Hastings faces Senate trial

WASHINGTON — The House impeachment of U.S. District Judge Aleece Hastings on 17 misconduct charges forces the Senate to begin dealing with one of its least favorite constitutional tasks: a trial.

After adopting the impeachment articles by a 413-3 vote Wednesday, the House put the case one step closer to trial by appointing six of its members to prosecute Florida's first black federal judge in the Senate.

But senators are just beginning to consider how Hastings' trial will be held and what is a likely date for the procedure, which has been conducted only 11 times previously in U.S. history.

Seven killed in freeway pileup

Cool summer showers helped firefighters battling Western wildfires, but dense smoke from a wind-whipped blaze in Oregon triggered a massive chain-reaction traffic wreck, killing seven people and making a freeway look like a "war zone."

Two baby girls and an 8-year-old boy were among those killed in the pileup of 18 cars and three trucks Wednesday afternoon on smoke-shrouded Interstate 5 south of Albany, Ore. Thirty-seven people were injured.

Democrats label veto 'politics'

WASHINGTON — Congressional Democrats say President Reagan's veto of a $299.6 billion military spending bill was desperation politics to help George Bush, a move that will backfire as the vice president seeks the White House.

Angered by the Oval Office action, Democratic leaders have indicated there will be no attempt to override the veto. Instead they will add their spending authorizations to a defense appropriations bill, the legislation needed to put money in Pentagon accounts for the authorized military programs.

McEnroe, Connors take wins

INDIANAPOLIS — John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors, both trying to end personal slumps, won their opening matches at the U.S. Men's Hardcourt Tennis Championships.

Second-seeded Connors overpowered Peter Aldrich, 6-2, 6-0, while third seed McEnroe defeated Dan Cassidy, 7-6 (7-2), 6-1, in matches Wednesday night before 7,049 people, the first sellout crowd ever at the Indianapolis Sports Center.

Jimmy Connors

McEnroe, 29, has struggled since a self-imposed layoff, having been eliminated in the second round at Wimbledon and the fourth round at the French Open. McEnroe has worked to regain the form that led him to three Wimbledon titles and four U.S. Open championships, but he was forced to a first-set tiebreaker by Cassidy.

Shuttle test aborted

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA engineers tried to fire up the shuttle Discovery's main engines in a crucial test today but the power plants failed to ignite because of an apparent valve problem and the test was delayed at least 48 hours.

"Tentatively, the test team has been told they should work toward a 48-hour turnaround," said NASA spokesman Hugh Harris.

That would result in a second attempt at 7:30 a.m. Saturday — seven days later than originally planned and a delay that will push Discovery's launch on the first post-Challenger mission even closer to slipping into October.

The first engine start command was to have been issued at the T-minus 6.6 mark Thursday at 7:30 a.m. but the engines failed to ignite and an automatic countdown "cutoff" was issued by computers.

"We have a 'go' for main engine start," Harris said at T-minus 10 seconds. And then "We have a cutoff of the start sequence. We are in the process of safing (launch pad systems) at this point."

The countdown clock stood frozen at T-minus

5 seconds.

"We have had an indication that an engine controller (computer) reported it was not ready to go and led to the shutdown on the pad," Harris said.

It was a bitter blow to frustrated NASA engineers who struggled through two problem-plagued practice countdowns in the past 10 days that resulted in pushing the engine firing attempt five days behind schedule.

"It's discouraging to me," said NASA Administrator James Fletcher. "I don't even know if this was a glitch in the shuttle or if it was a sensor or what."

Engine No. 3 was to have received the first start command at T-minus 5.6 seconds. Engines two and one were to have followed suit at 120 millisecond intervals, but the commands apparently were never sent because of a problem with a valve in engine No. 2, or a problem with the engine's controller.

Trackdown

forced a portion of the highway to be closed for two weeks. Officers have been at the site this week, helping to direct motorists to alternate routes.

Police officers in Longwood expressing interest in union

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — The city's police officers have succumbed to the union fever sweeping the ranks of Longwood employees. The Central Florida Police Benevolent Association, which they have asked to represent them, is petitioning the state Public Employees Relations Commission in Tallahassee to be their bargaining agent.

The police are following the firemen, who last week ask the International Association of Fire-Firefighters to help them organize.

Eric Manuel, program services director for CFPBA, said this morning the union was scheduled to present intent cards signed by 18 of 25 officers and sergeants (including detectives) to PERC "within the next hour."

Manuel said it will be up to PERC to determine if CFPBA is the appropriate bargaining unit and it may be a month before PERC holds an election with secret ballots on the unionization vote.

He said this is PHA's first effort to organize the Longwood police department. "We don't try to recruit, they totally approached us. They called Monday and said, 'We have serious problems. Can you help us?' We held two meetings with them on Monday for a total of six hours."

Manuel said the officers are concerned about losing their merit pay, but salary is not the main issue. City commissioners cut out the merit pay proposed for all city employees in an effort to get money for road reconstruction, but employees will get a five-percent cost-of-living allowance.

"They are concerned about safe equipment, the unfair way discipline is handed out and promotions within the department," Manuel said. "The policies look good in print, but they aren't adhered to."

"They don't feel the commission cares about the employees and the bad feelings the commissioners have

School board rejects grade-weighting proposal

By CAROL RUMSEY
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board rejected a recommendation Wednesday to add one point, known as grade-weighting to Cambridge series earned in high school honors or gifted classes.

If the proposal had been approved, a student scoring a 3.0 in an honors or gifted class would have received a 4.0.

Superintendent Robert Hughes said grade-weighting ranks close to elementary school rezoning in terms of difficulty and controversy. Upon Hughes' recommendation, board members opted for an additional year to study the issue.

A 20-member Curriculum Advisory Council made the recommendation after hearing both pros and cons on the matter for the last year. It was not a unanimous recommendation, however, a clear majority favored its passage.

In 1986, the same committee recommended grade-weighting for advanced placement and dual enrollment (college credit) classes, which the county implemented into its pupil progression plan.

Results from a three-year-old survey of the grading methods used in 43 Florida counties revealed that 35 counties use some form of grade-weighting. Twenty-seven counties weighted advanced placement, 19 weighted dual enrollment, 14 weighted advanced courses, 26 weighted honors, two weighted international baccalaureate, one weighted gifted, and one early admissions.

The difficulty is in selecting a method that is fair to all. As one parent told the board, this will always be a debatable issue.

Those disappointed with the board's decision said Seminole County students will not be competitive with other students vying for slots in top colleges and universities. Further, that weighting offers an incentive to students to enroll in upper-level courses. According to proponents, some students avoid taking more challenging classes because they fear their grade-point average would drop.

Oviedo High student Anne Wolary said honors courses have lowered her GPA. Wolary recently toured four college campuses. "I missed eligibility for a full scholarship by just a few points," she said. "Grade-weighting would have helped me." Wolary had a 3.2 GPA and needed a 3.5 to qualify for the scholarship.

Opponents to grade-weighting argue there is no conclusive ev-

Firefighters aid is sought in Lake Mary

By CAROL RUMSEY
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — Seminole County would help Lake Mary finance a new fire station, train the city's firefighters, and purchase radio equipment to benefit both police and fire departments if a proposed inter-local agreement becomes reality.

According to the proposal drafted by Lake Mary City Commissioner Randall Morris, Lake Mary's all-volunteer fire department is struggling to serve the city's burgeoning population.

Morris would like to see paid, fully-trained firefighters supplement the volunteer staff. "The volunteer is defending hearth and home — they're fighting their neighbors' fires," Morris said. "What we want to do with the county is enhance our current service."

Morris, together with County Commissioner Robert Sturm, is calling for a first-response agreement with Seminole county, in which the closest emergency equipment would respond to a call, regardless of district.

According to Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser, Lake Mary must provide at least two non-volunteer firefighters 24 hours a day to man the station before a first-response agreement could be entered upon. This is due to the county's legal obligation to provide service, he said.

Sturm, who is from Lake Mary, said other inter-local agreements have been tried locally but this particular concept is a new one. "The split out of service districts will provide quicker response time for both entities," he said. "Because of growth in Lake Mary we'd eventually have to go in the direction of a paid, professional fire department, anyway."

The proposal states that by implementing the system now instead of waiting until it's necessary, the city would save money. The proposal also says lower insurance rates could result as the fire-rescue efficiency rating improves.

If approved, current plans to construct a fire station along Rhinehart Road would be dropped. Morris said the optimum site would be at or near Lake Mary Boulevard and Longwood Lake Mary Road.

POLICE BRIEFS

Father cited for beating daughter

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Altamonte Springs police responded to a report that a child was screaming and apparently being beaten and arrested a man identified as the child's father. A police report said the girl was whipped with a belt, leaving several welts on her thighs.

Shawn W. DuPree, 27, of 932 Lake Destiny Drive # D, was arrested at home at 10:23 p.m. Wednesday. He was booked for aggravated child abuse and remains jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Police said passersby reported hearing a child screaming and a man running in DuPree's house for about 15 minutes.

When police arrived, they said, DuPree allegedly said "You damn right I beat her but if she misbehaves I'll do it again."

Police questioned the child, Rontsha Thomas, who said she was crying and refused to turn her head while her mother was trying to shampoo her hair. She said she was punished because of that. Police and a victim's advocate examined the child and reported she had nine large welts on her thighs. Police confiscated as evidence a 1-inch wide leather belt.

Stolen gun recovered

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A gun reported stolen in Orlando May 8 was recovered early today in Altamonte Springs. The man who had the gun reportedly said he had found it last night on the hood of his car. But his girlfriend reportedly told Seminole County sheriff's deputies the suspect had the gun before July.

Mark Kalvin Miller, 27, of 613 Plum Lane, Altamonte Springs, was arrested on a complaint of carrying a concealed firearm and possession of stolen property at 1:37 a.m. today at 301 Central Ave.

Sheriff's Sgt. Terry Huffman reported he saw Miller sitting in a car at that location holding a handgun. Huffman said Miller got out of the car and approached a window of that house. Huffman confronted him and Miller allegedly put the gun behind his back and hid it in the waistband of his shorts.

Miller reportedly said he was at that location to visit his girlfriend, but Huffman reported he did not tell him he was armed. Sheriff's deputies disarmed Miller. His girlfriend, Chiquita Simpson, reportedly told them Miller had had the stolen gun for at least one month, while he said he had just found it.

Miller was arrested after a check with Orlando police showed the gun had been reported stolen.

Cited with prostitution

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A woman, who allegedly got into a car with two undercover Altamonte Springs policemen and told them how much she charges for specific sexual acts, faces a charge of assignment to commit prostitution.

Melvina Anne Pfeifer, 31, of 1600 Mikler Road, Oviedo, was arrested on Magnolia Street at Matland Avenue at about 4:50 p.m. Tuesday. Police reported the officers picked her up at State Road 436 and Jackson Street. As they drove along, police allege Pfeifer directed them to a location where they could have sex with her in exchange for cash.

She was being held in lieu of $100 bond.

Alert pharmacist curbs fraud

FERN PARK — A Fern Park pharmacist, suspicious of an order for a controlled drug that was called in, called the sheriff's department, who arrested the man attempting to pick up the prescription.

The pharmacist at Dollar Prescriptions, 8485 U.S. Highway 17-92 said he remembered the same caller allegedly getting medication with a forged prescription at that location July 27.

Jack Andrew Peachey Jr., 31, of 645 Fenton Place, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at the store about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday on a complaint of passing a false prescription and possession of a controlled substance. He is free on $1,000 bond to appear in court Aug. 29.

Sheriff's deputies report the pharmacist had contacted the doctor who had supposedly ordered the prescriptions and the doctor said he did not order the drugs.

Two arrested in burglary case

SANFORD — A 29-year-old man and a boy were arrested on complaints of burglary and theft in connection with a July 31 burglary to a vehicle at Sabal Park Apartments.

James John Pracon, of 1394 Windy Ridge Place, Longwood was arrested at 3 p.m. at the Seminole County jail. The juvenile was arrested Tuesday.

Sheriff's deputies report the two are accused of stealing a radar detector in the vehicle burglary. Pracon is free on $1,000 bond to appear in court Aug. 17.

Dog helps in drug find

LONGWOOD — Longwood police who stopped and questioned a man driving away from a closed business about 3 a.m. today, report a police dog indicated the car contained drugs.

The car was searched and marijuana and eight amphetamine tablets were reportedly found. That resulted in complaints of possession of an amphetamine and less than 20 grams of marijuana against Edward Neal Huffstutler Jr., of 226 E. Wilbere Ave., Longwood. The arrest was made on County Road 427, after Huffstutler was stopped after leaving his workplace Uni-Pak Corp., U.S. Highway 17-92. He remains jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Woman reports threat

SANFORD — Police are looking for a man known only as "Shorty," who held two knives to the throat of a woman and threatened to kill her.

According to the police report, Cindy Philemon reported to police that a man threatened to kill her as he held two knives to her throat while in front of the West Side Steak House, 1006 W. 13th St., at 2:30 a.m. today.

Philemon said she knew the man quite well but only as "Shorty."

Police were unable to locate the suspect or find out his real name.

Sanford man reports robbery

SANFORD — Sam Elmore, 55, 1600 W. Fifth St., told police he was robbed of $200 by an unknown female.

According to the police report, Elmore picked up the female early this morning on Southwest Road and drove her to his apartment at Seminole Gardens.

At approximately 4 a.m., Elmore noticed that the female and his wallet, containing $200, were gone.

Elmore said he did not know the woman's name.

Cooling-off period is proposed for gun purchases in Seminole

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Commissioner Bob Sturm has called for a three-day cooling-off period for gun purchases.

County commissioners were reluctant to be the first Central Florida county to pass the new law approved by the Legislature earlier this year.

They said they would consider the new cooling-off period if neighboring counties passed the law first. They feared if they passed the law before Orange, Volusia and other neighboring counties passed it, Seminole County residents would leave the county to purchase their guns elsewhere.

Orange and Volusia counties recently passed the law and now Sturm fears gun-buyers will come into Seminole County to buy their guns.

"I have always voted against granting concealed weapons permits," Sturm said. "Except for people who want guns for hunting, I believe only law enforcement officers should carry a gun. I have a great deal of concern about the hundreds of permits that are being issued."

"Of particular importance is the fact that the boards of county commissioners in both

See editorial, Page 4A

Orange and Volusia Counties have now passed a three-day waiting period by local ordinance," Sturm wrote in a memo Tuesday to Commission Chairman Fred Streetman.

"In order to avoid the possibility of many people coming to Seminole County to purchase guns and thus avoiding a waiting period, I believe that we should impose a similar ordinance in our county."

Sturm called for the ordinance to be considered Aug. 23. If approved, it will be in effect countywide.

CCIB agents arrest four in drug deal

By SUSAN LODEN

OVIEDO — Four persons were arrested by City County Investigative Bureau agents Wednesday night in connection with the alleged sale of cocaine to an undercover agent in Oviedo.

Arrested at Alafaya Woods Shopping Center, State Road 434, at about 11:15 p.m. Wednesday were Stacy Kay Kuhlmeier, 23, of 1031 Olliff Way, Oviedo, on complaints of trafficking in cocaine and sale and delivery of cocaine; Ann Marie Izbicky, 27, of 800 Mark David Blvd., Casselberry, accused of possession and sale and delivery of cocaine; possession of cocaine and trafficking in cocaine; and Grace Katherine Izbicky, 22, of the same address, accused of trafficking in cocaine.

Arrested when a related search warrant was served at 1031 Olliff Way about 11:30 p.m. was resident John Evans Overton, 40, also accused of trafficking in cocaine.

CCIB agents report the three women suspects allegedly met an undercover agent at the shopping center and made delivery of one ounce plus 1/4 ounce of cocaine in separate deals. After the transaction the women were arrested there. Agents report Ann Marie Izbicky allegedly made additional cocaine sales to the agent on July 14 and Tuesday.

Cocaine residue and drug paraphernalia and packaging materials were reportedly found in the searched house. The four suspects remain jailed without bond.

Shelter worker expresses her concern about methods to euthanize animals

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Although procedural improvements continue at the Seminole County Animal Control Department, a shelter worker is concerned about the methods being used to euthanize unwanted animals.

Diana Brown said Monday at least three cats euthanized by department director Bob McIntosh appeared to be alive when they were placed in a wheelbarrow to be taken to the county landfill for disposal.

McIntosh, who attended the weekly employees' discussion meeting for the first time, said the cats were dead, but were going through muscular contractions normal for euthanized animals after death.

Visibly distressed, Brown said "It really bothers me. It hurts." "Those cats were dead," McIntosh said. "I checked their hearts, which had stopped. Their pupils were dilated."

"They were sticking their tongues out," Brown said.

Brown also criticized McIntosh's use of the solar plexus — chest — method of euthanizing unwanted animals with lethal injections.

McIntosh's predecessor, Bob Young, was forced to resign last year amid allegations improper methods were being used to euthanize animals. Young was accused of allowing animals to be injected in the stomach, a method McIntosh said he does not use and is most painful for the animal.

McIntosh said the solar plexus method was one of the most commonly used in the country and caused the animals less discomfort than the ribs, where the skin is more sensitive.

Brown said she had contacted veterinarians associated with the Orange County Animal Control Department who she said told her the solar plexus method was not commonly used by them.

That last statement brought criticism by County Administrator Ken Hooper who told Brown she should have brought it to McIntosh's or her supervisor's attention.

"Calling Orange County and talking to the vets, that's part of the problem," Hooper said.

"It's the trust thing," Brown said.

"How can you build trust in Bob unless you ask him about these things?" Hooper responded.

In other discussion, employees said they were pleased with office furniture changes allowing them to assist each other and complete work undisturbed.

Barbara Aquino, dispatcher, recommended to Hooper the department's computer be expanded to allow prior calls from an individual to be stored. She said the information would assist animal control officers to know whether a call was largely a neighborhood domestic problem or a continuing problem.

SANFORD — While admitting there are no new leads, Police Chief Steven Harriett said investigators are still aggressively pursuing the killer of 11-year-old Cornelia Ammons.

"We're pushing harder than ever," said Harriett. "I've told my investigators to continue to question people about the murder and not to let this thing die."

Harriett said he is certain that eventually an arrest will be made.

Ammons was killed July 2 and her body dumped in bushes near a deserted city street. An autopsy showed that Ammons died of a puncture wound through the heart and knife slashes to the throat.

Harriett said the investigation into the murder has reached a dead end as far as new evidence.

"There is absolutely no physical evidence to the crime," said Harriett.

However, Harriett did say he is convinced the killer was known by Ammons and is still in the area.

"She had to know who it was," said Harriett. "That is the main reason why we must keep questioning people."

Ammons had left her mother's house at 22 William Clark Court and was to have walked to her grandmother's house a mile away the day before she was killed.

Two weeks ago Harriett called in the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to help with the case.

FDLE and FBI special agents were to try and compile a criminal psychological profile of the killer, that would help police narrow the field of suspects.

Neither agency was able to compile a profile because of a lack of evidence, according to Dayle Hinman, a special agent in the Investigative Support Services Bureau of the FDLE, specializing in criminal profiles.

"We didn't provide a profile, but we did give investigative suggestions," said Hinman. Wednesday from her office in Tallahassee, "I'm optimistic that they have a good direction to go."

Hinman said she was impressed with the Sanford police investigation into the case. "I and the FBI coordinator (from Orlando) were impressed," she said. "I'm optimistic that they will solve it."

The reward fund for the killer of Ammons has reached $2,475, according to a Sun Bank spokesperson.

Aluminum forms stolen

The reward is offered to any person providing information that leads to the arrest and conviction of the killer.

Anyone with information should contact the Sanford Police Department at 323-3030.

Donations for the fund can be brought to the bank or mailed to the Reward Fund for Cornelia Ammons, Sun Bank, 200 W. First St., Sanford, 32771.

SANFORD — Aluminum concrete wall forms valued at $5,000 were stolen from Main Street Square, 7800 U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood. A sheriff's report filed Wednesday said the forms belong to San Marino Concrete Wall, Inc., of Winter Park.

Anna S. Hawkins, of 1248 Balmey Beach Road, Apopka, reported to sheriff's deputies stereo equipment with a total value of more than $400 was stolen from her pickup truck Wednesday.

A $100 radio, a $500 typewriter and a $70 television set were stolen Wednesday from the office of Spanish Trace Apartments, 445 Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs, a sheriff's report said.

Susan M. Carney, of 2366 Florida Ave., Oviedo, reported to sheriff's deputies a $450 video recorder, a $150 microwave oven, jewelry valued at $400 and other items were stolen from her house between July 3 and Wednesday.

Ordinance is salve, not cure

Elected officials, state and local, are being pressed by a number of people to effect laws which, we feel, may result in giving citizens a false sense of security.

The hue and cry for enacting so-called three-day cooling off periods on handgun purchases has caused neighboring Volusia and Orange county to enact such ordinances. Both counties had avoided the two-day period available since the state gun control legislation became effective on Oct. 1, 1987. The current local option for a three-day period was passed during the most recent session of the legislature. A state-wide campaign to have a mandatory seven-day waiting period throughout Florida is underway.

Seminole County commissioners now face the temptation of me-tooism since both Orange and Volusia have done it. The reasoning which restrained such action in the past may be forgotten in the haste to follow the neighbors. The ordinance may be good for this county but the basis for passage should be what is best for Seminole, not what others have done.

The fundamental danger in ordinances of this nature is the message sent to the citizenry. It is as if the commissioners are saying "a danger existed but we've cured the problem by this action." It's like putting a Band-Aid on a child's gashed arm — it doesn't cure but at least you don't see the wound.

The intent of the county's actions is to prevent the malevolent use of a hastily purchased weapon in a moment of passion. There have been at least two such occurrences in Central Florida in recent years. The actual effect of the cooling off period would be to preclude a truthful individual from going into a licensed, retail gun shop and making an immediate purchase of a weapon.

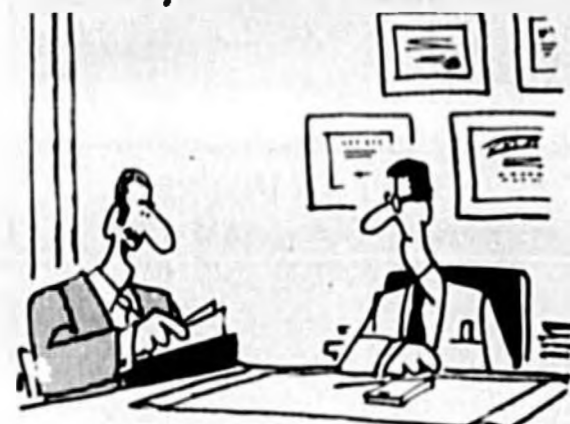

Weakening the law are exemptions in the ordinance from the waiting period. Individuals who already lawfully own a firearm and who show a sales receipt for another firearm; individuals who are known to own another firearm through a prior purchase; and, individuals who have another firearm for trade-in. Bear in mind that exemptions are based on firearms while the cooling off period pertains to handguns. An individual seeking immediate reprisal on another person could dash into the retail gun shop with a .22 caliber rifle and trade quickly for a .38 special — or brandish a phoney sales receipt. Obviously a person bent on murder wouldn't hesitate to lie. Or, he could avoid the few hundred legitimate gun shop owners and opt for a private dealer (immune from the law), or get a copy of a newspaper and turn to the want ads under guns for sale — also excluded from regulations.

We are far more concerned with concealed weapons in Seminole County than whether a law-abiding citizen must wait to make a legitimate gun purchase. Make no mistake, such restrictive laws will affect only law abiding residents. The criminal or suddenly maddened revenge taker is not going to be concerned with what other laws will be broken.

We are also concerned with the lack of penalties assessed against criminals using weapons in the commission of felonies. State law imposes a mandatory prison sentence, but this is often avoided in the haste to secure quick convictions or in a plea-bargaining process.

If our commissioners wish to effect a cooling off period in Seminole County let's hope they consider well the likelihood that they will be adversely affecting legitimate retail weapons dealers and restricting law abiding citizens but probably not making any significant contribution to making this county safer for its citizens. It will be legislation for show, not substance.

Day care: The next boondoggle?

If imitation is indeed the sincerest form of flattery, conservatives are entitled to feel flattered by the antics of the Democrats at their Atlanta convention. They aped America's conservatives so sedulously that, as Abe Rosenthal complained in the New York Times, they seemed to think "the way to win is to subdue what moves them most and try to sound and look as much as possible like the people they want to throw out."

In San Francisco in 1984 the convention's impresarios decided that the Democratic Party's patriotism was under attack, and equipped every delegate with a small American flag to wave at the television cameras whenever these turned away from Sister Bloom-Bloom.

This year, Democratic chairman Paul Kirk evidently feared that the Republicans were becoming identified with the so-called "family issues." To combat this, he ordered the children of the Democratic Party's leaders presented on television — apparently to prove that they have families too, just like everybody else.

The result was almost as mechanical and unconvincing as those little flags. It was as if the Republicans, to refute the canard that they lack "compassion," were to equip every GOP delegate in New Orleans with a large white handkerchief to weep into.

But the Democrats are dead serious about the need to demonstrate their concern for "the family." Unfortunately, when Democratic politicians try to think of a way to help America's families, all they ever come up with is some huge new federal boondoggle. Thus, noting the growing problem of day care, they have recently wheeled onstage (trumpets, please!) their Big New Federal Day-Care Program for the Children of Working Mothers.

This extravaganza has everything a Democratic boondoggle could desire except a guaranteed million-copy sale for Speaker Wright's next book of speeches. It ruthlessly penalizes parents who care for their children themselves, or who make private provisions for their care by others, by allocating billions of dollars only to those who don't. The billions would be spent to construct huge federal day-care facilities and (naturally) maintain a vast federal bureaucracy to administer and monitor them.

For a change, the conservatives haven't been caught napping on this one. Now that more mothers are taking jobs (a logical by-product of Women's Lib and technological change, but widely attributed by the Democrats to rank starvation under Reagan), day care for toddlers is indeed becoming a bigger problem. But conservatives, such as the Heritage Foundation and Education Secretary William Bennett, wisely want to leave it up to the mothers themselves to decide where, and by whom, their infant children shall be cared for.

What's more, say the conservatives, the financial aid should be distributed (perhaps on the basis of a means test) to all mothers alike, whether they take an outside job, or forego that extra income to stay home and care for their children themselves, or leave them with a relative, or in a private day-care facility, or at some federal center.

Ruthlessly penalizes parents who care for their children themselves.

Nightmare for U.S. citizen

WASHINGTON — Darrell Alexander's true story is the nightmare of every American traveler overseas.

The 46-year-old Los Angeles man has been in a jail in Ghana for two months since officials of that West African country yanked him off an airplane that would have taken him home. No charges have been filed against him, but authorities in Ghana claim he was illegally exporting African gray parrots.

His family in the United States says Alexander, a bird dealer, had all the proper U.S. and Ghanaian permits and that he had carefully gone through the legal hoops on both sides of the ocean. But being right is of little comfort when someone else has the key to the cell.

In diplomatic jargon, Alexander is not a hostage. No one from the State Department will negotiate for his freedom. There are no yellow ribbons. In the eyes of the United States, he is simply a man who is in jail for something he may or may not have done, and that's a personal problem.

Alexander's family sees it as a matter of life and death. On May 7, another American, Alton Sawyer of Lafayette, La., died after six months in a Ghanaian prison. He had not been charged with a crime, but Ghanaian officials made vague references to illegal exporting and involvement with the Central Intelligence Agency. An autopsy showed Sawyer probably died of malaria. He was malnourished and had lost all of his body fat. Ghana does not feed its prisoners, they must arrange to get their own food from the outside.

On June 20, after Sawyer's death, the State Department issued a travel advisory about Ghana warning of "harsh jail conditions" and lengthy red tape for Americans who get arrested there. It was too late for Darrell Alexander. He had been in jail since June 6.

Alexander's family has formed "The Committee to Free Darrell Alexander," and they fear they are in it for a long haul. They picketed outside the Democratic Convention in Atlanta last month. But they're afraid no one is listening.

The State Department is the family's only link with Ghana. U.S. consular officers there visit Alexander regularly, according to department spokesperson Francis Jones. "Mr. Alexander is under the jurisdiction of Ghana and there's not that much we can do for the situation of being in prison, which can be pretty awful," she told our associate, Daryl Gibson.

Cables from the consular officers show that Alexander has been able to arrange for food from outside the prison. But he complains of chest pains, fears he will have a heart attack and suspects he might have already suffered a minor stroke.

His wife, Florence, is not allowed to call him, but she has sent him money to buy food and has arranged a Ghanaian lawyer. Until charges are filed, the lawyer's hands are tied. "He is strong willed," says a niece, Cynthia Rogers, of Atlanta, "but I think that being in the condition that he's in — and we don't know what type of treatment — I think that can break anyone down. I can't believe in my mind that he's fine when one month prior another American citizen (Sawyer) was severely mistreated."

If Sawyer's case is a pattern, Alexander's family can soon expect telegrams that smack of extortion from the Ghanaian government. Sawyer's family reported they got telegrams from Ghana saying Sawyer would be released and not charged if his relatives sent $300,000.

Only door swings now

BOSTON—It ended in a garish room in a hotel at a highway intersection in Lansing, Michigan. On Saturday night, the very last Bunny in America encased herself in the very last bunny costume, did the very last bunny dip and closed the very last Playboy Club in the United States.

Meanwhile out on the coast, in a Tudor mansion in Holmby Hills, Calif., "The world's most ineligible bachelor," the Premier Playboy of the Western World of America, was berthed to the very last of his personal series of Playmates.

So it goes. The Bunny is extinct. Hugh Hefner is getting married. Do I hear the sound of an era passing?

A mere 35 years ago, Hugh was just another minister's son in a failing Fifties marriage. He rounded up some old nudies of Marilyn Monroe and printed them for an eager audience. After a lot of heavy breathing, the sort normally found in Lamaze classes, a new magazine was born.

Seven years later, on a Chicago winter evening, men lined up to get a key to his kingdom. Playboy Clubs, the designated hutsches of Hef's fantasy, sprang up in big cities across the country. They were full of bunnies ruled by bunny mothers according to a bunny manual that warned, "Your proudest possession is your bunny tail. You must always make sure it is white and fluffy."

The sexual revolution bloomed. Centerfolds came and went, bunnies hopped in and out. There was an endless procession of nymphets-next-door. Baby-boom Bambis in the buff.

But in the midst of this, the real centerpiece, was always Hefner himself. "What does it feel like being a living legend? Well, it feels great!" He added, "One of the curious things about the phenomenon of my life is that so very much of it has been lived out in a public way that it is related to people's views of sexuality and social conscience."

Hefner described himself as a "Rorschach test." Some people saw the play in the boy, a life in mansions full of toys, animate and inanimate. Barbi, Sondra, Shannon, Carrie — surely there was a Dawn in there somewhere — and now Kimberley.

Others saw the boy in the play. An eternal romantic who ate Wonderbread, fell in love like a teen-ager, and never had to get out of his pajamas or get tied down. "Variety, vitality and adventure of experience are more meaningful to me than the security of marriage."

But either way, Hef and his hutch took us from the era when Nice Girls Didn't to the era when Everybody Had To and on to the era when Everybody's Scared To. From secrecy to swinging to safe sex. Somewhere along the way, his idea of liberation became the women's movement's idea of exploitation. Somewhere along the way, his daughter took over the company and a bunny at the Lansing Club had a second job as a security guard. Somewhere along the way what was titillating became tacky.

It's no surprise what happened to the Playboy Clubs. They were done in by the three Rs of the '80s: raunchiness, righteousness and raised consciousness. The upscale crowd didn't do bunnies except on Saturday Night Live.

As for Hef, it wasn't the times but time that changed things. For years the one constant in life was the age of the woman on his arm. Roughly 25. The other constant was his marital status: single. And the third was his philosophy: marriage kills romance. But after a stroke, a $35 million pallimony suit and a 62nd birthday, even playboys get the blues.

Hugh Hefner discovered mortality and Kimberley Conrad at about the same time. Mortality was a somewhat older concept. Kim is 25, about ten years younger than daughter Christie Hefner.

As for Hef, "I'm at the point in my life where I've sown my wild oats... I always had the feeling before that there was something else, some further personal adventure."

If the bride-to-be is indeed a "homebody," the groom can spend his waning years teaching her about the old days. The days when the living legend taught his generation that marriage was a trap. The days when every fantasy female has a fluffy white tail. The days when he hung a Latin saying over his threshold: "If you don't swing, don't ring."

Today, the only swinging at the Playboy Mansion West is a door quietly closing on the past.

Variety, vitality and adventure of experience are more meaningful.

Stock prices open higher

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 2.85 Wednesday, was up 8.53 to 2142.60 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 494-192 among the 1,072 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange today. Early turnover amounted to about 9,260,900 shares.

"On balance, when you consider the market has not given back any of the 75 points won late last week," Wednesday's performance was "pretty good," said Edward Nicoski, chief technical analyst with Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood in Minneapolis.

"After some more churning, the resolution in the near-term will be a move to new post-collapse highs," Nicoski said. "In the past few days the money flow into the market has become positive. However, people won't really be convinced until the market actually sets new highs."

Phil Erlanger, chief technical analyst at Advest Inc., said the market's timid performance since the surge late last week — the Dow jumped a total of 75 points on Thursday and Friday — should not be viewed as a negative.

"This is good action. You move up and then you consolidate," Erlanger said.

Longwood sewer system delayed in hooking up with county facility

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD— It could be another week before the city's sewer system goes on line with Seminole County's system.

Cindy Wright, deputy director of Environmental Services for the county, said Wednesday an inspection of Longwood's master lift station revealed some discrepancies that weren't consistent with the specifications. She said these issues will have to be resolved by the contractor before the city's sewage can flow to the Greenwood Lakes treatment facility on Longwood-Lake Mary Road. The hookup had been scheduled for Wednesday.

A payment of $1,121,250 from the city is due at the time the transmission facilities were put into operation. The estimated total cost is $3,990,300 to the city for facilities and capacity.

The old treatment plants previously served by old and inadequate Skylark and Columbus Harbour treatment plants were declared surplus Monday night by the commission so that City Administrator Gene DeMarie can contract with someone to remove them for the scrap metal.

Wright said the master lift station is completely operational, but there is some paving and grading yet to be done around the facility. Formal ceremonies will be delayed for up to 30 days when everything has been completed, she said.

Wright said that although the county has agreed to provide up to 325,000 gallons per day capacity to begin with at the rate of $5.75 per gallon. The average daily flow from Longwood at this time is 268,000 gallons, Wright said. The city will have a total reserve capacity of 600,000 gallons per day at Greenwood Lakes. Connection fees for capacity over 325,000 gallons per day will be calculated using a rate of $1 less per gallon than the county's wastewater connection fee in effect at the time of the application.

The county's wholesale charge for providing treatment and disposal of the city's sewage will be an initial user charge of $1.50 per thousand gallons of wastewater. The charge will be adjusted from time to time by the county based on its cost for providing the wholesale service.

In addition to Longwood, the 1.5 million gallons per day Greenwood Lakes plant serves The Crossings, the industrial-commercial section along Lake Emma Road. The Forest subdivision in Lake Mary and developments such as Sanford Place and Middleton Oaks along County Road 427 up to the Sanford city limits.

The county is in the process of a 2 million gallons per day expansion program at Greenwood Lakes, which will bring the total flow to 3.5 million gallons per day. Wright said all but 5 million gallons per day capacity has already been sold.

The city originally issued and sold its $3 million water and sewer revenue bonds in 1986 for the purpose of constructing and equipping improvements to its Grant Street Skylark sewage treatment plant to increase the capacity to 600,000 gallons per day and to repay a previous indebtedness incurred for improvements to the water system.

Due to circumstances not anticipated at the time, it was deemed economically unfeasible by the city to build the plant. In order to provide the necessary increased sewage treatment capacity, the original purpose of the bonds, the city opted to enter into an agreement with Seminole County under which the county was obligated to provide use of its sewage system.

Under terms of the agreement, the city agreed to construct a master lift station. It was necessary to renegotiate with the holder of the bonds, Sun Bank, N.A., to fund the hookup to the county. The remaining money received from the sale of all the bonds, approximately $2,564,657, was transferred to a trust fund in September 1987.

Water and sewer revenues are pledged as security for the payment of the bonds and interest and maintain the water and sewer facilities.

Due to problems with the Columbus Harbour plant, a force main was installed last year to convey sewage from that area to the Skylark plant, which has long been a subject for complaint by residents of that subdivision.

After the old sewage facilities are removed, the sites on which they stand will be sold. The Skylark property will be sold to the Parks and Recreation Department for $100,000 for expansion and development of Candyland Park.

Dollar slips overseas, gold, silver open higher

United Press International

The dollar was fractionally lower in thin trading against major foreign currencies Thursday as the absence of market-inspiring news held the dollar in an extremely narrow range against the yen. Gold edged higher overseas.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar declined marginally against the yen in light trading in Tokyo and closed 0.10 yen lower at 132.75 yen.

After opening fractionally lower at 132.75 yen, the dollar moved in a narrow range of 132.70-75 yen, compared with 132.83-133.00 yen on Wednesday.

Dealers said trading was slow as most market players stayed on the sidelines, waiting for Friday's release of U.S. unemployment data for July.

The dollar opened fractionally lower in Europe.

In Frankfurt, the dollar began the day at 1.730 West German marks down from 1.8773.

The dollar started the day in Paris at 6.3160 francs off from 6.5255, in Brussels at 39.68 Belgian francs down from 39.77 and in Milan at 1.381.17 lire off from 1.384.35.

In Zurich, the dollar opened unchanged at 1.5625 Swiss francs.

The pound opened slightly higher against the dollar in London at $1.7115, up from $1.7105.

In early New York trading, the dollar was firmer against key foreign currencies in a relatively thin summer market.

Most players were waiting for the release of U.S. unemployment data for July to be released on Friday before taking strong positions, traders said.

Most participants expect a strong report, they said, which could create new demands for the dollar.

Labor productivity drops

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Non-farm labor productivity dropped 1.7 percent in the second quarter of this year for the first drop since the last three months of 1986, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

Although American workers continued to produce more goods, even faster increases in the hours people were working added up to the 1.7 percent drop in non-farm productivity, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Inflation picked up smartly in the second quarter, jumping 3.8 percent as measured by the bureau's price deflator. Inflation was only a modest 0.6 percent in the first quarter by the same measure, the bureau said.

about the police chief are reflected on them. They think the chief has good intentions, but his hands are tied. They hear rumors such as their insurance benefits will be cut by the city.

Employees of the public works department are reportedly also interested in organizing and have signed cards.

City Administrator Gene DeMarie said he has received no written confirmation of any unionization and all he knows is rumors, second-hand information, and what he reads in the press.

Why this sudden rush to organize? DeMarie said no one has expressed anything to him, but it is an expression of dissatisfaction by employees who usually think they can accomplish more with a united voice than they can as individuals.

DeMarie said timing is an issue and once the budget for 1988-89 is approved there is little a union can do for the coming fiscal year. But next year once a contract was agreed to through the collective bargaining process, the commissioners would have to fund it.

the proposal.

If agreed upon, Lake Mary's police and fire departments would hook up to the county's 800 MHz, "state-of-the-art," communication system. The proposal calls for the county to foot the bill for all necessary radios, devices and equipment involved in the hookup. The county is also to assist with training Lake Mary's firefighters or the cost of the training.

Morris will discuss his proposal with fellow city commissioners at the tonight's commission meeting. If the agreement comes to pass, he said he will next look for an inter-local with Sanford. According to Morris, inter-local agreements are a nationwide trend.

"I'm tired of parochialism in government," Morris said. "It's not a city-county issue. It's what's best for residents. That's the best regional planning we can do."

Kaiser said he just received the proposal and has discussed it with both County Administrator Ken Hooper and Sturm, but will not respond until after the commission meeting.

Grades

denance to support that weighted GPAs enhance a student's chances of receiving a scholarship.

Jack Heiser, director of secondary education, said Florida universities use raw or un-weighted grades in making their determinations.

DeMa Horner, an instructor at Lake Mary High School and curriculum committee member, told board members only opti-tion and intuitive feelings, not fact, support the position that weighted grading encourages more students to take honor-level courses.

For some, the effect grade-weighting could have on other students is the issue.

"It's an extra perk for advanced students," said Carina Norman, assistant principal at Seminole High. "I fear we would be sending a message of inferiority to standard and basic students."

Norman and board member Pat Telson both stated their concerns for the impact weighted grading could have on the county's student dropout rate. Telson said, "We're trying to keep students in school, and build positive self-esteem."

Before the board voted, Hughes told members of colleges and universities across the nation were truly accepting weighted grades on face value, then it is an issue that should be addressed on a national level.

Shuttle

Each main engine is equipped with a control computer that monitors engine performance and valve position 50 times a second. When problems are detected, the engines are automatically shut down or prevented from firing.

The "redundant set launch sequence" — RSLS — abort was the third in the shuttle program's history. Two early launch pad aborts, both of which happened after at least one engine had attempted to fire, occurred in June 1984 and July 1985. In both cases, engineers were able to safely back out of the interrupted countdown.

In Discovery's case today, none of the engines fired.

"The sequence appears to have been stopped by an engine controller," Harris said. "We'll be waiting for an analysis of why that engine controller started the shutdown."

Meetings were scheduled for later in the day to assess the schedule and to figure out exactly what went wrong and 40 minutes after the launch pad abort, engineers started draining Discovery's giant external tank.

The two previous RSLS aborts were blamed on sluggish fuel valves.

The first instance came on June 26, 1984, when the shuttle Discovery's flight computers shut down all three main engines just four seconds before blastoff when the No. 3 engine's main fuel valve opened too slowly during the startup sequence.

A similar shutdown occurred on July 12, 1985, at three seconds to launch.

Discovery's engine firing is a critical milestone on the road to resuming shuttle flights and the test had to go virtually flawlessly for NASA to have any chance of launching Discovery in September.

Worst summer in 50 years not over yet

The dog days of August have only just begun but this week's record heat already has taken three lives while filling hospital emergency rooms with wheezing patients, and forecasters say the worst is ahead in the hottest summer in 50 years.

"During the next week to 10 days, we're going to see just how hot August can be," said Peter Leavitt, a meteorologist for Weather Services Corp. in Boston.

The heat has shattered 79 high-temperature records across the country since Sunday. Record highs for the date were reached Wednesday in 10 cities in seven states. It was 100 degrees in Milwaukee for the fourth day this summer, the most since 1936. Minneapolis hit 90 for the 37th day this year, breaking a record also set in 1936.

The country is entering the fourth straight month of below-normal rainfall from Oregon to Georgia, and this week's heat is sapping corn and soybean crops of moisture from rain that fell over much of the Farm Belt during the last two weeks of July, officials said.

Aspin says compensation to Iran likely

WASHINGTON — If human error was largely responsible for the U.S. downing of Iran Air Flight 655, the House Armed Services Committee chairman predicts Congress may be more inclined to pay relatives of the 290 victims.

A special defense policy panel of the committee led by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., called State Department and Pentagon witnesses to appear today to discuss the compensation issue.

Amid news accounts that at least one part of a special investigative report points to human error by the crew of the Navy ship that shot down the airliner over the Persian Gulf July 3, Aspin cautioned Wednesday against reading too much into a single leak of just a portion of the Pentagon review.

The leaked information indicated the crew of USS Vincennes, under stress from earlier combat with Iranian gunboats, misinterpreted data from the vaunted Argis computerized weapons system, which quickly led to disaster.

Aspin conceded, "If it turns out that human error was a big part of it, it makes Congress more likely to vote compensation for the families ... if we're called on (by the administration) to approve it."

Contra aid bill still stalled in Senate

WASHINGTON — Senate Democrats proposed a Nicaraguan Contra aid bill they say will promote peace in Central America — and within their own party during the presidential campaign — but Republican leader Robert Dole calls it a surrender to Marxist aggression.

After three days of internal bargaining, Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia announced Wednesday the $27 million plan for non-lethal U.S. aid to the rebels with no new money for weapons.

The proposal sets up a process by which the Contras could receive $10 million in previously appropriated military aid but only if the Soviet-supported Nicaraguan government launches an unprovoked attack on the guerrillas and violates other conditions vital to the Central American peace process.

Dole denounced the Democrats' plan as no deal at all, pledging to take his own $47 million aid proposal — and a growing presidential campaign issue — to the floor of the Senate for debate.

Veto of defense bill labeled 'politics'

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Congressional Democrats say President Reagan's veto of a $299.6 billion military spending bill was desperation politics to help George Bush, a move that will backfire as the vice president seeks the White House.

Angered by the Oval Office action, Democratic leaders have indicated there will be no attempt to override the veto. Instead they will add their spending authorizations to a defense appropriations bill, the legislation needed to put money in Pentagon accounts for the authorized military programs.

The final result should be a package remarkably similar to the authorization measure Reagan vetoed Wednesday. Effectively, it means the same battle will be fought again in September and the Pentagon could be stuck with a "continuing resolution" to operate into the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 — a resolution that would keep several desired military items bogged down in the process.

Republicans struggled vigorously but unsuccessfully to force a veto override vote Wednesday, only to see the legislation referred to committee to begin the unusual process threatened by Democrats.

Rhetoric flew thick and fast. "[The Democratic] ploy violates the intent and purpose of the Constitution and makes a mockery of our rules and procedure," complained House GOP leader Robert Michel of Illinois.

"[This was] obviously a political move and obviously a political move of desperation," countered House Armed Services Committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis. "Clearly what the administration is trying to do is raise the visibility of the defense issue.

"They somehow think that's going to help Bush and help Republicans generally. I think it's going to backfire," Aspin said. "I think it's going to be seen as an obviously political move and it has united Democrats in a way I don't think I've seen before."

Assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California was even more blunt about the perceived bid to bolster Bush's claim to a stronger defense policy than his White House rival, Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

"On the critical issue of national defense," Cranston said, "the White House has become Washington headquarters of the Bush for President campaign. This is an improper way for the incumbent commander in chief to behave."

Doctor gives Dukakis clean bill of health

United Press International

BOSTON — Gov. Michael Dukakis, hoping to have scotch-rumored rumors about psychiatric care begun by a representative of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche, looked for a smooth return to the presidential campaign trail today with stops in Mississippi and the key electoral state of California.

The Democratic nominee moved to clear away a cloud before his trip to the sunny climes by having his personal doctor release a detailed summary of his medical history, a summary that gave him a clean bill of health and declared he has suffered "no psychological symptoms, complaints or treatments."

The statement appeared to put rest spreading rumors that the 54-year-old Dukakis had sought professional help for depression in the 1970s. It became politically necessary when the issue was thrust into the open Wednesday at a White House news conference by President Reagan.

Dukakis was to speak today at the Neshoba County Fair in Philadelphia, Miss., on the 24th anniversary of the discovery of the bodies of three civil rights workers shot to death near the small town 80 miles northeast of Jackson.

The trio, two white men from New York and a black man from Meridian, Miss., were killed while registering new black voters, a goal being stressed again this year by Dukakis's new ally in the White House contest, former Democratic presidential rival Jesse Jackson.

The murder became a rallying cry for Jackson and others in the civil rights movement at the time seeking federal enforcement of black voting rights.

Dukakis, after a brief speech at the county fair, was expected to fly west to attend two fundraisers and to address students later today at the University of California-Los Angeles.

His trip came one day after a survey published by pollster Mervin Field found him leading his Republican opponent, Vice President George Bush, 52 percent to 36 percent among voters across California.

Wednesday, his focus on state business was interrupted when unsubstantiated rumors about his mental health were thrown into a public spotlight by Reagan. At a news briefing the president was asked by the LaRouche representative about Dukakis's refusal to release his medical records and whether Americans deserve to know whether the Democrat is fit to govern.

"Look, I'm not going to pick on an invalid," a smiling Reagan replied.

The unexpected remark sparked immediate uproar, and less than an hour later the 77-year-old president tried to take away the sting of its impact. He said he had attempted a joke but "I don't think I should have said what I said."

Asked if his remark was based on any personal knowledge of Dukakis Reagan replied, "No, I was just trying to be funny and it didn't work."

Minister vows to sue over Contra attack

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Ten Americans on a tour of Nicaragua blamed Contra rebels for an attack on a riverboat that killed two people and wounded 24, including a Baptist minister who vowed to sue President Reagan.

The minister, Lucius Walker, and the nine other Americans described the attack at a news conference Wednesday in Managua, saying their experience galvanized them to fight against U.S. assistance to the Contras.

Walker, the leader of a fact-finding tour sponsored by New York's Interreligious Foundation for Community Organization, said he was grazed by a bullet on his left buttock Tuesday when rebels opened fire on the riverboat in eastern Nicaragua.

Two Nicaraguans were killed and 23 wounded in the attack on the boat, which was making a regularly scheduled run between Bluefields on the Caribbean coast and the river port of Rama, 37 miles northeast.

Iran claims chemical weapons attack

UNITED NATIONS — Iran asked the United Nations to send chemical warfare experts to the Persian Gulf to investigate another alleged attack by Iraq as a U.N. technical team trying to work out the details of a cease-fire was returning to New York.

Members of the returning technical team were scheduled to meet with U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar today to brief him on their findings during talks with officials in both Tehran and Baghdad.

Perez de Cuellar has said the report by the technical team would be a key factor in determining a truce date in the nearly 8-year-old war.

U.N. spokesman Francois Gulliani said Wednesday that informal contacts between Perez de Cuellar and the foreign ministers of Iran and Iraq were continuing, but the U.N. chief had imposed a news blackout on the cease-fire negotiations.

Freed West German pilot regrets flight

FRANKFURT, West Germany — Pilot Mathias Rust returned home after 14 months in a Soviet prison, vowing he would never repeat the daredevil flight to Red Square that brought down a defense minister and still could land him in trouble with West German authorities.

Rust, who flew a small Cessna sport plane to Red Square May 28, 1987, arrived back in West Germany Wednesday night on a scheduled commercial flight after his early release from a four-year sentence.

"I would not do it again," the 20-year-old Rust told a fellow passenger on the flight from Moscow to Frankfurt.

Kumerow earns start for Miami

MIAMI — Following a successful professional debut in London, Miami rookie Eric Kumerow returns to his hometown of Chicago as a starter in Saturday night's exhibition game between the Dolphins and the Bears.

Kumerow, the Dolphins' No. 1 pick out of Ohio State, will start at right defensive end in place of the injured John Bosa, who will miss the next two exhibition games with an ankle injury. In Miami's 27-21 victory over San Francisco Sunday, Kumerow, 6-foot-7, 255 pounds, had 1.5 sacks. Despite several rookie mistakes, he earned praise from the coaching staff.

"The ball game in London was the big test and all of us were hoping he'd do well and he did," Miami Coach Don Shula said Wednesday. "He showed some good moves, and the thing that was most impressive was that when he had the opportunity to make a play, he did."

DIVING

Kimball had beer before crash

BRANDON — Olympic diver Bruce Kimball, charged with two counts of vehicular homicide, remained in seclusion Wednesday while awaiting the results of blood alcohol tests.

Kimball, 25, a 1984 silver medalist in platform diving and a strong contender for this year's U.S. Olympic team, was charged Tuesday and released from jail on $10,000 bond following an auto accident that left two teenagers dead and six others injured.

Investigators said Kimball was driving between 70 mph and 90 mph in a rural area south of the bedroom community of Brandon, east of Tampa. His late-model sports car glanced off five cars and into a pack of young people Monday night on a stretch of dead-end road.

Kevin Martin Gossic, 16, of Brandon, and Robert Kevin Bedell, 19, of Valrico, were killed.

Hearn to fight for fifth title

NEW YORK — Thomas Hearns will try to beat Ray Leonard to the punch by going for his fifth world title against World Boxing Association super middleweight champion Fulgencio Obelmejias in October, promoter Bob Arum announced Wednesday.

Arum said the Hearns-Obelmejias bout will take place in Las Vegas, Nev., as part of a card that will include Michael Nunn's defense of his International Boxing Federation middleweight title against Juan Roldan.

Hearns, 45-3 with 38 knockouts, is the only boxer to win titles in four weight classes. Leonard, a three-time champion, is expected to announce Thursday he will challenge World Boxing Council light heavyweight champion Donny Lalonde for Lalonde's 175-pound title and the WBC's new 168-pound championship.

Tracy Austin returns to tennis

SAN DIEGO — Former U.S. Open champion Tracy Austin returned to the tennis tour after a four-year absence Wednesday night, teaming with Robin White in a first-round doubles loss at the $100,000 Virginia Slims of San Diego.

Austin, 25, looked sharp in the 7-6 (9-7), 6-1 loss to the top-seeded team of Betsy Nagelsen and Dinky Van Rensburg. Her last appearance in a sanctioned tournament was February 1984, when she dropped a second-round match to Pam Cassie.

"I felt calm; it was wonderful," said Austin, who captured the first of two U.S. Open titles at age 16 in 1979 and was ranked No. 1 a year later. "I'm very happy with the way I played. I had so much fun out there tonight."

Altamonte can clinch tonight

The Altamonte Springs Junior All-Stars can sew up a trip to the Southern Regional Tournament tonight with a win over South Brandon in the State Junior Tournament at Union Park.

Altamonte, which has won 11 consecutive games since the all-star tournaments began, will go with ace Frank Harner on the mound tonight. The game is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. A second game, if South Brandon wins tonight, would be played Friday night at 6.

South Brandon stayed alive in the tourney Wednesday night by defeating Merritt Island, 14-6, in the losers' bracket final. Merritt Island had a 5-3 lead going into the seventh inning when South Brandon erupted for 11 runs on eight hits.

South Brandon is the only team Altamonte has not played in the state tourney. Altamonte opened with a 13-0 rout of Fort Myers in which Harner tossed a one-hitter. Altamonte then downed Merritt Island, 6-1, on Tuesday.

In Tuesday's game, Altamonte showed that it can win under any circumstances. For the first time in 11 tournament games, the offense had an off night, as it was held to only two hits. But Altamonte responded with a stellar defensive effort, good play on the basepaths and a solidly pitched ballgame by Steve Tolbert and Wade Lyons.

Defensively, second baseman Pablo Abreu, right fielder Mike Elliott and catcher Marcus Bullock all made key plays while Tolbert and Lyons combined on a five-hitter with Tolbert getting the win and Lyons the save.

In 11 tournament games, Altamonte has scored 155 runs (14 per game) while giving up 37 (3 per game).

Jimmy Connors overpowered Pieter Aldrich, 6-2, 6-0, Wednesday night at the U.S. Men's Hardcourt Championships.

McEnroe, Connors victorious

United Press International

INDIANAPOLIS — John McEnroe and Jimmy Connors, both trying to end personal slumps, won their opening matches at the U.S. Men's Hardcourt Tennis Championships.

Second-seeded Connors overpowered Pieter Aldrich, 6-2, 6-0, while third seed McEnroe defeated Dan Cassidy, 7-6 (7-2), 6-1, in matches Wednesday night before 7,049 people, the first sellout crowd ever at the Indianapolis Sports Center.

McEnroe, 29, has struggled since a self-imposed layoff, having been eliminated in the second round at Wimbledon and the fourth round at the French Open. McEnroe has worked to regain the form that led him to three Wimbledon titles and four U.S. Open championships, but he was forced to a first-set tiebreaker by Cassidy.

Connors, winner of a record 106 singles titles, needed only 53 minutes to eliminate his South African opponent. The match was the first for Connors since winning a tournament last week in Washington. That triumph ended a streak of 56 events over nearly four years without a singles title for the five-time U.S. Open champion.

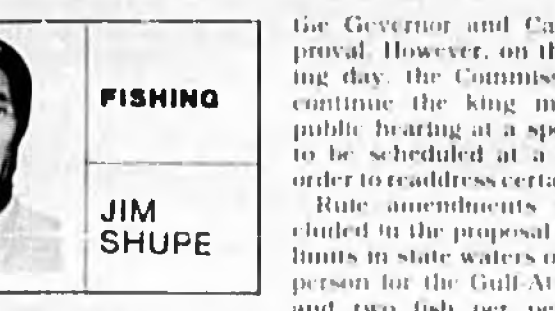

"The most important thing about that is I won a tournament. I'm probably more relaxed now," Connors said.

Limited red drum harvest now allowed

The Florida Marine Fisheries Commission has voted to propose allowing a limited harvest of red drum (redfish) and to prohibit its sale. The final public hearing on the Commission's rule to protect and replenish the state's overfished red drum resources included a great deal of public testimony from recreational and commercial fishermen and organizations, guides, biologists, and other interested persons.

After considering the testimony and reviewing the biological data gathered and analyzed over the past year, the Commission decided that the best and safest approach to achieve its stated goal of a 30 percent escapement is to prohibit all sale of native red drum and to allow all fishermen a daily harvest of one red drum 18 to 27 inches in length except during the months of March, April and May.

This rule would remain in effect until October 1, 1991 (at which time no harvest of red drum would be allowed unless further action is taken). The Commission intends to review the effects of the rule during this time to determine future management plans for red drum. The rule is expected to go to the Governor and Cabinet for Approval in August or September, and would take effect as early as October 1, 1988 if approved.

The Commission received a great deal of public testimony during a final public hearing on rule amendments for both the Gulf-Atlantic and Atlantic fisheries for king mackerel, and voted on management measures to recommend to the Governor and Cabinet for approval. However, on the final meeting day, the Commission voted to continue the king mackerel final public hearing at a later date in order to readdress certain issues.

Rule amendments currently included in the proposal are daily bag limits in state waters of one fish per person for the Gulf-Atlantic fishery and two fish per person for the Atlantic fishery (including captain and crew of charterboats), repeal of the automatic closure of the fisheries when both the recreational and commercial fisheries in the federal zones close, removal of all bycatch exceptions, requirement of a "restricted species" endorsement on saltwater products licenses along with the federal permit in order to sell king mackerel, and allowance of a special daily bag limit of twenty-five fish per boat under certain conditions for commercial hook and line fishermen in Monroe County.

Fresh water anglers would be well advised to be on the water at or before daylight in the hot summer months. Fishing action will decrease dramatically as the sun rises and the heat begins to build.

FISHING FORECAST
Lemon Bluff Fish Camp reports good action with bream and catfish in the river and in Lake Harney. Bass fishing has been on the slow side with the hot weather.
Steve Gard at the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp stated that some anglers have still been catching good stringers of specks around the pilings of the new bridge. This is highly unusual for this time of year. Diane Sensokovic caught a beautiful 5 1/2 pound bass, and Steve weighed in an 8 1/2 pound bass earlier in the week. Bream and catfish are still the best bet, however, with the warm water temperatures.
Anglers are eagerly awaiting for snook season to open, but in the meantime catch and release fishing is good at Sebastian Inlet. One-ounce jigs are catching most of the Red Sox invade Detroit for crucial series

By RICHARD L. SHOOK
UPI sports writer

The streaking Red Sox invade Detroit Thursday for a five-game weekend showdown that could leave New York the big winner.

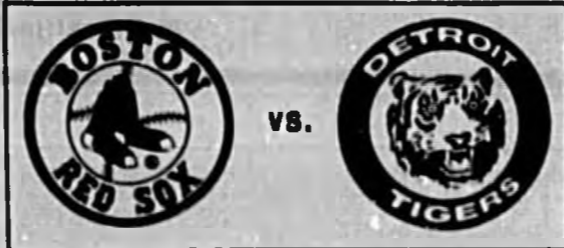

People in Detroit, whose team has been in first place in the American League East much of the last six weeks, should fill Tiger Stadium for the classic confrontation pitting Detroit's pitching and defense against the best-hitting team in baseball.

Detroit's fans are anxious to see whether the Tigers' hitless wonders can generate enough offense for their extraordinarily deep pitching staff to turn into victories.

In Boston, Red Sox fans have experienced no such anxiety. The Red Sox won 18 of their first 19 under new Manager Joe Morgan and were trying to tie the league record of 22 straight victories at home Wednesday night.

How long can it go on, this 'Miracle of Morgan'? Will it surpass the 'Impossible Dream' of 1967?

While Boston and Detroit try to answer those questions, New York hopes to pose another — who will stop the Yankees while the Red Sox and Tigers are beating up on each other.

Boston is hitting in the low .200s this season, the highest team mark since the 1950 Red Sox batted .302, and finished third behind New York and Detroit.

Every regular on that 1950 Red Sox team hit .300 or better save second baseman Bobby Doerr, who batted .294. Utility man Billy Goodman won the league batting title with a .354 average.

These Red Sox look almost as formidable. Wade Boggs is so good he goes 2 for 5 in his sleep. Mike Greenwell drives him home while he's dreaming. And Marty Barrett plays to perfection the role of baker — he's always got his finger in the pie somewhere.

Throw in starters Roger Clemens, Bruce Hurst and now Mike Boddicker plus relievers Bob Stanley and Lee Smith and you've got a pitching staff that's at least good enough. It is a staff good enough to get to the postseason.

But Detroit has the staff tailored for the long haul. And the club is counting on its pitching to counter the excellent hitting attacks built by New York and Boston.

In the Tigers' 12 games entering Wednesday night's in Kansas City they scored 30 runs on 213 hitting (80 for 375). The Tigers went 7-5 in the stretch, despite a sweep by Oakland in which they scored just two runs in three games.

But the pitching has kept Detroit in first. The Tigers allowed only 20 earned runs in 105 innings (1.71 ERA) and held opponents to a .207 batting average (79 for 382).

But as juicy as the final confrontations of the season between two of the division's current top three teams appear, it still represents a precious opportunity for the New York Yankees.

While Boston and Detroit are going 3-2 or

2-3, the mathematically probable outcome, New York plays one game in Milwaukee and three at home with Minnesota.

Winning those four games could vault New York past both Detroit and Boston into first place in the AL East. It is the right time for the Yankees to stay hot if they are to win the three-way struggle.

Detroit has a three-game rematch in Boston the following weekend while New York is replaying Minnesota in the Metrodome.

It's important for New York to win because every time the Yankees do, they will gain ground on either Detroit or Boston.

Then come the home and home Boston-New York and New York-Detroit matches in September. The Yankees host the Tigers on Sept. 8-11, visit the Red Sox on Sept. 15-18, then host them three games the following weekend. New York ends its regular season with three games at Detroit.

The head-to-head competitions will generate a lot of interest and hoopla. But the real winner among the three could easily be the one that does the best against outside competition while the other two are knocking each other off.

Expos fight past Pittsburgh, 6-4

United Press International

For 2 hours and 47 minutes, the Montreal Expos and Pittsburgh Pirates fought to better position themselves in the National League East. For 10 minutes, they just plain fought.

The Expos defeated the Pirates 6-4 Wednesday night in a game that featured a 10-minute, benches-clearing melee.

Andres Galaragga ripped a two-run homer off John Smiley to snap a 2-2 tie in the third. Smiley, 9-8, hit Hubie Brooks in the back with the next pitch. Brooks charged the mound and punched Smiley in the face before players piled onto each other at the mound.

"I've told my guys all year that if they think they are getting thrown at, do one of two things," Pirates Manager Jim Leyland said. "Go to first or go to the mound. If Hubie felt he was being thrown at, he did what he should have done."

Leyland would not discuss the fight specifically and Smiley did not answer questions at all.

"I just wish it hadn't happened either way," said Brooks, who along with Smiley was ejected. "I just look at it like this, I don't want to be anyone's target."

The Pirates remained four games behind the first-place New York Mets, Montreal closed within 7 1/2 games.

Montreal had taken a 1-0 first-inning lead on Brooks's sacrifice fly, but Glenn Wilson's two-out, two-run single in the bottom of the inning put Pit-

Forsch hopes to land with contender

United Press International

ST. LOUIS — Right-hander Bob Forsch, who has been with the Cardinals for his entire 15-year, major-league career, thinks he may be traded to a contending team before the 24-man rosters are allowed to expand Sept. 1.

"I know it's a real possibility," said Forsch, who was 4-3 with a 4.59 ERA before starting Wednesday night for the last-place St. Louis. "There's nothing like a pennant race. Those are always your best times, I'm fully aware it (a trade) could come soon."

There have been rumors the Boston Red Sox are interested in Forsch, who has two no-hitters among his 158 lifetime victories (entering Wednesday).

"I haven't had any calls about him yet, but I anticipate talking to a lot of people later this month," St. Louis General Manager Dal Maxvill said.

Forsch, 38, has started and relieved this season, but has been much more effective as a starter. Before his appearance Wednesday, he had allowed just six earned runs in his four previous starts, covering 21 2/3 innings. As a reliever, he has no saves and a 5.08 ERA.

"I believe if he wants to stay in pro ball, he's got to be a starter or spot starter," St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said. "Getting up, throwing and not getting into the game is tough for him."

● At Wichita, Kan., John DeSilva threw a one-hitter Wednesday night to lead Clarinda, Iowa, to an 8-0 rout of Pine Bluff, Ark., in the opening game of the National Baseball Congress World Series.

In a later game Wednesday, Hays, Kan., was to play Nashville, Tenn. The 12-day, double-elimination tournament has 33 amateur baseball teams entered.

DeSilva allowed only one hit in seven innings and struck out eight. He retired the first 15 batters he faced.

The game was called after 6 1/2 innings due to the tournament's six-run rule.

Three Clarinda hitters drove in runs, and losing pitcher Walter Shaw accounted for three runs on wild pitches. Shaw gave up only two hits, but allowed eight walks in three innings.

Rams, outgun Denver in preseason opener

United Press International

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Gary Kubiak threw two third-quarter touchdown passes and Ken Karcher passed for the go-ahead score with 4:11 left Wednesday night to lift the Denver Broncos to a 40-31 preseason victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

The defending AFC champions scored 33 points off four Los Angeles fumbles in the second half to win their exhibition opener. The Rams, who committed five turnovers, fell to 0-2.

After rookie David Treadwell's 39-yard field goal cut the Denver deficit to 31-27 with 6:28 left, Keith Jones fumbled the ensuing kickoff. Brad Humphreys recovered for Denver on the Rams' 15. Four plays later, Karcher connected on a 4-yard TD pass to rookie Pat Kelly for a 33-31 lead with 4:11 to play.

On the next series, Steve Dils was sacked by Denver's Randy

Bosox win 22nd in row at Fenway

United Press International

Set to begin a five-game series with the hottest and best-hitting team in baseball, the struggling Tigers at least can take solace in the fact they are playing the Boston Red Sox in Detroit.

Handling a team with a 19-1 mark since the All-Star break is imposing enough. The task might seem impossible if the series were in Boston, where the Red Sox have won 22 in a row.

Wednesday night, the Red Sox rallied for a 5-4 victory over the Texas Rangers and a share of first place in the American League East with Detroit, 2-1 losers at Kansas City.

The Red Sox equaled the AL mark set by the 1931 Philadelphia Athletics. The major-league record for consecutive victories at home is 26, set by the 1916 New York Giants.

"If somebody told me at the start of this year, or early June, that we'd be in the record books, I wouldn't have believed it," said Boston second baseman Marty Barrett.

"We can't hope (to beat them), we'd better beat 'em. But nobody else is. They (the Red Sox) have killed this club — destroyed this pitching staff," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said after the Tigers lost in Kansas City. "They're leading all of baseball in runs scored and hitting."

In Kansas City, Bret Saberhagen outdueled Frank Tanana, who fell to 0-12 in Royals Stadium and 8-21 lifetime against Kansas City.

"After a ballgame like this, you see why I'm 0-for-Kansas City," Tanana said. "These are ballgames you should win. But when the other guy pitches better and your team doesn't score you're not going to win any ballgame period."

Saberhagen, who threw a four-hitter, improved to 12-10 while Tanana, who gave up seven hits, slipped to 12-7.

Kansas City took a 1-0 lead in the first on George Brett's RBI single. Detroit evened the score in the fifth on a run-scoring single by Dave Bergman. Pat Tabler singled home the winner in the ninth.

At Baltimore, Jeff Ballard, 5-9, ended a personal five-game losing streak, throwing seven innings. Baltimore's Eddie Murray, Terry Kennedy and Larry Sheets each homered off Rick Rodriguez, 1-2, with Sheets's blast igniting a four-run second.

Twins 8, Blue Jays 3

At Toronto, Steve Lombardozzi and Gary Gaetti each went 4 for 5 to pace Minnesota's 16-hit attack. Toronto's Fred McGriff hit a three-run homer, his 26th home run of the season and 11th since the All-Star break.

Athletics 4, White Sox 3

At Chicago, Stan Javier delivered a two-out RBI single in the 11th of Chicago relief ace Bobby Thigpen, 5-6. Reliever Gene Nelson, 6-3, earned the win and Dennis Ekersley notched his 31st save.

Brewers 6, Yankees 5

At Milwaukee, Dave Eiland, making his major-league debut, allowed three hits over seven innings and left with a 5-1 lead only to see Dave Righetti get pelted in the eighth. Righetti, 3-2, yielded five hits and five runs in one-third of an inning.

49ers' Paris to 'fat farm'

United Press International

ROCKLIN, Calif. — San Francisco tackle Bubba Paris, who has ballooned to more than 335 pounds, has been sent to a Southern California weight-loss clinic, becoming the second NFL player in the last three weeks to be dispatched to a diet specialist.

The Chicago Bears were the first NFL team this season to become concerned about the overweight condition of one of its players, sending William "Refrigerator" Perry to a weight-reduction clinic after he topped 350 pounds.

Paris left the 49ers' Rocklin training camp Tuesday for the Pritikin Clinic in Santa Monica, the same clinic that helped former San Francisco great and now team executive R.C. Owens lose 26 pounds in 29 days last year.

Paris, a six-year veteran, has angered Coach Bill Walsh because of his weight over the past three seasons.

Johnson, Daggett keep Olympic dreams alive

SALT LAKE CITY — The scars of recent surgery may yet turn into badges of honor for Scott Johnson and Tim Daggett in their final thrust to regain berths on the U.S. Olympic gymnastics team.

Hayden was second after the compulsiories with 81,030 points and Davis third with 80,550. Johnson's score of 58,000 points unofficially would put him in second place in the overall standings and Daggett, with 57,200, in eighth. Since they are being judged on a different

This growth disorder occurs only in males

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son, 14, is 53 inches tall. The doctors in West Germany said he has Noonan's syndrome, a growth disorder. Could you tell me more about this?

DEAR READER: Noonan's syndrome is a hereditary abnormality in males, marked by short stature, low-set ears, webbing of the neck, mental retardation and bone malformations. These children have normal XY chromosomes, unlike the female variant (Turner's syndrome) which is characterized by an absence of one of the two X chromosomes. The cause is unknown; treatment is primarily supportive. However, your son probably can lead a normal life with supervision and special training.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Does anyone really know what causes a person to sleep?

DEAR READER: Actually, sleep is our natural condition. The really interesting question is what keeps us awake. Our wakeful state appears to be under the control of a complex nerve pathway, called the reticular activating system, which bombards our brains at appropriate times with electrical stimulation. Scientists have much to learn about this fascinating subject. The wonder is that we are not asleep all the time.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been told by my doctor that I have a spur on my heel, but he has given me no hint as to curing the pain. Can you suggest anything?

DEAR READER: A heel spur is additional bone (exostosis) that originates in the weight-bearing portion of the heelbone (calcaneus) and grows forward horizontally in the dense covering (fascia) of the heel.

Many spurs cause no symptoms. However, once irritated (by pressure or injury), they can cause severe discomfort, rather like having a stone in one's shoe. Spurs are diagnosed by X-ray examination. Treatment consists of orthotic devices (worn in the shoe to alleviate strain), injection of cortisone and novocaine or — in rare cases — surgical removal of the calcium deposit.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

My father always said to me that if he had 12 top tricks to take, he could manage to work out a way to take all 13. That philosophy is shared by most top players, and Neil Chambers is no exception. Playing in the Vanderbilt team-of-four in Buffalo last March, Neil opened the South hand with a strong two clubs. By agreement, his partner's positive spade response showed two of the top three honors. With that knowledge, Neil could count 12 top tricks, and perhaps his partner held the jack of spades as well. If not, Neil was willing to take his chances that something would develop.

After the spade lead, declarer won the ace and ran all seven club tricks, discarding five hearts, a diamond and a spade from dummy. West was left with three spades and two diamonds.

East still had the K-Q of hearts and K-J-8 of diamonds. Now South cashed the ace of hearts. West threw a diamond, since he couldn't afford to throw away a spade. Declarer now played in dummy's king of spades and cashed the queen. East could throw one diamond away, but on the second spade he was squeezed. A heart would make South's jack a winner, and a diamond would enable Chambers to sluff the heart jack and take the last two tricks with the A-5 of diamonds. As usual when it came to bridge, my father, Oswald Jacoby, was right.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Phares Books, (C)1988, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

St. Johns—the overlooked attraction

All too often a car with an out-of-state plate speeds over the St. Johns River without the occupants giving it more than a cursory glance and a passing comment. Their car is filled with souvenirs, their heads are spinning with memories of the last tourist attraction they visited; their attention is focused on the next attraction on the agenda.

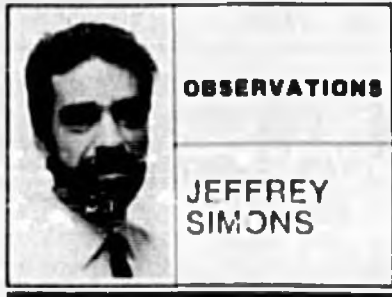

But what lured tourists here in the early years was the real Florida: tropical climates, sunshine, oranges, gators, landscape and wildlife. The real Florida is our greatest attraction.

One of the richest, grandest, real features in the state is the St. Johns. At more than 300 miles in length, it is the state's longest river. Fed by numerous lakes and springs, it is the only major river in the country that drains northward.

As a natural tourist attraction, the river abounds in splendor. Whether you cruise the St. Johns or simply follow its banks, you will still be confronted with its grandeur. Live oaks tower over the river's edge, dripping with Spanish moss. At Osteen you'll encounter a flood plain dotted with palms, cypress and cattle from bordering ranches. There, too, are marshy islands supporting a seemingly infinite number of wildflowers and reeds.

For those who feel that Florida has nothing to show for the change of seasons, those same wildflowers paint the flood plain a variety of colors as the fall season passes. First a week's worth of white, then yellow followed purple and rust, spread out as far as the eye can see. Spring ushers in pinks, lilacs and golds.

The wildlife associated with the river is just as colorful and perhaps twice as diverse. There are, of course, the ever-present alligators, perhaps Florida's most celebrated and infamous residents. On the other end of docility scale is the manatee, which is practically extinct due in part to its curious and non-aggressive nature. Between these two "extremes" can be found all manner of birds, fish and turtles.

OBSERVATIONS

Gator country

While mostly harmless to man when left alone, the alligators are fierce and spectacular. Adults can grow to a length of 20 feet. Their jaws are capable of crushing the shells of sizable turtles, one of their favorite entrees. Large fish, small mammals (racoons, rodents, etc.), birds, snakes and frogs round out the gators' varied diet.

By day alligators can be seen on mud banks or up on the bordering grasses of the St. Johns catching a few rays. When they're not basking in the sun, you'll find them lurking on the surface of the river with those famed, frightening eyes just above the water. At night, you might take part in a pastime popular with the locals: gator-spotting by flashlight beam.

At the Osteen crossing is a remnant of the former bridge, left for the enjoyment of fishermen and anyone looking for a great vantage point. With a strong halogen or lantern-type flashlight you can scan the periphery of the marshy areas. With a little luck you'll locate a pair of glowing red eyes. It is said that if you multiply by two the distance in inches between those fiery eyes, you'll have the gator's length. Don't plan on getting close enough to verify.

Manatee mania

The easy-going manatee is nothing to fear, despite its massive size. On the contrary, this mammal has every reason to fear man. Having no natural predators, its only threat is possible injury from motorboat blades.

Manatees frequent the St. Johns from Jacksonville to Lake Monroe and beyond. During the winter months they take up refuge in the river's spring runs. The constant 72°F temperature of the waters coming from underground keeps them warm until spring arrives.

A fortunate observer might sight a manatee as it surfaces to breathe. Otherwise one needs a sharp eye to discern the animal underwater munching on aquatic vegetation (they're strictly vegetarians). The clear water of Blue Spring Run make it one of the best places for viewing them from December to April.

For the birds

Fans of birdwatching visiting the area will imagine they have happened upon Paradise. In fact, according to aficionados, the Lake Jessup area east of Sanford where State Road 46 crosses the river is even listed in European birds books as the richest spot in this country to go birdwatching. It's no wonder, considering the variety and magnificence of the birds in this region.

Birdwatchers watch most for the bald eagle. Fond of freshwater fish, eagles have good reason to thrive in greater numbers in this state. Florida is home to the majority of this country's breeding eagles due to the abundance of food.

Patient watchers should be able to pick out that distinctive white head and tail, gold beak and black body most any day.

What do you see in this picture? Chances are, Johns River than you think. The above view of the there's a whole lot more in and along the St. river is from the Osteen bridge.

The birds often are seen from Lake Monroe to Lake Jessup, plucking fish from the river. If lucky, the eagle will land somewhere in view to feed.

Also sought due to its near brush with extinction is the osprey. Of a similar size, shape and color it can be distinguished from the eagle by its black cheek patch and a full white breast and belly. Also a fish-eater, the osprey can often be seen plunging into the river, the only raptor to catch its food in this way.

The osprey has one advantage over the eagle when it comes to avoiding extinction: While the eagle does its best to steer clear of man's intrusions into the wild places, the osprey manages to live right alongside man and development. Through partial to dead trees for nest-building, the osprey has been known to build atop channel markers, telephone, light poles and even high voltage towers. Check the towers for yourself along the Interstate 4 bridge over the St. Johns.

Other birds of prey in the area include red-shouldered hawks (noisy when active, with nests in live oaks along the river), swallow-tailed kites (gull-like with black scissortails), turkey vultures and black vultures.

Not to be forgotten when birdwatching on the river are the waders. Look for the great grey

Smoking mother warns her puffing daughter

DEAR ABBY: As an 18-year-old teenager, I would like to say something to all the kids in America, like myself, who smoke. When I first got into this rotten habit, I had no idea how uncontrollable the urge to smoke would get—and everyone out there who is a smoker knows exactly what I mean.

The main reason I am speaking out on this subject is because of a note my mother, who is a heavy smoker, left in my room, when she discovered that I smoked. She didn't yell or lecture me. She just left a short note for me to think about.

Thanks to her, I realized that endangering your life is not only stupid, it is avoidable, and if there are other moms out there who cared as much as mine did, many teens would learn a valuable lesson.

Here's Mom's letter:
"Dear Sue: As a person who is addicted to cigarettes, I would like to stop, but I am powerless to do so. Please, stop smoking before it's too late!
"Your Dad will bury me, because smoking does shorten one's life."

"Did you ever take a good look at my face? I look much older than I should at my age, and I can thank cigarettes for this. I am not writing this as your mother, but as a cigarette smoker who knows that the habit starts with one cigarette at a time, then you get hooked and can't do anything about it. Love, Mom"

Abby, please print my mom's letter. Maybe someone else will realize that life is too precious to throw away, and quit smoking.

SUE DUFFY, PHILADELPHIA

DEAR SUE: Thank you for wanting to share your mom's letter. I'm sure many moms and their smoking teen-aged children will see themselves.

Sue, please tell your mother it's not too late—and there is something she can do about her smoking if she really wants to. The American Lung Association has an excellent stop-smoking program. Thomas Gill, a Kansas City, Mo., attorney who says he owes his life to this program, told me that a helpful thought to him was (and is) that "the urge to smoke will pass whether I smoke or not."

phone directory, or write to: American Lung Association, 1740 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019, for information about the group in your area. And please include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this message:

Dear Children: Enjoy your large homes, horses, fine furniture, designer clothes, foreign travel, pools and sports cars. I am pleased and proud you have it all.

If I failed to train you to remember me on my birthday, Mother's Day and Christmas, that's my fault, but please remember I gave years of sacrifice for your education, health protection and training.

Of course, it hurts when you ignore me, but I can handle it.

But won't you please try to repay some of the several thousands of dollars you have owed me for years? Since I am still working long hours at age 57, have diabetes and other complications, I certainly could use the money, which could be earning interest.

I do have one heaven-sent daughter-in-law who puts you all to shame. When I leave her all my worldly goods, you won't need to ask why, because I have just told you.

born tallest bird in America, little blue heron, glossy or white ibises, wood storks and sandhill cranes, snowy or great egrets, and the hard-to-spot limpkin. An experienced watcher can spy all kinds of other birds too numerous to mention.

The fun of it

If birdwatching or gator-spotting is not your cup of tea, how about some good, old-fashioned recreation? Two state parks in this area either border the river or sit smack-dab in its middle.

Blue Springs State Park is famous for its spring run and manatees, but it offers much more. You can land your boat there, have a picnic, take a hike, and go for a refreshing swim in the run (although gators in the rivers pose some risks to swimming there.) You can learn some local history, like how Orange City got its name, or what the paddle-wheel excursion days were like. Though overnight mooring is prohibited, you can enter the park by land and camp. The sites are limited (51), so reservations are recommended. Prices are reasonable for both sites with or without electricity ($6.54/night without and $8.66/night with).

Hontoon Island State Park also offers picnicking, hiking and camping. However, you can tie up your boat and sleep overnight for the same prices and amenities. The park also displays the largest collection of Indian artifacts (Timucuan once lived there). For a good view, there's even a lookout tower open to the public.

Boating and fishing enthusiasts have no shortage of activity on the river. You can bring your own vessel, rent one, take a cruise, or hire a guide.

Public ramps are provided for boat owners at the U.S. Highway 17-92 bridge and at the bridge on East 46. Launching also is permitted at some private marinas for a nominal fee.

If you love to fish, head for nearby any of the areas marinas and fish camps.

Obviously, the St. Johns has far more to offer than can be seen in the 20 seconds it takes to cross it. It is teeming with beauty, life and memories of good times waiting to happen.
