

Price Controls

consumers in a position to buy more beef than is available now or likely to be available. That's because beef is just a few dollars and each dollar would buy more beef.

In a situation like this, some consumers would have to do without or get along with much less than they now get, unless there were some other way.

The bulk of the meat is produced in the Midwest and Mountain states. In normal times, large supplies of meat move from the central states to populous areas of the East, West and South.

Under a system of price ceiling and an insufficient supply of meat, there would be a tendency for a larger than normal portion of the supply to remain in areas of production. Rationed meat would put consumers there in a position to buy more than they do now. That would leave less for other areas.

Of course, the government hopes to be able to get available supplies spread out over the country by (1) means of adjustments in meat ceilings which would make them a little higher in the East, West and South and lower in the Midwest and (2) an order requiring slaughterers to follow a past slaughter and meat marketing plan.

Even if these controls did get fairly even distribution of supplies, there still would be shortages, the experts said. No single area, city, or butcher shop would get enough beef to meet demands of its consumers. Without rationing, consumers who get to store their goods get the most and the late shoppers would do without.

A sharp battle against the railroads is expected to be set up by the livestock and meat industries. They contend it is impossible to keep black markets from reappearing, unless the government hires an army of enforcement officials.

Crime Opinion

required if we are to reap the full benefits of this side inquiry.

How complete will be the commutation is too soon to say. Mayor Vincent Impellitteri's tardiness in removing the acquaintances of Costello, and Tammany's (Manhattan Democratic organization) complete indifference to taint in its leadership are discouraging, but not wholly unexpected. A revolutionary upheaval within the electorate is the only solution that has a faint chance of success.

The committee recommendations will certainly handicap interest in gambling. But the gambling urge will remain and will find expression on a state and local level if no other.

New York Daily News—"Kefauver's clockwork... and capriciousness, as well as his own low to express in print, our opinion that when the committee yesterday released its report, it was a disservice to the people."

The disclosures were no news at all to any reasonably intelligent newspaper reader.

It is the proposed remedies that fascinate us. They recommend a lot of steps which in effect would put the government into a sort of hostile takeover with the racketeers. (Largely by stringent taxation on gamblers and underworld figures.)

New York Herald Tribune—"Where do we go from here? The Kefauver Committee, to its credit, admits the clean up job devolves on the people themselves. As J. Edgar Hoover says, Washington 'can never be a satisfactory substitute for local self-government in the enforcement field.'

"One can appreciate the Kefauver Committee's helpful spirit and yet wonder whether more law and regulation will solve the problem."

Castello declined any comment. In Washington, there was mixed reaction to O'Dwyer's mention in the report. Senator Ives (R-NY) said he had not read the report but that "there appears to be justification for the immediate recall" of O'Dwyer from Mexico City.

MIAMI, May 2—(AP)—Considerable evidence of direct bribes to law officers in Miami is charged in the report. Other charges are that some law-enforcement officials used "obstructive tactics" to block citizens and "honest law-enforcement officials," and that some local racketeers conspired with the old Capone gang. The report "strongly condemns" Governor Warren's reinstatement of Dade county Sheriff James Sullivan without a public investigation of facts brought out by the committee and a county grand jury.

In Miami, Sullivan had no comment. Miami Beach Mayor Harold Turk was unavailable for comment.

His Miami's Mayor, William Wolfarth, said his report examined his city, giving it a "good conduct medal." Wolfarth explained that Miami remained clean while in the center of an area that was "probably the worst in the country."

The Miami Herald called the Kefauver report a challenge to the State Legislature "to clear Florida of the sinister blot that has defiled it and the office of its chief executive."

In Tallahassee, Governor Warren said he had no comment "at this time" on the report. The committee says it saw the sinister shadow of Mafia in the wind of a recent public opinion poll. The Kefauver Committee only confirmed in detail what every informed citizen already knew: that organized gambling long has operated here with the tolerance or purchased protection of the responsible officers.

Inside WASHINGTON MARCH OF EVENTS

Truman Wants Early End To MacArthur Controversy

Acheson's Early Departure Again Heard In Washington

WASHINGTON—Look for the Truman administration to make every effort to avoid a continuing nationwide controversy over Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal.

Contrary to some published reports, President Truman has no wish to take the MacArthur issue to the people. That is why the chief executive endorsed the general's appearance before Congress and declared his hearty approval of tumultuous public outpourings for the deposed military leader.

Administration policy-makers fear that bitter strife on the MacArthur matter might have serious effects on the military program for defense of Western Europe.

Therefore, informed observers say, present strategy is to let MacArthur have his say, let congressional investigations take their course, and hope that ill-feeling over the discharge of the Far East commander will die out.

ACHESON SITUATION—The firing of General MacArthur has revived the rumors that Secretary of State Dean Acheson may leave President Truman's Cabinet soon.

The latest report in authoritative quarters is that Acheson is trying to convince Mr. Truman that the time is ripe for him to step out as Secretary of State.

Even before Republicans cut loose again with demands for his resignation after MacArthur was dismissed, Acheson reportedly intended to retire to private life but Mr. Truman said no.

Washington reports that former Marshall Plan Chief Paul Hoffman is a more likely prospect to succeed Acheson than Supreme Court Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson. However, Hoffman has told friends he has no desire to return to a government job.

HEALTH—At a time when most news is depressing, the United States Public Health Service comes up with the cheerful word that America is becoming a healthier nation.

A survey made in all states except Idaho during the week March 25-31 showed that 34,287 communicable diseases were reported as against 93,184 cases for the comparable period last year. Marked decline was registered in such diseases as pneumonia, influenza, amebiasis and whooping cough. For example, "flu" dropped from 13,362 cases last year to 8,892 in 1951; pneumonia declined from 3,089 to 2,047, and whooping cough from 2,778 to 1,311.

The USPHS says the downward trend can be attributed to new drugs and techniques developed by the medical profession, effecting more rapid cures and deterring the spread of disease.

THE KING'S NAVY—The Navy League of the United States—an unofficial but highly vocal organization—takes a dim view of Britain's clamor against appointment of an American admiral to command North Atlantic Treaty sea forces.

The League insists that the British Navy, which Britain's Navy once ruled the seas, is "retrogressing under the New 'Steadily Retreating' government."

It was pointed out that James Callaghan, parliamentary secretary to the Admiralty, recently announced that since World War II Britain has disposed of 340 warships of the frigate class or larger, and that of these, 206 were scrapped. Cruisers, aircraft carriers and battleships accounted for 40 units of the total. The United Kingdom has begun a limited new naval build-up, but it does not begin to offset the drastic reduction in sea strength.

Hospital Shortage

A bill which allowed him to leave the post on all normal off-duty hours. The general said one of his patients, Jackie, told him that he and two other buddies took Pettit to the turf's bus station and Pettit and Dickey rode a bus to Kansas City. Dickey said "I'm damned but I was able to walk."

In Chicago, Amborski's father, John Amborski, 45, said he was attempting to get a medical discharge for his son and had sought help from Rep. Richard Vail (R-Ill). The ailing ill technically is held as a "casualty without leave" at Ft. Leonard Wood.

Army authorities at St. Leonard Wood said Amborski had received medical treatment five times since his arrival at the camp Apr. 2. Amborski's father said Stanley had written that he was ill and unable to get proper medical treatment.

A Navy spokesman said the 450-mile trip from the Missouri camp to Chicago probably aggravated Stanley's condition. He was removed to the Naval hospital upon the advice of a civilian physician after his arrival in Chicago Sunday night.

The Army said in Los Angeles that it wants to know why Pvt. Arthur Credelton, 20, of Yuma City, Miss., was refused admittance at Los Angeles county General Hospital last week. He died enroute to the Navy Hospital at Oceanside, Calif., 70 miles south, the only major military medical installation serving the Los Angeles area.

Military regulations provide for treatment of servicemen at civilian hospitals with reimbursement to the Army. The Army believes, however, the hospitals don't know about it.

Department was not included in the regulations. Arthur Willis, county superintendent of charities at Los Angeles General Hospital, said "under normal conditions, we don't take military cases. But we're willing to do so any time the military wants to make the arrangements. It takes us more than a year to get paid."

Sgt. Dale Ballanger, said his nine-month-old son, James J. Ballanger, died in his mother's arms last month, 10 minutes before the family reached Oceanside. He was taken to the Ft. MacArthur infirmary, he said, but was told to wait until a lineup of soldiers had been treated. The child's ailment later was diagnosed as influenza, Ballanger said.

by after his inauguration to "divvy up" the state. He said he had been invited to appear before the Haley group, but has not replied to the bid as yet.

Warren has branded his statement false and called upon Callaghan to retract it.

The House also has the committee has subpoenaed Leo Edwards, chairman of the state racing commission, and racing commission Secretary B. P. Beville. The committee has asked for the records of the commission.

The House committee legislative action on the bill to put private power and gas companies under state regulation by approving a conference report on the measure.

The Senate adopted the conference report late yesterday. It will place privately-owned power and gas companies under regulation by the railroad and public utilities commission. It will prohibit petroleum companies to export, unless they manufacture or sell natural gas.

The House rejected, 67-17, an effort to override its fish and game committee's adverse report on a bill which would have required a $1 license for Florida residents to fish with cane poles in their home counties.

Introduction of the House spending bill brought the session to a halt at the midpoint of its 60-day session, to a new phase of operation—the loss of financing for the state for the next two years.

It appropriates $112,000,000 for the state's current operation; $10,000,000 for the University of Florida; $7,100,000 for Florida State University; $3,716,252 for Florida A. and M. college for negroes and $32,200,000 for the State Welfare Board.

It allows $1,000,000 for the State Advertising Commission; $3,000,000 for the Motor Vehicle Commission; $1,001,264 for the Beverage Department; $3,500,000 for the Department of Public Safety which includes the Highway Patrol.

An appropriation of $8,012,100 payable from the general insurance fund was made for the Department of Agriculture.

A note accompanying the University of Florida appropriation specified none of the money could be spent on planning or constructing a state medical school. The 1949 Legislature decided that if a medical school ever is established, it is to be at the university. However, no appropriation ever has been made for the school.

A bill providing a prison term of up to five years or a fine of $1,000 upon third conviction for petty larceny was approved by a 40-22 vote.

Kiwanis Luncheon

Seminoles has become an oasis, said Sheriff Mero.

Kiwanis vice-president J. Martin Stinescoper, who had called for a poll following the request of Mr. Tharp, named the latter, Rupert Strickland and Marion Harman as members of a committee to contact the County Commission at its meeting on May 8, and inform them of the request of Kiwanis.

The Rev. A. G. McInnis, president of the Ministerial Association, stated that his group would make a similar request of the Commission on that date, and requested that the County closing law curiously with the State law.

Sheriff Mero was introduced by O. E. Goff who cited the findings of the Kefauver Committee to the effect that the nation's moral fibre would be weakened if the crime situation is not stemmed. The situation is too complex to be handled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation alone, he stated, and declared that communities have got to handle the problem.

"We are very fortunate in having a sheriff who is making a conscientious effort to break up rackets in Seminole County," he stated in introducing Sheriff Mero.

"One trouble with the situation is that the citizens of the state know too little about the law," said Sheriff Mero. "We cannot do our job right unless we get the help of citizens."

He pointed out that he had the power to redneck a law-violating tavern for 24 hours, but couldn't again close it unless a tax charge was presented.

The State Beverage Department is being paid $325,000 a year to enforce the law in Florida and is not doing it, said Sheriff Mero, and he added that since he had been made Sheriff in 1947 not a single case had been made by the Department in Seminole County.

He stated that a move to new town to redneck a Tallahassee tavern to abolish the Beverage Department and put liquor law enforcement back into the hands of sheriffs. He declared that he favors such a law and pointed out that "Giding squads" from the Department were here 31 days, and until Thursday and were unable to make a case.

Sheriff Mero said that whereas on weekends he used to add four to five deputies to his force, he is recently called upon as many as 34.

Edward F. Lane told of the death of A. C. Fort, who in 1931 served as president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club and who led the Kiwanis band.

Guests were Dick Johnson of Jacksonville; Al Galloway of Winter Park; George Spohn of Winter Park; and Sammy Jacobson of the Key Club.

reported cash receipts for last year of $4,481.75 and total disbursements of $1,182.84, leaving a cash balance as of Dec. 31, 1950 of $309.91. Disbursements included $869.61 for one patient stricken with the disease last summer. The audit of the club's books also showed a balance of $2,550 which the chapter still owes the National Foundation.

Mr. Sauls reported a total of $2,074.79 collected during this year. He also reported that $1,000.48 was collected by the schools.

House Judiciary committee. Petty larceny is defined by Florida law as theft of articles valued at less than $50. The present maximum jail term for petty larceny is 180 days.

The committee rejected a bill to restrict the discharge of indigent prisoners because of inability to pay fines of less than $250.

The House also turned down two Senate-approved bills. One would have provided means to enforce alimony, support and separate maintenance orders by authorizing contempt proceedings for defaulters.

The other would have provided that no settlement of personal injury suits or other legal actions because of the death of the defendant.

The Senate changed its mind and approved a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish county school trustees.

The bill would mainly affect William H. (Bill) Johnston, owner of one of the nine dog tracks in the state.

A House-Senate conference committee has the bill to prohibit race track people from donating to political campaigns. The House tacked on an amendment saying no one could contribute to campaigns. The Senate failed to go for that and it went to the committee to work out an agreement.

These bills have been voted out of committees and are in early voting positions in both houses.

Wedemeyer Report

Acheson then reviewed the development of Korean policy. He told how United Nations sponsored election were held in South Korea and the Korean government created there in August 1948.

Acheson said American occupation forces were not withdrawn from Korea until June 29, 1949, six months after the announced withdrawal of Russian troops.

The American military mission of 500 officers and men was established when the occupation ended and "was still there when the Communist sneak attack (last June) was launched."

When the Republic of Korea took over after withdrawal of American troops, its forces totaled 141,000 and had increased to 150,000 when the Communists struck. They had received more than $57,000,000 worth of U. S. equipment, including mainly light infantry weapons such as rifles and carbines and machineguns.

Acheson also noted the United States had provided $155,000,000 in government and relief funds during the occupation and was running a post-occupation program of $25,000,000 when the war broke out.

Acheson supported President Truman's suppression of the Wedemeyer report. He said the President had taken the view that it was not in the public interest to publish the report and even now that it has been given out, he said, it has been cut out of the public version and is still held secret.

He was asked whether his statement about Korean policy amounted to a commentary on the Wedemeyer report. He replied that he did not so consider it, that it was rather an attempt to state the record of what had been done.

Secretary Acheson told reporters he knew of no evidence that the Senate Crime Committee's criticism of Ambassador William O'Dwyer have hurt relations between the United States and Mexico.

Acheson also told a news conference, in response to questions, that he had no plan to confer with O'Dwyer as a result of the committee's year long investigation and report.

He said that if he thought there was any reason to remove an ambassador of course this would be taken up with the President. He asked whether such a step was planned on O'Dwyer, Acheson said with a smile that he had no comment to make on a loaded question like that.

Then he replied with a crisp no to a question whether there was any evidence that developments have adversely affected U. S. relations with Mexico.

At the White House, meanwhile, presidential secretary Joseph Short told reporters he saw no evidence of any plan to recall O'Dwyer from his diplomatic post.

The Crime Committee's report yesterday that O'Dwyer was mayor of New York, had contributed to the growth of organized crime in this country, has been reported by Congress that he either resign or clear himself.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.C.), a Foreign Relations Committee member, said in a statement that he was "perfectly obvious that the President should recall" O'Dwyer immediately.

"It is contrary to every good principle of democracy and diplomacy for us to be represented in Mexico by a man whose political activities in this country have been, at the very least, open to serious question," Smith said.

not approve the same bill, the Senate in a stormy meeting session failed by two votes to get it out of the committee and onto the floor for a vote.

The bill would mainly affect William H. (Bill) Johnston, owner of one of the nine dog tracks in the state.

2. Specifying compulsory jail sentences for persons convicted of bookmaking.

Korean War

plenty of targets on the highway. Through the night and day they blasted Red efforts to build up manpower and supplies for a renewal of their halted offensive.

The present status of the Red fleet was summed up by Van Fleet after a flying visit to the 10th Corps front. He said:

"We have punished the Communist forces severely. The enemy has fallen in the first phase of his offensive. He has paid a heavy price (more than 75,000 casualties in nine days). The first part of the battle has ended in a great victory for the United Nations."

Van Fleet made it clear he didn't consider this the final end of the Red offensive.

Communist forces he said, have "the capability of hitting again as hard as before or harder. However, I am confident the results will be the same."

Every Red attempt in the drive so far has ended like the battle of the rivers.

The Communists closed the sluice gates Monday night to lower the level of the two rivers. That would make them easier to cross. The water level dropped sharply.

Skydivers from the carrier Princeton opened the gates Tuesday. They swept in across the Reservoir and skipped 1,000 pound bombs into two flood gates. First reports said they used aerial torpedoes but later AP correspondent Tom Hancock said they used bombs with special fuses to cause the greatest amount of underwater damage.

One of the 18 floatgates was destroyed. A 10 foot hole was ripped in another.

Now the Reds will have to build bridges to cross the river. And their slow-working engineers will be asy targets for United Nations artillery and planes which blasted the drive out of the nine-day-old Communist offensive.

The front was quiet again Wednesday.

Ineffective Red efforts Tuesday to find a soft spot in Allied lines cost them 1,205 men. That was the lightest toll of the offensive nevertheless. Red casualties for the drive rose well above 75,000.

Communists mounted light probing attempts Wednesday below the Hwachon dam in the center of the peninsula. These were blocked.

MacArthur Hearing

Some Republicans are arguing that too much secrecy in the foreign policy field has led to mistakes.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) contended that if the public and the Wedemeyer report on Korea Congress had known the contents they might have prevented many Communist advances in Asia.

This report, prepared by Lt. General Bert G. Wedemeyer in 1947, warned that "infiltration" of North Korea might invade South Korea. Key words include a "top-secret" label. The report was given out yesterday by Chairman Russell (D-Ore.) at the Senate Armed Services Committee hearings.

Backers of MacArthur's views on Far Eastern policy promptly claimed it proved Administration policy in Korea and China was wrong.

The Armed Services Committee, with 13 members, and the Foreign Relations Committee, with 12, are to question MacArthur tomorrow as the first step in a general inquiry into Far Eastern policy. Normally, the Foreign Relations Committee also has 13 members but there is a vacancy due to the death of Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

The decision by the two committees to close the doors to other members of Congress means that only those 26 senators of the 531 members of Congress will hear the general.

Normally other senators and even House members are allowed to sit in on congressional hearings even when they are closed to the public and the news.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told a reporter the decision to limit the hearing to committee members "was generally agreed to without a formal vote."

SELECTED by a committee of the International Chiropractors Association at Hwasong, Iowa, Jeanne Arnold, 29, has been named "Good Nature Girl of 1951." More than 100,000 letters and cards are being mailed to her in appreciation of her work.

sky said the Reds were testing the U. N. lines along the Chunchon-Hwachon axis, a traditional invasion route down the spiny center of the peninsula.

The Reds also tried to punch through east of Hwachon dam near Injo on the 38th Parallel. Allied artillery, planes and infantry broke it up.

South Koreans still operating about 20 miles north of 38 on the east coast broke up a probing attack southwest of Karosong.

Reds were out of contact with Allied forces on the eastern front north of Seoul.

Fifth Air Force planes, rounding out their 125,000th sortie of the Korean war, inflicted 600 casualties.

And the warplanes kept up a round-the-clock attack on Communist supply lines and concentrations. Unprecedented numbers of Red trucks still were rushing their weight from the west to the central front.

Heaviest increase in men and supplies appeared to be on the central front. Most of them were concentrating in the Chunchon sector. This is the center of a road network.

By the light of flares U. N. planes spotted more than 2,000 vehicles on the move Tuesday night. Nine hundred were counted on west coast highways leading toward Seoul.

The Reds stayed out of range of missed American artillery.

Chinese artillery, a fairly daring more recent stages of their offensive, opened up briefly Tuesday night north of Seoul. The guns fired 200 to 300 rounds four miles northwest of the city, then fell silent.

The number of Red shells was matched by the U. S. cruiser Reliance alone. Back in action after an overhaul in the United States, the heavy cruiser blasted 280 shells into the Korean on the east coast by the light of star shells.

The Navy maintained its usual bombardments on both coasts and sent its planes roaring over North Korea. But its most spectacular action was the reopening of Hwachon Dam.

This was the first time a dam in Korea had been torpedooed. When the Chinese rushed into the war last fall, it was believed they wanted to protect the Yalu river

Secret Files Are Filled With Many Ancient Documents

By ELTON C. FAY Associated Press Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—Documents involved in the General MacArthur firing case aren't the only ones in the military's "secret" files.

Those files contain some a century old and still "secret." They date back before the Civil War and run on up to the present.

The reasons for their still "secret" classification are many, including the fact that no one now knows why they were classified in the first place and since that there has been no request for their declassification.

One file deals with the matter of a lady friend of two Union generals in the Civil War. She was arrested as a Confederate spy, then released under an amnesty order signed by President Lincoln.

Why do the documents on her little footnote to history still bear the red secret stamp? The Defense Department says their publication, even after these many years, would "bring embarrassment to families of the deceased."

Army engineers' office workers say that somewhere in the files of that office are records dating back "long before" the Civil War, still classified secret. It may be that concern some then-new method of bridge building, classified secret and just never changed.

The State Department has released only in recent years documents concerned with events leading up to and during World War I.

The secret stamp on the official report on operations of the American Expeditionary Force in Siberia in 1919 wasn't removed until 1947.

When General Dwight D. Eisenhower became Army chief of staff soon after World War II he set out to make available a quantity of military material on that war.

He named a board which made a list of the material was released for publication. But a substantial part wasn't.

Why? Among the explanations given at the Pentagon now is that almost all of the European campaigns and at least part of the Pacific campaigns were conducted in joint operations with or at least under joint planning by our World War allies. The United States cannot, by itself, release documents which concern other friendly powers, like Britain.

Finally Persians and probably others, some of the officials in joint operations with or at least under joint planning by our World War II campaigns—the so-called "operational" and "after-action" reports of the Generals who planned and fought the battles—are still secret.

THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1951... TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE... God is taking all the time, but we must tune in to the infinite.

Mayor O'Dwyer appointed criminals to office in New York City, according to the Kefauver report. And President Truman appointed O'Dwyer ambassador to Mexico.

More than 34,000 persons traveled in and out of Miami last month by airplane. Most of them were bound to the West Indies, to Cuba, Puerto Rico or Jamaica, or to fascinating South American countries.

In sponsoring a bill in the Legislature which would compel newspapers not to charge more for political advertising than for regular commercial advertising, Rep. Dowds declares "there are many newspapers in Florida which charge candidates for office three or four times as much for advertising space as they do retail stores."

A Methodist temperance leader insists that "heavy drinking at Yalta, Tehran and Potsdam is partly responsible" for the sad state of world conditions today. Then he must admit that some mistakes were made at Yalta, Tehran and Potsdam.

"General Albert C. Wedemeyer, who in 1947 forecast the Communist action in Korea, seems to fall into that category of prophets who have in all history been either persecuted or ignored because they were too far ahead of their times," writes J. M. Roberts, Jr., AP foreign affairs analyst.

Because a bill is introduced in the Legislature prohibiting race track or race track owners, from contributing in political campaigns, an amendment is tacked on prohibiting contributions of any kind from anybody in a political campaign, thus making it impossible for anyone except a very wealthy man to run for state-wide office, and even making it difficult for many people to run for a local office since few people from private income can possibly pay the costs of campaigning.

The Kefauver Report

No self-respecting citizen can read the final report of the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee without a sense of shame over the sordid state of affairs existing in this country today. Though admittedly there are islands of decency at various levels of local, state, and federal government, standing out all the more significantly because they remain clean in a polluted sea, we are apparently being largely governed, directly or indirectly, by the worst criminals of the underworld.

While we have always had a certain amount of gambling to contend with in this country, and particularly in Florida has it been true ever since we can remember that lotteries, punchboards, slot machines, bookmakers, and the big roulette gambling casinos have operated in more or less open defiance of law, never before has this widespread weakness of human nature been so organized on a national scale as to form the financial foundation of a vast criminal network, to control the election of high government officials, or to dictate the enactment of state legislation.

We have reached a point in our political degeneration where it would be a comparatively simple matter for a man like Frank Costello to take over complete control of our government all the way up and down the line. With his control of unlimited funds, he could buy out of a race almost any candidate he did not want to run, and if that failed he could drive him out with threats of violence or have him rubbed out altogether for $25. He could have any public office holder who would not play ball with him murdered, and there is nothing anyone could do about it, or he would be murdered too.

This is not a simple matter of gambling as we have known it in the past. This is organized crime on a vast scale. It is crime that has wormed its way into our government where it is pillaging and plundering the public in thousands of different ways and robbing the taxpayers of billions of dollars. If you want to know why your taxes are so high, read in the Kefauver report about the $1,000,000 RFC loan to a Miami Beach hotel which serve as a hideout and headquarters for Chicago criminals.

A thorough house-cleaning, a continuing fight against this sort of thing has got to be made, until all the rascals are driven out and the criminals are lodged in jail where they belong.

Supply Of Cortisone

Cheap manufacture of cortisone, a new drug which some scientists rank with sulfa and penicillin in the relief of human suffering, may be possible within a year. Until now the source of a basic ingredient has been a small bit of the bile slaughtered cattle.

To supply one patient with a day's dose requires the entire supply of cortisone that could be extracted and prepared from the bile of forty head of cattle. This of course makes cortisone not only expensive but scarce, and many people who might have found relief with the drug either could not afford to pay the price or could not be supplied.

The new process for making cortisone will reduce the cost of the drug eventually and make far greater supply available for general use. This relatively new medicine is beneficial in curing and easing the pain of more diseases than used to be claimed by some of the patent medicine producers. It has proved useful to sufferers from rheumatoid, rheumatic fever, eye diseases which cause blindness, and a number of other ailments. But the scientists who worked on the original discovery of cortisone, and on the process to produce it in great quantities from common materials, warn sufferers not to expect to see the product on the market overnight.

It may be some time before cortisone can be manufactured in any amount which will meet the present demand for it. But the fact that it is just a matter of time until it can be marketed in quantity is encouraging.

Averting New Dark Ages

Even if the worst comes to the worst, a return to the Dark Ages that followed the fall of Rome can be averted. One cause of the intellectual decline that overtook Europe in the centuries before the revival in the twelfth century was the destruction of manuscripts and other priceless records of past wisdom. This will not recur if other libraries follow the plan announced by the Vatican.

The project, revealed by St. Louis University, is to microfilm the entire contents of the Vatican library and keep the film in St. Louis, far from the Vatican itself. The Vatican has many extraordinary rare items, more and more of which will be made known as the present project of cataloguing the library on scientific principles is carried out. Their destruction would be an irreparable loss.

If the process of microfilming had been known 2,000 years ago, the world would be the richer by countless lost Greek and Latin masterpieces.

Wake Island Talks

"As for my being at the big meeting there was no secret about that," Miss Anderson went on. "Every one of our people (the President's party) knew it was there. General MacArthur did not know until after the meeting so far as I am aware. But I knew two members of the General's party, Col. Canada and Col. Story and had talked with them before I went to this big meeting."

Lt. Col. Anthony Story is MacArthur's pilot. Col. Charles Canada is the General's physician. "The big room where the conference was held," Miss Anderson said, "had two rooms opening off it. One of these smaller rooms did not have even a chair in it. The other room had a table and a chair or so and was equipped with fresh pineapple and other things for refreshment. I had a typewriter on which I expected to type the communiqué."

When the meeting opened and the talk began, she said, she "automatically began taking notes." In response to questions she went on: "It was under no one's instruction. Actually I hadn't even gone there with a regular note book. I happened to have a pad of lined paper and I just began making notes on that pad. It seemed the thing to do."

Warren-Kefauver

(Continued From Page One) In a word, Warren said the Senator had done "nothing." Similarly, continued Governor Warren, the Senator failed to move against "rampant gambling" in his home state of Tennessee and his home city of Knoxville. In summation, Governor Warren declared: "If Kefauver is not a complete consummate coward, he will meet me in open public debate and afford me a fair and equal chance to show his absurd accusations against me are not only untrue and malicious but that they were made to promote his campaign for President."

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.) last night branded as "ridiculous" and "absolutely untrue" the charge by Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida that he "smear" Warren in the Senate Crime Committee report for a promise to hold obtain the Democratic Presidential nomination. "I have made absolutely no effort to secure any support for any office except the United States Senate in Florida or any other state, and I do not expect to," Kefauver said. Kefauver said he has no personal or political interests in Warren or any other matter in Florida.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The one who gets off easiest in the report of the Kefauver Crime Committee—although no one is more deeply involved—is John Q. Public.

If people didn't gamble, there wouldn't be any gambling. And it's the gambling of a great many people which makes crime syndicates possible. It's as simple as that and as simple as this: Every bet made in violation of the law—with a lottery peddler, on the green felt of a dice table, or with a street corner bookmaker—helps break down the law and encourages crime.

And the mobsters, in their fierce desire to rake in citizen John's two bucks, bribe public officials, corrupt government, bump one another off, and make a snail in America life. The Kefauver Committee must have sighed over the problem—how to get people to quit gambling—for about the harshest thing it had to say about the public was this: "The 32 horse better and the 5-cent numbers player are not only the worst gamblers they are gambling against hopeless odds, but they also provide the moneys which enable underworld characters to undermine our institutions."

Having said that, the Committee must have figured it was hopeless to try to reform millions of people. So it went on for 105 pages to explain how widespread and vicious crime is and how it has reached into high places.

The Committee made some recommendations for cutting down on crime, but not for cutting it out. The Committee desired of every citizen that it not entirely, for it said: "The Committee is convinced that there is no single panacea for the widespread social, economic and political evils that have been uncovered in the many cities in which it has made investigations and held hearings. 'The Committee feels, nevertheless, that while organized crime cannot be completely eliminated from our society, this is no reason for defeatism. In the law enforcement agencies, a central organized crime in the point where it is no longer a menace to our institutions.'"

The work of the committee was sensational headlines and then, about a month ago, was actually out in the public eye than any other national committee in history.

This was when it climaxed a year's investigations by letting its New York hearings be televised. "The Committee estimates that 20,000,000 people watched, and it says: 'These telecasts have had a most salutary effect in awakening the public to the menace of organized racketeering that now confronts our national life.'"

There's probably no doubt that the telecasts had that effect on many people. But it probably had quite a different effect on many others, those who make laws, those who enforce them, those who help the mobsters.

For them, watching the hearings probably were some show-business of conscience, knowing that they themselves, even though only in a small way, had a hand in helping him crime. "The Committee seemed to think it was so, for its report on TV said: "For the first time the public was able to see and hear the notorious headlines in whom it was so often formed for another, passing without its determining for itself whether or not these men are wholesome influences in public affairs and whether they should be permitted to wax even more powerful than they are now."

One good way to determine how powerful the public has become is to see what steps the people nationwide are taking to stop this kind of corruption. There has been no date anything less than frenzy for reform. "The Committee made no recommendations on steps it thinks are needed, to be taken by the law enforcement agencies, by Congress and federal agencies."

Under this sharp prod from the committee, the federal agencies regularly will carry out the recommendations affecting them. But the most important recommendations require action by Congress in passing new laws and settling on some old ones. What will Congress do? Probably not much. This isn't always explicitly. Congress is always pretty slow passing new laws, or changing old ones, and very slow indeed unless there is wide public demand for action.

Perhaps Congress will follow a few of the recommendations. It may try to pass a law for more law enforcement. It may try to pass a law for more law enforcement. It may try to pass a law for more law enforcement. It may try to pass a law for more law enforcement.

LATEST GAMBLING INVESTIGATION

MacArthur Testifies

(Continued From Page One) refused to accept the changes. He said these were "changes which seemed to me to place a political slant upon a military officer's report, which were not warranted."

MacArthur said: "The Defense Department supported my point of view, and maintained that nothing should go in (to the United Nations) over my signature that I did not approve."

MacArthur testified to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. They are making an inquiry into his dismissal and into his Eastern policy.

In his testimony, MacArthur predicted that a few ground troops could wind up the fighting in Korea if backed up by the air and naval effort against Red China which he has urged.

MacArthur said the Jan. 12 views he attributed to the Joint Chiefs were arrived at in conferences between his headquarters and Washington, adding: "I was in full agreement with them and now."

The five-star General quoted to the senators the following recommendations he said were presented by the Joint Chiefs to the Secretary of Defense: "That we are to continue and intensify our economic blockade of trade with China."

"That we were to prepare how to impose a naval blockade of China and place it into effect as soon as our position in Korea is stabilized or when we have evacuated Korea, and depending upon circumstances then obtaining."

"Remove now the restrictions on air reconnaissance of China coastal areas and of Manchuria."

"Remove now the restrictions on operations of the Chinese Nationalist forces and give such logistical (supply) support to those forces as will contribute to effective operations against the Communists."

MacArthur said that "As far as I know, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have never changed those recommendations. If they have, I have never been informed of it."

Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek, whose Nationalist government was driven from the mainland of China by the Communists, has a sizeable army on the island of Formosa.

MacArthur has placed the number of these troops at 600,000 and has urged their use in the war with the Reds. Administration policy has been against this.

Although MacArthur testified behind closed doors, a stenographic report of his testimony—first edited by a military censor—was given to newsmen.

After MacArthur's story of the recommendations from the Joint Chiefs, the questioning went like this: Senator Russell (D-Cal.) So if it was a recommendation of the Joint Chiefs, it encountered a veto somewhere along the line, either from the Secretary of Defense or the Commander-in-Chief, the President of the United States? MacArthur: I would assume so, sir.

Russell: Did the Joint Chiefs ever advise you formally or informally as to what happened to their recommendations? MacArthur: No, sir.

Russell: You did not discuss it with them on subsequent visits to your command? MacArthur: I discussed every time any of them ever came out there, I discussed all these subjects. Russell: And they did not tell you what had happened to their recommendations? MacArthur: Nothing. I have to

Private Colleges May Be Aided By Race Track Funds

TALLAHASSEE, May 3.—(AP)—Florida's horse and dog racing tracks will be authorized to conduct a second extra day of racing each year for private college athletic scholarship funds under terms of a bill introduced in the House today.

An extra racing day already is authorized by law for scholarships to the State supported University of Florida, Florida State University and Florida A. & M. College for Negroes. The State-supported schools have received $164,238.86 from racing so far this year.

The new measure, sponsored by Reps. Pittman and Johnson, both of Hillsborough county, would authorize the second extra racing day with proceeds to go to Florida's private college-supported colleges and universities which have the same entrance and graduation standards as State-supported universities. The University of Miami, University of Tampa, Stetson University, Hollins College and Florida Southern College could benefit from the bill.

The money obtained by the private colleges could be used only for athletic scholarships for inter-collegiate sports.

Rep. Johnson said he probably will offer an amendment to provide only one extra racing day with private colleges to be set up on the proceeds along with the State schools.

Both Reps. Johnson and Pittman are members of the board of directors of the Alumni Association of Tampa University.

The General is here today to counsel with our committee and to help us in the fulfillment of our legislative responsibilities.

"In his address to the Congress on Apr. 16, the General said: 'I do not stand here as an advocate of any partisan cause, for the issues are fundamental and reach quite beyond the realm of partisan consideration.'"

"They must be resolved on the highest plane of national interest if any course is to prove sound and our future protected."

"I wholeheartedly associate myself with that sentiment. I hope these hearings may be conducted from beginning to end in that spirit. If they are not conducted with the single purpose of serving the national interest in this hour of crisis, we will fail those who have given us their confidence and depend upon us for leadership and guidance."

Members Named To New Stabilization Board By Truman

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP)—President Truman today named the members of the new Wage Stabilization Board which will have increased powers in the mobilization program.

Six of the 18 members will represent the public and equal numbers will speak for labor and management.

Mr. Truman created the board after a revolt by organized labor leaders wrecked the wage panel set up originally under the mobilization program.

The new board will have authority to handle labor disputes in addition to passing on wage problems under the stabilization program. Labor leaders had demanded that power for the group.

Mr. Truman named to serve with Chairman George Taylor the following five other public members:

Clark Kept of California, a member of the old nine-member board, vice chairman; Nathan P. Feinsinger, professor of law at the University of Wisconsin; William M. Hegburn, dean of the Emory University Law School, in Georgia; John Dunlop of Massachusetts, another member of the old board; and Frederick H. Bullen of New York, former secretary of the New York State Mediation Board.

The six industry members are: Milton M. Olander, director of industrial relations for the Owens-Illinois Glass Co., Toledo, O.; Alexander R. Heron, director of industrial relations for the Crown-Zellerbach Corp., San Francisco; Richard P. Roberts, director of employer-employee relations for the National Association of Broadcasters, Washington, D. C.; and Henry Bradford Arthur of Illinois, J. Ward Komer of Ohio, and Reuben B. Robertson, Jr. of Ohio, all holdovers from the old board.

Labor's six representatives are: Joseph A. Byrne, president of the CIO Communications Workers; William C. Hirthright, president of the AFL Journeymen Barbers' Union; and John W. Livingston, vice president of the CIO United Automobile Workers and the three holdover members, Harry C. Bates, president of the AFL Bricklayers Union; Emil Rieve, president of the CIO Textile Workers Union; and Elmer E. Walker, vice president of the AFL International Association of Machinists.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said the new board will be sworn in to hold its first meeting here next Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(AP)—Florida members of Congress today urged the House appropriations subcommittee to approve $19,500,000 for Florida waterways projects in the year beginning July 1.

Largest items asked are $7,000,000 for the Jim Woodruff dam and $5,500,000 for the south and central Florida flood control project. Other items asked are $240,329 to reimburse the port of Palm Beach for dredging work at Lake Worth inlet; $1,316,000 for the intercoastal waterway from Jacksonville to Miami and $2,000,000 for the Jacksonville harbor.

Congress members testified at a closed session of the committee. Others testifying were Col. H. C. Gee of West Palm Beach, Mayor Noah Butt of Cocoa.

Schultz Is Brilliant In Defeat As Palatka Edges Sanford 2 To 1

Errors Cost Sanford First Shutout Win As Schultz Allows Azaleas But 4 Hits

A freak, high-hopping infield single, which should have gone for a double play, and a costly outfield error on the same play cost the fire-balling Jerry Schultz a shutout win over the Palatka Azaleas last night as the Sanford Giants burrowed deeper into the Florida State League cellar in losing 2-1.

Schultz, a big long-armed youngster with one of the fastest speed balls in the league, was never in serious trouble as he struck out nine Azaleas batters while allowing but four hits.

The Giants took an early one-run lead in the third frame when Don Bailey walked and came in on an error following Fred Petty's slashing single between third and short. But that was all for the Giants as Cuban Blas Arroyo tightened down. The Palatka hurler allowed only seven hits, spacing them well, while walking four.

Schultz, showing remarkable control, hand-fed the Azaleas and smeled well on his way to Sanford's first shutout win of the year when the roof fell in the seventh.

Don Enquist, who got two of the Azaleas four hits, smashed a booming double to right field and catcher Don Poston walked. The stage was set for a comedy of errors which led the winning run in on defenseless Jerry Schultz.

Pitcher Blas Arroyo had swung at two pitches in a vague way and had two balls on him when he punched uncertainly at one of Schultz's fast breaking curves. The ball bounced out toward Frank Therina in a conventional way and then—about three feet in front of him—took a tremendous foot hop over his head and dribbled out into center field. Had it bounced in any accepted fashion two men would have been out.

Enquist, a slow man afoot, was still about third base when Tim Dolan fielded the ball almost in the grass—only Tim didn't field it and as the ball rolled lazily out toward center field two runs came across. That was the ball game.

Slickest play of the night was Bailey's call for a pitchout to catch Arroyo in an attempted squeeze at home. . . . Bailey also more than made up for a couple of wild throws to second base with an incredible running, one-handed stab of a foul ball in front of the Negro bleachers. . . . The Azaleas pulled three double plays to shut off Sanford rallies in the first, third and eighth innings. . . . The Giants had one twin killing themselves as Klaus, Therina and Peeler teamed to get Enquist and Poston in the fourth. . . . Manager Richie Klaus shifted his lineup last night in an attempt to get a balanced hitting and fielding combination moving Joe Peeler to right field, Petty to left and putting Max Peeler on first base.

Frick Reprimands Robinson For Fracas With Giants' Sal Maglie

NEW YORK, May 3—(AP)—The bean-ball feud between the nearby Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants was kept simmering today as a league president, a club head, players and officials got into the act.

Taking notice of the goings-on at Ebbets Field during the past weekend that came to a head when Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson and New York's Sal Maglie nearly came to blows, President Ford Frick of the National League indirectly placed the blame on Robinson.

Frick ordered the Brooklyn ball club to "handle" its fiercest second baseman or "I will."

Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, took exception to Frick's remarks, commended Robinson's fighting spirit and hustling tactics and declared he would give his player full support.

Dodger Vice President Buzzy Bavasi accused the Giants of igniting the feud and suggested stricter measures by the umpires to guard against bean-ball tactics.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants charged Robinson with pulling a "bush league trick" Monday for luring Maglie down the first base line with a well placed bunt and then deliberately running into the pitcher. Robinson had accused Maglie of throwing at him a moment before.

Maglie, denying he threw at Robinson, said "what got into him, anyway? Those pitches weren't even close."

And what does Robinson say? "If I'm bush as Durocher says, he made me that way. He taught it to me."

"I charged into Maglie because he was throwing at me. It's got to stop before somebody gets hurt. I don't want any incidents, but I've made up my mind I've got to protect myself. I set out to create a disturbance to make Ford Frick step in and stop this feud."

Frick, in the most outspoken statement he's made in some time said: "I have warned only one person about his popping off—what's going on with him over there (in Brooklyn)?"

"I have told Bavasi to pass the word along that if Brooklyn can't handle it I may have to step in. And I can."

Jackie Robinson, I am tired of hearing about his popping off—what's going on with him over there (in Brooklyn)?"

Lanky Cuban Floored Once By Ex-Champ For Count Of Nine

NEW YORK, May 3—(AP)—Joe Louis and Lee Savold, the British-trained heavyweight champion from Englewood, N. J., will meet in a 12-round bout at the Polo Grounds, June 13, the International Boxing Club announced today.

By HARRY STAPLER
DETROIT, May 3—(AP)—If Ole Joe Louis can't kyo the lesser-lights with his best punches, what'll happen when he tackles someone like Lee Savold?

Louis said today he was satisfied with his right-hand punch. Maybe he is, but many of the 7,004 fans at Olympia Stadium last night weren't.

They thought the former heavyweight champion might knock out Omelio Agramonte of Cuba in the way that made Joe a great heavyweight champion for 12 years.

But Joe couldn't finish off the lanky Cuban in the 10-round fight although he floored him twice. Joe won a unanimous decision. And now it's on to Lee Savold, British and European heavyweight champion.

If Joe can beat Savold, who figures to be tougher than Agramonte, the Brown Bomber hopes to tangle with world heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles again.

In the second round last night Louis floored Agramonte. It was the first time in five comeback fights Joe knocked a fighter to the canvas.

In the ninth round he battered and dazed Agramonte, who weighed only 184 1/2 to Louis' 205 1/2. But again he couldn't kyo Omelio, who's not a big name in the boxing world.

Omelio was down for a nine count when Louis decked him in the second.

When Louis knocked out last night's net receipts and Agramonte 12 1/2. The gross gate was $21,666.80. Louis also gets a $10,000 television cut and Agramonte $1,000.

20 Horses Entered In Kentucky Derby; Purse Is Largest

LOUISVILLE, May 3—(AP)—About 20 horses and a score of little men will be battling for $100,000 in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, and jockey Ted Atkinson will be praying he climbed on the right one from the Greenlee Stable.

Toronto Teddy is contract rider for Greenlees, which plan to start Big Stretch and Hall of Fame in the mile and one quarter affair.

Atkinson has been riding Big Stretch, but trainer John Gaver said Ted informed him he probably would pick Hall of Fame Saturday at Churchill Downs. If so, Doug Dodson gets Big Stretch.

Upsetmost in the little Canadian's mind, of course, will be the celebrated case of Eddie Arcaro when he was contract jockey for Greenlee. Arcaro took Devil Diver in the 1942 Derby, leaving Shut Out for Wayne Wright. So Shut Out won and Devil Diver finished sixth. Now it's Atkinson's decision to make, and he's expected on the scene sometime today.

Big Stretch ended his two-year-old campaign last year with impressive victories in the Kentucky Breeders Futurity and the Falmec Futurity, and rated as one of the "big three" along with Battlefield and Uncle Mille. But Ted hasn't been able to find the winner's circle on the son of Eight Thirty in three races this season.

In his last start, Big Stretch finished fifth in the Blue Grass Stakes, showing no liking for mud. In fact, Gaver says the track must be fast Saturday or Big Stretch stays in his barn.

A lot of the opposition is hoping some rain stops up the place, and forces Big Stretch right out of there. Many trainers still think he'll be the horse to beat.

Bribery Charge On Culbreath Man Is Thrown From Court

TAMPA, May 3—(AP)—A charge of bribery against Sheriff H. H. Culbreath was tossed out of criminal court today.

County Solicitor V. R. Fisher asked that the case be dismissed after C. J. Adler, foreman of the grand jury which brought the indictment, told Judge L. A. Grayson that the chief witness could not support the accusation.

The defendant was K. C. Myers, chief deputy under Culbreath. The indictment accused Myers of taking a bribe to let Leonard Mosely, a Negro, sell bootleg whiskey.

Adler and Fisher told the court the description now given by Mosely of the man he says took his money does not fit Myers at all.

Adler said other members of the grand jury agreed with his recommendation.

This was the eleventh straight case brought by the racket probing grand jury to fall down in court.

To start with Fisher himself was acquitted of charges of drunken driving and reckless driving.

Then four charges against Culbreath were dismissed without trial, one at the request of the state. These included three counts of neglect of duty and one of interfering with a poll watcher.

Several private citizens still face trial on charges resulting from the grand jury investigation of public corruption, but only one remains against an official.

That is a bribery case against Culbreath, set for trial next Wednesday.

In that case circuit Judge Henry C. Tillman today overruled an objection by the State's chief witness to taking a sanity test.

State Legislature

The Florida State Beverage Department would be placed under control of the Governor and placed under the State Comptroller by a bill introduced by Senator Davis of Madison and others.

The comptroller would be the director of the department.

Senator Davis is chairman of the Senate committee investigating the Beverage Department.

For the most part of the Legislature worked on minor matters today.

The House passed unanimously a bill requiring most government records to be open for public inspection at all times and providing stiff penalties for officials who refuse to make them public.

It was not certain whether the measure would open up records to the public. The bill would not affect records specifically exempted from inspection by existing state laws.

The Senate also received a proposal by Senator Morrow of West Palm Beach which would have the people vote on whether they want a convention to revise the State Constitution.

Another Senate bill would provide that privately-owned utilities companies pay fees to cover administrative costs of the Railroad and Public Utilities Commission in connection with regulating the power and gas companies, as provided in a newly-passed act.

A bill offered by Senator Collins of Tallahassee would set up a Governor's highway safety conference to promote traffic accident prevention.

A measure, sponsored by the committee on alcoholic beverages, would have chronic alcoholics committed to private hospitals for treatment for periods up to six months. Payment for their care would be handled the same way as for inmates at the State mental institution.

The House approved, 65-8, a bill increasing the amount of money larger counties may spend without taking for bids. The measure would allow counties of more than 50,000 population to spend up to $1,000 without calling for bids. Counties of less than 50,000 but more than 10,000 could spend up to $500. Counties of less than 10,000 population would be held to $200, the present limit for all counties.

The Dade county delegation introduced a proposed constitutional amendment which would prohibit the State from ever levying a sales tax higher than the present 3 percent level.

Another new bill would prevent dismissal of demotion of 10-year men in the State Road Department who are state retirement fund contributors without "just cause."

The late "Indian River Citrus" would be restricted to fruit ac-

He pointed out that only the soldiers fighting in Korea are making sacrifices in a nation devoted to the principle of "Business as usual" on the brink of a third world conflict.

Asserting that the danger of gambling and political corruption at home is as great as the Red menace abroad, Mr. Odham called on the Jaycees to watch carefully all men in public service.

On a motion by Todd Swaim the Jaycees urged Governor Warren to appear before a joint session of the State Legislature to answer charges brought by the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee, the greater Miami Crime Commission and Collier's Magazine.

The motion to ban beer in Seminole County passed over the opposition of a large minority of the members after considerable discussion.

Judge Douglas Stenstrom repeated his statement in a letter published in the Herald concerning Senator Lloyd Boyle's vote against the bill to limit the ownership of race tracks.

Judge Stenstrom pointed out that he had said in his original charge that Senator Boyle had voted against the bill in committee, not on the floor of the Senate.

The Jaycee membership drive is scheduled to begin May 15, John Kader told the meeting.

President W. H. Stenper announced the appointment of D. E. Ganas to head the Fishing Boats. Guests at the meeting were Claude Estes and Joe Shinlow.

man said. The fire came from the Syrian side of the border and is being returned by Israeli forces.

Israel is draining the swamp area. Syria contends this is a violation of the Israel-Syria truce agreement.

(A Damascus dispatch noted a Syrian Army spokesman as saying freshly-reinforced Israeli troops resumed bombing of Syrian positions today. He denied Israel's claim that Syrian troops invaded the Israeli border and accused the Israelis of sending planes over the demilitarized zone to frighten Arab inhabitants.)

(He said the Syrian army would "no longer tolerate this provocation," and accused Israel of unwillingness to seek for a peaceful solution of border issues.)

The Syrian version is that 100 Israeli soldiers attacked Arabs in the demilitarized zone yesterday and were forced to withdraw after being fired upon.)

Israel received a cease-fire order from Col. Bennett De Bilde, senior chief of staff for U. N. observers in Palestine. An Israeli cease-fire was sent saying Israeli troops were acting only in defense against Syrian forces from Syrian forces both in the demilitarized zone and on Syrian soil.

The reply asserted that Israel troops have made no entry into the demilitarized zone despite the Syrian attacks.

Israel wanted to know if the cease-fire had been delivered to troops in the Indian River region by terms of another new bill. A commission measure would define the Indian River region as living along Florida's East Coast from the Flagler-Volusia county south to the West Palm Beach Canal.

Other new bills would require school attendance of children receiving State aid to dependents would establish a bicycle traffic safety code, would give the winners and would forbid use of more than 25 percent sand as filler in commercial fertilizers.

Children Killed

Neighbors told the sheriff that the house "lit up all of a sudden" about 8:15 o'clock last night. Gragg's body was found in a hallway. Beside it was a five-gallon can and a shotgun.

The coroner said the skulls of several of the children bore fractures.

The sheriff said Gragg was injured in an accident last November and had since been unable to work.

The children were: Katherine, 15; Christine, 13; Jimmy, 10; Peggy, 9; Carolyn, 7; Paul Edward, 6; July, 4; and Rebecca, 3.

The sobbing heart-broken mother came to Lenoir this morning and viewed the charred bodies of the children at a mortuary.

The sheriff said Gragg only recently told a deputy sheriff that his wife would never get custody of the children.

The coroner said neighbors reported Gragg had "been acting peculiar lately." He added that Gragg's associates told him that the sawmill and furniture factory worker previously had threatened to burn down his home.

Officers said the presence of the five-gallon can indicated that Gragg had saturated part of the home with fuel oil and then set off the fire.

from the Hwacron (P) to the central plains, offers the Reds their favorite type of battleground.

They may come tumbling down from these ridges within 72 hours, a week or a month. Nobody knows for sure—except their leaders.

The hills afford natural cover, and make it easier to infiltrate at night. On the plains, U. N. guns and planes rock them back on their heels.

The U. N. command estimated the Reds lost more than 75,000 men in casualties of the 300,000 used in their vaunted spring offensive started Apr. 22. They have another 300,000 available. These have not yet been thrown into the fight.

Nor have the Reds used 3,000 planes they are reported to have available.

Their night fighters came out for the first time Wednesday. Three Communist planes attacked a U. S. B-26 bomber as it dropped flares for night raiding aircraft. The B-26 crew said their plane wasn't hit but they may have scored on one of the Red planes.

One unidentified aircraft dropped bombs harmlessly in front of U. N. lines.

The U. N. air show continued at near record levels around the clock. More than 1,000 strikes were made Wednesday, many of them through curtains of anti-aircraft fire.

Transport and supply dumps were prime targets. In three days nearly 1,000 railroad cars and almost 1,000 trucks have been bombed. Many of the trains were sitting ducks caught on the tracks between blown out bridges and blasted tunnels.

Big bombers pocked Communist air fields. Marine fliers reported they killed 300 Reds in one attack when neighbors and firefighters arrived that there was a fire in the chimney and foundations were left standing.

Pete Castiglione Is League Leader With .440 Average

NEW YORK, May 3—(AP)—How does it feel to be king for a day?

It's pretty giddy going—that's what Pete Castiglione, Pittsburgh Pirate infielder, can say right now.

It's never happened to Pete before. Maybe it will never happen again.

But this is his shining hour. For he is the National League batting king.

The 23-year-old righthanded hitter won the crown yesterday by hitting a home run, a double and a single to lead the Pirates to a 4-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

That gave him 11 hits in 25 times at bat for a .440 average in six games. Pete's hickory also advanced the Pirates two notches to third place in the standings.

It's been a long climb to the throne for the 170 pounder. How long he remains there depends on a lot of things.

If it's hustle, Pete doesn't have to worry. With him hustling is second nature. That goes whether he's playing regularly or part time.

Castiglione broke into organized ball with Hutchinson (Kan.) of the Western Association in 1940 and 1941. He moved to Harrisburg (Pa.) in the Interstate League the next year. Uncle Sam called him in 1943.

After three years in the Navy, he resumed his baseball career with Selma (Ala.) in the Southwestern League where he hit .312. Next season found him with Indianapolis of the American Association. He joined the Buccas in 1949 and batted .268.

In 54 games last year, the former Greenwich, Conn., resident hit only .255 and drove in 22 runs, playing all four infield positions. His best work was at shortstop and third base.

He didn't figure in the Pirates' plans for 1951 but that didn't stop him.

"Just give me a regular crack at the hot corner and I'll show 'em," he said.

He's doing just that.

Inflation Likened To Sin By Florida Business Experts

GAINESVILLE, May 3.—(AP)—Inflation is like sin and the country is in for a lot more of it, two University of Florida business experts believe.

The two, "after a careful analysis," write in the current issue of "Economic Leaflets" published by the university that the country must be prepared for inflation for years to come.

They are Dr. George B. Huff and Dr. C. A. Matthews and gave as a partial explanation for the trend:

"Inflation has something in common with sin; everybody is against it in principle but there are a good many people who think a little personal indulgence would be appropriate and enjoyable just so long as it is confined to themselves."

Dr. Huff is director of the Bureau of Economic and Business Research and Dr. Matthews is associate professor of finance.

Because of present circumstances regarding inflation and because of the outlook, the authors are in favor of a program to meet the problem "promptly, effectively and fairly."

They warn too that an effective policy should not be based on the current drop-off in consumer buying and in commodity prices because it is natural for sales to drop off in the first half of the year, and because income tax payments reduce the supply of ready cash.

These are likely to be temporary factors, they warn, because of the acceleration of defense equipment needs.

A delivery of equipment speeds up, the federal surplus may turn into a deficit which means more purchasing power will return to the economy than is taken away in taxes, they point out.

In approaching the problem in the current emergency, the authors advocate increased production, a fiscal and monetary policy of the federal government, voluntary controls, and administration of fixed controls.

"In the final analysis, it is the operation of all elements in the economy that will assure the success of inflation control," they say.

Police Suspended After Sheeler Is Cleared Of Murder

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—(AP)—Six policemen were suspended after the dramatic acquittal of a man who served 12 years of a life term for murder.

No sooner was Rudolph Sheeler cleared of the murder charge than Safety Director Samuel Rosenberg announced suspension of assistant Superintendent George Richardson, a detective captain and four other detectives.

All six were members of the Homicide Squad when Sheeler was arrested for the murder of police officer James T. Morrow.

Judge James Gay Gordon told the jury at the end of the retrial that its verdict belatedly righted a great wrong. He condemned police methods used against Sheeler, now 35.

The judge said Sheeler was held incommunicado for 40 days until he was convinced his only chance to save his life lay in signing a confession.

"He was beaten, threatened, intimidated and terrorized," the judge said.

The judge said the police did not have a "scintilla" of evidence against the defendant when he was picked up and said "you have learned by the candid statement of the district attorney that they have been unable to produce a single witness or line of testimony against him."

The State Supreme Court paved the way for a speedy retrial by ordering the sentence vacated, and Judge Gordon refused to allow transcripts of the first trial to be introduced as evidence.

Several members of the State Legislature have said they will introduce bills in an effort to compensate Sheeler for the time spent in prison. But District Attorney John H. Moore said he would oppose such a move.

Judge Gordon said he considered it unfortunate that, owing to the statute of limitations, the "ring-leaders" responsible for Sheeler's imprisonment, cannot be prosecuted. But, he added, they had shown they were not to be trusted with police authority.

Rosenberg said the charges against the six suspended policemen—conduct unbecoming an officer—will be heard promptly by the police trial board.

Government Will Tighten Expansion Plans Of Plants On Defense Orders

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—The government is tightening the reins on the sprawling defense plant expansion program. "It's like driving a team of a hundred horses," says an executive in the National Production Authority. "It's no good if one horse gets ahead of the others. We've got to keep defense production expanding evenly, and still give a fair shake to essential consumer industries, too."

First tightening of the reins takes two forms. The petroleum Administration for defense will consider no more applications for tax concessions to expand basic petroleum refining facilities. And all structural steel is to be allocated among the construction industry during the second half of the year, to fit the expansion needs of the nation's economy as NPA sees them.

"Plant expansion will have to be sequenced to spread out material shortages, such as structural steel," says the NPA official. NPA has been flooded with applications for certifications of necessary under which tax con-

Ruthless German Communist Boss Is Longtime Red

AP Newsfeatures
 BERLIN — Germany's No. 1 Communist boss has stopped at nothing to further the Moscow creed. Walter Ulbricht has a sharp tongue, a Lenin beard, and runs the show in East Germany.

He holds the corresponding powerful post in the East German Socialist Unity party that Stalin used to climb to supreme power in Russia—secretary general.

With it the slight, 57-year-old Ulbricht stays in the background, driving his party toward its goal: Communization of Germany.

Ulbricht, who reportedly has Stalin's ear, became a party liner in the earliest days of the Weimar republic. He had been a cabinet maker by trade.

The Nazis ran him out and he went to Moscow, later to Spain, and finally returned to Germany with victorious Russian armies, wearing a Soviet officer's uniform.

When the Reds got the Communist party rolling again in Germany, Ulbricht became known as the "hatchet man." He lurked in the background as only a deputy prime minister.

But nobody in East Germany was fooled.

When his party decided to name a secretary general, there was only one candidate—Walter Ulbricht. Under his relentless drive, East German Communists work ceaselessly and without scruple. The little Leipzig radical with the cold eyes is riding the crest, but he never is ostentatious. He is flanked by bodyguards. He rides in a shiny big sedan. But his private life is not lavish.

Recently he assumed the attitude of a patron saint for the Free German Youth (FDJ), the Communist counterpart of the Hitler Youth of the Nazi era.

Ulbricht, who has closer ties with Russia than any other German, last year made three trips to Moscow.

Everit R. Terhune, vice president of the Chilton Co., New York, publishers of trade magazines, admitted abroad to be a concert violinist before going into the publishing business.

tion director Charles Wilson is working on that and other problems in his current talks with European officials.

Essential military needs will come first, both here and abroad, followed by programs to increase supplies of strategic materials.

The plan is aimed at quieting the present turmoil in which several nations are competing and out-bidding each other for the world's short supplies of many war-essential materials.

The nation's banks are cooperating in the defense effort by increasing the total of their loans for the defense program and curtailing their loans for carrying inventories of raw materials, according to the National Voluntary Credit Restraint Committee of the Federal Reserve System.

This is designed primarily as a brake on inflation, but the banks' voluntary action in channeling loans also gives the government a means helpful for the defense program is also seen in banking circles as giving the NPA a strong helping hand in tightening the reins on plant expansion to keep all parts of the defense and civilian economy pulling equally.

The curb on oil refining expansion came as a surprise to many in the petroleum industry, where leaders have been stressing the need to expand greatly the production and refining capacity of the industry to meet both military needs and the rapidly increasing civilian demand.

Crude oil production has risen to new peaks this year and the search for more oil is being pressed.

Grandma Fights Back Against Try To Relegate Her To Living Museum

By HAL BOYLE
 NEW YORK (AP)—"Who said the old-fashioned American grandma had joined the vanished Dodo?"

Who said they ought to find a real oldtime Grandma and Grandpa and put them in a museum for the nostalgic joy of future generations.

Was it I who said the old folks had forsaken the old ways and spent their time now learning the samba and keeping night club operators up past their bedtime? Okay, guilty. I said it. I'm wrong, I retract. I just turns out all I know are grandpas who pursue elderly glamor. Must be I just been circulating in the wrong circles. Got to mend my ways.

Scare as cigar store Indians? Heck. Why, the way the mail has been pouring in the country must be brimful of old-fashioned Grandmas and Grandpas. And the tenor of their letters is this:

"What difference does it make whether we are old-fashioned or new-fashioned? Anyone who has lived as long as we have, and done as much, has got a right to run the last lap anyway he wants to."

Granted, Granny! A forsy Grandpa scribbled on a postcard:

"Young man, you missed the whole picture. Grandma and I don't have to sit in a chimney corner, and we don't go to night clubs. But we make more money babysitting than we'd get if we

Lewis, Idaho. "And I know that I'm as much loved by my own. Anyway, what grandchild wants Grandma to look like Whistler's mother in this jet age?"

"I still make quilts and sew and mend and wash for my own family. Besides this, old Grandma works in Grandpa's office from 9 A. M. till 5 P. M., and then I go home and prepare dinner."

Grandma White hasn't gone in for peroxide. She is a proud reddish-blond—"The natural hair God gave me."

Grandmother Margaret Ingraham of Beverly, Mass., took time out from spring cleaning to say she enjoyed being old-fashioned and didn't drink or smoke. She has just finished a quilt.

"Although I have no white hairs—or just a few," she wrote, "I wear my hair in straight bangs. I don't resemble Whistler's mother, and 'Grampa' thinks I still look good to him."

Grandmother Ingraham had four sons in the last war, and one is now back in the Navy.

"I feel pretty young for my years," she says, "but although God let me have my boys back last time, I would be a sad sack if I had to go through it again. I pray for peace. But sometimes I think the only peace we have is a little in our hearts, and now and then moments of happiness as we go along."

All right, Grandmas old and new, I've had my spanking.

"I am a Great-Grandmother 73 years old. I wash and iron for the seven of us and make four beds each day. Also made four quilts all by hand this winter, and I've made 25 quilts since I was 50."

Grandmother Perry says she doesn't go out much but she does like to have her gray hair fixed and wear red nail polish, and adds firmly:

"Now if these other grandmothers have a good time I glory in their spunk."

And was it I who said they'd rather look like Marlene Dietrich than Whistler's mother?

"Even though I don't look quite like Whistler's mother there's a little bit of me there," writes Grandmother Bea White of

Lewis, Idaho. "And I know that I'm as much loved by my own. Anyway, what grandchild wants Grandma to look like Whistler's mother in this jet age?"

"I still make quilts and sew and mend and wash for my own family. Besides this, old Grandma works in Grandpa's office from 9 A. M. till 5 P. M., and then I go home and prepare dinner."

House Passes $5 Boost In Jobless Pay

Senate Votes Raise For Supreme Court And Circuit Judges; Wildlife Group Hit

TALLAHASSEE, May 4—(AP)—Florida's top payment to jobless workers would rise $5 a week under a bill passed by the House today.

It would allow a maximum unemployment compensation benefits of $20 a week, instead of the present $15.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where a similar proposal is on the calendar with committee action.

As adopted by the House, the bill would increase only the maximum benefit. The 16-week maximum period for payment of benefits in the present law would be retained.

Neither would there be any change in the present schedule of payments to those not eligible for the maximum, either because they haven't earned enough or worked long enough to qualify for the top benefit.

As approved by committee, the House bill called for maximum payments of $22 a week for a period of 20 weeks, but the House decided to go along with the $20 figure provided in the Senate bill.

The House defeated several attempts to write into the bill a higher schedule of payments over a longer period of time, including a proposal by Rep. Okell of Dade county for 26 weeks. Okell said this was urged by the American Federation of Labor.

The Senate voted 77-8 to raise the salaries to Supreme Court justices to $12,500 and circuit court judges to $8,500.

Justices now get $10,000 and circuit judges $7,500. However, many circuit judges have their pay supplemented by county funds, and would continue to have the extra county pay if the bill becomes a law.

There was no argument on the pay boosts for the Supreme Court justices, but the pay hikes for the judges touched off more than an hour's debate.

The issue came over an amendment which would have had the effect of leaving circuit court judges at their present $7,500 salary. As written the bill would have boosted circuit judges to $10,000.

The amendment was defeated. Then the senators went on to set the circuit judges' salary figure at $8,500.

Proponents of the proposal to give circuit judges $10,000 said (Continued on Page Eight)

House By-Passes Pinellas Demand For Summer Races

TALLAHASSEE, May 4—(AP)—A bill to permit summer dog racing in Pinellas county stayed on the Florida House calendar today in spite of efforts to knock it off.

Rep. Phillips of Hernando county said its appearance on the calendar was a defeat for "Bill Johnston and all his dog lobby. The dog lobby has been beaten and they don't like it and they're yelling."

William H. Johnston is the owner of four Florida dog tracks. None of them is in Pinellas county. The only Pinellas county track, at St. Petersburg, is independently operated. The closest Johnston track is across the bay at Tampa. Neither it nor the present St. Petersburg track has summer racing.

The attempt to send the Pinellas county to the public amusement committee was made by Rep. Tapp of Monroe county who said he questioned "the rights of the city."

Sunday Beer Ban Is Advocated By Chief Williams

Police Chief Roy Williams addressed the regular meeting of the Sanford Ministerial Association on Thursday of this week. Chief Williams expressed his desire for complete law enforcement in the city and said, "We need and appreciate the backing of the ministers and all citizens in the matter of better law enforcement."

He expressed the desire that the laws of the county might be made to conform to the laws of the city in respect to the sale of liquor.

The association welcomed Chaplain Boutsers of the Naval Air Station, and offered cooperation in his efforts to serve the men there.

Members of the Association were reminded of their unanimous decision to appear before the County Commission at their meeting Tuesday, May 2 and request that the county laws regarding the sale of liquor be revised to conform to those of the city.

Rev. Frank Morgan and Rev. Mr. Standifer of Orlando appeared before the Association and expressed their desire to request the same of the County Commission.

Dr. W. P. Brooks, Rev. Fred Horton, Rev. Frank Morgan, and Rev. E. T. Standifer were named as a committee to draw up plans to enforce the Sanford Ministerial Association into a Seminole County Ministerial Association.

Woodruff's Salary Debated In Senate

TALLAHASSEE, May 4—(AP)—Foothall Coach Bob Woodruff's $17,500 annual salary at the University of Florida touched off an all-in-fun debate on the Senate floor today.

While debating proposed pay raises for Florida's circuit judges, Senator Cray of Stuart mentioned Woodruff's salary.

He said Woodruff was getting that amount on a seven-year contract, yet Florida couldn't afford to pay its judges but $7,500 a year in State salaries. Many judges have their pay supplemented from county funds.

He called the difference in pay an "absolute absurdity."

However, under questioning, he said "I'm glad we've got a good coach at Florida." He also admitted the college could not have gotten a very good football coach for $7,500.

Senator Shands of Gainesville defended Woodruff's salary, explaining "He doesn't enjoy that handsome retirement plan enjoyed by circuit judges."

ELKS PROGRAM

Sanford Naval Air Station Reactivated

The U. S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station was re-commissioned on May 1 by Admiral Alfred E. Montgomery, commander of Fleet Airways, Jacksonville in a brief and impressive ceremony in front of the administration building. Left to right are Admiral Montgomery; Mayor Fred Dyson, Capt. D. T. Day, commander of Naval Air Station of the Sixth Naval District; Capt. J. L. Chittenden, commander of the Sanford Station and Lieut. J. O. Horn, admiral's aide.

Wife Of Former Gambling Czar Is Kidnapped, Ransomed For $30,000

MIAMI, May 4—(AP)—A $30,000 ransom was paid for the release of a Miami woman kidnaped from her home last Monday, police reported today.

Detective chief H. G. Howard identified the victim as Mrs. Jean Rosenfield, 49, wife of Louis Rosenfield, a former Providence, R. I., resident.

Both Rosenfield and his wife fled to police that she was abducted or that ransom was demanded or paid.

However, Chief Howard reported, "Information came to this office from Mr. Rosenfield that his wife, Jean, had been forcibly taken away."

"During our investigation it was developed that Mrs. Rosenfield was forcibly removed from her residence or vicinity and was being held for ransom. The first ransom price was quoted as $50,000 and later cut to $30,000."

"Payment was made on Miami Beach at approximately 8:30 P. M. May 3 (yesterday) by a relative of the family. It is a known fact that Mrs. Rosenfield had not been home for approximately four days."

"Mr. Rosenfield denies that Mrs. Rosenfield was kidnaped or that any demand was made for ransom, or that any payment was made."

"On May 4 Mrs. Rosenfield was interviewed by detectives and denied being kidnaped, saying it was her own words, 'I don't know what you're talking about.'"

"Detectives Roy Hancock and Charles Papp interviewed Arthur Tubman at Withers Drug Store on the afternoon of May 2 (Wednesday)." (Continued on Page Two)

Public Invited To Attend Reopening Of Service Center

The public is invited to attend the opening of the Servicemen's Center at 7:00 o'clock Saturday night at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Mrs. F. E. Roominal, general chairman of the program, announced today.

The program is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club, working in cooperation with the Naval Affairs Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, Manager Ed Whitney, and representatives of women's organizations.

Karyle Housholder heads the Naval Affairs Committee and is assisted by Judge Douglas Stenstrom, Earl Higginbotham, F. D. Scott, and the Rev. A. G. McInnis.

Mrs. S. C. Graham is chairman of the Junior Hostess committee and is assisted by Miss Mildred Williams.

Mrs. Graham will serve as treasurer of the general committee; Mrs. Robert Stevens, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Hutchison, chairman of the hostess committee; Mrs. Rich. Farrell, dances and games; Mrs. Edward F. Lane, group singing; Mrs. W. L. Wright and Mrs. Ava Wright Davis, membership committee, and Mrs. E. Potter will be in charge of publicity.

Members of the following churches are represented on the program: Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Mrs. F. A. Dyson; First Methodist Church, Mrs. Eugene Williams and Mrs. J. C. Davis; First Baptist Church, Mrs. A. J. Peterson; First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. J. M. Garrett; First Christian Church, Mrs. J. R. Farris; Mrs. Bill Caruba and Mrs. J. H. Young; Congregational Church, Mrs. Ralph Lussing; Catholic Women's Club, Miss Mary McMahon; Free Methodist Church, Mrs. John Cranston, and Jewish Women's Auxiliary. (Continued on Page Eight)

Two Are Killed In Explosion Of Chemical Plant

PANAMA CITY, May 4—(AP)—Two persons were killed and one man was missing today after an explosion destroyed the Arizona Chemical Plant here.

Fire swept the plant immediately after the blast and fire fighting forces from the city and nearby Tyndall Field were rushed to the scene.

Police said the dead and missing were members of the plant's night shift. Officers listed the dead as Roland Manuel and William Callaway, missing was William Pellack.

The cause of the explosion was undetermined. The plant, which adjoins the Southern Kraft paper mill, recovers chemicals from the mill's waste products.

A huge brick structure, the plant houses still in its interior, which extend four stories high. One of the recovered products is used as a base for paint in painting.

The old section of the plant was a loss. The blast shook nearby warehouses, tipped over railroad tracks and tipped over (Continued on Page Eight)

Eniwetok Explosion Planned To Test Civilian Atomic Defense Measures

HONOLULU, May 4—(AP)—The final of the Eniwetok test, designed to get information for planning civilian defense against the atomic bomb, is expected next week.

As indicated by announcements by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) itself, one chief aim will be to find the kind of factory and civilian shelters needed to withstand atomic blast.

Up through "Operation Sandstone" at Eniwetok in May of 1948, the main purpose of these experiments was to determine the bomb's destructive power and its value as a military weapon.

New "Operation Greenhouse," as it is called, will try to learn designs may afford protection should atomic warfare come to the United States.

The AEC has promised a full report of the current tests to the Civil Defense Administration.

The Commission also told the American Institute for Architects that the impending test will "provide data for the development of design criteria."

The approximate time of the test was established through remarks of two congressional observers, Rep. F. Edward Herbert (D-La.), now on tour to Eniwetok from Honolulu. Herbert has said he expects to return to Washington May 15.

Both Herbert and Magnusson now have signed security pledges not to disclose any information (Continued on Page Eight)

Bitter Fighting Begins Between Israel And Syria

Full Scale Conflict Is Threatened By Border Incidents

TEL AVIV, Israel, May 4—(AP)—Israel and Syria agreed today to a cease-fire in their brief but bloody warfare on the frontier, a communique said. The "complete and sincere cease fire" was effective at 1:30 P.M. Greenwich time. The agreement was reached by the heads of the Israeli and Syrian delegations in the mixed armistice commission which has been meeting near the frontier under United Nations auspices. Arrangements of the cease-fire arrangement were made simultaneously in Damascus and Tel Aviv.

Reds Pay Dearly For Korean War, Ridgway Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur today called "all Communist" President Truman's assertion that he had named the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) from his theater of command. Every possible assistance has been given by me to the Central Intelligence Agency," MacArthur said. "The only thing I insisted upon was that the Central Intelligence Agency, when they came into the theater, would not act surreptitiously so they would coordinate with my own intelligence."

Two Are Killed In Explosion Of Chemical Plant

PANAMA CITY, May 4—(AP)—Two persons were killed and one man was missing today after an explosion destroyed the Arizona Chemical Plant here.

Fire swept the plant immediately after the blast and fire fighting forces from the city and nearby Tyndall Field were rushed to the scene.

Police said the dead and missing were members of the plant's night shift. Officers listed the dead as Roland Manuel and William Callaway, missing was William Pellack.

The cause of the explosion was undetermined. The plant, which adjoins the Southern Kraft paper mill, recovers chemicals from the mill's waste products.

A huge brick structure, the plant houses still in its interior, which extend four stories high. One of the recovered products is used as a base for paint in painting.

The old section of the plant was a loss. The blast shook nearby warehouses, tipped over railroad tracks and tipped over (Continued on Page Eight)

Eniwetok Explosion Planned To Test Civilian Atomic Defense Measures

HONOLULU, May 4—(AP)—The final of the Eniwetok test, designed to get information for planning civilian defense against the atomic bomb, is expected next week.

As indicated by announcements by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) itself, one chief aim will be to find the kind of factory and civilian shelters needed to withstand atomic blast.

Up through "Operation Sandstone" at Eniwetok in May of 1948, the main purpose of these experiments was to determine the bomb's destructive power and its value as a military weapon.

New "Operation Greenhouse," as it is called, will try to learn designs may afford protection should atomic warfare come to the United States.

The AEC has promised a full report of the current tests to the Civil Defense Administration.

The Commission also told the American Institute for Architects that the impending test will "provide data for the development of design criteria."

The approximate time of the test was established through remarks of two congressional observers, Rep. F. Edward Herbert (D-La.), now on tour to Eniwetok from Honolulu. Herbert has said he expects to return to Washington May 15.

Both Herbert and Magnusson now have signed security pledges not to disclose any information (Continued on Page Eight)

General Claims World Communism Is Foe In Heated Debate With Sen. McMahon

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur today said he understands Secretary of Defense Marshall has ruled a Korean peace conference should discuss Formosa's fate and admission of the Chinese Reds to the United Nations. MacArthur told senators that, on the other hand, the Joint Chiefs of Staff had recommended that any armistice "should specifically not include the recognition of any seating of Red China in the United Nations or a consideration of turning over Formosa."

Reds Pay Dearly For Korean War, Ridgway Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur today called "all Communist" President Truman's assertion that he had named the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) from his theater of command. Every possible assistance has been given by me to the Central Intelligence Agency," MacArthur said. "The only thing I insisted upon was that the Central Intelligence Agency, when they came into the theater, would not act surreptitiously so they would coordinate with my own intelligence."

Arthur Williams Is Given 8 Years For Manslaughter

ARTHUR WILLIAMS, Negro, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Howard Graham, 18, in a traffic accident at Twenty-fifth Street and French Avenue on Jan. 7, was today sentenced by Circuit Judge M. B. Smith to eight years in Raiford Penitentiary.

Williams was found to have had no previous criminal record. At the time of the accident he was driving an automobile and taking an injured friend to the hospital. The accident resulted in the death later of Mrs. Louise McKinnis, local telephone operator.

Willie Spearman, Negro, drew a sentence of two years at Raiford for breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony.

Ray Register, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a cottage near Lake Harney, was given an 18 month sentence at Raiford. Ernest White, Negro, was sentenced to three years for breaking and entering with intent to commit a misdemeanor.

A motion for a new trial in the case of James Lemon, Negro, who had been found guilty of rape, was presented by the late attorney, Tom Watson, Orlando. The jury had recommended mercy in this case. Judge Smith withheld his ruling regarding the new trial.

Wife Of Former Gambling Czar Is Kidnapped, Ransomed For $30,000

MIAMI, May 4—(AP)—A $30,000 ransom was paid for the release of a Miami woman kidnaped from her home last Monday, police reported today.

Detective chief H. G. Howard identified the victim as Mrs. Jean Rosenfield, 49, wife of Louis Rosenfield, a former Providence, R. I., resident.

Both Rosenfield and his wife fled to police that she was abducted or that ransom was demanded or paid.

However, Chief Howard reported, "Information came to this office from Mr. Rosenfield that his wife, Jean, had been forcibly taken away."

"During our investigation it was developed that Mrs. Rosenfield was forcibly removed from her residence or vicinity and was being held for ransom. The first ransom price was quoted as $50,000 and later cut to $30,000."

"Payment was made on Miami Beach at approximately 8:30 P. M. May 3 (yesterday) by a relative of the family. It is a known fact that Mrs. Rosenfield had not been home for approximately four days."

"Mr. Rosenfield denies that Mrs. Rosenfield was kidnaped or that any demand was made for ransom, or that any payment was made."

"On May 4 Mrs. Rosenfield was interviewed by detectives and denied being kidnaped, saying it was her own words, 'I don't know what you're talking about.'"

"Detectives Roy Hancock and Charles Papp interviewed Arthur Tubman at Withers Drug Store on the afternoon of May 2 (Wednesday)." (Continued on Page Two)
