Fire consumes Midway house

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies had to dispatch deputies to control traffic on State Road 46 late this morning as firefighters rushed to control a house fire in the Midway area.

A three alarm fire was reported at a home on Greenway Street.

According to sheriff's department spokesman Ed McDonough, the fire had consumed the home and firefighters were trying to keep it from spreading to other houses.

The cause of the fire was not yet known.

Agents bust three for drugs

CCIB agents arrested Donnell Troutman and Maria Cabezas at their Sanford home last night. Troutman, 38, and Cabezas, 48, were charged with possession of crack cocaine with intent to distribute.

According to Seminole County sheriff's deputies, agents found 15 grams of crack cocaine when they arrested the couple.

Each was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and later released on $5,000 bond each.

CCIB agents also arrested Robert Mittleman, 52, at his Wekiwa area home.

He was charged with possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana and cultivation of marijuana.

Agents found six pot plants growing on the back porch at his home.

Mittleman was taken to the correctional facility and later released on $3,000 bond.

SR 434 widening updated

The Department of Transportation has announced an earlier time for the planned four-laning of a section of State Road 434. The area, approximately 1.8 miles, runs from the intersection of SR 419 and SR 434 in Winter Springs, east to Tusawilla.

According to Steve Homan, DOT spokesman, "The four laning was planned for the 1996-97 time period, but we have moved it up to begin in our 1994-95 time period."

Homan said the bids are expected to be open in March of 1995, with construction to begin in the summer of 1995.

"Right now," he said, "we are in the process of obtaining rights-of-way for the project."

"Part of the almost $4 million in construction," he continues, "includes a straightening of what is known as Wagner's Curve." The curve, just north of Oviedo, is named after the small community of Wagner, which contained a railroad station, several small stores and a number of houses back as late as the 1950's.

Homan would not estimate how long the widening to four lanes is expected to take.

Crime battle lines form

Sheriff backs Chiles' plan; vows fight against career criminals

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — After several years of increasing crime awareness, authorities are starting to plan battle strategies. Governor Lawton Chiles has revealed what he will present to the Legislature, and a number of organizations are starting to look into their own solutions.

In Sanford, Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger is pleased with what is being brought to light in recent days. "There is no question, Seminole County and the entire state have severe crime problems," he said today. "From what has been announced, I think the governor's plans are aimed in the right direction."

"One of our biggest aims," Eslinger said, "should be to fight career criminals. Only a small percentage of criminals are responsible for the majority of crimes."

He continued, "Of those we arrest, 80 percent are repeat offenders. So if we truly want to cut down on crime, we have to instill a certainty of apprehension and swift and sure punishment."

Eslinger also hopes there will be sufficient space in which to house criminals who are apprehended, without the early-releases.

Regarding the use of firearms, he suggested, "If we had a law guaranteeing that the commission of a crime with a handgun would automatically be 30 years in prison, we would quickly reduce the gun problem."

Regarding plans advanced by a coalition in the City of Tallahassee and Leon County to fight juvenile crime, Eslinger was supportive.

"I certainly agree with the boot camp concept," he said, "and I go along with requiring that the youngsters be made accountable and be given

Crime-fighting budget at a glance

- Top crime fighting proposals in Gov. Lawton Chiles' proposed $38 billion state budget:
- $377.4 million to provide second year funding for Chiles' so-called "safe streets" program by bonding construction of 14,665 new prison beds and opening and operating 8,300 beds.
- $15.8 million for closer supervision of probationers and expanded community-based programs for drug offenders.
- $3 million to give the Florida Highway Patrol 100 new troopers and 19 support workers.
- $3.1 million for 111 additional State Attorney's Office employees and 34 new Public Defender's Office employees to step up prosecutions and indigent defense.
- $2.8 million for the state Violent Street Crime Task Force, to provide 20 troopers and 20 special agents to work with local government to curb street crime.
- $1.6 million to add two judgeships to the district courts of appeal, seven judgeships in circuit courts, and seven judgeships in county courts.

after-care once released."

"I also like the suggestion of instilling positive discipline into the lives of young offenders. They have to be given more than callisthenics while they are incarcerated," Eslinger said. "They need

What does Christmas mean to you?

Adults hold many views on holidays

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

Most everyone can speculate about what Christmas means to a child.

Yet, adults often complain that they are the ones with charge cards over the limit after the holidays; that stress and inadequate hours in a day pose can really inhibit full enjoyment of the holiday season. Amid the hustle and bustle of the shoppers could another avenue of Christmas be waiting for exploration?

Mary Jo Thorne, a teacher at Pinecrest Elementary, said, "I always have the children (her students) dress up and perform for their parents at Christmas time. It brings parents, students and teachers together at the happiest time of the year."

With schooling in mind, Ben Galloway, a college student, said, "I like Christmas! Obviously you think of presents, but the most important part is being with SANFORD — Cecil McKinney says he would like to be the best neighbor the people of Sanford could possibly have. To do so, he wants to open a laundry business somewhere near Sanford.

McKinney is president of Dozier International, Inc., of Orlando. He is seeking a location to establish a major commercial laundry facility. It will handle laundry for hospitals, major hotels, and other large-scale operations.

"We would have about 300 persons in the plant," McKinney said, "plus about 100 to 150 additional employees on the road."

School board plans move

Headquarters will stay in Sanford

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — After deciding last week not to build a shared facility with county government, the Seminole County school district turned its attention to where it will move its headquarters.

The district already owns seven acres of land in southern Sanford, on the extension of Lake Mary Boulevard just east of U.S. Highway 17-92.

It is on that property, they said, the new facility will be built.

The district's current facility on S. Mellonville Avenue near downtown Sanford.

According to a study performed by a consultant who studies indoor air quality, the facility they currently occupy suffers from "sick building syndrome." That is to say, the mold and other fungi that are growing in the building are causing employees to suffer respiratory problems.

The board had decided that it was time to move out of the building, but they believed that they should stay in Sanford.

"Sanford is the county seat," said Diane

Survey shows SCC president's salary in line

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A study done of all the state's community colleges shows Seminole Community College president's salary is in line with the school's enrollment and expenditures.

According to the study by Florida TaxWatch, Dr. Earl Weldon, SCC president, does not enjoy the same automatic job renewal comfort that most other presidents seem to enjoy, though only two other presidents have been in place more than Weldon's 27 years.

The TaxWatch report shows that "some of Florida's community college presidents have unique automatic renewable multi-year contracts that potentially run out when only the president dies or resigns."

Weldon's 3-year contract is not automatically renewable.

According to Robert Lyles, a spokesman for the college, Weldon's job performance is renewed annually and every three years the board of trustees must decide if Weldon should be offered a new contract.

"His job is reviewed carefully," Lyles said. "It is not guaranteed for life."

Weldon has been in his position as president since SCC opened 27 years ago.

Weldon is paid $98,124 per year. He is provided with life insurance and a car allowance.

The college's board of trustees does not pay for any club or organizational memberships. Neither do they provide Weldon with an entertainment budget or annuities.

Like about two-thirds of the presidents, he doesn't receive any other perks.

"I guess it's a pretty average deal," Weldon noted.

According to Dominic Calabro, president of TaxWatch, most of the community colleges have been offering their presidents multi-year contracts to "offset the lack of salary."

SCC is slightly below average in size among the community colleges in Florida with 6,362 full-time students. It is 13th in the state in size. It is 12th in college expenditures.

Calabro said the student enrollment, however, and the number of years in office are "very poor predictors of a president's salary and benefits package."

Woman denied entry in rodeo

DAVIE — Rodeo organizers stopped a cowgirl from entering a saddle-bronco competition, but denied discrimination was the reason.

Already registered, Sue Blazina, 38, was summoned just as she was to mount her bronco last week and told she could not ride.

Blazina said Monday she was yanked from the contest because she was a woman.

"I couldn't believe it. All I could think about was that this is almost the year 2000 and women shouldn't be treated this way," she said.

Rodeo officials, however, said it was because Blazina, a newcomer to the arena, was an unknown quantity. Plus no woman had ever asked to ride in the saddle-bronco competition before.

"We've never had a request like that and I didn't know what to do," said Troy Weekley, who supplies the broncos as well as other horses and cattle showcased at the rodeo. "No one told her she couldn't ride because she is a woman. But I wasn't about to let anyone get on an animal if I didn't think they would be safe."

18th century cannon on display

JACKSONVILLE — An 18th century British cannon that apparently had been stolen before it was abandoned in an empty lot has been restored to a place of honor.

The 3,000-pound iron cannon went on display Monday at the Jacksonville Historical Society pavilion.

Almost 10 feet long, the cannon was made for fighting naval battles about the time English loyalists fled to Florida during the Revolutionary War. Sometime later it became an historic artifact, then stolen property and a complete mystery.

"We don't know where this thing came from," said historian James R. Ward who chairs a committee overseeing the pavilion. "We knew we wanted it."

The cannon was found in the vacant lot in July 1988. Neighbors called police, but no one had reported a missing cannon.

The park service sent it to the state's archaeological laboratory in Tallahassee for two years of restoration. It was returned to Fort Caroline where it was stored in a maintenance yard.

Dolphin likes Florida home

ORLANDO — Some dolphins like swimming for miles through the wide-open sea, leaping across the wakes of big ships and snacking on passing schools of tuna.

Others apparently prefer to winter in Orlando.

After spending three months at Sea World of Florida recovering from a shark attack, an Atlantic bottlenose dolphin was released 10 miles off Cape Canaveral on Dec. 15.

But the following day she was back ashore; people walking on the beach discovered her and called the Florida Marine Patrol.

The officers who came recognized a tattoo identifying the dolphin as a former patient at Sea World's Beached Animal Rehabilitation Facility. A few hours later the 9-foot-long, 350-pound mammal was back at the Sea World clinic.

The dolphin seems to be in good health and good spirits, but Sea World veterinarians will check her out to see if anything's wrong.

"We've never before we released come back," Sea World spokeswoman Jerro Schultz said. "It's a mystery. We don't have any idea why she beached herself."

Naval air station expands

PENSACOLA — About $275 million will be spent on construction at Pensacola Naval Air Station over the next five years to accommodate a training center moving from Tennessee.

The arrival of the Naval Air Technical Training Center will partly offset the closure of a helicopter overhaul facility at the base. The two moves have been ordered by the Base Closure and Realignment Commission.

Design contracts have been awarded for new buildings and renovation of existing ones, Sue Lawley, a spokeswoman for the Naval Facilities Engineering Command, said Monday.

Construction contracts will be bid later, providing Congress appropriates the money.

The 4,500-student training center, now at the Memphis Naval Air Station, would increase active-duty military at the Pensacola base by 50 percent.

Pensacola, however, is losing about 3,000 high-paid civilian jobs through closure of the Naval Aviation Depot. A net payroll loss of $50 million a year is expected.

Donation satisfies conviction

MIAMI — Multimillionaire businessman Victor Posner, satisfying his sentence on income tax evasion, donated $2 million to 11 homeless organizations in South Florida.

The big winner was Camillus House, a homeless center, which received $1 million to a homeless center.

New education commissioner Governor appoints Rep. Jamerson today

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles today appointed state Rep. Doug "Tim" Jamerson of St. Petersburg to fill the unexpired term of Education Commissioner Betty Castor.

Jamerson became the second black man this century and the third in Florida history to serve on the six-member Cabinet. Like Chiles, he is a Democrat.

Chiles said he and Jamerson had discussed goals and "our most urgent priority is to make schools a safer place to learn."

Jamerson said: "We need to change an environment in which too many young people have a better chance of being handed a weapon than a diploma."

Jamerson, 46, will fill the last year of Castor's four-year term. She was selected earlier this month as president of the University of South Florida. She was first elected to the Cabinet post in 1988 and won re-election three years ago.

Jamerson told The Miami Herald on Tuesday that he wanted to pursue reforms that place greater control over the schools in community hands. He said he has already talked to Chiles about the issue.

"We have discussed some ideas about education, his plans for education, and my helping him — and I intend to do that," Jamerson said.

He said his work will center on "ways to build parental involvement and business-sector involvement and put together a Department of Education that provides assistance to school districts."

As House education chairman, Jamerson helped draft the state's new education accountability laws, which demands that teachers, parents and local school administrators take a greater hand in the planning of school programs.

Jamerson had already announced his intentions to run for the Cabinet post next November, and if elected, would be the first black elected to statewide office in Florida since Reconstruction.

A coalition of legislators on both sides of the aisle, including House Speaker Boileau Johnson, D-Milton, had strongly lobbied Chiles on Jamerson's behalf.

Jamerson was first elected to the House in 1982. He has served five years as assistant to the director of St. Petersburg Junior College's criminal justice institute.

Way Back When

According to Julian Stenstrom, "Way Back When" columnist, this photo is going to be a surprise to (as the old country boy would say) a good ol' Sanford "boy." Look at this picture closely. It was taken at Camp Blanding just before Christmas 52 years ago.

The Florida National Guard's 124th Infantry Regiment of the 31st Dixie Division had been activated Nov. 24, 1940, one year and two weeks exactly before Pearl Harbor.

The 124th went from Sanford to Blanding, emerging from the pyramidal tent in which eight soldiers lived in a former Sanford sporting goods and boat dealer, Cpl. Harry Robson, one of the numerous sons of the late Sanford physician J.N. Robson.

He's no longer in the sporting goods and boat business but he stays quite active. Harry owns about 400 acres of land in southwest Volusia County with considerable river frontage where he's now ranching. He has about 200 head of cattle which he says keep him active and busy.

Robson still lives in Sanford with his wife, the former Ruth Jean Wright. He has two daughters, Jeanne Schwartz and Linda Richman. Harry says

"They're both married to Germans."

Robson has several grandchildren now and is extremely proud of his first great grandson. The only other identifiable Guardsman in this

Researchers try to revive chestnuts

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Those chestnuts roasting on an open fire at Christmas are probably Italian, thanks to a turn-of-the-century blight that almost wiped out the American variety.

But University of Florida agricultural researchers said Tuesday an experiment under way in the Gainesville area may help pull U.S. chestnuts out of the fire. Or maybe put them back in.

"One out of four trees was an American Chestnut before a fungus from the Orient attacked the bark and branches in 1904, wiping out just about every chestnut tree by the early 40s," said Gary Brinen, a UF extension agent. "We lost about 3.5 billion trees in that time."

The university's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, along with private growers, have been working to grow a hybrid chestnut believed to be resistant to the devastating fungus, Brinen said. Labeled the Dunstan Chestnut, the hybrid

One out of four trees was an American Chestnut before a fungus from the Orient attacked the bark and branches in 1904, wiping out just about every chestnut tree by the early 40s.

-Gary Brinen

Virtually all chestnuts roasted for the holidays now are imported from Italy, Wallace said. But with the aid of UF researchers, the blight-resistant Dunstan trees, which he says produce sweet, flavorful nuts superior in taste and size to their original American cousins, are being evaluated as an alternative cash-crop for growers.

"There's really a huge potential for commercial production of the chestnuts in this country," Brinen said. "The trees grow large and upright and appear to have few serious problems."

Before the blight, chestnuts were an important source of food for the early settlers, natives and wildlife of North America.

"In the fall, people collected the bountiful harvest, carried them home and used them in a variety of recipes," said Wallace. "But now Americans consume less than 1 ounce of chestnuts per person."

POLICE BRIEFS

Grinch cases

Eight lighted candy canes were reportedly ripped out and strewn around the property Monday, at a residence in the 100 block of Lake Breeze Circle, Lake Mary.

Vandalism was reported Monday in the 400 block of Queensbridge Drive, The Crossings, in Lake Mary. Sheriff's deputies reported someone pulled up three azalea bushes, and took one lighted nativity set valued at $100.

A 12 inch tall plastic snowman and a statue of Santa Claus, valued at $82, were reported missing Monday from a yard in the 100 block of Nicole Lane, in Longwood.

Sleepers awakened

Two men, found sleeping in a car on Wekiwa Road near Longwood, were arrested Monday by sheriff's deputies. Arrested were William Thomas Field, 20, of 404 Sun Lake Circle, Lake Mary, and Thomas Richard Perdisatt, 25, of Deltona. Deputies were responding to a call from Orange County regarding a vehicle reportedly being driven erratically. Deputies said they found the men sleeping in their car. Field, in the driver's seat was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, possession of drugs under 20 grams, and possession of drug paraphernalia. Perdisatt was charged with possession of drug, and was found to be wanted for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Burglary arrest made

Sanford police arrested Jerome Johnson, 43, of 1010 W. 9th Street Monday. He was located at 13th Street and Williams Avenue. Police said on Dec. 9, a man believed to have been Johnson, burglarized a residence in the 2100 block of W. 16th Street, taking a $700 TV set. Johnson was charged with burglary, dealing in stolen property, and grand theft.

After his arrest, another officer identified Johnson as having fled following an arrest made almost two months ago. The officer said on Oct. 29, he had arrested Johnson at 12th Street and Pecan Avenue, on a charge of possession of crack cocaine. He reported that when he attempted to take Johnson to the police vehicle for handcuffing, Johnson struck him and fled from the area around 11th Street and Poplar Avenue. Connected with that case, Johnson was charged with possession of crack cocaine, and escape.

Break-in arrest

Sanford police arrested Richard A. Johnson, 26, of Winter Park, at 8th Street and Orange Avenue on Monday. Police said he had reportedly broken into a residence in the 1100 block of Orange Avenue, and removed a telephone answering machine and several Christmas gifts valued at $272. He was charged with burglary and theft.

Retail theft

Sheriff's deputies arrested Robert Franklin Cox, Jr., 40, of 222 S. Country Club Road, near Lake Mary, at a Winter Springs retail store on Monday. Deputies said he had attempted to hide a lawn mower tune-up kit, valued at $27, in his pants and leave the store without paying for the merchandise. He was charged with retail theft.

Extradition

Carlton O. Williams, 36, 17 McKay Avenue, Sanford, was extradited from Ialip, New York Monday. He was transferred to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. Williams was wanted on a number of warrants issued in Seminole County including violation of parole for aggravated battery with a motor vehicle, assault on a law enforcement officer, resisting arrest with violence, and battery on a law enforcement officer. He was also wanted for violations of parole for carrying a concealed firearm, failure to appear to pay a fine, and failing to appear on a charge of fleeing and attempting to elude an officer.

Warrant arrests

Shawn Micha Flynn, 19, 108 E. 18th Street, Sanford, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at his residence Monday. He was wanted for violation of parole on a conviction of battery.

Travis Leander Barfield, 24, 1409 Meadow Lark Street, Longwood, turned himself in at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Monday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a writ of bodily attachment.

Daniel Jason Hancock, 18, 1096 U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood, was arrested by deputies in Casselberry Monday. He was wanted for violation of community control on convictions of burglary and grand theft.

Anthony Eddie White, 39, 1120 Florida Avenue, Sanford, was served a warrant at the jail Monday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of theft.

Charles Dermont Routh, 56, of Osteen, was arrested at the jail Monday. He was wanted on a capias for grand theft.

Larry Eugene Clark, 38, 701 E. 7th Street, was served warrants at the jail Monday. He was wanted for burglary to a conveyance, and grand theft 3rd degree.

Domestic cases

Jose M. Martinez, 32, 793 Logan Drive, Longwood, was arrested at his residence by Longwood police Monday following a dispute with a female. He was charged with battery, domestic violence.

Gerald Lee Hill, 34, 712 Crows Bluff Lane, Sanford, was arrested at his residence by deputies Monday following a fight with his wife. He was charged with aggravated assault, domestic violence.

Tracy Mariah Hardy, 24, 1708 W. 16th Street, Sanford, was arrested at her residence by Sanford police Monday following a dispute with her husband. She was charged with battery, domestic violence.

David Kleth, 33, 121 Lindsay Way, Sanford, was arrested at his residence by Sanford police Monday following a dispute with a female. He was charged with battery.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

Police report someone smashed open the front glass with a starter, at an auto dealership on Albright Road Monday. Nothing was reportedly taken.

Entry was made into the Sanford Child Development Center at 1320 Hickory Avenue early Tuesday. Nothing was reported to be missing.

A set of women's golf clubs and an electric hedge trimmer were reportedly stolen Monday from a garage in the 100 block of Manewood Drive.

The Labor Force building at 2603 Park, was reportedly burglarized Monday. Items taken included a TV set, assorted Christmas presents, a gas weed eater, surge protector and clock radio.

A burglary was reported Monday in the 1100 block of W. 12th Street. Two TV sets, a bike, a VCR and the resident's clothing was reportedly taken. The report said the burglary was believed to have taken place between July 12 and Oct. 4.

A briefcase containing an estimated $300 in currency was reportedly stolen early Tuesday from a residence in the 1600 block of W. 13th Place.

Speakers and an amplifier valued at $700 were reportedly stolen from the trunk of a car parked in the 2500 block of Hartwell Avenue.

A speaker system was reported stolen Monday from a vehicle parked at a business in the 4000 block of Orlando Drive.

Two vehicles were reportedly burglarized Monday in the 1000 block of W. 19th Street. One had a battery valued at $60 removed. Police said both vehicles had their back seats taken out.

Stereo equipment and 11 sets of jackets and pants, valued at $1,210, were reported stolen from a car Monday in the 1300 block of W. 12th Street.

Caffeine during pregnancy may be risky

By BRENDA G. COLEMAN
AP Medical Writer

CHICAGO — Adding to the wealth of conflicting data about caffeine, researchers said today that women who drink as little as half a cup of coffee a day right before or during pregnancy may raise their risk of miscarriage.

The researchers, led by Dr. Claire Infante-Rivard of McGill University in Montreal, compared 331 women who had miscarried with 993 who had experienced normal pregnancies.

Consuming as little as 48 milligrams of caffeine — about the amount in half a cup of coffee — a day during the month before conceiving appeared to boost the miscarriage risk by 29 percent. Consuming the same amount during pregnancy boosted the risk by 15 percent.

Each additional 100 milligrams of caffeine daily boosted the risk an additional 22 percent, the researchers said. That is about the amount of caffeine in eight ounces of coffee, 15 ounces of tea or eight to 15 ounces of soft drinks containing caffeine. It also is found in many over-the-counter pain remedies.

"A reasonable recommendation would be to reduce consumption of caffeine beverages during pregnancy," the researchers wrote in the Journal of the American Medical Association. They stopped short of recommending that women quit altogether.

The study comes 10 months after federal researchers reported that expectant mothers who consumed up to 300 milligrams of caffeine daily had no higher rates of miscarriage or small fetuses. Other studies have yielded conflicting results.

One support network for organ donors

Persons who undergo successful organ transplants, as well as family and friends, have many to thank: the original organ donor, doctors, nurses, and hospital staff members.

There are some however, who do outstanding work, but often are unrecognized because their assistance is mostly verbal.

Seminole County is blessed with having the national headquarters for one such organization in Casselberry. The National Organ Transplant Foundation (NOTF) operates in suite 214, 400 E. Semoran Blvd., Casselberry.

Recently, the NOTF has been actively involved in the liver transplant operation which saved the life of a 21-month old Deltona girl. It has also been involved in the heart transplant undergone recently by former Seminole County Tax Collector G. Troy Ray.

Most of NOTF's work is in offering support, not only to the recipient, but the donor, and the families of each. Agreeing to give parts of one's physical body to another, is generally a very tense situation even when it comes to saving the life of another person.

Family members go through some difficult times. The waiting period to find an acceptable donor could take months, even years.

For donors, the risk involved in giving part of an organ is also something to be given serious consideration.

This is where the NOTF comes in. It offers support for these people through counseling based on knowledge of what others have gone through. Leaders of NOTF also spend a great deal of time speaking to groups on behalf of donor awareness.

Naturally, they constantly urge more and more people to sign up to be organ donors.

The little Deltona girl appears to have undergone a successful operation. While she remains at the hospital in Omaha, recuperating from the ordeal, she is expected to be able to live a full life and return to Central Florida soon.

When we think about how wonderful it is to be able to undergo such operations, when we feel grateful to doctors and persons who are willing to donate organs, let us also give thanks to NOTF. They are the type of people we need more of in this world, those who help others, not just during holidays, but during the entire year.

Pride in Hamilton

I would like to express my pride in the students and faculty of Hamilton Elementary School. In the last few weeks they have accomplished some truly remarkable things that the Sanford community should be aware of.

When one of our most loved and respected teachers, Miss Sarah Lingle, was stricken with cancer, the staff, students and parents showed their support of her with a "yellow-ribbon campaign." The whole school and most of the staff are adorned with Miss Lingle's favorite colored ribbons. One set of parents donated numerous plants for a fundraiser and others donated money to the Sarah Lingle Cancer Fund. The students have sent cards and heartwarming wishes for a speedy recovery.

On a brighter note, the fourth grade recorder group under the leadership of Ms. Brown and go-getter volunteer Ryan Racine from Seminole High earned a trophy in Sanford's Christmas parade. Other student and parent volunteers put together a great float.

With the wholehearted support of Principal David Scott and his staff, the students collected and donated almost 850 canned goods to the Salvation Army's food drive and they did it in just three days.

As our Sanford community pushes toward growth and renovation, let's not forget that our public school system can be a strong selling point. With active support from the community, I feel that our schools have the potential to become one of Sanford's main draws.

During this season of giving, I think that Hamilton may end up being an example to us all.

Candidate 'B' wins on welfare

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — I knew the window for welfare reform was open. I had no sense of just how wide open it was.

Last week in this space I reported on a focus group of welfare mothers, who vigorously volunteered the information that many teenagers (not all, not even most) were bearing children in order to gain the package of current welfare benefits: cash, food stamps, medical care, and so on. The women I talked to were outraged about it.

Let me now tell you of another focus group I conducted that same day. The participants were "welfare fathers." They vehemently resented the term "Deadbeat Dads." They were a part of the "Futures Connection" program and were either at work and paying child support, or studying diligently to prepare for jobs, so they could pay child support for their children on welfare. There were six of them, four blacks and two whites, most in their late 20s.

They were quite well-spoken. And clearly, as the discussion progressed, it was apparent that they wanted to take care of their children, and that they loved them.

After a while I asked a long question, which I present here almost verbatim:

I began: "Let's say there is an election. Candidate 'A' says this welfare situation is a real problem. But we're going to have to keep up those taxes, because we have to give people education, and some cash to live with. It's true, some of this help falls through the cracks; it's true the rate of out-of-wedlock births keeps going up; it's true the government screwed it up in welfare. But there are women and little children involved, and we have to keep paying for it. That's Candidate 'A.'"

I continued: "Then there is Candidate 'B.' He has a one-word slogan — he says, 'Enough.' He says we have created some kind of Frankenstein monster in the welfare program. It is encouraging out-of-wedlock birth, creating a comfort zone for it, pulling people into welfare. We have to cut back welfare in order to stop this. Enough. That's Candidate 'B.'"

I paused, and asked: "In that election who would you vote for, 'A' or 'B'?"

There was an eruption in the room:

MANY PEOPLE AT ONCE: "'B.' 'B.' I vote 'B.'"

BW: "You would vote for the guy who says stop it?"

MANY PEOPLE AT ONCE: "'Yeah.' 'Yeah.' 'Yeah.'"

MAN (NU)1: "At some point you gotta do something. The buck stops here.... I can't say I condone everything he suggested, but he had the right attitude."

BW: "Which is, enough, cut it off."

MAN (NU)2: "Sooner or later you got to bite the bullet and start getting back to making the country what it was...."

MAN (NU)3: "No, no, not necessarily cut it all off."

MAN (NU)2: "Otherwise it gets so out of control that everybody suffers."

BW: "Loosely speaking, Democrats take the position of Candidate 'A.' Republicans say what Candidate 'B' says.... People in your situation are not usually voting Republican."

And so, I say, the window for serious welfare reform is wide open, big time open. Open wider than anything Clinton imagined.

I knew the window for welfare reform was open. I had no sense of just how wide open it was.

Faced by violence? Squash it

BOSTON — If you are despairing, if you think it's impossible to change human behavior, Jay Winsten has a suggestion. Remember the egg industry.

He drops this hard-boiled thought into a conversation about spiraling violence in the cities and escalating hopelessness in the public attitude. The list of causes and cures for violence — gun proliferation, family breakdown, job creation, housing, schools — is long enough to seem insurmountable.

But Winsten, a former molecular biologist who became a public health guru, has another list. It holds some of the success stories about efforts to change human behavior: Fewer eggs eaten. More seat belts worn. The decline of the smoking. And, of course, the rise of the designated driver.

On the wall behind him a festive pink poster fairly explodes with the message: "The Designated Driver is the Life of the Party." It's a reminder that this office at the Harvard School of Public Health has been central for a careful media campaign against drunk driving.

For five years, a combined force from Harvard and Hollywood has worked through media messages to create a new social role: the designated driver. More than 140 references, story lines, or public service announcements on television have been built around this concept.

Winsten figures that this adds up to $100 million worth of messages — or roughly the amount needed to introduce a new commercial product nationwide. But in this case, the new product is a social norm: the driver doesn't drink. It's one strong reason the number of alcohol-related fatalities has gone down from about 23,000 a year to about 17,000.

Now, however, those who see violence as a public health catastrophe hope to use the same approach to change attitudes and behavior on the streets.

This project began when Winsten was handed a batch of letters penned by Chicago children for a bank that invited them to write about their neighborhood. Instead of cheery little notes about home and hearth, the children wrote bleak truths: "I don't like my neighborhood much, because they shoot too much. They might shoot me. So, I stay in the house."

Then, Winsten went to listen to groups of teen-age boys in the nearby Mission Hill district of Boston. These were not hard-core drug dealers and criminals. They were 15-, 16- and 17-year-olds who wore their fear like a damp T-shirt under a macho sweater. These were boys who fought because it was the thing to do.

"It's reached the point," says Winsten, "that if two kids from different projects or neighborhoods look at each other the wrong way or bump into one another on the dance floor, it will escalate into violence.

But in his focus groups, he listened hard to boys who had a method as well as a motive for backing off. At a point of confrontation, sometimes a leader would say, "It's not worth it. Squash it." And they would.

It turned out that the words, "Squash it" were known and used in urban pockets across the country and even in the lingo of rap singers. And soon, if Winsten's group has its way, "Squash it" will become as familiar as designated driver.

What he wants to do is nothing less than to create a new norm that says it's smart to walk away from a fight. In his finest fantasy, he imagines Michael Jordan on billboards saying, "What goes around, comes around. Squash it."

His same consortium of Harvard and Hollywood hopes as well to convince television producers, the very people now under attack for promoting violence, to write story lines for favorite programs that show kids deciding not to fight.

But this is a plan without illusions. Winsten readily acknowledges that violence is more imbedded in the culture than alcohol. In a thousand classic movies a thousand peace-loving men are driven to violent confrontations at a thousand O.K. Corral. When he asked the head of a Hollywood writers' group whether he could imagine a hero who had power without violence, the writer said no.

Moreover, the population of young males he wants to reach is the one which has been most resistant to other public health messages. They are more likely to smoke and to drink. They do not worry about cholesterol in egg yolks.

But they do worry about violence. They do worry about dying. They do have a language for de-escalating confrontations.

What the media campaign can offer is a wedge. A way to intervene in violence without being overwhelmed by all the problems of urban America. One way to begin turning it around.

For those who prefer to greet the possibility of change with an expression of cynicism: Squash it.

If you are despairing, if you think it's impossible to change human behavior, Jay Winsten has a suggestion.

Ambassadorships patronage posts

WASHINGTON — If the Senate confirms Larry Lawrence next month as the next ambassador to Switzerland, our man in Bern will be learning on the job.

A long-time friend of and campaign contributor to President Clinton, Lawrence seems more up to speed with campaign finance than foreign affairs. Since 1988, Lawrence and his wife, Sheila Davis Lawrence, have doled out $136,000 in political contributions, according to Federal Elections Commission reports. Democrats have been the overwhelming beneficiary of Lawrence's largesse.

According to the Foreign Service Act of 1980, a ambassador should have "a useful knowledge of the language... and understanding of the history, the culture, the economic and political institutions" of their host country. It adds, "Contributions to political campaigns should not be a factor."

Three languages in addition to English are spoken in Switzerland — German, Italian and French. Lawrence's linguistic skills are limited to a month of French.

His limited knowledge of Swiss politics has also proven embarrassing to some career diplomats. At his Senate confirmation hearing last month, Lawrence singled out Switzerland — despite its 500 years of strict neutrality in foreign affairs — as "important to us as an ally in Central Europe."

"Larry Lawrence has no qualifications to be an ambassador," one career foreign service official told our associate Andrew Conte. "Having people who are not qualified hurts U.S. foreign diplomacy... they either embarrass the United States or have to be carried by career foreign service officials. That doesn't make sense."

Lawrence was unavailable for comment. He told the Senate that he would apply his "experience in business, government and civic services, as well as familiarity with Switzerland, to the role of U.S. Ambassador in Bern."

Switzerland is the wrong spot for the unseasoned diplomat, according to career diplomats. It is currently mapping out its future relations with the United States, Asia and Europe, and is at a turning point whether to maintain its historic independence or to join the European Community. As one of the financial capitals of the world, Switzerland is a nerve center for tracking narcotics trafficking and terrorism.

These are among the reasons why Lawrence's nomination is in trouble. Last month, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee split 10-10 on Lawrence nomination, which the full Senate will vote on next month. Sources say the White House plans to make the nomination a top priority. Three Democrats on the Foreign Relations Committee voted against Lawrence — including Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., a long-time critic of the political spoils system for ambassadors.

"I really don't think this thing ought to be simply a patronage thing," said Sarbanes during one committee hearing. He added that the United States no longer has the "luxury of ambassadors who are not truly fully contributors to the work that we are charged with doing."

Sarbanes should have soulmates within the Clinton administration. Secretary of State Warren Christopher promised the Senate earlier this year: "Recommendations for ambassadorships will be based upon qualifications that extend beyond campaign participation and will require some real expertise with respect to the appointment."

Our man in Bern will be learning on the job.

Meaning

family and people you love. This is my last Christmas living at home before going off to college at Florida State University. That makes this Christmas extra special."

Couples expecting a child share many dreams of what they want the holiday to bring for their little one. Expectant dad Dale Newton enthusiastically spoke. "It makes me feel like a kid again. I bring out all my toys. My remote control car, my race track and train set all have a place around the Christmas tree." While his wife said emotionally, "The most important thing about Christmas is entertaining friends and family."

Parents and grandparents alike may find themselves overwhelmed by the long gift lists. Many try to juggle jobs, baby sitters for Christmas parties and negative cash flow. Working mom and mother of three school-age children, Debbie Yero, said, "It's a good time to get the full meaning of what Christmas should be. Older children can get involved in service projects. Giving of themselves, giving to others. They can see the less fortunate being blessed by strangers. When Jesus came to earth he gave freely to us. We are undeserving yet he loved us still. We should tell our children God's meaning for Christmas. Our culture has gotten away from that."

A homemaker and mother of two preschool boys, Penny

Moye, exclaimed, "How do housewives go shopping with two kids and no baby sitters to leave them with? You have to buy for umpteen million people and not go over the budget. All the while you must keep the children calm and your mind straight. Other than that I love Christmas."

Grandparents seem to have the glorious knack of looking beyond the material at times and truly appreciating the wonder of the season. All the while drinking in their grandchildren's response to all that surrounds them this time of year. Ann Newton, grandmother of three, responded, "Christmas is for kids, no matter how big they are. I love the sparkle of the Christmas tree and how my grandchildren look at it in amazement with the reflection twinkling in their eyes." Her husband, Gene Newton, affectionately and jokingly said, "Christmas...baa humbug."

Linda Myers, an employee at Wal-Mart and teacher's aide for Seminole County School Board, said, "Christmas to me means hope. Sometimes the world and people let you down. It's a reminder to me that someday all things will be made right. God sent his love to us through his son. Without Jesus there wouldn't even be a Christmas."

Church attendance is highest this time of year as well as at Easter. Many people say they feel God wants us to identify that Jesus is the reason behind the holiday.

Minister Tony Black said, "It's a fantastic time for families and a giving time. A time to escape from the turmoil and hectic pace of life. It's good to see people remember our Redeemer, Jesus Christ."

The possibility that work production slows down in some businesses and holiday party spirit speeds up is apparent. Businessman Walt Dittmer, owner of Dittmer Architectural Alumnum, responded, "Christmas is a time we all back up and concentrate on family and loved ones. This year is a melancholy time for me after recently losing my brother to cancer. It makes you realize how precious life is. My heart goes out to my employees. My employees feel more like an extended family. I love every one of them and I like to share with them financially at this time of year."

Department stores hire extra employees during this season anticipating a busy cash register and sales through the roof. Some businesses pay employees for the day off, while restaurants may be open to accommodate the occasional persons not particularly inspired to spend time in the kitchen. Grocery stores sell common fixin's familiar with the season and card manufacturers make some of their best profits.

When it's over, many people will find they have chosen their own unique reasons for the season.

A thousand points of light

Ralph Bedell and Bob Crowe decorated their home at 1250 State Road 415 with, literally, thousands of lights. The home is located about five miles north of Osteen. In the time exposure photo, you can see the "ghosts" of four of the many people who visited the house last night to look at the exhibit. The display is lighted each night from dusk to midnight and will remain up until New Year's.

Gallagher wants a penny sales tax hike for 40,000 prison beds

By ADAM YEOMAN
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher sounds like he plans to run for governor. But he won't say whether he plans to do so.

Gallagher backed a one-cent sales tax increase to finance a sweeping anti-crime plan to build new prison beds, toughen sentencing for violent criminals, and prohibit gun sales to anyone under age 21.

"A penny for prisons seems a small price to pay for a safe Florida," he said Monday. "A penny for peace of mind."

His plan also would require TV sets sold in Florida to include devices that allow parents to keep their children from watching violent and sexually explicit shows.

He said he will lead a drive to collect enough signatures to place on the Nov. 8 ballot a constitutional amendment that authorizes the Legislature to bump the state's 6-cent sales tax by a penny.

The measure would raise $1.7 billion a year for more than 40,000 new prison beds, 5,000 new beds in juvenile detention centers and boot camps, and other crime-fighting measures.

Gallagher, 49, said he will not announce his political intentions for the Republican nomination for governor until after the regular legislative session, which is scheduled to end April 8.

"I think this is more important than Tom Gallagher running for governor," he said. "I'm going to spend my time over the next few months concentrating on getting signatures and getting people behind this."

Jobs

"I want to make this an absolutely first-class operation," he added, "and because of that, I'm planning to offer a little more than average wages."

In the property he is seeking, he said he would like to have between 60,000 and 70,000 square feet of building, preferably with a loading dock area, and 10 to 12 acres of land.

"This is going to be a very unique operation," he said. "We'll be using what is called an ozone system, which does not cycle any phosphorous into the sewer systems. There won't be any smoke or steam outside the building, and no odor. Everything will be ventilated."

"We have been looking at a number of sites," McKinney continued. "One of my favorites is just south of Sanford, somewhere around the E. Lake Mary Boulevard and S. Sanford Avenue area, near where the expressway will go. That will be a big assist with our travel."

He projected possibly 125 vehicles would be operated by his company. "All of these of course, will be licensed in Seminole County," he said, "so that's a few tax dollars which will benefit."

Another location McKinney said he is looking at is in Lake County. "So far, Lake County has offered us some rather good incentives," he said, "including the waiver of some of the impact fees."

McKinney met with several Seminole County officials last Wednesday to discuss his proposals. He said they appeared to express pleasure that he would consider locating in the area, but that no proposals were made.

"I promise," he said, "that wherever I locate, I'm going to make it the best business possible. I'm already planning a child care unit for my staff members."

McKinney said from what he has learned about the Sanford area, he believes he can obtain some very reliable workers, and be of great benefit to the city and county.

"If everything goes as I plan," he commented, "we want to select our site around the first of February. Construction shouldn't take more than about ten months, and we could begin operating by November of next year."

to be given education and taught a trade. That's one of the ways to help them be able to stay away from further crime."

The Leon County group has made a number of recommendations for its own battle against crime, especially those committed by juveniles. Copies of their plans are being studied by a number of government and law enforcement leaders seeking to expand the programs into additional counties throughout the state.

Recommendations include:
● Building a 50-bed secure commitment facility for serious offenders.
● Stressing early intervention steps such as anti-dropout programs and second-chance schools for suspended pupils.

● Adding four assistant public defenders and scheduling juvenile court at night when parents can participate.

● Linking law enforcement agencies, juvenile courts, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services and Leon County Schools by computer.

● Revising state law to let juvenile judges detain delinquents for contempt of court.

Eslinger said many of the juvenile crime problems are brought about by a lack of consideration for the future. "People just don't seem to care about each other any more," he said. "There are many adults who are, but when it comes to the youngsters, they just don't seem to care."

"We often hear people blame the schools for no longer teaching values," the sheriff observed, "but they never did. What the schools teach is reinforcement of values learned in the home. If the home has fallen apart, what values can they have?"

Eslinger said he is anxious to see what develops from the governor's plans for more prison beds, the anti-dropout program, and other suggestions.

Kramer, the district's executive director for facilities planning, "We believed we needed to stay in the county seat."

Kramer said an independent study by the architectural firm of Hansen, Lind, Meyer and Justice Planning Association, showed that "the long term capital outlay costs of co-location (with the county government) at the north Sanford site would considerably exceed the capital savings derived from shared facilities."

"There may be some benefits from co-location," Kramer said,

"but the time is not right."

She added that she didn't believe it would be advantageous for the school district, the county or the taxpayers to build a new building in downtown Sanford.

The board yesterday, directed the architectural firm of Hunton, Brady, Pryor and Maso to proceed with the design for a facility at the south Sanford site.

Kramer said the quicker work begins on the new facility, the quicker the employees can be out of the Mellonville Avenue building.

"We can continue to investigate ways to share services and facilities with the county," Kramer noted.

Statistical treasure back, now in dueling editions

By RANDY SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Want to know the U.S. metro area with the highest income or most Asian residents, how much lettuce Americans eat or how much of our paper is recycled?

You're in luck — the 113th edition of the Statistical Abstract of the United States is on sale.

Well, two of them, actually, but they're the same.

Inside are 1,008 pages that will delight students and teachers, writers and researchers, statisticians and demographers.

One can discover on Page 143, for example, that the average American chomps down more than 26 pounds of iceberg lettuce every year.

Personal per capita income for metropolitan areas is listed on Page 452. It shows the highest as $28,097 in West Palm Beach-Boca Raton, Fla.

Page 40 shows 1.3 million Asians and Pacific Islanders live in the Los Angeles-Riverside-Orange County area of California.

And Page 684 discloses that, in 1992, recycled paper accounted for 38 percent of the paper used in the country.

This is the second year numbers fans will have a choice of abstracts.

The official government version sells for $27 at government bookstores and via mail from the National Technical Information Service.

But there also is a private version called The American Almanac: Statistical Abstract of the United States. The Reference Press of Austin, Texas, bought the printing negatives and is issuing its own edition, selling for $14.95 in commercial bookstores.

The privately published version is a little thicker, due to heavier paper, and sales director Dana L. Smith says she hopes to improve on last year's sales of 9,000 copies.

The government sells about 40,000 copies a year and the Census Bureau's Glen King says he is pleased to have competition.

"It's reaching a market that we can't reach, so we're happy to see sales of the book, no matter who sells it, go up," King said.

So what else can you learn from this tome?

— Between 1990 and 1991 food production fell 0.6 percent in the industrialized nations and increased 1.9 percent in the developing countries. Page 867.

— Americans paid an average of $1,894 each in income tax in 1990. Page 341.

— Cities of 1 million or more accounted for 13 percent of Americans in 1990, down from 15 percent in 1980. Page 42.

Domino's pizza drops 30-minute guarantee

By ALAN L. ADLER
AP Business Writer

DETROIT — Less than a week after a jury awarded nearly $79 million to a woman injured by a Domino's Pizza driver, the company is dropping the 30-minute-or-less guarantee that made it the world's No. 1 pizza delivery business.

"That certainly was the thing that put it over the edge," Domino's founder and owner, Tom Monaghan, said Tuesday of the verdict. "We've been debating continuing this 30-minute guarantee policy for a number of years."

Scores of lawsuits have been filed against Domino's over accidents involving delivery drivers.

In place of the pledge to deliver the pizza within 30 minutes or take $3 off, Domino's will offer a refund if a customer is dissatisfied for any reason.

Domino's, with 5,400 stores in more than 30 countries, built the world's largest pizza delivery business on its 30-minute promise, but Monaghan said he thinks he will do fine without it.

"Eighty percent of getting a pizza delivered in a timely manner is getting the pizza in the oven fast," he said. "The speed of driving is a very insignificant part of it."

On Friday, a Circuit Court jury in St. Louis awarded Jean Kinder $78 million in punitive damages in addition to $750,000 in actual damages. She suffered head and spinal injuries in 1989 when her car was struck by a Domino's driver who ran a red light.

Kinder's lawyer, Paul Kovacs, said the jury's message to Domino's was to stop the delivery policy.

The delivery driver settled with Kinder for $150,000.

Domino's, founded in 1960, began guaranteeing delivery within a half-hour in 1984.

Thursday with three boys games and two girls games starting at 2 p.m.

In the first half, Hall scored five points, grabbed eight rebounds and had a blocked shot as Arrow Force II completely dominated the backboards. Seminole collected 25 rebounds, including 13 off the offensive end, while holding the Braves to only eight boards, one offensive.

The Arrow Force II defense was also superb, holding Boone to just five for 19 shooting from the floor and star player Willie Anderson to just four points and three rebounds in the first half.

But Anderson opened the second half with a dunk that ignited the 'run that put the Braves ahead. A pair of fast break buckets by Terrence Wilson got a missed shot and a turnover and a three-point play by John Burden after another turnover and Boone was in control.

Seminole righted its ship after that, but was unable to regain control of the momentum and was forced to chase the Braves for most of the fourth quarter as they went to a ball-control, spread attack.

Anderson led Boone with 14 points, six rebounds, four steals and two blocked shots. Burden chipped in with 11 points, four rebounds and three steals.

Eric Roberts wound up with a game-high 17 points, but no other Seminole player reached double figures. Hall finished with nine points and nine rebounds.

Lake Brantley got strong games from Matt Certo (17 points), Greg Tadd (15 points) and Todd Pollack (11 points) and the Patriots converted 23 of 27 free throw chances to hold off the Sandcrabs.

Thomas two years ago, when he won with a goal in overtime. They were ready to play."

It showed as the Greyhounds shocked the Raiders with two goals in the first five moments.

The first was set up by Sara Kane, who played a beautiful through ball that led Danielle Garrett in alone on the St. Thomas Aquinas net and left the Raider goalie no option other than to hope that Garrett somehow might miss.

She didn't and Lyman led 1-0 with just 3:24 gone in the match.

A minute later, Danya Harris took a corner kick that Michelle St. Louis collected and played toward the St. Thomas net. Garrett redirected the shot off the left post for her second goal at 4:45.

Kane, who was named to the All-Tournament team, continued to guide the Lyman attack, collecting three assists and a goal in the second half.

Garrett, the offensive Most Valuable Player for the tournament for the second year in a row, scored again less than three minutes into the second half to complete her hat trick. Shea Donth and Caryn Roberts scored the other goals while Harris, who was also named to the All-Tournament team, had an assist.

While the extra offense made things more comfortable, goalie and tournament defensive MVP Cheryl Roberts made it largely superfluous, collecting 11 saves in posting her 12th shutout of the season.

In the third-place game, St. Petersburg-Lakewood struck for three goals over a span of 2:12 and held on to defeat Lake Brantley, 3-2. Andrea Villet and Sharon Lievertz scored the goals for Lake Brantley.

Earlier in the day, Daytona Beach-Seabreeze topped Lake Mary 4-1 and Boca Raton got by Bishop Moore 1-0 on penalty kicks in the two fifth-place games. Angie Olson had the goal for Lake Mary.

Also named to the All-Tournament team were goalkeeper Kristen Facella and midfielder Heidi Foster and Christine Delaney from St. Thomas; Seabreeze forward Samantha Baggett; Lake Brantley forward Katie Tullis; Lake Mary midfielder Shayne Thomas; Bishop Moore defender Many Ross; Lakewood defender Julie Schrank; and Boca Raton defender Maria Ciurvinu.

Roberts and Baggett were All-Tournament selections in 1992.

"I wish I had the win, but getting beat by a legend like Gary isn't too bad," said Hester, 17, who has competed in only six Late Model events. "Our car gets better every week and I'm starting to feel more comfortable with it. I feel a win is not too far away."

In his six feature races, Hester has five top five finishes, placing second four times and finishing fourth once.

Balough's car also established an outstanding win record during the 1992-93 season.

"Tonight's race is win No. 28 for the calendar year," said car owner Pee Wee Griffin. "Our goal for the year is 30 wins. With only five weeks to go, it's going to be a challenge."

In other action, Ed Meredith made a strong run from the rear of the pack to take his second Modified win of the new season. Kelly Jarrett also registered win No. 2 in the Mini Stock division. Bill Loomis and Bobby Stevens both led all the way to post victories in the Sportsman and Bombers divisions, respectively.

Cook of the Week

Speech therapist shares tasty traditional treats

By RENEE KEITH
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — 'Tis the season to be...happy, busy, coming, going and just plain exhausted. Cook of the Week Suzan (Sue) Melvin is "very much so" in touch with those feelings and then some. As the wife of a minister she also shares in many areas of church responsibilities. However, she said she does not consider herself the stereotype minister's wife.

Melvin also has a full-time career outside of her home as well as having to take care of her family. So, her days are very full but they are never dull.

Melvin has lived in Florida so long she considers this her home state. She's lived in Sanford for the past one and one-half years, and attended all local schools given the area she was living in at the time in Florida. Melvin has been married for 15 years to her husband, Cliff. They have one child, a son, Matthew, 8½, who attends Idyllwild Elementary School.

Melvin has a career that spans 10 years in the field of speech pathology. Seven of those 10 years have been with the Volusia County school district with the last two years at Enterprise Elementary School. So, Melvin is a very busy lady. "Between all three, that is my family, the church, and my job, I always make time for my family first," she said.

Melvin's husband is the minister at the First United Methodist Church in Sanford. This is what brought the family to Sanford one-and-a-half years ago. At the church, Sue teaches a Sunday School class and is active in the education department.

A traditional lady, it comes as no surprise that Melvin's recipes follow the same traditional path. Take, for instance, her recipe, Eggs for Brunch, which she acquired from a longtime friend and sorority sister. "It's great to have Christmas morning," said Melvin. "It cooks while you're opening your gifts and when you're finished, it's finished, and time to eat."

Two very easy Christmas cookie recipes are Pecan Graham Squares and Russian Tea Cookies. "These are both recipes that my family bakes during the Christmas holiday season," Melvin said. "The pecan squares are wonderful and no one will believe me when I tell them that they are eating graham crackers," she concluded.

EGGS FOR BRUNCH

1 cup Pepperidge Farm onion/garlic croissants
1 cup Cheddar cheese, shredded
½ lb. mild or hot sausage (ground)
1 pint fresh mushrooms, sliced
7 eggs
2 cups milk
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. onion powder
1 or 2 scallions, thinly peeled and chopped

6-8 slices of bacon
Step 1: In a buttered baking dish (8x10-inch) put a layer of combined croissants and grated Cheddar cheese.

Step 2: Sauté sausage and mushrooms. Drain.

Step 3: Combine eggs, milk, salt, dry mustard, pepper, onion powder and chopped scallions. Pour over first two layers.

Step 4: Fry bacon, drain, and crumble over the top of the eggs.

Step 5: Bake at 325°F. for 40-45 minutes. Serves 5-6.

*This recipe can be made the night before and cooked the next morning. Do steps one and two, then cover and refrigerate. Do steps three and four. Put the liquid in a pitcher and bacon in a container, then refrigerate. In the morning, stir mixture in pitcher and pour over sausage/croissant mixture. Top with bacon and bake as in Step 5.

PECAN GRAHAM SQUARES

2 sticks butter
1 cup brown sugar (light)
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
1 box Honey Graham crackers
Preheat oven to 350°F. Lay graham crackers close together and touching on a cookie sheet.

Bring first three ingredients to a boil for 1-2 minutes. Pour the hot mixture evenly over the graham crackers. Bake 5-8 minutes. Cool and cut into squares (or quarters) with a sharp knife.

RUSSIAN TEA COOKIES

1 cup butter
½ cup Confectioner's sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
2¼ cup all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. salt
¾ cup chopped nuts
Preheat oven to 400°F. Combine the above ingredients. Roll into 1-inch balls and place on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 10-12 minutes (be careful not to burn). Roll (carefully) in powdered sugar while still warm. Repeat rolling 2-3 times or as desired.

GERMAN APPLE CAKE

5 apples
5 Tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. cinnamon
3 cups flour
2½ cups sugar
½ tsp. salt
4 eggs
1-2 Tbsp. water
1 cup vegetable oil
2 tsp. vanilla extract
½ cup orange juice
1½ tsp. baking soda
1½ tsp. baking powder
1½ cups confectioner's sugar
2 Tbsp. soft butter
1½ tsp. vanilla extract
Grease and flour 10-inch tube pan. Preheat oven to 350°F. Peel and thinly slice apples, toss with 5 tablespoons sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Set aside. Mix flour, sugar, salt, eggs, oil, vanilla, orange juice, baking soda and baking powder. Blend with an electric mixer on low for 1 minute, increase to medium for 3 minutes. Fill pan with alternating layers of batter and apple mixture. Bake 1½-1¾ hours. Cool 20 minutes and invert. Finish cooling on a rack. Optional glaze: Mix confectioner's sugar, butter (melted), vanilla and water until smooth. Drizzle on the cooled cake.

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago, after 18 years of marriage, my husband left me for a silicone princess. My college-age son said, "Fight fire with fire," so I went to a plastic surgeon and had a "UTES" — upper torso enhancement surgery. I went from a 32B to a 36DD. You cannot believe how it changed my life.

I needed a job, and was hired on the first interview. My first day on the job, I was asked to dinner by three single men. A year later, I married a man 10 years my junior. He's wonderful; he doesn't smoke, drink, swear or nag, and he adores me. I am in heaven!

He told me after we were married that he was attracted to me because of my figure. I was tempted to tell him it wasn't always this way, but I couldn't get the words out.

I love the way I look, but sometimes I feel as though I've been dishonest. Should I tell him?

FEELING GUILTY
DEAR FEELING GUILTY: Absolutely not; there is no reason to feel guilty.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nine years, and although we tried to have a child, we were not so blessed, so we adopted a beautiful baby girl.

A nosy neighbor asked, "Is she illegitimate?" My husband spoke up and said, "Of course not; we've been married for years!"

PROUD MAMA
DEAR MAMA: What a snappy comeback. Congratulations to you and your quick-thinking husband.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: All the years our children were small, we spent every Christmas traveling hundreds of miles to be with our parents. Our children could never wake up in their own home and spend the day playing with their toys because, after being with one family on Christmas Eve, we had to go to another town to be with the other family for Christmas Day.

As a result, now that they are all in college and coming home for Christmas, we have no tradition of our own.

My advice: Stay home for Christmas and establish your own traditions. If the grandparents want to see the kids, they can come to your house. Let Thanksgiving be the holiday that you spend with the families — and divide the time equally. Only an occasional exception should be made to this rule.

That's what I intend to tell my children when they have their own homes. If invited, we will go to their house.

LEARNED TOO LATE
DEAR LEARNED TOO LATE: Thanks for a letter that may give many young families the courage to establish their own holiday traditions.

Cranberry tea a welcome taste on busy days

Holidays require time spent in the kitchen preparing meals, special gifts and foods for entertaining. Make your work easier and more enjoyable by using the microwave oven for much of the cooking. Fewer dishes to wash and less cooking time. Think what a help that will be.

A spicy combination of cranberry juice and tea will be a welcome taste during these busy days. Great for a brunch or caroling party!

SPICED CRANBERRY TEA
1 package (12 oz.) fresh cranberries
2 quarts water
1½ cups sugar
3 bags black tea
2 cinnamon sticks

MICROWAVE MAGIC

MIDGE MYCOFF

2 cups orange juice
Wash and sort cranberries, discarding soft berries. Combine cranberries and water in 3-quart casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 18-20 minutes or until boiling and cranberries pop, stirring twice. Strain cranberry mixture to remove seeds and pulp, squeezing cranberries to extract all the juice. Discard pulp. Return juice to 3-quart casserole. Add tea bags and cinnamon sticks.

To serve, microwave (100 percent) covered, 10-12 minutes or until steaming hot. Stir in orange juice. Ladle into cups, garnish with orange slices.

Bits of red and green give this cheese a festive holiday look.

HOLIDAY CHEESE SPREAD
1 cup sliced almonds
1 Tbsp. butter or margarine
5 slices bacon
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
½ cup sour cream
2 green onions, sliced (include tops)
1 jar (2 oz.) diced pimento, drained
¼ tsp. dill weed
¼ tsp. paprika
2-3 drops hot pepper sauce
Combine almonds and butter in 2-cup glass measure. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 3-4 minutes or until almonds are lightly browned, stirring twice. Set aside.

Arrange bacon in single layer on paper towel on micro-safe rack or plate. Cover with paper towels. Microwave (100 percent) 4-5 minutes or until bacon is crisp. Place cream cheese in 1-quart batter bowl. Microwave on 100 percent power 30-45 seconds or until softened. Stir until smooth; add remaining ingredients except almonds. Crumble bacon and add to cheese mixture; mix well. Cover and refrigerate about 2 hours.

Sprinkle about half the almonds on sheet of plastic wrap. Spoon cheese mixture onto almonds; sprinkle with remaining almonds. Bring plastic wrap around cheese, pressing almonds into cheese and forming a ball. Wrap tightly and refrigerate. To serve, unwrap and place ball on serving platter. Surround plate with assorted crackers.

These rich, chocolate balls are delicious with a hot cup of coffee.

FUDGY RUM BALLS

2 packages (3 oz. each) cream cheese
2 cups (12 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
3 cups unsifted powdered sugar
3-4 Tbsp. rum
¼ cup powdered sugar
1 Tbsp. cocoa
Combine cream cheese and chocolate in 1-quart batter bowl. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 45-60 seconds or until chocolate is softened; stir until smooth. Mix in powdered sugar and rum. Refrigerate until chilled, about 2 hours.

Shape teaspoonful of mixture into balls. Roll in mixture of powdered sugar and cocoa. Refrigerate until set. About 72 balls.

Other liqueurs such as brandy or Kahlua can be substituted for the rum.

Mint adds a refreshing glaze to these pecan halves. For variety, try using other nuts such as walnuts and hazelnuts.

Disabled girl gets wish: day with no teasing, plus Barbie

By The Associated Press

FORT WAYNE, Ind. — Santa Claus brought her the doll she pined for. But it was Amy Hagadorn's classmates who gave the disabled third-grader her Christmas wish: a day without teasing.

Amy, who has cerebral palsy, confided her wish in a letter to Santa mailed to radio station WJLT-FM and read on the air last week.

"I have a problem at school," she wrote in pencil. "Kids laugh at me because of the way I walk and run and talk. I have cerebral palsy. I just want one day where no one laughs at me or makes fun of me."

Last Friday, Amy's classmates at South Wayne Elementary School held a special day in her honor, granting her request, teacher Susan Dance said.

The radio station, meanwhile, invited Amy to its broadcast Tuesday and arranged for Santa to drop by with the 3-foot-tall Barbie doll she wanted.

Mayor Paul Helmke proclaimed Tuesday as Amy Hagadorn Day.

"I think I had my Christmas today," a delighted Amy said.

Since Amy's letter was widely reported, the 9-year-old has gotten cards, letters, gifts and calls from as far away as England.

In Kansas, residents of a group home for people with cerebral palsy want to become Amy's pen pals. A Toronto mother whose son was born with half a skull is sending a videotape on how children should act around people with disabilities. And a Tennessee woman said she planned to use Amy's story in her Sunday school class.

"This has been great for her, and for her self-esteem," Amy's mother, Patti, said. "It's touched the lives of so many..."

"The response has been overwhelming..."

So overwhelming, in fact, that Mrs. Hagadorn and her husband, Jim, worry that the outpouring may obscure the broader message in Amy's letter: All people should be treated with compassion.

The Hagadorns have asked people to "help the other Amys out there" by showing concern for a disabled child in their own community.

Amy's encounter with teasers began this fall after she was moved from special education classes into a regular classroom. Most of the children accepted her, but a few made fun at her. While Amy's parents and teacher worked to curtail the jibes, they hadn't realized how much it hurt her until she wrote to Santa.

Neck spasms can be difficult to treat

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently read a magazine article about the use of botulinum toxin to help victims of torticollis, or wry neck. Two requests for further information have gone unanswered; therefore, I am looking to you for information on this subject.

DEAR READER: Spasmodic torticollis, which many readers have reminded me is much more serious and incapacitating than mere wry (stiff) neck, is a condition of unknown cause, marked by agonizing spasms of the neck muscles.

This causes extreme tilting of the head and may be difficult to treat. Although physical therapy, biofeedback, analgesics, and muscle-relaxing drugs (such as Baclofen) have been used as the traditional therapy, they are often ineffective.

In the past few years botulinum toxin, a substance derived from bacteria, has proved to be an effective remedy for many torticollis patients. The compound is injected directly into the spasitic muscle and may give relief for up to three months, after which the treatment must be repeated.

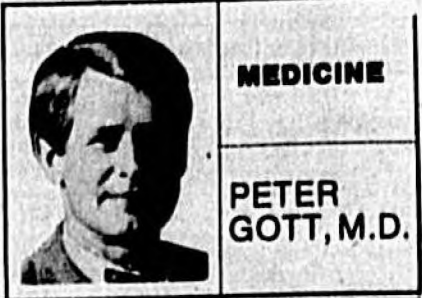

You can obtain more information from the National Spasmodic Torticollis Association, P.O. Box 476, Elm Grove, WI 53122. Telephone 1-800-714-6732.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What can you tell me about a nutritional supplement for men over 40 to help shrink the prostate and improve sex life in later years? It contains an extract mixture of zinc, pyridoxine, serona, Panax, L-alanine, glutamic acid, apis mellifera pollen, silica and hydrangea. I've ordered a 30-day supply, yet would like your comments before taking it.

DEAR READER: The only product that has been scientifically proved to shrink the prostate gland in men with benign prostatic overgrowth is the prescription drug Proscar. Ask your doctor about this. Natural or herbal remedies are not appropriate for this purpose. In addition, promoters of these products often claim that sexual functioning can be improved. This is not true. Such a claim is merely a marketing scheme.

To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "The Prostate Gland" and "Where to Find Sex Information." Other readers who would like copies

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

There are many lines from famous authors that have gone into the vernacular as misquotes. What "from little acorns grow"?

On today's deal, South played as if the bidding had gone in at the one car and out at the other, as John Heywood actually wrote. Against four spades, West led the heart queen; king, seven, six. How should South have played from there?

Three no-trump would make with an easy overtrick, but it is always hard to get to that contract when you have a good major-suit fit.

South made quick work of the deal. At trick two, he finessed the spade queen. West won with the king and returned the heart jack. When East ruffed dummy's ace, South threw up his arms and exclaimed: "I despair. No creature loves me. And if I die, no one shall pity me."

North wasn't impressed with South's knowledge of Shakespeare or bridge. South could afford to lose three tricks: one spade, one heart and one diamond. So the correct line is to lead the spade queen from the dummy (just in case East has the king and can't resist covering) and put up the ace. Maybe the monarch will fall. And if he doesn't, playing another round of trumps guarantees the contract.

West's bid should have helped South, but he ignored the warning signs. A two-level overall is usually made with a six-card suit and opening values. Here South was missing only 12 high-card points, so West was a heavy favorite to hold the spade king.

To finesse or not to finesse, that is the question; and if you know the answer, tall oaks will grow from the little acorns of your mind.

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 23, 1993

Something that seemed a long time coming might finally break through for you in the year ahead. It will be a development that could change your life both materially and socially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An old debt you've thought about writing off several times might be repaid you in this cycle. Don't erase it from the books for awhile yet. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Access to persons who are key to your present plans should come rather easily for you today, even individuals who have been deliberately trying to dodge you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Where your career is concerned you are in a much stronger position at this moment than you may realize. Don't let self-doubts cause you to believe otherwise.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Discussions with wise friends today is the key to helping you unravel a bind in which you found yourself. If you talk to the right people, you'll have the answers you'll need.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A difficult objective you've been anxious to achieve is reachable today, but it will take true dedication and effort on your behalf to attain it. If you're tough enough, it's yours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be reluctant to revise long standing plans at this time if they have proven to be unproductive. Age does not improve or make them more mellow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're likely to fare better today if you respond to developments rather than precipitating them. Be a counter puncher, instead of leading with your left.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to advance your self-interests today, bolder than usual measures may be required on your behalf. Don't be afraid to take a calculated risk if you've thought it through carefully.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An unresolved matter that could produce potential benefits for you can be finalized to your satisfaction today. You're the one who has left this dangling.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a duty call you have put off several times. What you think may be a dull experience could turn out to be otherwise. Take a chance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a good day to revise your household budget. Ways can be found to get better mileage from the monies you spend, but you'll have to figure them out yourself, however.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't treat serious matters indifferently today, but, by the same token, don't approach life in such a somber manner you depress others.
