BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

Russel Kay who writes the "Billy Stories" for the Florida Growers gets off the following about the knockers of Florida that is worthy of reproduction:

"When I go into a store and ask for some special article it always gets my nanny to have the clerks ease out a line of gush in favor of something "just as good" or "far far better, and at the same time hammer the hide off the particular brand I called for. You can take it from me I always put the fellow down as a poor salesman, likewise a knocker and a fathead. I know what I want or I wouldn't ask for it. I hate a knocker, anyhow. Some fellows don't seem to be happy unless they are swinging a hammer and they'll knock anything and everything that don't give them a direct benefit. Why, I know one guy that knocked so much he developed into a regular crab and had to walk sideways.

Speaking of knockers, there are some real estate men here in Florida that are doing more to knock their own state than all the car window tourists and land sharks combined, and the pity of it is that the poor yaps don't realize what they are doing. Why, if you were to call any one of them a knocker with his face he'd go sore like a punctured eye-tooth and want to muss you up with his fists. Just the same, it's the straight truth, and if it were not the fact that Florida has to suffer because of it, I should say that it was actually funny.

What I mean is the way these real estate agents handle a prospect. Some of them have just about as good an idea of salesmanship as a New York policeman has of honesty.

When a homeseker comes to Florida to give the "double O" what he's after is information. He's not a fool and naturally wants to stare and gaze around a little before he unleashes his little store of the needful. Well, we'll say he goes to Polk county for instance. When he arrives the real estate men grab him by the mit, coo to him, gush over him, sit in his lap and cry, and go through the usual methods employed in capturing a prospect. All the time they're telling him of the wonders and advantages of that particular locality. That's right and proper and I'm for it. I like to see a great booster. Some day, when I get wished on to a lot of money I'm going to build a statue to the fellow that invented a horn. Now I'm going to tell you where the rough stuff comes in. The homeseker admits Polk county to be attractive, but explains that there are one or two other places he wants to look at before he makes a decision and perhaps he mentions Manatee county as one of them. Good night. The Polk county man goes up in the air like the cost of living. He begins to knock Manatee like an automatic trip hammer. He lights into his prospect and tells him the black soil of Manatee is absolutely worthless; he goes on to say you couldn't even raise an umbrella there. Why an orange crop wouldn't exist, the trees would have die back, wither tip foot rot, and every other disease known to citrus culture and terminates his little recital with the statement that the only place in the state that's worth the nitro-sap to blow it to war is Polk county, and you know that a northern general said war was.

Well, when the homeseker gets to Manatee he takes a couple of sees and finds that the country isn't at all like the Polk county man described it. It is prosperous and the healthy groves prove the information he had wished on to him to be pure bunk. Under the circumstances he forms a rather putrid opinion of the man who talked crooked.

He receives the same cordial reception from the Manatee agents, and they are all boosting their district, which, as I said before, is the proper caper, but just let our homeseker mention Polk county, or any other county, for that matter, and see what happens. Why, these Manatee fellows dig right down in their little tool boxes and produce their hammers, and what they fail to say against Polk county isn't worth saying, and mind you, the fellow they're talking to has already been to the territory in question, and he has their number from the start. From what he saw of Polk county he knows the knocker on Polk county is a charter member of the Ananias Club. You can imagine how their little orange drops in his estimation. He forms an opinion of these raw-birds that must be a peach.

He finds things the same everywhere he goes. Everybody knocking everybody else. Oh, it's a beautiful impression he gets. One fellow tells him just the opposite from what the other fellow tells him. The dealer in South Florida informs him he will be frozen out in Central Florida, while the man in Central Florida claims that South Florida is so punk it won't hold up for shipment to the northern markets, and anyhow, the whole country down there is nothing but a vast swamp. Wehn he's on the East Coast the West Coast is no good, and when he's on the West Coast the East Coast is the goat, and between the bunch of them these yaps have the poor guy so fused he don't know where he's at. He gets the idea that there must be something the matter with the whole state, is disgusted with these knockers and and allggers and returns to his native state without making a purchase. His friends ask him all about Florida, and the story he tells them is anything but a good advertisement for the Land of Enchantment.

On the level, it's a crime, the way some of these bopps knock their own state. I love this grand old state, and I don't want to see her stand up to an enemy that hits below the belt. The truth of the matter is, that Florida is a queen wherever you go, north, south, east or west, and just as good crops can be raised in Polk county as in Manatee. Just as good in Lake as in Lee, ditto Pasco and DeSoto. The newcomer is going to see this if the real estate men will give him half a chance, and they can save themselves from being proven liars if they choose. I say that the man who tries to make a sale by knocking a competitor is a helluva salesman, and when he goes broke he don't want to look to me for violets and sympathy. He is a suet head and deserves all he gets.

"Marse" Henry, the famous editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal says that woman is more powerful unarmed—that sex is her mighty weapon. Some writers have been trying for a long while to unsex women but find it impossible to do so. "Horrors of horrors!" was the exclamation applied to the first female physician, but we now regard them complacently. The medical profession did not unsex her. Women's clubs have failed in the business also. A time, not so long ago, the women were not only expected to "keep silence" in the churches, but they occupied one side of the church and the men the other side. Families were divided in the sacred edifice for fear a commingling together might unsex the dear mothers, wives and daughters, but gradually the lines of separation and demarcation were wiped out, and the women who attend church today are as meek and lovely as in the days of their grandmothers. Slitting together in the churches failed to unsex them. They not only sit together, but they no longer keep "silence in the churches." Their voices are heard in the pulpit, they are superintendents of Sunday schools, and in the missionary field they have betechned the world and remain still unsexed. They have faced unfriendly criticism in riding the bicycle and from saddle, and sitting at the steering wheel of the automobile, and still have retained their womanly attributes. Where women have exercised the ballot it is the testimony of contemporary governors of states and justices of our highest courts that they have done so intelligently and with wise discrimination, and the result has been an uplift and purification of the political atmosphere. Instead of unsexing herself the sweet and beautiful influence her sex gives is felt in a larger field and to a greater degree.

This column of gush and nonsense will be curtailed this week on account of the writer being asked to quit for a while during the hot weather, because the people were too busy taking vacations to read such foolishness. And then again The Herald will have some fine summer fiction this week and the readers will enjoy it much better than my ravings. And then again I want a vacation and expect to take it watching the bulkheader bulkhead and the tourist hotel hot and various other and sundry things.

Just why is the word "millionaire" so generally abused? It has reached the point where it is impossible for a man to get mixed in scandal who is not a "millionaire;" "millionaire brokers" are as common as typographical errors on the first page and "millionaire's sons" are so common that ordinary sons are conspicuous for their poverty.

The following from a Florida paper interests me strangely and I would give anything in the world to know what became of them:

The groom was dressed in the conventional black, while the bride wore a beautiful white creation and carried lilies of the valley. They entered the north door of the church and ejaculatory aotin j a d b h ETAOIN

Here and there is a lawmaker who considers the nation above the state, but he's so lonesome in Washington that he has to keep his family with him.

A dam went out in Colorado yesterday. Also, we discovered that the moths are in our only dress suit and still another damn went out.

Hammock Comfort.

If you want solid comfort this summer, back your hammock under the trees, then place another old hammock or piece of canvas, stretched out flat, three or four feet above it. Sew on the "upper berth" mosquito netting, letting it hang to the ground. The ends of the netting may be held together with hatpins. Safe behind the screen flies and mosquitoes will not bother you.—Woman's World.

Better Let Her Cry.

A woman is almost as peculiar as a man. She will break into tears, and the more she is urged to cheer up the more she will cry. But if some one tells her to go ahead and shed as many tears as she pleases, she will at once quit crying and speak her mind.—Atchison Globe.

Daily Thought.

Be calm in arguing; for fierceness makes error a fault and truth discourtesy.—Herbert.

When you feel any itching, red, sore, itchy, and out of sorts, look to the Liver! It is Turbid.

HERBINE

is the Remedy You Need.

It is an invigorating tonic for a torpid liver. The first dose brings improvement, a few days use puts the liver in fine vigorous condition. Herbine also extends its restorative influence to the stomach and bowels. It helps digestion and food assimilation, purifies the bowels and brings back the habit of regular daily bowel movements. When the stomach, liver and bowels are active, bilious impurities no longer obstruct functional processes, the result of which is renewed energy, mental activity and cheerful spirits.

Milady's Mirror

Cultivating Plump Elbows. The hot, drying, scorching rays of summer work havoc with the complexion, and the girl who wants to have a pretty skin to match her soft, transparent white and faintly tinted summer gowns must take a great deal of care of herself.

Fashions change, it is true, but all girls love pretty, dimpled elbows, even if the sleeves displaying them are not to be worn, and fortunately there is nothing easier than to bring sharp, thin, bony elbow joints into shape.

Where arms are too thin the use of cocoa butter is to be recommended. This, being a byproduct of the cocoa bean, is nourishing and fattening, but the skin must be in condition to receive it properly. Thorough cleansing, softening and opening of the pores are necessary, that full benefit from the application may be felt. Cloths wrung out of warm water should be applied at night. They should be held on until a little cool, then warmed again until the skin feels soft and is pink. Then rub with a generous amount of cocoa butter, slightly warmed, in each palm, the opposite elbow placed in the hand. Use the motion around and around until all greasy feeling is gone. This takes quite awhile, for cocoa butter is rather greasy, but a little practice will soon prove that the process is not too tiresome.

The rubbing may be continued up from the wrist if the forearm be a little too thin, and from there to the shoulder where the whole arm seems to require the addition of more flesh, but if only the elbow joint is bony, just on that joint will answer.

Banishing Blackheads.

To cure blackheads be careful of the diet. Eat nothing rich or greasy. Give up pastry, new bread and sweet things. Drink two or three glasses of milk a day. See that the digestion is kept in good order. Take one or two teaspoonfuls as required of confection of sulphur every night and get this mixture made up: Sulphate of iron, sixteen grams; dilute sulphuric acid, one dram; magnesium sulphate, one ounce; peppermint water to make six ounces. Take a dessertspoonful in a little water half an hour before breakfast every morning. Walk two or three miles a day. Drink a glass of cold water an hour before each meal. Take a hot bath every night and a tepid one each morning. Use a tar toilet soap, and every morning, after washing and well drying the face, sponge the following lotion lightly on: Boracic acid, one-half dram; rectified spirits, one and one-half ounces. Steam the face once a week; then squeeze out the largest blackheads and apply a mixture of equal parts of boracic ointment and sulphur ointment.

A Hint For Golfers.

A woman golfer who owns a beautiful, smooth complexion attributes the preservation of her skin to her plan of dissolving a little liniment in hot milk, bathing her face in it and allowing it to dry on before she ventures out. Any feeling of contraction soon passes off, and the liniment forms an inflexible coating to the skin and protects it from the ravages of the wind. Instead of liniment either gelatin or white of egg beaten to a froth may be employed. The latter is an excellent remedy against all chapping and is in itself a cleanser. A good plan after the face has been exposed to the wind or cold is to sponge it with rosewater into which has been dropped a little eau de Cologne or lavender water, or as a further emollient apply cold milk to the skin.

Tinted Face Powder.

Of recent times the Parisians seem to have gone mad for tinted face powders and "blotted" wigs. The very latest idea is a pale lemon yellow powder, which is supposed to give an extraordinary softness to the skin.

An artistic but highly unnatural cyclamen pink rouge is used in conjunction with the pale yellow powder, and the throat and neck are coated with Beah pink and pure white powder. This intricate makeup is intended for evening use only.

The lemon yellow and cyclamen pink makeup look effective on a fair haired woman who possesses a pair of dark gray eyes.

Lovely Eyelashes.

To produce sweeping, curling lashes daily attention is necessary. Get a soft brush made for the purpose and gently brush them twice a day. The last thing at night apply this eyelash cream: Sweet oil of almonds, one-half dram; simple tincture of benzoin, one-quarter dram; glycerin, one-half dram; lanolin, one-half dram; stear of roses, one drop. This increases the growth and silkiness of the eyelashes. To make them curl upward lay out finger under them and raise upward. Do this as often as you can think of it.

Softening Water.

If your skin is delicate and gets rough in the spring keep a fine muslin bag full of oatmeal on your washstand, and whenever you wash dip the bag into the water and squeeze it hard several times.

This is excellent for softening the water and keeps the hands and face smooth.

Woman's World

Mrs. Pannynacker, Women's Club Leader and Philanthropist.

MRS. PERCY V. PENNYNACKER.

The gathering of women's clubs in Chicago which is set for June 9 to 16 will be a notable and interesting event. Only once in two years does the General Federation of Women's Clubs convene. Mrs. Percy V. Pennynacker, who was elected president two years ago, will preside. Mrs. Pennynacker has done much for the woman's club movement and her election was not only due to her wide popularity, but a recognition of valued services. She had already served as treasurer of the organization and in the arduous capacities of chairman of the program and endowment committees and as auditor.

Mrs. Pennynacker is a southern woman by birth. She first saw the light at Petersburg, Va. Her father was the Rev. J. B. Hardywicks, D. D. She was educated at the high school in Leavenworth, Kan., and at the State Normal school in Huntsville, Tex. She taught school for fourteen years, an experience that was the foundation for her great interest in educational work. She was married in 1884 to Percy V. Pennynacker, a leading educator of Texas. The marriage was a very happy one, but in 1899 he died. Administering her home affairs and looking after her children did not occupy her time to the exclusion of intellectual interests. She has always been an enthusiastic clubwoman. Through the woman's club she believes much educational work may be accomplished and wide social service rendered.

She is a gifted writer and speaker. Her history of Texas is a standard work on that subject. If a lady of such broad interests may be said to have a special fad it is in increasing the efficiency of the public schools and bringing the advantages of state universities and technical schools within the reach of poor boys and girls. Her home is at Austin, Tex., where she is the center of a distinguished social and intellectual circle.

SUMMER AWNINGS.

They Should Be Attractive As Well as Convenient.

The style and color of awnings should be studied so that a pleasing effect from a distance will be the result of their use. Striped awnings are generally popular, especially those of green and blue, with white and buff with red. These stripes are to be found in several widths. A brown and buff combination is a wise selection for the brown bungalow or shingled house in a rambling style of architecture.

A recent departure which promises to be more than popular, even though it is more expensive, is the plain white canvas on which the stripe or design is painted. This style allows a chance for individuality of taste. When the design on white or cream is used the under side is usually painted over with a restful soft green. Authorities say that these painted canvas shades last longer than the ordinary coarsely woven awnings.

In offering awnings one is apt to decide on a stripe and not designate the width. If a house is of extensive dimensions and stands at the end of a long avenue, drive or walk and is well surrounded with foliage a wide stripe is most effective, while a smaller house with a limited approach calls for a narrow stripe or even a plain material.

Several new awning devices have been brought out. One for use with the casement window which opens outward has a frame with an extra rib or rod near the top, which holds the canvas high and gives freedom to the window.

Dyeing White Shoes.

One way of prolonging the service of white shoes after they have been cleaned many times is to make them tan colored. They can be made a pretty brown by applying acetone. Mix ten drops of acetone with three teaspoonfuls of olive oil. Clean the shoes well before applying the mixture, as black spots will show. Apply with a piece of flannel, and after two coats they will look equal to new.

A Sanitary Grater.

The glass grater is new. It is a roundly beveled slab of glass secured to a flat back of wood, making it very convenient to handle, as the wood does not slip in holding it. It washes very easily and is pronounced much more sanitary than the old-fashioned tin grater.

GERMANY REPULSED BY BELGIUM IN ATTEMPT TO CROSS TO FRANCE

London, Aug. 7.—Advices from Amsterdam are that more than 11,000 German troops were killed in the two principal battles in Belgium.

The Daily Mail publishes a dispatch from Copenhagen stating that a German squadron is bombarding Sveaborg, Finland.

Sveaborg is known as the "Gibraltar of the Baltic." The fortifications, armed with 800 heavy cannon and defended by a garrison of about 12,000 men, are spread over a chain of seven small islands connected with bridges.

Germany in pushing her advance through Belgium has met with strong opposition around Liege, where Belgian forces, according to official advices reaching Brussels, have repulsed the German army of the Meuse under Gen. von Emmich.

The Germans are reported to have lost several thousand killed and wounded.

Field Marshal Kitchener has been appointed secretary of state for war in the British cabinet and will have under his direction the military campaign against Germany.

French troops have joined the Belgians in opposing the progress of Germany through Belgium and it is reported that possibly Great Britain may send reinforcements.

The president of the United States has proffered his services as mediator to the European nations at war.

Mrs Wilson Dead

Washington, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President of the United States, tonight lies at the point of death. Four months of almost unbroken illness, a complication of nervous ailments and Bright's disease have sapped the vitality of the First Lady of the land.

Physicians have been in consultation for days but it was admitted at the White House tonight that hope for her recovery had almost vanished.

Conscious only at intervals, Mrs. Wilson has been cheerful and has called constantly for her husband. Every spare moment that could be spared from urgent official duties have been devoted by the President to his wife. At the side of his constant, helpmate and adviser, he wrote the tender of good offices appeals to the European monarchs to stay their conflict.

Later, Mrs. Wilson died at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Washington, D. C. Aug. 7th.—Messages from all over the world poured into the White House today expressing sympathy of thousands for the President and his daughter. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed but it is certain that the burial will be at Princeton as at Rome, Ga., the girlhood home of Mrs. Wilson.

City Council Meets The city council met in regular session August 3rd, 1914, at 7:30 p. m. Present, B. W. Herndon, president; C. H. Dingo, Jack Adams, H. E. Tolar, J. D. Davison, W. W. Abernathy and R. C. Maxwell.

Minutes of the last meeting read and approved. The council then heard complaints as to the assessment of property for 1914.

It was moved and seconded that the bond of the Seminole Dredging Co. be approved, with A. T. Essetter and E. B. Rourke as sureties. Carried.

Moved and seconded that the millage for 1914 remain at 14 mills. Carried.

The reports of the chief of police, sanitary inspector, treasurer, collector and fire department read and ordered filed.

Moved and seconded that the bills as signed by the president and approved by the finance committee be paid. Carried.

Moved and seconded that council adjourn. Carried.

Orlando, Aug. 6.—(Special)—A permit has been granted for the construction of a roof garden theater on the Yowell-Duckworth Building, and the work has been placed in the hands of M.S. King who has the plans all drawn, and promises the new resort to be in operation by November 1.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS REGULAR MEETING WAS MOST INTERESTING

ENGINEERING COMPANY TURNED DOWN FOR INCOMPETENCY—ASSESSOR BATES' FIGURES APPROVED—TAX LEVY FOR YEAR WAS FIXED AND OTHER MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE TRANSACTED

Honorable Board of County Commissioners in and for Seminole county met in regular session at 10:30 o'clock last Monday.

Present, L. P. Hagan, chairman pro tem., Commissioners C. W. Entzinger, J. A. Clark, J. T. McInain, Absent, F. L. Woodruff, E. A. Douglass, clerk and C. M. Hand, sheriff, in attendance.

Minutes of regular meeting July 20th and minutes of special meeting July 18th read and approved.

First business taken up being consideration of the cancellation of contract of Jaudon Engineering Company with board of county commissioners of Seminole county, as supervising engineers of the Special Road and Bridge District No. 1.

Whereas, The Jaudon Engineering Company, engineers in charge of construction of roads in the Special Road and Bridge District No. 1, having been derelict in the performance of services as said supervising engineers, and whereas said engineering company have permitted large quantities of brick of inferior quality to be consigned to Seminole county, and whereas, we as county commissioners for some time past have been complaining of the grade and quality of brick received, and whereas said engineers after complaints made by us have represented to this board that the brick being received was a high grade brick of first class quality and, whereas, in truth and in fact large quantities of brick which have been received are of an inferior quality and the shipment of further brick of like kind would not have been permitted by this board if it had not been for the representation and assurance of the said Jaudon Engineering Company, that the brick being received by the county of Seminole were not of an inferior quality and, whereas large quantities of inferior brick consigned to this county and have been received, said brick being shipped under the inspection by said engineers.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the contract with the Jaudon Engineering Company be rescinded and cancelled. Be it further resolved that the clerk of this board shall forthwith notify said Jaudon Engineering Company of the rescission and cancellation of the contract entered into by them with the county of Seminole under date, December 31st, 1913, and said clerk is further ordered and requested to transmit with said notice a copy of this resolution. Resolution adopted in regular session this August 3rd, 1914.

Judge Geo. G. Herring road petition and addressed the board in reference to petition of Alfred King and others for road as set forth in petition. Mr. Alfred King also addressed the board in reference to same. On motion of Commissioners Entzinger matter was referred to Commissioner Hagan. After having been referred to Commissioner Hagan, said Commissioner reports unfavorably until agreement can be reached between parties interested.

Mr. D. L. Thrasher and Mr. F. P. Forster addressed the board in reference to millage for school purposes.

Board recommends to Comptroller that Overstreet Turpetine Company be allowed to redeem at $1.00 (CONTINUED ON PAGE 5)

Chased into Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 6.—The German steamer Freida Leonhardt, loaded with over two million feet of lumber, put into port here today. Her captain, H. Lestner says he was chased for twelve hours by a British warship. Captain Lestner says he was inside the three mile limit and the battleship remained within a mile of him until a squall came up and then disappeared.

The Freida Leonhardt was bound from Gulfport, Miss. to Italy, when she encountered the British cruiser of Sand Key. The Britisher, Captain Lestner says was one of three funnels but he was unable to get her name. He supposed the cruiser was from the Bahama Islands, probably from Nassau or Jamaica.

Captain Lestner and his men showed the effects of excitement when they arrived in port and declare that they have no doubt that the British cruiser would have effected a capture or fired upon him had he not been within the three mile limit. The lumber aboard the steamer constitutes a valuable cargo and would have been a rich prize. The British cruiser Berwick is supposed to have been the vessel in pursuit.

Seminole is Paid

The final financial adjustment between Orange and Seminole counties has been made. At the July session of the county commissioners the clerk was instructed to draw a draft covering the amount of the balance due Seminole on county division settlement.

Among the warrants being sent out this morning are three to J. B. Jones, treasurer, aggregating $1,012.64, Seminole's payment in full.

The warrants were drawn on three funds as follows: Road and bridge, $445.84; Special road district, $407.40; Fines and forfeitures, $60.—Reporter-Star.

A Railroad Crossing

The above is the subject of the talk by Mr. George Hymnal, pastor of the Baptist Church on 2nd Sunday night. A very large audience was present at the services of the Baptist Church last Sunday and still larger ones are expected next Sunday. The reception committee of the church is preparing to accommodate at least 60 more people than they were last Sunday evening. The singing of forty voices is expected to have a full attendance.

Those who have attended the Baptist services in the past will surely be glad to welcome that is given to all.

Notice of Meeting

The trustees of the Library Association and the committee from the Woman's Club are requested to meet at the office of J. N. Wilkner next Wednesday afternoon at 6 o'clock.

FRANCE, RUSSIA AND ENGLAND TO ATTACK GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

London, Aug. 7.—An Exchange telegraph dispatch from Paris today states that Germany has sent an ultimatum to Italy saying unless Italy supports her allies war on her will be declared.

Paris, via London, Aug. 7.—French torpedo craft from Bizerta today captured the German tank steamer Cear Nicholas II with 2,000 tons of oil. She was bound from Batoum to St. Louis du Rhone, France.

London, Aug. 7.—The French embassy learns that the French fleet has captured a German cruiser.

Malta, via London, Aug. 7.—British captured and brought here a German Levant liner.

German and Russian embassies respectively have been attacked by mobs.

The capture of several German steamers by the British is reported and the British cruiser Amphion has sunk the Hamburg-American line steamer Koelnig Louise, recently converted into a mine layer.

Russian frontier patrols have penetrated ten miles into Germany. Travelers returning from the North Sea bring word that no hostile warships were to be seen.

Wilson to Mediate

Washington, Aug. 7.—President Wilson has formally offered the services of the United States Government to the warring nations of Europe should they desire to discuss terms of peace. He tendered what technically is phrased as "good offices," which if accepted in principle would be followed by a conference of representatives of the powers of Europe, in which the United States would play the roll of mediator.

Under the Hague convention, to which all European nations except Serbia are signatories, a neutral nation is urged in time of international conflict, to tender her good office to contending powers. Acting under the terms of the Hague convention the President called Emperor William, of Germany, Emperor Nicholas, of Russia, Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, King George, of Great Britain, and President Poincare, of France, as follows:

As official head of one of the powers signatory to the Hague convention I feel it to be my privilege and my duty under article three of that convention to say to you in spirit of most earnest friendship that I should welcome an opportunity to act in the interest of European peace either now or at any other time that might be more suitable, as an occasion to serve you and all concerned in a way that would afford me lasting cause for gratitude and happiness.

Signed Woodrow Wilson Diplomatic in Washington advised. Late today Secretary Bryan summoned all European diplomats in the city and gave them a copy of the telegram in the hope that they would transmit it to their Governments and urge acceptance of the tender. The Austrian Ambassador, representatives of the British, Russian, German and French embassies, and Belgian legation called at the department.

Shiloh Methodist Baptist Church Located at Goldsboro in Sanford, Fla. after having a revival meeting for fourteen days was the means of bringing twelve souls to Christ, who are praising God in the highest. The pastor, Rev. F. J. R. Brown, baptized ten of these on Sunday, Aug. 2nd, 1914. He rendered a noble sermon at the altar, which was enjoyed by all. On Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. the members gave their pastor, Rev. F. J. R. Brown and wife a surprise party, which was a source of joy as well as a great surprise to him and his wife. He received a good many useful presents. It was an evening of great pleasure to all who participated.

MILITARY STRENGTH OF GREAT POWERS

Thirty-four million men are ready for service if the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente are finally brought into war by Germany, Austria-Hungary and Serbia. The Triple Entente, exclusive of Serbia, has 20,000,000 available men, or about 6,000,000 more than has the Triple Alliance. The strength of the combined navies of the Entente in ships, tonnage, armament and number of men would exceed the naval strength of the Alliance. The following table shows the strength of each on an ordinary war footing.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE

Table showing military strength of Germany, Austria, and Italy. Includes columns for Army, Navy, and various ship types like Superdreadnoughts, Dreadnoughts, etc.

TRIPLE ENTENTE

Mrs. King, with her daughter, Mrs. Crawford and little son, George left Saturday for Daytona Beach, where they will spend some time.

T. W. Lawton and family have returned after a pleasant month spent at Daytona. T. W. Jr. is much improved in health and can boast of two teeth.

Mrs. Charles West and little son, David have returned to their home on Lake Charm, having made an extended visit to grandparents and other relatives in Tennessee.

Mrs. T. L. Mead and Mrs. M. A. Yong left Tuesday for a two weeks' stay at the beach. They are stopping at Daytona Beach Hotel.

Miss Daisy McClenahan left a few days ago for North Carolina. She was accompanied by her mother who has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. J. S. McKinsey.

J. H. Ulmer and family have returned to their home in Georgia, having spent a month at Daytona Beach. They have also been the guest of their daughter, Mrs. J. B. Jones for several weeks.

H. B. McCall and family have taken a cottage at Daytona and will enjoy the surf and sea breeze for a month.

J. W. Lawton spent the week end with his family at the beach. They have taken a cottage and are among the number who have been attracted to Daytona this summer.

Mrs. Lehart and Miss Gladys are enjoying the luxury of learning to ride their new car.

Mrs. Worble's many friends will be glad to know that she feels much improved since she has been at Dr. Christ's sanitarium and hopes soon to be home again.

Miss Emma Thomas and her mother are visiting friends and relatives at New Smyrna.

Mrs. Bryant and her sister of Wagers were among the out of town members who came in to attend the meeting of the Woodmen this week.

Miss Ella Belle Jones is spending some time in North Carolina. She is with her cousin, Mrs. Harrison of Jacksonville.

LAKE MARY

R. N. Poston has been on the sick bed for several days, but we are glad to see him out again.

Miss Amanda Sjoblom spent a few days in Orlando last week, the guest of her cousin, Miss Violet Peters who returned home with her Sunday to spend a few days.

Miss Alice Pellett has returned to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Evans, after spending awhile in Sanford, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Hester.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Evans and little daughter, have returned from Winter Garden, after a pleasant visit with Mr. Evans' father, Mr. Bray.

We are glad to see that the manager of the cemetery is having the fence set up again and will have it painted.

A jolly party of our young people enjoyed a moonlight launch ride on the lake one evening this week.

There will be an ice cream social Saturday evening, the 8th inst., at the grounds of the Presbyterian church for the benefit of the church. The public is cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Braddock have returned to their home at Peirson after visiting their daughter, H. D. Durant here for several days.

On Wednesday evening a dance was given at the home of Mr. A. E. Sjoblom in honor of Misses Violet and Mabel Peters of Orlando. A large crowd attended and the evening was enjoyed by all.

H. D. Gray and Floyd Sjoblom have returned home from taking in the excursion to Tampa.

Mr. Joe Humphrey, who has been ill here for some time passed away on Tuesday night, Aug. 4th. He leaves a heartbroken wife and three small children, besides lots of other near relatives to mourn their sad loss. May God bless his loved ones in their sorrow and may they so live that they will meet him in paradise, where there will be no more parting. His body was laid to rest in the Sanford cemetery in the field of the dead, where glory guards the loved ones there until they shall be called home to dwell in heaven. One by one earth's ties are broken and we see our love decay and the hopes so fondly cherished brighten but to pass away. Our hopes grow brighter as we near the shining shore, for we know across the river awaits the loved ones gone before.

CASSIA CHATTER

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warnecke and uncle, G. Dittman of Bloomfield, Indiana are located in North Cassia, where they expect to make their future home. We are always glad to welcome such hospitable and industrious neighbors in our community.

Mrs. Hattie Kennedy of London, England, who has been visiting her father, Mr. Wilson, returned last Wednesday from Tampa, where she has been visiting relatives. We are delighted to know that she will be with us in our social circle until early winter.

Mrs. Iris Pell and son, Thomas left Wednesday for Palatka, where they will visit her aunt, Mrs. G. Upchurch for a few days.

Miss Ruth Royal visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McEwen at Paisley last week. She noted the progress made there in the last few months.

Reuben Register, one of our popular young business men spent the week end with relatives in Sanford. He reported a very enjoyable visit.

Robert Hays of Arkansas came last week to reside with his father, who has been here several months.

A crowd of our young people, chaperoned by Mrs. A. R. Edmiston enjoyed a trip to Seminole Springs last Saturday.

Mrs. Joe Kling, accompanied by her two daughters, Misses Lillian and Eleanor and little son, Joe, Jr., of Jensen, Fla., is here visiting her aunt, Mrs. L. G. Garrett.

C. C. Myers, one of our old citizens, who has been residing at Lady Lake for the last two years is showing his "smiling face." While here he is the house guest of Alonzo Royal.

Mr. R. Q. Graham is home again after a visit of some length to her young grandson, Charlie Chilson in Paola.

Little Edwin Sutton has been quite ill for several days, but is reported one better now.

S. P. Smith is home again after a stay of some length in Chulusta. On last Tuesday evening the Misses Geiger entertained their friends at a very enjoyable lawn party. Wire had been stretched from one tree to another; over this wire an abundance of moss was hung, bamboo vines were hung in great festoons over this, forming an out of door parlor, which was beautifully lighted with lanterns. Inside this improvised room were tables of ferns and cut flowers, the whole forming a beautiful and artistic picture.

The company were entertained through the evening with amusing games to which each took part. Miniature base ball, auction and dices by numbers were some of the enjoyable games. Delicious ice cream and cake were served and an evening of much pleasure was spent. The guests were Misses Thusa Tarbel on last Friday evening at her home on First street. The porch was made dainty and lovely with quantities of golden rod and vines, yellow and green being the color scheme. Many cut flowers and growing plants were also used in the decorations. The evening was spent in jolly games and sweet music. The refreshments were ice cold fruit punch and cake, bearing out the color scheme. The favors were hand painted Dutch boxes filled with salted peanuts. The guests of the evening were Miss Marie Daniel with Tommy McLain, Miss Barbara McLain with Payne Daniel, Miss Georgia Pattishall with Reed Dooly, Miss Lydia Geiger with Frank Sutton, Miss Jenetta Sheldon with Bert Pattishall, Miss Irene Peters with Paul Dooly, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Raulerson.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Baker complimented their friend, Payne Daniel with an old-time fish fry on Lake Harney last Thursday. Several friends were invited and all gladly joined in doing justice to the quantities of fine fish and other good things.

THE NEW METHODIST CHURCH

METHODIST. The Methodists of this city are rejoicing over the beginning of their elegant house of worship on their lot on the corner of Park Avenue and Fifth Street. This lot was found to be too small to accommodate the building which they had planned to erect so with their accustomed aggressiveness they purchased 13 feet from the owner of the adjoining property at a good price and the building, a is adequately planned to meet the needs of the modern Sunday School. Ladies parlors, Brotherhood rooms, Boys Club rooms etc are included in the plans. When this building is completed and furnished as planned no congregation in Florida will be more conveniently and comfortably housed. The Pastor, Rev. F.E. Steinmeyer, with the building committee, are sparing no time and thought to give Morrison, one of the most eloquent speakers of the south will deliver the address of the occasion. Dr. A.E. Phillips has prepared an historical sketch of the Methodist Church in Sanford which promises to hold some interesting facts for those who attend. Some good music will be rendered on the occasion. The Local Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons will lay the stone.

NEW METHODIST CHURCH FOR SANFORD

picture of which you see above, will soon be a reality. This building is planned by J.B. Greene, architect, of Birmingham, Ala. It is modern in all its appointments, when all departments are opened up, the audience will be directly in front of the pulpit. The entire seating capacity is estimated to be about 800. The auditorium proper about 800. The Sunday School department using the beautiful ceremony of that order. Everything is being done to make the occasion one of pleasure and profit to all who attend. The Methodists give a cordial invitation to all the people of Sanford to attend the exercises on Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock and rejoice with them.

PAOLA POINTS

Mr. George Garwood and son, Roy have gone to their old home in Michigan to visit relatives, and attend a family reunion on the 14th of this month.

Mrs. Russ and children are visiting relatives at Lockhart for a time.

Mrs. 'Graham, after a three weeks' visit with her daughter and family, has returned to her home in Geneva.

Mr. Foley and son have left Paola for an indefinite period.

Mrs. Sheridan Jewett from the West Side made a two days visit at Twin Lakes Plantation last week.

George Smith is visiting Tampa this week.

Jack and Lillian Booth went to Tampa and Mr. and Mrs. Chilson and the boy to Plant City on Monday, expecting to be absent until Thursday.

While their owners are away, Pot and Zuzu are enjoying themselves in the roomy pasture at Twin Lakes Plantation.

We are enjoying ideal August weather here in the one time piney woods. A good breeze most of the time, amounting now and then to a good stiff wind and great masses of clouds cotton white and every shade from amethyst to purple, silver to slate, ever drifting over changing, temper Old Sol's rays, who flashes out upon us through the cloud rifts with vivid brilliancy. Abundant showers and refreshing cool nights add to our pleasure, and make us "stay-at-homes" comfortable and contented.

Smooths Out the Wrinkles

Worry causes more wrinkles on young faces than is traced thereon by the fingers of Old Father Time. And all household duties are sources of worryment, either in the doing or in having them done.

The old rhyme "man works from sun to sun—woman's work is never done," always will be true until women decide to banish worryment by taking advantage of the many truly labor saving and trouble abolishing household devices, which they can now obtain and use at trifling cost.

MOORE'S STATION

C. P. Fulton and family, who moved from near here some time ago have located in Oak Hill. Mr. Fulton is operating an ice plant there. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. H. Allen from here and Sanford are moving there this week. Mr. Allen will have a position with the plant.

McC. Mickey of Mellenville avenue preached here Sunday.

Miss Margaret Reasoner of Celery avenue was Miss Etta Johnson's guest one day recently. She with her people leave for Mississippi this week to reside.

Mrs. Joe Cameron also prepared a jolly crowd of girls for a straw ride to Silver Lake Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Katherine Wilson from town, who was Miss Annie Cameron's guest last week. They enjoyed bathing in the lake and afterward had a fine supper around a camp fire in the woods. The woods were spooky after the dark came and the girls could only think of ghost stories as there were no young men along. They drove home by moonlight, entering the way with songs. In the party there were besides Mrs. Cameron and Miss Wilson, Misses Hattie Estridge, Ruth, Gertrude and Emma Little, Maud, Annie and Eleanor Cameron, Joda and Perry Cameron.

Last week Joe Cameron butchered the largest beef ever butchered in this section purchased by him for the Tealatable Ranch Co., from Klamminger cattle men, who claimed never-

Ford THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Buyers to Share in Profits Lower Prices on Ford Cars

Effective from August 1st, 1914, to August 1st, 1915, and guaranteed against any reduction during that time:

Touring Car	$490
Runabout	440
Town Car	690

F. O. B. Detroit, all cars fully equipped (in United States of America only)

Further, we will be able to obtain the maximum efficiency in our factory production, and the minimum cost in our purchasing and sales departments if we can reach an output of 300,000 cars between the above dates.

And should we reach this production, we agree to pay as the buyer's share from $40 to $60 per car (on or about August 1st, 1915) to every retail buyer who purchases a new Ford car between August 1st, 1914 and August 1st, 1915.

For further particulars regarding these low prices and profit-sharing plan, see the nearest Ford Branch or Dealer.

THE WAR IN EUROPE

Europe is plunged into war and it is shaking the foundations of Europe and every other civilized country of the world. Starting from a mere pretext it bids fair to entangle every country in Europe and even in Asia and the far east.

For many years the large countries of Europe have been preparing for this very war. The people who have travelled extensively in Europe could sense the subtle feeling that presages any great event and returning home to America would disclose their fears only to be laughed at by those who had not studied the situation at close range. In 1870 Germany after thoroughly whipping France grabbed Alsace and Lorraine for her own and France has never ceased to long for the day when she could get another chance at her old foe. Austria, Hungary and Germany, powerful nations and bound together by many ties stood together when Austria forced a war on little Serbia without any apparent reason. Russia the ally and guardian of Serbia and all Slav countries placed a protecting hand on the shoulder of Serbia and was promptly slapped by Germany. France neutral up to this time was given an ultimatum by Germany to lay down or be spanked and France naturally twirled her fingers beneath an imaginary nose and told Germany to go south. Germany, in attempting to throw her troops into French territory without fighting at the French and German frontier attempts to pass through the Belgian territory. This is resented by Belgium and she appeals to her powerful ally, Great Britain, who calls Germany down. Germany listens to no one and Germany and England immediately declare war on each other and so it goes from one nation to another and today almost every country in Europe is embroiled or will be in another week. Alliances and ententes made to enforce peace seem to now have been made with the idea of precipitating war and only North and South America are exempt.

No one can foretell the future of Europe, but all are agreed that unless mediation is made at once the face of all Europe will be changed and one of the bloodiest wars of all history will be fought and the battle ground will be Austria and Germany. French and English and Russian navies will bottle up the ports of Germany and Austria and the decision will be made by the land forces in a death grapple that will call down tears from the angels in heaven.

This will be the last great war. Nations cannot stand such slaughter as the modern engines of destruction can deal. Countries cannot stand the drain upon the treasury of France or the drain upon the manhood that will be sacrificed to propitiate the power of a few monarchs.

The war will be terrible but our faith is pinned to the star of hope that it will not, cannot last long. America can only stand off and make up of a cosmopolitan population her sympathies will be extended to all the nations in part and our prayers will be for a speedy result and the dove of peace.

The war in Europe must be short. It is impossible for any people, unless the Americans, to stand the strain of the tremendous cost of modern warfare and its consequent derangement of industry.

That is about the only consolation left the believer in peace and all the works of peace. If it hastens all the end of the war lord system the awful price may not be too high. The struggle must be short but the cost of it will rest for centuries on the taxpayers of the countries involved.

WHY SHOULD WE WORRY?

There is absolutely no occasion for pessimistic feelings in this country and especially in this part of the country, because of the European troubles.

This country has little to lose and a great deal to gain from the disturbance of international peace across the seas. We are entirely free of all entanglements with these European powers. We have neither an alliance nor an entente. Our role in the present difficulty is one of object neutrality and, if conditions are favorable, of readiness to mediate to stop the slaughter and the destruction which is about to begin.

Furthermore, we must occupy the position of a great supply base for all the warring powers.

Naturally, the European crisis has had an immediate effect upon financial and commercial circles the world over. It must be felt for a time in every land under the sun. But the people of this country are in much better position to stand the strain than those of any other country. Let's the word go out in Europe—the prolongation of a general war—and it cannot disturb seriously the financial and commercial stability of this republic.

The stress will be felt here but a few days. The worst American sufferers will be those who are traveling in Europe and who have been caught in a most unexpected situation, entailing great difficulty in raising money and in securing passage back home.

The immediate excitement over the rush of foreign buying of our foodstuffs, coal, wood, cotton, clothing, shoes, blankets, military and naval supplies for the armies and people will prove a wonderful stimulus to business throughout the country.

All our business men will quickly adjust their affairs to meet unusual conditions. It is not to be apprehended for a moment that there will be any appreciable stringency of money or any destruction of trade.

Locally, we see only one bad effect, and that will be only partial and temporary—the suspension of phosphate shipments, which will cause the phosphate plants to cease operations so far as foreign shipments are concerned and which will stop the exportation of phosphate through the port of Tampa for the time being. This will be of brief duration, however, because the war itself will undoubtedly be a short one.

Our other large industries will not be affected in the slightest degree. The citrus fruit industry, the cigar industry, our fisheries, our wholesale trade, will not suffer a cent of decrease. Labor will not be affected; building and all other operations will continue. A temporary hold-up in the bond market may delay certain public improvements, but we have enough in hand in this city and county to continue these public works for a considerable time.

The bloodiest of wars in Europe cannot hold in check the wonderful productivity of our soil or impair the demand for the good things we produce. Florida is all right whatever happens beyond the Atlantic. The thing to do is to discountenance the croaker and the pessimist and keep busy, smiling as you work.

Why should we worry?—Tampa Tribune.

AN INCREASED VALUATION

The real estate valuation of Duval county has been materially raised but is not yet half high enough. The ridiculously low valuation that has prevailed in this and other Florida counties in the past has done harm and has benefited no one. The financial needs of the county are the same whether the valuation is high or low so a low valuation has meant a high tax rate. If with the increase of valuation the tax rate is not lower this year than last it will be because the county needs more money this year than it needed last and the millage will be lower this year than it would have been if the valuation had not been increased.

So the burden is no heavier on the tax payers but with a higher valuation it appears to outsiders to be higher. The low valuation and high millage operates to deter immigrants from moving to the state. The low valuation indicates poverty and leads the prospective settler to inquire why it is that the people of Florida are so poor if the state presents such fine opportunities as it is represented as offering.

Then, within the prospective settler's mind, a heavy tax rate. Of course the showing for Florida poverty and heavy taxation are alike deceptive but it would be much better to quit deceiving than to deceive and try to explain it away. Under the valuation that has prevailed croakers and people have been four times as healthy as they seemed and taxation has been only one-fourth as burdensome as it seemed but we are glad to see that a start has been made towards making things seem as they are and we hope soon to see property assessed at its true value. Individual selfishness should not interfere with this. —Times-Union.

THE FIRST LADY

The first lady of our land lies at the point of death. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has been in ill health for many months and the end is near, so hope being held out by the White House physicians. During the recent Mexican troubles and now that the crisis in Europe is near our President has been obliged to deal with the weighty problems of state while his wife was suffering on the bed of pain. Yet the past few days he has dictated the policy of the nation from the sick room of his beloved wife. The sympathy of the nation and of other nations goes out to him in this hour of great trouble. Only those who have been placed in similar positions can realize the weight upon his shoulders and upon his heart. When the mind is filled with trouble and the heart is burdened, the help of the wife is a most valuable asset to the man of family and so Mrs. Wilson goes for supplies from cats and to unburden his mind and he can always find solace. When the loving helpmate is laid low the man suffers doubly beneath the weight of the cares of state and the worry of his wife's illness.

The President of the United States is a man and can be depressed upon to meet his troubles like a man but we cannot help but express our sympathy for him even though he may never know it and breathe a prayer for Proident Wilson and the President's wife. Since writing the above Mrs. Wilson has passed away.

America is the richest and most re-buffed nation on earth and while the war in Europe is not going to benefit us, we produce so much and of such vast variety that we can't starve nor even go hungry. Europe will cease to be our customer for the time being, but our own home market is the biggest and best in the world and what we don't consume at home is a surplus increasing in value every day. A few months hence when the intolerable burden of the war has compelled the nations to cease fighting the cotton and wheat and lumber and phosphates and other products we haven't sold will bring largely increased prices. The unmarketed cotton during the civil war brought fifty cents and more a pound after hostilities had ended, and for the same reason our unmarketed products which are not perishable will bring sky-high prices when the war in Europe is over. And modern wars don't last long. A year at most is pretty sure to see Europe at peace again—possibly six months.—Lakeland Telegram.

No need for Sanford people to become alarmed over the war in Europe. With everything needed to sustain life the Sanford section could stand a siege for a year or two and if foreign countries are unable to send potatoes and cabbage to this country our crops should bring good prices next spring.

IRRIGATION

The following article from the pen of Hon. J. N. Whitner appeared in the Country Gentleman of July 26th and has been widely quoted:

A quarter of a century ago a minister devised the plan of keeping the sandy streets of Sanford, Orange county, Florida, damp by running artesian well water under ground, to be brought to the surface by capillary attraction. But the operation of the Rev. Dr. T. W. Moore's system was short lived at that time; the mosquito had not then been convicted as a yellow fever carrier, and the doctors had the street moistening scheme abandoned for fear it might cause disease.

Ten years later, when failure and disaster resulted from efforts to use this same artesian water on the surface and in ditches, Doctor Moore's idea was applied to the irrigation of growing crops and the present Sanford sub-irrigation system resulted. The perfecting of this system is perhaps due more to the late I. H. Terwilliger than to any other person, and it is a source of regret that neither he nor Dr. Moore lived to see the fruition of the achievement.

Briefly stated, the water is applied through three-inch tile, laid in parallel ditches eighteen inches deep, with a fall of not less than one inch to the hundred feet. The distance between the rows of tile varies according to the quality of the soil. In our sandy loam twenty-five feet affords effective drainage as well as irrigation. The more clay and the stiffer the soil the nearer the ditches should be placed.

At the upper end of the tile, beginning at the water supply—with us flowing artesian wells—and running by the end of each row of tile, is a water main, the cheapest kind being a small sewer pipe cemented at the joints. Between the tile and this water main a joint of six inch sewer pipe is used, as a ground pipe, connected on one side with the main by a short iron pipe and with the tile on the other side. Water turned into the main can be turned into as few or as many of the standpipes as desired, in this way irrigating all or any portion of the field. The tile is in short joints—with us one foot in length—and the water finds ingress or egress at the joints. It discharges into a water ditch and when the ground is level and the flow of water not too rapid it will be found that capillary attraction supplies all the moisture needed, even for setting plants. Moist fields, however, are equipped with open boxes at the lower end of the tile and when the ground is much broken these boxes are placed at intervals, drawing the water up to any level required, even to flooding the ground.

By this comparatively inexpensive and permanent system of tiling three essentials of successful farming are accomplished—irrigation, drainage and aeration. In the humid climate of Florida, where sixty inches of rainfall is the average, it is hard to say to which of these we are most indebted. The rainfall is uncertain and unevenly distributed. Sometimes we have six months of unbroken sunshine, sometimes six months of varying rain and sunshine, rarely two days of steady rain. Yet often on comparatively few days great rains occur, leaving ponds of water that saturate even our sandy soil to the exclusion of the air. But with the Sanford system we are benefited in these ways:

Irrigation: The water from below is kept sufficiently near the surface so that capillary attraction brings an ample supply within reach of the roots of plants and yet allows thorough and constant cultivation.

Drainage: The efficacy of tile drainage is too well known to need discussion here. As installed at Sanford on our sandy, loamy soil, nothing more can be desired. A three-inch vein one day is drained rapidly enough to be allowed crops to be plowed the next day.

Aeration: Granting the necessity of air in the soil, a moment's thought will convince one that sufficient rain to saturate the ground will drive out the air, because of the greater specific gravity of water. On anything like level ground, unless there are frequent ditches, the only escape for the water is by evaporation, and in rainy weather where the humidity is great this amounts to but little. The ground dries slowly at the surface and as slowly allows the air to enter, so that sometimes for an extended period it does not reach the roots of the plants at all. In sub-irrigated ground, as soon as the tile is empty or only partly full of water, it is filled with air, and just as the water from above drives out the air, so the air from below permeates the soil without delay. This action warms the soil below and hastens the growth of plants after cold weather.

So much for the Sanford system of sub-irrigation. Let us look at the results obtained. The system was first used in 1898, and in that year the first four carloads of celery were shipped from Sanford. It may be of interest to note that these were the first carloads of produce shipped in three years after the great freeze of 1895, which destroyed $100,000,000 worth of property in one night in Florida. At that time the artesian lands around Sanford—now known as the Sanford Celery Delta, were without value and were annually sold for taxes. In 1899 a thousand acres were sold for 25 cents an acre. Under cultivation with sub-irrigation some of these lands have sold for $1,500 an acre, and we count the output of vegetables by the hundred carloads. The estimated output this season will exceed 2000 cars.

If more is needed to tell the story it is a fact that through this Celery Delta, where fourteen years ago I and my family were the sole inhabitants, a railroad built by local capital now runs to handle train loads of vegetables; upon the track of this road street cars are operated for twelve miles, and a hundred children are brought daily to the public schools at the county's expense. Through this same territory seven miles of vitrified brick will be laid this year.

So far celery has been and is the great crop, with head lettuce a close second. These are planted in the fall and grow all winter, so do cauliflower, cabbages, beets, peas, onions, and all the harder vegetables. They are followed in the spring by cucumbers, beans, Irish potatoes, tomatoes, squash, and so forth. These in turn are followed by corn, sweet potatoes, rice, peas, peanuts and other summer crops. Abundant crops of hay can be cut without planting or care, beginning as early as April and succeeded by crop after crop until the land is broken for fall planting. As yet the principal summer crop is corn. It is planted on the vegetable fields at small expense, and without fertilizer yields from fifty to a hundred bushels an acre, worth twenty-five cents a bushel more here than in Chicago because of difference in freight. The corn stalks are plowed under in August or September and decay sufficiently for the planting of celery in October.

This article would be incomplete without the statement that by sub-irrigation the finest strawberries are grown. Vines planted in September yield a continuous crop from December until May, a six month season.

All this and more is accomplished of the value of sub-irrigation, drainage and aeration, and I am confident that where advanced farming is followed it is worth the cost. With us that cost is $100 an acre, including an artesian well; and the expense is well repaid, even for drainage and aeration alone, when cheap water cannot be obtained for irrigation purposes.

The many friends of Cashier Tolar of the Peoples Bank are sorry to learn that his left eye has been giving him much trouble again and may necessitate another trip to Jacksonville to the specialist.

Capt. P. M. Elder has returned from a two weeks' trip to various points in Georgia. He visited his old home and also took in Tallulah Falls and other points of interest. Capt. Elder states that the commercial spirit has ruined the falls and that the water that formerly made Tallulah one of the most beautiful of resorts is now used to produce power for the many big enterprises of that part of the state. With the water turned into other channels the falls will soon be a thing of the past. His trip worked wonders in his health and the genial Captain looks better than he did a few weeks ago and is ready now to go fishing.

Highlanders Won The Highlanders were victorious in game Thursday against the White Sox, the score being 7 to 6. The batteries were as follows: Highlanders—Pope and Murrell. White Sox—Washburn and Spencer.

The game was replete with good plays and the boys put up an exhibition that would have done credit to the professionals.

FOUND BODY IN RIVER

White Man Drowned Near Lemon Bluff and Identity Unknown

Some people fishing near Lemon Bluff north of here, on the Upper St. Johns river, made a gruesome find today in the body of a white man found floating in the river. They immediately telephoned to Sheriff Hand and he repaired to the spot and held an inquest. The body had evidently been in the water for several days and from the appearance of the clothing the man was evidently a fisherman or had gone to the river to fish as the body was clad in old clothes and it is the supposition that the man was a fisherman by trade. He was about six feet tall and seemed to be about 45 years of age. As there were no marks of violence upon the body the coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning and the body will be given burial by the county.

The man evidently had some friends and behind the scenes of the body, there may lurk a story. If any one knows of a man missing from the community in which they live or anywhere in the state it would be well to get into communication with Sheriff Hand and clear up the mystery surrounding the unknown.

ASSESSOR BATES IN FAVOR OF MORE BONDS AND MORE ROADS

TRUNK LINES TO GENEVA AND OVIEDO SHOULD BE BUILT AT ONCE

Editor Sanford Herald:

The millage for the year 1914 in Sanford Special Road and Bridge district amounts to eight mills. This provides for interest on the $200,000 road bonds and a thirty year prorate of a sinking fund. Half of the values in Seminole County are in what is known as Sanford and the Celery Delta. This area pays a full fifty per cent of the expense of running the county, has eighty per cent of the voting strength in the county, and comprehends one sixth of area of the county.

My suggestion is this. That we vote $500,000 worth of road bonds, making them a general county issue, thus spreading the expense of the bonds evenly over the county. Then refund our present bond issue of $200,000 to build brick roads out of the general county issue and use the remaining $300,000 to build brick roads connecting up the main populated sections of the county with Sanford. One such brick road could extend from Sylvan Lake to the Wekiva Bridge. A mile branch would connect Paola with Sylvan Lake. The Geneva Avenue brick road could be extended to Geneva. The Oviedo road could be bridged from the main road south, and the Sanford Orlando road could be bridged on to the Orange County line. This would give us splendid outlets and would always guarantee that Sanford would be on the National Highway north and south through Florida. We now have just enough mileage of brick roads to demonstrate the feasibility of this sort of construction and I am of the opinion that it would be an easy matter to get the above proposition through and once it goes through it has made Seminole County famous forever.

Yours very truly, Thomas K. Bates.

School Board Election

The election for school trustees in Seminole county passed off very quietly last Tuesday, the only war cloud on the otherwise peaceful horizon being the one in Sanford, some objection being made to the tickets. It was said that the voting for millage should have been on a separate ballot, as the one used would not permit any one but freeholders to vote. There is some talk of declaring the election invalid and holding another one with the two separate ballots, allowing every registered voter who is a freeholder to vote both ballots. As far as the vote goes it will probably never be contested, as few people ever take any interest in a school election and only come out when urged by some of their friends.

In Sanford district B. F. Whitner, C. R. Walker and S. Runge were elected. In the Oviedo district L. J. Hartley, W. D. Dunn and C. W. Entzinger were elected.

In the Geneva district Homer Nicholson, J. W. Flynt and W. B. Raulerson were elected.

In the Chuluota district G. M. Jacobs, Henry Puteh.

In the Oviedo district W. H. Howard, E. A. Farnell and J. S. McKenzie were elected.

Next Sunday at Star Theater

The Sunday evening services at the Star Theater, participated in by the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist churches, have been a source of pleasure and profit to those who have been in attendance. Since the pastors of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches have gone away on their vacation the pastor of the Methodist church will continue to lead in the service. The church of these churches are earnestly requested to meet at the attendance of Mrs. Claude Herndon on Friday evening to practice for the service.

The service for Sunday evening will be the prayer of salvation for the sinner, which is also a comfort to the Christian.

Quite a number of these demonstrations were present in the storeroom, and vice last Sabbath, and were fully appreciated by the pastor and members of the Methodist church.

We trust you will be at home with us the morning of the 11th as well as in the union service on the evening.

Behold, the good and pleasant news is brought to you by the Holy Spirit.

Resolution.

Resolutions of Respect and Sympathy Adopted By Sanford Lodge No. 27, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Sanford, Fla., Aug. 3, 1914.

Whereas it hath pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to call from our midst our brother and friend W. H. Underwood; and whereas that call, we recognize the Hand which we all must sooner or later harken: THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

1st. That in the death of Brother Underwood, our Lodge has lost a faithful and upright member; and We have lost a kind brother and true friend; and that we as members and brothers mourn because of his loss.

2nd. That we extend the hand of sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family and friends, and bid them to look to Him who doeth all things well for final and permanent healing of the wounds caused by the departure of one whom they loved.

3rd. That a page in the minute book of our Lodge be dedicated to his memory, and that these resolutions be transcribed thereon; that a copy be sent his bereaved wife and daughter; that a copy be printed in the Sanford Herald; and that our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days.

Big Time at Daytona

A delegation from Seabreeze and Daytona Beach Chamber of Commerce was in Sanford Wednesday conferring with officials of the Commercial club as to participation in the Labor Day celebration, which will be held at Daytona Beach on September 7. The party was composed of: Jerome L. Weatherly, secretary; Charles Burman, president, and J. J. Bishop, chairman of the finance committee. After securing the pledge and support from Sanford, the delegation went on to Orlando and in fact will visit all the important towns in peninsular Florida.

This celebration promises to be one of the greatest that has been pulled off in this portion of the state and the committee is preparing to shelter and feed five thousand guests for three days, as the greater portion of the crowd will go over Saturday and remain until the following Tuesday. Ample funds have been provided to furnish such comforts as public rest stations on the beach, copious supplies of ice water and public service stations.

The program will begin with a series of motor boat races on the Halifax river. These events will be followed by an immense parade and an oration by Governor Park Trammell. The automobile races, which will be conducted under the direction of the Orlando Automobile club will be held in the afternoon as will also the motorcycle races, low tide being had at that time. The premises of the Daytona Automobile club will be placed at the services of the committee. Ample premiums have been arranged for and some of Sanford's fast cars will be found in the as they were on the Fourth of July. Another barge will be placed in service at the Monroe ferry, thus enabling a greater number of cars to be put over than were sent across for the July celebration. The number then reached over six hundred. Two or more bands of music will be on hand to enliven the occasion.

POLK'S CACTUS FARM

A simple process of putting each leaf one-third its length in the ground leaf one-third its length in the ground.

Polk county enjoys the distinction of having within its borders the largest and oldest cactus farm in the state, known as the Lakeland Cactus Garden. It is owned by C. C. Redgrave and is located one and a half miles west of the city of Lakeland, says the Eustis Lake Region. A little over two years ago Mr. Redgrave secured a few leaves from Luther Burbank in California. These grew so well that more were purchased a few months later. These also thrived so, remarkably under the most untoward circumstances, such as poor soil, wild and unweeded, lack of fertilizer, disturbance of root system by frequent change of location, that Mr. Redgrave concluded that this new forage plant, which was revolutionizing the cattle question in California, New Mexico, South Arizona and other semi-arid states, would "change the face of Florida," when once generally introduced.

He now has several thousand plants, including the most expensive varieties, both forage and fruiting. It has been found that while this hardy denizen of the desert does well on the poor thin sand of our Florida hills, it responds appreciably to kindly treatment and suitable fertilization, putting out numerous buds on even the smallest leaves or stubs, in marked contrast to these plants otherwise unthrived. It may be considered a well established fact that each of this improved kind may be grown in paying quantities almost anywhere in Florida. Plants in the Lakeland Gardens have shown 500 and over 1,000 per cent increase in a year. A crop of good sized marketable cactus in six months.

The following briefly enumerated points will commend this new industry to every thoughtful and progressive reader. First, its ease of propagation. One man can plant one thousand leaves a day in previously prepared ground.

Kindness and Gratitude. Beware of taking kindnesses from others as matters of course. The heart well purged by humanity is so deeply conscious of its unworthiness that to receive acts of kindness always excites some emotion of gratitude, of shame or surprise, or all three together—of gratitude for the benefit, of shame upon thinking how ill it is deserved, of surprise that our brethren should bestow upon us what we so little merit.—From Mr. Gladstone's "Religious Life."

But Good Thing to Remember. It's hard to realize that your troubles seem so unimportant to another man as his seem to you.—Exchange

Russian Troops Digging Trench

News dispatches unite in declaring that the Russian soldiers went almost mad with joy at the prospect of war with Germany. Trench digging is a part of the science of warfare, and the Russians got some valuable though expensive experience in the war with Japan.

CHAPTER III. Her Story.

"I HAVE had experience also," she said. "I used to believe this world was just a beautiful playground. I never dreamed what it really means to be hungry and homeless, to be alone among strangers. I had read of such things, but they never seemed real or possible. But I know it all now; all the utter loneliness of a great city. Why it is easier to fall than to stand, and, oh, I was so desperate tonight! I—I actually believe I had come to the very end of the struggle. Whatever happens—whatever possibly can happen to me hereafter—I shall never again be the same thoughtless creature, never again become uncharitable to others in misery. Why were you at that house and so afraid of the police?"

"Well, that is a long story," I replied hesitatingly. "I had been talking with some men inside who had offered me work and good pay. There was a reason why I did not wish to be seen coming out at that hour."

"Not—not anything criminal?"

"No; I've confessed to being a good for nothing, but I'm clear of crime."

She drew a long breath of relief.

"I do not quite believe," she said finally. "You—you do not look like that."

I laughed in spite of my efforts.

"I am delighted to have you say so. No more do I feel like that now. Yet so the record reads, and you must accept me just as I am or not at all. I have nothing else to offer."

"Perhaps I have no more."

"I have asked no explanation of you."

"True, yet you cannot be devoid of curiosity. You meet me after midnight, wandering alone in the streets; you see me boldly, shamelessly, intending to prevent the arrest of a strange man; you hear me deliberately bludgeoned again and again. What could you think of such a woman?"

"You ask my individual judgment of that of the world?"

"Yours, of course. I know the other already."

waiter came shuffling forward with our order.

I had never supposed I lacked audacity, yet I found it strangely difficult to again pick up our conversation. This woman puzzled me—was becoming an enigma. Her eyes again glanced up and met mine.

"It is a terrible experience being penniless and alone," she said with a shudder. "I can never condemn some forms of evil as I once did, for now I have felt temptation myself. I—I have even learned to doubt my own

"I think you have saved me from myself."

strength of character. I—I am glad I met you. I think you have saved me from myself."

"You asked me my name," I broke in eagerly. "Would you mind telling me who you are?"

"The clear cheeks reddening. 'Why, I am only a fool.'"

"Then there is, at least, one tie between us. But if we are to remain friends—I must know how to address you."

Her red lips parted doubtfully, her brow wrinkling.

"Yes, and we cannot afford to be conventional, can we? I am Viola Bernard, and I must tell my story to some one. I can fight fate alone no longer. Perhaps I may not confess everything, for I do not know you well enough yet, but enough at least so you will no longer suspect that I—I am a bad woman."

"I could never really believe that."

"Oh, yes, you could. I have read in your face that my character puzzles you. You invited me to drink a cocktail to try me. Don't protest, for really I do not wonder at it or blame you in the least. How could you think otherwise? There is a home I could return to, and a mother, but they are more than a thousand miles from here. But I cannot go, even if I possessed the means, because of my pride—my false pride possibly. I have chosen my course and must abide by it to the end."

She drew a long breath, speaking very slowly.

"It is a hard story to tell, for the wound is still fresh and hurts. I was upon the stage—not long, but with sufficient success so that I had become a leading woman with one of the best stock companies. It was against my mother's wish I entered the profession, and she has never become reconciled to it, although our relationship remained pleasant. A few months ago while playing in Omaha I met Fred Bernard. I knew little of him, but he appeared gentlemanly and well to do and was presented to me by one in whom I had confidence. He was pleasant and apparently in love with me. I liked him, was flattered by his attentions and discouraged in my ambition. When he asked me to marry him conditions were such that I accepted, even consented under his urging to an immediate ceremony. We came to this city, were quietly married here and occupied a flat on the north side. My husband did no work, but received remittances from home and apparently had plenty of means. He told me little about himself or his condition, but promised to take me to his people in a little while. He said his father was wealthy, but eccentric; that he had told him of our marriage, but there had been a quarrel between them, and he could not take me there without an invitation. I was never shown the letters, but they bore southern postmarks."

He passed, hesitating, her eyes full of pain.

"I—I was afraid to question, for—he proved so different after our marriage. He was a drunkard, abusive and quarrelsome. I had never before been in intimate contact with any one like that, and I was afraid of him. Whatever of love I might have felt died within me under abuse. He struck me the second day, and from that moment I dreaded his becominging. For weeks I scarcely saw him sober, and his treatment of me was brutal."

Tears were in her eyes, but she held them back, forcing herself to go on.

"Then he was gone two days and nights, leaving me alone. He reappeared the third evening in the worst condition I had ever seen him. He acted like a veritable savage, cursing and striking at me and finally drove me from the house, flourishing a revolver in my face and locking the door behind me. I sat there on the steps an hour and endeavored to go back, but there was no response. I walked the streets and then—having a little money with me—found a place to lodge. The next day I went back, but the flat was locked still, and neighbors said my husband had left with a traveling bag. I—I was actually thrown out upon the streets to starve."

Her voice lowered so that I was compelled to lean closer to catch the rapidly spoken words.

"At first I—I was not altogether sorry. I thought it would be easy to find work. I was not afraid of that, but—but it was not easy. Oh, how hard I tried! I faced open insult, cowardly intimidation, brutal coarseness. If I had been skilled in any business line my reception might have been different; if I possessed recommendations or could have frankly confessed the truth perhaps I might have been given a chance. I endeavored so hard to discover some opening; I even sought domestic service and was examined as though I was a horse on sale. I walked the streets; I refused to despair or permit myself to believe failure possible. I went home at night, tired out, to a little rented room in Forty-ninth street, prayed as I used to when a child, cried myself to sleep, only to wake up the next morning determined to continue. I was not weak then; I was as strong as any girl could be. I—I fought it out to the very last!"

Her head suddenly drooping—out she came and came just the same. Perhaps I should never have hung on so long; perhaps it would have been better to have sent word to my mother and asked help to go home. But—but I kept hoping to succeed until it was too late. I spent all the little money I had and pawned my rings. I had married against my mother's wish. I could not turn to her for help. Oh, I was tempted; I think you must know what I meant. You realize what temptation is—how it weakens and conquers the soul?"

"Yes, I know."

Her sensitive face brightened, her eyes clearing of mist.

"It is a comfort to speak with a gentleman again. I—I had almost begun to believe there were none left in the world. You give me courage to go on, to acknowledge everything, Mr. Craig. I was a fool tottering on the brink when I met you yesterday—a desperate, disheartened girl, tempted to the point of surrender."

My heart throbbed yet more tightly over the small hand, but her face remained rigid, the lines deep about the mouth.

"The landlady had turned me out, speaking now bitterly and swiftly, 'retaining my few belongings. I had nothing left—nothing. For a week I had listened to no kind word, met with no kind act. I was upon the street alone at night, purposeless, homeless, wandering aimlessly from place to place, weakened by hunger, stupefied by despair."

"I found myself out among the residents, where everything was still and lonely, walking, walking, walking, every shadow appearing like a ghost. I sat down to rest on the curb, but a policeman drove me away. Once I crept into a doorway, intending to hide in a dark apartment building, but another discovered me there and threatened to take me to the station. The night grew misty and damp, but I found no shelter. I had no will power left, no womanhood, no remorse. It was thus I came there to that corner. I heard the policeman approaching along the side street and, terrified, sprang into the yard to escape; then—then I met you."

"Tell me," I questioned earnestly. "What caused you to interfere between me and the officer?"

"What? Oh, I hardly know," a touch of hysteria in the nervous exclamation. "I was compelled to choose instantly between his mercy and yours. The difference seemed small enough then, but—but I realized you were frightened also, and—and so I preferred to trust you. That was all. It was my fate, and—and, well, I didn't care much how it ended."

"But you endeavored to escape from me. You sought to compel my leaving you?"

"She lifted her face again, flushing, saddened, slightly indignant, the brown eyes widening.

"Perhaps the soul was not all dead," she returned gravely. "Perhaps womanhood was not all gone. I did not know you. I was in terror. But now I am not afraid. I believe I have found a man—and a friend."

"I was conscious of a sudden wild throbbing of the heart, a swift rush of blood through my veins."

"I might have doubted that myself awhile ago," I acknowledged almost bitterly, "but now I am going to make good. Look, how a fellow can run to seed when he lets himself go! Don't you know you are helping me as much as I am you? You didn't and won't turn there—only a drunken discharged soldier, an ex-hobo with a laborer's job. You wasted my chance in life and been an infernal fool. I can see that plain enough and despise myself for it. I knew it before you came. The difference was then I didn't care, while now I do. You have made me care. Yes, you have, girl," as she glanced up again, plainly startled by this unexpected avowal. "You see, you belong to my class, little girl, and—and you are the first of them to speak a kind word to me in five years. It's—it's a bit tough to be cut dead by your own class."

It was her hand, white and slender, which reached shyly across the table and touched mine, but her eyes alone made answer.

"That is all right," I continued, my voice shaking. "I understand how you feel. But this is no fit place for your kind. You better go home to your mother."

She shook her head with decision. "Why not? Is she hard?"

"Yes. She would be very hard with me."

"Do you mean you would rather risk it here with me than go back and face her?"

"Yes, even that," she replied soberly. "I have courage to fight it out here, but not there. I know what it will mean if I go back—reproaches, gossip, ostracism, all the petty meanness of a small town. I loathe the very thought. I am strong again, and I will not go. It is between God and me, this decision—between God and me." She dropped her head, hiding her face upon her arms, her shoulders trembling. "You—you may despise me. You may think me the lowest of the low, but I—I am going to stay here."

"I sat in silence, amazed, puzzled, gazing across at her, my hands clenched.

"You actually mean you dare risk yourself here—with me?"

"With your help, with you as a friend to talk to—yes."

"But stop and think what I am," I urged recklessly. "A mere hobo."

"No," she said earnestly. "You are not that. You are a man."

For a long minute I did not answer, unable to determine what to do, how to act. We had both finished our meal, and there was no excuse for lingering longer at the table.

"You will go with me, then?"

"Yes."

ROLLINS COLLEGE

The following article, appreciative of Rollins, appeared in a newspaper, published in Chicago, July 18. It was written by E.P. Powell, now a resident of Sorrento, one of the editors of the New York "Independent" whose editor-in-chief, Hamilton Holt, is a trustee of the college, a distinguished pomologist, and author of many widely known books on agriculture, ethics, and theology.

duty of Rollins College, as of any such institution, to develop men and women of such all round training as shall fit them for the most complete success and happiness, and for the more efficient service of their fellow men." It has therefore given as its reasons for adopting a system for the general physical culture of every student, first that inter-collegiate athletics have made it necessary to secure semi-professional players, and that these players have by their inattention to studies proven to have undesirable influence over the student body. They have also prevented students from receiving athletic culture. They have proved an unwholesome set of leaders and fostered an ideal of sport for the winning, instead of sport for its own sake. They do not stand for the college or for any educational spirit. The present system is also wasteful and the cost out of the proportion to the good received. Very few students get the advantages of athletic training, while a more sane and adequate system would benefit the entire student body. Professional games being played lead to constant "ill feeling between institutions. That is enough to quote, to show to any reasonable collegian that Rollins is right. We have had enough talk about this business, now let the colleges act. Rollins withdraws from inter-collegiate athletics and will take up the business of physical culture fight heartily. It will teach all of its pupils the art of swimming because it has at its doors a chain of most beautiful lakes. All other sports will be under careful faculty supervision. Those tourists or winter residents in Florida who bring their children with them should take them to Rollins without exception."

E.P. Powell.

Don't Take Calomel Here's a Better Remedy

Taking calomel is mighty risky and often times dangerous. You ought to get along without taking calomel yourself or giving it to your family, when you can get a remedy that takes its place. Dodson's Liver Tone is an agreeable vegetable liquid that starts the liver to action just as surely as calomel does. But, unlike calomel, Dodson's Liver Tone does not stimulate the liver too much. It gives relief gently.

Calomel acts so strongly that it may leave you worse than you were at first, and calomel also sometimes causes salivation. Dodson's Liver Tone works well and never harms. A large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone is sold for fifty cents by L.R. Phillips & Co. It always has given such perfect satisfaction that your money will be given back to you with a smile if you buy a bottle and are not perfectly satisfied with it in every way (Advt)

TEXAS REJECTS PROHIBITION

Virginia Will be Next Southern State to Fall in Line

(By John C. Trice.)

Texas has again put her seal of unqualified condemnation upon the prohibition fallacy. And it cannot be charged against her this time, as has been done in all such elections heretofore, that negro voters swayed the election to the wet column. It was a white Democratic primary, and besides the election of state officials the question was put, "Shall a state prohibition amendment be submitted?" Both sides had a candidate for governor, and the contest was clear cut and fought determinedly on prohibition and anti-prohibition grounds. Prohibition was completely routed by the nomination of the anti gubernatorial candidate and by the rejection of the proposition to submit an amendment to the state constitution. These two facts largely substantiate the statement made by the writer several months ago that the force of the prohibition wave in the south was spent and that the pendulum of human liberty was already poised for a swing in the direction of sane governmental ideas.

Speaking of the backward swing of the pendulum, what more evidence could be desired that such is the case? The wonderful activity of the Anti Saloon League for the past few years has been the one admirable feature about it. It has gone to every length of claim and assertion and activity short of openly courting jail sentences. President Anderson went so far the other day as to declare it the protégé of the church—a sort of political clearing house for all churches. This was of course intended to give it a clean bill of health and ingratiate it into the hearts of the people. But notwithstanding all this the League is steadily growing in disfavor. It has had but one loaf of real southern consolation for years. That was handed them the first day of August by the state of West Virginia—and West Virginia is the one southern state always out of harmony with the others. When the other states were embracing prohibition as the dawn of the millennium, West Virginians stolidly gazed westward and curled their lips in disdain. When the others began to declare the fallacy of the movement West Virginia, in line with her traditional instincts embraced it.

Of course the League has a sort of toe-holt in Virginia, the birthplace and home of the south's most treasured memories. But it is only a toe-holt and appears to be slipping. On September 2nd, Virginians will declare by ballot whether or not they intend to encumber themselves with this stupendous folly. Many of that state's strongest and most influential citizens have engaged in a vigorous opposition campaign, and it is hardly believable that people of the Virginia type will do such an unwise thing as to adopt state wide prohibition instead of local option, which they now have. Virginia has always stood for the widest range of individualism as opposed to restriction or tyrannical legislation of every description. It was from one of her majestic hilltops that Patrick Henry flung to the oppressors of the world his immortal defy. "I care not what others may say, I care not what others may do. But for me, give me liberty or give me death." In the city of Richmond is still preserved the Confederate capitol, the White House of the Confederacy, and even the furniture used by Jefferson Davis. As the visitor strolls through the house formerly occupied by Mr. Davis, the whole countenance of the guide lights up with animated reverence for the President of the Lost Cause, as he points out each piece of furniture and extols the purpose for which it was used. If perchance you take that magnificent trip down the St. James river by steamer a guide perched upon the bow takes off his hat and points out each pride and reverence spot, the identical spot where Patrick Henry stood while making his impassioned appeal. It is hardly imaginable that within a few years a people who cherish such memories of these two heroes of individualism and personal rights should change to such an extent that they will sanction laws prescribing the personal habits of peaceful and righteous citizens. It cannot be.

Conscience

Conscience is a matter of education. A combination with civilization. Many a wage worker has done his employer a grievous wrong, and many an employer has ground an employee in the dust, yet in neither instance has either been reproached by an accusing conscience.
