Sanford Due To Decide Today On Changes In Charter

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission and the city's Charter Revision Committee are to make a decision at a 4 p.m. meeting today at City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave. — on how proposed charter changes will appear on the ballot later this year.

Mayor Lee P. Moore, at the group's joint meeting two weeks ago, urged the members to be ready to decide the issue today. The group has been considering as many as three charter questions: Whether the current charter should be retained; whether the revised charter with the exception of districting should be approved; and whether the revised charter with districting should be approved.

The controversy over charter revision is the burning question of whether the city should have any form of districting. The committee, as a compromise, recommended that the city be divided into geographic areas as nearly equal in population as possible. Each commissioner would have to live in a given geographical area and run for office from that area while being elected at large.

Representatives of the black community had asked that at least two districts be set up with two commission candidates elected by voters within those districts only.

Committee member Clyde "Robbie" Robertson said the geographic districting was a compromise between no districting at all and voting within districts.

And some committee members noted that under the current charter all the commissioners could live on the same block.

Commissioner David Farr called the residency districting meaningless, saying that "true districting" would have candidates elected by the voters within the districts.

He said the proposal would permit a candidate to lose the votes of the district he was to represent while being elected citywide.

What is to be done about the districting proposal was left up in the air.

An early proposal of the Charter Revision Committee to change city election times from December to the first Tuesday in September and the runoff election to the third Tuesday was changed.

That proposal would have required Sanford voters this year to go to the polls four times in five weeks: the city election the first Tuesday in September, the first statewide primary the second Tuesday, the city election the third Tuesday, and the second primary the first Tuesday in October.

The compromise will have the first city election held the same day as the first primary, with the runoff at the October primary.

The only other major changes the committee is proposing would place control of the uniformed services (police and fire departments) with City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles rather than the City Commission and extend Mayor Moore's term in office.

Currently, Moore's term will expire in 1984. Under the proposed revision it would extend to 1985. The idea of extending the term is to make sure that no more than two city commissioners' terms expire in any one year.

Commissioners' terms of office are four years. Moore's would be five years, one time only, under the proposal.

Other proposed changes, according to Knowles, are "housekeeping measures" to bring the city charter into conformance with state law.

Mosquitoes Are Back Again

April showers may well bring May flowers, but they've also brought an early arrival to Seminole County's annual warm-weather pest, the mosquito.

According to county Environmental Health Services Director Russell Miller, the county already is experiencing a heavier influx of breeding mosquitoes than last year. "We've had a lot more rain and shower activity this spring than a year ago," said Miller. "That, combined with the warm weather lately, has increased the complaints about mosquito problems."

He said the entire county has been experiencing a heavier influx of the insects, especially in the Oviedo, Lake Monroe and Markham Woods areas. "There have been mosquito problems just about everywhere in the county," said Miller. "Especially after it rains."

The largest problem posed by mosquitoes is encephalitis.

Miller said the county uses flocks of chickens at various locations through the county and monitors them annually to keep tabs on whether or not any encephalitis-carrying mosquitoes are in the area.

"Sentinel flocks," groups of four white Leghorn chickens, are used. He said that in the past the county has used four separate flocks but that this year the Health Department plans to add a fifth flock because of the higher incidence of the mosquito problem.

Miller said the flocks will be placed at the Geneva Fire Station, Lake Monroe Industrial Park, the county Animal Control Center at Five Points, the Douglas Avenue fire station in Altamonte Springs, and the Goldenrod fire station.

Union Election Set At Bahama Joe's

The complaints of waitresses at Bahama Joe's Lobster House, 2508 S. French Ave., Sanford, that they are being forced to share their tips to subsidize the wages of other employees has led to a union election.

The union certification election, scheduled for May 19 at the restaurant, will be overseen by an agent of the National Labor Relations Board (NLR).

Harvey Totzke, secretary-treasurer of the Hotel, Motel Restaurant Employees & Bartenders Local 737, of Orlando, said today the 57 hourly employees at Bahama Joe's in Sanford will vote by secret ballot on whether they want representation from the union to collectively bargain with the employer.

He said about one-third of the employees have signed cards seeking union representation and that the NLRB decided that was sufficient interest to issue a petition setting the election. The names of the employees who signed the cards are being held in confidence.

Totzke said the waitresses are required to give 2 percent of the totals of the checks they issue to customers daily to a fund to subsidize the wages of other employees. He said the checks are used as the basis for the waitresses' required contribution to the fund rather than the actual amount of tips they receive.

"Usually companies do not mess with a waitress' gratuities. They are considered sacrosanct," he said. "The company has elected this method of subsidizing other employees' salaries, and either the waitresses participate or they don't work there."

Totzke said the federal Division of Wages and Hours can't get involved as long as the waitresses are receiving the minimum wage for the hours they work. "Their only recourse is collective bargaining," he added.

"Tip-sharing is a very unusual situation," he said. Craig Buckley, vice president of the Daytona Beach firm that operates four Bahama Joe's restaurants, including the one in Sanford, declined comment today. —DONNA ESTES

Our Water—How Safe?

No Problems Seen In Longwood, Winter Springs, County Areas

Second In A Series

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Some of it may not be the best-tasting stuff in the world, but comparatively speaking, water quality and supply in unincorporated Seminole County, Longwood and Winter Springs are good.

And that's good news for county residents in view of what the remainder of the state water picture looks like.

The quality of tap water and its supply began coming under the scrutiny of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in 1972 when the agency found toxic chemicals in New Orleans' drinking water. That investigation, and resulting work by the EPA, led Congress to pass the Safe Drinking Water Act in 1974 in an effort to improve the quality of municipal water.

But improvement has proved to be a slow process.

In 1977 the EPA randomly tested 113 cities for trihalomethanes (THMs), a suspected cancer-causing agent. Drinking-water samples from two Central Florida cities, Tampa and Melbourne, ranked among the top 10 for the worst drinking water in the country.

More bad news about Florida's drinking water came to light through a Florida International University study in 1978 that said the state's drinking water was 80 percent more likely to exceed government-recommended THM levels than water from around the rest of the country. In addition, a congressional subcommittee has pointed to the fact that Florida has more sites where hazardous chemicals could seep into groundwater than any other state.

That news is certainly enough to make local residents gag at the thought of turning on their taps. But according to local officials, water quality is in far better shape in the unincorporated county, Longwood and Winter Springs than in the remainder of Florida.

"The county's water supply is safe," says County Environmental Services Manager Ken Hooper. "We haven't seen any problems with it."

"The reason places like Tampa and Melbourne have such a big problem," Hooper adds, "is that they have to take surface water for use and have problems with salt-water intrusion. Here in the county, our water comes out of a much deeper aquifer and deeper wells."

The county owns its own water system, which serves some 3,000 customers. Hooper estimates that some 16,000 to 17,000 users use the county water system.

The 19,000 water users in Winter Springs are served by the North Orlando Water & Sewer Corp. According to operations manager John Hall, the water supply in Winter Springs is excellent, and he considers the quality satisfactory.

Hall says the Winter Springs water supply hasn't been tested for THMs, but in accordance with Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) rules, testing will begin in the future.

Hall says the DER requires that water systems serving cities of 75,000 or more had to have tested for THMs by last November. Because of the population in Winter Springs, the water company is not subject to DER regulations until next November, and has to comply with THM testing procedures by 1983.

Like the county, the city of Longwood runs its own water department, with the exception of about 600 residents who are served by the Sanlando Utilities Corp.

City Administrator David Chacey says a check with the city's department shows that Longwood's water quality is excellent, although the city has not yet tested for THM levels. He says Longwood, like Winter Springs, will fall under DER regulations for THM testing later this year and must comply by November 1983.

One of the major concerns facing municipal water quality is the threat of hazardous chemicals seeping into underground water supplies from sources such as farm runoffs, industrial discharges and sewage discharges.

Discharge problems don't appear to be a problem for any of the three local entities, however.

"County well sites are not close to chemical sites," says Hooper. "County wells are monitored monthly for bacteria counts, and we're cautious about the placement of wells."

Wrecker Driver Sues Longwood, Commissioners

A squabble between the Longwood City Commission and fired wrecker-truck driver Fred Peterson isn't over yet.

Peterson's lawyer, Margaret Wharton, filed suit in Seminole Civil Circuit court Friday against the city and four individual members of the commission.

The lawsuits stem from the commission's 4-0 vote in an emergency meeting Wednesday to cancel Peterson's contract to run the city's wrecker service following a heated argument between him and commissioners at Monday's regular commission meeting.

The controversy began when Peterson petitioned the city several weeks ago for a permit to park his wrecker truck at his home in order to save emergency-call response time. The commission granted him temporary permission until May 10 while working on an amendment to a city ordinance prohibiting the parking of wreckers in residential areas. But the commission later changed its mind on the amendment.

Peterson, upset at the switch, stormed out of last Monday's meeting, but not before telling the commissioners they could "take May 10 and shove it where the sun don't shine."

Peterson also told the commission that if any of its family members were involved in a wreck, he'd respond fast.

Those comments prompted the commission to schedule last Wednesday's emergency meeting to decide Peterson's future with the city.

According to a tape recording of that meeting, the interpretation of Peterson's remarks by the commission appears to be the basis for its decision to cancel his contract immediately, without 30 days' notice.

At Wednesday's meeting, on reviewing the contract, the commission also discovered that the city never signed the agreement with Peterson, which began in late 1979.

Commissioners cited complaints filed against Spanky's Auto Body, where Peterson works, in addition to his comments as the basis for cancelling the contract immediately.

A check with City Hall and the Longwood Chamber of Commerce reveals that five complaints have been filed against Spanky's since 1979. However, two of those involved civil matters and two others were never pursued.

The latest complaint filed against the business came last December. A resident complained to the city that he'd had a difficult time in obtaining a receipt for towing service and that Spanky's had refused to accept a credit card or check.

Peterson said he stopped accepting checks several months ago because too many of them bounced.

On Wednesday, the commission expressed concern that Peterson might no longer respond to wrecker calls if given 30 days' notice of cancellation.

The tape of the meeting reveals that several commission members felt Peterson said they could "take the contract and stick it."

But a review of Monday's tape reveals Peterson told the commission to "take the May 10 deadline and stick it."

Peterson says the commission also confused what he said about response time if one of the commissioner's relatives were involved in an accident.

The tape of Monday's meeting quotes Peterson as saying, "If there's ever one of your relatives trapped in a car, please, when you call the police, tell them it's one of mine, and my response will be very fast."

At the emergency meeting Wednesday, Police Chief Greg Manning told the commission that a few complaints had been filed against Spanky's in 1981 but that none had been filed to date this year.

"I average about 250 calls a year for Longwood, and in two years there's been five or six complaints," said Peterson.

"You check on other towing companies and I think you'll find I have a pretty good track record in comparison," he said.

Ms. Wharton, the lawyer, said she went down to listen to tapes of the meetings. "Obviously, I think everyone involved as a little upset," she said.

She added that she plans to file suit against the city, Mayor June Lormann and Commissioners Tim O'Leary, Steven Uskert and Chick Pappas as individuals.

Ms. Wharton said the basis of the suit against the city will be alleged violation of the sunshine law, breach of contract, and acting in excess of its authority.

She said the individual suits will be seeking a declaration of judgment on the contract, a temporary injunction halting the city from canceling Peterson's contract and for an amount of damages to be determined by a jury. —JOE DeSANTIS

Body Odor Caused By Bacteria

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB - I was wondering if you could help me. It is about body odor. I shower twice a day...

I smoke one cigarette only after supper. I'm in good health otherwise. My only problem is that awful odor coming from my pores...

DEAR READER - You would be surprised how many people have trouble with excess perspiration, body odor or both.

While some odor comes from normal secretions from specialized sweat glands, much of the problem is created by bacteria.

In this case your doctor can prescribe Dioxin (hexachlorophene) that you can use as a soap.

Florida Highway Patrol Sgt. T.G. Parish, who has patrolled the highways and byways of Seminole County for nearly six years, is being transferred to Lake Placid in Highlands County where he will be a district supervisor for three counties. A traffic supervisor, the 38-year-old Parish came to Seminole from Miami in Sept. 1976.

No Shots, No School

DELAND (UPI) — More than 700 Volusia County students were barred from the classroom Monday when they arrived at school with incomplete immunization records. The students had failed to update their shot records in compliance with the May 1 deadline imposed by the school board. They were moved to supervised areas and not allowed to attend classes, Shirley Lee, director of school social services, said. Before the day ended, about half of the students had cleared up confusion about their records or had been inoculated, Lee said. Since late last year, the schools had been urging parents to update their children's shot records in keeping with the Florida immunization law. It requires that students in kindergarten through 12th grade be immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, mumps, measles and German measles. The law gives school districts until Aug. 1 to have records updated but also leaves an option to set earlier deadlines. Volusia is the only central Florida county in which the school board set an early deadline. In Orange, Osceola, Seminole, Brevard and Lake counties, school officials said they are asking parents to have their children's immunization records updated during the summer.

Rams Gain Respect

First year high schools and Rodney Dangerfield are a lot alike — they both get no respect.

Take my high school, Springstead High School, for instance — please. As sophomore the baseball team was dubbed "Bad News Eagles," and rightfully so (we were 0-18).

We used to wear our uniform tops inside out to away games so people couldn't recognize us after the game. I set a school record that year that still stands, an 0-12 pitching record. My earned run average was higher than my batting average.

Well, you probably know what I'm getting at. First year high schools are usually thought of as pushovers. Larger schools usually play these schools as a break in their schedules.

It was an accomplishment if the "Bad News Eagles" showed up and if we made it past five innings (the game is over after five innings if you are behind by 10 runs and we usually were) we celebrated.

But Seminole County has a first year school that is breaking the stereotype of pushover. Lake Mary High School, in its first year of existence, has not only been competitive but has challenged for district, region and section titles. The baseball team, under the direction of Don Smith, fell one game short of a district title. Cindy Henry's softball squad won the district championship and then wreaked havoc on Clermont, claiming the 2A-3 Region crown by the score of 7-1. The Rams' girls basketball program under Bill Moore is also off to an outstanding start, winning the region title and coming up second in the sectionals losing in the finals to powerful Clearwater Central Catholic, who went on to win the state championship.

Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

It's very rare for a first year high school, usually consisting of only freshmen and sophomores, to build a winning program in its birth-year. They lack in experience, they usually don't have the talent or the depth and it is hard to build enthusiasm when you are looked at as a pushover. What Lake Mary lacks in experience and talent they more than make up for in determination and good coaching.

Coaches like Moore, Smith and Henry have made the Rams athletic program a winning one in just one year. In a few years, as the school and athletic program continue to grow, Lake Mary could be as successful as schools that have a tradition of athletic and academic excellence.

Right now, the athletes can look forward to two or three more years together and set their goals as high as they can reach. The only "Bad News" you may hear about the Rams is that their opponents may be afraid to show up because the team that was dubbed a pushover knows what victory tastes like.

And about three years from now, when Lake Mary will have already put out a graduating class, the alumni can look back and brag about their school.

They can say that they were the first graduates of Lake Mary High School, and they can say that this first year school was no pushover. The Rams are winners.

Corso, Van Ness Honored

Sanford's Patty Corso and Beth Van Ness headed a list of Seminole Community College Lady Raiders honored recently for their athletic accomplishments.

Corso, an intimidating spiker on the volleyball court, was named the best offensive player by coach Heena Gallagher.

Van Ness, a ballhawk during her playing days at Seminole High, was chosen the best outfielder for the Raiders softball team.

Other volleyball honors included Keandra King (best defensively), Fran Rhoades (coach's award) and Oviedo's Jackie Martel (most improved).

In basketball, all-state performer Tina Dragalin took the best offensive player award. Sheri King was the best free throw shooter and Mary Kane received the hustle award.

In softball, Elizabeth Bryan was the most improved. Annette Frank was the best infielder and Debbie Oakley was the leading hitter.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Everett, Gallagher Sign Raider Basketball Pact

The Seminole Community College basketball program has never been one to stand pat. Even when it doesn't have a head coach.

The Raiders signed Appoka's Delvin Everett and Edgewater's David Gallagher Monday to scholarships in an attempt to fill the gap of losing all five of its starters.

Everett, a 6-foot-6 center for coach Butch Helms, will be used at the wing position, according to Raider assistant coach Tony Mandeville, who is considered the favorite for the vacant coaching position which will be filled in June.

Gallagher was a number two guard for coach Rudy Tapia's Eagles. He will probably play point guard at SCC. He is 6-foot-11.

Both players were all-conference selections.

Hearns, Hagler On Hold?

DETROIT (UPI) — Thomas Hearns' manager said a doctor's examination today will decide if the Detroit fighter, suffering from a hand injury, will go ahead with his May 24 middleweight championship fight against Marvin Hagler.

Hearns, training in seclusion at his private gym in Detroit, has had a swollen right hand since a fall during training nearly two weeks ago.

"About 10 days or so ago he was running in the gym at police headquarters downtown and he tripped," manager Emmanuel Steward said late Monday. "He reached out with his right hand to break his fall and injured the little finger and the ring finger on the hand."

Hearns is a volunteer auxiliary police officer in Detroit.

Kerr Signs With Alabama

Jeff Kerr, a standout prep player at Lyman High, two years ago has signed a scholarship to play baseball with the University of Alabama the Herald learned Monday.

Kerr, who has labored the last two years at Valencia Community College, was 44 this year with a 3.22 earned run average. While at Lyman, he was an All-Five Star Conference selection.

Alabama coach Barry Shollenberger indicated that Kerr will be used as a starter. The tall righthander was used in both roles by Matador coach Floyd Perry the past two years.

Twice-Is-Nice Shop Moves To New Location

"Twice-Is-Nice" family consignment shop has moved from its Fairway Plaza location and is now open for business at 1910 French Ave., Sanford, (formerly Hobby Depot).

The official grand opening will be held Saturday, May 8, coffee and cake will be served and there will be an hourly drawing for prizes valued up to $20.

There will be storewide bargains all during the month of May. All gold tag items will be 50 percent off and blue tag items will be 20 percent off.

Owner-manager Renee Johnson invites all old and new customers to come in and see her new store and shop in style and comfort. "We have twice as much space as in the old store," she said.

The store is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and there is ample parking. MasterCard and Visa cards are accepted and layaway service is available.

All clothing is current fashion and suitable for spring and summer wear. Twice-Is-Nice has women's dresses from size 3 to 54. There is a good selection of swim wear, shorts, slacks and shirts for summer fun.

If you are planning a wedding, check with Twice-Is-Nice for wedding gowns and formal dresses.

At Twice-Is-Nice you will find a selection of new quality jewelry, fashion headbands and feathers.

The store now has a large variety of new wigs to choose from. Twice-Is-Nice features new and "like new" clothing and accessories on consignment for the whole family. There are men's slacks, suits, shirts, and swim wear and clothing for children from infant size up.

Renee and her husband, Terry, celebrated the first anniversary of their business in February, and take pride in providing prompt, friendly and courteous service to all their customers.

Twice-Is-Nice accepts surplus family apparel and accessories on consignment from local retailers and individuals. Renee is looking for designer styles in recent or current fashion and in new condition.

The price of each garment is mutually agreed upon with the shop receiving 60 percent after the sale.

Any items sold within 30 days of consignment will be sold at the prices listed on the inventory sheet. After 30 days, prices may be reduced up to 20 percent. After 60 days, prices may be reduced up to 50 percent. Any items not sold by the end of 90 days become the property of Twice-Is-Nice unless they are picked up by the consignee before the 90-day period is up. Retailers' merchandise will be returned to them. — AdV.

New Cubs Prompt Same Losing Ways

United Press International

It's a new era for the Chicago Cubs — with a new manager, a new general manager, and new owners — but, so far, no new success.

After Monday night's 9-4 drubbing at the hands of the Cardinals in St. Louis, the Cubs were back in a familiar position, last place in the National League East, with an 8-16 record. So the rookie skipper, Lee Elia, decided to hold his first closed-door meeting, with his players.

National League

"It was just to gather our thoughts. It was no big deal," said Elia. "We've got a group of men who want to play baseball and be competitive. We've just gone through some tough times."

The Cubs have been through many tough times in recent years. This time, it was a five-run seventh inning off four pitchers.

Lonnie Smith led off the seventh when he was hit by a pitch from Dickie Noles, 3-3, and moved to second on a balk. Ozzie Smith and Keith Hernandez then singled off Willie Hernandez to break the tie.

Lee Smith relieved and struck out George Hendrick, but Dane Iorg singled in another run, Hernandez scored on a throwing error by catcher Jody Davis and Darrell Porter smashed his third home run of the year. Allen Ripley was needed to get the final two outs of the inning.

Braves 10, Pirates 4

At Pittsburgh, Claudell Washington hit a three-run homer and Glenn Hubbard went 4-for-5 and drove in three runs to lead Atlanta. Washington's homer, his third, snapped a 1-1 tie.

Expos 8, Padres 2

At San Diego, Bill Gullickson pitched a seven-hitter and struck out 10 and Chris Speier and Gary Carter homered to spark Montreal. Gullickson, 2-1, posted his first complete game in five starts.

Phillies 5, Giants 3

At San Francisco, Philadelphia rookie Bob Dernier's fourth-inning double snapped a 3-3 tie and Dick Davis drove in an insurance run with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly.

Mets 6, Dodgers 3

At Los Angeles, Hubie Brooks singled with the bases loaded in the 12th inning to drive in two runs and ignite a three-run rally that carried the Mets to victory. Pedro Guerrero and Rick Monday homered for Los Angeles.

Flanagan's Wing Heals, Orioles Ready To Soar

United Press International

Mike Flanagan's left wing appears to have healed and, as a result, the Baltimore Orioles may start to soar in the American League East.

After two disappointing seasons, the 30-year-old lefthander Monday night finally flashed the form he displayed in 1979, when he won the league's Cy Young Award and led the Orioles to the AL pennant.

American League

Flanagan tossed a three-hitter and faced the minimum number of batters in pitching the Orioles to a 6-0 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

"My arm feels good," said Flanagan after posting his first victory of the season in four decisions. "I haven't had any stiffness so far this year."

Flanagan, who did not allow a runner to reach second base, said his control was better than it's been in a long time and his fastball was moving very well.

The only batters to reach base against Flanagan were erased. In the second, Dave Henderson walked and was picked off by Flanagan. In the third, Jim Esian singled and was thrown out by Al Bumbry trying to advance to second. In the fifth, Henderson singled but was erased on a double play and in the eighth after Henderson singled, pinch runner Joe Simpson was doubled off first on a fly to right.

Rich Dauer and Gary Roenicke provided the batting support for Flanagan by knocking in three runs apiece.

Red Sox 6, Twins 2

At Boston, Dave Stapleton's inside-the-park homer — the first in Fenway Park in nearly six years — capped a four-run first inning and Rick Miller added a two-run shot in helping the Red Sox to their victory.

Angels 5, Indians 4

At Cleveland, Don Baylor cracked a long sacrifice fly to center field with one out in the ninth inning to drive in Rod Carew and lift the Angels.

Royals 3, Brewers 2

At Milwaukee, Greg Pryor homered and Hal McTae delivered a two-run double to highlight a three-run sixth inning that sparked the Royals' triumph. Larry Hale homered for Milwaukee.

A's 5, Yankees 2

At New York, Dwayne Murphy knocked in two runs with a second-inning triple and a single during a four-run eighth inning to lead the A's to their fifth straight triumph.

76ers Will Not Rest

United Press International

Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham gave his players a breather Monday but vowed they will not rest until Milwaukee is eliminated.

The 76ers can advance to the Eastern Conference finals with a victory Wednesday night when they tackle the Bucks at the Spectrum in Game 5 of their best-of-seven playoff series.

"You can be sure no one here plans to rest on his laurels," Cunningham said after giving his club the day off after Sunday's physical 100-81 victory. "You need four wins to advance to the next round. To feel you can do it is one thing, but to do it is another."

"Our attitude is, we don't want to come back to Milwaukee. Comfortable? I'll feel comfortable when we've won four."

After last season, there's no way the 76ers should be comfortable with a 3-1 lead. Philadelphia led Boston by that margin in last year's semifinals but couldn't put the Celtics away.

That's incentive enough for Philadelphia's Clint Richardson. "We know we still have to win Wednesday to finish them off," Richardson said. "But at least with a 3-1 lead our backs aren't against the wall. We haven't forgotten what it was like last year ... We don't want that to happen again."

The 76ers bounced back from a 92-91 defeat on Saturday to beat the Bucks Sunday behind 10 fourth-quarter points by Bobby Jones, who finished with 18.

Learning English Through Immersion

Learning a foreign language by immersion is a method commonly used in intensive courses. The immersion method is used at the Monterey Language School of the armed forces to teach Americans many foreign languages. It is used in Japan to teach businessmen English. It is commonly advocated as the best method for Americans to learn a foreign language — by going to a foreign country, living among the foreigners, speaking their language, not using English and, if possible, forming a relationship with a foreign friend.

But when it comes to teaching children English in our public schools, it has been a method expressly forbidden by federal rules, which required that instruction must be given in the non-English-speaking child's own language.

This was a rigid and unnecessary rule, adopted by the bureaucracy in typical fashion. It was supposed to be a response to a court order, but nothing in the court order actually required it.

Now the U.S. Department of Education has abandoned the rigid rule in favor of a flexibility that would permit schools to experiment with the immersion method — and that's good.

The requirement for bilingual instruction is well-meant, but it lost sight of the goal. A child comes to kindergarten unable to speak English. The child's parents may speak a foreign language in the home. The child's playmates may speak a foreign language. The goal is to turn this child into a high school graduate thoroughly competent in conversational and written English, at home in the dominant language and culture of this country, ready to go to college and to look for a job with full confidence in his or her ability to communicate with the great majority of Americans.

Now there are multiple paths that may be taken to reach that goal. The bilingual method is not the only path. In fact, it is the least direct goal. When children are taught in a language other than English, their reliance on that foreign language is reinforced. That is especially true when instruction in subjects like science and history is given in a foreign language.

The immersion alternative requires all subjects to be taught in English. But the primary emphasis is on learning the English language as quickly and thoroughly as possible, because it is the common language of our society and our economy. Without a good command of English, a young American is handicapped and disadvantaged, no matter how successful he may otherwise be in scholastic achievement.

The bilingual education story goes back to a U.S. Supreme Court decision in 1974, which required "affirmative steps" to help non-English-speaking children cope with their linguistic handicap in the public schools. But the nature of these steps was not spelled out by the court. That task was left to the educators, and the federal guidelines adopted in 1975 leaned heavily on the full-time bilingual approach.

Education Secretary Terrel H. Bell withdrew the guidelines last month, explaining they were too restrictive.

The bilingual-education establishment, including those whose teaching and administrative careers are at stake, will resist any change from the full-time bilingual approach.

But those who are truly interested in equality of educational opportunity for all language-minority children, so that they can eventually achieve full citizenship in our English-speaking society, will not be so rigid. All approaches to the teaching of English should be tried. The one that proves to work best should be the one that is chosen.

Spring football practice opened quietly in the county this past Saturday.

Seminole, Lake Mary, Lyman, Oviedo, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley will all work out this month and then exercise with a spring game.

Some area coaches feel Lyman and Lake Howell will be the teams to beat in the Five Star Conference along with Maitland.

The Gryphons, 6-4, last year return flashy running back Vince Prusky. The 6-2 senior has great speed which allows him to get outside along with the muscle needed to go inside. Prusky, who ran a 9.9 100-yard dash last year, should be one of most highly-sought gridirers in Central Florida for coach Bill Scott.

For coach Mike Macchia's Lake Howell crew, guard-tackle Don Rae should be a blue chipper. Rae was having an outstanding sophomore season two years ago when a knee injury cut him down. This past year he excelled in wrestling as well as football.

Although Oviedo's Jon Montgomery moved to Pensacola Pine Forest, incumbent Jack Blanton inherits a fine speedster (10 flat 100 dash) in junior-to-be J.W. Yarbrough.

Blanton might also receive some quarterback help from Lyman, Dwayne Johnson, who attended Lyman the past three years despite living in the Lyons school district, is rumored to be going to Oviedo this fall.

At Lake Mary, coach Roger Beethard has really stepped up his schedule. Most noteworthy is the addition of Lake Brantley. The rest are mostly 2A schools.

High lineman Ned Kihjensen is back to anchor the defense, while Greg Shute and Kyle Prakas will return to the offense.

Future sophomores Charlie LaSorelli, Pat

Murray (161.1 100 dash) and Scott Underwood are expected to move right in and help immediately.

At Lake Brantley, defensive tackle Brian Hammond and linebacker John Desmet are the mainstay for coach Dave Tullis's Patriots, who were 4-4 last year.

Last and certainly not least are coach Jerry Posey's Fighting Seminoles who grabbed an undefeated Five Star Conference title and the district crown.

Tim Herring and Harold Gaines return from Dave Moore's "Dare you to beat us" defense. Junior-to-be William "WW" Wynn will take over the middle linebacker spot.

Offensively, Ronnel Manley and Dion Jackson are expected to follow in the footsteps of the great Seminole running backs.

More On Campaign Trail '82

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The volatility of California politics seems to be asserting itself once again.

In a stunning reversal of political fortunes, Lt. Gov. Mike Curb has moved ahead of Attorney General George Deukmejian in the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

A year ago Curb was the odds-on favorite to become the GOP standardbearer. But his popularity plummeted after he committed a series of campaign blubs that made him resemble a textbook case of a politician trying to lose an election.

Deukmejian, a strong law-and-order candidate, then moved into a commanding lead. In January, the statewide Field Poll put him 11 points ahead of Curb — 63 percent to 23 percent — and he looked like the sure winner.

But in recent weeks Curb operatives began circulating word that their private polls were reflecting an upsurge in support for Curb.

Most observers wrote this off as wishful thinking, but the latest Field Poll shows that Curb has indeed moved into the lead.

The poll has Curb ahead of Deukmejian by 40 percent to 40 percent with 10 percent undecided. What's happening, say the experts, is that Deukmejian's support has remained steady while Curb has picked up most of what had been a rather large block of undecided GOP voters.

With the June 8 primary fast approaching, other Field Poll results show that San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson is continuing to close in on Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. The pair are part of the large field seeking the GOP nomination for the Senate seat of retiring S.I. Hayakawa.

A month ago Goldwater was 18 points ahead in the polls, but now he is leading Wilson by only 8 points — 39 percent to 31 percent. Most experts are predicting that the race will be a toss-up by Election Day.

The top Democratic races appear to be all but over with Gov. Edmund "Jerry" Brown and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley far ahead of their rivals for the senatorial and gubernatorial nominations, respectively.

Looking at possible November match-ups, Field Poll respondents still favor any of top four GOP Senate contenders over Brown. (The Republicans include Rep. Paul McCloskey and first daughter Maureen Reagan in addition to Goldwater and Wilson.) Bradley remains the respondents' choice for governor over either Curb or Deukmejian.

It often seems that the results of polls depend upon who is financing them. A case in point has occurred in Nevada, where Rep. Jim Santini is challenging incumbent Sen. Howard Cannon in the Democratic primary.

Santini has been perceived as the frontrunner to win the September contest. A poll conducted for Santini by DMI, the organization headed by presidential pollster Richard Wirthlin, has the challenger leading Cannon by 17 points.

Not so, says the Cannon camp. Its poll, which was conducted at about the same time by an Iowa firm, gives Cannon a 45 percent to 43 percent lead over Santini.

Argentina Expected U.S. Support

(This column was written April 27.)

WASHINGTON — Because of an incredible miscalculation, Argentine President Leopoldo Galtieri thought he could count on U.S. support for his invasion of the Falkland Islands.

He got the impression the United States would back him, apparently, because he had made two secret commitments to the Reagan administration. One was to send Argentine military advisers to train anti-Nicaraguan guerrillas in Central America. The other was a promise to observe a grain embargo against the Soviet Union if President Reagan should ever impose one.

Galtieri mistakenly thought Reagan, in turn, would support Argentina in any showdown with the British. In fact, an Argentine diplomat reportedly cabled Galtieri from Washington several months ago, assuring him that Reagan would side with Argentina.

There was a failure of communication on both sides. The White House was completely unaware of the Argentine invasion plot, except for some straws in the wind that went unheeded.

The Central Intelligence Agency picked up a Buenos Aires press report on January 24, a full 68 days before the invasion, that Argentina "will take over the islands by force

SCIENCE WORLD

Of Mice And Microwaves

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Dr. Mary Ellen O'Connor has launched a $250,000 research project for the Environmental Protection Agency to determine what dangers people and animals might face from microwaves.

The project involves dozens of pregnant mice and a specially constructed copper room, Dr. O'Connor said. She wants to know what effects different levels of microwave radiation have on humans as she is experimenting with unborn mice.

"We know the embryo and fetus are very sensitive tissue," the University of Tulsa psychology professor said.

Microwaves are used to heat food in microwave ovens, and also are that part of the electromagnetic spectrum used for radar and for various types of communications.

Dr. O'Connor said she hopes to determine what levels of exposure are safe for humans, as more and more people come in daily contact with devices utilizing microwaves.

The research, she said, will involve exposing 18 pregnant mice to microwave six hours a day for the 18 days their offspring are developing.

The baby mice then will be delivered by Caesarean section and examined for possible physical abnormalities as a result of certain levels of heat exposure to the mother mice.

If defects are found, Dr. O'Connor said, the tests will be repeated on larger animals such as rabbits and guinea pigs.

Dr. O'Connor, who holds a Ph.D. in biopsychology from the University of Georgia, said she began building the testing facility a year ago with a $250,000 grant from the EPA's medical research division microwaves branch.

The "oven" is a 10-by-10-foot copper room lined with styrofoam-like insulation and equipped to seal in microwave heat which can be injected into the room for testing.

The mice are placed in half-pint plastic containers and left atop conical foam perches for their six-hour-per-day exposure.

"We are looking at several different levels (of exposure)," Dr. O'Connor said. "The first is actually higher than what you would expect people to be exposed to."

That level is twice the recommended standard. She said the second test would involve the standard level of exposure and the third stage would be a last involving only one-tenth of the recommended exposure limit for humans.

Hundreds of mice will be used by the time Dr. O'Connor has completed her research, she said.

The researcher said she already can anticipate some results of the test.

"I expect smaller mice at 20," she said, indicating the microwaves would cause the infant mice to not develop to normal size before birth.

The project should take two years, Dr. O'Connor said, and then all questions will not be answered.

"All I will answer after two years is whether or not radio frequency energy (at certain levels) will produce birth defects in mice when they are exposed for six hours a day throughout the entire gestation period," she said.

"It will be at least a year before I know whether or not there have been any functional alterations," she said of the mice's exposure to the heat.

Dr. O'Connor said she had no reason to believe microwaves would cause abnormalities in humans and animals.

"But I wouldn't be doing the experiments if I thought all microwave exposure was perfectly safe," she said.

Ethics Act Needs Revision

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Congress is about to undertake an especially delicate task — selectively amending one of the country's most politically sensitive laws without compromising the statute's fundamental integrity.

The law is the section of the Ethics in Government Act that regulates federal investigations in cases where a senior official of the executive branch of government is alleged to have engaged in illegal activities.

Enacted in October 1978, the statute includes a five-year "sunset" provision, which means that it will automatically expire in October 1983 unless renewed by both houses of Congress and signed into law by the president.

Under the current law, the Justice Department must conduct a preliminary investigation whenever it receives "specific information" that a senior government official or an official of the president's campaign organization has violated any federal statute except those applicable to petty offenses.

After a 90-day initial probe, the attorney general can either dismiss the matter on the grounds that it is "so unsubstantiated that no further federal investigation or prosecution is warranted" or request a special panel of three senior federal judges to appoint an independent prosecutor to conduct a full-scale investigation.

Much of the popular criticism of the special-prosecutor provision stems from the experience in the first two cases in which that procedure was invoked, involving senior White House officials during the Carter administration.

Although their cases were entirely separate, Hamilton Jordan and Timothy Kraft both were accused of using cocaine. They eventually were cleared of those charges, but the investigations were widely — and legitimately — criticized.

The probes cost the government more than $250,000 apiece, while each of the suspects had to pay in excess of $100,000 to defend himself against charges that were hardly central to the issue of integrity in government.

To preclude a recurrence of those events, a number of sensible amendments now are being proposed by leaders of the Senate subcommittee that has initiated the legislative process of improving and extending the law.

In the spirit of bipartisanship, the principal sponsors of those amendments include Sen. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, chairman of the subcommittee, and Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., the ranking minority member of the panel.

They propose to raise the threshold for continuation of any future probe at both levels of investigation and to require that the Justice Department's written prosecutorial guidelines, which govern routine criminal cases, be applied in the special investigations of government officials.

Eagleburger and the president's special emissary, Vernon Walters, are all inclined toward our British ally. More importantly, Ronald Reagan is, too. "The personal relationship between Maggie Thatcher and the president is very, very close," one key White House adviser said.

Latin Americans generally will feel betrayed by the U.S. decision to support the British penetration into their hemisphere. It will take months, perhaps even years, to repair the damage.

Thatcher and Galtieri are both captives of national machismo to a certain extent, and thus will find it difficult if not impossible to work out a compromise. Both may wind up out of office as a result of the crisis. Galtieri is distrusted by Argentine naval leaders and even some of his junior army subordinates. They're already plotting to overthrow him once the crisis is settled, and may not wait even that long.

The influence of the international bankers should not be overlooked. Argentina has more than $9 billion in U.S. loans, much of it due this year. The repayment could be jeopardized if the United States eventually has to side publicly with Britain. American bankers would like to see the International Monetary Fund extend continued credit to Argentina to prevent it from going bankrupt as a result of the Falklands crisis. The lending agency could put serious pressure on Galtieri by threatening to withhold financial support, which might effectively destroy the Argentine economy.

If full-scale hostilities break out, Britain almost certainly will use its submarines against the Argentine fleet. The British must somehow overcome Argentina's superiority in the air and on the ground in the Falklands. The possibility of bombing the Argentine mainland cannot be overlooked, nor can the possibility of actual troop landings at several points on the islands themselves.

A final, ominous note is the chance that Britain may feel compelled to use tactical nuclear weapons. The British fleet normally carries nuclear surface-to-air missiles, and Pentagon sources doubt they were unloaded before the Falklands expedition. The most likely scenario for use of nuclear weapons would be if the British fleet is in danger of being destroyed or forced to surrender. Though the British stoutly deny they would resort to nuclear weapons, Pentagon sources think they might use tactical nuclear weapons to save the fleet. One or two such missiles, exploded over the ocean, could create shock waves that would destroy incoming Argentine bombers.

Prez, Waisanen Lead Sanford 800 To 5th Consecutive Victory

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

The 1982 sports scene, more than anything else, will be remembered as a season of streaks. The Atlanta Braves won 13 in a row. The Boston Red Sox ran off eight straight. St. Louis and San Diego both had impressive skeins.

Streaking is also popular in soccer. Just ask Philip Waisanen and his age 10 and under Sanford 080 New Smyrna Speedway crew of the Sanford Soccer Club.

On Saturday 080 ran off its fifth straight victory by subduing Winter Park 081, 3-1. The win improves the NSS ledger to 5-2 for the season and makes it one of the hottest things going between the nets.

Phil Prez headed the Speedway in the right direction when he took a feed from Tim Waisanen and kicked Sanford ahead, 1-0. The lead stood up at halftime and then 080 outscored 081, 2-1, in the final period.

Waisanen again assisted on both goals. The eventual game-winner was scored by Jamie Dellarco. Prez then added his second tally to insure the victory.

Speedway travels to Red Bug Park Saturday to play F.C. United 180 at 11:30 a.m.

Rumler Turns Away 21 Shots

In other action, Sanford Kiwanis 400 continued to receive outstanding net play from goalie Sherri Rumler as it knocked off F.C. United 481, 2-1, to improve its record to 2-6.

Rumler turned away nine shots in the first half as Kiwanis built its lead and then shut the door on 12 F.C. United attempts in the second period.

Steve McCormick supplied the offense with both of the 400 goals. John Stuart assisted on the second score.

Defensively, coach Suzy Reno cited Tim Deppen, Paul Hodgins and Lance Broderick. Kiwanis hosts Pine Hills 481 Saturday at 12 noon at the Sanford Airport.

Ray, Roll Run Off 5 Goals

Sanford Celeste Industry 201's "Ray and Roll" combination tallied five goals as Celeste charged to its sixth win against two ties with a 10-2 blasting of Maitland 281.

Sanford Soccer Club

Chris Ray scored two first-half goals and added one more in the second half. He also assisted on one. Chuck Roll booted both of his goals in the second half.

Rusty Smith, Wynn Hodgins and Mike Alitzer added goals to the 201 scoring, while Danny Bachrach supplied two assists and Alex Piquer one.

Coach Wayne Albert singled out Eric Miller, Brent Posey and Charley Butler for their defensive work. Celeste Industry hosts Downtown Orlando 280 at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Sanford Airport.

Gann's Goalie Work Gains Tie

After six straight wins, Sanford Celery City Printing Co. 480 saw its streak snapped when it battled F.C. United 480 to a 1-1 deadlock.

Steve Sapp kicked in a rebound of his own shot for the only Sanford score. Durry Gann turned in a stellar job in the net for coach Suzy Reno's crew. Reno cited Carry Smith, Kevin Toasi, Matt Albert, Sheldon Richards and Ricky Shea for solid efforts.

In another sister kisser, Sanford 800 saw its six-game streak end when Winter Park 803 salvaged a 0-0 deadlock with coach Gene Williams' gang.

Despite the tie, Williams felt the game was "one of the best of the season." John Scott was lauded for his defensive prowess.

Sanford 800 travels to the Fairgrounds Saturday to play Pine Hills 880 at 3:30 p.m.

Helmadollar Tallies Only Goal

Jason Helmadollar scored the only goal as Sanford Boatworks 200 lost a tough 2-1 decision to South Orlando 201.

Boatworks, 4-3, travels to Showalter Field to take on Winter Park 284 Saturday at 11:30 p.m. Sanford 000 was blanked by Pine Hills 002, 3-0.

The setback dropped the record to 3-5-1. Coach Tom Brewer cited David Petrunic, Jennifer Bengel and Travis Zinger for outstanding efforts in the loss.

Sanford hosts Downtown Orlando at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Sanford Airport.

In the final Sanford Soccer Club game, Sanford 081 was whitewashed by Maitland 081, 4-0. The setback was the 10th in a row for coach Clark

Adams' club.

Adams was pleased with the performance of goalie Bard Morris who turned away 13 Maitland shots.

Up-And-Down Raiders Out

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Monday afternoon's baseball game between Seminole Community College's Raiders and Manatee's Lancers was an up-and-down struggle all day. But for the Raiders it was more down than up.

After leading for two innings and coming back to tie it after six innings, SCC succumbed to the Lancers, 7-5, in the Florida Junior College State Tournament at Marchant Stadium in Lakeland. The loss was SCC's second in a row and the Raiders were eliminated from the double-elimination tourney.

SCC, who ended the season at 36-16, picked up an early two-run lead in the top of the first. Tim Barker led off with a single and stole second. Barker scored on Bob Parker's solid single up the middle. Jeff Blanton then singled and Jimmy Mee was hit by a pitch to load the bases with nobody out.

But Blanton was caught napping at second base and was picked off by Manatee starter David Lee. Jeff O'Dell grounded into a force play to drive in the second run. SCC loaded the bases again with two outs but could not push another run across.

The Raiders made it 3-0 in the third as Blanton led off with a walk and advanced to third on Mee's double to the left field wall. O'Dell walked putting runners on first and third with no outs. Brian Philpott hit into a double play driving in Blanton.

It took SCC three innings to build a 3-0 lead and the Lancers tied it with just one swing of the bat. With two runners on Manatee's third hitter, Jody Reed, blasted a towering home run over the left field fence. The shot traveled over 360 feet.

The Lancers took a two run lead with single runs in the fifth and sixth innings. Reed reached on an error and scored on Scott Knox's single. In the sixth Bob Hulsman reached on a fielder's choice and scored on a Seminole throwing error.

Four straight singles by SCC in the seventh enabled the Raiders to tie the score at 5-5. Brian Holzworth led off with a single and the bases were loaded as Barker and Parker followed with singles. Blanton then stroked his third single to drive in pinch runner Ed Wiggins and Barker. The throw arrived ahead of Barker and it looked as if he would be railed at the plate. But Barker leaped over the catcher and touched the plate for the tying run.

The Lancers struck right back for two runs in the bottom of the seventh. With two outs Rick Wierichs walked and Mike Jordan ripped his fourth single. Hulsman then singled, and, while the SCC outfield had trouble coming up with the ball, two runs crossed.

Poppa Jay's Serves Up 10th Straight Win

Poppa Jay's pounded 25 hits in just four innings Monday and whipped Rinker Materials 25-4 for its 10th win without a loss in the Sanford Little National League.

First Federal scored three runs in the bottom of the last inning to nip Cardinal Industries 13-12, while the Railroaders battled from behind to edge Sanford D.A.V. 9-8.

In today's games in the Sanford Little American League, unbeaten Adcock Roofing plays second place S & H Fabricating and Engineering at 5 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park, while Krayola Kollege, also tied for second, plays Seminole Petroleum at the same time at Bay Avenue Field. Atlantic Bank plays Jack Prosser Ford at 7 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park.

In Sanford Pre Wee League season openers at Chase Park, defending champ Clem Leonard Shell takes on Kokomo Tools at 4:30 p.m. Adcock Roofing plays Gracey Construction Co. at 7 p.m. and McRoberts Tires tangles with Butch's Chevrolet at 7:30 p.m.

Leading only 3-2, Poppa Jay's scored 18 runs on 16 hits in the top of the third. Ronald Blake and Melvin Stevens each had three hits in the third inning.

Leading the hit parade for Poppa Jay's was Edward Gordon with four triples. Melvin Stevens had a double and three singles and Steve Johnson had four singles. Ronald Blake and George Gordon each had a double and two singles.

Willie Grayson, Leonard Lucas and George Irwin had doubles for Rinker.

Little National

First Federal scored five runs in the bottom of the first, but then fell behind 7-5 over the next two innings. First Federal closed the game with a single run in the bottom of the third before Cardinal Industries scored four runs in the top of the fifth.

First Federal bounced back with four runs in the bottom of the fifth, again cutting the margin to just one run. Cardinal picked up its final run in the top of the sixth, but First Federal scored three times in the bottom of the inning for the win.

Winning pitcher Mike Rumler and Bill Shaw each had a double and single for First Federal.

Tyrone Lee led an 11-hit attack for Cardinal Industries with a home run and double. Burnett Washington had a triple and single, while Shawanta Green added a double and single.

D.A.V. scored five runs in the top of the first, but the Railroaders pecked away at the lead and finally won by one run.

John Ketter had a double and single for the Railroaders, Chuck Roll belted a home run and winning pitcher Theron Tepabock and Arthur Bradford each had doubles.

Joe Barrett had three of the four D.A.V. hits.

Rotary Knocked Off; 3 Within 1/2 Game

Three teams are all even in the loss column in the first half race in the Sanford Junior League after Kiwanis beat first place Rotary 9-3 Monday night.

Rotary, 7-3, is hanging onto a half-game lead, having played one more game than either Kiwanis or Knights of Columbus, which both have a rain-out game to make up. Kiwanis and Knights of Columbus also have two losses apiece.

Rotary plays Knights of Columbus Friday in another key game.

In Monday's other game, Master's Cove Apartments scored twice in the bottom of the ninth to beat Elks 8-7 in an extra-inning thriller.

Kiwanis scored three runs in the bottom of the first and led the entire game. After Theodore Graham was safe on an error to open the first inning for Kiwanis, Dexter Debose stroked a single. Alvin Jones walked with one out to load the bases and another walk and a hit batter forced in two runs. The third run was scored on a passed ball.

Junior League

Kiwanis added two runs in the bottom of the second. After two walks to open the inning, Dexter Debose drove in one run with a single and Bryan Debose scored the other with a ground out.

Rotary, which had scored one run in the second, added a pair in the top of the third to pull to within two runs. Greg Pond had the only hit of the inning.

Kiwanis made it 6-3 with a run in the bottom of the third and the score was unchanged until the bottom of the sixth when Kiwanis scored three runs without a hit.

Dexter Debose and Dexter Franklin had two hits apiece for Kiwanis, while Pond had a pair of hits for Rotary. Dexter Franklin was the winning pitcher, although he needed relief from Dewayne Mitchell.

Dee Johnson reached first on a missed third strike with one out in the bottom of the first and Noy Rivers tripled to put Master's Cove in front 1-

Salerno's Too Good For Orlando, But He'll Fight Anyway

(Editors note: James Salerno was a high school student at Lake Howell in 1977. At age 15, he became the youngest boxer ever to turn professional. Now 29, he is considered by his manager Angelo Dundee as one of the up-and-coming light heavyweights in the world.)

James Salerno is too good to fight in Orlando (the "Unsports" city) but he's going to do it anyway.

"What's going on here? Where is everybody?" the brash light-heavyweight who used to attend Lake Howell High School wanted to know Monday. "When I fight in Miami or Las Vegas, I'm front page (sports section) news. Here, take a look at this Miami News."

The scene was the House of Beef at John Young and Colonial in Orlando. The news media numbered one (yours truly) until several calls to the Sentinel Star — oops, The Orlando Sentinel — dispatched Jimmy Rickenbacker. No, he's not Brian Schmitz, but the Sentinel's resident boxing expert was tired from chasing around race cars. Despite the sparse gathering, Salerno was witty enough and cocky enough to keep everybody entertained. If he's everything he says he is, this 6-foot-4, 175-pounder is one darn good fighter.

Let's take a look at the record. In 29 fights, Salerno has won 27. His losses were split decision setbacks to Leon McDonald. One came after just completing his Marine duty when he said he wasn't in shape.

The other came in McDonald's home town of Fort Lauderdale. You know how it is when you fight in the other guy's home town.

Both came when Orlando's legendary trainer Jimmy Williams wasn't in Salerno's corner.

After it happened the second time, Williams said, "Enough of this jive. I'm going to shadow this boy."

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

Ironically, the Sports Stadium, now known as the Eddie Graham Sports Complex, will be the site of Salerno's Friday night 10-rounder against Anthony Phillips from Savannah, Ga., a bullish 5-foot-10 and 175 pounds.

"They better get a good look at him this time around," Dundee said recently. "Because Orlando won't be able to afford him again."

Salerno is fighting to try and revive the old boxing spirit that once lingered in this area. A spirit which promoter Wally Zoak feels can be rekindled.

While Salerno is quick to agree with Dundee about the cruiser crown, he also has his eye on something else — the world light-heavyweight title.

Dwight Braxton is the WBC holder and Michael Spinks is the WBA man to beat.

"I'll beat Braxton. I'm not worried about him. I'll just keep talking and hyping it and winning and he'll have to fight me," Salerno points out. "Then I'll get Spinks. I've sparred with him and he couldn't do nothing with me."

"Spinks is a dog, so you gotta fight him like a dog. He can bang a little bit, but I'm too fast for him. I just dance and stick and move. I could put Arthur Murray to shame the way I move."

Salerno caught Dundee's eye one day when he was sparring with then light-heavyweight champion Victor Galindez. Salerno was giving Galindez a pretty good working over when the champion suddenly threw down his gloves and stalked out of the ring, saying he wouldn't spar with the rangy Salerno again.

IN BRIEF

Expecting Budget Defeat, Reagan Plots Next Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, expecting a major legislative defeat in the first round of his budget battle, has arranged a strategy session with House Republican budget panel members to decide on a fallback position.

Reagan, meeting with Senate Republican leaders Monday, signaled a willingness to try again for a compromise with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and other Democratic leaders. But a White House aide said they did not expect the picture to change and that Republican lieutenants would proceed to work on a bill they believe has a chance of passage.

Reagans Visit Black Family

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — President Reagan, visiting a black family who saw a cross burned on their lawn, says he came to comfort them and to tell them such treatment "should not be a part of 1982 America."

Reagan, accompanied by his wife, Nancy, flew by helicopter to the quiet suburban neighborhood Monday, surprising Philip and Barbara Butler and their neighbors, who gathered outside the house to gape.

Voting Rights Compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A conservative-liberal coalition in the Senate Judiciary Committee claims overwhelming support, even from President Reagan, of a compromise extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

But Chairman Strom Thurmond is not satisfied. Even after Reagan give his "heartfelt support," Thurmond stood by his earlier reaction that the compromise proposal was only a "step in the right direction" and that problems remained that he hoped can be worked out.

Pasadena's Mayor Unique

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Loretta Thompson Glickman has become the city's first black mayor and the first black woman ever to serve as mayor of a large American city.

Mrs. Glickman, 38, an investment counselor and former teacher, was sworn into office Monday. She was elected to the city's Board of Directors in 1977, when she became only the second black and second woman to serve on that body.

Myths Of Masculinity Course Slated At SCC

Seminole Community College will offer a "Myths of Masculinity" class beginning May 11. Class will meet each Tuesday for four weeks from 7 to 9:00 p.m. in room S-206. The cost is $5.

The class is designed to assist men in coping with feelings of discomfort about expectations of them resulting from increasing pressures to change their traditional masculine values as communicated through the mass media, family, and friends.

Students will examine the messages males receive about masculinity from childhood through the early adult years and explore the resulting attitudes and how the attitudes relate to present needs.

For more information, call SCC's Office of Community Services at 323-1450, ext. 304.

NATIONAL REPORT: Heavy thunderstorms with 35-mph winds rumbled through the Northern Plains today, battering Minnesota with hail the size of tennis balls. Clear skies and warm weather graced much of the nation — with temperatures as high as the 90s. The storms produced locally heavy rains in Minnesota, where Becker County reported tennis ball-sized hail Monday night. Golf ball-size hail pelted North Dakota and thundershowers soaked the Central High Plains. Small streams were filled to their banks by melting snow and light showers in Utah. National Weather Service forecasters said 25 mph winds hit Sioux Falls, S.D., Monday and heavy rains soaked Fargo, N.D., and Pelican Lakes, Minn. More than an inch of rain hit West Palm Beach and about an inch was reported in Hollywood, Fla.

4 Men Charged In Gang Rape At Party

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Four Altamonte Springs men are free from the Seminole County jail today on $1,500 bond while police seek two other men, all of whom are suspects in the March gang rape of a 23-year-old Orlando woman.

Honein Michel Loutfi, 24, of 803 Dearborn Ave., Joseph Antoin George, 25, and Bassam George, 26, both of 708 Gregory Court, were arrested Monday and charged with sexual battery, according to jail officials.

Joseph Francis DeRosso, 34, of Silver Oak Lane, was arrested Saturday jail officials said.

Police are still looking for Bassam Hussein, 22, of Graham Road, Fern Park, and Mufid Habib, 30, of West Lake Circle, Longwood, in connection with the incident.

The victim told police she was raped at a party March 7 at a Sandy Cove condominium in Altamonte Springs. She told police that prior to the attack, she had met a female friend at Freddie's Steak House restaurant in Fern Park. Later, the two women, were reportedly invited to a party by one of the restaurant employees who is a suspect in the assault, police said.

Three of the men charged in the attack are employees of the restaurant. The victim's girlfriend is also employed there, police said.

The Orlando woman told police that after they arrived at the party her friend was locked out of the condominium while she was raped by all six men.

SUSPECTED 'WEEKEND RAPIST' ARRESTED

Seminole County sheriff's deputies are in Orlando today in hopes of determining if a man arrested Saturday in Orange County is the "weekend rapist" believed responsible for 20 rapes and over 100 burglaries in the two counties during the past year.

Allen Leon Frazier, a 33-year-old Orlando construction worker, of 6008 W. Gore St., was arrested Saturday on charges of burglary and is also being held as a suspect in numerous rapes and burglaries in Seminole and Orange counties, deputies said.

Orange County deputies arrested Frazier on International Drive after he allegedly burglarized four northwest Orange County homes and tried to break into another, investigators said. Deputies have charged him with two of the burglaries. He is being held without bond in the Orange County jail. Orlando police, with search warrant in hand, went to Frazier's Gore Street home which he shares with his grandmother, and recovered jewelry and other items believed by police to have been stolen in burglaries linked to the so-called weekend rapist, investigators reported.

Police records indicate that Frazier has been arrested twice on rape charges and has been under surveillance by a task force of investigators, SWAT team members from area police and sheriff's departments and the Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation (MBI). The task force was formed in February to investigate a large number of rapes and burglaries in Orlando, officials said.

While investigators say they were observing several suspects, they narrowed their investigation to Frazier because of his previous criminal background.

During the investigation, an electronic tracking device was secretly mounted to Frazier's car to allow officers to follow him, police said, which resulted in his arrest Saturday.

The "weekend rapist" was so named by police because of a series of rapes which began Memorial Day weekend last year. Police believe the same person is responsible for two rapes and at least six burglaries in Orlando over the holiday and may be responsible for rapes that have occurred every weekend for the next three months.

Police say the weekend rapist, who has struck throughout Orange County and in south Seminole County, usually committed several burglaries a day between 3 and 6 a.m. Later in the morning, he reportedly would break into a woman's home, assault and rob her at knifepoint, police added.

LIFE MURAL

A 200-foot mural created in acrylics by Walt Disney World artist Randy Ogren now encircles the Spring Lake Elementary School activity center depicting human growth and social development from birth to adulthood and marriage. The four panels are each four feet high. Ogren was commissioned to design and paint the mural by the Spring Lake Parent Teacher Association which raised the $2,500 cost of the design.

More Falklands Fighting

United Press International
British forces from the Falklands task force have been involved in an unspecified "further action" since the sinking of the Argentine cruiser General Belgrano, the British Ministry of Defense said today.

Argentina announced that an additional 400 sailors have been rescued from the sea after the sinking of the cruiser.

"There has been further action of which I don't have full details," a ministry spokesman said.

At 10 Downing Street, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher met with the full cabinet after being briefed by her war cabinet, which includes Defense Secretary John Nott, Foreign Secretary Francis Pym and Home Secretary William Whitelaw.

Both Pym and Nott were scheduled to make statements on the Falklands crisis to Parliament later in the day.

A communique from the military junta said another 15 rescue ships were still cruising the area where the Belgrano was torpedoed and sank two days ago after an attack by a British nuclear submarine.

Last night the junta announced 123 sailors had been rescued. A military spokesman said the revised figure of 400 rescued included the 123 rescued from the sea Monday.

The communique said that the rescued crewmembers are aboard the Argentine patrol boat Buruchaga "which is on its way to the port of Ushuaia. The rescue operations continue."

The new figure brings the total saved to 400 out of a total crew of 1,042.

While Argentine patrol boats searched for survivors near Tierra del Fuego, British ships were within 50 miles of the Falklands, possibly for a major landing assault, well-placed sources told the private Noticias Argentinas news agency.

Chances for a British landing on the islands seized April 2 by Argentine forces improved as weather conditions in the region cleared. The National Weather service in Washington said infrared satellite photographs showed a wide front with associated cloudiness had moved off to the north of the Falklands. Speaking to reporters Monday in London for the first time since hostilities erupted Saturday, Nott said an invasion of the islands was justified because they are owned by Britain and inhabited by its subjects.

"We do not seek surrender, but we want them to withdraw and then to go into negotiations for a long-term solution," Nott said. "But they must withdraw first."

Pym briefed Mrs. Thatcher on his weekend meetings with officials in Washington and at the United Nations.

Mrs. Thatcher later met with her war cabinet — Pym, Nott and Whitelaw — before briefing the full cabinet on the latest developments, including the sinking Sunday of Argentina's only cruiser, the General Belgrano.

Members of the war cabinet refused to comment as they entered Mrs. Thatcher's office.

In Lima, two envoys of Argentine President Leopoldo Galtieri met Monday with Peruvian President Fernando Belaunde Terry to explain the military junta's rejection of a new U.S.-proposed peace plan, official sources said.

Belaunde declined comment on the meeting but Peruvian Foreign Ministry sources said the Argentine envoys were more interested in military aid than in the peace plan.

Britain's latest requisition to its 80-ship task force, Cunard's luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2, sailed into Southampton to disgorge cruise passengers and gear up to bring 3,000 more troops to the South Atlantic.

An Argentine patrol boat was sunk Monday and another heavily damaged in a British helicopter attack within the 200-mile blockade zone, enforced by both countries around the islands. Argentina said the boat was searching for a downed pilot.

Argentine patrol boats equipped with powerful floodlights searched the treacherous waters 140 miles southeast of Tierra del Fuego for lifeboats that can carry 20-25 people apiece, a Navy spokesman said. Waves were reported 40 feet high.

Several lifeboats from the Belgrano were spotted, it said. Hospitals and clinics in southern coastal ports were told to prepare to receive survivors.

Public Wants Water Pollution Laws Tightened

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — An overwhelming majority of Floridians are concerned abt the quality of their water and want strict laws to control water pollution, a University of Florida survey indicates.

The Florida Clean Water Survey polled 2,000 Florida residents. Forty-nine percent responded. The survey was conducted last November and December by the UF Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences as part of a program to educate farmers and the general public about non-direct pollution sources.

The survey said 95 percent of the participants wanted stricter water pollution laws.

"People were quick to support clean water," Barry Baldwin, associate professor and the IFAS survey director, said Monday. "But there were many opinions on how this goal should be achieved."

Thirty-two percent of the respondents said in some cases they would be willing to drink bottled water and tolerate poorer water quality, while 36 percent felt water quality should be a matter of personal responsibility.

"I was surprised to see that although everyone thought we ought to have clean water, not too many people knew much about the issues involved," Baldwin said.

"For example, over half of them thought that water pollution is caused mostly by industries and sewage treatment plants."

In fact, more than half the pollution in Florida's waterways is from indirect sources.

Baldwin said storm water washing off city streets, construction sites, housing developments, mines, forests and farms carries tars, oils, heavy metals, eroded soil, animal wastes and chemicals into rivers and streams.

He said 67 percent of the respondents did not know pollutants can be removed from discharge water by detaining the water in settling ponds. However, 80 percent said the swamps and marshes have a purifying effect on water.

Most of those answering the survey knew that septic tanks can cause water pollution and that organic substances can be as harmful to aquatic life as inorganic materials.

On the other hand, most admitted ignorance of the state's storm water rule, which governs runoff pollution from housing developments, farmland and other large drainage systems.

serve. He mentions another possibility: "Instead of dumping water from Keller Road into the Little Wekiva and then into the Atlantic Ocean, we are in the planning stages of possibly recharging the aquifer by percolating and re-using that water."

"There's no way to get water to the aquifer if you run it off to the ocean," Oviedo's Jones agrees. "Once that water gets back in the ground or to the ocean, it's gone. We need to recycle that water, the so-called gray water, while it's on top of the ground. If we don't do something, we'll destroy our lakes, streams, rivers and ourselves. We've already ruined our forests and land. Will water be next? If so, that's the end of us."

The three water experts say they are required by the state Department of Environmental Regulation to submit monthly and tri-monthly reports and water samples to ensure that the water meets state standards for human consumption. All three cities met those standards in recent reports to the state.

"Oh, I won't say we've never had a bad report, because we have," Casselberry's Keuling says. "But there are so many things that can cause you take a bad sample that when we get an unsatisfactory result from the state laboratory we do the test over twice and, to my knowledge, have satisfied the state."

"I can honestly say, though, that for the most part Florida water is safe," he continues. "We just don't have to treat our water here as harshly as other cities do."

Keuling adds that Casselberry is one of the first municipalities to voluntarily conduct tests for carcinogens (cancer-causing agents) in drinking water. He says each test costs about $70 but that "it is well worth it."

"We hit about 300 carcinogen parts per billion (ppb) about a year ago, and it was in all the papers, but it was a fluke," he explains. "We run about 30 ppb or so now, which is under the state allowance. In fact, the state is proud of our efforts to prevent carcinogens in the water. But that one sample did shake a lot of people up."

Hill says Altamonte Springs' tests for carcinogens have shown about 39 ppb, which she says is allowed by the state. On the other hand, Oviedo reports its tests have shown "less than one part per billion of trihalomethanes" (THMs), a primary cancer suspect, Jones notes.

"It's our job, our responsibility, to provide the best water possible to our people," Hill says. "We treat it by percolating it, aerating it, adding chlorine, and letting it settle. We also required people who use water softeners and other chemically treated water to have a back-flow preventer on their system. We don't want the possibility of something going wrong with their water because of their treatment of it and its contaminating the entire system."

Each water official stresses that his municipality is responsible for the water provided to residents and businesses "up to the water meter."

"After that, it's their water," Hill says. "But we are charged with providing good, potable water, and we do. If they choose to alter it, it's their responsibility. And although I don't know of many who do, some add softeners or whatever, and that's their choice. Water likes and dislikes are a matter of individual taste."

While each of these cities claims to provide quality water to its residents, what do the residents say about it? Are they satisfied?

"We get about three to five water-quality complaints a month," Altamonte Springs' Hill says. "Usually they call because they either smell chlorine or find the water appears milky, which can be caused by air in the water, or sediment caused by pipe construction or a break in the main. We just tell them to let it run a little to flush the system and bring in fresh water from the main. That chlorine smell a lot of times is just a false odor caused by a buildup of stale water in the pipes."

Hill adds that there was a resident who last year disconnected his water-softening device and reverted to city water because "he liked the taste of our water better."

"We really don't get any complaints," Oviedo's Jones says. "We, too, had a company take its softener off and come back to direct city water because it likes our water better, but the only complaint we may get is when, during peak use times, the water pressure goes down a little."

"We get few, if any complaints," says Casselberry's Keuling. "The major complaints we had is over the smell of sulfur when one of our plants kicks on to aerate the water, sending the smell out. And we get a few chlorine complaints — maybe 10 a year, and that's a high guess."

One area where the three men disagree is whether fluoride should be added to the system.

Keuling says that although it is city does not add fluoride to the water, as Oviedo and Altamonte Springs do, he would be in favor of adding it.

"I just haven't gotten around to proposing it yet," he says. "I think every city ought to use fluoride. It's a known deterrent on (tooth) cavities, and dentists recommend it in proper proportions to the water. But this is just another thing that is down the road."

But Hill and Jones maintain that as little as possible should be added to the water, and therefore do not advocate adding fluoride.

"All you need is a little free-flowing chlorine residual to disinfect the water, and that's all," Hill says. "I'm an environmentalist and conservationist at heart, and as long as I can do something about it I will try to keep the water as free of other elements as possible."

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Police Have Suspect In Heiress Slaying

STUART (UPI) — A tip has led investigators to a handgun and a car they believe may have been used in the abduction and murder of Evinrude heiress Frances Julia Slater. Authorities report they also have identified a suspect.

A progress report on the investigation of the murder was made jointly Monday by Martin County Sheriff James D. Holt and Stuart Police Chief Charles White. "We have one possible suspect tentatively identified, but his involvement has not yet been confirmed," said the joint statement. "No arrests have been made at this time, nor do they appear imminent."

Keys Roadblock To Continue

FLORIDA CITY (UPI) — The U.S. Border Patrol roadblock that has irked Florida Keys officials for two weeks will continue indefinitely in an off-and-on manner to catch illegal aliens, federal officials say.

Robert Adams Jr., Border Patrol chief for the Miami district, said Monday that the checkpoint at the north end of the Keys has helped accumulate important intelligence information. He said it also was the key factor in the capture of 44 illegal aliens and about 12 other persons on criminal charges since it was opened in an unannounced move April 18.

Drug Task Force At SCC Wednesday

A reorganizational meeting and election of new officers by the Seminole County Drug Awareness Task Force is scheduled for 8 a.m. Wednesday in building 8 on the Seminole Community College campus.

County Drug Education Counselor Tom Roll said the organization, formed two years ago to promote education and information about drug problems and treatment in the county school system, is "looking for some fresh blood."

"We need input from all aspects of the community," Roll said. "Anyone interested in the goals of the organization is invited to attend," he said.

The goals of the task force are to:

- Promote the disease concept of chemical dependency through education and information.
- Assure that appropriate agencies focus on early identification of chemical-dependency problems.
- Assure that appropriate agencies focus on the identification and rehabilitation of persons with chemical dependency problems.
- Increase public awareness and reduce the stigma of the disease of chemical dependency.

Supreme Court

Turns Back Death Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday disappointed condemned inmates in about a dozen states, refusing 6-3 to automatically set aside a death sentence even though the jury cited an invalid reason in assigning the punishment.

Without definitively settling the issue, the justices indicated they will rest the validity of such sentences on a state-by-state basis.

Three justices protested the action, arguing that if there are any questions surrounding imposition of a death sentence, the penalty should automatically be set aside and reconsidered.

The ruling temporarily gives the benefit of a doubt to the Georgia Supreme Court's decision upholding the death sentence of Alpha Otis O'Daniel Stephens.

Stephens was convicted of slaying a Georgia farmer in August 1974 after a jail escape. The Georgia court upheld his sentence, even though one of the three "aggravating circumstances" his jury cited in imposing the penalty was later thrown out as unconstitutional.

In an unusual move, the justices concluded they need more information to settle Stephens' case and asked the Georgia court to clarify its reasons for ruling that he can be executed, even though one of the aggravating circumstances the jury cited was later invalidated.

The same challenge raised by Stephens either has arisen or may arise in the states of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri, Montana, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah and Wyoming.

To Hear Election Challenge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has agreed to hear 1980 presidential candidate John Anderson's challenge to state election laws that make it difficult for independents to get on the ballot.

Stepping into a political controversy that could open the door to more third-party bids for the White House in 1984, the justices next fall will consider an appeal by Anderson, a former GOP congressman who dropped out of the Republican race in 1980 to run on his own.

The high court will review a decision that upheld Ohio's requirements, similar to those in other states, that compel a presidential candidate to qualify for the ballot as much as 7 1/2 months before the general election — long before the deadline for Democrats and Republicans.

Before departing for a two-week recess, the high court also:

—Made it more difficult for a woman to win a lawsuit against Ford Motor Co., refusing to disturb a ruling barring the woman from introducing evidence that Ford has acknowledged a problem with its automatic transmissions that sometimes slip into reverse gear when the transmission appears to be in park.

—Refused to hear an appeal by two Washington state political leaders and a lobbyist, who challenged their convictions in an Abcam-style FBI investigation of political corruption.

—Agreed to decide whether men retiring from government jobs are illegally being denied Social Security benefits while their female counterparts continue to collect.

Hinckley Jury Picked; Reagan Will Not Testify

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A predominantly black jury, including a garage attendant, a janitor and a woman who worked with disturbed teenagers, will be asked to judge John W. Hinckley Jr.'s sanity on the day he allegedly shot President Reagan.

Reagan will not testify in what would have been a historic confrontation with his accused assailant, prosecutors disclosed Monday shortly after the panel was picked. U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker scheduled opening arguments to begin today.

The jury finally chosen on the fifth day of Hinckley's trial includes 11 blacks and one white — the daughter of a Milwaukee surgeon. She told the judge she has a master's degree in special education and has worked with disturbed teenagers.

Other jurors are a woman with a son who worked as a private security guard, a garage attendant, a mechanic and a secretary. Six alternates, all black, also were selected.

The jury, which will not be sequestered for the trial, likely will hear testimony from two victims — Secret Service Agent Timothy McCarthy who was shot in the stomach and retired police officer Thomas Delahanty, wounded in the neck.

Prosecutors have decided not to call White House press secretary James Brady, who suffered a grievous head wound and does not remember the shooting, according to government sources.

Hinckley, 26, is accused of trying to kill Reagan and assault with intent to kill Brady and the two law enforcement officials in the attack on March 30, 1981 outside a Washington hotel. He has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

CLG To Meet Wednesday

The Florida Legislature's 1982 work on reapportionment and other major issues will be reported to the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County by the county's two resident legislators at a 7:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday.

The meeting will be held at Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave. State Reps. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, and Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, will explain Seminole County's position in the redistricting for state House of Representatives and Senate seats.

They will also talk about the problems the Legislature has had with redistricting for congressional seats. Florida is to have a total of 19 congressmen, four more than it has now, when the 1983 session of the U.S. Congress convenes.

While Brantley preferred a congressional district linking some part of Seminole County with Orange, Hattaway supported a plan keeping Seminole in one district with Marion and Alachua counties and part of Lake County.

The two also split their votes on the one cent increase in the sales tax — from four to five cents per dollar — which went into effect May 1.

Hattaway supported the tax while Brantley opposed it. The Council of Local Governments in Seminole County is composed of delegates representing all seven cities in the county and a representative of the county commission.
