JUDGE FRAN JAMIESON: HER (FIRST) DAY IN COURT

Here Comes The Judge: Just Call Her 'Her Honor'

Fran Jamieson, the first woman elected to the Circuit Court Bench in Florida history, held her first hearing at the courthouse in Sanford this morning.

The only things missing for the new judge this morning were her judicial robes - they were in Brevard County. The 54-year-old Cocoa Beach attorney, elected by the people of the 18th Judicial Circuit composed of Seminole and Brevard counties in September, was officially sworn into office during special ceremonies Monday in "I'm delighted to begin my work on the bench," said Mrs. Jamieson, mother of two today.

The oath of office witnessed by judges and attorneys of both counties was administered by James C. Downey, chief judge of the 4th District Court of Appeal of West Palm Beach. Although Mrs. Jamieson was to begin her elected term of office in January, she was appointed to fill the unexpired term of David Strawn, who resigned from the County was unanimously approved by the Sanford City Com-

The plan was developed by a committee made up of representatives from Lake Mary, Sanford and the county. The plan will be forwarded to the Environmental Protection Agency

(EPA) for final approval, according to Paul Porter, engineering consultant with Clark, Dietz and Associates.

The Sanford Commission was required to approve the plan

before it was forwarded to the federal Environmental Protection Agency, because Sanford is the "lead applicant" for the plan.

However, once expansion of the treatment system is complete, an authority will be formed made up of representatives of all the governmental entities involved to operate the system, said Porter. Formation of such an authority will require a special act

That means that Sanford is asking for approval of the plan in its bench to accept an appointment by Governor Reubin Askew as Brevard County Sheriff. Prior to her election, which she won with a margin of more than 10,000 votes, Mrs. Jamieson had practiced law in Cocoa Beach for more than 20 years. During the oath of office ceremonies Monday, members of the Seminole County Bar Association presented the new judge with an especially engraved gavel.

In her campaign, Mrs. Jamieson had stressed support for creation of a family court division in the circuit. Since her election, her colleagues in the 18th Circuit, have created a family court on a six-month trial basis. Presiding with her in the family court division are Circuit Judges Dominick Salfi and Joe B. Cowart.

She had earlier said the obvious distress of the family unit as shown by the ever-increasing divorce rate persuaded her of the need for a court division specializing in the problems of and help for the family. "I look forward to the success of this new division," she said today. — DONNA ESTES

Of that total cost, the federal government will fund up to 75 percent or $6,62,660, Porter told the commission. The local share of that expansion would be $2,792,700, according to Porter.

By 1989, when the expansion is expected to be completed, the cost per household in Sanford would be $11.30, according to Porter. However, that does not mean the average sewer bill for a

CINCINNATI (UPI) - The Cincinnati Reds today fired manager Sparky Anderson, who led the team to back-to-back World Championships in 1975 and 1976, and replaced him with John McNamara, former manager of the Oakland A's and the San Diego Padres.

McNamara, a coach with the California Angels last season, was signed to a one-year contract by the Reds. Reds President and General Manager Dick Wagner flew to California Monday and met with Anderson at his Thousand Oaks, Calif., home to inform him of the Reds' decision. Anderson will be paid for the final year of his three-year contract.

"The decision we made was not a hasty one," sa Wagner. "Our club won in 1975 and 1976 and by that I mean won it all. The past two years have been good ones by the standards of most clubs, but we are determined to set a higher standard.

"It is our decision that the move we have made is in the best overall interests of making the Reds a better team." said Wagner. "Sparky Anderson served us well."

'Wave-Maker' Makes Waves Over Fleecing

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. William Proxmire today sent his Golden Fleece Award for November to an Interior Department agency for spending $145,000 on a wavemaking machine for a Salt Lake City swimming pool. But the bureaucrat he tried to pin the fleece on sent it back, telling Prozmire he was flat out wrong on a couple of points. As might be expected, a Proxmire aide insisted the senator was "absolutely correct."

The Wisconsin Democrat, who considers himself the Senate's fiscal watchdog, picks out a particular federal program each month for his award, symbolizing "the big-gest, most ridiculous or most ironic example of wasteful government spanding for the period."

This month's award went to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for its funding of the wavemaking machine in a milliondollar Salt Lake City swimming pool, designed to give inland residents the aquatic experience known only to coastal swimmers.

"Based on this rationale, hard-pressed taxpayers will next be asked to fund ski slopes in Florida, mountain acenery in Indiana, igloos in Death Valley or tropical rain orests in Wisconsin," Proxmire said.

"First, let's get our facts straight," protested agency head Chris Delaporte. "There is no Bureau of Outdoor Recreation." He said it was abolished last January and replaced by the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, empowered by law to make such grants based on applications from states and localities.

Delaporte said six such wavemaking machines were approved, and that last May, he timbelf jut wheld on any more "until we have had an opportunity to thoroughly analyze the eligibility and implication of f u n d i n g such Delaporte said Proximire's staff knew of the action of six months ago but the senator's statement did not report it. "In this case, so that the senator cannot be accused of either misplacing his good intentions or misappropriating such a scarce and prestigious award, we are sending it back to him so he can use it elsewhere," Delaporte said. Furthermore, he said, the funds did not come from aspayers but from royalties from offshore oil and gas sases. "This is not money from citizens," Delaporte said. other such projects would be approved, saying: "We certainly might continue to fund them but we're taking a look at them."

Food Prices Doubled In

sousing costs, consumer prices surged 0.8 percent in October and

The hefty increase last month matched the September advance and offered a vivid demonstration that inflation remains deeply embedded in the nation's economy despite government efforts to bring it under control.

The Labor Department said its consumer price index for urban consumers, which covers about 80 percent of the population, stood at 200.9 last month. That statistic means goods and services which cost Americans $100 in 1907 — the base year for such calculations — cost $200.90 in October, Or put another way, $100 today would buy less than half of what it did 11 years ago.

In another bit of discouraging news, the department also reported that individual purchasing power in October slipped below year-ago levels for the fifth consecutive month.

The Labor Department said the overall 0.8 percent increase last month meant prices were 8.9 percent higher than in October 1977. If prices rose over the next year at the same rate they did last month it would mean an annual inflation rate of 9.5 percent. President Carter's anti-inflation program has a goal of bringing inflation down to between 6 and 6.5 percent in 1979, a development which most private economists believe is highly unlikely.

The increase in grocery prices - 0.9 percent - will more than double September's 6.4 percent gain. Grocery pric were unchanged in August and had actually declined in July. The main culprit was meat, which rose 2.1 percent after fallir in the previous three months. Prices also increased for fruits and vegetables, eggs, dair products and cereal and bakery products.

Ray's Brother Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) - / House assassinations subcommittee voted today to ask a St. Louis court to temporarily free the jailed brother of James Earl Ray for testimony Friday at the panel's final hearing on the murder of Martin Luther King Jr. Suggestions that the King assesination was a plot hatched by Ray and his brothers surfaced Monday at the full committee's hearing. The subcommittee sought today to arrange for the testimony of John Larry Ray, the assassin's 45-year-old brother who was arrested on assault and burglary charges Monday in St.

The vote interrupted the full committee's hearing today at Ramsey Clark was testifying. Chief committee counsel G Robert Blakey said Clark's conduct in the aftermath if the Memphis shooting must be carefully examined.

During his remarks, Clark told the panel that, in retrospect, he regrets saying publicly soon after King's murder April 4, 1968, that the evidence pointed to a single assassin. Clark said that remark led to later charges of a government Clark was attorney general when King died. When he made his remark about the single assassin, no suspect was in "Why did you comment at so early a stage?" he was asked. "My observerations were quite different at the time," Clark said. He based his view on evidence available and the public's right to know. "The public was desperately concerned about the death of King," he said. But, he added, "Hindsight has now changed my view."

Clark also recalled that 'every conceivable speculation of conspiracy was pursued." There have been charges that the FBI and Justice Department were less than enthusiastic in running down leads involved in the King slaying. Blakey said Clark had originally intented to become closely involved in the investigation.

Guyana: Just Who's To Blame?

The horror of the last hours of the Jonestown settlement staggers the imagination. The coldblooded murder of a congressman, three newsmen and a fleeing settler at the Kaituma airstrip was shocking enough.

The mass slaughter that followed, an orgy of murder and suicide, stretches the limits of rational understanding.

Jonestown ended like a grisly mirror of Auschwitz. What presented itself as a bona fide if bizarre religious movement led to the death of more than 900 men, women and children.

Hindsight brings the inevitable questions: Who is responsible for this massacre? Can it be blamed entirely on Jim Jones, the Christian preacher from Indiana who led his Peoples Temple down paths growing ever more bizarre?

At some point as his sect lost its anchor could the law have intervened to prevent the recent tragedy in Guyana?

Whatever his beginnings as a minister and social activist with considerable credibility, Jones became a cult leader who was not only skillful in manipulating his people but equally adroit in convincing outsiders that his flock was held together only by a spirit of benevolence. Stories had circulated for two years that his

Jonestown settlement was actually a strange mixture of socialist commune and concentration camp. The stories apparently were true. It can be argued that the U.S. State Department or the Guyanan government did not probe deeply enough into what was going on at Jonestown. The resources to do so in a country like Guyana are limited, however.

Jones had convinced visitors that there were no weapons in the settlement. It would have been hard to anticipate the sudden brutal attack on Rep. Leo Ryan and his party at the Kaituma airstrip - or to believe that there was more than rhetoric in the references to mass-suicide in Jones's preaching.

There is a message here. Because the U.S. is proud of its tradition of religious tolerance, our society and its laws give the benefit of the doubt to radical religious cults that test the limits of their constitutional right to exist.

Our courts are reluctant, and rightly so, to try to protect people from fanatical cults that seem to rob them, in the name of religion, of their ability to make decisions in their own interest. Do efforts to spirit such people away amount to rescue — or to kidnapping? Two U.S. lawyers prominent in civil rights actions were on the scene at Jonestown recently, retained by Jones to defend the Peoples Temple.

Jones was complaining of "religious persecution" as complaints were mounting that what had started as a relgious sect had turned into something sinister.

At what point did Jones and the more fanatic of his followers forfeit their claim to the tolerance of a civilized society?

When the guns barked at the Kaituma airstrip? Or much earlier?

Conscience tells us that this nightmare might have been averted if the pleas and petitions on behalf of some of the captives of Jones's hypnotic preaching had received a more concerned response many months ago.

That is easy to say today. It is not so easy to say exactly what our society should do when it senses a destructive danger in a non-conformist cult. Our constitution is clear in protecting freedom of worship and freedom of assembly.

Sadly it does not tell us how to deal with the likes of a Jim Jones - before it is too late.

WASHINGTON - Although the 96th Congress won't convene until mid-January, Senate Republicans are already locked in furious kirmishes over minority leadership posts for

Atop the horror of the People's Temple massacre in Guyana, it appeared that there might be piled a scandal. Cult leader Jim Jones, the Guyanan govern

But the letters from the most prominent senders, as made public, turned out to be something other than personal endorsements They were the political equivalents of bread-andoutter notes, polite but pro forma acknowledgements of routine encounters in the busy course of public life.

Mrs. Carter, who recalled dining with Jone after his offer of presidential campaign help acknowledged their meeting and his "helpful" suggestions about Cube in two brief paragraphs The vice president noted Jones', "deep in volvement in the major social and constitutions issues of our country," and Sen. Askew Appeals To Carter For Organized Crime Aid TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Gov. Reubin Askew has written to an old friend, President Jimmy Carter, and asked for help on one of Florida's more gritty problems - the eradication of organized crime.

In a letter dated Nov. 20 but only made public Monday, Askew called on Carter to assist Florida in getting a $440,000 federal grant to wipe out "a social cancer which has reached epidemic proportions."

The governor said drug smuggling is the most serious organized crime activity and pointed out marijuana trafficking is a $6 billion-a-year-business and cocaine and methaqualone sales are on the rise.

Florida Growth Predicted

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Florida's population will jump to 9.5 million by 1980, with the most dramatic growth taking place in urban areas and the northern part of the state. That was the prediction Monday of Florida State University sociologist Charles Nam, head of the FSU Center for the Study of Population.

"The urban areas of the state are growing very sharply, while the rural areas are growing very slowly or stabilizing in size," Dr. Nam said.

Julia Rose Ripp, Randall D. Fudge Exchange Vows

Julia Rose Ripp and Randall Dean Fudge were married Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m., at the Church of the Nativity, Lake Mary. Father Clement Kuhns performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald R. Ripp Sr. of Lake Mary. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Breton D. Fudge of Casselberry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of bridal satin overlaid with chiffon. Lace appliques and seed pearls lavishly embellished the long sleeves and V-neckline. The A-line skirt cascaded into a sweeping cathedral train.

A lace and seed pearl headpiece secured her tiered veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of peach and white roses interspersed with lily-of-the-valley.

Cynthia Brooke of Sanford, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a mint green satin halter-styled gown with a matching chiffon jacket. She carried a bouquet of green and peach carnations and baby's breath.

Julie Charlet Jordan and Lizzie Wilcox, both of New Orleans, La., and Patty McIntyre Ripp, the bride's sister-in-law from Satellite Beach, were the bridesmaids. Their peach colored gowns were identical to the honor at-Mike Burton of Jacksonville served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Donald Ripp of Atlanta, and Billy Ripp of Lake Mary, both brothers of the bride. Groomsmen were Paul Ocoson of Casselberry, Bill Buckman of Orlando and Ricky Fudge, brother of the bridegroom Molly King and Shannon Smith, both of Lake Mary, were the flower girls. Ryan Ripp, nephew of the bride from Satellite Beach, was the ring bearer.

The reception was held at Mayfair Country Club.

Rachel Lee has held more hands and soothed more troubled brows than she can

As a registered nurse, who had to fight for the title every step of the way, Rachel has lived and worked in Sanford since 1940. Born in McGee, Miss., in September, 1897. Rachel attended high school in Piney Woods, Miss.

"I always thought I'd love to be a nurse. Then, when the awful flu epidemic came along, nobody who lived out in the country knew what to do. There were no phones and doctors were so far apart. I saw so many people suffer. I decided. Here is what I want to do. Here's my chance to help.' teachers apparently are getting back to teaching basics, and in line with new county policies, the teachers are more coluctant to give away "social" promotions, school officials say. The increased failures occurred in the elementary and middle schools while four of the county's five high schools showed decreases in failures with one, Oviedo High School, showing r The total number of students held back increased from the 1976-77 school year to 3,510 for the 1977-78 school year, up 1,144. A large increase from 40 to 132 was registered at South-

Seminole Middle School. That school's principal, Sid Boyetto; cited several factors for the increase. "We ran across a number of students who just didn't have any interest in school and were not applying themselves," Boyette In addition to poor student attitude, was parental apathy, according to Boyette. "Many times when we contacted parents to let them know their children were not doing well, they would tell us there was nothing they could do," he said. Many of the students who failed also were absent a lot, he said "It obviously brings up the question of how can a child pass if he's

'H obviously brings up the question of how a child can pass if he's not in school

Another reason cited by Boyette as well as other middle school principals is a new district policy regarding failures. Before last year, if a student failed one subject he was still promoted to the next grade, and made up the credit later. If he failed two or more subjects he could attend summer school. Under the new policy if a child fails one subject he can attend summer school but if two or more subjects are failed the student automatically is held back.

Many of the increases in failures are at the elementary school assessed differently. It used to be if a student in that grade level failed overall, the following achool year he or she would be held back - kept in the same grade.

Now, however, students in those grades are put into one of four different levels in each subject they learn, depending upon how well they do in any of them. That is, a first-year student may be at level one in reading, level three in math and level two in language. At the end of the achool year, that first-year student moves to the second-year (grade) but either continues at the same level of learning in which any of the subjects he or she did poorty, or advance to a higher level for those subjects the student mastered. In that sense, those students are advanced to a higher school year, but can be considered retained or held back in any of these subjects. The student remains at the same level as the previous year.

Lake Mary Elementary school principal Jack Prest noted most of the 100 students at his school were retained because the stan-
