

Dream Becomes A Reality As New Zoo Opens Doors

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's Editor

What better day to pay respects to this great symbol (the Bald Eagle) of Americanism than on the nation's 199th Independence Day?

This morning the collective dream of thousands of Central Floridians came true when the gates of the new Central Florida Zoo swung open for the first time, and visitors were greeted by assorted shrieks, squeaks and roars from the facility's joyful inhabitants.

Ceremonies were limited to broad smiles of welcome from zoo officials and employees. First paying customers were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spohrer of Deltona. Also among the first visitors to pass through the swinging gates of the rustic cypress entrance booth were Miss Marlee Grein and Duane Meyer of Delray with a gift of steak for their favorite animal, Fletcher the cougar.

They lingered first near the American Bald Eagle's handsome enclosure — what better day to pay respects to this great symbol of Americanism than on the nation's 199th Independence Day?

Across the way from "America's Freedom," as the giant bird is called, the long-limbed simian ran through his spectacular routine of swings and leaps for a delighted audience.

Singing shrilly and calling "hi!" and "hello!" to passerby, were the colorful macaw parrots. A little further down the walkway the spider monkeys raced up and down the tree trunks enclosed in their tall cage. Obviously delighting in their spacious new quarters were the three chimpanzees, who tumbled, gesticulated and romped like circus clowns.

All paths converged at a narrow bridge crossing a clear creek where the foundations of the elephant-hippo enclosure may be seen taking shape. Then at the top of a slight incline is the second cluster of animal habitats.

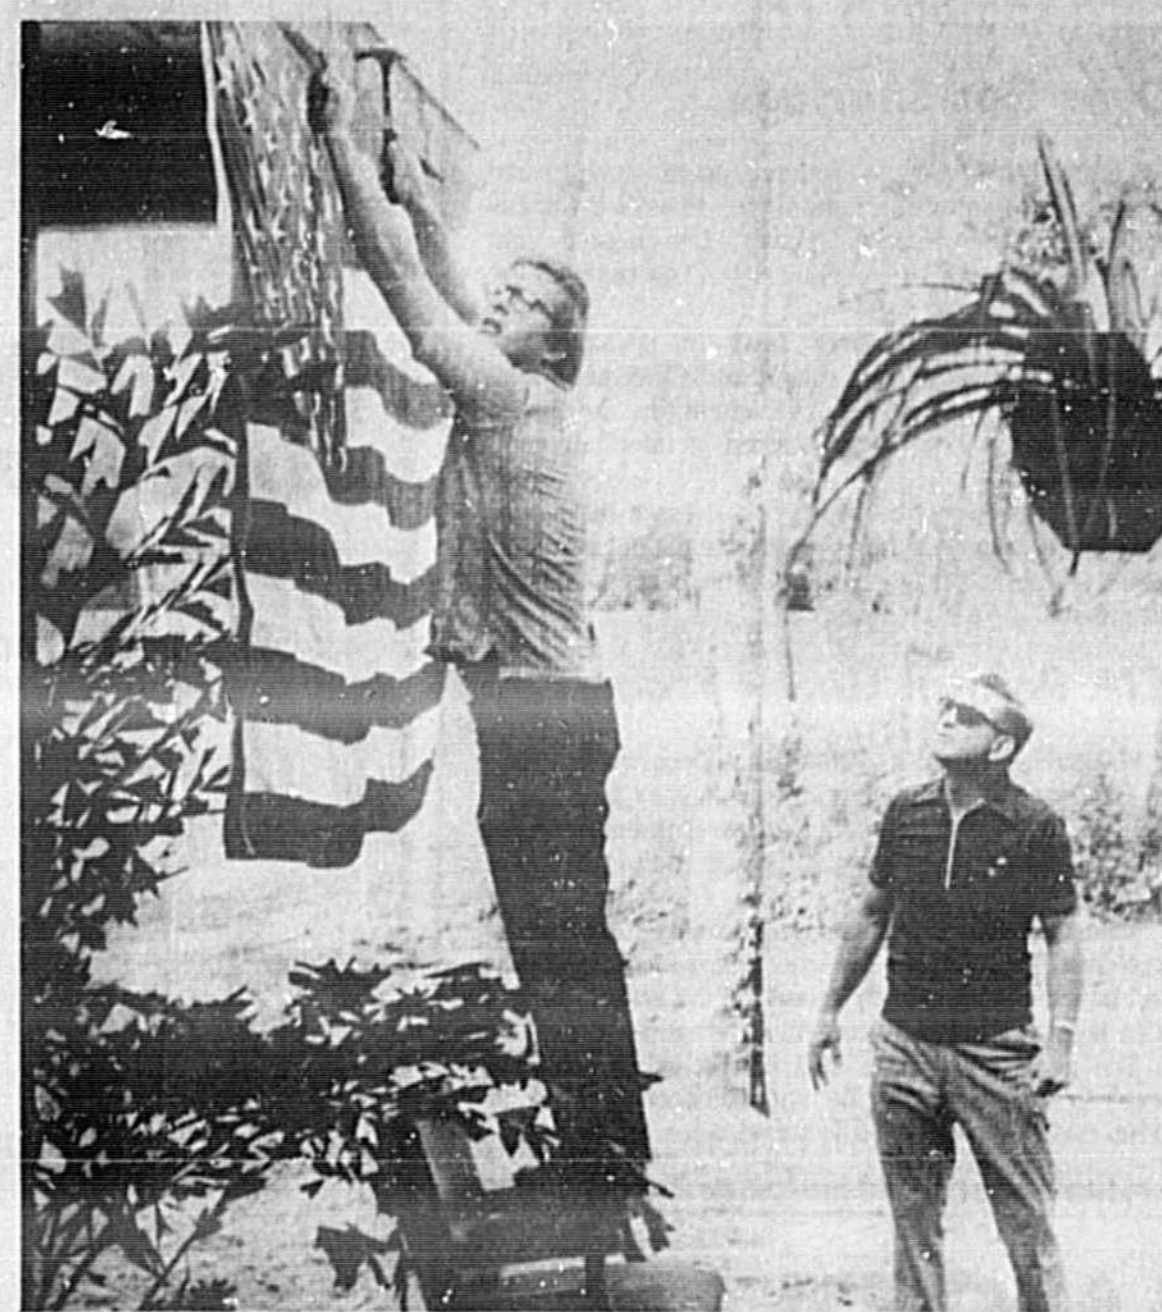

The big cats — lions, tigers, leopards and cougars — are housed in this area, as well as Carmen, the largest chimp, the Florida bears and more members of the ape family.

Zoo officials are for the most part delighted with the way the animals are adapting to their new home. Although the lion is still a little sore at having been moved, and Carmen is still inspecting every square inch of her large enclosure before pronouncing judgment, all other animals are romping, sleeping and eating normally.

While it was good to see most of the animals settling in so contentedly, many visitors missed seeing their old friends Solik, the elephant, and Fat Boy, the hippo, on opening day. The larger tigers and many of the hooded animals and far-named members of the children's petting zoo will remain at the old Downtown Sanford Zoo for several more days until the finishing touches are put to their enclosures.

"We've got a long way to go yet," admitted Central Florida Zoological Society President Jim Ryan. "But we have come a long way from jungle and swamp. I hope the people enjoy what we have done so far and get a good idea of just how beautiful this zoo is going to be when it's completed."

Sheriff Polk Named In Class Action Suit

Inmates Seek Restraining Order

By GLENN McCASLAND
Herald Staff Writer

Some inmates of the Seminole County Jail yesterday filed a class action in Circuit Court seeking an injunction restraining Sheriff John Polk from returning them to the county lock-up.

The suit was filed by Joseph Robert Hart, one of 23 inmates who are currently being housed elsewhere while the Seminole County Jail is repaired.

Hart's action was handled by attorneys for Public Defender Frank Kelley, who requested a hearing in Circuit Court on the injunction before July 15.

The suit cites "cruel and unusual punishment" as chief reason for the injunction request, saying that the return of the inmates to the jail is mentally "agitating them beyond their capacity to fully help defend themselves."

All of the inmates involved in the suit were in the county jail when fire swept through the petition . . . states the 23 inmates found their mental state "disorderly" by the "horror and trauma" of the possibility of being burned alive.

The class action is the fourth civil suit filed as a result of the jail fire. The other three actions are civil cases brought by relatives of inmates killed in the fire. Polk is the only defendant named in any of the suits.

Kelley, in the petition to the court, says the prisoners had been apprehensive about the possibility of a fire prior to the June 9 blaze.

The petition further states the 23 inmates found their mental state "disorderly" by the "horror and trauma" of the possibility of being burned alive.

The suit further contends that the prospect of being returned to the jail prevents the 23 inmates from assisting and cooperating with their various attorneys in preparing their defenses.

The jail fire is currently under investigation by the Seminole County Grand Jury.

Polk has not yet appeared before the jury, but is expected to offer testimony early next week — probably Tuesday when the investigation resumes.

The inmates named in the suit against Polk include:

Daniel Williams, Isaac F. Jones, Otis Lee Jackson, Donnie Yates, J. D. Splies, Paul F. Gregor, Donnie F. Clanton and Hart.

Blauvelt, James E. Knight, Joseph Williams, Luther M. Love, Patrick A. Simms, Ronald R. Dunn, Edward L. Bond, Roy E. Plenge, James B. Shiseman, Willie T. Harris, Paige Edward Evans, Bruce W. Hampton, Bobby Joe Hill, John Willie O'Neal, Roy Brown Paul F. Gregor, Donnie F. Clanton and Hart.

The jail fire is currently under investigation by the Seminole County Grand Jury.

Al Rozon: A Man Dedicated To Central Florida Zoo

The new Central Florida Zoo is open, and there have been a lot of names in the headlines over this exciting event. None more deserving, however, than that of Al Rozon.

For Rozon has built the new zoo. Quite literally, with his hands and mind, his experience and imagination, he has pieced together the project over the past hectic two years.

Born and raised in Sanford, a graduate of local schools, Rozon joined the U.S. Army shortly after he graduated from high school. Over a period of 20 years, including time spent in Vietnam, he worked his way up through the ranks from private, to lieutenant colonel.

Possessed of outstanding leadership qualities and great determination, this winner of two Silver Stars also became a member of the Special Forces. He is a scuba diving expert and has made more than 1,000 parachute jumps.

In the fall of 1973, Rozon retired and decided to return to Seminole County. He has made his home in Winter Springs where he lives with his wife, Mary Lou and teenage son and daughter.

However, since Rozon's retirement, his family hasn't seen as much of him as they'd like. Because for the past two years, without its being vacation, Rozon has dedicated practically all his time and energies to designing and constructing the zoo, and directing the Central Florida Zoological Society.

And for the past three months, he has worked seven days a week from dawn until dusk — and often continued to meetings after dark.

Rozon was offered the position of executive director of the Zoological Society by Director Jim Ryan. His shrewd business acumen, as well as his practical experience in the field of engineering, made Rozon an excellent choice for the job, as Ryan has learned to appreciate.

Rozon (left) with Zoo Director Jack Hanna and two tiger cubs.

As far as the other zoo officials and employees are concerned, however, it is Rozon's qualities of leadership and resourcefulness developed in the Army, which have made him an essential part of the zoo project's success.

Ford Lambasts FPC

Over Gas Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stepping up his push to end federal price controls on natural gas, President Ford is lambasting the Federal Power Commission and predicting "a very serious natural gas shortage" in the Midwest this winter.

Departing from prepared texts in speaking appearances Thursday in Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio, Ford became increasingly vehement as he urged deregulation of natural gas shipped in interstate commerce.

CIA Refusal Under Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says it is studying the Central Intelligence Agency's refusal to comply with a requirement that government agencies describe their electronic surveillance equipment to the attorney general.

A Justice Department spokesman said Thursday night that the CIA notified the department last month that it did not intend to comply with the rule on the ground that the CIA is a "domestic investigative agency."

Embassy Employee Is Killed; Search For Colonel Pressed

By The Associated Press
A hunt is on for the killers of another U.S. Embassy employee in Tehran and the kidnapers of an American colonel in Beirut, but no clues have been reported in either case.

Hassan Hosseini, a 25-year-old Iranian who worked in the visa section of the Embassy in Tehran, was shot and killed Thursday afternoon by two terrorists who intercepted the Embassy car in which he was riding. The terrorists escaped along with a woman who was in their car.

The driver of the Embassy car and another passenger were unharmed.
Premier Amir Abbas Hoveida said "every step would be taken to punish the criminals."

Church Turns Women Down

LONDON (AP) — The Church of England has said no to the ordination of women priests, siding with the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States on an issue which has divided the Anglican churches.

The Church's male bishops and priests blocked a proposal to open the priesthood to women Thursday after an all-day debate at the summer session of the General Synod, the ruling body of the Church of England.

The synod agreed that there is no fundamental objection to women priests. But it said in effect that it doesn't want them yet.

Faller Found Guilty In Van Burning

Forrest Dee Faller, 22-year-old former Oriedo resident, has been ordered held in jail pending a pre-sentence investigation after being found guilty of stealing and burning an Oriedo Fire Department rescue van.

A circuit court jury deliberated 75 minutes yesterday afternoon before returning guilty verdicts for Faller on charges of larceny of a motor vehicle and third-degree arson in connection with the Jan. 15 incident.

Circuit Court Judge David U. Strawn ordered Faller, who has been living recently at an Apopka address, held in jail pending sentencing. He faces a maximum 10-year prison sentence on the two convictions.

The first trial in the case ended in a mistrial on May 23. In the two day re-trial that ended yesterday, Assistant State Atty. Bill Heffernan presented witnesses who testified that Faller had been at the Oriedo firehouse and police station the night of Jan. 15, shortly before the $10,000 rescue van was stolen.

A half-hour after the vehicle was taken it was found in flames off SR-436 near Balm Beach Drive, Forest City, on the opposite side of the county.

Oriedo police found a radio unit and electronic siren unit from the van, the next morning alongside an Oriedo street near a house where Faller had been living. The siren unit was missing the hold-down knob.

Gurney Denies Williams Most Trusted Advisor

TAMPA (AP) — "I trusted him, yes, but in no way was he my most trusted advisor," former Sen. Edward Gurney says of fund-raiser Larry Williams.

Gurney made the statement Thursday under cross-examination in his bribery conspiracy trial when he was asked if he ever told a former law partner to confide in Williams.

Gurney admitted once telling Williams to be on the lookout for possible clients in his travels around the state. But Gurney told the jury he doesn't think Williams directed any business to his former law practice.

Gurney, ex-side Joseph Bastien, plus former federal housing officials K. Wayne Swiger and Ralph Koozts are charged with conspiracy to create an illegal slush fund in connection with Williams' activities.

Williams has testified that he raised nearly $400,000 from Florida builders between 1971-73 by promising them assistance from the FHA.

Gurney, 61, also is charged with bribery, accepting unlawful compensation and lying to a federal grand jury.

Charlie Smith Turns 133

BARTOW (AP) — Charlie Smith celebrates his 133rd birthday today "just like always, eatin' some cake and tellin' some stories."

"The country and Charlie are sharing a birthday," Nelson Curran, the administrator of the nursing home where Smith now lives, said in a toast to the former slave at a party on the eve of Independence Day. "Let's hope both of them have many more."

Smith, who says he was born in 1842 and first saw America from the deck of a slave ship 121 years ago, grinned broadly as he opened his gifts — a new cowboy hat, an orange-colored bathrobe and two cartons of cigarettes — before an applauding crowd of nursing home patients.

Space Suit Leak Found

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) — Despite a leak detected in the space suit of one of the three American astronauts, space agency officials say the Apollo Soyuz Test Project is on schedule for a July 15 launch.

"We did have a very good test today," NASA official Dr. Walter Kapryan said Thursday after a nearly perfect dress rehearsal.

The leak was discovered in astronaut Vance Brand's suit soon after he, Brig. Gen. Tom Stafford and Donald K. Slayton entered the Apollo spacecraft. But the rehearsal continued until a simulated liftoff shortly after 2 p.m.

Officials said the leak apparently occurred when Brand was strapped into the flight couch. Had it happened during an actual countdown, the launch would have been delayed, officials said.

Orlando Girl Dies In Fall

BREVARD, N.C. (AP) — Jane Hahn, 11, of Orlando, Fla., was killed when she fell 25 feet onto rocks at Schoolhouse Falls in the Pisgah National Forest, officials say.

She and other girls and counselors from the Keystone girl's camp in Brevard were on an overnight camping trip in the park when she fell late Wednesday, the officials said.

A camp spokesman said the girl had twice been warned to keep away from the edge of the falls before she suddenly slipped and fell.

Brevard is about 25 miles south of Asheville in southwestern North Carolina.

July 4: Testament To Human Spirit

Today marked the 191th birthday of the United States and gave Sanford readers to celebrate. Fireworks and speeches reminded Sanford residents of the beginnings of the nation and the Bicentennial which currently is underway both nationally and locally.

Baseball games, picnics, swimming and all other kinds of outings were held as tradition requires.

Hopefully, everyone had a good time. This is as it should be, but in the hustle and bustle of celebration, there is a chance the real meaning of the Fourth of July was missed, as is often the case.

The celebration honors a day that traditionally marks the beginning of a new nation and that holiday was once called Independence Day.

Like all holidays, it has become a day of fun, outings, special events and relaxation.

But 199 years ago, in July of 1776, there was not time for these events. Instead the American people — then called colonists — were fighting for the very existence of their fledgling country.

In Philadelphia, the Continental Congress — after weeks of debate — approved a document which has since become a birth certificate that is one of the most cherished pieces of parchment in history.

That document began, "We hold these truths to be self-evident — all men are created equal — endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights — life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

It is called the Declaration of Independence. When the Declaration came into being, the colonists were not concerned with the high principled beginning that headed the document.

They expected it because philosophy was the fashion in 1776. They were more interested in immediate matters, a hammer-and-tongs attack upon the person of King George of England.

Today things are different. We are no longer angry at King George. Instead, it is the philosophical introduction of the Declaration that people have come to love.

Of course, people will argue that it is no longer a "true" document. There are those who claim the United States is not a free nation. There are those who would suggest we live under another method of government.

They say a lot of things that point out the bad in the American system. And that's the point — they are free to say these things because the American system lets them say what they will.

The Declaration of Independence leaves much to be desired as a statement of provable fact. But as a testament to the human spirit there is nothing to compare with it.

A Welcome Signal

The freeze on spending for consulting contracts ordered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare doesn't involve a great amount of money — by federal standards — nor does it promise to be of long duration.

But the action is encouraging, because — in the words of Deputy Controller Charles Miller — HEW "blew the whistle on its own spending."

Miller said the department has reared the legal limit set by Congress for expenditures on private surveys, advice and information for the fiscal year ending June 30. An estimated $42 million of the $60 million authorized already has been spent.

The brake applied by HEW is significant simply because voluntary restraint is a rarity in Washington.

Perhaps we're overly optimistic, but we like to think that the efforts by Congress to adhere to recently adopted budget controls may have a constructive influence on the agencies supported by Congressional appropriations.

Around

The Clock

Sanford residents will be guests of honor of the Orlando Twins at Tinker Field on Aug. 4, when the farm club of the American League Minnesota Twins hosts the Montgomery Rebels in a Southern League baseball game at 7:30 p.m.

Many baseball people who either live in Sanford currently, or have been residents here, will be honored, including baseball's oldest active scout Zin Beck, John Krider, Burt Chapman, Peter Schaal and Buddy Lake, just to mention a few.

Owner Calvin Griffith of the parent club is going to make every effort to be on hand for the night's activities, however his presence depends upon how things are going in Minnesota.

Tickets to the game will be available at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, all area banks and at McDonald Restaurants, as well as at the Herald — and they are free.

One ticket admits the entire family to the game and all residents are urged to be on hand to honor these distinguished people.

RAY CROMLEY Regulators Need Look By Congress

President Ford has an unsolvable problem on his hands.

At a meeting of small businessmen the other day the representative of one government regulatory agency stood up to take his audience to task.

The backlash almost shook him off the stage. Heberto mild businessmen told him his decisions and those of his agency were stupid and dangerous. One small manufacturer shouted out that the regulator and his fellows regularly labeled products dangerous with no more evidence than that dreamed up in their own fertile imaginations. What tests have you run? he was asked. When you set standards, what evidence do you have that they are necessary or even beneficial?

The official grew belligerent. He was unable to back up his rulings with evidence of research. He turned to threats, told those present that whatever they taught, they'd be run out of business unless they followed his rulings and those of his associates, however arbitrary they seemed.

He raised his voice. If you think you can buck us, try it.

Or go to court.

But he and the small businessmen in the room kept taking such cases to court would be so costly in money and time their businesses would likely go down the drain — even in victory. Some of their friends had followed this road to their sorrow.

There doesn't seem to be much argument over what is wrong. In all too many cases, the regulating agencies beam in on the form, rather than the substance of a violation, or of compliance. They develop technical, legalistic procedures. Decisions by underlings tend to be anonymous; responsibility is often impossible to track down. Laws setting up the agencies are so vague, these bodies are a power unto themselves, often literally accountable to no one. Yet they regularly hold up technical advances, handicap the development of new energy sources, kill competition, create shortages and bolster monopolies which drive prices up and stimulate unemployment and cost us consumers an estimated $100 billion a year in inefficiency and higher cost.

Most congressmen know this. So do Mr. Ford's men. The Congress is deluged with letters from small businessmen, universities, and other independents complaining that the delays, mountains of paperwork required, arbitrary decisions, arrogance and stupid make-work rulings threaten their very existence. These complaints come from profit and nonprofit organizations alike.

With all this agreement, my contacts in Congress and the administration are convinced little change will take place — and that slowly. It's not because Mr. Ford is not determined. At a closed meeting recently with 24 senators and representatives, he laid down the law in polite but no uncertain language. And he found almost complete agreement.

Letter To The Editor

Theater Revival

I read with interest your review of the inspection tour of the Van Weel Performing Art Hall in Sarasota, recently made by Mr. Hodges, Mr. Krider, Mr. Gutman, and Mr. Conklin. I wholly enjoyed your article, "Theater Fans Are Afloat 'Cloud Nine.'" It was a timely acknowledgement of the great contribution made by Betty Smith, Dora Lee Russell, Miriam Wright and Valerie Weld to the revival of the performing arts in Sanford.

Anyone who has attended a live performance in the city auditorium, can attest to the fact that whatever that building may be good for, it is not the performing arts. The acoustics are abominable and the seating is an affront to both mind and vision.

If there is an awakening need and desire for live entertainment, and there are ample signs that there is, then it is a condition precedent to obtain gifted artists, to either build or otherwise obtain a building adequate for their best performance.

However, I would like to remind the above gentlemen of the existence of the Old Millane theater, now known as the Ritz. This building was constructed in 1924 and 1925, primarily as a theater and concert hall and only incidentally as a cinema. At the time of its construction it was regarded to be the finest theater south of Atlanta. The acoustical qualities are (or were) as nearly perfect as was then or is now possible.

Letters to the editor are always welcome. They should be as brief as possible and comment on matters of general interest.

The letters should deal with issues and avoid personalities.

The editor reserves the right to edit those letters for reasons of space, but will exercise great care that the thrust of the letter is not lost in the editing.

RALPH NOVAK A Radical Activates New Policy

Ladies and gentlemen, tonight we have in our studio Scruffy Superfish, the well-known radical activist of the 1960s, former advocate of bombing the headquarters of both the First National Bank and Jack and Jill magazine, and now an insurance salesman in Cornersville, Ind. Scruffy, it's a pleasure to have you here tonight on Face Up to It.

"Thank you, Lamont. It's really my pleasure to be here tonight on good old egalitarian network television."

"Well, that reminds me, Scruffy — if I may call you by the name which millions of young American protesters came to revere during the good old days of the '60s — a natural question is, why did you consent to appear with us here tonight?"

"An excellent question, Lamont. As you may recall, during the '60s, when I was a fervent, if misled hippie — radical — troublemaker — punk — prelate, I started out calling for an end to the war and ended up demanding that all peace-mad cars be incited down and turned into peace symbols. But now I have seen the light. I have noticed how Tom Hayden is running for the Senate. Albie Hoffman is selling interviews and the left wingers are writing books to rip off the Movement. So I have deduced that it is the intellectually and metaphysically proper time for me to come forward. It is best for The People, it is what Chairman Mao would recommend in a situation like this and besides, I need the money."

"Yes, right, Scruffy, it is good to see that you have not lost the courage of your convictions. There may be some cynics, however, who question how it is that you once talked about overthrowing The Establishment and 'offing the Pigs,' whatever that meant, and creating a new world order while now you seem more concerned with getting a good buy on a color TV and finding a good pension plan."

"Sure, Lamont. It was, I believe, either Lenin or Bob Dylan or perhaps Howard Cosell who first said, 'A penny saved is a penny earned.' That's true of us revolutionaries as well as everyone else, you know. Therefore I thought it best — in terms of course, of the historic class struggle of the oppressed peoples, to come forward at this time."

"But don't you remember, Scruffy, how you always said you didn't need the decadent fascist products of American industrialist exploitation and used to defrost TV dinners as a symbolic gesture of revolt?"

"Who could ever forget? But that was in a different stage of the revolution, the stage known as 'Alerting society to implicit dangers.' We are now, obviously, in a different stage of the revolution, known as 'Every man for himself.'"

"That's pretty surprising coming from you, Scruffy, but change is permanent after all. Since you seem to have abandoned your old causes, though, perhaps you could tell us what your latest campaign is?"

"Nothing too much, Lamont, just writing. By. Do you have some time to talk about your life insurance program, by the way?"

Awaken, Bell of strength and beauty
Let us hear your voice one and all
For is not yet too late to remember
That, "UNITED WE STAND, DIVIDED WE FALL."

Who Will Be Punished For CIA Crimes?

The Justice Department now faces the ticklish task of determining who should be prosecuted for the crimes that the Central Intelligence Agency committed.

Under CIA auspices, murders were plotted, offices were burglarized, letters were opened, telephones were tapped, defectors were abused and unsuspecting victims were cased with LSD.

Our sources swear that the Justice Department will prosecute the federal violations and will turn over to the states evidence of local violations.

But the dilemma that already is dividing the Justice Department is whether to go after the top leaders who ordered the illegal acts or the agents who carried them out.

Government agents seldom have been prosecuted for criminal conduct if they were acting under orders. Yet there is even a stronger tendency on the part of the big brass to protect one another.

After the My Lai massacre, the generals in charge of the operation were never indicted. And the Watergate burglars, together with their ringleaders G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt, spent more time in the slammer than did their superiors who gave the orders.

Our Justice Department sources say many legal questions must be resolved before it is decided which cases will be pushed. But the Consumer Service has issued a warning to all Floridians regarding a "missing heir" scheme that has penetrated Central Florida.

Apparently a firm in Lynbrook, N.Y., which goes under the trade name of Universal Missing Heirs, Inc., has sent out mimeographed letters to Florida residents explaining that an unclaimed bank account is being held by the state (which is unnamed) until the owner or heir is located and makes the claim.

The letter further says that the deceased had the same surname as the Florida residents and by virtue of this "you may be the owner, related to the owner, or the actual heir to this sum of money."

We know of one Sanford couple (who wish to remain anonymous) who received such a letter and didn't fall for the scheme.

Robert J. Bishop, director of the Division of Consumer Services, says, "The letters are really quite innocent and make no claims or promises. They even guarantee a refund of the $17 the Floridians are asked to see 'in for a research report in the event the report does not establish a claim or the potential heirs are dissatisfied."

Although there is nothing illegal about the letter, persons are urged to ignore it — and the $17 fee for a research report — because the chances of an heir being found by this method are infinitesimal, according to Bishop.

A firm such as that described above is merely playing on the hope and greed of many people, who are willing to take the chance that they can get their money back.

The state Division of Consumer Services warns Floridians who respond to these letters to consider their money gone and not to holdout for a financial windfall — or a refund.

Do you want to develop your reading speed? Florida Technological University (FTU) is offering a nine-week evening rapid reading course for adults starting Wednesday, July 9.

The Stetson University Summer Music Institute under the direction of Geoffrey Gilbert and associate director Frank Stubbs has drawn students from various parts of the United States, Mexico, Canada and Norway for its year in session.

Students are accepted by audition and represent qualified performers of orchestral instruments from high school through the graduate level. They may be heard in concerts on July 9 and 16 at Elizabeth Hall Auditorium at Stetson and on July 19 and 17 at Peabody Auditorium in Daytona Beach, with a final concert closing the season to be held in the Edmunds Center at Stetson University on July 26.

Studying in the program this summer from Seminole County is Yvette Kastor, violinist of Fern Park.

Affair Affects Memory

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you found out after your husband's illness and death, and 40 years of marriage that he had been unfaithful for the last 15 years? There were several women, but he saw one steadily.

It was hard enough to take his death, but then I discovered among his office effects letters and pictures and even an accounting of the money he had spent on them (apartment rent, furniture and personal items, which he couldn't afford).

I sat at home and made my own clothes and draperies to save money. Now I have to use the insurance money he left to pay notes covering money he had borrowed during that time.

He was supposedly a competent businessman, well-liked in the community, and he never missed church. His children (and grandchildren) idolized him.

On the nights when he'd come home late, he lied so convincingly that I never suspected a thing. What would you do?

I'm trying to overcome my resentment, but it's hard. I loved him so. My nerves are shot. Maybe a psychiatrist would help. What would you do?

ACHING DEAR ACHING: I would be professional help to resolve my feelings of resentment and betrayal. (P.S. This letter should serve as a warning to all who read this column: Should you not live until next Monday, if you have letters, pictures or other damaging evidence hidden away, destroy it NOW!)

DEAR ABBY: The man next door is a very nice person, but his wife is something else.

Lately, she has been coming over here to use my telephone because she doesn't want her husband to hear her talking. She calls up her boyfriend and talks love talk anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour while I watch her 3-year-old son. It is sickening the way she carries on behind her husband's back. I don't feel right looking after her child while a married woman with a perfectly wonderful and trusting husband is scheming and plotting with another man on my telephone.

How can I tactfully tell her to please quit coming over here to use my phone for such immoral purposes? HER NEIGHBOR DEAR NEIGHBOR: Tell her in English. And don't imitate any words.

Good Nutrition Can Be Fun It's tough enough to be sure your children are eating correctly most of the year. Summertime snacks at picnics and beaches, the abundance of ice cream vendors, and busy schedules, compound the problem. But foods that appeal to kids can be nutritious, too. For instance, for breakfast try two slices of toast spread with peanut butter and topped with bacon. Accompanied by a half grapefruit and glass of milk, that makes a good nourishing way to start the day.

Every day, children should eat something from each of the four basic food groups.

THERE'S MORE TO LIFE THAN A PRETTY BALLOON!

A buoyant red or yellow balloon is the symbol of the world over of good fun and happy feelings.

There's really a festival, a fiesta, or a fair held anywhere without the familiar balloon vendor strolling through the crowd, selling happiness for a few pennies. Parents buy them for their kids and the young men present them with a flourish to their girlfriends.

Just why a balloon is so much fun isn't clear, but one thing is certain — the pleasure never lasts. The air leaks out, balloons unexpectedly pop, careless fingers send them soaring away forever.

But there is a far greater pleasure to be found that will last for an eternity. It is the happy pursuit of a Christian life and you can find out all about it this Sunday — in church.

By FRED L. NEAL, Minister
Congregational Christian Church

Text: Philippians 1:3 I thank my God upon every remembrance of you.

On Sunday July 6, immediately following the morning worship service my family and I will be leaving for Michigan where I will assume the pastorate of the First Congregational Church in Allegan, Mich.

Leaving is sad because there is so much which has become a part of you that you have to leave behind. Knowing that you are going to be separated from friends that you have come to know and to love is most difficult, particularly when you are leaving a people of all your life. You have many things I will have to leave behind, but there is one thing I will definitely be taking with me and that is my memories of Sanford.

I have a long list of memories which I will share only a few. It was in Sanford that I was introduced to Masonry and became a Master Mason. Fellowshiping and working with the men of Sanford Lodge No. 62 of Free and Accepted Masons has been a great and I have enjoyed every minute of it. Being a part of Cathedral Court No. 38 Order of the Aramath has likewise been rewarding. Attending the Monday noon meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club has been a real blessing.

But most of all, the privilege to be a member of the First Congregational Christian Church for five years has meant more to me than I will ever be able to put on paper or express in words. I will conclude my "week ago" by saying with the apostle "I thank my God upon every remembrance of you."

Vatican Visitors Get Scriptures

NEW YORK — Pope Paul VI and the United Bible Societies are cooperating to provide Scriptures to pilgrims traveling the Vatican during the Holy Year of 1975, according to an announcement by the Rev. Warner A. Hutchison, a general secretary of the American Bible Society who is also a world service officer of the United Bible Societies.

Rev. Hutchison reported that approval made by a joint committee of the United Bible Society and the World Catholic Federation for the Biblical Apologete was accepted by the Pope. The proposal suggested that the Bible Societies are almost the only source of Scriptures for Christian churches and ministries. Inexpensive editions are readily available through the Societies so that all can afford them, and the cost is subsidized by donations. The United Bible Societies is a cooperative fellowship of national Bible Societies serving more than 150 countries and territories. About half of its annual world service budget is unwritten through contributions to the American Bible Society. Total Scripture distribution through the UBS in 1974 reached 254,136,000 copies.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

McTear 'Main Weapon' In Junior Track Meet

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — "We're going to war in this meet against the Russians," said American sprint coach Bert Bonanno. "It's been friendly all week, but now we'll do battle and it's no milk and cookies thing."

Bonanno's main weapon in the 4th annual Russian-American Junior Track Meet here Friday and Saturday is sprint sensation Houston McTear.

The 18-year-old high school senior at Baker, Fla., stunned the sports world two months ago by running the 100-yard dash in nine seconds flat, equalling the world mark set by Ivory Crockett last year.

"I'm after the record," McTear conceded Thursday night, "but I'm not in a big hurry to get it."

Can he become the first human to cover the 100 in less than nine seconds? "I hope," he said in a typical unaffected but abbreviated response. "Time will tell."

Ruffian: No Cakewalk

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruffian may not be a shoo-in against Foolish Pleasure in their $500,000 Great Match Race at Belmont Park after all.

Supporters of the unbeaten 3-year-old filly who have been telling one and all that "it will be Ruffian all the way on Sunday" had some second thoughts today.

The reason: Foolish Pleasure turned in a blazing five-furlong workout Thursday in 56.25 seconds, almost two seconds faster than Ruffian's 58.1 on Tuesday. That's the equivalent of nearly 10 lengths.

What's more, the winner of the Kentucky Derby was officially timed in 1:09.15 for six furlongs while pulling up. Some unofficial clockers caught the colt in 1:08.34 for the six panels.

"I really didn't expect my colt to go that fast," said trainer Leroy Jolley. "But the track was really fast."

PAUL REVERE

Stuck Drives BMW To Convincing Win In 250-Miler

By TOM KEYSER Herald Sports Editor

DAYTONA BEACH — This morning's Paul Revere 250 in the candles on the United States 199th birthday cake, but it was a German who blew out the candles and got his wish.

Hans Stuck of Graneln, West Germany, led all but eight laps of the 65-lap International Motor Sports Association Camel GT Challenge Series race.

He finished 35 seconds ahead of Jacksonville's Hurley Haywood.

The race began just after midnight, as America took its first step into the bicentennial era. A fireworks display lit the Paul Revere 250 fuse.

The July 4 racing doubleheader at the Daytona International Speedway concluded with the 17th running of the Firecracker 400, which began at 10 a.m.

Stuck drove his BMW for two hours and 11 minutes, ahead of Porsche Carrera drivers Al Holbert, Haywood, Peter Gregg, George Dyer, Michael Keyser and Charlie Kempf.

Seconds before Stuck took the checkered flag, John Graves of Miami apparently became tangled in Stuck's draft control on the No. 4 turn and lost control of his Carrera.

Graves spun into the grass infield and flipped several times, coming to rest against the infield retaining wall.

He was rushed to Halifax Hospital Medical Center here, reportedly unconscious. A hospital spokeswoman said this morning that Graves was in "serious" condition in an intensive care unit. She said that no injuries had been isolated, but that "just the way he looks, you know something is wrong."

Graves' car was litter after the crash. It was nearly impossible to distinguish the front end from the rear.

Despite the accident, Graves finished eighth, four laps behind Stuck. Eighth place paid $700.

Stuck battled soybean farmer Shafer in the early laps, then blasted him verbally after the race.

Shafer led the first seven laps before parking his No. 21 Camaro below the fourth turn with a blown engine.

"He's very unfair," Stuck said of Shafer. "He's the unfairiest driver in America. I've never seen a race car driver like him in this country. He nearly pushes you out of the turn. He almost hit me once."

"I think he does it because he knows he can only go 20 laps. And it is a good feeling to be leading."

Stuck said he had no other trouble in slower traffic.

"The slow cars and the medium-slow cars," he said, "especially the slow cars. They are very fair."

Stuck also was in slower traffic. Only the second and third place cars were in the same lap with Stuck when the checkered flag ended the world's only major night race.

Haywood inched toward the lead from his No. 5 starting position. He cut Stuck's lead, which at one point was more than a minute, to 35 seconds at the finish.

Holbert, who started third, finished that way. Haywood's second place finish pushed him past Gregg in this year's Camel GT Challenge Series point race. Haywood leads Gregg 112½ to 109½.

Al Holbert in Car No. 14, presses winner Hans Stuck (25).

Gregg, who also is from Jacksonville, left the race in the 14th lap with a broken rocker arm. Keyser and Posey blew engines.

Keyser said his mishap may eliminate him from further competition this year. He said his racing and movie acting and producing careers are faltering financially.

Posey said his blown engine was "one of those million-to-one things, like lightning striking the same place twice."

Shafer turned in the fastest lap of the race, more than 119 mph on the sixth lap. Stuck averaged nearly 113 mph for the 65 laps.

Midway in the race, Stuck's car shot flames from the exhaust pipe. At the time, he thought dirt in the fuel line was causing the car to backfire. But after the race he discovered a valve was malfunctioning.

"I guess it could have given away any time," he said.

Stuck won $4000, Haywood $2000 and Holbert $1500. The total purse was $22,500.

John Montalvo of Palm Beach, who drove an Ecor, won the under-2.5 liter class. He finished ninth overall.

George DeJong of Jacksonville drove his Porsche 911S to second place.

Billie Jean King on way to final match today against Evonne Goolagong Cawley.

Billie Jean, Evonne Battling In Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King meets Evonne Goolagong Cawley today in a Wimbledon singles final that has the makings of a classic battle between two very determined ladies.

For Ms. King, it is the climax of a 15-year Wimbledon career in which she has won five singles and 13 doubles titles. Now playing in what she insists is her final major singles tournament, the 31-year-old veteran can tie the all-time Wimbledon ladies' tie record of 19 if she wins.

Mrs. Cawley, a young star from the Australian Outback, is fighting to prove her independence after a crisis in her personal life. The 23-year-old crowdpleaser got married to Englishman Roger Cawley just before Wimbledon, causing estrangement from her Australian coach Vince Edwards, her legal guardian since she was 11 and the man who molded her tennis career.

When Mrs. Cawley beat Australian courtwoman Margaret Court 6-4, 6-4 in the semifinal, Mrs. Court said Ms. Cawley looked unbeatable.

"She's determined to prove she doesn't need Mr. Edwards around to lean on anymore," said Mrs. Court.

Mrs. Cawley, champion here in 1971, told newsmen: "I just don't want to do well for myself but for Roger as well."

But she faces a formidable opponent in Ms. King, who has been preparing mentally and physically for three months for this Wimbledon final.

Mrs. Cawley, champion here in 1971, told newsmen: "I just don't want to do well for myself but for Roger as well."

Meanwhile, men's singles finalist Jimmy Connors and Arthur Ashe had a day off before their battle Saturday.

Some of the sellout crowd of 17,000 slept on sidewalks all night Wednesday to get standing room for Connors' Thursday semifinal against fellow American Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

But the 23-year-old Connors of Belleville, Ill., was untouchable by Tanner's 140 mph serve and put on a dazzling display of all-court play to win 6-4, 6-1, 6-4.

The defending champion reached the final without dropping a single set. He said he was playing his best tennis ever, and added, "I haven't reached my peak yet."

Ashe always looked the best player in his three-hour semifinal against Australia's Tony Roche, but he had to battle out five sets before winning 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4. Even he admitted later that much of the match was dull.

The 31-year-old American from Miami, Fla., nevertheless reached the final for the first time and called it "a prophecy fulfilled."

He said he set himself two targets this year: the world championship of tennis, which he won in Dallas in May, and Wimbledon.

Kaat Becomes First Hurler To Win 13th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Angels downed the Minnesota Twins 7-6.

The A's scored both their runs off Kaat in the first inning on a triple by Bert Campaneris, an error and an RBI single by Joe Rudi.

Jim Kaat, off to his best start ever, became the major league's first 13-game winner Thursday. He didn't become the first 13-game loser.

Kaat, 33-4, allowed 11 hits but only two runs, one of them unearned, in 8 1/3 innings — home runs by Bobby Bonds in the fourth and ninth innings — and Oscar Gamble and Boog Powell homered for Cleveland.

Powell snapped a 1-1 tie with a two-run homer in the sixth that sent the Yankees to their fifth straight defeat.

Royals 10, Rangers 5

John Mayberry crashed his fifth home run in three nights, a two-run shot in the first inning, and Tony Solaita added a pair of homers and Fred Patek chipped in one for Kansas City.

Angels 7, Twins 6

Nolan Ryan was unable to hold a 6-0 lead and was bayed in the eighth but the Angels won in the ninth on a single by Winston Lenas and Joe LaHoud's triple. Ryan, who hasn't won since June 8 and has lost four in a row, allowed 11 hits and six runs in 7 2/3 innings. He walked six and struck out eight.

Jones Perfect For Seven; Downs Reds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fuentes doubled him to third. Randy Jones has an interesting set of priorities. Perhaps it has something to do with team spirit.

"It was more upset over giving up a run than losing the no-hitter," the San Diego left-hander said Thursday night after pitching a one-hitter in the Padres' 2-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

In the rest of the National League, New York blanked Chicago 4-0, Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 7-4, Los Angeles whipped San Francisco 7-1 and Pittsburgh beat Montreal 5-1.

Robby Tolan led off the bottom of the ninth with a single off Will McEnaney and Tito

Wall Leads Milwaukee In Lightning

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Art Wall said it was his best record in longer than he could remember, and never mind that he couldn't quite finish it.

Wall, 1959 Masters champion but winless on the tour in nine years, was five under par with a hole in play Thursday when lightning, rain and darkness forced suspension of the second round of the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Wall was in position to be or overtake the second-round clubhouse co-leaders, Gibby Gilbert and Ken Sully, during completion of the round scheduled today.

Wall was among almost two dozen golfers unable to finish the rain-threatened second round Thursday.

Gilbert and Sully finished respective rounds of 66 and 67 moments before the elements struck for a second time during the day. They share the lead with nine-under-par totals of 135.

Gilbert's six-under-par round was the day's best over the 7,018-yard Tuwaiqua Country Club course.

Wall after an opening-day 67 Wednesday, scored five birdies on his back nine Thursday and was 10-under-par for the tournament when play was suspended.

He and the others who couldn't finish were to resume their second round at 8:30 a.m. CDT from the point at which play recommenced. Weather permitting, officials planned to repair the course and replace pins in time for a third round at 11 a.m.

Wall could not explain his sudden emergence from a long slump.

"I don't think it is a freaky thing. I have been putting well, hitting 20-foot shots," he said.

Miller Barber, first-day leader with a 65, bogeyed his round after two holes Thursday but recovered for a 71 and 136 total, one behind Sully and Gilbert.

Lou Graham, U.S. Open winner two weeks ago, was 147 after a 75.

called for a two-heart rebid at 11. North's one-trick response had not affected South at all. South did have a sure diamond stopper, a good club suit and 18 high-card points. Finally, as he pointed out later on North might well have had good hearts instead of his good hearts in which case the hand really belonged in notrump.

Of course, if South had made his proper rebid of two hearts and North held diamonds, he could have bid notrump. As it was North would have raised to four hearts. Six hearts would be a cinch and seven was there in case it was big.

"Well," said South, "I certainly know how to play notrump contracts."
"Humph," replied North. South's brilliant play at three notrump had consisted of cashing seven top tricks, taking a successful spade finesse, cashing dummy's ace of spades and scoring the nine tricks he needed.

South must have been one of that group of bridge players who feel that the declaration of independence gave them the right to bid notrump at every opportunity.

Festive Day Topped By Fireworks Display Zoo Opening, Holiday Bring Thousands To Sanford

by MICK LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Boulevard, running along Lake Monroe in Sanford, had a busy traffic day on Friday, the Fourth of July.

Crowds throughout the day moved between the opening of the new Central Florida Zoo and the holiday festivities at Fort Mellon Park in the city.

Zoo officials say that approximately 10,000 people went through the gates of the new zoo, located off U.S. 17-92 hidden in foliage greenery. Official grand opening ceremonies for the 21-acre zoo is expected to be held in 60 days.

Jack Horner, executive manager of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, estimated that more than 20,000 persons in a "steady flow" visited the activities at Fort Mellon Park. The evening was topped off with a colorful 30-minute fireworks display.

The day at Fort Mellon Park was highlighted by keynote speaker State Rep. Bob Hattaway (D-Altamonte Springs), a frog jumping contest and two local rock 'n' roll bands.

A row of flag-draped, red, white and blue booths offered visitors fresh fish, cold drinks, hot dogs, corn on the cob and Bicentennial souvenirs.

More holiday activities were scheduled for Saturday with a sidewalk sale at the Sanford Plaza sponsored by the Sanford Plaza Merchants Association.

Horner had one word for the work and contributions that went into insuring a smooth operating day of activities — "outstanding."

Horner commended the Sanford Police Department for doing a "great job" in handling the traffic and always being "visible, available and ready."

Hattaway, making a five-minute noon patriotic speech, told the crowd that people need to "exchange contempt for consideration." Hattaway read quotations from slain political figures John F. and Bobby Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"It's important to think about the brotherhood of man," the freshman legislator said. He called on Americans to develop a "bond of humanness."

The opening of the new zoo, a much awaited occasion, "passed" the crowd flow into Fort Mellon Park, according to Horner.

"The zoo released the crowds at a steady pace," Horner said. "The pacing of crowds helped maintain easier crowd controls." He also said there were "no incidents, no arguments and no problems." He said there were a couple of minor cases of heat exhaustion in the 80 degree weather.

Young Barbara Johnson of Sanford held the winning frog in the Junior Women's Club-sponsored frog jumping contest. Horner said Miss Johnson won a $25 savings bond for having the frog which could leap the greatest distance in the shortest time.

The two rock bands — Society and Squash — played in the afternoon and evening and, according to Horner, "lived up" the day.

"They were rock bands," Horner says. "But they were good."

Horner also had a good word for Jay Warnick, of Lake Mary, the man who put the match to the fireworks.

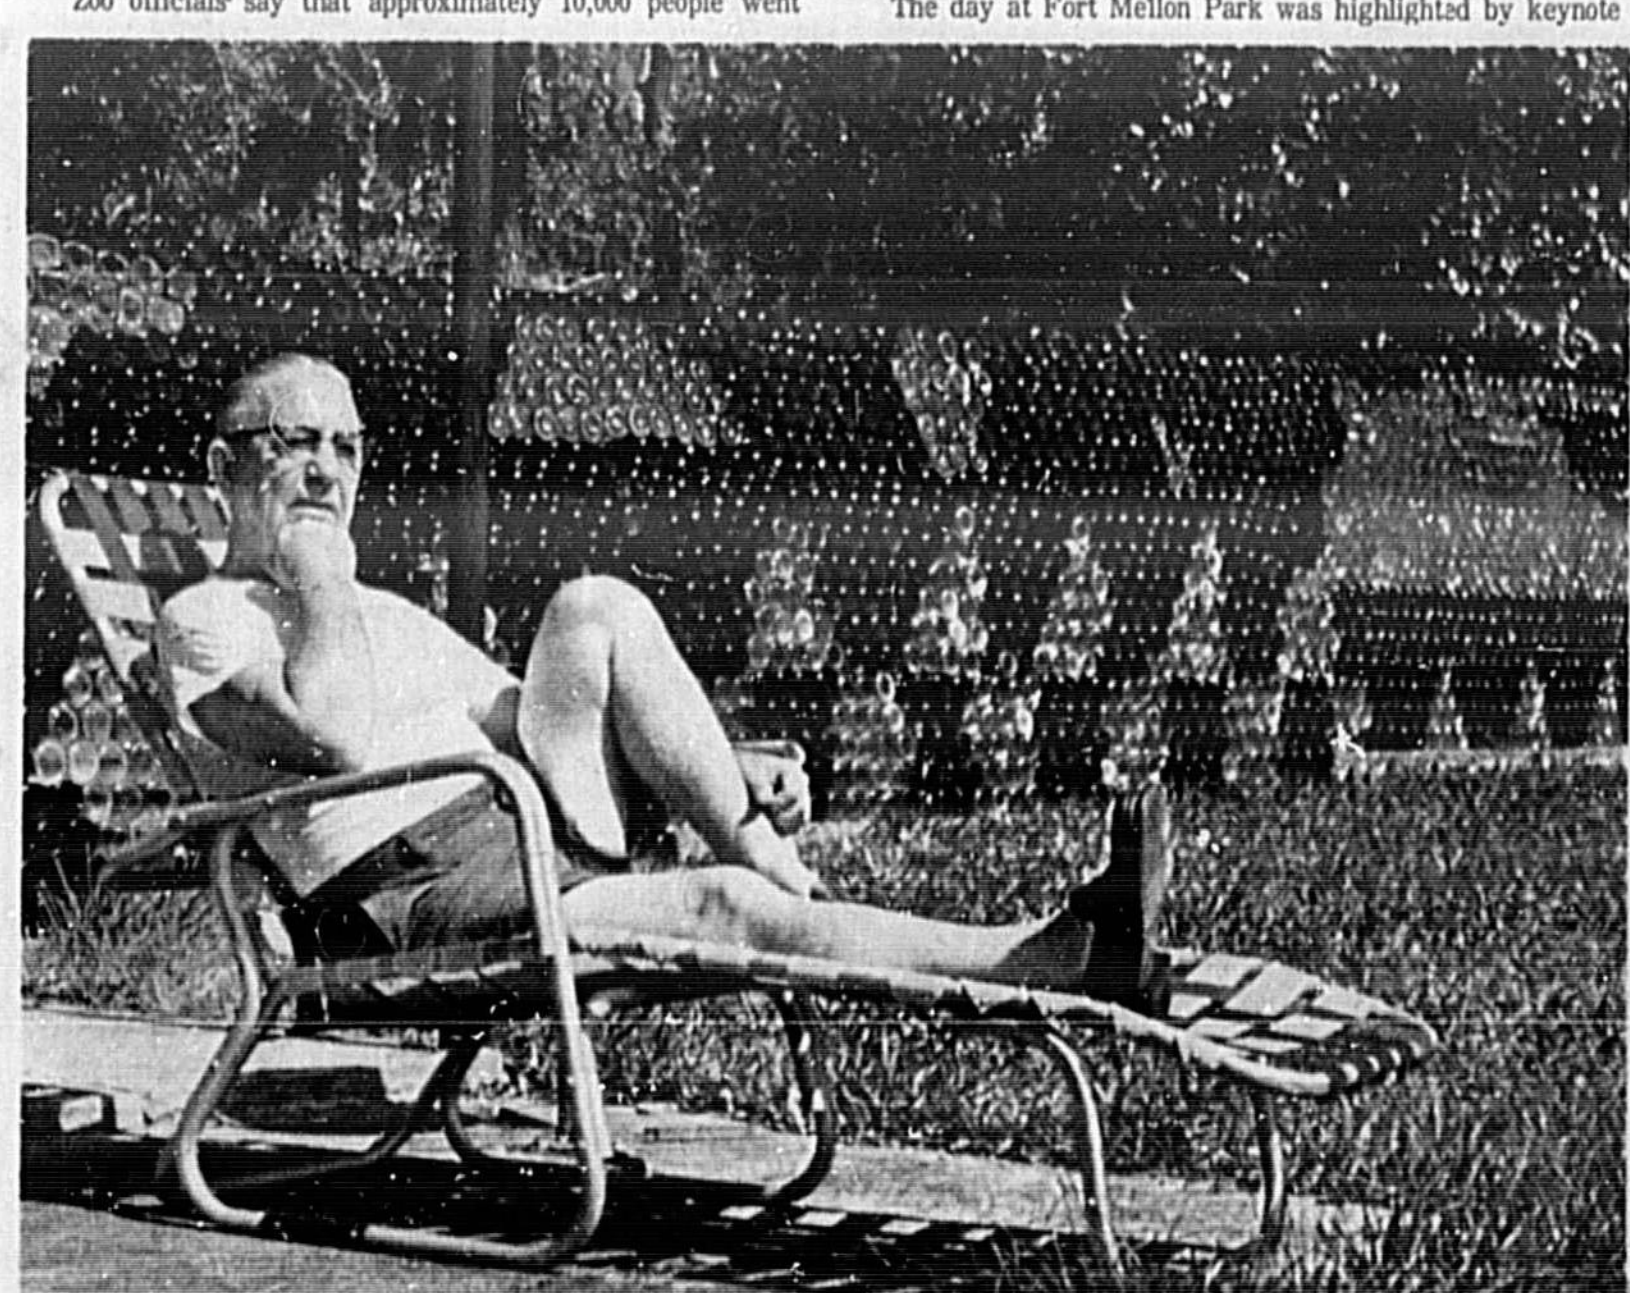

The fireworks were purchased by the Downtown Business Association.

Horner said that most of the money raised from sales in the booths will be donated to charities. The people "weren't working for themselves," Horner says.

Elsewhere in the county's celebration of the 199th birthday of America, a parade moved through Geneva, and patriotic music and square dancing, performed by the Music Militia, filled the Civic Center in Altamonte Springs.

The Ovidio Jayces hosted Fourth of July festivities with a watermelon eating and seed-spitting contest.

Longwood also held Fourth of July festivities.

Eric Sunberg of South Seminole relaxes in front of his 'bottle fence'.

He Finds Relaxation In 'Empty' Bottles

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Why does a man spend 20 years of his life constructing a 350-foot long, five-foot high bottle fence cemented together by some 30,000 empty beer, wine and whiskey bottles?

Perhaps it was done to escape the "horrors" of a deep crater in his back yard search for good sand to mix concrete that he couldn't get out of the hole. But a quick call to his wife, Nola, and construction continued.

"Could be. Could be," muses 74-year-old Eric Sunberg, as he sits on a lawn chair in back of his south Seminole home.

"No one but a Swede would be crazy enough to do that," Sundberg says, pointing toward the intricately designed fence which runs alongside his Lake Brantley home.

There it sits. A work of art really, Sundberg's fence with bottles placed to reflect intricate designs when lights hooked up inside the bottles are switched on at night.

Shaking his head, the "Swede," as friends call him, says he remembers working the 3-12 p.m. shift as a bartender. Come morning, the "Swede" would hop out of bed early to begin work on his fence. Since he worked as a bartender, he thought he might as well find a use for the "empties."

A little digging in his backyard for sand to mix cement — and the "Swede's" 20-year labor of love began.

During those 20 years, Sundberg estimates he worked on his fence three hours per day. First, he would trace a design on paper. A few dabs of concrete, an appropriate number of bottles — his fence grew little by little.

Once, the "Swede" dug such a deep crater in his back yard search for good sand to mix concrete that he couldn't get out of the hole. But a quick call to his wife, Nola, and construction continued.

"What did Nola think about all this time spent building a bottle fence?"

"She never objected. Except...she thought I was crazy as hell, naturally," the "Swede" answered.

Sitting in the sunlight, the "Swede" reflectively knows that his fence was indeed a "creation," a way to occupy his spare time. In essence, a way to stay sane. To create in a philosophy based on nickels and dimes.

And, the "Swede" will tell you that, if you ask him.

Judge Strawn Tries To Simplify Orders

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Do jurors in criminal cases actually understand all the judge's instructions before they retire to deliberate? Seminole-Brevard Circuit Court Judge David U. Strawn doesn't think so and preliminary research using controlled groups of veniremen bears this out.

Judge Strawn is spearheading an effort to get federal funding for a study to probe communication problems between judges and jurors.

Strawn said in both instances a notable area of concern centers on circumstantial evidence instructions. Despite court instructions that circumstantial evidence is acceptable, and under what conditions, many jurors answered questionnaires with the reply that it isn't legal.

The $76,000 grant will be used, Strawn said, to repay FTU professors for time they've already spent on the project plus to fund a professional videotape production using actors in an "actual Band-E trial."

Annexation Laws Confusing - Even To Lawmakers

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

There are almost as many interpretations of the 1975 state annexation law floating around Seminole County as there are attorneys.

In recent weeks lawyers for Seminole cities have given completely conflicting opinions on whether the new law repeals the Mooney Bill.

The Mooney Bill is a special act affecting only Seminole County, sponsored when Gene Mooney was a member of the Legislature. The law requires personal notification of property owners within 60 feet of a tract proposed for annexation into a city and rezoning. The notification must be given to city and non-city property owners, alike.

One attorney expressed surprise recently when he found the new law appears to require publication on four different occasions of the entire annexation ordinance.

At the same time, a county official this week criticized the new law, insisting it neither requires planning by the cities for services the municipalities must provide to newly annexed territory nor forbids density changes.

The 1975 law, passed in the recent session of the Legislature, states in Section 171.0413 (b) "Except as otherwise provided in this law, the annexation procedure as set forth in this section shall constitute a uniform method for the adoption of an ordinance of annexation by the governing body of any municipality in this state, and all existing provisions of special laws which establish municipal annexation procedures are repealed hereby."

However, the new law in Section 171.042 (4) states: "The method of annexation provided in this section shall be supplemental to any other procedure provided by general or special law..."

The "Except as otherwise provided in this law" portion of (b) appears to except (4) making the procedures supplemental to existing law. This, it appears the "Mooney Bill" remains on the books.

As for publication in entirety of the ordinance of annexation, the 1974 law said of the annexation ordinance, "said ordinance shall thereupon be published once a week for four consecutive weeks."

The 1975 law says of the annexation ordinance, "said ordinance shall be passed after same has been published once a week for four consecutive weeks."

The difference in the two laws is that the 1974 one provides for advertising after ordinance passage with court remedies available, while the 1975 law requires publication prior to adoption of the ordinance.

The 1975 law only changes the numbering, not the provisions of the section requiring cities to prepare a report setting forth plans to provide urban services to any area to be annexed.

The exact wording of the plan remains the same.

Section 171.042 of the 1974 annexation law, prohibiting municipalities from increasing or decreasing the density allowed under a county plan for a period of two years unless the increase is approved by the county commission, remains part of the 1975 law.

Analysis

Ashe Takes Men's Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Arthur Ashe moved impressively to a two-set lead then fought off a determined Jimmy Connors to win the Wimbledon men's singles title 6-1, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4 today, becoming the first black ever to hold the prestigious men's crown.

Ashe, serving and volleying with power and precision, breezed through the first two sets, breaking Connors' serve five times.

But then Connors battled back in the third set, breaking Ashe's powerful serve for the first time in the match to even the set at 2-2. Both players then held serve to 6-5, when Connors broke serve again.
