Cabinet Approves Merit System Payroll Increase

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The state Cabinet has approved a Merit System payroll increase for several state agencies of more than $200,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1948. Merit System Council Chairman J. S. Gracy said the upgrading of salaries for many workers under the Merit System was based on a recent six months' survey of state jobs. The Council compared state pay with pay in private industry and other governmental agencies both in and outside the state.

He said many of the upgraded salaries were caused by a change in the job content, an inability to get personnel at the present salary or to eliminate gross inequities in salaries. As adopted, it will add $200,734 for the upcoming fiscal year and $257,843 for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1949. Gracy said only $31,727 of the full amount would come from general fund money and the rest would come from federal, county or road board sources.

Hypnotism Used In Open Heart Operation

By Patricia McCormack
United Press International
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—For the first time, hypnotism has been used in the most awesome of medical feats—the "open heart" operation.
The medical milestone was marked at the annual meeting of the American Medical Assn. by a doctor who said he has successfully used hypnosis during heart operations on two teenagers.
"One patient, a 14-year-old girl, was deaf and the doctor said he had to deliver hypnotic instructions to her through a hearing aid."
Dr. Milton J. Marmor, from the University of California at Los Angeles, said the technique "opens a new frontier in heart surgery."
The girl "awoke" on command while her heart was temporarily bypassed and the heart-lung machine held her life in its pulsing spiral of plastic tubing and throbbing motors.
Eliminates Unconsciousness
Hypnosis was used in these cases, the doctor said, "to avoid the depressant effects of anesthetic drugs and to attempt to eliminate unconsciousness while the patient was on the heart-lung machine."
The blood is shunted around the heart and lungs through a mechanical oxygenator during open heart surgery. This allows clearer vision of the heart and a dry field in which to work.
Because the normal blood circulation is stopped, there is the possibility of brain damage.

GRASSHOPPERS ON THE MARCH—The best crops in years are periled by ravenous grasshopper hordes in the six states...

Science Today

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Take ground squirrels hibernating in Iowa and line them up with two men in Egypt with balloons filled with icy water in their stomachs. That will help you get the idea of the newest improvements on the scientific theory that we (and all other mammals) have "biological clocks" ticking away inside us.
A clock is rhythmic, and so are mammals. Our hearts "beat," our brains give off "waves," electrical current pulses through our skin. Something must keep all our rhythms even and on beat, and that something must be built-in "biological clocks." That's the theory.
The hibernating ground squirrels improved it. Dr. G. Edgar Folk, Jr., and his associates at Iowa State University, proved that they hibernate rhythmically and the rhythms are quite independent of temperature. Everyone has supposed that cold weather keeps ground squirrels hibernating. Actually their "biological clocks" do it.
You line that up with the two men in Egypt. Both had brain tumors which doomed them to death and which were not subject to surgery by ordinary procedures. Their body temperatures

Florida's "Sleeping Beauty" is coming to life in a big way. Like the fabled princess, Punta Gorda, located on beautiful Charlotte Harbor, remained a sleepy fishing village for years.
Although few communities in the country are as ideally situated or possess more natural beauty, this area was overlooked for a long time.
Now the picture has changed. Punta Gorda is on the march, with promise of becoming a sizeable town of modern homes. Several new large developments as well as numerous smaller ones are being carried out by responsible organizations and new settlers are swarming in to become part of this thriving community.
The newest of these is Punta Gorda Isles, the first section of this $7 million development was opened last week. The 320 acres that make up Punta Gorda Isles will be developed as a complete waterfront community. The intricately planned subdivision was designed by John O. Brenda, noted engineer and designer of many outstanding Florida waterfront developments for Kimberly Developers, the same firm that developed Kimberly Isles in Miami and Gables-by-the-Sea in Coral Gables.
In selecting Punta Gorda for their most ambitious effort, Mr. Wilber H. Cole, president of the organization, said, "We are anxious to expand our holdings to include a development on Florida's West Coast as it is common knowledge that this area is undergoing tremendous growth and expansion."
Every lot in the development will be on the water, either Charlotte Harbor itself or connecting canals which are now under construction. There will be 25 miles of waterways through the property and an equal mileage of asphalt paved roads, with a 70-foot four-lane boulevard, divided in the middle by a palm lined island which through the property.
Lots offered will appeal to those in the upper and middle class brackets, particularly those who are retired with comfortable incomes. Here at modest cost the settler can find his dream home in an area that offers almost limitless advantages. Far enough South to escape the cold, on waters sheltered from the ravages of tropical storms, where hunting and fishing is unexcelled.
Punta Gorda itself is growing by leaps and bounds. New business is moving in and new homes are being built. A recent survey conducted by the Punta Gorda Herald shows that the population of this enterprising area has more than doubled since 1950 and it is growing more rapidly today than at any time in its history.
Indications are the lower West Coast of Florida from Tampa south to Naples will develop even more rapidly than did the lower East Coast from Palm Beach to Miami. This area appeals to thousands of home seekers who seek rest, quiet and comfort, friendly neighbors and a kindly climate rather than night life, racing and gambling. The West Coast of Florida offers such a haven and more and more people with modest incomes are looking to this area as a future home.
Metropolitan city life will be near enough to enjoy when they are in the mood either in Tampa or Miami. Good roads will link these cities and their attractions, making them available in a matter of hours, with home in easy reach when one tires of glitter and glamour.
Keep your eye on Punta Gorda, Sarasota, Venice, Englewood, Ft. Myers and Naples. They are all marching at quick step toward their destiny.

Actor John Wayne Portrays Diplomat In New Picture

By JOHN WAYNE
Written for UPI
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Here and there I seem to have detected a startled lift of the eyebrow of persons learning that in my most recent picture, "The Barbarian and the Geisha," I portray a diplomat.
The role is that of Townsend Harris, U.S. Consul General to Japan almost exactly 100 years ago and the first Western diplomatic representative to an empire which had isolated itself from foreigners for over 200 years.
Moreover, I play this role in knee breeches—part of the time, anyway—and with the diction and manners of diplomacy.
While it is true that the movie audience is used to seeing me perform in terms of action with a six-shooter in my hand or a light machine gun tucked under my arm, my style, I hope, subject to some variation, for despite the fact that I normally perform rather physically, I consider my roles principally reactions to situations.
Acta Naturally
I know my style and try to react naturally to whatever predicament the script writer puts me into. I've made no attempt to develop any tricks.
I agreed to do this picture for 20th Century-Fox before there was a script. I know from reading about Townsend Harris' life that the story would have to be told in terms of Harris' reactions to the people and customs of the forbidden empire of Japan.
I have the feeling that this highly mannered acting which has been so popular recently is on its way out.
When it was new and had only one or two practitioners, it was something different and interesting and, most people thought, good. But now, about every other actor on TV is scratching himself as he tells the girl he loves her and there are also quite a few of them doing it in pictures.
Straight Scenes Are Hardest
The technique no longer is unusual and it tends to standardize the actor's own personalities. I think they'll be drifting back to the old thing of trying to hold an audience in straight scenes. This is the most difficult thing an actor has to do, anyway.
We have a couple of sequences in "The Barbarian and the Geisha" in which I react violently in what people have come to consider as my style. But in this picture mostly my response is passive while the action is carried by the exotic and rather violent Japanese.
This happens to be true to history. Townsend Harris did not shoot his way into Japan. He was a patient man and a stubborn one, who slowly and passively made his views prevail.

P. Newman Says Private Life Own

By PAUL NEWMAN
Written for UPI
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—I am strictly opposed to the general theory that movie stars are "public domain."
It is my personal conviction and so forth. And so acting sort of becomes secondary to them. I feel as though I have exposed enough of myself in front of the camera, if I'm successful, instead of prattling on and on about what I go to bed in and who my close friends are and what I do during dailies I'm not working.
Starts New Movie
My wife (Joanne Woodward) and I start "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" in a few days. So we're going to take a little vacation first.
We take vacations by telling people we're going on a vacation. Then we stay home and don't answer the telephone or the doorbell. The best vacations are the ones you take at home. We get privacy that way.
Now I don't mean all this to be quotational or that I am unaware that I do owe a great deal to the public, if the public accepts me. I feel that what I owe most is to turn in the best performance that I know how, and if an audience makes other demands upon me, then they don't become my concern any longer.
Little Mixed Up
I think it has gotten a little mixed up these days, so that an actor or the person who is in professional life has to cater to what other people demand of him. The American public seems to have made it a necessity for an actor to expose his personal life, especially to gossip columns.
I seldom visit a nightclub and I have yet to attend my first Hollywood premiere.
But there are some people in our profession who believe the most important thing is not to perform as creditably as they can on the screen, but to perform as creditably as they can in nightclubs and in front of columnist

Freedom To Choose A Career Is U. S. Basic Freedom Fundamental

This nation has always prided itself on its accomplishments in the field of medical care. The pride, we think, is justified. It comes as all the more a shock, therefore, to learn that the Soviet Union has more physicians per capita than the United States.

This information was given by a delegation of six American doctors recently returned from a tour of Soviet medical facilities. In 1955 there were 164 physicians per 100,000 population in Russia, it is reported, as against 150 per 100,000 in the United States. In addition, Russian medical schools are said to have been graduating 16,000 physicians yearly, more than twice the number of U. S. graduates.

Statistics of this sort are difficult to evaluate. But even if one allows for a large margin of error, deliberate or not, the figures are disturbing.

We ought not to begrudge the Russian people all the medical care they can produce. The Russian figures should upset U. S. complacency a bit, however, especially when it is noted that our medical schools are producing no more graduates per capita than they were fifty years ago.

An awareness of what another society, even a totalitarian one, can do in this area should help develop pressures that will ultimately increase the U. S. supply of physicians. For though the mere number of doctors is not in itself an accurate gauge of medical care, it is certainly one of the basic factors involved.

One thing that we should be careful of, however, is the fact that in the United States the freedom to choose a career is one of the basic fundamentals in this nation's greatness. Russian philosophy is that of forced education which, in our opinion, certainly doesn't produce the completely developed medical man whose life is dedicated to service to mankind and the following of a creed.

The report from the six American doctors who toured the Russian facilities failed to give the qualifications of the Russian physician. As a matter of fact, it could be possible that two American doctors might be equal, in terms of education, ability, advancement, serving those who need medical assistance, to four Russian doctors.

Let's not become uneasy over the situation without first having all of the details. Certainly, when our country is in need of qualified people they can be turned out in far more abundance than our across-the-seas competitor for the eyes of the world.

World's Best Boating Insurance

That ancient bit of wisdom about the relationship between bent twigs and how the tree grows still holds true. It applies to numberless behavior patterns, from table manners to the basic integrity of the individual.

Consider, for the moment, how the old saying applies to such a thing as boating safety. This is not the most important problem in the world, yet care in training children to handle boats may save their lives and the lives of others when they reach adulthood.

These observations are prompted by the fact that every summer many adults drown in boating accidents. In a very large proportion of such accidents, drownings result because the victims panicked or simply did not know what to do. Training in childhood might well have prevented their deaths.

The same elements crop up in story after story of drownings. The boat was overloaded; someone leaned over too far in the excitement of landing a fish, or stood up to play a big one; two fishermen changed places in the boat carelessly, and over it went; once overboard, someone decided to swim for shore instead of sticking with the boat. There are other causes of boating accidents, certainly, but these recur so frequently that they deserve special attention.

Here at Sanford, and in the Seminole County area, there is a tremendous increase in the use of small boats for recreation. Boats for the casual use of the owner, boats for skiing, boats for fishing, boats for traveling—there are boats for every recreational purpose one can think of.

The way we look at it that makes training for youngsters all the more urgent. It's the best kind of insurance against drownings, now and for years to come.

Editor's Hodge-Podge

Further evidence that in our system politicians don't always have to agree with the boss: Ike says of Sherman Adams, "I need him," while some fellow Republicans are busy voting Adams the man they could best get along without.

The average driver figures he's pretty good behind the wheel. Maybe he's right. After all, the average driver is still alive.

Congressional investigations are sometimes educational. Thousands hitNerto uninformed on the subject now know quite a bit about vicuna coats and their origin.

Admiral Kimmel has once again reported his version of what caused the Pearl Harbor disaster. Interest now is centered on how to avoid another one.

A Maryland congressman appealed for extra funds to do something about bad odors along the Potomac. This caused a stir until it turned out that the bad odors he had in mind were not political.

Herlong Reports

In recent weeks we have received thousands of letters in support of legislation designed to help the railroads. There is no question that they are in difficulty, and the great fear is that unless the Federal Government does step in, nationalization may result.

Many of us recall World War I when the railroads were operated by the Federal Government. The lesson we learned then is still true—the Government cannot operate the railroads as efficiently or as cheaply as private enterprise.

We in Florida are concerned with helping all types of transportation because we are dependent on all of them, whether it be by rail, water, air, or highway. It is only by transportation that we get our products to market and our tourists to Florida. Transportation must always be a top concern with us.

The Senate has just voted to appeal the 3 per cent freight tax and the 10 per cent tax on passenger fares. This was done by amending the excise tax extension bill, already passed by the House. The bill now goes to a conference committee.

At the same time, the House Ways and Means Committee, of which I am a member, may seek appeal of the two taxes in legislation designed to help small business. While railroading is big business, nevertheless the small businessman is dependent on rail and other forms of transportation. The individuals and companies engaged in operations known as "Big Business" are in a position to purchase fleets of trucks and operate them themselves, thereby avoiding the tax. This avenue of avoidance is not open to the small businessman.

Should the Senate amendment prevail in Congress, the big question is, What will President Eisenhower do about the bill? He and the Secretary of the Treasury have stated emphatically that they are opposed to any tax reduction this year.
Another question is, Should the measure reach the President in its present form and he veto it, would there be enough votes in the Congress to override his action?

Frankly, I don't see how he could veto it, because the bill provides for the extension of all other excise taxes, and unless it becomes law by June 30th, they will automatically expire and the loss of revenue to the Government will be tremendous. Time and circumstances therefore are on the side of the carriers affected by this tax.

Besides transportation, a number of other industries can make good cases out of their requests for tax reduction. The tax on tele-

Three neighboring east Asian countries, free for 10 years, are still suffering from acute growing pains.

In Indonesia, full-scale rebellions at the western and eastern ends of the long island chain are deteriorating into guerrilla warfare which threatens to last for months if not years.

In Ceylon, it is reported that up to 400 or 500 persons have been killed in riots between the island's 7 million Sinhalese and its 2 million Tamils over the adoption of an official language.

In Burma, the dominant Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League Party has split wide open in a dispute over Premier U Nu's policies.

A meeting of the party's Supreme Council has voted to throw Nu out of its membership. The situation is so serious that government officials express fear it may explode in a civil war.

The troubles in Indonesia and Ceylon stem from Indonesian and rivalries between sections of the people over the preferential treatment which, dissidents say, the governments give parts of the country.

The Indonesian and Burmese governments have been harassed by chronic or recurrent rebellions, little publicized but serious, which have persisted ever since the countries attained independence.

From the time when Indonesia won its freedom from the Netherlands on Dec. 26, 1949, the people of Sumatra and Celebes, have accused the government of showing partiality toward Java, the main island and seat of the government at Jakarta.

Sumatra, rich in oil and other products, accuses the government of siphoning off the profits from its exports and using them for the benefit of Java alone.

It is also a source of bitter complaint that the federal system adopted after independence, by which the main islands were to be given a considerable measure of self-rule, has been abolished in favor of a "unified" central government. The central government, it is complained, is actually a dictatorship.

Rioting broke out in Ceylon last month between the Tamils and the Sinhalese over the language issue. The Tamils want their language formally recognized as a par with Sinhalese, the official language. The dominant Sinhalese want the Tamil language suppressed.

The widow was married to the veteran during the Civil War service, she is entitled to $75 a month.

Baker, president of the Sanford BPW Club, joined the other delegates from the state of Florida who are headed for the Biennial Convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which is to be held in Seattle, Washington.

Before the convention which begins on July 6 and lasts until July 11, the Florida delegation will spend ten days traveling through the country.

Their first destination is Chicago, where they will stay overnight before leaving for the Grand Canyon. After the Grand Canyon the group will visit Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Portland on their way to Seattle.

MONSIEUR Mlle Advice
CHICAGO — (UP)—Mrs. Mary Dooley, 76, of Chicago, has tried a multitude of drug store remedies for mosquito bites, but she says she hasn't yet found one to top her. Her advice is to sprinkle a slice of raw potato with salt. Rub this gently on a mosquito bite, and results, Mrs. Dooley says, will be comforting.

Conning The News

By Virginia Ows

There is nothing harder than getting started at work again, after the habit has been unformed. For days I have been making excuses about why I cannot get to the typewriter. One is that it is so placed in a charming room overlooking the ocean, that the eye is often distracted by the view.

But now, as your foreign correspondent, what can I say about my beautiful Maine? The river, the ocean, the rocks are much as I left them some years ago. Trees have fallen and been removed after hurricanes. Each familiar nook and cranny is that much dearer to me for its absence in my life of late.

A fresh breeze this fair Sunday carries the scent of salt, pine and a bit of fish. The rising tide laps beneath our house, which is built over the water. The sea gulls drift gracefully in flight, disturbing the quiet with an occasional screech as a bit of edible delicacy is sighted.

Our trip from Sanford was long and educational. We gazed in wonder and appreciation at the strange countryside during the frequent side trips, caused not by curiosity — if there was a choice in roads, I seem always to take the wrong one. We were rarely on the road that led to our destination.

The roads, however, were good, although ambiguously marked at times. Amusement came, in a small South Carolina town, on the second day. We were directed to the "huge" super market around the corner. This proved to be a small "helpy-selty" store, the pride and joy of the residents.

Did notice, however, that the schools were for the most part new and very attractive. Naturally, instead in schools in our own Seminole County, these were high on my list of observations.

In Virginia, the Road Department workers wear orange jerseys to identify themselves and possibly to prevent being run over by eager travelers. The Military Highway into Norfolk seems to have shrunk in comparison with the width of other roads.

During a two day visit in Virginia Beach, I was taken on a tour of that city's new civic center, opened the day before. The building was recently featured in Life magazine. A tremendous dome of Kaiser aluminum, put together in three days, forms the roof of the huge auditorium. This can seat 5000. 1500 can be served for a banquet.

The Chamber of Commerce has its offices in another wing of the building. Commissioners' rooms and other meeting rooms have also been provided. The gala working in the Chamber of Commerce were delighted with their new facilities, they were busy stuffing envelopes with material extolling the vacation attributes of the beach.

In the four years since I left Virginia, the city has grown tremendously. The building is particularly notable. New motels with the Florida look have replaced the Old Dominion brick, which now is used primarily for imposing residences.

After much fun and frolic the children, my good helper Sarah, and I piled back into the car and drove to Chevy Chase, Md. for another short visit. Here I was hopelessly lost in the afternoon morass of Washington traffic. This at last gave my passengers an opportunity to see all the better monuments, state buildings, White House and Embassy buildings. Upon leaving the next morning, two additional hours were wasted while we wound through residential sections, attempting to find the turnpike. Rockcreek Park, we discovered, is still filled with curiosity seekers, speculating on which one of the lions grabbed a child some weeks ago, and did away with it.

Naturally, Washington being what it is, the incident has become the brunt of many unsavory "horror" jokes.

Once found, the turnpike north was a fast delight, whisking us past Baltimore, Wilmington and Philadelphia, to turn us out on our destination, a motel in Secaucus, N. J. Due to family complications (measles, apartment re-furnishing, etc.), we were forced to stay in motels for 3 days. During this time, I made frequent trips to New York City to see my father, who was at that time in the hospital.

New York has become more than ever, through alum clearance, a misty, fairy city. Great skyscrapers of glass, copper and other interesting materials have been built for offices, apartments and stores. The crowds have not changed. The taxi drivers are all friendly and the people in the subways turn into monsters during the mad dash for home in the evening.

The fashions are not extreme, except for a few models and actresses—as far as I could see, which, of necessity, was limited. Did sight actress Betty Von Furstenburg waving for a cab, gowned in a huge trapeze evening coat, which did absolutely nothing for her figure. In fact, it was impossible to see if she still had one. But her face was as lovely as ever.

As a treat for the children and Sarah, one afternoon, I put them all on a steamer going around Manhattan. The fact that it was raining did not dampen their spirits and they are firmly convinced that they have "seen" New York.

I doubt if they will ever forget the horror of the ride back to our motel in the subway. Fortunately, however, chivalry is not dead, even in New York, and once on the jammed train, we were given seats by stalwart souls who could spot a bunch of country folks in a minute.

Since I had transferred the group to a motel north of the city, we were on our way to Maine with no trouble at all, and made the trip, which once took us two days, in seven hours.

Nor'easters, fog, and rain, with temperatures in the low fifties, marred our first week. And even yesterday, the heavens opened and remained that way until early this morning. In between had weather, however, I managed to plant 85 flats of flowers, a feat I am not easily able to forget. My back is still stiff from the effort.

With much of the painting, planting and fixing out of the way, we still have projects before the arrival of guests for the fourth of July, which is an important time in this vicinity.

Last Sunday, I attended my first clam bake of the year. The lobster are still as sweet, succulent and delicious as ever. We did have Florida corn however. And my meagre Florida tan—which had little time to become admirable in Sanford, is highly praised in Boothbay Harbor.

From across the waters, I hear that VAN-9 on the Saratoga, has been part of the Queen welcoming the King and Queen of Greece. Also that Skip Horrell, Caroline Lagare, Evie Williams, Marcia Cousins and Jean Fowler were last seen in Athens. They were departing, since an American sailor inadvertently or otherwise was involved in a slight case of murder. This set off a chain of reaction of riots against the United States.

Peace—it's great, and wonderful to be home again. But how I miss Sanford, and the many interests I have there! Here my family has taken the prominent spot. With my sister and her six children added to my five, our acres reverberate with childish screams, laughter and the pounding of nails, as several of them attempt to make a raft. I fear we may be tempted to let them take it out and cross the ocean as they plan!

Local Garden Club Representatives Return From Uoff

Returning today from the University of Florida where they attended the 14th annual garden club short course were Mrs. Ray Pack of DeBary and Mrs. George McCall from Sanford.

These two women represented the Sanford Garden Club at this session which some 400 professional and amateur gardening enthusiasts attended.

Registration took place Monday and from that time until the three-day course was completed the "garden clubbers" listened to speeches and watched demonstrations which supported the over all theme of "Beauty For Better Living".

Peace—it's great, and wonderful to be home again. But how I miss Sanford, and the many interests I have there! Here my family has taken the prominent spot. THE CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have done some tribute but also courteously acknowledges the services and kindnesses of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.

Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as politely received. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.

There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.

THE "IN MEMORIAM" NOTICE
It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They find a real solace therein. Preparation of a suitable verse brings back to them tender, pleasant recollections. An Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:

"How cruelly sweet are the echoes that start
What memory plays an old tune on the heart."
Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.

If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in poetic form, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the heart-strings. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstances.

Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column line.

Washington SEE & SAW

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT? — Did he do right or did he do wrong? All Washington is still debating the Sherman Adams case. And while the words continue to fly, one man at least feels the whole mess never would have happened if folks had listened to him. Back in 1961, Congressman Charles Bennett proposed that Congress adopt a "Code of Ethics" for all in government to follow. At that time, Bennett introduced a resolution setting forth a definite standard that would guide the conduct of those in public service. For seven years he has been pushing his resolution. He said last week that he looks for its passage during this session of Congress.

Bennett's code would not be written into law. It would not be binding. But it would clarify what is and what is not ethical conduct by public servants. "Canon Number Five" of Bennett's code deals with the acceptance of gifts. It reads: "Never discriminate unfairly by the dispensing of special favors or privileges to anyone, whether for remuneration or not; and never accept, for himself or his family, favors or benefits under circumstances which might be construed by reasonable persons as influencing the performance of his governmental duties." Bennett says that the present trouble is not new, but is a natural outgrowth of a pattern that was laid during the 1952 presidential campaign. "When this problem came up during the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign," Bennett said, "I felt a very serious error was being made when they did not face the problem properly. The pattern was laid during the famous 'checkers' television broadcast. They should have said two things. First, that what Nixon had done was wrong, and second, they should have made it clear that it would not happen again."

Bennett says that some of these cases are matters of taste rather than ethics. "Ethics are involved," he said, "when some benefits is derived from the man's official position. This was true in the Sherman Adams' case. But in the case of Jim Hagerty at Ponte Vedra, I think it was just poor taste. It might be all right for a man in his position to lend his person and name to help advertise Ponte Vedra if he wants to. But it seems to me that there is an ethical blind spot there. The State Department was disciplining a minor official for accepting a gift automobile from King Saud, the President was given a jeweled sword by the same hand. What's the difference?"

Feeling is high in Washington over the gifts that President Eisenhower has accepted. Senator Frenchie (D-Wis) published a list of them in the Congressional Record. Commenting on them, Bennett said, "If you want to compare President Eisenhower with President Truman, you will find that Truman wasn't much of a gift taker. And most of his were souvenirs that probably will go into his museum. But, the gifts

President Eisenhower has accepted have been more numerous and more valuable than those received by any other President." "It seems to be inevitable that this issue will be a part of the Democratic platform in the coming elections. But to me the important thing to be learned from the current happenings is that we need an official code of ethics for those who work in the government and for persons dealing with them."

He is married to Jean Fay Bennett and has three sons, Bruce, Charles Jr., and James. In announcing for reelection, Bennett said: "I am deeply grateful to the people of this District for permitting me to serve in Congress during ten of the most crucial years of our Nation's history. This has been a most inspiring experience. If I am permitted to return to Congress, I pledge my continued efforts to make America an even better Nation in which to live and to bring up our children."

CAPT. JAMES D. RAMAGE and Mrs. Ramage were introduced to Hatwing One staff members, commanding officers and executive officers of Sanford squadrons Wednesday night at a party given by Capt. Reedy. Capt. Ramage arrived in Sanford June 21 and has been preparing to assume the duties of Commander Heavy Attack Wing One on July 8. Capt. Reedy, the present commander, has been assigned as commanding officer of the Attack Carrier, USS Lexington, which is operating in the Pacific area. Left to right—Capt. James D. that President Eisenhower has accepted have been more numerous and more valuable than those received by any other President." "Our people have an investment in me," he said, "and I hope I will have the opportunity to continue to show them that it is a sound investment—and one which produces good returns both in service and in representation." Congressman Herliog makes his home at Leesburg although his duties require him to spend much of his time in Washington. He is 49 years old, married and has four daughters, Mrs. A. G. Boys' Camp Team To Play Tomorrow

A boys baseball team, composed of youngsters 11-14 years of age, will meet a team from the San Francisco Giants Boys' Camp tomorrow afternoon at Pinecrest School's baseball diamond. Bennett Candidate For Reelection

Congressman Charles E. Bennett today announced that he has filed qualifying papers as a candidate for reelection.

Now serving his fifth term, Bennett is a member of the House Armed Services Committee, one of the major committees of the House. He has missed no record votes in the House since 1951, a record equaled by only two other House Members. Since entering the House, Bennett has sponsored or co-sponsored 31 public general bills which were enacted into law. Included in these are laws which: prevent employment by the Federal government of those who advocate the overthrow of the U. S. Government and require oaths by new Federal employees that their employment will not violate this law; establish "In God We Trust" as the national motto of the United States and require that this motto be inscribed on all new U. S. currency and coins; changed the income tax deadline from March 16 to April 15 to help Florida's tourist trade; made disabled children over 18 eligible for dependents' social security benefits; adopted Hoover Commission recommendations to improve government budgeting and accounting methods.

Bennett has received the Jacksonville Jaycee Good Government Award and the Freedoms Foundation award "for outstanding achievement in bringing about a better understanding of the American Way of life".

During World War II, Bennett served as a combat infantryman, receiving the Silver Star, Bronze Star and Combat Infantry Badge. He was this week selected for the Officer Candidate School Hall of Fame. He is married to Jean Fay Bennett and has three sons, Bruce, Charles Jr., and James. In announcing for reelection, Bennett said: "I am deeply grateful to the people of this District for permitting me to serve in Congress during ten of the most crucial years of our Nation's history. This has been a most inspiring experience. If I am permitted to return to Congress, I pledge my continued efforts to make America an even better Nation in which to live and to bring up our children."

Stratotanker Crashes On Take-Off; 15 Killed

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (UPI)—A giant jet stratotanker crashed and exploded on take-off early today, killing all 15 on board.

The other victims included seven crew members and two representatives of the National Aeronautics Assn.

The planes were dubbed Alpha, Bravo, Cocco and Delta for the mission designed to bump the United States' air might.

Alpha trailed Alpha by about two minutes, making it in five hours, 29 minutes, 34 seconds, an average speed of 636.5 mph.

It was brighter than daylight. It was the most awful thing I ever saw," said farmer Kallmiers F. Machowski, whose three-acre cornfield was set ablaze by the flaming plane.

Judge Tells Of Need For Juvenile Quarters

Seminole County Judge Wilson Alexander, who also serves as Judge of the Juvenile Court, gave members of the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce a complete picture of the youth problems in Seminole County.

most dire and desperate." Judge Alexander said "I feel that it is my duty, as County Judge, to point out and emphasize this serious need, and that it is the duty of other public officials, along with citizens such as yourselves, to work out a plan by which these facilities will be provided."

However, Judge Alexander struck hard at the need for "decent separate juvenile quarters."

The juvenile judge pointed out that during his six months as Judge of the Juvenile Court he has held 73 formal hearings on juvenile delinquents.

"There are a number of situations called to our attention which, after investigation, are in my opinion not of such a serious nature as to warrant a formal hearing," he said.

"Child population in Seminole County is estimated to be 4,800," Judge Alexander said, but he added "I believe this figure is much too low."

"We do have a juvenile delinquency problem," said the county judge, "and I wish we could reduce the number of juvenile offenders."

"Giving the Jaycees a breakdown in the number of various types of offenses committed by juveniles, Judge Alexander pointed out that during the last six months there have been 57 children detained in the county jail."

"During this same period of time," he said, "six boys have been committed to Florida Industrial School for Boys at Maitland and one boy, who had committed an offense amounting to felony, was certified to Circuit Court."

Pointing out additional needs, Judge Alexander said "I feel there is a need for some organized program whereby civic-minded citizens, such as you, will work with dependent or delinquent children, particularly those on probation, or those who have to be placed temporarily in the custody of someone other than their parents."

Concluding his talk, Judge Alexander challenged the Jaycees to a greater service to youth.

Mostly appreciate, and welcome any assistance that you gentlemen, or any other civic-minded citizen, can give me in working with our juveniles," he said.

Tom McDonald, president of the Jaycees, told Judge Alexander, "I hope we will meet the challenge."

SEMINOLE COUNTY JUDGE WILSON ALEXANDER: "Our most dire and desperate need is for decent, separate juvenile quarters in the jail."

Truck Turns Over At Sharp Curve; Driver Not Hurt

ENTERPRISE—A truck turned over this morning at a sharp curve near Enterprise on a 20-foot.

Joseph Edline Lamplin, 48-year-old truck driver, escaped uninjured when the roofing truck, on the way to the Florida Power Corp. plant, rolled over on the curve and landed on its side.

FPD Wordan, investigating the accident, charged Lamplin with failure to have his truck under control.

Damage was light when it was found that only a mirror was broken and slight dents were pushed into the truck body.

New Swimming Lesson Series Opens Monday

The swimming program of the Sanford Recreation Department moves ahead with registration for the next series of swimming lessons scheduled for Monday, June 30, said Ronald W. Perry, recreation director.

Eligibility—persons who have passed their 16th birthday... students in or above the 11th grade in school and in sound physical condition.

Preliminary requirements—Standing front dive, with reasonably good form; swim 440 yards; tread water one minute; float motionless for one minute; dive a minimum depth of six feet and swim two body lengths under water.

The Sanford AAU Swimming Team now has 25 members practicing each afternoon at 12:30. Three meets have been scheduled during July, with Orlando, Ocala, and Daytona Beach.

More girls are needed, the recreation director revealed today, and anyone not able to practice with the team during the 12:30 period but who wishes to swim with the team may contact the recreation department office to work out a practice period. All ages from eight up may join the team.

Tonight will end a successful two week adult beginners course. Twenty-two ladies took part in the instruction. A second class will be announced in the middle of July, Perry announced.

Action Needed Before Buildings Crumble

AN EDITORIAL. For 30 years Seminole County schools were allowed to run down until, by pure might and power, the Board of Education started a planning campaign and added new facilities to the local school system to take care of a "mit" of the local needs.

Even longer, Seminole County's public buildings have been deteriorating. Nothing has been added in the way of new facilities. The theme has been "just any old hole will do just so long as we can get by."

How can merchants, industry, and business people have confidence in the county if the county itself doesn't take the lead?

It stands to reason that necessary changes in the Seminole County tax structure could have been made years ago to provide a surplus large enough with which buildings could be replaced, new facilities added, and modern conveniences provided for the operation of county government in all of its branches.

You'll hear an answer—more than likely—one that will go like this: "We've gotten by, haven't we?" Most certainly, the county has gotten by. But by the skin of their teeth and only that.

What would happen if some misplaced match started an inflammation in the outmoded, antiquated, inadequate buildings in which the county government now operates? Could the lives be replaced? Could the records be replaced? Frankly, we need leaders. Leaders who can look to the future and start planning for our needs which started years ago.

The county structures are so depleted and rundown today that it is necessary to replace all of them for their life in the same condition.

Take, for instance, the Seminole County Health Unit. It is in an upstairs location. Steep steps lead to the dingy, over-crowded offices that can't take care of one-tenth of the people who make use of the services there.

Offices are located in a building where there are wood floors, no fire escape. And only one entrance.

Yet the lame, the sick, the afflicted, the aged—all who need the services of the County Health Unit must use those narrow stairs even though many of them are actually not able to climb them.

As a citizen, you would probably become enraged if you visited the County Health Unit and found 30 or 40 people crowded into a waiting room that actually can take care of a mere five or six.

You would be afraid when you find that as you go in and out of the narrow halls only one exit is available in case of a fire.

And yet there are those who say "We don't need new buildings. What we have is good enough." Seminole County should be ashamed of the fact that such offices as this one exist!

Especially should the county be ashamed when modern facilities could be provided, on county property, with half of the bill paid.

ONE MAN DIED and another was injured when this car, skidding on the wet surface of the St. Johns River Bridge, 16 miles east of Sanford on State Road 46, tore out two metal and wood sections of the bridge structure before wrapping itself around a steel girder. The man who died was a passenger and riding in the front seat. Patrolman Olin Garrett, FHP, will charge the driver with manslaughter. (Staff Photo)

Driver Of Car Faces Manslaughter Charge

A 32-year-old Titusville Negro is being charged with manslaughter following an automobile crash late yesterday afternoon which demolished the car completely and took the life of a passenger.

Albert Thomas, driver of a 1951 Ford passenger auto, apparently lost control of his car at a high rate of speed, and smashed into the St. Johns river bridge, 16 miles east of Sanford on State Road 46.

A Negro passenger in the car, tentatively identified as Clifford Roberson, about 45, died at Seminole Memorial Hospital following a desperate attempt to save his life.

Florida Highway Patrolman Olin Garrett, investigating the fatal accident, said that Strahan will be charged with manslaughter as a result of one of the worst accidents in this area in recent months.

Reconstructing the accident, Patrolman Garrett said that the car, traveling west on the way to Sanford, struck the bridge on the west end and tore out the wooden structure and then skidded, bounced and smashed into a steel girder after tearing out another section of the wooden structure on the right hand side.

The automobile, striking the girder with terrific force, wrapped around the steel beam, half of the car over the river the other half on the bridge. Hardly a part of the automobile was left unbroken by the impact and debris was scattered over the entire area of the 82 feet of the bridge.

The man, believed now to be Roberson, was pinned in the front seat of the automobile. Thomas was found laying across the back of the car but said that he had crawled from the torn mass of steel.

The accident occurred about 6:30, Patrolman Garrett said. One of the fishermen at the east end of the bridge said that the crash "sounded like an explosion."

"The bridge was as slick as glass," Patrolman Garrett said. Apparently the accident occurred immediately following a heavy downpour late yesterday.

Thomas, brought to Seminole Memorial Hospital, appeared to have a chest injury and lacerations of the right arm.

Roberson received head injuries, a chin laceration, fractured right arm, and severe lacerations of his legs. He died shortly before 10 o'clock last night following emergency treatment June 21 before being sent to an Orlando hospital for further medical aid.

Law enforcement men are continuing their attempts to positively identify the dead man. Thomas knew his passenger only as "Heavy."

Papers found in a billfold which Thomas said he picked up from the seat of the car and believed to be the property of the dead man had papers which gave five different names.

Officers investigating the accident included Patrolman Garrett, Trooper T. Mark Mack, and Deputy Sheriffs Carl Smith and W. Johns Jr.

Three wreckers were called to the scene in order to take the twisted mass of wreckage from the bridge.
