

Chin's Up Rally Looks Like GOP Congressional Election Opening

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's proposed "chins up" rally of public confidence looks from here very much like the opening of the 1956 Republican Congressional election campaign.

The President somewhat resents the reading of political motives into his activities as the elected chief of all the people. He is, nevertheless, the leader and spokesman of the Republican Party to whom its candidates normally would look for a cast tall tale to victory on election day.

The Republican Party, however, is not new to the state of normalcy. Abnormal is the word for the state of the Republican Party which in 1952 and 1956 elected a president by enormous margins but cannot wrest Congress from the Democrats.

Abnormal means markedly or strangely irregular, which makes it a good word for a little noted speech delivered last Saturday before a Republican audience in Alamogordo, N.M., by Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.), a key GOP campaign strategist.

Simpson is chairman of the Republican National Congressional Campaign Committee which will supervise next year's campaign to regain control of the House of Representatives. He is a big man in the House and in his party. If and when Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., (R-Mass.) decides to retire, Simpson is the man most likely to succeed him as Republican leader of the House and as speaker if the GOP ever again is able to win control.

In his capacity as GOP Congressional Campaign Committee chairman, Simpson told the New Mexican Republicans that there was no political future for their party's candidates in attempting to hitch a campaign ride on the Eisenhower coat tails. He counseled Republicans to endorse in their campaigns only those policies of the Eisenhower administration best suited to their localities.

"Not everything undertaken in Washington has met with general voter approval," Simpson said. "This is to be expected, and it is up to the candidates for Congress within the ranks of the Republican Party to make known their dissents and to work to change or to eliminate undesirable policies when elected."

Regular Republicans Simpson is a regular Republican as distinguished from a modern Republican, and among administration policies to which he aggressively objects is big-time government spending. He helped kill the President's proposal for federal construction of public schools. Simpson has no use for "spenders in government" and evidently believes Republican congressional candidates should repudiate the Eisenhower spending-tax program in next year's campaign.

Since the spending-tax budget is the foundation stone of all administration policy, Simpson would appear to be proposing a real bolt. The congressman does not see it quite that way. "A Republican congressional candidate will not be breaking with President Eisenhower," he said. "If he confuses his campaign to local issues and endorses only those administration policies which meet the demands of the candidate's constituents."

Former Hatchet Man Killed By 2 Gunmen

NEW YORK (AP)—Albert Anastasia, former hatchet man for Brooklyn's notorious Murder, Inc., was shot and killed today by two gunmen in the barbershop of a midtown hotel.

Anastasia was seated in a barber chair in the shop of the Park Sheraton Hotel. Two masked men walked in, drew their guns behind his chair and fired several shots into the back of his head, police said.

Anastasia pitched face forward to the floor. The former mobster was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Robert Cestaro of St. Claire's Hospital. Police identified him from papers in his pocket.

Costello Shot At
The shooting followed by less than six months a gun assault on Frank Costello, another "elder mastermind" of crime. Costello was grazed by a bullet fired at his head. His assailant has not been found.

"I looked in and noticed quite a few men running out in a state of disarray with their coats off," Alexis said. "I saw Mr. Anastasia on the floor. I used to serve him when I worked in another shop and I recognized him."

WHAT'S WRONG HERE?

A charming picture of a lovely little girl reaching for a Bible. What could possibly be wrong with that?

Here's what!

1. The Bible is on the bottom shelf, hard to get at, which means the family doesn't use it frequently.
2. The Bible she's reaching for is written in grown-up language, too hard for her to understand all by herself.
3. The little girl is alone—and she needs help!

Why should the Bible be on the bottom shelf, and why should this little girl have to seek its truth by herself?

The Church stands ready to help your child—and you! It will help you to understand the Bible and its timeless message of God's undiscourageable love for you, your children and all mankind.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Z. Gabor On Date Diet

HOLLYWOOD — Zsa Zsa Gabor is on a date diet—not the kind that grow on palm trees nor the calendar variety, but the two-legged type who squires her to the Sunset Strip night spots.

The Hungarian beauty, one of filmworld's most sought-after glamour girls, is rationing her time. "From now on two nights a week are for men. Five nights are for study," she says.

Zsa Zsa is serious about her fast-track acting career and has been studying with her friend, actress Agnes Moorehead. In addition, she spends long hours of artistic watching in front of her television screen.

Looks, diamonds, romance—I've been known for my looks, my diamonds, and my romance. Now I want to be admired for my acting," Zsa Zsa smiled.

Word has been getting around, and Zsa Zsa has been deluged with film and television scripts. If she accepted half the deals the colorful Gabor gal could buy all the diamonds she wanted.

She recently returned from London where she played opposite Shakespearean actor Anthony Quayle in "The Queen and Smith." London's film row says Zsa Zsa has arrived as a strong dramatic actress. Hollywood got the message with her performance in "Death of a Scoundrel," and "The Girl in the Kremlin."

All this doesn't mean Zsa Zsa is forsaking her reputation as a glamour girl. She is incapable of entering a room unnoticed as would be the Santa Fe Superchief.

No One Glamour Girl With Marilyn Monroe inactive in the East, Grace Kelly retired in Monaco and Ava Gardner self-exiled in Spain, La Gabor is Hollywood's current number one glamour girl.

"Glamour and being a personality are good," she admits. "So are diamonds. Husbands are good—or at least some of them. But it is also good to be a good actress."

Zsa Zsa sets the pace for other actresses when it comes to witty remarks, too. One of her classics: "Never have I hated a man enough to insult him by returning his diamonds."

Some of her Gaborisms have shown up in recent movie and TV scripts.

"I don't mind if other women—even my own sister, Evytry—to imitate me. Mama says this is a compliment and as far as I'm concerned, Mama hasn't been wrong yet."

The topper to Zsa Zsa's climb to dramatic stardom is on the fire at 20th Century-Fox where plans are cooking for "The Zsa Zsa Gabor Story" to be filmed—with Zsa Zsa playing the title role.

New Lotion Gives Aid To Sufferers Of Acne

By MURRAY H. ROSSIGNOL, M.D.

ACNE vulgaris is a major teenage problem. Many adults, too, are troubled by this skin disorder. Along with physical discomfort, acne frequently causes strong emotional problems as well.

Just a glance at my daily mail shows how very real these physical and emotional difficulties are.

Various Methods
I've written numerous columns in the past about various methods of treating acne. But because of the volume of mail I have been receiving on the subject in recent weeks, I thought you'd like to know about one of the latest treatments for it.

A hydrocortisone combination, a greasless, invisible lotion which doesn't stain the skin, has given good results, according to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Women's Association.

Speeds Improvement
This lotion reportedly speeds improvement more than routine therapy. It is composed of a number of ingredients of which the chief one is hydrocortisone. Tests of the lotion were conducted by Dr. Beatrice H. Rubin of Charleston, West Virginia, who reported "excellent" results in 44 per cent of those treated and "good" results in 46 per cent.

In these tests, patients put a small amount of the medication on the entire face and other affected areas twice a day, rubbing it in gently.

Lotion Was Enough
In some cases, acne surgery and ultraviolet light were used every two to three weeks in addition to the lotion, while in others the lotion was all that was used.

The first evidence of improvement was that the skin became softer and smoother. In some cases this occurred within one or two weeks after the lotion was first used.

To get the full benefit from the medication, several months of treatment may be required.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
T. L.: My doctor told me that I have a dropped kidney. Would this have any influence on my becoming pregnant?

Answer: In most cases, pregnancy can occur in persons with a dropped kidney.

Lake Mary

By ETTIE JANE KROGH

Mr. and Mrs. Sherlock returned last week after spending the spring and summer at their home in Cuba, N. Y.

The building bee at the Community Presbyterian Church last Saturday was deemed a huge success by the Rev. Alexander Linn and the Building Committee. Throughout the day an average of 22 men worked. At noon the ladies of the church served a delicious dinner to the workers. Another Bee will be held Nov. 2 starting at 9 a. m. The Committee plans to have the doors and windows ready to put in place and the remainder of the kitchen room ready to complete.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith of Waycross, Ga., last week became the parents of a daughter weighing 9 1/2 pounds. The proud Lake Mary grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith of Crystal Lake Nursery.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanly Donohoo of Milwaukee, Wis., were calling on friends in this area last week. The Donohoo's lived here while he served as Dental Officer at the NAS.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bryant and children of Winter Haven spent Saturday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Thorne.

Don't forget the P-TA Halloween Carnival to be held at the school Friday, Nov. 1, starting at 6 p. m. The costume parade will begin at 8. There will be lots of hot dogs, cakes, candy and cold drinks for sale so plan to come early and stay late.

I'm very sorry the Lake Mary news is so old when it comes to print. I send it in but I have no way of knowing when it will appear in the paper. So please don't stop calling. Perhaps soon it can be arranged to have it printed before it gets too old. My phone is FA 2-3808.

Bob Reeves stopped by Monday to tell us about his boy, Bobbie Jean and Bobby have a big boy 1 1/2. He was born early Monday morning at the Seminole Memorial Hospital. Mother, Daddy and baby are fine. Bobby looked so proud his shirt buttons were about to pop off. Our sincere congratulations to the three of you.

Funeral Services For Fred Stein Are Held Today

Fred Stein, 50, passed away at the local hospital at 12:15 p. m. Thursday following a short illness.

Mr. Stein was born Sept. 2, 1907 in Wielbach, Germany and was engaged in the jewelry and luggage business on Sanford Ave. here.

He had lived in Sanford since 1950 and made his home at 2418 Elm Ave. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge 62 of Sanford and a member of the Jewish Church Congregation of Orlando.

Survivors include his wife and three children, Charles, Susan and Steven, all of Sanford; and one sister whose home is in Chicago, Ill.

Funeral services were held at 1 p. m. today at the Brisson Funeral Home and remains were shipped to New York City for burial.

POLO GROUNDS IN NEW ROLE
NEW YORK (UP)—City construction coordinator Robert Moses predicted Thursday that the Polo Grounds, the former home of the former New York Giants, will become a site for a Harlem housing project. Moses said "there was some possibility of negotiating an agreement to get possession" before the present baseball lease expires in 1982.

Five Enjoys Picnic At Lake; Holds Athletic Events

The crew of Heavy Attack Squadron FIVE laid aside their gear for an afternoon and had a picnic at Lake Golden.

Athletic events were the order of the day. Engelhardt, AEG hopped to a victory in the sack race; Crum, AT3, became horseshoe pitching champ; the chiefs beat the officers and the crew in the softball little world series; and Cdr. J. M. Tully Jr. broke the tape first in a sprint among senior officers.

The big event of the afternoon was a series of tug-of-war contests in which all divisions carried pated. It was won by the men from the Radio Shop after three bruising contests.

Optimism Is The Word To Use In The Sanford-Seminole Area

Development, build, expand, progress— all words that seem to be the theme of the Sanford area today.

On all sides, north, south, east and west the four words can be seen in action— action that adds up to a tune of many millions of dollars.

To the north the Florida Power and Light Company is investing in a new expansion project involving $16 million; next to it, and soon to get underway is the first leg of the interstate highway across the St. Johns River involving $5 million or more; a new Florida Power and Light Company building at its Bands Siding station is nearing completion; the City of Sanford's new Civic Center is well under way and soon to follow will be the new fire station and colored swimming pool.

The Sanford State Farmers Market is nearing completion; Harold Kastner's new building at 15th Street and French Ave. is well under way; State Road 46 from Melomville Ave. to the St. Johns River is being widened and paved; State Road 600 (Highway 17-82) from Sanford to Five Points is underway; two new industries started buildings for early occupancy; subdivisions to the south and to the west are underway; bids for new work at the Sanford Naval Air Station soon to be let.

All of these projects—and the list doesn't even touch the surface—add up to millions of dollars being spent in the Sanford area for labor and materials.

Two new projects that will probably be added to the list will be the Housing Authority's new building program in Sanford and Oviedo—a good possibility that the docks and terminals project will be constructed at an early date.

These are the things that bring people, industry, and commerce to any area—and

Sanford and Seminole County are receiving a huge share, a big percentage of economic "shots in the arm."

There are many reasons why business and professional people, where individuals, civic leaders, industrialists should all be optimistic about the future here.

The griper or the pessimist doesn't have a "leg to stand on" in this particular Central Florida Area. Outsiders, for many years, have pointed to Sanford with a critical finger saying "this is the area where more people can profit most." Their reasons have been: natural resources; ideal recreational facilities; fine schools; plenty of churches; and plenty of friendly, courteous, neighborly people.

Little, then, did people here believe that Sanford and Seminole County would grow such as the past five years has produced. We are now looking at ourselves critically and asking—what can we do now to keep this going?

The answer could be summed up simply by saying that "A Chamber of Commerce provides the leadership and the central office through which many people can bring their energies together for the big shove toward greater dividends in community force."

The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce is an organization that must rely entirely on the individual—and the individual—then, in turn, relies on the Chamber of Commerce so that the efforts expended on community expansion and progressive projects can be made to work more effectively.

The Chamber of Commerce is a great organization with a membership of great and wonderful people—the kind of people outsiders and visitors point at and say "they're the friendliest, kindest, and most neighborly people I have ever known."

Germany Re-enacts A Story!

West Germany is the leading industrial nation of Europe, the World's largest exporter of automobiles and is possessed of a currency so sound that she has served as a banker for two of the victorious nations of World War II—Great Britain and France.

East Germany, under the iron-bound control of Communism, still lies in ruin, hunger and poverty, although Germans with the same skills and abilities to work hard live there.

The key point accounting for this difference is that for the past nine years West Germany has followed an aggressive free-enterprise policy and taken advantage of the tremendous constructive force of private initiative backed by the assurance of profit from successful ventures. Timed to come at approximately the same period as drastic currency reform, nearly all the rationing and myriad governmental controls which had shackled the West German economy lifted at one stroke in mid-1948.

In the words of U.S. News & World Report: "The combination worked wonders from the start. There was an immediate surge in business activity. Overnight, empty shops were filled with commodities that before had been hoarded or hidden for barter deals. Money once again had meaning. A free market guided prices to more realistic levels. Debits had been reduced by ninety per cent. A policy of sound money received priority."

"Sound money in a free market that determines prices was basic to the whole story of West German recovery."

The contrast between conditions in East and West Germany could hardly be more startling. In capsule form, with a new setting and different characters, this divided country has in a few years time, re-enacted the story of America's development as contrasted with the countries of the old world. The story of the two Germanys proved once again that with suitable ground rules everyone benefits most when individuals are allowed the freedom, opportunity and incentive to work out their own problems. This is a lesson which should be taken to heart by every American and acted upon before the principles of individual freedom, responsibility and opportunity, which built this country are compromised too severely.

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERR

A DIVORCE COURT judge had a tough case with a stubborn, unyielding man and wife who refused even to look at each other. "O.K.," conceded the judge. "Go through with the divorce, but understand that everything you possess will have to be divided equally."

"What about our three children?" demanded the wife. "That's something you'll have to figure out for yourselves," said His Honor.

The wife made a sudden decision. She seized her spouse by the collar and ordered, "Come on home, you lug!" To the judge, she threw over her shoulder, "We'll be back next year—with four children."

Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov's treatment on his visit to Yugoslavia may indicate that he is not really a contender for top Soviet leadership.

Certainly, it seems to indicate that President Tito—who ought to know—does not regard him as a rival of Nikita S. Khrushchev. He went to Tito's summer home in the Slovenian Mountains for a day of hunting and for a reception.

Officially, at least, Zhukov was treated as the defense minister of any other country would have been.

During his 10-day stay, Zhukov saw Tito just once. That was when he went to Tito's summer home in the Slovenian Mountains for a day of hunting and for a reception.

Toured Country
The rest of the time, Zhukov was entertained in Belgrade as the guest of Gemojak and other high officials. He was taken for a tour around the country to inspect military installations.

It seems entirely unlikely also that he would have paid so little attention to a man who, he thought, was breathing down Khrushchev's neck in a bid for leadership.

Feet Hurt? They May Have Any One Of 50 Ills

By HERMAN S. HANSEN, M.D.

WHEN anyone mentions foot trouble, you naturally think of corns, bunions, flat feet, athlete's foot and maybe ingrown nails.

However, this list barely scratches the surface. There are actually more than 50 foot ailments. You might be susceptible to many if not most of them.

Even though at least 90 per cent of our children under the age of 16 have some sort of foot trouble, the picture isn't as dark as it may seem. A full 80 per cent of the nation's foot ills can be prevented with a little thought and care.

- 50 Basic Ills
1. The National Foot Health Council has compiled a list of ten basic rules which, if followed, can do a lot to keep your feet healthy. Let me pass those suggestions on to you with a few of my own added here and there.
 2. Bathe your feet at least once every day. Scrub them with a soft brush to remove the dead skin. Dry them thoroughly and use foot powder afterward.
 3. Don't wear the same shoes or stockings two days in succession. Change your socks or stockings at least once a day.
 4. Cut straight across
 5. Cut your toenails straight across and not shorter than the flesh.
 6. Wear all-leather shoes, both shoes and uppers. Pick the right shoe for the right occasion. (I'll have more to say about the cor-
- Good Footwear
7. Cultivate good posture. Your feet should be pointed straight ahead for proper walking.
 8. Examine your children and yourself periodically for any foot troubles or poorly fitting shoes.
 9. Don't be a "bedroom surgeon." If your feet need attention, consult your family physician, a chiropodist or a podiatrist.
- QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
- Q. T.: My child has had freckles on her toes and toes. When would you advise me to have his tonsils removed?
- A.: Your physician is the best judge as to whether or not the tonsils should be removed. If he thinks the procedure wise, it would be well to wait until the polo season is over, unless there is an emergency.

Science Today

NEW YORK (UP)—The hospital didn't have any choice about it. There was nothing to do but put female "mental" patients into the same small ward with female "physical and surgical" patients.

Even a layman would think that was bad, but the hospital doctors would agree. People who are physically ill or who have had surgery need quiet and rest. "Mental" patients often are rather quiet and restful.

But this was the 5000th Air Force Hospital at Elmendorf Base in Alaska. Being a military hospital, it has, in addition to obstetrical facilities, only one 30-bed ward for the female relatives of airmen.

So in went the mentally ill (but physically healthy) with the physically ill (but mentally healthy). And what happened? Nothing.

The two groups got along famously together. Despite forebodings, the mentally ill behaved themselves.

This was reported by Dr. Pietro Castellano-Tedesca, who was then mostly ill of himself. You might be able to live on your stomach or liver. The mentally ill woman was accepted by the physically ill women as one of the girls, and the doctor was happy to see them benefit from "girl talk."

"Normal" Environment Help

"In other words, they find themselves in a 'normal' environment and seem to benefit from the fact that they are in contact with essentially well people," he said in his report to the New England Journal of Medicine. "They tend to learn their ways and follow their example. In this setting patients are stimulated by the performance of others to sustain their defenses and behave in a fairly appropriate fashion, rather than surrender to their illness and learn from their neighbors other psychotic manifestations as not infrequently happens with patients who have just been admitted to a state hospital."

He noted that the percentage of psychiatric patients in such a ward would always have to be quite small. But "as a general rule," he said, "it may be stated again that—within certain limits—(mental) patients who are treated as normal persons tend to behave as such." He also noted that he had no idea what would have happened if all the patients had been men. The female patients had a "protective interest" in one another. He suggested that psychiatry ought to find out if men would, too.

Zhukov, of course, is as much a Communist as Khrushchev is. He also is a member of the Communist Party Presidium which rules Russia.

Zhukov's support probably saved Khrushchev in the Kremlin dispute which resulted in the ousting of Georgi M. Malenkov, Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Lazar M. Kaganovich from the government at the Presidium. At that time, Zhukov was promoted from alternate to full membership in the Presidium.

There have been reports ever since that Zhukov, in command of the armed forces, was the real power in the Kremlin and that he might supplant Khrushchev as No. 1 man in the Soviet collective leadership.

Perhaps Non-Political
These reports may prove to be correct. But Zhukov's visit to Yugoslavia did nothing to substantiate them. The routine manner of his reception brings to mind the insistence of Russian experts before the Kremlin dispute that the Russian armed forces were not involved in politics and that Zhukov had no political ambitions.

Belgrade dispatches reported before Zhukov's arrival that he would try to tell Tito the idea of making Russia his sole source of arms, instead of getting weapons from the United States, and that Tito would refuse. After Zhukov's visit, the dispatches said that he

NEWS IN CANCER BATTLE
FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—New methods of treatment and new equipment have strengthened physicians in the battle against cancer, delegates to the German Roentgen Congress said today.

Cancer specialists from all parts of West Germany reported effective steps against lung cancer were being developed and new methods were opening the way to at least easing the situation of patients with advanced cancer of the breast.

CAIRO (UP)—A man who claims to be 110 years old has applied to the Egyptian government for compensation he says is due for his labors in the building of the Suez Canal 90 years ago. The man, Hussein Mohammed Ali Ayad, said he had $1,140 coming but would settle for $1,500. A government spokesman said the application was pigeon-holed because there appeared to be a lack of substantiating evidence for the claim.

AMERICAN scientists disagree over how long the Sputnik will keep going. All they're sure of is when it does come, that will not be the last they'll hear of it.

Congress is pretty wrought up about Russia leaving the U.S. with an earth satellite. They voted all that money, and it's Russia that's keeping a ball.

Most scientists say the Russian satellite does not in itself constitute a weapon. So we have nothing to worry about, is it?

Sanford Garden Club To Host District Meeting November 5

Personals

Mrs. and Mrs. Robert W. Lashbrook of Owensboro, Ky. spent Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mahan. The Mahans are former residents of Owensboro.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Rossetter and Miss Bobbye Morton returned Tuesday from the State Florist Convention in Tampa. They report a good time and many new ideas in floral industry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Norman of Jacksonville and children are expected this afternoon to spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Rossetter on Celery Ave.

Mrs. William Leahy returned to Sanford Thursday from Milwaukee, where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Leahy will stay with her father, Fred Wilson, for a while before flying back to Coahabamba, Bolivia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wheelock celebrated their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary Thursday.

Sanford Garden Club members under the direction of their president, Mrs. Fred Ganas are busy with plans for their most important meeting of the year. On Tuesday, November 5, 1957, they will convene at the Elks Club.

Registration for the meeting will open at 9 A. M. at the Elks Club, 1006 East 2d Street, with the meeting called to order by the District President, Mrs. J. E. Laughinghouse of Orlando. Mrs. L. E. Spencer will give the invocation preceding words of welcome by Mrs. Ganas, a response will be made by Mrs. William P. Hard.

Mrs. Vernon L. Conner, State President from Mt. Dora, whose topic will be Steps To Success. Mrs. C. B. Mayes Jr., first vice-president, Pompano Beach, will discuss Conservation in Florida's Future. Awards which may be earned by individual garden clubs will be described by Mrs. Arthur P. Coe, second vice-president.

Other reports will be brought to the District meeting by State chairmen of special committees, including Junior Gardening by Mrs. C. E. Saunders, Orlando; Landscaping by Mrs. G. O. Gjoerger, Apopka; and Publicity by Mrs. William T. Chennell, Orlando. The afternoon session will be devoted to messages of the District VII Chairmen, the presentation of Club membership certificates by Mrs. Vernon L. Conner, ending with the presentation of an attendance prize.

Luncheon will be served at the Shrine Club at 1 P. M. Because of the limited facilities, it is urged that members make reservations as soon as possible, and not later than November 1 with Mrs. Bert Hollingsworth, 2205 Washington Drive, Sanford. The cost of the meeting will be $2.00, including registration, luncheon, and gratuities, and must be paid at the time the reservation is made. A prize will be awarded to the Club having the largest percentage of its members present.

Mrs. Viola Williams, Jr., general chairman for the meeting, has announced the following as members of her committee: hostess, Mrs. Ralph Dean; registration and credentials, Mrs. J. Brailley Odham; book tables, Mrs. J. L. Horton Jr.; flowers, Mmes. I. E. Batten and Irvin Flischer; favors, Mmes. E. Layton and B. E. Following this, Fay Garner sang a song, and Kay Ivey played the piano. The history of the Pilot Club was read by Mrs. Lida Sline. Present for the Founder's Day celebration were Mrs. Lola Lambertson, Mrs. Ed Dunn, Mrs. Nancy Brock, Mrs. Gladys Hall, Mrs. Carolyn Carter, Mrs. Lucretia Ball, Mrs. Lucille McNab, Mrs. Sue Stevenson, Mrs. Felice Swanson, Mrs. Janie Shoemaker, Mrs. Rosamond Chapman, Mrs. Elsie Farley, Mrs. Patty Gatchel, and Mrs. Lida Sline.

Pilot Club members are asked to remember observance of Founder's Day, Sunday, October 27, when they will attend the 11:00 A. M. service at Pinecrest Baptist Church in a body.

On Thursday, November 14, the Sanford Pilot Club will meet with Mrs. Lida Sline for a buffet supper. There will follow a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Lourene Messenger.

The Sanford Pilot Club is participating in the United Fund Drive. Members are requested to complete their calls.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN, Society Editor

Guess most readers assume that Bob Conn came in Tuesday night. They are so right, and that is why there was no column last night.

However, I did get to the golf luncheon at the Mayfair Country Club. The tables were beautifully decorated with gourds, pumpkins, Indian corn and cranberry leaves. Cornucopia baskets held squash and more corn. The decorating had been done by El Dunn. Lee Cunniff had gathered the materials.

Twenty new members were introduced—which seems to me to be a darn good number. They were Hazel Rowell, Marce Hill, Evelyn Volovich, Terry Sline, Virginia Sullivan, Bonnie Pahl, Peg Butts, Helen Melms, Marge Baccach, Barbara Morrison (finally gave in), Katherine Park, Alice Peter, Virginia Sheedon, grumbling like mad, she came through to win with her partner, Helen Caraway. If the reader does not play golf that may sound bad, but it really isn't.

Dick Beck is back from Strike-back as I see when he runs in and out of the Herald office on his P. O. duties. Dick has grown a fringe on his upper lip. He says they loved it in England, but must confess I never asked him who.

The girls in Gamma Omega sorority are having a bake sale Saturday morning, starting at 8:30 A. M. Location somewhere on First St. Cookies, cake, and homemade candy will be on sale—reasonably. I am informed. Good way to get out of a weekend baking.

Today's Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRANKY
United Press Sports Writer
TOKYO (UP)—There may be an argument as to which section of the United States plays the most baseball but whether it's Pedunk or Pedunk you can take it from Feetless Friday today that it runs second to Tokyo without even counting the rest of baseball-happy Japan.

This is a town with more diamonds than Kimberley. And they give you a bigger play than the original Jack who coined the phrase about squanders being a girl's best friend.

For in Tokyo, they play baseball everywhere there's room to swing "sub-virus" dagger or give it a whop which would put Joe E. Brown to shame.

Treasure, Loss, Baseball
 There is a confusion in this corner that babies' teeth on nickel nibbles and that sea-see practice swinging the lilywhite in the closet after lights out. Because these diamonds doffed can be seen giving in the Low Burdette or the Yogi Berra on railroad tracks, in parking lots, or the main streets and even on rooftops.

As an example, Jeji Park has diamonds and they are blat, actually, from down to duft. They have kid teams, junior teams and all the way up to be-ostipated senior teams composed of guys old enough to know better. And there isn't a one of them who wouldn't swap you every Shinto Temple in Japan for a 350 batting average or the ability to knock one over the fence.

That, if anything, is the chief Japanese deficit. Maybe it's a lack of vitamins or too little puff in their babyhood rice hot, for some reason or other, the Japanese couldn't knock your hat off with a base viol. A guy who wallops the ball at better than 300 hits is a good hitter and 310 slugging will make him the reincarnation of "baby-sa ruse."

They're "Giant" even.

This partially accounts for the fact that the Nishitetsu Lions "no-mic" Inao this season has posted a record of 35 wins against a mere six defeats in leading his team into the Oct. 26 World Series (Japanese variety) against Tokyo. The Tokyo team is known as the "Giant," which may startle a few folks in New York and/or San Francisco, the stateside variety being a bit on the undersized and atomic side.

Yet, despite this craze which draws as many as 80,000 fans to a mere college game, professional baseball is not a short cut to Fort Knox or whatever may be the Japanese equivalent. A star's salary is as high as $500 a month but the average salary is $200 per month and the teams do not travel "lehi-ban" or first class either in the matter of railroads or hotels.

Wally Yamamine, a Hawaiian Neisel who once played football for the San Francisco Forty Niners, just about wrecked the major league situation in Japan this year by hitting in the 340's. Wally could probably run for emperor and nobody would sell his chances too short.

But all those in the baseball "know" insist that Ted Williams could come over here and, with a shave and a haircut, hit 500 one-handed. There's just one thing wrong with that.

Imagine what would happen, by official decree, to us sportswriters. Better he stays home and hits a lousy 300.

BRAVES SIGN SNYDER
MILWAUKEE (UP)—The world champion Milwaukee Braves have signed first-baseman Paul Snyder, 21, of Dallastown, Pa., to a 1958 contract with their Boise Idaho Club in the Class C Pioneer League.

CAVANAUGH JOINS BOX
CHICAGO (UP)—Charles Cavanaugh, a 21-year-old outfielder signed with the Chicago White Sox' Duluth-Superior farm club in the Northern League. Cavanaugh hit .300 for the Little Rock, Ark., Air Force team this year.

YOUNG FLY VICTIM
MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—Frank Youso, 6-foot, 4-inch, 255-pound tackle for Minnesota, was discharged from the University Hospital Wednesday after a bout with the flu but is still a doubtful performer in Saturday's Big 10 game with Michigan. Youso's condition was complicated in the hospital by an infected wisdom tooth.

Prizes Awarded At Golf Assn. Meet

The monthly luncheon of the Sanford Women's Golf Association was held at the Mayfair Country Club Wednesday. A business meeting was held before the buffet luncheon.

The president, Mrs. Cris Higginbotham, called the meeting to order at which time 26 new members were introduced.

A gift of a pin was presented to Mrs. John Crawford on behalf of the club, as a constant reminder of the "hole-in-one", first last week. Mrs. Crawford is the only local woman to officially record such a feat.

It had been recommended at a recent board meeting that duplicate prizes be given for ties.

Gators, Tigers Clash Saturday At Florida Field

GAINESVILLE— Things could get worse before they get better for Florida's Gators, who draw the unenviable assignment of playing Louisiana State's rampaging Tigers at Florida Field this Saturday.

While the Gators were upended by Mississippi State last Saturday 20 to 20, LSU was blasting Kentucky 21 to 0. By way of comparison, Florida earlier defeated Kentucky 14 to 7.

Louisiana State, which features the running prowess of sophomore halfback Billy Cannon and senior fullback Jimmy Taylor, now has won four games in a row, after losing a close one to Rice, 20 to 14, in its opening contest. The Gators have a 2-1 record.

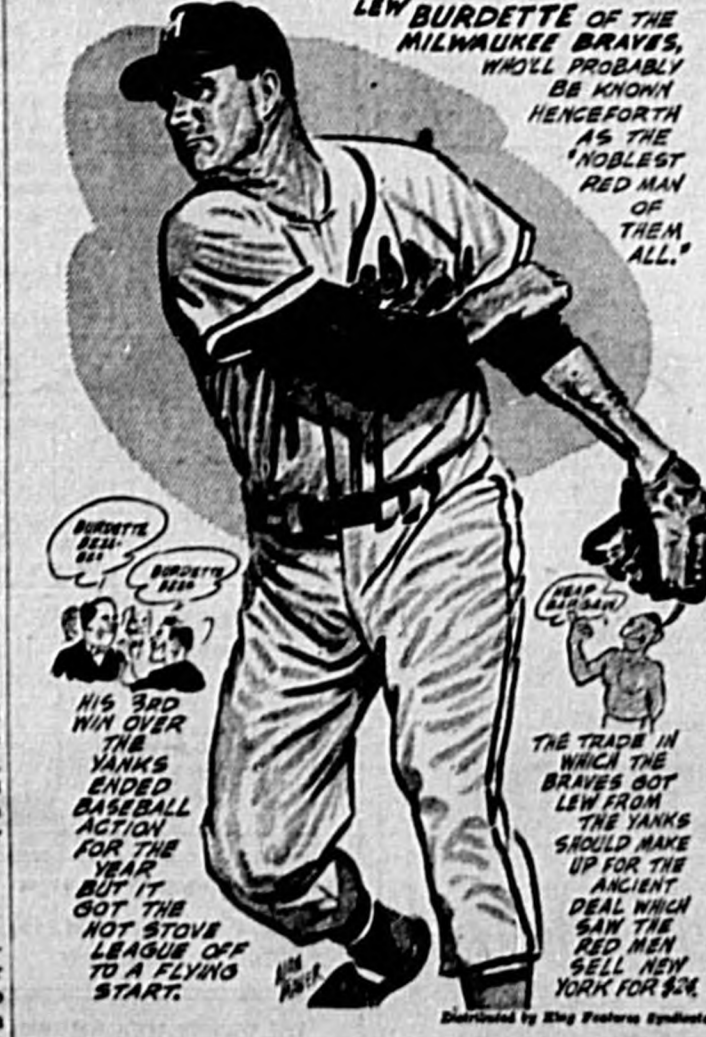

Florida fullback Ed Sears, who was the Gators' leading ground gainer in 1956, jumped into team leadership in that department this week. He has a net gain of 140 yards on 33 carries, and is averaging 4.2 yards per carry.

Halfback Bernie Parrish, last week's ground gain leader, is second with 135 yards on 18 carries, and a terrific 7.5 average.

Halfback Jimmy Rountree continues to lead the team in passes caught, receiving four for 104 yards and two touchdowns. He is also the team's leading scorer with 18 points, while Dunn and Parrish have 12 points each.

PART GAMES
 Florida and LSU have met six times in a series that dates back to 1907. LSU has won three, Florida won its two games in 1955 and 1956. The score last week was 21 to 6 for the Gators.

UP '57 American League All-Star Team Is Chosen

By FRED BROWN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)— Nelson Fox, who's hit a total of 25 home runs in 11 big league seasons, and Mackey Binnie, who's an even rarer in half a campaign, were the only unanimous picks on the United Press 1957 American League All-Star team.

The team, selected by a 24-man committee of three baseball writers from each city in the league, also included catcher Yogi Berra and shortstop Gil McDougald of the Yankees, first baseman Vic Wertz of the Indians, third baseman Frank Malzone and outfielder Ted Williams of the Red Sox, outfielder Roy Sievers of the Senators, pitcher Jim Bunning of the Tigers and White Sox team-mate, pitcher Billy Pierce.

The Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Athletics were the only teams not represented on a squad that averages 30 years of age per man. The eight regulars hit a total of 200 home runs this year and both pitchers hit the 20-victory total on the nose.

In Fox and Mantle, the writers honored perhaps the two key men in an American League pennant race that quickly developed into a two-team fight between the White Sox and Yankees.

Fox, a 5-foot, 9-inch, 155-pounder from St. Thomas, Pa., typified the "White Sox" season-long struggle to out-battle and out-fight a Yankee team that was superior in both front-line personnel and depth. A fighter all the way, Fox played in all 155 of his team's games, led the league with 196 hits and batted .317—fifth best average in the circuit.

Mantle, of course, was the Yankee's "big stick." He batted .305 and hit 24 homers despite the fact he was walked 146 times. The youngest regular on the team at 26, Mantle is a strong candidate to win his second straight Most Valuable Player award.

The All-Star team follows:

P. Player & Team	HR	RBI	Avg.
N. Fox, N. Y.	24	82	.321
M. Mantle, N. Y.	26	106	.322
Y. Berra, N. Y.	6	61	.317
G. McDougald, N. Y.	13	62	.280
F. Malzone, Bos.	15	50	.292
R. Sievers, Bos.	28	87	.308
T. Williams, N. Y.	24	94	.305

Crooms Panthers Host To Central Academy Saturday

The Crooms Academy Panthers will go against the Central Academy team of Palatka at the Sanford Memorial Stadium, Saturday night, at 8 p. m.

The game will climax the homecoming festivities and a large crowd should be on hand. After losing three straight games, the Panthers found the winning column by walloping the Hungerford Roberts of Winter Park last Friday night, 19-4.

The Palatka squad comes into the game with a very impressive record and should be a difficult problem for the Panthers to solve. Nevertheless, the improvement shown by the Panthers in the past two weeks indicates that they should be up for the game.

The parade before the game will begin at the school at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon. The parade will feature three bands and at the halftime during the game the bands will give a halftime show. The homecoming ceremonies will also take place at this time.

Seminole Gridsters Face Winter Park Squad Tonite

By JERRY OWENSON
 The Sanly Sanford Seminoles will be out tonight with full intentions of blanketing their second OBC foe, the Winter Park Wildcats.

The game will be played here at Memorial Stadium. A capacity crowd is expected to jam the stadium, for the undefeated, red, and silver-clad Seminoles will be trying for victory number four.

As the first of the week rolled around, things around SHS took on a very gloomy look, for several key men were expected to be completely out of the lineup for this important game. But, one by one, they began to come around and things look much better to day.

Although Bob Johnson and Claude Howell will be back in the lineup, their activity will be limited, as their injuries still need a little time to completely come around.

Co-Captain, Billy Tyre, will also be in the lineup, but his play, too, will be restricted. His knee infection is still bad, but he is a great competitor and is hard to keep out of there.

Although these first string players have ailments, there is great relief to know that boys like Duke Schirard, Walter Middleton, Tommy Butler, and John Alfred are very capable of stepping in and taking charge. This second unit may be shy in number, but they are good competitors and are always ready to "scrap."

The spirit remains the greatest it has been in many a year and the team is determined to prove tonight that they are serious contenders to knock mighty Melbourne from their perch. If victory is enjoyed tonight, it may well mean that the Seminoles could be undefeated when they come against Melbourne.

This should be a great ball game on the festivities last year by tying the Seminoles, 14-14.

The Gobbler opened with a 14-13 triumph over Tulane, last to West Virginia, 14-0, and Williams and Mary, 13-7, and defeated Villanova, 21-14.

FSU opened with a 27-7 win over Furman, then lost successive games to Boston College, Villanova and North Carolina State.

A near-capacity crowd of near 19,000 is expected to attend the game. It will begin at 2:30 p. m. (EST).

FSU Meets Virginia Tech Tomorrow; Homecoming Game

TALLAHASSEE—Florida State hopes to maintain a perfect homecoming record this Saturday afternoon against an unpredictable Virginia Tech team that has failed to live up to pre-season expectations.

Virginia Tech, labeled as the "cream of the Southern Conference" at the season's beginning, was humbled 38-7 by Virginia last week while FSU defeated previously unbeaten Abilene Christian, 34-7.

But wary FSU Coach Tom Nugent refused to underlead the Gobbler and pointed to the past two seasons when Virginia Tech came into Tallahassee rated about even with the Seminoles.

Two years ago, the Gobbler's fought off a desperate last-quarter surge to win, 24-20. Last season, they played a near flawless game and defeated the Seminoles, 29-7.

"Virginia Tech is a well-coached football team with potential it hasn't yet realized," Nugent said. "They'll be rebounding this week and that could make a difference."

Florida State has never lost a homecoming game. However, Wake Forest put a semi-dampener

Delicate Delinquent Lewis' Funniest Film

"The Delicate Delinquent," opening Sunday at the Movieland Ride-In Theatre, promises to be something entirely new for its star Jerry Lewis. Based on an idea that Jerry has long cherished, the Paramount VistaVision production reaches the screen as what is said to be Jerry's funniest picture to date, yet one that tells a story that's sincere with real heart appeal.

As the wistful, eager but bumbling assistant janitor of a run-down tenement in New York's lower East Side, Jerry has the perfect vehicle for his zany antics. On the serious side, however, he yearns to be someone—to be respected like the cop on the beat. Juvenile delinquents swarm the neighborhood where Jerry performs — and misperforms — his daily chores. Not only does Jerry have his irate tenants to contend with, but the poor soul is constantly badgered by the leather-jacketed cop who holds no brief for a guy who respects a cop.

In the role of the cop is likable Darren McGavin, who, with pretty

Ann Blyth and Paul Newman in a dramatic scene from Warner Bros. forthcoming "The Helen Morgan Story," opening Sunday at the Ritz Theatre. The explosive life-story of the woman they called the Goddess of the Jazz Age. Paul Newman stars in the role of a bootlegger and part-time lover of Miss Morgan who is partly responsible for the crashing downfall of the singer. Michael Curtis directed the CinemaScope picture.

'Helen Morgan Story' Opens Sunday At Ritz

Paul Newman, one of Hollywood's brightest newcomers, was most recently seen in "Somebody Up There Likes Me," and is the Warner Bros. star of the forthcoming, "The Left-Handed Gun." Also starring in "The Helen Morgan Story" are Gene Evans, Alan King and Cara Williams.

Seen in the film, too, are some of show business' best-known personalities of yesterday and today; Jimmy McHugh, Miss Morgan's accompanist and song writer; Rudy Vallee, seen re-enacting his true-life role; and America's most famous columnist, Walter Winchell, who is said to deliver a stirring introduction of Helen Morgan in a climactic scene.

The screenplay of "The Helen Morgan Story" was written by Oscar Saul, Dean Reiner, Stephen Longstreet and Nelson Gidding. The musical numbers were staged by LeRoy Prinz and Michael Curtis directed. The film was produced for Warner Bros. by Martin Rackin.

Now Hear This!

I realize that this will appear in the paper long after VAH-9 is back, and all the wives are used to having husbands around the house again. So better late than never... I just can't seem to think far enough ahead to get things like that to appear on the day that they should! I was out in the backyard, hanging up clothes, last Tuesday when the planes came over... and a beautiful sight they were.

Joanna and Don Fleischmann, my next-door neighbors, have some out-of-state company with them. (At least at this writing, though they'll probably be gone by the time you read this!) They are her brother and sister-in-law, Fryn, and Phyllis Lang, from Lockport, New York. Mrs. Lang is the former Phyllis Callaghan, of Newfane, New York, and the couple was married just last Saturday, October 19th, in St. Bridget's Church in Newfane! Of course they are on their honeymoon, but they could hardly go on to Miami without stopping in to see all the Fleischmanns! They plan to make the return trip up the East Coast. Nice for Joanna since she was unable to get home for the wedding.

Last Tuesday morning Margaret Milton gave a "baby-shower-coffee" for Ruth Armistead, who is "expecting" next month. Those there were: Jackie Brooks, Gladys Carter, Lois Bailey, Lois Fryn, Mrs. Cleary, Joanna Fleischmann, and yours truly. Margaret served cake and coffee, and Ruth received some lovely baby things. The color pink, and rosebuds were much in evidence, so I guess most of the girls are hoping right along with Ruth that it will be another girl!

Just realized that this will be the last one for the week, so I had better sit back and try and think of any reminders I should put in!

I guess first and foremost is don't forget to attend church on Sunday. If you do not attend a church in town, Protestant services at the Naval Air Station start at 9:00 A. M., with Sunday School being held while church is in progress. Chaplain William Fuller is back from his leave, and will be there this Sunday. And Catholic services are held at 12:00 noon, with confession immediately preceding it.

One week from now it is the Halloween Dance at the E. M. Club. If you haven't given much thought to a costume, better start concentrating on it! Remember, there will be prizes for the best ones... so why not try and win one of these?

And the Chief's Club dance will be one week from tomorrow night. (We just got to the orchestra before they did!) If you're planning to attend that one, start making plans now!

I'm certainly glad someone in this neighborhood baked! As the "kids" were piling into Jackie Brooks car this morning (to be driven three blocks to school) Gladys Carter called to me to come over for coffee. She had baked a Boston cream pie, and a pineapple upside-down cake, and was looking for help to eat it up! Gail Coombs was already there, as was Jackie Brooks, when I

Martha Hyer, is co-starred with Jerry. Martha is a lady investigator on delinquency conditions. Martha falls in love with McGavin, and in his own timid way, Jerry is crazy about a pet little Miss played by Mary Webster.

One of the comedy highlights in "The Delicate Delinquent" is a scene in which Jerry, while training to be a cop, must take a judo lesson from The Great Togo, the 300-pound Los Angeles wrestler. "They tell me Togo doesn't always follow the script," Jerry explained to his director, Don McGuire. So Jerry invited his friend Rocky Marciano to be present—just in case.

There's music in "The Delicate Delinquent" too, with Jerry singing a number called "By Myself" by songsmiths Arthur Schwartz and Howard Dietz.

Dallas' first building was a one-room log cabin erected in 1841 by William Neely Bryan.

Dauphin was a title given to the eldest son of a King of France.

THE CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes but also courteously acknowledges the services and kindnesses of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.

Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as socially correct. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.

There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.

THE "IN MEMORIAM" NOTICE

It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They find a real solace therein. Preparation of a selection of a suitable verse brings back to them tender, pleasant recollections. An Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:

"How cruelly sweet are the echoes
That start
What memory plays an old tune on the heart."

Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.

If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in poetic form, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the heart-strings. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstances.

THE RATE

Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.

Rules To Help Victims Of High Blood Pressure

By HERMAN H. HUNDEIN, M.D.

DON'T cheat yourself. You pay a doctor for his advice, if it's at all possible. And make sure you get at least eight hours sleep every night. Blood pressure tension listen carefully to everything your physician tells you and then make up your own rules - to govern your activities.

Get Enough Rest

4. Rest before you get tired. Not only will this help you avoid the tension that usually accompanies fatigue, but you will get a lot more done in the long run. You can't do your best work if you're tired.

5. Stay away from competitive sports. You are very apt to over-exert yourself when you're competing with someone. However, mild exercise, like walking, generally is good for a person.

Smoking and Drinking

6. Avoid excessive smoking and drinking. Some doctors advise victims of high blood pressure to exclude tobacco and alcohol entirely. Your doctor is the best judge in your particular case. Do what he tells you.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

M. H.: Is cancer contagious? I've repeatedly explained how having shared my food with an overweight causes overwork for person who has cancer.

Answer: There is no evidence of this.

3. Get plenty of sleep. Take a cancer is contagious.

Fed Up With Monotony

Danger, exhaustion and bullet-torn clothing were all in a day's work to this World War I ace

By BOB HANSCOM

SAM HISCOX, a native of New York City, was one of England's great World War I heroes. He now spends most of his days quietly running the Bradenton Country Club. However, it was not always this way. In 1917, the spirit of adventure boiling in his blood, Hiscox went to England and joined the Royal Flying Corps, soloing with less than five hours training. He was commissioned a first lieutenant in three months. Later he became a member of England's famous flying crew, Sampson's Circus. An aviator had to down at least 10 enemy planes before being assigned to Sampson's outfit.

The following account was not told by Hiscox, but by Owen Cobb Holloran, Atlanta, Ga., another American who was a pilot for England during World War I.

One gray morning in October 1918, Lieutenant Hiscox, in command of six Porte flying boats, took off to bomb a German airdrome. It had been learned that planes from that particular airdrome would raid England's north coast within the next 24 hours. Hiscox swung along toward Germany. Two flying boats had dropped out; one to the aid of a merchant ship in trouble, the other with engine trouble. The protective mists dried out and the remaining boats flew into clear sunshine—the last thing they wanted. Minutes later they spotted the German Christiansen's air squadron. At that time the "Tiger," as Christiansen was called, had 40 Allied planes to his credit.

In tight formation, the boats dove for the water. The "Tiger's" 25 Hawks came in fast. Guns on both sides hammered a full chorus. One German plane burst into flames and fell like a meteor into the sea, then another crumbled. Meanwhile Christiansen hit boat number four and it fell into a spin, going down a roaring mass of flames. The flying boats skimmed the water, and the fighters could no longer get under them. The coast was many miles away so the Germans turned about and left the scene. Hiscox's machine was severely bullet-marked. In the remaining planes, only one man had been hit. One boat had a fractured main wing spar and could not be counted on to last long.

An hour later they spotted the coastal airdrome. A score of heavy bombers was lined up before the hangars, being groomed for their night's work. Like giant gulls, the boats started a long alanting dive for the airdrome. Christiansen's Hawks suddenly reappeared. It was a race without thought of anything but the objective. The guns on the ground belloyed their objections to the audacious raid. Down through the storm of machine gun bullets and one-pound shells, the three boats hurled themselves like winged thunderbolts. Twenty-one bombs dropped. There was a burst of flame and a huge up-rushing of wind and debris. The flying boats started toward the water, leaving devastation behind. Christiansen's Hawks circled the little group, diving, firing, curving away, only to repeat the tactics time and again.

The boats were now so badly damaged, that maneuvering was out of the question. It was simply a case of going straight for the open sea, hoping the gunners could beat off the attack enough to prevent total destruction. Hiscox's forward gunner was hit twice. Calling the radio man to take the controls, Hiscox crawled over the top to the gunner's cockpit. Hastily bandaging the injured man, he climbed back to his control station, a couple of bullets going through his clothing on the way. His radio man went forward to take the guns just as the engineer-gunner collapsed with a bullet in his midriff. Hiscox's chin strap and cheek were cut by a close one.

The other two boats were also having plenty of trouble, but now the open sea was ahead and Christiansen apparently decided it was safer to turn back. With draining fuel tanks, wounded, exhausted, strained beyond imagination, they staggered on, barely clear of the water. Finally they passed the home base beacons and landed at Felixstowe.

Hiscox's commanding officer was there. "Hello, Sam, have a good patrol?" he asked. "Not so bad, sir," Hiscox replied. "I say, let's fly over to London and see a show tonight. I'm fed up with the monotony of this place."

OUR COVER

Screen swimming star, glamorous Esther Williams, not only adorns our cover this week, but her helpful hints on glamor for the outdoor-type girl can be found in our Hollywood Beauty column on page five. Miss Williams has spent many hours swimming in Florida's crystal-clear lakes and streams, while starring in movies that were filmed at Cypress Gardens and Silver Springs. Naturally ideal for outdoor photographic scenes, the state's waters and year-round perfect weather are drawing more and more of the movie magnates to Florida for picture making, not to mention the encouragement for actually establishing motion picture production studios here.

SANIBEL: A Most Unusual Island

By CLEVELAND VAN DRESSER

THERE are islands off the coasts of Florida that boast beautiful beaches carpeted with sea shells. There are also islands that serve as unique resorts for people seeking peace and quiet. And, there are still other islands noted for their wildlife. But when you find an island which has all three of these attractions, you have hit upon something quite unusual.

Such a place actually does exist, however. It is Sanibel Island in the Gulf of Mexico, a few miles from the West Coast city of Fort Myers on the Caloosahatchee River.

Sanibel is known far and wide as a prolific producer of some of the most fantastic and lovely sea shells to be found anywhere on the face of the globe. Over 300 kinds of interesting shells can be found, chiefly because Sanibel has the only beach in Florida facing south. Specimens from Sanibel are to be found in noted collections the world over.

Although "shelling" remains a paramount attraction, this unique isle, only 12 miles long and three miles wide, also supports a colony of individuals who cherish peace and quiet in contrast to the more lavish tourist layouts found almost everywhere in the state. Sanibel seems to be a place where time has stopped for a little while, and is in no hurry to catch up.

It would seem that such a small piece of land, which not only has residents of its own, but annually draws thousands of travelers to its beaches, would hardly have room to support a sizeable wildlife population. But Sanibel does it. Part of the island is a full-fledged federal wildlife refuge.

Ordinarily, wildlife doesn't get along with human activity too well. The average federal wildlife refuge is sparsely populated, the idea being the fewer humans, the better off the birds and animals will be. Wildlife generally prefer to conduct their affairs with a minimum of outside interference.

However, Sanibel to a degree, refutes that accepted practice, for the bird life on the island is truly amazing. It is a haven for nesting herons, egrets, anhingas (water turkeys), pelicans, Florida mallards, gallinules, coots and oarpeys. During the winter season, thousands of northern visitors of the feathered variety make Sanibel their temporary home.

Sanibel has also played a most important part in the saving of the rare and beautiful roseate spoonbill, once thought headed for extinction. In fact, so noted is the island for its abundant bird life that local Audubon Societies throughout the state consider it one of the greatest attractions of its kind in Florida. To many Audubonites, a trip to the Sanibel Island bird rookeries is one of the high points of their lives.

Sanibel got its start as a bird refuge through the efforts of the noted conservationist, J. N. (Ding) Darling. His vigorous action in the late 1930s, when he was chief of the old U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey (since absorbed by the present U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service), virtually saved America's waterfowl from extinction.

Darling, whose home is on Captiva Island, adjoining Sanibel to the north, put down the first artesian well on Sanibel in 1945. This assured a steady supply of fresh water. In that year, at Darling's insistence, the state set up a modest wildlife refuge which included part of Captiva Island. Two years later, the area became a federal refuge by presidential proclamation. Another pioneer resident, Frank P. Bailey, leased 80 acres, and shortly thereafter the federal government put in another artesian well and the refuge actually came into existence.

In 1952, Uncle Sam started purchasing small tracts of land, until on Dec. 5, 1958, the U. S. Fish and

BREAKING THE TALL TALE BARRIER

By KEN MUSSON

SINCE the days of Eric the Red and other pioneers of the sea, a veil of mystery has lain between the oceans and the men who sought to use these waters for commerce, relaxation and adventure. But, in truth, the sea itself is only a shadow of the ghost that has filled men's hearts with terror for centuries.

Most exaggerated of tall tales about the seas are stories of attacks made on men by sharks and barracuda. Yet, documented reports of specific incidents are few. The sport of skin-diving, growing in popularity among Florida swimmers, has helped to lift the curtain of fear surrounding these ocean inhabitants. Many skin-divers have returned to land to report of swimming in the same waters as sharks and barracuda without mishap. I have had similar experiences, too. I have chased sharks, using a small boat, and herded them in much the same way that a cowboy runs down stray cattle. I have tormented a shark in that manner for as long as a half-hour—always keeping him in shallow water and making him move in circles—and have never been attacked.

Of course, such activity is not recommended as a way to brighten up a dull weekend. But, it does seem to indicate that most of the tales about sharks have grown out of overactive imaginations. Finding parts of human flesh or clothing and rings in the stomachs of the fish is not necessarily good evidence that they attacked and killed a swimmer or diver. Since sharks are scavengers, almost anything might be found inside them. In Florida, there are authentic records of attacks from only the hammerhead shark and the lemon shark. What the swimmer or fisherman needs to remember is that sharks or barracuda, like big land animals, cannot be counted upon to behave according to any rules. If sharks are molested or detect the scent of blood from a cut, they may attack.

Another fish maligned in stories of the oceans is the manta ray or devilfish. This huge, graceful fish is in reality about as dangerous as the glider airplane it resembles. The manta, which sometimes grows to the size of 22 feet from side to side, is credited with numerous attacks on divers and swimmers. There is, of course, the danger that a small boat which comes too close to a manta might be struck by one of the fish's "wings" and be tipped over or battered. But the charge that such a thing would be done intentionally by the ray is far-fetched. Fishermen who have worked the coastal waters for years know the manta to be a gentle creature. In fact, youngsters living along the coast have been known to ride on the manta's back when they could get a good grasp. Never has one been seen to attack a swimmer.

On the other hand, the smaller rays, such as the stingray and the round ray, must be treated with respect. They are equipped with sharp barbs on their tails. Each has a barb located about halfway down on its tail, which can be struck, with a quick lash of the tail, into the swimmer's arm or leg, inflicting a serious wound. Other rays, such as the leopard ray, also have tail barbs, but these are located at the end of the body and cannot be so easily whipped. The swimmer must step directly down on these barbs to be hurt. Another ray, far less common but found in some Florida waters, is the torpedo or electric ray. Some of these marine animals have been known to release as much as 200 volts—enough for a severe shock, although not generally enough to be of real danger. The best defense against all rays when walking in shallow waters is to frighten them out of your path by scuffing your feet along in the sand. This will usually make the ray move on before you come in contact with it.

Another of the inhabitants of the waters off Florida that are regarded as dangerous are the moray eels, sometimes called the "rattlesnakes of the deep." For the most part, they are found on the off-shore reefs where they lie in wait among the coral for small fish to swim by. At times, however, they may be found around bridges or near mangrove roots. When hooked on a fisherman's line, the moray often knots itself with the line. It is not unusual to find the line tied around the eel's body when it is brought to the top of the water. Most fishermen respect its bite enough to cut it loose before bringing it into the boat. The moray is often attracted by shiny objects, making the wearing of jewelry such as rings a dangerous practice for the swimmer or skin-diver. The moray has no venom sacs such as the land rattler possesses, but a mucus film over its teeth can cause a severe infection if a wound is not cleaned immediately.

The billed fish, which include spearfish and the broadbill swordfish, have long been reputed for driving their spears into the sides of boats when hooked. Divers have found that it is also dangerous to swim near the huge jewfish with its voracious disposition. Because the fish's mouth is so large, the current of water cascading between its open jaws might swallow up the unwary swimmer.

Various marine animals are capable of giving a painful sting when touched, and swimmers should avoid them whenever possible. The sting of some sponges, like the fire sponge, can cause an irritation of the skin and even a little numbness lasting for a day or so. Jellyfish must also be respected. For the most part, its sting is little worse than the sting of an ant, however, the Portuguese man-of-war can be dangerous. If the swimmer stung by this jellyfish has a weak heart or is otherwise physically unfit, the sting could be fatal.

The man-of-war is actually a colony of small animals called siphonophores. The colony can be recognized by a clear blue and pink air-filled bladder which floats on the sea's surface. Under this bladder dangles a series of tentacles, some as much as 30 feet long. The boatman or swimmer who comes in contact with these tentacles receives a series of severe stings which produce a numbing sensation and swelling.

The waters of our southern seas contain few animals which can cause great danger to the swimmer and diver if reasonable caution is taken. In fact, once the exaggerated barrier of tall tales is broken, the sea will become in the minds of all men a friendly territory to explore.

Glamor for the Girl Athlete

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—Esther Williams was the first outdoor girl to become a top movie star. And her pictures are responsible for bringing glamor to the girl athlete.

"When I was in school," Esther confided, as we sat in her Brentwood garden, "the girls who went out for sports were mostly sad sacks. They were the type who felt there was no hope in the romance department, and I must say they didn't pay much attention to their appearances. I worked hard to find a way to come out of the water with my hair looking nice. At MGM, especially, they didn't want me to wear a cap, so I kept my hair neat by drawing it straight back and setting it with hair spray."

Esther also uses waterproof mascara, lipstick and make-up base all the time.

"They stand up in any kind of weather. The make-up base protects my face. It has moisture elements in it but people are under the impression I am not wearing any make-up at all.

"The trick is to use a shade that matches your skin tones. Let your cosmetic dealer help you here. When I begin to tan in the summer, or my tan fades in the fall, I have to change my base. I use as little as I can for complete coverage. When make-up is used too heavily, it crumbles around the eyes and emphasizes every wrinkle and laugh line."

"Whenever I am attracted to someone," she said, "I try to analyze how they achieved the effect. There are so many ways of beautifying yourself, of expressing your individuality, that there is no excuse for anyone not making an effort toward self-improvement."

"To me, glamor is not an illusion wrought by a magic spell," Esther continued. "Instead, it is centered around naturalness. But the illusion of naturalness is something quite different from the soap-and-water routine. Planned naturalness is achieved with thought, taste and technique. It takes more time to put on a make-up that is subtle than one that is obvious."

Part of Esther's glamor technique of naturalness is to have clean teeth. Her teeth are as healthy as they are beautiful and she attributes this to proper nutrition when she was a child.

"I am grateful to my mother for being way ahead of her time regarding nutrition," she said. "I have to brush my teeth after every meal, because I don't feel clean unless every part of me is. This is a good habit to form since it retards tooth decay. I am in favor of brushing five times a day."

Esther belongs to the ounce-of-prevention school of thought. She believes the time to start caring for yourself is before you need that care.

"Don't wait until your body is flabby and your muscles have lost their tone," Esther advised. "Let go of the old habits and take on the new. Be philosophical about what you can do and never force yourself. There is no reason for your body not to be firm and limber if you give it moderate daily exercise and nutritious food."

Esther is so enthusiastic about the benefits of swimming that she wishes there was a pool in every back yard. "But if you can't swim daily," she said, "then walking is the best over-all exercise."

Next week, Lydia Lane will interview glamorous Jeanne Crain.

Lydia Lane's 12-page booklet, called "Discover Your Type," includes an important section written by outdoor girl Esther Williams. Esther passes on hints to help you improve your beauty and individuality. Whether you're the sophisticate, a fresh young teen-ager, a glamor girl or an outdoor girl like Esther, you cannot fail to benefit from the beauty tips given you in "Discover Your Type" by such famous stars as Rosalind Russell, Shirley Maclaine, Jeanne Crain and Jean Simmons. RIDGE MANOR

By ALEENE KIDO

GOLFERS PLAY one of the beautiful greens on first nine of 18-hole course which promises to be one of Florida's finest. Links adjoin the Country Club Estates section.

SPORTSMEN FIND best lake and river fishing in the state near at hand. With two lakes and 6,000 feet of canals being dug, each homesite will be on water or close to it.

BUILDING COSTS ARE REASONABLE. A custom-built masonry two-bedroom home can be built for $4,970 up. Design, setback and location are controlled to protect investments.

AT THE crossroads of two main highways in Central Florida, a stretch of land is rapidly being transformed into a preplanned model town, self-sufficient and individual in design. There, an Ohio developer is turning 3,700 acres of high, rolling land, uninhabited until recently, into a small, ideal city—Ridge Manor.

Located at the junction of U. S. 301 and State Road 50, this community was laid out with pleasure, comfort and convenience for its future residents as the goal in sight. Some 6,000 families will be able to buy lots, build homes and live economically while enjoying the same benefits to be found in higher priced sections of the state.

When complete, the development will have a shopping center with retail stores, a motel and restaurant, an area for schools, churches and civic center, a golf and country club, a five-acre park on the Withlacoochee River complete with marina for loading boats and, of course, many residential areas.

Ridge Manor, in its picturesque location 10 miles north of Dade City, is within 35 miles of the Gulf of Mexico and 85 miles of the Atlantic Ocean. It is a mere 30 to 90-minute drive from Orlando, Tampa or Ocala. The community is surrounded by five large lakes and many smaller ones set in hilly, wooded countryside. One of the most beautiful and well-stocked lakes in the entire state—Lake Panasoffkee—is within 30 minutes of Ridge Manor Community and can be reached by boat via the Withlacoochee River which fronts on the property.

A research center, using the services of scientifically-trained retirees, and an industrial area, close to but separate from the residential area, are cherished dreams of the developer and are now being planned by a committee of Northern corporation executives.

Owner of this spectacular development, J. Earl Miller of Geneva, Ohio, has brought years of real estate experience to Ridge Manor. He has successfully completed 32 other such projects in Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan. As president of Western Reserve Properties, past president of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards and past vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Mr. Miller is recognized as an authority in the land appraisal field. He is perhaps best-known for his work as appraiser for the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in Illinois. He once sold the entire town of McDonald, Ohio, the residence of some 5,000 people, to J. W. Galbreath Co. of Columbus. His son-in-law, Robert Whitney, operates the Ridge Manor Realty Co., which handles the property.

At present, there are 15 miles of paved roads plotted and under construction. In the shopping area, 14 units of the 28-unit motel are finished and in use. The Texas Oil Co. has leased a gas station-service department on one corner, adjacent to the offices of the Ridge Manor development. A small restaurant is now in operation nearby.

In the residential areas, 680 lots have been sold and over 100 homes have been built or are nearing completion. Lots are 100 feet wide and from 100 to 300 feet deep. It is the policy of the owner to accept a binder on a lot by mail, but no transfer of title or final payment is made until the purchaser has visited and approved the lot. No lots will be sold to speculators, and lots not surveyed and recorded are not on the market. Some ready-built homes are offered for sale now, and model homes are usually available. The realty company represents tives also will oversee construction after a lot has been purchased and a builder selected. The minimum-sized home is 720 square feet, not including breezeway, car port or utility room. Of course, a home-stead is tax-exempt up to an assessed valuation of $5,000.

Economy homesites with a minimum frontage of 90 feet may be purchased in two sections for as little as $800 and on time payment plans, if desired. Building costs are average in the area. In the Country Club Estates section, lots sell for $1,075 and up. This area surrounds a colonial clubhouse, one wing of which has been completed, and a 18-hole golf course. Designed by Hans Schmeiner on naturally rolling land, the first nine holes were completed in January and a second nine is under construction. Tennis courts and a swimming pool will be built adjoining the clubhouse this winter. Homesites in this area border the golf course along winding, shaded roads.

To the south across Highway 50 in the Lakewood Estates section, one group of homesites was opened recently along the east side of Lake Geneva and proved to be very popular with buyers. Two large lakes have been connected by 6,000 feet of canals dug 60 feet wide, and a boat basin formed around a lagoon at the north end of the lake has been started. An "Admiral's Clubhouse" is planned where boats, motors, tackle, bait and a snack bar will be made available to residents. Here, homes line the lake and canal shores and are shaded by huge live oaks. North-south streets have been named for birds and east-west streets, for flowers. In this area, lots, usually 105 by 175 feet, can be bought for $1,500 and higher. Sale price of a lot anywhere in the development includes water and electricity to the property and paved streets. At present, there is enough water to serve a city almost twice the anticipated size of Ridge Manor with its homesites and shopping center.

Shuffleboard courts are already in at the Community Center. To the west, where the property borders the Withlacoochee River, a five-acre recreation park will be landscaped with tropical plantings. Live oaks will shade the picnic grounds. Frank B. McElroy, president of the Community Resident's Association, plans well-attended picnics and suppers in the park.

Since Ridge Manor is a long-range project, it will be 10 years before the entire 3,700 acres will have been opened. Meanwhile, the policy is to develop 500 to 600-acre sections at a time.

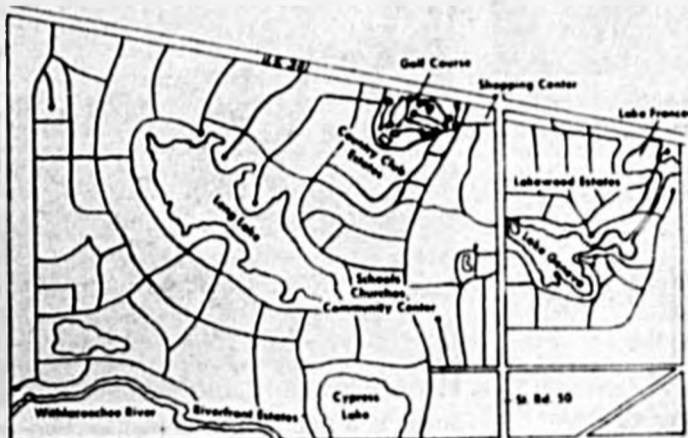

Actually, Ridge Manor grew, like many other things, as an idea: A community large enough to support the essential services and incorporating the best of modern-day thinking into features that would lift it out of the ordinary class. Miller, who, with his wife, has visited Florida frequently, decided his 33rd real estate development should be here, but he spent five years in checking all possibilities in the state. He and his wife visited both coasts and traveled up and down Central Florida searching for likely sites. Miller made many inquiries into the needs of retiring people, as well as the many others who were seeking new home investments. He knew the site he chose must meet certain standards — ample water supply, location on major highways, suitability for development of light industries, convenience to good fishing and hunting, etc. After studying all things, he chose this site.

Thus, it grew—the dream community that is perhaps best described in these words: "It is something you always wish someone would do, but never really expect to see."

SERENE, OAK-LINED shores of Withlacoochee River, bordering River side Estates lots, seem to invite everyone "to get away from it all."

Map shows how streets and lots are planned with areas set aside for schools, churches and stores.

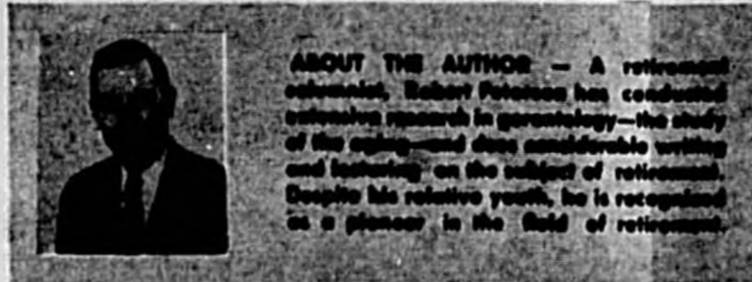

PLANS CALL FOR bathing areas, including swim hole at riverfront park and pool at country club.

All Florida's retirement columnist visits Ormond Beach on the East Coast, spot chosen by John D. Rockefeller's physicians as the ideal retirement area

ABOUT THE AUTHOR — A retirement columnist, Robert Peterson has conducted extensive research in gerontology—the study of the aging—and done considerable writing and lecturing on the subject of retirement. Despite his relative youth, he is recognized as a pioneer in the field of retirement.

FOR STROLLIN' or sittin', popular breezeways circle the hotel.

Photos By TRENT ROGERS

ORMOND HOTEL MANAGER L. W. REED, on hand to greet a trio of attractive new guests on the front veranda. There are 400 rooms to accommodate guests of this retirement mecca on Florida's East Coast.

I'd Like to Retire to Ormond Beach

I CAN'T resist the mellow appeal of a stately old hotel. So while visiting Ormond Beach last weekend, I checked in at the Ormond Hotel for a three-day stay, to see for myself what it offers the retired guests who are flocking to its friendly premises.

Let me say right off that it is no place for folks who want sleek decor, cocktail lounges and snappy service. But if you like plenty of elbowroom and an atmosphere that is genteel, well-maintained, and a little bit Victorian, you'll like the Ormond.

Like most of its guests, the venerable old Ormond Hotel is in its 70s, but doesn't look it. It's still sound as a rock and as comfortable, cheerful and friendly as a country inn.

The Ormond, with its four floors and rambling verandas, began to show its age a few years ago. But in 1956, the old hotel was taken over by an enlightened management. After completely renovating, strengthening and redecorating throughout, they modernized the sprinkler system that protects every room, nook and cranny from fire. Then they put gardeners to work, transforming the 16 acres of grounds into a tropical park.

First Impressions

What impressed me first, I guess were the "breezeways." A million-dollar asset, these wonderful breezeways are detached from the sides of the main building and virtually encircle the spacious 400-room hotel. They provide the most delightful "sittin'" you ever experienced. I doubt if you'll find a hotel anywhere in the world with verandas to compare with them. And there's plenty to look at, whether it be the busy traffic on the south side, the boats and fishermen on the Halifax River to the west, the tropical gardens to the north, or the view of the Atlantic Ocean a few blocks away.

I was also mightily impressed with the quality of the guests. It's no secret that some older people aren't particularly pleasant to be around. And it's no secret that the Ormond Hotel carefully screens applicants to make sure residents are of good character and have congenial, outgoing personalities. No liquor is permitted on the premises, and smoking is allowed only in specified areas. To make sure the hotel gets the right kind of people, prospective guests must serve a two-week probationary period.

Guests who make the Ormond their home come from all over the United States as retired school teachers, ministers, salesmen, doctors, lawyers, skilled craftsmen and civil service workers—to name a few.

Under the direction of Manager L. W. Reed, the hotel provides guests with various opportunities to keep productively occupied. On the first floor is an Art Crafts Room where those with creative interests busily paint, sculpture, weave or make attractive jewelry and novelties. A few doors away is the Wood Crafts Room where guests, predominantly male, spend productive and pleasant hours restoring furniture and creating useful and attractive items from wood. Soon to be established in the hotel lobby is a Craft Shop, where items produced can be displayed for sale.

Recognizing the necessity for retired people to maintain a continued sense of responsibility, Reed has created a number of guest committees. There's a chapel committee that has charge of the nondenominational religious services held Wednesday evenings and Sunday mornings in the handsome chapel that was once the hotel ballroom.

The entertainment committee plans such programs as book reviews and lectures, and helps select the movie shown each Friday night. This committee also arranges occasional bus tours to nearby points, encourages interest in shuffleboard competition, and plans special holiday events, especially the Christmas festivities. Three guests volunteered to me they had never experienced such wonderful Christmases as those at the Ormond. This committee sponsors a special dinner for those celebrating birthdays each month, and plans are under way to organize regional clubs with periodic get-togethers for guests from different sections of the country.

The flower committee arranges the floral displays in the lobby, chapel and dining room. The library committee, headed by Mrs. Ruth Scherb, Schenectady, N. Y., has charge of the cozy, well-stocked library. Mrs. Scherb, incidentally, retired a few years ago and shortly after coming to the Ormond Hotel found romance in the person of retiree Werner C. Scherb. A few months after meeting, they were happily married.

There's music at the Ormond, too. Best known of the music makers are E. P. Hunt, a retired cellist from Pleasantville, N. Y., and Mrs. Bertie Gilly, Detroit, Mich., the official pianist for musical events and organist for chapel services. Nature studies also receive attention. F. S. White, a retired electrical engineer from Pittsburgh, Pa., is an amateur astronomer. On starry evenings he brings forth his 90-power telescope, and as guests flock around, he gives informal lectures on astronomy and a peep at such heavenly wonders as Saturn's rings and Jupiter's moons.

I ate in the dining room where the food is served cafeteria style. Of course, there's not the variety you find in a regular cafeteria. But, as a number of guests told me, "It's better than one usually gets at home." The owners take pride in the fact that they buy only the highest grade foods and employ a highly competent chef.

How They Do It

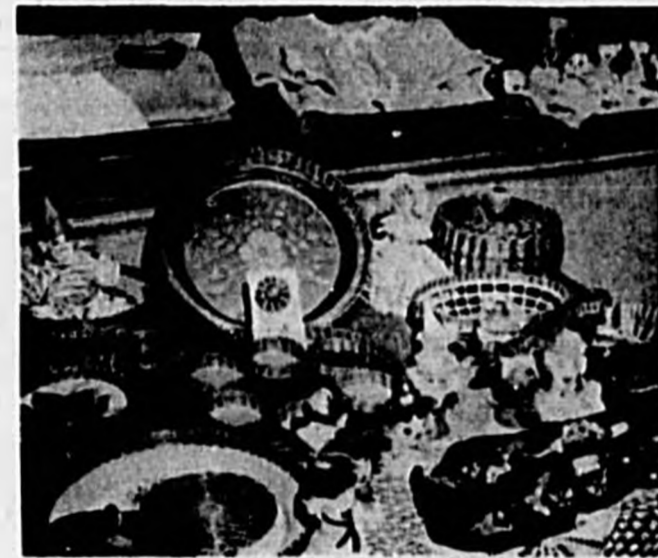

How can they offer such a bargain? Well, the new owners were able to buy the hotel at a price considerably lower than what it would cost to build a new one today. As a result, their investment is not as great as that carried by most hotel owners. Further, the owners are social-minded businessmen content to make a modest profit to see the hotel succeed as an experiment in retirement living. Then, too, their lower rates apply only to guests who sign an 11-month contract. This assures the hotel of high occupancy the year round.

It offers a private room, three square meals a day, and companionship with nice people for as little as $70 a month—on the 11-month basis. The rates vary depending on the size and location of your room. Most guests pay about $100 a month for their room and meals—and this includes a private or connecting bath. However, if there are two in the room, the cost per person is cut appreciably. Transient guests are also accommodated, when space is available, at a somewhat higher rate. Rooms are comfortably furnished, but guests may bring their own furnishings if they wish. The hotel operates with a staff of only 50 full-time and 20 part-time employees.

Incidentally, whenever jobs are open, guests who want to work are given first chance to apply. Currently, about half the employees of the hotel are guests. They receive the same wages paid to outside employees.

So now you know why I like Ormond Beach. Of course, you may question whether the area is really superior to others as a retirement location. But bear in mind that when John D. Rockefeller reached his golden years, he instructed his physicians to locate the ideal retirement area. After diligent search, they recommended Ormond Beach and, as is well known, this became John D.'s winter home from 1914 until the end of his long life in 1937. If it was good enough for John D., it's certainly good enough for me!

MANY OF THE GUESTS make colorful and useful items. A shop is to be set up in the Ormond lobby so the handicrafts can be displayed for sale.

THE ARTS-MINDED guests pursue such creative hobbies as painting, sculpting, weaving, and producing attractive and beneficial gifts.

THE HOTEL LIBRARIAN, Ruth Scherb, gets a hand from husband Werner — they met upon retiring there.

MUSIC IS A FAVORITE hotel pastime. Here an octette sings in the chapel to the accompaniment of cellist E. P. Hunt and pianist Mrs. Bertie Gilly. The oldest guest, at the far right, is 93 years old.

MEALS ARE CAFETERIA style in the dining room once catering to Vanderbilts and Rockefellers.

THE FLOWER COMMITTEE works closely with caretakers of Ormond's tropical gardens. They spend happy hours on floral displays for the lobby, chapel and dining room.

For Weekend Carpenters

LEATHER-UPHOLSTERED chairs take on a bright look when covered with flexible paint.

Fix-It-Yourself With A Flexible Finish

By STEVE ELLINGSON

I'VE often found it wise, somewhere along the line, to take stock of furniture I have already built, and then bring new life to the old rather than begin again from scratch. So this week, I'd like to go off on a slight tangent by not presenting a you-build-it project for the weekend carpenter. Instead, I want to tell you about how the do-it-yourselfer can rejuvenate old leatherwork.

Let's take, for example, a set of leather-upholstered chairs. They might have been beauties years back. But look at them now—one has a cigarette burn, another is cracked from being too near the heat and the fine finish on all is gone. They look dreary and dismal. And, for a long time there wasn't much you could do about it except start again from scratch.

Well, there is a product on the market now that makes any leatherwork sparkle like new and hides cigarette burns or tears so they barely show. It's called RamCote. Differing from ordinary paint, although applied by brush or spray gun in the same way, RamCote is a flexible paint that will not crack or peel when applied to leather, leatherette, or vinyl plastic. It has a special long-lasting plasticizer that replaces the natural oils in dried-out leather and the castor oil in leatherette. What's more, it's quick drying—20 minutes to the touch—and the leather can be safely used two hours after the application.

For the do-it-yourself enthusiast, the steps to longer-lasting upholstery are simple with RamCote. First clean the area to be painted. If there is a hole, stuff with cotton and cover with adhesive tape, then cover the surface with two coats of sealer—RamCote sealers and cleaners are available. After the sealer dries, sand the patched spot and apply two coats of RamCote paint. You'll have to look closely to detect the patch.

This flexible paint is not limited to just furniture. Coming in 12 basic colors (which can be mixed) and clear, it gives new life to suitcases, shoes, baby buggies, camera cases and many other items. If you own a convertible or station wagon, you can put flexible paint to good use in brightening up worn leather-covered seats, arm rests and scuff pads. It provides an excellent preservative for renewing the covering on the top of a station wagon. And its use is far from limited to leather goods. RamCote can be used to renew faded awnings, hammocks, beach chairs, life preservers, or seat cushions like we used on our dog bed described for the weekend carpenter last week.

She's always satisfied most with a BRAND that's made a NAME for itself!

"I MADE IT..." and I make sure that the best materials and workmanship go into any product with my name on it. Naturally, people blame me if my product is unsatisfactory, and they stop buying it. I can't risk turning out anything that may be only "second best."

"I SOLD IT..." recommended it because the name it has made for itself tells me it's one of the best, most up-to-date products in its field. In fact, a great brand name is the best guarantee my customers can have when they buy. And for me, too—I know they'll buy it again!

"I BOUGHT IT..." because it's an advertisement brand I can trust completely. I just won't risk my family's welfare on some product I don't know anything about—even when they say it's "just as good." Heel sales, moreover, when I stick to a brand I know I can depend on.

THE BRANDS YOU SEE ADVERTISED IN THIS MAGAZINE ARE NAMES YOU CAN TRUST! They stand firmly behind every product and claim they make.

PLATTER OF Hallowe'en Fun

PLATTER OF HALLOWEEN FUN

Something new in Halloween parties is using cookies for the decorative theme as well as refreshments. Your festivities this Oct. 31 will be the most fun yet, as well as the least work, if you make spooky cookies with basic cookie mix in only two minutes mixing time. This adaptable mix requires only addition of water and flour to make a workable dough to cut into designs with no sticking or crumbling. A machine can mix dough much more thoroughly than can be done at home. This is the secret of why it is so easy to bake with cookie mix.

SHORT-CUT DECORATING FOR QUICK COOKIES

All the cookies on the platter pictured on the opposite page were made with cookie mix, including the brownies. Not only are they easy to make, but they are easy to decorate. Each cookie has a short-cut decorating secret, like using licorice strips to make whiskers for the cat faces and features for the witches, instead of applying decorations with a pastry tube. The pumpkin cookies get their goblin features by pressing a cookie with cut-out eyes, nose and mouth on top of another cookie frosted with a simple semi-sweet chocolate filling. The punch bowl is filled with a steaming brew of instant tea, citrus juices and spice. This delicious drink will banish the shivers from even the most timid guest on this spooky occasion. It's a question of whether the cook or the guests will have the better time at this Halloween party, for it is as much fun to create these delightful decorative refreshments as it is to eat them.

HALLOWEEN COOKIES (Basic Dough)

- 1 14-oz. pkg. cookie mix
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour

Empty cookie mix into bowl. Add flour and water; mix with fork. Then, knead with hands until blended. Chill 10 minutes. Roll out 1/8-inch thick on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Use cutters specified. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 6 to 8 minutes. Yields 4 to 7 dozen cookies.

WITCHING HOUR COOKIES

Cut out large circle with 8-inch layer cake pan. Bake 8 minutes. Cool 2 minutes; carefully remove from cookie sheet with spatula. Cool. Force chocolate filling through pastry tube for clock-face decorations. For filling: Melt 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels and 1 lbs. shortening over hot water. Remove from heat; mix in 1/2 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar. Beat till smooth.

CAT'S WHISKERS COOKIES

Cut out cookie dough with 2 1/2-inch round cookie cutter. Cut out small triangles; press triangles under top edge of rounds to resemble "ears." Cut out thin strips of licorice to resemble "eyes" and "whiskers." Press in small piece of maraschino cherry for "nose." Bake as directed.

CHOCOLATE PUMPKIN PATTIES

Cut out dough circles with a 2 1/2-inch cookie cutter. Bake half the number of rounds. Cut out small "stems"; press under top edge of remaining rounds. With point of paring knife, cut out "pumpkin faces" and bake. Put together sandwich fashion with chocolate filling made from above recipe.

HALLOWEEN BROWNIES

- 1/2 cup warm water
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts (optional)
- 1 cup cookie mix measured from 14-oz. pkg.
- 1 pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels

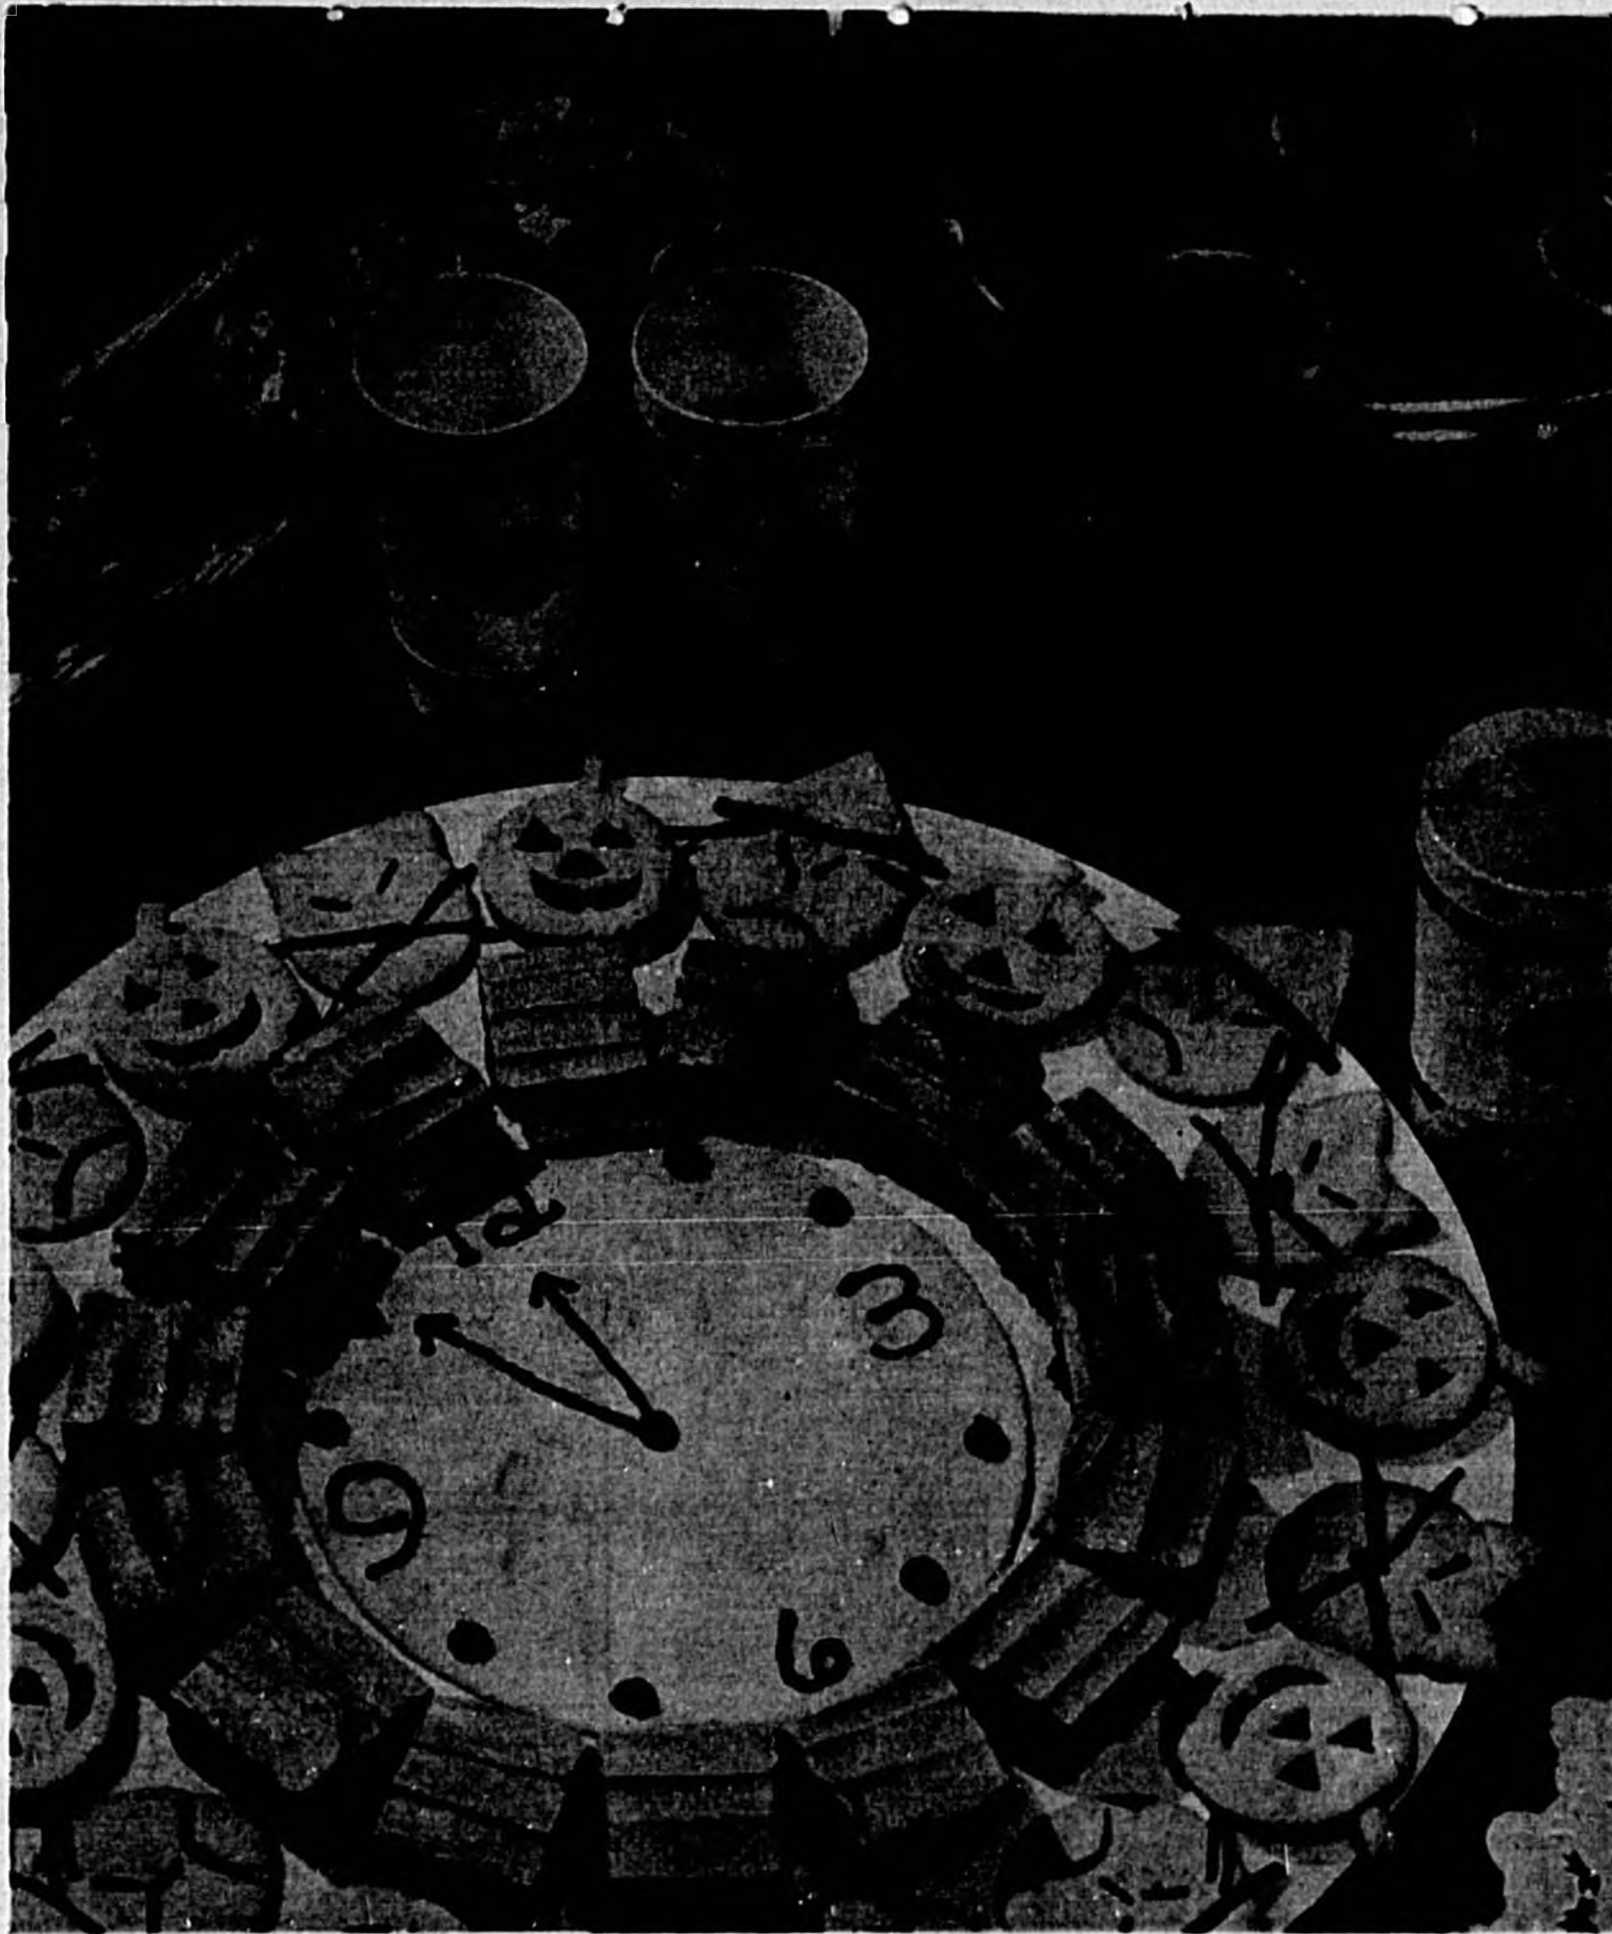

Melt semi-sweet chocolate pieces over hot, not boiling, water. While this is being done, mix together cookie mix, egg, sugar and water. Beat until smooth. Stir in melted chocolate and nuts. Turn into a waxed paper-lined 8x8x2-inch pan and bake in a moderate oven, about 375 degrees, for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Frost with orange-flavored confectioners' sugar frosting. Tint frosting orange with few drops food coloring. Cut into squares. Yields 16 two-inch squares.

POPCORN BALLS

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 lbs. butter
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 3 qts. popped corn
- 1/2 pkg. (1/2 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels

Put first 6 ingredients in saucepan. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking, without stirring, until small amount of mixture, when dropped in cold water, forms a hard ball, or until candy thermometer indicates 270 degrees. Add vanilla. Pour syrup over popped corn. Butter the hands and shape into 3-inch balls. Insert skewers. Attach cut-out paper witches or other Halloween figures to top of skewers. Yields about 1 1/2-dozen balls.

Colorful Halloween refreshments are easy to make. Orange-frosted brownies, clock face, witch and pumpkin cookies are made from the same mix. Bowl holds hot, spicy tea

Why Not Grow Old?

By ROBERT PETERSON

"WHY GROW OLD?" is the weary query which serves as the title of a syndicated newspaper column written by Miss Josephine Lowman. Now I don't want to step into a skirmish with a scribe as experienced as Miss Lowman, but it seems to me this oblique promise of eternal youth disturbs more readers than it helps.

Aging is a normal part of the life cycle. Informed people of the journalistic fraternity should be nursing, instead of knocking, the belief that old age is a highly desirable time of life. There are still quite a few people, who try to conceal their age with greater zeal than they hide the skeletons in their family closet. They seem completely unaware that the later years are increasingly coming to mean dignity, wisdom and freedom.

Perhaps if Miss Lowman will take a fresh look at life, she'll discover that old age in modern times is as rewarding a period as any other and that it is wiser to document its delights than to suggest detours.

ANOTHER WOMAN who should be taken to task is Miss Gloria Swanson, 60, who offers a line of fashions for mature women under the fawning label, "Forever Young." It would seem that Miss Swanson is old enough to know that even a movie queen can't remain young forever. Yet when I once voiced my protest to the avelte Miss Swanson, I was told: "Don't be foolish — everyone wants to be young."

Apparently these hucksters believe their own propaganda. They seem convinced that youthfulness will sell anything. Just look at the ads. Nine out of 10 feature radiant, pink-cheeked youngsters who smilingly suggest that the product they are plugging will help roll back the years as neatly as you roll up a window shade.

All of this would be funny except that there are some people around who believe everything they read and who, when they are regularly exposed to such dictums as "Why Grow Old?" and "Forever Young," find themselves cataloguing old age as hideous. In a pitiful attempt to escape the inevitable, they seize upon every trick in the book to make them look young, act young and feel young. And when these efforts ultimately fail and they still can't fool the mirror, they grudgingly submit to old age as a defeat.

FORTUNATELY, there are growing numbers of mature people in this country who consider the "let's stay young" philosophy pretty silly. Geratology — the study of aging — has encouraged millions of people to take pride in their years. Youthfulness is no longer so appealing as it may have been in earlier, less enlightened periods. A goodly number of our people today realize that old age can be a richly attractive time. Someday, writers and fashion designers who pretend that old age can be avoided or is something which doesn't exist will have to change their tune.

When the population over 65 years of age reaches 22 million, as is predicted within the next dozen or so years, the oldsters will be so plentiful and so well-informed, that they won't put up with this idea.

Sanibel Island

Wildlife Service announced that 3,169 acres of the island were being devoted to the preservation of wildlife, mainly water birds. Sanibel Wildlife Refuge had become of age.

Meanwhile, in 1960, William D. Wood was appointed manager of the ever-expanding wildlife area. Under his direction, a semi-arid, brackish marsh has been transformed into an area of intense productivity by the installation of still more artesian wells and the construction of pools. A well-regulated program of waterfowl food planting has attracted and is supporting thousands of migratory water birds as well as the regular year-round avian residents.

The human residents of Sanibel take a fierce pride in the wildlife population of their island. No one has the temerity to do any hunting, and it is not only because of the fear of landing in the honeypot. There are no official game wardens on Sanibel.

Attractive as Sanibel undoubtedly is for birds and humans alike, there is one form of "wildlife" on the island which everybody concerned could do without. This unwanted wildlife species is the dreaded mosquito. During the summer and after heavy rains, the winged stingers become more than a mere nuisance. However, steps are being taken to eradicate them. Mr. Wood is introducing mosquito larvae-killing minnows in the ponds of the refuge.

FLOCKS OF WATERFOWL like this spend their winters at Sanibel Isle's Federal Wildlife Refuge.

How Miami Got Its Name

MIAMI — The first white man reported to have visited what is now Dade County was Escalante De Fontaneda, only survivor of a galleon that wrecked off the Keys in 1545. Although held prisoner by the Indians for 17 years, he was allowed to roam the territory freely. He wrote of Lake Mayaimi, the name given Lake Okechobee by the Calusas, which is believed to be source of the name Miami. The first white settlement in what is now a modern city was established in 1567 by Mendenez at the Calusa village of Tequesta at the mouth of the Miami River. By 1890, Miami was still a trading post, but by 1895, Julia M. Tuttle had made her historic deal with Henry M. Flagler to bring the first railroad to Miami. Four months later, notice of intention to incorporate the City of Miami was published in The Miami Metropolis—forerunner of The Miami Daily News—without the city ever having gone through the growing pains of becoming a village and then a town.

WELL, HELLO! Could it be a taste of this colleen's sweet lips this fellow from the Deer Ranch is after — or merely a piece of cracker?

haust systems and tires were next. With today's high-speed cars and smooth highways making unusual demands on automobiles, it's more important than ever that all safety devices be in perfect working order.

Ike, Norstad Talks Expected To Cover 'Summit' NATO Meet

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower brought in the top NATO military commander today for a discussion expected to cover the plans for a summit NATO conference to deal with Russia's military and scientific threat.

Eisenhower scheduled the White House meeting with Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Forces, at a time when drastic new programs were afoot or in prospect to meet the challenge of rocketing Russian science.

The United States entered the fourth full week of the new space age with new moves expected to ward greater U.S. efforts to back research, which includes all major breakthroughs in military electronics. The President was reported to have "two" NATO governments spending on basic research.

May Hold NATO Talks

An official announcement was expected this week that Eisenhower will attend a "summit" meeting of heads of the NATO alliance in Paris in mid-December. The aim of the meeting would be to "two" NATO governments spending on basic research.

Fireman Is Crushed To Death By Truck

The first fatality in the history of the Sanford Fire Department occurred early Sunday morning when an alarm was answered on Orange Ave.

Hubert R. Daffron, 27-year-old rookie fireman was crushed to death when he apparently leaped from the fire truck too soon as it approached a fire hydrant at the corner of Orange Ave. and 10th St.

Daffron was dead on arrival at Seminole Memorial Hospital, caused by a crushed chest and a fractured right leg.

According to Fire Chief Mack Cleveland, "We have always stressed staying on the truck until orders are given to connect hose."

Daffron's body was lying in the center of the intersection when the fire truck had pulled up and attempted to back to the fire plug. Apparently, the truck was backing when the fireman leaped from the truck too soon as it approached a fire hydrant at the corner of Orange Ave. and 10th St.

Daffron was dead on arrival at Seminole Memorial Hospital, caused by a crushed chest and a fractured right leg.

According to Fire Chief Mack Cleveland, "We have always stressed staying on the truck until orders are given to connect hose."

2 Boys Rescue Woman From Auto In Lake

A small car was found bobbing in Lake Monroe shortly after 8 o'clock. In the top left picture a grappling hook begins to pull the car to the surface. At top right the car comes out of the water. At bottom Joe Frealey attaches chains to bring the car out.

The woman was rescued by two boys who saw the car bobbing in the lake. They called the fire department and the police. The fire department sent a fire truck with a grappling hook to pull the car out of the water. The police sent a boat to bring the car out of the lake.

Glee Club To Give 'Times Square USA' Tomorrow Night

"Times Square USA" will be presented by the Seminole High School Glee Club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Firemen's School Auditorium.

The cast will include Pat Donahue, head of the club; Timmy Walker, secretary; and other members of the club.

The show will feature a variety of songs and dances. The club has been practicing for several weeks and is excited about the performance.

Women Workers Are Ahead In UF Drive Collections

Returns over the weekend to the United Fund, in amounts of $25, or more, as reported by the campaign treasurer, Roy P. Mann, are:

Women workers are ahead in the drive for the United Fund. They have collected more than the men workers. The women workers have collected over $25, while the men workers have collected about $15.

Thermometer Drops To 45 In Local Area

Overcast, misty and blustering weather in the northern part of the state from morning through the day and today as the thermometer dropped to 45 and 46 in the Sanford area.

However, no frost was reported in the Sanford area.

City Plagued By Burglaries Over Weekend

A series of burglaries, planned by Sanford and the Sanford Police Department over the weekend, are reported by Sanford Police Chief J. W. Williams yesterday.

Williams stated that the burglaries were planned by a group of men who were active in the Sanford area. They were caught by the police over the weekend.

Hunters Charged With Taking Game After Sundown

Two hunters were charged with game violations over the weekend, according to arrest records at the Seminole County Sheriff's office.

The hunters were charged with taking game after sundown. They were caught by the sheriff's office.

Cleveland Lions Club Guest Speaker

Representative Mark N. Cleveland Jr. will speak to members of the Sanford Lions Club at the next luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Yacht Club. W. Hugh Duncan, president of the club, said today.
