SANFORD - On the eve of Veterans Day, Al Taylor was at the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 30.

He's the Sergeant at Arms at the place.

And, on Monday evenings he's one of the bingo callers.

Quiet, time for an ex-Green Beret, who was awarded three Purple Hearts, two Bronze Stars and two Silver Stars and a slew of other ribbons during his heroic Vietnam tour.

SANFORD - Chalk one up for Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium.

For the next three years, the city will host the Mens National Slow Pitch Softball Tournament at the Mellonville Avenue ball park, according to recreation director Tom Farnsworth.

"We got word late yesterday afternoon," Farnsworth said. "I'm very excited."

Sanford first hosted the four-day tournament in August at the stadium, which is currently undergoing renovations.

There were 16 of the best slow pitch teams in the country, Farnsworth said.

"It's a great event and some of the best slow pitch softball you will ever see," he said.

Farnsworth said the deal represents a significant economic impact for the city.

"They come in for four days. Eat at our restaurants, stay in our hotels and shop in our stores," he said. In addition, manufacturers of bats and other equipment come to town, he said.

The news comes at a time when the city is seeking additional funds to hire a consultant to oversee a major facility. See Softball, Page 2A

Fire guts home of Longwood police official

By DAVID FRAZIER

LONGWOOD - The house and belongings of a member of the Longwood Police Department went up in flames this past weekend. Assistant Police Chief Terry Baker and his family sustained a loss of $182,000 as firefighters from two separate departments battled the inferno.

Sgt. Tom Jackson of the LPD said that the fire was started in one of the Baker's bedrooms, ignited apparently by a curler unit. The ventilation and ceiling fans helped spread the blaze.

The DelBary home was incinerated. "Basically, there were just four standing walls," said Jackson. "Everything they had is completely gone."

The Bakers are now searching for relocation. According to Jackson, the Baker's insurance does not cover immediate needs. "The only thing they had left was the clothes that they were wearing," Jackson said.

A fund has been set up through the department. Donations can be sent to the Longwood Fire Department at 235 W. Church Avenue or those interested in donating can call the Longwood Police Department at 260-3400. Jackson also said that a fund has been set up at a local bank, and

Rave club busted, drug arrests made

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD - Seminole County City County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) agents arrested 10 people on a variety of drug charges Saturday during a rave party at a Longwood club.

According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, the arrests were made at the basement in the Longwood Lakes Plaza, 664 South U.S. Highway 17-92.

One club employee and three customers were arrested for the sale of a controlled substance known as ecstasy, which is a combination stimulant and hallucinogen that is taken in tablet form.

Edward Connor, 27, of Cinnamon Circle in Casselberry, is the owner of the club. Connor was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana under 20 grams after a paper bag with pot was found in his office, McDonough said.

Larry Hall, 21, of Sandpiper Drive in Casselberry, is the bouncer at the club. Hall was arrested and charged with the sale of a controlled substance after he sold 10 ecstasy tablets and one eighth ounce of cocaine to CCIB undercover agents, McDonough said.

All the suspects were released from the Seminole County jail Sunday after posting bonds ranging from $115 to $3,000.

Teacher wants students to understand what veterans faced

By MARY ROWELL
Herald Correspondent

HEATHROW - On the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918, the armistice was signed that ended World War I. Armistice Day was renamed Veterans Day in 1954 to honor all the veterans that have served in all the wars.

Veterans Day is not just an excuse to have a sale. Kay Boehart, a fifth-grade teacher at Heathrow Elementary School, wants students to know and understand Veterans Day as only a veteran can describe it.

Boehart organized Veterans Recognition Day. For several years, she did it for her classroom, and then last year she did it for the fourth and fifth grade. This year's program extends to the entire school.

The program began with the color guard from Lake Mary High School's ROTC presenting the colors. Each member of the guard was former Heathrow student. After the pledge, Boehart introduced several students. One rendered an abridged history of the Marine Corps. The Corps was established on Nov. 10, 1775 - so the Heathrow observance was conducted on Monday on the birthday of the corps. Whenever they are, no longer how long they have been in or out of the corps, a marine always wished another marine "Happy Birthday" on Nov. 10. If there are two or more marines, there's a party.

Another student gave a brief history of Veteran's Day. Keynote speaker for the event was Col. Joel Jones, who was in the Army for 27 years. Being a veteran, he said, went beyond wearing a uniform. It meant being a patriot.

Veterans Day should be a day for R & R, he said, but not the kind of R & R most people think about. R & R should stand for remembrance and reverence. "We must remember always that in order for us to be here today to enjoy the benefits of this great country, someone had to die. We must revere the veterans who fought for us, and for our freedom."

One student told the story about his uncle who was killed in Vietnam. Boehart read the names of those who had died in war and were related to people at Heathrow. The vets in attendance introduced themselves and told what branch of the service they were in. Some had fought in World War II, Korea, Vietnam and the Gulf War. The oldest veteran was 91-year-old William C. Smith, the father of 4th grade teacher Denise Glum.

The Heathrow Chorus sang the anthems for the different branches of service. With each song, the veterans from that branch stood and sang. Everyone sang, "God Bless America."

The veterans dispersed to their assigned classes to tell their individual stories and to talk to students. Sam Castrianni served in World War II. He was captured and spent 3 1/2 years in a prison in Manchuria. Conditions were so bad that the prisoners had to survive by eating soup made from dogs or cats.

Clinton Westbrook was in a 50 foot boat, 25 yards off the quarter-deck of the U.S.S. Arizona in Pearl Harbor, which was destroyed by the Japanese. Westbrook and others did rescue work but the Japanese came back and destroyed the boat. He was one of very few who survived.

Sechrest

"Every year it touches me more and more and I wanted to do something to have them recognized," Sechrest said. "They were all my brothers."

In her home town of Dobson,

North Carolina, Sechrest, 78, said the local newspaper published pictures of those who served their country, including the Hutchins brothers - Roy, Ellis, Grady, Curtis, Robert, Odell, and Jimmie - and her husband James, who all served in World War II.

All but Roy returned. He was killed in action in Germany in 1944 at age 30.

"I've got the last letter my brother wrote me," Sechrest said. "He wrote me as often as he could and I sent him cigarettes."

When the soldiers were told they couldn't have lights, Roy asked for chewing tobacco and gum, which Sechrest gladly mailed.

Grady, the only brother enlisted in the Navy, was the worst about writing.

"My daddy walked two and a half miles every day to the post office to check for Grady's letters. Finally we contacted the chaplain and he spoke to Grady and he started writing more," she said.

Despite the regular correspondence, Sechrest said she never really knew what the soldiers were going through because letters were censored and the soldiers were not allowed to disclose any details of where they were or what they were doing. Even when her brothers came home, Sechrest said they didn't talk about the war.

"They didn't talk about it and you didn't want to talk about it," she said.

Growing up in North Carolina, Sechrest said what she remembers most was that she had a lot of fun with her brothers.

"I tried to do everything they did," she said. "I remember climbing a tree to get back on a horse and they would help me."

Considering it all, Sechrest said her brothers came back home in pretty good shape compared to the others who were drafted earlier. Of her brothers, Sechrest said when they were first drafted they really didn't know what they were getting into.

"The ones who went in first suffered the worse," she said.

In the midst of the war in 1942, Sechrest married James, also from Dobson, in a military ceremony in Miami. A few years later, James would serve on ship, sailing as far as Cuba.

To help pass the time and take her mind off what was going on around her she got a job. When she wasn't working, Sechrest would periodically listen to the radio. The waiting was the hardest part, she said.

"All you heard was how many people were killed. You could pull your hair out not knowing where they were or whether they were still alive. I think every household was affected" she said.

And when it was time for the servicemen to come home, Sechrest said families were just as glad to see the loved ones of their neighbors as they were to see their own people.

"You were always so glad when one came back," she said.

While living in Miami, Sechrest said she saw many buried at sea as her husband served in the Honor Guard.

Jim and Grady are the only surviving brothers. James Sechrest died last year.

Sechrest, with five grown children of her own, said that for the first time in many years she will be attending the Veterans Day Parade in Sanford.

"It breaks my heart when I go to the services. I cry because it brings back a lot of memories. I think they (Veterans) are all very brave," she said.

"I'm going to be a Green Beret." Seminole High School graduate Al Taylor told his dad Redding Taylor in 1964.

"Sure, you are," he told me," Taylor said. "He was a jumpmaster with the 173rd Airborne in World War II. Spent 33 months in North Africa. And I guess he wasn't sure if I was made of the same stuff."

After he made the grade - first in basic training at Ft. Gordon, Ga., and then at Advanced Infantry Training and Jump Training at Ft. Benning, Ga., and Ft. Bragg, N.C. and got back to Sanford, Al Taylor was greeted proudly by his dad.

"You did it," Redding Taylor told his son. "You really did it."

At 52, Al Taylor is proud to have been one of the men and women who served America. He flips a silver Special Services coin on the bar at the DAV Post. Written on it: "To fight so others may remain free."

A teen-ager out of Seminole High School, Taylor went from the football field into one of the bloodiest, most awful wars in the history of his country. Deep into it. Of the 28 men on two special forces teams in Central Vietnam, Taylor is the only one to come home.

He's an electrician, drives a Chevy pickup that almost everyone in Sanford has seen one time or another. It has an huge American Flag in the back.

"We (American veterans) stand for something that is very special," Taylor said. "I don't care what someone - man or woman - did. They did for the country. Veterans Day is the day to respect them. To respect those missing, to respect those others have forgotten. I won't be satisfied until we have accounted for every last one of them."

Louis Rotundo will be 92 next month. He's a World War

II veteran, who served with General George Patton's 2nd Armored Division. Born in Sanford in 1905, Rotundo joined the Army when he was 36.

He was a freight agent for Southern Trucking and could have been exempt from the draft but chose to serve.

He wound up with the 2nd Armored Division, helping with the vehicles that were used by the medical unit. He was part of the first invasion by Patton's "Hell on Wheels" at North Africa. Cpl. Rotundo was awarded a Purple Heart and numerous battle ribbons for his service.

Rotundo has been a member of the DAV for 52 years, and says he and his wife of 51 years - Doris Rotundo - will attend today's Veterans Day Parade. "I no longer march in the parade," he said Monday night. "I watch the parade nowadays. I'll wear my DAV cap and a white shirt and get a seat out front of City Hall."

At 91, Rotundo is the oldest member of the DAV Chapter 30 which has 1,294 male members and 400 females according to Chapter Cmdr. Bobby Dean.

More than 500 members of the DAV, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Fleet Reserve were scheduled to march in today's parade along with members of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, Seminole County High School Band and ROTC units from several high schools. There will be a DAV Honor Guard and a Color Guard of women from the DAV.

The participants in the parade gathered outside the Chamber of Commerce at 9:30, and the parade down First Street winds up with a ceremony at Memorial Park at Lake Monroe.

project for the historic stadium. The estimated price tag is more than $1 million in addition to the more than $300,000 already allocated for repairs.

Major completed repairs include new lighting and turf and 414 stadium chairs. The entire metal structure needs repair. Farnsworth said, in addition to lead paint abatement and electrical system upgrades.

With a seating capacity of about 2,300, the stadium, built in 1951, had served as the training facility for the N.Y. Giants. When the city regained possession of the park about four years ago, officials destroyed demolishing the structure. However, Farnsworth said, public sentiment was high to keep the stadium because of its history and tradition.

City commissioners have asked for a business plan before any further money is approved for a consultant.

Information on the tournament will be incorporated in the business plan, which will then be used to help generate funding for the renovation, Farnsworth said.

"This is what we want to bring here," he said. "This is the type of activity we want. It's good entertainment and a great spectator sport."

None of the Baker family which includes his wife, two sons and two daughters was injured. The family was not at home when the fire started. The family's pet dog was unharmed, but a fish and a hamster both perished.

Jackson said that public support has been overwhelming with teens that attend a local dance club called Night Moves, an establishment set up by Baker, have called wondering about the well-being of the officer and his family.

Jackson also said that Baker is a long time resident having graduated from Lyman High School in the early 1970s.

EDITORIAL

Veterans Day, 1997

Wherever skirmishes erupt, whenever political differences escalate and weapons are chosen over reason, American soldiers have fought valiantly to keep us all free.

We must never forget their sacrifices for their country.

Today is Veterans Day, a somber reminder of those who fought and died, a day to honor those who fought and lived.

Many of those alive wrestle still with real ills contracted during service to their country. Many, especially Vietnam veterans, never recovered psychologically from the treatment they received for just being there. Blamed for an unpopular war, their ranks now swell the ranks of our country's homeless. And some of our youngest veterans suffer from Gulf War illness, still a mystery to government officials.

Our fathers and grandfathers who fought World War II, when the country was proud of its brave men and women, are fading. Now in their 70s and 80s, they fear children today will forget what they gave, and why.

We must promise them that we will never forget.

Once we plant the seeds of apathy, men such as Saddam Hussein will have their way with us.

On this Veterans Day, take a moment to remember that we are free, and why.

Deputy Herndon laid to rest

A great taste for Sanford

The first Taste of Sanford, sponsored by Sanford Main Street and held Saturday at the Sanford Civic Center, was a great success and those who attended got to taste great food. There was a wide variety of cuisine to choose from such as Mexican, served by El Petro Mexican restaurant (top photo); and barbecue, served by Rib Ranch Chef Leroy to Dr. Robert Smith (lower photo). Ernest Culbreth, chef of the Marina Hotel Yacht Club Lounge, stands at the award winning table top display which included a palm tree that took him two hours to create (center photo).

Volunteer of the Week

Love of children motivates volunteer

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY--For the last two years, Sheridan Winfrey, has volunteered her time and talents with the Missing Children's Center in Winter Springs. Her love and concern for her own children, Ron and Mike and her three grandchildren, was her main motivation in becoming involved in this work.

"I've always been concerned about missing children," she said. "The problem has become so rampant since my kids were growing up. Things have changed so radically since then. You can't even go into a store without worrying that something might happen."

She added that she feels everyone should be aware of this problem and how to prevent it. This, she cited is the first step to helping others.

Local runners and teams earn trip to cross country regionals

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Eight of the 12 local Class 6A and Class 6B teams earned a trip to the regional cross country meets this Saturday with outstanding performances last week in district competition, once again proving the strength of the Seminole Athletic Conference.

The Seminole boys, plus the male squads from Lyman, Lake

Howell and Lake Mary as well as the girls' teams from Lake Brantley, Lyman, Oviedo and Lake Howell will be looking for a shot at the state tournament this weekend.

The big winners were the Lyman boys and Lake Brantley girls who repeated as Class 6A-District 3 champions at Lake Mary High School last Saturday morning.

So dominant were the Greyhounds, who also won the regionals last year, that their five counting runners all placed in the top 13, including three runners in the top five, for a total of only 32 points. Lake Howell was second with 81 points, while Lake Mary was third with 97 points. Jacksonville-Madart, DeLand and Jacksonville-Sandalwood were fourth through sixth and also earned spots in the regionals, which will be held at Columbia High School in Lake City on Saturday. The Patriots also had all five of their runners finish in the top 15 as they accumulated 47 points, to lead a clean sweep of the top four spots in the team standings. Oviedo (73 points), Lake Howell (81), Lyman (97), DeLand (109) and Jacksonville-Madart (189) were the other teams earning their way to the regionals. The top 15 individuals, if they were not on one of the top six teams, also clinched spots in the regionals. In the Class 5A-District 3 meet at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium last Saturday, Sanford's Jeremiah Mitchell won the individual title by eight seconds to repeat as the district champion. The Seminole boys will also be going as a team after finishing sixth. For the Seminole girls, Natalie Johnson will run as an individual after placing 10th in the girls' race. Seminole will run in the Regional at George Jenkins High School in Lakeland this Saturday.

Is ulcer due to H. pylori?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Last year, I had a bleeding ulcer that required surgery. I still have indigestion and gas. Could I have an infection with H. pylori? My family believes that my ulcer was caused by the medicine (Valium) that I took for arthritis. I'm still taking the medicine.

DEAR READER: Both you and your family may be correct.

One of the most common causes of peptic disease and ulcers is medication to relieve the pain of arthritis. Known as NSAIDs, these drugs attack the stomach's natural barrier to gastric acid, leading to heartburn, indigestion and intestinal bleeding. If you continue to take the NSAID called Voltaren, you may suffer further bleeding. You should either consider stopping the drug or ask your doctor to prescribe Cytotec, a medication specially designed to prevent NSAID-induced peptic disease.

On the other hand, you could also have an infection with H. pylori, a type of bacterium that causes ulcers. Such an infection can be diagnosed with a blood test.

Inasmuch as you are continuing to experience symptoms of peptic disease, I suggest that you discuss the situation with your family physician. He should obtain a blood test for H. pylori and, until the test results become available, treat you with Cytotec.

Don't procrastinate. Your indigestion and gas indicate continuing irritation in your digestive tract that should, in my opinion, be addressed before you bleed again.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Peptic Ulcers." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10134. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My friends and family say that I am unusual because I eat a head of lettuce for lunch and another at dinner — without any dressing. Is there any harm in this?

DEAR READER: No, but it is certainly unusual, to say the least. That's a whole lot of lettuce.

Like other fresh vegetables, lettuce is composed primarily of water. As long as you are also consuming protein and carbohydrates in a well-balanced meal plan, and the lettuce is not causing chronic bowel problems (such as constipation because of the high fiber content), I see no reason why you shouldn't continue your practice. Remember, though, that moderation in what you eat is the key. Perhaps, in the interest of dietary variety, you might eliminate some lettuce and replace it with other fresh vegetables. If you consume two heads of lettuce a day, your nose may twitch and you may grow a little white tail, but your health should not suffer.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a mother of four children, all of whom have had appropriate immunization shots for the usual childhood diseases. Nonetheless, I am concerned about their health because of reports showing that these shots can lead to cancer later in life.

DEAR READER: Such reports are erroneous. The risks of serious — even fatal — consequences of childhood illnesses far outweigh the risks of the vaccines. True, an occasional youngster can react badly to immunizations, but counterbalancing this is the fact that millions of healthy infants have been successfully vaccinated. As with any medication, a person must consider the risk-to-benefit ratio. However, with childhood immunizations, the benefits far outweigh the inconsequential risks. Please continue to keep your children's shots up-to-date; they'll thank you when they are older.

WIN AT BRIDGE

The theme encore

By Phillip Alder

Continuing yesterday's theme of queens and princesses, let's turn to Joseph Conrad, who wrote, "Being a woman is a terribly difficult trade, since it consists principally of dealing with men."

In bridge, queens try to evade aces and kings so that they can win tricks. However, sometimes a queen has to be sacrificed — as in this deal.

South opened two no-trump, which showed 21-22 points, but he sensibly upgraded his hand because of all those aces and kings. North had an easy raise, and West had an even easier lead: the spade queen.

South started with six top tricks: two spades, one heart, one diamond and two clubs. The extra tricks would presumably have to come from the minors.

Not wanting a heart switch, South won the first trick and continued with a diamond to dummy's 10. East had no winning play now. If he won with the king and returned either a spade or the heart 10, declarer would win and play a diamond to dummy's jack. Suddenly four diamond tricks and the contract would fall into his lap. So, East ducked. But declarer immediately finessed his club jack. When it won, South cashed the club ace, returned to dummy with a diamond to the ace, and played another club. When the queen appeared from East, South claimed nine tricks: two spades, one heart, two diamonds and four clubs.

East wasn't happy. "Why didn't you play the diamond queen at trick two?" he asked his partner. "Then we can defeat the contract if I work out to win the second diamond trick."

"Sorry, partner," replied West. "I had difficulty seeing the importance of trading in my queen."

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday
Wednesday, Nov. 12, 1987

In the year ahead, you may develop unique opportunities for yourself through your ingenuity. What you conceive will be a constructive adjunct to your present field of endeavor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you don't treat responsible matters with the respect they deserve today, some problems that could have been resolved already may linger even longer. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and BASE to Astro-Graph, c/o the newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Guard against squandering resources earmarked for necessities on foolish impulsive today. Uncontrolled extravagance generates spender's remorse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to expect too much from youngsters today. Remember, children aren't capable of reasoning or performing like adults.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Today, you might eschew your usual optimism and view everything negatively. If you court failure, you'll figure out a way to meet your expectations.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Keep your objectives within reasonable limits today in terms of material rewards you hope to receive. A lack of realism sows seeds for disappointment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Make your own decisions today in matters that reflect upon your reputation. If you let others think for you, you could end up looking bad.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not be too generous with your advice today. You may deal with someone who can't do things for him or herself, but is smart enough to shift the burdens to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Moving in extravagant circles could put a big dent in your budget today. Try to hang out with people who don't need expensive activities to have a good time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Proceed cautiously today where an ambitious endeavor is concerned. The foundations you've laid thus far could be beginning to show a few cracks.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not waste any more time today trying to convince someone who is negative about a matter you're promoting. Find new prospects who offer evidence a real interest.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Joint endeavors may not be your cup of tea today, so don't let a smooth talker involve you in something which is not too good for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your desires and those of your mate's could be poles apart today. Privately establish a common ground so there won't be any disputes in front of others.
