

Backs Are Good But Linemen Are Scarce At Tulane

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 3. (AP)—You can't run a powerhouse after turning over a flock of your biggest generators to Uncle Sam—so Little Monk Elkins is casting about for a method of converting Tulane's football industry to new products.

Little Monk, so-called because he is the son of the original Monk Simon, who has been Tulane's athletic trainer for some 25 years, faces his first season as a big time head coach with courage, enthusiasm and seven or eight first class football players.

"I think of that," he says with a smile, "I don't know what we have."

"We've got good power foot ball with the old guard. I guess we'll use the same line players but we'll have to take plenty of new ones. We'll be back by '43."

When the old Sumner squad of 55 or 60 lunkies, since then the prospective squad has dwindled to about 25, including just eleven letter men.

Of the first team Monk had in the Spring, six are gone. The Army Air Forces are ends Gordon English and Bill Hornick and guards Rudy Gutmann, Tackie Vic Klein, L. G. Army and guard Henry Wohlette, who is about to follow Haltback Johnny Sims in the Navy Air Corps.

The guards and tackles, where Tulane has looked for most of its power in past years, are hardest hit. As it looks now, Tulane will open the season with two sophomores guards and one sophomore tackle.

Monk will have a good brick field, with a pair of fine halves in Lou Thomas and Barber Ely, an ace pass snatcher in quarterback Walt McDonald, and a couple of knifing fullbacks in Bernie Pracko and Julian Brizine.

But who's gonna clear the way for 'em?

MARTIN IN TAX SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3. (AP)—The Federal Government yesterday named Tony Martin, former radio and movie crooner now a chief specialist in the Navy, in an income tax lien for $24,753.23 additional on his 1941 earnings.

7 Places In City Receive Honorary War Bond Flags

Speer Predicts Seminole Will Exceed September Quota

Seven offices and firms in Sanford have been officially recognized as being qualified for honorary Minute Man flags, which signify that at least 90 percent of the personnel of the organization are deducting 10 percent or more from their pay roll for the purchase of War Saving Bond and Stamps. V. A. Speer, county chairman on the sale of the securities, stated yesterday.

These places are the Sanford Department of the Bell Telephone Company, Triple Grooming Shop, Florida Photo and Light Company, Seminole County Collector's office, McCrory's Stores and Watt and Sinclair and Becker Oil Companies. Qualifications of John L. Fehan, state commander of John M. Speer and many other firms or offices eligible to obtain the flags should contact Mr. Speer. It was reported that the flag awarded the construction companies at the Air Base are flying on a flagpole over the field.

Mr. Speer predicted that Seminole County again would surpass its September quota of $58,000 worth of bonds and stamps. "The county has been in excess of its quota every month except one, and that time the postal sales were not counted in. With the theater campaign, the drive this month, I don't believe we will have much difficulty in exceeding the quota."

Salvage Drive Gets Support Of Papers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. (AP)—Representatives of the nation's newspaper publishers today accepted the assignment to conduct a salvage campaign. The representatives were spurred by the statement of W.P.B. Chairman Donald M. Nelson that "We're not doing a very good job of winning this war," which was voiced at the meeting of 200 publishers and editors. The statement was backed by a resolution of the Lakes Steel Company that only a two weeks' supply of steel in the country is in the hands of steel mills.

Tension Increases In North Ireland

BELFAST, Sept. 4. (AP)—The explosion of a time bomb outside police barracks at Sandytown, Northern Ireland, and a snare gun battle between police and irredentists at the Northern Ireland border today heightened the tension in this winter capital. No casualties were reported in the first battle. Two policemen were hurt in the explosion.

Rommel's Columns, Blasted Heavily By U. S. And British Warplanes, Retreat To West

(By Associated Press) Marshall Rommel's armored columns, blitzed by terrific Allied firepower are reported to have fallen back in a battle of Egypt today under another record-breaker in aerial warfare. British and American warplanes. The German Afrika forces retreated westward the British said.

The Egyptian situation presents a much brighter picture as British forces continued to exert strong pressure on the enemy on the El Alamein 100-mile front. Rommel received a vast amount of supplies, including enough gasoline for 10 days of hard fighting. All planes constantly are bombing gasoline dumps. British experts warned arms under optimistic over Rommel's withdrawal. British tanks, taking advantage of the German withdrawal, tightened their hold on German armored columns which now are gripped in a tightening vice moving in from three sides.

Reports from the battlefield and the German left nine destroyers and tanks. Two were unaccounted for.

Housing Set-Up Is Talked By Navy Officer, Realtors

Huge Shipbuilding Program Will Be Observed Monday

(By Associated Press) Workmen across the land for the most part will stick to their production jobs next Monday in the nation's first wartime observance of Labor Day, in a quarter-century, heretofore traditionally a holiday for millions of Americans.

There will be some parades, but most cities will supply the labor day by having only a day off and in virtually every case war production workers not already off duty will continue their labor in the mills and factories.

The idea that "free labor will win" was underscored by the navy in announcing that their annual observance of Labor Day, which would be launched in ships' kiosks would be laid in sharp contrast to the other side of the day's issue and sending the Chamber of Commerce a circular letter.

President Roosevelt will broadcast to the people sometime in the evening on government plans to check inflation and possibly will make a compilation Monday.

The project is to be made available to the Navy by the Bureau of Naval Personnel, which is assigned to the local bases, being held up until new and complete information on rental properties is obtained, Mr. Higgins said, as he urged all local residents to report immediately to rental houses or apartments.

By filling out the coupon appearing on the other side of the day's issue and sending it to the Chamber of Commerce, it is essential that the coupon be turned in now as we want to make a compilation Monday," he explained.

Complete information is desired from all persons who are engaged in producing houses, unfurnished houses, and all types of apartments. Room in private houses, stores, inns, hotels, present local officials are more than deeply concerned over the housing problem to arise when the Navy personnel comes to Sanford as many officers are expected to want homes.

Senior Boys Will Be Required To Take 2 Courses

Senior boys attending Seminole High School this year will be required to take two subjects in conformation to state regulations and working along with national defense," Principal G. E. McKay stated today.

They must take the essentials of either mathematics or trigonometry, and a physical science course which includes any of the following—physics, mechanics, motor mechanics or radio. "This is in line with the national war effort," Principal McKay said, "and is a state requirement."

Prof. McKay will be at Seminole High School every day next week, except Labor Day Monday, to have talks on the subjects with any seniors who are interested in their studies before school starts Sept. 14. Boys are to see the principal between 8:30 A.M. and noon and from 1:00 P.M. to 4:30 P.M.

Florida Beach Patrol Has Been Organized

MIAMI BEACH, Sept. 4. (AP)—A corps of modern Paul Revere mounted on old добрые лошади (good horses) will be required to take the new part in a war noted for its mechanization.

The centuries-old combination of horse-and-rider was ordered to begin a Florida beach patrol.

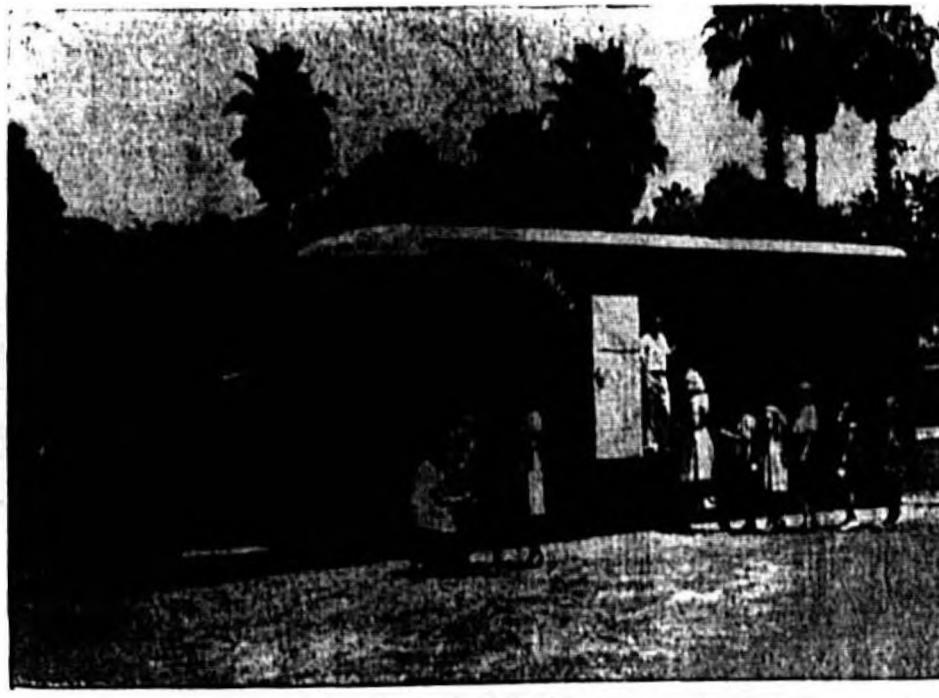

The cavalry will be led by the Post Office, Acting Postmaster Mrs. T. Holly announced.

All windows will be closed and no service will be required of city or rural carriers.

Patrons having horses in the office will find their mail boxes as usual, and special delivery and portable telephones will be available on other days. Collection will be done by mail with plastic bags. The corps will consist of more than 100 heavily-armed forces,

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE SPIRIT FINALLY TRIUMPHS OVER THE PHYSICAL AND MATERIAL. For as in Adam all die, in Christ shall all be made alive.—1 Cor. 15:22

Axe

From the Winged Word Axe is A spider which Catches us in her web
And consumes us, bit by bit, till
We are

ETHEL GODFREY LOUD.

Did you ever notice how much cotton looks like snow in newspaper pictures?

In deciding the length of the skirt for the WAVES' uniforms, an official has ruled that they shall be the length which is most becoming. In other words, it partly depends upon the curve of the calf.

We see where there will be plenty of turkeys this year. Some 115,000 in Florida, 34,000,000 in the country as a whole. That'll help make up for the meat shortage.

We see where the rest of the country is going to be made to conserve rubber through the rationing of gasoline. It is about time that all sections be treated on an equal basis, and that sacrifices be demanded evenly from all groups and sections.

The Coeds Tribune thinks the boys in uniform aren't around the new bridges long enough to run out of pet names to call them. And after this fracas is settled they can enjoy a honeymoon all over again.—Titusville Star-Advertiser. And after all, absence makes the heart grow stronger, or something like that.

Washington Merry-Go-Round gives the lowdown on the recent conference between Churchill and Stalin, and tells exactly what happened when these two heads of state met in their secret conference where they were absolutely alone except for two interpreters. Merry-Go-Round doesn't reveal where it got its information, if any.

The Times-Union quotes a ranking official to the effect that coffee rationing was the first thing that really hurt him. "I have been in the habit of drinking five and six cups a day," he is quoted as saying, "and some times I wake up in the middle of the night and drink a cup of coffee." Coffee rationing may hit him, but it won't hurt him. At the rate he has been going, it may prolong his life.

The St. Petersburg Times believes that under Governor Holland's administration, Florida has attained its highest standards of State government; that so long as he remains in office there will be no lowering of those standards, and that the people of the State should begin now trying to find a man to take his place who will devote himself to the same high ideals of government.

"Okay, James Roosevelt, we're sorry. We apologize. We were dead wrong." But James didn't come back to haunt our typewriter as much as young Doug Fairbanks.

"We still remember the story we wrote when he went to South America as a Good Will ambassador. He got the full treatment and when he went in the Navy we all but sent him our box of Mother Sill's pills.

"So what does young Fairbanks do? Nothing, but go and get himself in the Commandos and engage in the raid on Dieppe. That was a dark and bloody business. That called for intestinal fortitude with a capital G. That raid on Dieppe was no place for a man whose heart was still with his movie fans. That was no place for a man who still cared if his moustache was properly waxed, or if he made a dramatic approach to the Nazi-manned cliffs. That raid was for men, tough men, who knew the hazards they faced—and liked it."

Government Personnel

We hope that the dismissal of thirty-six federal employees for subversive activities may prove to be the beginning of a broad house-cleaning in government bureaus and departments which will find inefficient and incompetent job-holders swept into the street as well as saboteurs and agents of foreign powers. We submit that, in war time at least, there should be no place in government offices for any but the most loyal, honest and capable men.

According to Attorney General Biddle's report, something over two thousand investigations were made out of about 45 hundred complaints submitted, and only thirty-six were found to rest on sufficiently solid foundation to warrant dismissal. This, the Attorney General believes, is a pretty good record, and one which should set the country at rest with respect to charges of general termite infestations.

However, one rotten apple in a barrel of fruit can soon do a lot of damage. And a single spy in the War Department no doubt can uncover a lot of secrets. It does not take a whole army of saboteurs to blow up an administration building and usually it is one crooked teller that robs a bank—not a whole flock of them. We think that thirty-six admitted enemies of the state in a list of 2096 employees is substantial. And if the same ratio persists throughout the government, there must be at least 600 of them.

But perhaps even more serious than all the communists, bundists and fascists found in government offices is the vast horde of utterly incompetent and hopelessly inefficient employees who are responsible in large measure for the innumerable bottlenecks, conflicting policies, and endless red tape with which all government departments are plagued. Nobody who has had any contact with the government in recent years can fail to realize that more men of real ability are needed in every department.

It was to be expected that this condition would exist since for years during the depression the chief consideration in giving a government job to anyone was whether he was unemployed. If he was, he got the job. But if he had by his own initiative and hard work been able to provide for himself and his family despite the depression, he didn't have a chance. As a consequence of this policy most government positions were filled with men who, to say the least, were not the most productive.

There are still a good many men of this type in various high places in Washington, despite the flood of applications from patriotic individuals willing to leave more lucrative jobs for the duration to make more effective the war effort. It is about time some attention were given to this phase of the government's personnel problem.

Apologies In Order

There have been some pretty unkind things said about the President's four sons since they received their commissions in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. We recall that the eldest, James Roosevelt, especially was the subject of considerable criticism when he was first appointed a captain in the Marines, and later when he was given the rank of major.

Criticism of these prominent Americans was not unlike that given a good many sons of rich men, prominent politicians and others who immediately following Pearl Harbor volunteered their services to one branch or another of the armed forces. In fact most of those who have been commissioned as officers, whether they have had individual military training or not, have come in for their share of ribbing.

It is not to be forgotten, however, that an army needs officers as well as it needs men and that when an army is expanded rapidly from a few hundred thousand to several million, not all of its officers can be West Point graduates or be given time to work up from the ranks. Perhaps a better way could have been found for selecting officer material than that in use by the Army, but no one has suggested it yet.

Now we are glad to see that one of the severest critics of the President's sons following their commissioning is offering his apologies. Henry McMenemy says he is prepared to eat crow, and plenty of it, for his disparaging remarks about James Roosevelt and points out that he has been one of the first to see action against the Japs. He might well have added that that little round-the-world flight of his a few months ago, particularly when he was fired upon by enemy planes over Crete, was not exactly a joyride.

"No columnist was any tougher on James than we were," confesses McMenemy. "We let him have fifty-calibre adjectives, tracer verbs, and snub-nosed similes.

"This was all right until the stories and pictures of the Marines' attack on the Solomon Islands began to come in. There was James mentioned in the dispatches. They said he was second in command, and one of the first to hop from a landing boat and make his way toward shore. Then the pictures began coming in. There was James, spindly-legged against a background of palms and abandoned Japanese quarters. There was James who wasn't supposed to risk anything more dangerous than feeding falls, or playing tennis with Henry Wallace, exposing himself to Jap snipers.

"Okay, James Roosevelt, we're sorry. We apologize. We were dead wrong."

"But James didn't come back to haunt our typewriter as much as young Doug Fairbanks.

"We still remember the story we wrote when he went to South America as a Good Will ambassador. He got the full treatment and when he went in the Navy we all but sent him our box of Mother Sill's pills.

"So what does young Fairbanks do? Nothing, but go and get himself in the Commandos and engage in the raid on Dieppe. That was a dark and bloody business. That called for intestinal fortitude with a capital G. That raid on Dieppe was no place for a man whose heart was still with his movie fans. That was no place for a man who still cared if his moustache was properly waxed, or if he made a dramatic approach to the Nazi-manned cliffs. That raid was for men, tough men, who knew the hazards they faced—and liked it."

MANHATTAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 4. (WW)

—Here's something to remember about Eric Van Stroheim. During the First World War he symbolized everything that was brutal and filthy about the Huns—and got paid for it. He made scores of pictures, always appearing as the arrogant Prussian anti-hero. Sometimes, however, he has been a good guy, too.

Eric, who believes he has come to stay, is writing a new book, "The Man Who Came to Town," to be published in October. It will be a history of the American army. But he has been a good guy, too. He has written the star right out of his new story.

apprehended.

When Stroheim stepped into the role of the maniac (made famous in New York by Boris Karloff) in "Archie and Old Abe" it was the first time he had ever made an anti-Nazi speech.

The time was 1918, and the stars, and the screen redactors began to his and rattle. It was weeks before Stroheim ended believing someone in the audience had blessed him. Actually, Stroheim is very American. Once he was a fleeter than the Austrian army. But he has been a good guy, too. He has written the star right out of his new story.

He has written the star right out of his new story.

Mrs. Hansell Will Entertain Soldiers

Sanford persons who will offer the hospitality of their homes to men in various branches of the service are asked to contact Mr. Paul Hansell, manager of the Florida Hotel, who is planning entertainments for them on Friday evenings in the hotel lobby.

Mrs. Hansell, reminding that a number of soldiers from Orlando Air Base and neighboring towns come to Sanford over weekends, disclosed that she is arranging to invite young ladies to play cards, sing and other games with the service men.

She also mentioned the importance of "home life" to soldiers and persons who are interested may telephone her at 2112.

Waves Step Out In Classy Uniforms

By DOROTHY ROE
Wide World Fashion Editor

Join the Navy and be dressed by Mainbocher.

No such words have appeared on the recruiting posters, of late, but the physiologists of feet in the Navy and in the United States, WAVES step out in uniforms designed by one of the world's most exclusive and expensive couturiers, more civilians are likely to look with sudden distaste on their mufli.

It all started one day when Mrs. James Forrestal, wife of the Under-Secretary of the Navy, dropped into the New York salon of her favorite dressmaker and said:

"Mais, why don't you design a uniform for the women's Navy? After all, nothing is too good for our girls."

The Miss grew and soon the dynamic Mr. Boeche was knee deep in sketches, which were duly submitted to assorted groups of admirals, rear-admirals and fleet commanders. The Navy liked the clean simplicity of the design for which Mainbocher had been known.

They liked also the idea of having the WAVES' uniforms turned out by a master hand. They didn't want to be surprised by three-supply

WHAT ABOUT YOUR SOLDIER?
By MRS. ERNEST HOUSHOLDER

ain't it? (Excerpt for the sea). And we hope to have you again, boy, we lived it.

They're with the Hospital Corps and well have an accurate address soon for him which we will immediately pass on.

"We dare not leave one thing undone that will contribute to his comfort because he will be delivered by a close margin."

William Feather. Well, his name may be Feather, but that statement is not light in it!

Jillian Raburn is still at Angel Island doing guard duty. He fills in his time there and in a recent letter asked in a postscript, "Do they still have Cuba in Sanford?"

He sent a lovely engraved letter to his little niece for her birthday which was a week ago yesterday. That is really worthy of comment, for it shows that our boys' out there are thinking of us and remembering, too. And those little comments, those thoughts, are bringing us really closer together than if we were living in the same house. It goes without saying that the Axis can never split nor destroy the spirit of togetherness which is America.

Jillian's address is: Pfc. Julian Raburn, Det. D, E. M. L., Ft. McDowell, Angel's Island, San Francisco, Calif.

We hope you can remain there where you love the beauty of California's shore line with the house tumbling down the mountainside into the sea.

BM we tell you that Grady Gammie is a Marine. He joined the leathernecks about a year ago in Orlando. Grady graduated from the Seminole High School about '39 then had two years at the Allis.

Word has just been received that he recently saw an overland destination. We have no idea in what part of the world that may mean, but Grady, we hope you return to us just as safely. We've missed you, your mother and father.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallant have been residing in Gadsden, Ala. since last October, we understand, and we wish them good luck.

Cpl. Kenneth Gustavson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Gustavson of Sanford, was recently married to Miss Janet Cooper of LaGrange. Kenneth is an M. P. with the Air Corps and is stationed at Larson Field, Ft. Benning, Ga.

Another Sanford boy up there at Benning to be proud of!

Oh, my goodness, we just saw a handbill which disturbed us slightly. "Householders Warned About Fuel Problem." President says "there can be no guarantee of sufficient oil for warmth."

Dear Mr. President, why pick on this family? And just when we're making chop suey for our special soldier? We are so upset that we're afraid we may get the chop suey all mixed in with this copy and instead of reading words, readers will find themselves chewing bean sprouts and water chestnuts.

We had quite a "lift" the other morning when another Navy boy came to see us. And he only had about an hour before leaving! The boy is Edward C. Walthall, son of Mr. and Mr. R. P. Walthall of Sanford.

Edward graduated from the Seminole High School in 1941 and has been in the Navy eight months.

Edward is a Gunner's Mate First Class in a Merchant Ship.

His present rank means that he has three promotions in this eight month service, which seems pretty out-standing to us in any kind of service. And, as everyone agrees, the Merchant Marine is the most dangerous Navy service in the world for the Allies.

Edward left for Norfolk on Jan. 27, last, and only one month later was sent to sea. On one trip he was gone four and a half months.

He told of a thrill of 72 knots per hour, not a sub attack, but a furious storm. The storm raged for five days unabated with waves rising high above the ship, and he said, "The machine guns were on the bridge and we couldn't keep them dry. The heavier guns were lower."

We asked Edward about the estimated height of those waves, and, since he is no longer on that ship, and the name of it has not been divulged, he was free to tell us this: The bridge was 75 feet above the water line. The machine guns were located up on that bridge, while the heavy guns were about 10 feet above the water. Edward told us that the waves towered above them up on that bridge, so you can imagine the height of those waves as they layed an boat at that ship! Oh, dear boy, we are glad you all came through safely!

We believe that we would have simply died the first day if we wouldn't have had to struggle to live through the other one.

Yet Edward wasn't even scared. Oh, the impudence of youth!

We hope that when Edward comes again we can have a long talk. He looked splendid, too, in their all-in-blue, keen and alive to all that is happening in this world today.

Edward can be addressed: Edward C. Walthall, Gun Crew 106, Armed Guard Center, 1st Avenue and Main Street, South Brooklyn, N.Y. Good Luck, Sailor!

Such a nice thing happened on Sunday. Henry Jamison came by just a few minutes before he had to leave to go back to his job at McMill Field. The first thing we noticed was that he had new stripes on his sleeve meaning that he is now a Staff Sergeant. Congratulations for fine work, Henry! And we know it has been hard work, too, although you love it. Your pet hobby, photography, has certainly taken you places.

And the second thing we noticed was that Henry was given us a present. A pair of shorts shall cherish all our life. It is a beautiful flying fortress taken "somewhere" over the Tampa area.

Dear boy, we are having it arranged for it to be on display in your window so that all may be experienced with the thrill of seeing a flying fortress photographed by a real little old Florida cracker. Oh, thank you, Henry!

This candle flickers and burns so dimly. All of which makes us think that he would shine must needs burn the tallow at both ends.

And so to bed with our ever-present prayer for all of you out there! Good-night.

Newsom Wins For Brooklyn; St. Louis Blasts Hubbell.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4. (AP)—Louis (Bob) Newsom made a triumphant debut with the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday by shutting out the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 0 on four hits.

His conquest, achieved in a spectacular hurling duel with Johnny Vander Meer, kept the Dodgers' 1-2 game lead intact as the St. Louis Cardinals crushed the New York Giants.

The game brought together the major league's two most brilliant pitchers, Vander Meer with 146, and Newsom, who topped the American League with 113 while laboring for the Washington Senators.

Each fanned eight men yesterday and pitched on even terms except for an unearned run in the third inning, delayed by the contest in Brooklyn's favor, eventually bringing about Vander's removal for a pinchhitter in the eighth inning and giving the Dodgers an opportunity to face lesser hurlers in the ninth. The National League champions took advantage of this opportunity to push across another tally for good measure.

Gators Practice In Full Uniform

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 4. (AP)—Football began in earnest yesterday. Coach Tom Lieb had the University of Florida Gators report for afternoon practice in full uniform.

Pads were not expected to appear until next week but the excellent condition of the players, most of whom have been working in defense industries this summer, enabled Lieb to cut short the usual introductory session. Yesterday morning the boys still in shorts, ran through their is seventh, is fifth in Florida.

It is possible that tuberculosis has increased due to the stepped up tempo of the people.
They do not eat enough, and just now there is cause for more worry, all of which contribute to the easy development of tuberculosis.

Although tuberculosis is highest among the ages of 18 to 45 in the rest of the United States, over one-third of the 1,000 deaths from the disease that occurred in Florida in 1941 were over 45.
Many died in this state in their sixties, seventies, and even eighties.
This is due largely to the fact that the disease that Florida climates is healing to tuberculosis and the large influx of these unfortunate people from the north each year. Dr. D me added.

"Tuberculosis can be cured if detected early," Dr. D me stated.
"It is often fatal if discovered in its advanced stage. When the disease first starts in the lungs, no symptoms are noticeable. An x-ray of the lungs, however, will reveal the presence of tuberculosis in the stage.

"As the disease develops, working well in persons infected usually notices a tired feeling, gradually loses weight, often coughs with expectoration, may spit up blood, runs an afternoon fever, has night sweats, experiences indigestion or poor appetite, hoarseness or huskiness of voice.
Unless physician develops the patient's symptoms, experiences much pain in the chest."

About 400 persons can be x-rayed each day. Monday, Sept.
14, will be for white people while Tuesday, will be for colored. The program for the rest of the week will be published later.

Naval Air Station Is 'Going To Town' In Scrap Campaign

large and small piles of junk have been found, and trucks have been sent to the base from the Legion Post.

Friday morning, two more truckloads of old iron were taken to the City pile at Kilgore's by Supervisor Stevens who was greeted by C. R. Dawson, general chairman of the Seminole County Salvage Committee, appointed by the Defense Council, American Legion Post Commander, Ned
Smith, and Photographer Cox.

"Estimates at the base has contributed 100 per cent," said Supervisor Stevens. "When we get through with our work here, the near 2,400 acres will have everything probably 10,000 pounds, or more."
Chairman Dawson, highly pleased with the scrap donations and co-operation, said, "We have greatly appreciated what you are doing, double and triple it, you are not going to give out exact or approximate figures now but when the time comes, I want to say that denim, curly, proprietary, and other types of cloth will be taken up with heavy sarcasm."

Soviets Declare Red Armies Stand Firm Before Stalingrad

Hittler Claims Nazis Capture Further Heights In Area From Stubborn Fog

(Associated Press)

Hittler's field headquarters today asserted German troops have captured "further sub-tilly - defensed heights" within the fortified area of Stalingrad while Soviet dispatches declared that Red Armies are firmly regrouped after the re-inforced Nazi troops opened a dangerous new salient west of the great Volga steel city.

Once again Marshal Timoshen-ko's forces rallied in the critical hour. In the western Caucasus the situation remained acute. The extent of the German gain on the Stalingrad front was not disclosed, but it was indicated that the Germans had shifted their weight into a direct frontal attack on the city after being stalled northwest and southwest of the city.

The Russians said their counter-attacks in the Mordovia area of the Caucasian foothills forced the Germans to retreat.

Fighting on the northwestern approaches to Stalingrad was not mentioned in the midnight communiqué. It was in this area that Soviet troops were reported yesterday to have battered their positions in a series of counter-attacks.

Southwest of Stalingrad the Red army beat off a series of German attacks, one unit destroying eight of 80 Nazi tanks which attacked a Soviet artillery battery.

A surprise Red army counter-attack in the Mordovia area of the Caucasian foothills forced the Germans from an isolated foothill position and captured the headquarters of a German unit," the communiqué said.

The Red army appeared determined to hold at all costs its present positions, regrouping and reforming its units on the spot rather than retiring to new positions when retiring to new positions.
