

BIGNAVY BILL TO BE ENACTED FIRST OF WEEK

Measure, Authorizing Construction of 15 Cruisers, To Include Obsolete Ships To Be Replaced

Program Will Put U.S. Navy Near Parity To Great Britain Fleet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The administration's construction of 15 new cruisers, and a grant aircraft carrier, will be enacted Monday or Tuesday, it was conceded today by the opposition, following adoption of an agreement limiting debate.

The bill will be enacted in the form it passed the House almost a year ago. That bill will include the time clause proposed by President-elect Hoover, which provides that one third of the new warships shall be started during each of the next three years. The bill likewise will include the House provision, calling for construction of one third of the ships in government yards and two thirds in private yards.

This bill differs from the earlier "big navy" group in Congress, for a strengthening of the American Navy will provide for replacement of virtually all obsolete cruisers now in the Navy, and in this respect, will bring it closer to a parity with the British Navy. The cost will be $273,000,000, a considerable figure since the "big navy" advocates at first demanded a $300,000,000 construction program.

All attempts at amending the bill have failed, and the House will now vote on the "big navy" bill. It has a minimum of 60 senators pledged to the bill in its present form. The means are however, will be subjected to attacks in debate throughout the remainder of the week.

Two of the amendments may lead to interesting discussions. One proposed by Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, would request President Coolidge to appoint an advisory committee on the navy.

RUMORS OF FLOP IN MIAMI BATTLE STRONGLY DENIED

Officials Declare No Change In Plans Are Being Anticipated

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—(INS)—The hearing influence of rumors that the battle of Miami Beach is about to blow up in the faces of the Madison Square Garden Corporation directors moved Colonel John R. Hammond to vigorous denial today. The good Colonel also produced a long telegram from Frank Dempsey, who said the disastrous show had reached Miami and inquiring "how comes?" Dempsey asserted that "everything is set" and that the audience is booming in Florida and work has started on construction of an arena in Flamingo Park. Some of the skeptics here rejoined Dempsey in pessimism even though Dempsey's wife was reported to be in a strong belief from William F. Carey, vice-president in charge at Miami Beach, will convince them that there isn't a movement on foot to move the show, but to be made into Madison Square Garden. Up to last night Carey had issued no official communication.

If the garden folks are heating the show, promising the "fight in Florida they are not showing it in their activities at this end of the line. Joe Boyton, command officer, left last night for Miami Beach with 44,000 tickets and also prints of the seating arrangements of the arena. Frank McIntyre leaves Thursday to take charge of the show, and the packing of the show is well advanced.

These moves would indicate that there has been no talk of either here or in Florida. The garden directors may be willing to risk a loss on an enterprise started by Tex Rickard and controlled by them as a duty but they haven't arrived at the stage of business where they are providing garden employees with meager plane trips to Florida.

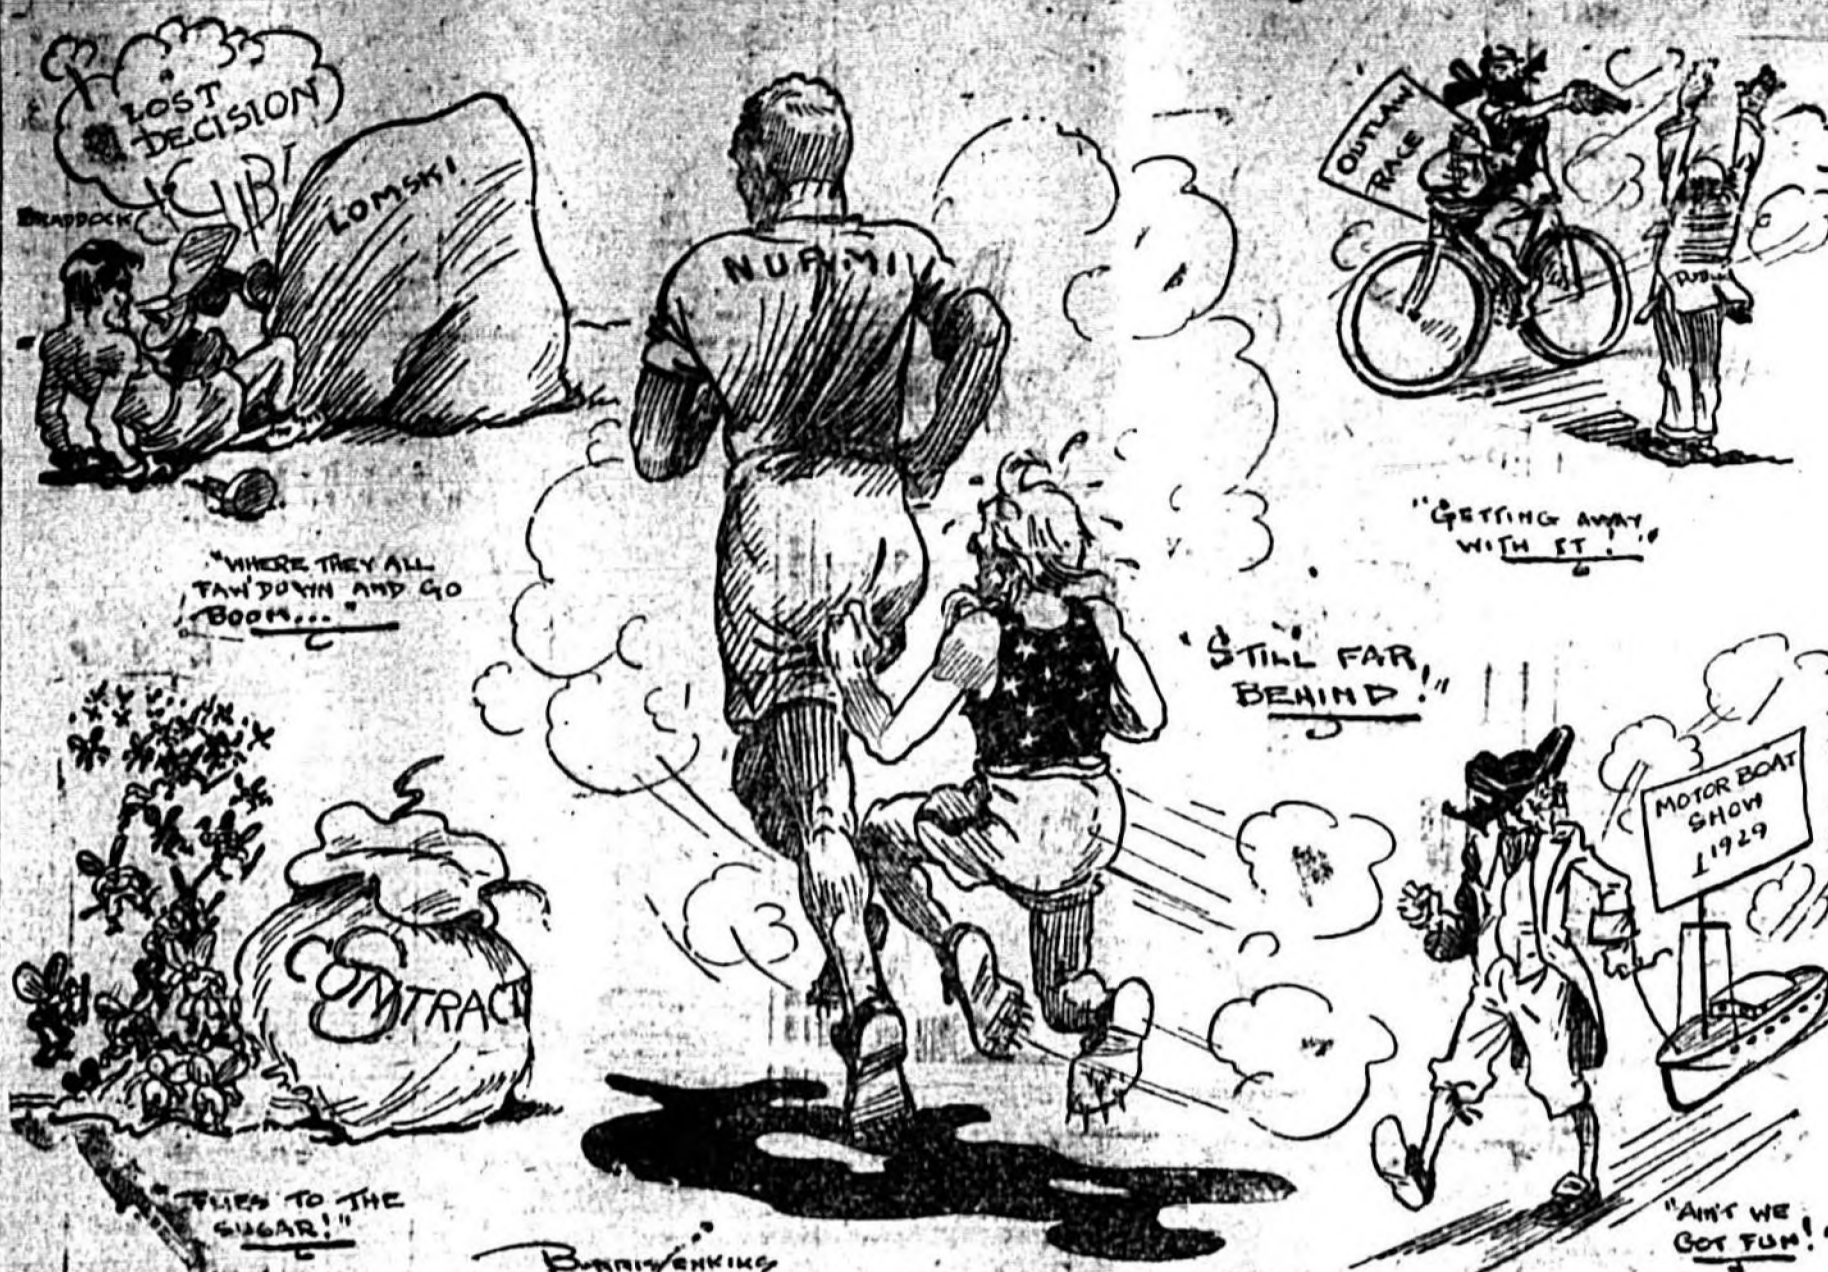

Colonel Hammond was more direct by a tale that the garden directors were meeting today to discuss a report from Mr. Carey. "No directors' meeting is held for this week," he stated. "Neither Mr. Carey nor myself could call off this dog if we wanted to. The directors would not act on recommendation. In the last few days we received applications from New York for 807 seats, and all but a few of them are the $25 reserved seats."

Hammond has been made president of the committee of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce at Memphis, Tenn.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 29.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GOD IS OUR SALVATION—Tribulation is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains, truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel.—Jeremiah 3:23.

"PLEASE DON'T KNOCK" Well, I've been to Cincinnati And I've been to Omaha I've eaten pork and beans in Boston

And they sell them by the jar, I have worked my way to Paris, And I rode the trains of Maine, But when I see the old Palmetto Why I feel like "raining cane".

Now you know there's lots of knockers All over the South land And there's some who come from Knoxville

Which is hard to understand, They tell about the hurricane, That it blew us clean away But right here now I'll tell the world That Florida's here to stay

They say we can not live a third "Way down here in the South" But look at the fruit that grows on our trees

Just grows to beat the best, And then again that golden track That you see at our big fair If that don't grow in Florida By what right came it there?

Then there's plants and lovely roses Mass everywhere you go, So Mr. Knocker, don't forget We have something here to show Which is not from that our high ways

They are surely hard to beat, When you start out in your motor, Why you hate to leave your seat

I think I've said my little piece About my adopted state, Could no right of and tell a lot, But for space I hesitate, If those who knock would come and see

The things we have to show I know they'd drop the hammer They'd be mighty slow to go.

So here's to the state of Florida Whose climate you can not beat The playground of our nation Just come on and get a treat. G. G. Browe

Sixty million eggs were laid last year in the United States. Laid and to end—but we understand they haven't gone that far with the statistics.

The physicians continue to insist that liquor is good for the "flu". We don't like to be arbitrary about it, but we'll have to continue to ask if the good doctors will let us know where to get it.

Deland and Volusia county are preparing for their biggest fair which will be staged next month. If they eclipse last year's exhibition, the fair officials will deserve a great deal of credit.

The Tampa Times has discovered that Hell is the name of a small town in Norway. That's pleasant news. Those who occasionally tell others where to go will have the satisfaction of knowing that technically speaking they are not using profane language.

The Tallahassee State News is the only paper in Florida objecting to the Stribling-Sharkey fight to be held in Miami, says the Deland News. As we understand it, the news is objecting to everything done in the state, including Miami, which it says "unfortunately is still in Florida."

Even if he had remained in the office for governor, Dr. A. W. McKeen would have gotten no where with great rapidity, but that fact does not prevent the social doctor from becoming mayor of Leesburg and the sleazebag Mayor, now we want to hear the Commercial report on at least Leesburg's new mayor and what he has done.

Deserved Punishment

Ousted recently as a member of the American Bar Association, Judge Carlos S. Hardy, Los Angeles jurist, faces further disgrace in possible impeachment proceedings because of his acceptance of a $2,500 check from Aimee Semple McPherson when her celebrated kidnaping case was before the courts two years ago. The judge received the check although not identified as a member of the evangelist's defense counsel. She has denied the money was in payment for legal advice, saying it was in the nature of a "love offering" because of her friendship for Judge Hardy. Despite this claim, the treasurer of Angelus Temple has testified that the voucher was drawn against the "legal defense fund."

Even if a grand jury investigation fails to disclose sufficient evidence by which the jurist can be removed, the stain of dishonor cannot be erased and the public will ever point a finger of suspicion at the man. Granting that Judge Hardy might be able to explain his transaction in this instance we can conceive of no circumstance which would justify his conduct. Occupying an enviable place on the bench of his native state, he should have recognized the importance of "avoiding the very appearance of evil," conducting himself according to the ideals and traditions of others who, filling similar positions, have not stooped to barter their honor and integrity for the sake of a few dollars.

The case of Judge Hardy serves to emphasize the necessity for preserving the majesty of the bench and the respect with which it has been held since the creation of this nation. The thought of a judiciary dragged in the mire of dishonesty and defilement excites national repugnance and in stills in us a fierce desire to unloak those who would, by their own actions, rob their high position of its prestige. Cases of this character have been exceedingly rare, thanks to a citizenship which demands that only those who stand highest in their profession shall have access to the bench.

Chicago's Gravy Train

A special grand jury investigating the expenditure of millions of dollars in municipal funds of Chicago continues to uncover many evidences of wholesale graft and corruption. Disclosures have been made of a gigantic political ring which devised every conceivable scheme for mulcting the city government of public funds to build up a patronage system and enrich thousands of persons, some of them political bosses and others who, ostensibly were municipal employees but who in reality never "hit a lick" of work. Conditions described as even worse than those which existed in the heyday of the Crokers and Tweeds in New York have been found to exist.

One of the most brazen projects engineered by the crooks and grafters was the construction of a so-called "bridge path" as part of a plan to develop a certain section of Chicago. The engineers' original estimate of the cost was $115,000 and so far $1,062,438 has been expended and the scheme is still incomplete. The path is four miles long and made of cinders. No contract has been found governing its construction although a city law makes it mandatory to have a contract for any expenditure over $5,000. The municipal ordinances were circumvented by the issuance of vouchers for less than $500. It was discovered that the city actually purchased cinders from itself to put on the path and many thousands of loads were billed which were never actually delivered. It is estimated that ninety per cent of the huge sum already expended was paid out for cinders.

This is only one example of the unscrupulousness which characterized the dealings of the gangs. In one department an army of four thousand employees were listed as "investigators," "policemen," "lawyers," and "clerks," all of them receiving their share of the plunder but never reporting for work. Several thousand others were enrolled as payroll clerks and in addition forty members of the state legislature, senators and representatives were down on the books for large salaries. A four-mile boulevard project, on which less than $300,000 actually has been spent, has cost the taxpayers more than three million dollars.

In view of these and many other instances of a similar nature, Chicagoans have little cause to resent charges that have been hurled in criticism of their city as a honeycomb of corruption. Indeed, revelations have been made that have shocked the nation because of their effrontery and audaciousness. It appears that this is no time for citizens of that city to quibble with outsiders about unwarranted attacks. They have a greater task ahead, an unquestionable duty to perform. Chicagoans should unite to a man, prepare for a death struggle with the viper clutching at their throat, and give battle unceasingly until they have purged the midwestern metropolis of the rascality which infects its government.

A VICTIM OF POLITICS

OCALA STAR

Without knowing any of the inside reasons for the unexpected resignation of W. F. Allen, who was appointed by Governor Martin to the position of motor vehicle commissioner when that new department was created by the 1927 legislature on recommendation of the governor, and basing our opinion entirely on published statements made by Governor Carlton, it is plain to be seen that Mr. Allen is a victim of politics—machina politics which fastened its tentacles on Florida during the four-year period ending this January 3. To paraphrase a well known quotation: "Those who live by politics, shall perish by politics."

That Mr. Allen, in accepting the position of motor vehicle commissioner was subservient to the will of the governor who appointed him, there is little doubt, in the game of politics the department head is more or less powerless to run his department as he would his private business. Mr. Allen, who we do not know personally, from all accounts is a high type citizen, a good business executive, accustomed in his home community and prominent in the democratic party of the state. He was a delegate-at-large to the Houston convention and an indication of his admiration for Governor Martin, when the delegation was en route to the convention, tried to get his fellow delegates to consent to giving the Florida governor a complimentary vote as the democratic party's candidate for president.

In carrying out his campaign pledges to the people of Florida for economy and efficiency in government, Governor Carlton, immediately after his inauguration set about investigating the department at Tallahassee. Judging from Mr. Allen's letter to Mr. Pinkston, who has been appointed to succeed Mr. Allen, he found that a considerable number of employees could be dropped from the tag license department without curtailing its efficiency and thereby effect a saving of some $100,000 a year. In his letter to the new commissioner the governor said the cost of operating the auto theft department for the year ending September, 1928, was 7.44 per cent against 4.82 per cent for the preceding year, when it was under direction of the comptroller. "In the auto theft department," said the letter, "the cost of collecting $150,725.50 for the year ending September, 1928, was $160,711.97, being 112.63 per cent, while the cost of collecting $840,078.97 for the year ending September, 1927, was $137,919.30 or 57.55 per cent." The cost of operating the motor license department itself for the two comparative years is given as 4.41 per cent against 2.74 per cent, in favor of the comptroller's direction.

The only reason that can be given for these excessive costs is that the motor vehicle department, like other departments at Tallahassee, despite what has been said by those who have rushed to their defense, was over-manned and the state has been carrying on its payroll men and women placed there

This Afternoon

There, methinks, would be enjoyment More than in this march of mind, In the steamship and the railway And the thoughts that shake mankind.

A distinguished straggler from the march of mind, Herbert Hoover at Miami puts aside for a few days the thoughts with which mankind confidently expects to be shaken by him after March fourth. Let it never be said that he did not know where to go for his "place in the sun."

John J. Tigert, touring Florida just now in the interests of the state university, will discover the length and breadth of the arena into which he has come. And Florida will discover the length and breadth of the university's new president. He is a man of such simplicity and force as cannot fail to make their deep impression on all who hold the University of Florida's future at heart.

Long before most of us had mastered his first theory Professor Einstein comes out with a second one. The new theory asserts a relationship between electricity and gravity. Not very exciting to the layman in those terms but highly exciting in the application which H. H. Sheldon of New York University makes of it. "Such things," says Dr. Sheldon, "as keeping airplanes aloft without engines or material support, stepping out of a window into the air without fear of falling, or of making a trip to the moon, as far as concerned are avenues of investigation suggested by this theory if it stands up as proof that electricity and gravitation are virtually the same and we can attempt at last to insulate ourselves from the force of gravitation."

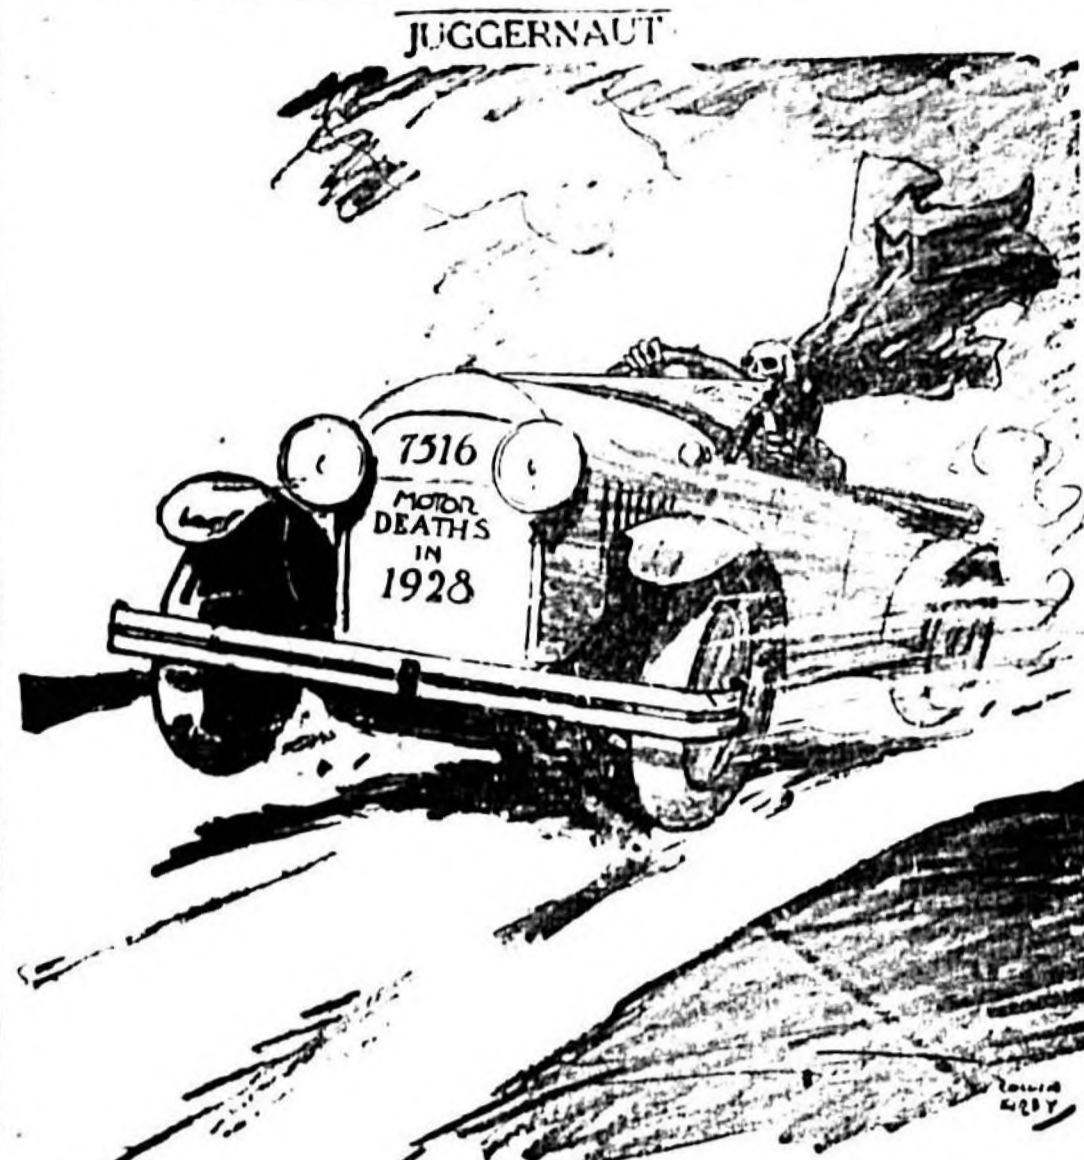

What split the solid South? Not rum or religion, Stewart Cramer of North Carolina has told Mr. Hoover, but the development of Southern interest in big business and high tariffs. This may be what Mr. Cramer (who is a Republican) would like to think or would like to have Mr. Hoover think, but it is many fathoms from the real fact. There is an increasing section of Southern opinion in favor of tariffs and big business but it could not have come within carrying distance of a single Southern state last fall if the anti-Smith sentiment, based on totally different considerations, had not been widespread in Southern psychology.

If wishes were horses Mr. Cramer might ride better on his analysis. The New York World punctures it thus: "Did Bishop Cannon's opposition in Asheville, which started the anti-Smith movement, clamor for big-business rule? No; it sought a candidate who was dry and a Protestant. Was it in the industrial cities of the South that the opposition to the Democratic candidate was strongest? No; it was in the parson-driven rural communities. Did Louisiana, with the largest city in the solid South and with a sugar industry dependent on a high tariff, go Republican? No; it remained safely Democratic. Did Alabama, with its iron, steel and coal industries, repudiate Democracy? It did not. Did South Carolina, the third largest cotton manufacturing state in the union, cast its vote for a Republican tariff? No; it went Democratic by a twenty-to-one vote."

War is war, no doubt, but when Chicago gets excited over milk instead of beer, that sounds like news.—Greensboro (N. C.) News.

For political reasons, Mr. Allen, like other office holders of state commissions, was powerless to remedy this condition. He was placed in office as one cog in a political machine and he had to perform his duties as a part of that machine.

During his primary campaign Senator Park Trammell made some rather startling statements having to do with the overmanned departments at Tallahassee and the motor vehicle bureau came in for its share of criticism. That Governor Carlton has found a considerable number of unnecessary employees in that bureau is not surprising. It is what was expected and in Mr. Allen's statement that "I feel that I have done the best I could under the circumstances" he has said nothing and gained the sympathy of those who have some idea of the helpless condition in which he found himself.

GRAVE CHARGES

PLANT CITY COURIER

Charges that the state agricultural department is run as a political machine were hurled into the legislature by Senator Pat Whitaker of Tampa Thursday. The Senator declared the inspection bureau in the agricultural department to be a political machine with Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture, the guiding genius. The charges were made Thursday morning at Winter Haven and continued in the afternoon by the commissioner himself. The fact that such charges have been made has precipitated a question in the minds of the people of the state, who under present citrus marketing conditions, are in none too joyful a mood regarding the disastrous results of early shipments of green fruit this season. Is there any foundation for the charges, citrus growers are entitled to a thorough investigation of them. Should the charges prove to have a foundation in facts, something drastic should be done. If they are found to be baseless, Nathan Mayo will be due an apology from the Hillsborough county Senator.

What Florida needs and needs very much, is an orderly marketing of her fruit, a marketing of good fruit that will not leave an early season bad taste in the mouth of purchasers thereof to ruin the later season market. If politics have entered into the marketing of the fruit in the past, it is now time to make preparations to eliminate this in the future. Commissioner Mayo is charged with playing politics in the fruit business. Until these charges are proven to be true, the commissions of agriculture should be accorded the privilege of being regarded as innocent. In view of the known fact that Senator Whitaker finds Nathan Mayo personally disagreeable to himself, the charges he has made will be accepted by the people of the state with a grain of salt. If they are proven true, it will be high time to take some action to divorce politics from the department of agriculture and the marketing of citrus. And growers of the state may be depended upon to line up solidly behind such action.
