Shoes May Cause His Foot Calluses

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I suffer from calluses on my big toes, the left side of each foot and underneath the sides of each foot. What causes calluses and what is the remedy to correct them? I do a lot of walking.

DEAR READER—A person who uses his hands a lot in hard labor, such as a farm worker, may develop calluses on the palm of the hand. That's from friction and rubbing that stimulates an overgrowth of the hard outer layer of the skin. The same thing is true of your feet. Those calluses are formed where you have the most pressure and rubbing against the skin. That could be because of an uneven weight distribution on your feet.

If the calluses are on the sides of the foot as well, it suggests that your shoes may not fit properly. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 11-10, Common Foot Problems: What To Do About Them. It includes a section on calluses as well as athlete's feet, flat feet and heel spurts.

Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1851, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

For calluses on the bottom of the foot associated with uneven weight bearing, doctors sometimes cut a little pad for the bottom of the foot for all the areas except where the callus is. This means that the padded area bears the most weight and it helps to relieve the pressure over the unpadded callus area.

Meanwhile, may I suggest that you should be very thankful. Sometimes it's better not to have enough than to have too much. As you get a little older, you may find that you have too much of a good thing. Then you'll be like most of the other people who write me about excess fat deposits.

For Tuesday, July 8, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY July 8, 1980

Your prospects for the coming year are encouraging, provided you don't have too many irons in the fire. You'll fare better in the long run handling enterprises or projects one at a time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be very careful today not to be possibly misunderstanding with a friend and of proportion. Exaggerating the situation could really cause a problem. Romance travels a luck, however, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail it for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birthday.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A tendency to spend unnecessarily or unwisely must be held in check today. Foolish purchases will later cause buyer's remorse.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your desire to fulfill ambitions is admirable, but today you may make an enemy in the process if you are too self-serving.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things will go smoothly today if you see them for what they are. Don't kid yourself into believing something is easy when it isn't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Business or commercial matters could be a tricky tricky today. In areas where

Oswald: "Yes. East won and led a second trump." Alan: "So ready now. South won in dummy. He had the jack of clubs and led it. He didn't care if the finesse were going to lose because West could not lead another trump. He had shown out on the second trump lead. As we can see that club queen is in the West hand. If West takes his queen South will be able to ruff one spade with dummy's last trump, draw trumps and eventually discard his last spade on the long club in dummy. But West doesn't take his queen at that first opportunity."

Oswald: "You've it. West let the jack hold. Now South overtook that possibility and led a second club to his ten. He intended to make an overtrick by ruffing his last spade, coming back to his hand with the king of clubs, drawing trumps, etc."

Alan: "Then West produced his queen, led a third club and East ruffed."

Oswald: "Green is a terrible thing and South's good cost him the rubber when he found an unusual way to get himself

Carter Pledges Auto Help

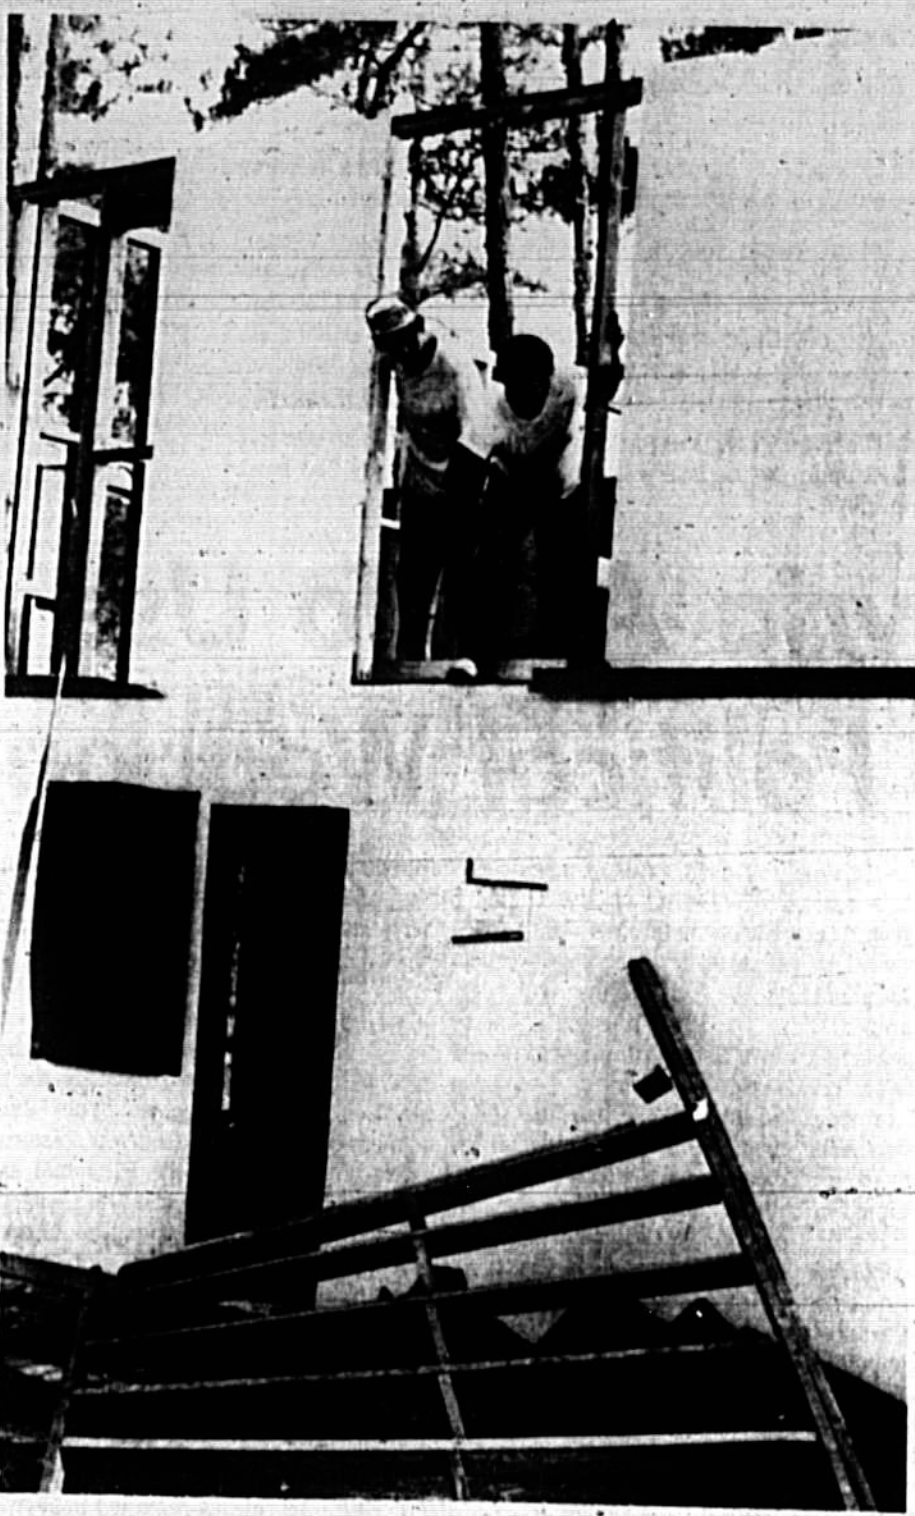

DETROIT (UPI)—President Carter today proclaimed a new era of partnership between the government and the nations automakers and said his administration will recommend nearly $1 billion in aid to the battered industry.

Carter made the announcement after meeting for nearly an hour with top executives of the five U.S. automakers and United Auto Workers union during a one-hour stopover en route to Japan.

Describing the closed-door session at Detroit Metro Airport as an historic meeting, Carter said he will recommend changes in future automotive regulations that will free $500 million in cash for the domestic auto industry.

He also called for $50 million and special assistance for cities with high auto-related unemployment and a program providing training and job opportunities for 200 million and $400 million in guaranteed loans for hard-pressed auto dealers.

Carter also said he would ask for an accelerated ruling from the International Trade Commission on a petition filed by the UAW seeking to limit imports of foreign automobiles.

Closed Hearing Committee Upholds McClanahan Firing

After meeting for more than five hours behind closed doors, a grievance committee for the Seminole County Mental Health Center voted 4 to 1 to uphold the recent firing of A. A. "Mac" McClanahan, a 19,200-a-year personnel director with the health group, was fired June 26 by the center's new director for attempting to tape-record a staff meeting.

But whether Monday night's grievance committee action is binding remained unclear today. Ivan Bowers, a member of the board of directors who did not serve on the grievance committee, said this morning the guidelines on final authority in such matters is unclear.

The grievance committee's action will now go before the entire board at its July 24th meeting and Bowers said he will ask the board's attorney to issue a legal opinion on whether the vote by the grievance committee to uphold the firing is binding, or if the total board of directors must vote to accept the committee's action.

The center's director, Dr. George Lindenfeld, said he considered the attempted tape-recording unethical and unprofessional and dismissed McClanahan the same day. McClanahan later said he tried to tape the meeting because a secretary who ordinarily would have kept minutes was absent, but he mistakenly put the recorder on rewind instead of record.

McClanahan appealed the firing and the grievance committee of five members was set up to hear testimony Monday night at the center's Crane Room offices in Altamonte Springs.

However, although McClanahan asked that the public and press be allowed to sit in on the meeting, the committee decided to hold it behind closed doors on the advice of one of its members, Bill Fernandez, of Altamonte Springs, a lawyer and legal counsel for the mental health center's board of directors.

Fernandez said it was his opinion the grievance committee should hold the meeting in private to avoid embarrassing or intimidating witnesses and to expedite the proceedings, according to Bowers.

About 20 persons attempted to sit in on the hearing Monday night, according to McClanahan, but a committee member ordered them to leave the meeting room and wait in another part of the building.

"It really stinks about this," Mrs. McClanahan said today. "I thought the meeting would be open to the public and the whole thing straightened out. But I guess that's not what the committee really wanted. I was so upset last night. That man who told us we couldn't stay inside the meeting room told me

The president said he was motivated by concern for the more than 246,000 indefinitely laid-off U.S. auto workers and hundreds of thousands more who have been laid in parts and supplier industries as well as by the need to help the auto industry retol to meet the demand for fuel-efficient cars.

In some cases, the presidents recommended full short of requests for aid that had been denied by some auto executives and the UAW.

But Carter said the plan he outlined today is just a first step in what he described as a new very close-knit partnership between the government and the auto industry.

Carter made the announcement as Republican officials gathered here for next week's national nominating contest. GOP officials have accused the president of blatant politics and trying to sidestep the meeting.

Following today's one-hour stop, the president flew to Japan—Detroit's chief foreign car rival—for memorial services honoring the late Prime Minister Masayoshi Oshira.

Carter arrived at Detroit Metropolitan Airport at 7:05 a.m. EDT from Plains, Ga., and went quickly to a private meeting room for the session with top industry executives and union leaders.

He was literally worked day and night to come up with a proposal, he said before the meeting, which included U.S. trade negotiator Rubin Askew.

Inside the meeting room, Carter sat between General Motors Corp. Chairman Thomas Murphy on his left and United Auto Workers union President Douglas Fraser on his right.

BENNETTS LOSE FIGHT FOR HOME

Lake Mary Maintenance Department workers Robert Lee Perry (left) and Lee Perry began dismantling the controversial house which was under construction by Terry Bennett on Pine Circle Drive. The structure was condemned by the city after the Lake Mary Council refused to grant an extension to the year-old building permit. Bennett, while building his home, ran afoul of city building codes and was ordered three months ago to halt construction until deficiencies were corrected or face legal action. City Manager Paul Kufkes said the building was being torn down piece by piece to salvage as much of the material as possible.

Bowers said he will ask the board's attorney to issue a legal opinion on whether the vote by the grievance committee to uphold the firing is binding, or if the total board of directors must vote to accept the committee's action.

The hearing began shortly after 7 p.m. and those spectators and witnesses who remained until it ended at about 12:30 a.m. said various witnesses were called to testify throughout the night.

McClanahan, who could not be reached for comment today, has recourse to the courts, according to the mental health center's guidelines, and had indicated before the hearing if his dismissal were upheld he would carry the matter further.

"I can't say today whether he'll take it to court, but I remember Mac telling me awhile ago that he wouldn't lie down and die on this thing, so I guess that tells you something," Bowers said.

Those who served on the grievance committee Monday night were: Fernandez, Jerry LeBoy of Longwood, an insurance man; Mrs. Thelma Mink of Sanford, treasurer of the Good Samaritan Home; Bob Hosen of Altamonte Springs, affiliated with York Associates Inc. of Winter Park; and Charles Ditta a therapist with the mental health center.

Bowers said before the grievance committee voted Monday night, everyone permitted to attend the hearing had to leave the room unless a committee member said the vote was by secret ballot. That committee member, Mrs. Mike, however, said the outcome was 4 to 1 to uphold McClanahan's firing, but would not divulge how she voted.

Mrs. Mike said she is confident the entire matter will be made public at the board of directors' July 24th meeting.

Bowers said the board of directors has a capacity of 20 members, but there are only 17 or 18 serving.—TOM GIORDANO

Gasoline Surplus Could Spark Price Wars

United Press International

Dwindling U.S. demand for gasoline—as its lowest level in nine years—has been causing storage problems for oil companies and could spark local price wars by the end of the summer, an independent petroleum report says.

The Lundberg Letter said Monday that Americans burned an estimated 6.59 million barrels of gasoline a day on the highways in June, down 2 percent from May, and the smallest amount since June 1971, when 6.45 million barrels a day were consumed.

July could turn out to be the even bigger problem before Memorial Day, the letter said. It is unheard of for gasoline stocks to grow after (Memorial Day), which traditionally marks the beginning of the summer driving season, Lundberg said.

Up to now it has appeared that excess gasoline would soften prices—retail and even wholesale—but not reduce them, the letter said.

Many Americans have held off major purchases in the last few months, either because they could not obtain bank loans or felt the interest rates were too high. The resulting sales slump has severely affected the construction and auto industries, leading to massive employee layoffs. In June, the average U.S. pump price

Banks Again Lowering Prime Lending Rates

The Post also said the administration has drafted its alternative to Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan's tax-cut plan for business.

More than two dozen banks lowered their prime lending rates by a quarter of a percent to 11.5 percent Monday, following the federal government's decision last week to phase out credit restraints.

Since the prime is tied to other short-term interest rates, it is viewed as a barometer of loan costs to businesses and consumers. But there is no way to tell how soon the other interest rates will drop.

Wholesale Prices Rise 0.8%

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prices at the wholesale level increased 0.8 percent in June as the cost of virtually everything but energy was on the rise, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said its Producer Price Index rose at a compound annual rate of 9.9 percent last month. That was a solid increase over April and May.

The cost of food and long-lasting consumer products such as automobiles and appliances grew considerably faster in June than they had in earlier months and accounted for most of the increase. President Carter's economic advisers

Guaranty Trust and three other banks went from 12 percent to 11.5 percent last week ago. Twenty-five banks then followed Chase Manhattan lead.

First Pacific, based in Beverly Hills, Calif., broke ranks with the rest of the industry and dropped its prime to 10 percent.

The government's announcement last week it would completely eliminate the credit restrictions spurred the latest round of decreases.

Chase Manhattan Bank triggered the new round of price-cutting early Monday, ending the two-year prime rate structure that had existed since Morgan

Swamp Fire Smolders In Tanglewood Area

Thick smoke surrounded the Tanglewood-Winter Woods area Monday afternoon almost obscuring the sun as the result of a fire that broke out earlier in the afternoon burning approximately 100 acres of swampy area and threatening several homes.

The blaze was brought under control by Seminole County, Casselberry and Forest Service firefighters, but it may be weeks before the fire is completely out and residents get relief from the smoke, according to Seminole County Battalion Chief Bill Kinley, who said, "We've done all we can do. It will take a heavy rain to put it out completely."

Fire officials think the fire was started by children playing with fire crackers or matches. For the past 10 years the past boys have burned long periods about once a year during the dry season.

The Tanglewood-Winter Woods area of southeast Seminole County, Casselberry and Forest Service firefighters. A Forest Service truck (above) was used to transport bulldozer for making fire break was parked behind houses on Nottingham Road.

Sadri Takes Hall Of Fame Opener

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Top seeded John Sadri of Charlotte, N.C., defeated Bill Maze of Carmel, Calif., 6-2, 6-1, Monday in the opening round of the $100,000 Miller Hall of Fame tennis championships.

Sadri, ranked 22nd in the world, broke Maze in the fourth and eighth games of the first set and twice in the second set to record his easy win on the grass courts of the Newport Casino.

In other first round action, defending champion and No. 2 seed Brian Teacher of Los Angeles, Calif., outlasted Sashi Menon of Santa Clara, Calif., 3-6, 7-6, 6-3.

Teacher, who had dropped the first set before winning the next two sets over Stan Smith last year, started slowly again Monday in the only professional grass courts' championship tournament in the United States.

After dropping the first set, teacher Menon to 6-6 in the second set and with points at 2-3 in the 12-point tie breaker, ran off five straight points to even the match at one set each.

The two players traded service breaks in the first six games of the third set before Teacher broke Menon in the seventh game for a 4-3 lead. He then held service in game eight and game 10 to win the match.

In other action involving seeded players Monday, No. 3 seed Tim Gullickson of Boca Raton, Fla., defeated unseeded Byron Bertram of Johannesburg, South Africa, 6-4, 6-2.

No. 6 seed Peter Rennert of Great Neck, N.Y., defeated Jay Lapidus of Princeton, N.J., 6-4, 6-3 and No. 8 seed Butch Waltz of San Jose, Calif., defeated Francisco Gonzalez of Guaynabo, Puerto Rico, 7-6, 6-2.

Bruin's Cheevers Trades Skates For Clipboard

BOSTON (UPI) — Gerry Cheevers would have liked to stay on skates, but his knees told him, No way. And with the signs from the body unmistakably clear, the veteran goalie Monday ended a brilliant playing career to become coach of the Boston Bruins, the only coaching job he wanted or would take.

I thought of a line to describe all this — it's like death after life, Cheevers told reporters Monday. But it's not really that way. I wouldn't have taken the job if I didn't think I could do it.

The battling netminder turns 40 in December. He led the Bruins to Stanley Cup titles in 1970 and 1972. After carrying the bulk of the goal-tending load last season, Cheevers was told his knees, for which he has undergone two operations in the last two years, couldn't take another season.

It would have been almost impossible for me to play next year, said Cheevers, the teams fourth coach in the last 14 months. I might have been able to play sparingly, but that wouldn't be any good. The doctors told me I had less movement in my left knee, and that's the good one.

One of the most popular players on the club with his teammates, Cheevers said he anticipated no trouble in making the transition to coach.

For me, it should be easy. It probably will be harder for the players to adapt to me being the coach, said Cheevers. He doesn't plan an assistant unless I need one and will stick with two goalies — Gilles Gilbert and Jim Craig.

We have been close to winning the whole thing the last few years, who knows, maybe I'll provide the missing link, he said.

Cheevers dodged a question about his contract (I hope it's not monthly) and terms (the biggest pay cut in history of hockey, but that's not important).

Reaction from the players was positive, Cheevers said. I talked about it with them over some beers. Maybe the conversation wasn't always rational, but the reaction was mostly positive.

The Bruins coach Brad Park said he was looking forward to playing for Cheevers.

He has a Boston Bruins crest tattooed on his heart, said Park. I'm elated. He's kind of a free spirit, it will be entertaining to play for him. And he's one of the smartest guys in hockey. They couldn't have made a better choice.

Cheevers succeeds General Manager Harry Sinden, who took over the job on an interim basis after firing Fred Creighton in March.

Sagging Padres Send Fontaine Packing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The last-place San Diego Padres, dissatisfied with their lack of improvement in the National League West, fired Bob Fontaine as vice president and general manager today, the United Press International has learned.

Fontaine was brought into the Padres organization by Donnie Bavasi as scouting director and was promoted to general manager three years ago after Bavasi went to the California Angels.

Ballard Smith, the Padres president, has made no decision yet as to a replacement for Fontaine. Fontaine's departure, coupled with the Padres' inability to win only 34 games so far this season under first baseman Manager Jerry Coleman, creates the possibility Coleman may be moved up into the front office as director of player personnel and replaced as field manager by Doug Rader, presently managing the Hawaii Islanders, San Diego Triple A club in the Pacific Coast League.

Informed of Fontaine's dismissal, Dave Winfield, the Padres slugging right fielder who is a member of the National League All-Star team, expressed his surprise at the move.

Our team has been struggling, said Winfield, whom Fontaine had been attempting to sign to a new contract since his old one expires at the end of this season. I had heard they (the Padres) might make some dramatic change. I didn't know in what area it would be. I didn't anticipate this at all.

The Padres, 34-47 and 12 1/2 games behind first-place Houston in the West, have never finished higher than fourth in their division since joining the league in 1969. San Diego's best season came in 1970, when the club posted an 84-76 record and finished fourth.

Last year, the Padres slumped to 60-82 and fired Roger Craig as manager. They named former major-league and ex-broadcaster Coleman to replace Craig last Oct. 1.

PITCH, HIT AND RUN

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn proclaims July 7-13 National Pitch, Hit & Run Week as two young ballplayers eagerly look on. These youngsters will soon enter a Pitch, Hit & Run Local Competition in the hope of becoming one of 12 national finalists who will go to the 1980 World Series. Pitch, Hit & Run, open to boys and girls, ages 8-12, is the Official Youth Program of Major League Baseball and is sponsored by local Burger King restaurants.

Local Kids Participate At Two Sites

Chase Park, Five Points Complex Host Competition
Local youngsters who want to compete in Major League Baseball's 1980 Pitch, Hit & Run competition can do so on Saturday, July 9th at two different locations in Seminole County. The competition, open to both boys and girls between the ages of 8-13 and they are welcome to take part starting at 9:00 a.m. at either Chase Park in Sanford or the Five Points Sports Complex of Highway 17-92 in Winter Springs. The Sanford Recreation Department will conduct the Chase Park competition while Seminole County Youth Center will conduct the competition at Five Points Field. The key to success for the young competitors lies in three specific areas. Youngsters will test their pitching accuracy, hitting distance and speed on the base paths. One major change in this year's competition comes in the base running skill section. Previously competitors were clocked going from home plate to first base. This year the running competition will be judged on total time it takes to circle the bases.

Knicks Pleased With NBA Compensation Ruling

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks are saying they are pleased — but a ruling handed down Monday doesn't make it clear whether they should be or not. A court-appointed Special Master Monday ruled NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien awarded the compensation cases involving centers Marvin Webster and Bill Walton were excessive. Telford Taylor, acting under the Robertson Settlement Agreement between the NBA and the leagues Players Association, made the rulings and the ball is now back in O'Brien's court. The decision probably will result in O'Brien announcing new awards — with the San Diego Clippers getting a player from Portland and the Knicks getting back all or part of the $450,000 included in their package to Seattle. But, while the Knicks are saying they're happy about a possible end to what now is a two-year legal battle, they are overlooking the fact they were seeking a player rather than cash. From the beginning, the Knicks position was, quite simply, that the Webster award was excessive and constituted a penalty, a club spokesman said Monday. Two years and three judicial lawyers have finally determined that our position was correct. We are pleased that the various judicial opinions underscore the fact that our original action was well constituted and certainly not capricious. We are sure that the commissioner will benefit, as any of us would, from this second clear review as well as from the courts' guiding opinions and act fairly and expeditiously. The Knicks had asked that either Lonnie Shelton or Vernie Johnson (the player taken by Seattle in the 1975 draft as part of the ruling) be returned to New York. In deciding the case for the second time, Taylor rejected the request for a player and O'Brien now probably will order an exchange of money to recompensate the Knicks. The opinion of the Special Master makes it clear that to the extent that he found the award to be excessive, the difference can be accounted for by the return of some amount of cash to the Knicks, said NBA general counsel David J. Stern. This supports Commissioner O'Brien's earlier statement that any reduction of the award that might be necessary would be made without the displacement of players on the Seattle roster. It took Taylor 55 pages to explain the Walton decision. Walton left Portland to sign with San Diego before last season — with O'Brien awarding Kermil Washington, Kevin Kunnert, two first-round draft picks and $500,000 to the Blazers. This package, according to Taylor, was far above Walton's value, which he placed at $1,750,000. The NBA disagrees with this ruling and is still trying to slip through the legal jargon to come up with a final answer. But it appears the Clippers, who didn't get a whole lot out of Walton last season, will come out of it with another player. The Special Master decision in Walton is some 55 pages in length and extremely confusing, added Stern. And we are in the process of reviewing it. Since San Diego had itself placed a value of $2,250,000 on Walton in the proceeding before the commissioner, we believe the Special Master's decision is erroneous on its face. We will certainly be taking that position before Judge Robert L. Carter, who must make the final decision in this matter since the Special Masters opinion is only in the form of a recommendation to Judge Carter. In another decision, Taylor ruled that the NBA's ban on the drafting of junior eligibles be upheld. This years draft was the first in which junior eligibles were not selected. A college player now has to renounce his remaining eligibility in order to be drafted. Taylor agreed with the ban. In a ruling concerning the NBA Collective Bargaining Agreement, Arbitrator George Nicolaou rejected the players claim that Milwaukee exercise of an option to reacquire forward George Johnson from Denver was a violation of Johnson's contract.

FACE OF 80 S: WHO WILL SHE BE? A silhouette of a classical face, the symbol of a "new look" beauty search, is displayed by Gary Hollister, president of Merle Norman cosmetics, Los Angeles, and Eileen Ford, of Ford Models; New York. The companies are sponsoring a worldwide contest for a woman whose face most personifies the beauty and fashion "Face of the 80's". The contest is open to single or married women from 16 to 21; no modeling experience necessary. The winner, to be chosen in Monaco in September, receives a two-year Ford Models agency contract for "not less than $50,000," according to the sponsors. Applications are available at the Merle Norman studio in Sanford.

Parents Of Problem Child Should Take A Close Look

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago I wrote to you concerning a problem we were having with our son who was then in the third grade. His teacher told us he was having difficulty keeping up with his class because he couldn't read. (She even hinted that he might be "slightly retarded.") She said he was also a discipline problem and she couldn't recommend him for the fourth grade. I wrote to you in desperation, and you suggested I write to the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. I did, and want you to know that this organization has helped us enormously. Our "problem child" is now a high school senior who qualifies for college.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old. Many times I have started to write to you about my problem, but I always end up throwing the letter in the wastepaper basket. I have finally summed up my problem with these three questions: 1) What is a friend? 2) How do you get a trouble-maker and disrupts the class. That child could be brighter than average but afflicted with a hearing disability that is treatable if detected early.

GRATEFUL IN ELIZABETH, N.J. DEAR GRATEFUL: Thanks for this opportunity to advise other parents to take a closer look at their "clumsy" 3-year-old who can't sit still and reems hard to handle, or the slow learner who's a trouble-maker and disrupts the class. FRIENDLESS DEAR FRIENDLESS: A friend is someone who likes you and wants nothing of you.
