civil rights were violated.

Dixon has denied the allegations and demanded an apology from Freytes-Torres. As late as Monday, June 2, Dixon Indicated he had no plans to resign.

However, the following day, Mayor Brady Lessard said he received a call from Lannie told me Roger was in his office and wanted to draw up a letter of resignation," Lessard said.

According to Lessard, Dixon has been meeting with him and commissioners since that Tuesday and presented his letter of resignation to the mayor on Thursday. He will continue to act as interim city manager until the commission votes on Monday in regard to his resignation letter. If the resignation is approved, it would take effect immediately.

"He wants to explore career opportunities," said Lessard. "I'm not surprised by his rusignation. Roger has been thinking about it for quite a while."

Lessard said the city will not tolerate sexual harassment, but stopped short of saying Dison's resignation was related to the EEOC

City narrows field of manager candidates

SANFORD — City commis-sioners narrowed the field of finalists for the city manager position to four Thursday.

After conducting conference calls with the shortlist of six candidates, commissioners unanimously voted to keep the following candidates: James F. Coleman of Lady Lake, Danny Crew of Gastonia, N.C., Al Grieshaber, Jr., of Albany, Ga., and James Rose O'Connor of St. Charles, Mo.

"One of these four will be our next city manager," said Mayor Brady Lessard. "This will be home for him and his family."

Throughout the 30-minute interviews, commissioners saled the six candidates -Terry Dody was scheduled for an interview, but withdrew his name from the race - to tell about themselves, their qualification, professional backgrounds and why they would like to work for the city of Sanford.

Commission rated each candidate on oral communication, sense of priorities, interpersonal sensitivity, composure, leadership/impact and depth of understanding.

During the interviews, the commissioners' clear favorite was Crew, who is in town this week interviewing for the Osceola County manager position.

We need to call Danny tonight," said Commissioner Kevin Hipes, implying that he didn't want Crew to sign a contract with Onceola County before bringing him in for an interview for the Sanford job.

Although commissioners liked Crew, they were quick to say the slate would be wiped clean and the playing field leveled during the face-to-face interviews.

"My ranking changed from the resume stage to the telephone interview stage," said Hipes. "The ranking could change again after the in-person interviews.

Commission plans to send a representative from the board to visit the hometowns of each of the four finalists sometime in mid-June. While on the site visit, interviews with the chief of police, fire department and business associates will be conducted and an overall feel for the city will be

Billy Pierson bringing 'belt buckle' country music to Sanford's The Barn

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter Staff Writer

SANFORD - In a time when most country acts sound more like the Backstreet Boys or Justin Guarini of "American Idol" fame, newcomer Billy Pierson brings cowboy hats and belt buckles back into country music

"I think country music is slowly going back to where it needs to be," said Pierson, who will perform at The Barn in Sanford Wednesday. "I can see it hurning. There has been great music over the past 10 to 15 years, but it was penned away from country

"I'm so glad to be in an era when true country is needed again," he added "We're singing country and the way it should be."

Pierson, who grew up in Panama City, landed in Nashville in 1995 to pursue a singing career. After only six months, he was signed by thenlabel guru A & M Records. The company decided soon after to nix its country division, leaving Pierson and other country artists without jobs.

"We lost our hearts and dreams," said Pierson, who is a pilot in his spare time. "But, that's what happens. It's a roller coaster ride."

After the disappointment in Nashville, Pierson decided to take a break from music and visit his father, Chuck Pierson, in Naples. He enjoyed the area and soon decided to make it his permanent home. He later started a family construction business with his father and brother.

Throughout it all, Pierson never gave up on his dream of making it in the music industry. So, when Oak Records approached him with a record deal, he leaped at the chance to return to his first love - music.

With his debut single, "I Worship the Woman You Walk On," which he co-wrote with Steve Clark, set to hit airwaves Tuesday, Pierson is on top of the roller coast-

Paula Ritchey, SAFE KIDS coordinator stated, Buckling up is still the most effective way to save lives and reduce injuries from motor vehicle crashes on America's roadways. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), Motor Vehicle Crashes are the leading cause of death for children age 4 to 14, and in 2000 more than half of all children under 15 years of age killed in car crashes were completely unrestrained."

Adults who don't buckle up send children a deadly message that it is all right to ride unbuckled when traveling in a motor vehicle, she added. In fact, research shows that when a driver is unbuckled, 70 percent of the time, children riding in that vehicle will be unbuckled,

Even when parents use restraints, their child still may be at risk. Community child safety seat check-up events held throughout Florida indicate that more than 96 percent of the child safety seats inspected were incorrectly installed in one or more ways. For additional events in Seminole County, please visit www.seminolepublicsafety.org or contact Ritchey 407-665-

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Sanford Proud: Last Friday's ceremony for the Vigilante memorial out at the airport was one of Sanford's shinning moments. Organizers estimate the crowd at about 1,400 people, one of the largest crowds I've seen for any event in Sanford during my four years in the Celery

Many in the crowd had a direct connection to the former Naval Air Station (NAS) Sanford. One of those was

by Dan Ping

Dan Rowley. Rowley is considered "the John Wayne of the Vigilante communify," said Patty Mahany, vice chairman of the Sanford Airport Memorial Committee. "He is one of the most respected men among the Sanford Navy veterans."

The esteem in which Rowley is held is well deserved. He is one of only three pilots to log more than 2,000 hours in the Vigilante, and he has more deployments in the aircraft than anyone.

"My whole operation career and most of my project career in the Navy was spent with the Vigilante," said Rowley, who was one of the last to fly the jet out of Sanford. "Basically, I was with the Vigilante from birth to death."

To honor Rowley, the committee selected him as one of four veterans to have his name paint-. ed on the memorial jet.

"I'm pleased and proud to have my name on that plane, particularly considering the other names on the plane," Rowley said. "There are some good men I'm honored to be with on that plane.

Rowley said he didn't know the committee intended to put his name on the Vigilante. The honor means as much for his wife, who is from an old Sanford family.

"She's a Hutchinson," Rowley said. His most vivid memory of the Vigilante is the first day he saw the jet.

"I was a junior officer when I first saw it," Rowley remembered "It's hard to describe. The Vigilante was the most impressive aircraft I had ever seen. The best way I can describe it is the way those pilots felt when they first saw the SR-71 (Blackbird stealth spy plane)."

Rowley, who lives in Winter Park, has fond memories of his days in Sanford. He said Sanford was "my favorite NAS" because the residents seemed proud to have the Navy base.

"I don't know why they like us so well, but they did," Rowley said. "They made us a part , of their town. Heck, our officers' club was essentially Jim Spencer's Restaurant.

"I think at the time it was $50 a year for the Navy guys to join the Mayfair Country Club," Rowley recalled. "That was a real perk. I remembering playing 45 holes a day when I got

It was a pleasure to speak with Rowley, and I'm sure each of the men and women who attend the ceremony could provide equally compelling stories. Kudos to Jack Dow, Patty Mahany and all of the men and women who worked so hard to make the Vigilante memorial such a success. You're the embodiment of "Sanford Proud."

Not newsworthy?: Speaking of the Vigilante ceremony, the event almost didn't make the pages of the Orlando Sentinel.

Word Around The Clock is the big brass at the daily paper didn't think the ceremony was a "Sentinel story," whatever that means. I suppose if the Housing Authority is not involved, the Sentinel big-wigs aren't interested in Sanford. From the Herald's perspective, the Sentinel's absence would have been great for us. However, it would have been a slap in the face not only to those who worked so hard on the memorial, but to the men and women the memorial was meant to honor. Thankful, the Sentinel's Sanford bureau fought to have the story included. Good for them because this was an important story.

"This site meets their needs for now and for future expansions," said Ron Henson of Design Service Group in Longwood, who is representing the Leffler Company. "And, it's an economic opportunity for the city and county to better themselves. You don't get a lot of these type of companies

The Commission voted unanimously to recommend to Sanford City Commission that the rezoning of the property from planned development to planned development for industrial uses be approved. City Commission will vote on the proposed rezone June 23.

"They [Florida Extrudem] are very interested in this site," said Henson. "It is the intent of Florida Extruders to purchase the land in Sanford if the city is able to annex and rezone the property."

rezone the property."

If approved, funds for the incentive project would come from the county's Jobs Growth Incentive Fund. According to county analysis, the return investment on the project would be less than a year for all taxes countywide.

The capital investment by the company for this project is an estimated $11.5 million, including the land purchase, construction of a 224,000 square foot facility and $2 million in machinery and equipment.

According to Florida Extruders, the group plans to hire 155 new employees at an average annual salary of $26,387. If the county incentive package is approved, this would equate to $987 for each new job created.

During Tuesday's meeting, commissioners will also:

 Consider adopting a resolution renaming a portion of State Road 436, between Interstate-4 and U.S. Highway 17-92, to East Altamonte Drive. A duplication of address numbers on east and west State Road 436 was brought to the attention of Commission after a recent emergency response delay to a 9-1-1 call was caused by the confusion of numbers. If approved, this change would only affect the business addresses in unincorporated Seminole County, since Altamonte Springs already uses East Altamonte Drive.

• Receive a briefing on the infrastructure challenges the Road Operations and Stormwater Division of the Public Works Department faces. A summary of operational programs such as sidewalks, landscape maintenance, mosquito control, the surface water quality NPDES Program, and effectiveness of storage and conveyance systems during storm events will be discussed.

Decide whether to enter into a billboard agreement with Clear Channel Outdoor. The company is proposing the removal of three existing billboards in exchange for the construction of one new billboard in the I-4 Industrial Park located in the northwest part of Seminole County.

Thursday's concerns focused on the approved maximum density for freestanding residential development. The revisions now allow a density of 18 dwelling units per acre — down from 25 — for two blocks in the northern area of the district, which would allow for the construction of townhouses.

"I don't see the possibility of getting that many units on one acre," said Jan Blackwelder.

"Fifteen to 18 units, that's way too

Blackweider's husband, John, added that many residents in the area do not want three-story buildings in their neighborhood.

"Who wants to be in their home looking out their window at a three-story building?" said John Blackwelder. "I don't want to live like that."

Many of the residents at the meeting opposed to the new zoning regulations suggested the city clean up what is already downtown Lake Mary.

"This is a wonderful city as it is now," Debbie Williamson said. "It just needs a little clean up. The city should leave it alone and fix it up."

improve the area.

"I really believe this will be an improvement," Hornsby sald.
"How many people in the area have improved their homes, it's not for me to judge how the way people live is either wrong or right, but I can't see how this won't improve our property."

Tim Bosley of Broadmoor Road presented Commission with a petition containing more than 100 signatures of Lake Mary residents who favor the new development.

Following the public hearing. Commission voted to move forward with the revised comprehensive plan. Commissioner George Duryes, who had concerns regarding the high density and lack of transitional area, was the sole "no" vote. Commissioner Mike McLean was absent from the meeting.

"When the Downtown Development Advisory Committee was formed, we tried to come up with a way to make the downtown nicer," Duryea said. "The original committee never envisioned new stand alone residential.

"We have to do something, and I am happy with the core area," he said. "I am not happy with the northern areas and won't be unless the density is significantly reduced."

In response, Lake Mary Mayor Thom Greene said the 18-unit per acre zoning was a maximum number. The number of units could actually be fewer than the pro-

"We could tweak the plan to give a transitional area to the north and east," Greene said. "We just want to have a comfort level for the developers to come in here. It will be a cap of 18, but there probably will never be 18."

Commissioner Brender also added that residents would have the opportunity to voice either their concerns or approval of what happens in the district once developers present their plans to

"We can't build a wall around the community and say, OK, this is our spot and no one else can come in," Brender said. "We have not created anything in this town that has brought down property values or ruined a segment of the community. We're not about to screw it up now."

tion," Lessard said.

In his letter to commissioners, Dixon did not refer to the EEOC investigation. He did, however, say his resignation is conditional based upon the city commission granting him a three-month's severance package. Dixon's contract binds the city to pay him 90 days salary if the city terminates his employment without cause. Dixon wants the city to honor that clause although he is resigning rather than being terminated.

"The technicalities of his contract, including determining the capacity the city will keep him and severance will be determined on Monday," Lessard Reached Friday, Dixon declined to comment on the resignation. Instead, he said he would make a statement after cummission action on Monday. Also on Monday's agenda, commissioners will:

• Receive a briefing on the Sanford 1st Street Streetscape project. Design of the project has reached the 60 percent engineering drawings level. Commissioners will also discuss funding for the project, expected to come from the Downtown Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) and a public awareness campaign.

• Discuss amendments to the Discuss amendments to the Land Development Regulations' Schedule S codes which govern the Historic District.

 Consider approval of the preliminary subdivision plan for The Gateway at Riverwalk, the six-story condominium complex proposed to be located just west of City Hall.

Military Notes

Navy Seaman Recruit Jonathan Nicho, a 2002 graduate of Winter Park High School in Winter Park, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command in Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Nicho completed a variety of training which included class-room study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the key skills and confidence they need to graduate and take to the fleet. "Battle Stations" has been designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, learnwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of honor, courage and commitment. Its distinctly 'Navy' flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a Sailor.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Clinton A. Killenbee, son of Linda S. and Richard A. Killenbee of Deltona, recently completed the Navy Nuclear Power Training Unit course at Naval Nuclear Power Training Unit, Ballston Spa, N. V.

Killenbec received instruction about nuclear theory, chemistry, physics, reactor operations, safety and security. Upon completion of the course, killenbec was designated as a nuclear propulsion plant operator.

Killenbec is a 2001 graduate of Deltona High School in Deltona. He joined the Navy in July 2001.

Marine Corps Pfc. Billy R. Guzman, son of Maritza I. Ortiz of Lake Mary, recently completed the Administrative Clerk Course at Personnel Administration School, Marine Corps Service Support School at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

During the eight-week course, Guzman learned basic skills and knowledge in personnel management and administration procedures.

With his newly acquired knowledge, Guzman is ready to prepare personnel evaluations and reports, leave authorizations, military identification cards and official orders for Marines changing duty Guzman joined the Marine Corps in October 2002.

Navy Seaman Marc A. Pero, son of Sharon J. Robidoux of Harrisville, R. L and Edgar M. Pero of DeBary, recently reported for duty aboard the aircraft carrier USS George Washington, home ported in Norfolk, Va.

Pero joined the Navy in October 2002.

Navy Lt. j.g. William E. Hieronimus, son of William A. Hieronimus of Geneva, recently returned from a deployment to the Arabian Gulf. He was assigned to the guided missile frigate USS Thack, homeported in San Diego, Calif.

Hieronimus was one of more than 8,000 Pacific Fleet Sailors aboard the ships of the USS Constellation Carrier Battle Group who participated in Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Investigation continues in dog killing incident

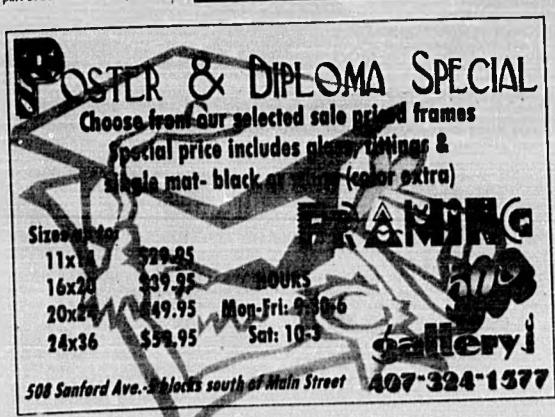

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is investigating an incident on June 3, where a shot was fired in a residential neighborhood, killing a dog. Around 4:30 p.m. at 144 Grackle Court in the Deer Run subdivision, the dog's caretaker, 30-year old Lawrence Couch, was standing 20-25 feet away from the dog when it was shot. Couch was visiting from Orlando and taking care of the dog for its Couch says he had just let the dog outside when the shot was fired. Couch noticed the dog jump and then run into the house. After he let the dog inside, the dog soon died of a shot to the chest. The Seminole County Sheriff's Office and Seminole County Animal Services were called.

The deputy on the scene and the animal services officer believe the dog was shot with a .22 caliber gun, perhaps a rifle. The neighborhood was canvassed, and one resident reported hearing what sounded like a firecracker. Other neighbors were either not home or claimed they did not hear anything. The deputy plans to contact neighbors again to see what develops.

Too much, nor not enough

Depending on where you live in Central Florida, you, no doubt, had some rainfall in the past few days. While Sanford was doused earlier in the week, I didn't have sufficient rain until Wednesday. Who knows how long this rain spell will last this time. It brings to mind a conversation I had with a security guard at an I-4 rest stop this past Sunday. He told me he had moved here from Massachusetts and had spent six months looking for a place to live and work that had sufficient rainfall. "As little rain as this area gets," he said, "I may as well have Pfeifauf moved to Arizona."

Yet here is a man who acknowledged he lives within a mile or two from Interstate-4, a place well known to all of us as the I-4 rainfall corridor. It seems as though the majority of rain maps they show us on TV have a line of rain running right along I-4 from Tampa to Daytona Beach. We see it

For those who haven't been in Central Florida long however, at various times, we can here them saying either, "When will this rain stop?" or, "When will we get some rain?"
To them it seems to be feast or famine.

I'm still getting over the heavy rainfall we had earlier this year. I live on a landlocked lake, and it has taken over two-thirds of my back lawn. I have a gazebo, surrounded by roses, that is completely out in the lake.

The city of Deltona (I'm in the city limits) is doing some things to alleviate some of the larger lakes, but there is no way they will do anything for me and my neighbors, so I guess I'll just have to grin and bear it. At least it doesn't take me as long as it used to, to mow

Sorry folks, there is nothing we can do about the amount of rainfall we have or don't have. And I guess, as this is a personal column, there should be some words of advice I should give out. This is one major case when that just can't be done - but we should keep our eyes out and be cautious at all times.

Taylor writes of appreciation for Vigilante reunion

To the editor:

Captain James Cowell, Jr., CEC USN, it was a fine visit, and your surprise gift of a 31st NCR cap really was GREAT! I've worn it twice since my return: First, to the Ancient City Chapter meeting of Military Officer Association of America (MOAA formerly TROA) got a bunch of "flack" from my Navy and Army friends; and second wore it today to a breakfast meeting with my local U.S. Representative in Congress, followed by the dedication of an

What did the prime minister know and when did he know it?

When I left Washington a few days ago, most Americans seemed generally unconcerned that our soldiers and spies had found no WMD, the weapons of mass destruction that were supposed to be the eason for going to war in Iraq. After all, we won easily, and we were finding mass graves that certainly proved Saddam Hussein was a homicidal monster.

Tucker So, in the United States, President Bush is . . . more popular than ever. What a difference an ocean makes. In Great Britain, there is a frenzy over the missing WMD, and some members of his own Labor Party are saying that Prime Minister Tony Blair's government could fall over his "lying" to the nation and even to his own ministers.

This is some of what you see on a newstand in this old university town:

The tabloid Daily Mail: Tony Blair's Private War" ... "He built case for war around three big deceits" ... "If Blair did mislead us, he must go."

The moderate Financial

Times: "Angry MPs to Press Blair on Iraq Weapons — The allegations that we were misled into war are more serious than Watergate." The conservative Sunday Times: "LIE ANOTHER DAY — Have our intelligence services become the puppets of a lying govemment?

The moderate-to-liberal Independent: "Revealed: How Blair used discredited WMD

'evidence" ... 'We were duped into war. Even the Americans admit it." ... "No, Mr. Blair, you won't get away with it this time."

The leftist Guardian: "Blair lied to Cabinet and made secret war pact with U.S." .. "Weapons are not all that is missing. The spooks have failed to track down Saddam and Bin Laden."

The conservative Daily Telegraph: "We were misled. We were deceived."

I could go on - and the British are. The story so far is that the country's intelligence agencies are leaking stories contending that the prime minister and his men forced them to eliminate their judgment that Saddam Hussein was not an imminent threat to anyone before the British released a 50page intelligence report — used both here and in the United States — to justify the invasion of Iraq by the English-speaking

The greatest distortion, those sources say, was Blair's declaration that Iraq could activate chemical, biological and nuclear weapons within 45 minutes. Blair's own ministers and former ministers (two resigned as the war began) are saying that he had already secretly agreed to back President Bush on going to war, and then lied to them about that. The most important call for a full government investigation of those charges is not from any newspaper but from Blair's resigned foreign secretary, Robin Cook.

An American equivalent of what is happening here might be this: CIA Director George Tenet being identified as the source of stories saying President Bush made up intelligences in his public declarations of war; Secretary of State

Colin Powell resigning and demanding a full inquiry into Bush's road to war; and Republicans in Congress calling for the impeachment of Bush for misleading the nation.

Anti-Americanism is suddenly exploding in the land we consider our last old partner. The world's most odious partnership" is the headline over Peter McKay's full-page column in the Daily Mail. Often pro-American, McKay now talks of "the awful Bush." He wrote last Monday: "Do we need U.S. bases? No. Aren't they there to protect us? No. They exist to protect America. Would America accept European bases on its soil?"

Is this Blairgate? I don't know. The prime minister rushed home from a foreign trip to promise new proof that Iraq had or has WMD. I doubt he will be believed. The lies and deceptions that led up to this war are cracking our last old European alliance. President Bush may really believe that we have to attack Iran or Syria, but if we do it, we will be all alone.

Seminole County 4-H team takes top national prize in competition

A team of Florida students from Seminole County 4-H became the national champions in the National LifeSmarts Competition held in Orlando, Florida. The Florida team beat out teams from twenty nine other states to win the title. LifeSmarts is a competition in a game show format that tests students on their knowledge of personal financial management, health and safety, the environment, technology and telecommunications, and consumer rights and responsibilities. High school students and 4-H clubs in thirty states competed on the local and state level earlier this year to win the right to represent their states the national competition. The Seminole 4-H Club won the state title at the LifeSmarts competition held at the Florida State Fair in February. Over the weekend, teams from as far away as California and Wisconsin competed against each other until there were two finalists on Tuesday morning The Seminole 4-H team stayed eligible throughout and competed for the National LifeSmarts Title against a strong team from Minnesula. The teams staved neck in neck through much of the exciting match until the Florida team answered the final question right, putting it ahead by only seven points, enough to win the competition. "I am extremely proud of the Seminole 4-H Club and was impressed by the young people,s knowledge of consumer, health, high tech and financial management issues," Bronson said. "I think all of the young people who competed over the weekend made their states proud and will be savvy consumers who have the knowledge to avoid consumer pitfalls many people face." week with a record release party at Fan Fair in Nashville, and the tour brings—the self-proclaimed "Florida boy" to the sunshine state for several shows. His debut CD, Let Me Take You On a Country Ride, features other down-home country singles such as "United We Stand" and "Country Cruise." It will be available for the first time during Wednesday's concert and in store sometime next month.

Pierson's roots in country music date back to when he was 12 years old listening to his "dad's country," including Ray Price and Jim Reeves, during his morning ride to ...hook.

"I would say, 'Dad, just shoot me,'" said Pierson, who attributes his Uncle Tommy Woodcock as being his greatest rausical inspiration. "After a couple of weeks of Who: Bifty Pierson the best music there is in the world."

Before signing his contract with Oak Records, Pierson spent a lot of time in Deltona with his mom and stepfather. Burbara and John Bornas. He performed locally at the Quality lim in Del and and several other local clubs. Pierson is excited to bring his band. Bullet Proof, back to Florida.

Pierson, who co-produced Let up and die.'

Me Take Yest On a Country Ride, hope to be longevity in the music indicates as a writer, producer and performer.

"I've done everything and tried everything and nothing satisfiesme like music does," said Pierson, whose fan club, led by President Sylul Hottin, is based in DeBary. "It's in my blood and veins If I didn't bave this, I would shrivel

Manager -

"All of these candidates are from blue collar towns," said Commissioner Randy Jones, who will fly to St. Charles, Mo. "They're not trying to be something they're not or tell us about only the good sides of their area. I like that."

Each member will report back to the other commissioners about their findings and then the finalists will be flown to Sanford June 18 for in-person interviews. According to commissioners, they will be prepared to extend an offer by June 20.

"I hope it's an unanimous, or close to unanimous, vote once we meet the finalists face-to-face," said Lessard.

With the pending resignation of Interim City Manager Roger Dixon Thursday, commissioners still plan to take time to find the best city manager.

"There is not a vacuum in city administration," said Lessard. "I'm confident that any number of people can step up until we hire a city manager."

What the finalists are saying:

I'm looking forward to my trip down there and being able to talk with the city commissioners. I am very familiar with the area because I have family scattered throughout Florida. I hope to bring my 25 years of experience to the city, as well is a master's degree in business administration. I look forward to bringing my business concepts and my unique experiences and knowledge to the city.

— O'Commissioners

I think it's great, fremendous. The Commission put in some long hours Thursday, and I'm so glad they have gone to the next step and very glad I've been included. I've been in Central Florida since 1985, and been fortunate to progress in my public administration career. I'm familiar with Sonford and aware of how far it's come. I'm acutely aware of the assets that Senford has, such as transportation hubs, historic downtown and the airport. I hope to capitalize on those and do economic development to enhance the quality of life even more.

— Colanas

I am pleased and appreciative that they would consider my qualifications. I'm excited to be coming to Sanford and having an interview. I believe I have the administrative skills, with legal training, that enables me to analyze issues very objectively and from different perspectives, not just a governmental perspective.

Fish are active on East Coast

Special to the Herald

The fishing in the Indian River and Mosquito Lagoon have been very active the past week. The redfish have been a little picky at times, but will eat when they are not pushed too hard.

An increase in trolling motor tise has been seen lately and this method can stress out redfish. It is okay to use the trolling motor if you keep it on low speed and keep the speed constant.

If you do move a school of reds turn off the motor and pole or anchor. If you are patient the fish will come to

There have been schools of redfish all over Mosquito Lagoon and the Indian River flats. Most of the redfish have been eating live shrimp, mullet and frozen mullet. If you find a happy school of fish they will take soft jerk baits. I was abi land a couple of 11-pound reds on Rip Tides new five inch Flats Chub.

Trout have been hitting well on live pigfish. They are also attacking topwater baits and soft jerkbaits early. As the sun rises switch over to 1/8 ounce jigs with a Rip Tide three inch mullet in sandperch with a chartuese tail.

Look for trout on the flats early and then move to a water depth between 3-5 foot. Good luck and don't forget sunscreen and drink plenty of water.

Naval Air Station Sanford History

In November 1942, Naval Air Station Senford Was commissioned to meet the country's need for additional naval aviation training facilities.

By the end of World War II, the U.S. Navy no longer needed the additional training facility. The station was decommissioned and turned over to the city. In 1947, the New York Giants constructed eight baseball fields at the station to use for their spring farm teams.

At the start of the Korean War in the early 1950s, the air station reactivated. In 1957, the Santord station was one of the first to receive a squadron of A3D Skywarriors, which were replaced in the early 1960s.

In 1968, Congress closed the Sanford base for the final time and returned the airport back to the city.

The Sanford Industrial Commission was established to promote the industrial aspects of the Airport. In 1970, the City Department of Aviation replaced the commission, and all administrative and operational control was taken over by the city.

in 1971, the City of Santord, by legislative act, created the Sanford Airport Authority, a dependent special district.

Preserving the Past

In 2000, the Sanford Airport
Memorial Committee formed with the objective of obtaining a historic U.S. Navy aircraft and erecting a monument that would serve as a reminder to the community of the airport's military history.

In 2001, the committee acquired the Vigilante from the National Museum of Naval Aviation in Pensecola

On Friday, May 30, 2003, a dedication ceremony was held for Naval Air Station Sanford Memorial Park. More than 1,000 people attended the exert.

Sanford's restored RA-5C Vigilante

The Vigilante returns

On May 30, 2003, the Vigilante returned to Sanford. Following a two-year restoration project, the Vigilanto was officially dedicated during a ceremony at Naval Air Station Sanford Memorial Park. More than a thousand people, including former Vigilante pilots, politicians, local officials and community members attended the event.

magnet programs of opportunities, unlike many other middle schools, said Principal Bill Gibson.

The Readiness and Exploration in Advanced Learning Program (REAL) contains electives that prepare students for high school specialty areas and provide a pre-International Baccalaureste Program that is genuinely a "gifted" curriculum.

At SMS, students have the opportunity to have computers in every room, a flight simulator, advanced scientific equipment that includes probes graphing, calculators, and the pre-International Baccalaureate, which is an intense academic program that prepares students to be successful in the high school International Baccalaureate Program. Students can take semester courses, such as pre-aeronautic science I, II and III, pre-architectural science I, II and III, pre-vet I, II, and II, video production I, II, and III, computer fashion design, pre-space science I, II, and III, marine biology, mustcal/theater technologies, computer interior design, pre-engineering science I, II and III, premedical I, II and III, and graphic art and design.

Pre-high school readiness includes geometry, algebra II, Spanish, building construction, ban, musical keyboard, journalism, yearbook, newspaper, physical fitness, cheerleading, volleyball, field sports and trainer, Air Force Junior ROTC, small engines, chorus, art, basketball, aerobics, family/consumer science simulation lab, jazz band, cartouring and caricatures, drama, weight training, golf and leadership.

The students at SMS continue to excel. Junior ROTC received first and second in male pushups, second place in color guard and platoon drill and third place in female pushups during the middle school ROTC regional competition at Winter Springs. The received first place overall, cadet physical fitness challenge, 1/2-mile relay, second place in 100-yard evacuation challenge and leadership reaction course, third place in four-person color guard regulation, seven-person unarmed squad and 13-person unarmed platoon regulation.

Rich Leadership Summer

Rich Lendenhip Summer Camp will run from June 9 through June 27. The emphasis for the camp is to orient the ups and downs of the pre-IB students. It provides opportunities for fun, recreation, as well as arts, crafts and technology, field trips and a closing cremony with awards.

Because the opportunities at the school and recent changes, some of the students have taken the time to write Mr. Gibson letters to thank him for the successful changes that have improved the students and staff at SMS.

For example, Krisse Hoffman thanked Gibson for attending her Dreamers and Doers Award Ceremony at Disney. She thanked him for being a great principal and for the memories she has of her eight-grade year at SMS. She also thanked him for giving SMS students more options in selecting classes, listening to student ideas, for recognizing their achievements and for his enthusiasm.

Kimberly Martin said, during the past two years, SMS has changed for the best. She enjoyed all of the electives. She has enjoyed a wide range of opportunities. She thanked the administration, who are devoted and who have encouraged all the students at SMS.

Kaylyn Couper and Amanda Bennett thenked Gibson for the school mascot, SMS historian, RiCH student council, a hall of fame and more electives. And Whithey Tillman thanked him for all the improvements, pep rallies, more school spirit, dances and cheerleading. "Sanford Middle, where we ride the stars to success with math, science and technology."

Stetson's Corner: Night Watch — man needed

By Daria Kinney Scoles Herald Correspondent

Welcome to Stetson's Corner, where weekly we hope to share a bit of what is good about the town of Geneva. This column is dedicated to a man who did the same - Deputy Sheriff Gene "Stetson" Gregory, who was killed in the line of duty July 8, 1998 in the place he was sworn to protect, but which could not protect him. Geneva will never be the same because of Deputy Gregory...it will be better.

As promised, I've included a bit of Geneva history in this week's column.
Looking back is a good way to keep the present (and the future) in perspective. The following 'tidbits' describing life in the settlement of Osceola, Florida come from Mary (Riley) Henderson—the first child born in Osceola on January 2, 1921...

"What was it like living In Osceola? Our lives were ruled by the sawmill, and we were there to keep it alive and healthy. A whistle blew to keep us all in step with things. The first came in early morning – time to get up – another when it was time to go to work – another at lunchtime – and then one to go back to work. Ahhh! At last the quitting whistle blew!

"In return we were supplied and equipped with many conveniences: Electricity in all the homes. The mill produced its own. The lights were blinked at night when it was time to go to bed - then OUT! They did not come back on 'til the wake-up whistle blew. Running water and flush toilets in the homes. Did we bathe in the brown water? Yes! Did we drink it? No! But we had the best drinking water in all of the world. We hauled it from (where else but) Geneva. Thanks Geneval We had white picket fences and St. Augustine lawns. We had wooden sidewalks - boards, nails and bare feet - what a combination! Stubbed toes, splinters and nail scrapes! We cooked on kerosene stoves, and even tried a kerosene refrigerator, which as kinda' temperamental. We kept warm with kerosene heaters and fireplaces. The ice truck delivered ice to our door. The night watchman watched over us all at nighttime. We had washerwomen come do the laundry for us - nine people produced lots of it! All the homes on Main Street had telephone service. You could listen in on everyone's calis - kept us up with the news that way. We had a switchboard in Geneva run by Mrs. Lindsey, and could make long distance calls. We went fishing with bamboo poles, and had the whole St. Johns River to ourselves, catching brim, catfish and shiners. Muscles and angleworms were our bait. The older boys had wooden boats with oars or 'kickers' or both which took them on exploration trips up and down the St. Johns River. We picked blackberries and huckleberries - alert for rattlesnakes all the time. We went arrowhead hunting. Parlor games like "spin the bottle" and "gossip" were played in each other's homes. There were always checker games in progress everywhere. We kept up with the world around us with the "Florida Times Union," "Saturday Evening Post," "Literary Digest," and the "Almanac.

"We were aware that others were here before us. There were those v-scarred pine trees with ceramic pots nailed to them, but the pitch was never gathered. Indian mounds, pottery shards, and arrowheads spoke of others who lived here and fished these waters and hunted these forests. Yes – we were named after Indian Chief Osceola."

The settlement of Osceola was located on the St. Johns River along what is now East Osceola Road in Geneva. Much history has taken place there indeed. In fact, an historical marker placed at East Osceola Road and Osceola Fish Comp Road offered much information about the early settlers and Native Americans who once lived here.

Unfortunately, this marker was recently stolen. Even more unfortunate is the fact that this is the second time in the six years that I have lived (a stone's throw from that marker) here that this valuable link to our past has been removed. Anyone with information about the disap-

Disadvantaged children can overcome early hardship

OUESTION: Last week you talked about why some kids with every advantage and opportunity seem to turn out bad, while others raised in terrible homes become pillars in the community. You cited the life of David Hernandez as an example. What happened to DR. DOBSON: Given his beginning, how can we explain the man that Dave Hernandez became? He graduated near the top of his class in high school and was granted a scholarship to college. Again, he earned high marks and four years later entered Lonia Linda University School of Medicine. Once more, he scored in the top 10 percent of his class and continued in a residency in obstetnes and gynecology. Eventually, he served as a professor of OB/GYN at both Loma Linda University and the University of Southern California medical schools. Then at the peak of his career, his life began to unravel.

I'll never forget the day Dr. Hernandez called me. He had just been released from the hospital following a battery of laboratory tests. The diagnosis? Sclerosing cholangitis, a liver disorder that was invariably fatal at that time We lost this fine husband, father and friend six years later at the age of 43. I loved him like a brother,

Dobson Focus on Family' and I still miss him today.

Again, Lask, how could such discipline and genius come from these infertile circumstances? Who would have thought that this deprived Mexican boy sitting out there in the dirt would someday become one the most loved and respected surgeons of his era? Where did the motivation originate? He had no books, took no educational trips, knew no schol-ars. Yet he reached for the sky. Why did it happen to David Hernandez and not the youngster with every advantage and oppor-

Why have so many children of prominent and loving parents grown up in ideal circumstances, only to reject it all for the streets of Atlanta, San Francisco or New York? Good answers are simply not available. It apparently comes down to this: God chooses to use individuals in unique ways. Beyond that mysterious relationship, we must simply conclude that some kids seem born to make it and others are determined to fail

Two things are clear to me from this understanding. First, parents have been far too quick to take the credit or blame for the way their children turn out. Those with bright, young superstars stick out their chests and say, 'Look what we accomplished." Those with twisted and irresponsible kids wonder. Where did we go wrong?" Well, neither is entirely accurate. No one would deny that parents play an important role in the development and training of their children, but they are only part of the formula from which a young adult is assembled.

Second, behavioral scientists have been far too simplistic in their explanation of human behavior. We are more than the aggregate of our experiences. We are more than the quality of our nutrition. We are more than our genetic heritage. We are more than our biochemistry. And certainly, we are more than our parents' influence. God has created us as unique individuals, capable of independent and rational though that is not attributable to any source. That is what makes the task of parenting so challenging and rewarding

Wekiva River Players' production of 'Hello Dolly!' starts Friday

"Hello Dolly!" one of America's most popular musicals on Broadway from 1964 through 1970, is now being produced by Wekiva River Players as the closing show of their 10th season. Performances start Friday, June 13, and run through June 29 at the Helen Stairs Theatre in Sanford.

"Hello Dolly!" is a rousing musical with ebullient songs by Jerry Herman and libretto derived by Michael Stewart from Thornton Wilder's farce, "The Matchmaker." The show recounts how Dolly Levi, a bustling marriage-broker in New York in the 1890s, has nearly concluded a match between on Horace Vandergelder, a tight-fisted "half-a-millionaire" from Yonkers, and Mrs. Moiloy, a millionaire in New York, when Dolly sets out to claim Horace for herself.

Some of the most effervescent songs of the 20th century help trace the wildly farcical complications of Dolly's pursuit of Horace Vandergelder.

include such favorites as "Before the Parade Passes By," "Put On Your Sunday Clothes," and "It Only Takes a Moment." Don't forget, of course, the exuberant centerpieces of the entire show, 'Hello Dolly!" a song famous for its heart gladdening, pulse raising quality.

Fridays and Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays. Tickets are $15 and $12 and can be purchased in advance by ater's box office at 407-321-8111.

A portion of the proceeds will benefit Community Coordinated Care for Children.

Ginger: The spice that grows underground

Ginger is a perennial plant whose underground rhizomes are used as a flavoring agent. It produces well from Homestead to Pensacola.

The plant grows from thick, white, tuberous, underground rhizomes that are very aromatic and is native to Taiwan and Haiti. It has been grown for centuries in the Caribbean Islands and China where it is Ferrer used locally for medicine and in cooking. It is mar-keted in United States mostly in a powdered and candied form.

Gardeners report growing ginger satisfactorily for home use throughout the state.

Description

True ginger can be distin-guished by its shorter stalks, which are 2 to 3 feet high, with narrow, flat, pointed leaf blades about I foot long, producing yellow-green flowers with purple tipe growing in dense spilses. It produces plump, strongly aromatic rhizomes that are used mainly as food flavor-

True ginger is often confused with related plants grown as ornamentals in Florida, such as the butterfly ginger, shell flower and the pinecone ginger. The roots of all gingar's are edible and have varying degrees of hotness, like peppers.

Culture

Ginger does best in partial to complete shade. In full sun, the leaves are brown-tipped and the plants grow poorly. Most good garden soils are adequate for growing ginger, including sands, if sufficiently supplied with nutrients and moisture.

Soil should be 8 inches deep and contain a mixture of sand and cow manure, or other suitable organic mixture. Ginger is started from rhizome (root) cuttings rather than from seed. The tuberous root, called a hand, can be purchased in grocery stores, nurseries or health food in selecting fresh ginger for planting, choose a fat, full hand with well-defined eyes. The eyes resemble those of a potato and an easy to detect. It is best to cut the rhizomes into pieces 1 to 11/2 inches long, each containing at least one eye. Cut the rhizome pieces a few days ahead of planting to allow the cut surfaces to dry, reducing chances of rotting. In a well-prepared bed, insert each piece and cover with about 1 inch of soil. Space them 15 inches in the row and 15 inches between the row.

Early in the spring is the best time to plant. All ginger's are heavy feeders, they should be fertilized with a good, all-purpose formula monthly during their growing season, and should be watered regularly. Ginger will produce new rhizomes but no seeds where summers are warm and last five to eight months.

Ginger will tolerate temperatures in the low 20s without serious damage. It will come back each spring with the return of warm weather if frozen back during the winter

Harvesting and Use

To harvest, dig rhizomes in the fall or when the tops have died down. Tops of the plants will die back 9 to 11 months after planting for a natural dormancy. Allow rhizomes to dry in the shade for about a week.

In Jamaica, the rhizomes are peeled, washed, and sum-dried. Since ginger is a major spice, it has many uses as a food, flavoring, and medicinal product. Candied ginger is peeled, boiled, soaked in syrup, and then rolled in sugar.

Ginger is the source of flavoring for our gingerbread and Ginger Ale. It has been a staple in Chinese cooking for centuries. Ginger tea is considered a mild and safe stimulant as long as one drinks only a cup or two a day. The leaves and conelike flowerheads can be used in flower arrangements.

Ornamental Gingers Pinecone ginger or lanolin lily is about 5 or 6 feet tall, produces deep red cones by Christmas.

Butterfly ginger lily grows around 3 to 6 feet tall, with wonderfully fragrant flowers. The blossoms are edible and have a ginger-mint flavor.

Binge drinking on campus is cause for parent's concern

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter "Jill" is a 19-year-old college freshman. She recently revealed in a friend's Web diary that she had "chugged" an entire pitcher of beer and had to be carried to her dorm room, where her roommate (also drunk) made her drink water until she threw up. "First time drunk," she wrote — then ended with the chilling

words, "... and I can't wait to do it again." Needless to say, my wife and I are extremely worried about Jill's binge drinking. Our problem is that the diary is supposed to be off-limits for my wife and me. We had promised our daughter that we'd remove her friend's name from all buddy lists on our home computer - but it wasn't done, and we have continued to read her diary online. As I see it, her mother and I have three options: (1) Wait and say nothing, but continue to monitor the situation to see if the "first drunk" was a onetime occurrence; (2) call the college and express concern that they're not doing enough to keep alcohol off campus and away from underage drinkers; or (3) speak directly to Jill, admit we're guilty of reading her diary, and try to discuss the danger of binge drinking (knowing that such a

CONCERNED PARENTS N NEW YORK

DEAR PALIFFITS: You cannot ignore this and hope it will go a vay. Speak to your daughter and don't apologize. I'm sad to say that binge drinking is a real problem on many college campuses. Let Jill know the alarm that her disclosure has caused you. Assure her of your love and support, and inform her in a nonjudgmental and nonthreatening way that you expect her to obey the law and protect her own safety and well-being.

Binge drinking among college students has very serious health and safety implications. Alcohol poisoning can be fatal, and girls who get blind drunk make themselves vulnerable to sexual assault. Your daughter is on the verge of adulthood, and she needs to be equipped to make mature, responsible decisions bout things that could affect her health and her future.

Ann yourselves with factual information about the potential health, safety and legal consequences of binge drinking. The National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Information (1-800-729-6686) offers the fact sheets "Binge Drinking in Adolescents and College Students," and "The Role of Parents in Preventing Underage Drinking," You can also find them on the Web at http://ncadi.samhsa.gov. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional with a good income and have been dating "Barry," a man who isn't exactly a pauper I recently invited Barry for a weekend at an upscale resort.

The room and one meal were paid for by my company This man ordered numerous poolside drinks, put them on my tab, and never tipped the waiter a cent.

On our last night, when Barry suggested that dinner would be his treat as a thankyou gesture, he asked me if I'd split an entree with him. Abby, is he or is he not a gigolo?

It's National Dairy Month, and it couldn't come at a better time. With summer right around the corner, temperatures keep rising in Central Florida. There's no better way to beat the heat than serving up a few scoops of ice cream.

And, why spend hours in a hot kitchen, when there are a fe w dairy recipes that make creating a simple, yet delicious, dinner a breeze.

Along with its great taste, drinking milk or eating dairy products is also nutritious for you. For example, according to the American Dairy Council, drinking milk helps lessen the risk of tooth decay by acting as a healthy substitute to inices and sodas.

Milk may not be appropriate for everyone, as those who are lactose-intolerant can have trouble digesting dairy products. However, for the great
