President Reviews His Stewardship And Af- fords Peek Into Fu- ture Of His Activity

Reports Business Basically Sound

Message Contains Rec- ommendations On Score Of Problems

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Hoover informed Congress today that the most serious issue before the American people is the steady growth of lawlessness.

In his first annual message, giving an account of his stewardship in the White House for nine months and affording a peek into the future, the President reported that the general state of the nation—economically, financially, and from an international standpoint—is excellent.

But law enforcement, he declared, is "not satisfactory," and these conditions must be remedied.

He referred specifically to prohibition. And as in his inaugural address last March he outlined again a plan for law enforcement, he called for a "stronger, more effective agency for the enforcement of the law."

"So far as prohibition itself is concerned, Mr. Hoover again pointed out the remedial measures he put forward last March—the transfer of enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice; simplification of court procedure to speed up trials; and elimination of prohibitory laws to eliminate red tape—but in the final analysis he concluded that the principal remedy lies with the people themselves. "Law," he observed, "cannot be above the law."

It was noted with some gladness, however, that the President (Continued On Page Four)

MEASURE TO AID U.S. BUSINESS IS PENDING IN HOUSE

Representative From Indiana Introduces Bill In Meet Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The two-faced congressional program to speed business throughout the country—a tax reduction of $100,000,000 and public improvements costing hundreds of millions—was well under way today with the introduction of a $215,000,000 public building bill by Rep. Richard N. Elliott (R) of Indiana, chairman of the House building committee.

The bill, which was introduced at the request of President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, provides $100,000,000 for postoffices and federal buildings throughout the country and $115,000,000 to complete the vast building program in the District of Columbia.

This measure follows the tax cut bill introduced by Rep. Hawley (R) of Oregon and a bill by Rep. Dorell (R) of Iowa to increase the annual federal aid for highway building from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000.

The fourth great undertaking for domestic improvement—$125,000,000 rivers and harbors bill—will be proposed by Rep. Dempsey (R) of New York.

"My bill will increase from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000 the amount which may be spent each year for public buildings," said Rep. Elliott.

It will provide that cities in which the government already owns sites for postoffices shall be given preference in the allocation of funds. It will permit the employment of private architects.

"This measure will take care of the demands of practically all the cities and towns in the country where postoffice receipts exceed $20,000 annually, and there will be some left over for other uses."

"We are now in the third year of our government building program."

Stimson Is Joined By Other World Powers In Move To Restrain Chinese And Soviets

Both Nations Are Reminded Of Pact

Russia Is Told World Opinion Of Her Hinges On Present Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—The moral force of the world was thrown today behind a move to force Russia and China to live up to the promises they made to preserve peace when they signed the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war.

Taking the initiative in his own hands, Secretary of State Stimson sent both governments a sharp reminder that they were signers of the peace pact and unilaterally withdrawing all of the 53 other signers of the treaty, notifying them of what he had done, and expressing the hope they could by similar action support the American move in the direction of world peace.

Stimson appeared at the top of a list of most of the other signers of the Kellogg-Briand pact, including France, Italy and Germany.

France, through American charge D'Artois in Paris, was the first to give formal assent to Stimson's action, with Britain following.

French Foreign Minister Briand further to emphasize his support, wrote the United States ambassador in Paris that he had advised the French government of the American communication and that the French at the Soviet Embassy office simultaneously. The American attitude had to be made known through the French, because, as there are no diplomatic relations between Moscow and Washington.

To the French minister at Paris, Stimson said to present the French communication as a first step, and to the British ambassador in London, he would send a statement to both Russia and China, "in lines similar" to Stimson's.

Italy and Germany were expected in diplomatic circles here to act promptly. Japan's method of reply has not yet been decided.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Senator Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts is being mentioned as a possible candidate to succeed the retiring Senator Gillett in the United States Senate.

Whether the Senate will actually "take advantage" of the retiring Senator's position is a political question, but it is believed that the Senate will act in this regard.

The retirement of Gillett is expected to take place in the latter part of the year.

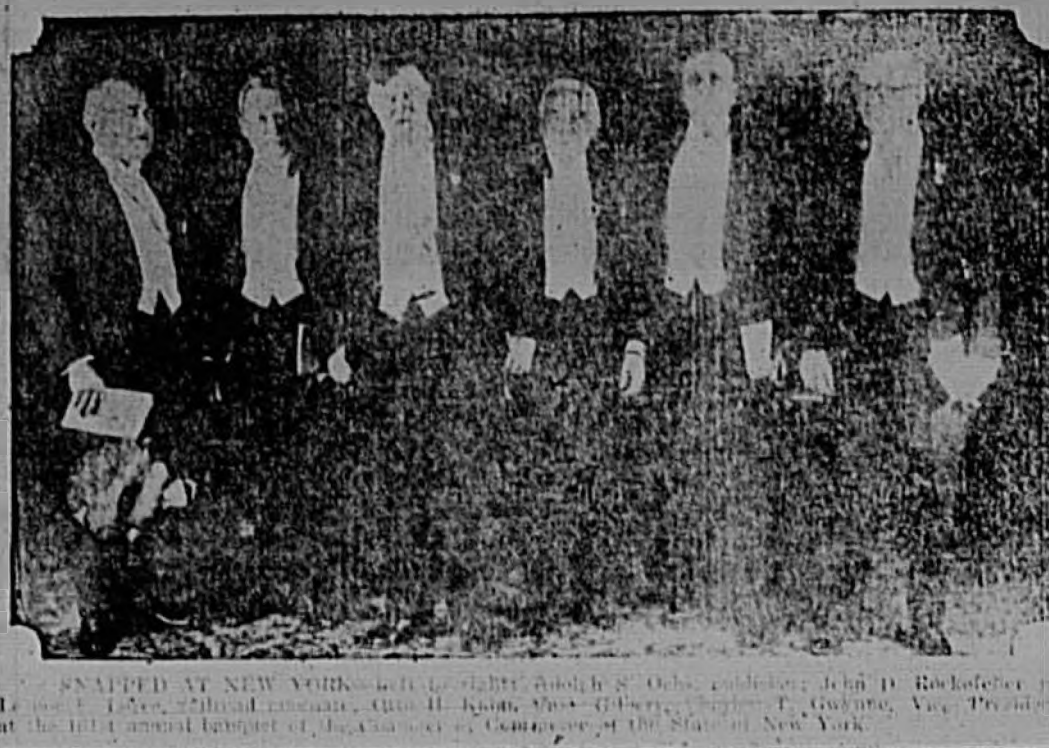

Senator Gillett is retiring after 17 years in the Senate.

FORD PAYROLL UP 20 MILLION BY WAGE JUMP

Motor Company Raises Minimum Pay From 6 Dollars A Day To New 7 Dollar Scale

DETROIT, Dec. 3.—(INS)—Twenty million dollars a year payroll increase, with a $7 a day minimum for all Ford workers in the United States, was announced by the Ford Motor Company today.

The $7 a day minimum, replacing the old $6 a day minimum, will affect 113,847 Ford workers. An additional 113,847 workers are expected by an increase of five cents an hour in the wage of those who work on an hourly basis. The increase applies to all Ford workers in the United States. The 10 cent increase in the hourly wage means the minimum for this class of workers will be $7.50 for an eight hour day.

The increase becomes effective Dec. 1.

Mr. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, announced that he believed that in making these increases we are increasing the buying power of our workers in Detroit and elsewhere.

Mr. Ford pointed out that the company was not only increasing wages, but had cut the cost of the product. This, he said, has been made possible by better management.

Ford employees of every grade began working on the increased wage scale Monday. The Ford minimum wage was increased from $6 a day to $7. All employees whose wages do not exceed the minimum wage, received an increase of one cent.

In addition to these wage increases, the salary toll was raised 5 per cent.

In the third time the Ford Motor Company has raised its minimum wages on the basis of the October payroll which registered 113,847 employees. The monthly minimum wage amount to $1,628.14, or $1.54 in excess of $15,000,000 a year.

All Ford branches and plants in the United States are included. Employees rated from $4 to $7 a day number 24,320 on the basis of the October payroll.

Employees to the number of 113,847 have received increases which bring their daily wages between $7.50 and $14 a day. Of this number, 27,410 men go to $7.50 a day, 22,000 men go to $8 a day and 12,227 men go to $9 a day.

McManus Testifies He Knows Nothing Of Rothstein Death

CRIMINAL COURTS BUILDING, NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(INS)—"I don't know anything about the shooting of Arnold Rothstein. I'm as innocent of the matter as you are."

George A. M. McManus, a check bookmaker on trial for the murder of Rothstein, made this statement today in a lavatory at Sixty-first and Lexington Avenue more than three weeks after the shooting and talked with Detective Patrick (Paddy) Flood, who met him by arrangement. Flood, who met him in Broadway's White Light Club for the last 20 years, gave this testimony from the witness stand today.

"I asked McManus who shot Rothstein and he said he didn't know a thing about it," Flood testified.

"We (the police) had been searching for him ever since the night of the shooting (Nov. 1, 1928). I had searched all the known places frequented by race-track men and gamblers but could find no trace of him."

"I finally met McManus on Nov. 27 at Sixty-first and Lexington. His attorney was with him. They were in a taxicab."

Eight Persons Are Given Sentences On Disorderly Charge

White sentenced eight persons charged with being disorderly to pay $150, while another $100 fine was imposed upon one of the three persons charged with having in their possession intoxicating liquors.

Clarence Prophet was dismissed on a charge of possession of liquor, but was sentenced to pay two fines of $50 each on charges of speeding and disorderly conduct.

R. T. Sabh, Lucinda Harris, Dougherty Hatcher, J. C. Mitchell and Bernice Brown were each sentenced to pay a fine of $15 each for being disorderly.

George Winestone paid a fine of $7 on a charge of speeding.

Willie Wood, charged with disorderly conduct, was sentenced to pay a fine of $25, while Etta Lee Young's case of a similar charge was continued until Friday.

Few Votes Are Cast In Today's Election For Commissioners

Little interest was apparently being shown in the election in City Commissioners today, for at 11:35 o'clock only 125 voters were reported to have cast their ballots.

The election of Vivian Starr and H. J. Lehman will be a new formality as each of these men were nominated in the November primary and were unopposed in the general election. B. W. Herndon and W. A. Lottler, whose names were placed on the ballot by petitions bearing the names of 25 qualified voters, will oppose each other for the place vacated by the resignation of former Mayor Nelson Gray.

Those in charge of the polls were given as follows: For the general election, in which votes are cast for Mr. Starr and Mr. Lehman, C. E. Henry is clerk and A. L. Betts, P. B. Smith, and Mr. S. Puleston are inspectors.

For the special election, in which votes are cast for either Mr. Herndon or Mr. Lottler, P. M. Eider is clerk and F. A. Palmer, W. A. Tillis, and J. B. Lawson are inspectors.

Whether they get their idea from "Sanford's" antique automobile held a parade of old fashioned automobiles at the entrance of Lower East. Thirty years can make a lot of difference in the automobile industry. It will be interesting to note what changes will take place in airplanes during the next thirty years.

William G. McAdoo, once a presidential aspirant, now something of an aviator, flew to Florida last week to inspect the work of some of the big flying companies. Asked how long it would take him to go from Jacksonville to Miami, he replied, "About two hours and a tary of the treasury will say,

"it would take two hours and half to fly down the East Coast

utes."

When a freight car ferry of the story and had it for the sundays before the ship docked.

When Byrd flew across the South Pole, thousands of miles from civilization, the New York Times was publishing the story almost as it was happening, and the rest of the world knew all about it within a few hours. It is difficult to say how much of the excitement of any occasion to exist in a world where the newspapers bring the outermost regions into the most inaccessible localities.

A Friend In Need

Many stories are told of the faithfulness of a dog to his master. Whether it is man's conceit which makes himself usually the object of this animal's unfeeling adulation instead of another dog, or perhaps, a horse, or cat, or whether such a sentiment on the part of one animal for another is only an occasional characteristic, it is difficult to say. The fact remains that it's the man who tells the story; he the hero, beloved by the dog.

So we were particularly interested in an account in a New York paper recently in which the love of one dog for another was clearly shown. Two Boston pups, one an Air-dale, the other a rather ordinary hound, set out from their respective homes on an exploring expedition. They wandered far and wide, and like any two young adventurers, undoubtedly had many thrilling experiences before the episode occurred upon which this yarn is based. No doubt their experiences together, the thrills of chasing cats, the terrors of the policeman's pen, the pangs of hunger, and the joys of feasting, whenever an unsuspecting meat boy's basket could be snatched, had made them firm fast friends, despite the fact that one was an aristocratic Airedale, the other an ordinary hound.

One day they strolled into the woods, possibly in answer to the call of the wild, possibly in quest of a wild turkey, or a duck, brought down by a hunter's gun but never found. We can imagine their feeling of exultation as they wandered far from the habitat of man, man who sometimes befriends them, but who always rules them there in the heart of Nature, they must have felt themselves the kings, or perhaps one the king and the other the prime minister. Can't you see them stepping softly through the forests, deeply breathing the crisp fresh air full of fragrance of fallen leaves from maples, hemlocks and pines.

Suddenly the hound yelped. He had felt a sharp pain, a knife like thrust in one of his forelegs. He leaped into the air and dragged with him the giant jaws and the long chain of a steel trap, laid by some wary hunter for fox or opossum. He jerked and jerked, but he could not free himself, and the more he tried the worse it hurt. He tore at it with his teeth until his lips bled, but he could not release himself. Man's wife, concentrated upon catching and holding the cunning fox, were too clever for his friend the dog. The teeth held and the hound could only lie down and wait.

But his friend, the Airedale, was not idle, nor did he gruff and leave him to a ghastly fate in the midst of the silent woods. First he put his head together with the hound trying to figure out some way to get out of their predicament. He worked at the trap until his lips bled, but he could accomplish nothing. They tried again and again, but a long wait, night had passed, and the hound's teeth were still held in the trap. Finally the pangs of hunger added to their misery, and their tongues cracked for want of water.

Then the Airedale dashed away. Through the forest he truly flew until he came to a little clearing in the edge of the woods where some campers had been, leaving behind them a fire, bits of meat, and opened cans partly filled with beans. These he gathered together in a pan he found and raced away to his unfortunate friend. He repeated this performance again and again for a week, bringing the hound first one thing and then another, anything to eat, anything to keep him alive.

And then one day, the campers returned, or perhaps it was some other campers who had just found these campers. The Airedale did not know them, knew only that they were men, and that they could help him. He barked and barked, and told them as only a dog can, that they must follow him. Ten miles away they discovered the hound, still held by the trap, almost dead from exhaustion, and yet able to yelp, yip a brief voice of appreciation. The Airedale was so happy he almost wrenched himself in two.

Christmas Savings Clubs

At this season of the year many fathers are beginning to wonder where in the world they will find the money to enable them to impregnate properly a generation of Santa Claus. No doubt Johnnie, Willie, Nellie, and all the other little boys and girls in his family have already made a grown just what is expected on Christmas. Day and night he is having a busy time trying to figure out ways and means. If he belongs to a Christmas Savings Club, his problem has already been solved for him. More and more these clubs are gaining in popularity. It is an idea in strict accordance with regular old Benjamin Franklin's plan, the plan which has made this country one of the most industrious and progressive in the world. In this country we do not save, we spend our earnings, and become misers, but we save in order to be able to spend, to have the things for ourselves which our tastes crave, and so give to our friends and relatives some of the things they desire most.

The extent to which the Christmas Savings Clubs have grown is brought forcibly to our attention by the recent report of Herbert P. Rawll, president of the New York Christmas Club, which says that within the next two weeks $500,000,000 will be distributed by some eight thousand banks to more than nine million members. This sum is ten percent more than last year and five times as great as in 1920. Obviously, as Mr. Rawll points out, such a distribution of cash, at this season of the year, has a tremendously stabilizing influence in the prosperity of the country.

Mr. Rawll declares that, not including special funds of individuals and corporations, in some cases running as high as $25,000, the average amount per member is $29.50, a slight increase over last year. An analysis of his report indicates that New York state leads, all others with a total of $141,000,000 while Massachusetts shows the largest per capita with $70,000,000. Pennsylvania being third with $65,000,000, Chicago and Cook county will receive $29,000,000 of the Illinois total of $66,000,000 and New York City, metropolitan area of approximately forty square miles, will receive around $109,000,000. Of the southern states, Georgia leads with $3,460,000, with Florida at $1,910,000. By a direct inquiry to Christmas Club members, it is estimated that more than 10,000,000 permanent savings accounts, as the direct result of Christmas savings, have been brought into being during the nineteen years of Christmas Club operation and that 62 per cent of this present accumulation of $600,000,000 will be put to constructive uses. The inquiry further reveals that the 1929 Christmas savings will be as follows: Christmas party checks, 38 per cent, $225,000,000; permanent savings and investment, 30 per cent, $180,000,000; year-end contributions, 13 per cent, $78,000,000; insurance premiums, 5 per cent, $36,000,000; mortgages and mortgage interest, 5.12 per cent, $31,000,000; taxes, 4.42 per cent, $27,000,000; education and travel, 2 per cent, $12,000,000; charity, 1 per cent, $6,000,000.

CONTRACTS TOTALING about $350,000 for day road work in Palm Beach county were awarded at a meeting of the State Road Department Tuesday. Of this amount, $240,167.96 will be spent for constructing Federal aid Route No. 4 from here to Boca Raton. The new highway will be of concrete, twenty feet in width and will complete the mile of the highway through this county. The contract was awarded to the Morgan Hill Paving Company of Miami.—Palm Beach Post.

The death of Senator Warren G. Harding leaves a vacuum in the membership of the Appropriations Committee, one of the most important of all the committees of the Senate. Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, probably would get the chairmanship, except that he is already head of the Finance Committee, which is the most important in the Senate. Although several men are senior to him it is not unlikely that this chairmanship will go to Reed Smoot.

Mrs. Peck Holds Party For Her Sister-in-Law

A bridge party was given on Saturday evening by Mrs. R. L. Peck Jr., at her home on West Eighteenth Street, complimenting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Donald Whitcomb, of Winter Haven, formerly of this city. Mrs. Whitcomb received as a gift from the hostess, a novelty pottery pitcher.

At the conclusion of the bridge games which were enjoyed throughout the evening, high score prize, a hand embroidered guest towel, went to Mrs. B. F. Whitner Jr., while low score prize, also a guest towel, was awarded to Mrs. Herbert Messer of Gainesville and this city.

At the supper hour a salad course was served with hot coffee, by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Robert Grovenstein and Mrs. J. B. Baggett. Those invited to the party were: Mrs. Whitcomb were: Mrs. Grant Wilson, Mrs. B. F. Whitner, Jr., Mrs. Robert Grovenstein, Mrs. Herbert Messer, Mrs. B. B. Baggett, and Mrs. D. Woodruff.

HOW TO SERVE POTATOES

Mashed potatoes will blend well with whatever meat you may select for the Christmas dinner.

With turkey, Franconia potatoes may be substituted and, of course, there should be sweet potatoes, Southern style.

With goose the potatoes may be fried or roasted, and some people like them as a soufflé.

With duck or chicken small, seeded potatoes may be roasted in the pan with the meat. Baked sweet potatoes are also good.

With roast pork the potatoes may be mashed with turnips or they may be baked with the sweet potatoes.

Baked ham is usually served with candied sweet potatoes, but potato croquettes and browned sweet potatoes are both quite tasty.

"Tanned Legs" Is New Musical Comedy Film At Milane Tomorrow

"Tanned Legs", a sparkling musical comedy of vivid youth produced by Radio Pictures, opens tomorrow at the Milane Theater. It is one of the first musical shows to be written directly for the screen, with five superb, original songs and a chorus of 10 Hollywood beauties. The outstanding cast of film celebrities is headed by a little newcomer named June Clyde. She had been in pictures but two months when RKO officials chose roles of the season. Her part, for one of the most coveted personalities, lovely voice, and the fact that she has the prize pair of limbs in filmdom are responsible for her selection.

Ann Pennington, famous Ziegfeld star and owner of the $100,000 knees, will be seen in several specialty dances with Allen Kearns, also a Broadway favorite. Albert Gran, the beloved old taxi driver of "Seventh Heaven", portrays the fast-stepping "poppa", finally brought to his senses by his youthful daughter, "Tanned Legs" Reynolds (June Clyde).

The super sound spectacle is replete with laughs, thrills, and melodies that promise to keep feet tapping during every performance.

Hoover Stresses Law Violation In His Annual Address

(Continued From Page One) Hoover did not mention, let alone endorse, the Sheppard bill which would make the buyer of liquor a felon along with the seller. Nor did he recommend any greater prohibition from the Treasury nor trying to enforce the law. The lot of lawlessness was the principal, virtually the only one, which Mr. Hoover found in the pleasant picture of national conditions. He reported, however, basically sound, so much so, in fact, that it is safe to immediately cut federal taxes to the extent of $160,000,000, benefitting all classes. The outlook for international peace and reduction of armament never was better, he said; he asserted agricultural conditions are rapidly improving; that railways are in a sound condition; and that generally speaking the American people are better off today than they have ever been in a material sense. "The problem we are confronted with," he said, "are the problems of growth and progress." It was a voluminous message which Mr. Hoover transmitted to the new Congress, and it contained recommendations on more than a score of problems, ranging from fiscal affairs to social services. On the tariff, which Congress wrestled unsuccessfully with all summer, he reiterated his desire for a tariff beneficial primarily to agriculture and to such industries as he refrained again from expressing any opinion upon the original House bill with its high and general increases in industrial rates. He quoted at some length from his message to the special session last April on the tariff, said he saw no reason to change his view. He then expressed, and only added that "it would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment."

Hoover Stresses Law Violation In His Annual Address

(Continued From Page One) Government—if at all—is not known. The state department was hopeful, however, that, as all five of the powers had agreed as to the necessity for curtailing the space in Manchuria, Japan would be in line with the rest of the powers. Stimson in a remarkable frank and "communication" to Russia and China told them: "The American government feels the respect with which Russia will hereafter be held in the opinion of the world will necessarily be a great measure dependent upon the way in which they carry out these (the Kellogg-Brand pact) non-armed provisions. Stimson reminded both leaders that when the United States and the five other powers talking attention to the pact, the pact with him July 18 last of which Russia and China were signatories to the pact, that both had made formal and public assurance that neither would resort to war unless attacked."

Adventurer Returns After Experience In

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(INS)—Dini McDaniel, middle-aged adventurer, who entered the Canadian wilds, 200 miles north of Quebec, on Sept. 25, dressed in a shimmering suit and armed only with a camera and a one-man saw, was back in New York today—reporting none the worse for his experience. McDaniel said he changed his attire for a mouse-hide suit upon entering the woods and up until Thanksgiving Day when he lined with a forest ranger, his dog consisted solely upon wild game and fish which he caught with handmade implements. In the last 10 days, he said, the temperature at times reached 32 degrees below zero. McDaniel plans to write a book dealing with his experiences in the woods.

STATE RESPONDS TO HOOVER PLAN TO AID BUSINESS

Florida Cities Reveal Improvement Program To Begin Soon

Following the request of President Hoover that Florida cooperate in the nation-wide movement to restore prosperity and stabilize wages, the Sunshine state is taking an active lead and up to Saturday had enlisted the aid of all cities and counties, civic organizations, farmers and women's clubs. The program, under the direction of Governor Doyle E. Carlton is to include a state-wide canvass, in which employment and development facts will be learned. A full report will be made to the federal government when the work is complete.

The state chamber of commerce enlisted in the program after a conference with the governor has been given charge of securing facts as to contemplated construction, both private and public. Mrs. M. L. Stanley, president of the state federation of women's clubs has wired that her organization will wage an active campaign to better employment and stabilize wages. The state federation of business and professional women has telegraphed its approval of the program. Letters have been received from all parts of the state commending the action of Florida in taking the lead in the program.

Following are some of the developments of the first week of the program: Tampa advises the construction totaling five million dollars is contemplated. It also advised of the expenditure of $750,000 for an airport. It stated, too, that another $100,000 would be spent by the city for public improvements. St. Petersburg after receiving the news of the Florida campaign, held an executive session of the city commissioners and urged immediate action on a number of public improvements which have been pending. The Broward county port authority advised that the deep water harbor had been completed and that in addition warehouse and railway facilities would be constructed. The State Road Department has a six million dollar program for the near future in the neighborhood of a half million for improvements and state educational departments are to expend a considerable sum for new facilities. Ft. Myers and Pensacola were the first to wire in their pledge of cooperation and will carry on an active campaign for betterment of conditions. All radio stations in the state have wired in their pledge of cooperation.

Governor Carlton in statement issued this week concerning the program declared that one of the most important parts of the campaign is to encourage patronage of local merchants and farmers and buying whenever possible Florida-made and Florida-grown products. He declared that $127,000,000 is sent outside the state each year for the purchase of food stuffs and added that if home merchants and growers were given preference, much of this money would remain in Florida and its farmers would be given cause for additional planting. He also declared that he was not advocating a program of extravagance but urged action on private and public projects wherever consistent with financial conditions.

"With some it is a matter of pay day and meeting present obligations, but not with all," he declared. "There are many others who have kept their money in hiding awaiting the return of better times. Release of these funds will not only help the owners of the money, but will aid their neighbors and their state. Wherever consistent and in keeping with present demands, now is the time to build," he concluded.

The Florida advancement program will move to include every citizen in the state; financial, industrial, labor leaders, realty men and others. Aviation will be taken up and a series of conferences may follow the accumulation of data upon which may be based the activities of the state within the next year.

HELPING THE SCHOOL CHILD

BY EMILIE HOFFMAN

A mother who, upon the urgent appeal of her children, made her first visit to the schools during Open School Week, was astonished at what she saw. It was all a revelation to her and she came home a wiser woman filled with enthusiasm and a determination to cooperate with the school. She was surprised to see an attractive magazine stand—the work of her son—and during the program her daughter sang a solo that brought forth deserved, generous applause. That night when she told her husband about it, she said: "I told the teacher I did not know Marion could sing like that, and she said we should encourage her in her voice. And Billy—Billy never scold him again—always wanting to do something." Another mother was surprised to find among the art exhibit several colored drawings bearing her daughter's name, and in mentioning this to a friend she said: "Just think! The teacher said we ought to encourage her and let her take art lessons. I never knew it was in her." One teacher told an amusing incident of how her class's mother frowned when told her boy had wonderful musical talent and that he is the best violin player the school ever had. All these mothers discovered their children had talents. That is what meeting the teachers accomplished. In school children are encouraged to express themselves. They are given opportunity to develop hobbies in the various creative fields, and if there is musical talent it is developed as far as possible in the school. Teachers endeavor to give pupils an appreciation of good music, and to develop skill in singing, playing and dancing. In short, the school helps the child to understand and to develop his individual gifts. This is a considerable part of the school. He and a very important part, and often moulds the nature of the child. Wise and good guidance, earning respect and higher standards of living generally, and training means, generally. Surely this phase of the child's education should be of paramount interest to parents, and it is a line of education where the home and school, by aid means cooperate with the school.

A TEA TIME STORY

In olden times there was a Queen and a lady in waiting who both gave birth to a daughter, on the very same day and at the very same hour. And as that was a quite unusual coincidence and seemed rather miraculous it was decided to bring up these two children together as sharers of the same high status. Thus their little beds stood in one room of the palace and their christening took place on the same day. And, as ever on such occasions, a powerful fairy came as a guest to dower the little princess with marvelous gifts. Standing at the royal table she said: "When you grow up you shall be of a pure, faultless, classical beauty. You shall be further a compendium of all the knowledge and wisdom in the world. And finally you shall have a saintly character, and you shall be always imbued with a most noble and unselfish love." Well, these were really wonderful endowments, and the lady-in-waiting was very anxious that her little daughter, who had been quite overlooked, should receive similar qualities. She approached the fairy most humbly and said: "Oh, dear fairy, couldn't my little girl be likewise of a pure, faultless, classical beauty?" "No," answered the fairy; "no. Such a gift is reserved for those of the blood royal. But I'll tell you what I'll do: I'll make her pretty. Yes, she shall be very pretty indeed. "And," begged the anxious mother, "couldn't she be possibly a compendium of all wisdom and knowledge?" "No," decided the fairy. "That would be too exalted for her station; but I'll make her clever and witty instead." "But her character," pleaded the poor mother; "couldn't she also be saintly, and couldn't she also be imbued with noble and unselfish love?" "No, indeed not," said the fairy; "such a character is a prerogative of a Princess. Your little girl will have a purely feminine character, and as to noble and unselfish love, that too is impossible. But I'll do this much for her: I'll make her gay and affectionate. And with this you'll have to be satisfied."
