California Covered In Snow While East Is Basking In Spring- Like Temperatures

(By The Associated Press.)
Meteorologists in all sections of the country scratched their heads in puzzlement today over the caperings of freakish weather. A complete reversal of conditions gave the West Coast almost freezing temperatures while the Atlantic seaboard is enjoying premature spring temperatures.

In some parts of California six inches of snow and colder weather was recorded threatening citrus fruits but in the East spring appeared in order.
In Arizona a heavy snow fell and government planes dropped food to marooned Indians. In the South rains swelled rivers and threatened riverports. Colder temperatures were predicted in the East today with the mercury scheduled to drop as much as 30 degrees. Relief in the West is expected by next week.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16. (A.P.)—From a half inch to half a foot of snow covered northern California yesterday. The heaviest snow fell in the San Francisco area and the 24-year-old Los Angeles weather bureau mark down such a report.

The measured Los Angeles snowfall was two inches.
"People will say it has snowed here before," said Col. H. B. Hervey, of the weather bureau, "but it never has. What we got early yesterday morning can be put down as a real old-fashioned eastern snow fall."
The fall was accompanied by a low temperature of 31 degrees, the coldest since 1922 in Los Angeles. (Continued on Page Four)

Women To Start Drive To Secure Funds For Party

Mobilized Democratic women of Florida, in every city and town, will shortly begin a drive to raise $150,000 this year as their quota of the party's victory fund, and Mrs. W. Theodore Langley, Sanford, has been appointed as Colonel in charge of Seminole County women's participation.

The announcement was made by Mrs. James M. Carson, general of the women's division of the state fund campaign, at a meeting of Democratic leaders in Tampa yesterday. Mrs. Carson declared that Florida is one of three states in which the women will be given the first chance to prove their practical value to the party, and that the militant army of women will make history in carrying democracy's message through the 67 counties of Florida during the next few months.

Democratic leaders estimate that there are 150,000 voters in the state, making the $150,000 drive a matter of the women not having to ask for more than 10 cents from each voter. Contributions of any size will be accepted, Mrs. Carson told her colonels, as she outlined the plan of organization, which included the appointment of major, captain and lieutenants to facilitate collection.

All women collectors will be equipped with literature from national headquarters, credential cards, and other information necessary for the victory fund drive. All major and captain successes will be rewarded with silver stars and citations for the national executive committee.

Mrs. Langley will appoint her co-workers within the week, she declared this morning, in accepting the appointment as one of the leaders in the state-wide move.

Direct Attack Made On Rum Amendment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (A.P.)—A direct attack on the Beck-Litchum prohibition amendment, introduced in the House yesterday, was made today before the Anti-Saloon League by its counsel Edward Dunford. The amendment in effect would return liquor control to states with the government supervising interstate regulation. It was supported by anti-prohibition forces in the House. "This will permit the legalization of liquor," Dunford said. "It will destroy uniformity of legislation. It has no guarantee against a return of the saloon and no guarantee the federal government will cooperate in the enforcement of states that are dry. Answering advocates of legislation here who urged here as a revenue measure, Dunford said 'we can no more drink ourselves into prosperity collectively than we can individually.'"

HIALEAH TRACK HAS DISORDERS INVOLVING HELP

Abortive Disturbance Quelled After Police- man Fires Gun

MIAMI, Jan. 16. (A.P.)—Abortive disturbances by approximately 100 stable hands at Hialeah Park race track who went on strike when they were denied seats in the grandstand and paddock, were pulled yesterday after a policeman fired his pistol at a negro who threatened him with a pickfork.
Two stable hands, a negro and a white boy, were placed in Hialeah jail. A number of others were ejected from the track by police and deputies who had sent in a call for tear gas bombs.
The affair started before the first race of the day when John Machel, 17, exercise boy was denied permission to enter the grandstand. About the same time William Manuel, 10, negro stable hand, demanded and was refused admittance to the same reserved seating by Miami Lockey Club officials for white stable employees. They were arrested and held for investigation.

Tampa Confidence Ring Suspects Are Detained By Police

TAMPA, Jan. 16. (A.P.)—Four men and four women were held in the city jail here last night as suspects in a confidence ring which police believe was being operated throughout the state.

In a raid on their apartment police seized a number of false stock applications and receipts and literature on such bogus syndicates as the International Exchange, represented to be a $5,000,000 corporation, the Consolidated Trust Exchange, listed as a $20,000,000 organization, and other similar companies.

At least one of the eight, T. Jefferson Shrum, alias "Little Jeff," is wanted elsewhere. Police said he is being sought in Newark, N. J., for the larceny of $50,000 and conspiracy to defraud in a stock swindle.

Shrum was arrested Thursday night with Mrs. Edna Baker, 38, Los Angeles, at the Union Station after police said they were at the train to bid goodbye to an alleged victim. Their arrests led to a raid on a fashionable apartment where the other six were arrested. No charges had been filed against any of them last night, but photographs and their descriptions were being sent all over the country for possible identification on other charges.

The six held besides Shrum and Mrs. Baker are: John Lincoln, 54, and wife, Portland, Maine; Walter Edgely, 55, and wife, New York; Edward Rector, 42, and wife, New York.

FLOOD RELIEF IS HINDERED BY RAGING WATER

New Levee Openings Are Pouring Stream Into Area Of Land Put At 50,000 Acres

GLENDORA, Jan. 16. (A.P.)—Flood relief workers on battered levees experienced grave difficulties today in crossing the raging Tallahatchie River to rescue marooned residents. East of the river in the Tappan basin three new openings in the levees were pouring water into a stretch of land estimated at 50,000 acres and containing an undetermined number of marooned persons.
Many fled the lowlands and are moving out. An estimate of those affected by the water today was placed at two to 1,000. No loss of life was reported but there were many quick escapes of families from roofs of houses near the new crevasses.

A mighty 10-foot wall of water surging toward a third sand Tippo basin house last night as the families slept unaware that the levees protecting them had collapsed.

Three major breaks in the dykes north of Swan Lake at dusk caused the alarm that the rampant Tallahatchie River in fact had won the battle against the levees and more power which has strained the levee people to hold back the flood from the Tippo basin.

As the dykes were on the men who have fought bravely to hold back the river, into the night, turned immediately to rescue the thousands of persons in the path of the deluged water.

Fear was expressed that the sudden rise of water might trap many families in some houses.

Most of the homes in the basin were surrounded by water from a break at Shirley last week. Yesterday the water descended considerably by crumbling of the levee across from Glendora three miles down the river.

The complete collapse of the levee north of here yesterday, however, probably will end most of the families to their homes to await rescue.

Adding to the misery of the families is a drop in temperature which, while not severe, will cause some discomfort to persons trapped on their houses.

National Jobless Army Is Organizing Party

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 16. (A.P.)—With a reply to charges of attempting to embarrass the Hoover administration by the march of unemployed in Washington on his record, Rev. James Cox, forming a national party of jobless, and 7,000 unemployed men came here today about, by automobile, and special train for a big rally, and before nightfall, the organization of the new party is expected to be under way.

Commenting on the national Republican committee's statement that the recent march of the unemployed on Washington was inspired by political forces opposed to the national administration, Cox replied that the charges were the work of "political minds" and said the march to the capital was for the sole purpose of obtaining work for the jobless.

Many Possibilities Are Being Suggested For Chair Left By Justice Holmes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (A.P.)—Exactly a score of judges and attorneys, representative of the legal profession in every section of the country, have been brought to the fore for the Supreme Court vacancy left by the resignation of Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Many names have been mentioned in speculation for the list of those actually prominently urged includes 11 men already on the bench, two senators, three House members, a former presidential nominee, and a prominent practicing attorney.
It is believed President Hoover will make his selection from this score of names, although no immediate decision is expected, and the possibility remains that a more obscure aspirant may be chosen. There is no indication of any effort thus far even to narrow the list.

BABE RUTH GIVES CONTRACT BACK TO COL. RUPPERT

Refuses To Sign Because Of 10 Thousand Cut In Salary

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(A.P.) Baseball's greatest wage earner, cast a withering glance yesterday at a contract calling for $70,000, a reduction of 10 percent from last year, stuffed it back in his pocket and hurried to get in a few rounds of golf.

The big fellow is a holdout again. He doesn't like Col. Jacob Ruppert's offer for 1932. He's going to stand firm either for $80,000 for one year or $70,000 for a two-year contract.

"No sir, I won't sign this thing," said Babe, stalling the papers with a stubby forefinger. "I think I'm worth the other $10,000 after the season I had. They're making a joke of this cutting business."

"Where do they get all this cutting?" he demanded. "If they keep it up, pretty soon the public's going to want it cut, too. Then where'll they be? I haven't heard of them reducing the admission prices."

"Nope, I'm not going to call Colonel Ruppert about it, I'm just going to send this contract right back."

What about the length of the contract? Would he sign for one year at $80,000 or demand another for two years at that figure? That called for reflection.

"Well, you might say two years at $70,000. That sounds all right, doesn't it?"

By that time the big home run knocker had climbed into his overcoat, slung a bag of clubs over his shoulder and was heading for the great outdoors.

The owner of the Yankees, meanwhile, had adopted his usual philosophic attitude where the Babe and money matters are concerned. They've always gotten together before, he reasons, so why get excited. Informed of Ruth's demand, Colonel Ruppert said:

"I do not think we can do better than a one-year contract at $70,000. I haven't talked with Ruth yet, but we will discuss the matter and I am sure we can reach an agreement quickly. We have never had much trouble doing so before."

The amount offered Ruth is the same he received for the three-year period from 1927-29. For five years before that he had received $52,500 annually. The last two seasons he has received $60,000. His salary checks for the last 10 years have amounted to more than $600,000.

In view of the general reduction of salaries in both leagues, Yankee officials consider their offer to Ruth more than fair. He, on the other hand, points to the fact he enjoyed one of his best seasons in 1931, tying for the home run leadership and batting .373, second only to Al Simmons of the Athletics. He is in fine condition for the coming campaign and feels he is due another big year.

Refunding Plan Of Palm Beach Gets Official Approval

WEST PALM BEACH, Jan. 15.—(A.P.)—This city yesterday had officially approved a contract under which it would refund its $18,000,000 bonded debt over a 35-year period. The contract, submitted by representatives of holders of most of the bonds, has yet to be finally approved by the bondholders.

Under the contract, city elections also must be held to ratify issuance of refunding bonds and to repeal the "Blackwell act," under which a person could pay only part of his taxes at a time if he wished.

Leading features of the contract are that interest on bonds is cut in half for the first 10 years; that the city can buy its own bonds, now being offered, at about one-third of par, thus retiring many of them; and that delinquent taxes and special assessments can be paid with the city's bonds.

Approval of the agreement followed years of wrangling with bondholders, which left the city last fall with an empty treasury, unable to pay its employees and facing five Supreme Court mandamus writs ordering it to raise $6,000,000 in bond payments within one year.

These mandamus writs would be dismissed under terms of the agreement and City Attorney Mark Wilcox left for Tallahassee yesterday to seek their dismissal.

BOARD PROBE OF HAWAII AFFAIRS IS ORDERED MADE

Assistant Attorney General Given Full Authority In Work

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(A.P.)—Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson today was given direct command of a sweeping investigation of the Justice Department into its enforcement in the Hawaiian Islands.

Ordering Richardson to Honolulu immediately, Attorney General Mitchell made public a long-kept program for the inquiry, which was ordered by the Senate.

Mitchell proposed investigation of the operation of federal courts in prohibition and narcotic cases in the islands, and of the law and administration of Hawaiian courts, police, jury system, and parole board.

Of prohibition, and narcotic cases, the attorney general said:

"While offenses of this kind which have recently attracted attention are not within the jurisdiction of the United States court and are not dealt with by the United States attorney or officials of the department, it would be well to consider how efficiently violations of federal statutes are prosecuted within the district as this has a bearing on the general crime situation."

To Richardson, the 51-year-old chief of the department division handling land cases, and the one who investigated Ralph Kelly, a controversial charge against the Interior Department's oil land leasing policies, Mitchell said:

"You are free to go into any phase of the matter but have in mind the fact that you deem necessary to get at the real facts, which I have no doubt you will do with your accustomed aptitude."

The attorney general said while a demand came from Honolulu for "outside counsel" to prosecute four Americans accused of murdering the alleged assassin of Mrs. Thomas H. Massey.

A House committee yesterday ordered sent to Mitchell a report demanding steps to insure "a fair trial" to Mrs. Granville Fortson and other Americans accused of the killing of Mrs. Massey's alleged assassin. Another resolution for investigation of the government of the territory was introduced by Representative Gibson of Vermont.

Without touching the merits of the Massey case, Mitchell emphasized that "cases of the type which have recently attracted public attention are not within the jurisdiction of the United States District Court nor of the United States attorney."

Regarding the weight of evidence required in certain criminal cases in Hawaii, also, the attorney general suggested study. Criticism has been heaped on the circumstance that Hawaiian law prevents conviction for assault solely on evidence of the prosecutrix. A jury disagreed in the trial in which Mrs. Massey testified to the alleged assault.

On its side, the German government is busy preparing totals. The indications are that these will be considerably higher than $2,000,000,000.

The other two powers which are most interested—France and Belgium—contend they have not been paid enough to cover the actual damage to property by the German armies.

Belgium says she is still $100,000,000 short, and her 1931 budget shows $670,000,000 expended for rehabilitation of damaged areas as of December 31, 1931. This does not include any expenditure except for actual repairs to damaged property, the budget report says.

France says it is even worse off. Germany still owes the French $2,850,000,000 for reconstruction, the 1932 budget shows. As of April 1, 1931, France paid out in repaying war damages $3,915,000,000, and there remained $200,000,000 to pay.

This total for all reconstruction expenses $4,115,000,000 in German cash and kind had been registered in the treasury.

Great Britain's policy since the war has been to ask in reparations and other debts only as much as she paid to the United States in reimbursement of the war time loans.

Professor Gives Citrus Men Talk Upon Fertilizers

DELAND, Jan. 15.—The necessity for fertilizing citrus groves for the trial and error method of fertilization of citrus groves was urged by Prof. E. L. Lord of the University of Florida, in an address delivered before a group of citrus growers in the citrus court room here last night.

The speaker explained at length, and illustrated by means of visual instruction, that a fertilization program that may prove effective for a period of years may eventually serve to change the chemical makeup of the soil and require corrective measures. Every grove presents an individual problem to the owner, he said, and no rule can be laid down for the guidance of all, except what is necessary to be posted at all times as to soil requirements.

Professor Lord was introduced by J. E. Brown, instructor in agriculture at the Barboursville High School, who also has charge of the plant recently established by Volusia county for the purpose of analyzing soil analysis, and in pointing out the factors of the country with the requirements and shortcomings of them, respectively.

Further educational meetings will be carried out here and at other points within the county in the course of the current season. J. A. Harper, county livestock and agricultural adviser, stated last night.

SUNSHINE SERVICE IS MORE THAN A SLOGAN

Sunshine Service is more than a slogan. It is an ideal upon which the service of the Florida Power & Light Company is predicated. A standard by which each employee measures his conduct with his fellow employees and the public.

After all, electricity is but a mechanical reproduction of the sunshine that is embedded in the fuel extended from the earth. But it is logical, then, that our ideal should be Internal Electric Sunshine Service.

Sunshine Service to the individual employee means cheerfulness, continuous service, willingness to serve, and a constant helpfulness of others. To the Company as a whole it means a continuous, satisfactory and economical service without discrimination... a service just like the sun, only more plentiful and more constant day in and day out.

Sunshine Service seeks no advantage but to serve on a basis that is fair and just to all, realizing that the things which are not good for the community are not good for the Company. Only as the community prospers, can we prosper.

A Permanent Settlement

In other columns of this page appears a letter explaining in some detail the terms of an agreement effected between the bondholders committee and the city of Prince Albert, in Canada, in 1919 following a default in principal and interest payments. The plan which was in the nature of a compromise between debtor and creditors saved the reputation of the city and has apparently worked satisfactorily ever since.

The situation which existed in Prince Albert was very similar to that which exists here except that the city was not quite so big and the debt only about half as large. But the essential feature in Prince Albert, as in this city, was that the city found itself in a position where it could no longer maintain stipulated interest and sinking fund payments. And the people of Prince Albert insisted upon a permanent plan of settlement.

After some preliminary negotiations, an agreement was made whereby all outstanding bonds of the city of Prince Albert plus accrued interest to date were to be refunded with new bonds payable in forty-five years. The interest on these bonds was to be paid at the rate of one per cent for the first five years, of two per cent for the second five years, and so on going up one per cent every five years, providing the average rate for the entire forty-five year period should not exceed five per cent.

The one per cent interest payments were all that the city was required to raise for debt service during the first five years. Thereafter, however, a provision for sinking fund payments, made necessary an additional annual collection of one per cent of the total indebtedness of $3,600,000, or about $35,000 which was added to the earnings derived from a $250,000 sinking fund already in existence, making a total sufficient in forty years to retire the full amount of the debt.

An admirable feature of the plan is the Board of Arbitration which is set up for the purpose of amicably solving any problems which might develop in connection with the agreement in years to come. The bondholders select one man, the city selects one man and the premier of the province selects a third, who have full authority to determine any points at issue throughout the term of the agreement. If, for instance, during some period of hard times, scheduled interest payments became unduly burdensome, the Board could allow the city a respite.

The Prince Albert plan has been in effect for approximately thirteen years and seems to be functioning satisfactorily for both the city and the bondholders. It is possible that some similar plan might be effectively carried out in Sanford.

Favorable Publicity

A man in Greenwich, Conn. was planning a vacation trip for his family. He had decided to bring his wife and daughter and two sons to Florida and spend about two months. But he couldn't make up his mind as to which city in Florida he wanted to go.

He picked up a copy of the New York Times one evening and among the sport pages read that "Ducky" Yates had been defeated by Jack Toomer in the Seminole Golf Tournament at the Sanford Country Club, and also that Yates thought it was a mighty fine course.

That decided him. He knew that Sanford was famous as the celery city, and he liked that. He didn't want to take his family to one of these wild resorts where gambling and liquor parties are the order of the day. He wanted a quiet place, but one where sporting facilities were available. He found just what he wanted in Sanford.

Now this episode did not happen exactly as we have told it, but it might have. For the story of Sanford's recent golf tournament was carried in the New York Times, as well as the Detroit News, the Chicago Tribune, and countless other metropolitan papers throughout the country. Thousands of persons read it, and perhaps many of them were contemplating a trip to Florida at that very time. With the tournament on their minds, they might have decided to locate here.

We do not believe we can over-emphasize the importance of this type of publicity. And Sanford has been getting its full share during the past few weeks. The Progress Day celebration, the golf tournament, the Chamber of Commerce drive, were all substantial and worthwhile events which merited, and received, favorable publicity throughout the state, and in some instances, in far away cities.

Such things indicate that Sanford is up and doing, that its people are progressive, that they cannot be downed by any wave of gloom which may hit this city or spread over the whole country. They show that an optimistic attitude prevails, making this community an inviting place for the visitor to stop.

Publicity of this kind cannot be bought and it is the result only of doing things worthwhile. Its beneficial effect cannot be measured by a yardstick, or weighed on a set of scales. The results are not always easily discernable at once, but can be seen distinctly only from the vantage point of retrospection.

In years to come we will appreciate more readily how much this type of publicity has helped Sanford.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. J. C. Ensminger, one of the old citizens and business men of the city passed quietly away at 2:00 o'clock this morning. He has been a sufferer for many years. The funeral will take place on Jan. 18 at the Congregational Church at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Strasata is to have a new passenger station and is well pleased over the prospect. The secretary of the board of trade, has been notified by the Seaboard Air Line people that the new depot will be conveniently located and work to commence very soon on the building.

Were: Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fernald, Dr. and Mrs. David Foster and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hughes. Mrs. Paul Keely was the charming hostess of a delightful bridge party this afternoon complimentary to her guest, Mrs. A. B. Briggs, of Madison, Wis. The highest score was made by Mrs. H. M. Papworth, who won the first prize, a dainty hamperful of food. Mrs. Margaret Hart, of Orlando, received the baby prize, a very pretty pin cushion. Mrs. Keely's guests were: Mesdames Briggs, Curtis, Robinson, DeForest, Hughes, McLaughlin, Brady, Barker, Papworth, Noel, Chase, Whitner, Gabbett, Misses Wylie and Hart.

When the new 44-foot concrete and steel bridge across Kince River, on the Ave. "Park" was dedicated, it was a very interesting occasion. The dedication was held at the home of the late George W. Gaskins, founder of the city. The bridge is a fine example of modern engineering and will be a great benefit to the city.

THE PRINCE ALBERT PLAN

Editor's Note: The following letter received by S. G. Gray, of this city from T. C. Davis, secretary general of Saskatchewan, explains the Prince Albert plan of bond settlement.

Saskatchewan, Regina, May 18th, 1928.

S. G. Gray, Esq., Chartered Accountant, 311 First National Bank Bldg., Sanford, Fla.

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of May 12th and of course I know Mr. Compton very well indeed and have had close business relations with him for many years, in fact I am still the legal representative of his company in this country.

It would appear that your City is now faced with a situation very similar to that of the city of Prince Albert in 1918 only that your indebtedness is about twice the amount of the indebtedness of the city of Prince Albert. The population of Prince Albert is about 2,500 as against your population of 10,000.

Unfortunately in the case of Prince Albert a large part of the money borrowed was put into a power development which has never been built and which is useless and is therefore a total loss. I presume that in your case the money was spent on public improvements and that you have received value for it. However, this is not a factor which enters into it, except as it affects the willingness of your people to tax themselves to carry the burden.

It would appear from your letter that you are facing a default in payment of interest on your debenture issue. I do not know whether your bonds are serial bonds, or whether you finance on the sinking fund basis, but I presume that if you do make the default, which presently faces you that whichever way you are financing you will make default in payment by both principal and interest.

The City of Prince Albert was faced with the same situation which faces you. Our financing was on the sinking fund basis and the city, by its inability to collect taxes, was obliged to make default in the payment of sinking fund instalments and also in the payment of interest and the city remained in default for a period of a year or so.

A group of the bond holders who had sold the bonds of the city of Prince Albert to the general public, when the city made default, then formed themselves into a voluntary committee known as the Bond Holders' Committee. This committee got into communication with the bond holders of the City of Prince Albert, who I might say are resident all over the world, and got these bond holders to authorize this committee to act for them in negotiations with the City of Prince Albert for the payment of the said bonds and interest. The committee did not begin to function until it had received authority from sixty per cent of the bond holders. This authority was quickly obtained and the minute it was obtained the bond holder committee then started to function.

The committee first approached the City of Prince Albert and tried to get the consent of the city council to hand over the complete management and control of the city to this committee. The city refused to do this. If the city had agreed then the city council would have become only a nominal body and would have been subject in all matters to the control of the said committee. The city felt that if this state of affairs were permitted and the right of self-government taken away from our people that the citizens would lose faith in the future of the place and that there would be a wholesale abandonment of property and of residence and that the result would be that the bond holders would be restricted in their recovery to what they could get for the property of the tax payers situated within the city. The city council therefore flatly refused this request.

The result of this refusal was that negotiations between the city and the committee became deadlocked and to break the deadlock the city and the committee asked the government of this province to intervene as a third party. The government did intervene and asked both parties to a conference at the city of Regina. This conference resulted in an agreement between the City of Prince Albert and the bond holders of Prince Albert on the 17th day of March, 1919. This agreement, at the request of both parties, was confirmed by a special act of the legislature of this province passed in the session of 1919-20 and is Chapter 80 of the statutes of Saskatchewan of that year. The negotiation of the agreement by the committee was the Agreement between the Bond Holders and the City of Prince Albert, which was signed by all bond holders of the City of Prince Albert, and confirmed by the legislature of Saskatchewan.

Prince Albert, and still outstanding, were consolidated as at the first day of January, 1919. All interest which had accrued due down to that date and which had not been paid was added to the principal of the bond in respect of which the same was due.

I might say that the bonds were of different maturities and bore different rates of interest. As a matter of fact, one large holder of bonds had a block of twenty year bonds which were due in the year 1917.

The agreement required the surrender of all these bonds and in lieu thereof new bonds were issued to the bond holders for an amount equal to the amount of the bonds surrendered, plus the accrued interest down to the said date.

The new bonds were payable in 45 years and carried interest for the first five years at the rate of one per cent per annum, for the second five years at the rate of two per cent per annum, and going up one per cent per annum every five years with a proviso that the average rate for the whole 45 period should not exceed five per cent.

The agreement provided that a sinking fund should be set up to retire the said issue at the expiry of the period of 45 years. The sinking fund which the city had already accumulated, at the date of the agreement and totalling about a quarter of a million dollars, was placed in the new sinking fund. The city was not called upon to pay for sinking funds purposes for the first five years and therefore within this period, paid at the rate of one per cent per annum by way of interest only.

In 1921 the rate went up to 2 per cent and the city is now paying 3 per cent. In addition the city is required to levy one per cent started in 1921 and is being levied annually. It takes roughly an annual contribution of about $70,000.00 for the sinking fund to pay off the whole of our bonded indebtedness in the forty years that the sinking fund is in force based on a four per cent earning power. Our old sinking fund contributions from the earnings derived from it about $30,000.00 per year and therefore we only have to levy the other $35,000.00 at one per cent of our total indebtedness, which is roughly three and one half million dollars.

The agreement also provides that if during the last year of any of the five year periods, the bond holders are of the opinion that the city can pay more interest, or if the city is of the opinion that it cannot pay the interest fixed under the agreement, and failing an amicable agreement on the point between the parties, then a Board of Arbitration is set up consisting of one representative appointed by the bond holders and one by the city and the third to be nominated by the premier of this province. This board has absolute power to go into all the facts and make an order either decreasing or increasing the interest according to its findings and this order is absolutely binding upon both parties. Under this the board could, for instance, dispense with the payment of all interest for a five year period or it could very materially increase the interest.

There are a lot of other details in the arrangement which you would be interested in and I am accordingly writing to the city clerk at Prince Albert today asking him to send you a copy of the agreement which we entered into with our bond holders.

You will note therein a very interesting provision for the automatic forfeiture of land for the non-payment of taxes. This was a drastic remedy, but a drastic condition required drastic remedies. If there is any other information you require please do not hesitate to call upon me as I am only too happy to be able to help you.

Yours truly,
(Signed) T. C. DAVIS.
T. C. Davis, the annual estimates of expenditure upon which the tax rate is based is submitted annually to the bond holders committee and must be first approved by this committee.

PIGS IS PIGS

FLORIDA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Just Perkin couldn't work in his fields because of the rain, so he sat beside the kitchen stove with his chin in his hands, as cross as a bear with a jumpin' tooth. His two youngsters would have been tickled to death if he had romped with them a bit, but he had no time for or patience with "kids."

That was the "old woman's" job. The sharp squeal of a young pig in distress cut the air like a knife. Jud fairly flew out of the house on his way to the barnyard to see what might be the matter. The pig was worth considerable money, you see, and was sired by a thoroughbred—and that's more than can be said of the children.

Jud believes in the principles of prevention. His boys have been immunized against cholera, and his dog against rabies; and his fruit trees carefully sprayed. But his children have not been protected against diphtheria or smallpox or typhoid. His stock, but not his kids, have been tuberculin tested; his crops, but not his kids have been made the subject of study in a Farmers' Short Course; his cattle, but not his kids, have a carefully balanced ration. You see, a balanced ration will produce better milk and cream—but kids don't give milk, more's the pity, because if they did, they would get more attention.

A certain great state appropriated $50,000 to fight a disease threatening chickens in a few communities. Splendid. The resources of science very soon put the pest to rout and everyone was happy because it must be admitted that the public health of chickens is a very important matter. The same session of the legislature refused to appropriate a like amount of money for maintenance of a hospital for mothers and babies which was to be given to the state by a philanthropic citizen. Large sums of money were used to fight the fruit fly, and eradicate it. Similar sums properly spent would eradicate diphtheria and other dreaded preventable diseases, but the money is not forthcoming. Sometimes we are cross because folks won't be vaccinated against smallpox and typhoid, nor won't have their children immunized with tetox against diphtheria, nor won't clean up their sewage until fish begin to die in the river, nor won't have their physical health examinations, nor don't do the other things they should. Sometimes we think it is a pity we weren't pedigreed pigs, because—PIGS IS PIGS.
