RACHEL HARRIS CAMPBELL
BULL IN A CHINA SHOP

(From Yankee)
Today is a bull in a china shop;
large and boisterous, bellowing;
from yesterday's calm shelves—
shattered papered yellowing; Memory's fragil glasses drop;
loud roll and crash beneath his swing;
But do not bid the great beast
stop;
He fills the hushed, too-trans-
quill air
With gay, excited melody.
Of course some dainty things lie there
In shining fragments everywhere,
But still about the place will be Enough frail stuff to hold the past in reverie.
I like the noise he makes, the sudden stir;
Where all was peace and laven-der.
For what he breaks waste no
great sorrow;
New porcelains can be shaped tomorrow.

American contributions to the Red Cross for war relief work now total $16,585,000.

When Wendell Willkie was a boy in school, according to his year book, he wrote a letter to the "Chaperon column" in the book. "Dear Chaperon," he wrote,
"Can you send me an address where I can secure a blue tie to match my eyes. L. W. Willkie." And here was the reply, "Don't worry about that. Try to get a soft hat to match your head."

Among those who have signed up for military training at Plattsburgh, N. Y., this summer are Wentworth, Roselli, Miller, son of John D. Jr., John Hay Whitney, Harry Payne Whitney, Michael G. Phillips, Angie Biddle Duke, Philip G. Aldrich, John W. Davis, and others. When the war comes they will be prepared for it.

Jack Dempsey, the old Man-sue Mauler, probably the greatest fighter of all time, who had Luke Fijo clear out of the ring, and who licked them all with a few punches until Gene Tunney, the world's champion heavyweight, came along still looks a punch. At 45, old for the ring, old in any line, he puts "Cowboy" Luttrell of Texas through the ropes in exactly 1 minute and 40 seconds. Dempsey can still fight though they say he breathes a bit.

French casualties during the Battle of France are estimated at about 1,000,000. We don't know anybody really knows but this estimate is probably as nearly accurate as any. In the Battle of France, 600,000 were taken prisoners,
600,000 were injured and about 180,000 killed. These figures of course do not include either the British or German losses which are known to have been tremendous.

Senator Wheeler of Montana has been invited to be a member of the Democratic committee regarding whether Edgar Roosevelt runs or not.
The indications are that Wheeler, if he is not nominated as a Democrat, may run as an independent candidate, thus splitting the Democratic vote. Wheeler is a strong isolationist, believing that under no circumstances should the men of his state be upset to fight until the American Congress at least.

Today is the first day of the Refugee Children's Fund drive.
The United States Committee for the Care of European Children can be addressed at 215 Fourth Avenue, New York City, by those either who wish to contribute funds, or who would like to care for refugee children in their homes.

Independence Day

Tomorrow is the Fourth of July. That is Independence Day, the day on which the original thirteen American colonies declared their independence from Great Britain and began a long war which was to take seven years to prove their claim. In the light of what is happening throughout the world today, it might be well for all Americans to review their Declaration of Independence, a part of which reads as follows:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident—that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to affect their safety and happiness."

"Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are suffered, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government."

It took the Americans seven long hard years to throw off the yoke which then held them in bondage. And it was recognized even then, 164 years ago, as the Declaration of Independence clearly shows, that successful revolution was no light or simple task and that people are more disposed to suffer the evils of despotism than to rise against them. Only the tremendous will, courage and hardihood of our American forebears prompted them to make the struggle and enabled them to win it.

But how much greater the task of those patriots would have been if bombing planes, tanks, machine guns, and all the other implements of modern warfare could have been hurled against them! Every American pioneer had his squirrel rifle, an implement hardly less formidable than the best which the Red Coats carried. Man for man Washington's troops at Valley Forge were the equal of any soldiers on earth both in training and equipment. In those days national preparedness was a simple matter of personal courage and determination, plus rifle and bayonet.

But what chance have the nations of Europe, which have been subjugated by the Germans, to revolt successfully against their masters? Their people have been disarmed to the point where it is a crime punishable by death to have in one's possession even a squirrel rifle. They have no airplanes, tanks, machine guns or cannons and never will any opportunity be given to get them. Any revolution, no matter how bitter or far-reaching, can be easily and quickly put down by superior arms.

Were an outbreak to occur among the people in Czechoslovakia, Poland, or France, Prague, Warsaw, or Paris would be promptly bombed. A dozen Germans armed with machine guns could hold a strategic position in any European city against a mass of a hundred thousand unarmed but revolting subjects. Any attempt on the part of these people to arm would bring the firing squads before the first cap pistol could arrive.

Americans should bear in mind that if they ever lose their independence again, it will not be so easy to win it back.

Refugee Children

In spite of the announcement by the King and Queen of England that their own children, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, will not be evacuated to safer shores but will remain in England to take their chances with the rest, some 52,000 British parents have indicated their desire to send their children to Canada or the United States as soon as transportation facilities are available and it is expected that at least 200,000 more may be evacuated.

In order to assist in meeting the expense of this huge migration, the Allied Relief Fund, under the chairmanship of Winthrop Aldrich, prominent New York banker, will inaugurate a campaign this week to raise $5,000,000. The drive has the endorsement of the British ambassador, Lord Lothian, and is being conducted at the request of U. S. government officials who recognize the imperative need for work of this kind if many British children are to be spared the horror and destruction of German bombing raids.

Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt is honorary chairman and Marshall Field, chairman of the Committee for the Care of European Children which will have charge of the disbursements of funds raised in this drive, and is making all arrangements for the transportation and placing of refugee children in this country. Trained child welfare workers have been engaged to assist in the work.

The United States Committee for the Care of European Children can be addressed at 215 Fourth Avenue, New York City, by those either who wish to contribute funds, or who would like to care for refugee children in their homes.

THE SANFORD FORUM

Dear Mr. Dean:
When Mr. Goering told Douglas Fairbanks that Germany had nothing to fear from the United States since there is nothing over there but negroes and Jews, and threatened to force a candidate on the

Seminole Face Orlando Team In Two Games Tomorrow

Jeter, Corley Probable Hurters In Fourth Of July Double Header

Tor's Ace Pitchers Are Scheduled
To Get The Call Against Orlando; Daytona Beach Game Rained Out

Major double-header is set for tomorrow afternoon with the two improved Orlando teams providing the opposition, and will start Cleo Jeter and Corley for the feature contest. Corley went to George because of sickness in the family, but is expected back for the holiday tilt.

The game will be played in the afternoon, starting at 2:00 o'clock. The second game will start at 6:00 p.m. in the evening. Orlando started pricing its tickets at $1.00. They are still rocky over what they administered to engine-leaders in Orlando the time the teams met.

Cleo Jeter has been fuming promising to "show" some ever since an Orlando sportsman wrote that Jeter could not stand up against Orlando with Ganzel in the attacking box.

Jodie Howington, who was scheduled to pitch against Daytona, will hurl against Orlando there tonight.

Orlando Defeats
DeLand Red Hats
By 11 To 2 Score

Orlando smothered DeLand like a steam roller last night to defeat the visitors, 11 to 2, in a Florida State league baseball game.

Swindell, of the mound for Orlando, allowed the losers 10 hits, while his mates were collected.

that fans will see more than the half games. Fans are still talking about the Campbell-Minasi fight and Campbell's remark that "Orlando tried to run us out of our own ball park."

The Seminoles had an enjoyable ride to Daytona Beach last night, but they forgave their trip, and as Daytonians were not prepared to play either, the team was called off, leaving down to 10 men which beat a right up to the scheduled game time made the City Island diamond a fit place for turtles and frogs only.

The trip home was also uneventful, although the boy Al McMillan scuffled with every player on the bus. To break the monotony Al Nixon and Cleo Jeter led the group in song. Nixon and Nixon were forced to lead the team because the two players who were selected to take care of the Ormond were missing, two games.
