Mortgage rates lowest since 1973

WASHINGTON — Mortgage rates are lower than they have been in nearly two decades.

The average rate on 30-year mortgages fell to a 19-year low of 7.84 percent this week, down from 7.94 percent a week earlier, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported on Friday.

On Sept. 4, the Federal Reserve cut the federal funds rate — the rate charged among banks on overnight loans — to a 29-year low of 3 percent.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 5.15 percent, down from 5.24 percent last week and the lowest since the corporation began tracking ARMs in 1984.

A year ago, 30-year mortgages averaged 9.02 percent and one-year mortgages were going for 6.87 percent.

Correction

In a caption that accompanied a photo published last week in the Sanford Herald, three young ladies who couldn't take their eyes off Keelan, an Elvis impersonator who performed at Flea World recently, were misidentified. Regina Ryder and Kristy Newberry couldn't keep their eyes off Keelan. Kristy Lint received an autographed picture and a teddy bear from Keelan during the show. She was seen squealing with excitement in the photo.

Barkett's ouster sought

Law enforcement officials oppose Justice's retention

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sheriff Don Ealinger said Florida Supreme Court Chief Justice Rosemary Barkett should not be retained because she is anti law enforcement.

"I don't support her retention," Ealinger said last week. "Some of her decisions are inconsistent with support for law enforcement."

Ealinger's name was included in a list of 95 names of law enforcement officials and officers opposing Barkett's retention released last week by the Citizens for a Responsible Judiciary, a Tallahassee-based organization which is seeking the ouster of Barkett.

Other central Florida signees include Casselberry Police Chief Durbin Gatch, Volusia County State Attorney John Tanner and Orange County State Attorney Lawson Lamar.

SANFORD — A special traveling exhibit on wildlife trade opened Saturday at the Central Florida Zoological Park. The exhibit is called, "Cargo to Extinction."

"What we are doing is showing the terrible loss the world is undergoing through the slaughter of animals on the endangered species list," said Zoo public relations manager Andrea Farmer.

Sponsored by the World Wildlife Fund, the display features items that were imported illegally into the United States, and confiscated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

SANFORD — The crowds were small at the Central Florida Zoo despite the special Grandparents Day celebration on Saturday.

Those who were there, however, were having a lot of fun.

Bette Linden of Jacksonville came to the zoo at the invitation of her daughter Lynette Simpson, 9, of Orlando.

"She called and asked me if I wanted to come down and spend Grandmothers Day with her and go to the zoo with her," Linden said. "I hadn't been to a zoo since I was a kid. I think we'll come back here again when I come to visit."

The zoo had a variety of activities and other things planned for the grandparents who came, including special tours and gifts of posters.

School shooting spurs leaders to change policies

By VICKI BOEDINGER

SANFORD — At their next meeting to be held later this month Supt. Paul Hagerty will probably ask secondary school principals to help him define the schools' responsibilities in educating students who are chronic disciplinary problems.

Hagerty said Friday that the changes probably won't take place until next year, but he believes the principals need to start working on a solution now.

Gretchen Schapker, principal of Seminole High School in Sanford, agrees.

"It is something that is a problem at all the schools," said Schapker. "A solution has to be found."

Schapker said that the need for a solution to the problem was driven home at her school last Friday morning when a student brought a sawed-off shotgun to school and another student was injured when the gun was accidentally fired.

Cardinal units resist hurricane

Good morning! Ready to go "Way Back When?" I'm not taking you too far back today. Right off the bat I want to give you a report on a question at least a dozen people have called me about. And, I know many more folks have wondered about the same thing since Hurricane Andrew slammed into south Florida.

It isn't necessary for you to be an old timer to remember the thousands upon thousands of modular housing units manufactured on an assembly line by Cardinal Industries you saw leaving Sanford and going to every area of Florida from Pensacola to the Keys. At destinations the "boxes," as many called them, were assembled into apartment developments or into Knights Inn motels.

WAY BACK WHEN

Hundreds upon hundreds of these Cardinal modular units went to south Miami, Cutler Ridge and Florida City. Since the modules were built according to state build-

Sanford strip mall rezoning issue back for consideration

SANFORD — An effort to have property rezoned for commercial businesses across from the Sanford Middle School, will be back for consideration before the Sanford City Commission Monday.

The item was postponed at the applicants request during the Aug. 24 Commission meeting but a group of residents near the area were allowed to speak in opposition to the request.

ing code and inspected by the State of Florida, the question all of us had is this: How did these factory-built modules fare against the force of Andrew's 165 mph winds?

Folks, the verdict is in! The Royal Palm Apartment complex in Florida City, developed with Cardinal modules, is still there, still standing on the foundations.

When Cardinal began the production of modular apartment and motel units back in 1976, after spending almost two years tooling up the former H.L. Hunt canning plant at Sanford Avenue and Silver Lake Drive, Cardinal ran into some stiff opposition in both Dade and Broward counties. Of Florida's 67 counties 65 used structural regulations based on the Southern Standard Building Code.

Officials of those two counties were bound and determined that no factory-built modular apartment and motel units would ever be used in their respective areas.

Finally, State of Florida officials, mandated by the Legislature to enforce the Florida Factory-Built Housing Act of 1971, informed Dade and Broward building officials that if they did not choose to approve Cardinal's plans and specifications for apartment and motel developments the state would simply do it for them.

At last, Dade and Broward officials bowed to the state's authority and issued permits for Cardinal to proceed with developments.

You might be interested to know, if you didn't read about it in the newspapers at that time, one Broward County municipality, Margate, after Cardinal had submitted plans and specs for permits, proceeded to change its minimum square footage requirements. In doing so, the city's planning and zoning board and the city council figured this would stop Cardinal in its tracks.

To make a long story short, Margate tried to change the rules in the middle of the game. It turned out to be a costly kettle of fish for Margate taxpayers. Cardinal sued the City of Margate for a tidy $6 million. It was filed with a circuit court judge. After considerable delay, he flatly told the two sides to work out the problem between them.

They did. As a result, the out-of-court settlement Margate paid Cardinal $3 million and agreed to let the company develop whatever it wanted in that municipality under the old minimum square footage requirements.

However, I don't believe Cardinal ever developed a project within Margate's city limits because of the Federal Tax Reform Act of 1986. This did away with tax shelters. This action by the Congress in effect clipped Cardinal's "wings" and without tax shelters the redbird could no longer fly.

By the end of 1988 it was clear Cardinal was headed for bankruptcy.

Cardinal was owned and managed by Austin E. Guirlinger. He's now a resident of Winter Park. He got into the factory-built modular housing business in 1971 with an 80,000 square-foot factory in Columbus, Ohio. In 1974 he purchased the 120,000 square foot Hunt plant in Sanford to serve Florida and south Georgia. Then he opened a 120,000 square-foot factory in Atlanta. He followed that with another Columbus plant, this time with 260,000 square feet. In 1985, he opened a 240,000 square foot factory in Baltimore.

The company was planning a new 260,000 square foot plant in Sanford and had purchased a 50-acre site for a plant in Dallas. Plans were also on the drawing board for two manufacturing plants in California, another in Phoenix and possibly one in Iowa to serve the Chicago and far Midwestern area. I recall the day the Iowa governor was in Sanford to lobby Guirlinger for the plant.

Cardinal was destined to become the General Motors of the housing industry. It did $47 million worth of business in 1974 but in 1988 it had exceeded $600 million. The Sanford plant had some 800 employees. Cardinal's total number of employees exceeded 10,000.

Guirlinger is no longer a principal in Cardinal Industries. The company is slated to come out of bankruptcy late this year. But it will survive only as a property management firm.

Guirlinger says he stays busy managing many of the apartment and motel projects in which he has a vested interest. His rise in the housing industry is nothing less than a Horatio Alger story. I'll share it with you at a later date.

For now I wanted you folks to know that those Cardinal modules manufactured in Sanford were as sturdy or, in fact, sturdier than even Guirlinger said they would be. The State of Florida said they would withstand 120 mph winds. Well, they did better than that. They withstood the force of Andrew's 165 mph winds.

Editor's note: "Way Back When" columnist Julian Stenstrom served as Cardinal's public relations director from 1974 until 1983 when he became director of governmental relations until operations ceased in late 1988.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Substitute teachers' pay cut

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Some substitute teachers were surprised when they opened their paychecks last week.

"There was 30 percent less than I expected," Debra Abulhosen told the school board at a recent meeting. "I was stunned."

Abulhosen said she is not alone in her surprise about the decrease in pay since last year.

The cut in pay for substitute teachers was made in order to maintain the level of pay for full-time teachers despite the lack of money available in the proposed 1992-93 budget.

The decrease in substitute pay, as well as no increases in pay for full-time teachers above the annual increment, are a point of disagreement between the district and the teachers' union in negotiations which are continuing through a mediator.

The district cut $560,000 from the substitute teacher budget.

There was 30 percent less than I expected. I was stunned. I'm not just babysitting for the regular teacher.

-Debra Abulhosen, substitute teacher

Betsy Chriswell said that substitute teachers are not "babysitters."

She said, "When I'm a substitute I go in early, I make the lesson plans and I study what I have to teach. I'm not just baby sitting for the regular teacher."

Despite coverage in the news media and notices posted at each school, Abulhosen said she was never made aware that her income would be cut.

"Why wasn't I called and told that this was going to be discussed at a meeting so I could have come to speak about it?" she asked.

Owen McCarron, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said that information was disseminated at schools and discussed at several board meetings before the decision was made.

Still, an additional memo was sent to principals yesterday, asking them to make substitute teachers aware of the cut.

Chriwell said that only one Central Florida district pays its substitute teachers less than Seminole County. She said that while Volusia County only pays its substitutes $35 per day, Seminole County is not far ahead with a daily pay of $37.86.

The next scheduled pay day for substitute teachers here is next Friday.

Abulhosen said she is finishing up her associates degree at Seminole Community College and had planned to go on to the University of Central Florida to major in education.

"I don't know if I can do that now," she said.

Florida City tells others to stay out

By GEORGE ESPEY
AP Special Correspondent

FLORIDA CITY, Fla. — This small farm town junked by Hurricane Andrew told outsiders Saturday to get out of its 720-bed tent city to make room for residents whose splintered homes are being condemned.

Contractors and relief volunteers who checked in for the free room, board, showers and entertainment must leave by Sunday morning to make room for the newly homeless, City Manager Richard Anderson said.

"This was a small town with few resources. It has been flooded with people that it doesn't have electricity, road space or a service industry to accommodate," he said.

The town (pop. 8,000) says most residents in the family tents are locals; most of the single women are local; but approximately half the single men are from out of town trying to find jobs.

"Across the nation there is a rumor that people can find high-paying construction jobs in the area. This is not the case," Anderson said.

times, we are here to encourage and allow them the opportunity to just "Say you can."

As adults and Christians, the importance of listening is as important as verbal input and education.

"Communication is the key to positive human relations," Jones said. "We are here to promote self confidence and emphasize the positive."

Each of the speakers of the event were assigned a specific subject to portray the theme of "Praying With Urgency."

Deacon Raymond Gaines, of

St. John M.B. Church, Sanford, spoke on "The Time to Pray."

"The urgency of prayer is now," according to Gaines. "Pray for the nation and for its state of turmoil with drugs, AIDS, corruption and the state of the economy."

"The Spiritual Condition of Those who Pray" was the subject of Sister Rashia Sherman of New Life Word Center, Sanford.

And finally the keynote speaker, Brother Terrance Oliver, youth pastor of St. John M.B. Church in Orlando, and a former resident of Sanford, brought the theme itself to life.

Shuttle flies high, makes history

By MARGIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Endeavour roared into orbit Saturday with a slew of animals and a history-making crew: first married couple in space, first black woman in space and first Japanese to fly on a U.S. spaceship.

"I gotta tell ya, this is a great way to commute to work," astronaut Jay Apt gushed two hours into the flight.

Vice President Dan Quayle, head of the National Space Council, was among some 15,000 visitors at Kennedy Space Center who witnessed NASA's 50th shuttle launch. He was accompanied by his wife, Marilyn, and two of his children, Benjamin and Corinne.

"On behalf of the president and all Americans, we just wish you and your crew good luck and Godspeed," Quayle told the astronauts minutes before liftoff. "We know it's going to be great."

"We very much appreciate your support," replied shuttle commander Robert "Hoot" Gibson.

Endeavour rose from its seaside pad at 10:23 a.m. The shuttle left a crooked, white trail of vapor as it arced over the Atlantic Ocean and headed up along the East Coast on its way to space.

Packed securely in the shuttle were two fish, four frogs, 180 hornets, 7,600 flies and 30 fertilized chicken eggs, the prime subjects of the laboratory research mission.

It was the first time since 1985 that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration launched a shuttle on the appointed day at the appointed moment.

"What a fabulous day," said shuttle deputy director Brewster Shaw, an ex-astronaut who commanded the punctual 1985 launch. "We had an on-time launch, a very clean countdown, and we now have seven individuals on orbit and a healthy machine."

Added launch director Bob Sieck: "It's a good reward for the team."

Once Endeavour was settled in its 187-mile-high orbit, payload commander Mark Lee began powering up Spacelab, the bus-sized laboratory module in the cargo bay that's connected to the crew cabin by a tunnel.

Lee was the first one to float into the laboratory, followed by Japanese nuclear scientist Mamoru Mohri.

Astronaut Jan Davis, Lee's wife, was back in the cabin getting ready to go to sleep, as was Mae Jemison, NASA's first and only black female astronaut.

Lee and Davis are working opposite 12-hour shifts during the seven-day mission. Lee joked before the flight that he'd probably see more of Davis if he stayed behind and watched shuttle video beamed down to Mission Control.

The two fell in love while training for the mission and got married in January 1991. After a few months of fretting, NASA made an exception to its policy barring husbands and wives from flying in space together.

POLICE BRIEFS

Suspended license brings arrest

James E. Foy, 21, 123 Lyndhurst Dr., Longwood, was charged with driving with a suspended driver's license when he was arrested by Longwood Police on Thursday morning.

Police said they stopped Foy for driving a vehicle with a cracked windshield.

A computer check of his driver's license revealed that it had been suspended eight times. Six times it was suspended for failure to pay fines, once it was suspended for financial responsibility and the final time it was suspended for accumulating 12 points within 12 months.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held in lieu of $100 bond.

DUI charged

Larry Lynn Cuddy, 35, 107 Airport Blvd., Sanford, was charged with DUI and driving with a suspended license when he was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's officers on Friday.

Deputies said that Cuddy was an "impaired driver". He told deputies that his name was Johnny L. Dikeman, they said. They said he had a strong odor of alcohol. He told the deputies that he was drunk, they said.

A woman in the house where he had stopped his car, identified him as Cuddy, deputies said. A computer check of that identity revealed "a lengthy list" of suspensions, including six for DUI, police said.

Cuddy still maintains his name is Dikeman, deputies said. He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held in lieu of $500 bond.

Domestic violence alleged Chanthavone Saysavanh, 29, 3900 West State Road 46, Apt. 3, Sanford, was charged with battery and domestic violence when he was arrested on Thursday by Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said that Saysavanh punched and kicked his girlfriend in the face and foot during an argument. They said she had a bruise on her eye and her foot.

Saysavanh was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $1,000 bond.

Drug charges filed

Shawn Lamar James, 21, 19 Castle Brewer Ct., Sanford, was charged with the sale and delivery of crack cocaine when he was arrested by Sanford Police officers on Thursday night.

Police said they were operating an undercover operation at 6th Street and Olive Avenue in Sanford. They said James sold an agent 20 grams of suspected cocaine. The suspected cocaine tested positive.

Police said they arrested James nearby and found more cocaine and $75 in cash on him.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $5,000 bond.

Drug sale alleged

Daniel Seymour, 32, 706 1/2 Maple Ave., Sanford, was charged with the sale and delivery of crack cocaine when he was arrested by Sanford Police officers on Thursday.

Police said they were operating an undercover operation in the area of 11th Street and Maple Avenue.

They said he sold officers a quantity of suspected cocaine for $30. A presumptive test of the substance proved positive.

He was arrested a short distance away. Police said they found the serialized currency which they had used to purchase the drugs from him on his person when he was arrested.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Warrant arrests

Jimmy Clifford Anderson, 35, 710 Baywood Cir., Sanford, was charged in connection with a Hillsborough County warrant charging him with driving with a suspended driver's license. He was held on $500 bond at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Frank Lee Davis Jr., 38, 432 N. Sundance Dr., Lake Mary, was charged in connection with a Seminole County warrant charging him with obtaining property with a worthless check. He was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $1,000 bond.

Jill Raeann Bojan, 28, 1473 N. Highway 427, Longwood, was charged in connection with a Seminole County warrant charging her with attaching a tag not assigned to her vehicle. She was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $75 bond.

Connie Floyd, 34, 1981 Sipes Ave., Sanford, was charged in connection with a Seminole County warrant charging her with violating the terms of her parole on charges of possession of a controlled substance. She was held on $2,000 bond.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

Tires and rims were reportedly stolen from a boat trailer Thursday or Friday, parked at Nichols Outboard Service Center, 1000 W. First Street in Sanford. Mitch Colgate, was listed as the owner of the trailer.

A window air conditioner was reported stolen Friday from the home of Andrew Jackson, 1111 W. 9th Street in Sanford.

SANFORD — A trio of Sanford Police officers will be taking part in competitions in Washington, D.C. this week.

Yoscha, Jammer and Karos will be looking for drugs, finding alleged criminals and protecting their partners as part of the National Police K-9 Trials.

The three officers are dogs. "They are highly trained police officers," Chief Steve Harriett said on Friday.

He said that the three animals would be displaying their skills in the full spectrum of police work.

"We should take a lot of pride here in Sanford that we have one of the premier canine units in the nation," Harriett said.

He added that officers Ned Golden, Bill Wixon and Mike Ansley work hard at training and caring for their canine partners.

Golden works with Yoscha. Wixon is teamed with Jammer and Karos and Ansley are partners.

Inspectors probe 900 numbers

By Associated Press

TAMPA — A fraud investigation is being conducted in connection with companies and individuals involved with 900 numbers, a U.S. postal inspector said.

Inspector Connie Waterer said the probe began Wednesday when search warrants and subpoenas were served to three Tampa Bay area communications businesses.

The companies were identified as Alternative Communications & Technologies Inc. of Tampa and Inbound Communications in Tampa and St. Petersburg.

Warrants and affidavits detailing why investigators believe crimes may have been committed remain sealed. No charges have been filed.

"We're looking into 20 to 30 companies and individuals using 900 numbers," Waterer said. "Some of the 900 numbers are coined as 'phone sex.' We don't know what the girls said and we don't care."

What's being investigated is the way company finances are conducted, Waterer said.

Waterer, who is based in Tampa, refused to elaborate, saying the investigation continues and is expected to last two or three months.

The inquiry began about three months ago when postal inspectors noticed postcards featuring a bikini-clad woman and advertising 900 numbers, Waterer said. On each card was a Panama bulk mail permit, indicating postage was paid in Panama.

It started postal inspectors wondering since international postage rates are higher than rates in the United States, Waterer said.

The permit numbers on the cards turned out to be phony, she said.

"We traced it down and found out that there was no postage paid on these cards."

Waterer said inspectors don't know how many cards were mailed or for how long. The FBI is assisting postal inspectors with the investigation, she said.

As part of the investigation, AC&T was served a search warrant and subpoena for records pertaining to eight of its customers, said Dan Johnson, president of operations for AC&T.

The company processes 800-number and 900-number telephone calls on a contract basis for customers. A customer can be a company or an individual, Johnson said.

The calls are processed by an automated computer and telephone equipment. In some cases, calls are redirected to other locations specified by the client.

Johnson said company policy prohibited him from naming the eight customers. He said AC&T is not named in the search warrant.

Inbound Communications in St. Petersburg declined comment Friday. Repeated telephone calls Friday weren't answered at Tampa business.

Harriett added that the United States Police K-9 Association will be picking up the tab for the officers and their dogs while they are in Washington, D.C.

"I think that is a pretty big honor," Harriett said.

Yoscha, Jammer and Karos were selected as the top three police dogs in the state of Florida in competition in late July, Harriett said.

Because the Sanford team members were the state's top winners, the USPCA will pay the officers a per diem for themselves and the dogs during their stay in the nation's capitol. The Sanford Police Department must pay for the fuel for the trip.

The officers must bring their cars as the vehicles are used in competition.

The state competition is a part of the state certification process, he said.

"All three of our dogs are about equal and they're all three among the best," Harriett noted.

Harriett said that the finals in the trials will be held at the White House at the end of next week.

Last year, Yoscha took second place in the national competition. First place was won by a canine and his partner from the Cincinnati Police Department.

While the Sanford canine officers and the dogs are competing in Washington next week, units from the Seminole County Sheriff's Office will cover for them here.

"We have a mutual aid agreement with them," Harriett said. "While they were on duty in South Florida, we covered for them here."

Cops: Kids dead in house fire after sitter locked out

By Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG — A 5-year-old playing with matches started a fire that claimed the lives of three young children while the babysitter was locked out of the apartment, police said.

The children, ranging in age from 18 months to 8 years, died of smoke inhalation in a back bedroom where the oldest had the matches, fire officials said.

A police statement said the 18-year-old sitter was locked out of the downstairs apartment in the two-story cinderblock house.

"It was awful," said neighbor Carolyn Douglas. "It happened so fast."

The children were left home Friday night while their mothers went shopping to buy things for one of the youngster's birthdays, said a friend of the family who asked not to be identified.

The victims were identified as Christopher Miller, 3; his 18-month-old sister Leasia Blair and Willie Clinton Jr., 8.

Before firefighters arrived, neighbor Tony Bukowski tried to douse the fast-spreading flames with a garden hose. Another man tried unsuccessfully to kick in the door.

Someone yelled to the children to lie on the floor where the smoke would be less dense, Douglas said.

Jailer faces suspension after ordering inmate strip searches

By Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — A corrections officer faces a 45-day suspension on charges she ordered a strip search of female inmates in front of male officers.

Sheriff Jim McMillan will decide soon if Sgt. Shelly L. Thies, 34, should serve the suspension after an internal investigation found that she ordered the improper search and then lied about it to a superior officer.

Investigators also found that Sgt. Thies offered her autograph to another sergeant because of the publicity about the incident and that she tried to coach male corrections officers about what to tell internal investigators, a report states.

Sheriff's Office policy states that strip searches are to be conducted in private by officers of the same sex. It also condemns false statements about incidents.

Andrew's lesson

Hurricane Andrew seems to indicate once again that the federal government is not prepared to deal with a large natural disaster. The victims in Florida and Louisiana deserved better. And so does everyone who may someday be victimized by flood, earthquake, wildfire, tornado or hurricane. Andrew is just the latest example of mismanagement.

Despite ample warning, federal officials initially came with too little too late. Andrew swept through South Florida before dawn on a Monday; the president followed with a whirlwind visit and photo-op that very afternoon. But the real federal help, the big C-5 transport planes carrying everything from field kitchens to medical supplies, bulldozers to tents did not begin arriving until Friday.

The Pentagon says federal troops with relief supplies were ready to roll as soon as the hurricane passed but no one gave the order. Why not?

For days, victims stumbled about in the confusion, many of them without food, water or shelter. The frustrated head of emergency relief for Dade County, Kate Hale, charged that federal efforts were too slow and plagued by politics.

"Where the hell's the cavalry on this one?" she asked. Headlines in the Miami Herald screamed angrily: "WE NEED HELP!"

That's changed somewhat. The relief effort now is nothing short of massive. Food, clothing, tools and money from private and government organizations are pouring into South Florida and Louisiana.

But is the aid getting to the victims? Because of poor coordination, donated food is rotting in the sun, and clothing is being abandoned in mud and rain while organizers try to match needs with people and move supplies through clogged streets.

Given that this may have been the worst natural calamity in modern American history - some confusion and delay is inevitable. But each recent disaster - Hurricane Hugo, the Loma Prieta earthquake and now Andrew - seems to prove again that something isn't working.

The nation has a whole federal bureaucracy, the Federal Emergency Management Agency, that is supposed to plan and coordinate relief in such disasters. But in recent years, FEMA seems to have made as many headlines with its own internal boondoggles as it has with emergency relief.

For everybody's sake, Congress and the administration ought to make certain it doesn't happen again.

Man holds the integrity of creation

It was in 1983 that the World Council of Churches adopted the overall theme "Justice, Peace and the Integrity of Creation," for the next decade. 1993 will be the tenth year since this pronouncement and the problems relating to our stewardship of this planet have not diminished but intensified.

Douglas John Hall in his book "The Steward: A Biblical Symbol Comes of Age," issues some thought provoking challenges for our consideration. He contends that human beings are responsible for the integrity of creation. God created man and gave him dominion over the earth and all things.

Justice, peace and the integrity of creation seems more difficult to achieve as man advances technologically. In the period between 1946 and 1988 there have been no less than 130 wars. These wars occurred notwithstanding the fact this was allegedly the "peace through strength era."

Hall discusses the following terms in his book: Globalization, communalization, ecologation and futurization.

Globalization suggests that all nations comprise one world and that our destinies are inextricably entwined. Dr. Bob McClure made this analogy. It is folly for First and Second World people to look upon those in steage. "It seems your part of the ship is sinking." We are reminded that there are no national borders that are observed by acid rain or fallout from nuclear accidents.

REGULAR OPINION

Communalization requires adopting a cooperative rather than competitive operational mode. Cooperation rather than exploitation would form the cornerstone of world-wide relations. Natural and man-made disasters speak to the need for human solidarity. In spite of its imperfections the United Nations is a prime example of a united effort to cooperate.

Ecologation realizes that the expanding extinction of various species of plant and animal life coupled with the pollution of land, lakes, streams, seas and oceans severely disturbs nature's ecological balance. Disturbance of this balance foretells disaster for humanity. Maintaining and preserving the eco-system should be one of our primary priorities. The notion that the system exists for human consumption and aggrandizement must be abandoned.

Futurization calls for planning ahead rather than a "living for today" orientation. Planning for the quality of life on earth for future generations needs our immediate attention. Particularly when we consider that two-thirds of the human family live in poverty so stark that "life in all of its fullness" is non-existent. They are: the hungry, the homeless, those without medical care, without clean water to drink and without work. Seventy-five percent of the 38 lowest income countries have no access to safe water.

There are so many things that we who live in America take for granted and clean water to drink is certainly one of them. The message emanating from Hall's book loudly and clearly is that we live in an interdependent world of complex relationships for which we bear responsibility. According to Dr. Premen Niles, we need a "new lifestyle based upon stewardship and compassion rather than mastery and exploitation."

GEORGE PLAGENZ

We're to blame for family values

No matter which party you think is making the best case for "family values" in the 1992 campaign, will you agree with me on this? It is neither the Republicans nor the Democrats, but you and I, who have brought family values down to their present low estate.

And will you agree with me that it is you and I - not Bush or Clinton (or Quayle) - who must put family values back on the pedestal from which they have fallen?

Neither can we blame the present crisis in the family on ignorance. The wisdom to make the right choice was there all along and ours for the asking.

We were taken in by the purveyors of the new morality and by those who ridiculed the idea of a lifelong, monogamous marriage. But it isn't as if there weren't plenty of intelligent people around who were warning us against being dupes. The result of our refusal to listen to them was the breakdown of the family.

In an article in the Living Church, an Episcopal publication, H.E. Baber, a professor of philosophy, says:

"Staying together for the sake of the children was roundly condemned by many child-rearing experts on the grounds that growing up in a loveless household was far worse than living in the bosom of a blended family of step-parents, step-siblings and half-siblings."

Only now, in the late 1990s, says Baber, "has it become apparent to us that this was simply false."

Of course it was apparent to some all along, including David Goodman, the child psychologist and marriage counselor and author of "A Parents' Guide to the Emotional Needs of Children."

In my years as a radio broadcaster in Boston in the 1960s, I would quote Goodman to my listeners with regularity.

In his book, Goodman remarks how often a husband or wife, weary of contending with a loveless or incompatible mate, will ask a counselor, "Would it matter much to my children if we got a divorce?"

What these parents want to hear, says Goodman, is "No, it wouldn't really matter. Go ahead with your divorce. Your children will get over it."

But the wise counselor won't tell them this, says Goodman, because he has seen "too many of these children putting up a brave front of sophistication but never really losing the look of irremediable grief in their eyes."

Goodman says that "nothing you can give a divorce-orphaned child can make up to him what he has forever lost. Down deep he knows his parents have rejected him despite their assurances that 'Mommie and Daddy both love you very much.' He knows they did not think enough of him to reconcile their differences and make a marriage - and a home for him."

Armand Nicholi, a psychiatrist on the faculty of the Harvard Medical School and on the staff of Massachusetts General Hospital, is another who spoke out against "the fractured family" when there was still time to halt the trend. We ignored him, too.

Here is Nicholi speaking to us in 1979 in an article in Christianity Today magazine: "Parents today often resent children because they interfere with their fulfillment." If a woman of 25 with two children two years apart gives full time to rearing them until they are 18, this leaves her two-thirds of her adult life to follow whatever interest she desires. Is this too great a sacrifice?"

The fault, dear reader, is not in our government but in ourselves that we are in our present predicament with the family.

We were taken in by the purveyors of the new morality.

Quayle's white-collar 'Horton'

WASHINGTON - Had Michael Dukakis known that then-Sen. Dan Quayle had interceded with the Justice Department on behalf of a federal convict and Indiana GOP supporter in July 1988, he might have had a white-collar version of Willie Horton to hurl back at Republicans.

A month before pegging Dukakis as a soft-on-crime liberal, Quayle fired off a letter to Justice on behalf of Stephen Goot.

Goot had been convicted in March 1988 of racketeering and conspiracy charges in connection with a six-year federal undercover investigation into local court corruption. He was sentenced the following June to 20 years in prison for his role in fixing drunk driving tickets with a former local prosecutor.

Dated July 7, 1988, and marked "RUSH REQUEST/IMMEDIATE ACTION," the letter we obtained shows Quayle asking that Goot be assigned to a minimum-security prison because "there is a concern for his physical safety if he is not assigned to a penitentiary with other 'white-collar' criminals."

Twelve days later Goot was moved from a detention center in Chicago to a minimum-security federal prison camp in Duluth, Minn. - once dubbed "Club Fed" for its country club comforts, at least by penal standards. Goot believes that without Quayle's intervention he would have ended up in a much harsher medium security prison.

Goot also believes that Quayle and others had "written letters and were supportive of my character." But Goot strongly disputes any notion that his life was in danger in prison, which was the very reason on which Quayle pressed Justice. He seemed surprised when informed that the letter suggested otherwise.

"There was never a threat against my life ... not at all," Goot told us. "I don't think there was anybody who ever thought there was."

"I don't remember it and nobody I could find remembers it," Quayle Communications Director Jeff Nesbit said. "It was probably handled at the staff level." Nesbit, who previously served as Quayle's Senate spokesman, said he couldn't recall other cases where Quayle sought similar prison transfers.

Justice wrote Quayle back on Aug. 23, 1988, stating that Goot had been transferred because it was the Bureau of Prisons mission to "provide a safe and humane environment for individuals placed in their care." But one congressional source familiar with prisoners' assistance requests said that in respect to the Quayle letter, "it's fair to say this goes beyond ordinary practice for a Senate office."

Goot, who describes himself as a former Quayle fund-raiser and contributor in his two Senate drives and was long active in Indiana Republican politics, says he feels grateful for Quayle's help, and has even thought about dropping him a note of thanks over the years. "I had met him (Quayle) during his senatorial campaign," Goot recalls. "I just helped raise some money for him. I was asked to help support him by local Republicans."

Still, when word of his transfer reached his Chicago prison cell in July 1988, Goot was greatly relieved. "The place I was at in Minnesota (the minimum-security prison) had no fence," he says. "Anybody could walk away from that facility at any time ... the less secure the institution, the more comfortable, the less violent the people you're dealing with. It was a psychological difference probably more than anything."

In his letter, Quayle said he was responding to a letter he received on Goot's behalf from another constituent.

French Avenue, across from the school, and between 15th Street and 18th Street. It is presently owned by the Seminole County School Board.

Richard Hardwick, Tidewater Enterprises, Inc., Clearwater, has requested the property be rezoned from SR-1A, single family residential, to GC-2, general commercial.

He had previously indicated he intends to build a strip shopping center and had received a letter of intent from Eckerd Drugs, as well as having been in discussion for other stores with Block Buster Video and Dunkin' Donuts.

The City's Planning and Zoning board turned down the request by a four to one vote during an August 6 meeting. Hardwick then requested the City Commission consider overturning the P&Z decision.

A number of nearby homeowners turned out for the public hearing during the Aug. 24 City Commission meeting. Hardwick however, had requested the matter be tabled, to allow him more time in which to add more information to his presentation.

"With this many people on hand," Mayor Bettye Smith said, "I think they should be allowed to voice their opinions." Citizens then stepped forward to appeal for the Commission's denial of the application.

Betsy Phillips of 423 W. 18th Street said, "People who come in to Sanford already see French Avenue as trash. I don't see how this is going to help."

Sylvia Smith, 425 W. 18th Street said, "Our neighborhood just does not want this commercial development."

Hardwick has not revealed what additional items he plans to make in his presentation during Monday night's meeting.

In August, the Commission members were split over the decision. Commissioner Lon Howell at one point made a motion to deny the request for the rezoning, but it died due to the lack of a second.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan had indicated he did not want to dictate where a person could build a commercial development. "But I don't want to see this particular concept destroy this neighborhood," he added, "and I'm not in favor of it as proposed here."

The matter has been scheduled for the regular meeting of the Sanford City Commission Monday night, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Commission chambers of the Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Shooting

Lameka Harris, who was shot in the knee in the incident was released from the hospital on Saturday, the day after the shooting.

Her boyfriend Derrick Gordon, who had brought the weapon to school, was arrested Friday afternoon.

Thursday afternoon, he appeared before Judge O.H. Eaton in a courtroom at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. At that time bond was set at $2,000 and arraignment was set for Sept. 29 at 8 a.m.

Gordon, who Seminole High dean of students Lamarr Richardson described as having "some disciplinary problems", has no record of other arrests, a check of criminal records revealed. Harris had no arrest record either.

Richardson would not reveal the nature of the disciplinary problems Gordon had had. Schapker did not return calls on the matter.

According to Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett, if Gordon is convicted of possession of a sawed-off shotgun, Gordon faces a mandatory sentence of five years in jail.

Schapker said that, in the meantime, he will be recommended for expulsion from school at the next school board hearings in two weeks.

"We have already started those proceedings," Schapker said.

Harris is not being disciplined for the incident, Schapker said.

Schapker said that she supports Hagerty's recommendation to find a solution to the problem of students convicted of felonies returning to the classroom.

"We have to take it slowly, though," she said. "It has to be thought through."

Schapker said that there are many legal implications that must be considered before such a policy could be put into place.

"We've got to put our heads together on this one and see if we can find a solution to this problem," she said.

Schapker said she believes that disruptive students and students who are convicted of a crime should be either expelled or placed into some sort of "alternative" learning center.

Students who are expelled from Seminole County public schools can complete their high school education, after they turn 18, at the Seminole Community College adult high school.

Schapker said that she is unhappy that the shooting incident had to take place at Seminole High last Friday, but she hopes that it will help "put some teeth" into the move to implement a positive policy change.

Barkett

The organization cited their own statistics which showed that of 270 decisions on 221 cases, Barkett voted "against law enforcement" "an astounding" 202 times, or 74.8 percent of the time. The organization stated in a release that Barkett never voted "for law enforcement" when the vote was split 4-3.

"In other words, law enforcement can never count on Justice Barkett," the release stated.

"Riddled with lies," was the response of Barkett's campaign manager, Mary Jane Gallagher. "To place the decisions of the Florida Supreme Court in the hands of one justice is wrong."

Gallagher said Barkett participated in unanimous decisions in 70 percent of the cases before the court since 1988 and voted with the majority 90.9 percent of the time.

Barkett has received the endorsement of the Florida Fraternal Order of Police, the Florida Police Benevolent Association and Florida Peace Officers Association. Barkett has also received Attorney General Bob Butterworth's endorsement.

Ealinger said he returned the card mailed to him by Citizens because several of Barkett's decisions have had a direct effect on Seminole County. One cited by Ealinger was a recent decision authored by Barkett regarding the forfeiture of homesteaded houses seized from convicted felons.

Ealinger's attorney Dan Broderon said the decision served to resolve conflicts between two appellate court decisions. Broderon said a 1988 decision in Daytona Beach, which affected Seminole County, was the Florida Constitution did not protect forfeited home-steaded houses owned by convicted felons and allowed the seizures. A 1990 appellate court decision said the Constitution protected criminals from the seizures.

Broderon said Barkett wrote the decision which ruled the Constitution prevented such seizures.

"That blew three of our cases away," said Broderon.

Colleges open crime records under new disclosure law

By JOE MARCUS
Associated Press Writer

Dana Getzinger says she was naive and unsuspecting — a typical college student — when a stranger in a ski mask sneaked into her room and tried to rape her while she was a sophomore at the University of Georgia.

Getzinger was stabbed and nearly died in the 1988 attack, which she later learned was at least the fifth within three months on students in her neighborhood near the campus.

"The universities tell you nothing," she said. "Schools are placing a greater importance on their image than on student safety."

More than 4,000 violent crimes — among them 18 murders and 493 rapes — were reported last year to security officials at the nation's 580 largest universities and colleges. The Associated Press found through a review of figures being released this month under a new federal disclosure law.

The federal Campus Security Act for the first time this year requires all universities and colleges to provide students, faculty, staff and prospective students and their parents with crime statistics for the previous three years, as well as a description of security procedures.

The law covers 2,222 colleges and universities. Schools that don't comply risk losing eligibility for federal money.

Many public institutions previously released such information, but most private institutions kept it confidential.

"Part of their sales pitch was, 'Come to this idyllic, safe-appearing campus,'" said Dorothy Segel, director of the Campus Violence Prevention Center at Towson State University in Maryland. "They were not recognizing that gradually crime was creeping in."

The crime statistics are being handed out to students on most campuses this month.

"The most difficult thing in dealing with violent crime is convincing people that it will happen," said Marvin Herring, chief of police at Sanford University, where an employee was fatally shot on campus Tuesday. "You get lulled into a false sense of security."

The schools surveyed by the AP enroll 5.6 million students. Collectively, they reported 2,528 aggravated assaults, 928 robberies, 5,081 car thefts and 15,313 burglaries during 1991.

Victim advocates question the value of statistics furnished by some universities and colleges.

"If the initial reports are that crime is vastly below what we're seeing in broader society, I would be very skeptical of that," said David Beatty, a spokesman for the National Victim Center.

There were 42.3 reported rapes per 100,000 people in America last year, according to the FBI. The schools surveyed by the AP reported 6.8 rapes per 100,000 students, a figure that leaves some people dubious.

"It misrepresents the reality," said Gail Abarbanel, director of the Santa Monica, Calif., Rape Treatment Center and co-author of a book about sexual assault on campus. "It gives people the impression that rape isn't happening, when it's practically an epidemic."

The University of Iowa reported four sexual assaults last year. But officials from the area's Rape Victim Advocacy Program say they handled 39 rapes during that time in which a student was the victim. Twelve occurred on campus.

Abarbanel and others say students share the blame for failing to report crime — particularly rapes committed by their fellow students. And many incidents on campus are reported to municipal officials, not the school's security department.

"The problem is not that the schools weren't reporting, it's that students haven't been," said Carl Stokes, law enforcement director at the University of South Carolina in Columbia.

Many crimes, including Getzinger's near-fatal stabbing, happen off campus and go unreported by the schools.

Ohio University's disclosure documents show no murders, though a gunshot fired from a passing car killed a senior four blocks from the campus. Six University of Florida and one community college student have been killed near the university's Gainesville campus since 1990, but the crime statistics given students say there were no murders.

"We haven't done anything to obscure the fact that the murders occurred in the city of Gainesville," said Joe Kays, a school spokesman.

"Technically, a University of Florida student could have been murdered in Ocala. Does that fall within the purview of the reporting requirements?"

Some schools see financial reasons for accurately reporting crime. The University of Southern California was ordered to pay $1.6 million last spring to a student raped at knifepoint in an off-campus dormitory. The student argued that the university concealed information about crime in the neighborhood.

"It's ludicrous to say because it happens on a sidewalk, it doesn't happen on campus," said John Kuprevich, commissioner of public safety for the University of Pennsylvania. "Playing with numbers and changing numbers isn't going to change reality."

Zoo

"My grandma got a present just for showing them my picture," said Jon King, 4, of Sanford.

Ruth Patrick, membership coordinator of the zoo, said they wanted to present a program that would appeal to the grandparents and the youngsters as well.

"We know the animals will appeal to everyone," she said. "But we had Frankie and Johnnie and the Cargo to Extension that we thought would appeal to all ages."

The World Wildlife Federation's traveling exhibit on wildlife trade, "Cargo to Extinction," opened at the zoo on Saturday. The animal products, including a cheetah skin, ivory jewelry and a crocodile handbag, were all imported to the U.S. illegally and confiscated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Misty Lance of Longwood brought her granddaughter Leesa, 3 months, to see the animals.

"I can't believe I'm a grandma," she said. "I'm only 42, but here's my grandbaby. I really just came to show her off."

She said she liked the fact all grandparents got into the zoo at the senior citizens rate.

"I like it when I can get a discount on anything," she said. "The zoo organizers did not report an increase in attendance because of the special activities, but said they were pleased with the numbers of people who were there."

Items include a cheeta skin, a crocodile handbag, a mandolin fashioned from a Hawksbill sea turtle shell, ivory jewelry and an ashtray made from a tiger's skull.

The exhibit also includes photographs and texts designed to educate the public about the destructive impact that purchasing products made from endangered plants and animals has on our wildlife populations," Farmer said.

Other items are accompanying the exhibit include items supplied by the Florida Museum of Natural History in Gainesville, and the Knoxville Zoological Gardens in Tennessee. They include bear, zebra, tiger and jaguar furs, lizard skin shoes and turtle shell jewelry.

"Cargo to Extinction," Farmer said, "is the Central Florida Zoo's first traveling exhibit. We hope everyone has the opportunity to see it and learn about this world wide problem."

The exhibit will be on display until Nov. 30. The zoo will also feature live animal encounters and educational programs at 11 a.m., 12 noon, and 1 p.m. on weekends.

Admission to the zoo, including the exhibit, is $5 for adults, $3 for seniors 60 and older, $2 for children 3 through 12, and free to children two and under.

The zoo is located at 3755 N. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, just east of exit 52 from Interstate 4. For further information, phone 323-4450.

LMHS band, others prepare for parade

LAKE MARY — For the third time in Lake Mary's history, the band the Lake Mary Marching Rams and the flag corps will embark on their four-year trip.

From March 31 to April 5, the Marching Rams plan on attending the annual Cherry Blossom Festival Parade in Washington, D.C.

"I wanted us to go some place that would be interesting and worthwhile, but not too expensive," said band director Terry Pattishall. "I had been in D.C. two years ago and thought about making a trip there."

The band, however, will not automatically get to perform in the Washington festival.

Like other prospective festival performers, the Lake Mary Marching Rams had to send in an application order to be considered for the parade.

Since the deadline was Thursday, Sept. 10, the band expects to hear from the festival committee within the next few weeks.

"If we don't perform in the parade," said Pattishall, "we'll perform on the Capitol steps or in front of some memorial."

At the end of the summer, the Marching Rams started raising money for this trip by selling Gold C coupon books, which are still available.

Other fund raisers in the works include an October apple sale and a December garage sale.

There will also be what Pattishall calls "Bovine Bingo."

Though she didn't explain what "Bovine Bingo" was, she added that the band would also be selling car wash tickets and having a "Quarter Day."

Service clubs, teams get to work at SHS

SANFORD — Unwillingly, students return to school after their long weekend and found that nothing dramatic had changed. The same subjects, teachers and classmates.

If anything had changed, it was that the students had gotten their first taste of a holiday and were yearning for more. But, as usual, school carried on.

This week offered the first look at the organizational clubs around campus. Mu Alpha Theta, the Beta Club and the Interact Club all held meetings this past week while the Leo Club will hold its first meeting on Monday, Sept. 14 in the school cafeteria.

Mu Alpha Theta, an academic math club, participates in math competitions throughout the state. The members are required to maintain a B average and compete in one math contest throughout the year. The club is also collecting donations for the hurricane victims.

To be in the Beta Club, members must have a 3.0 grade point average. Besides being an honors club, the Beta Club also holds several service projects throughout the year.

Thursday, the Interact Club held its first meeting of the new school year. The service club, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Sanford, collects donations and raises money for those who are less fortunate. In addition, they do many other things to improve the community.

The regular football season has finally kicked off.

Year 'round classes off to good start

By VICKI DEBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The first month of the modified school calendar for the 1992-93 academic year has gone well.

Dr. Robert O'Dell, director of year round education for the district, said that he has received "surprisingly few" telephone calls from parents with questions or complaints at the start of the year.

This year Goldsboro Elementary in Sanford and Geneva Elementary in Geneva joined Lawton Elementary in Oviedo on the year round calendar. By 1995, the school district intends to have all elementary and middle schools on the modified calendar.

"It's an ambitious schedule, but one we should have no problem accomplishing," O'Dell said.

This year's smooth start is the result of an on-going learning process, O'Dell said.

"We are implementing what we learned at Lawton last year," O'Dell said.

He said the school district will continue to learn about the problems and positive aspects of year round education and apply that knowledge as the transition continues.

Geraldine Wright, principal of Goldsboro, said that meetings with parents before traditional classes ended in June and continued communication have been the keys to a successful transition from the traditional to the modified school calendar.

"We've been doing very well," Wright said. "The change over has been surprisingly easy."

O'Dell said that district-level meetings will be held once a month to prepare for the transition of more schools to the year round calendar next year.

Supt. Paul Hagerty said he was very pleased with the continuing transition to year round schools.

"It isn't all perfection," he said. "But it's good for the kids and it is cost effective."

O'Dell said he was glad to have such a smooth start to the year round calendar. School board members agree.

"I think we're starting to see a level of acceptance here," board member Sandy Robinson said.

Lake Mary High School

School strives for excellence

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School opened its doors for the first time a little more than a decade ago.

From the beginning, the school has set as a goal for itself of striving for excellence.

"We have always tried to be number one in everything we attempt," said principal Don Smith.

Smith has been principal for two years and prior to that, he was an assistant principal as well as a civics teacher and basketball and baseball coach.

The students at Lake Mary last year scored among the highest in the district on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). At the school, the average verbal score was 454, an increase of 13 over last year. The average math score also rose 13 points to 503.

Their average total score of 957 was 40 points higher than the average district score.

The majority of students at Lake Mary High School are college-bound. Though there are vocational classes, a great portion of the school's coursework is geared toward college-preparatory work.

The school had the second highest testing percentage in the district. Sixty-eight percent of their students took the SAT last year. Only Lake Brantley High had a greater percentage of their senior class take the test, with 89 percent.

Smith said the students at his school are inspired by teachers who love their work.

"We've got some good teachers at Lake Mary High School," Smith said. "They love their work and they make the students work harder."

The school's PTSA has initiated a number of programs to help the students this year.

"Our first priority, I think, is the Computer Lab that we have been trying to put into the school," said Meg Bettel, president of the PTSA.

That, she said, is an on-going project for the group.

She added that the PTSA wants to put more emphasis on the students this year.

"We want to do as much as we can for them," she said.

The PTSA will also be involved in a "rent-a-dress" program for the young ladies at the school at Homecoming and at Prom time. They will have a variety of gowns that the young ladies can rent for the evening rather than having to buy one.

Bettel said the Lake Mary PTSA has "a pretty good" membership for a high school group. She said they are always looking for more parents, teachers and students who are interested in joining the group.

Members of the Lake Mary High School PTSA met recently to make their plans for the year. At that meeting were Margaret Balingier, membership co-chairman; Laurie Dickey, membership chairman; Mary Ann Cleveland, secretary; Meg Bettel, president; Penny Rizzo, first vice president; Debbie Peio, second vice president and Becky Copeland, treasurer.

Laparoscope used for hysterectomy

By DAVID C. MOWERS, M.D.

A revolution in medical instrumentation and technology now allows gynecologists to remove the uterus with the aid of an operating laparoscope (telescope). The operation is viewed by the surgeon and his assistants on a television monitor by means of a small camera attached to the viewing end of the laparoscope which is inserted into the abdominal cavity through the naval.

The surgeon has available a variety of new instruments which can be inserted through separate small puncture incisions in the abdominal wall which vary between 1/4 and 1/2 inch in length. A suction/irrigator device allows for removal of blood and fluids as well as rinsing the abdominal and pelvic cavities with irrigating solutions. Cautery instruments can burn structures such as adhesions (scar tissue) and blood vessels. Laparoscopic scissors can then be used to cut tissues.

A new laparoscopic stapling device is able to simultaneously staple and divide the uterus from its blood supply and supporting ligaments. Once the uterus and/or ovaries are free, the operation is completed by removing the uterus through the vagina. After closing the vaginal incision from below, the laparoscope is used to inspect the surgical site to make sure no internal bleeding is present. Postoperatively, the abdominal incisions are covered with only band-aids.

LAVH is designed to convert an abdominal hysterectomy (in which the uterus is removed through a lower abdominal incision) into a vaginal hysterectomy. Although surgical operating time is slightly longer, there are significant advantages to the patient. Hospital stays are one to two days versus three to four days. Postoperative recovery period is two to three weeks rather than four to six weeks for hysterectomy is also preferred in certain instances such as cancer or the ovaries. Fibroid tumors of the uterus which have grown too large to remove vaginally, or extreme obesity of the patient.

A short hospital stay and a quick recovery time should not lead the patient to conclude LAVH is minor surgery. As with abdominal hysterectomy, major complications are still possible. Large blood vessels are being cut and pelvic organs removed. Injury to adjacent organs such as the bowel and bladder may, in rare instances, occur. Bleeding requiring transfusion is possible as well as infection requiring antibiotics or abscess drainage. Inability to complete the procedure may require the surgeon to complete the procedure through a traditional abdominal hysterectomy incision.

David C. Mowers, M.D., specializes in obstetrics and gynecology with offices at 1403 Medical Plaza Dr., #102, Sanford, and 681 E. Altamonte Dr., Ste. 310, Altamonte Springs.

No polio cases reported in western hemisphere in a year

By JOAN SANCHEZ
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — Polio is becoming a thing of the past in the Western Hemisphere, where no cases of the paralyzing disease have been reported in more than a year, federal health officials said.

But it will take three years without a single new case before polio can be declared eradicated in the Americas, officials said.

The federal Centers for Disease Control reported Wednesday that the last case of polio in the Western Hemisphere was reported in August 1991 in Peru. It is the first time since the disease has been monitored in the region that there hasn't been a case reported for an entire year.

The Pan American Health Organization, which launched a polio eradication program in 1985, planned to announce the findings today in Washington.

"It will have significant human impact," said Dan Epstein, spokesman for the organization. "It means it's the beginning of eradication."

The World Health Organization has set a goal of eradicating polio worldwide by the year 2000.

"The apparent elimination of (polio) in the Americas underscores the feasibility of achieving a similar goal in other regions," the CDC said.

Polio is caused by a virus spread through direct contact or through fecal contamination in food and water. The symptoms of polio include paralysis, fever and nausea.

The majority of cases occur in children, and the disease is preventable through immunization. It has affected 10 million people worldwide.

In the Western Hemisphere, 1,000 cases of polio were reported in 1988. That dropped to nine cases last year, including the most recent case in Peru.

In the Eastern Hemisphere, there were 12,983 polio cases reported in 1991.

Officials expect to be able to certify that polio has been eradicated in the Western Hemisphere by 1995, Epstein said.

"The only obstacles have been logistics obstacles — information, communication, convincing people that they have to vaccinate their kids," he said.

In the late 1970s, about 10 percent of children in developing countries were immunized against polio. Today, about 80 percent are, officials said.

Polio is only the second disease to be targeted for eradication, Epstein said. Smallpox was the first, and health officials declared it eradicated in 1980, Epstein said.

SOUND ADVICE

NICK SPINA

CERTIFIED HEARING INSTRUMENT SPECIALIST

If your child is under treatment by your physician for "flu" in the ears, you might wish to advise their school and request seating of the front of the class until it is resolved.

If you have a hearing problem or wear a hearing aid, have your friends speak in a clear, natural voice. If they exaggerate their lip movements it can actually make it harder to understand.

Do you ever wonder if you have a hearing problem? Take this quick test and see.

1. Do you sometimes hear people speaking but fail to understand what they say?
2. Do you turn the television up louder than others?
3. Do you have to strain to hear?
4. Does it seem like people murmur?
5. Do you miss hearing part of the sermon in church?

If you answered "yes" to any of the above questions, it may be time to get your hearing tested.

No. 4 Florida tops Kentucky

GAINESVILLE — Shane Matthews resumed his assault on Florida's record book Saturday, throwing for 340 yards and four touchdowns to lead the fourth-ranked Gators to a 35-19 season-opening victory over Kentucky. It marked the 13th time in 24 starts that Matthews has thrown for three or more touchdowns in a game. He also moved past John Reaves on the school's career TD list with 55, one behind Kerwin Bell's SEC-record 56. The victory was the 11th straight in league play for the defending SEC champions and improved Florida's conference record under coach Steve Spurrier to 14-1. Kentucky (1-1), winless in seven SEC games last season, has lost 10 conference games in a row dating to 1990.

Seles, Edberg not wins

NEW YORK — With her razor-sharp groundstrokes once again accompanied by grunts, Monica Seles continued her Grand Slam domination Saturday, capturing the U.S. Open with a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Arantxa Sanchez Vicario. The victory, Seles' second straight at the National Tennis Center, was her seventh Grand Slam title, including her third of 1992. She also captured the Australian and French opens. Earlier in the day, defending U.S. Open champion Stefan Edberg mustered just enough strength to crack a service winner at match point against Michael Chang after a record five hours, 26 minutes in the first of the men's semifinals. Worn down by the chase after volleys, flustered by his own inexplicable vulnerability on serves with 18 double-faults, Edberg came up with three gutsy shots at the end to close out a 6-7 (7-3), 7-5, 7-6 (7-3), 5-7, 6-4 victory.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Buoyed by the success of last year's Rotary Bowl, the organizing committee of this year's game returned to the city of Bethlehem, Penn., for one of the two teams to meet in the annual Thanksgiving morning football exhibition.

On Friday morning during a breakfast meeting conference call from Maison et Jardin, Rotary Club-Seminole South president Richard Johnson formally extended an invitation to Bethlehem's Freedom High School to play in this year's 19th annual Rotary Bowl.

Freedom High School, coached by Jody Swik, was 7-4 last year.

Last year, the Bethlehem Catholic Golden Hawks lost 28-23 to Lake Mary in a game that was an athletic and financial success.

"We raised over $17,000 last year that went to charities and scholarships," said Paul Mc-Cormick, co-chairman of the Rotary Bowl organizing committee. "Of that amount, $6,000 went to Lyman, Lake Mary and Bethlehem Catholic high schools for their participation in the game. It was a very successful event."

Once again, the game will be played at Lyman High School with a projected starting time of 10 a.m. Freedom High School's local opponent won't be determined until early November, until the district championship races have been decided.

Only teams that have been eliminated from the state playoffs may be invited to play in post-season bowl games.

"We're looking forward to picking a good local team to play this team," said McCormick. "We're going to try to pick a team from Orange, Seminole, Lake, Ocoola or Volusia County. This is a Central Florida event and we want to stay in Central Florida when selecting a team."

A Seminole County team has participated in the game the last six years and in 13 of the first 18 games. In 1982, Oviedo defeated Lake Howell in the only Rotary Bowl to match two Seminole County teams.

While McCormick said that the organizing committee will be searching for the best team possible to play Freedom, the fact that the runner-up in Orlando's Metro Conference (and 5A-District 5) is committed to the Kumquat Bowl would seem to give a Seminole County school an edge in being selected.

Whatever school does get the invitation, Freedom will be bringing a full complement of supporters when they come down for the game.

"They have already sold out one airplane," said McCormick. "Now they're looking at getting a larger plane and other options so that more people can make the trip. And the Freedom principal indicated that they're planning on bringing 30 varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders for the game."

Baker's boys top Tribe

LONGWOOD — So much for appearances.

On the surface, Friday night's Lyman-Seminole game figured to be a mismatch. Lyman had only won one of its last 18 games while Seminole was coming off a 7-3 campaign and had won 14 of 24 games over the last two years.

But a closer look reveals that Lyman had a majority of its skill people returning while Seminole had virtually a whole new offense.

Another factor that weighed heavily in the Greyhounds' favor was the fact that they were playing their first game under new coach Larry Baker and it was their home opener.

All of those factors, and Todd Cleveland, figured mightily in the outcome as Lyman got just enough offense to edge the Tribe 15-9.

Cleveland, a senior quarterback, tossed a 45-yard scoring toss to Bobby Washington late in the third quarter and then returned a punt 73 yards for a touchdown mid-way through the final period to lead the Greyhounds to the come-from-behind victory.

"It was teamwork, teamwork, teamwork," said Cleveland. "Everyone pulled together at the end. The discipline that Coach Baker has instilled in us did it. We were in shape and ready to play. It's a new beginning."

The Greyhounds were able to post the win despite being held to only five yards rushing in the second half and 30 yards rushing for the game.

"The kids did the job," said Baker. "They deserve all of the credit. We stumbled around on offense, but that was mostly caused JACKSONVILLE — Jason Rasmussen and Pete Kuc, the top passing combination in Seminole County last year, were at it again Friday night.

Rasmussen, who led the county in completion percentage and touchdown passes, completed touchdown passes of 32 and 31 yards to Kuc, who had the most receptions in the county, to lead Lake Mary to a 19-8 varsity football win over host Jacksonville-Ed White in the season-opener for both teams.

Chad Kesler kicked both extra points and a 21-yard field goal for the Rams. Lake Mary's final two points came on a safety when the snap on a White OVIEDO — Thunder and lightning filled the sky before the game but it was nothing compared to what happened on the field as the Oviedo High School Lions defeated the Deland Bulldogs 27-18 Friday night at John Courier Field in the 5A-District 4 season opener for both teams.

The two teams combined for nearly 800 yards in offense (380 for Oviedo and 214 by Deland) until the defenses finally took over in the fourth quarter.

CASSELBERRY — Talented and tradition-rich Lake Howell, young and dreaming of a sweet season, woke up at home to a swift slap in the face Friday night as Terrance Foy ran for 248 yards and five touchdowns, leading arch-rival Winter Park to a 40-13 rout.

"It's been a long time since Lake Howell got beat by 40 points like this," said Silver Hawks' head coach Mike Biceglia. "We'll chalk this up to experience. They have a good football team. We never stopped them defensively."

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — How important is next week's 5A-District 4 football showdown between Lake Brantley and Lake Mary?

It's so big — the game decided the district title a year ago — that with over 10 minutes remaining in his team's 30-0 win over University Friday night, Lake Brantley head coach Fred Almon was conferring with a reporter, looking at the statistical evidence of the effectiveness and direction of the Patriot offense.

"We (the Lake Brantley coaching staff) just told the kids that we're not going home tonight," said

SANFORD — Ask most people to describe the typical pastor of any given church and you're likely to hear such descriptions as "elderly gentleman," "kindly wrinkled" and "graying hair."

Then there's Clifford Melvin, the new pastor at First United Methodist Church of Sanford. Melvin, 36, is a big sports fan, both as a competitor and a spectator.

"I've been a pastor for 10 years now and I still hear the comment 'He's so young,'" said Clifford. "Of course, I've got a baby face that makes me look young."

"I love all sports. I just love to get out there and play. Since my injury (ligament damage to a knee playing basketball), I've really had to curtail my activities the last six months. I'm just now starting to back into it (sports) again."

Melvin played his first game with the First Methodist softball team Saturday and went 3-for-3 and scored a run, as well as making a couple of diving stops at third base.

Melvin was born in Pensacola but his family moved to Tampa, where he played football in junior high and basketball and ran track at Plant High School.

After graduating from high school, Melvin attended DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind. □ See Warrior, Page 5B by a fine Seminole High School team. We have to get the kids to believe they can win. When you come and play as a team, good things will happen."

The touchdown catch by Washington actually could have been an interception as Seminole defensive back Charlie Farmer got his hands on the ball in front of Washington. But Farmer could not hold the ball and Washington grabbed the carom for the score. Washington then nailed the extra point to cut the lead to 9-7 with 1:33 left in the third quarter.

The play exemplified the night for Seminole, which dropped two potential touchdown passes in the end zone and had another deflect off a receiver's hands right into the waiting arms of Cornelius Colton, who had two interceptions on the night.

"That's the breaks of the game," said Baker. "Someone has to get them and unfortunately for Emory (SHS coach Blake) and Seminole, we got them tonight."

"I'm as proud as I can be for all of the kids, but it had to be especially for the seniors. All wins are sweet, but this one was at home and it was the first game of the season."

scored on a sweep for the two-point conversion, giving the Greyhounds the 15-9 advantage. Seminole had taken a 9-0 lead as Emory Green recovered the ball in the end zone for a touchdown as the Lyman long snapper sailed a ball over the punter's head and into the end zone with 0:55 left before halftime and junior Jason Walraven connected on a 35-yard field goal with 8:20 remaining in the third quarter.

"We had two touchdowns dropped in the end zone and the tight end was wide open in the end zone on our final play," said Blake. "I'm not too upset because we made a lot of mental mistakes and still had a chance to win. They got it in this game, hopefully we can win all of the rest of them. If you have to lose a game, I guess it may as well be to a gentleman like Larry (Baker)."

because of injuries to some of our starters." After fumbling on their first possession, the Lions scored on their next two possessions, giving them a 14-0 lead with 7:36 left in the first half.

The Bulldogs scored a touchdown of their own with about 2:40 left in the first half, but the Lions answered on the first play following the Bulldog kickoff with a flea flicker, quarterback Leon Lowman pitching to Mike Ruglenius, who then threw a 66-yard touchdown pass to Paul Bass.

"We set it up on the series before," Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said. "We sent the guy down long and no one picked him up, so we knew we could get it when we wanted it."

The Bulldogs started strong in the second half, scoring on their first two drives. Deland got a safety when Lion punter Joe Schuyler was tackled in the end zone with five seconds left in the third quarter, cutting Oviedo's lead to nine points.

But after the safety, both teams were held scoreless as the defenses went to work.

"Right now we really need to work on snapping the ball back and punting the ball," Blanton said. "When you lose your snapper and punter (Lee Reynolds and Josh Iikore, respectively, both out with injuries) at the same time, it's really hard to get into the right frame real quick."

"They (Deland) were really reacting to the ball well. They're a real good defense. They gave us the opportunities and we just took advantage of it."

Lowman completed both of his passes and led Oviedo in rushing with 120 yards on 18 carries. Bass rushed for 111 yards on nine carries. Lowman and Bass each scored two touchdowns for the Lions.

Winter Park ripped through the Lake Howell defense like a paper curtain, collecting 402 yards (382 on the ground). The big offensive line even managed to equalize heralded defensive end Trevor Pryce as he collected just one sack.

Lake Howell did lead 7-6 midway through the first quarter, as Maurice Smith hit Kevin Chisolm on a screen play that turned into a 55-yard touchdown with the help of a key block by Theron Houston.

But Foy was relentless as the Wildcats scored touchdowns on their first six possessions. He opened the scoring on the second play of the game by dashing 68 yards, and gave Winter Park the lead on a three-yard thrust following Lake Howell's score.

Adding 59 and 52 yard scores, Foy finished with 215 yards in the first half.

The home team was throttled by the Lake Mary defense for much of the game, accumulating only 108 yards and not getting on the scoreboard until Albert Roberts caught an 8-yard pass from Josh Howard with 6:36 left in the game.

"We played excellent defense throughout the entire game," said Lake Mary head coach Doug Peters. "They gave us several opportunities to score. We actually botched a few attempts. We should have scored a few more times."

The missed opportunities aside, the Ram offense displayed exactly what Peters wanted to see, specifically, balance between the pass (117 yards) and

On site Sanford firefighters recount Andrew aftermath

SANFORD — "Nobody has seen anything like this in their backyard," said Sanford Fire Marshall, Richard Cohen, of the destruction wrought by Hurricane Andrew in South Florida. Cohen, a 21-year veteran of the Sanford Fire Department, speaks from the personal experience of seeing his share of destruction, devastation and loss.

"If you can shut your eyes and envision losing everything you hold dear in this world, what you've worked for your whole life, what worked for you your whole life, then you can envision what these people are going through," he said.

Cohen, who took personal leave to travel to Miami the day after the hurricane struck, was joined by five other Sanford firemen who also took leave and went to the stricken area on their own time. Battalion Chief William Ellenberg, EMS Coordinator William Clemens, Paramedics Dean Rainville and Kip Parshal, and Lt. Gerald Ransom arrived in Miami early Wednesday morning, Sept. 2.

They had no idea what they might be asked to do, Cohen said, but they were prepared, and took along shovels, rakes, chain saws, and the like. They reported in to the Emergency Operations Center in Miami, and were sent out at 6 a.m. for search and rescue.

"You have to see this to really know or feel what these people are going through," Cohen said. "If that thing had turned just a few degrees it could have been us, and all I feel is gratitude that it wasn't us, and pity for the people it did hit."

He is not old enough to remember Hiroshima.

LAKE MARY — At age 77, Edwin Nicorvo has been a world traveler, written a book on Russia, patented several inventions and hobnobbed with presidents and movie stars.

He started out rubbing elbows with the greats when he went to the University of Alabama in 1939. "There was a thin handsome man sitting beside me, and I introduced myself as a yankee boy from New Jersey. He responded that he was a big bear from Arkansas, and that's just what he was." Nicorvo's new acquaintance became the legendary Coach Bear Bryant, and the two remained friends up until Bryant's death.

"We used to have Christmas parties up in the Empire State Building, and for eight or nine years in a row we had the whole 102nd floor," Nicorvo said.

The wedding will be an event of September 26, 1992 at Rescue Church of God, 4 p.m., Sanford.

They'd shout from the rooftops

Arthur Oswald (A.O., Oz) would shout from the rooftops, the mountain tops and the top of the world the love and admiration he feels for Frances his bride of 80 years.

"I would marry her again tomorrow," A.O. declared. "I haven't regretted one second. I wouldn't trade her for all the women in the world."

And, oh, yes, the feelings are mutual. Frances said she "sure would" marry A.O. all over again.

The couple were married Aug. 23, 1942 in McClenney by Judge Frank Dowling and have lived in Sanford for 49 years. The winds of World War II were raging and A.O. was serving in the military. Frances' mother and sister lived in Sanford and she came here to have her first baby.

Later after A.O. was discharged from the military, they settled in Sanford. He went to work for the Atlantic Coastline Railroad where he remained for 37 years until his retirement as an engineer 10 years ago.

Frances retired from the Seminole County School Board in June after working there for 22 years. She was also a substitute teacher.

In celebration of their golden wedding anniversary, Frances and A.O. were honored at a reception at the Sanford home of their son, Mike. Co-hosting the reception were their daughters and husbands Kim and Rick Steele, Fletcherville, Va.; and Diane and Merlin Oepchook, Vanceboro, N.C.

The grandchildren are Mike's children, Jennifer, Jessica, Anna and Bryan; Diane's children, Rachel and Sara; and Kim's children, Brandon, Rebecca and Kevin.

Frances chose for the occasion a teal and print coat and dress ensemble enhanced with a corsage of baby carnations tied with teal, lavender and gold ribbons. A.O. wore a carnation boutonniere in the lapel of his business suit.

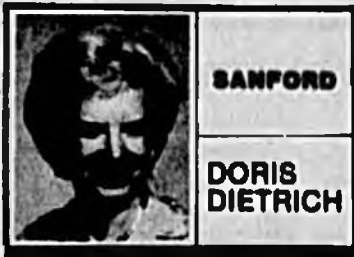

Sharon Winton greeted between 75 and 100 guests at the door who arrived from Virginia, North Carolina and Florida.

A color scheme of lavender and teal was carried out in the home decor. Guests were served a variety of hors d'oeuvres, punch and the beautifully embossed teal and lavender wedding cake.

Helen Smith presided over the guest registry and Karen Oliver and Judy Osborne were in charge of the food and beverages.

The guests of honor received numerous cards and gifts and departed the scene in a decorated car to let the world know they have been married 50 years.

Frances is proud of her 50-year marriage. "You have to respect each other," she said.

SANFORD
DORIS DIETRICH

"Don't expect too much and you won't be disappointed. There has to be a lot of love there...and understanding."

A.O.'s philosophy is: "Marriage is give and take. There are two roads, a rough road and an easy road. It's a togetherness thing — you have to work together. You can't work against each other."

Home from Europe

W.E. "Duke" and Donna Adamson have returned from what he describes as a "marvelous trip." They spent three weeks touring northern Europe. The couple rented a car, took off on their own and registered 4,300 kilometers on the car odometer.

The Adamsons visited friends along the way, including the parents of a young medical student, Andrea Heimen, who spent time in Sanford working in the offices of several Sanford physicians. They started out in Denmark and visited Ribe, the oldest town in the country which was built in 850 A.D. They stayed in a home built in 1219 A.D.

Arthur and Frances Oswald

They were amazed at the density in Lubeck, Germany, located on the border. Duke said when the Berlin Wall was removed, everyone bought automobiles. In East Germany, they visited an old medieval town, Goslar in the Harz Mountains.

Andrea's father, Peter Heimen of Duaseldorf, is a former chef aboard the Rotterdam cruise ship. A connoisseur of fine cuisine, Duke said, "I had more fun in the kitchen playing around with him." The Adamsons were guests in the Heimen home.

Donna has a passion for professional ball and traveled a continent to prove it. The Miami Dolphins were playing in Berlin, and the Adamsons met the players at the Palace Hotel there where they were staying.

Donna was in Hog's Heaven meeting Coach Don Schuler and "Don Merino, the ' czar of quarterbacks." The Dolphins won the game in the stadium before 60,000 spectators with Donna and Duke frantically rooting from their seats on the 50-yard line.

"It was a nice, easy trip," Duke said. "We had so much fun with our friends we don't see enough of."

Benefit cruise planned

Last year, about 400 very merry passengers were aboard the RiverShip Grand Romance when it sailed down the river on a sunny afternoon to benefit the community.

The same cruise will be repeated this year on Sunday, Sept. 20, from 5:30 to 8 p.m., with boarding beginning at 5 p.m.

The $18 tab includes a variety of hot hors d'oeuvres and the magical music of Nick Pfeiff and the Starlighters on the main deck with the Reggae Band on the third deck.

Sponsored by the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association, proceeds during the holidays and free entertainment for the St. Lucia Festival.

Advance tickets are available from downtown businesses.

'Natures Fireworks' at gallery

The First Street Gallery Etc. reopened this week after being closed for repairs due to water damage. A reception Friday night heralded the opening of "Natures Fireworks," an exhibit by David Stillings.

According to Kay Bartholomew, his works feature the "most beautiful colors and patterns you ever saw."

The exhibit will continue until Oct. 21. There is no admission charge to the gallery. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Friday; and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday.

Lions offer spaghetti

The Sanford Lions Club will sponsor its annual Spaghetti Dinner and Bingo, from 4 to 8 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 26, at the Sanford Civic Center. Proceeds will benefit the Lions' Sight Program.

Tickets, at $5 each, are available from any Lions Club member or at the door.

Many happy returns

Mother Blanche Weaver was surprised with a special birthday wish at Rescue Church of God, Sanford, recently. Friends, relatives and members of the church gathered to wish their pastor and loved one a happy, happy Birthday.

Mother Blanche Weaver and her husband, Pops.

The Women's Department of the church spent the day cooking and preparing for the feast of approximately 50 to 60 guests. Addie Watson, a member of the church, was chairwoman of the party. Happy 69th Birthday Mother Weaver, many happy returns.

Business

IN BRIEF

Lake Mary Chamber gathering

LAKE MARY — The Greater Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly Business After Hours gathering Tuesday. WOFL Channel 35 television station will be the host for the event.

Chamber manager Diane Parker said, "This will be another opportunity for all of the business people in the area to gather for an evening of fun, exchange business cards and swap ideas."

There is no charge for the monthly event, and all Chamber members or prospective members and guests are cordially invited to attend.

WOFL Channel 35 is located at 35 Skyline Drive, west of Lake Emma Road, in Lake Mary.

For further information, phone the Chamber office at 333-4748.

Sanford chamber welcomes business

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce ambassadors scheduled a welcome for Buck's Seafood Restaurant, 1200 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, this past Thursday. The event includes a ribbon cutting.

The restaurant is owned by Richard and Vivian Buck.

The chamber held its monthly Business After Hours social at the refurbished restaurant last month.

Paxson sells Orlando station

ORLANDO — Paxson Broadcasting Inc., which needs to sell one of its radio stations to comply with federal ownership rules, says that New Castle Media of Dallas would purchase WHVE-FM.

The purchase price was not disclosed, though Paxson was asking $7 million for the station.

Jay Hoker, president of New Castle, said in a statement that he would move his company's headquarters to Orlando following the sale. The statement indicated Hoker hoped to improve profits at WHVE and use it as a base for future expansion in Florida. "WHVE provides an excellent base for the future growth and success of New Castle Media," the statement said.

Paxson purchased WHVE in April, and programmed the station as an adult contemporary outlet. But since it has been for sale WHVE has simulcast WNNZ-AM, a news-talk outlet also owned by Paxson.

Nationwide, radio-station owners are jockeying for choice outlets in anticipation of new Federal Communications Commission rules. Paxson's holdings exceeded limits in those rules, which prohibit a broadcaster from owning more than two stations in a market.

Southern Bank receives award

Southern Bank of Central Florida has received a 1992 Winners' Circle Award for outstanding financial performance. Thomas Roasin, president of the Community Bankers of Florida announced Monday. This is the second consecutive year that Southern Bank has received this recognition.

The award is the highest honor a bank may receive from CBF, which represents Florida's 322 independent, locally-owned community banks. Roasin said Southern Bank is in the top 20% of the state's community banks, based on its financial performance.

Established in 1966, the bank employs 55 people and has assets of more than $75 million.

Fifth Avenue added at Heathrow

HEATHROW — Arvida Company recently announced the addition of the "Fifth Avenue," built by Trophy Homes, to the new product available at Heathrow.

In business more than 6 years, Trophy Home specializes in innovative design and energy efficiency, according to owner, Michael J. Naste.

Currently under construction, the "Fifth Avenue" will include four bedrooms, three baths and 3,035 square feet of living space. Additional features include, a spacious master suite, elegant interior finishings and split-floor plan. The "Fifth Avenue" will be featured in Heathrow's Breckenridge Heights and will be priced at $335,900 including homestate.

Arvida's Heathrow is a planned residential community featuring the brand new Heathrow Elementary School, a full-service shopping center, 18-hole championship golf course, $4 million Racquet Club and homes priced from the low $100s to over $1 million.

Top insurer to pay $1.5 billion for storm

NEW YORK — State Farm Insurance said it expects to pay out $1.5 billion to compensate policyholders for losses from Hurricane Andrew, about double what the insurer initially expected.

The company, the leading underwriter of homeowner insurance in Florida with 35 percent of the market, says it expects to process about 110,000 claims. State Farm is also the leading home insurer in Louisiana, where it controls about 32 percent of the market.

Executives lose confidence in economy

WASHINGTON — The cautious optimism about the economy built up among business executives earlier this year has all but evaporated, according to a survey released by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The group's bimonthly business confidence index dropped from 64.3 in June to 56 in August, the lowest level in eight months, the chamber says.

The Conference Board agrees.

The board says its Business Confidence Index was 62, down 8 points from the previous three months. But the current level matches the figure for the first three months of 1992, the economic research group said.

Bank profits soar

WASHINGTON — Profits at commercial banks soared to a new record this spring, pushed up by the lowest deposit rates in generations, the government said.

The nation's 11,685 banks earned $7.9 billion in the April-June quarter, breaking the previous record of $7.6 billion set in the first quarter, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said Wednesday.

Mall still seeks major stores

By NICK PFEPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Although still in initial discussions at this point, Montgomery Ward is being considered as another major tenant at the Seminole Town Center Mall in Sanford. Negotiations are presently in the talking stage.

Mall developer, Melvin Simon & Associates of Indianapolis, had previously announced four major tenants for the mall: Burdines Department Store, J.C. Penney, Dillard's and Parisian.

Simon's Public Relations Manager Michael Murphy admitted, "We have been talking with the Montgomery Ward people, but we have also been talking with four or five other major stores."

Murphy said that Sears was one of the others being discussed, "but we haven't gone any further with them as we have with any of the others," he said. He would not reveal the names of other stores under consideration.

"No other major agreements have been made at this time," Murphy said. "I have heard rumors of other tenants, but those apparently start when our sales people put names on their plans just to give a client an idea of what the mall might look like in years ahead."

Several months ago, Murphy said the project couldn't get underway until the fourth major tenant was obtained, which would start the search for financing of the project. Burdines was the fourth to finalize an agreement, having been confirmed in early August.

Murphy said yesterday, "As of now, we still haven't reached an agreement with any firm to finance the mall project, but we are still working on that."

In addition to the six major tenants, Murphy has estimated the mall may have as many as 150 additional stores of smaller size.

The 1 million square foot regional shopping center is to be located on 213 acres of land within the Sanford city limits, at the southeastern corner of S.R. 48 and Interstate 4.

Original plans revealed by Simon & Associates indicated the land would also be used for construction of 165,000 square feet of commercial/retail space, 400,000 square feet of office space, and hotel facilities with possibly as many as 400 rooms.

While building the mall is expected to provide many construction jobs, Murphy said when the mall is fully operational, it is expected to employ 1,600 to 2,000 persons.

The start of construction was originally expected in the spring of 1992, but Murphy said no dates could be determined until at least the fourth major tenant was obtained.

Montgomery Ward and Sears both have facilities in Altamonte Springs at the present time. Montgomery Ward has a retail store at 130 E. Altamonte Drive, an auto express in Fern Park, and a repair service on W. Colonial Drive in Orlando.

Sears is located at the Altamonte Mall with an outlet store in Winter Park. There is also a Sears catalog and appliance store in DeLand, and a retail store in Daytona Beach. Sears also operates a store in Orange City.

Heathrow mall may clear soon

HEATHROW — The final hurdle to a second north Seminole County mall may be removed this month.

A hearing before a state hearing officer, originally scheduled for Sept. 16, has been delayed pending signing of the agreement. An attorney for mall developer The Hahn Co. said when the settlement is reached, the developers can decide whether to build the proposed 1.2 million-square-foot mall west of Interstate 4 and south of Paola Road.

"After much gnashing of the teeth and much negotiation, this is the last issue," said mall attorney Harry Stewart, former Orange County attorney. "I haven't done the Heathrow Town Center development any good. We just didn't have much choice."

Nearby Seminole Town Center east of I-4 has already announced four major retail "anchors" and is actively pursuing a fifth. Seminole mall developer Melvin Simon and Associates say they plan to be under construction by next year.

First approved by the county on Sept. 25, 1990, Heathrow Town Center's development order was appealed by both the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council and Florida Department of Community Affairs on Jan. 31, 1991. The ECFRPC challenged transportation issues but dropped the appeal in February when council members decided not to pursue the issue.

DCA, joined by the Sanford Housing Authority Resident Council, challenged the development approval on the issue of affordable housing availability. The parties argued the development order didn't assure there would be enough housing near the center that will be affordable to mall employees.

A total of 890 units will be needed for mall employees, the developers have determined.

If approved, the settlement would require Hahn to perform a specific affordable housing needs calculation for the number of anticipated employees that will work at the mall. If the number of units are not actually available at the time the mall construction begins, then Hahn must either pay $6,000 to $8,000 per unit or build them.

Susan Caswell, an ECFRPC housing planner, said the settlement is more detailed than the Seminole mall housing provision which allowed vacant, buildable land to be counted towards housing stock. The Heathrow mall agreement requires housing to be completed and accounts for occupancy rates at individual apartment complexes.

Judge rejects commercial-based ban

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — A judge has thrown out an attempt by the state to bar Channel One from classrooms in a school district, saying he wasn't convinced that commercials shown on the current events show were coercive.

Channel One has come under fire because the 12-minute public affairs and news program includes two minutes of advertising for such things as candy bars and cars.

Proponents say its programs teach students about current events and stimulate them to read newspapers. Critics say the students are a captive audience for advertisers.

The California Department of Education had sued to get the program out of San Jose's East Side Union High School District because of the advertising.

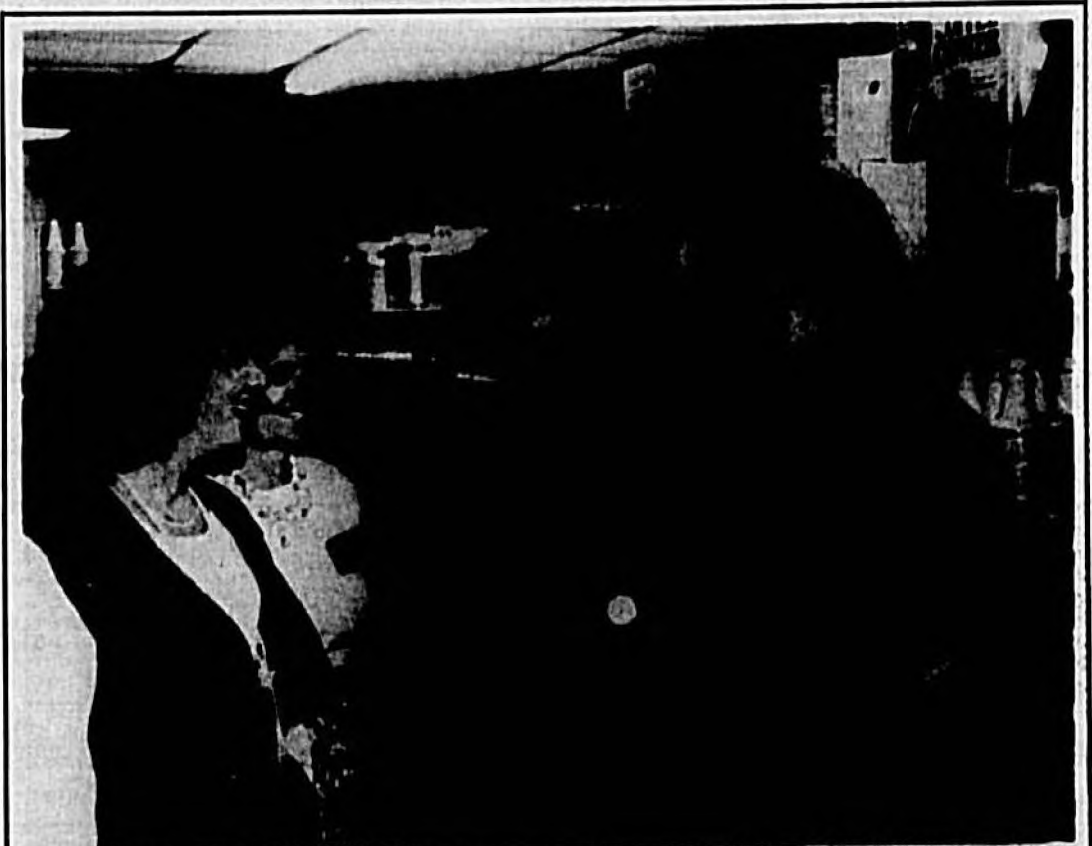

Superior Court Judge Jeremy Fogel on Wednesday denied the state's request for an injunction.

"The court is not persuaded that the mere presence in public schools of commercial advertising, even the type of advertising shown on Channel One, is illegal per se," Fogel ruled.

He said the Department of Education had not proved that students were coerced into watching the commercials.

But Fogel ordered that students, parents and teachers be advised that watching the channel is optional.

Sanford business welcome

Chairman Joann Turnbull, welcoming committee members Carol Kirchoff and Bette Gramkow, and Gary Alcott, owner of the Thomas-Alcott Group. Alcott is displaying one of the cleaning products handled by his firm.

Chamber still voting for board

By NICK PFEPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Board of Director election ballots for the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, will be sent out by Sept. 21. Ten persons are to be selected for the Board for 1993.

Chamber Executive Director Dave Farr said, "We have sent letters to all 20 persons selected for Board membership, and as of this morning, we have received confirmations from over half of them."

"As soon as we hear from all of the 20," he said, "we'll be sending out ballots to our over 600 members, to have ten selected for the Board next year."

The ten selected will serve for three year terms, joining 10 who will be serving for two more years, and 10 others with one year remaining in their term.

Farr said, "After we send the ballots out, we want them back by the first week in October, then we'll present the names to the present Board at their Oct. 13 meeting."

The ten selected will be installed during the first Chamber Board meeting in December.

Names from which ten are to be selected include Wayne Albert, Steve Cooke, Bette Gramkow, Beth Beldin, Mike Horner, Richard Schilke, Kim Townsend, Kay Bartholomew, Gregg Canis and Rob Moore.

Also, Billy Painter, Les Owens, Tom Moore, Dennis Aagaard, Dean Shoemaker, Steve Coover, Bobby Von Herbulla, Joann Turnbull, Bob Parcell and Franci Lundquist.

During a late August meeting, the Chamber nominating committee also selected officers for the 1993 chamber year. They include Larry Stricker as president, Robbie Robertson as vice president and Brent Adamson as Treasurer.

Farr urged Chamber Board nominees to respond as soon as possible. "We hope to be able to announce the selection by the end of this month," he said.

Devastated business sees revival

HOMESTEAD — There are plenty of loans to be had for small businesses in the aftermath of Hurricane Andrew, but Mike Franklin wants no part of them.

The 39-year-old auto mechanic already is deep in debt — two trucks, his daughter's college tuition, her new $14,000 car, a trailer for his son's race car. With his repair shop and the local economy in shambles, Franklin is afraid to borrow more money he might be unable to repay.

But in this city of decimated strip malls, shuttered mom-and-pop stores, and toppled avocado groves — and across Miami's scarred southern reaches — if small business doesn't recover the region won't either.

State and local officials are focusing on the vanished business sector. Volunteers are leafletting door-to-door to publicize loan programs, while information and registration centers are open under tents and in restaurants. Community leaders are lobbying owners to stay.

"If those businesses don't come back, southern Dade County will be a wasteland where people live on food stamps and welfare," said Steven Rist, who is helping coordinate redevelopment from the slightly damaged offices of his alarm-systems company.

"It's the business that supports your home," he said, looking out a window at the destroyed ice skating rink that was a popular gathering spot. "Not the other way around."

An estimated 75 percent of the 7,800 businesses in the storm-damaged area have less than 15 employees. Some 43 percent of jobs are in small business. The region produces $22 million in daily income — most of it lost since the hurricane.

In Homestead, population 27,000, 80 percent of the buildings are expected to be condemned and many razed. The bulk of the city's $485 million tax base was blown away by Andrew's 160-mph winds.

Touring the city's rubble, the magnitude of the problem is obvious. Few businesses are open, and those that are operate in wind- and water-damaged surroundings. Most are boarded up or simply abandoned.

Businesses providing essentials are expected to stay; residents will need clothes, food, haircuts and tools, and tens of millions of dollars will flood the region as reconstruction accelerates. But will the House of Hot Dogs reopen? Will there be business for Discount Health Foods? The Medicine Shoppe? Stage Fright Total Nail Care? Redlands Travel?

"The problem is, you build it back, but for who?" said Barbara Robinson, a manager at The Paper Wholesaler, formerly a restaurant and party supply goods store on U.S. 1 north of Homestead, now a waterlogged warehouse of streamers and paper plates. "Our customers are gone. There's nothing here."
