To clean the drain pipe, use a brush made for the purpose, or a cloth over the end of a stick. See that the trap is kept clean and that it stays in place. Wash the shelves
 when you clean the rest of the refrigerator, and if a drop of food is spilled, wash it up at once.

A good refrigerator should keep food at a temperature of about fifty degrees Fahrenheit. If you cover
 the ice with paper or cloth the temperature will not be this low, for ice
 does not cool anything except by melting. When the ice is kept covered the melting is retarded and the air circulating through the refrigerator is not properly cooled because it does not come into contact with the ice.

Good Corn Grows From Good Seed

Selecting seed corn in the field for planting next year is the first step
 in guaranteeing next year's corn crop. Many things enter into the production of a crop, but good seed
 is by far the most important. Poor seed will give a poor yield under the best conditions. It is very necessary
 that the farmer select his seed corn
 and save it for his next year's planting, says the University of Florida extension division. He can pick the best in his field and know that it will do well on his soil if planted another year. If he has no crop this year and intends to plant next year
 he should buy seed from his neighbor's field.

Many farmers select seed corn
 from the crib but by so doing they lose the advantage they may have
 by making the selection from the field, while the ears were still on the stalks. And the time to make the selections are when the grains are in the milk stage.

Wheat at $36 a Bushel
 Isn't sixty cents a pound a rather
 high price to pay for a breakfast

food that is made entirely from wheat? That makes the wheat retail for $36 a bushel in the form of breakfast food. And that is what you are paying for it, according to one of the chemists at the University of Florida who has studied the food situation.

Most wonderful are the virtues
 ascribed to the many breakfast foods
 now on the market, but isn't it common sense that products made from wheat, corn or other grain cannot contain any more "brain food," "an-tifatig," or other nutrition than is contained in the wheat, corn or other grain?

A few years ago the housewife
 arose early to cook the family oatmeal or mush. An excellent breakfast food that is put on the market
 under various fancy names consists of what the millers call the first and second "breaks" of the wheat as it is being milled. Why not buy the cracked wheat or corn and get all of the nutriment at the lowest price?

How to Choose Calico.
 In choosing calico note well the appearance of the selvedge and remember that the straighter and more even
 the selvedge the better the quality of the calico. White calico owes its superiority to its fine texture, which has a destructive effect on the fibers of the calico.

Would Be Liberal.
 "Several men have been with the
 company for more than thirty years.
 What shall we do to show our appreciation?" "Um, let's see. Suppose we give each man a gold star on his collar." "Shall we require the men to pay for the same?" "No, that would hardly be fair. The company will pay half."
 —Louisville Courier-Journal.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Sick Headache. Exhaustion, indigestion and overwrought nerves are causes of sick headaches, from which many women suffer. If it is possible the patient must go to bed, for an hour or so of complete rest will do more toward restoring the normal condition than all the medicines known. Take the hair down, part it in the middle and braid it in two loose braids. This will rest the head. A hot water bag placed at the feet will draw the pain from the head, soothe the nerves and restore the normal temperature of the body. A hot cloth on the forehead or a cold one, if the patient prefers, will relieve the pain. Perfect quiet is an absolute necessity, for this induces sleep, which is the quickest and surest remedy. Rest an hour or so if possible, then upon arising eat a very light meal, consisting of some hot liquid, accompanied by toast or a cracker.

Writing to the Press.

I have sometimes thought that I would write a letter to the paper and sign it Ira H. Philand or Henry Stern Wheeler, and in this letter I would exhort the editor and tell him just how the country ought to be run and how little he knew about it.

But you know how you put off these things, so I did not do it for many, many years. Then I sat down and just burned the paper. I added a sarcastic line; then of course they would not dare to print my letter. I know that well enough. And they didn't. It never appeared. Wasn't that a good joke on the paper? Minneapolis Journal.

The White Man in Africa.

"The footprint of the white man is like the footprint of the elephant," says a Swazi native proverb. "It remains in the ground."

Another proverb: "White men are like and yet unlike quills. When you see one in your country you will soon see a flock. But the quills leave you again, the white men never."

No Sense of Fitness.

"Poor Jones was such an odd, contrary sort of man." "Yes, indeed. Why, even when he came to die he did it in the living room." Boston Transcript.

Philosophic Resignation.

"Do you believe a pessimist can be a complete success in life?" "No," replied Mr. Growcher. "You can't hope to displease everybody." Washington Star.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Sour Stomach. Sour stomach, a very common ailment, is a symptom rather than a disease. It is due either to excessive secretion of acid or to deficient secretion. If the secretion is excessive, starch and sugar fruits ferment readily, causing often serious irritation and derangement. If the secretion is deficient the food ferments from lack of a proper supply of acid, which prevents the formation of lactic acid from starch or sugar fruits. In such cases it is important to use a diet that will avoid fermentation. Often meat exclusively or with turnips, which contain no starch, is the most appropriate. In many cases an exclusive buttermilk diet is best, and in some cases fasting is beneficial. But it is impossible to lay down an invariable rule for such cases. The avoidance of fermentation is, however, important in all.

Nothing to Be Gained.

A Roman stoic philosopher was discouraging one day on life and death. "They are just the same," he said; "there is no difference between them." "Why don't you die, then, if there is no difference?" one of his disciples asked. "Because there is no difference," returned the philosopher.

Beelin' Things.

It's a safe bet that when Aladdin rubbed his lamp and saw what he saw, he rubbed the other one to be sure he wasn't dreaming.
