County Employee Killed In Tractor-Truck Crash

Lake County Man Faces Manslaughter Charges

Seminole County's 14th traffic death of the year was recorded this morning when a county employe was fatally injured in a truck-tractor collision on Highway 46 four miles east of Sanford city limits.

Anthony Taylor, Negro, 32, of 1713 West 13th Street, a county employe for 10 months, died of a skull fracture at 9:30 a.m. at Seminole Memorial Hospital one hour and 15 minutes after the tractor he was driving was hit from the rear by a truck.

Hugh Duncan, coroner and justice of the peace, reported the truck driver, Wilmer Albert Merchant, 33, of Mascotte, Lake County, Fla. is being held in county jail in lieu of bond. He was charged with manslaughter, with a bond of $2,500, and with failure to have his truck under control, with a bond of $500.

Judge Duncan said that Taylor was driving a tractor toward the city when Merchant's truck hit from the rear. Road Supt. J. C. Lavender said the $2,300 county-owned tractor, used for mowing grass along road shoulders, was completely demolished.

State Highway Patrol and the sheriff's department joined Judge Duncan in the investigation. The Williams Funeral Home is in charge of Taylor's funeral arrangements.

Dodson's body was recovered from the St. Johns River, just across the county line, early Wednesday. Investigation into the death was being continued today by Sheriff Thursday's department, with the assistance of the Seminole Sheriff's department.

Two men are being held as material witnesses in the Volusia County jail, being questioned in the death. They have been identified as Joe Carey, Sanford, and Fred Gilbert, East Highway 46.

After 'Magnificent' Flight Cooper Goes Through Rugged Medical Tests

ABOARD USS KEARSARGE (UPI)—Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper today undergoes intensive medical examinations and questioning about his "magnificent" space flight—equivalent to a round trip to the moon—which ended with a "bullseye" landing in the Pacific. Cooper was scheduled to remain on board the aircraft carrier Kearsarge until Saturday when he will be flown to Honolulu for a reunion with his wife and two daughters.

The medical examination and technical questioning of the peppery little Air Force major were expected to concentrate primarily on man's ability to withstand the rigors of a flight to the moon and back.

The 22.9 orbit, 34 hour, 20 minute flight in his Faith 7 capsule carried Cooper a distance of almost 600,000 miles. A round trip to the moon would be less than 500,000 miles.

Space officials viewed Cooper's feat as another step, perhaps a giant one, toward putting an American on the moon.

The space officials heaped praise on the astronaut for bringing his space capsule back from space in the pioneer tradition of airman—by the seat of his pants.

They hailed his flight as "magnificent" and a great feat of science.

Kennedy's Rights Stand Rapped

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Civil Rights Commission challenged President Kennedy's position today, insisting that the chief executive has "ample authority" to cut off federal funds to areas of discrimination.

"It is our judgment," William L. Taylor, an assistant staff director said, "that the executive has power derived from the Constitution to assure that federal funds are expended only for non-discriminatory purposes."

The Civil Rights Commission recently recommended to the president that he determine whether he had the authority to withhold funds from Mississippi.

A Home For Every Need Here

A home is something everyone has in one form or another. But some are no longer just quite right . . . they are too small, too big, too run down, too far from town, too close to town.

Whatever your problem, Seminole County home builders and developers can solve it for you by finding a new home to suit your needs. On page 10 are five homes in Ravenna Park, Idylwild, Sealand, Lake Wayman Heights, Tee 'N Green, Greenbriar and Country Club Heights.

Builders of these homes include LMN Enterprises, Kingwood Builders, Sheena & Co. Construction and Cavalade of Homes, Inc. of Casselberry.

City, County Meet On Prep School OK

The Herald was refused admission into the informal City - County commission meeting at noon today. Mayor Tom McDonald told a Herald reporter "This is an informal meeting and I prefer that you leave."

Question of title to the 18-acre site proposed for a military preparatory school at Mellonville and Celery Avenues was to be aired at a joint luncheon-meeting of the City and County Commissions and the Chamber of Commerce early this afternoon at the Jim Spencer restaurant.

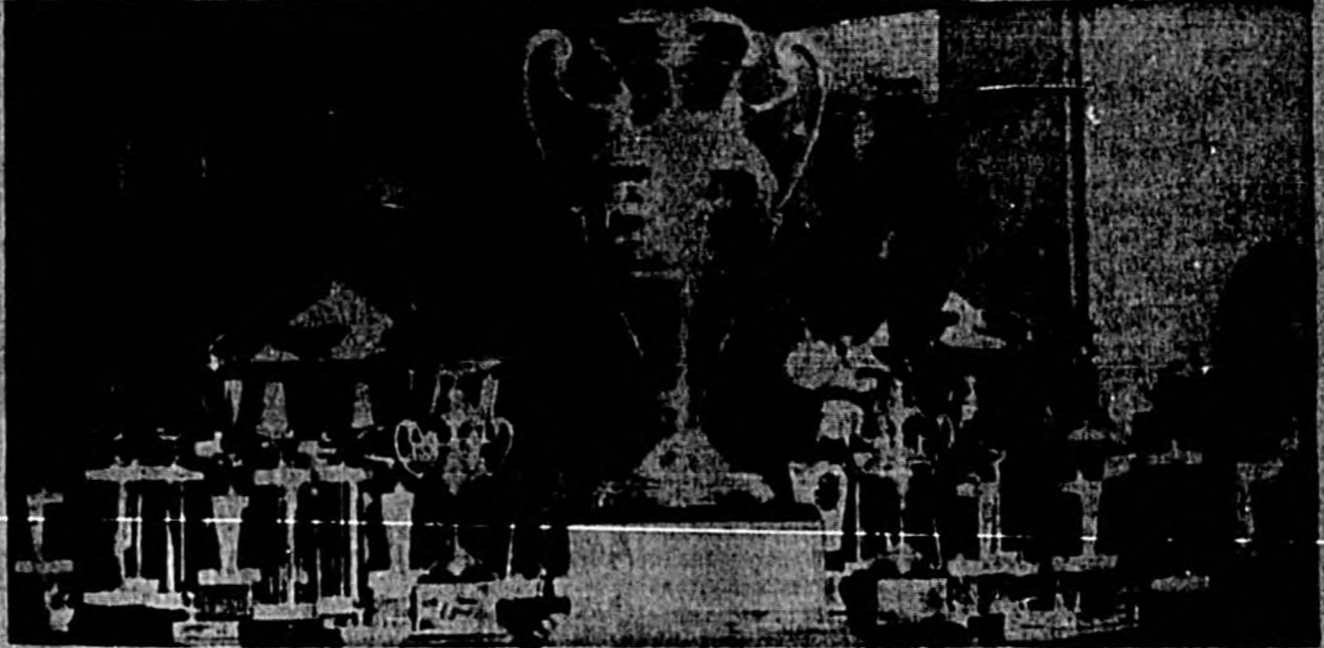

The property was donated by the county in 1948 to the city for recreation purposes, with a reverter clause that it should be returned to the county if ever used for any other purpose than recreation.

The city, proposing to sell the site to the MacFadden Foundation for use by the Castle Heights Military Academy, Lebanon, Tenn., has requested the county to sign a quit claim deed.

The city has valued the property at between $25,000 and $125,000. The county proposes it should receive a share, as much as 50 per cent, of the proceeds of the sale.

One county official pointed out the city does not own the site, has no right to offer it for sale and should return it to the county.

Age Of Anxiety

The day in which we live has been referred to as "The Age of Anxiety" and yet it is strange, that in a day of such plenty, this should be true. We have invented many mechanical gadgets to make life easier; we have so many ways of finding entertainment and recreation; our food, clothing and shelter is so much more adequate than we have experienced before at any time of the history of the world. Even so we find our age being an anxious one.

Jesus recognized anxiety as being a real problem in His day. In "The Sermon on the Mount" He directed people to have faith, concerning all of their needs and to rest first the Kingdom of God, promising that after this was done all other things would be taken care of in the best way.

Many things are involved in finding the cure for anxiety through our Christian faith, however, I believe that these can be enumerated and simplified to a certain extent.

If one is to escape this modern plague, first he will have to remember the greatness of God. In order to understand the greatness of God one would do well to read the book of Psalms to see how God is pictured as One who is truly great. In the book of Psalms God is seen as being a King of all the world, the creator of the earth and the universe, the preserver, and the very personal and warm friend of those who will trust Him. One would do well to read the 23rd, 46th, 93rd, 97th and 99th Psalms to begin with. If the Psalms are read prayerfully, it will be found that God is pictured so clearly as the One who reigns over all of the universe.

The second means of curing anxiety is remembering the care of God. If one would realize what God means to him personally, he would find the burden of anxiety being relieved to such a great extent and his life would take on a positive, hopeful, and joyous meaning.

The shepherd idea of God tells us of His care and is present in many places of the Scriptures. The 23rd Psalm brings out this thought so clearly. In the New Testament, as we look at John 10: 1-4, we find the shepherd idea continuing in the New Testament. This does not mean that the chill of cold winds of trouble will never come into the lives of believers. Storms and tempest will come to one who knows God yet he will realize the Shepherd cares for His sheep and will never let the storm become so violent that they will not have strength enough to meet them.

The third step in having our anxiety cured is to accept God's revelation of Himself in Christ. When Philip, the disciple of Christ, was confused concerning the Father of whom Christ spoke he heard the words from the Master saying, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." There is an innate desire in the heart of every man to know God, but how futile it has seemed to those who have not accepted the Revelation of God in Christ.

The troop presented Miss Stone, who is being married on June 1 in the Milland Orthodox Presbyterian Church, with a gift of a blue Venetian glass bowl. Mrs. Russell was presented with a Collection of Poetry by the girls in appreciation for her work with the troop.

Miss Ostrow will take Miss Stone's place as co-leader of the troop next fall.

The program closed with the singing of Taps by the Scouts and refreshments of cookies and punch were served to the families and friends attending. A miniature maypole sitting in a circle of pink and white periwinkles formed the clever centerpiece for the refreshment table.

The girls are looking forward with excitement to their trip to Savannah, Ga., this weekend to visit the birthplace of the founder of Girl Scouting, Juliette Lewis. They leave this afternoon by charter bus returning home Sunday afternoon. They have worked hard for two years to earn the money for the trip by cookie and calendar sales, bake sales, baby sitting and selling newspapers, among other things.

"But these things can jell in a hurry and we could still get through," he said.

Good Shepherd To Take Part In 'Lutheran World Action'

Lutherans in Sanford are being asked this Sunday to contribute through regular or special offerings toward a $4,450,000 goal set for the 1963 "Lutheran World Action" appeal, an annual effort to support a world-wide program for millions of hungry, sick and homeless.

This date has been designated as "Lutheran World Action Sunday" when special emphasis will be given to the aid program in Lutheran churches across the nation.

Rev. Ernest B. Bulick Jr., pastor of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Sanford, advises that some congregations of the denomination may also have stressed the LWA effort last March 24, the day set aside as "One Great Hour of Sharing Sunday."

On the "One Great Hour of Sharing" observance, the 1963 United Appeal of Protestant Churches in America, a simultaneous emphasis was given to the several denominational campaigns. The total goal of these drives this year is more than $15 million.

The Lutheran World Action effort, promoted through National Lutheran Council church bodies, represents nearly one-third of the total United Protestant appeal.

Poppy Day

Today and Saturday have been designated Poppy Days for the National League of Women Veterans of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 68 of Seminole County.

Six-year-old Pam King is this year's Poppy Girl. In 1918, after World War I, the poppies blossomed in abundance on the battlefields of France where so many of our men had fallen in battle and the replica of this poppy has become the Memorial Flower of the American Legion Auxiliary. Contributions made on Poppy Day are given 10 percent to aid needy war veterans and children of veterans. It is a privilege and an opportunity to wear a Poppy on this day to pay tribute to all who have died in the service of their country.

The Poppies are made by hand by disabled veterans who receive pay for each Poppy they make, the material being furnished them free by the Auxiliary Department of the state in which the hospital is located. Through the American Legion Poppy Day, more than $300,000 is paid annually to needy disabled service men and women for making the Poppies.

Subtlety Of Risks

When some public figures urge stern counter-measures against Castro's Cuba, they acknowledge there is risk involved. But often they add: "In this day and age, everything we do involves risk."

Let's look at this business of risk-taking. It is surely true, as these advocates suggest, that no important national or international action today is free of risks.

But do they mean to say, as the words seem to, that all risks are alike and can be equated?

It is hard to believe they really intend to convey this. For much of what we know about the crucial decision making process, at the presidential and other high levels, indicates that it is in considerable part a task of grading risks and choosing among them.

If risks were just risks and that was that, then inevitably our policy and action makers would be inclined always to commit themselves to the strongest possible course. Why not, since it would make no difference?

In fact, they engage in a thoroughly taxing exercise of balancing risks of varying kinds and degrees against supposed benefits of different sorts. Any given decision may reflect a highly complex effort to achieve the most favorable balance possible.

The "quarantine" imposed by President Kennedy against Soviet weapons shipments to Cuba last fall is an illustration.

The very use of the word "quarantine" was an effort to get the benefit of what was in truth a blockade, while perhaps diminishing the risk usually attached to that action, for a blockade is accepted as an act of war.

What kind of risk would a new blockade, imposed in mid-1963 amount to?

The decision-maker facing that one has to try to calculate not only how the Russians would react—in quite different circumstances than prevailed last October—but also what the benefits to us would be in this particular risk-taking.

It simply is not good enough for the action-minded to say: "Yes, a blockade is a risk, but so is everything else."

Those on the sidelines have just as much responsibility as those in power for understanding that the process of choice is more complex than that. It is a burden the "outsiders" cannot evade.

Phil Newsom Says

Ben Bella 'Happy'

When from Cairo's Kubbeh Palace the three leaders of Egypt, Syria and Iraq announced their ambitious plan to merge in a new United Arab Republic, Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella dispatched a happy message.

It was, he told Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, "The most wonderful day of my life."

The flag of this new republic would have three green stars against a background of red, white and black bars.

For Nasser it was a new start toward accomplishment of his lifelong vision of an Egypt at the center of three circles—the first Arab, second African and third a Moslem unity which would exert its influence throughout the world.

These were explained in the only book Nasser ever wrote. In it he saw a "role, wandering aimlessly in search of a hero."

He never has left any doubt he considered himself suitable for that role.

The new UAR would establish a single Arab nation extending from the Persian Gulf to the Mediterranean.

It would form the nucleus of the first circle and its mere announcement was enough to send Nasserite mobs into the streets of Amman, capital of neighboring Jordan, to worry the Saudi rulers of Saudi Arabia and to rouse concern in Israel.

With a first step behind him, Nasser this week was considering the second.

In Algiers he was the guest of Ben Bella.

Nasser helped Algerian rebels with money and weapons during their seven-year war against France and Ben Bella is among Nasser's greatest admirers.

Ben Bella looks toward a North African "magreb," a union of Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco. With Libya and the U. A. R. the sum total could be an Arab federation extending from the Atlantic to the Persian Gulf.

It would be the second circle in Nasser's vision.

But even as Nasser landed in Algiers, things were coming unstuck at home.

In Syria, a smoldering dispute between the Baathists, members of Syria's largest political party, and Nasserites led to mass resignations from the Syrian cabinet with the Baathists in control.

Baathists, a stand-in for Arab renaissance, hold key positions in both Syria and Iraq.

Politically, they share with the Nasserites an enthusiasm for Arab unity and "Arab socialism," but with a greater degree of parliamentary rule.

They recall Nasser's suppression of the Baathists during the ill-starred Egyptian-Syrian merger of 1958-61.

And their fear now is that so-called collective leadership in a new UAR quickly would deteriorate to one-man Nasser rule.

For the Arab world, more disunited than united, it is a many times told tale. Mutual aims brought the Baathists and Nasser together. Mutual suspicions bid once more to split them apart.

Nasser has proved himself a persistent man but the circles which place Egypt in the center of an Arab world may yet prove to be illusory bubbles.

Worry Clinic

Hal mentions that many of my psychology colleagues at the university attack me bitterly for using 2-syllable words. Instead, they indulge in "polysyllabic circumlocutions" just to impress students with their own verbosity. Analyze their lectures and you'll find the usual professor's "diarrhea of words and constipation of ideas."

CASE P-41: Hal K., aged 26, is the advertising executive who says some of his local university psychologists attack me for using 2-syllable words.

"Dr. Crane," he added, "they say you are making psychology look too simple and understandable because you employ the layman's vocabulary."

"So give them the answer you showed in your 'ad test' in your college textbook, 'Psychology Applied.'"

The average word in the Bible contains only two syllables.

And even if the "ivory tower" or cloistered psychologists don't know their stuff, the talented editors of America's long have understood that short words are preferred to long jawbreaker terms.

Jesus also warned us in this regard when he made that famous remark: "Cast not your pearls before swine lest they trample them under their feet and turn again and rend you."

Notice how short the words are in that quote from the Bible.

What Christ had in mind was simply this: "Use language the customer can understand."

Let that be a lesson to many of you verbose college professors who still don't know how to talk the English language so students can grasp it.

If you'd stop your "polysyllabic circumlocutions" and use straight English, liberal arts students could learn as much in 2 years as they now get in 4.

The average American is 30 years old, married and with 2 children just coming into kindergarten or first grade.

He hasn't finished the junior year in high school.

Yesterday I showed you the actual figures on book sales where the shorter titles far outsold the longer ones.

"Privateerism" (a 4-syllable title) thus produced 7,500 book sales in the entire year it was advertised via full page newspaper ads.

In contrast, "Battles of a Seaman" sold 10,000 copies with the same advertising promotion.

That's a 33 percent increase in sales, largely because the public could understand the 2-syllable words "Battles" and also "Seaman."

In the usual retail business situation, you don't need to jump your sales 33 per cent to get out of the red ink and onto the profit side of the ledger.

Nor would it have taken a 33 per cent increase in votes to have placed Nixon in the White House. Kennedy sneaked in with a mere fraction of just one per cent of the ballots.

Alas, many liberal arts professors try to throw their weight around in polysyllables.

This is a guilt reaction in many cases for they know they are offering their students so little of real value that they try to "cover-up" their own inadequacy by use of "polysyllabic circumlocutions."

If you don't believe me, just condense the usual 50-minute college lecture to its essence. It will shock you to see the "diarrhea of words and constipation of ideas" offered by the usual college prof.

And think of the high tuition rates your parents are paying so your children can get that second-rate type of teaching.

If you wish to know how editors and advertising executives operate, send for my booklet "The New Psychology of Advertising," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

It contains that complete "Ad Test" to which Hal refers.

Thoughts

And he said to him, rise and go your way; your faith has made you well. — Luke 17:10.

There can be no faith so feeble that Christ does not respond to it. — Alexander Maclaren.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Attention was focused on this situation by Joseph Borah's "The Corrupt Judge," published last year. The author is an attorney-economist formerly in the Department of Justice Anti-trust Division. He made a hobby of research into judicial corruption for 10 years prior to writing his book.

He found 55 cases in which conduct of federal judges has been the subject of congressional investigation. Only eight judges actually were impeached, four being convicted and four acquitted. This is not an alarming record, although one corrupt judge is too many if perfection is expected.

Borah concludes from his study that the way to prevent such developments would be to create an "office of reports" in each of the 11 judicial circuit councils headed by a senior judge. Every federal judge would be required to file an annual report on his net worth, sources of income, business and professional relationships. Failure to file or false statements would be deemed misdemeanors. The reports would not be made public to protect judges from harassment.

Meanwhile, Jerry Landauer of Wall Street Journal has completed a comprehensive survey of business associations of the federal judiciary. His prime case is Judge John C. Knox of the Southern District of New York, who earned over $100,000 in fees as a life insurance company director in a 13-year period.

It was this disclosure which influenced Celler to introduce his bill banning business associations for federal judges.

CAPRIOLE — A white Lipizzan stallion performs a classic maneuver in Walt Disney's Technicolor feature, "Miracle of The White Stallions." The Buena Vista release stars Robert Taylor, Lilli Palmer, Curt Jurgens, Eddie Albert and James Franciscus.

Disney Film Drive-In Bound

For his high budget feature motion picture, "Miracle of the White Stallions," Walt Disney has assembled one of the most talented and popular international casts in studio history, coming to the Movieland Drive-In Sunday.

Starring in the role of Colonel Alois Podhajsky, director of Vienna's famous Spanish Riding School and champion of the classic school of riding, is Robert Taylor, a top leading man and a star of the first magnitude for more than 25 years, who remains one of the most important actors of the motion picture and television screen.

His memorable roles include hits like "Magnificent Obsession," "Camille," "Waterloo Bridge," "Johnny Eager," "Quo Vadis," and "Ivanhoe."

Taylor returns to movie-making in the Walt Disney picture after three years of starring in his own television series. The part of the great Austrian equestrian is one of his most rewarding.

Starred opposite Taylor as the colonel's lovely and loving wife, Verena, is the talented and attractive European actress Lilli Palmer. Miss Palmer is also a familiar figure on Broadway, as well as numerous pictures, having starred in stage successes like "Caesar and Cleopatra," "The Love of Four Colonels," and "Bell, Book and Candle."

Some of her more recent screen roles include, "But Not For Me," "The Pleasure of His Company," and "The Counterfeit Trailor."

The other feature on the program which will play through Tuesday is "Bachelor Flat" with Tuesday Weld.

On Wednesday and Thursday, "Elephant Gun" and "Trapeze" will play.

On Friday and Saturday, "Lad, A Dog," and "Who's Got the Action," and "The Hanging Tree" will play.

Comedy Set For Ritz

"My Six Loves," the new Paramount comedy which opens Sunday at the Ritz Theatre, has something to amuse and entertain everybody. Starring popular Debbie Reynolds, this wholesome fun-film includes two handsome love interests (Cliff Robertson and David Janssen), a neurotic secretary (Eileen Heckart); a wacky cop (Jim Backus); six lovable kids ranging in age from five to twelve; and one of the friendliest, goofiest dogs ever to appear in a motion picture.

The plot revolves around a glamorous and successful musical-comedy star who co-appears from fatigue during a press conference arranged by her hot-shot press agent. Her doctor recommends a vacation, so she leaves the hustle and bustle of Broadway for the poetic charm and solitude of her Connecticut home.

However, all is not peaceful in the wilds of Connecticut. Debbie's housekeeper has grown accustomed to having the house all to herself and resents the presence of Debbie and her companion-secretary. The housekeeper's beautiful daughter is simply impossible. And then, while taking a stroll in her back yard, Debbie happens upon six homeless kids and the afore-mentioned mangy-looking dog.

Now the problems really start to pile up. Debbie wants to care for the kids, but who ever heard of a musical-comedy star with six adopted children? The younger, handsome, local person becomes interested in the kids and Debbie. Her wise-cracking agent keeps proposing marriage, and brings an avenged playwright to Connecticut to interest Debbie in his new play.

HAVING A BALL are Debbie Reynolds and Cliff Robertson in this scene from the new Technicolor comedy, "My Six Loves" opening Sunday at the Ritz Theatre. In the movie, Debbie adopts six kids while being romantically pursued by Cliff Robertson and David Janssen.

TABLE HOPPING

By Judy Turner

Armed Forces Day coming up this weekend, so have a good time celebrating . . . During the day there will be open house at the base, but to take up those afternoon and evening hours, here's what to do.

Wah even the governor and mayor in on the deal, it looks like this family bowling week at Jet Lanes should be a good thing. It runs May 27 through June 2, and works like this: If a family of four bowls three games each or 12 games, one member of the family pays the full price for each game. The others pay only half. That's nine games at half price. It is something the whole family can do and enjoy together instead of sitting in front of the TV. Sunday Sweeper this Sunday . . . $100 guaranteed first prize for the handicapped contest.

There's a tremendous new cook out at Jim Spencer's restaurant. . . he cuts quite a distinguished figure in his white apron broiling those delicious steaks. Of course it is not other than Jim himself, who has taken on the job and doing good work from all reports. One of those inch thick T-bones is so big it is hard to finish it at one sitting. So don't fill up on goodies beforehand, tasty as they are.

For real Italian cooking, including the best in spaghetti and pizza, you'll want to stop in at Mar Lou. Owner Marcle Williams has an Italian (by ancestry) cook, who has an authentic touch-learned from her grandmother. All the food is made right there "from scratch" and no prepared or frozen foods are used. Mar Lou also serves soups and seafoods, and of course the kitchen is open until 1:30 if you like late meals. In case you haven't noticed the sign in front, the Velvetones are playing there now, three nights a week.

Big weekend coming up at the Club Diamond . . . tonight they're having an "all you can eat," fish fry for only $1.25 . . . includes hush puppies, corn bread, baked beans, cole slaw, french fries and all you can eat of fresh water perch . . . hours 5 p. m. til 11 p. m. Then on Saturday night, for 65c you can have an entire spaghetti supper, complete with garlic bread, tossed salad and coffee or tea. From 5 p. m. til closing . . . Mrs. Palmer said she thought she'd bring her six kids (saw!) over for supper, suggests that you bring your family too.

Quite a nice breakfast crowd at the Caribe . . . the just waiting to mix up your favorite drink.

At the Capri, manager Joy Manross is being kept busy with the parties, lunches, different groups . . . all kinds from businessmen to bowlers to fraternity men . . . some of them even come from out of town to enjoy the Capri food and hospitality. They have swell facilities for these things out there, and if your group is thinking about a party or something of the sort, check into this. There's no charge for using the space, the food is excellent! the service is good and the prices are reasonable.

'Bums' Start Push To Top

By United Press International
What ever happened to all that dissension among the Los Angeles Dodgers?

Bosox Hot; Pesky Shoots For Top Mgr.

By United Press International
Some kids hope to grow up and become president, but one former shoeshine boy would much rather be named the American League's manager of the year.

And at the rate he's going, freshman manager Johnny Pesky of the first-place Boston Red Sox might make it.

Pesky delights in telling about his teenage days in the early '30s when he worked as a clubhouse boy for the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League.

"I used to polish the shoes and sharpen the spikes for guys like Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams, Mike Higgins and Frank Crosetti," the dark-eyed, 43-year old Red Sox skipper laughs.

That's all behind him now and so the rest of the American League.

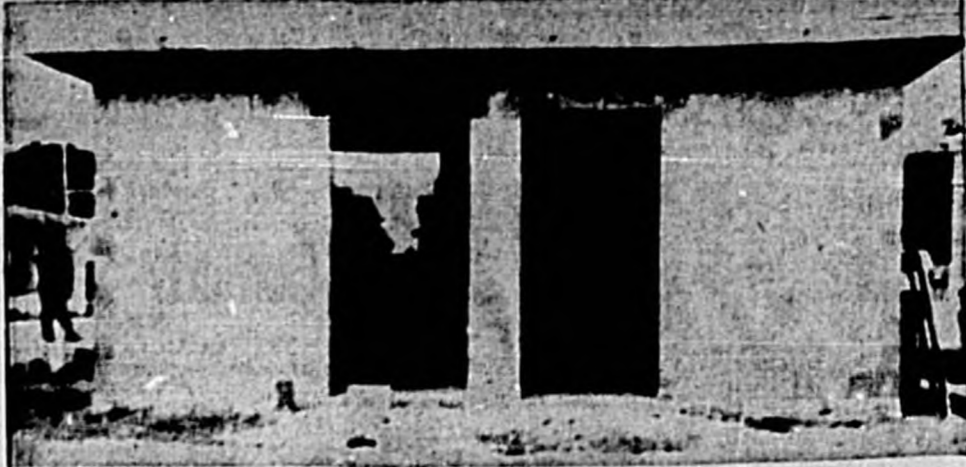

Pesky's red-hot Red Sox won their fifth straight game and took over the league lead Thursday by blanking the Los Angeles Angels 3-0 on Earl Wilson's two-hitter.

Wilson even contributed a 379-foot triple and a single in Boston's 10-hit attack against Dan Osnick, who usually relieves for the Angels but made his first major league start.

The Red Sox got to Osnick for all their runs in the first inning.

The Cleveland Indians knocked the Chicago White Sox out of first place with a 5-4 victory and the Baltimore Orioles battered the Washington Senators 9-1 in the only other AL games scheduled.

Max Albia's home off Jim Brosnan in the ninth inning gave the Indians their victory over the White Sox. John Buschardt started for Chicago and had a 2-1 lead until Joe Adcock's three-run double put the tribe ahead 4-2 in the eighth. Dave Nicholson's two-run double in the top of the ninth tied the score and set the stage for Albia's fourth homer. Pedro Ramos, Cleveland's third pitcher, was credited with his first victory.

Stone Leads Oklahoma Play

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Handsome Bob Stone, overcoming a shaky start, carried a one-stroke margin into today's second round of the $35,000 Oklahoma City Open.

Stone, a parttime touring professional from Junction City, Kan., shot a four-under-par 68 on the tough, windswept Quail Creek course to grab the lead.

SOME RANDOM NOTES ON HOW TO LOSE A $300,000 FACILITY OR MAYBE FRITO LAY WAS RIGHT ... PART 2 ... In the 40's a four lot piece of property was just a "dump" ... County handed it to the city ... City built three baseball diamonds on it ... County hung on reverter clause ... prep school wants property bringing in 200-250 youngsters ... County now says "we want 50 percent on everything you make on it ... End of deal ... End of school ... end of progress?"

Only three flags flying along First St. Saturday (Armed Forces Day).
Bob Brown (Zoning Director) hospitalized ... Get well, Bob.

Once in a while or two a newspaper gets itself involved in a human interest story. Such is the case with The Herald and a 17-year-old youth who had served two years at Marianna as an "incorrigible" and had been held ... repeat: had been held ... in jail for nearly three months on an auto theft charge. The young man's court-appointed attorney asked The Herald to tell the boy's plight. We did. Now, The Herald is happy to report this young man has been given a second chance. Without any knowledge whatsoever of The Herald's publicity in this matter, Circuit Judge Vassar Carlton released this young man last Friday into the custody of a Seminole County family with strict and dire warnings that "it is your last chance." The youth promised his attorney, The Herald, his sponsor and the judge. He is now on his own. We feel good about it ... and sincerely trust and hope this young man makes good. The Herald promises to keep in touch and will let you ... our readers ... know if he makes good.

In the few days that I was out of town the West First Street Improvement movement took another stride forward ... have you noticed that the eye-sore across the street from First Federal, just west of Bill Hemphill's, is gone? ... And there now is an attention-arresting asphalt parking space that Hemphill will use to display cars ... The project has been working for over a year ... Was a four party deal in which it was hard to get united thinking ... Congratulations, Bill!

But The Palms hotel still stands! ... and is occupied! ... And is condemned!!!
Truly the "Gateway to Downtown Sanford" this W. First Street should present an inviting appearance ... And little by little it is developing just that ... Needs cooperation of property owners and tenants ... Like in the Hemphill arrangement ... Then EVERYBODY benefits.

Let me see now, wasn't that Red Bug Road that is "falling apart" the one that was so hastily slapped down just before B. C. Dodd's service as County Commissioner expired?

Speaking of roads in our county, do you suppose there is any hope of straightening out and widening the "Old Orlando Road" from Ginder-ville to U. S. 17-92 at Five Points? ... Many, many accidents have occurred on this "snake trail" that is used a great deal by travelers going to and from the Naval Air Station ... And the Hunt plant ... Yeah, I know ... "Low traffic count doesn't justify it" ... But isn't it surprising how the traffic count goes up when a road becomes "pleasant driving"?

Out Del Mar way the story is that Flo Harris had a "hot prospect with a big pay roll" in tow ... Would make a splendid addition to our industrial picture ...
Final paving of 25th St. starts today.

Military Prep Academy Deal At Stalemate

Foundation Scores Official Indecision

Negotiations were at a stalemate today in the proposal to establish a military preparatory academy in Sanford and appeared to be a "dead issue."

While City and County Commission members were at an impasse, Chamber of Commerce officials, who commenced the negotiations, were "left out in the cold."

Chamber officials had promoted agreements from the MacFadden Foundation and the San Francisco Giants but City and County Commissions have not reached an agreement.

MacFadden Foundation, which supports the Castle Heights Military Academy, Lebanon, Tenn., had agreed to pay $375,000 for the 10-acre parcel of land between 8th St. and Celery Ave. on the east side of Mellonville. They emphasized that the land be used for recreation purposes. At that time the county taxes varied around $151 for all the property.

When the city took it over it was a dump. Under the direction of the City Commission and City Manager W. E. Knowles the land was fixed up, rejuvenated with over $300,000 in capital improvements made including three practice fields.

Now the city has a chance to bring a military school in the area to utilize the property. The County Commission concurs but wants 60 per cent of the purchase of the city land, plus 50 per cent of the city buildings and capital improvements.

The city won't swallow this. We will lose this school ... thanks to all this delay, petty bickering and such. Why can't the city and county work with the school and settle their problems afterwards like they did with the Hunt Co. problem.

Will our county and city commissioners bicker again when maybe the Board of Control says that two universities will be located in Seminole County.

When do we put the "Gimme" politics in the background and start thinking of Seminole County.

City Commissioners, in an informal meeting May 11, when they were apprised of these agreements, discussed for two hours the matter of price for the recreation area. It was a 1-3-1 discussion: One commissioner agreed to settle for $95,000 net, three wanted $100,000 and the fifth wanted $125,000. They agreed two Commissioners should go to New York to negotiate with the MacFadden interests.

But City Attorney William Hutchison apprised the Commissioners the city does not hold clear title to the 18-plus acres of the recreation area. Five-ninths of the site was turned over by the county to the city in 1949 as a recreation area, with a clause the property should revert to the county should it ever be used for other than recreation purposes. The county obtained this part of the 18-plus acres for $151 in a tax foreclosure Jan. 25, 1945.

It was learned today that the County Commission made an offer to the City Commission. The two groups separated. The City Commission returned with a counter-offer, that County Commission give a quit claim deed without a share of the sale proceeds. The County countered with a lower offer. This was rejected by the City. As one County Commissioner expressed it this morning, "We had the door slammed in our faces."

Further evidence that the school issue is "dead" was a telegram received by John Kridler, Manager of Seminole Chamber of Commerce from J. P. Wieggers, MacFadden Foundation chairman, reading: "Regret latest delay by Sanford officials. As we have lost valuable time for September school opening, under circumstances I cannot continue to recommend Sanford school site to our board due to your governmental indecision. Thanks for all your help."

However, Chamber officials are continuing in their efforts to salvage the deal. The Chamber executive committee named a board of arbitration to work with the City and County Commissions, this decision to be "final and accepted by members of the individual boards."

One arbitration board member — all requested their names be withheld pending a decision — expressed himself this morning: "I will serve on this arbitration committee ONLY and if the City and County Commission members agree beforehand to accept our decision as binding and final."

Gen. J. C. Hutchison, County Commission chairman, this morning said that he preferred one more effort at negotiations with the City Commission before the arbitration committee steps in. Mayor Tom McDonald said that "I have nothing to say."

Compromise Nearing On Appropriations

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—A compromise committee of legislators agreed to recommend a $964 million appropriations bill to the House floor today but support for the proposal was not unanimous.

The measure would cut proposed teacher pay raises $50 in each category and would delay placing the 75-25 plan for public school support into effect for one year in the coming biennium.

Rep. William O'Neill of Marion served notice he was opposed to portions of the measure and would attempt to remove them from the bill when it went to the House floor during an afternoon session.

The committee worked through the weekend, finally arriving at a figure of $978 million by this morning. But economy forces insisted on further cuts. A morning of informal wrangling in small groups resulted in the compromise proposal. Under the bill, school teachers would get the following raises: teachers on annual contract, $350 a year; teaching contract with 10 years experience, $550 annually.

The split in the committee, and an indication that some other members voted for the proposal only to get it out of committee, was an indication it might run into tough sledding on the floor.

The recommendation by the committee had no official standing as a committee report. But it was designed as an indication of what the several opposing factions in the House were willing to settle on.

It was a considerable reduction under the $1,031,000,000 bill the House was debating when it recessed Friday for the weekend. The committee's recommendation contained $915 million for operation of state agencies and $49 million for construction. It would require in the neighborhood of $130 million in new tax revenue.

Mishap Claims Apopka Man

HARRY LEO OHL, 63, of Apopka, injured in an automobile-truck collision May 10, died at 6:45 p.m. Sunday at Orange Memorial Hospital, Orlando. He was the 15th traffic fatality in Seminole County this year.

Ohl's automobile collided head-on with a truck driven by Perry P. Turlington, 54, Maitland, on West Highway 438 near Forest City, according to Trooper Bill Stringfield. Florida Sanitarium attaches today reported Turlington in "satisfactory" condition. He suffered fractures of both legs.

Born in Smithville, Ill., Ohl moved to Apopka two years ago after retirement as a locomotive engineer. He was a member of Ivanhoe Lodge of Masons, Chicago.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Ohl; Mrs. Nancy Ertzgaard, Orlando; two grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Anne Napier, Franklin Park, Ill., and a sister, Mrs. Nauila Sturna, Elmwood Park, Ill.

The body will be sent Tuesday by Garden Chapel Home for Funerals, Orlando, to Chicago for funeral and burial services.

'Fees' Bill Clears Session

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—A bill requiring all judges rather than juries to set attorneys' fees in condemnation suits for public highways cleared the legislature today.

The House gave 75-24 approval to the senate-passed bill after a lengthy debate over whether it would raise or lower lawyer's fees.

Reps. Louis De La Parte of Hillsborough and Osee Fagan of Alachua argued it would tend to lower attorney's fees, which in such cases are paid by the State Road Department. They said juries have no knowledge of the time spent by attorneys and just have to take their word for it.
