Sanford man stabbed

SANFORD — Delbert Miller Jr., 32, 217 1/2 E. 3rd Street, was stabbed in the back last night. Sanford police are seeking help in identifying the knife-wielding man.

According to police Commander Dennis Whitmire, "Mr. Miller was taking his garbage out, shortly before 8 p.m. last night, when this man approached him from the back and said, 'give me all your money.' When Mr. Miller said he didn't have any, the man stabbed him in the lower part of his back, and fled."

Whitmire said the knife was still in Miller when officers arrived, and was taped in place while he was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital for treatment of his wounds.

"He started complaining that he was having trouble moving his left leg," Whitmire said, "and apparently the medics didn't want to take any chances with trying to remove the knife, so they left it in until he could be treated at the hospital."

Whitmire said the only description police have of the attacker is that he was a black male, about six feet tall, with a heavy build and large beard.

"If anyone has any information on this case," Whitmire urged, "call us at the Sanford Police Station, 323-3030, or call Crimeline as soon as possible."

Abbarno found guilty

SANFORD — A 41-year old construction worker was found guilty Thursday of attempting to kill a nail salon employee and holding his ex-girlfriend against her will in October.

Robert Richard Abbarno was convicted of attempted second degree murder with a firearm, aggravated assault with a firearm, armed trespassing, armed false imprisonment and carrying a concealed weapon.

Sanford may seek grant to battle growing problem

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford may seek state help in the battle against juvenile crime. A state grant of up to $100,000 is available.

The matter is scheduled for discussion by commissioners during Monday afternoon's work session.

The Juvenile Justice System Act of 1993 provided funds to address the growth of juvenile crime, and the increase of children suspended or expelled from school.

Money to help these programs comes from the state's motor vehicle trust fund, and is set aside as an incentive to foster a reduction in juvenile crime.

According to information regarding the grant, it must be aimed at "...at-risk target age group."

Schools deal with effects of beer ads

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County schools try to see to it that youngsters understand the difference between commercials and reality, especially when it comes to alcohol and tobacco advertising.

Children not only see a lot of beer commercials, they remember them, according to a study that found 10-year-olds reciting slogans, reciting off brand names and saying they intended to drink frequently later in life.

"Much of the advertising in tobacco and alcohol are aimed at younger audiences," explained Tony Durham, drug prevention specialist with the Seminole County public schools.

"They have Joe Camel and things like the Bud Bowl that are aimed at kids. They aren't things that adults are really interested in."

The flashy, fun-filled scenes accompanied by pulsating music are just the type to grab a child's attention, while public service announcements warning of alcohol's

SANFORD — At a sold out event on Friday evening Seminole Community College stands to make quite a bit of money for its students.

The SCC Dream Auction will take place at the Sheraton Orlando North in Maitland.

The Dream Auction has been a favorite of philanthropists from across Seminole County and elsewhere in the state for a decade.

In addition to being a highly successful fund-raiser for the college, the evening is a much anticipated evening of entertainment.

"Everyone looks forward to the evening for the show that our auctioneer (former representative Art Grindie) puts on," said Dede Schaffner, co-chair of the college's Foundation Development Council.

Schaffner has been involved in the auction since its inception.

"It's gotten bigger every year," she said. "And it has been sold out the last few years."

The Dream Auction is expected to bring in at least $50,000 for the Waterfront development: What next?

Official airs views on getting there from here

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission, during a work session, failed to approve a request for funds to hire University of Florida planners for lakefront development. Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee Chairman Larry Strickler doesn't see this as a setback, but as a realization.

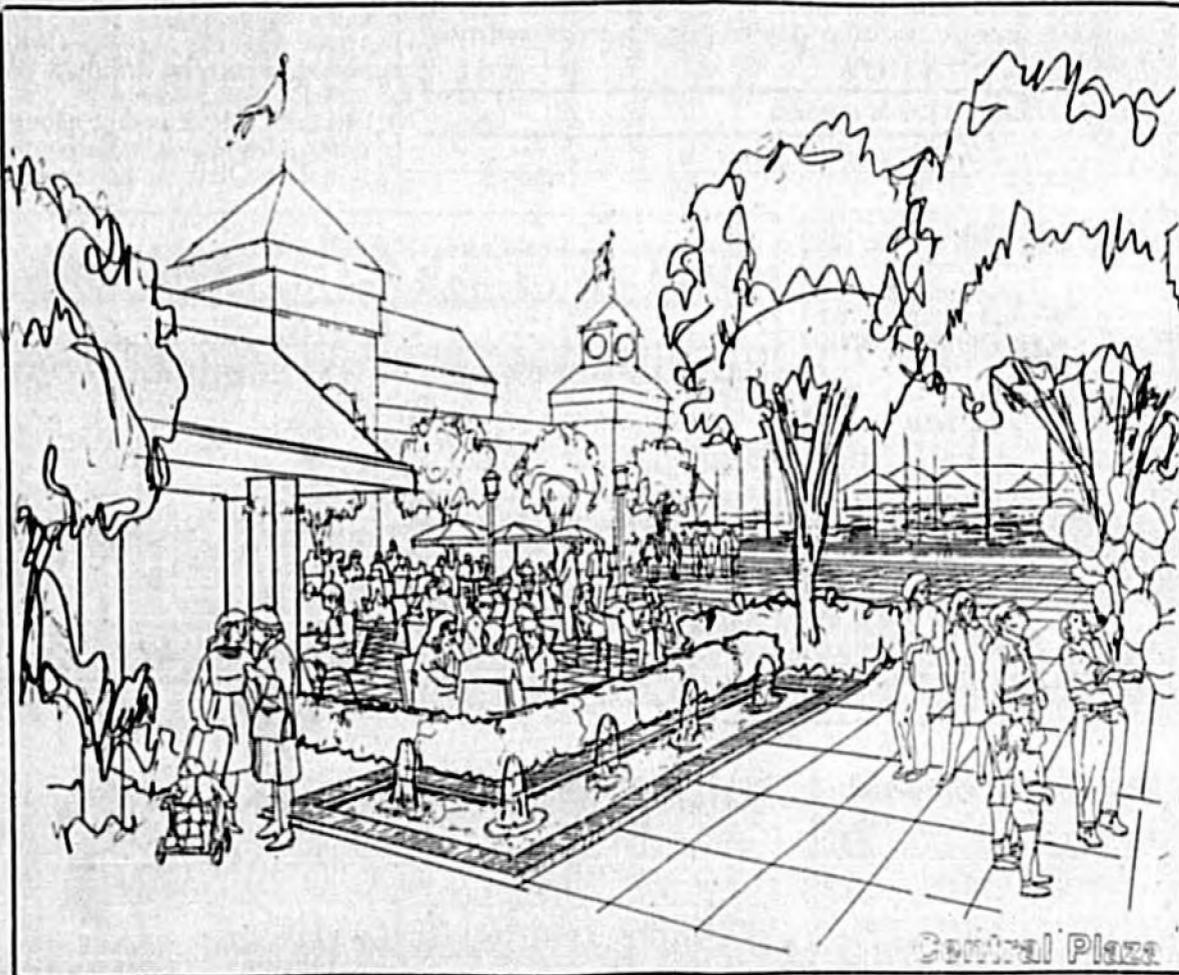

"I think when we went to the commission to seek financing," he said, "we went with the misconception that they would accept our recommendation. But to our surprise, they didn't, and now we have to continue moving ahead despite that."

The request was for the city to authorize $15,000 in matching funds, to allow for the committee to obtain the planning services of the University of Florida Studio Design program. U of F engineering and design students would have taken plans already obtained by the Steering Committee, through various studies and public meetings, and formulated them into a working plan. The students were expected to also develop a scale model of the waterfront area and its relationship to downtown development.

"The committee only has $15,000 right now," Strickler said, "and had we got into this, we would have blown it all for this one U of F project, so maybe that wasn't the best approach to take, at least at this time."

Strickler said the development of the waterfront area must be undertaken with a complete awareness of the needs of the historic district and downtown development.

"As I see it, we have to get to work immediately, and aim for two major projects which must be accomplished this year," Strickler said. "They involve the creation of a Development Program which will pinpoint sites which are to be developed, and a design of a Development Plan, which will go into specific sites which could be color-coded as to land use, or development potential such as shops, parking, recreation, or other uses."

Bruce Andersen and Associates developed several concepts for lakefront development.

Strickler said the sooner such plans can be set up by the committee, the quicker information can go to developers, who would then be sought to help in creating the waterfront area.

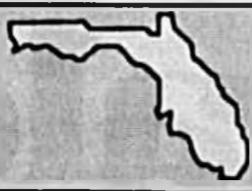

"We want to start talking to potential developers as soon as possible," he said, "and when we do, we want to have a step-by-step approach completely ready."

"I thought the University of Florida study group would have been good," Strickler commented. "But then I began to wonder how nice these goodies may have been. I question if they might have given us more than we would have

Buckley, patient of AIDS dentist, dies

VERO BEACH — Michael Stephen Buckley, whose former girlfriend contracted the AIDS virus from dentist David Acer, has died of AIDS. He was 31.

Buckley, of Port St. Lucie, was a patient of Acer in 1988, and he claimed in a lawsuit he too was infected with HIV by the Jensen Beach dentist. But the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta said he probably did not get it from Acer, who died in 1990.

However, the CDC linked Acer's virus to Buckley's former girlfriend, Lisa Shoemaker, of Michigan. She is one of six former Acer patients the CDC has determined contracted the virus from the doctor. Three of the six have died.

Buckley died Wednesday at Indian River Memorial Hospital in Vero Beach.

He was a native of Malden, Mass., and lived in Port St. Lucie for the past 17 years. He was a member of the Holy Family Catholic Church in Port St. Lucie and a former Eagle Scout. He worked on nuclear submarines in the U.S. Navy.

FEMA gives $1.9 million in relief

HOMESTEAD — Federal officials have released $1.9 million in hurricane relief funds to a private hospital, even though a review showed it could not prove the money was for disaster-related costs.

James Lee Witt, director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, said SMH Homestead Hospital was eligible for the money to compensate for medical services it gave indigent patients after Hurricane Andrew in August 1992.

The action reversed an earlier decision by the federal agency to withhold the funds for lack of proper paperwork.

The dispute arose after FEMA hired the accounting firm Price Waterhouse in May 1993 to review the hospital's documentation for the requested money. The firm concluded the hospital had failed to satisfy FEMA requirements.

Federal regulations require money recipients to be able to prove the funds were used only for disaster-related costs.

The decision Thursday in Washington to release the funds came after appeals on behalf of the hospital by Florida legislators, including Rep. Carrie Meek and Sens. Bob Graham and Connie Mack.

More driver, passengers using seat belts

ORLANDO — More Florida drivers and passengers are using their seat belts than ever before, with usage growing in the past year from 60.6 percent to 65.4 percent, according to a survey.

"This is the highest seat belt usage" since the Florida mandatory seat belt law went into effect in the mid-1980s, said Terry Farias, chairman of American Automobile Association clubs of Florida.

Jacksonville was ranked No. 1 in the state, with 81 percent usage, while Miami placed last among the 25 areas surveyed with 51.1 percent usage, the AAA said. Gainesville had the second highest usage rate, with 75.4 percent.

Statewide, more women (73.2 percent) used belts than men (58.5 percent).

Man bitten by cobra

MARGATE — A deadly monocled cobra kept illegally in a storage bay bit his owner on the thumb, sending the man racing to a hospital before he fell into a coma, authorities said.

Benjamin Siegel, 19, was saved by anti-venin rushed south from the Florida Serpents outside Orlando. He was off the ventilator and being held under observation. Northwest Regional Medical Center spokeswoman Renee Moreland said Thursday.

Siegel, of Coconut Creek, had a dozen serpents in the rental storage facility. He apparently was feeding them early Wednesday morning when the rare, 5-foot albino cobra struck.

Cobra venom attacks the central nervous system, and Siegel knew he had about 15 minutes before collapsing. He drove to the nearby hospital with his vision already blurring, and fell into a coma shortly after his arrival.

Siegel could face three charges of illegally handling poisonous snakes, said Florida wildlife officer Lt. John West.

Baby found abandoned

PENSACOLA — A baby girl was found abandoned in a wooded lot by a passer-by who heard the child crying.

Vernon Young was walking home at about early Thursday when he found the baby, believed to be 3- to 6-months old, and called police, said police Sgt. Jerry Potts.

The child was in good condition and turned over to the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services while police tried to determine her identity and who had abandoned her.

The baby was wrapped in a blanket. A diaper bag and formula were found along with her, Potts said.

It was a mild night with a low of 65 degrees in this Florida Panhandle city so the baby was in little danger of suffering from exposure.

Education cuts

Jamerson proposes shifting divisions out of department

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Education Commissioner Doug Jamerson said he can shrink his agency to less than half its size, but his proposal doesn't involve any cuts at the Florida Education Center.

And that's the place Gov. Lawton Chiles has said he wants to see emptied.

Jamerson, just five weeks on the job, unveiled his plan two days after Chiles told lawmakers he wanted to cut education bureaucracy in half.

In his annual speech opening the 60-day legislative session, Chiles said he wanted to empty five floors of the 17-floor Florida Education Center, which towers over all other buildings in Tallahassee except for the Capitol.

The governor said he wanted to fill those floors with people working on juvenile justice and full-service schools.

Jamerson said he thought Chiles had been speaking figuratively, but earlier Thursday the governor denied his comments were symbolic.

"I think we ought to empty five floors out of there and I think we ought to cut it by at least 50 percent," Chiles told reporters.

The Department of Education now has 2,128 positions, making it the ninth largest state agency. Jamerson's plan calls for cutting 27 jobs and transferring 921 positions to other state agencies or independent boards.

None of the jobs are filled by people who work in the Florida Education Center, known in the capital as the Turlington building.

Jamerson conceded some critics would be skeptical about his plan but denied it was smoke and mirrors.

"We are making what I think are reasonable, rational reductions that, again, will help us focus in on schools," Jamerson said. The biggest personnel reduction in Jamerson's plan would result from making the Florida School for the Deaf and Blind in St. Augustine fully independent of the Department of Education.

The school already has a board of trustees and is for all practical purposes independent. Jamerson wants to make it official, deleting the staff of 576 from the rolls of the Department of Education.

He also recommends putting the Division of Blind Services under the control of a private not-for-profit board appointed by the governor. That would account for 326 positions.

Nineteen positions would be transferred to the Department of Business and Professional Regulation. Those staffers are assigned to the state boards that oversee private colleges and universities and vocational, trade and business schools.

Firearm advocates plan rally at capitol

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gun advocates are heading to the state capital this weekend to protest legislation to ban assault weapons and other gun control measures.

They say they want lawmakers to focus on keeping criminals behind bars instead of debating ideas that would make it tougher for people to own guns.

"The people are fed up with all the crime that's going on. Enforce the laws we have," said Gary Moore, an Ocala businessman who is helping organize the rally on Saturday. "But they want to keep on and on and on until they outlaw all guns."

Organizers said they expected up to 20,000 people to attend the "Freedom Rally" on the steps of the Old Capitol. Police said they expected about 5,000 people.

Moore said gun clubs and other groups were chartering buses across the state to ferry gun supporters to the capital. A recent gun rally in Ocala attracted about 5,000 people, he said.

The rally was sparked about a month ago after a bill was introduced to ban dozens of assault weapons. A House panel passed the bill last month but it was withdrawn earlier this week by its sponsor, Rep. Ron Klein, D-Boca Raton, after opponents said it would prohibit ownership of a wide variety of weapons.

Klein has introduced a new version of the bill (HB 1913) that would ban 37 types of assault weapons and charge a one-time $35 license fee for a gun owner.

"There is no intention of taking away shotguns, hunting rifles or handguns," he said. "The specific weapons that would be banned are high fire-power assault weapons."

Klein's bill is among about a dozen gun-related proposals before the Legislature this session.

Feds get first conviction of U.S. banker in BCCI scandal

By CATHERINE WILSON
AP Business Writer

MIAMI — Federal prosecutors got the first conviction of a U.S. banker for misdeeds involving the outlaw Bank of Credit and Commerce International — without presenting any evidence.

Ousted CentTrust Bank chairman David Paul pleaded guilty Thursday to 29 racketeering and securities counts, including 10 charges covering a "bond parking" scheme with BCCI.

Paul already had been convicted last November by a jury of 68 fraud, tax and conspiracy counts, and his guilty plea to the remaining counts ends the federal prosecution.

He signed a summary of facts about the crimes he was admitting and told U.S. District Judge Donald Graham, "I believe the facts are absolutely accurate as set forth in that statement."

The judge set a forfeiture hearing for the week of March 21 and sentencing on all charges April 1.

While the one-time millionaire's trial focused on personal cravings for more and more luxuries at his waterfront estate, the plea covered his heady days as a 1980s wheeler-dealer.

Under the BCCI charges, Paul admitted scheming to deceive banking regulators and CentTrust investors on a sham bond purchase, said lead prosecutor Allan Sullivan.

A $150 million CentTrust bond offering was near collapse in hesitant financial markets when BCCI agreed to buy $25 million worth with a secret repurchase agreement and a no-loss guarantee.

BCCI collected a $331,500 profit from CentTrust 10 weeks later in 1988 — all at a time when regulators were questioning the savings and loan's investment policies and financial stability.

Had the case gone to trial, court records show former BCCI managers were prepared to testify the purchase "was based on Paul's express assurances" of a speedy buyback.

The goals were to bolster "very limited investor interest" and "to conceal from federal regulators the absence of market demand for CentTrust securities," prosecution documents said.

Student's car burglarized

Three Seminole County residents were arrested at Seminole Community College Wednesday morning on charges they burglarized a student's car. A Seminole County deputy reported seeing the trio standing by a door of the car, one with a screwdriver in his hand, apparently attempting to enter the car. When he approached, the deputy reported the three returned to their nearby car.

When asked what they were doing, the three said they were trying to open the car door for a friend. The deputy reported seeing a screwdriver on the seat and a slide-hammer on the floorboard. The car door had been forcibly opened, the deputy reported. Arrested on charges of burglary and possession of burglary tools were Jose Luis Almesita, 19, 1567 Oberlin Terrace, Lake Mary; Edwin Omar Carrion, 18, 793 Minerva Lane, Lake Mary; and Luis Gerardo Rosario, 18, 605 N. Lake Blvd., Apt. 12, Altamonte Springs.

Burglary suspects nabbed

Sanford police arrested three persons Tuesday suspected of a residential burglary in the 1200 block of 19th Court. Police said when they arrived, they saw three men apparently involved in the burglary, and attempted to apprehend them.

One of the suspects, a juvenile who was not identified, was located a short distance away and placed under arrest. Jason Chad Tillman, 17, 1908 Holly, was located following a chase to 20th Street. He was charged as an adult with burglary and resisting arrest without violence.

The third man, Michael Brian Lance, 18, 1201 W. 20th Street, reportedly fled from the area, but later phoned police to pick him up at his residence. He was charged with burglary and resisting arrest without violence.

Multi warrants

Richard Franklin Rabon, 36, 6030 Una Drive, Sanford, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at his residence Tuesday. He was wanted on a warrant for violation of parole on a conviction of driving under the influence of alcohol. Later, at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility, he was also found to be wanted on two outstanding warrants reportedly connected with traffic violation charges.

Apartment burglary

A woman called police when a man, identified as Anthony Herring, 27, of 2548 Ridgewood Avenue, was seen entering her apartment at a hotel on S. Oak Avenue. The suspect reportedly had removed a coin holder containing $15 in various coins. When police arrived, they said the man fled from the area. He was located at 3rd and Palmetto Avenue, and placed under arrest. He was charged with burglary, petit theft, and resisting arrest without violence.

Warrants served

• Kenneth Daniel Elston, 38, 817 Longdale Ave., Longwood, was served a warrant by sheriff's deputies at his residence Tuesday. He was wanted on an Orange County warrant for violation of parole on a conviction of battery.

• Ronald Robert Herring, Jr., 29, 606 Baywood Drive, Sanford, was served a warrant at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Tuesday. He was wanted for failing to appear.

• Kevin Anthony Davis, 35, 1702 Hawkins Ave., Sanford, was served a warrant at his residence Tuesday by sheriff's deputies. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of theft.

• James Roosevelt Littles, 33, 1819 Summerlin Ave., was served a warrant in the 400 block of W. 3rd Street by Sanford police Tuesday. He was wanted for failing to appear.

• William King Hall, 31, Elder Springs Circle, Sanford, was located on Hibiscus Road at Sanford Avenue by sheriff's deputies Tuesday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a suspended/revoked license.

• William Henry Oneal, 23, 2530 E. Byrd Ave., turned himself in to deputies at his residence Tuesday. He was wanted on warrants for careless driving, tag not assigned, driving with a suspended/revoked license, assault, and obstructing an officer without violence.

• Learis Lenell Jones, 26, 1804 Coolidge Avenue, Sanford, was served a warrant by deputies Tuesday for driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Domestic cases

• Vernon Moore, 34, 1005 Hickory Ave., Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police at his residence Tuesday following an altercation with a female. He was charged with battery (domestic violence).

• Edward Jay Brown, 25, 2821 Sunlake Loop, Lake Mary, was arrested at his residence by deputies Tuesday following an argument with a female. He was charged with aggravated battery (domestic violence) and false imprisonment (domestic violence).

Traffic stop arrests

• Clyde Leroy Palmer, 47, 710 Wynn Drive, Sanford, was arrested by deputies Tuesday following a traffic stop on Wynn Drive. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license (habitual).

• Lynn Williams, 22, 2845 Celery Ave., was arrested by deputies Tuesday following a traffic stop on Sipes Avenue. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license.

• Jefferey R. Lane, 26, 3291 Sanford Ave., was arrested by Sanford police following a traffic stop on U.S. 17-92 at 15th Street Tuesday. He was charged with having an open container in his vehicle.

• Frederick Joseph Taylor, 33, 2451 Crawford Drive, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police following a traffic stop in the 900 block of E. 26th Place on Tuesday. He was charged with resisting an officer without violence.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

• $3,500 in stereo equipment and other items were reported stolen Tuesday from a residence in the 600 block of Long Meadow Circle, Longwood.

• A 1986 Chevrolet Caprice was reported stolen Tuesday in the 2700 block of Country Club Road. Sanford police later reported finding the vehicle in the 800 block of Mulberry Avenue. The vehicle had been partially destroyed by fire.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

• Entertainment equipment valued at $1,125 was reported stolen Tuesday from a residence in the 200 block of Meadowhills Drive.

• A Sanford man reported being punched in the face by three men who approached him Tuesday in the 100 block of McKay Boulevard, while he was sitting in his car.

• A $400 VCR was said to have been taken Tuesday from a residence in the 300 block of Rosecliff.

• Four Nintendo games and other items including a football, with a total estimated value of $492 was reportedly stolen Tuesday in the 10000 block of Groveview.

• $295 in food stamps and $20 in other items were reported missing Tuesday from a vehicle parked in the 400 block of Mellonville Avenue.

• Crooms School of Choice, 2200 W. 13th St., was reportedly burglarized some time over this past weekend. Police said an object had been thrown through a window in a portable building. Items listed as missing include a $540 hand held walkie-talkie and a $200 weather band radio.

USOC counters Tonya's lawsuit

By BOB BAUM
AP Sports Writer

OREGON CITY, Ore. — The U.S. Olympic Committee countered Tonya Harding's $25 million lawsuit by arguing that competing in the Games is not a right but "an honor and a privilege" only the USOC can bestow.

In papers asking an Oregon court to dismiss the suit, the committee said Thursday that Congress gave it sole authority to decide who takes part in the Olympics.

Harding filed her lawsuit Wednesday, asking for damages and a court order to block a USOC hearing set for Tuesday in Norway that could get her banished from the Games for her actions surrounding the Jan. 6 clubbing attack on Nancy Kerrigan.

A judge was scheduled to hear Harding's request for a court order today. The Games begin Saturday in Lillehammer, Norway, but women's figure skating doesn't start until Feb. 23.

In its reply to Harding's lawsuit, the USOC said the federal Amateur Sports Act of 1978 gave it "exclusive jurisdiction to resolve disputes covering the eligibility for and participation in the Olympic Games."

"Selection and confirmation as a member of the official U.S. Olympic team is an honor and a privilege" — not a right enforceable by the courts, the committee said.

Despite the USOC's strong response in court, at least one committee lawyer told The New York Times there may be growing sentiment to let Harding skate.

"I think it's a case of the tail beginning to wag the dog — the dog is the Olympic Games in Lillehammer — and to have this sideshow getting center stage, I think the answer may follow from that," said the lawyer, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Harding, whose ex-husband has implicated her in the attack on Kerrigan, is seeking $20 million in punitive damages and at least $5 million in compensatory damages if the USOC prevents her from skating in the Olympics.

Among her objections to the disciplinary hearing: She doesn't have the money to defend herself, she doesn't have the time, and if she did show up, she wouldn't get a fair shake, anyway.

Support public broadcasting

WMFE, Channel 24, and FM radio 90.7 will be launching a fund raising drive next Tuesday. It is above and beyond the normal drives carried out during various parts of the year.

Public broadcasting is different from regular TV and radio. Commercial stations derive their income through the sale of advertising. Many also produce commercials which are run on their own as well as other stations. This is also an income producer.

Public broadcasting however, strictly relies on contributions from the general public and businesses. Often, the only reward for a generous gift is a broadcast mention of the financial help.

On WMFE and 90.7, regular fund raisers, membership campaigns and auctions are used to obtain money for the programs carried on the stations. It is obvious that the most popular programs are also the most expensive to obtain.

This special drive next week is also for programming, but of a more local nature. It will enable more television as well as radio programs to be produced right here in Central Florida.

It is common practice among educational stations, to circulate some of their best programs to other stations for re-play across the nation. At times, they are included on the Public Broadcasting Network, PBS.

Considering this, we will have not only achieved an improvement in local programming for our own entertainment and information, but also will have created the possibility of promoting Central Florida across the nation.

There are many local subjects which need to be approached by public television and radio. Those which affect our entire area need to be brought out for open discussion. Having knowledgeable information will be a big help in dealing with some of the problems.

We urge the public to give support to this concept of expansion by these two excellent stations. A donation during this particular fund-raising event will go a long way in providing the Central Florida area with more localized programming.

What freedom means

In February America observes the birthdays of two of our past presidents, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. These, and other past presidents, have had varied backgrounds, interests and capabilities. Each has made his own distinctive contribution to America's history.

While we all have different viewpoints and opinions on many things, we all are certainly agreed on America's heritage of religious faith and ideals which undergird the Constitution and Bill of Rights. Let us look at the record for a moment.

On taking the oath of office, the president and other high officials do so with one hand placed upon an open Bible. At both the Inauguration and the swearing-in of new congressional participants, selected clergy of varied faiths offer prayers. Both houses of Congress open their sessions with prayer by an appointed chaplain. Our military services provide chaplains and religious services for personnel of many different religious backgrounds.

Since the Civil War the coins of America have been inscribed with the motto: "In God We Trust." Since 1955 our paper currency has also included the same phrase. "In God We Trust." A further look at our background will help clarify both meaning and intent of these established practices of American government.

Our colonial ancestors came to America seeking freedom of religious conscience and practice.

America's doors were open. They came in vast numbers, determined to avoid the abuses of the "old world," and assure and preserve the freedom of conscience, speech, and religion. From this determination the Constitution and Bill of Rights were created, on a foundation of religious faith and principles.

Our job, today, is to preserve and cherish individual religious freedom, and to encourage a democracy of free people, worshipping according to conscience, respecting and enjoying the rights guaranteed in our Constitution, and to be ever alert that the vociferous clamor of secularism does not impinge into the thinking of America and outlaw these from our schools, our public life, and our long-established heritage.

Freedom means free expression of speech, religion, political and economic viewpoints. It will not permit the stifling or eradication of these by those of contrary viewpoints who would cloud the skies of freedom with the smokescreens of intolerance, prejudice and deceit.

Only an America free to worship will remain an America free to live.

CHUCK STONE

Whom are we trying to lock up?

America's rhetorical meanness is escalating. "Jail the bastards," orders a campaign slogan being contemplated by a Southern candidate for district attorney.

"Lock 'em up — and throw away the key," demanded Time magazine's cover story. "I'll kick her butt," threatened a tough Tonya Harding regarding the fate of figure-skating competitor Nancy Kerrigan.

"Three strikes and you're out!" preached President Clinton to a clucking national choir. I take a diametric position on crime from most people. That may be due to my "life of crime" over a 12-year period, when 75 murder and assault suspects surrendered to me and I negotiated the release of hostages five times.

I learned that prison doesn't reform two-thirds of all criminals. Instead, it hardens them. Joseph "Jo Jo" Bowen began his teen-age life of crime in Philadelphia by stealing cars for joy rides.

The first thing he did when he got out of prison was to kill a policeman. While in prison, he fatally stabbed the warden and deputy warden. By the time Jo Jo and I hooked up in some hardline negotiations for the release of six prison employees he'd held hostage, he had been carrying out his declaration of war on society.

This nation must mobilize against such declarations of war. Only a few police officials are winning this war by kicking criminal butt and coming down hard without violating constitutional rights or brutalizing suspects.

When it comes to significantly reducing crime, one of America's most successful police chiefs is a Jewish black man with a master's degree in city planning, Charleston, S.C., Police Chief Reuben Greenberg.

He has done what few law enforcement officers have been able to do — take back the streets (the title of his book) from the drug dealers in public housing projects and neighborhoods.

America's rhetorical meanness is escalating.

You want to end crime? It's easy. Five steps. But before you "jail the bastards, lock 'em up and throw away the key," stop the racial differentials in arrests.

Those inequities aside, the new national agenda must immediately implement five steps.

1) Lock up all violent criminals.

2) Build enough prisons to absorb this increased number of lock-ups.

3) Pass the career criminal law. President Clinton is right. Nobody should be on the streets after committing three crimes.

4) Put more Reuben Greenbergs in charge. This is going to upset you, dear reader, but the average white policeman in America is irremediably incapable of enforcing the law fairly. Racially blind law enforcement today is a sociological impossibility.

5) Increase the salaries of policemen by at least one-third and double the law enforcement budgets in every city where crime has increased.

The great abolitionist Frederick Douglass summed up the rationale for this critical imperative: "Men may not get everything they pay for, but they must pay for everything they get." And that is especially true today in law enforcement.

DONNA BRITT

From inside an abortion clinic

WASHINGTON — As if the situation weren't surreal enough, the music — love ballads from an unseen radio — couldn't be less appropriate.

"I know your plans don't include me... who needs tomorrow? We've got tonight babe — why don't you stay?"

Maybe it's too appropriate. I am sitting in this "women's health clinic" — they do Pap smears and OB-GYN, but we're not here for that — because of Nay-Nay. For a long time, I can't speak.

But Nay-Nay — her childhood nickname — has long been capable of rendering me speechless. Even at age 14.

That was 10 years ago, when she was my then-toddler son's most enthusiastic sitter. Nay so loved taking Mani to the market that the moment my baby demanded "Gum — want bubba-gum!" I knew who to blame. I asked Nay to please refrain from chewing junk around my kid.

"I understand now that you don't want Mani to have gum — I won't give him any more," she began evenly. "But I don't think I should have to stop doing what I like for a 2-year-old." Her expression said how hard it was, challenging an adult she respected. Swallowing, I said, "You're right."

Always, she impressed me. She remained a virgin longer than many of her pals, scoffing at the notion of caving in to boys' pressure.

She was, I told everyone, so self-possessed. "I am the man who will fight for your honor. I'll be the hero you're dreaming of. Come live forever, knowing together, that we did it all for the glory of love."

The clinic is a multicultural mecca in which a vibrant Hispanic girl, a black woman with earphones and a strawberry blonde are hunched over, filling out forms. Three men sit, stock-still, nearby. Two women with identical features — a stylish mother in black and her jeans-wearing daughter — avoid eye contact. The mother's frustration floats off her in waves, like perfume.

"Last night... I called my father four times," says Nay into the silence. "He says if it's my decision, he supports it."

The young man who helped begin the life inside her — Nay doesn't deny it is a life; it is just a life she doesn't want — attends college, as she does. He asked to be here, but she said no. They love each other; he offered to marry her. Nay's refusal surprised even her.

"I don't want to get married like that... But I can't say I don't love this baby. I talk to it... say, 'Why are you making me sick?' ... I tell it I wish I could have it, but I'm not ready."

Across the lamp-lit room, friendly nurses in lab coats refer to what's about to happen as "the procedure." One says gently to a caller. "Cramping is normal... Have you tried a heating pad?"

Nay and I talked the other day — a full hour of me citing every danger and alternative to this, throwing every possible "what if" at her. And, me asking, "How did this happen?"

"I didn't say, 'I want to get pregnant,' but I didn't take any precautions," she says ignoring my shock.

Society says that... premarital sex is okay, as long as you protect yourself. But people aren't going to take those measures, especially teen-agers. I don't understand — and I'm 24 — why you get in that mood where you don't take precautions. The driving reason for most women having sex is they want to be loved...

"Deep down, I must have wanted a baby. ... But I see my friends with babies struggling, and it's not pretty. The one who suffers is the baby."

I ask the next obvious question. "Adoption would be worse," she says. "I knew someone who [did that]. She was 35, always talking about the daughter she was going to find. She never could."

She looks at me. "Either you have a baby you want... or you have one that you don't want, that you will probably resent... I think God will forgive me."

What, I finally ask, would she have people learn from her experience? "That your body is the most precious thing you have to share," she says. "I'd say ideally, abstinence is the best thing... And to love yourself. If you can't get it from yourself, don't expect someone else to give it to you."

Summoned by a nurse, Nay disappears. Half an hour later — could it be so quick? — a counselor tells me. "Your friend is fine. She'll be out shortly."

Involuntarily, my legs clamp shut; I glance around, puzzled. The place looks too cheery.

But when she appears, Nay looks only relieved.

Over the strains of "On the Wings of Love" — that radio! — I hear her voice from the day before.

"This is my body," she said. "If I make mistakes — and I am human — I am glad I have an option."

"I also have the option of saying no, period. And from now on, I promise, I'm going to do that."

Love ballads from an unseen radio couldn't be less appropriate.

Bunkers hold Iraqi nuclear, military secrets

WASHINGTON — A mother lode of documents about Iraq's nuclear and military programs is believed to be hidden in underground bunkers, including Saddam's lavishly appointed personal one. But United Nations inspectors are unlikely to get in for a look.

The United Nations continues an oil embargo and trade sanctions against Iraq even though Iraqi diplomats claim they're complying with all requests for information about their nuclear, chemical, biological and missile programs, a condition for the sanctions to be lifted.

The Iraqi track record, however, is one of massive deception, stalling and trying to split the coalition that supports the sanctions.

The last, most dramatic, discovery about Iraq's covert weapons programs came three years ago during two separate U.N. inspection visits led by an uncompromising and courageous American, David Kay, the United Nations chief inspector.

In the first instance, on June 23, 1991, Kay led a well-coordinated "video assault" on a 100-truck convoy that was trying to move nuclear weapons material around the country, ahead of the U.N. inspectors. The Iraqis were forced to reveal evidence of their secret nuclear program in the face of such overwhelming proof.

But the Iraqis still stonewalled the inspectors and parceled out documents and information in an incomplete, snail-like fashion. The following September, Kay discovered more secret documents after a tip led him to conduct a surprise inspection of a government building.

The alarmed Iraqis held Kay and his unarmed team members in a parking lot, under armed guard, for four days. International outrage, fueled by satellite telephone interviews team members gave around the clock, pressured the Iraqis to release Kay and his team, who were able to take the documents with them.

But a whispering campaign by Iraqi officials, including false accusations that Kay was a CIA spy, caused just enough of a fuss for the United Nations to back off. American team members were depicted as holding a grudge against Saddam and his people, and Iraqi officials argued successfully that U.S. inspectors shouldn't be trusted with the delicate, diplomatic task of carrying out the U.N. inspections.

Since that fateful incident, no U.S. inspectors have led an inspection team and Kay was soon taken off the case. Since Kay was removed, Western intelligence sources say, there have been no new dramatic caches of documents or new information uncovered about Saddam's military intentions. Nor is there likely to be.

What is still lacking, sources add, are the full details of all four programs under U.N. scrutiny: the nuclear program, chemical and biological weapons programs and long-range ballistic missile development.

Sources with access to highly classified CIA and Pentagon reports on the Iraqi military industry told our associate Dale Van Atta that the most likely location of critical Iraqi documents is underground. A probable location for another cache is Saddam's personal underground bunker, across whose threshold the U.N. inspectors don't dare cross.

There are two well-guarded entrances to Saddam's bunker. One is through the basement of the billion-dollar, moat-surrounded Al-Sijid Palace Saddam was building on the east bank of the Tigris River when it was bombed by the Desert Storm coalition.

The Iraqi track record, however, is one of massive deception and stalling.

Ads

dangers are too boring, said Joel Grube, author of the study.

"Their beliefs are being influenced, their beliefs about the positive consequences of drinking," said Grube, a scientist at the Prevention Research Center in Berkeley, Calif., a research hub funded by the National Institutes of Health.

Durham and his associates go into the classrooms to talk to children as young as the second grade to show them the hazards of tobacco, alcohol and drug use and to show them the other side of advertising.

"We tell them that advertising is not the real world. The real world is nothing like what they see in the commercials," he explained. "We try to show them the reality of tobacco and alcohol use."

Durham said a character called Joe the Reaper shows youngsters the flip side of Joe Camel.

"The cigarette companies use that cartoon character to show them the fun side of smoking, but we want them to know that smoking kills," Durham explained. "We are starting to do the same with alcohol advertising."

He said it is difficult, especially with the younger students to make the students see that advertising is not real. He said the young people are so engrossed with advertising that they can no longer tell the difference between the fantasy and the reality.

The issue of alcohol advertising's impact on children has long been controversial. Teenagers consume 1.1 billion cans or bottles of beer every year, and some researchers have linked such drinking to exposure to ads.

The industry insists that it doesn't target underage consumers and says even if minors are exposed to the ads, it doesn't influence their behavior.

But Grube, in two studies published today in the American Journal of Public Health, found that children are bombarded with alcohol advertising, particularly when they watch sports on TV. He counted 855 alcohol ads, mostly for beer, during 122 televised sporting events. Only three ads cautioned moderation in drinking.

And, in a survey of 468 fifth- and sixth-graders in northern California, he concluded children retain the ads' messages linking drinking with "romance, sociability and relaxation."

Durham said the fight against tobacco and alcohol advertising is a difficult one for two reasons.

"First of all, we can only fight the battle in the classroom," he said. "The advertising is everywhere. It is a big part of their lives on the television that they might watch for five or six hours when they get home. We've only got them for a little while in the classroom. And then it is difficult because we have a very limited budget. Anheuser-Busch, for example spent $60 to $80 million on advertising just during the Super Bowl. How can we compete with that?"

The Beer Institute responded that no one has proved advertising contributes to underage drinking, which has been dropping since the 1970s thanks to intensive education programs.

"This is an obvious campaign against the beer industry waged by a small anti-alcohol faction within the American Public Health Association," which publishes the Journal, said Institute President Raymond McGrath.

Durham said that the district drug prevention specialists "really start hitting hard in the fifth grade" where studies have shown the kids start to experiment with alcohol and cigarettes.

"We want to make sure they don't start," he said.

Middle school students are asked to do commercial comparisons and high school students are writing their own ads.

"It gets them to really look critically at the advertisements they are seeing," he noted.

Grube found that fifth- and sixth-graders recited slogans, reeled off brand names and even identified commercials by a photograph in which the brand name was marked out. Those most aware of the ads were most likely to say they intended to drink frequently as adults.

They weren't aware of the negative impacts of alcohol, from drunken driving to alcoholism, nor of public service announcements on drinking. They didn't even remember one featuring basketball star Michael Jordan.

Grube's is the first study to look at children's awareness and retention of alcohol advertising, instead of mere exposure to ads. Like the earlier exposure studies, he didn't prove awareness caused underage drinking because the children he studied — ages 9 to 11 — didn't drink yet. He will follow them through high school to see if that changes. "Certainly it seems likely," he said.

His second study found more than 15 alcohol commercials are broadcast for every hour of sports programming, which is heavily watched by children. Plus, more subtle advertising, from shots of product-endorsed stadium signs to sponsorship announcements, appear 3.3 times an hour.

The commercials were exciting and attention-grabbing, featuring such popular characters as the dog Spuds McKenzie, while the few public service announcements Grube saw were, he said, fairly somber and, frankly, boring.

"I do not think the industry is intentionally trying to influence children," he said. "Whether it's intentional or not, steps must be taken to make the ads less appealing to kids."

Information from the Associated Press was included in this report.

Passing of badges
Three members of the Sanford Police Department received promotions yesterday morning. The event was highlighted with the passing of badges up the chain of command. college's scholarship foundation. Organizers say that is an "average amount" and that the hard financial times that have hurt other segments of the economy don't seem to hurt the giving/spending patterns at the Dream Auction.

"We've been very lucky," Schaffner said.

"A community college education is the best value for your education dollar, but it is still out of reach for some students," Roy Vinson, co-chairman of the event said. "The Dream Auction helps fund the scholarships for the college so more needy students can get the education they need."

The Dream Auction always boasts an exciting selection of gifts that bidders are eager to purchase.

Some of the items available this year include trips and vacations to exotic locations.

"Those kinds of things are always very popular," Vinson said. "Sometimes they bring in more than their actual value because people are so willing to help out a good cause."

One of the most popular items each year is the pancake breakfast prepared and served by Grindle and his wife Phyllis. The highest bidder and 39 of his or her closest friends are waited on hand and foot by the Grindles who flip up some of the finest pancakes and fixin's around.

That item has sold for more than $1,000 each year.

"Everybody wants the pancake breakfast," Vinson said.

The Dream Auction will begin at 6 p.m. and last long into the night. In the end, everyone goes away tired but happy.

And the college is able to help more students further their education.

Indians lend special culture to festivities

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

A rain dance may not be in the forecast for the Mardi Gras at All Souls Catholic School, but the Talako Indians will be present anyway.

Bill and Sally Prentiss began the group in 1985 after a trip to LaJunta, Colo. with some young people from Seminole Community College. There they met the Koshare Indian Tribe. The Talako Indians started public dancing in March of 1986. Mr. Prentiss does a narration before each dance and also plays the drums for the performance.

Mrs. Prentiss oversees the crafts sold. A few of the craft items are made by members in the organization and local Indians. Others are sent from tribes such as the Navaho, Cherokee and Hopi Indians.

Each dancer makes his or her own outfit. The Talako Indians have danced at Kennedy Space Center, Manatee Festival, and the Eustis Folk Festival. This will be the seventh year to perform at the Central Florida Fair grounds, for three to six shows a day. There are 16 male and two female dancers, who range in age from nine to 26.

Mardi Gras begins today on the grounds of All Souls Catholic Church and School, 9th Street and Oak Avenue, in Sanford's historic district. The event concludes Sunday.

Grant

specifically, juveniles that are between the ages of 10 and 17. It is also to be used in "geographical areas with the highest number of juvenile arrests."

"It would be difficult to say exactly what geographic areas this would involve in Sanford," said Deputy Police Chief Joe Dillard.

Dillard added, "Juvenile crime is a growing problem throughout the city and it's difficult to target one particular neighborhood which we could consider the worst at this time."

This morning, Dillard was looking into specific arrest records to determine if there are one or two areas more prone to juvenile crime than others.

"If we obtained this grant," Dillard said, "we would probably use part of it in financing the D.A.R.E. and S.R.O. programs. D.A.R.E. is a drug awareness resource education program carried into schools, and the S.R.O. is School Resource Officers.

"Each of these programs has been doing an excellent job at helping reduce juvenile crime," Dillard commented.

If the commission agrees to pursue this grant, prompt action will be required. The grant application must be in the office of the Attorney General in Tallahassee by 5 p.m. March 1.

Following a review of all applications, the successful grants will be announced by June 30. The grant period would be from July 1, 1994 through June 30, 1995.

In submitting an application, the state requires that the project be an interagency effort. It would have to be signed by a local law enforcement representative, school representative, and the local representative of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

"This is the second time the state has offered these grants. Last year, a total of 40 grants were allocated, for a total of $2 million."

Attorney General Bob Butterworth originally notified the city of the availability of these grants on Dec. 27. This will be the first time the project has been scheduled for discussion by the commission.

Because of a lengthy agenda, the City Commission work session is scheduled to begin at 4:30 Monday afternoon.

It will be followed at 7 p.m. with the regular commission meeting at Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Economy: Wholesale prices up in January

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON — Wholesale prices rose a modest 0.2 percent in January as a drop in food costs was able to offset the biggest jump in gasoline prices in more than three years, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the rise in its Producer Price Index, which measures inflation pressures before they reach the consumer, was the biggest gain since a similar 0.2 percent rise in September.

However, economists had been expecting a much higher jump of perhaps 0.4 percent. They said the more moderate gain showed that inflationary pressures were remaining well contained.

In December, wholesale prices actually fell by 0.1 percent, marking the sixth time in eight months that wholesale inflation either declined or was showed no gain.

Economists believe that both wholesale prices and consumer prices will remain well-behaved this year even as the economy enters a sustainable recovery period after struggling for years to shake off the effects of the 1990-91 recession.

The government was scheduled to release the report on wholesale prices today along with a look at retail sales in January. The Consumer Price Index will be released next Thursday.

If wholesale prices do shoot up 0.4 percent, that would be in sharp contrast to the eight previous months in which prices either posted modest gains of 0.2 percent or actually declined.

Michael Niemira, an economist at Mitsubishi Bank in New York, said he was looking for wholesale prices to increase by 0.3 percent in January, a big jump from the 0.1 percent drop posted in December. He said that higher food and energy prices would put upward pressure on prices.

But he and other analysts said something else is at work as well, a quirk in the government's statistical measurements. The price indexes are supposed to filter out normal seasonal variations. However, for the past several years they have been showing big gains in inflation pressures in the first quarter of the year only to have those pressures recede as the year progresses.

The government has conceded that it is having trouble with its seasonal adjustments early in the year, and it is working to smooth out the spikes.

Normally, a big jump in producer prices followed by a spurt in consumer prices would set off alarm bells at the Federal Reserve, which is the nation's watchdog against inflation pressures.

However, economists do not believe the Fed will act on bad inflation numbers this time around —

In part because the central bank launched a pre-emptive strike against inflation a week ago. It boosted a key short-term rate, the federal funds rate, to 3.25 percent. This is the interest that banks charge each other on overnight loans and it had not been increased by the Fed in five years.

Many economists believe the Fed will be content to leave rates alone for a few months now to see where the economy is headed. Some are forecasting that rates may only go up another quarter point for the entire year although others believe the Fed could well make three or four modest rate increases over the course of 1994.

One reason for Fed caution, analysts believe, is that economic statistics are hard to read in the winter months and this year that is especially true with the severe cold weather in many parts of the country and the earthquake in California.

Study: Kids of pregnant moms who smoked have lower IQs

By BEN DOBBIN
Associated Press Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Second-hand smoke has little impact on the intelligence scores of young children, researchers found.

But women who light up while pregnant could be dooming their babies to lower IQs, according to a study released Thursday.

Children ages 3 and 4 whose mothers smoked 10 or more cigarettes a day during pregnancy scored about 9 points lower on the intelligence tests than the offspring of nonsmokers, researchers at Cornell University and the University of Rochester reported in this month's Pediatrics journal.

That gap narrowed to 4 points against children of nonsmokers when a wide range of interrelated factors were controlled. The study took into account second-hand smoke as well as diet, education, age, drug use, parents' IQ, quality of parental care and duration of breast feeding.

"Although a 4-point difference may seem small, it is comparable to the effects that moderate levels of lead exposure have on children's IQ scores," said Charles Henderson, senior research associate at Cornell's College of Human Ecology in Ithaca.

However, the study showed almost no impact on IQ from second-hand smoke after the children were born, said Henderson, who did the work with David Olds, a University of Rochester researcher who has since become an associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Colorado in Denver.

"We were actually expecting to see more from second-hand smoking than from pre-natal smoking. There really was no effect," Henderson said.

The researchers used data collected between 1979 and 1983 on the children of 400 mostly white women in upstate New York. They stressed that follow-up studies were needed in different settings and demographic groups.

The authors speculate that smoking may reduce the flow of oxygen and nutrients to the fetus.

Few studies have analyzed the relationship between cigarette smoking during pregnancy and later impairment in intellectual development while interrelated factors are controlled.

"There have been some smaller studies but never anything of this magnitude and rigor," said Michael Wetzman, chief of pediatrics at Rochester General Hospital who has studied maternal smoking and its effect on children's behavior. "This is a ubiquitous toxin that clearly has long-term consequences on kids."

The researchers recently began an assessment of the long-term effects of smoking in the children, who are now in their teens, and are replicating the study among more than 1,100 urban and mostly black families in Memphis, Tenn.

Jackie treated for lymphoma

By Associated Press

NEW YORK — Former first lady Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has been undergoing chemotherapy for a form of lymphoma cancer and is expected to recover, The New York Times reported.

Onassis, 64, has non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, the newspaper said in Friday's editions.

"She is undergoing a course of treatment and there is every expectation that it will be successful," said Nancy Tuckerman, a family spokesman. "There is an excellent prognosis. You can never be absolutely sure, but the doctors are very optimistic."

Tuckerman could not be reached for comment Thursday night.

She told the Times that the disease had not interrupted Onassis' personal life or her job with book publisher Doubleday, where she is a senior editor.

The widow of President Kennedy was found to have the disease after going to the doctor with flu-like symptoms. It was caught in an early stage and chemotherapy alone was prescribed, the spokeswoman said.

The lymphatic system is composed of lymph nodes and other tissues in the neck, armpits and groin. It is a major component of the body's immune system.

Administration tells Allies Bosnia must accept deal

By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON — The United States has informed its allies that Bosnia's Muslim-led government ultimately will have to settle for only a fraction of its pre-war territory, according to administration officials.

But it is entitled to significant concessions and should not be pressured to agree to unacceptable terms in the negotiations that have resumed in Geneva, the officials said Thursday.

Two American envoys, Undersecretary of State Peter Tarnoff and Charles E. Redman, outlined the American position in consultations this week in Bonn, London and Paris. Some of the conversations were described as "frank," meaning there was discord.

Specifically, officials said, France and some others want to exert pressure on the beleaguered Bosnian government, while the United States is resisting and holding out for concessions.

These include access to industrial centers in central Bosnia, to an Adriatic port in the south and to the Sava river in the north for maritime commerce.

"This does not involve getting more territory," said an official who spoke only on condition of anonymity. "And eventually the Muslims will have to agree to a settlement."

Economic sanctions that have crippled the economy of Serbia, which arms and supports the Bosnian Serbs in their war, can be lifted gradually, but only if a settlement is within reach, the officials said. "And that is far down the road," an official said.

With slight variations all the settlement proposals put to the warring parties have involved partition of the former Yugoslav republic, with the Muslims' control confined to a fraction, reflecting Serb and Croat gains in the 22-month war.

The Muslims have consistently spurned partition proposals, frustrating the Europeans who want to bring their peacekeeping troops home from a risky assignment. The prolonged war also raises embarrassing questions about the allies' ability to resolve disputes.

On Wednesday, led by the United States, the 16 NATO allies approved an ultimatum to the Serbs to withdraw heavy weapons and mortar from around Sarajevo within 10 days or face air strikes.

Designed to lift the siege of the capital, the threat boosted the hopes of the government forces. But even then, President Clinton, while expressing sym-

Dole also welcomed the NATO plan but said it must not be "just another cry of wolf — a cry we have heard far too often from NATO and from the White House."

Clinton, in the meantime, rejected Russian objections to the threatened air strikes against Bosnian Serbs but was unable again Thursday to reach President Boris Yeltsin to discuss their differences on the NATO ultimatum.

The White House said technical difficulties and scheduling problems prevented Clinton and Yeltsin from speaking by telephone. Clinton indicated the problem was in Moscow. "You'll have to ask them," the president said when asked why he hadn't talked with Yeltsin.

Russia, a traditional ally of the Serbs, is reluctant to have force applied. A senior Russian official said Moscow would demand that the U.N. Security Council be convened to discuss the NATO threat.

"This is not NATO's business. It is United Nations' business," First Deputy Foreign Minister Anatoly Adamishin said.

Hot-swinging Raiders rip Rollins junior varsity

From Staff Reports

WINTER PARK — By the calendar, it's still the dead of winter. Even so, the Raiders are red hot.

The Seminole Community College baseball team won its third consecutive game to even its record at 4-4 on the season with a 13-7 trouncing of the Rollins College junior varsity in Winter Park Thursday afternoon.

The Raiders have swung the bats exceptionally well in the streak, collecting a season-high 21 hits Thursday and 48 safeties for the week.

In the win over the Tars, SCC also showed some power, ripping nine extra base hits, seven doubles and two home runs.

The Raiders were in complete control, taking leads of 7-0 and 11-1, before Rollins scored five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to keep the game going.

Leading the way offensively for SCC were Seminole High School graduate Rick Eckstein (five-for-five, home run, run, two RBI), Deltona's Pete Bezzeredi (three-for-four, two doubles, run, four RBI) and Dale Hardy (three-for-five, two doubles, two runs).

Also contributing were Spruce Creek's Isaac Cruz (double, single, three runs, two RBI, three stolen bases), New Smyrna's Johnny Goodrich (two singles, two runs, stolen base), Benjamin (home run, run, two RBI), Nole Elizer and Lyman's Chad Beland (double). Seminole's Denny Beamon (single, RBI), Brian Ludden (single, run), Oviedo's Erik Jordan (single) and Gary Hollister (two runs).

Lake Howell's Robert Bologna pitched well in finishing up for winning pitcher Edgell, striking out two of the four batters he faced in the ninth inning.

Former Oviedo Lion and Valencia Community College player Ryan Alkire doubled in a run and scored another for Rollins.

M.A. Erectors leads Pinehurst

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Trailing 3-2 through five innings, M.A. Erectors exploded for 10 runs in the top of the sixth inning and went on to beat Briar Corp. 14-5 in a battle for first place in the Sanford Recreation Men's Polar Bear Softball League at Pinehurst Park.

In the nightcap, Exterior Homesavers spotted the S&S Raiders a seven-run lead in the top of the first inning and came back to post a 24-12 victory.

M.A. Erectors (3-1) holds down the top spot in the four-team league trailed by Briar Corp. and Exterior Homesavers (both 2-2), and the S&S Raiders (1-3).

Next week, Exterior Homesavers will face M.A. Erectors at 7 p.m. while the S&S Raiders take on Briar Corp. at 8 p.m.

Rosier in front at Chase Park

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — A.D. Rosier/Florida Sport Wear suffered its first loss of the season but maintained its hold on first place in the Sanford Recreation Thursday Men's Polar Bear Softball League at Chase Park.

In the regularly scheduled games, A.D. Rosier/Florida Sport Wear knocked off Beer: 30-4-1 and Stiffey Affordables ripped First Baptist 13-1 in a game stopped by the 12-run mercy rule in the sixth inning.

Then, in a make-up of a game rained out earlier in the season, First Baptist edged A.D. Rosier/Florida Sport Wear 6-5.

Bulldogs rush by Lyman

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — By now, people should know better than to underestimate the DeLand Bulldogs boys' basketball team.

For most of the year, attention in 5A-District 4 has focused on the powerful Mainland Buccaneers or the play of Lyman and Lake Mary.

But over the past couple of weeks, no one has played better than the DeLand Bulldogs. In that span, DeLand has knocked the previously undefeated (and No. 2 state ranked) Buccaneers and Deltona (a team that had won four games in a row and had taken Mainland to the final shot) at Deltona.

Thursday night at Lake Mary High School, the Lyman Greyhounds got a first hand look at the improving Bulldogs.

With four players hitting for double figures and the offense scoring no less than 18 points in any one quarter, DeLand crunched Lyman by 36 points, 85-49.

The game was originally scheduled for Lyman, but had to be moved to Lake Mary because the Lyman gym was being prepared for tonight's opening round of the 5A-Region I wrestling tournament.

Rico King tossed in a game-high 29 points and John Demps added 19. Maurice Dorns 15 and Bill

Three-point field goals — DeLand 4 (Cherry 2, King 2); Lyman 1 (Bennett). Total fouls — DeLand 20; Lyman 17. Fouled out — none. Technicals — DeLand, bench, Smith. Records — DeLand 15-6; Lyman 14-10.

Cherry 10 as the Bulldogs improved to 15-6 on the season heading into next week's district tournament that will be hosted by Lyman.

The loss was another bitter pill for the Greyhounds, who have lost six of their last seven games after starting 13-4. The defeat probably also hurt Lyman's chances of getting the No. 2 seed in the district tournament, as it finishes the regular season with a 9-6 record against district opponents.

Shawn Ready was the only Greyhound to finish in double figures, pouring in 15 points.

The rest of the district schools will conclude their regular season's tonight. Brackets and matchups for the district tournament should be announced Saturday or Sunday.

Senior swingman Shawn Ready (No. 22, right) was the only Greyhound to score in double figures during Lyman's loss to the visiting DeLand Bulldogs Thursday night, netting 15 points.

IN BRIEF

World War II vets set election

SANFORD — World War II veterans of the Merchant Marines and Navy Armed Guard will hold election of officers on Sunday, Feb. 13, at 1 p.m., at the American Legion, 2874 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford. All "old salts" are welcome, according to Bob Swanson.

For information, call Swanson, 321-4723. The groups meet on the second Sunday of every month.

Future Stars Pageant

The Holiday Inn on International Drive in Orlando will host the 1994 Future Stars Pageant to be held at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Feb. 27.

Girls 1-2, 3-5, 6-8, 9-12, 13-16 and 17 and over and boys 1-3, 4-7 and 8-12 are eligible to enter. Judging will be on stage in a gown or party dress for girls and in a dressy outfit for boys. Judges will be looking for personality, appearance and appeal.

There will also be optional talent, modeling and photogenic categories.

There will be a winner and four runners up in each division who will enter the national Future Stars Pageant in August.

Modeling agencies and representatives will be attending the pageant to award scholarships to some of the contestants.

For more information and applications send a self-addressed envelope to Future Stars, 500 Amethyst Way, Lake Mary, FL 32746.

Business info at the library

The Seminole County Public Library System has recently published a booklet entitled Small Business Bibliography.

This booklet is designed to help people who are interested in starting and operating a small business. It is a selective guide to the Library's resources.

Many topics are included such as business planning, financing, marketing, mail order and export/import. Reference items and branch locations are noted.

Free copies are available at all branches.

The library systems' hours are Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Landscape managers attend ELM seminar

A two-day Environmental Landscape Management Seminar (ELM) was recently held in conjunction with horticulture agents from Orange and Osceola counties to provide information for landscape managers from county and cities, school board and private landscapers, to teach and encourage water conservation, proper pest control management, and proper use of fertilizer. Also covered in the two-day class was insect identification, disease identification, and weed identification. These local landscape property managers are encouraged to use less pesticide, water and fertilizer through proper integrated pest management techniques.

The same program is offered in Orange and Osceola counties by all three horticulture agents during a two-week period.

This program is offered once a year to residential landscape personnel who can benefit financially and from an environmental standpoint for the county from this information.

Some of the participants in the program were: Sue Broman, Seminole County School Board ground maintenance worker; Jerry Holder, owner of a pest and termite control company in DeLand; Trish Thomas, Urban Horticulture Agent at the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service; Bernard Joseph, City of Sanford grounds maintenance worker, and Eleanor Foreate, Urban Horticulture Agent from Osceola County.

NEW ARRIVALS

Robert and Deborah Smith of Silver Spring, Md., announce the birth of their daughter, Natalie Durham Sorkin Smith, on Jan. 7, 1994, at Georgetown. She weighed in at a healthy 7 lbs., 13 ozs.

Maternal grandparents are Claire and Bernard Sorkin of Scarsdale, N.Y. Paternal grandparents are Mayor Bettye and Dr. Robert J. Smith of Sanford.

Tenants versus landlords

Know rights and responsibilities under the law

The following information was sent to me by Ronnaa Ali, manager of the Orlando Regional office of the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Affairs. We both thought this would be of interest to you, the renter.

Many Floridians live in leased apartments and other rental housing. But while most people know there are laws governing landlord-tenant relationships, they often don't find out the details — until there is a problem. Both tenants and landlords should know their rights and responsibilities under Florida's Landlord/Tenant Law before entering into a lease agreement.

Florida law does not require a written lease. However, most landlords provide a written lease agreement that clearly states all the terms. A lease signed by a landlord and tenant is a legally binding contract. And while the law recognizes oral leases, such agreements are subject to misunderstandings and are more difficult to enforce.

Prospective renters are encouraged to request a written lease that states how much is required for a deposit, the amount and due date of rent money, and all other terms for occupying a unit. It is illegal for a lease to waive a tenant's legal rights or to include conditions that are contrary to Florida laws.

CONSUMER FOCUS

BARBARA HUGHES/GREGG

Before moving in, renters should also conduct a thorough inspection of the domicile and submit an inventory to the landlord of all problems or damage found in the dwelling.

Both the landlord and tenant have responsibilities under Florida law. The landlord must comply with building, housing and health codes by keeping the roof, windows, floors, outside walls and all other structural components in good repair. He must also provide locks and keys, heat, hot and cold running water and keep the plumbing in reasonable working condition.

Unless otherwise agreed in writing, the landlord also must remove garbage from the property and provide a smoke detector. If the rental unit is one of five or more apartments under one roof, the landlord must supply regular pest control. Otherwise, this service is not required unless it was agreed to in writing or unless the presence of rats or insects constitutes a violation of health codes.

The tenant must also comply with housing and health codes. The dwelling should be kept clean and free of garbage, and the tenant must not deface or damage the premises, including the electrical, plumbing, heating, air conditioning or other systems furnished by the landlord. The tenant is legally responsible for paying rent for the duration of the lease, unless the written agreement stipulates other provisions for breaking the lease.

If rent is not paid when due, the landlord may give written notice allowing the tenant three days to either pay or move. After that, the landlord can file an eviction suit in court. The court will allow the tenant five days to respond to the suit. If the tenant does not respond or a judgment is entered against the tenant, a "writ of possession" will be issued to the local sheriff. The sheriff will then serve eviction papers, giving the tenant 24 hours to vacate.

For more information and a brochure on Florida's Landlord/Tenant Act, call the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services at 1-800-HELPFLA (1-800-435-7352).

Rotary receives district honor

Bill Earle (right), district governor of District 6980 Rotary International, recently paid an official visit to the Sanford Rotary Club. While here, Earle presented a banner to George Wallace, club president, indicating that the Sanford club is third in the district for having the most improvement per capita.

Boxing child's ears caused deafness

DEAR ABBY: The subject of child abuse: Several generations ago, it was considered acceptable to box a child's ears as an appropriate punishment. It was not generally known that such a practice could have devastating results — although many must have heard that a very young Thomas Edison became deaf after having his ears boxed.

At the age of 4, I recited some indecent poetry in front of polite company. My father, an otherwise model parent, slapped the left side of my head vigorously with his right hand. (That was the only time he ever struck me.) Soon after, and from then on, I felt a certain numbness in my left ear. Later, there were spells of buzzing and roaring along with dizziness centered in my left ear. Finally, seizures and repeated blackouts sent me to the hospital, where surgery was performed by a neurosurgeon. My hearing was never restored in that ear. And all this was brought on by a "loving" parent.

ADVICE

So, Dear Abby, if a parent feels that a little physical punishment is necessary to teach a child a lesson, tell your readers to keep it below the neck. Please withhold my name; I'm quite well known in...

LAKE PLACID, FLA.
DEAR LAKE PLACID: I disapprove of hitting a child to "teach" him (or her) a lesson.

Hitting has escalated to beatings — some brutal enough to send a child to a hospital, or worse. Denying a child his favorite entertainment or sport is far more effective.

DEAR ABBY: Your response to the mother who objected to her child's grandmother speaking a foreign language to the child was right on the mark. May I add a few thoughts on the subject?

Kids learn quickly. And if they learn that a cat is "ein katz" in German, they can also learn it is "un gato" in Spanish.

My parents were born in the United States, but both of their parents were born in Germany, and I was taught early on to speak German as well as English, and Spanish, too. My grammar and spelling may not be perfect, but I can communicate well enough to be understood in German and Spanish.

RUTH SACARTO IN DENVER
DEAR RUTH: I appreciate your affirmation. People of any age (especially children) who are challenged intellectually usually meet the challenge.

DEAR ABBY: I cannot imagine why a woman of 74 would marry a man who is over 80.

I became a widow at age 76, and I would never consider remarrying. All these old geezers want is a nurse, or a purse.

Never would I sully the memories of my 30 wonderful years of marriage by taking on another man. Sign me...

WELL-ADJUSTED READER
DEAR WELL-ADJUSTED: Thank the good Lord that not every person who remarries in his or her twilight years considers the remarriage "sully the memory" of a previous marriage.

Some second-time-arounders have found their second marriages far better than their first.

Glamour commercials designed to promote the sale of alcohol

DEAR READERS: We're hearing on the radio and TV that once again our area will become the nation's number one spring break destination for the college-age crowd. While many of us may smile to ourselves about memories of times and youth long gone, let's focus for a minute on the messages our children and teens will be seeing on TV commercials celebrating this annual rite of passage.

There will be lots of gorgeous young people with great bodies and golden tans. Everyone will appear carefree and relaxed. The implied message behind these bronzed bodies conveys more than the idea that alcohol is a necessary part of the good life. It also portrays a certain class of people, all able to afford the latest fashions and able to take time to enjoy the beach.

There will not be anyone over age 35 in the bunch, nor will anyone be drunk. They will all be bright, energetic, healthy, good looking and mostly white. What will not be shown on these commercials will be the teenager in your neighborhood who stays drunk all weekend or any of the ones arrested for drunk driving of the young people who can't manage to drink without getting drunk. They will not be on the commercials but they are a part of everyday reality, both at the beach and at home.

DRUG COUNSELOR

Talk to the kids in your family about the implied messages that these commercials are promoting. Help them to understand that the purpose of the commercials is purely to increase alcohol sales, not to accurately or honestly portray either the lifestyle of the user or the consequences of alcohol use among young people.

One of our country's biggest social problems is being promoted right in our own living rooms — the teenage and young adult alcoholic.

"DOG... GONE!"

"Dog...gone! It's Valentine's Day and my sweetheart has left me...our love toppled into ruins. What am I to do?"

Don't despair, my canine Casanova, spring is in the air and love is on the horizon. There's a Valentine for you. You'll see.

Love is indeed "a splendid thing"...most of the time. In this case, perhaps it was only "puppy love," but most of us have suffered a broken heart, only later to realize a more appropriate choice.

This Valentine's Day, if you are happily in love with "the one," celebrate your treasure. If you are not in that "special relationship," but would like to be, worship God, have faith and celebrate the constant love that He bestows upon us each moment.

God's love should make you smile...and that's wonderful. Someone who needs your smile just might be looking...right now. So smile and have a Happy Valentine's Day!

IN BRIEF

Fellowship to meet in Sanford

SANFORD — The Central Florida Fellowship Meeting will be held in the Sanford Civic Center from Friday, Feb. 18, through Sunday, Feb. 20.

Ministers from various parts of the country will be present. The community is invited to sit under the sovereign grace of God and come to worship.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily.

Lunch and dinner will be served.

Lenten services planned

SANFORD — The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, 2525 Oak Ave., will have a chili supper as a prelude to the mid-week observance of the 40 days of Lent. It will be at 6:30 p.m. on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 16, and will be followed by the traditional Lenten service at 7:30 p.m.

Cheevers featured in Crusade

SANFORD — Prophetess Idell Cheevers of Savannah, Ga., will be in Crusade Feb. 23-25. She will be at the House of Refuge, 1001 Celery Ave., at 7:30 p.m. nightly.

She is an evangelist, pastor and overseer of Pentecostal Miracle Deliverance churches in Florida, South Carolina and Georgia. Come out to hear this anointed powerful woman of God.

For more information, call 324-4711 or 328-7373.

Lay organization plans workshop

SANFORD — The Lay organization of Allen Chapel A.M.E. Church, 1203 Olive Ave., will conduct a workshop Feb. 20 at 4 p.m.

The public is invited to attend and learn about the history and program of the organization.

The Rev. John H. Woodard, pastor, and Rayfield Humphrey, president.

Ash Wednesday events

SANFORD — Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 401 S. Park Ave., will sponsor a Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper on Feb. 15, in the parish hall from 5:30-7 p.m.

On February 16, Ash Wednesday, the Holy Eucharist with ashes will be celebrated at 7 and 10 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Sisterhood sets meeting for February

The Sisterhood of Temple Shalom, 1785 Elkcam Blvd., Deltona, will hold its meeting on Feb. 16 at the Temple.

Ron Silverman, who conducts services every Saturday morning at 10 a.m., will entertain the group with songs and stories.

On April 9, the Sisterhood will sponsor a Fashion Show at Deltona Country Club. Fashions are by Bette Drekas of DeLand. Call Harriet Saltzman at 532-2506, or Belle Weinstein at 789-8520 for tickets and information.

Shirley Rosen and Dora Goldstein offer exercise classes every Tuesday and Friday morning at 10 a.m.

Community invited to Youth Explosion

SANFORD — The Youth Department of the Rescue Church of God, 1700 W. 13th St., cordially invites all teenagers and young people to a Youth Explosion Spiritual Revival on Feb. 10-12.

Services will begin nightly at 7 p.m. Elder Wilbert Gordon will be the speaker each night. Bishops, pastors, and youth directors are encouraged to invite their young people to attend these services and to experience the outpouring of God's spirit.

Renewing wedding vows

SANFORD — Second Shiloh M. B. Church, Airport Boulevard, invites the community to participate in the renewing of wedding vows for members, friends and families.

The event will be at 11 a.m. on Sunday, Feb. 13, with guest speaker Evangelist McDuffie, from Clermont.

Come one, come all, where everybody is somebody and the Rev. R. T. Davis, pastor.

Keep us informed

The Sanford Herald welcomes news and announcements, classes and seminars available to the public for the Religion page.

The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:

All items should be typed or written legibly and include the name and a daytime phone number of a person who can be contacted to answer any questions we might have.

The deadline for submission is noon Wednesday before publication.

From the pulpit

Renewing knowledge for Lent

Recent revelations about what school children in America are not learning have been disturbing. Many are unable to locate the state they live in on a map. Others cannot date the Civil War within the right century, and for many, history is about something that happened so long ago that no one should care about it.

An educated populace is essential to the preservation of liberty. Ignorance of what has gone before and what the real meaning of current events is, is always dangerous.

In a parallel way, we in the church agonize over the loss of Biblical and theological understanding in many congregations. Many of us would be embarrassed by the simplest of exams in these subjects. Just as in secular education, so in church education, and self-centered interpretations of our historic beliefs.

The old saying, "those who stand for nothing will fall for anything," is applicable here. When wide-spread Biblical illit-teracy and theological misunderstanding became the rule, the Church is in trouble and due for a revival or a reformation.

I am making a plea here that beginning with Lent, Ash

Wednesday is Feb. 16, that we as a community resolve to become better students of the bible, the creeds and beliefs of our church, and more mature in our theological orientation.

This is not just a "nice thing to do." Sound theological understanding is necessary if we are to find our way through a time when the forces of evil are strong, when many would lead others in political directions that are detrimental to their best interests, and when "pop" theology and media religious programming garner such huge followings.

Jesus charged his disciples to be "innocent as doves" but only as they at the same time remained "wise as serpents."

Daily lenten readings in the Bible and a good devotional book may help us all to become a little more of both.

A new beginning

First Baptist Church, 8th Street and Park Avenue, celebrated its 110th anniversary this past weekend with a groundbreaking of a new $1.5 million facility. Helping to commemorate the event was, Mark Schweizer, architect, Floyd Blake, pastor, Brian Walsh, Don Nicholas, Ray Williams, Bill Colbert, David Rolan, Karl Stairs, E. R. Wood, Selma Williams Bettye Smith, Pam Blake and Melynda Beverly.

Rev. Davis invited to Ukraine for evangelistic tour

GENEVA — The First United Methodist Church, Geneva, has been blessed with a very special opportunity for mission work without even leaving its own back yard.

The Rev. Jeanne Davis, pastor of the church, has been asked to travel with Jim Ponder Ministries on a two-week evangelistic tour of the Ukraine.

While there, she will be one of a select group of ordained and lay Christians who will touch the lives of over 176,000 people, primarily graduating high-school seniors, bringing many of them to Christ.

Those who are interested in helping out with the mission may purchase Bibles printed in their native tongue for $1.25 each, or to the cost of Rev. Davis's tour, which is approximately $3,000, including air fare, an interpreter, hotels and meals.

Joan and Darrell Scrapper will open their home for an elegantly catered dinner on Saturday, Feb. 12. Admission is $13 per person or $25 per couple. All proceeds from this dinner will go directly to the cost of the trip.

To contribute directly, write to Geneva First United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 980, Geneva FL 32732-0980. Mark at the bottom of the envelope "Ukraine Bibles," if donating to the Bible collection, or "Davis Ukraine trip," to donate toward the cost of the trip.

The Rev. Jeanne Davis

Write A Want Ad That Sells! YOUR CLASSIFIED AD works best when it contains what the reader wants to know. GIVE FACTS Put yourself in the buyer's shoes. What would you want to know? List the item's age, condition, size, brand name, model and approximate value. If you're selling a car, state the type of transmission, mileage (if it's low) and special equipment. DON'T EMBELLISH: It's risky business to exaggerate and it won't increase your chances of success. Misleading information may get a buyer to your house. It may also get you a punch in the nose. AVOID ABBREVIATIONS: While a few abbreviations can save you space, too many of them strung together can create confusion. A confused reader won't take time to

Hyperventilation can be a problem

DEAR DR. GOTT: My mother complains constantly that she cannot breathe. She hyperventilates and has a rapid heart rate. Her doctor has found no evidence of a physical problem and is reluctant to prescribe extensive testing because her symptoms indicate chronic panic/anxiety syndrome. Is a physical basis for her problem being overlooked?

DEAR READER: Yes, indeed. Hyperventilation and tachycardia (rapid pulse) could indicate one of many serious physical conditions, ranging from anemia and hyperthyroidism to heart or lung disorders. Before diagnosing panic/anxiety syndrome, I'd certainly want to test your mother thoroughly with blood analyses, pulmonary function studies, X-rays, and a stress test.

Because all doctors are occasionally stumped by challenging cases, no individual physician can be expected to diagnose each illness promptly and accurately, without outside resources. As you might expect, this imperfect nature of medical practice may cause anger and frustration in patients whose health problems are not quickly and accurately solved.

This is where a medical referral system is so vital. Sometimes another doctor, with a different perspective, can shed light on a seemingly unsolvable diagnostic puzzle. When I can't figure out what's going on, I'm relieved to be able to send my patients to someone who can.

Therefore, I urge you to insist that your mother obtain a second opinion. Her doctor can refer her -- or she can take herself to another physician. Furthermore, the results of the tests your mother has already had will undoubtedly help the new doctor; the courteous referring doctor ordinarily makes these results available to the consultant -- or he may even choose to call or write the consultant to discuss the case.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Stop me if you've heard this one before. Francois de la Rochefoucauld wondered, "Why is it that our memory is good enough to retain the least triviality that happens to us, and yet not good enough to recollect how often we have told it to the same person?"

We learn how to play a certain suit combination. But the lure of overtricks often trifies with our memory, inducing us to misplay it — as happened to South in today's deal.

North was right to respond three no-trump. True, sometimes five (or six) diamonds will be better, but much more often giving the opponents extra information with a slower auction will improve their defense.

After winning trick one with dummy's spade queen, declarer played a club to his ace and led a diamond to dummy's queen. East knew enough to duck this. Now South ducked a club West won with the eight and returned a spade. Declarer tried a diamond to dummy's king, but East won with the ace and played another spade. The contract was dead.

With six top tricks, South needed only three diamond tricks, not five. He could afford to lose two diamond tricks. And remember that if you must lose a couple of tricks in a suit, it is usually right to concede the first immediately.

Try the effect of leading a low diamond to the dummy at trick two. Probably East will win with the nine and return a spade. Declarer plays a diamond to the queen and collects an easy overtrick. Even if East tries the Merrimac Coup, switching to the heart king at trick three, South can avoid the attack by playing low from both hands.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Feb. 12, 1994

Individuals or groups which weren't too lucky for you this past year might prove to be just the opposite in the year ahead. Hold onto these connections and try to keep the relationships current.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone for whom you did a favor recently feels very indebted to you, even though this was never your intention. He/she will be trying to figure out a way to reciprocate. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep a note pad and pencil handy today, because a bright concept for a new project might flash through your head. If you don't jot it down when it occurs, it might elude you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Zero in on objectives today that are the most significant to you. Major achievements are possible, provided you don't get sidetracked by anything trivial.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your ability to absorb and retain knowledge is especially keen today, particularly if your purpose is to enlighten the uninformed. Compassion makes you a good student.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persons might make disclosures to you today which they're reluctant to make to others. You should take pride in the fact you're deemed so trustworthy.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Instead of being critical of the ideas and suggestions of others, look for aspects in their presentation that are praise worthy. You'll be surprised what you'll discover.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The secret to picking up a few strides on the pack today is to put the needs of others on par with your own requirements. Both problems have the same solutions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you haven't been getting as much exercise as you should this week, try to make amends today. You don't have to do anything overwhelming. A brisk walk could produce lots of benefits.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Timing is extremely important today, especially in matters you're hoping to finalize. Don't bring all of your forces into play until you're ready to close.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you might be inclined to just coast along until you're challenged by developments that require full use of your imagination and ingenuity. This is when you'll operate the best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It might be wise today for your spouse to let you handle the finances. Instead of splitting the chore, your ideas are likely to be much more resourceful and clever.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a mystique about today that may fascinate persons who have dealings with you on a one-to-one basis. It's your ability to perceive their moods and thoughts. Copyright 1994, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
