Harmony Prevails At Celery Control Committee Meeting

The sentiment in favor of F. O. B. sales as against delivered sales was surprising," he said. "Most of the large shippers and growers represented were in favor of F. O. B., among them J. C. Hutchinson, W. M. Scott and Perry Whitehurst. No one appeared to speak in favor of the delivered sales method."

Under terms of the proposed resolution covering prorated procedure, a prorated period is defined as one continuing for one week beginning on a Monday at 6:00 o'clock in the morning and continuing until the next Monday morning at the same hour.

Shippers intending to ship any quantity of celery during such prorated period must file a form, "Application for Allotment and Estimated Yields," with the Control Committee office at Sanford or Sarasota.

A crate of celery is considered shipped when bill-of-lading is issued by the railroad, or when truck starts rolling.

The Control Committee shall meet on a Wednesday prior to a contemplated prorated period, and if such a period is deemed necessary, all growers and shippers are to be notified before 9:00 o'clock Thursday that the prorated period is under contemplation.

All shippers or growers then must make application for an allotment before 9:00 o'clock Friday morning before the contemplated prorated period.

The field committees must meet at offices in Sanford and Sarasota at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning for a study of the original allotment applications. Each block of celery described shall be verified and checked as to accuracy by members of the field committees.

As a final step toward prorated periods, the resolution recommends that the Control Committee meet at 2:00 o'clock on the Saturday before the contemplated prorated period to reconsider the advisability of instituting such a period.

If it is deemed advisable, the committee shall determine the percentage of the available celery each shipper shall then be advised of the allotment percentage allowed him and the actual number of crates which he may ship under his allotment.

No celery shall be shipped during a prorated period unless an allotment is issued covering its shipment, and no allotment will be issued unless an application is made to the Control Committee as described above.

Growers or shippers have the privilege of appearing before the Control Committee at its Saturday meeting to protest against the revision of his own estimate of celery available for shipment or to make any other complaint. They also may exchange or transfer their allotments in whole or in part by applying for permission to do so.

Mr. Dawson stressed the point that "There wasn't a dissenting voice at the meeting, and only minor changes were considered. I was amazed at the fine spirit of co-operation which was manifestly 100 percent behind the fested during the entire meeting. The Control Committee is an agreement and in accord on its terms. The Committee really means business and I'm sure the industry will benefit as a result."

Exports of iron and steel scrap from the United States during the first nine months of 1934 were eight times as great in volume as the 1932 exports.

Japs Formally Scrap 5-5-3 Naval Treaty

Eastern Nation Again Calis For Equality; Would Wipe Out All Offensive Weapons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Japan scrapped the Washington naval treaty today calling once more for a new pact which would give her equality and wipe out all "offensive weapons of war."

The historic moment came when Ambassador Hiroshi Sato handed Secretary of State Hull a formal notice that after Dec. 31, 1936 Japan will not be bound by the treaty which gives her the "three" in the five-five-three ratio.

The Oriental diplomat, present 18 years ago when the treaty, limiting fighting navies was born, thus sounded its death knell. He expressed the hope that a new treaty could be agreed upon within two years.

Japan, he said, is willing to discard half her navy if "A common maximum limit" for the United States, Great Britain and the Far Eastern empire is established. He said he is "Not at all anxious" about the possibility of a naval race.

A two-year period of international uncertainty and diplomatic effort to reconstruct the shattered framework of naval limitation is (Continued on Page Two)

Three Systems

In the world at the present time there are three outstanding types of government now on trial. There is the Nazi dictatorship of the German type. There is the communistic dictatorship of the Russian type. And there is the Democratic form of government such as found in the United States, Great Britain, and France.

All three of these systems of government are at present undergoing terrific strain and there is a grave possibility that any one of them may explode at any moment. Many people living under each form think that perhaps another form is best. Dissatisfied with what they have they want to try something else, even though the people under the other form are equally dissatisfied.

During the past few weeks we have read about hundreds of Russians who have been summarily executed by the Stalin government in Moscow. One high up in the communist government had been assassinated and though the murderer himself still lives, other Russians have been seized by scores and upon one pretext or another brought before the firing squads.

Could it be that Stalin's good friend Korov, recognizing growing dissatisfaction among the people with the Stalin government, had been plotting a revolution, and Stalin, learning of it, himself had Korov executed, and then seeking to shift the blame to someone else, executed hundreds of others, followers of Korov, but accused by Stalin of murdering him?

From Germany come reports of another "blood purge." Hundreds are being lined up and executed like traitors in a war. Thousands are seized and thrown into jails from which they may never emerge. The charge is immorality. But who knows? They may be political opponents of Dictator Hitler, fearful lest they may snatch the reins of government from him?

Such a thing is inconceivable in this country. Opinions differ widely on what ought to be done and everyone says what he thinks about it, and out of all these ideas one plan is evolved which is enacted into law. It is incredible that anyone voicing an opinion different from that of the Administration should be executed or thrown into jail.

The time will come when some politically ambitious individual will seek to wrest the reins of government from President Roosevelt. Some Huey Long, Bill Borah, or Ogden Mills will announce his candidacy for the presidency and run for election. If anyone did that in Russia, or Germany, he would be promptly put to death.

There are many redeeming features to the Democratic form of government, certainly for those who are politically ambitious.

Lynchings, 1934

In spite of several unusually revolting lynchings during the year now coming to a close, the record for 1934 is distinctly better than for the preceding year, and on the whole shows a lessening tendency on the part of mobs to resort to lynch law.

According to figures compiled by the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute, 15 persons have been lynched during the current year, or 18 less than in 1933. However, there were only 8 lynchings in 1932, and only 13 in 1931. Eight of the persons lynched this year were already in the hands of the law; of these, three were taken from jails, and five from officers out-side of jails.

Revealing an increasing tendency on the part of officials to resist lynching parties, there were 51 instances during the year in which officers prevented lynchings. Seven of these were in Northern and Western states and 44 were in Southern states. In 46 of these cases the prisoners were removed or the guards increased. In five cases, armed force was used to repel the mobs. As a result of these 51 cases in which lynchings were prevented, the lives of 14 white men, 57 negro men, and three negro women were saved.

Of the 15 persons who were lynched, all were negroes. The offenses charged were: attempted rape, 4; rape, 2; murder, 2; wounding man in altercation, 1; associating with white woman, 1; striking man, 1; writing insulting letter, 1; talking disrespectfully, 1; insulting woman, 1; implicating others in a charge of stealing turpentine, 1.

The states in which these lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama, 1; Florida, 2; Georgia, 1; Kentucky, 1; Louisiana, 2; Mississippi, 6; Tennessee, 1; and Texas, 1.

THE SANFORD FORUM

Sanford, Fla., Dec. 26, 1934

Editor, Sanford Herald:— I have just received the enclosed notice as to the action taken by Judge Millard Smith complying with the request of the Grand Jury of Seminole County in reference to the Pardon Board and the Governor releasing so many criminals from Sanford sent up from the various counties of the state for various crimes.

As the whole country seems to be trying to find a way to curb crime I feel that the citizens of our county should know how some of our high officials who are at all times calling on the public to help stamp out crime are constantly releasing an ever increasing stream of criminals back on us. It seems to me that they hold one of the greatest levers within their own power to stop it. If they would spend more time reviewing the cases up before them, and less yelling to the public to help we would be a lot better off.

No matter how hard our law forces work to round up the criminals nor what the courts do with them we are being let off by the Governor who can turn them loose again whether guilty or not. The last Grand Jury had several cases come before them of persons at some time freed by the Pardon Board. The case that caused the report to go to the Governor was for the Robinson negro rapist. We understood this negro killed another negro in Seminole County and escaped, later killing a negro in Palatka and giving a life term. After several years he was paroled last Easter by the Pardon Board. What they based their actions on no one possibly but them will ever know. Some time in June I think he waylaid a negro woman working for one of our Sanford citizens, raped her, cut her throat, and very cold bloodedly sat and waited for her to die, raped her again then in a very unconcerned way went to a lake and washed his clothes. As the evidence brought out it very plainly proved that he was absolutely heartless and cared nothing at all for another's life. He would kill anyone at any time for the slightest cause and without a moment's hesitation. Had it been your wife or daughter, no one would have shot him. This negro possibly was a good prisoner but as I see that is no reason for him to be freed. Aren't prisoners supposed to be good ones? If they are not aren't there ways to murder them? He possibly was a good negro before he killed his first one. If there was no proof beyond a reasonable doubt that he had been unfairly convicted he should never be let out. He should be kept in jail until he did it on his own accord. Up until that time he was entitled to be given the benefit of the doubt as to whether he was a good negro or not. After that, after the fact, he should be put to death. That he would kill without cause, and him being given a life sentence proved that he lost his chance of getting the benefit of the doubt. Still with all that our great and mighty Pardon Board paroled him and gave him a release. The Governor signed his release.

The last session of the Pardon Board was termed by several of our leading newspapers as a "Hard Boiled" one. Thank God they weren't "Soft Boiled." Had they been I guess they would be tearing down the house and converting Sanford into a park by this time. The papers stated that there were nearly twelve hundred cases come before them and they only pardoned, paroled or in other ways released ninety-two. That is about one out of every 12. Still most of these cases were for major crimes. And most of them had been sent up in the last year or two. Still all were convicted in 1934. Of course, there is nothing strange about that as they meet every year and a prisoner can't last long under those conditions.

I understand the average life sentence in the State of Florida is seven and one-half years. That is to kill in cold blood in Florida. That certainly is something we all should be proud of. It would seem that our Governor would include that in the advantages when he is off in some other state speaking of the good things of his state. And he and his Pardon Board are directly to blame for it.

Some few years ago we had a very vivid picture of the workings of our so-called justice. A few men stole thousands. How many thousands no one knows. The grand jury brought in a flock of indictments. Then the tax started and our "justice" started to eat the taxpayers in the state and were paid by the defense. And no doubt paid for with money stolen from the public. After some delay the defense got most of the indictments in one way or another thrown out. After a lot more delay the few counts that the defense were kind enough to allow the State of Florida to try were filed and the defense was brought to trial. The judge passed a very light sentence. It went to the Supreme Court. In reviewing the cases not to try to determine whether it was just or not but to see if there weren't some little holes they could find cause them to get aside the findings of the lower court and in that way show the lower court that they knew a lot more about holes than the lower court did. And when they found holes, and when they got through trimming, that sentence no one would know it. The poor defendant went to Sanford, quite a few years. When our latest case went bankrupt. The rest of us are a lot poorer and wiser. And as a bail for our loss we know it got us in taxes to fight the case at least a dollar a minute for the time the poor defendant was in jail. Our latest case doubt had the defendants not been home most all the time waiting for some other ruling of some court or other the Pardon Board would have found their case and pardoned them.

So use for the people of the State of Florida to try to help stop crime as long as we have as many fool laws as we now have and a Governor and Pardon Board that turns loose as fast as we can pay them up. The great cry seems to be for more laws. Let us have more laws. That is a wonderful spirit as long as you are dealing with humans but it just doesn't work with the average person convicted for major crimes. So let's try giving the law-abiding citizens some real laws. Let us have more laws that make the makers start to making laws that will hold a person found guilty of a crime on the bare fact that they did commit it, whether they were tried by some higher power, well learned court that makes no mistakes or all the trials in but was just as honest in trying to do justice to all concerned and when they are convicted and sent to the penitentiary the Governor and Pardon Board off. Let us have more laws for the law. And less crime and less for the courts to do.

W. C. HARTLINE.

1934 In Hollywood Was Year Of Big 'Clean-Up' Of Films

(Continued From Page One) Had taken cognizance of its harmful portents. Joseph L. Brown, Hollywood's assistant chief, already had taken steps towards a more rigid enforcement of the code. But it was not until the producers made Hitler a virtual moral dictator that is, head of a board of censors, that the desired self-censorship went into appreciable effect.

The teeth in the new self-censorship set-up were provided by an agreement that the decisions of Brown's board could be overruled only by the presidents of the producing companies in New York. Hitherto, the Hays' office decisions could be appealed to a committee of Hollywood producers, with log-rolling as an obvious weakness in the system.

The immediate results of the screen reform were the abandonment of a few projected screen stories, the refashioning of several completed films, notably Max West's "Belle of the Nineties" which failed to suffer thereby at the box-office, and a naturally more discriminating selection of future screen stories.

Thus far the campaign for higher standards seemingly has pleased the church crusaders, but a recent meeting of Catholic leaders in Washington warned that the Legion of Decency would be perpetuated, with the boycott threat hanging over the industry's head in the event of code violations.

The historical and romantic costume drama, already beginning to be favored because of the success of such films as "Little Women," received a definite impetus towards prominence on production schedules because of the morals campaign. Musicals, innocuous in theme, but entertaining, their producers hoped, continued to enjoy their vogue. App classics of literature, notably the works of Charles Dickens and Alexandre Dumas, cropped up on the schedules.

Six themes, however, did not go overboard entirely. Directorial inequality was challenged to make their presentation conform to the standards of "good taste," and the crusade took up arms against outcroppings of vulgarity rather than against dramas involving the facts of life.

Winsome Stars Favored The clean-up campaign enhanced the value to their studios of such stars as Will Rogers and Janet Kaynor, and widened the field for a galaxy of child performers headed by Shirley Temple and including "Baby Jane" Quigley, David Holt, Cornelia Collins and Virginia Weidler.

Winsome heroines like Jean Parker and Anne Shirley (Anne of Green Gables) received boosts toward stardom. Jean Harlow, once a "sizzling siren," seemed to be set for capitalizing a comedy flair, while Max West was proceeding undaunted with plans for a new film bearing the title, "Now I'm a Lady!"

Certainly Hollywood does not rate censorship a dead issue as the New Year begins.

Labor Differs With CofC On NRA Revision

(Southwest From Page One) shattered bits of business and at the same time deny to labor the right to organize its own ranks and express itself through majority vote.

The chamber announced its program after a referendum of its members on how they felt the vital spots in the industrial recovery program should be changed. It suggested that tips rules be made by industry and that the government be given the right to approve or disapprove, but not modify, these rules.

The federation was not alone, in its objections to the program. At least one sizable section of industry was understood to question whether an NRA built on the chamber's suggestions would work.

Attorney General Wilentz said he had received word of this offer a month ago and that it is still under advisement. He indicated, however, the offer would be rejected.

Curtis, his counsel, W. C. ### JAPS FORMALLY SCRAP 5-5-3 NAVAL TREATY

Warships—actual and blueprint—were scrapped under provisions of the treaty in 1922 and Japan's declaration today will scrap the pact that scrapped the warships.

The United States, as executor of the treaty, soon must carry out its treaty-ordained duty of informing Great Britain, France, and Italy of Japan's action. This notification will certify that Japan's action was taken as of Dec. 31 and—specified in the agreement—end the naval limitation treaty on Dec. 31, 1934.

Death Removed Many Stars From Silver Screen In 1934

Marie Dressler, Lew Cody, Russ Colombo Among Those Who Are Being Mourned

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23.—To the red and green wreaths that heralded the yuletide season along Hollywood Boulevard there should have been added a sadder touch of black.

The symbolical color of mourning would have been appropriate homage to Marie Dressler, Lew Cody and the other favorites who died during the year.

Death removed more than its usual quota from the motion picture world in 1934. Its toll was exacted through accident, natural causes and suicide. In the colony where frayed nerves provoke frequent outbursts there was, albeit, not a single murder. Violence was held to an occasional one-punch fight, each scrupulously recorded as "The Battle of the Century."

Greatest blow to the industry and its millions of fans was the death of Marie Dressler. The beloved comedienne who topped them all as a box office attraction succumbed to cancer but only after a courageous fight which astounded her physicians for weeks. With her demise, Will Rogers became the industry's best drawing card.

A voice that had thrilled millions of radio listeners was silenced by the bullet, that ended the life of Russ Colombo. The crooning troubadour, who was just getting a start in the movies, had called at a friend's home. They were inspecting some old firearms when his friend tripped the trigger of a supposedly empty gun. As this is written, Colombo's aged mother believes him living. In frail health she was told he went to England for picture work.

Cody died in his sleep. A fatal heart attack seized him a few hours after he returned from a gay party. Cody was one of the last members of that fast-disappearing group which found life less conventional in Hollywood's "Colonial" days.

Another bon vivant of the same stamp was Leo Tollegen. Once the toast of feminine hearts, Tollegen was broken in health and spirit when he killed himself. Dramatic to the end, he plunged a scalpel in his breast seven times inflicting a mortal wound.

No young actress in Hollywood had a brighter future than Dorothy Dell, a New Orleans girl who stepped to fame by winning a "Miss Universe" beauty contest a few days ago. She was headed toward stardom in motion pictures when she was crushed to death under an automobile.

The theater has few "triple-threat" men. It lost one when Willard Mack, actor-playwright-director died of heart attack. Better known on Broadway than to movie audiences, Mack never-the-less was one of Hollywood's most gifted contributors in all three lines of endeavor.

His health goaded George Hill, veteran director, to suicide. He was the former husband of Frances Marion, well known scenario writer. At the time of his death he was reputedly engaged to Lila Lee. Miss Lee early this month was married to John R. Pine, young New York polo player.

While a party was in progress at his home, Jerry Jarnagin, song writer, stepped into another room and shot himself to death. His actress wife, Irene Franklin, suspected foul play, but police and a coroner's jury ruled it was suicide.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carter of Dawson, Ga. are spending the holidays with Mr. Carter's parents. The H. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist Church entertained the Sunday School with an oyster roast in the church park Wednesday night.

A. L. Merritt of Sanford, Maine, is spending the holidays with his daughter, Mrs. B. J. Overstreet. Roy and Mrs. Claud Bridges and daughters were calling in Oviedo Wednesday evening.

Mrs. J. N. Thompson left Wednesday evening for a few days' visit with relatives and friends in Cocon.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Weaver have returned from Miami where they spent the Christmas holidays with relatives and friends.

Prof. and Mrs. H. F. Cooper and children are visiting friends in Lakeland this week.

Prof. and Mrs. H. J. Laney of Apopka were holiday visitors in Oviedo.

McLucas Satisfied Over Prospects Of Good Court Season

Coach Leonard McLucas is satisfied over the progress being made by members of his 1935 Seminole High School basketball squad.

He said so today in reviewing prospects for a better than usual season which opens in Jacksonville on Jan. 11 when his players meet the Landon Lions.

Practice sessions are being held twice daily during the holidays, he said, and as a result players are being subjected to training that many other coaches are not asking of their players at this time.

Coach McLucas indicated that he has one of his best squads in year. Candidates for the position of forward include Earle Wright, John Morgan, and Jack Robinson, Lester Phillips, Roy Wright, John Jordan, and Jack Purdon. Oliver Miller, O. P. Herndon, Jr., and Ralph Stewart are seeking the varsity center post, while Jack Hughes, Ralph Prason, Lester Harnage, Speck Cochran, Jack Pearson and Bob Cornell are guard candidates.

The team's first game comes on Jan. 17 when the Ocala Wildcats come to Sanford. The recently organized Dad's Club will attend this game and hold a meeting at its conclusion.

Season's tickets now are being sold by members of the school and team. They are being offered at an unusually low rate, only $1.25 for 11 games at home. Single game admissions are 25 cents for adults and children.

Validity Of Change In Child Labor Law Questioned By Bar

Bar Association Group Wants Act Giving States More Duties

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Validity of adoption of the proposed child labor amendment after its rejection originally by 36 states was questioned last night in a special report of the American Bar Association.

The report urged adoption of a uniform child labor act, in which enforcement and Administration would be vested in the states. The amendment, submitted to the states June 2, 1924, was attacked by the bar committee as granting to Congress "new, unlimited power" which would impair the sovereignty of the states. "Considerable attention has been directed to the amendment recently because of the notification in its behalf of Secretary of Labor Perkins and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace," the report said. "The committee categorically denies the validity of the interpretation placed on the amendment by cabinet officers in their statements as to the limited powers it gives Congress."

"The agitation for its ratification has been written up as the fact that 26 states rejected the amendment in the first seven years after its proposal. In view of them figures and in view of the fact that more than 10 years have passed since the amendment was submitted, the committee questions whether the amendment can be lawfully adopted."

At the Woman's Club Thursday afternoon from four to six o'clock the Advanced Home Economics Class of the Oviedo High School was at home to its many friends. Miss Nettie Mac Fowler is instructor of this department and with her help had arranged many delightful surprises for their guests.

Mrs. W. P. Caster delightfully entertained her Sunday School class with a Christmas party at her home on Lake Charm Friday evening. Many games and a Christmas tree were enjoyed throughout the evening, those present being the Messrs. Martha Talbot, Martha West, Anna Cedar, Marian Boulton, Dorothy Wheaton, Virginia Holston, Louise Wheeler, Charlotte Lawton, Clara Lee Wheeler, Sara Gony, Joyce Wainwright and Messrs. Roy Clout, John Henry Talbot, Edward Jordan, James Lee, James Lee, Laddie Manning, Frank Wheeler, John Lundy and Spence Wainwright.

Trans-Pacific Fliers Have Seen Careers Oddly Turned

FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—(AP)—Where did fortune carry the men who dared their lives for the glory of a trans-Pacific flight? Their death, greater fame, comparative obscurity and prosaic lives every day life dot the records of those whose names were enshrined in aviation and popular history through conquering the Pacific air lanes.

The pioneer blazer of the Call-Turner-Brewer aerial trail met tragic death later. He was Commander John Rodgers, U. S. N., who with his crew, took off in a seaplane from nearby San Pablo Bay and sailed over the trackless ocean in 1931.

Next, E. A. Gann, lack of fuel forced the ship to the ocean. Nine days later a patrolling submarine found the drifting plane.

A year later, the death he had cheated overtook Rodgers. He received fatal injuries in an airplane crash near Philadelphia. Lieutenant Byron Jones Connell, the flight's assistant pilot, now is stationed at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, where he is general inspector of naval aircraft.

Walter G. Brant, who made the first civilian flight to Hawaii to crash unharmed on Molokai Island with an empty gasoline tank, takes to the air now when business duties require. The trans-Pacific flier of 1931 holds an executive position with an oil firm here.

Death presumably also claimed Flight Lieutenant Charles T. P. Ullin, the Australian, who last Dec. 3, flew from Oakland toward Honolulu with two countrymen on a projected hop to Australia.

Somewhere near Hawaii, the land plane dropped to the surging sea when fuel gave out. Army, Navy and civilian forces sped to the rescue, but the lost plane's position was not known. Rough weather since has churned the surrounding waters.

Ullin was a member of the Southern Cross crew in its historic flight from Oakland to Australia in 1931, in which Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith rocketed to fame.

Sir Charles flew on to great aviation glory by backtracking the San Francisco, Calif., Chamber of Commerce, at a banquet session early next month, it was indicated today. The affair, probably will be held at the Hotel Hamilton, and may be followed by dancing, according to Harry M. Papworth, trade union president.

Miss Mary Keenan, formerly of Deland, but now the assistant director of agricultural extension work in Paris, Dec. 29, spoke at the banquet. She said she had flown to San Francisco via the route to Oakland and other points south of here. These flights, she said, will return home in the same manner.

Major W. A. Leffler, who earlier expressed the hope that flying over the Pacific would be a profitable business, said today that the flying school he is organizing in the city will not be back because of the present conditions of the world with their brown and orange flags and branches. Major Leffler said flying school, to keep the city clean of the efforts of members of the San Francisco, Calif., Chamber of Commerce, at a banquet session early next month, it was indicated today. The affair, probably will be held at the Hotel Hamilton, and may be followed by dancing, according to Harry M. Papworth, trade union president.

Wiley Post, who circled the globe by plane to span both the Atlantic Ocean and Bering Sea, has been busy lately punching holes in the stratosphere. His round-the-world plane, Winnie Mae, still is the vehicle of his air adventures.

Clyde Pangborn flew from Tokyo to Wenatchee, Wash., in 1931. He competed with Captain Hascoc Turner in the London-to-Melbourne dash.

Others roared westward by plane through the Golden Gate, but the city which watched and loved while they disappeared over the horizon has lost track of them.

They include Ernest L. Smith, who flew with Brant; William V. Davis, Dale flight companion of Gobel, and Paul Schuler, who went with Jensen.

Roosevelt Repeats His Stand Against Vet Bonus Payment

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in a letter on the bonus issue, said today that "those who advocate the payment of those certificates at this time for the purpose of stimulating business, certainly cannot have given the interest of the veterans much thought."
The President's letter was dated Dec. 27 and was addressed to Commander General E. Farmer of the American Legion post at Henderson, Texas. It replied to a letter from Farmer asking for information on the cash bonus issue.
"I appreciate your letter of recent date," Mr. Roosevelt said, "and it is particularly interesting in that it confirms an impression that I have had for some time; that that the bonus payments are not well understood even among the veterans themselves."
The President enclosed in his letter a copy of a circular which had been sent to his post at Berlin.
