Watch your speed on Airport Boulevard

The speed limit for a portion of Airport Boulevard between U.S. highway 17-92 and Old Lake Mary Road this week was lowered from 45 miles per hour to 35 miles per hour, according to the Sanford Police Department. The area is located near Wicklow Elementary School. Seminole County lowered the speed limit because parents in the area have complained about fast drivers presenting a danger to children. In addition, construction is on-going in the area. Speeding fines double in a construction zone where work is on-going. Police began enforcing the new speed limit on Thursday of this week.

Mica: Decisions needed on rail

By Bill Kerne
Staff Writer

Region can 'Kiss this money good-bye' if commuter rail issue delayed

MAITLAND — The next two months will be crucial for plans to build a demonstration commuter rail system in Central Florida.

Seminole, Volusia and Orange counties have each endorsed a proposal by U.S. Congressman John Mica (R-Winter Park) to create a 52-mile commuter rail system by 2011, which would run from southwest Volusia County to the Orlando International Airport, with a 10-mile extension to Kissimmee.

Orange County is the key linkout for the three-to-five-year federal demonstration project. A transportation bill will be signed by President Bill Clinton prior to Sept. 30, with or without funding for commuter rail in Central Florida. The next round of major transportation funding is in 2001.

"If we don't move forward with something, we'll get nothing," Mica said. "If I don't have a decision by the end of May, beginning of June, you can kiss this money good-bye. There are 195 communities that want commuter or light rail. This will be gone in a flash."

The CSX rail lines which would be used for commuter rail run through the heart of Maitland and Winter Park, causing concern among residents of those cities about how commuter rail would affect the downtown areas. Orlando has similar concerns.

"We've had a very divisive issue in this community," said Maitland City Councilman Keith White. "We're trying to

Crash Landing

A Hiller UH12 two-seater helicopter crashed at the Sanford airport Friday afternoon. The pilot, who was the only one aboard the aircraft, suffered minor injuries.

SANFORD — A pilot received minor injuries when his helicopter crashed shortly after takeoff Friday afternoon at the Orlando Sanford Airport.

The flight instructor was using a Hiller UH 12 two-seat helicopter to perform various takeoffs and landings. Shortly after performing a takeoff at 2:20 p.m., a malfunction caused the helicopter to crash on its right-front side.

Aviation officials on Friday did not release the name of the pilot, the company he works for, or the company that owns the helicopter. No passenger was on board.

The pilot was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital with minor head injuries, as well as lacerations and bruises, said Victor White, director of the Sanford Airport Authority.

"I've been in the aviation business for 30 years, and unfortunately I've seen and been in my share of crashes," White said. "They are all terrible. The pilot is very lucky to walk away with minor injuries."

The cause of the crash is being investigated by the Federal Aviation Administration. An inspector from the FAA flight standards district office out of Orlando was on scene shortly after the crash.

"They will look at the weather conditions to see if the weather had any effect on the crash," White said. "Obviously, they will interview the pilot. Normally, an investigation like this takes several months."

The crash occurred in a grassy field on the southeast portion of the airport, a half-mile north of Marquette Avenue. The pilot was performing takeoff and landing training maneuvers at the south end of the North-South Runway.

problem solving, decision making, confidence building, crime and punishment, and teamwork.

Picture Deputy Stu Walthers, a 22-year veteran with the Seminole Sheriff's Office, as the Academy instructor.

Walthers looks the part — rugged, shaved head, in control. The students are from seven

Is a gasoline price break on the way?

Congress debates proposals to lower prices at the pump

By Bill Kerne
Staff Writer

MAITLAND — Gasoline prices are continuing to climb. While drivers vent frustration at the pump, the President and Congress are discussing measures to lower prices.

Congressman John Mica (R-Winter Park), a ranking member of House committees on transportation and national security, said he favors using the nation's strategic petroleum reserve to lower the price of gasoline.

"It can be done economically soundly to keep us from being held hostage," Mica said. He was in Maitland Friday to discuss commuter rail.

The onset of severely cold weather in the Northeast, coupled with price gouging by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), have led the price of gasoline at the pump to skyrocket.

Gasoline averaged about $1.30 a gallon on a weekly basis in February nationwide, up 6.8 percent from January, according to the U.S. Department of Energy. In the Orlando area this week, the average price of gasoline was $1.55 a gallon.

The rise in gasoline prices mirror a recent surge in oil prices. This month, the cost of crude oil has increased $14 per barrel, or about 33 cents per gallon. Crude oil has almost tripled in price to as high as $34 a barrel in the past

State creates Water Conservation Month to raise awareness

By Nick Pfeiffaut
Staff Writer

The Florida Cabinet is expected to sign a resolution soon naming April as Water Conservation Month in Florida. The St. Johns River Water Management District (SJR-WMD) governing board has announced support of the designation.

Locally, regardless of how official the designation may be, Sanford officials have been planning on bringing the matter of conservation to the forefront.

According to the City of Sanford Project Coordinator Bill Marcous, the city has a number of elements which are intended to be of benefit to residents. Included are a speakers bureau, which will supply speakers for citizen groups, as well as a Florida Friendly landscape seminar. There are also informational brochures available on request.

The city's reclaimed water program continues to expand to various areas, and meter testing, repair and replacement is underway.

Among special events other than Water Conservation Month, Marcous called attention to Earth Day and the Dividends program.

Hal Wilkening, director of the SJRWMD Department of Resource Management said, "The District's support of water conservation month serves as a way to emphasize our ongoing activities in support of water conservation. The designation

Vintage boats to visit Sanford before heading to Mt. Dora

By Nick Pfeiffaut
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Boat lovers arise. It's time to take that camera down to the lakefront for some vintage photos.

People of advanced age, who love boating and water sports will thrill at the sights. Younger folks, who appreciate boating as well as beautiful and artistic marine craftsmanship, may also enjoy a harbor full of antique boats which will be flocking to the Sanford lakefront soon. Sponsored by the Sunnyland Chapter Antique and Classic Boat Society, Inc., and the Mount Dora Area Chamber of Commerce, the antique boat arrival will mark the beginning of the 13th Annual Mount Dora Antique Boat Show, March 23 through 26.

As in the past, the boats will have been put into the water north of Sanford, at various points on the St. Johns River, then cruise — separately or in groups — to Sanford. During the trip, many from Jacksonville, will stop for special entertainment, meals, and lodging. After porting in Sanford and observing some of the activities planned at the Marina Hotel, they will be trailered to Mount Dora for the show.

The boats have generally drawn hundreds of spectators to Sanford's lakefront. Most of them are decades old, and are of wood construction, some of mahogany, and many adorned with brass fittings and appropriate flags.

Boats expected this year include those from Ontario, California, Tennessee, Georgia, New York, Michigan, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, and South Carolina, including many from Florida. A listing of the boats indicates some were built as early as the 1920s and 1930s. One, from Toronto, Canada, is a 24 foot craft built in 1911. Over half of them were built by

Our View

Water Conservation Concept is important throughout the year

April is designated as Water Conservation Month. It's one of many "month designations" various entities create. Some are serious, others are tongue-in-cheek or promotional (such as National Beer Month in July).

This water conservation concept however, has merit. In fact, there shouldn't be a need to declare a special month. People should constantly be aware of the need to conserve potable water.

A couple, originally from Sanford, now live in the wilderness of Central Alaska with their two daughters. With the frost line just inches below the surface, they have no well and thus, no drinkable water. They obtain drinking and bathing water from snow that melts off the roof of their cabin, into a barrel. (In the summer they depend on rainfall). Talk to them about water conservation and you will probably get an earfull. They can't afford to waste a drop.

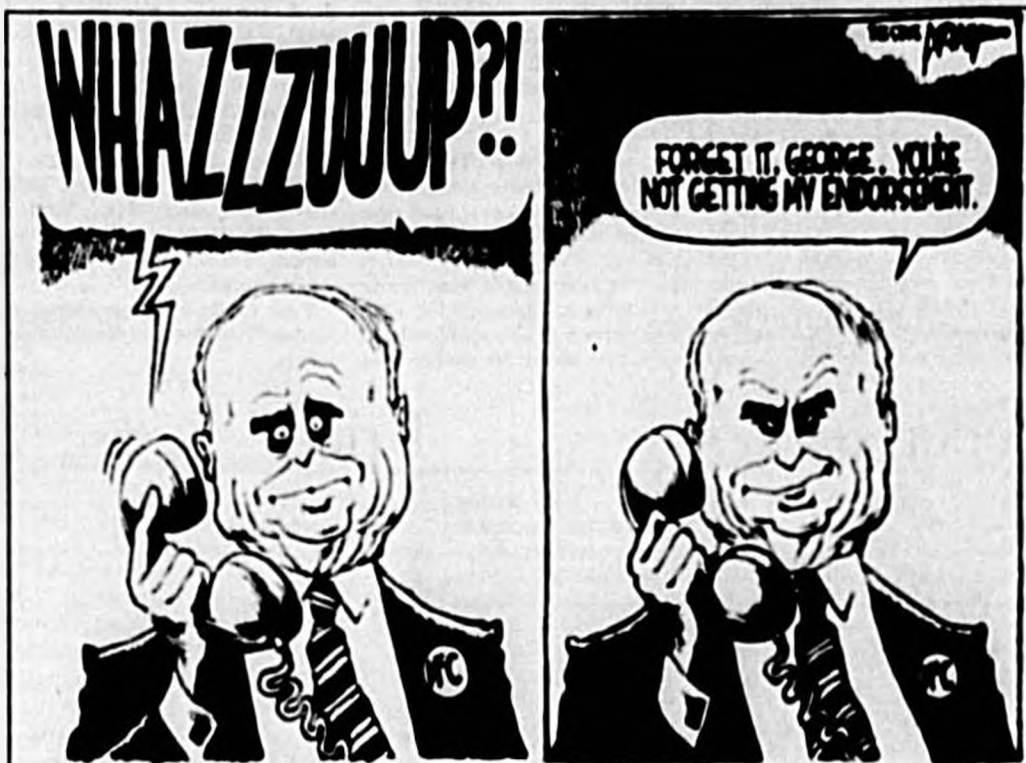

We have no such problem with drinking water here in Central Florida — at least not yet. But study the sandy ground formations and learn about the aquifer which seems to have either too much or too little water. Then there is always the threat of salt water intrusion, where the waters of the Atlantic or Gulf could enter our underground system and eliminate fresh water in this sandy peninsula.

What do officials want when they call for water conservation? They want each of us to be careful of how water is used. The city of Sanford has an excellent reclaimed water project which allows citizens (who are hooked up to the system) to use water which isn't potable, for lawn irrigation, car washing, etc. It really saves the well water.

Others however, have to rely on their water supply for these needs. From time to time in drought periods, mandates are issued regarding only watering lawns on odd or even days, depending on a person's street number. In extreme times, car washing is prohibited and lawn watering can be restricted to only two times per week.

While we believe it's good that April has been designated for conservation, we believe it should be the responsibility of all of us to conserve potable water at all times. Sure, in heavy rain seasons when the aquifer is full water all you want to. But everyone knows our rainfall has been well below average since January. It shouldn't take a legislative edict to spur us to action.

Let's do it — and do it in keeping with the importance it deserves. If everyone does his or her part and continues to do so over the years, our great-grandchildren will still be able to depend on having potable water emanating from under the surface of Florida.

Sanford mayor thanks business for generosity

Editor's Note: Sanford Mayor Larry Dale wrote the following letter on March 15 to CPH Engineers Inc. President David A. Gierach.

Dear Mr. Gierach,

Thank you for your continuing interest in the Chase Baseball Complex. Your generosity in providing most of the design work for the ballfields and a portion of the construction services is clearly indicative of CPH's sincere commitment to the City of Sanford.

Indeed, we are most fortunate to have as a corporate citizen in our midst.

As always, the assistance provided by your fine staff has been most helpful. It is encouraging to note that the project is progressing on schedule with completion anticipated by this summer. There is no doubt that the Chase Baseball Complex will be a significant enhancement to the Sanford community, providing an excellent recreational outlet for our citizens to enjoy for years to come. Thank you again for your vital role in making this project a reality.

Very truly yours,

Democrats won't roll back tax hikes

"All that glitters is not gold." — William Shakespeare, "The Merchant of Venice"

It is pretty much accepted wisdom that the 1990s were a golden decade of prosperity for the mass of Americans, thanks mostly to the inspired economic policies of William Jefferson Keynes, et. Clinton.

Well, here's a news flash: The latest income figures from Clinton's Treasury Department reveal that the average working American was actually worse off in 1997 than in 1990, when George Herbert Walker (as opposed to W.) Bush was in the White House.

That's right. While individual incomes were 131 percent higher in 1997 than in 1990 — a fact of which the American public is constantly reminded by the White House — individual income taxes were actually 164 percent higher.

Individuals paid $80 billion more in taxes to the IRS in 1997 than they would have if they had been taxed at 1990 levels. What this means is that the average working guy and gal actually had a smaller take-home paycheck in 1997 than at the start of the decade.

You'd never know this from listening to President Clinton and his second-in-command, Al Gore. They pretend that everything's Kool-and-the-Gang on Main Street U.S.A., never letting on that the mass of working Americans have suffered diminished living standards on their watch.

The best way to reverse this trend — presuming, of course, that Clinton and Gore truly are concerned that the average working guy and gal have lost ground since they've been in the White House — is to reduce their tax burden, at least to the 1990 level. That would mean a rollback of the two big tax hikes imposed upon the American people during the previous decade: the first of which came in 1990 when Bush bowed to the wishes of the Democratic-controlled Congress, raising taxes a staggering $263 billion, the second of which came a mere three years later, when Clinton smote working Americans with an additional $275 billion in new taxes (with Vice President Gore casting the deciding vote).

Both the 1990 and 1993 tax hikes were necessary, defenders said, to whittle down

Pope John Paul's apology a new beginning?

The confessionals at Annunciation Church were closed in by red curtains heavy enough to keep my childhood sins from spilling into the sanctuary, where other sinners waited in pews like voters for their turn in the booth. I always dreaded confession, with its demand that I own up to my mistakes and weaknesses. And I was skeptical of the priest's assurance that by reciting a specific number of Hail Marys and Our Fathers my soul would be wiped clean.

(I became especially suspicious of the whole process when, in eighth grade at a Catholic school in Florida, I was made to troop by myself down the church aisle, kneel at the altar, and in front of the whole class, pray for God's forgiveness for the offensive sin of forgetting my hat.)

Despite my skepticism, I'd usually emerge from church after confession on Saturday afternoons feeling as if I could reinvent myself as a person who didn't fight with her brothers and sisters and wasn't obsessively jealous of her friend Maureen's new white go-go boots. Asking forgiveness cleared away the past, giving me room to build something new.

I thought of those childhood confessions as I read of the remarkable "Jubilee Year" homily Pope John Paul II delivered last Sunday. He repented for the Catholic Church's sins over the past 2,000 years, which included injustices toward Jews, immigrants, indigenous people, the poor, the unborn and women.

"Lord God... at times the equality of your sins and daughters has not been acknowledged," he said in reference to women, "and Christians have been guilty of attitudes of rejection and exclusion."

I'll say.

As the pope spoke about the sins of gender inequality, I couldn't help but be struck — again, still — by the absence of women in the Vatican's vast sea of robed clergy. Did the pope grasp the irony?

I called my 67-year-old aunt in Nairobi yesterday to ask her about the pope's apology. She is a Catholic nun who has worked as a missionary in Africa for four decades. The divisiveness she has seen in African communities in the name of faith has been mirrored in her own religion. The Catholic Church is no closer to allowing women into decision-making roles at the highest levels than it was

Make sure you are good at what you really enjoy

My wife was talking about a friend of ours, commenting on how successful he'd been. We've been married long enough for me not to take that as a criticism, no matter how it was intended. I did say that this guy really enjoys his job and my wife answered: "That's why he's good at it." I've heard that before and I still don't agree with it. It's based on a fallacy. You're not good at something just because you enjoy it. Karaoke has proven that.

Red Green

To my way of thinking, you're not good at something because you enjoy it, but rather you enjoy something because you're good at it. And you need to have proof that you're good at it — people have complimented you, or you've won awards or been promoted. If you continue to do things without getting that kind of feedback, then your enjoyment is inversely proportional to someone else's suffering. You're not good at it.

You're just at it. And the reason you enjoy it is because you're oblivious to the fact that others are allowing you to do it because of stringent societal regulations concerning assault and homicide. So in the future please make sure you're good at something before you start to enjoy it. If we all do that, there'll be an instant upgrade in party jokes, after-dinner speeches and hon-ey-moons.

 Some days I can't even find my car keys — can you imagine me trying to locate that pin that has the encyclopedia on the federal government's yearly deficits and eventually balance the budget.

 I think they're just making things smaller so we can fit more useless technology into our homes. I say we go the other way. Maximization. Give me a wall-sized TV screen, a great big, clunky phone and a two-foot-thick phone book with 18-point font.

 Well, the government is no longer confronted with yearly deficits. And last year alone, the treasury raked in $115 billion in surplus tax revenue. At least some of that surplus revenue ought to be returned to taxpayers.
 But the very last thing that Clinton or Gore want to do is return any more money to taxpayers than they have to — no matter that many, if not most, working Americans are having a devil of a time covering their living expenses with their shrunken after-tax paychecks. Indeed, Clinton has threatened to veto any substantial tax cut bill that the Republican Congress puts on his desk this year, inasmuch as his would-be successor Gore is out on the hustings denigrating the tax-cut proposal put forward by Republican presidential nominee George W. Bush.

 "Gore Bush wants to bet America's prosperity on the same special interest roulette that drove our economy into a ditch in the 1980s and early '90s," said Gore this week, stump-sounding in Pennsylvania. Gore disheerously claims that Bush is advocating "a $2.1 trillion tax scheme" that exceeds the budget surplus by $1 trillion. (The New York Times reports that the Texas governor's plan would cut taxes by $483 billion over five years.)

The GOP standard-bearer's plan could force him "to cut Medicare, health care and education, or drain money from the Social Security surplus." Gore warns.
 By contrast, Gore proposes $290 billion over 10 years in "targeted" tax cuts, including deductions for non-elementary, non-secondary education (wouldn't want to offend the NEA), relief from the marriage penalty, deductions for retirement accounts (for folks without 401(k)s or IRAs) and a permanent R&D tax credit.
 That $290-billion figure may sound generous to lay taxpayers, but the reality is that Gore's plan is downright stingy. The $25 billion a year in tax cuts he proposes wouldn't even make up half the $480 billion a year in higher taxes that working Americans are paying the federal treasury as a result of 1990 and 1993 tax hikes. So there, if the Gore tax plan was enacted, the average working guy and gal would still have a smaller take-home paycheck than he or she did in 1990.

 Yes, the past seven years with Messrs. Clinton and Gore in the White House have been a period of overall economic growth. But when we measure prosperity by fat and Mary Paycheck rather than Bill and Melinda Gates, we find that, indeed, all that glitters is not gold.

 "Once you ask for forgiveness, you then ask, 'Where do we go from here?'" O'Sullivan said.
 "This is the start of a process, not an end."
 It is quite a remarkable and admirable thing that a church that considers itself holy, that believes its pages are guided by the hand of God, would acknowledge and ask forgiveness for mistakes of the past.

 But what about the mistakes of the present? Let's hope acknowledgement of today's exclusion and rejection of women won't have to wait for whoever

Plans for treatment facility continue

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford is moving forward with plans to purchase property for a second water treatment facility, to be located near the Orlando Sanford Airport.

By 2010, Sanford's wastewater service area could include 69,000 people, according to a study by a consultant. As a comparison, in 1997 the service area was determined to be 44,748.

The city's only current water treatment facility is located at 1201 W. Seminole Blvd. It is permitted to handle 7.3 million gallons per day, and the average flow through the facility is 5 million gallons per day.

"We're in the apex of the growth corridor," said Sanford Mayor Larry Dale. "We had better be ready for it, because it's coming."

A two-year construction project for the second water treatment facility will begin this autumn. Construction is expected to cost $10 million. The facility will handle two million gallons per day.

Meanwhile, the City Commission this week agreed to purchase two pieces of property for the facility.

The Ben Wheeler property, named for the property trustee, will be purchased for $300,000. The property is a 20 acre orange grove located on the west side of Beardall Avenue and south of Marquette Avenue.

Meanwhile, the city and the airport plan to purchase the 250 acre Cameron City Grove property located at the corner of Beardall Avenue and Marquette Avenue. However, the owner of the property is contesting the purchase, and negotiations are ongoing.

The city would pay $400,000 to use a portion of the property for the water treatment facility, while the airport would pay about $4 million to use the remainder of the property for noise abatement.

The contract for the purchasing the Wheeler property is expected to be finalized prior to the completion of negotiations to purchase Cameron City Groves. In that case, the city will construct the water treatment facility on the Wheeler property, and later use Cameron City Groves for expansion of the facility.

"I think we place ourselves in a good position by having both properties," Dale said. "It gives us room to grow."

In the meantime, Sanford has received grant funds for a program to supplement the reclaimed water supply in north Seminole County.

The plan would reduce the severity of reclaimed water restrictions frequently experienced during the summer months. Sanford will receive $1.74 million in grant funds from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the St. Johns River Water Management District to reduce groundwater withdrawals and supplement the reclaimed water supply in the north Seminole County area.

In addition, Sanford has received permits to withdraw water from Lake Monroe to supplement the reclaimed water supply.

The total program cost is $4 million. The local share of the project, estimated at $2.26 million, will be split among Sanford, Lake Mary and Seminole County.

Sanford plans to use the first phase of grant funds to add filters and a pump station at the city's Water Reclamation facility to withdraw up to 3.65 million gallons per day of water from Lake Monroe to supplement the reclaimed water supply. Phase I of the project is expected to begin operation this summer.

The funds will be used to further increase the supply of reclaimed water for Lake Mary and Seminole County through a Tri-Party Agreement.

The project is being performed to address concerns among water management officials regarding the maintenance of adequate water supplies in the face of population growth.

Sanford makes a splash with pool opening

City ends 30-year dry spell after closing pools in protest of integration

By Bill Kerne
Staff Writer

SANFORD— Thirty years of waiting will end Monday when opening ceremonies are held for Sanford's new community swimming pool.

Sanford has not had a community swimming pool since public pools in Candler and at Ft. Mellon Park were closed 30 years ago during resistance to federal desegregation rulings.

"When I used to swim in the pool at Ft. Mellon Park back in the 1960s it was totally segregated," said City Commissioner Whitley Eckstein. "Now, everyone from different walks of life will be swimming together. It really is a sign of progress."

Grand opening ceremonies for the Sanford Seminoles Aquatic Center will be held at 3 p.m. March 20 at the facility, located near the main entrance to Seminoles High School. The 50-meter, Olympic-sized pool will open to the public the next day.

"We'll have a community swimming pool that's second to none," said Mayor

Larry Dale. "The school is already using the pool. It will be wonderful for the school, the city and the county. I can't wait."

Commissioner Velma Williams is also heralding the pool as a symbol of change.

"It is indeed a premier asset to the city," Williams said. Seminoles High School will use the pool for practices, swim meets, and as a place to teach swimming safety.

Sanford, Seminole County and the school district shared the costs of constructing the $1 million pool facility near Seminoles High School. Sanford is paying $500,000 toward construction of the pool, while the county and school board are splitting the remaining $500,000 for construction.

The pool will have heating, lighting, decking, a 5,000-square-foot bathhouse, polo capabilities, and diving boards. The facility is the only 50-meter swimming pool in north Seminole County.

The pool to be open to the public Monday through Friday from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., and reserved for the school prior to 5 p.m.

On Saturdays the pool will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and on Sundays the pool will be open from 12 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The daily fee to use the pool will be $3 for adults, and $1 for children under 18 years of age. An annual pass will cost $100 for individuals, and $220 for families. The three-month seasonal pass will cost $40 and $90 for families.

build a consensus." Mica, a ranking member of the House transportation committee, addressed the Matland City Council regarding commuter rail on Friday. He recently also addressed the Winter Park City Commission. Over the next two months, he said he will try to build a consensus in Orange County in support of the project.

"This isn't going to solve all our problems," Mica said. "It won't end congestion as we know it, but it takes some of the cars off the road. It would have us with a regional footprint that we can build upon."

Matland residents have divided views on the proposal, "some say that it is a positive way to reduce crowded downtown traffic. However, a flux being distributed by commuters says commuter rail would "flatten historic Matland."

Many leaders in Orange County still harbor resentment from the divisive debate regarding a proposal to build a 14-mile fixed light rail system at a cost of $600 million.

Resulting could prove to be a striking point in Orange County, as it was with the failed fixed light rail proposal. In Matland and throughout Orange County, opponents of commuter rail argue that it would in effect determine the routes of a future fixed rail system.

"This seems like it could be the proverbial rose under each foot," said Matland City Councilman Thomas Holley. "The concern is that this becomes the rail."

Mica counters that although commuter rail is likely to lead into a fixed rail system to relieve congestion, a fixed rail alignment would not be determined by the proposed three- to five-year demonstration project.

Matland City Council members say that the proposed commuter rail routes would not adequately draw people into the city. Instead, the majority of commuters would be departing Matland for other destinations, such as the Orlando tourist district. Mica counters that the routes can still be negotiated so that more people are drawn into Matland.

"The difficulty is in all the cities coming together in a consensus," said Matland Mayor Robert Breau. "Unfortunately, in Matland, the route on CSX has always been a striking point."

Commuter rail is significantly less costly than fixed light rail. Residual funds from the failed light rail proposal would provide $20 million for the project, which carries an estimated price tag of $40 million to $70 million, depending on whether equipment is leased or purchased and the number of stations used in the system.

The price includes an estimated $25 million to lease the commuter rail vehicles. The $20 million in residual light rail funds are from federal gas tax revenues that can only be used for mass transit. For every dollar in federal gas tax revenue, 20 percent pays for mass transit and 80 percent for highway and road improvements.

The number of stations would range from 14 to 17, including three existing Amtrak stations and also a planned Livingston Intermodal Station.

The commuter rail service would operate four hours each during the morning and evening rush hours on existing private CSX lines.

The vehicles would arrive at intervals of 30 minutes. Negotiations are ongoing for freight traffic to be taken off of CSX lines during the morning and evening rush hours when commuter rail is in operation.

The 75-foot-long DMV commuter rail vehicles to be used under the proposal are currently used in 3,000 European commuter rail systems. They can carry 174 to 250 passengers per vehicle length.

"These are quiet vehicles that produce low levels of pollution," Mica said. "They break like a bus, it's not like a train coming down the road. We can fit the traffic signals to operate simultaneously with the vehicles, so that delays would be about 45 seconds."

The commuter rail routes would need to be approved by each county involved in the project.

State funding would assist in the cost of purchasing equipment. Local transit authorities and local governments would underwrite operational costs, which would be equal to current bus operating costs.

Weekday service could accommodate 2,160 passengers per hour in each direction, north and south. In time, Mica believes commuter rail will feed into a light rail system.

Mica points to a steady stream of increasing traffic as evidence of the need for commuter rail. Every week in Orlando, there are 675,000 out-of-state visitors and 300,000 in-state visitors.

In addition, Mica said that more cities are leaning to use commuter or fixed rail systems as transit alternatives. For example, Tampa is constructing a $25 million downtown commuter rail system, scheduled to be complete in one year.

Gasoline

14 months. Congress is considering dipping into the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve to increase the supply of crude oil, and lower the price of gasoline at the pump.

President Bill Clinton has opposed additional drilling, saying that it is dangerous to decrease petroleum reserves.

Clinton is encouraging OPEC nations to increase petroleum supplies, which would result in lower gasoline prices. He is expected to unveil a modest proposal to lower gasoline prices today (Saturday) during his weekly radio address.

The petroleum reserve was authorized in 1975, following the oil embargo by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in 1973 and 1974 that caused steep gas price increases.

As of November 1999, the petroleum reserve holds 575 million barrels of crude oil, with the capacity for 115 million barrels to be added.

Over the long term, Mica said that increased research should be performed on alternative energy sources.

Meanwhile, Congressional leaders are applying increasing pressure to members of OPEC. With each day that crude oil prices increase, the rhetoric becomes more confrontational.

"We have got to place pressure on the oil-producing nations," said Mica. "They are throwing dirt and sand in our face. Our trade, finance and security support should be used as leverage to lower the oil prices."

Congressman Benjamin Gilman (R-NY) is sponsoring a bill that would require the President to cut off assistance and curtail trade to those members of OPEC who are engaged in oil price fixing to the detriment of the U.S. economy.

"These measures could encourage OPEC member states to take decisive action to increase production levels sufficiently to bring prices down," Mica said.

Oil prices are at their highest levels since the Persian Gulf War nine years ago, affecting the cost of heating oil, diesel fuel and gasoline.

Saudi Arabia Oil Minister Ali Naimi recently said there is a need for additional production.

However, he said OPEC nations have not agreed on when and how much to increase production.

The Clinton administration has said it is encouraged by statements by OPEC nations recognizing the need to increase oil production.

Despite ruling, most believe school voucher debate far from over

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County School Board members say they are pleased by Tuesday's Circuit Court ruling in Tallahassee which said Florida's voucher program violates an amendment to the state constitution.

In the first of what could become many legal battles, Circuit Judge Ralph "Bubba" Smith placed an injunction on the state expanding the voucher program beyond the students it now serves. However, the injunction will be automatically lifted when the state formally files its appeal.

Gov. Jeb Bush said the ruling would be appealed. Although an appeals court could hear the case, attorneys for both sides are saying that the Florida Supreme Court will more likely take up the case directly.

Florida has the nation's only statewide voucher program, using public tax dollars to pay for private school tuition. Seminole County School Board member Jeanne Morris expects that the matter will wind up in the U.S. Supreme Court.

"We're talking about public funding going to private, parochial schools," Morris said. "This gets into the separation of church and state."

Morris said that she has always believed the voucher program is unconstitutional, and that vouchers are harmful to public schools.

"It is in our best interest to keep really good public schools," Morris said. "That's not going to happen if more and more public money goes to private schools. It's a slippery slope."

Meanwhile, Seminole County School Board chair Sandra Robinson said she expects the battle over vouchers to be a long one.

"The good thing is that I don't see Seminole County being effected since we don't have any F-schools," Robinson said. "This needs to be resolved one way or another."

Robinson, who is a Republican, said that "every parent has a right to choose where their students go to school." However, she added that it will be interesting to see whether the use of public funding for private schools is supported by the courts.

School Board member Larry Furking, who has long been a vocal opponent of using public funding for private school vouchers, said that the matter should come before voters as a constitutional amendment.

"What they (supporters of vouchers) really want is a publicly funded private education system," Furking said. "This is a fundamental change in the education system."

Under the circuit court ruling, 52 children in Pensacola who now receive vouchers will finish out the school year in private school.

Bush made vouchers the centerpiece of his A+ education plan, passed last year by the Legislature. Under the plan, parents receive private school vouchers if their children are assigned to a school that has received a failing grade for two years during a four-year period.

Only two schools, both in Pensacola, were eligible for vouchers last year. However, this summer the program could expand to Volusia and other counties with F-graded schools in 1999.

Smith's ruling only dealt with whether vouchers violate a state amendment approved by voters two years ago that says "adequate provision shall be made by law for a uniform, efficient, safe, secure and high-quality system of free public schools."

The ruling did not deal with other parts of the lawsuit challenging vouchers, including whether public money can be sent to parochial schools.

Lake Mary will host Spring Arts Festival on March 24

The eighth annual Spring Arts Festival will be held from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday, March 24 at Lake Mary City Hall.

The festival is a free family event with music, magic, art and fun for all ages. This year, an a cappella group Tonic Audio will headline the evening. Jon Armstrong, resident magician at Walt Disney World's EPCOT, will emcee the event. The Lake Mary Band, the Lake Mary High School Drama Club and "Seminole Kids On Stage" will also perform.

Each Lake Mary student will have one piece of original art on display. Hamburger and hot dog dinners will be available for a small fee. Free activities include admission, face painting and an art table for children.

Water

helps to heighten water conservation awareness during the typical peak-demand part of the dry season.

Water Conservation Month serves as a reminder that winter and spring months are typically dry. Since January, rainfall throughout the district has been approximately 3.5 inches below normal, with continued dry conditions expected. Spring is also a time when many people begin sprucing up their yards, planting new landscapes and doing general spring cleaning, all activities that use extra water.

The 9 county area, including Seminole County, served by the district has actually been under a water shortage warning since April 1999. The warning urges all water users to voluntarily reduce their water use and to limit outdoor irrigation to no more than twice weekly. Some areas, including some in Volusia County, still restrict lawn watering to odd and even days, according to odd or even street numbers.

Recently, $500,000 in cost-sharing project funds were awarded by the SJRWMD governing board. Thirteen projects are to receive money, out of 28 applications. Locally, the City of Lake Mary will receive $72,180 for a reuse line transmission extension.

Five projects received money in Volusia County for an overall total of $100,000. Other money went to cities including Cocoa, Port Orange, Winter Garden, Cape Canaveral, Leesburg and Green Cove Springs.

"These cost-share funds help support local efforts to provide alternative water supplies," said Board Chairman William Kerr.

Friday was graduation for the group. Everyone celebrated on the breezeway outside Midway School. Sergeants J.E. Negri and John Zeh have brought along the diplomas. There is also pizza, soft drinks and St. Patrick's Day cupcakes.

For the past five days, 26 boys and girls have had two hours of classroom time and two hours of reinforcement of values training with one or more of the law enforcement officers. Judge Carmine Bravo has also come over to talk to them for an hour.

"We believe this will do everyone some good," said Negri, who heads the School Resources Program in Seminole County. Each of the high schools and middle schools have school resource officers. Walthers is assigned to Midway. A new duty in his career.

The purpose is simple — to help kids protect themselves from crime and violence, to teach them values and what to do if problems arise. The course also allows the kids to see what happens in the juvenile justice system. How swift and sure the consequence for young people who are on the edge of delinquency.

"Some of what we teach is new," Negri said. "Some a reinforcement to what their parents and teachers have probably taught them. It's important that each child becomes more familiar with us. That we are friends, role models. We want them to be safe and enjoy their school life."

Carlos Burke, 11, seemed to like the Seminole Student Police Academy. So did Candice Jones, 11 and Shamekia McKenzie, 10. They were eager to get their diplomas and share stories about the project with their friends.

Sgt. Zeh is the Director of the Police Athletic League, an important Seminole County Sheriff's Office initiative. Each student at the academy received a workbook that included law enforcement exercises, facts and opinions about the law.

Lake Mary completes 4-0 week to earn unofficial championship

By Tony DeBormier
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

OVIEDO - While there was no official coronation ceremony, few would quibble with the Lake Mary Rams calling themselves the champions of Oviedo High School's Paul Mikler Spring Break Classic baseball tournament.

"This wasn't a typical tournament where you play for a championship trophy," explained Oviedo coach Harold Hitt. "The purpose of this tournament was to guarantee each team four games against opponents they normally wouldn't get to face."

That means that there was the possibility that there could have been two or more teams finished with the same tournament records against dissimilar opposition without the benefit of a head-to-head match to break the tie.

On Friday, the Rams tested the St. Cloud Bulldogs, 5-3, to complete a perfect four game run through the Mikler, the only team to do so.

In other games Friday, House rallied past Winter Springs, 9-2. Bishop Moore outlasted Seminole, 6-3, and Oviedo routed Dr. Phillips 10-0 in a game stopped in the bottom of the fifth inning by the merry ruck.

Oviedo, House, and Bishop Moore each finished with 3-1 Classic records while Lyman and Seminole were both 2-2. Winter Springs, Dr. Phillips, and St. Cloud were all 1-3 in the Classic. Tallahassee-McLay was a very misleading 0 for 4 on the week.

Matt Horwath and Ryan Horn each drove in a pair of runs for Lake Mary (14-0) while Trevor Berryhill pitched a complete game to earn the victory.

"It seems like we get strong pitching when we're not hitting and our hitting shows up when we don't get pitching," said Lake Mary coach Alan Tuttle.

"This is a special group. They'd rather come out and watch some baseball games than be out running around, raising Cain. At a time like this during spring break, when they could be thinking about doing anything else, they came out here and won four baseball games against good opposition."

Tuttle went on to say that what the Rams got out of the tournament has nothing to do with home a trophy.

"We got a chance to play four games against good teams," said Tuttle. "Playing games against quality competition is one of the best ways to get better."

"This (the Mikler Classic) is quickly growing to be one of the best tournaments going. Coach Hitt has done a great job of organizing and running this tournament."

House (R-6) only scored runs in two innings against the Winter Springs Bears, but that was more than enough as the Braves sent 10 hitters to the plate during a four-run fourth inning and 11 hitters up during a five-run explosion in the sixth.

Winter Springs (R-5-1) had taken a 2-0 lead on an RBI single from Evan Starber and Jeff Cook's solo home run before House got on a roll.

During the hitting for House were Chris Gutierrez (two singles, two runs, two RBI), Mike Wilson (two singles, one run, two RBI), Pat McCullough (two singles, one run, one RBI), Cameron Alford (single, run, RBI), Zac McCarrie (single, two RBI), James Weir (single, two runs), Bryan Pearce (RBI), and Brian Gilbert and Jerry Fatula each with one run scored.

Along with Cook's homer and Starber's RBI single, the Bears also received two singles and a run scored from John Howell and one single apiece by Scott Hankin and Doug Bailey.

Berryhill, Horwath lead the way as Lake Mary finishes sweep

By David Guineo
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

OVIEDO - Lake Mary completed their sweep through the Paul Mikler Spring Break Classic with a close win over the St. Cloud Bulldogs 5-3 on Mikler Field at Oviedo High School Friday afternoon.

The win was Lake Mary's fourth in a row without a defeat in this tournament and the eighth win in a row overall since losing to rival Lake Brantley on March 1st.

This was the Rams' second close win in a row as they pulled out a 2-0 win over House Braves on Wednesday night.

In that game Lake Mary's Adam Sanabria struck out 11 batters and only allowed three hits. This game was also a pitching duel between the Rams' Trevor Berryhill and St. Cloud's Craig Hughes, who keeping the game scoreless for the first four innings.

In the bottom of the fourth inning Lake Mary got on the scoreboard first when left fielder Matt Main started the inning off with a single to left field and quickly reached third after two passed balls. Matt Horwath would then belt a double to center field allowing Main to trot across the plate putting Lake Mary up 1-0.

First baseman Eric Schmoek would tuck on a run for the Rams in the fifth inning when he scored on Matt Main's sacrifice fly to right field putting the Rams up 2-0.

The Bulldogs would plate a run in the top of the sixth when Gibbs Chapman would reach See Rams, Page 18

Junior shortstop Matt Horwath went 2-for-3, including a home run and a double, scored a run and drove in two to help the Lake Mary Rams complete a four-game sweep in the Mikler Classic.

Oviedo High soccer star headed north

Special to the Herald

OVIEDO - Steve Luppert once asked his dad if he thought he would ever win a soccer trophy.

His dad, Joe Luppert, once (naively) asked his soccer coach if he thought his young son would ever be good enough to play high school soccer.

Now the senior soccer standout from Oviedo High School has enough trophies, medals, awards, and other accolades to fill a trophy case of his own.

Accomplishments include four years as a varsity soccer letter winner; receiving All County Team and All-Seminole Athletic Conference Team honors for the past two years; being named to the Coaches All-American South Region Team; and being chosen as a starting forward on the Oviedo High School All-Time Boys' Soccer Team.

During the past two seasons, the Oviedo soccer team has compiled a record of 64-3-6, was ranked No. 1 in the state, won the Seminole Athletic Conference and district championships both years and also advanced deep into the regional playoffs.

Luppert, a forward and team co-captain for the Lions, contributed 63 goals and 33 assists during that two-year span and finished with 82 goals and 45 assists for his four-year career at Oviedo.

Yet for all the impressive numbers, Luppert's greatest contributions may have been in other areas.

"He is very talented," says Oviedo head coach, Joe Avallone. "But that's only part of it. He has a tremendous work ethic, provides great leadership for his team, has high expectations, and is the consummate team player. He simply brings a lot to the table."

Despite the impressive statistics, individual awards, and praises from his coach, Luppert downplays his accomplishments.

"Soccer is a team game not an individual game. If you rack up great statistics, but your team falls, what's the point," said Luppert. "The only statistic that really matters is getting the W's (wins). If you give your best effort See Luppert, Page 28

Steve Luppert, who scored 82 goals and handed out 45 assists during his four-year career at Oviedo High School will take his talents to NCAA Division I George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia.

Second baseman Carlos Rodriguez snapped a 1-1 in favor of the Bishop Moore Hornets (12-

5) when he pulled a three-run home run down the left field line in the third inning against Seminole. Shortstop Tito Alfonso added a two-run homer in the sixth for Bishop Moore.

Justin Holmes (above) doubled and singled, scored a run and drove in four to pace a 12-hit attack as the host Oviedo Lions finished in a tie for third place with a 10-0 run rule victory over the Dr. Phillips Panthers in the final game of the Paul Mikler Spring Break Classic on Friday evening.

But the real star of the game was Jered Goodwin (left) who allowed a hit to the Panthers' leadoff batter, then got a double play ball before striking out the next seven Dr. Phillips hitters he faced.

The senior righthander then walked the first two batters to come to the plate in the fourth inning before fanning the next five Panthers he faced before completing the masterful one-hit, 12-strikeout performance by getting a tapper back to the mound as the Lions improved to 11-3 on the season.

The Lake Mary Rams knocked off St. Cloud 5-3 Friday morning to finish off a perfect 4-0.

Oviedo, Boone, and Bishop Moore each finished with 3-1 Classic records while Lyman and Seminole were both 2-2. Winter Springs, Dr. Phillips, and St. Cloud were all 1-3 in the Classic. Tallahassee-Maclay was a very misleading 0-for-4 on the week.

Rodriguez tallied Bishop Moore's first run when he singled in the second and eventually scored on Alfonso's sacrifice fly.

Also contributing to the Hornets' nine-hit attack were Mike Malatesta (double, single), Sadry Cafe (two singles, one run), Mario Lombardo (double), Greg Dini (single, run), and Ken Gustafson (one run scored).

Dini was the winning pitcher for Bishop Moore, tossing a two-hit complete game. He struck out nine and walked just one as he worked around the nine errors made behind him.

Anthony Infante singled and scored a run for the Tribe (9-6), who will return to action next Friday, March 24th, by traveling to Casselberry to take on Lake Howell in an SAC and district game starting at 7 p.m. Jason Louvrea had a double and an RBI. Angelo Petracca scored Seminole's other run.

Dr. Phillips' Nate Fomville led off the tournament finale with a single off of Oviedo starter Jered Goodwin. That would be the only hit the Panthers would get as Goodwin struck out 12 in the Lions' merry run victory.

After getting Justin Tordil to hit into a double play to erase Fomville, Goodwin struck out seven in a row before issuing a pair of walks (to Fomville and Tordil) in the top of the fourth. After a visit from HR, Goodwin struck out the next five before getting the final out on a tapper back to the mound.

Meanwhile, his teammates were running the Panthers ragged, taking extra bases and forcing Dr. Phillips to make mistakes.

Senior shortstop Justin Holmes led the 12-hit assault for the Lions by collecting a double, single, one run scored, and four RBI. Nick Tenekedes added two singles, a run, and three RBI while Kenny Starling singled twice, scored twice, and had an RBI. Paul Lubrano tripled, singled, and scored a run.

Brett Murphy and Jamie Zugelder each had a single and two runs scored. Larry Grayson hit a double. Blaine Schulte had a single and a run scored.

PATRIOTS FALL IN CITY OF APOPKA INVITATIONAL

APOPKA - Tallahassee-Godby scored all of its runs in the first two innings and then held on for a 3-2 victory over Lake Brantley in the City of Apopka Invitational at J. Barnes Field on Friday.

Cookins blasted a two-run homer in the first inning and Eubanks doubled home what proved to be the game-winning run in the second inning as the Cougars improved to 8-4.

Nickie Weeks led the Patriots (7-9), going 2 for 3 with a triple, while King was 2 for 3 with a double and Bryan Smith drove in a run.

SILVER HAWKS ADVANCE TO CHAMPIONSHIP GAME IN ORLANDO CLASSIC

ORLANDO - Vince doubled in the only run in the top of the fourth inning and Scott Napierata hurled a five-hit shutout as Lake Howell earned a spot in Saturday's Championship Game of the Orlando Baseball Classic with a 1-0 victory over University of Cypress Creek High School on Friday.

Mark O'Brien also chipped in with a double for the Silver Hawks, who improved to 3-0 in the tournament and 8-7 overall, to give Napierata (1-2) his first win of the season.

Lake Howell was to have faced host Cypress Creek (9-5) in the finale at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon, while the Cougars (8-6-1), who got a 2-for-3 day from Griffin, played Second Baptist from Texas for Third Place at 11:30 a.m.

TRINITY PREP TOPS OVIEDO IN SOFTBALL

OVIEDO - Oviedo touched up superstar pitcher Amanda Hurson for seven hits, but it was not enough as Oviedo tripled the score on Trinity Prep, 9-3, at Oviedo High School on Friday.

The Saints (9-3) built an 8-0 lead before the Lions broke through for their three runs in the fifth inning.

Katie Field was 3 for 4 and drove in two runs, while Michelle Grinnage was 2 for 4 with an RBI for Oviedo, which fell to 7-8 on the season.

Now that his high school soccer career is over, Luppert eagerly looks toward the future.

After receiving offers from a number of NCAA Division I schools, he chose to attend George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia on scholarship in the fall.

A school known for its academic, as well as, athletic excellence, George Mason should be a perfect fit for Luppert, who carries a 3.5 grade point average.

"George Mason's head coach, Gordon Bradley, once coached Pele and other international players," said Luppert. "There is just so much to learn and so many opportunities being a part of such a program."

"The level of competition at George Mason is going to be very high. At the same time the academic offerings are very strong and the opportunities for internships and for networking in the (Washington D.C.) area are incredible."

The future looks very promising for a young man who once wondered if he would ever win a trophy.

COACH'S CORNER

Learning to manage your ball around the course will sharpen your focus and enhance your performance.

Knowing how far you hit each club is the first step in avoiding trouble when shooting past water hazards, bunkers, etc. Even if distance is attainable, there may be bunkers and ponds on either side. Taking a planned extra shot may save you additional strokes.

When making a putt, maintain a good eye-line. Imagine a line from the hole to your ball, put down the line and then watch your ball through the putt even if it misses the hole. Avoid lifting your head too soon.

Remember, extending courtesy to the other players in the group and on the course is as important as your own concentration.

SPORTS FITNESS TIPS

To an avid golfer, nothing is better than spending a few hours on the green. With an average of 100 swings per game, golf can be tougher on your back than you think. Follow these WebMD healthy golf tips from HealthSouth's sports medicine experts:

Stretch to keep hamstrings and hips flexible. This will keep your spine in the right position to prevent an incorrect swing, a common cause of injury.

Strengthen your abdominal and oblique stomach muscles by doing regular situps and crunches. This not only protects your back, but also puts more power in your swing.

Remember to squat and bend properly as you place tees and pick up balls. Don't lean over and bend at the waist.

These sports and fitness tips are brought to you by WebMD, the healthcare destination for you and your doctor.

Center teaches fine art of kickboxing

By Michelle Joris
Managing Editor

Tony Haddock encourages his students to punch and kick. And, his classroom isn't filled with books. Instead, every corner contains boxing gloves, punching bags, jump ropes and gym equipment that seem to orbit the room's main feature — a boxing ring. Above the ring is a shrine-like poster of martial arts expert Bruce Lee in a karate pose.

The poster may seem a little out of place since Haddock teaches kickboxing — not karate — at his center. But, Haddock is quick to point out the connection between the martial arts legend and his facility.

"Many people don't associate Bruce Lee with kickboxing," Haddock said. "But, he helped organize the sport when it first got started."

The origin of kickboxing goes back to the early 1970s when American tournament karate practitioners became frustrated with the limitations of the traditional system, which did not include kicks and punches in its scoring. The result was full-contact karate, or kickboxing.

"It is a combination of karate and boxing, blended fluently together," Haddock said. "It's an aggressive sport that uses both hands and feet." And, it's a sport Haddock seemed destined for from an early age.

The Sanford resident began his career in combat sports while attending Seminole High School, where he was an undefeated member of the wrestling team. In the years following graduation, he learned karate and then made the transition to kickboxing.

"Kickboxing demands a lot of discipline and focus," he said. "It encourages positive thinking, which in my experience, got me off the streets. It's given me an alternative lifestyle — one full of the desire, determination and discipline to win." It's worked.

Haddock is the current United States men's champion in international kickboxing. Last month, Jason Cleveland, who trains at Haddock's center, won the ISKA (International Sport Karate Association) welterweight Florida state title.

Cleveland's win was a little surprising for Haddock, who opened Hitman's Training Center in Sanford only three months ago.

"I didn't think we would get the title so soon," he said. "It was a world-class competition."

However, Haddock, who previously worked in an Orlando kickboxing center, has been training Cleveland for several years. When he opened his own center, Cleveland followed him to Sanford.

"I was lucky he stuck with me," he said. Haddock didn't open his center only to train kickboxing champions.

"You can train like a kickboxer and not be a fighter," he said. "It's a great cardiovascular workout."

Nevertheless, Haddock's training center is not like a health club. He teaches not only the movement of kickboxing but also the real Charlie McConnell, 6, eyes a punching bag during a training session at Hitman's Training Center in Sanford. The facility focuses on the fundamentals of kickboxing.

A tribute to the King Elton's show brings Elvis' spirit to life

Jack Elton has lived in Lake Mary since 1972. He has been an entertainer for several decades. For many years now, he has been performing an Elvis Presley tribute and has appeared locally, nationally and in other various parts of the world. "Don't call me an impersonator," he said. "It's a tribute — an illusion. There have been too many so-called impersonators who have given this a bad name, and my aim is to perform a tribute to the King, (who passed away in August 1977) not try to make people think I'm copying him." With many music awards presented to him recently, Herald Staff Writer Nick Plestak asked Elton for his opinion, and whenever possible, what he thought Elvis' opinion might be of modern music.

Q. Considering what is on the hit parade these days, how do you feel about the music of today?
A. In my personal opinion, there is some music I like, but there is other music I think of as total trash. If Elvis were alive, I believe he probably wouldn't go one way or another. He would probably say "everybody do their own thing." He tried to stay neutral regarding what other people were doing.

Q. What about rap music?
A. Some of it is OK. Will Smith for example really puts it together. Some of the others are just shouting. I don't believe in so-called music where people are promoting killing, drugs, other crimes or sexual activity. While rap music wasn't around when Elvis was, I don't believe he would have personally liked it.

Q. Will the Elvis and other music of the past ever come back again?
A. There is some new type of swing music of that style, but more modern than before that is becoming prominent these days, and it's appealing to those in their 20s. I think that's a good sign.

Q. In their days, Elvis and the Beatles were real superstars. Do we have any superstars these days?
A. The one person who immediately comes to mind is Garth Brooks. He is really a big entertainer. He is in the middle between young and old, and he is grabbing out to everyone. Another good group is the Back Street Boys, but I would not give them very long to continue their popularity. Brooks may hold out for at least a decade or more.

Q. Elvis has been gone since 1977. How long do you feel his music will still be popular and his memory continue to be so strong?

A. Elvis was so ahead of his time. The adoration will probably continue until the people who were around when he was popular get old enough and start to diminish in numbers. I would say we will have Elvis fans continue strong until at least the year 2020.

Q. What will you, as Elvis, be doing in the near future?
A. One of the local events will be a benefit for the American Cancer Society at the University of Central Florida Arena. That is scheduled for March 24 as part of the Relay for Life. I'm very strongly in favor of the fight against cancer and am really looking forward to that. Another project we're working on is a Tribute to Elvis World Tour. That will take us to the United Kingdom, Germany, Japan, the Far East, Australia, New Zealand, and other areas. I'll have some of the original Elvis backing with me including the Jordanaires and the Stamps Quartet.

Q. It's been a pleasure talking with you and through you about Elvis. Is there anything you'd like to say in closing?
A. Thank you — thank you very much.

Where to find laundry soap

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: Help! About 20 years ago I went to a dermatologist and

..... was told that I have very sensitive skin. She told me that my clothes should never be washed in detergent — she told me that I should use laundry soap. This advice was fine until a few months ago when all the laundry soap was gone from the shelves of my local store. Do you know of any place where I can buy laundry soap?

Ask Anne and Nan

CARL FLOITER, Prescott, Ariz.

DEAR CARL: Thanks to Gary of Lamar, Colo., we learned about the Cal Ben Soap Company at 9828 Pearmain St., Oakland, CA 94603. Gary writes, "I phoned them (800) 460-7811 and learned that they carry a full line of soap products, including their Sealum All Temperature Laundry Soap. They will sell and ship directly to retail consumers. They were very helpful and informative." Gary included a brochure from Cal Ben, which says that Sealum Laundry Soap is highly concentrated, biodegrades quickly and is environmentally safe. It can also be used for presoaking, as an all-purpose cleaner, as a hand cleaner for grease and soil, for greasy driveways, and in toilet bowls.

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: I have read about a plastic mouth piece that keeps you from grinding your teeth, but I haven't been able to find one. Can you help me?

MRS. RUSSELL STEELMAN, Kokomo, Ind.

DEAR MRS. STEELMAN: We think your best bet is to go to your dentist for the type of mouth piece you described. We did, however, find a "Doctor's Nightguard" in the Mountainville Health Corner catalog for helping to prevent teeth grinding. It's item No. 32020, and it costs $29.95 plus shipping. To order, call (800) 460-7282.

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: Help! My 97-year-old mother still dresses herself impeccably every day, and she wears a girdle that requires a supporter for her back. She needs some new supporters, but I have tried every source I can think of and am unable to find them. Can you help me find this type of supporter in a size that is not too small?

LAURA ANN WARNER, Bristol, Tenn.

DEAR LAURA ANN: We're not sure if you're looking for garters, as you enclosed, or hose supporters. But it doesn't matter, because they are both available in the Stocking Style catalog. Metal garter grips (item No. 750) fit 3/4-inch hose supporters. There are four in a package, and they cost $2.25. Hose supporters come in three different lengths and are 3/4-inch wide and elasticized. To order or for more information, call (800) 241-2224.

FEEDBACK: READING PEN — Dorothy Fadie of Lockport, N.Y., sent along information on the "Quickionary" reading pen. This gizmo both displays and reads the word as one guides it across a line of type. It's available from the Health House catalog. It's item No. 99590, and it sells for $249.99 plus shipping. To order, call (800) 298-4613.

Write to "Ask Anne & Nan" at P.O. Box 240, Hartland, VT 05048. Our new book, "Clean It, Fix It, Find It," is ready. The price is $14.95 plus $4 shipping and handling. Add $1 for each additional book. Mail your order to Enfield Distribution, P.O. Box 699, Enfield, NH 03748. Or call toll-free (888) 216-7611.

Looking back at Hurricane Florence

A Vintage View of the 1953 floods

Many of us remember the months of heavy rains and then Hurricane Florence in 1953, which caused Lake Monroe to overflow the sea wall. Seminole Boulevard, the zoo and many lake front homes were flooded. The Dr. Wade Garner family was able to stay in their home, but it was surrounded by water and could only be reached using wading boots or a row boat. Water came up Park Avenue past city hall. A picture of city hall reflected in the flood water is on the cover of the 2000 calendar of the Sanford Historical Society. The picture shown here is of the destruction to Highway 17-92 along the lakefront west of Sanford during the 1953 flood.

Judges' results were given by local director and directorate, Brother Anthony Walker and Daughter Retha Baker.

Words of encouragement were given by Exalted Ruler Albert Fryer and Daughter Ruler Sylvia Redson.

One highlight of the evening was a visit from former 1989 scholarship winner Melton Wilson, who presently lives in California and is employed by the U.S. Secret Service. He gave words of wisdom to the winners of the local contest. Arkeshia Nicole Graham was the first-place winner. She is a senior at Lake Mary High School and would like to take computer technology at Seminole Community College. She is the daughter of the Rev. Arthur and Carolyn Graham.

Graham will compete in the district contest scheduled for 5 p.m. April 15 in Deland.

Marcus L. Streater was the second-place winner. He is a senior of Seminole High School and aspires to become a nuclear engineer and attend Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Okla. He is the son of Fred and Patricia Johnson.

Quantana Renee Faison was the third-place winner. She is a senior at Seminole High School and aspires to become a counselor in the education field. She would also like to attend Seminole Community College. She is the daughter of the Rev.

Quantan and Joni Faison.

The Seminole County chapter of the NAACP held its quarterly breakfast Saturday, March 11, in the West Sanford Boys and Girls Club. The guest speaker was Dr. Woods, who gave information on prostate cancer. Also, U.S. Census 2000 information was distributed to those in attendance.

The annual membership campaign is continuing, and you may contact Turner Clayton Jr., Kenneth Bestby or Willie King for membership in the Seminole County Chapter.

Toddler fixes youthful sights on rival for mom's affection

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a lovely 29-year-old woman who has a 3-year-old son. We are both very much in love, but the boy is extremely unruly when I am around. My girlfriend is getting tired of having to discipline him all the time. He misbehaves in stores and restaurants and embarrasses us both.

Frankly, it is starting to have an impact on our relationship. She says that he only acts up when I am around. Is there anything I should do so that this doesn't destroy our relationship?

JASON IN GLENDALE

DEAR JASON: Your girlfriend's son may be only 3, but he's not stupid. He recognizes a rival for his mother's affection, and is doing everything he can at his tender age to drive you away.

I recommend a visit to your local library or the nearest bookstore. Much has been written about "blended families." Also, a short series of sessions with a therapist who specializes in child psychology would give you insight into rearing the little boy and would be money well spent.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to you, but after reading several letters recently regarding the etiquette of name placement for newly married ladies, I had to write.

I have a son who went the extra mile and had HIS last name changed to his wife's. How many men do you think would be willing to do that? You wouldn't believe the red tape and disbelieving looks he got when he went through the process of having his name legally changed. It was almost as if his masculinity was in question!

He and his wife are both proudly serving our country in the U.S. Army, stationed in Fort Bragg, N.C., and I'm very proud to be the mom of two of our finest soldiers.

JODY HAIN, ADVANCE, MO.

DEAR JODY: Although a man changing his name to that of his wife's is unusual, it is not unheard of. I believe the practice originated in England, when men married into families that had no male heir to carry on the name.

Today the "name game" has many variations. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "Shirley B. from Roswell, N.M." about how a woman should change her name when she marries was good information — but presented only half the equation. There are many of us men who choose to hyphenate our last names with those of our wives.

As a married couple, we share our money, our home, our bed, our hearts and souls — why not our names?

For me, it was a matter of practicality.

We both wanted to have the same last name and saw no reason why we shouldn't. Also, by using both names, our children could have the last name of both of us.

After my family's initial shock (which they quickly got over), the only problem I've encountered is that it's a bit awkward filling out forms with my "maiden name."

DANIEL SAPON-BORSON, A HAPPY HYPHENATED HUSBAND IN PORTLAND

DEAR DANIEL: If this idea takes hold, creators of forms will have to change the designation to "surname or maiden name" to accommodate secure gentlemen such as yourself. Now that women are coming into their own, it's encouraging to know that some men are willing to meet them halfway. Bless you all.

To order "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

Kickboxing

defensive and offensive skills of the sport.

"If you want to compete, you have to become focused — and it's demanding," Haddock said. "I can give you the skills and techniques, but I can't give you the desire and the heart."

Shelia McConnell said she likes the discipline of kickboxing. Her 6-year-old son Charlie currently trains with Haddock.

Since enrolling her son at the training center, McConnell said she has seen a vast improvement in her son's behavior.

"We got him into kickboxing mainly because he had trouble keeping his hands and feet to himself," McConnell said. "This way, he is learning what kicks feel like."

Charlie no longer gets into trouble at school — which is amazing for a child who always wants to have the last word, McConnell said.

"He's come a long way," she said.

Getting the last word in the Sanford center isn't easy. Haddock is serious about training, and a student who gets out of line ends up running laps or doing push-ups.

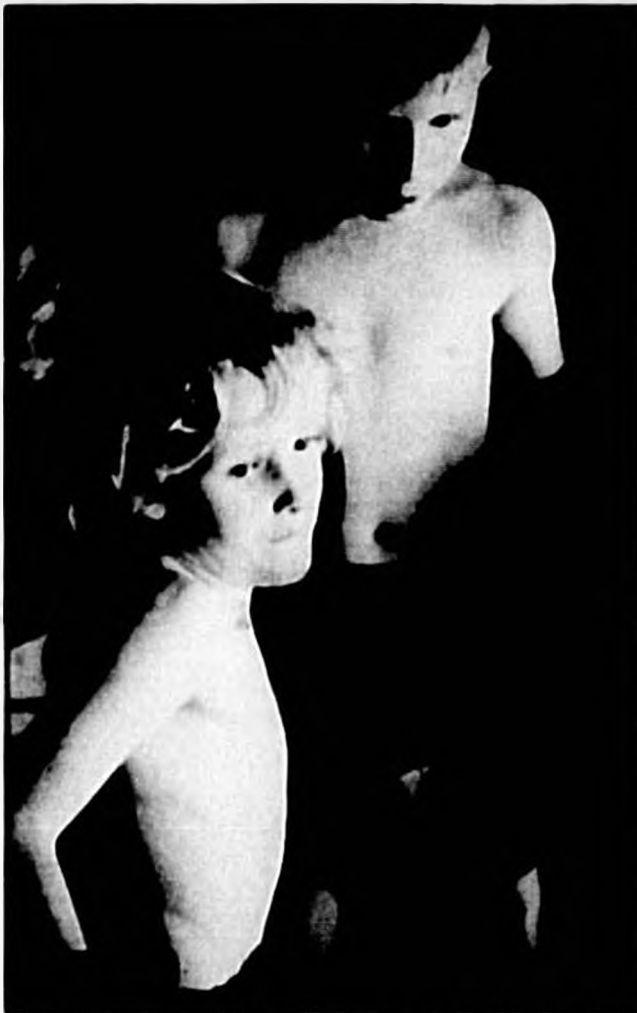

The students, who range in age from 6 to 18 don't seem to mind the discipline.

"You have to follow the rules, but it's worth it," 11-year-old John McGowan said. "I want to win a belt someday. And I know, if I try really hard and believe I can do it, I will win a belt."

Although the students are competitive when it comes to their sport, it doesn't stop Haddock from also teaching them about teamwork. It is not unusual to see one of the older students helping the younger ones during a training session.

However, focus and desire prevail once the kickboxers-in-training enter the ring.

For 12-year-old Kara Scherer, there is one goal. "One day, I plan to get a medal for it," she said.

John McGowan, 11, helps out Kenneth Phingier, 6, with his punching skills during a training session at Hitman's Training Center.

HOROSCOPES

Your Birthday
 Sunday, March 19, 2000

Your greatest successes in the year ahead will come from enterprises or projects you tackle solely on your own. Alliances can be tricky and could muddy the playing field for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even if you secretly feel a bit superior to someone today, don't treat this person in a condescending manner. Others are watching, and you could hurt your image. Pisces, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your Zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Whether you're doing a favor or a paid job for another, record the instructions given and document what you do. There's a chance you could be held accountable for another's mistake.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you can't do something yourself today, it's best you put it off until another day. Any help you might be expecting may not be forthcoming.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Adhere to this motto today: "What you see here, say here, stays here when you leave here." If you don't, big problems could be in the works for you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you keep in mind that a mouse may learn to roar like a lion, but he's still a mouse, you'll keep your cool should you have to deal with an arrogant individual.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The need for instant gratification could easily get the better of you today, so if you can't afford to go into debt, don't go to any stores where you might be tempted to give in.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't kid yourself into believing that you will somehow find a way to fulfill a promise you'd like to make. If it seems infeasible now, don't make the pledge.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) What you do today could cause you problems down the line. It's best you prioritize your duties and procedures and know your limitations before beginning any tasks at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep your emotions under wraps today or they could quickly override your logical evaluations and cause you to behave in a manner you'll regret.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) What appears to be courageous could, in reality, be very foolish, no matter how much you believe in what you want to do. Remember, fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Offering an opinion on something about which you know little could put you in the delicate position today of having to defend what you say. You're vulnerable in this area; be careful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your value judgment may not be up to par today, so stay away from large ticket items or purchases you can't return. You're a prime target to get stuck with a lemon.
